ANTI-TOLL ACTIVITY

If there is a telephone subscriber in Glendale who is not opposed to the 10 cent toll charge for two minute talks to Los Angeles, he should step forward and make himself known, as up to the present not a single individual has been found who thinks the Telephone Company is justified in making a ten cent toll charge for two minute calls to Los Angeles. Present indications would seem that eighty per cent of the phones in Glendale would be ordered out immediately upon the enforcement of a ten cent toll collection.

One peculiar feature about the proposed 10 cent toll charge is that the notices of the contemplated charge are given to subscribers by phone, and not by an officially written or printed notice. A gentleman who claims to know what constitutes a legal notice, says he will not heed a verbal notice given by phone, and it is only a printed notice properly signed by an authorized agent of the company that he will honor, and it is only such a notice that subscribers would be expected to recognize.

The fight against payment of an exorbitant toll charge is on and will be on until settled justly. The people will not give up to any such unfair proposition as the one proposed in the 10 cent toll charge for two minute talks to Los Angeles.

MANY BRITISH WOMEN WILL KEEP WAR JOBS

(By United Press)
 LONDON, Dec. 14. (By Mail).—Wanted: Work for 500,000 women. The number of women who will be thrown out of work by the ending of the war is not so great as is imagined. About one and a half million extra women have been employed in the United Kingdom since July, 1914, but the number of killed and disabled men amounts to about one million. Therefore there remain 500,000 women workers who will be displaced. Their displacement will come gradually and they will not be thrown on the labor market at once, for one third of the increase in women's labor consists of dilutees. Until the men come back they will remain at their jobs. In the meantime many new spheres have sprung up for women. They will continue making tools and machinery, they will be employed in subsidiary ship-building industries, they will do their share in the chemical trades; and also, there are two quite new branches of work open to women of the United Kingdom—the manufacture of pianos and toys, both of which industries are being wrested from the hands of the Hun. The outlook for women is cheerful. Advertise in, or advertise for it in the Evening News.

Personals
 Mrs. M. Ogden Ryan is in San Francisco visiting her daughter.
 Miss Alberta Plasterer of Hermosa Beach is spending the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Plasterer.
 Mrs. A. M. Beamon of Maryland Avenue, who has been quite seriously ill for several weeks, is able to be about again.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Joseph, who recently disposed of their Glendale property, are moving to Los Angeles, where they will make their residence temporarily, and then travel for a time.
 Mrs. A. L. Hare of Oak Street was called to Long Beach this morning by the illness of her son, Carol Hare, and his wife. It will be remembered that Carol Hare conducted the oil service station at Broadway and Louise streets.

Frank Doyle of 1440 Melrose Avenue, who returned last week from Arizona, brought influenza infection into his home, and the entire family of husband and wife and five children are reported to be down with it and under the care of two nurses.
 Private Harry Glazier was able to celebrate the holidays with a six-day furlough, which he spent at the home of his mother, Mrs. Dora Glazier, on Lomita Avenue. He went back on the second to his work at Rockwell Aviation Field. He does not look for discharge before spring.

A very pleasant New Year's celebration took place at the home of R. L. McCourt on South Central Avenue, where a party of neighbors and friends gathered to play tennis in the afternoon and were entertained for tea and the evening by Mr. and Mrs. McCourt. Their guests numbered about thirty.

At the parish meeting of St. Mark's, which took place at the church Friday evening following the annual supper, reports were presented which showed the organization in a very satisfactory condition financially, and all members of the vestry were re-elected to serve during the coming year.

Lieutenant William Johnson, the fiancé of Miss Carrie Stone of South Glendale Avenue, arrived Saturday. He has been granted a furlough which amounts to a discharge from the Royal Air Force School of Special Flying at Toronto, Canada. While he will be technically held as a reservist, he does not expect to be called.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jamgochian of 633 San Fernando Boulevard say they have heard recently from their son, Matthew Jamgochian, who is abroad with the expeditionary forces. They and he have no idea when he will be sent home and they think he is now with the army of occupation in Germany. When he last wrote he was in charge of a field hospital.

It will be remembered that the Gordon L. Smith family of 205 West Chestnut Street went east about a year ago and that a daughter remained behind when they returned to Glendale, and that she married a New Yorker. That daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Hanson, have just arrived from the east and are guests in the Smith home. They expect to make their permanent residence in Southern California.

Mrs. J. E. Rockhold is again at the Glendale Sanitarium. She was threatened with bronchial pneumonia and was taken to the hospital Saturday noon. When she last heard from her son, Howard, he was in a French hospital recuperating from rheumatism. Dec. 6 she heard from her husband, who is in a hospital receiving treatment for his eyes, which were improving at the time he wrote. She has not heard from him since that date, but is looking for a letter any day.

Ernest L. Sparr of the Sparr Fruit Co., this city, in response to inquiries, says it is impossible for any one to estimate the damage to the citrus fruit by the recent frost, because, unless it is very severe, it does not show up immediately. The effect of the expansion caused by freezing is to break the cells. After a few days these broken cells dry out and then the damage is apparent. It will be the general policy of fruit dealers to hold back shipments for ten days or two weeks to prevent any flooding of the market by injured fruit.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BALL.
 Saturday night the recently organized council of Knights of Columbus gave a social return to the ladies who so kindly assisted with the preparation and serving of the banquet at the time of the institution of the council, by giving a dancing party in their honor at the Elks' Club house. About one hundred couples occupied the floor and spent a most enjoyable evening. Punch was served between dances and the best of music was furnished by home talent, viz: Mansford Barnes, saxophone player; Fred Dodge, drummer; Myron Higbee, pianist.

"OUR" TOWN
 Tho the sentiment "I Love You, California," is deeply engrained in the breasts of all of us transplanted Easterners, yet our thoughts often turn in fond memory to the little town away back yonder where we grew up and got our education, and maybe our start in life. And how jealous we are of that old home's past and how angry it makes us if some incident in its history, even tho it be not overly to its credit, is related as happening somewhere else.

It was with some such feeling as this that I noted, a few months ago, in Uncle Joe Cannon's Reminiscences of Civil War Times, published in the Saturday Evening Post, a misstatement in regard to the Charleston, Ill., riot. Uncle Joe told the story mightily well and just as I had heard it many a time from people who witnessed parts of it, with the exception of one statement in regard to Judge Charles Constable, the Copperhead judge who was on the bench at the trial in Charleston and whose rulings against the law and Union sentiment precipitated the riot. Judge Constable was a resident of Marshall, my old home city, and his outspoken Copperheadism remained unrebuked only because the Union men were nearly all at the front and the copperheads "Knights of the Golden Circle," were very much in evidence and startlingly bold in utterance and action. Constable was a circuit judge, and Charleston, county seat of Coles county, was one of his appointed places for holding court. During the riot, in which several Union soldiers, home on furlough, were murdered by the cowardly exulting Copperheads, who were out in overwhelming force, Judge Constable slipped out of the courthouse and hurriedly departed for his home in Marshall, and it was there he was arrested the following day by Federal troops, sent over from Terre Haute, Ind., 16 miles distant; not Charleston as Uncle Joe had it. Among those whose curiosity led them to Charleston the day of the riot was an 18 year old boy, ragged, barefoot and generally unkempt, John Scholfield by name who afterwards became chief justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois, and who refused from President Cleveland an appointment as United States Supreme Judge, simply because his dear, old, home-loving wife and mother of his eight children, this plain, common, old-fashioned housewife whom nearly everybody called "Aunt Em," did not want to live in Washington and did not want her younger children brought up in the artificial, hothouse atmosphere of the Capital of the Nation.

Judge Constable was not detained long in captivity and after his release was much more subdued in his manner. He had two quite fine-looking daughters, and one of them afterwards became the wife of Jacob W. Wilkin, a struggling young Marshall lawyer who later sat upon the Supreme Bench of the state of Illinois with his fellow-townsmen and cherished friend, Judge John Scholfield. These two men, warm friends tho they were for many years, yet were opposites in almost everything. Scholfield was tall and of sturdy frame, but deliberate in action and speech. Wilkin was low in stature but fiery in speech and quick in action until age tamed him down; Scholfield was an ardent democrat, and Wilkin a strong republican; Scholfield married a farmer girl, daughter of a staunch republican, Wilkin married a dashing society girl, the daughter of a Copperhead democrat; Scholfield had eight children, Wilkin but three; Scholfield lived and died in Marshall, Wilkin moved to a larger city after his election to the Supreme Bench; Scholfield, tho one of the best, and purest, and justest men that ever lived, never joined a church, while Wilkin was a devoted Methodist; Scholfield married but once, his wife surviving him, but Wilkin was twice married, his second wife outliving him.

It will be a source of satisfaction to my dying day, that I was on terms of friendship for many years with these two great men.
 O. L. KILBORN.

DEATH OF MRS. HUGHES
 Many Glendale friends will mourn the death of Mrs. Dorsey J. Hughes, wife of Dr. R. E. Hughes, who passed away at her home, 2125 Hillcrest Drive, Los Angeles, Jan. 4. Mrs. Hughes was born in Ohio, July 20, 1885, but came to California fourteen years ago from Rockford, Ill. She lived in Los Angeles for seven years, but was for a long time a member of a Glendale club and had many friends among the former residents of Rockford and others here.
 Funeral services, in charge of the Pulliam Undertaking Co., were held Monday afternoon at the Los Angeles crematory.

CALL TO PRAYER
 A call for a universal day of prayer has been issued by the National W. C. T. U. for the promotion of prohibition against the liquor traffic in the nation and in the world, and for an influence upon the state legislatures in the interest of the ratification of the national prohibition amendment.
 This day will be observed by the Glendale City Union Friday afternoon, Jan. 10, at the Lutheran Church and will begin with a praise service at 1:30 sharp. Everyone is invited to join in this special service.

"OUR LIMITLESS GOD."
 Sunday, Jan. 5, was a special day in the history of the Presbyterian Church of Glendale, as it marked the return of their much-loved pastor, Rev. Walter E. Edmonds, to his pulpit, after a month's illness. The spirit of praise and thanksgiving to God was uppermost in all the services of the day, and in this spirit the pastor delivered his New Year's message, Phil. 5:19: "But my God shall supply all your need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus."
 Notice that the text does not say "all your wants," but rather "all your need." God alone knows just what is our need, so shall we not trust in Him for guidance?
 Cannot we be like Paul, and not only receive the blessing from God through the revelation of Jesus Christ, but also, like Paul, be a benediction to others in the kind of life we live?
 Among all the wonderful promises of the whole Bible, this text stands out in letters of shining gold. It is the New Year's message, the biggest message God can give, the message that fits into every niche and corner of every life that believes in Jesus Christ. Oh, that we might take this verse as a stepping stone to a higher, a better and a nobler life during the coming year!

First, we must believe the words Paul gives us, the words he wrote while chained to a Roman soldier and while suffering from the wounds and stripes he had received because of his loyalty to Jesus Christ. We can never expect to understand them while we are here on earth, but we can act as though we believed these words, God's truth; and at least not be a Mr. Ready-to-Halt, a Mr. Fearing, or a Miss Despondency. Like Paul, we can count our troubles but loss, when we know Jesus Christ, and can be a blessing to others in following Him.
 God takes times to look down and heal our sorrows, this God who has created the mighty universe, yet has numbered the hairs of our heads and even notes each sparrow's fall. He will supply your need. Is there anything like it in the whole world? Then we should never be silent in our praise to Him, but speak and live a continued doxology.
 He is the same God of the nations of the past, who delivered the Israelites safely across the Red Sea, who caused the walls of Jericho to fall before His chosen people. No obstacle, no difficulty, no problem, no walled city of opposition, no lions' den, no fiery furnace, can stand under the power of His might. He who shall and does supply all our need who accept His promise.
 He is the God and Father of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and when this His Son comes again, then shall the text be fulfilled in its entirety, and we shall know as we are known. Our great need is Jesus Christ.

On this New Year's Sabbath Day, with the new year before you, will you not listen to God who asks you to receive Jesus Christ as His Son? "As many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believed on His name." God wants to call us all His people, but we must first fulfill His one condition, to believe on Jesus as the Only Begotten Son, as the Word, as God.
 The words of our President are a challenge to us to come into the comradeship of the gospel. Are you big enough in your faith, are you loyal enough in following Jesus Christ, to come out into the open and stand for Him? As professors of faith in Jesus Christ, you must so live in service for Him that your very manner of living may lead some one to Christ this year. God has spoken and will perform. We can no longer be satisfied with the small things of life, for God wants a true and specific consecration.
 Will you give God a chance in your life?

DEATH OF LEROY MANGER
 Death has entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Manger and claimed their son, Leroy Manger, a beloved boy of eleven years, who passed away at 701 West Doran Street Saturday afternoon, Jan. 4, 1919. Four brothers and three sisters mourn the loss of a playmate—Mathias, Willie, Robert, Arthur, Ruth, Grace and Esther. He was a bright, energetic boy, much beloved by his playfellows. For three weeks he has been ill and death was caused by heart trouble. Funeral services will be held at the Manger home this (Monday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be made at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, with the Jewel City Undertaking Company in charge.

DEATH OF JOHN A. M'GOWAN
 John Albert McGowan died Sunday, January 5, at his home, 209 West Palmer Avenue, at the age of 57 years and 6 months. The remains were taken Monday by the Pulliam Undertaking Co. to Santa Ana for burial.

FUNERAL OF MRS. C. R. BUTTERFIELD
 Funeral services, which will be private, will be held over the body of Mrs. C. R. Butterfield Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Little Church of the Flowers, and interment will be made in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

PARIS AND LONDON ARE NEIGHBORS BY PLANE

(By United Press) LONDON, Dec. 17. (By Mail.)—Thanks to aviation the world grows smaller every day.

Time was when Londoners regarded Paris as a town a long way off, and those who went there considered themselves well-travelled. Those were the days when "straight as the crow flies" was a mere figure of speech; but now the journey to Paris is being made that way every day.

Parisians are becoming to Londoners just next-door neighbors, and Mr. Smith of 1919 will say to himself, "I think I'll just drop in on Alphonse in Paris for lunch." It won't take him any longer to see Alphonse than it would to drop in and see his wife in their little suburban home.

A similar idea occurred to Fred H. Lawton, of the American Y. M. C. A. While London was rejoicing over the signing of the armistice, the American conceived the idea of showing the Yanks and compatriots in Paris just what form these rejoicings took.

MARY LYON, FOUNDER OF MT. HOLYOKE SEMINARY

This is the story of a quiet little woman who fought all her life for women's best good and who lost that life, in early middle age, in the service of one of the women she had helped.

She was Mary Lyon, and she was born in Buckland, Mass., in 1807. Like most of America's other great women, she began her career by teaching school.

In those days the average woman had less education than has the 10-year-old girl today. The few women who privately sought to gain a better education were looked upon as freaks.

nounced as a "new woman" by others.

Quietly she sat to work to make her dream come true. By eloquence, by logic, by the gentle force of her own personality she toiled away at the seemingly impregnable wall of public prejudice.

The sum needed to start her work was $30,000, and Miss Lyon undertook the task of raising this. She gave up all other work to begin the labor.

Miss Lyon had overcome all the obstacles of prejudice and lack of funds. Never discouraged she pressed onward, gradually moulding stubborn public opinion to the creating of colleges for her sex.

GERMAN SAILOR TELLS HOW IT ALL HAPPENED

(By United Press) LONDON, Dec. 17. (By Mail.)—In the cupboard of one of the surrendered U-boats was found the following letter, written by one of the crew, and addressed "To my British brother if he cares to read it:"

"Germany would have stood up another year without Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey helping her. This is the point. The German people all had more patriotism, but real patriotism was lacking in the leading classes. They made it their point to reap fortunes.

"The rich were squeezing all the money they could out of the people like you would squeeze an orange. No wonder, the poor working men and soldiers were thinking at last, 'I don't care whether I become a French, British or American subject, so long as I get it a little better than this.' All at once came the breakdown. Soldiers refused to do their duty, first a few, then more and more, and at the same time the whole fleet."

LAND GIRLS' WINTER OUTFIT

The land girls' winter outfit has been exercising the attention of the London ladies' tailors. Throughout the summer months the girl who works on the land has presented a very smart appearance in her fresh white tunic and knee breeches of khaki drill.

NOT ALL CASUALTIES ON FIELD OF BATTLE

Not all war's casualties were received on the battlefields of France, according to a letter received at Chico, Cal., by Mrs. Levi H. Brown from her son, Lieutenant Fred Brown, who is on duty at the imprisonment camp at Camp Merritt, N. J.

"On the night of the 15th we were having trouble with the lighting system of the camp. In the prison we have a sentry stationed and when the lights go out he must be removed. Well, the lights went out all over the camp at 2:30 a. m. of the 16th. I rushed to the stockade to relieve the sentry, but it was too late, for no sooner had the lights gone out than one of those bums stabbed my sentry in the back, causing his death. Expecting trouble, I kept my flashlight on and my good old '45' ready for action.

"Of course I dropped my flashlight. It fell to the floor but did not go out, thank goodness. The rest of the prisoners, thinking I was done for, started for the door, and it was not before I laid four of them alongside of their pal that they decided to stop. We had an impromptu funeral for the five the following day. Also a military funeral for the sentry."

Mrs. Brown has three service stars in the window of her little yellow cottage at Second and Linden avenues in Chico, Calif.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday. Heavy frosts.

THE AUTO SHOW

The largest and by far the most spectacular automobile show ever held in the west will open next Saturday afternoon on the Prager Park property, Washington Street and Grand Avenue.

Marking as it does the opening of the city's greatest era of prosperity, the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association will outdo itself in its endeavors to make this the most wonderful of all automobile shows.

The decorations in themselves will be a feature which will attract thousands. A week ago the decorators in charge of F. Suie One, the Chinese importer, took charge of the three tents, and it is promised that every piece of decoration, every lantern and every flaring banner will be in place for the opening next week.

Around the side walls will be an immense canvas, being painted by the Flag Studios. This will be a reproduction of famous Japanese and Chinese paintings and will constitute the rear decorations of these exhibits around the side of the tents.

About the center poles will be draped valuable Chinese draperies, while throughout the exhibits will be scattered many pieces of Oriental art. The total value of the material that is to be used will exceed $150,000.

The display of motor cars will also surpass former years. Days ago every available foot of space had been subscribed for. There will be over forty exhibitors of motor cars and over sixty different makes.

The Grand Avenue and Washington Street tents will be the automobile tents, while the trucks and accessories will be in the third tent.

All the exhibitors will show their latest models and many will have cars especially finished for this occasion. Many of the exhibitors will show every model of their line.

The main entrances will be from Grand Avenue and Washington Street. The aisles will be wide and there will be large open spaces before all the band stands. Three orchestras have been engaged to play appropriate music.

Saturday, the opening day, has been designated as Automobile Club of Southern California Day. The club will have a large space near the entrance and is co-operating to a great extent to make this a great show.

Monday will be a Merchants' and Manufacturers' Day and Tuesday night will be the big attraction of the week.

Throughout the week the reception committee will be busy receiving the many tours which are to come in from all sections of Southern California. The Pasadena and San Diego Dealers' Associations are co-operating toward the success of the show and will send large delegations.

Many representatives from eastern factories will be here, and San Francisco will send a delegation of automobile men to the local show. The show will open at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and every day thereafter will open at 10 a. m. and close at 11 p. m.

THAT INDEFINABLE FREEDOM OF SEAS

(By United Press) LONDON, Dec. 17. (By Mail.)—A certain distinguished American was the guest of a number of notable Londoners at dinner. In order that he might have something to talk about when his time came, he asked the toastmaster to suggest that all present give their ideas of what is meant by "the freedom of the seas."

"And when they had finished," said the distinguished American, "I was in worse fix than before; I couldn't, in the least, tell what they'd been talking about."

(Continued from Page 1) that ideal, and you have a faint imagination of the enormity of undertaking to Christianize the eight hundred millions of the heathen world.

Mr. Scott then gave a resume of the religious status of the unevangelized continents, and said: "To the un-Christian mind the things I have been saying constitute the proof that it is impossible to Christianize the world, and therefore useless to try, but the genius of Christianity is optimism, and these towering impossibilities are the very things which summon the church of God to go and preach the gospel to every living creature."

"The first effect of realizing the greatness of the Christian missionary task is to make clear the necessity of prayer. Hence the Methodism of the world is being united in a great 'fellowship of intercession.' Only the intercessor's prayer can keep you in the believing attitude toward the evangelization of the world. This only will beget in the hearts of Christian parents the willingness to allow their sons and daughters to go out to the dark corners of the earth with the light of life.

At the close of the service 150 of the congregation signed the "Fellowship of Intercession covenant." In taking these pledges, the pastor was assisted by the seven men in the local church who have been appointed as "minute men," and they were presented to the congregation in their new capacity. The following men make up the team: A. G. Lindley, C. W. Ingledue, C. H. Bott, E. M. Lee, Dr. C. R. Lusby, Prof. W. D. Root, J. N. McGillis and W. A. Burns. Like the government's "four minute men," they are to speak on Methodism's world missionary program before all gatherings where the opportunity is given.

Dated January 1, 1919. H. J. LELANDE, Clerk. By N. P. GRANT, Deputy. Evans, Abbott & Pearce, 1007 Van Nuys Bldg., attorneys for petitioner.

AS WIVES SEE THEM

(Continued from Page 1) husband had never once found fault with her and she sometimes wished he would; and the wife whose husband used "the weed" and who "got so much comfort out of it" she "did not say anything." That gave a chance for a little talk on tobacco, in which the minister expressed his abhorrence of it in no uncertain terms. He spoke of the five different poisons in the deadly cigarette and the pity that the Y. M. C. A. had found it necessary to become the greatest purveyor of cigarettes in the world in connection with its work overseas.

The woman who characterized her husband as "a perfectly perfect man" he was confident was either a newlywed who had not found him out or a widow.

He paid his respects to the "movies" in connection with the card of the woman who mentioned in the catalogue of her husband's virtues that he "never goes to the movies." Rev. Cole admitted that he sometimes does go, and that he considers they may be made a great agency for good, even promising the deprived husband that he would some time put on a movie at the church which he could attend in safety.

The audience was greatly interested in the card of the woman who had been married fifteen years, she said, and whose husband still told her that he loved her; but by way of faults he was given to breaking promises. That was a good opening for an exhortation on demonstrations of affection in the home and on the sin of breaking promises, even a business or social engagement, and stealing the time of another.

The husband who "neither drinks, smokes, chews nor swears" was commended, and in that connection the preacher said he could understand how a man could commit murder, in passion, or steal if urged by stern necessity, but he couldn't understand how a man could swear. He wondered what we were going to do when the boys come home who have been called the greatest "cussing, smoking army" the world has ever seen.

He rebuked the man whose wife complained that he did not show deference to her opinion; also the man who would submerge himself in a book and read, read, read, when at home, regardless of the family life or the presence of guests; likewise the man whose fault was indifference to his personal appearance, declaring that a man's outward seeming should be an indication of what he is.

In summing up the criticisms and appreciations, he voiced his own ambition to deserve the commendation of his wife as a man in all his parts and in the best meaning of the word, and declared as the next greatest thing to strive for such comradeship with his children that they would call him "Daddy," because to them he represented the dearest, best father the world contained.

Next Sunday night his talk will be based on a symposium from husbands relative to the virtues and faults of their wives.
