THE CAMPAIGN IN CUBA

Operations Suspended for the Rainy Season—Funds for War.

Tampa, Fla., June 24.—Advice from Cuba state that at a meeting of generals in command of the Spanish army they have decided to adopt the following plans for the rainy season: "To suspend all operations for the present and to offer large rewards to countrymen who will give information which will be of benefit against the insurgents. This information is to be given to officers commanding the different posts, and all persons who have farms on either side of the trenches must retire to the towns at once, as Gen. Weyler's opinion is that they assist the insurgents. The sea coast is to be more closely watched, so that Mares cannot receive assistance from the outside. All cattle, horses and hogs in pasture are to be destroyed, so that the insurgents will have less to live on, and also high prices are to be put on the heads of all leaders of the insurgents."

Last Tuesday the steamer Commodore cleared from Charleston for Tampa, loaded with thirty cases of rifles, ninety cases of cartridges and fifty packages of merchandise. The Commodore arrived in port yesterday and was boarded and searched by a crew from the revenue cutter Forward. The captain said the cargo sprung a leak and he threw the cargo overboard. Some think that the cargo was transferred to an expedition which started Wednesday night of St. John's bar.

Madrid, June 24.—The opposition have decided to request the government to introduce a bill providing for sufficient resources to prosecute the campaign in Cuba.

MONTREALERS IN LONDON.

Canadian Metropolis Firmly Cover Themselves With Glory.

London, June 24.—The Montreal men have achieved a distinct triumph at the fete's tournament in the Agricultural hall at Islington. Their exhibition of fire escape drill was witnessed by large crowds, and the applause was tremendous. The hose reel drill was especially good, and it was freely admitted by experts that for rapidity of execution the Canadians have never been excelled. Among the visitors is Chief Atchison of Hamilton. The Canadian contingent last evening helped the other delegates to welcome six hundred women who had arrived from various cities and towns in France to take part in the competition.

VICTORIA APPLAUDS LAURIER'S VICTORY.

Unprecedented Outburst of Popular Approval of the Down-fall of Tupperism--Immense Procession Parades the Principal Streets

In Honor of the Glorious Victory--There is no Doubt About Victoria Being Genuinely in Sympathy With the Liberal Party.

Mr. E. V. Bodwell's Stinging Report to the Contemptible Insinuations of His Cowardly Opponents--"Something Happened."

Yesterday's election in this city was a repetition of the bye-election held in January, the government candidates were returned by narrow majorities. Hon. Col. Prior ran one hundred ahead of his ticket and Mr. Templeman, ran one hundred ahead of his. At the polling stations where most of the working men cast their ballots, the opposition had good majorities, but this was overcome by the official vote, both provincial and Dominion, in James Bay and Esquimaux. At the Willows, where a great many farmers vote, the Liberals held their own, but Metehosin, as usual, went against them. Both sides worked hard from the opening until the close of the polls, and every available vote was cast. Voters were brought from every portion of the province by the government party, some of them being well paid, for their time and trouble. Other men voted on the names of men who have long since been dead and for men who are known to be out of the country. The conditions of the lists made this possible, the opposition scrutineers being helpless to prevent it. The returns by districts follow:

VICTORIA.

	Prior.	Barbo.	Templeman.	Mills.

As the returns were made public at the opposition committee rooms, much disappointment was expressed at the defeat of the two candidates, but this was overcome by the news which was arriving from the east. As soon as the full returns were made known, Mr. Templeman, Dr. Milne and others made short speeches congratulatory of the victory throughout the country.

There were cries for "Bodwell," and that gentleman's appearance was the signal for a great outburst of enthusiasm.

In his opening remarks Mr. Bodwell commented on the charge that he was afraid to be present and participate in the election. ("No.") He regretted not only that he was unable to be present during the fight, but that he could not be here to "hail" Col. Prior's misstatement on the head when it was spoken. ("Applause.") There never was a more atrocious misrepresentation than the insinuation that he had purposely refrained from being present at the election. ("Cheers.") He had said to Col. Prior on the street to-day that that gentleman ought to have known that the statement was incorrect when he made it (cheers); for in the telegram from Mr. Bodwell the day before he had stated the cause of the delay, and that telegram had been published and was public property some hours before the meeting at which Col. Prior spoke. ("Cheers.") and if he, Mr. Bodwell, had thought that Col. Prior would have so far forgotten what was due to himself as a gentleman ("He never was one") Mr. Bodwell would have been here on Monday night if he had had to swim for it. (Great cheering.) He had always been a Liberal; had always earnestly and faithfully supported that party, and would always be found upholding the great principles which it upholds.

Since he had been away Mr. Bodwell had not seen the British Columbia papers, and it was not until he reached Seattle on Monday that he was able to read some of the speeches which had been made. Among other things he noticed that some of his remarks at Cedar Hill had been called in question. At that time he had expressed an affiant opinion to the effect that it was not constitutional to place a sum upon the estimates for the British Pacific railway until it had been declared to be a work for the general good of Canada. Today, however, in the short time of his absence, he had looked up some of the statistics passed in late years referring to subsidies and he found that in the year 1885 there were 29 railways chartered, 56 in 1884; 31 in 1885; 30 in 1887; 16 in 1888; 44 in 1889 and 70 in 1891. In each of these cases, unless the road was incorporated at the same session of parliament by special act, an act was introduced declaring the road a work for the general benefit of Canada. A separate bill was then passed granting the subsidies to the different railways which were by the previous statute brought within Dominion control. The estimates on the other hand passed through the house by resolution, and the amounts were then incorporated in the supply bill. In none of the cases to which he had referred were the subsidies found on the supply bill. They were in each case the subject matter of a special act. He felt, therefore, that he was perfectly justified as a matter of law in adhering to the opinion he expressed. As a matter of fact, whether or not anything had been done by the government respecting that subsidy, Mr. Bodwell had not now and never had anything to say, but he had read with a great deal of interest the letter from Mr. Rithet, published in Sunday's Column, and could not find there that Mr. Rithet said anything about the railway having applied for or received a subsidy. Mr. Bodwell also understood from the published reports, that Col. Prior, when pressed upon that point, could only say that a railway in British Columbia had been promised a subsidy, and when some one in the audience asked if the railway he referred to was not the E. & N., Col. Prior said that the E. & N. was a part of the British Pacific system, which is not the fact, as Col. Prior should know very well. ("Cheers.")

Mr. Bodwell also understood that Col. Prior had been taking a great deal of credit to himself for promoting the interests of the British Pacific, credit which was not due him. ("Cheers.") To one man only was due credit for the position which this project occupies, and that man is Mr. Rithet. (Applause.) If the people of Victoria had to depend on Col. Prior and other fair weather friends of the British Pacific, the scheme would have been dead long ago; but while Col. Prior was turning up his aristocratic nose--(laughter)--at every effort to further the enterprise, Mr. Rithet had manfully spent his money, time and energy in forwarding its interests--(cheers); and to him, therefore, and to him alone, was due the credit that should be given. Mr. Bodwell, consequently, would never permit Col. Prior or anyone else to rob Mr. Rithet of his due in this regard. ("Cheers.")

Col. Prior had indicated that he (Mr. Bodwell) was not in Victoria this election.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering. "I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, sore and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 30 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." Mrs. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

tion because he was afraid to meet Col. Prior or any of his supporters—great laughter. Well, he had to admit, of course, that he had never robed himself in the panoply of war and aboriginal words of command from the back of a horse—(great laughter)—but he belonged to a race who had never turned their backs upon a enemy or desecrated a friend in distress, and he would think poorly indeed of himself if he should fear men who, in their warfare, adopt the tactics of the assassin and exhibit their courage by stabbing in the dark. (Cheers.)

Coming to refer to the results all over the country, Mr. Bodwell expressed the feeling of congratulation which the country would show on the return of such a substantial Liberal majority. (Cheers.) Although Col. Prior and Mr. Earle had been elected by the mistaken votes of the people of Victoria, they were not the representatives of the city; the Liberal party is now in power and the nominally defeated candidates, Messrs. Milne and Templeman, are the people's representatives. (Cheers.) It was a matter for congratulation for Canada that the people have at last risen in their might and brought to an end the reign of corruption and misrule that has existed for so long a time. (Cheers.) Canada would now enter upon an era when honest government, pure patriotism and the sterling personal integrity of her statesmen will ensure for the Dominion rapid advancement in all matters of national importance. (Great cheers.) See the names which head that role of honor—Wilfrid Laurier—(cheers); Sir Oliver Mowat—(renewed cheering)—men of whom the country may well be proud, wise and honorable statesmen. These names are a guarantee of the present and the hope of the future, and the people have gloried with most enthusiastic voices, that such only shall compose the government of Canada. (Prolonged cheering.)

THEY FELT WELL.

Joy Was Unconfined Among the Crowd of Liberals.

The demonstration in front of the Times office last evening as victory after victory was recorded for the Liberals, was unparalleled in the history of political contests in this province. View and Broad streets for a block or more were packed with cheering, shouting, arm-waving, hat-flinging masses of people, who were simply wild with enthusiasm.

A squad of the faithful few gathered in front of the office of the local Tupper organ after the returns for the local contest had come in, and duly cheered Messrs. Prior and Earle, whose glorious victory was announced to the assembled throng upon a large placard. Gradually, however, there seemed to be a very perceptible diminishing of the joyous outburst and as time wore on, laughter ceased, voices were hushed, and faces drawn into a composure befitting the gravity of the situation. The Colonist, which announced with much gusto during the early part of the evening, "Look out for our special edition at 9 p.m.," sent a small boy out to remove the sign, which was done amidst the laughter of the crowd.

Such was the scene in front of the Tupper organ's office, but over on Broad street in front of the Times office a very different scene was being enacted. As the evening wore on the crowd grew larger and there were loud calls for "Templeman! Milne! Bodwell!" and in response to repeated demands the candidates made short addresses from the balcony of the Times office, the crowd receiving their remarks with cheer after cheer. The enthusiasm of the crowd was simply uncontrollable when in answer to loud calls Mr. E. V. Bodwell made his appearance on the balcony. Then hats, canes and handkerchiefs were flung in air to round after round of lusty cheers, the intensity of the interest in hearing Mr. Bodwell being increased because of Col. Prior's contemptible insinuation the evening before that Mr. Bodwell might have reached here in time to address the meeting on Saturday evening had he so desired. Mr. Bodwell alluded to the insinuation and his remarks in that regard, his brilliant denial of the sneaking insinuation of his political opponents, were the signals for fresh outbursts of applause from the vast audience. Short speeches were also made by Messrs. Scalfie, Martin, John Grant and others.

At 8:30 a special edition of the Times was issued and sold like hot-cakes among the eager and expectant crowd. A little after nine o'clock, when it became known beyond a shadow of a doubt that the returns of Tupperism, Tupperism and Tupperism had come in sudden and abrupt termination, a regiment of young Liberals was hastily formed and equipped with new brooms and torches. A procession, extending from Yates street to Fort street was then assembled, and preceded by a brass band and the candidates, Messrs. Templeman and Milne, and a number of prominent Liberals in carriages, moved off on a tour of the principal streets.

As the long line of cheering, shouting and jesting Liberals moved off they were joined by hundreds from every side, who found the enthusiasm infectious and irresistible. Passing the corner of Broad and Fort streets, where is situated the headquarters of the Conservatives, the crowd seemed to grow wild. There were groans, hisses and cries of "What's Prior's position now?" These were followed by cheers for Laurier, Templeman and Milne. Over at the Colonist office a momentary little squad were engaged in sympathetic conversation, and when the procession swung around from Fort street into Government street it was laughable in the extreme to see the frantic haste displayed by many of them to get shelter cover while the crowd was passing. Coming abreast of the Colonist office the band, which had been playing a lively air, struck up the mournful "Dead March in Saul" to the accompaniment of groans, hisses, catcalls, etc. from the rank and file, and cheers from the spectators who lined the sidewalks on either side. The round of the block was made no less than three times, and each time the crowd seemed to grow larger, and the voices of the joyful throng louder. It was nearly 11 p.m. when a final halt was made in front of the Times office, and after latest returns had been announced by Mr. Templeman, and cheers for Laurier, Templeman, Milne and the Queen, the band played the national anthem and the crowd dispersed.

THROUGH-SPACE.

A Texas Doctor's Extraordinary Experience.

On the afternoon of the Sherman, Tex., cyclone, Dr. W. F. Michael was making professional calls to the southwestern suburbs of the city. He had been to the Dulin home, and returned to where he left his horse hitched, and was driving southward through the cemetery, intending to pass out of the gate on that side. The storm cloud loomed up before him just before he reached the gate. He realized that it was driving toward him, and that with a spirited horse it was impossible to get out of the way. Springing from the buggy he unfastened the traces, started the horse out of the shafts and turned loose. Then he began to run for a place him loose. He had gone 50 feet westward when it seemed to him that the cloud was going to strike the centre of the cemetery. So he turned and ran eastward toward the east fence. Just as he reached the fence and flung himself down, the cloud came over him.

"I heard a roaring sound," said Dr. Michael, "when the storm was two miles or so distant, but it was beyond the hills and I didn't discover that I was right in the path of it until it reached the nearest hill from a half to three-quarters of a mile south of me. It didn't resemble a funnel-shaped cloud. It looked drawn up off the ground by some invisible force. I didn't lose consciousness. It was so dark I couldn't tell how high I went, but I was high enough to escape the monuments in the cemetery, and all so the tree tops, perhaps forty feet from the ground. As I went along in the air I tried to keep an upright position but couldn't. Something kept turning me over in one somersault after another. I passed almost over the cemetery before I struck the ground. I came down easily at an incline, just as if being lowered in the tail of the storm. But I was still moving along, and when I hit the ground I went over and over at least thirty feet. The lessening force would raise me a little and then let me back, until at last, I dropped into a hole just inside of the north fence of the cemetery.

"I was conscious all the time, until I stopped rolling and settled into that hole. After that I knew nothing more until people from town were around me. It must have been ten minutes at least that I lay in the hole until discovered. My best friends didn't recognize me. From head to foot I was covered with mud. My hair was plastered down with it.

"Don't you know me?" I asked of men whom I had met daily for years. "They could identify me only by my voice. I was able to walk. At first it didn't seem to me that I was much hurt, but after a while I discovered I was bruised from head to foot. When

A NEW MAN'S WEDDING.

An account of one of the strangest weddings of modern times, which took place at Washington, D.C., early in the present year, has just come out from the eastern press. It seems to have escaped the notice of the sharp-eyed Washington correspondents altogether. The contracting parties were Alexander S. Jenkins, a young Englishman, and Adelaide Johnson, a sculptor, whose work was exhibited at the World's Fair. One of the peculiarities about the wedding was the groom took upon himself the surname of the bride, emerging from the ceremony as Alexander S. Jenkins Johnson. The marriage was conducted by Rev. Cora V. I. Richmond. The groom was attired in a suit of white broadcloth, with a white satin vest, and white shoes. All the wedding guests were white with pearls and white roses. The Woman's Tribune, in reporting the affair, says: "The attire of the parties and all the accessories of the occasion were intended to typify the purity and spiritual exaltation of the relation upon which the parties had entered." Miss Johnson does not seem to be of the marrying kind, for the Woman's Tribune, telling of the wedding, says the guests were simply invited to be present at her house dressed in white that evening, and it adds: "Miss Johnson has given so many unique and impressive ex-other might be retained. She thought this was the beginning of a new order of things when husband and wife would coexist together and retain the name for the family which was most pleasing and illustrious.

The bride and groom are vegetarians and students of occult philosophy, and Jenkins-Johnson once spent time on a ranch in Arizona in meditation and study. In reproaching the Woman's Tribune's report of the marriage, the Bradford Courant remarks: "This affair gives us our first full view of the new man. There's a lot written and spoken these days about the new woman, and the hasty reader would infer that there was nothing new except women. But here's a man that's as fresh as the most exotically rare, attire: 'in a suit of white broadcloth with white satin vest and white shoes.'"

SMALLEST THINGS EVER MADE.

Some Remarkable Products of Cheap Workmanship. In the twelfth year of Queen Elizabeth, says an English contemporary, a blacksmith named Mark Scallioff made a lock consisting of eleven pieces of iron, steel and brass, all of which together with the key to it, weighed but one grain of gold. He also made a chain of gold consisting of 33 links, and having fastened this to the before-mentioned lock and key, he put the chain around the neck of a flea, which drew them all with ease. All these together, chain and key, weighed only one grain and a half. Oswaldus Northlingburgh, who was more famous even than Scallioff for his minute contrivances, is said to have made 1229 fibres of turned ivory, all perfect and complete in every part, yet so small, thin and slender, that all of them were included at once in a cup turned out of a peppercorn of the ordinary size. Johannes Shad, of Mitebeach, carried this wonderful work with him to Rome, and showed it to Pope Paul V., who saw and counted them all by the help of a pair of spectacles. They were so little as to be almost invisible to the eye. Johannes Ferraris, a Jesuit, had in his possession cannons of wood, with their carriages, wheels and other military furniture, all of which were also contained in a peppercorn of the ordinary size.

An artist named Claudius Gallus made for Hippolytus d'Este, cardinal of Ferrara, a representation of a sundry birds sitting on the tops of trees, which, by hydraulic art, and secret conveyance of water through the trunk and branches of the trees, were made to sing and clap their wings, but at the sudden appearance of an owl out of a bush of the same artificiality they immediately became all mute and silent.

Microscopic wrought out of ivory a chariot with four wheels and as many horses in so little room that a small fly might cover them all with her wings. It is stated that the Salem museum, Massachusetts, has in its possession a cherry stone containing a dozen silver spoons. The stone is of the ordinary size, the spoons being so small that their shape and finish can be distinguished only by the microscope.

Dr. Oliver gives an account of a chrysalis in which were carved 124 heads so distinctly that the naked eye could distinguish those belonging to pope and kings by their mitres and crowns. A Nuremberg toker included in a chrysalis which was exhibited at the French crystal palace, a pan of Schenstol, a railway station, and the Messiah of Klopstock.

A Swede, named Leibson, executed a portrait of King Oscar, in microscopically small letters, forming a series of longer extracts from the Bible. He has also made in a similar manner, what may be called a "speaking" likeness of Emperor William. The high crystalline sists of choice verses from the Psalms of David; the left of verses from Solomon's Proverbs, the Book of Chronicles, and the Song of Solomon. The head consists of the whole Book of Kings. The uniform is composed of the Psalms of David, the name of the Emperor is composed of a Hebrew prayer for the Imperial family and two of the Psalms of David.

Peter Bayle, a clock of silver in the time of Queen Elizabeth, after stating the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Commandments, two prayers, and his own name and office in addition to the year, month and day of the Queen's reign, in characters so small as to be included in the "head of a ring" which ring was afterwards accepted by the Queen, and was worn on the august finger.

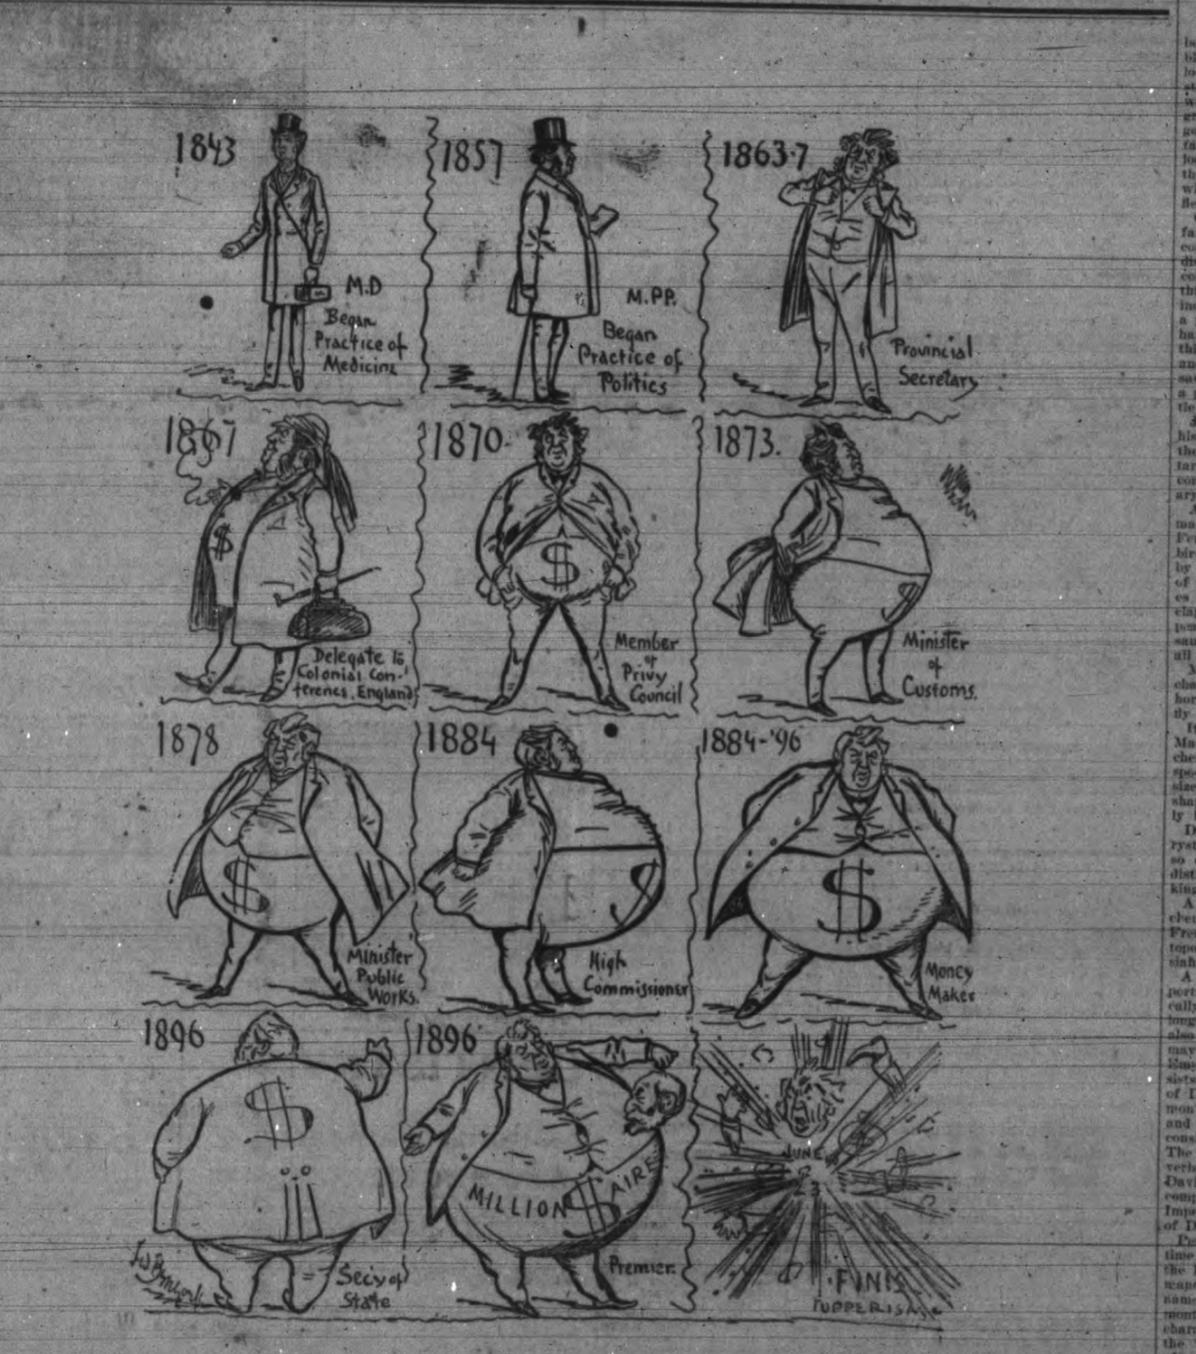

We have Peter's statement that in his time there existed a copy of Homer's Iliad small enough to go into a nutshell, and a German, Prof. Schreiber, produced only a few years back, by the stereographic process, a copy of the German translation, extending to 600 pages, so small that a nutshell 1-32 the whole comfortably.

In the Annual Register, 1761, it is stated that "Mr. Arnold, of Devonport, had the honor to present his Majesty George III, with a most curious and sparkling watch of his own making, set in diamonds. The size of the watch was something less than a silver two-pence; it contained 120 different parts, and weighed 5 grains, 75 grains." Boston Journal of Commerce.

"Something Happened"

ed to me like a great ball of vapor rolling over and over toward me. When I first saw it distinctly—at that hill it seemed to me about two hundred and fifty yards wide and a hundred feet high. The motion as it presented itself to me was that of a ball rolling over and over—not spiral. Whatever the ball of cloud struck was lifted right up from the ground. I saw the effects as it came in horse after horse between the hill and me. When the ball reached Mr. Chisholm's house went right up in the air off its foundations. It was whole until until it was up ten or fifteen feet. Then it went all to pieces, just as if it had exploded. The same thing happened to the other houses. Above and around this rolling ball of cloud the air was full of bits of boards and tree limbs and other things which had been scattered up. When the ball reached me I had got the east fence of the cemetery, and I had thrown myself down beside it. At once the bright daylight disappeared, and I was in total darkness. The picket fence, posts and all, was thrust up and came down flat upon me. Then two trees fell on the fence. In a few seconds the trees went up in the air, the fence followed, I felt myself

I was up in the air it seemed, as if some things were pecking me all the time. They must have been the boards and other flying wreckage. Before the ball reached me I could see on the outer edge of it objects whirling with it. But when I was in the cloud I could see nothing. I had passed from bright light to complete darkness." possession to the high thoughts that burn within her that the simple explanation that she was to be married never occurred to her friends.

The Rev. Mrs. Richmond was "very impressive" in the marriage ceremony, and after pronouncing them to be "Alexander S. Jenkins Johnson and Adelaide Johnson," she said, in part:

"But life itself is the tribute that love brings. The royal gift of this bridegroom is his name to the queen of his choice, and he brings a heart of unselfishness. It is the tribute love pays to genius; that he is willing at this hour, and has, in legal form, taken the name we announced. This is a new and wonderful era that the world enters upon when we no longer consider that name or even a position is that which marks the great epoch of marriage."

Then she pledged them to "obey" in it even for him to be faithful unto death and declared them man and wife. Miss Susan Anthony was the first guest to recover from the shock. She, it seems, expressed her gratification at the fact that a man was willing to do for a woman of such what society and custom expected every woman to do—that is, to give up the name that that of the

WOMAN IN A STATE OFFICE.

"For the first time in the history of the state," says the Baltimore News, "a woman is to-day holding a state office in Maryland. Colonel Luther M. Grant, state librarian, sent his resignation to Governor Lowndes yesterday, and Mrs. Anna R. Jeffers of Annapolis received her commission, filed her bond, and entered upon the duties of the office, to which she was appointed by the Governor Lowndes and confirmed by the senate just before the adjournment of the general assembly. She is the daughter of a late gallant officer of high rank in the army, a lady of much personal popularity, and will doubtless make an excellent state librarian as those of Kentucky, Michigan and other states in which this office has come to be regarded as one which women are particularly adapted to fill."

THE ELECTIONS.

There has been a notable change of political feeling in Canada—such a change as has not been seen since 1878. The wide extent of the revolution will at once strike the observer.

The Liberal gains in eastern cities are worthy of special notice. In Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Ottawa, St. John and Halifax their successes were remarkable.

Ottawa, June 24.—The feeling of enthusiasm among the Liberals here today is intense over the great victory of yesterday.

The greatest surprise for the Ottawa people was for Winnipeg to declare for coercion. A lot of money has changed hands on this account.

British Columbia has done remarkably well in sending four Liberals, the first time since confederation that the "ring" has been broken in the Pacific provinces.

Sir Charles Tupper reached his office about eleven o'clock to-day. He looked very much dejected, and is badly broken down.

The defeat of Mr. Joseph Martin is an exceedingly regrettable occurrence, but there is good reason to believe that his defeat was not brought about by fair means.

Other good men have gone down among the Liberals, notably Hon. David Mills and Wm. Paterson of Braut, who both seem to have spent more time away from their own districts than they could really afford.

The Liberal gains in eastern cities are worthy of special notice. In Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Ottawa, St. John and Halifax their successes were remarkable.

The whole field must give every Liberal reason to feel fully satisfied.

THE VENEZUELA DISPUTE.

Official Correspondence Between Britain and America to be Published. London, June 24.—The St. James Gazette this afternoon says that Great Britain and the United States have agreed to publish simultaneously, within a fortnight, all the arbitration correspondence exchanged between the governments of the two countries.

The publication of this matter appears to have been delayed while waiting the arrival in London of Secretary Olney's latest communication, which was handed to Sir Julian Pauncefote, and which forms one of the most important documents of the series.

The St. James Gazette further states that no definite conclusion has been reached yet, though considerable progress has been made towards a general treaty of arbitration between the two countries.

PROPOSED FRENCH CANAL.

The commission appointed in France to investigate the scheme for the construction of a ship canal from the Bay of Biscay to the Mediterranean has just reported that the undertaking is impracticable from the point of view of a public company, and that the advantages to be gained are not sufficiently large as to justify the state incurring the enormous expenses which the construction of this waterway would entail.

The minimum cost of the enterprise would amount to three millions of francs, and, considering that the three great European ship canals, namely, those of Manchester, of Corinth and of the Helles, are still in the no profit stage, the French government should hesitate about investing so large a sum of money in an undertaking that offers no prospect of any early or certain return.

AN INCIDENT RECALLED.

The catastrophe at Moscow recalls an incident of Queen Victoria's coronation, fortunately, however, without fatal results. The town of Edinburgh received to-day the very poor, without distinction to a free "banquet" consisting of a roll, mutton pie, and a pint of beer.

The idea, as is to be seen from the above, proved impossible of realization. "Nobody," it seems, writes the biographer of the late eminent publisher, Adam Black, "was charged with any special duty in the matter. The poor people were invited to come at one o'clock to the Green Market, now occupied by the railway stations and sheds. Presently the wagons appeared at the gates with the longest for viands, and there ensued a confusion of description, the strong and greedy in front getting more than their share, the weak in the background.

The scene was witnessed from the parapet of the North Bridge by passers by, who were appalled at the hungry, struggling crowd, the policeman directing the motionless and rolls over their heads to those in the rear. Mr. Adam Black, with his coat torn from the verge of the neck to the waist, fighting against fearful odds to preserve order and get something like justice done. The poor, hungry, disappointed people, he said, behaved wonderfully well.

ONE LEG, A CRUTCH AND A WHEEL.

Everybody who happened to be on Madison street Monday morning, says the New York Tribune, viewed with undiminished interest and amusement a bicyclist who was spinning down the avenue at a lively rate. The bicyclist had only one leg, but he was riding with all the assurance and ease of an expert, and he evidently could have "scared" had he so wished. He had on a tasteful, quiet bicycling suit, and his one leg was neatly incased in a pair of self-amputee's shoes. As he rode the handle of the wheel lay a crutch. At twenty-sixth street he alighted easily and gracefully, tossed his wheel against the curb, adjusted his crutch and hobbled into a cafe. When he came out the people who had seen him dismount had gathered in a little crowd, and the interests of science to see him mount his wheel again. It was a very simple performance. He gave a glance at the assembled spectators at the crowd, put his foot on the step of the machine, grasped the left handle bar firmly with one hand, gave a vigorous push with his crutch, and glided easily away. "That's what," he shouted back over his shoulder to the crowd.

The crowd looked at each other in astonishment. "Well, well," said a fat man who had been one of the most interested spectators in the wheel, "that fellow counts a wonder leg."

THE IMPORTANCE OF A LIVER.

Thousands Suffer Because the Liver is Deranged—South American Nervine is the Great Panacea of the Day for a Diseased Liver and All Stomach Troubles, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervousness and General Debility.

When a well known author wrote his book entitled "Is Life Worth Living?" Mr. Punch, with shrewd, practical common sense, replied to the query, "That depends on the liver." And undoubtedly it is the case that when the liver is diseased untold troubles follow. Dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, nervousness and general debility are all species of stomach trouble that come from this source. The practical question is, "What are you going to do about it?" That great discovery of the century, South American Nervine, with ten thousand voices says, "I will cure it. We might easily quote the words of well known Canadian citizens to fill this entire page. Let one or two suffice. Mr. John Boyer, banker, of Kincardine, says: "I was very much troubled with indigestion, giving rise to those distressing feelings that can hardly be described in any language, but that are so common to the dyspeptic. I tried South American Nervine, and it cured me. I have no hesitation in recommending it to any person afflicted with any stomach trouble." Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, of Campbellford, Ont., the large railroad contractor, says: "I keep South American Nervine always in the house, and I do not hesitate to say that it is the very best medicine I have ever taken, and most confidently recommend it to any one troubled with nervousness of whatever form and the attendant diseases of the liver and stomach that follow this weakness."

Mrs. A. V. Galbraith, of Shelburne, Ont., says: "South American Nervine cured me completely of indigestion. I never fail to recommend it to my friends."

It is not an experiment with any one who used this great discovery. It has been tested and proven over and over again, with the one result, that it provides a certain cure. For sale by Dean & Hiscock and Hall & Co.

LOADING ON LEGACIES.

A new business, established in New York—new at least in this country—is that of advancing money to prospective heirs on legacies. The new company lends money to legacies which are tied up in one way or another, and is doing a rushing business. For instance, in a case where a widow possesses a life interest in an estate, her children, becoming heirs at her death, the company will buy the widow's claim. The company charges from 2 to 10 per cent, according to the age and general health of the present incumbent. If he is too young and vigorous and promises to live a long time, the loan is often refused.

Reid, Tom James and August Jackson gave short addresses, and the evening was spent very enjoyably.

All the Districts Outside of Victoria Elect Supporters of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier.

In Burrard District Mr. Maxwell Polls as Many as His Two Opponents.

Mr. Aulay Morrison Has a Walk Over in the Fraser Valley District.

Messrs. Bostock and McInnes Also Have Very Handsome Majorities.

Victoria is the only district in British Columbia that has elected Conservatives as representatives in the new parliament, which is to be presided over by a Liberal government. The four districts, outside of Victoria, have elected straight Liberal candidates. In Yale Cariboo Mr. Mara was badly defeated by Mr. Bostock, in spite of the influence which were at work in the interest of the Conservative candidate. There are still several places to be heard from, but Mr. Bostock's election is conceded by over 200 majority.

In New Westminster, as was expected, Mr. Aulay Morrison did not have much trouble in defeating Mr. McBride, although the latter gentleman's declaration against coercion, helped him considerably.

In Burrard district Mr. Maxwell, the Liberal standard bearer, polled nearly as many votes as his two opponents, Mr. Bowser, as far as the returns received are concerned, having lost his deposit.

Vancouver Island district also did its duty and has sent to Ottawa Mr. McInnes to support Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. McInnes had a great deal to contend against. The Dunsmuir interest was all thrown on the side of Mr. Haggart, while the other corporations supported Mr. Haslam. Although Mr. Haslam had been practically read out of the Conservative party by the Colonel, he ran much better than Mr. Haggart. It is conceded that even if one of the Conservatives had withdrawn, Mr. McInnes would have been elected.

Col. Prior has resigned the colonelcy of the B. C. garrison artillery, and today had private effects moved from the regimental headquarters in Victoria. It is understood that he has, for some time contemplated this step, which would have been rendered necessary had the Conservative government been sustained, as the colonel's duties in Ottawa would have made it impossible to also be colonel of the regiment here.

The production of "Ortrutto" by the Juvenile Opera Co. on Monday and Tuesday evenings next for the benefit of the Victoria Company No. 2, Boy's Brigade, will be under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieut. Governor, Lt.-Col. Peters, D.A.G., Lt.-Col. Hirston, R.M.A., and Lt.-Col. Prior, M.P. A large number of tickets have been sold and it is to be hoped that the efforts of the little ones will be greeted with a crowded house. No pains or expense has been spared in preparing the opera, and it is sure to be a great success in every detail. Little Sam Johnson will take part as well as sing some of the latest songs.

Faerfœtura, one of the Canary Islands, has a mystery of the sea, according to the London Daily Mail. A big packing case was recently cast ashore there, which, on being opened, was found to contain another wooden box of finer make. Inside this was a zinc box, perfectly water tight, into which had been neatly packed the corpse of a young woman, elegantly dressed, and wearing jewels. The victim had a wound in the forehead, her eyes had been put out; the girl's face was that of a brunette about twenty years old, with dark hair. She wore a white embroidered bodice, a black silk dress with small red flowers worked as design, black silk stockings, no shoes, and canvas leather slippers. Her earrings were of gold and diamonds. Photographs have been taken of the corpse and will be circulated to try and secure identification.

THE WHEEL WIZARD

Some of His Wonderful Feats—A Two Minute Exhibition Mile is Promised.

When a bicycle was a novelty in the land, and the appearance of a cyclist on the streets was the signal for a rush to the windows, fancy riding on the wheel was a feature of every first-class circus performance, and the Livingstone, Westbrook, Ford, Wells and half a dozen others, more or less expert, sprang into prominence as trick and acrobatic cyclists. That was of course on the old high wheel, which though appearing to be a much more dangerous machine to master than the modern safety offered in reality greater opportunities for the display of daring in balance and skill in acrobatic work than the now familiar pneumatic tired wheel of to-day can possibly afford—and this, with infinitely less danger and liability to fall inverted. So much harder indeed is trick riding upon the safety bicycle than was trick riding on the "old ordinary" that five out of the six professional acrobatic riders of the pioneer wheel forsook the exhibition arena altogether upon the advent of the safety, and only a few experts arose in their place skillful enough to appear for public performances with the "little wheels."

Of these Lee Richardson, Malby and Fred Merrill are now famous through all America, while lately a new star has arisen among them in the person of Ed. Baldern, who promises to astonish the circle world before the limit is reached to the variety of his wonderful performances. Merrill it was who "blazed the trail" and recognizing that he was a performer capable of entertaining and astonishing any audience with his feats of skill and daring, the Rambler bicycle company at once entered into a contract with him to ride their wheels in his exhibitions throughout the west.

He it is that the Victoria Wheelmen's club have secured to illustrate what apparently impossible things a bicycle may be made to do, in connection with the race meet at the Oak Bay track on Saturday of this week.

To bring the bicycle to a standstill and hold it there is by the average rider considered a fair test of dexterity. Baldern, the young wizard of the wheel, not only does this, but he does it while riding "hands off," and then proceeds to change his position a dozen times or more—from saddle to handle bar, to chain, to pedals, literally climbing all over the wheel while holding it, a still and obedient servant of his will, as long as he pleases to, and never once touching the ground himself. Standing on the saddle and handle bar, while he swings Indian clubs backward from over the front wheel, lifting the steering wheel from the ground, and riding on the rear wheel alone over any kind of ground or even up and down stairs—these are only a few of his wonderful feats, of which there is practically no limit to the variety.

Victorians have not had the opportunity of witnessing an exhibition of fancy cycle riding since Prince Wells gave a small performance at Beacon Hill some six or seven years ago. Those who remember that performance will remember it as a revelation of the possibilities of the bicycle in entertainment, and when it is remembered that Baldern could never in his palest days even attempt the performance of Ed. Baldern, it is to be expected that this big feature in itself will draw an immense crowd to the Oak Bay track on Saturday.

In addition to this exhibition of acrobatic riding, the races will be sufficient to bring out such an attendance as has never yet witnessed wheel races in British Columbia. The members of the V.W.C. fully realize that the last race meet was somewhat disappointing, and they have therefore spared neither time nor trouble nor expense in securing a rider to see whom in races San Francisco will turn out its thousands. There is no possibility that these record breaking cracks will not come—they have already arrived and are quartered at the Mount Baker hotel, where they will remain as guests until Saturday's races are disposed of.

Harry Terrill, the Bay City club flyer, has not ridden yet in the Northwest, but will be a competitor in all professional events Saturday, riding against Campbell, Long, Staves, Evans, Dow and Allen, and it is expected the Desautels, Bradley, Johnson and Davies—though it is not thought probable that even the Wellington men will have a respectable chance in such fast company.

The track will be at its best for the meet, and in the event of the day being favorable the effort will be made on the conclusion of the race programme proper, to bring the Northwest records for the mile, both paced and un-paced, under the two-minute mark.

This evening there will be a big meeting of the club to complete preparations for the racing carnival and give a hearty welcome to the special visitors. The latter are a most modest, gentlemanly company of quiet sportsmen—men who are capable of holding their own on the fastest tracks in the world who ride to win every race, and who have done much toward making cycling what it is—the greater and most universally admired sport of the day.

KASLO-SLOCAN.

Spokane Spokesman-Review: The Kaslo-Slocan country bids fair to produce as much wealth this year as any other section of British Columbia. Notwithstanding the low prices, the mines can be worked with a large margin of profit. The mines so far developed are all high grade and the cost of extraction is comparatively small. It is said by those in a position to know that there is not such a number of mines in any one district in the world where the grade of ore is uniformly so high as in the Slocan. Many of the claims have paid from the grass roots. It is a wonderful country, and more attention is being paid to it since reports of the phenomenal shipments of the past few months have become noised abroad. Slocan owes much to railroads. While it was possible to ship ore at a profit under the old conditions, under the new every man who owns a claim is making a shipping proposition. With thirty-two shipping mines in one district, there can be but one result—capital must be attracted there. The number of mines producing ore in the vicinity of Leadville will not exceed fifteen. It is without doubt as promising a camp as can be found in the Northwest.

MAKING A TRAIN SCHEDULE.

"The making of a new train schedule is a much bigger job than most people think," explained Assistant General Passenger Agent W. A. Kelland, as he closed a conversation with a man who had called to inquire about the new schedule over the Louisville Division of the Illinois Central. "Now, take for example, this case. In order to make a time card from New Orleans to Louisville or Cincinnati, you must know the exact time certain trains are out of New York. You must study the time card of nearly every large road in the country, for its trains, or their connections at some crossing will be of material use to you and the travel over the line. All the junction points must be looked after, and you must decide what trains you can hit and what ones can be missed without serious results to your traffic. In other words your new schedule is molded and finally shaped by a hundred foreign conditions which the man out of the business never thinks of. It is one of those things which look simple on its face, but proves to be a very intricate problem when you get on to the inside."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TESLA'S PHOSPHORESCENT LIGHT.

New York Sun: A photograph made with light produced by the latest form of Nikola Tesla's apparatus for vacuum tube lighting has been reproduced recently in a number of technical and other papers, and in some cases has been accompanied by remarkable assertions regarding the new light. That the Tesla system of vacuum tube lighting contains wonderful possibilities there is no reason to doubt, but it is a mistake to assert that it is going to revolutionize the lighting systems of the world suddenly, and no one is more anxious to prevent any such misunderstanding than Mr. Tesla.

What he has really accomplished is wonderful enough. Five years ago he pointed out the possibility of getting light from the electrical effect of passing light through a tube of glass from which the air had been exhausted. With currents of electricity interrupted by the commutator of a Ruhmkorff coil, such tubes were made to glow with a pale blue phosphorescent light, and by introducing certain gases into the tube the color of the light was found to vary. The electricity from an ordinary alternating current dynamo passed through one of the tubes would also make it glow. These currents are usually interrupted about 100 times a second.

Experiments developed the fact that light from these tubes from such a source and of such low frequency of interruption in the current was enormously more expensive than that produced in the incandescent lamp. For equal amounts of light the vacuum tube glow cost ten times as much. This was discouraging enough, but there was also another hard problem to solve. There was at that time no known way in which this new light could be made intense. Big tubes, or a lot of them, would give volume of light, but only with the same pale character.

Since that time Mr. Tesla has kept constantly at the problem of developing his theory and improving his apparatus for producing it with the light itself. He found that with an increase in the frequency of electrical vibrations the intensity of the light increased, and its cost diminished. His needs soon, however, took him beyond the possibilities in the way of producing vibrations of the current by mechanical means, and his next step was to invent a purely electrical oscillator. His advance of this kind has been great, no says, but it is all along the line of making this device simpler and more economical in its parts and operation. No material change has been made in the lighting tubes.

With the electrical oscillator Mr. Tesla has succeeded in producing as many interruptions in the current as 100,000,000 a second. Under such an electrical influence, tubes, exposed only by induction and not in any mechanical way connected with the source of electrical energy, burst into brilliant light. The picture in which reference was made was photographed with the light of a tube thus excited, but under an influence of only 6,000,000 vibrations a second. The tube, mounted like an ordinary electrical stand lamp, but free from wires or other visible or tangible connections, was placed under the influence of the oscillator. Mr. Tesla sat between the light and its source, and the picture shows him with the great spider-web-like oscillator for a background.

In a few weeks more, Mr. Tesla says, he hopes that he will have reached such a point of success as to warrant him in laying the results of his work in this matter before the scientific world. The photograph referred to, he says, was made with an exposure of only two seconds. It is full and sharp, and this Mr. Tesla says, is proof that the light from the tube was more intense than that which is emitted by the electric arc lamps. Such lights may be used some time in ordinary households or offices, just as this one was, free and movable, as they may be connected mechanically by the equivalent of wires to the source of electrical energy.

When the house of commons votes it marches out into the lobbies, where the members are counted by the tellers like sheep. The average distance traversed by each member from his seat to the lobby is 240 feet, so that at the midnight sitting on the Agricultural Bill, when thirty-three divisions were made, each member travelled exactly a mile and a half, without counting unofficial excursions to the smoking and refreshment rooms. As a division usually takes twelve minutes, the house was six hours and a half on its feet that night.

AFFLICTED CAR CONDUCTORS.

A glance at the eyes of many of the Baltimore street-car conductors shows that something is the matter. The eyes are red about the edges of the lids and are sometimes inflamed. One of the conductors said: "The trouble is limited to conductors of open cars, and is caused by the long brass handles at the end of each row of seats, which a conductor is compelled to grasp frequently as he walks along the footboard. After a time the perspiration from the hand coats the handles with veridria. If the conductor puts his hand to his face, he is apt to get the veridria in his eyes. This causes inflammation and the trouble grows worse if not properly attended to."

PROSTRATED FOR TWO YEARS WITH LIVER COMPLAINT.

Restored to Perfect Health by South American Nervine was Mr. W. J. Hill, of Bracebridge, Ont.

When men and women can be got away from simply temporizing with disease there will be less disease in the world. The immediate matter if is natural, is to relieve the present trouble. But how often it is forgotten that any cure that is only skin deep, if we may use the expression, cannot be lasting. It will certainly turn up again.

This was the case with Mr. W. J. Hill, the well known bailiff of Bracebridge, Ont. He had suffered from severe liver trouble and nervous prostration for nearly three years. During that time he doctored to no end, and occasionally secured a little temporary relief. But the old trouble would come back again after the charm of the cure-all had been exhausted.

He entered upon the use of South American Nervine, with little hope that it would be any better than any other medicines he had taken. But he soon discovered his mistake. When doctors had said he must die, this medicine gave him life. He persevered with it, and today is in possession of robust health. The secret is this: South American Nervine treats with the nerve centres, from which flows the life blood that keeps the system in perfect health. When these nerve centres are kept healthy, neither liver complaint nor other troubles will ever recur. Mr. Hill's cure was lasting for this reason. Anyone who uses Nervine will experience the same results.

THEY COUNT BY THE SCORE

Yea, By the Hundreds, Those Who Have Been Cured of Dire Disease By South American Nervine.

A Remedy Widespread and Universal In Its Application.

Where Other Medicines Have Failed and Doctors Have Pronounced the Cases Beyond Cure, This Great Discovery Has Proven a Genuine Elixir of Life.

The Same Verdict Comes From Old and Young, Male and Female, Rich and Poor, and From All Corners of the Dominion.

If it is the case that he who makes two blades of grass grow where only one had grown before is a benefactor of the race, what is the position to be accorded that man who by his knowledge of the laws of life and health gives energy and strength where languor, weakness and anticipation of an early death had before prevailed? Is not he also a public benefactor? Let those who have been down and are now up through the use of South American Nervine give their opinions on this subject. John Boyer, banker, of Elmwood, Ont., had made himself a success beyond through years of overwork. At least he felt his case was hopeless; for the best physicians had failed to do him good. He tried Nervine, and these are his words: "I gladly say it, Nervine cured me and I am to-day as strong and well as ever." Margaret, wife of Meaford, was cured of neuralgia of the stomach and bowels by three bottles of this medicine. Jas. Sherwood, of Windsor, at 70 years of age, suffered from an attack of paralysis. His life, at that age, was despaired of. "But four bottles of Nervine gave him back his natural strength. A victim of Indigestion, W. F. Bolger, of Toronto, says: "Nervine cured me of my suffering, which seemed incurable, and had baffled all former methods and efforts." Peter Mason, of Talacy, lost flesh and barely had a good night's sleep, because of stomach trouble. He says: "Nervine stopped the agonizing pains in my stomach the first day I used it. I have now taken two bottles and I feel entirely relieved and can sleep like a top." A representative farmer, of Western Ontario, 14 St. C. J. Curtis, residing near Windsor. His health was seemingly completely destroyed through a gripe. No medicine did him any good. "To three bottles of Nervine," he says, "I attribute my restoration to health and such enjoy life when troubled with liver complaint. This was the sentiment and feeling of W. J. Hill, the well-known bailiff of Bracebridge. "I was so bad," says he, "that one of my medical attendants said that I was dying, but thank God, I am not dead yet. From the first few doses I took of Nervine I commenced to feel better, and am to-day restored completely to my usual health." A resident of the Maritime Provinces, in the person of F. James of Sussex, N.B., says: "For twelve years I was a martyr to indigestion, constipation and headache. The treatment of several physicians is complete and comprehensive in its bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say that I am a new man." A shrewd observer of human nature has said: "The hand that rocks the cradle moves the world." How important it is, then, that health and strength should be made the lot of the mothers of this country. The women of Canada are ready by scores to tell of the benefits that have come to them through the use of South American Nervine. Mrs. R. Armstrong, of Ojibwa, wife of the colonel of the 11th Infantry of that town, suffered for six years from nervous prostration. Medical assistance did not help. "In all," she says, "I have taken six bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say this is the one medicine that has effected a cure in my case." Mrs. John Dinwoody has been for 40 years a resident of Peshawar, and has reached the advanced three-score years and ten. Three years ago her system sustained a severe shock through the death of a daughter. Nervine was recommended. She perseveringly took 12 bottles of medicine, with the result that she is today again strong and hearty. "Hundreds of women suffer from impoverished blood and weakened nerves." "All vitality," says Mrs. J. Sallis, of Brampton, "seemed to have forsaken my system. I was unable to get relief from any source until I commenced taking South American Nervine. The results are most satisfactory—greater far than I could have hoped for." It came within the way of Mrs. H. Flapleton, of Wingham, to treat under the best physicians, both in Canada and England, for heart disease and nervous debility, but she failed to get any relief. "I was advised," she says, "to take South American Nervine, and must say I do believe that if I had not done so I would not be alive today."

Newspaper space is too valuable to permit of further additions to these earnest words of testimony from those who know just what they are talking about. In the common language of the day, they have been there, and are speaking from the heart. The dozen or more witnesses that here speak have their counterparts by the hundreds, not only in the province of Ontario, but in every other section of the Dominion. South American Nervine is based on a scientific principle that makes a cure a certainty, no matter how desperate the case may be. It strikes at the nerve centers from which flows the life blood of the whole system. It is not a medicine of patchwork, but the treatment of several physicians is complete and comprehensive in its

Accepting the reports so far received as final for each district, though it is likely that some of them will be changed, the members stand as follows:

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE HOLY LAND.

London Chronicle: The British consul stationed at Jerusalem, in his last report to the foreign office, calls attention to the benefits conferred indirectly upon Syria by the occupation of Egypt. The land of the Nile has become a favorite winter resort for a number of English and American visitors, and at the close of the Cairo season a large proportion of these like to finish up with a pilgrimage to Jerusalem and other places in Palestine, the scenes of early sacred associations. The result of this annual influx has been a remarkable increase in the provision of good hotel accommodation.

Twenty years ago there was but one decent hotel in Jerusalem. Now there are several substantial establishments, besides boarding houses and hostels for the reception of pilgrims. Jaffa, too, can boast of three first class hotels, and good hostels have been opened at Mount Carmel, at Nazareth and Tiberias. But Jaffa, to be of any use in the development of a paying traffic, requires a good harbor. Since the opening of the railway to Jerusalem the necessity for a harbor at Jaffa has become more urgent.

Another expedient suggested by the consul is worthy of consideration. If the needed harbor of Jaffa cannot be constructed, the railway from Jerusalem might easily be extended to Port Said, a distance of only 230 miles over an intervening country almost perfectly level throughout. Jerusalem and the Holy Land could thus be visited without the necessity of a sea voyage to Jaffa, and the troublesome landing at that port. To travellers on their way to any from India, the East, and Australia, an easy opportunity would be afforded of visiting the Holy Land by breaking their journey for a few days at Port Said.

ROYAL CYCLISTS.

At least five of the rulers of Europe and a great number of lesser stars in the firmament of royalty are ardent votaries of bicycling.

Among the monarchs in point of enthusiasm and experience, the Czar of Russia, Nicholas II., heads the list. Before he came to the throne, in the days when the imperial family used to summer at Coppenhagen, young Nicholas was often seen pedalling through the streets of that city. Now the Czar of state weighs so heavily upon him that he has little chance for the sport of recreation.

Emperor William of Germany took up bicycling some time ago, and has since been in the habit of riding his bicycle whenever possible instead of riding horseback.

The Queen of Italy learned to ride at Monza last summer, and it will comfort those who wonder the mystery of the wheel has been difficult to learn that though she is quite a novice she has learned the art. She is now one of the most expert wheelwomen in the kingdom. She dresses plainly and is accompanied only by a single servant when on her bicycle trips. She was "scooped" through a private park the other day when she was overtaken by one of the guards who did not know she was the Queen.

When the official learned her identity he was horror-stricken at his mistake, but he received from the Queen next day her photograph and a gold coin bearing her likeness, with the message that, "they would probably enable him to recognize her in the future."

King Alfonso XIII of Spain, though small and childish of figure for even a boy of his age, has become a remarkably clever rider since he took his first lesson a year ago. Alfonso's royal ambition is to ride to Portugal, a distance of 1,000 miles, and he is determined to spend his leisure as wheel.

Nearly all the members of the Russian imperial house, whose years will permit are ardent bicyclists. The Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the daughter of the Grand Duke Michael, Nicholas' nephew, mastered to ride only last year, but is a most ardent votary. Her brother, the Grand Duke Michael, Michaelovich, is a regular of some three years' experience. The Czarowitz, though he has been reported dying of consumption a dozen times in the last year, will see strength to take short excursions on his wheel. The doctors say that this exercise and the healthy air of La Turbie where he is now staying, have already much benefited him. The Grand Duchess Xenia, the eldest sister of the Czar, while not an enthusiast is a skilled rider.

Nearly every one in the household of the King of Greece uses the bicycle. The King being quite as fond of it as any of his children. Twenty year old Princess Maria, his youngest daughter, is a prominent and especially successful sportsman in her wheeling costume. The Crown Prince and his brothers learned the sport to perfection on the smooth roads of Athens, where they have spent many summers.

The Prince of Wales stands at the head of the royal cyclists in England. His weight and age, however, have prevented him from becoming an especially ardent devotee of the wheel.

The Princess Victoria of Wales is an ardent wheelwoman, as are also the Duke of York, the Duchess of Fife, the Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne and the Princess Henry of Battenberg.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, constipation, guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Small price. Small dose. Small pill.

RAILWAY BUILDING IN CHINA.

The Chinese government has now apparently realized the importance of railways, says Engineering, and it seems prepared to set to work at once in the matter of conferring upon the Celestial empire the boon of railway accommodation. This became evident from a recently published imperial decree, which is an interesting document from an engineering point of view. "As railways," says the decree, "are of such exceeding great importance, and more especially so for commerce, the imperial government has decided under all circumstances to introduce them in China. The princes and ministers have, therefore, been commanded to propose, in the first instance, the building of a railway in the vicinity of the capital of the empire. Subsequently they have commissioned the Governor in Kwang-Si, Hu-Tu-Ten, to have the district surveyed, and they state now that a railway line from Tien-tsun along the western border of the Emperor's canal, round the 'Southern Parks' as far as Lu-Chou-Chow bridge will be 210 li (about 83 miles) long, and will cost about 2,400,000 taels. They have also sent in maps with all possible necessary information concerning the matter, and requested that a director might be appointed for the undertaking. It is exceedingly difficult to conduct an entirely new undertaking, for one must be quite certain as to what measures one means to adopt. As Hu-Tu-Ten already previously has forwarded good reports of the matter, and now has measured the distance from Tien-tsun to Lu-Chou-Chow, we by this appoint him director of the section mentioned above. The cost has to be defrayed by the minister of finance and the governors in the northern parts. As regards the projected line from Peking to Hangkow, the construction of same will incur very heavy expense, more especially on account of the length of the line. By this we give permission that wealthy merchants in all provinces, if they be in a position to form a capital of more than 10,000,000 taels, form a limited railway company, and at once commence the building of the line. The imperial officials are to refrain from any interference in the company's affairs. Should the undertaking prove successful we promise special distinctions. All officials in Peking and the provinces are to be supplied with full information about the matter."

THE PEOPLE'S FOOD.

So much for the development of the food investigations. But what are the results already gained, and what is to be expected in the future? One thing which is brought out by these investigations is that we make a fourfold mistake in our food economy.

1. We purchase needlessly expensive kinds of food. We use the costly kinds of meat, fish, vegetables, and the like, when the less expensive ones are just as nutritious, and when rightly cooked, are just as palatable. Many do this under the impression that there is some peculiar virtue in the dear food materials, and that economy in their diet is somehow detrimental to their dignity or their welfare. And, unfortunately, those who are most extravagant in this respect are often the ones who can least afford it.

2. Our diet is apt to be one-sided. It often does not contain the different nutritive ingredients in the proper proportions. We consume relatively too much of the food ingredients of foodstuffs which are burned in the body and yield heat and muscular power, such as the fats of meat and butter, the starch which makes up the larger part of the nutritive material of flour, potatoes, and sugar, of which such enormous quantities are eaten in the United States. Conversely, we have relatively too little of the protein or flesh-forming substances, like the lean of meat, which makes muscle and sinew, and which are the basis of blood, bone and brain.

3. We use excessive quantities of food. This is true not only of the well-to-do, but of many people in modest circumstances also. Part of the excess which is burnt is thrown away in the wastes of the kitchen and the table, so that the injury to health from overeating, even as it may be, is diminished much less than if all of the food we buy were actually eaten. Probably the worst sufferers from this evil are the well-to-do people of sedentary occupations—brain workers as distinguished from handworkers. Not everybody eats too much; indeed, there are some who do not eat enough for healthful nourishment.

But there are those, and their name is legion, with whom the evil of the stomach is vicious in its effect on health as the drinking habit, which is universally deplored.

4. And finally, we are guilty of serious errors in our cooking. We waste a great deal of fuel in the preparation of our food, and even then a great deal of the food is very badly cooked. A reform in the methods of cooking is one of the economic demands of our time. From "The People's Food—A Great National Inquiry," in June Review of Reviews.

THE CZAR'S TRUST IN THE PEOPLE.

June Review of Reviews: The Czar is said to take much more after his mother than his father. The Czar has already reigned for about eighteen months, but so far he has wisely refrained from attempting to initiate any startling new departures. What he has done so far has been in the right direction. He has dispensed with the excessive precautions with which the police thought it necessary to guard his person. He has gone in and out among the people as free as any merchant in St. Petersburg, and one of his first acts, on returning to St. Petersburg from the funeral, was to ensure the chief of police for issuing an order forbidding the people to open the window or to appear on their balconies while the funeral procession was passing through the streets. Among the signs of a more liberal tendency on the part of the Czar the observer noted the fact that he caused the imperial manifesto addressed to the Poles to be amended in accordance with the wishes of the population. When the Polish delegation came to greet him he received them with great cordiality, and is said to have declared that it gave him great pleasure to receive them. He assured I make no difference on account of the religion you profess. My subjects are all equally dear to me. The press also was treated, by the Czar's special request, with a generosity and liberality which previously was unprecedented in Russia.

FRANCO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE.

Pierre de Coubertin in Review of Reviews: It has been said that the Franco-Russian alliance owes its origin to the Crimean war. I have shown how it became popular in France and what an interesting problem has been solved by its conclusion. It only remains to say what we may expect from it. Upon this subject there is some uncertainty among the intelligent classes that the people as a whole do not share. It is not known whether the alliance, of whose existence there is no longer any doubt, is only defensive or if it is also in certain cases offensive. France and Russia have promised mutual support in repelling attacks of which one or the other might be the object from some great European power—Germany, for instance. Are they pledged in the same way in case that one or the other of them should have motives for attacking another power? No one knows this, and this is important. In any event, it is certain that the French people have authorized their government only to form an alliance of peaceful tendencies, and that they are rejoiced to learn that it has been signed, because they see there a guaranty that peace will not be disturbed. Their disillusion and disappointment would be great if they discovered that more had been promised, and that the responsibility of future struggles had been put upon them.

CANCER ON THE LIP CURED BY

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose. I suffered in agony seven long years. Finally, I began taking AYER'S Sarsaparilla. In a few weeks I noticed a decided improvement. Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore began to heal, and, after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."—JAMES E.
