

Dear Caroline,

Wishlee

13.9.31
Jamison & the rest are all at work about the 1st Aug. I tell you that you may have your influence for what town in Bristol Co you like. It is to be Pitts by County, & the places pushed.
But it strikes me that if if the elect previous men of N. B. whom they are showed circulate the true love any getting subscribers ^{to all three papers} it would keep the cause. I ~~am~~ ^{have} begun Justice Beaumont novel, for the outside. It turns out very good. I have a perfect bloom in the work, I do it so well. I correct all the defects of collocationⁱⁿ in the original, & turn it, from good French into Elatante English. You may safely say the standard will be worth taking, ^{this} ~~not~~ year, were it only for the Flap doddle. All that & Heaven too. Mr. Rowley is turning out a Jewel. Called this morning, & gave me 10 fr, ^{& gave} ^{I handed it to} Lab Bill & signed the call for Jan.

Hall. & took the paper away to get more signatures. Mrs. Abbot called this morning - told me all about herself, husband, affairs, &c, and asked for Sam's pencil sketch, which I am to get it sent to Miss Proby. They are all concerned. Eliza has sent a long arrived to the Lib. an answer to little Allen who spluttered in the last about Fuller & Channing & Ware, a first-rate testimony Mary Lived to see, stars last night. Emma went to Cambridge for her & is to take her home with her this afternoon. She looks very ill. ^{Sunday, the 1st} ^{practicable day,} Emma & I called & Missa of Primma, who had gone for her way to Cambridge) to leave a note of mine for tea the same evening. I entreated her to stay - she said she must call on Zabalud in next street. I begged her & the Thornton who was with her to come back to tea. she hesitated but could not decline. Daughter about getting back. I told her we should send her home of course. She wanted to but I think really felt too sick to be out at night. She looks like death. "So that were passed over": Tomorrow I shall lavish some more civilities. To-day Eliza comes in for the 24 hours.

Frank Cahol Don't think, seems to Fuller. She was at home

And all his friends can assured. Eliza writes to me that she has written to you about mine. Don't think! a whaling voyage! "The way of transgressors is hard." Mr Chapman is town to-day.
I go to Newton Saturday. Henry is to see the two works on the corner with the Southwicks who have them.
Phil sends the weights to show them to at sometime. The "Hamburgers" will shortly, I think, turn out Mr. Slavery - an Easton's book brings out the unrecognition quantities.
Mr. Robbins asked the Dr to sign the General hall paper. He replied
"Dear Mary I cannot sign your paper because I have no part or interest in the matter, & do not know that it would benefit the slave."
It is thought Mr. S Shaw will sign Dear Mary has. so has Robt
