Courtesy at Local Postoffice
Is One of the Big Features

Never in recent years has the Christmas service at the Glendale postoffice been as efficient as this year. Generally the room adjoining the office proper is stacked high with long lines of Christmas packages. This year there has been no congestion thus far, the mail consigned to the office by Glendaleans and received from afar being taken care of as it comes in. Three and four windows have been kept open in the office and patrons have been served with courtesy and dispatch. When asked how this has come about, George Hallett, the local superintendent, said: "It is due to better facilities and a better system for handling mail. We have more room in which to work, for one thing. Also, I have been allowed a freer hand in handling clerks and carriers and in dictating the number to be employed. We also have more help. On our regular force we have 31 carriers and distributors, and during this Christmas rush we are employing four extra clerks and 14 extra carriers. "The incoming mail is handled the day it is received. There has been no congestion whatever so far, and there will not be unless this storm holds up overland trains and we get a lot of mail in a bunch that shows us under, but even then we expect to prevent any great amount of delay. "The additional room we have secured for the Christmas season adjoining us on the north is reserved for incoming packages, so confusion is avoided. "Another help has been the es-

Impulse and Spirit, Also Driving Power Bring Achievement

Back of all achievements lies impulse, will, spirit and driving power. This is from James W. Foley's "Listening Post" in this evening's paper. Good sensible summing up following a splendid inspiration article. If you are not reading Mr. Foley's "Listening Post" you are missing a literary treat. Henry James in his comments on the news of the day on the editorial page touches on the illicit liquors found in the gilded halls of the social aristocracy, which, by the way, is the way Mr. James expresses it. He does not believe in defiance of the prohibition law and he says so in so many words. Dr. Frank Crane is generally always serious and this evening he talks on "The Frontiers of Civilization," a very serious subject. You will find also on the editorial page features of more than passing interest, ably written editorials and comment taken from eastern newspapers.

FLOOD CONTROL TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING

City Authorized to Go Ahead With Work on Wash

Members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce flood control committee will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss plans for handling the flood waters in the Verdugo wash. This committee was in communication with J. W. Reagan, engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control work, and he authorized the committee to go ahead with any work needed to handle the flood waters and to make the protection permanent. A letter confirming the work was also promised. Speaking of the work already done in the wash and what remains to be done, City Manager Reeves said: "The city of Glendale pays a flood control tax of about 7 per cent and is not getting the proper protection. What work has been done in the matter of checking the flood waters in the Verdugo wash has been done by city labor and is also paid for by the city. Why should Glendale pay to have flood control work done and then have to do the work?" At the meeting of the committee this afternoon Engineer Reagan and members of the commission will be present and plans for strengthening the flood checks in the wash and other work will be discussed.

TO FIND OUT WHO IS MAKING ALL THE MONEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A nation-wide investigation of both wholesale and retail prices of foodstuffs of all kinds, shoes, clothing and fuel, was ordered today by Attorney-General Daugherty. Daugherty stated that this is the beginning of a concerted effort to bring down retail prices.

VISIT HERE REVEALS MARRIAGE

Mrs. Louis Debonneset

Mrs. Louis Debonneset and her husband have arrived in New York from Paris to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, in their Long Island country home. Mr. and Mrs. Debonneset were married more than a year ago, soon after the marriage of Mrs. Debonneset and her first husband, Count Jean de la Greze, had been severed by the French courts. While it was known to their friends that the Countess and Mr. Debonneset had been married, no public announcement of the fact had been previously made.

CHECK DAMS CAUSE OF KEEPING DOWN STORM DAMAGE

Tujunga Has Heavy Rain But Little Damage Done

Mrs. Wallace M. Morgan of Tujunga, who was in Glendale this morning, gave some interesting facts about the precipitation in that part of the district as shown by the record of J. P. Rocky, who lives in Tujunga and is one of the recorders of the weather bureau. His gauge, which is an official one, showed a rainfall up to Wednesday noon of 12 inches and a fraction. The rainfall of Wednesday night and Thursday morning brought it to a total of 13 inches fallen within the past week with probably more to follow. Mrs. Morgan says that a new small cabin in Haines Canyon suffered the washing out of the foundation stones on which they rested, but no serious damage resulted from the spilling of water over the check dams of brush and stones placed in the 1915 time. She says that this is the first time since their building that water has come down the canyon. Previous to that, in 1914, great damage was caused by flood waters, and the people over the protection they have secured through these comparatively inexpensive dams. Even with this 12-inch precipitation no serious injury has been experienced, and a foot of water is a mighty force when not controlled.

THORNYCROFT MEN REMEMBERED BY RED CROSS

Individual Gifts for Men and Women Are Prepared

Members of the executive committee of the Glendale Chapter, American Red Cross, met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Archie Parker, on North Louise street, to make up Christmas packages for the disabled veterans at Thornycroft. A little personal remembrance was provided for each man, together with a pound of candy and nuts. These will be taken to Thornycroft Saturday. A business session preceded the wrapping of gifts, at which a vote was taken to make the chairman of the relief committee of the local post a member of the Red Cross executive committee to bring it in closer touch with the needs of the Thornycroft veterans and ex-service men. Those present were Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the chapter; Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. Lillian Dow, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. Philip, Mrs. P. A. Wells, Mrs. C. L. Peckham and Mrs. Archie Parker.

Gold Platter Offering Of Car Line to Glendale

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press
Not often a public utility is proffered a municipality on a silver platter. Particularly if the utility gives assurance of immediate returns.

The silver platter is held out today to Glendale. And on it is a public carrier, doing business and paying interest on the investment. But that is only a small part of the contents of the platter. There also is a practically unused railway line upon it. At one end of the unused line is the public carrier referred to and at the other end is the street car system of a great neighboring city.

A 5-cent fare on the carrier over the unused line to the city system! Then another 5-cent fare over that system with transfers to any part of Los Angeles!

Ten cents from the heart of Glendale to any part of Los Angeles! What do you think of it?

Would it make a hit with those who travel constantly between the two cities to work, or to visit? Ask some of them and see! But its psychological effect! It would make it easier for Angelenos to see and know Glendale. And what do you suppose the Pacific Electric would do with active competition in the field? That competition certainly would be calculated to liven things up for Glendale.

The carrier that might be acquired, of course, is the Glendale & Montrose Railway. The line of little use is that of the Salt Lake Route and the third unit of the big idea is the yellow car line of the Los Angeles Railway.

All three interested concerns will be willing parties to the scheme. The owners of the Montrose street car line are not railway people. Though their line is now said to be paying for the first time they realize that motor competition at any time may take away their profits and there is good reason for believing that they would turn their property and franchise over to the city of Glendale at a rock bottom price.

The Salt Lake Route on its part is harassed by the public demand that it electrify its line along Glendale avenue and carry passengers between Los Angeles and Glendale. But it is not in the street car business, knows nothing of electric transportation and maintains its Glendale avenue line simply to run a few freight cars up and down every morning. There is some sort of legend that this must be done to maintain its franchise. But that franchise apparently dates back to prehistoric ages, for there is no record of it in the Glendale City Hall. And that's got the Salt Lake worrying a little bit, too.

So, you can readily understand that the new subsidiary of the Union Pacific is quite willing to enter into an arrangement whereby the city of Glendale will electrify its Glendale avenue line and operate a street car system over it, allowing the Salt Lake to retain the privilege of occasionally shunting its freights up and down the city's thoroughfare.

The project is all the easier because the Montrose line runs into the Salt Lake tracks near Broadway and the latter cross the yellow car line in the Verdugo road, about three miles from Broadway. The city would require to electrify only three miles of line and buy a few more cars to be a full fledged street railway operator. And who can doubt that it would be a money maker from the start?

From an unofficial source it is suggested that an expenditure of $100,000 would give this city control of the Montrose line, electrify the Salt Lake line to the point where it meets the Los Angeles line and start the tide of travel over the ten-cent route between the two cities. Talk about offerings on silver platters! This looks more like a gold platter!

DEBS WILL BE OUT FOR CHRISTMAS

Indiana Labor Leader Prepares Big Party for Aged Man

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 22.—Percy Head, president of the Central Labor union here, today issued a call to all union trades men to meet the 7:40 o'clock train from the south here Saturday night "to meet our old friend and fellow citizen, Eugene V. Debs, who will arrive at that time." A public reception is being planned here for Debs by labor unionists, socialists and business men. Friends of Debs, as announced by the United Press yesterday, stated they have received "private advice" from Washington that the socialist leader is to be released for Christmas.

SIGN UP DOLAN NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Cozy Dolan has signed a contract to act as coach of the Giants next season, the New York office announced today. Signing of Dolan is not taken to mean that Johnny Evers will not be with the club in 1922, as negotiations are still being carried on with him.

MAD DOG SCARE CANON CITY, Colo., Dec. 22.—Citizens armed with guns patrolled the streets of Canon City today as the result of a mad dog scare. Two men were bitten this morning and five dogs, believed to be mad, are at large. Two dogs were killed this morning.

"THE LONELY TRAIL" NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A license for "The Lonely Trail," a motion picture in which Fred Beauvais, divorcee, is the star, has been granted by the state board of motion picture censors. Beauvais wrote the scenario.

BAROMETERS GIVE SIGNS OF MORE RAIN IN FLORIDA

TOTAL TO DATE 10.98

All Southern California in Grip of More Rain Today

WEATHER REPORT
Southern California: Tonight and Friday, rain, in Los Angeles and vicinity; Rain at intervals tonight and probably Friday.

T. W. Preston, who has a rain gauge of which he keeps careful record, states that the precipitation of the last storm which developed Wednesday night had totalled .44 of an inch up to 10:30 today. This brought the total precipitation since Saturday night to 9.90 inches and the total for the season to 10.98 inches.

When asked about his records of the great storms in 1914, which have been so frequently mentioned in connection with this storm period, he said that to the best of his recollection 18 inches, more or less, fell in the month of February, 1914. The heaviest storm of the month started February 21, 1914, when 10.22 inches fell. During one night of that storm 4 inches fell.

When asked about his barometer, Mr. Preston stated that at 10:30 o'clock it stood at 29.70, having fallen two-thirds of an inch, or lower than he had seen it in several years. The fair weather barometer stands about 30.30, and this very low pressure would indicate either a heavy wind storm or more rain. Mr. Preston protested that he did not pose as a weather prophet and could only base his findings on the record of his gauge and his barometer, which sometimes misleads the best of weather experts.

PACKERS CAR BARN BURNED TODAY AT GREENVILLE

Hundred Thousand Loss, Thought Set by Strikers

SIoux CITY, Ia., Dec. 22.—Car barns of the Sioux City Service company at Greenville, owned by packing interests, are in flames this afternoon. A report is current that the barns were fired by packing house strikers. The barns are wrapped in flames and apparently will be a total loss. The entire city fire-fighting force is attempting to check the flames. At 4 p. m. the flames are reported as practically under control. The cause of the fire is a mystery with no one willing to substantiate the rumor that it may have been set by packing house strikers.

BURCH POUTING IN COURT TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—A battle of alienists is to open late today in Judge Reeve's court, where Arthur C. Burch is on trial for the murder of John Belton Kennedy. Burch was in a depressed mood as his trial opened today. His plump face wore the pouting expression of a child whose pride has been hurt. Testimony as to his sanity has been extremely humiliating to him. Depositions from acquaintances of Burch during the period he was a rancher at Living Springs, Mont., were to be read today. These depositions are relative to his character and general conduct.

MRS. GARDNER GO ON STAGE TO AID ROY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Dolly Gardner is going on the stage, "premier bandit," is in Los Angeles today rehearsing a monologue to be booked at San Francisco, San Diego and local theaters. "I am going to use the funds to aid Roy," she said. "I would no more think of leaving him than I would of deserting our baby girl. He is my husband and I love him. He is not responsible for the crimes he has committed. He does not see them as other men do. The alienists at his trial for the Maricopa mail robbery proved that. They proved it to the extent that the jury did not convict him, even though Roy frankly said he had committed the robbery."

MAIN STREET BRIDGE WASHED AWAY

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 22.—Word reached this city this morning that the Main street bridge over the Santa Ana river at Corona had been carried out by the flood last night. The Auburndale bridge over the same stream is also gone. Every section of the grain and fruit districts of the western end of the county reports over an inch and one-half of rain last night. The Hemet Water company reports a rise of 14 feet in its dam the past three days making a total of 36 feet 6 inches in the dam. There is no danger of the dam giving way.

WEALTHY REALTOR FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOME

Search for Four as Suspects in Mystery Case

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—Two women and two men were being sought by the police today in this city and San Francisco in connection with the murder of Ferdinand Hochbrunn, wealthy aged realtor. Hochbrunn's body was found in an upstairs room of his home here, under circumstances, police say, pointing to a well planned homicide. He had been dead about two months. A man said to be posing as Hochbrunn is being hunted in San Francisco and San Bernardino.

Miss Clara E. Skarin, Hochbrunn's young ward, the daughter of his former housekeeper, known also as Clara Winborn, is also being sought. The other couple are a stranger, a man who called on Hochbrunn and had had work with him late in August two months ago, and a young woman introduced to acquaintances of Hochbrunn by Miss Skarin as her cousin. Water from a burst pipe flooded the upstairs of the Hochbrunn dwelling yesterday and was trickling through the ceiling into the apartment below. The occupant of the lower apartment, P. Chedotal

ARRESTED CHARGE WHITE SLAVE ACT

Man Said to Have Deserted Wife in East, Three Children

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 22.—Alexander McConnell, alias Willie White, aged 39 years, who came here three months ago from Philadelphia, is charged with violation of the Mann act.

According to A. A. Hopkins of the department of justice, who made the arrest, the man left a wife and three children in the Eastern city and came to California in company with two Irish immigrant girls.

Since coming to California he has resided at 1094 1/2 Third street and a short time ago one of the sisters left the city, the other remaining here as McConnell's wife.

After being taken into custody he was taken to Los Angeles and is held there by the federal officers. The woman living as his wife was taken with him. Officers refuse to divulge the name of the girls, saying publicity would prevent the apprehension of the missing sister.

GOVERNOR COX WAS NEARLY PINCHED

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—Governor Cox, in a statement regarding the dinner given in his honor at the state house last night by 200 leading Republicans, during which prohibition officials raided a room at the hotel and seized a quart of whiskey and cocktails, said no liquor was in evidence at the dinner.

J. J. McCarthy, proprietor of the hotel, and H. E. Kern, who claims the hotel as his residence, appeared in the federal court and pleaded not guilty to charges of illegal possession of 24 quarts of liquor. They were held for a hearing. In preliminary proceedings, controversy arose over the custody of the permit granted Kern to transport liquor to the Quincy House.

FIFTY THOUSAND FOR SEWING TEAR

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—A few stitches taken in a pair of torn trousers 34 years ago has netted richard Birse, a tailor, $50,000. The money represents the residue of the estate of Ernest D. St. Gils, insurance expert and author, who died last week.

According to the story told by Birse, 34 years ago Mr. St. Gils came to Chicago and embarked on his insurance ventures. He paid himself one day penniless and with a ragged rent in his pockets. He went to Birse and asked him to sew the rip and let him for the money. Birse did so. The charge was 50 cents. Gils returned a few days later with the money, thus beginning a friendship that culminated only in his death and resulted in the quest.

PROFESSOR WITH PARTY, IS SAFE

PASADENA, Dec. 22.—Word that Prof. J. G. Hill and 15 University of Southern California students, marooned on Mount Malady, was safe and will come down the hill late today or tomorrow, was received by Mrs. Hill today from a Pomona hospital. Mrs. Hill had over long distance telephone news. One of the girls in the city, whose father is connected with the Pomona institution, managed to get word to him and Mrs. Hill's message came from that source. Mrs. Hill stated that the professor left Los Angeles last Friday on a week-end pleasure hike and accompanied by those who accompanied her husband are down to her. The registrar of the university's office also said that personnel of the Hill party was known there.

CKET DEMAND GETTING HEAVY

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 22.—Demand for outside cities for tickets for the Centre-Arizona game here today have increased today following the resumption of train and service between San Diego and Los Angeles yesterday. Indications are that a big out of town crowd will be on deck when the baseball squads clash. Weather sports insist that the present storm surely wear itself out before week, thus insuring ideal conditions for the contest. Interest in the contest is indicated by the requests for press seats, which have come from all parts of the south.

TE HERMAN TO GO AT IT AGAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Pete Herman, the squatty little New Orleans man, is the elevator boy of the day. His specialty is making trips up and down from the top floor of the bantam building. Right now he is after making a trip from dome. Tonight he makes an effort to go up over the body of Edgerton Smith, the slashing little marine. Herman has been the champion twice and if he gets by tonight and succeeds in coaxing may Buff back into the ring his chances are excellent to make a record of having won the title three times.

DEMPSEY NERVOUS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Jack Dempsey is on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The champion, who had been yesterday, gave this explanation today for negotiating with Alexander Panagiotis, Louisville magnate, to secure a release from his theatrical contract.

C. W. MORSE AND SONS ACCUSED OF SHIPBUILDING FRAUDS

This photograph of Charles W. Morse, two of his sons and his attorney, was made in Washington, where Morse pleaded guilty in criminal proceedings brought by the United States shipping board, charging conspiracy and embezzlement. He was released on a $50,000 bond. Morse returned to this country from France at the request of the federal authorities. Morse's three sons, Edwin A., Harry F. and Benjamin W., are also mentioned in the charge of conspiring to cheat and defraud a corporation in which the United States is a stockholder, namely the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. The sons were not placed under arrest. The photograph shows, left to right, Harry F. Morse, Edwin A. Morse, Wilton J. Lambert, attorney, and Charles W. Morse.

Women Rarely Double, Famous Men Always

The recent coincidence of the death of King Edward's double and the discovery in France of a double to President Millerand recalls the old theory that every man has his physical counterpart. It is a theory believed by many people, although there may be no scientific basis for it, in spite of all the many situations which has provided for novelists and dramatists.

It seems to be the fact, however, that apart from twins, these resemblances are not dependent on any relationship nor always on a common nationality. Gladstone's double was a certain Austrian statesman who was once mistaken for Gladstone by a person in the town of Darlington. This person was a great admirer of Gladstone and attempted to express to his double the admiration he felt.

His overtures were rejected with marked rudeness and when someone who had watched the scene remonstrated with the Austrian, who did not love Gladstone, he replied with some satisfaction: "I hope I have deprived Mr. Gladstone of one admirer."

King Edward had more than one double in his time, and there used to be in a village near London a master plumber with a striking resemblance to King George in his Duke of York days. Lord Wardlaw suffered at the hands of an infuriated suffragist on account of a likeness to Mr. Asquith.

In some cases the doubles of great men take a pathetic pleasure in trying to accentuate the likeness by some imitation of dress or gait, and Henry Irving had his would-be double in the days of his glory. On the other hand, it is rarely that we hear of the doubles of famous women or of one woman being mistaken for another. Feminine individuality seems to set the superstition at defiance. It is true also that eminent men rarely see the likeness of their doubles to themselves.

To the list of doubles in public life may be added one of the most curious of all, the case of Lord

'Brought back to the Giants at a stupendous cost after McGraw fired him in 1912.' 'By ROBERT L. RIPLEY McGraw pays for his mistakes. Nine years ago he fired a young third baseman named Groh, and the other day he hired the same young man for a huge bundle of cash and turned over George Burns, a great outfielder, and Mike Gonzales, a very good catcher, as well. The acquisition of Groh from the Cincinnati club gives the Giants the greatest infields in organized baseball. Look over the lineup, with the 1921 batting average of each star: Kelly, .308, first base; Frich, .341, second base; Groh, .331, third base, and Bancroft, .319, shortstop. Groh has been recognized for some years as the best third baseman in the National league. He is 33 years old, was born in Rochester, N. Y., and began his professional career with the Oshkosh club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league. McGraw got him in 1911, but let him go at the end of the 1912 season. But he has paid for his mistake. Tell the world! No man is always right, and some men are never right.'

BOSTON LEADS ALL IN FIELDING

Red Sox Average Given as .975 for Past Season

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Boston, for the sixth consecutive season, led the American league in fielding, figures released today show. The Red Sox fielded for an average of .975, followed by Chicago .969, Cleveland .967, and the Yankees .965. With four triple plays in one season, one each by Chicago, Washington, St. Louis and Detroit, a new world's mark was set. Individual fielding honors went to Stuffy McInnis, first baseman of Boston, who bobbed only once in 152 games for an average of .999.

ANSWERED CALL NOTHING STIRRING

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 22.—A box containing $5,000, which has been buried in one of the city parks since Saturday night in response to an anonymous letter received by the priests of San Felipe church in old Albuquerque, remains unclaimed. The letter was received by the priests last week and gave them 48 hours to place $5,000 at a certain spot in one of the parks. "If you fathers refuse to give up this amount of money, all you fathers will lose your lives," the letter stated.

GIRLS ARE BETTER AT PLOW VENTURA

VENTURA, Dec. 22.—Adam may have delved and Eve spun in the olden days as the old rhyme says, but in these days, Eve is a pretty good "delver" herself. The agricultural class as the Ventura union high school has been working with a tractor. The teacher in charge says that three girls are better hands at the plow than the boys of the school. The young ladies, thus honored are Genevieve Rudolph, daughter of L. S. Rudolph, a building contractor; Nellie Piper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Piper, and Miss Genevieve Johnson.

JUROR DREAMED

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 22.—Israel Rifler, juror, fell asleep during a damage suit trial. Judge Kline declared a mistrial and dismissed the jury, on the grounds that evidence had been submitted in the absence of a juror.

EXTENDS TIME

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Harding has signed the bill extending one year the time during which suits may be filed against the alien property custodian, affecting property seized by the government during the war, the White House announced today.

"Norah," said Mrs. Deadbeat, from the top of the stairs, "tell the man who is ringing the bell that I am not receiving today!"

The servant girl went to the door and said something to the man; then she stepped into the hall and called upstairs: "I told him you were not receiving today, ma'am, but he says he ain't deliverin', he's collectin'!"

He was an indulgent father, but he was beginning to think that his son was spending too much money.

One morning when his son had made a request for a larger allowance, he said very solemnly, "Why, when I was your age, my boy, I didn't get as much money in a year as you spend in a month."

"Well, don't scold me about it," answered his son, "why don't you go for grandfater?"

"Birds are intelligent, indeed," said Mrs. Casey. "Ye can't teach 'em anything. My sister has one as lives in a clock and when it's toime it comes out and says 'Cuckoo!' as many toimes as the toime is."

"How wonderful!" said Mrs. Brannagan. "It is so," returned Mrs. Casey, "and the most wonderful part is it's only a wooden bird."

It isn't difficult to form a fairly good idea of what people think of you by what they say of others.

Big Christmas Party Being Planned for December 29

Monte Vista Lodge, the welfare home for under-nourished children, which has been practically closed during the installation of a furnace, will be reopened Thursday, December 29, with a grand Christmas party.

The council of community service, which is maintaining the institution, will on the date mentioned bring from Los Angeles about one hundred children who at one time or another have been guests in the home for a Christmas celebration. There will be a beautiful tree on which will be stockings and an individual gift for each child, and a turkey dinner with all the proper accessories will constitute the refreshments. About 25 of the children will remain for an outing of a week or two, the rest being taken back to their homes in Los Angeles.

CHILD WAS SLAIN BY PLAYMATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A murder rivaling the Ruth Cruger case has been brought to light today with discovery of the body of Gilbert Bein, aged 5, in a tub in the cellar of his father's tailor shop on the East Side. The child's skull had been crushed with blows from a club. Police are searching for a dark, tall youth with whom Max Bein, the father, says, his little boy was playing just before he was killed.

NO CANDLES WILL BE IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—There will be no lighted candles in the White House Christmas Eve as a result of the protest of George P. Muldaur, general agent of the Safety Underwriters Laboratories, an organization created to foster means for fire prevention.

FIND MAN'S BODY IN SCHOOL RUINS

ANOKA, Minn., Dec. 22.—Residents near a school house close to Dayton's Station found the charred body of a man in the ruins of the school house early today. Authorities learned that an automobile drove up in front of the school house during the night. Residents heard two shots and shortly afterward the school house burst into flames. The automobile drove hurriedly away.

TO HEAR CAROLS MILES IN OCEAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Arrangements to have Christmas carols sung in San Francisco heard by the San Francisco chamber of commerce excursion returning from the Far East on the Empire State through the medium of the wireless telephone were announced today. The steamer will be three days out from San Francisco Sunday.

BABE'S DOUBLE IS A BAD ACTOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The fact he looks more or less like Babe Ruth, famous Yankee batsman, led to the arrest today of Raymond Sterling, wanted in connection with 21 burglaries committed in Brooklyn. Mrs. Lillian Seol, a baseball fan, who was the victim of one robbery, told the police to look for "Babe" Ruth's double. They did. He is alleged to have confessed.

David said in his haste that all men were liars. It would have sounded better had he taken time to say that they were diplomats.

Miss Geneva Baggs of 349 West Acacia avenue will spend Christmas with Miss Breta Friedborg of Los Angeles. Miss Friedborg will entertain in her home twin orphans three years old, who might not otherwise have a merry Christmas. These orphans live in Los Angeles in a home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kresling of 706 East Elk avenue, had as their guests recently Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Bashor of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham of 639 North Jackson street will be the Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orth, 153 South Central avenue.

MANY ARE SICK FOR XMAS TONIC

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—The federal district prohibition office here desires to join with the United States weather bureau in the prognostication that the holiday period will be a "wet" one.

The prohibition office is working under forced draught to clear the many applications for liquor permits that are coming in, all of them calling for medical beverages.

There must be a big epidemic somewhere, but we have not been able to locate it," said Tom Brown, assistant prohibition director.

Big Christmas Party Being Planned for December 29

Monte Vista Lodge, the welfare home for under-nourished children, which has been practically closed during the installation of a furnace, will be reopened Thursday, December 29, with a grand Christmas party.

The council of community service, which is maintaining the institution, will on the date mentioned bring from Los Angeles about one hundred children who at one time or another have been guests in the home for a Christmas celebration. There will be a beautiful tree on which will be stockings and an individual gift for each child, and a turkey dinner with all the proper accessories will constitute the refreshments. About 25 of the children will remain for an outing of a week or two, the rest being taken back to their homes in Los Angeles.

CHILD WAS SLAIN BY PLAYMATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A murder rivaling the Ruth Cruger case has been brought to light today with discovery of the body of Gilbert Bein, aged 5, in a tub in the cellar of his father's tailor shop on the East Side. The child's skull had been crushed with blows from a club. Police are searching for a dark, tall youth with whom Max Bein, the father, says, his little boy was playing just before he was killed.

NO CANDLES WILL BE IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—There will be no lighted candles in the White House Christmas Eve as a result of the protest of George P. Muldaur, general agent of the Safety Underwriters Laboratories, an organization created to foster means for fire prevention.

FIND MAN'S BODY IN SCHOOL RUINS

ANOKA, Minn., Dec. 22.—Residents near a school house close to Dayton's Station found the charred body of a man in the ruins of the school house early today. Authorities learned that an automobile drove up in front of the school house during the night. Residents heard two shots and shortly afterward the school house burst into flames. The automobile drove hurriedly away.

TO HEAR CAROLS MILES IN OCEAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Arrangements to have Christmas carols sung in San Francisco heard by the San Francisco chamber of commerce excursion returning from the Far East on the Empire State through the medium of the wireless telephone were announced today. The steamer will be three days out from San Francisco Sunday.

BABE'S DOUBLE IS A BAD ACTOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The fact he looks more or less like Babe Ruth, famous Yankee batsman, led to the arrest today of Raymond Sterling, wanted in connection with 21 burglaries committed in Brooklyn. Mrs. Lillian Seol, a baseball fan, who was the victim of one robbery, told the police to look for "Babe" Ruth's double. They did. He is alleged to have confessed.

David said in his haste that all men were liars. It would have sounded better had he taken time to say that they were diplomats.

A Sketch of the Life of Colonel Henry Watterson

Henry Watterson was the "grand old man of American journalism." He would have been 82 years old next February 16. He was a pioneer in the newspaper field of the south Middle West, and by the bitter invective style of editorials swayed the entire United States. It was he who first created the phrase: "To hell with the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns," as the United States hovered on the brink of war.

For the last few years, he has taken no active part in journalism. He retired when the Courier-Journal ownership passed from his hands to Robert Worth Bingham, its present owner. After his retirement from active editorial writing he composed the memoirs of his life in two brilliant volumes called "Looking Backward."

In this series he told the entire story of his life. He was extremely proud of the fact that he was born in Washington, "the center of diplomacy."

His father was a congressman from Tennessee and he early became identified in national life.

John Quincy Adams used to walk along the streets of Washington with his arm on Watterson's shoulder, while the boy read to him. He sat on the knee of Andrew Jackson. He was an amateur page in congress and was at John Quincy Adams' side when he fell. Watterson began his newspaper career as a reporter on the Washington States. Then came the Civil war. The fiery old warrior of the pen—then, a youth in his teens—mistled and served as an aide-camp to Generals Forrest and Polk.

After the war he began a "traveling newspaper." He edited the Chattanooga Rebel, a paper printed in a wagon. Later he went to Louisville, Ky., where he stayed for a half-century to make newspaper history. In 1868 he merged the Journal, the Democrat of W. N. Haldeman and the Courier into "The Courier-Journal." Then he took up the editorial banner to strike for a solidified North and South. With brilliant words that struck at the heart of every subject he mentioned, he drew the applause of the nation and his editorials were reprinted in journals throughout the country.

Then the world came to know him as "Old Marse Henry."

He was a great advocate of journalistic enthusiasm. He repeated often the old phrase: "Journalism is the art of knowing where hell is going to break loose next and having a man there to cover it."

He hated the "glossy" and "showy" things. He used to roll down to the Courier-Journal offices in a big motor car, wearing a sailor's "pea-jacket" instead of an expensive fur coat.

He wrote a miserable hand and most of the printers had a hard time setting up his articles. There were no typewriters in his day, and when they finally came into use he ignored them and stuck to his pen, much to the disgust of the printers.

Many famous journalists began their careers under Watterson. Among the most prominent are Isaac Marcossan and Irvin Cobb. Of late years Watterson, on account of advancing age, has taken no active part in the work of his paper as formerly.

He was once in congress, having been elected in 1876 to fill an unexpired term. Serving from August, 1876 to March, 1877, Watterson declined to stand for reelection. He was temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention in 1876 and was a delegate in 1880, 1884, and 1888. Watterson, a life-long Democrat, broke with Woodrow Wilson, then President, during the fight on the league of nations. He actively opposed ratification of the league covenant and refused to support Wilson. His editorial attacks on the league were among his final contributions to the journalism of his day and were among his most forceful writings.

The death of Col. Watterson interrupts one of the most beautiful romances of American history—a 56-year honeymoon.

It was the year after the Civil war, 1865, that Col. Watterson won the hand of Miss Rebecca Ewing, reigning belle of Nashville, Tenn., and on Tuesday of this week they celebrated the 56th anniversary of that event.

It is no secret in Louisville that Col. Watterson, with his brilliancy and great mentality, was like a child in his loving dependence upon his sweetheart, for sweet-heart she always was to him.

Through half a century of public life which took them to all the capitals of the world, Mrs. Watterson was always with the colonel. He could scarcely get along without her, even for a few days at a time.

In years gone by when Col. Watterson was winning his fame, he had a weakness for a friendly game of poker, but wherever he might be, if he recognized signs of falling under the influence of the game, he always sent for his "Rebecca" and she always came.

When he went on lecture tours in the earlier years, he would not hesitate to telegraph for her and she never failed him. The rearing of five children never interfered with this married love affair.

Their golden wedding, celebrated six years ago, was one of the most memorable events in the annals of American married life.

A touching fact, illustrating Col. Watterson's great dependence upon Mrs. Watterson, especially in his later years, is revealed today in the remark of one of their dearest friends:

"I am so glad that he went first—he would have been abjectly miserable without her."

POSTOFFICE IS DOING BIG WORK

establishment of distributing stations. We have been allowed to use the Central avenue and the Broadway schools and Harry White has most generously given us space in his place of business at San Fernando road and Brand, which is well adapted to our use and which has been of the greatest advantage in handling mail for the southern end of the city.

"This betterment of the service is due in great measure to Mr. Jackson, the incoming postmaster, who has worked wonders. While not yet officially connected with the office, he has given the superintendent and the employees a great deal of assistance and they all feel that he is one of them right now. They appreciate what he has done and are looking forward to the first of January, when he will take charge.

"After that Glendale will have a postoffice of the first class. The only change the public will notice will be in the supervising force, because the present force of clerks and carriers will remain. It will be easier to conduct the office because we will be in direct touch with Washington instead of having to petition through Los Angeles.

"A good many additional carriers and distributors will be employed, being new, will not be familiar with the locations of business firms and this may cause some delay while they are learning. It would help if the business men would urge correspondents to put the street address on their communications.

"Citizens have had the idea that postoffice employees for the most part are non-residents. That is erroneous. All but three are Glendaleans who feel a pride in the city and desire to give it good service.

"I have been very much pleased with the patience and good humor displayed by the public in awaiting their turn at the windows when there has been a crowd. They have taken everything in a good spirit and the clerks appreciate it very much."

LINEMAN DIED WALKING A BEAT

RENO, Nev., Dec. 22.—Alexa Stewart, a lineman employed by the Truckee River General Electric company, was frozen to death last night in a blizzard near Virginia City, where he was patrolling one of the power lines. His body was found this morning after an all-night search, only two miles from Virginia City.

BAROMETERS SAY MORE RAIN SURE

were dashed today when the heavy downpour of rain resumed, after an hour or two of sunshine late yesterday. Dynamite was being resorted to in clearing jams of logs and debris which threatened highways and bridges.

The Pacific Electric's bridge over the Los Angeles river at Los Cerritos near Long Beach was being kept clear with explosives. The nearby Long Beach boulevard bridge was also freed of threatened jams in similar manner. The Tropic avenue bridge was closed by the city today, with the west bank of the river crumbling. The following bridges are out:

Santa Ana river bridge, on the Riverside valley highway; Auburndale bridge, between Santa Ana and Corona; Prado bridge at Rincon; San Gabriel river bridges at Rincon and Azusa; Los Feliz bridge near Tropic; two bridges at El Monte, over Lexington wash.

No report had been received early today from the party of 15 college students, under Prof. J. G. Hill, believed stormbound in the Mount Baldy range.

PASADENA RECORD

The total rainfall is 10.28 inches in Pasadena. Snow is falling on Mt. Wilson and the entire range back of the city is covered with a mantle of white. Families that have resided in the Arroyo Seco for years are moving out, saying, "Never again!" So far as is known the city has not suffered a penny of damage from the five-day storm.

HARRY FRAZEE IS NOT SO WORRIED

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Threatened refusal of Elmer Smith, Roger Peckinpaugh and Stuffie McInnis to accept the transfers in the big New York-Boston-Cleveland trade, is not bothering Harry Frazee, owner of the Red Sox.

"That is a matter to be settled between the players and the clubs. I have nothing to say, but I am not worried," Frazee said today.

INSIDE STORY IS COSTLY TO EDITOR

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 22.—K. E. Torrance, editor of the American Falls Press, American Falls, Idaho, was fined $10 for contempt of court for refusing to divulge his sources of information in regard to an interview with "the most prominent bootlegger in the city," that appeared in his paper. The interview gave a detailed description of where and how bootleg liquor is being made.

FOOD PRICES WILL BE GIVEN ONCE OVER AGAIN

Bruns Will Conduct Inquiry Into Wholesale Prices

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Food costs for the average family were 1 per cent lower in November than in October, according to labor-department estimates. The compilation of the estimates was made from reports of prices of 43 food articles by retail dealers in 51 cities.

Since November 15, 1920, the department reported, retail food prices have decreased 22 per cent on an average. Since November 15, 1913, however, food products have increased on an average of 45 per cent.

William Burns, head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, personally will direct the investigation. Daugherty contends that the retail prices, particularly as they relate to meat and general foodstuffs, are out of proportion to the wholesale prices. The investigation will reach back to the farm and other sources of production of raw materials.

The attorney general also is particularly interested in breaking up trade associations, organized for the purpose of crushing competition, which result in profiteering.

Retailers, particularly among grocers, are responsible for the wide difference between the wholesalers and retail price of necessities, Daugherty said.

Many retail grocers have banded together in associations for the purpose of profiteering, Daugherty added.

"Retail prices are too high," said Daugherty. "They are out of line with the prices paid for raw materials and the prices paid the wholesalers."

FIND REALTOR DEAD IN HOME

called a plumber and together they entered the upstairs rooms.

The 72-year-old realtor had been "gone to California," according to Miss Skarin, for about a month. "on business." The plumber repaired the broken pipe, which was in a room formerly occupied by Miss Skarin, next to Hochbrunn's bedroom. The two men then went into other rooms, finding each flooded with water. Arriving at the last room, known as the front room, they found the door locked and it was necessary to open it, so Chedotal went for a bunch of keys. Turning the lock, they opened the door. Chedotal observed the body of Hochbrunn.

About December 5, a letter came from Portland signed "Hochbrunn." It was addressed to Edward Von Tobel, Mutual Life building, this city, and directed Von Tobel to collect rents from Hochbrunn's property here and send the money to him in California.

Von Tobel states that he has been instructed by Captain of Detective Tennant not to talk, but it was learned that he had sent rentals amounting to $375 by check in a letter to San Bernardino this letter was seized by the police at San Bernardino yesterday. It contained the check.

Another seized at the time was signed "Ferdinand Hochbrunn" and instructed the keeper of a San Bernardino hotel to send Hochbrunn's mail to him at the Spaulding hotel, 240 Farrell street, San Francisco. Tennant immediately directed San Francisco police to watch for "a man masquerading at the hotel as Hochbrunn and arrest him in connection with Hochbrunn's alleged murder."

Nobody in the neighborhood of the Hochbrunn residence here saw the "stranger" who called on the realtor a few nights before his mysterious disappearance but the Chedotal heard two men talking loudly upstairs. At the Hochbrunn house the police last night found several letters and telegrams in Miss Skarin's trunk. Some were addressed "Clara E. Skarin" and others "Clara Winborn." They were signed "Robert Winborn" and mentioned a relative who was very sick.

A pocket of the dead man's trousers was slit and contained two cents. In a trunk, however, was found $2000 in gold certificates contained in a money belt. The trunk was in a side room.

Police say the letter sent to Von Tobel from Portland signed Hochbrunn was typewritten except for the signature which they declare was a clever forgery.

They were having transcribed today stenographic notes in Miss Skarin's diary, she having been a stenographer before coming here and having been employed here for a time as a telephone operator.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—"Important information," the nature of which he would not reveal, is in the hands of Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson today in connection with the police investigation at San Francisco in the murder of Ferdinand Hochbrunn in Seattle. The trail of a man said to have posed here as Hochbrunn was picked up during the night by police. A woman whom the police also wanted to question, was known to have been here within the last few days.

TIRES ONE ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 22.—J. N. Webb has obtained a temporary injunction restraining R. W. Godfrey from calling him a bootlegger. Five times, Webb said, Godfrey had caused the police to search his premises.

PHILA. DIAMOND GRID BATTERIES

Make Records For Efficiency Say Psenner-Doll Company Here

Owners of Ford, Buick and Dodge cars throughout the country report that the Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery is establishing new records for efficiency and economical operation in their machines. Tests have demonstrated that this battery actually lasts from 25 to 50 per cent longer than any other, yet it is being sold today at less than 1914 prices.

The Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery is built on the same engineering principle employed in the construction of bridges, fighting masts, derricks and all structures where great strength is required. Its exclusive features, the Philco Slotted Retainer and the Quarter Sawed Hard Wood Separator, eliminate buckled plates and short circuits and insure perfect uniformity of porosity and insulation.

TESTING GAS

The motorist who wants to test his gasoline for purity may find the following suggestion useful. Put some gasoline in a bottle and add a little concentrated sulphuric acid. Shake the bottle well at intervals for three or four hours. The acid will form a distinct layer or stratum, drawing into itself all the impurities in the fuel, so that the degree of discoloration found in the acid will be a measure of the purity of the gasoline. A useful test to determine whether gasoline has corrosive properties is to drop in the fluid a bit of copper. If the copper turns blue or green the assumption is that the gasoline contains corrosive elements.

CARRY SPARE BULB

It should be the duty of every automobile owner to carry spare lamp bulbs, and also know that he is carrying the right kind, for head lamps, tail light, dash, etc. He should also carry fuses of the right kind, those made for the car. The bulbs should be kept in a special carrier.

WHEEL BALANCE IS IMPORTANT FEATURE

Wheel balance is something that every careful owner likes to have just right. To get this, take the tire off and note whether the bare wheel balances or if some section has a tendency to roll around to the bottom. When the wheel balances without the tire, put the casing on and adjust the bearings so that the weight of the valve stem assembly will just overbalance the rest of the wheel.

VIBRATION COILS

In cases where excessive consumption develops in connection with vibration coils, the condition will probably be found to be due to excessive tension on the vibrator springs. The spring adjustment should be loosened until missing develops in the motor and then tightened until the engine begins firing regularly again. When the tension is tightened beyond this point, excessive consumption results.

RADIATOR PAINT

A very good radiator paint is made up by stirring about four ounces of lamp black in a mixture of three ounces of boiled linseed oil and one ounce of turpentine. A sprayer, such as is used for spraying body polish on the car, makes an excellent device for applying the radiator paint to the inside of the cells, which cannot very well be reached by means of a brush.

OVER CAR TRACKS

The hardest strain is put upon tires when driving in street railway tracks and should be avoided at all times. When the car runs on the tracks, its weight is borne, not by the tread, but by the side wall at the point where the tire comes in contact with the edges of the rail. As a result, the tire is bulged, the fabric plies separate and the tread is loosened.

USE MOTOR AS BRAKE

The best way to avoid brake trouble is to use the motor as a brake on hills. If you are going down a steep hill, pull the car in second, and let the motor hold it back. If the hill is very steep, get into low and slide down. Those who never have tried this do not realize what power there is in the motor to hold the car back. It is safer and makes the brakes last a great deal longer.

PARKING

Never park your car just around a curve or in a narrow part of the road. Here, like in many other instances, the driver should assume that every other driver is a combination joy rider, ignoramus or road hog. Experience seems to prove this assumption is right.

WILLARD PRICES ALWAYS IN LINE

Cizek Gives Reasons For Price Reduction of Battery

During the war, many factories and businesses were organized that were given a foot-hold by the lack of supplies for our military and our inflated industrial needs. These companies are sure to feel the changing conditions severely and doubtless endeavor to sustain their position on the basis of a "price" competition. And this means price without regard to quality.

"Many motorists especially," says Mr. E. W. Cizek of the E. W. Cizek Auto Electric Company, who handles Willard Batteries here, "find themselves in a quandary now as to the proper course to pursue when buying automobile equipment. They are tempted by the 'cheap' argument but still have confidence in the old established factories who have developed reputations for quality products. This is the case with Willard batteries, prices of which have always been kept at the lowest possible level consistent with a quality article that has a reputation to maintain."

USE KEROSENE

Very often oil leaks through the axle tubes from the differential housing and gets on the brake bands, making it impossible for the friction surface to grip the metal drums when the brake pedal is depressed. To remedy the trouble temporarily pour a little kerosene on the bands, as this cuts the grease. To cure the trouble install new felt washers to prevent the oil getting through the axle tubes.

FLAKE GRAPHITE

It is much easier to fit an inner tube by the use of flake graphite than it is with soapstone. Graphite lasts longer than soapstone and has no chemical effect on the rubber. It is also useful for treating rims, as a rust preventative. The application of a thin coat of quick-drying varnish to which graphite has been added until it is about the thickness of cream, helps protect and conserve the rims conservatively.

CLOSED CAR WEEK FOR FORD AGENCY

The local Ford Agency announces the past two weeks have been busy ones for them in the delivery of closed cars. They have a few left which are being delivered as ordered, and as the Los Angeles plant for the Ford Motor Co. closes on December 23 for inventory purposes, it behooves the closed-car buyer to act quickly.

And speaking of deliveries and the service after delivery has been made, the local Ford Agency prides itself on the personal and careful attention it gives the new car buyer. This personal touch and the fact that theirs is a local industry, giving work to about 35 people, are reasons why Glendale

SPARK PLUG TESTER

A simple but effective spark plug tester which a car owner may always have about his person when he wants to use it is an ordinary lead pencil which has a metal point protector. A small hole is cut or bored through the pencil and this hole acts as the gap for the spark to jump. Tinfoil is stuffed into the protector to make contact with the lead in the unsharpened end of the pencil.

TAKE OUT AIR

When packing an inner tube to carry an extra, first expell all the air. This is done by removing the plunger, and with the valve at one end, roll slowly from the other end. After the end has been expelled, replace the plunger.
Then lay the tube flat on a table, with valve in center. Fold over on each side and then fold up against the valves, fastening with a rubber band. After a generous application of talc, wrap in a soft cloth and place in a tire bag or a small box which does not allow too much freedom.

FASTEN SPARE

If a demountable rim is not fastened carefully in place on the wheel additional tire wear will result, due to the rim not running true. Each wedge should be tightened carefully to insure correct alignment of the rim on the felloe. A little care in this respect will not only insure a tight rim and a true wheel, but also better tire mileage.

To obviate the obscuring of the windshield glass by moisture, rub the glass all over with strong soapsuds made from automobile soap and permit suds to dry. This prevents the formation of the small globules that hinder clear vision through the glass in rain or dust.

ONE CAUSE OF TROUBLE WITH STORAGE BATTERY

Ruinous sulphation in conjunction with wooden separators causes 95 per cent of all battery trouble.
Wooden separators become soft and pulpy, and the plates pinch through. It is the touching of the plates when the wooden separators become a punky mass that causes the battery to go dead. When the plates touch, the battery short-circuits itself, with the result—a dead battery as well as trouble and expense.

REMOVE MUD

Sometimes brakes are hard to operate after a trip over muddy roads. It is because mud gets into the joints at the brake bands and other places in the brake system. These places cannot be properly cleaned merely by wiping.
One must dismantle them to get a clean working surface that will operate freely when lubricated.
Cleaning of this sort prevents rusting and certainly goes a long way toward better handling and car operation.

Very often it is necessary to make a repair on the road in which some small part must be held firmly for filing. This is difficult to do without a vise, and as one is not usually included in a tool kit a substitute must be employed. Almost every tool kit has a fair-sized monkey wrench, so that with the assistance of a small bolt, a serviceable vise is always at hand.
While it is impossible to secure any amount of pressure by the jaw adjusting screw alone, nevertheless by inserting a short piece between the jaws and the piece to be held, considerable pressure can be obtained. The head of the bolt is placed against the piece to be held and the nut against the other jaw of the wrench. Then by holding the bolt head with one wrench and unscrewing the nut against the jaw the monkey wrench with another, considerable pressure can be obtained.

Few car owners realize what a convenient accessory is a little square of canvas about 18 inches over all. It saves the knees of the trousers when you kneel to get at some inaccessible part. It keeps the jack from slipping on snow or ice. It keeps the inner tube out of the dust when this part is being inserted by the roadside.
It will serve to strain gasoline through. It will keep the tools from rattling and will also protect the hands in handling hot parts and, finally, it will make an emergency inside blowout patch.

The familiar type of trouser holder which used to be popular with cyclists makes very acceptable automobile curtain holders.
When the curtains are rolled up and fastened with these holders they will not become wrinkled and generally battered.

COX AND SAM FIND BUSINESS GOOD

Business has been so good during the past few weeks for the Ford repairing firm of Cox & Sam, 110 North Louise street, that an addition in the way of a wash rack has just been made to the rear of the garage conducted by this concern. This addition has been equipped with a concrete floor, and other features that bring it right up to the minute.

"If business continues to pick up as it has during the past few days," said Mr. Cox this morning, "We will be compelled to make further additions to our place of business before a great while.
Things are coming along better than could reasonably have been expected. Both Sam, who up to a short time ago was employed for two years as head mechanic at the Glendale Ford agency, and myself are being kept busy from daylight until dark. The honest work that we are putting on the Ford cars of Glendale is surely having its effect in a greatly increased volume of business."

If a pound in the engine is regular and continuous, it is likely to be from lost motion in the bearings. If it is irregular and occasional it is more likely to be due to pre-ignition, caused by incandescent carbon or from imperfect electrical connections. If the pounding is accompanied by occasional missing, especially if the missing is more frequent when the car is running than when the engine is idling, it is more apt to be due to imperfect electrical connections.

It is often convenient to frost bulbs and lenses, and here is a method by which this work can be done at home. To a mixture of 24 ounces of benzine, add two and a quarter ounces of sandarach and half an ounce of mastic. The parts to be frosted should be immersed in this solution for a few minutes.

In some cars looseness of the engine bolts which hold the water in place may cause misalignment of the engine, with serious consequences. If there is even a slight looseness of the bolts it may permit the engine supports to hammer and in time the supporting arm may actually break off.

Ordinary tire tape may be used to patch inner tubes by running it twice around the tube and overlapping the ends so as to cover the leak. Surgeon's plaster may be used in the same way in an emergency.

To make riding easy, the springs should be oiled at least once a week.

Christmas Greetings to You

The residents of Glendale have much to be thankful for at this glad Christmas Season. Count your blessings, then try to pass a little of your happiness on to others. Happiness is contagious—do your part.

Amid all your happiness remember that the Glendale Auto Wash Rack does the best car-cleaning work in Glendale. It does Simonizing—which consists of giving the car a brand new overcoat. It does greasing and oiling, and in fact, puts your car in the best possible shape. The rains are temporarily over and your car is muddy. Bring it in and let this wash rack put it in presentable shape again. Have your car greased while it is being washed, thereby cutting down expense and increasing the life of your car.
If we haven't the brand of oil you use we will get it for you.

LAST OF LECTURES GIVEN WEDNESDAY

The last of Rev. E. Morgan Isaac's mid-week lectures for the present was given Wednesday evening. The Women's Twentieth Century Club invites all junior high school pupils of this city to a Christmas party in the clubhouse on Thursday evening, December 22, and promises to give them a good time. The usual club session on the fourth Thursday will be omitted this month. Next week the club will entertain the little children of members on Thursday afternoon, December 29, and members who have no children may each borrow one to bring to the party. That every child present may receive a gift, names should be phoned this week to Mrs. Eckert, Garvanza 410, or Mrs. Herr, Garvanza 877.

HUNDREDS GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Rainy Weather Did Not Interfere With Church Services

Although the weather was stormy, many of the pews of the Congregational church were occupied Sunday morning by persons interested in hearing Rev. E. Morgan Isaac's sermon, preached by request, on "The Bible in the Light of Today."

"The Bible," he said, "continues to be the subject of wide discussion in the Christian church. There are at least three classes of people who hold very definite views concerning this book: 1.—The traditionalist. He accepts the traditional theory of the Bible as an inerrant book, each word inspired of God and each word equally authoritative. He is usually a good and sincere man, but captivated by traditional lore, and he is a man that must live in the light of some authority outside of himself.

"2.—The second class that we find very numerous today are the sincere folk who want to know the truth about the Bible. They do not wish to discard the wonderful book because it is hard to understand, they wish to learn how we came by it, why it has such magic about it.

"3.—The third class is composed of those who have utterly set the Bible aside as an obsolete book. They do not even talk respectfully concerning it. In 1860 a volume appeared in England entitled 'Essays and Reviews,' written by seven distinguished educators. Therein this statement was made: 'Interpret the Scriptures like any other book.' It created a storm among the religious teachers of the day. In 1862 Bishop Colenso published a book on the Pentateuch, after laboring in South Africa and finding it impossible longer to teach the book of Genesis as in England. He came near being expelled from the church for his conclusions, but undauntedly asked: 'Shall a man speak lies in the name of the Lord?' About this time Dean Burson declared, at Oxford, 'The Bible is the utterance of the Eternal. It is as much God's own word as if high heaven were opened and we heard God speaking to us with human voice. Every book is inspired alike and is inspired entirely. The books of it, and the words of it, and the very letters of it, are the minds of many reverent people there is wide divergence from such a statement.

We got this theory of verbal inspiration from Romanism, and Romanism got it from Judaism. It was an idea which was conceived and gradually given place between the return from Babylonian captivity and the coming of Jesus. The Jews became worshippers of a book rather than of God. The same doctrine was taken up in the second century by the leaders of the Christian church such as Tertullian, Irenaeus and Origen. In time, the idea grew into a cast-iron theory, and was adopted by the Protestants after they set aside the authority of the church of Rome, which declared the church infallible. 'The Bible, retorted the Protestants, is infallible.' When Martin Luther, in the sixteenth century, broke from the Roman church and studied the Bible for himself, he decided that what he had been taught was only theory and treated the Bible very freely. He considered the book of Jude worthless, refused a place for James, and cared little for Revelation.

"How, you may ask, did this theory hold sway so long over the minds of men? Because it is the easiest conception to handle, setting aside all questions as to the subject matter of the Bible by saying God did it and God is not to be questioned. Some men, speaking hastily and foolishly, say if any one part of it is not inspired they cannot know what part is. God made our reasoning powers, and reason may open wide doors and windows through which light will stream, bringing a new day. Reverence consists in more than saying beautiful things about the Bible. Be not alarmed at the errors found in it.

"The old conception is fast vanishing from the earth, as the result of deep and reverent study, combined with the light of reason. The romance, poetry, emotions, family life, etc., of the Bible are all human. You cannot make prose out of 'The hills melted like wax in the presence of the Lord,' or 'Stand still, O sun, upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Aijalon. And the sun stood still and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their foes.' This is marvelous poetry, and it is quoted from an old volume of Jewish poetry, collected by a man named Jasher. But the mediaeval church crushed that poetry into prose. Some people say there is poetry in the Bible but they do not believe there is any fiction. Turn to Job and read the story of the man who was very rich, who was smitten with one misfortune after another, and finally, because he had done right in the eyes of the Lord, was given double his original wealth. Does it not sound like fiction? Read the story told by Jotham, in Judges 9:7-15.

"The word 'infallible' requires too many explanations. Paul said: 'Every Scripture inspired of God is profitable.' Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hensley expect to occupy their new house on North Kenilworth avenue by Christmas.

Mrs. Arthur C. Brown of Milford street reports that her baby, little Blanche Evelyn, made her way to society in a public way Tuesday night when she acted as flower girl at the marriage of Miss Marian Morgan, Whittier College girl, who is to be graduated next June, and Gerald Keppel of Whittier. It was a beautiful church wedding, largely attended, and the little maid who is but three years old, was perfectly self-possessed, going through her part beautifully and without any consciousness of being a center of observation.

WALKERS ENTERTAIN AT DINNER PARTY
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Walker of 443 Pioneer drive will entertain Sunday at a Christmas dinner, the guests being three sisters of Mrs. Walker and their families. They will include Mr. and Mrs. Hendershot and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bolen of the Bolen Realty Co. and Mr. and Mrs. McConnell and daughter Ina, from Hamilton, Canada.

HATZ FAMILY TO ENTERTAIN SUNDAY
Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hatz of 347 West Milford street will entertain Sunday at a delightful Christmas dinner, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. P. Marson, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Crowl of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Madson and daughter Joy, of Glendale. There will be a decorated Christmas tree and the evening will be spent in cards and music.

DINNER PARTY AT EAST HOME MONDAY
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. East of 121 West Lexington drive entertained at dinner Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Pierce, the affair being in honor of Mrs. East's birthday. The color scheme was carried out in yellow and white in a beautifully decorated cake with yellow candles and a bouquet of tiny yellow chrysanthemums. After dinner, Mr. and Mrs. East attended the Orpheum in Los Angeles.

MEANEST THIEF IS IN GLENDALE
One of the meanest thieves on earth has been found here in Glendale. He is the man who goes around before breakfast and steals milk from front porches. R. McMullin of the Glendale Creamery reports that such a thief has been operating in Glendale and that he has a good description of him. Ambition is merely a nightmare preceded by a deep slumber and followed by a rude awakening.

BURCH'S MOTHER TELLS OF CHANGE

Formerly Clean in Life She Says in Deposition

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Testimony of Mrs. Ora N. Burch of Chicago was introduced today at the trial of her son, Arthur C. Burch, for the murder of John Belton Kennedy. Mrs. Burch's statements, read as a deposition, bolstered the contention of the defense counsel that the accused man is insane. The "metaphysical" charge that Burch underwent about three years ago was emphasized in the deposition. Formerly Burch had been a highly moral young man, a religious and settlement worker, but suddenly, according to his mother, he underwent a "tremendous moral rebellion." Mrs. Burch said her son confessed to her that he had affairs with women in various states while he was on the road for a commercial motion picture company. The accused man, a college graduate, is the son of a former Illinois minister.

Town Topics

Postpone Xmas Party.—The Christmas entertainment of the Glendale Presbyterian church, which was to have taken place tonight in the church, on account of bad weather conditions has been postponed until Tuesday of next week at 7:30 p. m.

Get Your Tickets.—Today and tomorrow will be the last chance to secure tickets to the Pasadena Tournament of Roses through the Glendale chamber of commerce. There are 45 tickets unsold at the chamber and orders were received this morning by Secretary Rhoades to return all tickets that remain unsold tomorrow night.

Xmas Turkey.—A Christmas turkey dinner will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Houdyshel, 308 North Orange street, the guests being all members of the family and including Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Houdyshel and daughters, Eleanor and Roberta of Los Angeles, Howard Houdyshel from Taft and the Misses Sadie and Sybil Houdyshel.

Get Pardon.—The Christmas exercises at the Tropic Presbyterian church took place Friday evening. By mistake they were listed in the social calendar Wednesday as taking place on Saturday.

Here for Christmas.—Charles E. Williams arrived Wednesday night from Marshall, Ill., and is the guest of R. M. Greenlaw and family, who have just moved from 708 North Jackson to 1014 East Maple. Mrs. Greenlaw and Mrs. Williams are sisters. Mr. Williams conducts a large lumber business in Marshall and is an extensive builder of ready-cut houses. He is already greatly impressed with Glendale as a growing business center and is very likely to locate here.

FARMERS TO GET FEDERAL FUND

Five Millions Made Available for Purchase of Seed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Farmers in crop failure areas will be extended additional government relief under two bills introduced in the senate today by Senator McCumber, North Dakota. Payments to the government for money advanced to farmers in drought-stricken areas in 1918 for the purchase of seed wheat would be refunded to them in cases where the yield was five bushels or less an acre, under one bill. The other would appropriate $5,000,000 for the purchase of seed wheat, oats, barley and flax to be supplied to farmers in crop failure areas under the direction of the secretary of agriculture.

FORMER ATTORNEY GETS LONG TERM

LEIPSIK, Dec. 22.—Dr. Traugott von Jagow, former German politician, commissioner, was sentenced to five years imprisonment today by the federal supreme court for the part he played in the Kapp revolt of March, 1920, which temporarily overthrew the Ebert government. His sentence stipulates that his imprisonment be served in a detention fortress. Baron von Wagenheim and Dr. Schiele, co-defendants, were acquitted.

Dr. Traugott von Jagow, just sentenced for his part in the Kapp rebellion, should not be confounded with Dr. Gottlieb von Jagow, former German war-time foreign minister. Dr. Traugott von Jagow was minister of the interior under the short-lived Kapp regime.

AWAIT WORD FROM HARVEY IN LONDON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The arms conference tackled today the last barriers to reach an agreement on naval limitation. These barriers were France's demand for a big allotment of auxiliary craft, and Britain's request for total abolition of the submarines. Further word from Premier Briand to clarify the French position was expected from Ambassador Harvey at London. Neither demand was to be fully granted, but some concessions, especially in the way of reducing submarine tonnage, were in prospect.

Women Who Are Doing Things in Washington

Miss Stella M. Diffebaugh, "Right Hand Man to Representative Mondell" of Wyoming, floor leader of the House. Miss Diffebaugh, who has been Representative Mondell's secretary for nearly four years, is called the clerk to the floor leader and handles all the Representative's business in true business form. She holds the most responsible position for a woman in the House. Miss Diffebaugh is a native of the District of Columbia.

SWEEPING CUTS IN WAGE SCALES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Sweeping reductions, which range from 25 cents to $1 per day, affecting 10,000 workmen of the building trades craft, were announced today by the impartial wage board of the San Francisco Industrial association. The new wage cut will go into effect January 1, according to present plans. The new list aims to establish an $8 basic minimum for skilled mechanics. Under present conditions, all laborers in the building trades are classed as skilled laborers at $6 per day. The new decision classified common laborers at $4.50 per day and skilled laborers at $5 per day. In many cases the reductions do not exceed 35 cents, but electricians and other craftsmen are reduced from $9 to $8 per day. The decision, in a number of cases, provided for increases. The decreases are in addition to the 7 1/2 per cent reduction ordered by the neutral arbitration board, and which were finally accepted after the building trades strike last summer.

LIBRARY TO GET HISTORIC PAPERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Harding today issued an executive order transferring original copies of a number of important historical documents to the custody of the Library of Congress. The Department of State, which has had charge, asked for a change of guardianship on the ground of inadequate facilities. Among the papers covered by today's order were the Articles of Confederation, the journal of the committee which framed the constitution, Jefferson's rough draft of the Declaration of Independence and a number of papers of the continental congress.

SHOVED MAN OFF BRIDGE IS CHARGE

DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 22.—Grace Morris, alias Grace Gapsinsky, today was formally charged with first-degree murder in a preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Harold Metcalf. The charges are based on an investigation which county officials have been conducting for the past ten days and on information signed by Bertha Munsell, alias Bertha Leinon, former chum of the Morris woman, who claimed the girl shoved a man from a bridge here.

CHILDREN PERISH CENTRALIA FIRE

CENTRALIA, Wash., Dec. 22.—Two children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the John Dawson residence here today. Donald, aged two and one-half, and Ruth, aged four, were cut off in a back room when the other children and their parents escaped. Mrs. Dawson's hair was singed from her head and Dawson's head and shoulders were badly burned, when they tried to save the two young children.

HURRAH! BOSTON, Dec. 22.—More than 10,000 persons who invested with Charles Deval last year on his promise of 50 per cent returns in 45 days, will receive 10 per cent of their original investment in time for Christmas.

An enterprising English company operating in the Sudan had decided to lay a railway into the wilds, and many blacks were employed in its construction. One day the telegraph clerk at the nearest civilized spot received a telegram from the negro foreman of the railway constructors: "White boss dead. Shall I bury him?" "Yes," wired back the clerk. "But first make sure that he is quite dead. Will send another white boss tomorrow."

A few hours later another telegram came from the foreman: "Bury boss. Made sure he was dead. Hit him on the head with a shovel." There is about as much sense in a woman's reason as there is in a man's excuse.

STEPHENS GIVES PARDON FOR XMAS

Life Term Gets Good Gift From Chief of State

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—A pardon and a commutation of sentence were the Christmas presents given two San Quentin convicts by Governor Stephens Thursday. A pardon was given Ira V. Plump, negro, now living in Sacramento. Plump was convicted of second degree murder in Alameda county in 1907. He was paroled in 1915. He has been living in Sacramento where he has been employed as a plasterer. Plump shot and killed J. H. Howard, another negro, when Howard is alleged to have attacked him. He asked Governor Stephens to restore his citizenship and on the recommendation of the trial judge and the police officers of Alameda county his request was granted. A commutation of sentence was granted to Stephen Duncan who has been serving a life sentence in San Quentin for complicity in the murder of a hermit in Trinity county in 1912. At the time of the murder Duncan was 16 years of

FEDERAL AID WAS BIG LIFE SAVER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Only prompt federal aid saved America's agriculture community from ruin, the war finance corporation stated today in its annual report. Complete failure for tens of thousands of farmers was averted by extension of liberal farm credits, Eugene Meyer, Jr., head of the corporation, stated. Loans made to growers of wheat and cotton, livestock and other products during the year totalled $133,547,215. This sum lessened a vast amount of credit, the corporation said, benefiting directly and indirectly the entire farming community and many other lines of business.

SUES FOR DAMAGES
TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 22.—Damage suit for $21,284 was filed against Swift & Company, packers, in federal court here today by W. A. Moore, who claims he was discharged by the company for labor union activities.

FOR "HP" DISEASE
ST. PAUL, Dec. 22.—"Only useful presents are selling this year," said a leading jeweler. "Little silver hip pocket flasks are popular at prices from $3 to $50."

age. He has since been paroled and has been living with his brother, L. H. Duncan and family at Ruth, Trinity county.

ASK REMOVAL OF CITY ATTORNEY

Citizens Say He is Entirely Unfit for High Office

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 22.—Removal of County Attorney A. G. Rippey was asked by a group of citizens, self-styled the "committee of 500" in a petition filed late today with Governor N. E. Kendall. The petition cited the following alleged offenses of Rippey: 1.—"That he has wilfully and habitually neglected and refused to perform the duties of his office." 2.—"That he has been guilty of wilful misconduct in office." 3.—"That he has been guilty of intoxication." 4.—"That he has wilfully refused and neglected to enforce the provisions of the law relating to the collection of mule tax under the chapter of the code relating to the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor."

GOOD TIDINGS FOR ALL MANKIND IN CHRIST'S COMING

Birth of Christ Child Was Announced by Angel Says Word

NOW it came to pass in those days, there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be enrolled.

And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying: Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased.

HOLY NIGHT ONE OF MOST FAMOUS XMAS CAROLS

Glorious Piece Is of German Origin It Is Claimed

THE ancient Christmas carol, "Holy Night" is German in its origin and is considered by many persons to be the most beautiful of all Christmas carols.

The carol, "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," is English in its origin and dates back to about the beginning of the Seventeenth century.

The carol "Draw Nigh, Immanuel," is one of the oldest pieces of coherent music in existence, and both the words and music far antedate any of the others.

There is a most curious but beautiful musical effect at the close of this carol. The words of "Draw Nigh, Immanuel," are about 100 years older than the music.

Another carol, "The First Noel," has a traditional French melody and probably originated in Breton.

Rose of Jericho Name Of Christmas Flower

SEVERAL varieties of the so-called resurrection plant have appeared among the novelties offered by florists, but the original is the rose of Jericho.

The desert winds snap off its dry stem and whirls the seemingly dead little ball away over sandy plains, like a feather-weight.

The old-time pilgrims who brought back this plant with them from the Holy Land, told wonderful tales of its power to bloom out on Christmas day and gave it the name of resurrection flower. Another old legend names it from every spot where they halted to rest.

HOLLY MAY SOON BE EXTINCT AS ONE XMAS SYMBOL

Popular Xmas Decoration Is Growing Less Plentiful

Christmas holly, that merriest and most beloved of all growing bushes, is threatened with extinction, according to a warning sounded by lovers of a red Christmas.

Within another generation, botanists say, holly will be as rare as mistletoe, which used to grow in abundance on the Atlantic seaboard, as far north as Raritan bay.

With sinking hearts nature lovers have long since recorded the disappearance of the delicate trailing arbutus, flower of the Pilgrim maidens, from all woods near large cities.

CORN BELT NORTH SAY GROWERS

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 22.—The corn belt is moving northward. This is an interesting agricultural development in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

"The corn fields to be seen in Western Canada this year," said R. J. C. Stead, of the Department of Immigration, who recently made an extensive trip through the three prairie provinces, "equal any to be found in the east or south."

Under water in the great irrigated sections of southern Alberta, Dent corn yields 60 bushels to the acre. Sweet corn yields 1,000 dozens to the acre which, at an average of 30 cents a dozen, is $300 an acre.

Princess Mary's Fiance

Viscount Lascelles, who will marry Princess Mary some time in February. According to latest reports, Viscount Lascelles will very likely be named the first governor-general of the Free State of Ireland, making Princess Mary, after her marriage, the "First Lady of Ireland."

Much that passes for patience is merely laziness.

TRUCKEE LOOKING FOR SNOWFALL WINTER SPORTS

Fiesta of Snows Is Annual Event for Section of State

TRUCKEE, Cal., Dec. 22.—Residents of Truckee, the Sierra Nevada resort, are looking anxiously skyward for the first signs of a good snowfall.

Preparations are being made for a big winter sport season, as Truckee is the official spot where native Californians, from the tourist car tourists to the social lights, come to see and revel in real winter weather.

Ice skating will be one of the features of the program, a huge ice skating rink having been constructed a few hundred yards from the depot.

Skating, tobogganing, sleigh-riding, and sled coasting for the youngsters will also be provided. The annual "Fiesta of the Snows" will be the big offering of the "winter season" and will furnish an added attraction for those who want a "white Christmas."

Added interest attaches to Truckee this winter because five moving picture companies have made reservations here, and plan to bring companies here to film a number of "Alaskan" and "Canadian" scenes.

The Santa Claus Party

How Lots of Christmas Fun May Be Had by Boys' Club—Each Boy Provides One Present Made by Himself

THE biggest boy in the club should be the Santa Claus. To dress him up, borrow a bath robe, and trim it round the collar and cuffs with some old fur.

Each boy in the club should provide one present for Santa's bag. It would be better if each boy should make the present himself.

All the presents for the Santa Claus party should be handed to a committee of three knights, whose duty it is to pack them all neatly in Santa's bag.

Then Santa passes out the presents. It is best for the boys to form a line and for Santa to reach in the bag without looking and pull out the first thing that comes to his hand.

The last present in the bag is Santa Claus' A good deal of amusement can be had at the party if a committee of five boys is chosen to look after the entertainment.

Little Things That Add Much to Success of Big Day in Homes

XMAS TABLE ONE MADE BEAUTIFUL

THE housewife can indulge in these excursive imaginings, however, only in the earliest of her preparations for the Christmas dinner.

Much of the pleasure of the Christmas dinner depends upon small things. This is the occasion for the most choice of the jelly and pickles which have been stored up in the summer.

Desert allows ample opportunity for small pleasures and surprises. One can hardly believe a child's happiness complete without raisins and almonds to eat in tiny sandwiches and as phillipeas.

BEARS TRAINING FOR ONE BIG GAME

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 22.—The California Bears have gone into training in preparation for the East-West game with Washington and Jefferson at Pasadena.

REBUKE GIVEN TO XMAS OBSERVERS

New England Governor Spoke Harshly to Young Newcomers

IT was in 1621 that Governor Bradford was called upon to administer a rebuke to some of the young men of the New England colony who had just come over on the little ship Fortune.

The men were called out to work that day as on other days, but the newcomers declared it against their consciences to work on Christmas day.

On the day in question a tree was chopped down and dragged into one of the rough cabins where it was trimmed with cranberries and popcorn, while the young people feasted their eyes on its beauties.

W. & J. TEAM WILL LEAVE FRIDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Washington and Jefferson's football squad will leave for Pasadena on December 23, according to present plans.

It's harder to untie a knot than it is to tie it. That's why it costs more to get a divorce than it does to get married.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS GOING TO ALASKA

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—Christmas mail and Christmas provisions for the first time in many years is en route for the Alaskan coast west of Seward. The steamer Starr, renewing the northerly winter mail service, sailed from here Saturday to make Christmas be Christmas in the northland. From Seward the Starr will proceed westward as far as Unalaska, in the Aleutian islands. In the summer the service will go on into the Behring Sea.

ALASKA WAS ONCE LAND OF PALMS AND FLOWERS

Millions of Years Ago Nevada Was Covered by Lake

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Alaska was once a land of sunshine and flowers. Ferns and palms, such as now thrive in lands far to the south, once flourished in the sub-tropical climate of her valleys and low-lands.

But that was millions of years ago, before man existed, according to the United States Geological Survey, which has made a study of the fossil flora. Deep down in the coal beds have been found fossils of plants, which indicate that Alaska was ages ago a land of luxuriant loveliness.

Dusky savages of a remote past, or perhaps members of that enlightened race of cliff-dwellers, once looked across the waters of a huge lake in what is now north-western Nevada.

Rude fleets perhaps wended their way in a primitive commerce across the great inland sea, which once spread over 8,400 square miles, also according to the survey.

Geologists have given the great body of water, which was present in "comparatively recent geologic time," the name of Lake Lahontan, in honor of Baron La Hontan, one of the early explorers of the head waters of the Mississippi River.

The deepest part of Lake Lahontan, 880 feet, was the site of the present Pyramid Lake, a small remnant, so that its surface stood about 500 feet above the surface of Pyramid Lake.

A field of sand dunes, formed since the inland sea disappeared, now cover a large area a few miles north of Winnemucca, Nevada. The dunes are gradually moving eastward, and their steady march has necessitated a number of changes in the roads in recent years. In some places telegraph poles have been buried so deep that they have had to be spliced in order to keep the wires above the crests of the sand dunes.

HAGIS MISSING SCOTCH BANQUET

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Consternation was caused at the recent St. Andrew's Day banquet at the Savoy Hotel when it was discovered that the "hagis"—a Scottish delicacy without which no Scottish feast is complete—was missing. Facetious southerners suggested that "the animal" had escaped and was trying to return to Bonnie Scotland through the London fog. Eventually, however, it was found that an ignorant kitchen attendant had mistaken the delicacy for soap, and had sent it to the laundry room. "Hagis" is a weird concoction prepared from the heart, liver and lungs of a sheep or calf and cooked in a sheep's stomach-bag, after a recipe known only to Highland Scots. It is always brought to table to the strains of the bagpipes. The Savoy's "hagis" was rescued in time to adorn the festive board, although it missed its turn in the course list.

There would be more wisdom in the world if fathers knew as much as their sons think they do.

TIMBER WILL BE DEVELOPED NORTH

Kansas Concern to Stimulate Forests in North-west

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—Timber production in the Northwest will be greatly stimulated next spring when the Central Coal & Coke Co., a Kansas concern, starts development of the vast Echo tract, located in western Columbia and eastern Clatsop counties, Oregon.

The tract, containing a heavy stand of timber comprising 2,500,000,000 feet of Douglas fir, hemlock, spruce and cedar, extends over approximately 260 square miles. It is said to be one of the heaviest stands of virgin timber in the United States.

The completion of the railroad, known as the Portland, Astoria and Pacific, which will run from Wilkesboro to Verona, now owned by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, next spring, and the opening of the new timber tract mark one of the most recent gigantic development projects in the Northwest, timber and railroad men agree. The railroads purchased the P. A. & P., which the Eccles interests were building to market the timber before selling the tract to the Central Coal & Coke Co., for $2,500,000. The line will connect through the United Railways line at Wilkesboro, near Burlington, where the Central Coal & Coke Co. has purchased considerable water frontage. The logs will be rafted to the mills from this point.

Now Christmas is come Let us beat up the drum And call all our neighbors together; And when they appear Let us make them such cheer As will keep out the wind and the weather.

Variety must truly be the spice of life or young ladies wouldn't be so anxious to change their names.

W & J TEAM VERY MUCH LIKE BEARS

Teams to Play on New Year's Day at Pasadena

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Washington and Jefferson University's eleven, which will meet California's powerful Golden Bears at Pasadena in the East-West classic on New Year's day, resembles California in one respect, at least. It has gone through the season undefeated.

That the "Presidents," as they are called, will be more formidable competition than at first thought, is indicated by the fact that they upset the "dope" five times, and won when least expected to. A great part of the credit for the "Presidents' wins is given to "Greasy" Neale, coach. Neale's work at W. & J. has placed him in the front rank in the east. W. & J. players have been included on practically all of the "All-Star" and "All-American" eleven this year. The Presidents' most notable win was over the University of Pittsburgh. A notable feature of the game was that the Presidents used only eleven men throughout the entire game, winning with their first team without the aid of substitutes or fresh players toward the end of the game.

EXCHANGE RATE CAUSE TROUBLE

GENEVA, Dec. 22.—The Austrian exchange rate is causing considerable perturbation to the Swiss unemployment authorities in districts within easy distance of the Austrian frontier. The "won't work" have found it a pleasant game to hike for Austria as soon as they have drawn their fortnight's unemployment pay of 6.50 francs per day and change it into Austrian kronen, which at the present rate of exchange works out at something near 7,000 kronen a day. On this amount they can live in comfort at good class hotels.

CROWING TO KEEP AWAY ALL EVIL

Xmas Legend Is Retold, Tale of Saint Stephen

EVER since that first Christmas eve the cock has crowed all night long on the anniversary to keep away evil spirits; for the cock is a holy bird and a knowing one. There is a pleasant tale of him and Saint Stephen, the first martyr, whose day is December 26, close by his dear Lord's.

Saint Stephen was King Herod's steward, it seems, who served him in the kitchen and at table. One night as he was bringing in the boar's head for his master's dinner he saw the Star shining over Bethlehem. Immediately he set down the huge platter and exclaimed: "No longer, Herod, will I be thy servant, for a greater King than thou is born."

"What alleth thee?" cried the King wrathfully. "Do you lack meat or drink that you would desert my service for another's?" "Nay," answered Stephen. "I lack neither meat nor drink, but the Child that is born this night is greater than all of us; and Him only will I serve."

"That is as true," quoth Herod, smiting the table with his fist, "as that this roast cock on the platter shall crow before us."

Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the cock stretched his neck and crowed lustily, "Christus natus est!" At this proof that Stephen's words were true, Herod was so angry that he made his soldiers take Stephen outside the walls of Jerusalem and stone him to death. And this is the reason why, unto this day, Saint Stephen is the patron of stone-cutters. Abbie Farwell Brown, in Lippincott's Magazine.

JOHNNY'S FEARS
WHERE we use' to live we had A fireplace big an' wide, An' all that Santy had to do Was hold his breath an' slide, An' squeeze hisself until he fit The hole, an' then est drop— An' he knowed where the stockin's was, 'Cause that was where he'd stop.

Where we use' to live, it was No trick for him to climb Up to the chimbley on the roof An' find us, Christmas time; But now I'm worryin' for fear He won't know where he's at, Or mebbe can't get in at all! We're livin' in a flat!

We're livin' in a flat, an' say, You mus' be most polite, Or else the janitor he'll go An' lock you out at night! There ain't no chimbley to our house, Where Santa Claus can slide— There ain't no fireplace—just a pipe About two inches wide.

They heat our flat with steam—that's why I'm afraid he can't get in With all his toys an' drums an' things, Unless he's awful thin; An' how's he go' to wriggle out When he gets it? Gee Whiz! There's such an awful little hole There where the sizzle is!

A current yarn about a loquacious Irishman has a smile in it. "Father," said he, on meeting the parish priest one day, "phwat is lumbago?" Seeing an opportunity for needed reproof, the good father replied: "'Tis a terrible disease which comes from drinking up booze and chasing around nights."
"Is that so?" said Pat. "It says in the paper that the Pope has lumbago."

COAST ELEVENS TO MEET JANUARY NOW PLANNED

U. of S. C. to Play Team from University of Idaho

MOSCOW, Ida., Dec. 22.—Plans are under way for a game between the University of Idaho and the University of Southern California elevens next year. The two colleges are the newcomers in the Pacific Coast conference. The tentative date under consideration is November 28, 1922.

Idaho's football record this year was fair, and the prospects for the coming year are bright. Idaho won four games, tied one, and lost three.

Next year's football schedule will include games with Washington, Oregon, and Washington State. Idaho will also compete in conference basketball.

SHIP COLLIDES WITH TROLLEY CAR

DUBLIN, Dec. 22.—The first recorded collision between a ship and a trolleycar occurred here. The vessel, a three-masted sailing ship, the Cymric, was about to enter the Ringstead Dock, and was waiting for the trolleycar to cross the revolving bridge at the dock entrance, but swaying with the tide her bowsprit projected over the bridge and rammed the car, smashing the windows and terrifying the passengers, without, however, injuring anybody. The trolleycar retained its balance and successfully negotiated the bridge.

When a man is continually talking about his troubles his neighbors never trouble about his talk.

DISABLED SERVICE MEN, COMMERCIAL ART STUDENTS, MAKING CHRISTMAS TOYS

WIELD BIG STICK IN CONFERENCE

Intercollegiate Meet Whites Stick Down to Strike for Order

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—The Pacific Coast intercollegiate conference committee has whittled itself a "big stick" and proposes to enforce obedience among the "big eight" colleges holding membership in the organization. The committee will not content itself with making rules. It will enforce them.

The final day of the three-day conference meet here saw the attending delegates exhibit annoyance and promulgate a set of rules informing the world that from now on member colleges are going to play ball with the gang, or there'll be trouble.

Drastic action was precipitated by one or two teams, notably the University of California, getting on a high horse and informing the world what they would or would not do in respect to intercollegiate and championship games.

The conference plans to relieve all champions of this sort of worry by doing the worrying themselves at committee headquarters, where showings made during the season will be considered and conference champions named.

This rule goes for all branches of intercollegiate conference athletics, not alone football, which was the sport to precipitate the action. The clamor which this year rose in the neighborhood of Pasadena and San Diego has echoed its last echo.

With the University of Idaho just barely skimming into membership, the University of Southern California now a member in good standing, and other universities, notably Arizona, keenly anxious to come into the fold, the committee is believed to hold a mean weapon in its standing threat of expulsion in case of refractory behavior.

The larger membership of the conference, with still more territory added, together with the surprise with which eastern and middle-western schools have regarded the coast clamor of the past six weeks, forced the conference to take some definite stand in regard to controlling the situation, especially as regards football.

CHILDREN WERE AFRAID OF SANTA

Black Tots Beat It for Place of Safety When Santa Came

AN amusing story of how Santa Claus frightened the black children at a mission station when he first appeared to them a few years ago, is told by the wife of a missionary stationed at Baidunda, Africa. They had celebrated Christmas at Baidunda before, but they never had had Santa Claus, so Mr. Stover, the missionary, dressed up as good Saint Nick.

"He had been padded and powdered and packed until his own mother would not have known him," Mrs. Stover afterward related. "Presently we gave the signal, the door flew open, and in walked Santa Claus. But, dear me! What consternation! He was greeted with shrieks and groans and cries of 'Let me out! It is the evil one. It is day of judgment!'"

"The urchins, catching the infection of terror from the older black people, fled to their bedrooms, fell down upon their faces, crept under chairs and tables—anywhere to hide themselves. Poor old Santa Claus never had such a greeting before. As soon as he realized the panic he had caused, he tore off his tall hat and white cotton beard. Then from the bags on his back he began to throw gifts right and left and to tell who he was.

"Reassured once more, everyone was soon laughing and chatting, munching the great 'red breads' (doughnuts), tasting their fruits or nibbling at the sweets from the familiar little bags. One man wondered which end up he was to hold the fork Santa Claus had given him. Another immediately tried on his new shirt. The girls arranged their bright-hued handkerchiefs into turbans, while others sought to find some place about their scanty clothing where they could stow away their bunch of bread, as well as the paper of needles and cake of soap given to each.

"It seemed as though everyone tried to talk louder than his neighbors as they examined the costume of Santa Claus, whom they now no longer feared. One man said that he thought it was John the Baptist; another that it was Elijah returned. Yet another thought it was Satan himself."

The mother was sitting on a park seat. Her small son began an argument with another youth. "Who're yer punchin' of?" he demanded truculently. "Tommy!" said the shocked parent. "Your grammar! You should have said, 'Of whom are you punching?'"

YOUNGEST PLAYER SIGNED BY SEALS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—The San Francisco Seals have signed the youngest player in professional baseball.

He is Mike Gabriel, 16-year-old phenom. of Seattle. Mike has been attending school in Los Angeles.

Mike first attracted the attention of George Putnam when he told Ty Cobb where to get off.

"He's cocky, but he's right there," is Putnam's verdict. Ty wanted to use Mike's fielder's mitt in an emergency.

"Now, I don't want anybody to spoil this mitt," was Mike's reply to Ty.

"You're a fresh kid for a bush-er," Ty replied.

"That's all right. I'll be up there playing against your Detroit club in about six years," replied Mike.

"That's a good one," replied Ty. "How do you get that way?"

"What's more, I'll be leading the coast league in hitting in about two years," was Mike's comeback.

Putnam says the Seals will give Mike a good course of sprouts, train him a bit, pan him pretty hard, but will give him every opportunity to make good.

The mother was sitting on a park seat. Her small son began an argument with another youth. "Who're yer punchin' of?" he demanded truculently.

"Tommy!" said the shocked parent. "Your grammar! You should have said, 'Of whom are you punching?'"

GROH DEAL LACKED FAVOR OF CRITICS IN BASEBALL

Amount Paid Is Too Much Declare Dopesters in the East

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—John McGraw did not buy the 1921 National League pennant for the New York Giants when he turned over 150,000 in cash and players for Heinie Groh.

Wise baseball men, including nearly every major league manager, doubt that it was a good deal for the Giants, while agreeing that it was a smart move by Garry Herrmann.

Today the Giants do not look as cool for the pennant as they did this time last fall, when most of the critics picked them to be the '21 champions.

Groh will not strengthen the team where it needs strength, and he was acquired at the cost of George Burns, whose departure was bitterly resented and criticized by the New York fans.

The Giants have Groh, and Frisch must move over to second base, a shift which forces Johnny Rawlings to the bench. After watching the brilliant work of Heinie Groh in the world's series and during the pennant race, it is doubtful if the Giant infield will be any stronger. Frisch can play third base just as good as Groh, and the Fordham flash cannot be a whole lot better than Rawlings at second.

McGraw will have to depend upon Bill Cunningham, Ed Brown and Tim Lincecum, a rookie, to take the place of Burns in centerfield. And he is going to be some job to ask anyone! Burns is getting on and all that, but he could grab in a lot of flies on crutches because he has the instinct of a Speaker in knowing where to camp for them.

McGraw could use a good pitcher more advantage than a star third baseman. If he has enough catches to keep with him, Phil Douglas may have another good year. Toney is an uncertain quantity, and Jess Barnes isn't a fire bet. Neft seems to be jinxed with the team, and Bill Ryan is only a youngster.

Groh hasn't more than three or four seasons ahead of him and he has a peculiar disposition that isn't conducive to morale on a club. Since he finds himself the highest priced player in baseball, even the iron-hand of McGraw may have a task in keeping him down.

SHOPLIFTER, DOING CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY, FINDS ARTIFICIAL HAND USEFUL

The underworld believes in the slogan, "Do your Christmas shopping early," but changes it to "Do your Christmas shopping early and often." The professionals use many clever schemes. The photograph shows one method that has worked very successfully. The shoplifter has an artificial hand. This rests on the counter as does the other hand. The other real hand is busily engaged in picking up valuable articles and sliding them into a pocket inside a large roomy coat.

The Giants stand today with an uncertain outfield instead of one of the best in baseball before it was broken up. The club has a wonderful infield, just a few points better than last years, however, and with the same batteries that went through the last season.

GROUP SYSTEM TO WORK OUT RIGHT SAYS BRYAN

Continuing Tribunal Must Be Established He Says

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (Copyright 1921 by United Press)

Although the conference has been in session for more than five weeks, no outward progress has been made toward the establishment of a permanent tribunal for a consideration of the questions that may arise from time to time between nations.

It was taken for granted that the President would not favor any plan that would take the United States into the League of Nations as it existed. Some thought that he might be willing to accept the organization under a new name and with changes made in the covenant to suit the reservations adopted by the United States senate.

As time went on, it became evident that the President and his advisors would prefer a new organization quite different in its general plan from the league.

It was intimated that the court of arbitration would be given a larger jurisdiction, that a certain code of international law would be agreed upon and a commission of inquiry established for the investigation of disputes which cannot be submitted to arbitration, or settled by the application of specific rules.

The four-power agreement was pointed to as an illustration of the general principle that would be followed. Now, however, it has leaked out that cooperation is being planned upon quite a different line.

Instead of one league of nations, made up of representatives of the governments, the nations will be divided into four groups, each group representing a geographical area. One will include all of the governments in the Western hemisphere; another all the countries in Europe; a third all the countries in Asia and a fourth will be made up of a Pacific group. The world is not so much interested in any particular plan, but international peace requires some plan. All of the delegates who had a voice in the settlement of disputes would be more or less closely connected with the subject matter. The group system would especially recommend itself to that portion of the American public which looks with suspicion upon American interference in European affairs and is jealous of European interference in American politics. On the other hand, the group system has the weakness of excluding disinterested nations whose counsel might be valuable to harmonize the conflict between the interests of nations immediately connected with disputes. However, nothing will be done in a hurry, the merits of the different plans can be compared when formally presented. The conference will not be a complete success unless it brings forth some continuing tribunal.

DEMANDS WILL MEET DISFAVOR

Believed British, French Requests Are Already Doomed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The American arms delegation opposes granting France a top-heavy allotment of submarines or other auxiliary craft. It also will reject Great Britain's plea for abolition of submarines.

Undaunted by these facts—news of which emanates from responsible American sources—the British and French were proceeding today with plans for pressing their desires on these points.

Hope of reaching a complete agreement on limitation of naval armament before Christmas now appears extremely doubtful. The only obstacles remaining are the French demands for a big allotment of auxiliary craft and the British desire that submarines be abolished, but considerable discussion on these points is expected. The French were reported to want between 75,000 and 90,000 tons of submarines.

ANGLER PAID FOR FISHING BAIT

LONDON, Dec. 22.—An angler boarding a train at Wrexham carrying his can of live-bait was staggered to receive a demand for "excess baggage fare," the railway officials contending that live-bait—small fishes swimming in a can—was not passengers' ordinary luggage. He had to pay, but all the anglers' associations in England are taking the matter up with the railway companies.

How much easier it is to buy things on the installment plan than it is to pay for them that way.

NOT TOO PROUD OF HIS SON SAYS DAD TROTZKY

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—"How proud you must be of your son," Isadore Duncan, remarked recently upon meeting the aged father of Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister. "Nee-let" (n-n-no), Trotsky, senior, answered, wagging his head. "Before I had two fine factories that paid well. Now we have Bolshevism, and I have no factories."

SPECIAL SESSION NOT PROBABLE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—There will be no special session of the legislature on reapportionment of legislative districts until congress has settled congressional reapportionment," Martin Madsen, executive secretary, speaking for Governor Stephens, declared today. According to Madsen, no immediate action will be taken.

Several new systems of reapportionment have been presented to various state commercial bodies recently for consideration. Among these is the New York system, providing for county representation rather than district representation.

STAGE CURTAIN BE READY SOON

That it may be ready for the Christmas play which is to be given before the Tuesday Afternoon club by the drama section next Tuesday, members of that section have been hard at work this week making the new stage curtain which the drama section has purchased with the help of other sections. It will be like a Christmas present to the club and will add much to dramatic performances which may be given before the organization.

DREAMS MADE THIS WELSH COAL MINER A SUCCESSFUL PAINTER OF LANDSCAPES

No Myth About "Pegleg" Says Pioneer Who Knew Prospector

True Narrative of "Pegleg" Smith Discoverer of Mythical Mine That Lured Scores to Desert Some of Whom Lost Their Lives

BLYTHE, Calif., Dec. 22.—Here's the real story of "Pegleg" Smith, the discoverer of the more or less mythical mine which lured scores of prospectors into the desert, many of them giving up their lives in the search of what they believed to be unlimited deposits of gold.

The story comes from Jonathan Tibbet, of Riverside, a man who in his boyhood knew "Pegleg" Smith as a ranch hand on his father's farm west of El Monte. What Tibbet did not know of his personal knowledge, he gained from his father, whose name also was Jonathan Tibbet, and who was one of the early gold seekers of this section, having first come to California in the late '40's.

Mr. Tibbet believes that the mine Smith may have found was located by him much earlier than the '70s, when he is alleged to have first told the story over the bar of the old Starks hotel in San Bernardino. At least the present day record only carries the story back to that date.

Has Drawings

But the story is most interesting one, though Mr. Tibbet never took the alleged discovery seriously enough to take the time or trouble to spend any time on the desert looking for the mine, even though he is in possession of drawings that are supposed to locate the "Pegleg" Smith mine. And one party of men who lost their lives on the desert some years ago would not have done so, Mr. Tibbet states, had they followed his advice given before they left.

Jonathan Tibbet, Sr., was a member of a train of 110 fighting men who came west from Independence, Mo., in 1853, with ox teams. They came the northern route, and at Ft. Laramie, Wyoming, the train was joined by several men, among them being the man who afterward became known as "Pegleg" Smith. At that time he had two perfectly good legs and was a typical westerner of the period.

The train came south by way of Salt Lake, and at Chicken creek, which is described as one day's drive east of Mountain meadow in southern Utah, they encountered Indians, and a battle ensued in which Smith was seriously wounded in the left leg, and a woman in the party in case arm.

They were only meagerly equipped with medical facilities and the injured rapidly grew worse from the wounds. It was decided that Smith's leg must be amputated if his life was to be saved, and the woman's arm also was to be taken off. But there were no surgeons in the party, so some of the men undertook the operations.

Leg Sawed Off

Assisted by several other of the men, Jonathan Tibbet, Sr., sawed off Smith's leg with a common handsaw, after the flesh had been cut back and the arteries tied in a crude manner. But the operation was successful and Smith recovered. Not so with the woman, however, who died.

Mr. Tibbet later made the wooden leg that Smith wore for many years, which caused him to be given the name of "Pegleg" Smith by the ranch hands of the Tibbet ranch three miles west of El Monte, where he was employed at times.

Jonathan Tibbet, Jr., still has the saw in his museum collection that his father said he used for sawing the bone of Smith's leg.

In later years when Tibbet, Jr., was yet a lad, Smith would frequently set out from the Tibbet ranch with a grubstake of the cesert, in search for gold. He would sometimes be gone for weeks or months, but would invariably come back laden with rich gold nuggets—nuggets of the type usually found in placer deposits.

Replies Not Satisfactory
Tibbet's father used to question Smith as to where he got the gold, but never got a satisfactory reply, except that he had located a very rich deposit and described three buttes as a landmark by which he located the mine. He even went so far as to make a crude drawing of the region in which he went for the gold, and this or a copy of it is still in possession of Mr. Tibbet, Jr.

"And it is remarkable how closely this drawing follows the lines of a drawing made by Indians showing the same region," states Tibbet. "But I have never taken the thing seriously enough to make a search for it myself or to induce others to do so, for I know that tales of this character are of uncertain authenticity."

Mr. Tibbet, Jr., says that his father always believed that Smith had simply located a rich placer pocket some place, and that he made his trips to the spot and that was possibly the entire foundation for his dream of gold. However, that was only conjecture, as Smith was never communicative on the subject.

That he distinctly remembers Smith hobbling about the ranch on his wooden leg is related by Tibbet, who used to ride a pony to the El Monte postoffice to get the mail. On more than one occasion he accompanied Smith as far as El Monte when the "Pegleg" prospector was leaving for periodical trips to the desert, getting the mail and then returning home.

Found in Fifties
Tibbet believes that Smith told the tale of a very rich mine many times; that what he did find was first discovered away back in the '50s, and that from time to time the story was told causing groups of prospectors to go to the desert in search of it. It was probably one of these times that Smith told the story in San Bernardino at the Starks hotel bar in the early '70s that caused an exodus from that city in search of the mine.

Tibbet believes that if the fabulous mine does exist that it is much farther north than has been supposed by many of those who have sought it. He is inclined to the region to the north of Salton sea rather than south of it, from the information he has.

However, Mr. Tibbet says that he has no real knowledge on the subject, that all his information is more or less of a legendary character and is of little value in any search that might be made.

Publisher George Doran of New York was laughing about Conan Doyle's rampant belief in spiritualism. "Doyle's friends poke fun at him," he said, "but he takes it all in good part. At a dinner in Golden's Green, the Greenwich village of London, Doyle's host said to him one evening: 'How will you have your roast beef, Sir Arthur? Underdone or—' but here the hostess interrupted: 'It takes no Sherlock Holmes,' she said, 'to tell how he'll have his beef. He'll have it "medium" of course.'"

Almost any pretty girl can bring out the silliness in a man's nature.

MARSHAL FOCH'S GREETINGS SENT

Declares Unalterable Affection for People of U. S. A.

HAVRE, Dec. 22.—Marshal Foch dispatched a message to the people of America through the United Press on his arrival here today. The message read:

"I bring back an impression of a sympathetic welcome that I can never forget. I am most touched, I consider America a country of vast economic possibilities, infinite resources and immense realizations. Furthermore, Americans are guided in their movements by disinterested and noble sentiments. I am glad to express to them unalterable affection."

MEANEST THIEF CHICKEN HOUND

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—The race for the world's meanest thief is still on. New entries are coming in right along. During a midnight storm here recently thieves entered the chicken house of a poor family and carried away the last two remaining fowls of what had been a large flock. The father and husband of the family had sold the greater part of his chickens to pay rent and buy food for his family. The two chickens were being saved for the Christmas dinner.

TICKET SALE FOR TOURNAMENT ON

Only 57 Left of Allotment of 110 to Local Chamber

People who are planning to attend the Pasadena tournament of roses on New Year's day are urged to secure tickets at once for the chamber of commerce has sold almost half of its allotment already and it will be impossible to secure more. The chamber was allowed 110 tickets to the pageant, good for admission to the football game and all other features of the tournament. Of this number there are only 57 tickets unsold.

Secretary Rhoades announces that the sale of these tickets is being conducted on the basis of "first come, first served," and that when the 57 remaining tickets are sold that it will be impossible to secure others.

THEDA BARA COW HAS DISAPPEARED

OREGON CITY, Ore., Dec. 22.—Somebody has gone and vamped Theda Bara. Blonde and beautiful, the pride of the household, she left tears and regret behind her when she went. Her tracks led to the highway. They disappeared right where the marks of the roadway showed that a motor car had stopped. Her camper was also her kidnaper. The bereaved family is mourning for its vanished cow.

Interesting Data On New Revenue Act In Effect Soon

Readers Will Find Number of Changes in Revenue Act of 1921, Income Tax Changes Are Noted in Bulletin Issued by Internal Revenue Officer

There follows a brief summary of the salient features of the new Revenue Act of 1921, which has been compiled in an effort to acquaint the tax-paying public with the changes made by the new act over the old one. This statement is issued by John P. Carter, collector of internal revenue, sixth district of California, and inasmuch as the matter of internal revenue taxation, and especially income tax, is of keen interest to virtually all. The summary follows:

"Enactment of new revenue legislation has brought to the offices of collectors of internal revenue a flood of inquiries regarding various provisions. The Revenue Act of 1921 became effective November 23, 1921, 'unless otherwise provided for.'"

"To avoid error in the preparation of their returns and later difficulties with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, taxpayers are advised to carefully note the changes and when they become effective. The excess profits tax is repealed as of January 1, 1922. The rates for 1921 are unchanged.

"The surtax rates for the calendar year 1921 are unchanged, and range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 the surtax rates range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000.

"The exemption allowed for a dependent is increased from $200 to $300. Married persons living with husband or wife and head of families are allowed a personal exemption of $2,500 (instead of $2,000) unless the net income is in excess of $5,000, in which case the personal exemption is only $2,000. The act provides that in no case shall the reduction of the personal exemption from $2,500 to $2,000 operate to increase the tax which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the amount of the net income in excess of $5,000. This is to overcome the disparity in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2,000 exemption and the other just within the higher $2,500 exemption.

"Single persons, and married persons not living with husband or wife, are allowed an exemption of $1,000. Non-resident aliens are allowed a single personal exemption of $1,000. Persons having gross incomes for 1921 of $5,000 or over are required to make a return, regardless of the amount of net income.

"Provision is made for the repeal as of January 1, 1922, of the tax on stockholders of a personal service corporation as such. After that date such corporations are to be taxed in the same manner as other corporations.

"The income tax on corporations for the calendar year 1922 and thereafter is increased from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent. The $2,000 exemption heretofore allowed corporations is to be granted only to those corporations whose net income is $25,000 or less.

"Many persons are under the impression that the taxes on ice cream, soft drinks, etc., monthly returns of which are required have been repealed with the enactment of the new act. These taxes remain in force until the end of the calendar year 1921.

"No change is made in the tax on admissions, except that after January 1, 1922, there will be no tax where admission is 10 cents, or less. Effective January 1, 1922 the following taxes are also abolished: on musical instruments, sporting goods, chewing gum, portable electric fans, thermos bottles, fur articles, pleasure boats, and pleasure canoes (unless sold for more than $100), toilet articles, medicines, and numerous articles of apparel.

"On and after January 1, 1922 the tax on various works of art is reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent, the tax on candy from 5 per cent to 3 per cent, and the tax on carpets, rugs, trunks, valises, purses, fans, etc., from 10 per cent of sales price in excess of specified amounts to 5 per cent of sales price in excess of specified amounts.

"The tax on parcel post packages is eliminated effective January 1, 1922. The new act provides that no taxpayer shall be subjected to unnecessary examinations or investigations, and only one inspection of his books of accounts shall be made for each taxable year unless the taxpayer requests otherwise, or the Commissioner notifies the taxpayer in writing that an additional inspection is necessary.

"The period for filing returns on the calendar year basis is from January 1 to March 15, 1922. This year, as last, the tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15."

J. E. Howes of 200 West Broadway is in receipt of information to the effect that he may expect anywhere from 11,000 to 14,000 tourists to Los Angeles over one road alone during January. Glendale will get her share. Not only tourists but local people, at the beaches and in Los Angeles, have marked Glendale for their future home.

Mr. Howes came to Glendale from Buffalo, Minnesota, over 12 years ago. He came here when Glendale was in its infancy. He has seen its awakening and rapid growth, in fact has grown with it. There is no one in a better position to judge realty values here, than Mr. Howes.

It is the opinion of Mr. Howes that Glendale has reached that point of development where it must become self-supporting; where it must combine the home city with industrial progress; where it must offer inducements to manufacturers and necessary builders of a great commonwealth to come here. In other words, it must have something back of it, besides just being a home city.

Glendale has a very strategic position at the head of the San Fernando valley, which is the main artery from the San Joaquin into Los Angeles, and a vast amount of travel must come through Glendale, of which it is bound to profit.

Associated with Mr. Howes is A. D. Merry, a recent arrival from Minneapolis, Minn. Before traveling over the whole Southland from Santa Barbara to San Diego, and declares in no uncertain terms, that Glendale is the prettiest and best little city in all California, and is greatly impressed with its possibilities.

"So, taken all in all, we can't see where Glendale can possibly lose out," said Mr. Howes. "If in the market for a house, buy now," is the urgent advice of Mr. Howes. "For prices are sure to advance and the field of selection cut down after the new year gets under way. If all the people come to Glendale that are thinking of coming, 'I don't know what we are going to do with them. It is the real estate man who has made Glendale what it is today, and taken as a whole they should receive the universal backing of the public, who have received the benefit of their work."

STATE SUICIDES ON THE INCREASE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—Suicides in California will break all previous records this year, according to figures compiled by L. E. Ross, statistician of the state board of health. The increase in suicides is due to unemployment, Ross said. He estimated there will be 942 deaths by suicide in the state for 1921. Suicidal deaths last year were 706, in 1919 there was a total of 834 and in 1918, 813.

"The usual number of persons who commit suicide over unrequited love or because of great sorrow is included in this total," Ross said. "However, such suicides do not vary. The charges depend on prosperity or lack of it. Hard times can be blamed for the big increase in suicides this year." Ross' figures show that five persons kill themselves in this state every 48 hours.

RUPERT HUGHES IS HELPING OUT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Rupert Hughes, eminent author, who was major in the world war, is putting in some licks for peace for the American Legion here, where he is an active member of Los Angeles post No. 8. In his hours off duty at the studio he is aiding in preparations to present the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera "Pinafore" at the Philharmonic auditorium under the auspices of the Legion this week.

The wife of a Scotch farmer had a tongue that cue like a knife. One day the minister passed the farmstead and noticed the farmer standing calmly in the midst of a heavy downpour of rain.

"Why on earth don't you get indoors?" he queried.

Professor at University of Illinois Has New Device Which May Make Possible Hearing Voices at Movie Shows

URBANA, Ill., Dec. 22.—Will the moving picture industry receive a revolutionary addition through a scientific discovery made at the University of Illinois, basic patents for which are held by that institution? It seems possible that this discovery will make the movies of the future talk, so that there will no longer be "the silent drama."

The scientific discovery is that of an extremely sensitive and reliable "photo-electric cell," made about two years ago in the physical laboratories of the University by Professor Jakob Kunz. The incident is a good example of the unexpectedness by which some great discovery may be made years in advance before it can be practically used.

The photo-electric cell is a device for turning flashes of light into electric pulses and is so sensitive that it reacts to light from stars which cannot be seen with the naked eye. Because of this extreme sensitiveness, the photo-electric cell promises to displace the selenium cell which has been used up to the present time in experiments carried on to produce speech accompanying moving pictures.

A Swedish scientist has developed a device which he calls the "photo-phone" by which such speech is more or less perfectly produced. This is done by having a second film on the same spindle as the moving picture film, on which are photographed various curves and openings corresponding to the words which are to accompany the pictures. A beam of light sent through this film falls upon a selenium cell. The selenium cell depends upon a discovery made many years ago that the metal selenium changes its electric resistance when light falls upon it.

It is thus possible to get variations in an electric current by letting the beam of light from a speech photograph film fall upon such a cell. These variations act in a telephone to produce speech. The selenium cell is much inferior to Dr. Kunz's photo-electric cell in transforming light waves into electric pulses. The photo-electric cell is not only much more sensitive, but it has no lag; that is, it responds immediately to a light wave even after hours and days of use. The selenium cell is not only not as sensitive, but it has the disadvantage of having this lag, or fatigue.

"Dr. Kunz has been working for several years on the effect of light on certain of the alkali metals, such as potassium and sodium," said the head of the department. "A layer of any one of these metals when in a vacuum of certain low pressure gases gives off negative electricity; that is, a current of electricity can be produced by letting a beam of light fall upon a film of potassium which is properly prepared inside of an exhausted glass bulb. The current passes across the evacuated space to a loop of platinum wire, and thus to the outside circuit. While this electric current is very small, it can be amplified by methods which are well known today in electro-technics, and so the size of the current is no detriment to the use of the photo-electric cell."

"Just as the little currents, which were set up at Arlington Cemetery on Armistice Day by President Harding's voice were magnified and reproduced thousands of miles away, so can these little photo-electric currents be magnified and produce sounds in loud speaking telephones."

It is therefore logical to expect that the scientific discovery of a sensitive and reliable photo-electric cell will be used to give us the perfect photo-phone of the future. One large company is said to be already developing such a use of this photo-electric cell.

"Oh, I'm in such a perspiration!" cried a high school girl as she fanned herself with her tennis racket. "Miss Frankland," rebuked the austere head mistress. "I hope I shall never again hear such an expression. Kindly remember that oxen sweat, men perspire, but young ladies glow."

Sir Edgar Speyer No Longer British Subject Naturalization Revoked

The name of Sir Edgar Speyer, partner of the well-known banking firm of Speyer Brothers, of London, Frankfurt and New York, has been struck from the list of privy councillors and the certificate of naturalization for himself, his wife and three daughters has been revoked, according to an announcement in the official London Gazette. Sir Edgar, born in Germany in 1862, became a British citizen in 1912. His name came up during the war in the list of alien enemies, but he was cleared at that time. The recent action, which is extraordinary, follows a trial held secretly in November.

TOOK HER WAFFLE RECIPE, SHE SUES

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Charging that a recipe for waffles published under her name has damaged her reputation as a culinary expert, Ida B. A. Chapman has filed suit against the Hebe Company, a cook book publishing concern, for $100,000. Mrs. Chapman charges her reputation as a domestic science expert has been damaged to that extent, should the waffle receipt fall into the hands of women who regard her as a high authority on cooking.

Beside the damages Mrs. Chapman asks an injunction restraining the publishers from using her name over the offending recipe. She states her income from her writings on cookery is $3000 a month. Mrs. Chapman has been director of domestic science for the Y. W. C. A., at Worcester, Mass., and through her dissemination of information about cooking, the suit papers state, has prevented the breaking up of many homes.

There is a funny side even about a poor slum child's ignorance of the country's beauties and joys. A philanthropist one summer day said to a ragged urchin of seven or eight: "You've got a real treat coming. We're going to send you to the country for a week." "Oh, don't!" replied the urchin, and he looked as if he was about to cry. "Why?" exclaimed the philanthropist, in surprise. "What's your objection to the country?" "They've got thrashing machines there, ain't they?" answered the boy. "Well, it's bad enough here, where it's done by hand."

The Day Dreams Of The Old Folks at Christmas

By FRANK L. STANTON

Old folks, too, like Christmas; Grandfather, sitting there, Feels sad if he's forgotten 'cause he's in his chimney-chair; He says he's thinkin' of the days that he no more will see, When he was just a little boy—a Christmas boy—like me.

He listens to the fire—for it's always talkin' so, And then it is he calls to mind his good times long ago When the Christmas wind was whistlin' through the cold and frosty nights And children dreamed of Christmas bells and watched for Christmas lights.

He doesn't seem to hear at all the noise the children make, For when he sits the stillest there he's dreamin' wide awake! But mother—then she tells us to all run right out and play, For old folks hear sweet music when they're dreamin' day by day.

And then Grandmother—SHE comes in and sits beside him there, And puts her hand in his, and says sweet words he loves to hear; But what they are she'd never tell to mother or to you; She knows that he is dreamin', for she dreams the same dreams, too.

So Christmas comes to old folks, and it's then they love to know The children don't forget 'em, though they lived so long ago! An' they say the sweetest present of all sweet things and fair Is a kiss on Christmas mornin', when we climb their chimney-chair.

Former N. Y. Governor Brought Lloyd George and De Valera Together

The part played by former Governor Martin H. Glynn, of New York, in arranging the conference which led to the arrangement in the Irish peace negotiations, has just been disclosed by Mr. Glynn for the first time. Mr. Glynn said that while in London last April it was his good fortune to be honored by Premier Lloyd George in extending an invitation to Mr. de Valera to come to London and discuss a settlement of the Irish question. "That invitation," said Mr. Glynn, "led to the meetings between the prime minister and President de Valera which brought about the settlement."

EAT SMOKE MEAT SEE HOW IT TASTES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 22.—A score of students and laboratory instructors at West Virginia University were treated to a rattlesnake feast today while Dr. A. M. Reese, head of the department of zoology, incidentally attempted to prove that much meat goes to waste owing to common scruples.

The rattler from the West Virginia hills was presented to the university several weeks ago. When it declined to eat, Dr. Reese killed it and cooked it. Those who partook said the meat was not unlike the breast of a chicken and had the same appearance in color.

Dr. Reese killed a crocodile for the zoology department students several years ago and cooked it to prove, he said, that "in the swampy lands of the south and other places where reptiles abound, hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of meat goes to waste every year because of foolish scruples." All meat, he declared, is alike and if one is good to eat, so is another.

STAGGERING COW TIPS OFFICERS

MIAMI, Ariz., Dec. 22.—Local officers tell the tale that staggering cows, drunk from feeding on fermented mash, gave the first clew through which was discovered the location of a large distilling plant from which has come much of the "white mule" that has been sold in this vicinity. Within 300 yards of the Live Oak mine, behind a clump of replanted trees, were found two stills, one of them declared the best ever discovered in the district.

Inborn Lack of Initiative Great Russian Drawback

"Sechass" as It Is Known in Russia Is One Thing That Is Holding Great Nation in Check at This Period of Its History

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—Inborn lack of personal initiative on the part of the nation as a whole is Russia's greatest poverty today—greater than famine or economic ruin wrought by four years of revolution and civil war.

This single factor is retarding Russia's recovery more than all other forces combined. It is Russia's real national tragedy, because it prevents Russia from effectively helping herself. Until a sense of initiative can be generally aroused, Russia's economic development will have to be largely in the hands of foreigners, or Russian Jews, the only call of native Russians with much motive force.

On this account, Russia's recovery may be slow, viewed from American standards. A sense of initiative doubtless can be created, but it is a matter of education and of economic opportunity—for hitherto, under Russia's mediaeval feudalism, enterprise has never "paid"; it generally only enriched one's overlord.

Russia is the greatest potential economic and political force in Europe today. It is too early to judge just how far the shock of the Revolution has gone in the awakening of the lethargy. The nation is still, figuratively speaking, in the numb stage, not having sufficiently recovered from the blow.

Personally the Russians are the most delightful and lovable folk in Europe. Even the ordinary peasant or drotshky driver has a sense of the dramatic that is even more pleasing than that of the Latins.

In so many ways save their lack of enterprise the Russians have more in common with Americans than any other continental people. They have the same sense of humor; they laugh at the same kind of things. They are the only European folk save the Irish—who do "translate" the average American joke into Russian, improve it with the humanness of the Russian art of story-telling and you will get as hearty and instantaneous a laugh as in Los Angeles. In all other European countries the American joke falls absolutely flat. Russians are genial, like Americans. They possess that American interest in the other fellow. They are aurally trusting—a trait which even the years of Revolution, and espionage under the Czar haven't been able to eradicate.

They are the only continental Europeans who possess that half-sentimental interest in women and children, so typical of the Anglo-Saxon, particularly the American. Geographically, Russia has more in common with America than any other European nation. Both are big countries, with the mutual problems of large geographical units. Both are composite nations.

But the Russian sechass (in a moment) unfortunately tells more of Russia's story than any other single word in the Russian language. Like "Manana" in Mexico, it is the most frequently recurring word in the language. There is a difference, however, in that when the Mexican says "manana" he never expects to do the thing, but when the Russian says "sechass," he really intends to do it sometime.

An appointment with a Russian statesman is the most uncertain quantity in Russia. If he makes a date for two in the afternoon, he may receive you at five, perhaps at six, he may receive you immediately. He may, at the end of three hours of waiting, ask you to please come back tomorrow or next week. This latter may be repeated two or three times. The sense of promptness in engagements simply doesn't exist in Russia. Everybody comes one, two, three hours late.

Yuletide Period Is A Tonic To the Sick Says Physician

physician which gives tone and vigor to the struggler in life's race. There is no need nowadays, thanks to the good sense of the people and the counsels of their medical advisers, to moralize about the evils of a stupid indulgence in food, alcohol and tobacco on a festive occasion such as the present. Practically everybody realizes the great physiological advantages of being wise on a merry occasion.

Many more persons than formerly feel where use ends and abuse begins, and they act sensibly accordingly; and so far from it being a crime to make the season festive by enjoying, on a little scale, the creature comforts of life, some decided good is done to both the mental and physical health of the individual.

The festive season may, therefore, be welcomed, which brings cheer to thousands, which induces the generous and charitable to brace the mental and physical functions of the community at large, giving it the opportunity of relinquishing its business and its worries for a time, to start again refreshed and ready for "the trivial round, the common task." The prescription "A Merry Christmas" is sound so long as the "signature" of good sense is observed.

It may not be easy to trace exactly why the sense of exhilaration and well-being comes with the advent of Christmas, for the psychological factors concerned are not simple. But the main point is that the mental state does everybody good, and the annual festivity is just as excellent an institution as the prescription of the

Joy of Christmas Makes All Men Forget Trouble

Season Proves That Human Beings Are Really All Friends

ONE of the finest things about Christmas is its truthness, the joyous reality of it. At Christmas time no exhortation is necessary to make it go; Christmas never has to be made a "success," as a parade or a pageant.

Christmas is in a certain sense an institution; it comes at a certain date each year; it always has its Christmas tree, its stockings, its poultry dinner colored with cranberries. But it is one of those institutions that has never been institutionalized; it exists in the nature of man.

Christmas proves to us that men, women and children are at heart friendly beings. The spontaneity of Christmas giving and Christmas cheer proves what people really want to be—good friends.

Wars go on at other times; men and women quarrel among themselves over property or over other men and women; artificial requirements are imposed that incite to greed, dishonesty and bitterness. But at Christmas time there comes over the broad surface of our western civilization, which is pretty much like other civilizations, a great reversion to type. Man wants most to be happy, he wants to dance and sing and to make other persons happy. At other times than Christmas something seems to be wrong, and man reasons that someone else is to blame.

At Christmas time there is a general forgetting of everything but being natural. Christmas is the great annual armistice of that portion of humanity that has come to be segregated under the name of Christendom.

Christmas is the finest thing that has come out of Christianity, because it is the friendliest thing. Men and women are not naturally and healthily mediators; the best part of their lives and the most of their happiness does not come from the tyranny they exercise or the repressions they set up or the reformatory cruelties they inflict on others.

At Christmas time men and women forget to be anything but children again.

Perhaps some day there will be a sort of Christmas every day of the year. Perhaps men and women will be able to forget more often and more completely, and thereby live more completely, the elimination of bitterness and artificial antagonisms being both the cause and the effect of this happy state.

Perhaps one of the lessons of Christmas is that we have more to forget than to learn.—Detroit News.

Much Competition Among Daughters of the Nobility

Honor of Acting as Bridesmaid for Princess Mary Is Being Sought by Many of the Younger Set in London This Season

LONDON, Dec. 22.—There is tremendous competition among the daughters of Britain's nobility for the honor of acting as bridesmaid for Princess Mary. It is presumed that she will have at least eight attendants, but several of the names are booked automatically by the royal, or semi-royal, prerogative. Practically "certain starters" are Princess Maud, daughter of the Princess Royal; Princess May, daughter of Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone; and Lady Mary Ambridge, daughter of Queen Mary's brother, the Marquis of Ambridge.

The claims of hundreds of other nobles are being carefully examined by the Lord Chamberlain's department, which first of all studies the "reputation" of the candidates' families and excludes relatives of divorcees or others whose breath of scandal may have reached the revised list for the bride-elect for the royal selection. Princess Mary's household is to be supplied by the various associations providing work for war widows and orphans and will be entirely British. Irish lace will form a large part of the trousseau, as well as Irish linen, and the whole will be hand worked. There will probably be some wonderful Indian shawls, gifts from Indian princes, and a few special national gifts from Australia, Canada, and other British dominions. The gowns, however, will be entirely of English make. Queen Mary and her daughter have already taken this important matter under their own personal direction, although the Lord Chamberlain's department will be in charge of the routine work of sorting out the most of applicants for the honor of providing portions of the trousseau. In view of the immense fortune of the bridegroom, the Princess will be able to satisfy her tastes to the fullest extent, and her wardrobe will be much more extensive than the average royal bride's.

Princess Mary's marriage license is a much more imposing affair than that required by the ordinary bride. It is a "Royal Warrant" signed by King George and endorsed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and is a huge sheet of parchment thirty inches square. It is entirely "engrossed" by hand in the old-world flowing script, with huge black-letter insertions. "Whereas," "By the Grace of God," "we," and "Our Royal Assents" throughout the document, is the work of F. J. Bull, the veteran chief clerk at the Archbishop's Faculty office, who has prepared all royal marriage licenses for the past forty years. Bull, who takes an artist's pride in his work, admitted that the license is eight inches long and is divided into twenty quills pen nibbed down to various thicknesses for different parts of the work. The marriage certificate will be a similar document.

"Harewood House," the Lascelles ancestral home, is a magnificent mansion eight miles north of Leeds, built in 1761. It took eleven years to complete, and cost a fortune. During the recent war it narrowly escaped destruction in an air raid.

In addition to this famous mansion, Princess Mary will have half a dozen other residences to choose from, the most magnificent being Hesterfield House, South Audley street, London, which Viscount Lascelles bought for his own use a couple of years ago out of the fortune left him by his uncle, the Marquis of Clanricarde. Built for the fourth Lord Chesterfield ("Letters to His Son" fame) it is a home which only the very wealthiest man could afford to keep up. In former days it was regarded as one of the best houses in London fit to be compared with the luxurious palaces of the old French nobility, and the present owner has spent huge sums bringing it up to date.

Viscount Lascelles gained his huge fortune from the Marquis of Clanricarde by a lucky chance. The old Marquis, who had handed his great income (according to some estimates 130,000 pounds a year) for many years. He lived a secluded life, wearing shabby clothes, and faring frugally, and allowing his estates to go to rack and ruin rather than spend money on their upkeep. He suspected all his relatives of intriguing for his fortune. Lascelles' grandmother was Lord Clanricarde's sister, but he had never displayed much affection for her.

But while on leave in the early days of the war, Viscount Lascelles suddenly decided to pay his great-uncle a visit. The visit was of the "might as well call while I am passing" type, but it was a lucky visit for Lascelles.

PRAYER SOLUTION OF ALL WARS SAYS WAR'S HERO

Pray Every Night Says Alvin C. York, American Hero

JAMESTOWN, Tenn., Dec. 22.—"Every night when you say your prayers, ask the Lord to stop war. The way for nations to get along is to deal with each other as men do—who hope to get along on the square. Up here in the mountains when a man whips another he does not jump on him with his boots. Nations should be as just."

This is the Christmas message of Sergeant Alvin C. York, who killed and captured more Germans than any other American soldier.

York, sitting in front of the roaring open fire, discussed the Washington conference in the drawing room of a Tennessee mountain home. York's home today is a two-room cabin of logs, jutting from the face of a cliff, deep in the hills of Tennessee. It is 11 miles from Jamestown, over almost impassable wagon tracks.

"The conference won't be a success unless it deal out justice to all nations. If it does something only to big powers and tramples little ones, I hope it falls through."

"Even Germany must get justice. Germany was whipped but that's no sign why they should hop on her and take everything she has. But Germany ought to pay for every penny of actual damage she did."

"How do you feel toward the Germans now?" I asked York. "I have not a thing against them today. It wasn't our fault they fought us. It was the fault of their military leaders."

"No honest man wants war. I know what war is. I've been over there. I'm too busy running my farm to know anything about international politics, but I do know what's square, and that's all that counts."

"Would you go to war again?" he was asked.

"That depends," he drawled. "I'd feel like it of course, unless it was some squabble of other nations that didn't concern us. But if Uncle Sam called me I would go. I never was a conscientious objector."

York refuses to be regarded as poverty stricken or unfortunate. Many erroneous tales are in circulation, he says, about his 400-acre farm at Pall Mall. There is no danger of losing it. Every payment has been made when due, he said. The next is due November 18, 1922.

PRESIDENT TAKES "Presipio" Instead of Xmas Trees In Italy

The Holy Manger Is Symbol Used at Yuletide by the People of Italy and Spain—Represents Place Where Babe of Bethlehem Was Born

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Harding will be urged by Republican senators to approve a reservation to the four power Pacific treaty making it clear that the United States is not bound by the pact to safeguard the territorial integrity of Japan.

There were intimations today in administration circles in the senate that Harding might himself suggest that reservation when he submits the treaty to the senate. The difficulty caused by his difference of opinion with the American delegation on this point.

Ratification of the four power treaty became seriously endangered with official disclosure of the fact that President Harding is at odds with Secretary Hughes and other armament delegates over the meaning of the pact.

Hughes and other conference delegates have agreed that the treaty includes Japan proper in the territory which the four signatories agree to safeguard.

Harding flatly disagreed with this view, holding that only island possessions of the powers are meant. But he announced officially that he is willing to let the Hughes construction stand for official purposes.

Furthermore, he announced he will not permit his differences with Hughes over the meaning of the treaty to embarrass the conference or ratification in the senate.

Indications at the White House, however, are that Harding will refrain from any active campaign to force the treaty through the senate.

At the White House it was indicated President Harding's present intention is not to attempt to force the pact through the senate because of his disagreement with the American delegates as to its meaning, but to leave that to Secretary Hughes and Senator Underwood.

Meanwhile, Senator Borah is demanding that the treaty be rewritten so as to leave no doubt as to its meaning.

"There is no proper reason," he said, "why the language of the treaty should be permitted to remain so ambiguous."

Irreconcilable senators today predicted that the four power treaty would go down to defeat under an avalanche of adverse public opinion as the result of Harding's statement.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

at Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which enters the blood and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them by relieving your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue coated and when the weather is cold you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's uric acid waste get about four ounces of Jand Salts from any pharmacy. Add a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then get fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. It has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritations. Jand Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases. —Adv.

WHAT WANTS TO KNOW WHAT'S NEW

Put and Take Is Game As Old as Oldest Hills

By ROBERT L. RIPLEY

Of course you play that new game of the spinning top called Put and Take?

It is the newest and latest craze to tempt our gaming instinct, and is all the rage all over the country.

What's that? New game?

Well, you will be surprised to know that it is one of the very oldest games in the world. It was played in the dusty depths of antiquity several thousand years B. C. This little game of the spinning top was a favorite pastime of the ancient Chinese, Hindus, and Hebrews long before any other game we know today was ever thought of.

The Put and Take game is an evolution of dice—a tictotom, or spinning die—and the game of dice is nearly coeval with the creation of man.

Probably the first game man ever played was "odd or even" with a couple of sea shells. Next our shaggy forefathers began tossing the knuckle bones of animals—"rolling the bones," in fact. The spinning die came next and upon the sides were various notches or marks.

The original Put and Take top is to be seen in the Museum of Archaeology and Paleontology, University of Pennsylvania. It was found in Korea, and the same game today is called the Tjyong-Kyeng-To—the Game of Dignitar.

LA CRESCENTA IN STORM CENTRE

Community Christmas Tree Will Be Given Friday Night

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 22.—The continuous rain storm which began Saturday night brought La Crescenta 11.02 inches of moisture up to 6 p. m. Tuesday. Honolulu avenue west of Ocean View avenue was inundated and the tracks of the Glendale-Montrose railway were under water on Montrose avenue yesterday and they were transporting their passengers to the end of the car line by motor.

On account of rain the community Christmas tree was postponed until Friday evening. There will be an entertainment by the school children at 7:30 which will be followed by the Christmas tree exercises, when gifts will be distributed to all children in the valley.

Mrs. Claude Westervelt of Los Angeles has been the house guest of Mrs. Henrietta Bastable during the past week.

It is a three-sided affair marked with notches instead of figures and probably interested the grown up boys and girls of that day as much as the little top of our own country and time does today.

The old Chinese used a prismatic die top called the Ch'e Me. The Hindu counterpart of the Put and Take game is called the Chukree.

Another parallel was found of ancient Jewish design—a four-sided top bearing upon its sides the Hebrew letters: shin, gimel, he, nun; meaning, "put," "take," "half," "nothing."

May God Bless Us All—This Christmas Time

The Christmas season is upon us. The world is about to again celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Him who died that mankind might live. It is the most important anniversary in the calendar year. We reckon our time itself from that mighty event.

It is a solemn but sweet occasion, and should be forever observed in that manner. At the Christmas season our thoughts should turn, for a while at least, upon the life and character of Him whose birth we celebrate.

And if we do this our celebration of Christmas will be the right kind. We will forego undue feasting and ostentatious display. We will share our stores with those less fortunate than ourselves.

It is a beautiful old custom to give presents at Christmas, but judgment should be used in the giving. There is nothing in the Christ spirit in buying things we cannot afford to give to people who do not want them.

Our gifts should be to the poor, to children, to the aged, to those very near and dear to us, and every gift should be in the Christmas spirit.

And this Christmas season, of all times of the year, is a season for sobriety and the most sober thoughts. It is but a few days until the close of the year, and we should strive to make these closing days the best of all.

The whole world and our own country in particular is passing through a time of stress and uncertainty. We have not fully recovered from the shock of the world war. There is a general let-down, a deadening of the moral sense.

During this Christmas season let us, each one, examine our own selves, and study our individual relation to others around us. Maybe, by thinking for a while on the life of the Master, we may get the inspiration which all of us need for our daily life and conduct in the year just ahead.

This is a time for solemn thought, we repeat, but not a time for despondency. For from our solemn thoughts we should get comfort, and cheer, and cause for happiness.

Christ was born 1921 years ago, and He still lives. What is there to make us afraid?

Christmas is a good time, a glad time. Let us make it so for others. And with Tiny Tim, let us pray, "God bless us all, every one."

All England Happy Over Engagement of Princess

Announcement Brought Joy for the Aristocrat and Also for the People in Humble Walks All Over England

London, Dec. 22.—The announcement of the betrothal of Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, to Viscount Lascelles, caught the popular imaginations, as few purely royal-society items of news could be expected to do nowadays. Every class felt that it had cause for congratulation.

First, there was the very general feeling of satisfaction that the monarch's daughter had been permitted to choose an Englishman, instead of being condemned to a high political-diplomatic and certainly loveless alliance with foreign royalty. There was endless joy for the women-folk of the country in picturing the princess who gives up royal status "for love alone." Madame may sneer, but she loves to think of the princess marrying a "commoner." Also there was the gratification of the sporting elements (and all Englishmen are sportsmen), that the Princess is marrying a "sportsman." Let a man earn the title of "sportsman" and he is persona grata to all Englishmen, regardless of rank or wealth. There is the joy of the aristocracy that the royal family should be thrown into the market for alliances with their set, instead of being reserved for "the blood royal." And England's aristocracy now confidently looks forward to arranging marriages with some, if not all of the King's sons and other relatives. There are the elation of royal and semi-royal circles—endorsed, perhaps enough, by the most extreme radicals—that the Princess has obtained a husband wealthy enough to guarantee her future without the aid of state grants. For it is freely admitted on all hands that a large and needy royal family, such as Queen Victoria left, is a mighty bad advertisement for the monarchical system. Then there is the solid conservative feeling of thankfulness that the Princess has chosen "one of our sort—one of the good old English families" (probably adding—"and there are not many of us left.")

For Viscount Lascelles is the ideal Englishman, from the point of view of his own countrymen. Scion of a family tracing its history back some seven hundred years without scandal or undue notoriety, he is a model John Bull type. A gallant soldier, who, despite his rank, scorned "soft" staff jobs and insisted on remaining with his regiment in the trenches throughout the war, he has the suffrages of every ex-soldier—and there are some eight millions of them in the British Empire. Thrice wounded and gassed, a Distinguished Service Order "with bar" (meaning two D. S. O.'s), his war record is good enough for the most capacious "old soldier."

To the sporting world his racing colors, "black with yellow sleeves, yellow belt and cap," merely supplement the famous "black and yellow" livery noted for over a century for straight running as the badge of the Earls of Harewood. His father has won a Derby, as also did his grandfather, and beyond this there can be no greater fame on the British Turf. A fine horseman himself, he hunts and rides in races.

The Lascelles family acquired most of its present wealth from two Cromwellian soldiers of for-time who emigrated to the West Indies after the restoration of Charles II., but while he will inherit a huge fortune on the death of his father, the Earl of Harewood, Viscount Lascelles is already independent of the family coffers and acres, as during the war he unexpectedly inherited a fortune of two and a half million pounds from his uncle, the eccentric and miserly Marquis of Clanricarde, who died in 1916, leaving practically all he possessed to "Harry Lascelles," the gallant Guardsman, who had returned to the trenches after being twice wounded.

The Lascelles family have long been attached to the Court, and the bridegroom elect's father was an intimate friend of the late King Edward. Whether this is a real "love match" or not, the average Britisher feels that Princess Mary has done well for herself, her family, and the nation in general.

The queer old miser displayed no great enthusiasm over the visit and said nothing of his intentions, but soon afterwards he made a fresh will leaving everything—two and a half million pounds—to "Harry Lascelles, by courtesy called Viscount Lascelles, son of my nephew, Henry, Earl of Harewood." The spontaneous call of the happy-go-lucky young soldier touched some human cord in the old miser's constitution, and provided a striking moral lesson on the text, "Cherish Thy Wealthy Relations, However Hopeless They May Seem."

Dallas—George McQuaid, who has been managing editor of the Dallas News, and S. F. Ballentine, oil operator, have purchased the Mexia Evening News from J. L. Martin and will form a stock company for the operation and enlargement of the plant.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub Pain From Back With Small Trial Bottle of Old "St. Jacob's Oil"

When your back is sore and lame, or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!—Adv.

STORM BENEFIT TO VERDUGO WASH IS BELIEF

Chamber Directors to See Supervisors at Early Date

At the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce the condition of the Verdugo wash on the north side of the city was discussed, and Directors Ferry and Kimlin were added to a committee composed of Messrs. Woodberry, Hewitt and Reeves to meet with the board of supervisors and the flood control committee in an effort to secure protection from storm waters flowing through the wash.

City Manager Reeves, speaking of the recent rain and the damage to city property, said that the Verdugo wash is today in better condition to dispose of flood waters than it was before the storm. He said that the rush of water through the wash during the past few days has cleaned it out and leveled places that had been excavated. All debris that accumulated the past year has floated away and the channel is now free of obstruction. It is also claimed that the recent waters rushing through the channel have deepened it until it can safely handle and dispose of more water than was possible before the storm.

The fact that the wash is in good condition will not deter the committee appointed to secure better protection from flood waters.

BUSSES ARE TAKEN OFF CITY STREETS

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 22.—Busses were driven from all car line streets by action of the city council here today and new routes established over which they may operate. Twenty-two busses were affected by the action of the council, which is expected will force many of them out of service. Additional car service was promised by the city railway.

"Let me see," observed the smart boarder, "how is it the proverb runs—?"

"You refer to the saying that 'One man's meat is another man's hash,'" put in one.

"Or, possibly," said another, "Don't cry over skimmed milk."

"No," said a third, "In butter there is strength."

"Well," said the smart boarder, "the particular proverb I have in mind is: 'None but the brave can face the fare.'"

WOMAN IS INSANE DECLARES DOCTORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A committee of four alienists, employed by defense counsel, have diagnosed as insanity the mental afflictions of Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen, for months before and at the time when she killed Dr. Abraham Kluckstein of Brooklyn. In her confession last week, she declared she had been tortured for years by remorse over her relations with the physician, which she said he forced upon her by an "hypnotic" power. The committee declared she was a dangerous paranoiac.

RIOTERS INVADE MEAT MARKETS

BELFAST, Dec. 22.—Food riots broke out in Belfast early today. Dozens of shops were raided by the rioters who stole huge stocks of provisions. One butcher shop was entered and supplies were carried off. The raiders attempted to set fire to another place.

Family Party—Mrs. C. H. Stark, who lives in the Burbank district, expects to entertain sixteen relatives with a Christmas dinner and tree on Sunday the 25th.

DEDICATION TO BE HELD LATER

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce at their meeting Tuesday discussed the advisability of holding the dedication exercises for the new building last night and decided that because of the rain it should be postponed until a later date. The formal opening of the new quarters will be announced by Secretary Rhoades.

Danger Afoot

By JOHN BRECK

It is curious to reflect that the most dangerous of all creatures which rove the range is not a wild one, but our semi-domesticated cow. If you intend to stroll in the neighborhood of a herd pick out your tree in advance or locate a cliff hoots cannot climb, and keep your weather eye on it. However inoffensive may be your bearing you cannot be sure some mother of a wobbly calf will not grow overzealous in its defense or some surly bull elect to visit on you some secret grudge he owes your kind.

Any man who has had experience with them knows this, but he is usually a bit shamed about owning it. You will have to pin him down. He will dilate upon a near-adventure with a bear until you wonder how he lived to tell the tale, but a steer as an antagonist does not seem strictly sporting. Yet when he has leapt over the time you do like a rabbit down a devil's tunnel in the chaparral with a horn feeling for your coat-tail he will infallibly put you in the shade by a still more harrowing narration. And it always begins: "I was afoot—"

SNOWBIRD MOLLY LANDS IN JAIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—For several months there have been rumors throughout the East Side about a trick poodle called "Snowbird Molly." It was also rumored that the dog was a "dope fiend" itself, which went crazy if it did not receive its daily whiff of cocaine.

Yesterday two detectives saw a well-dressed young woman strolling down Lexington avenue. Beside her played a frisky white poodle. Suddenly the dog stopped with exactly the same movement as a pointer when it has spotted a covey of quail. Then the poodle ran to a strange man. There was a short hurried conversation between the man and woman. She lifted a flap on the poodle's leather collar, then slipped a package to the man, the detectives say.

In prison is "Snowbird Molly," the first "dope peddler," and her mistress, Stella Fiegel. The man is also in the same jail. All are charged with having narcotics in their possession.

or a little gray fox ravages your larder, as he certainly will unless you take mighty ingenious precautions. The bob-cat will pass delicately by at a distance, giving you only an instantaneous glimpse of his tufted ears against the skyline, if you ever discover him at all. Even the cougar will cut short her complaints, if those which send a weird chill through your blood be hers, and seek safer game elsewhere, while the mere scent of you will set brin to coughing self-consciously, like an eavesdropper caught in the act.

Now what is the ground for all this unearned resentment on the part of our former allies in civilization? Not reminiscences of the branding iron, for a cow's memory is scarcely more than three days' long. Not the antagonism toward a natural enemy. You sometimes suspect that they dimly remember they have a legitimate business with man, just as a collie has a legitimate affair with sheep. And, as that collie, if he is not taught his inborn duty of tending them sometimes turns his teeth on them instead, becoming one of the craftiest enemies of the flock, is it mere perverted instinct which makes them turn on the master they should follow? Would the masterly attitude wake obedience in them? Perhaps. But show me the man who is bold enough to try it.

ROUGE ON LIPS IS CAUSE OF DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The right of a husband to remove rouge from his wife's lips without her consent will be decided at the trial of the suit of separation brought by Mrs. Mildred Trailet against her husband, David Trailet, secretary of the Trailet Model Company, Long Island City. Mrs. Trailet was awarded $50 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees by Supreme Court Justice Burr pending a jury's decision whether the husband's attempt to restore her lips to their natural color constituted cruelty. Trailet admits attempting to remove the rouge, but he did not use force.

STUFFY McINNIS

Screen Favorite Takes to Talking Stage for Change

That well known favorite of the screen, Betty Ross Clark, is to be the headliner on the vaudeville road show which is coming to the T. D. and L. Theater tomorrow and Saturday. As a holiday offering, nothing could be more appropriate than the sketch which Miss Ross and her company appear in. This little comedy playlet is to tour one of the larger vaudeville circuits after the first of the year, and critics who have seen it say that it is one of the most brilliant sketches that has been seen in years.

The Keystone Trio, those provokers of mirth and melody, entertain in a manner quite different from most trios. One of the trio will be seen as a Chinese laundryman, another as a colored bricklayer, while the third member of the trio has a comedy make-up all his own. The situations which these three fellows get into are most laughable.

Just to show that it is possible to do many things and do them all well, Jemery Seaman, "the piano phend," has made his act a most unusual one and he has several surprises in store for all who see him.

Another act full of mirth is offered by Harvey and Lewis, two of the funniest fellows in vaudeville. Each of these fellows is a clever musician besides being a comedian of rare ability.

Ethel Clayton, the favorite of the screen, will be seen in her newest picture, "Wealth," in addition to the five acts of vaudeville. This drama has as the theme one of the most important questions of the day. The action of the picture might take place in any home and this photoplay should be seen by every man and woman.

A man went to order a wedding cake the other day.

"I'm getting married," he said to the girl in the bakery, "and I want a cake."

"Well, it's the latest thing to have wedding cakes in harmony with the bridegroom's calling or profession. Thus, a musician has an oat cake, an athlete a cup cake, a man who borrows money from his friends a sponge cake, and so forth and so on. What is your calling, please?"

"I'm a pianist," answered the happy young man.

"Then, of course," said the girl, "you'll want a pound cake."

Most people waste a lot of valuable time telling their troubles to other people, who are not even interested.

A Tale For Parents

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Mary, aged ten, was a delicate child. She could not run and play like other children because she tired easily. For the same reason she could not apply herself to school books as other children did.

She was so delicate that if cold-causing germs were anywhere in her neighborhood they were sure to fasten on her. And she had trouble digesting even the simplest foods. Also she was afflicted with night terrors, twitchings and other symptoms of an extreme nervousness.

Naturally her parents, who were well-to-do, grieved at her condition, and spent money with an open hand in the effort to improve it. Stomach specialists were invoked to ascertain why Mary's digestive power was weak.

Throat and nose specialists wrestled with the problem of her uncommon susceptibility to colds. Dentists and oculists also had a part in the campaign to reconstruct Mary.

Their efforts were without result. Still more surprising, from the point of view of Mary's parents, the various specialists consulted reported uniformly that they could find no reason for the sundry disorders that made their services necessary.

Finally the little girl was taken to a physician famed for his success in treating nervous maladies. At first he, too, reported only negative findings. But one day he sent for Mary's parents, and to them said: "I am satisfied that there is one thing your daughter needs more than anything else. That is a complete change."

"We will take her to the country at once," her parents forthwith agreed.

"I do not mean that," the nerve specialist explained. "I mean a change in your own attitude toward her."

Then he went on: "All her life you have been both consciously and unconsciously impressing upon your daughter the belief that she is a feeble child, doomed to ill health unless an ever watchful eye is kept upon her. You have given her no real chance to develop normally, because you have reared her in an atmosphere of anxiety and fear."

"Possibly when she was young she did, as you say, suffer more than most children from the ordinary ailments of childhood. I suspect that even then you were over-anxious regarding her, and that your solicitude reacted upon her to influence her toward ill health."

"Certainly, at all events, there is no doubt in my mind that at the present time fear is the chief cause of the conditions you deplore. And if you really want your daughter to grow up well and strong you must conquer your morbid apprehensions and help her to escape from the thrall of the apprehensions with which you have infected her."

"Pay less attention to her complaints. Stop encouraging her to keep expecting illness. Begin to make her feel that she can safely do all that other children can—for she truly can."

"By thus bringing her to a healthier mental state you will favorably influence all the physical processes of her being. Her food will nourish her, as it now does not, she will become more resistive to colds and similar maladies, and her nervousness will gradually lessen."

It was good advice, as the outcome proved. Similar advice might well be given to a multitude of other parents, the delicacy of whose children, close analysis would show, is almost wholly fear-born.

Just Between Ourselves

By DELLA E. STEWART

The dictionary is such an incomplete collection of words! It lacks so much of breadth and intensity in its pages! There are so many words it might contain, yet doesn't. If you are inclined to disagree with this view, just ask the man who is struggling with a recalcitrant stovepipe or the woman who has just had an immovable object collide with her funny bone! They'll quickly tell you.

It's so unfair to the aspiring poet, also. Some words have so many rhymes, others so few, or none at all. For a ludicrous sounding word like "lump," for instance, can be found rhymes by the dozen, all equally ludicrous and unfit for the muse's use—

"dump, rump, slump, chump, mump, bump, jump, frump, gump, thump," and so on. Then note a mellifluous word like "silver" without a single rhyme! And "woman" as well! No fitting rhyme for "disarmament," "prohibition," "Russia, Bolshevik," or even "boot-legging."

Of course, there's that suggestion of Frederick Locker Sampson's, that there might be wholesale coining of words to fit any one's idea of a personal need. But that seems hardly feasible, does it? Since Noah Webster decided that a dictionary we should have, it ought to be allowed to fulfill its proper function. And how could

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

Pink Puddings, Or Peace of Mind

Katherine Lee was convinced that as a home nurse she was a failure. The fact that she felt herself to be useless did not increase her efficiency.

The thing was, that she did not look before she leaped. She preferred to attempt something she knew nothing about, rather than to ask questions, and as a result her patient, who happened to be her mother, suffered a good deal from the sins of Katherine's omissions.

The Lees lived in an average small town. The front street was very icy, and Mrs. Lee had had a painful fall. Several fractured ribs, a sprained shoulder, and a lacerated scalp had made her an invalid for a matter of days and Katherine, the only daughter, found herself confronted with the problem of a sick mother, a household to manage, meals to get for a hungry father and three brothers, who had two meals a day at home, and the incidentals, such as answering the telephone, acknowledging notes and flowers, answering the front door bell, and keeping her mother from worrying about the household management.

Hadn't Learned Her Lesson. Katherine was not yet twenty—the average young girl who has shouldered but little responsibility.

She meant very well, and she worked very hard, but she seldom accomplished what she planned to do.

Her mother's meals, for instance, she determined should be very dainty and delicious. She conscientiously spent hours reading about the care of the sick in the home, about dainty desserts, and food for invalids. And meantime, her mother lay in silent resignation upstairs, and just out of speaking distance, while the door-bell rang, and Katherine failed to answer it until it had pealed several times through the house. The telephone would ring, and Katherine, in the throes of grilling a chop, and adjusting pink paper frills around the bone, would fail to reach it until the person at the other end had hung up. Then she would spend miserably if we each coined the words we think the language ought to contain?

Since the old order changeth, why not the dictionary? Who will write us a new one—giving real authority for words that ought to be but are not, for rhymes that would bring fame to the budding poet, for added definitions for words already coined.

Here's a chance for the ambitious.

able moments attempting to get central and find out who had been calling, until, perhaps, a thin fine thread of smoke would summon her to the kitchen—and a charred chop.

Mother and Daughter. Her mother was supposed to get medicine three times a day after meals. Sometimes she did, and some times she did not get it.

Then Katherine had her moments of despair, when her mother's quick eye would trace upon her face a tragedy of another burnt chop or rained pudding.

One morning, when the telephones, the door bells and the grocer's boy had been more than usually insistent, and Katherine, curled up in a chair over the last cookery magazine, had caused her mother moments of keen anxiety, Mrs. Lee, calling the girl to her bedside, said:

"My dear, I am going to tell you something that will hurt your feelings, perhaps. But you will understand, when you think it over."

Little Rebuke a Help. "It is much better to attempt nothing new and unfamiliar in the food line, for me, while I am ill, much as I appreciate the thought that prompts you to want to make dainty little surprises for me. I am perfectly satisfied with bread and milk, or a portion of whatever the family is having at meal time. What I need much more than pink puddings, is peace of mind, fresh sheets and pillowslips on the bed and my hair brush and tooth brush and a basin of water and a towel in the morning before doctor's visit, instead of after."

"If my watch is beside me, instead of in my dresser drawer, and if there is a spoon and a glass on the table with my medicine, I can take it myself, at regular intervals, instead of spasmodically."

And though the truth hurt, Katherine remembered the little rebuke. And it was a great help to her.

A young golfer, a hopeless novice, possessed good intentions. His first job after joining a golf club was not to study the game but to study the club rules. He was a stickler for obedience.

He went around the course alone at first, having no desire to worry his friends with his bad play. When at last they saw him returning they were surprised to find that he was wheeling a big wheelbarrow.

"What on earth have you got there?" they asked.

"Turf," replied the novice. "I'm going to replace it."

TWENTY-FIVE MORE DOLLARS ADDED TO FLOAT FUND

Secretary Rhoades Asks Everybody to Give Some Money

Contributions to the fund for the float to be entered in the Pasadena tournament of roses are still coming in. Today, three contributions, totalling $25 were received by Secretary Rhoades of the chamber of commerce who is also treasurer of the float fund committee. The additions to the honor roll are Ramon, Institute No. 87, $5; Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., $10, and J. B. Tabour, $10.

L. W. Chobe, who will design and build the float says that Glendale is almost certain to win the first prize again this year. This will be the third time that Glendale's entry has received first award in the Pasadena affair. The float will be more truly Glendale's own entry because the people of this city will give the funds to build it.

When the Glendale float passes in review on New Year's day, every Glendalian will be proud to say "There goes our float." Those who have not yet contributed still have time to send in a dollar, or five, or even ten dollars. Mail your contribution to James M. Rhoades, at the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Amy Kaukonen will be inaugurated mayor of Fairport, Ohio, January 1. She has already declared her intention of warring against the bootleggers. She intends to analyze the moonshine stuff herself in her own laboratories and says the bootleggers will not put a thing over on her. She is a physician and surgeon, specializing in ailments of children. She is 25 years old and is considered the youngest person ever elected in this country to the office of mayor.

LUCKY STRIKE IN OMAHA FIELD

OMAHA, Dec. 22.—The airplane which was to have carried George Bonnett, a member of the marine corps, on the last lap of his race against death from Honolulu to Des Moines, where his mother is critically ill, crashed to the ground shortly after taking off here this afternoon. Neither Bonnett nor Rodney Selby, a Des Moines reporter who was accompanying him, was injured.

CLEAN BILL WILL BE GIVEN TO NAVY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—American naval administration in Haiti and Santo Domingo will be given a clean bill of health so far as alleged atrocities upon natives are concerned. This was made plain by members of the senate committee headed by Senator McCormick, Illinois, who returned today after two weeks investigation in the island republics.

Marshal Foch Leaves Message For Legion

Omaha Legion Files Suit for Libel Asking $100,000

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 22.—"How to be successful" is boiled down to two sentences by Ferdinand Foch of France, who may be counted a success in his generation. Members of the American Legion party who had the marshal on a tour of the United States asked him to leave a message for the young men of America. The general complied during one of the long railroad journeys en route through the West.

The original of what Foch termed "the past to the future, in a few words," will be kept by the Legion's national headquarters here.

"He who hesitates is lost. He who moves forward wins," sums up Foch's formula for success. He continues:

"The way not to move forward is by adopting the methods of the bore, who ruthlessly pushes others aside that he may reach the front of the crowd; the self-seeker, who tries to impress on everyone that he is entitled to what he is not; the nervous, arrogant man who cannot wait, who feels that if he does not reach the front at once the world is lost for him.

"The way to move forward is by patience, by earnest endeavor, by diligent study, by tireless work. Plan your battle of life in advance. Map out every detail of what you want to accomplish and then follow out your program. No man who has been successful in life can be counted as lucky. His success has been due to his own effort.

"Success is work, and work is success. The two are inseparable."

As a motto, Marshal Foch recommended his own, a quotation from Racine:

"I fear God, and have no other fear."

"To stop such contemptible lies and show union labor that we resent charges of being opposed to them," the American Legion of Nebraska, by its commander, William Ritchie, Jr., has filed suit against F. H. Shoemaker, alleging libel, in the courts of this city.

In a speech before a butchers' union local, Shoemaker is quoted as having said that "the American Legion is an organization of trained murderers opposed to organized labor."

When questioned by the Legion commander, Shoemaker denied having made such a statement. He declared, however, according to Ritchie's suit, that the Legion "has created labor disturbances in which men were killed"; that the Legion "is subsidized by big business and the packers have contributed to it," and that the ex-service men "are opposed to organized labor."

These statements, Ritchie charges, are "wicked, malicious and false."

Shoemaker says he is not a member of any union. His army record shows he was discharged after six days' service.

Ritchie's step, the first of its kind in the history of the Legion, is commended by George L. Berry, Nashville, Tenn., president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union, himself a world war veteran. In a telegram to labor leaders here and to Dennis Lane, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen (Chicago, Berry also requests the union officials to issue a statement and "take necessary additional action to null the unjustifiable action and statements of Shoemaker or such others as may be engaged in similar practices."

"If General Robert E. Lee was a traitor, Napoleon Bonaparte was a coward."

The statement was made by an admirer of both the great military leaders, Ferdinand Foch of France, while he was visiting Harrisonburg, Va., according to "a man who heard it," who has written national headquarters of the American Legion.

During a ceremony the marshal was handed a telegram. "Lee is the greatest traitor America has ever known," it read, signed by "An American Patriot." Foch read the telegram, smiled, and showing it to his aides, said: "If General Lee was a traitor, I wish France had more of them. He was one of the greatest military leaders the world has ever known. This is surely a joke." The generalissimo kept the telegram, however.

If President Harding grants a pardon to ex-Private Thomas G. Jones of the A. E. F. Harry Haley, Canadian, who served in Leavenworth prison, will deliver the pardon to his buddy "in the wilds of Canada," according to R. P. Dickerson, Springfield, Mo., Haley's benefactor, who has enlisted the aid of the American Legion to obtain executive clemency. Jones is hiding out in Canada, Dickerson has informed the Legion, but Haley will take him and his little family to a "small Canadian town," to his aged mother, if the President grants the pardon.

Charges of negligence in the treatment of mentally deranged veterans of the world war are to be investigated soon by the United States senate, George A. Wingate has informed the American Legion of New York City.

Critically ill in a New York hospital because of over work while he was director of the bureau of war risk insurance, R. G. Chomeley-Jones has received from the American Legion through Hanford MacNider, its commander, "sincere wishes for your speedy recovery from disability brought on by service to your country and your comrades." Mr. Jones was twice rejected for the army because of physical disability, but served overseas as chief of the war risk bureau.

A lasting tie between the American mothers whose sons were killed in France and the gold star mothers of England has been established with the entrance into the American Legion Auxiliary of Mrs. Amelia McCudden, Britain's official gold star mother. Mrs. McCudden was sent to America and joined the Legion's auxiliary before she sailed back to England.

After having thoroughly investigated the Polyclinic hospital in the heart of New York City, and found it "not conducive to the convalescence of tubercular war veterans," the American Legion of New York has announced its intention of buying a hospital site in the Adirondack mountains where the ex-service patients may be treated properly. The sanitarium will be supported by private individuals who have already pledged themselves.

One blissfully trustful former service man has written the American Legion Weekly asking that the publication "be sent to my new add.—Esplanade St., New Orleans. Thank you for same. (Signed) Ex-Soldier."

There were only 4,000,000 ex-soldiers at the last count.

No reinstatement of government insurance can be made after December 31, according to word received at national headquarters of the American Legion. All ex-service men can reinstate their government insurance except those who have a disability not traceable to service. The yearly renewable term insurance may be reinstated by the payment of two monthly premiums. The applicant must state that he is in good health and provide a report of full medical examination substantiating that statement.

More than 250,000 war veterans will be insane by December, 1926, unless something constructive is CARRIED OFF SAFE FROM POSTOFFICE

PASADENA, Dec. 22.—Burglars carried away a 300 pound iron safe from a postal contract sub-station and store of A. C. Fuller on North Fair Oaks avenue here last night. Groceries, cigars and other loot were taken, all of which was placed in a waiting automobile two rods from the location. The postoffice loss is placed at $150 in stamps and cash, and the dealer's loss is estimated at several hundred. Federal authorities have joined the local police in the hunt for robbers.

Jealousy is the tobacco sauce of love.

mental hygiene is begun immediately, C. W. Chamberlain, director of the Sjoax City, Ia., institution of pathology, has declared. "The national committee for mental hygiene," Mr. Chamberlain said, "estimates that 3,000 ex-service men go insane every month. There are probably 165,000 insane veterans in the country now."

COLDS PREVAIL IN CITY DURING STORM

The rain of the past few days has increased the number of colds in Glendale almost 50 per cent, according to the estimate of officials in the city health department. While colds have increased to a marked degree, the number of diphtheria cases seems to be decreasing. The fact that the schools have closed for the holidays will aid in suppressing the epidemic.

Health department officials urge that care be given to even the slightest cold as it is an easy matter for a slight cold to develop into a serious case of diphtheria, especially in this so during the present weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harrin, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Guittard are planning to take Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Langsam of Los Angeles. Other guests will be Miss Virginia Hunter and Robert Hunter also of Los Angeles.

EIGHT MEN GIVEN PRELIMINARY IN MURDER CASE

Masked Band Members Hear Damaging Testimony Today

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 22.—The preliminary trial of eight men charged with murder in connection with the triple killing at Wilson, a week ago tonight, opened in justice court here today. Six other men also held in connection with the crime asked for and were granted separate trials. The first of these will start next Tuesday.

Mrs. John Smith was the first witness for the state. She testified that she was at the home of Joe Carroll, alleged bootlegger, when he was shot down by a band of masked men. She stated Jeff Smith, one of the defendants, came to the home, and after informing Carroll that he was wanted outside by a masked band, said:

"I'm forced to do what I'm doing and you're going to be forced to do what you're going to do."

Mrs. Smith asserted Carroll then sought refuge in the home but was shot down before he reached it.

STARVATION WILL BE FORESTALLED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Starving Russians in the famine areas of the Volga were assured a belated Christmas present of $20,000,000 in food stuffs and grain from Uncle Sam today when the senate agreed to the conference report on the relief measure, without a record vote. The bill now goes to the president who is expected to sign it today.

BUSINESS WAS GOOD
NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Frank J. Schmidt, owner of an apartment house and superintendent of a factory loft building, is under arrest charged with robbing his tenants. Burglaries in the buildings in the last ten years amount to more than $100,000.

THE EVENING STORY

THE SMOKING SET

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

Alice took great pride in the home. They had been years getting it paid for, but at last it was finished and they had extra money now that could be used in furnishings and in general easing up throughout the budget. "I believe I'll buy one of those smart cone-inlaid davenport," she mused aloud one evening as she pored over the advertisements. "Charley stirred restively. "Say, Alice," he said, "Why don't you get something comfortable? There isn't a real cozy place in this whole house, a wooden dummy couldn't rest on that hard leather sofa. Once I managed to take a nap on it, but I slid off as soon as I got really asleep."

SALVATION DRIVE IS OVER THE TOP

The Salvation Army "100 at $10 and Over Club" went well over the top and donations are still coming in. The latest list recorded is Frank Proctor, Bentley-Sehoene-man Lumber company, Glendale Mill company, Glendale Groceries, Dr. Duncan, Tropic; Dr. H. R. Boyers, $20; C. R. Soules, Eagle Rock; Mrs. F. B. Winslow, Garfield street; Tropic Potteries.

There's one good thing about rainbow gold—we can't lose it buying the blue sky.

MULCAHY GIVES TIP TO PARTY

DUBLIN, Dec. 22.—Ireland does not like the British treaty and she does not want it—but she can do nothing but accept it, General Richard Mulcahy, leader of the Irish republican army, told the Dail Eireann today. Summing up the general attitude of the majority of the Irish people he said: "We don't like the pact; we don't want a king; we don't want a crown representative; we don't want any enemy forces occupying our harbors and we don't want to partition Ireland—but what alternative is possible?"

CARRIER BOY IS HURT BY A "KICK"

Harry Smith, a 12-year-old boy, who is a carrier on the staff of the Glendale Press and who lives on Alger street, just over the line in Los Angeles, paid dearly for accepting the invitation of a boy friend to ride with him in his Ford car. After reaching the Press office, Harry undertook to crank the machine for his friend and got a back kick which broke his wrist. Often a woman mistakes audacity in a man for bravery, and she is probably right. "But we see no alternative which does give us full powers."

VOTERS OF THE GLENDALE UNION HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT:

One and a half years ago the citizens of the High School District voted to move the High School from the present insufficient grounds. Though temporary bungalows were added to the plant, it has become an anxious problem to care for the rapid inflow of students, as our population grows by leaps and bounds. Hence the trustees have pledged themselves to select whichever of two suburban sites (Lukens and Grey tracts), receives the larger vote December 29.

A personal visit to the sites will convince you that the cause of education and civic betterment will best be advanced if you give your vote and influence to the Lukens site. Note carefully these fifteen reasons:

- 1. More central geographically for city and district.
2. More central for population of city and district.
3. More beautifully situated.
4. Better located for street car and bus lines.
5. Three fine thoroughfares—Broadway, Colorado and Verdugo road.
6. Safer from storm water.
7. Less exposed to wind storms.
8. Not subjected to noise and jar of railroad trains.
9. Not to be surrounded by industrial district conditions.
10. Richer in soil.
11. Water supply of twenty-five miners' inches.
12. Over $12,000 of fine street work done.
13. Contains about three acres more land than other site.
14. Option on it only $77,500 as against $75,000 for other site.
15. Unanimous choice of Glendale Chamber of Commerce Committee of Nine.

Let the choice of these nine practical, far-sighted citizens be yours also. Thursday, December 29, between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., vote for the bonds and for the logical Lukens site.

EDITORIALS - By The People

Editor Glendale Press: We all want the best things. Let us make no mistake now. A permanent high school site must be selected. A location for the long future. The territory involved will have 100,000 people in the no distant future. The district is five miles east and west, and five miles north and south.

The Impossible Grey Site
I lived three years near it, and know it well. The strong claim urged for it, and really the only point, is, that it is near the center of things, i. e. its convenient location. But only a little examination will show that this claim has no foundation at all. Instead of its being a central and convenient location, it is shown to be only at the edge of the district with scarcely any convenience that can be mentioned.

Let us open our eyes wide enough for a moment to look over the whole Glendale Union high school district. It embraces La Crescent, Eagle Rock, Glendale City, Monte Vista, and Tujunga. There is only need of one central or principal high school in the whole territory. Some branches may be desirable later on. There are many advantages in one big high school. It is for a union high school, and Eagle Rock city, La Crescent and the others have same rights in it as Glendale city has. The selecting of the Grey site would compel all these other districts to withdraw on account of the distance and inconvenience of that site. As a practical financial matter, it appears that these districts pay more taxes per capita of school attendance at the high school than Glendale city does. From any standpoint we want them to remain in the Union high school district.

Supt. Keppel has sent me an official map of the district. Such a map should be placed in the hands of every voter. Let us stand at a point in Doran street at the southwest corner of this Grey site. This point is but 1500 feet, only three short blocks from the San Fernando road, which is the western boundary of the high school district. From this point you can travel eastward for four miles and still be within even Glendale. You can travel three miles to La Crescent, and three miles southeast and still be within Glendale. From this point you can move only four blocks south to Broadway, and then travel five miles east through Eagle Rock City to near Annandale golf grounds and still be within the Glendale Union high school district. It is but half a mile from the wash at the Grey site north to the Verdugo mountains. It would therefore never do to locate our main high school at the very edge of the district with a future great population certain.

It would not do even if Glendale were alone in the district. There may be a branch high school some time in the northwest, but instead of being on the Grey site, it will likely be on Sixth street somewhere between Pacific avenue and Grand View cemetery. It will be noted that only a narrow strip extends from Pacific avenue to the Burbank limits. A line produced north and south along the west line of the Grey site will leave nine-tenths of the high school district east of it. The east part will all be occupied with homes in the no very distant future. We are not buying a twenty acre site for 20 day, or for next year, but for the future years.

A few serious objections to the Grey site:

1. The climate. It is low and is in the frost belt. You could not raise semi-tropical plants and flowers or shrubs, or citrus fruit trees on this account. It is subject to heavy fogs, and many dust storms from the upper valley. It is hot in summer and cold in winter.
2. The soil. A large part of it is of a very light sandy, washed-in soil, poor for grasses, shrubbery or flowers and plants.
3. It being near the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, the noise and smoke and dust from so many heavy trains would get on the nerves of the children and be a nuisance.
4. It is on the edge of the factory district. All the ground west of it running along the wash to the railroad has already been discussed as a site for some large factory. South of it along the San Fernando road will be built up with factories. This would render it unfit for a school.
5. It is up against one of the most troublesome washes in the state. This not only destroys the surroundings but it is a positive menace.
6. The site can never be one of beauty. There is the wash, the factory district, the railroad, and being in a poor residence district will be surrounded with inferior dwellings and meagre improvements. If you are visiting in any up-to-date, progressive city, and wish to see the high school buildings, you would be surprised to see taken down to the wash and river in the lowest part of the city, and railroad tracks where the industrial district is located.
7. Not accessible. The layout can have no leading thoroughfares or boulevards. No street car lines. An expensive bridge must be put in across the wash to reach it at all from the north. Travelers and strangers passing through the district on the principal streets would never pass or see it. If streets were opened around it, as they must be, much of the ground would be taken by these and much money needed to improve them. In such an out-of-the-way place as this, who would ever see the fine buildings and grounds or know we had them?

The Lukens Site at Broadway and Verdugo Road
This site has not a single one of the objections which must be urged against the Grey site at Doran and San Fernando road. It is nearly in the center of the high school district. High and clear of dust and noise and wet fog. Nearly frostless. Warm in winter, cool in summer, with no bad wind storms. As near to the city hall as the present high school grounds. The soil is all that could be desired—the richest in the whole district; will raise anything successfully, grasses, shrubbery and flowers of all kinds. Not a single objectionable feature or surrounding. It is a thing of rare beauty and will be a joy forever if you select it.

Wonderfully accessible. On three of the grandest boulevards in all Southern California. Only one block from each of our two street car lines, and the Pacific Electric will be extended to its corner. Near two of the main bus lines. Is set in what will be one of the very finest and most beautiful residential districts in the whole valley, or anywhere else. These splendid grounds and buildings will be seen daily by thousands of people. The boulevards are all paved, and the paving paid for. No new streets are needed to be opened. A good well of 25 miner's inches flow is on the premises. Enough to water the whole grounds. And listen—the whole tract is set to bearing orange trees. Drive up and see for yourself, and you will be of the same opinion as to the chamber of commerce committee gave us.

If you vote for the Lukens site, you can always feel proud of the part you took in securing it, for having a high school site like this will always be one of the chief glories of our city. But if this site is not selected, you must as you drive past it in future years recall the words, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, might have been."
December 19, 1921.
—P. S. McNUTT.

Editor Glendale Press: Too little has been said in favor of the beautiful Grey site for the new Glendale high school.

When Pasadena selected a site for her magnificent high school she selected one on the very outskirts of her fastest growing section, far away from the business and industrial section. This site was served by one bus line and one car line, but students from far and near came to it.

Today the people of Glendale have an opportunity of being as wise and far-sighted as were the people of Pasadena and the Grey site offers that opportunity.

No part of Glendale is growing as fast as are the West and North sections. With this almost unbelievable growth, the building up of the many foothold tracts and the opening up of sub-divisions between West Glendale and Burbank, five years from now two-thirds of the high school students will come from west of Brand boulevard. Should these students not be given as much consideration as the comparative few who come from Eagle Rock and other suburbs?

The two very much over-worked objections to the Grey site are the proximity to the wash and the limited transportation facilities. In regard to the wash, I am told by the very best of authority that Glendale need never fear another flood as conditions have changed. Our capable city manager has taken it upon himself to see that the work on the wash is completed and no doubt it will be made very safe and a thing of beauty long before a new high school will grace the site.

Adequate transportation facilities will follow the school. Right now the Grey site is served by the Burbank line and a bus line and better conditions will be put into operation to meet the needs of the school. This assurance comes from the office of the Pacific Electric company.

It is sometimes said that the Grey site lies low. Here in sunny California low lands and high lands are valued alike. One valuable and beautiful piece of property I am thinking of which lays so low one has to go down a long flight of stairs to reach it—I refer to Brookside Park. The Grey site lays at the same level that much of the residence district of Glendale does, and no lower.

Should the Lukens site be the choice of the people of Glendale there is no doubt but that a great part of the present prosperity of our city will switch to Eagle Rock. They will not be slow in advertising that our beautiful new high school is right in their front yard and this, combined with the fact that they have a 5 cent fare to Los Angeles will bring a boom to Eagle Rock—which Glendale is now enjoying. Just thing this over. The Grey site comprising 19 1/2 acres faces the new city park of eight acres in which we are soon to have a very modern swimming pool and club. Should the tax payers wish to doubt the park and plunge could be made to meet some of the school needs. The Grey site has an uninterrupted view of the Verdugo mountains which should be an inspiration to every teacher and student going there.

If every voter would take a trip to the proposed Grey site with an open mind keyed to needs of the present and future Glendale—the Grey site would undoubtedly be the location of the new school.

All the tax payers of the north and west sections want fair representation as well as taxation. Respectfully, A. W. DORSEY.

"Editor Glendale Press:—In last night's News there appeared an article by A. W. Dorsey regarding the Grey site for the high school, and he seems to me a good time to make a statement regarding my views in the matter. Hereafter I have had nothing to say at any meeting or in any of the papers and I think it is time that my voice should be heard.

"Frankly, I do not admire Mr. Dorsey's judgment and I do not agree with his reasoning. The Grey site is not centrally located. A few hundred yards to the west we come to the edge of Glendale and beyond that there is practically no opportunity for development, because hundreds of acres are occupied by the Los Angeles river bed, Griffith Park and territory which is not in Glendale and never can be annexed to Glendale. Mr. Dorsey refers to "one of the very much overworked objections to the Grey site"—its proximity to the wash, and it is quite an interesting coincidence that in his article appeared a news item based upon the recently stated attitude of the Glendale chamber of commerce with the suggestive title: "Say Verdugo Wash is Endangering City's Future," and further down in the article, in order to emphasize the importance of doing something more comprehensive that has been done heretofore, the chamber of commerce committee says: "The city is sharing its burden in the county-wide flood control plans, and something more tangible than the present steel fencing is sought. This, it is said, soon will rust and be washed away." My personal opinion is that the Grey site is much too near the wash to be ideal for a high school site.

"Then Mr. Dorsey refers to transportation and surely none can deny that the transportation facilities, present and future, of the Doran street site could not be any better than they are at present for the East Broadway site. Mr. Dorsey refers to the bus line but forgets that a bus full of students is a very negligible fraction of the high school attendance and he also forgets that the Burbank line is outside the regular 6-cent fare area, three-quarters of a mile to the north and across a wash which at the present moment is a raging torrent.

"The Grey site is very much more expensive than the Lukens site. I have it on the authority of the city engineer that $12,500 will be necessary to put in the street work surrounding this site and that 84-100 of an acre will have to be taken from the already comparatively small area. On the other hand, the important part of the street work at the Lukens site has been completed long ago at a cost of many thousands of dollars and less than $5,000 will be necessary to put in all the sidewalks and other improvements that the city may deem necessary.

"I understand that Mr. Grey reserved three-quarters of an acre on the southwest corner of this site for his own residence, and while it may be a very attractive residence to him, I do not think it is a beautiful addition to any high school plot, and unless Mr. Grey should move his house away I would not be in favor of the site even if it could be removed to the other side of the city. It is not proper that a private residence should occupy a school quadrangle and we all have repeated many times how unsatisfactory it was to have the Masonic Temple and Mattison B. Jones' house on what ought to have been the high school square at present.

"I am sorry to say that my impression of the present campaign is that it is a real estate deal. Mr. Grey is a real estate man and he has land to sell. I do not know whether he has more land than the 20 acres which he is offering as a high school site at a very generous price, but it is clear that the "gift" of a park to the city was actuated by a desire to develop his territory and sell his property.

"By the way, in one of the newspaper articles emphasizing the "advantages" of the Grey site, attention was called to the fact that the city of Glendale "selected" the eight or nine acres for the city park. This is altogether untrue. The city did nothing of the kind, and the selection of this land was left to its owner. He made a proposition to the city and the city fathers discussed it, and by the majority of the citizens of Glendale repeatedly have been removed to the other side of the city. It is not proper that a private residence should occupy a school quadrangle and we all have repeated many times how unsatisfactory it was to have the Masonic Temple and Mattison B. Jones' house on what ought to have been the high school square at present.

"The proximity of the Grey site to the main line of the Southern Pacific railway will be a detriment, if a no mistake. Do not forget that this line carries all the heavy freight traffic, not merely on the Coast route but on the Valley route, as well as all the trains going north by both of these routes. The noise of the traffic will certainly be a detriment, just as will the noise of the tremendously heavy road traffic over the long bridge over the

LINDENFELD NOT IN BOMB PLOTS

Brother Declares He Was Never in Sympathy With Russia

WARSAW, Dec. 22.—Two women and four men plotted the Wall Street bomb explosion, Sylvester Cosgrove, American department of justice agent, declared here today. Names of the plotters who are being sought by police were obtained, Cosgrove said from Wolfe Lindenfeld, now being held in jail here until his stories can be verified.

Local authorities, however, are wary of Lindenfeld's story which implicates six radicals and maintains his own innocence. "I think he is merely bragging," one of Lindenfeld's friends who knew him in New York, said. Lindenfeld's younger brother and his father were heartbroken.

William (they called) Lindenfeld by that name) was never involved in the Russian revolution, the aged father said. Lindenfeld never spoke of political affairs, he said. His brother thought him only a newspaper reporter and believed him incapable of implication in the bomb plot. He often received letters from the Slavish Press bureau in New York, they said.

A dozen persons here, who knew Lindenfeld said they did not believe he was implicated. They said that they were so sure they would willingly go on the witness stand and testify to that effect.

ALCOHOL CARGO FOUND ON SHIPS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Approximately 100,000 gallons of joy were taken out of life in America yesterday when customs inspectors, visiting the tramp steamer Javary, whiffed the odor of the stuff which was being removed from the steamer's 220 oil drums.

The Javary is an oil burner and for that reason no suspicion was aroused until after 38 drums had been emptied by suction. However, when one inspector approached and sniffed the fumes of the supposed oil, the captain and crew were put under arrest.

The 220 drums aboard held 27,500 gallons of alcohol of 190 proof, which, when reduced to the gin level, would make 100,000 gallons. Capt. Daniel Doherty was arraigned before Major John Hollin Clark and held for the grand jury on $10,000 bail pending investigation.

Admiral Benson told at a dinner a story about an English general. "This general, like many others," he said, "had his line broken by the Germans, and was accordingly given a title and sent home. Well, after the general got home he built himself a very fine home in Sussex. He was showing an American over the house one day, and he said, when the inspection was finished: 'Yes, this place of mine is perfect, perfect. Only one thing is lacking, and that's a name. I can't think of a good name for it. Can you help me?' The American, thinking of the old gentleman's war record, chuckled and said: 'Why not call it "The Retreat"?"

Women always have a lot to say about their rights, but never a word about the wrongs of the poor men.

wash at San Fernando road and Doran street, only a few hundred yards to the west. "Mr. Dorsey refers to the possibility that if the Lukens site should be selected by the voters, it would be an advantage to Eagle Rock, and surely there is no sin in offering advantages to those who, exactly like ourselves, are a part of the Glendale Union High School district. He calls attention to the beautiful view which is obtained from the Grey site, and I want to assure him that if he has never been to the Broadway site he will find that it has a most magnificent view in every direction.

"There are many additional points in favor of the eastern site and if those who are interested in the welfare of our school work here in this valley will visit both of these sites, I have no fear which one they will select."
"HENRY R. HARROWER, M.D."

GIVE A HOME OR A LOT FOR CHRISTMAS

WHY not make yourself or a loved one a present this Christmas of a home or a lot in Glendale? Could any one imagine a more appropriate or acceptable gift than a lot or a home in Glendale—something that will increase in value as the days and the years wear away?

There is no section on the face of the earth that is so wonderfully favored as is Glendale. It has everything that the heart could desire. There are good stores, fair and square merchants, good churches, schools, clean amusements, good transportation, excellent municipally-owned utilities, good streets, a whole "crowd" of attractive and liveable homes—in fact everything that the most home-loving heart could wish.

Taken as a whole the homes that are being offered for sale in Glendale are fairly priced. Of course, there are a few who have a long range vision and are trying to get RIGHT NOW a price that their places will be worth five years hence, but it will be found that as a rule these home owners are not overly anxious to sell. But the homes that have been placed on the market by owners who really wish to sell, are mostly offered at reasonable figures. It is natural that prices asked for homes here should increase year by year. No one would reasonably expect to get any particular home today for the price that home could have been purchased two or three years ago. Glendale realty prices in general have increased in Glendale in a wonderful degree during the past few years, and it is altogether proper that homes should be priced accordingly. The homes available here range from $2,000 to $20,000. Nearly all of the dwellings that are on the market can be purchased on the basis of a reasonable payment down and comparatively easy terms on the balance. The home buyer would have very little difficulty in finding just what he wants in the way of a home in Glendale.

The lot market in Glendale is very active at this time. The vacant lots that may be secured by the prospective home builder or the fellow who is buying for an investment are scattered over every section of the city. There is hardly a lot in Glendale at this time that is not a good home building site. These lots range in size from the very small lot to the extremely large one. There is the lot for the man who wants just enough real estate to accommodate his home, then there is the lot for the "back to nature" enthusiast—the man who wants to get acquainted with his own little vegetable garden now and then. There is the lot that is on the level and the lot that is on the hill—the lot that is close-in and the piece of land that is out in the suburbs of the city. There is a lot for every purpose and a lot of lots for the lot of lot buyers that are headed for Glendale right at this time.

This lot talk leads naturally to the real estate agent. The realty agents of Glendale are a bunch of honest men. They are men that can be trusted to give the client a fair deal. These agents are well acquainted with the real estate bargains in "these parts" and the prospective buyer can feel perfectly safe in permitting any of these men to take care of their real estate needs.

A BETTER SHOWER TO EASTERN FRIENDS

THIS is a story of a letter—a letter which every resident of Glendale should be sending to the folks "back east." There is an old saying that "it pays to advertise." The people of Glendale could not do better than to send a shower of "come on in" letters to all their friends in the east. There are about 30,000 residents in Glendale. If each of these residents should send one letter to three friends in the east it would result in 90,000 pieces of advertising matter that would carry eastward a personal invitation to friends in the snow-bound sections of the east to come to Glendale and at least pass the winter bathing in the rays of our wonderful California sunshine. It cannot be foretold what the result of a letter campaign of this kind would be.

The rains of the past few days assures a good crop of tourists for Southern California this winter. If a letter campaign such as is here suggested were carried out a big per centage of this tourist crop would head straight for Glendale. Glendale has been growing rapidly during the past year or so, but there has been nothing in the nature of a boom here. A boom generally occurs where there is nothing to back up some wonderful campaign of publicity. Nothing in the way of an elaborate campaign of publicity has ever been carried on in Glendale. Glendale can furnish "the goods," and it is this ability to back up every statement that has been made that has resulted in Glendale's wonderful growth. When writing back to those friends in the east local residents should state facts and nothing but facts. Facts about Glendale are startling enough to residents of the east—there is no need of stretching the truth.

There is no section on earth that is so enjoyable to live in than is Southern California, and there is no spot in Southern California that has been so wonderfully favored by The Creator than has Glendale. This is an ideal home city—a place where parents may bring up their children in perfect safety, where there is quiet and rest for the tired business man or housewife, where there are good churches, and where there are sufficient places of good clean amusement for all.

So let all the residents of Glendale get together this Christmas in this great letter shower. There are many friends in the eastern or central part of this country whom the residents of Glendale would like to see right here in Glendale. This being true, why not go after this letter shower with a will. Tell those friends all about this section and particularly this city. Send them pieces of literature descriptive of this city, a number of different kinds of which may be secured at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

There are some who are looking longingly toward Glendale and who are not able at this time to make the trip out here. At the same time there are hundreds of those who are "on the fence"—possibly they need one, good, rousing letter from a Glendale enthusiast to knock them clear over onto the Glendale side. Why not wield that club NOW?

A Message to the People of Glendale

Those of you who think that the values on NORTH BRAND BOULEVARD are inflated or without a future at $150 to $300 per front foot should make a study of development in other nearby California cities to appreciate what golden opportunities are now lying at your door. Hollywood, Pasadena and other successful locations, all have passed through a stage of development similar to the one in which Glendale happily finds itself today, without one-half the prospects for growth and expansion.

And yet observe the prices on Hollywood Blvd., actual recorded recent sales at $1800 per front foot; Colorado Blvd., Pasadena, at $3000 per front foot; Western Ave. at $1500 per front foot, in locations which only a few months ago bore to the best property the same relation as the three and four hundred blocks on NORTH BRAND BOULEVARD does to Brand and Broadway.

THINK THIS OVER! WAKE UP!

Don't always permit the man from Hollywood, Los Angeles and Eastern Cities, who knows values and can see the future development come in and "cut the melon."

Has Glendale Grown? Will It Continue to Grow?

Answer these questions, then

WARDS WILDEY OPEN NEW TRACT

ing Is in Progress in One of City's Best Sites

A beautifully located tract lying between Eighth street and Canyon drive and Cypress Walnut avenues, is soon to be to residence lots by Edwards Idey and F. A. Goodrich, who acquired this territory, the exception of that owned by Charles B. Cline, and it is said he will shortly place his proposition on the market after making arrangements to conform to those made by Edwards & Willard Goodrich.

Work of grading the streets in progress for several days will be continued without interruption if possible, as it is desired to open the tract at an early date. Through this subdivision, Grinnell drive, and Harvard street will be opened and later, front avenue will be cut through and improved as are the other streets.

The restrictions in this territory will be such as to build it up one of the finest residential tracts in Burbank. Some of the lots will be considerably larger than the usual size to permit an extensive beautifying of the lots to correspond with large residences.

The city is laying the water lines in the Edwards & Wildey tract near the China factory and on as this is done, the company will begin operations. The officers to be made here are named as follows: Mr. C. H. Keeler, president; Mr. C. H. Landis, vice president; Mr. C. H. Jackson, secretary; and Mr. C. H. Rowe, treasurer. They will be aided by six inches of masonry.

The residences which the company is going to build on this tract will be very nice, modern in appearance and of the best workmanship. The company employs its own forces of men.

VESPER SERVICE ON SUNDAY NEXT

Presbyterians to Have Early Morning Service on Christmas

On Sunday at the Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock there will be vesper services. The church quartet will render Christmas carols, and stereoscopic views showing the Youth of Christ, about sixty-five pictures, will be shown.

Sunday morning at the Methodist church Rev. Allen will deliver the fourth and last sermon in his series: "How God Reveals Himself to Men." His special subject will be: "The Incarnation." The evening service will be in charge of the young people and will be quite unique. It will be a pantomime entitled "Shadows of Bethlehem." Rev. Paul Heber will give a short address in connection with the pantomime.

The young people of the Christian church will also give a pantomime Sunday evening entitled: "The Christmas Story." This service will begin at 6:30 o'clock in order that the evening may be spent at home.

and one set follows another, according to the development of the building. The houses will be erected with lots intervening to give opportunity to secure an extra lot if so desired, and in the office of the company will be many sets of plans from which a person may choose, and the company will erect the house in accordance with the plan chosen. For those buying lots and building their own house, there will be restrictions in order to keep this tract, also, a section of first-class houses.

The Burbank office of Edwards & Wildey is located where the postoffice was, on the boulevard at Orange Grove avenue, and has been most artistically decorated. The walls are a Tiffany blend, done in oil, and the ceiling, the treatment of which drops, to the moulding, is the same but in very light tints. The sides of the counters are French gray, very rich in tone. As a whole, it constitutes another attractive office for this city.

MORE RELIGION IN BUSINESS

New Rector of St. Jude's Says It Is World's Great Need

Rev. Waldo D. Parker, recently arrived in Burbank as the rector of St. Jude's Episcopal church, has reversed the modern phrase of "more business in religion" and has taken for his slogan "More religion in business." He says this is the great need of the world and this he emphasized in his sermon yesterday morning, which was directed especially to employers. Among other excellent points which he brought out, he said that the crux of the industrial situation is that the employer is looking for the ideal employee and the employee is looking for the ideal employer, when the employer should be looking for the ideal employer in himself and the employee should be looking for the ideal employer in himself.

In the appointment of Rev. Parker to the church in this city, Bishop Stevens gave especial consideration to the facts that Burbank is already and steadily becoming more so a manufacturing city and that Rev. Parker has had a number of years' experience in the industrial world as president of a manufacturing plant in Massachusetts and with close connection with another industry in the East.

With this as the condition, Bishop Stevens felt that Rev. Parker would naturally be better able to meet the situation in Burbank than would another who had not had the personal acquaintance with the business world and therefore less able to attain an understanding of employer and employee relations.

Yesterday morning the text from which Rev. Parker spoke was: "They that are after the things of the flesh mind the things of the flesh." Next Sunday morning, the remainder of the verse will be used as the text: "They that are after the spirit mind the things of the spirit."

On New Year's night, Right Rev. W. B. Stevens, bishop coadjutor of the Los Angeles diocese, will be in Burbank and deliver the sermon. He is a man of wide renown and great popularity, not only in Episcopal circles but in other denominations, and in the schools and business world as well.

After the first of the year, Rev. Parker expects to start a program of two services each Sunday. At present and during the past, there has been but one service. With the carrying out of his plans for the new work which he has taken up in this city, Rev. Parker will gradually build up a strong and helpful church organization and one which will stimulate "more religion in business."

The rectory which is being built for Rev. Parker and family on Roycourt avenue, will be ready for occupancy some time in January. In the meantime, the family is located at 825 Verdugo avenue.

POSTAL SERVICE MAY BE CHANGED

An undesirable change in postal services which would effect Burbank under its present status, is in prospect, although, because of certain other conditions, this city may be out of the class effected before the change would be made.

Mrs. Lawrence, Burbank's postmistress, is just in receipt of a communication from W. W. Griest, representative of the 9th district, Lancaster, Pa., to the effect that the discontinuance of appropriations for village mail delivery service had been suggested by the postmaster general in his annual report just submitted to congress, and Representative Griest asks Mrs. Lawrence to report and advise him if this service is important here; if it is satisfactory and of benefit to the community and to give reasons why, and also he asks to be informed if the civic bodies of the place would be likely to enter a formal protest against the discontinuance of city delivery service.

The redeeming feature of this matter so far as Burbank is concerned is that the proposed ruling relates to village delivery, and while Burbank comes in that classification now, Mrs. Lawrence says that it is hoped and expected that by July 1st, it will go into the city delivery class, in which case it would cease to be effected by the suggested change. The distinction between village and city delivery in the matter of classification, is the fact of postal receipts for the year previous, reaching a total of $10,000, and thus throwing the office from village to city classification. Should the postmaster general's suggestion be made effective, it would probably then be some time, perhaps a few months before the change is made, which, if the Burbank office goes into the city class next July, would likely eliminate any probability of this city suffering any inconvenience.

In speaking of this matter, Mrs. Lawrence said that it would work a great hardship on the people here if obliged to come to the office for the mail which is now delivered to them, and it would also be hard on the clerks, of which there is now a lack to handle the present business. As it is, there are two carriers serving the city,

XMAS SPIRIT IS A LITTLE WISER

"What Can I Give" Comes Ahead of "What Will I Get"

Some old customs are better than new ones, but sometimes the new ones are wiser and better than the old, having become so through the wisdom of experience, and so, in the observance of Christmas there has come about a great improvement, and the day now displays more reason and also more unselfishness than in former years. There is less of the thought of receiving and more of the spirit of giving. This is very noticeable in the churches. In the years that are passed, the children in the churches were accustomed to receive and in their mind was the thought "What will I get?" but according to the newer custom, their question is "What can I give?"

While the majority of the churches still have trees and give each child a little treat of candy, they are training the younger generation to give, and now almost every Sunday school in the country has its giving service, generally known as the White Gift service at which time the children bring presents to be distributed among those who otherwise would have nothing.

All the churches in Burbank are following this plan. The Sunday schools have programs consisting of music and recitations on Friday night and a tree with a little treat for each child will be enjoyed, but the very best part of the event will be the bringing of the gifts. The Christian church will be decorated in white and will be decorated to receive the "White Gifts for the King."

At the Methodist church the program is entitled: "Carrying Christ to Every Child," and is in the nature of a home Christmas pageant. A contribution of money will be taken and the fruits, vegetable, clothing and other things given will be taken to the distributing agencies in Los Angeles to be placed among the suffering and unfortunated children of the great city.

At the Presbyterian church an excellent program including music by the orchestra will be given Friday night beginning at 7 o'clock. Here, as in the other churches, a brightly decorated tree will delight the children while a small treat for each one as its name is called will add a little more to a happy evening. The gifts brought by the children of this Sunday school will go to the Forsythe Memorial School in Los Angeles and the Presbyterian Orphanage at San Anselmo.

As Rev. Parker of the Episcopal church has been here but a short time there has been little opportunity to prepare for Christmas, but he children of the congregation will have their pleasant time, and it is the plan of Rev. Parker to celebrate the gift service a little later, probably about the first of the year. The gifts then brought in by the younger ones of the church will be given to the Church Home for Children in Los Angeles.

CHAMBER DRIVE GETTING RESULTS

The drive for members for the chamber of commerce is having results fully up to anticipations. Secretary Colburn sent out a large number of letters requesting the financial support and the co-operation of those whom he addressed, and many of them have responded most favorably. Among those who replied in a very substantial way was Mr. Watt L. Moreland, of the Moreland Truck Company, who enclosed with his letter a check for $50.

Mr. Colburn also addressed letters to those firms which have salesmen doing business in this city, in regard to taking membership in the chamber of commerce for themselves and their salesmen working in this city. The justification for this lies in the idea so well expressed in the first paragraph of the letter sent out, and is as follows: "Your customer in Burbank and your salesman are contact points in the sales system which produces your firm's business volume in this city and in a large measure this volume is in direct ratio to the personal relationship between the two men." A mutual interest results in co-operation, and co-operation results in the greatest good for all and the financial benefit of all, therefore, with the outside firm's Burbank customer a member of the chamber of the city, it tends to create a feeling of mutual interest if that firm and firm's salesman is also a member of the chamber." This letter, mailed out to the list of concerns doing direct business in this city, has produced effective results and added a number to the growing list of members.

C. F. Steine of Santa Monica expects to be a resident of Burbank soon. He is erecting a nice house on Verdugo avenue, which he will occupy as soon as completed. Some of the patrons, and it is certain that these people would object most strenuously to going to the office for their letters.

Monday, the day following Christmas, is a legal holiday, and there will be but one delivery. The parcels post and general delivery windows will be open from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock.

BURBANK LUCKY IN RAIN STORM

Some Damage Was Done But Not as Bad as Elsewhere

Burbank came off quite fortunately in the matter of damage by the storm, but a few suffered considerable money loss and much inconvenience. The most unfortunate victim reported is E. O. Stumbo, whose house "melted away," as he expressed it. Located on Olive avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets, his property received the terrific force of the waters as they came down the canyon in a raging torrent. His house was a temporary one of adobe and the last coats of plastering had not been put on, which accounts for the walls crumbling away as they did. As the wall on one end began to crumble, Mr. Stumbo was obliged to take the household goods out in the pouring rain of Tuesday afternoon and move them down town, and the family was obliged to vacate.

Mr. Stumbo has the meat department in Thompson's grocery store. The family is well known in this city, as they have resided here several years, although for a time they were away, but returned some few months ago when Mr. Stumbo went into the store.

The storm has resulted in much trouble for the Pacific Electric, and it may be said that probably a terrible catastrophe was averted through the carefulness of a motorman. The long curving bridge over the Los Angeles river on the edge of Glendale had been growing weaker, and when a three coach train started over, the bridge quivered and quaked so seriously, that the motorman backed his train off. All day Wednesday, cars were loaded to the bridge from each end, and passenger walked across to the cat which took them on to their destination.

The new brick building being erected by the First National Bank on the rear of the bank, was somewhat damaged by the storm. The south wall had to be propped and a small section of the rear wall went out.

The poor pepper trees got a second severe dose within a short time, and while they were not broken as they were in the wind storm, there were a number that, being heavy with water, snapped off in the stronger gusts of wind, and some of the limbs which came down were not small either. As to the number of roofs which leaked, it is safe to say that half there are in Burbank let at least a few drops of water drip through. The rain was greatly needed and has done good to the extent of millions of dollars, but everyone was glad to see the good old fashioned California sunshine again when it appeared Wednesday forenoon.

SELBY HOME HAS CHANGED HANDS

Through the agency of A. R. Graham, J. T. Selby has sold his property at 618 Orange Grove avenue to Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, who will make it their home, while Mr. Selby will erect a five room house and garage at 734 Palm avenue. George Hallett, of 304 Cypress avenue, has sold his home to Mr. Rasmussen, who will occupy it. Mr. Hallett, who is assistant postmaster at Glendale, will move to that city, where he has purchased a house.

Mr. Blakeham, a contractor from the east, who has the contract for the building of new Goodrich bank, has purchased a lot on Verdugo avenue, and will at once begin the erection of a nice home there. Three lots on Cypress avenue have been bought by Mr. Christensen, contractor, who will build a house on each lot, and thus does Burbank grow.

THIEF WAS CUT IN MAKING ESCAPE

In the small hours of Sunday morning someone secured a 32 automatic from Story's hardware store, but he also received something he did not want, and that was a severe cut, for his trail of blood reached from the store to the Methodist church.

The thief saw the revolver reposing in the display window and he coveted it. Breaking the glass he reached in and helped himself, but in doing so he evidently gave himself a bad cut, for the police were able to trail him by the blood drops, as far as the church. Here he found a table cloth and tore it up to provide bandages to stop the flow of blood. He was quite successful in this, for after discarding his blood stained overalls, he went on his way and the police were unable to trace him further. The damage to the large glass window in the hardware store was considerable.

G. A. Napper, one of the proprietors of the 10-cent store, has gone to Nampa, Idaho, where he will spend Christmas with his family and also assist in taking an inventory of the store which he has at that place.

When he returns the first of the year, his wife and child will come with him and Burbank will be the family home. Miss Ethel Harding, of Providence avenue, formerly employed in the Kewpie confectionery store, has returned home after a three months' visit with relatives in San Francisco.

SCHOOL KIDDIES ENJOY VACATION

Institute Class Schools Balance of Week Before Christmas

The school children are having a jolly good time now with books put away for two weeks and with gifts to give and gifts to receive and both to enjoy and good things to eat and numerous places to go, the time will go all too rapidly until January 3rd, when the school bell will ring again. And the teachers, even though they are devoted to their work, are glad of a vacation in which to enjoy a change, although they may be quite as busy as when school is in session, but a change is a rest.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the teachers are obliged to spend at the teachers' institute in Los Angeles. Two of the five days, which are yearly used for institute, were taken here in Burbank in November, and therefore, the teachers do not have to give but three days at this time which plan is generally liked better than the former system of having all the time taken at once, especially as it comes just at Christmas.

On Thursday night, Mrs. Swain will take fourteen of her pupils in to the city to give a demonstration before the institute of Spencer rhythmic penmanship. The institute is held in sections, and this demonstration will be at the Olive street school at 7:30 o'clock.

This system of penmanship was invented by Miss Spencer of Los Angeles, and is very interesting not only to the pupils but to the teachers as well. So much interest do the teachers take in this system of rhythmic penmanship, that fifteen of them are in a class to which Miss Spencer comes out from the city once a week to give instruction.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Long, of 520 Santa Anita avenue, have sold their property and are leaving Burbank. They will spend the remainder of the winter in Fresno and in the spring go to Kansas.

V. J. Morris and family, of Santa Anita avenue, will spend Christmas with relatives in Los Angeles. Mr. Morris' Kewpie candy store will be closed on that day from noon until evening.

KNIGHTS PARTY TO CHILDREN LAST NIGHT AT HALL

Over 150 Children Attend Xmas Program With Parents

Knights of Columbus gave a Christmas party for children at the headquarters of the organization in the Central building Wednesday evening, at which about 150 children were guests, accompanied by their parents.

Henry M. Doll was chairman of the evening and called upon Father James O'Neill who responded with a very nice talk on the spirit of Christmas. Music featured the balance of the program on which Harry Girard was a headliner. Eddie and Alice Brennan contributed piano solos and Geraldine and Virginia Keleher gave fancy dances.

Meanwhile a beautiful Christmas tree had been absorbing the attention of the children who were formed in line at the close of the program. A great noise was heard at the door and when it was opened, there was Santa Claus who said he wanted to come in and distribute the presents. He was given an enthusiastic welcome and made a fine talk to the children and at its conclusion gave the presents to the boys and girls waiting to receive them. Some of the guests thought that Santa Claus resembled Jack Monahan.

Grand Knight L. F. Wright closed the exercises with remarks befitting the occasion.

Alleged to Have Taken Pair of Gloves From Counter

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Cliff M. Weatherax, said to be the wife of a wealthy lumber importer and exporter of San Francisco, with her home in Burlingame, a charge of shoplifting in municipal court here today. Mrs. Weatherax was arrested yesterday afternoon in a local department store. Two women detectives said they found a pair of marked gloves in her possession. Mrs. Weatherax disclaimed all knowledge of how the gloves happened to be in her expensive muff.

Miss Cora Walker, detective, testified in the preliminary hearing she saw Mrs. Weatherax stuff the gloves in her muff and hurry away from the glove counter as the saleswoman turned her back for a moment.

Mrs. Weatherax was expensively gowned and bejeweled and put up a fierce fight to prevent her arrest. She was released on her own recognizance to appear in municipal court at 2 p. m. today.

WEST GLENDALE TRACT GOES FAST

Acres Prices Doubled Since Subdivision Was Opened

About a year ago Hamlin & Hepburn secured an option on 60 acres of land in the northwest part of Glendale, and set about to subdivide it into lots. Nearly every lot advised cutting it into one acre, two acre or five acre tracts. But Hamlin & Hepburn, having faith that this section, because of its beautiful location and good transportation, would rapidly become thickly settled, cut the first ten acres into lots and put them on the market.

Their faith was justified. The first unit was sold in about two months, and every unit since has been sold in the short space of a week to 10 days.

About 50 homes are now built or under construction on the tract and it is rapidly becoming one of the most popular sections of Glendale.

Next week Hamlin & Hepburn will place on the market the 6th and last unit of their original purchase. This will be the last opportunity to purchase lots at the low price of from $475 to $550.

BRIAND DISCUSSES WITH LLOYD GEORGE

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Special dispatches from London today reported that Ambassador Harvey has presented Premier Briand with a note from Secretary Hughes, asking that Briand reconsider his attitude toward submarines and light naval craft. Briand, it was said, is to talk the matter over with Lloyd George before replying.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

J. W. FOLEY

THE FANCIED FROLIC
Dear Reader, who these lines may scan,
Were I not such a truthful man,
I'd write a rhyme to tell you how
A chubby youngster came just now
With rosy cheeks and sticky thumbs,
And fat fists full of sugar plums
And made me put my work away
And get down on the floor to play.

Yes, I would write a rhyme about
A graceless poet all sprawled out
Upon the floor, with tops and strings,
And drums and blocks and toys and things
Or I would be behind a chair,
With woofs and growlings like a bear,
Until the neighbors came to see
The beasts in our menagerie.

Just think how glibly I might say
I cannot write a verse today,
Because of that small imp who comes
With tousled hair and sugar plums,
And makes me get down on the floor
To be a hobby horse once more,
And rend the air with snorts and cries
And equine tricks and pleasantries.

But, Reader, to be frank and square,
There is no chubby youngster there,
With shining eyes and sticky thumbs,
And fat fists full of sugar plums,
To come and tell me I must play
With him and put my work away.
And yet, I almost was a bear
Just then, who growled behind a chair!

Etiquette Book of Old Days Solved All Social Puzzles

Back in the '80's—that period of social and industrial beginning when men strolled in whiskers and in basques and bustles and women in bonnets and gowns of consequence rode in phaetons, surreys and broughams—there was a certain book to be found in every well regulated household of the country. It occupied a place of honor on the marble topped parlor table or on a convenient shelf in company with the family Bible, the photograph album and the glass case of waxed fruits.

The book was referred to colloquially as "Hill's Manual," though it bore a more pretentious title—"Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms, a Guide to Correct Writing, with Approved Methods of Speaking and Acting in the Various Relations of Life."

"Hill's Manual" was probably the most comprehensive compendium of general knowledge and concrete advice that was ever compiled. It was easily the best seller of its day, running through a dozen editions and into hundreds of thousands of copies. In that day of few libraries and unsettled social and business procedure, it filled a long-felt want. It took rank with Cushing, Hoyle and the Marquis of Queensberry as an authority of final resort. There was no question that could possibly arise about morals, manners or methods that Hill did not undertake to solve. From the cradle to the grave Hill pointed the proper and approved way. All one had to do was to follow Hill's forms, and he furnished them for everything and everybody—for baptismal services, for teachers, for grooms, for proposals of marriage and for marriage itself, for sympathy in illness, for condolence in death and for choice epitaphs after the Hill-guided mortal had been securely planted.

In manners of the table manners and the etiquette of the home circle, Hill was especially felicitous and no doubt many of the genteel customs that prevail in the refined homes of today may be traced to Hill's sage admonition. Here are some points he emphasized under the head of "Errors to Be Avoided."

Never soil the tablecloth if it is possible to avoid it.
Never use anything but fork and spoon in the dining room.
Never encourage a dog or cat to play with you at the table.
Never pick your teeth or put your hands in your mouth while eating.
Never come to the table in your shirt sleeves, with dirty hands or disheveled hair.
Never wipe your hands on the tablecloth or clean them in your mouth; use the napkin.
Never allow butter, soup or other food to remain on your whiskers.
Never make a display when removing hair, insects or other disagreeable things from your food. Place them quietly under the edge of your plate.
Never scratch your head at the table.
Never hesitate to take the last piece of bread or cake. There are probably more.

After reading Hill's Manual it is not difficult to understand why in those good old days there was so much marrying and giving in marriage. Hill smoothed the way. He had forms for every stage of the game. Here, for instance, is the opening letter in a case of "Love at First Sight":
Dear Miss Hawley:—Although I have been in your company but once, I cannot forbear writing you in defiance of all rules of etiquette. Affection is sometimes of slow growth, but sometimes it springs up in a moment. I left you last night with my heart no longer my own. Will you do me the great favor of allowing me to cultivate your acquaintance? Hoping that you may regard me favorably, I shall await with anxiety your reply.

In response to this there are two forms, one for an "unfavorable" reply and one for a "favorable" reply. In the former the adored one says:
Your note was indeed a surprise to me and your conduct is quite strange. You will please be so kind as to oblige me by not repeating your request, allowing this note to close our correspondence.
That ought to hold the first-sighter a while. In the "favorable" reply the more gracious lady writes:
I ought to call you severely to account for your declaration of love at first sight, but I cannot find it in my heart to do so. However, we know but little of each other, and we must be careful not to exchange our hearts in the dark. I shall be happy to receive you in my home as a friend, with a view to further acquaintance.

EDITH CAVELL'S LAWYER SCORED

Declare He Did Not Properly Represent Her at Trial

BRUSSELS, Dec. 22.—The court of appeal today handed down a decision censuring Sadi Kirschen, a German attorney who defended Edith Cavell, the English nurse sentenced to death in 1915, before the German court-martial which tried her. It also reprimanded Gaston Deleval, a Belgian lawyer, who acted as legal counselor for the American legation in Brussels. Deleval, in his report to Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, charged that Kirschen's defense of Miss Cavell was not what it should have been, and also that he had failed to inform the legation of the sentence passed on Miss Cavell until after her execution. He added that it was through accident the legation had been informed by two nurses of the sentence of death, and Kirschen only made his report to the legation at 12 o'clock noon of October 12, after Miss Cavell had been shot at 3 a. m.

The decision of the court today said that Deleval was acting as an American diplomatic officer and not as a Belgian attorney, and he had no right to criticize Kirschen. Kirschen contended he was under no obligation to keep the American legation posted, although the legation was entrusted with the protection of the rights of British subjects.

Chase, who is an employee of the local telephone company. At present they are guests of Mr. Chase's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cole of 1471 East California.

KILLED BANDITS IN CASPER STORE

CASPER, Wyo., Dec. 22.—Two unidentified bandits were shot to death here last night when they attempted to break into a grocery store. Guards were placed in the store following a tip that an attempt would be made to rob it last night. The guards in a gun battle killed the two burglars. One of the guards was slightly wounded.

Princess Nagako-Kuni Who Will Be Bride of Japanese Crown Prince

Above is the latest photograph received in this country of Princess Nagako-Kuni, daughter of the Prince of Shimazu, head of the most powerful clan in Japan, who is engaged to Crown Prince Hirohito. The crown prince has just become regent because of the illness of the emperor, whose mind is said to be failing.

SENATE QUERY TO MEET NEXT YEAR

New York Man Declines to Go Before Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Because of the absence of a half-dozen witnesses summoned to appear, the senate committee investigating the charges by Senator Watson that American soldiers had been hanged in France without trial was forced over until after the holidays.

Nine new witnesses were ordered to appear January 4 for examination in view of their statements made in letters to Watson and others that they had first-hand knowledge of illegal executions.

Chairman Brandegee announced that to make the investigation as sweeping as possible, department officials would be called to check up each alleged case of brutality or murder.

The only former soldier appearing—Marion J. Wallis of Athens, Ga.—did not serve overseas. His testimony relating to alleged killing of a private by a corporal at Camp Wheeler, Ga., in 1918. War department records, to determine whether the corporal, designated by Wallis only as "Corporal Crawford," had been tried, were demanded.

There was an intimation that the committee would proceed to compel the attendance of George P. Hubbard, who recently declared he saw the bodies of three soldiers which had been disinterred, and that there was a rope around the neck of each, "showing the men had been hanged." Notified that he was wanted as a witness and asked to come at once, Hubbard sent a telegram from New York saying: "Will not accept."

THEODORA RUINS MANY PET DOGS

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Theodora, the wildest presented to Marshal Foch by a western post of the American Legion, ruined 50,000 francs' worth of pet dogs during her voyage to France.

Theodora was placed in a cage in the kennel room on the top deck, where the ship's butcher acted as valet for the valuable canines. During the week's trip the peculiar and powerful odor of the wildest thoroughly impregnated the sleek fur of the Pekinese, the wiry coats of the bulldogs, and the tender epidermis of the Mexican hairless dogs.

As a result, when the butcher delivered the fashionable animals to the bejeweled and befurred French and American passengers disembarking, they uttered shrieks of surprise and dismay at the awful smell of their usually perfumed pets. Pearl White kissed her terrier and then delayed the boat train an hour until she scrubbed the animal in a state-room bathtub, afterwards muffling it in a silk sweater to prevent its catching cold.

MISSOURI. Fifteen hundred unemployed persons, standing in a bread line that reached a distance of three blocks, were given bread and coffee by a corps of workers organized by C. F. Blanke of the C. F. Blanke Tea and Coffee company, 212 South Seventh street.
