NEW-ORLEANS:
THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 8, 1844.

THE GEORGIA CONVENTION.

The Augusta and Charleston papers come to us teeming with accounts of the great State Convention of Georgia, held at Madison, Morgan county, on the 31st ult. It must have been a grand, glorious and thrilling affair. Every county in the State was represented, and nearly all sent delegations of several hundreds each. For several days before hand, the trains from Augusta and the stages from other parts of the State kept pouring their living freight into the crowded town. The day before the Convention, there were already 10,000 persons assembled, and on the 31st the number of whigs in council was estimated at not less than TWENTY THOUSAND. A correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle states that the grand procession commenced forming at half-past 7 o'clock on the morning of the 31st. When fully organised, amid the roaring of cannon, the shouts of a most enthusiastic multitude, and the soul-stirring strains of several bands of music, it marched to the convension ground, with an array of banners never equalled in Georgia. The Convention was called to order and Senator BERRIEN presided over its deliberations He opened with a splendid effort, defensive of the protective policy and the rejection of the Texas Treaty. The Hon. T. C. PRESTON, though worn and feeble, followed in a most powerful and effective speech. Of this magnificent address, the Charleston Courier says:—"The Union—the Union was his theme, and he pledged his whole power to it as undying devotion. With inimitable humor did he dash to the ground the ridiculous throes of patriotism with which the Democratic Convention, with obstetric aid from every quarter of the land, was delivered, not of a living child, but of a stirous abortion, but a little JIM POLK. He demolished the spurious democracy of the day—he demonstrated its destructiveness and Jacobinism, and held it up in its naked deformity to patriot scorn and indignation. His feebleness of body only rendered the more brilliant the glorious coruscations of his mind—the lightning flashes of his genius—and the whig sar of Georgia was ravished with delight and the democratic ear appalled, by the magnificent and spirit-stirring eloquence of the matchless orator, adopting as new discharging agent, and presently given by her to the service of the Union, and the cause of liberty, justice and the constitution. He concluded with a solemn and impressive prayer that this glorious confederacy might last forever, under the protection of Almighty God—and to this the universal assembly, in deep reverence, responded "Amen!"

After Mr. PRESTON's speech, the Convension adjourned to partake of the barbecue provided for the occasion. Dinner over, the speaking again commenced, when the Convention addressed from several statesmen by Messrs. Lanhan, Hopkins, Stephens, Berrenether, Floyd, Dawson, Hogberry, and others.

The correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle concludes his account of the proceedings as follows:—In my hurried note yesterday, I expressed the opinion that there would be 20,000 whigs in council to-day, and well has my expectation been realized. It has most truly been a great and glorious day for the whigs of Georgia, for there will go forth into the remotest sections of the State a spark of enthusiasm which will kindle into a flame and a flame into a mighty blaze, and the people of Georgia have enrolled the name of three more names of glorious States that will proclaim CLAY and FRELINGHUYSEN President and Vice-President of the Republic."

LOOK AT THIS!

By reference to our column of Auction Sales it will be seen that Major BRAND will sell on Saturday, the negro man TOM, whose only qualifications are fully described in the advertisement. The conditions of the sale are, that a note for the amount shall be given by the purchaser, and satisfactorily endorsed, PAYABLE WHEN THE OFFICIAL NEWS IS RECEIVED OF THE ELECTION OF HENRY CLAY. We believe a fraud was never perpetrated under more favorable circumstances for the success of the perpetrator, than will be the opportunity of getting a negro for nothing—it their vauntings prove true.

ALABAMA ELECTIONS.—Yesterday's mail brought us incomplete returns from Mobile county. The vote on several precincts is not given, but the returns justify the belief that a part, if not the whole of the tobacco ticket for the Legislature is elected. We regret to record the defeat by a very small majority of our accomplished brother of the Advertiser, C. C. LANGDON, Esq. Last August, for Congress the vote of Mobile county stood, whig, 1196; loco, 1225. Little change seems to have occurred since. The vote for Senator this year is: whig, 1191, loco, 1236. For the Legislature, the two highest are Dunn, (w.) 1216, Phillips, (loco) 1210—gener not reported. At the session three years ago, Dunn whig idanketa 5 per cent. A bill which would have resulted also how every manufacturer, laborer, farmer, and mechanic in the country—more than the compromise bill since he it had run down in 1842 to 20 per cent, burnished, and indefinitely worse—not half so good as Mr. Polk's letter of last winter, and worse than the bill that Mr. Polk boasts of having "repeated to," and which he says made due remembrance in the composition of the duties which it proposed." Yet it discriminated with the 20 per cent. duties, and would be after 1843 from 20 down to 15-10 and 5 per cent.' "small by degrees and beautifully less." Thus to Mr. Polk's brag bill—to the bill that he calls "fair and just"—principles to all the great interests of the whole Union"—"fair and just"—and who so not for "fair and just?" who will say that he is for what is "unfair and unjust?" Mr. Polk's bill says 15 per cent. is "fair and just." Mr Polk says 16 per cent. (the average of Verplanck's bill) is "fair and just" protection to all our great interests, and Mr. Polk says protection to an average of 36 per cent. was "fair and just." Every man says of course that his own views are "fair and just." Mr Polk's declaration that "protection is tariff," is worse than Gen. Jackson's "judicious tariff."

But Mr Polk on his first paragraph has fixed and defined his own position.—On the 30 of April, 1844, he said "I am for repealing the act of 1842, and reducing the duties to the rates at which they were on the 30th of June 1840." Now, what were the rates according to his letter to Mr Kane he is for it now.—Then we have Mr Clay and Mr Polk both fixed as the basis of their views the rates of 1840 as the rate in the whole tariff. Take the Whig Tariff of 1842 and you have Mr Clay's bill, and take the tariff as it stood on 30th June 1840, (20 per cent. horizontal) and you have Mr Polk's bill.

Mr STEWART next presents a practical illustration of the mode in which Mr. CLAY and Mr POLK's tariff will operate on the people and their interests. I see, says he, a great many mechanics and some manufacturers present. Well gentlemen, give us your opinions of Mr Clay's and Polk's protection:

and to all others in the same proportion. Thus those who make and sell goods are to have the benefit of high duties, while all you take? Such is the long winded, and quite too much for me for I cannot follow him, and Mr S. sat down after a very Turnpike speech.

Mr Calhoun said a letter had been shown Mr Polk—in 1832 now produced to illustrate the protective duties; Mr Polk has never voted inglorerous, but always to reduce them.

Now Mr Polk says he sustained the bill reported by the Committee of Ways and Means in December 1832, (Mr Verplanck's bill) making still further reductions from the compromise bill of 1833, down to 20 per cent. in 1842. This tenacious bill of Mr Polk's was defeated by a majority of but 3 votes—and the bill that Mr
