Recipes Timely and Appropriate For the Lenten Menu—The Doyly Book.
Indications of Easter.

Eggs now figure prominently in the menu, both as a Lenten dish and also because they again begin to be plentiful in March. The Boston Cooking School Magazine has some timely talk about them as follows:

Eggs are digested more readily when the whites and yolks have been mixed thoroughly together before cooking, as in scrambled eggs and omelets, for in this case the white is not taken into the stomach in a separate hard mass. Bilious people are accustomed to discard eggs, but doubtless may eat the whites of fresh eggs served in the form of delicately baked omelet. It is the richness of the yolk that occasions disturbance.

To make a French omelet break the eggs into a bowl, add as many tablespoons of water as there are eggs, a dash of pepper and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt for each three eggs.
Beat the eggs with a spoon or fork until you can take up a spoonful. Have ready a tablespoonful of butter, melted, in the cleanest, smoothest and thinnest of frying pans. Into this pour the egg mixture. Set it on a hot part of the range for a moment; then with a thin knife or spatula separate the cooked portion from the side of the frying pan and gently shake the pan back and forth, so that the uncooked part may run down next the pan. When creamy throughout, begin at the side of the pan next the handle and roll the omelet, allowing the pan to rest on the stove a moment until the omelet is browned slightly; then turn on to a hot platter.

To make a puffy omelet beat the whites of the eggs until dry, beat the yolks until light colored and thick, add to the yolks a tablespoonful of water for each yolk and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of pepper for each three yolks. Mix together thoroughly and turn them over the beaten whites and cut and fold the whites into the yolk mixture. Have the pan buttered and hot, as before; turn the mixture into it, spreading it evenly over the pan. Let it stand for about two minutes where there is a moderate heat; then set the pan in the oven to cook the top slightly. Just as soon as a knife, thrust into the center of the omelet, comes out clean remove the omelet from the oven, cut it across the center of the top at right angles to the handle, fold the part nearest the handle over the other part and turn on to a hot platter.

The Five o'Clock Tea Brush.
The array of brushes for household use is constantly being added to by inventors with a quick eye for the exigencies of the moment. The New York Sun notes that besides the various grades and sizes of crumb brushes, recognized readily by their curving outlines, there is now a newcomer known as the 5 o'clock tea brush and designed for use in brushing the crumbs from highly polished tables over which no cloth is laid. The bristles of this new addition are so soft as not to injure the handsomest table ever set. The handle is ornate enough to make the brush a not inappropriate adjunct of luxurious surroundings. This brush is not a prosaic half moon like its older and tougher associates. It is higher than it is wide and altogether unique among crumb brushes. There is a ring on the handle through which a ribbon may be slipped for further decoration and the useful implement kept near at hand to be deft-ly wielded in between times by the fair tea pourer at an afternoon function.

CAMP THOMAS NOTES

What the Indiana Boys are Doing at Chickamauga

Sergt. Mack Larter, of Co. B, and Corporal Deap, of Co. A, returned last Saturday from a holiday visit at Indianapolis. Corporal Deap was accompanied by private William Brown, who has absent since the company left Ft.
Thomas

Company A had a forced march last week; marching to Reed's Bridge and returning, a distance of seven miles, in two hours.

Company A, Lieut. Thomas commanding, and Company B, Lieut. Edlin commanding, joined in a battallion skirmish drill last Friday with two companies of the Eighth Regiment

Several ghost stories are current in camp, especially among the superstitious persons. One night last week in order to ascertain the truth of these stories a ghost squad, composed of Sergts. Evans and Anderson and Privates Bell, Roberts, Johnson and Monroe, of Co. B, went ghost hunting in the vicinity of Bloody Pond, where ghosts have been reported seen. Sergeant Evans was the only one armed, and he only with side arm. After diligent search and finding no ghosts they devoted their time to chasing all the boys they chanced to meet on their way back to camp

Nothing more is known at this writing about the movement of the regiment. A majority of the boys in both the Indiana companies favor going to Cuba. Some speak of transferring to the Eighth Regiment in case the companies do not go.

All the sick previously reported are improving

PHASES OF PROTECTION

Unexampled Increase of America's Foreign Trade.

The staple Democratic argument against protection is that it builds a wall around the country, shutting out foreign demand for our produce and products. It is proclaimed, too, with a degree of inconsistency that marks the demagogic spirit of the free-trader and tariff for revenue reformer, that if the manufacturer fattens under protection the farmer suffers. It is not worth while in this connection to bother about counter arguments, it being sufficient to refute free trade and dispel the hypnotic influence it has exercised with a few facts of current circulation in the commercial papers of the United States.

In the present tide of prosperity of promise of a greater and beyond all in this country, it is remarkable that by a magnificent majority of the popular vote a Republican administration was demanded by the people at a cost of business depression, when enterprises of every kind languished and factories were closed, when farmers suffered from short crops and thousands were clamoring for work. This terrible state of affairs had continued for four years under a Democratic policy. When the publicans came in and established the protection for home industries, they immediately responded with alacrity to the demand of good times.

That they are here is shown by the fact that our exports during the past eight months were increased $107,000,000, and in another that the United States has had a second year of tremendous crops.

In the two Dakotas and Minnesota alone there will be this year a surplus of $148,000,000 in farm products. This represents a per capita production of $82. The farmer is getting spot cash on delivery instead of waiting for returns, as in times past, under consignment methods.

The whole movement of the United States trade with foreign countries has for the past eight months been at the rate of $1,907,638,896 a year.

The United States buys now very little linen from Austria. It was ordered a few years ago imported very large quantities.

While there are crop shortages about it is announced that the wheat crop of the United States this year will be 700,000,000 bushels. This would be the largest in the history of our country. It is more than enough to feed the population of the United States for forty years ago there were nearly 40,000,000 bushels of wheat produced then about 80,000,000 annually, and the wire product is ahead of the oat crop, but the production of both is so great that it threatens Europe with disaster petition.

At the rooms of the New York chautauque association, an insurance company, there is a throne of buyers from our country. All day long the story of wonderful ment in trade, of great crops in mak-money in abundance. The press faith in what they tell really is, chasing more goods than they before.

One of the incidents of good the great lessening of the nu-failures among manufacturers years ago in August there were ures of this class, last month less than half as many.

sian trade is with the United tation.

EDITORIAL

SATURDAY, JAN. 7, 1899

AFTER considerable discussion and research the conclusion has been reached that Representative-elect Roberts, of Utah, can not legally be prevented from taking his seat in the House of Representatives; but the House has the constitutional power by a two-thirds vote to expel a member for any cause that it thinks just. There is no limitation as to the cause of expulsion and none on the power or jurisdiction of the House except the grounds vote. The Indianapolis Journal voices the sentiment of the white press when it says:

It will be a national scandal if an elected representative of polygamy is allowed to hold a seat in the national legislature. It will be hard to make intelligent foreigners understand how a constitution can operate to compel a House to seat a man who is an acknowledged polygamist, thereby making the Nation party to a practice that is punished as a crime in all Christian countries.

This is good as far as it goes, but why stop here? Has it never occurred to the white press that the intelligent foreigner might think a little irregular that a United States Senator should advocate the use of shot guns at the polls to prevent Negroes from voting? It might go still further an explain why there is no opposition to the seating of Representative-elect Polygamy, of North Carolina, who played a conspicuous part in the Wilmington outrage; there is the possibility that the intelligent foreigner may conceive the idea that the Nation is a party to the crime of murdering Negroes.

Thousands of people are annually brought to this country, without the semblance of a trial, for no reason than that their skins are black. So intense is this race prejudice that the Carolinas were recently the scene of riots in which Negroes were killed and forced to leave their homes. In this condition of affairs was not the Government of sufficient moment by the President's Chief Executive to send a single line in his annual message to Congress. The intelligent foreigner might need a little explanation at this point. In the United States appear well in the eyes of inquisitive foreigners our white friends are liable to strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

By all means let us have expansion—expansion of the Negroes' rights and privileges in America

We publish below an account of the first annual session of National Afro-American Council as furnished by the Washington correspondent of The Chicago Record. It is interesting to note in what light these meetings are regarded by the white press:

The "Afro-American council," which met here for four or five days last week, was composed of between 300 and 400 delegates from twenty-eight states in the union—bishops, clergymen, lawyers, educators and others—supposed to be the foremost colored men of the country. It was intended for the purpose of considering measures for the advancement of their race morally, intellectually and materially; but was successful only in demonstrating the incapacity of their leaders not only to guide but to govern themselves. From the moment the council was called to order until the moment in adjourned it was the scene of continual and disgraceful disorder. Every delegate seemed to have the same purpose, which was to make as much noise and confusion as possible, and the most of them were remarkably successful. The disturbances were so frequent and confusing that three-fourths of the program was not carried out, and the only tangible result of the convention was an address to the public which was prepared in advance. It required an entire day to get a vote upon the adoption of this address. The first roll call took two hours. Its accuracy was disputed, and for a time it looked as if the whole convention would have to be arrested for assault and battery. It was noticeable that the Negroes from the northern states were much more turbulent than those from the South.

If the foregoing article was strictly true this would indeed be a sad condition of affairs, but happily such is not the case. The convention was composed of the foremost colored men of the country—Bishops Walters and Grant, H. P. Cheatham, Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia; Congressman George H. White, Judson W. Lyons, Register of the Treasury; Editor Fortune and a host of others. Noise and confusion! This correspondent has evidently never attended a political convention of his own race. What he is pleased to term "disgraceful disorder" would easily pass muster as "intense enthusiasm" in a convention of white men.

Will some of the advocates of emigration kindly step forward and tell us just what claim the American Negro has upon Africa?

There are thousands of white men, as well as Negroes, who, if they had devoted to sheep or poultry one-half the time and energy they have wasted in pursuit of some thousand-dollar office, would be in a position today where they would not take such an office as a gift.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Well! This will be a relief to the many who are laboring under the delusion that too-much politics was a malady which affected only the Negro.

We don't care how wide Uncle Sam opens the doors in his new possessions if he will only induce the white labor unions in America to open their doors to Negro workmen.

A LETTER TO POST.

On March 1, at 9 a. m., at the breakfast table overlooking the garden, she said to him:

"There is just this advantage in your going up to town. I can get my letters posted one post earlier. Put this in your pocket and be sure to post it the moment you arrive. There is a letter box just outside the station, you know."

At 10:15, as he passed the letter box just outside the station, he said vehemently to his friend with whom he was disputing that for his part he never had put and probably never would put the least faith in Lord Salisbury, and it was useless to argue with him.

At 11:30, in his own office, in taking a paper from his overcoat pocket, he brought out the letter which should have been posted in the pillar box just outside the station. He said to himself: "This is a pity, but as long as I post it now it will not much matter."

So he turned to ring the bell for the office boy, but at that moment the office boy tapped at the door and entered, announcing an exceedingly important client in a fur overcoat and on serious business.

At 5 p. m. on the same day he was helped into his overcoat preparatory to his return home. Feeling in the pockets to make sure that his cigarette case was there, without which in the course of his journey he would have been seriously inconvenienced, he discovered the letter which was still unposted. He was vexed about it, but reflected that if he dropped it into the letter box just outside the station it would still be posted before 6 o'clock, and that this was probably all that his wife really wanted.

At 6:30 o'clock, in the smoking compartment, as he drew out his cigarette case and the unposted letter with it, he decided that much the best course would be to own up the unfortunate omission to his wife and talk about the pressure of business.

At 8 p. m., as he sat down to dinner, he forgot to own up to his wife.

A period of further oblivion followed, during which, as the weather increased in warmth, he gave up wearing his overcoat. After a few days his wife observed that it was rather extraordinary that Mrs. Black Brunswick took absolutely no notice of her letter about the poodle. This remark on the part of his wife suggested nothing whatever to him.

Some days later, for no reason whatever, he suddenly remembered that Mrs. Black Brunswick was the name on the envelope. On his wife's again referring to the matter he pointed out that it did not always follow that because you posted a letter it would arrive at its destination. She said that she would write again and inquire. She posted this letter herself.

On April 12, at 3 a. m., having awakened from no particular cause, he suddenly remembered that that letter was still in his overcoat pocket and that anybody might find it at any time and use it as evidence against him. This so preyed on his mind that he remained awake until 7:30, when he fell asleep again, and in consequence hurried his breakfast, missed his train, and once more entirely forgot about that letter.

On the evening of the same day, on his return home, his wife told him that she never liked his overcoat, and that it was already shabby, and that in consequence she had given it away to the poor man who drove the station cab and had always seemed to her insufficiently provided for in the matter of warm clothing. He said, in a voice out of which he tried to keep the agony, "Did you feel in the pockets first?"

She put her hand on her forehead and exclaimed penitently that she had forgotten about that. He sighed resignedly and said that he supposed he should now have to see about it himself. She said that he need not trouble and that she would send round in the morning. He replied that the morning might be too late. This sounded far more conclusive than it really was. Then he went out to interview the poor man who drove the station cab. The poor man had parted with the coat to a cousin who lived three miles away. They started off together, he in the cab and the driver on the box, to look for that cousin.

At midnight, alone in his library, the rest of the household being asleep, he deposited in the flames a somewhat worn, soiled, but unopened letter to Mrs. Black Brunswick.

At breakfast next morning his wife was still apologizing because she had forgotten to look in the pockets. He, being magnanimous, said that it really didn't matter.—Barry Pain in Black and White.

Guinea Fowls.

These birds must be well known to be appreciated. From childhood we have had them on the farm, from 5 to 250 in a flock. They are no trouble whatever, lay their eggs in nests which they make in the grass and wheatfields, we often finding nests with from 3 to 75 eggs piled on top of each other. From some of the nests we take part of the eggs and leave some for them to raise their young. They sit, hatch and raise their broods, and we often do not see them until late in the fall, when they bring their chicks home, sometimes as many as 20 in a flock. Such chirping, such flying up trees! The little keets look much like partridges when about that size. They are splendid meat to fry or roast or for potpie, and to enjoy a breast of fowl one should eat a guinea fowl. The eggs are considered the richest of all eggs and keep well. We put them up to use in winter, and two years ago, when illness and death in the family made me forget the eggs until June, we found them just as good as when put away. If you try guinea fowls, you are sure to have eggs and fowls for your table and no trouble to get them.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

DR. SHEA, MARVELLOUS MEDIUM.

Gives the names of dead and living friends, tells who and when you will marry, also of business journeys, lawsuits, absent friends, health or anything you wish to know no matter what it is. He can call up your spirit friends and show them to you. Can make them rap all around the room. He asks no questions, just ask you to write names for him. Don't try to pump him in no way, but tells you right off. He is thoroughly endorsed by leading spiritualists everywhere, received from them a gold medal and special license to practice his wonderful powers; credentials no one else can show, can give thousands of references to both white and colored patrons. Twenty-five years' practice—seven in Brownsville—will show you that he can do all he tells of. Can tell what business is best for you and where, how to win speedy marriage with the one you love. How to be successful in all your doings, in short, what is best to do. He succeeds when all others fail. Positive satisfaction or no pay. Call and see. You will find it lucky to consult this Christian gentleman. He has a medicine that will cure drunkenness, can be given patients not knowing it. Thousands through him are now with all their undertakings, while those who neglect his advice are still laboring against poverty. Through his perfect knowledge of chemistry he can impart to you a secret that will overcome your enemies and win your friends. His aid and advice has often been solicited; the result has always been the securing of speedy and happy marriages and all your wishes in love affairs he never fails. He has the secret of winning the affections of the opposite sex.

RICH, HAPPY AND SUCCESSFUL

It is the curse of Spiritualism that in all large cities there are a class of men and women who claim powers they do not possess. They have neither gifts, credentials, nor references. Surely the colored people are not so wanting in sense as to throw their time and money away on such. Dr. Shea refers to the Hon. Chas. Miller, capitalist, 2481 Atlantic Avenue; the Hon. Wm. Denmore, architect and builder, 47 Cleveland Avenue; and Mr. Fred. A. Long, grocer, 64 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. All have known him for the past ten years. He gives a free test of his power to all. The doctor has practiced five years in New Orleans, St. Louis, Memphis and Louisville; understands thoroughly the diseases, spells or influences the race is subject to. He has now and always had large patronage from them.

PLEASE READ THE FOLLOWING:

Brooklyn, Aug. 15.—This is to certify that I came to New York from Albany. I was a stranger in a strange city, out of work and out of money. I had no luck in anything I undertook. What to do I did not know. A friend advised me to go and see Dr. Shea, I did. He told me the cause of my troubles; he took me in and treated me as a brother. Through him I got a good position that very week. I had been to others; they took my money and did me no good. I bless the day I first met Dr. Shea. I would advise all in bad luck, sick or in trouble to go to him at once. Sincerely, Albert Ayres, 2937 Atlantic Avenue.

Brooklyn, Aug. 15.—This letter is to certify that my husband had gone away and had been absent two years. I mourned for him night and day. I gave him up as dead. Hearing of the wonderful things Dr. Shea was doing I resolved to consult him. He told me that my husband was alive and well and where he was; told me he would come home and when. To my joy all of it came true. He is home now, came back like one from the dead. I wish to say that this month I lost $250. I am a poor woman and I was about insane. I went to Dr. Shea and he told me I would find my money and to my intense joy I did find it as he told me. I thank God there is a man so gifted in our midst that can help people and tell them what to do. Sincerely, Mrs. Mary Miller, South Plainfield, New Jersey

A SENSATION IN BROOKLYN—A MINISTER'S STATEMENT

I wish to state that one of my parishoners was sick and in trouble for a long time. Mrs. Brown, 77 Gay street. No one seemed to understand her case. She had several doctors, but none of them seemed to know what was the matter. None could do her any good. It was my duty as her pastor to call and see her. Hearing of the wonderful work being done by Dr. Shea the last few years, I thought I would call and see him myself. I found him a sympathetic gentleman. He gave me a wonderful test of his powers; told me to send him a lock of patient's hair, which I did by her daughter. He did once what was the matter and in a short time cured her sound and well. Her family had seemingly been under a cloud. Now all is changed. All are well and prosperous. I can truly and heartily recommend Dr. Shea to all those in sickness or distress of any kind. Rev. William Johnson, pastor Lebanon church, Brooklyn.

Dr. Shea can show thousands such as the above.

DR. SHEA has been carefully educated in the Homeopathic and Electric Schools of Medicine. His specialty is wonderful in curing paralysis, Rheumatism, Asthma, Sore Eyes, Tumors, Cancers, Constipation, Ague, Dyspepsia, Tape Worms, Liver Complaint, he told me I would find my money and to my intense joy I did find it as he told me. I thank God there is a man so gifted in our midst that can help people and tell them what to do. Sincerely, Mrs. Mary Miller, South Plainfield, New Jersey

The reported massing in Pana of 1,000 union miners from central and southern Illinois towns for the purpose of driving out the non-union imported Negro miners, failed to materialize.

Many arrests of Negroes have been made by the provost guard on charges of carrying concealed weapons and fighting. The mine operators, who have heretofore been securing the release of Negroes by going on their bond, have notified Sheriff Downey that no more bonds would be signed by mine operators.

Bishop Hartzell of the Methodist church, whose diocese embraces the entire continent of Africa, was in Washington recently having interviews with the president and the secretary of state with regards to affairs in Liberia, in which he is deeply interested.

When Bishop Hartzell returned to the United States last spring he brought with him a formal appeal from the government of Liberia for a joint protectorate by England and the United States in order to preserve that little black republic, from the rapacity of the Germans, French and Belgians who are now grabbing all the territory they can in Africa.

While neither the British nor the American government was inclined to accept a formal protectorate, both have agreed to use their good offices in behalf of Liberian independence, and Bishop Hartzell will carry back with him next week an assurance that the people need have no fear of losing their national integrity.

Since the Hawaiian republic became a part of the United States the Liberians have applied for annexation and would like to become a territory or even a colony of this government, but in his conference with the president and Secretary Hay Bishop Hartzell did not receive any encouragement on this score.

This afternoon, however, he had an interview with the naval authorities, at which the practicability of establishing a naval station with one of the Liberian ports was favorably discussed. Upon his return to Monrovia he will lay the matter before President Coleman, so that negotiations may be directly undertaken by diplomatic agencies.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Yank Adams, the finger billiards man—everybody knows him or of him. Before the czar of Russia, the Prince of Wales, Napoleon III, Bismarck and Francis Joseph of Austria he has "twirled the ivories" in unapproachable style. He has amazed continents with his skill. He has been soldier, bartender, promoter, commercial traveler and negro minstrel.

Maurice Daly had a billiard room in a basement opposite the postoffice. One day Yank visited him. "Maurice, are you very busy?" he whispered. "What is it?" said Daly. Yank invited him to go back to the rear. "I can't tell you unless you let me throw a cold bottle into you. It's too good." The bottle was brought, and while leaning against the edge of the table Yank carelessly picked up a ball and made a point. Daly, happening to see the movement, asked in surprise, "How did you do that?" "That? What?" said Yank, as if he had not started in to put up a job on Maurice.

"Oh, you mean that shot? Ha, ha! That's one of my little tricks." "Can't do it again for a cold bottle," said Daly. It was done and repeated over and over again, Daly gasping with astonishment. He had never heard of such a game before and saw money in it.

"Yank," said he, "I'd like to engage you for two weeks to give exhibition games down here. Give you $150 a week. What say?" It was the biggest offer Yank had ever received, and he accepted it. This happened a good many years ago. Since then Yank Adams has made a fortune at finger billiards.—New York Press.

A Remarkable Skater. Robert E. Paulding, a member of the New York Athletic club, does some most difficult feats on ice skates. His specialty is broad jumping on ice, for which he has made a new record, his longest leap being 18 feet 9 inches.

His best high jump is 3 feet 10 1/4 inches, and his standing backward jump is 35 inches, which beats the record by four inches. Paulding has tried pole vaulting on skates and has succeeded in clearing the bar at 8 feet 6 inches.—New York World.

Athletics Versus Study. One of the objections raised against college athletics several years ago was based on the allegation that the athletes must necessarily be low standard men because the requirements of training were such that they would have little time left for regular college work.

In recent years, however, it has been shown that many of the best athletes of the big colleges are also high standard men, and they have not found that their devotion to athletics interfered with the main object of their college course. One of the features of the recent Cornell dinner in this city was the presence of half a dozen men who have done much for Cornell athletics. It was a surprise to some of the old Cornell men who knew these athletes only by reputation to find that they were able to contribute some of the best music of the evening.

Savoy, No. 7 in last year's crew; Schoch, center rush on the football team, and Faville, the lively right guard, were conspicuous members of the Cornell Glee club, and they sang as well as they rowed or played football.—New York Sun.

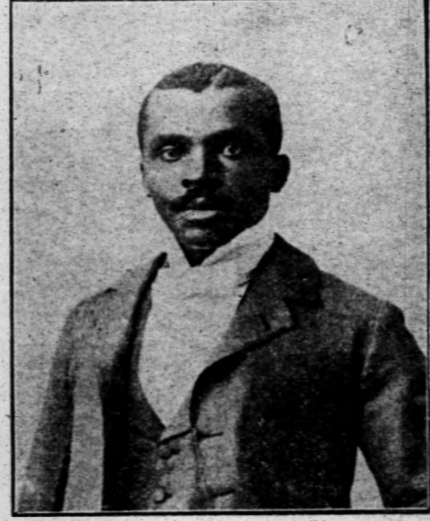

Century Riding Still Popular. Century riding is not growing less attractive to cyclists as the years roll along, contrary to reports. This is well shown by a comparison of the number of centuries made hereabouts during 1897 with the number credited to some of the leading candidates for road riding honors in previous seasons.

I have used Ripans Tablets with so much satisfaction that I can cheerfully recommend them. Have been troubled for about three years with what I called bilious attacks coming on regularly once a week.

I want to inform you, in words of highest praise, of the benefit I have derived from Ripans Tablets. I am a professional nurse and in this profession a clear head is always needed.

Mother was troubled with heartburn and sleeplessness, caused by indigestion, for a good many years. One day she saw a testimonial in the paper endorsing Ripans Tablets.

I have been a great sufferer from constipation for over five years. Nothing gave me any relief. My feet and legs and abdomen were bloated so I could not wear shoes on my feet and only a loose dress.

Reading some of the testimonials in favor of Ripans Tablets, I tried them. Ripans Tablets not only relieved but actually cured my youngster, the headaches have disappeared, bowels are in good condition and he never complains of his stomach.

My seven-year-old boy suffered with pains in his head, constipation and complained of his stomach. He could not eat like children of his age and he never had a day when he did not feel unwell.

Each participant appeared at his best, and so enraptured was the audience that each participant was encored until a response was made. The success of the entertainment certainly reflects great credit upon its director. May the time hasten when more of our young men and women will take such an interest in the welfare of our church.

Terry, assistant; Miss Lulu Cage, secretary; Miss Nellie Alexander, assistant; J. W. Gregory, librarian; Miss Cora Martin, organist and D. Venable treasurer.

Eleven o'clock services were exceptionally well attended. A Reply.

In Rev. T. A. Edward's article of Dec 31, he only criticises the truth and admits that the devil is in the church, and that he is sold to his idols, and that it is too late for the would-be church reformer to do much toward getting him out. I have not the power of my own to reform either the church or the people, but Jesus Christ whom I serve has got all power both in heaven and on earth, and he holds the reins of this universe in his hands, and his gospel is the power of salvation to every one who believes. It is sharper than a two-edged sword and will cut the Rev. Edwards and Ephraim loose from their idols and reform all ministers and laymen that believe that the devil or his influence should be left alone in the church. All members of the church should read and study the 10th and 11th chapters of 2nd Cor. The 13-14-15 verses of the 11th chapter suits Rev. Edwards and all who are standing still or assisting the devil in breaking down the christian influence of the church. WM. HARVEY,

The hall was beautifully decorated with flags, holly and cedar. The ladies were all tastefully attired in evening costume, the gentlemen being in full dress. The ladies of the club wore a beautiful bow of purple and white ribbon in their hair and in their corsage as a club favor. The floor management was under the care of Prof. Walker. Music was furnished by Martin's orchestra. At 11:30 p. m. an elaborate menu of two courses was served. The favors were wish bones tied to a card with yellow, red and white ribbon and engraved upon that was the "Progressive Social Club." Every one present had a good time.

How to Make Bread and Zwieback - A Pretty Plant For a Window Garden - Holder For Whisk Broom.

That there is a much better grade of bread made and eaten by the majority of people nowadays than prevailed some years ago is a fact that we must all admit. As there are reasons for all of the great and small facts of life, it follows that there must be one for this, and it is readily found in the improved quality of the flour and quicker yeast than our grandmothers were always able to obtain.

There are a few points in breadmaking that many cooks do not appreciate. In cold weather the flour should be warmed and everything connected with the bread should be almost at blood heat. While the old fashioned salt or milk rising unquestionably makes the sweetest and most reliable bread, many women who might do so refrain from making it on account of the length of time it takes to raise it. Compressed yeast, if strictly fresh, will raise in half of the time. Salt rising, if made with potatoes, keeps fresh for a long time; quite long enough, in fact, for any such crumb to be kept on hand. Bread should not be kept over four or five days in warm or moderate weather. It begins to deteriorate and soon develops a form of bacteria that is by no means wholesome. After four days, if there is any bread in the box, it should be sliced and put into the oven and converted into zwieback. For this purpose a very hot oven is required. Let the slices remain until they are a light brown, not a yellow shade, but distinctly browned, then put them away in paper bags or pasteboard boxes. They are excellent in coffee and form a most excellent basis for dainty dishes of various sorts. For eggs on toast, cream toast, soups or puddings, salt rising bread made into zwieback is invaluable. As an instantaneous relish, for example, when one comes in heated and hungry and needs a cup of something warm with a cracker or other accompaniment, it is unsurpassed. A dish of panada with this ingredient as a substitute for crackers is a most delicious luncheon if one is hungry when about to retire.

Yeast bread is also good and bakers' and other bread may be utilized to great advantage. Economy is the prime consideration in the house and in nothing is it more important than in the utilizing of breadstuffs. - New York Ledger.

A Pretty Plant. Forgetmenot is easily cultivated and is one of the prettiest plants for a window garden. It is half aquatic and will thrive in vases of water as well as in pots of earth. All that is needed is to obtain a few cuttings, rooting them either in damp moss or in water, then filling a vase or hanging basket with the young plants, which they will quickly fill with roots and profusely cover with flowering shoots and branchlets, and in a shady window are charming objects. When the plants begin to show signs of fading, fresh cuttings may be started, or the old plants may be pulled to pieces, and the branches already covered with roots formed into new plants by inserting them into a fresh vase or basket.
