GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1911

No. 45

Tropico and Glendale are practically one community joining Los Angeles City on the north; the former five and the latter six miles in a direct line from the Court House in Los Angeles. Glendale is an incorporated city of the sixth class with about 2700 population. Pacific Electric cars leave Sixth street depot half hourly, Broadway every half hour, connecting at Eagle Rock with car for Glendale. Rapidly increasing in population and importance, schools, churches, fraternal societies, business establishments and all the accessories of an up-to-date suburban community.

CITY TRUSTEES

All members present. The usual list of demands were referred and others reported back approved. Trustee Lane reported progress in the matter of securing street from Mrs. Hammond on the Fifth street property for proposed library site. The clerk was instructed to communicate with the lady informing her that the board is considering other sites in the same locality and that unless an option is given immediately at the price first named, $3500, without the intervention of third parties, negotiations will be discontinued.

In the matter of restricting the speed of motor vehicles the city attorney reported that the state law requires a sign-board on each street where the speed limit changes and also on each street at city limits; also describing the methods of determining speed. Report accepted and marshal instructed to ascertain cost, etc. The tax collector's final report was received and laid over for consideration. Bill from horticultural commissioners was ordered paid, it appearing that notice had been served on street superintendent.

Report of night watchman was received and referred to police and sanitary committee.

A deed from Geo. F. Davis and wife conveying property for street purposes was received and referred to city attorney.

Bids for the improvement of Eagle Rock road were opened and read as follows:

Peter L. Ferry, grading 80 cents a linear foot; F. R. Sinclair, grading, $1.00 a linear foot.

The matter of installing street lights at Fourth and Eagle Rock road was referred to the public works committee and manager of lighting department.

Mr. Emil Fran addressed the board on the subject of garbage collection; referred to public works committee.

A resolution was adopted declaring the intention of the trustees in the event of certain territory being annexed to the city at the election to be held March 21, to proceed as soon as possible to extend the street lighting system to such territory.

The tax collector was instructed to issue new and amended certificates of sale in accordance with section 58 of Ordinance 14. The tax collector's report was ordered to be audited by Mr. Coombs.

D. D. DOINGS.

It was noised abroad that the Hunchberger's had killed the fatted calf and were expecting a season of feasting. The news was wafted over the vibrating wires to the waiting ears of the expectant "bunch" and like bees in a molasses barrel they were soon surrounding the festal board. (We have neglected to say that these aforementioned events transpired last Friday evening about 6:30; that is, the transpiring began about that hour.) At 8:05 p. m. nothing remained save the festal board, a few fragments and one member who had slid under the table. Plenty of cold water soon revived the brother and the literary program was brought in and laid on the table. The rejuvenated brother thinking that it was another pie, ate it, thus bringing the program to an untimely end. In the maelstrom which followed, a loud knock at the front door and a loud cry of "Let me in," sent all the men under the piano. Mrs. Hunchberger calmly opened the door and directed the old gentlemen to the corner of Second and Central. When the fears of the men had been allayed they crept out and enjoyed a fruit game with the ladies.

To close the program a member possessed of a voice, arose, cleared his throat, stroked his Adam's apple once or twice, and began to elucidate a few notes. The listening ears faint at the rapture of his melodious numbers and several brains swooned in transports of ecstasy, etc.

ANOTHER MODERN HOME.

Paul V. Tuttle has just completed plans for an 8-room story and a half residence for Frank Methis, to be erected on First street just west of Central. This home will be on the Craftsman style with rough stained exterior, blue brick porch and chimneys, concrete foundation. There will be a living room across the entire front of the house, size 15x20 feet; also a dining room 13x18 feet with buffet occupying one end. A feature will be an outside sleeping porch on the first floor, also a breakfast room. On the second floor there will be three sleeping rooms and bath.

This home will cost about $2500 and will be built by J. F. McClellan.

ST. MARK'S MISSION.

As a fitting close of St. Mark's social functions prior to the Lenten season, a sumptuous supper was served in the Guild hall, Thursday evening, Feb. 24. Never had the hall been so beautifully decorated, for on entering the delightful fragrance of the California violet was most perceptible, the long "L" shaped tables were lavishly decorated with masses of lovely violets intermingled with the delicate tendrils of smilax. The tables fairly groaned under the most tempting viands furnished by the generous ladies of the mission. Promptly at 7 o'clock about 165 guests seated themselves at the tables, a special one being placed on the platform for the children. From this table a little fair-haired boy reverently invoked the blessing of God upon the assembly and a most happy hour was spent disposing of the delicious foods.

Not alone had the ladies provided for the bodily comforts but the intellect was also feasted. The rector, Rev. R. O. Mackintosh was at his best as toastmaster and introduced the various speakers with much grace and rare wit. The first toast, "St. Mark's Guild," was responded to by the president, Mrs. Johnson. She spoke of the gradual increase in membership, an earnest, intense interest in all the working forces. "The Altar Guild," was answered by Mrs. C. C. Campbell, proxy for Mrs. Morris, the able directress. She spoke of the faithfulness of the eight members in making the church beautiful and the privilege of such service for the Master. "The Auxillary," the mission ary branch of the church, was responded to by Mrs. Hunt, the president. She adroitly traced this work from its early foundation, showing most vividly the immense benefit derived from working along missionary lines for foreign fields. "The Boys Club," presented by Cecil Gilson, one of the most energetic young men in the mission, was outlined, briefly stating its object, enumerating the most salient points regarding membership. "The Sunday School" was ably dealt with by Mr. Reid, the superintendent. He urged hearty co-operation with parents in this splendid field of church work.

The early history of the mission was prepared by Mrs. Penn and read by her son, the clerk of the mission. This history covered a period of 23 years, giving many details of church life that showed the strong faith of the early workers to establish a live parish in Glendale.

"The Congregation" was the subject given by J. L. Whitaker, treasurer of the mission. The pith of his remarks was to worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.

The present state of the church was comprehensively covered by the warden, Edgar Wilson Pack. He told of the present financial affairs, the fine property acquired by hard and persistent work. He asked for better fellowship among the members; greater helpfulness to the rector and officers, meeting together to discuss ways and means for the betterment of the mission.

The future of the mission was ably handled by Dr. Hunt. His remarks were full of optimism and enthusiasm, predicting a change from St. Mark's mission to St. Mark's parish, under the wise supervision of the young rector, Rev. R. O. Mackintosh.

The singing of the doxology brought this delightful evening to a close, each guest going home with the thought "Blest be the tie that binds Our hearts in Christian love, The fellowship of kindred minds Is like to that above."

MR. AND MRS. P. V. TUTTLE ENTERTAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Tuttle entertained a number of friends at cards, Friday evening, in their new home on West Fourth street. Prizes were won by Mrs. John C. Masters, Mr. Ed Witt and Mrs. Ed Witt.

Refreshments were served at Mrs. Dodge's, sister of the hostess. The table was handsomely decorated with hand-painted china and cut glass, while a large bouquet of red sweet peas and ferns formed an attractive centerpiece. The place cards were a perspective of the new home, done in water colors.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Tweedy, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Masters, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deal, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cornelius, Mr. and Mrs. Henri LeGrand, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dodge, Mrs. Rose Mellus and Mr. R. Harrison.

"AT HOME" ENTERTAINMENT.

A most enjoyable "At Home" reception was held at the residence of Mrs. L. J. Hodge, 201 Central avenue, last Saturday afternoon for the daughter-in-law of the hostess, Mrs. Geo. O. Hodge of Wenonah, Ill. In the receiving line were Mrs. L. J. Hodge, Mrs. L. C. Rice, Mrs. R. A. Petersen of Glendale and Mrs. Smith of Hollywood. About forty ladies were present from Glendale and Los Angeles. When all had arrived, they were asked to select material in the shape of tissue and crepe paper; pins and scissors to make their Easter bonnets. The scheme was quite a novelty and the results were many elaborate creations varied in color, both plain and plated. The ladies then formed in procession wearing the new hats and paraded before three judges who awarded prizes. The first was taken by Mrs. Eddy of Los Angeles, a beautiful miniature in oval gilt frame; the booby prize was given to Mrs. E. C. Frank of Glendale, a doll's straw hat. Mrs. Samuel Hoover of Los Angeles delighted the company by two vocal solos, and Miss Frances Miller of Glendale gave several instrumental numbers which were enjoyed by all.

After the music a number of small tables each seating four were brought in and delicious refreshments were served. Altogether the occasion was a delightful one for all attending.

MRS. E. FOY ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. E. Foy entertained a number of her friends at her home, 1515 West Seventh street on Friday last. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a sumptuous dinner served. The music for the afternoon was furnished by Prof. Stork's orchestra, and altogether a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Covers were laid for the following: Mrs. Lovejoy of Hollywood, Mrs. Link, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Wilhite, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Faag, Mrs. Joiner, Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Everett, Mrs. E. Foy.

J. E. PETTIT RENTS STORE.

Mr. Pettit has purchased the stock of E. F. Kober, at the Verdugo grocery, and will move that stock to his new store. He will also transfer the stock of meat from the Thorp-Boss grocery to the new stand.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

Passed Upon the Resignation of the Philanthropic Committee.

Whereas, the Tuesday Afternoon Club feels deeply the loss sustained in the resignation of the Philanthropic Committee, and

Whereas, this committee has for years, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Rice, worked faithfully, energetically and effectively in accomplishing much good, and

Whereas, the report of this committee offered at the last meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, and published in full in the Glendale NEWS of February 17, shows a large amount of work done this year; therefore,

Resolved, that this Tuesday Afternoon Club expresses to the retiring Philanthropic Committee the sense of loss sustained in their resignation, and thanks each member for her efficient and untiring work during the past months of the club year.

The above resolutions were passed by the club on February 23, at the meeting following the resignation of the committee, which has for years done such praiseworthy miscellaneous philanthropic work, besides contributing towards Rev. Dana Bartlett's Bethelheim institution, and largely aiding the Day Nursery in Los Angeles conducted by the King's Daughters, of which Mrs. Rice, the chairman of the committee, has been a member for fifteen years.

In the latter institution a handsome room was last year finished and furnished by this committee. The green and gold club colors, and green and gold California poppy, the club flower, were cleverly and artistically introduced in colorings of wall and ceiling, specially made rugs, brass and birdseye furniture, and stenciled draperies.

While the crib room, furnished in blue and white by the celebrated singer, Ellen Beach Yaw, is most lovely, and the mothers' room, in white, given by the Hollywood Woman's Club, is beautiful, yet the green and gold matron's room is undoubtedly the most aesthetic in the new day nursery building, and the artistic panel bearing the name of the Tuesday Afternoon Club which marks the room speaks to visitors of the character of Glendale's club and workers.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce was held at I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening. Several new names were added to the roll. The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the chamber and the secretary instructed to forward a copy of the same to the proper authorities of the P. E. railway and also insert it in the Glendale papers:

Whereas, The Pacific Electric Railway Co. in its literature, maps and time tables advertises that part of the city of Glendale at Glendale avenue and Fourth street as a separate place under the name of East Glendale and

Whereas, The said locality is situated sixteen hundred feet west of the geographical center of the city;

Therefore, Be it resolved that the Glendale Chamber of Commerce call the attention of the proper officials of the Pacific Electric Railway Co. to the manifest injustice of such action, and respectfully requests that the designation of any portion of Glendale west of the center, as East Glendale, be discontinued.

A committee consisting of E. D. Goode, R. A. Blackburn and E. C. Frank was appointed to arrange for a free entertainment to be given March 28.

Chamber voted to co-operate with the P. E. Railway Co. and other bodies in the Pacific Land and Exhibit Co. to be held in Los Angeles from March 18 to April 2.

Various other matters of importance were acted upon after which meeting adjourned.

E. B. RIGGS, Secy.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY DANCE

The dance held Friday evening in the Glendale Country Club by its members and friends was devoted to the interests of the "Father of our Country." The club parlors, always so artistic, were made more so by characteristic decorations consisting of festoons of tiny red hatched and ferns, while large American flags were furled over the archways and even the programs bore symbols of truth—Mrs. G. F. Farrow was hostess of the evening, and her plans were such that all present enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Among the guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. C. Ackley.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Edwards and Willey report lots in the Haines tract on Verdugo road, selling rapidly, although plots of the ground are not yet printed. The property consists of fifteen acres and is divided into ten one-acre and ten half-acre lots, a street to run through the tract eastward from Verdugo road.

Mr. Henry Johnson has bought of J. P. Shropshire the lot that the Patterson house stands on and three other adjoining lots on the west side of Everett street north of Fourth. It is the owner's intention to put improvements on the property at once.

The Baptist church contemplates making a $5000 addition to its building.

Stuart M. Street of Tropico has purchased two lots on Eulalia street where he will have a $3000 residence erected on it.

Ambrosini & Sippel have sold the eight-acre ranch at West Fourth street, and San Fernando road, belonging to Sophia Strehlein to Mr. Mayhew Carpenter. Consideration $15,000. This tract will be immediately improved.

GLENDALE VALLEY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

The Improvement Association decided at the regular meeting held last Tuesday night at K. of P. hall to have arrangements for "The Glendale May Festival" well under way in a very short time. According to latest reports the affair will be held in Glendale city and side amusements will be carried out at Verdugo Park, and with the aid of all interested citizens the day should be a grand success.

After the regular business was set aside, the entertainers surprised the attendance so immensely with their skill that every one went home rejoicing. Mr. A. R. Taylor accompanied by Mrs. Taylor, on the piano, sang two beautiful songs, even then the encore was so strong that it was rather hard to convince their listeners that they ought to be satisfied.

Mr. Harry Glazier will also be well remembered for his brilliant success in entertaining with a selection from Kipling entitled "Gunga Din."

The association will be only too glad to have these very liberal entertainers with them often.

On account of some changes being made by the Knights of Pythias in regard to meeting nights, the association will hold their regular meetings on the last Tuesday of each month instead of Thursday, at the same hall.

Following is a resolution which was presented by Mr. O. A. Lane, city trustee, and passed unanimously.

Resolution.

Resolved, That the Glendale Valley Improvement Association in session this 23rd day of February, 1911, hereby endorse the actions of our representatives from this district to the state legislature and senate in their efforts to secure for the city of Los Angeles the right to own, manage and control its harbor and water front.

THE WEATHER.

We warned our readers in a recent issue not to be deluded into the belief that summer had arrived, just because we happened to get a few warm days. Then we went out and planted some garden seed!

Monday last it began to rain, the coldest storm of the season, and by Tuesday the Sierra Madres back of La Crescenta were white with snow, a distance of four or five miles from Glendale; and some of this reminder of "back East," fell on the north side of the Verdugo hills, half that distance away.

As we go to press the weather is unsettled. By the gauge of Mr. H. E. Bartlett the rainfall for the storm was 1.1 inches. Total for season 12.92.

The Glendale Parent-Teacher Federation will hold an evening meeting in the High school auditorium on Saturday, March 11, at eight o'clock. Dr. Thomas H. Stowell, a member of the faculty of the University of Southern California, will make the address of the evening. Dr. Stowell speaks directly to the point and being both a father and a teacher himself, is well qualified to discuss his subject, "The Child and the Home."

GLENDALE, CAL., MARCH 3, 1911.

The Tropico Sentinel, the new paper launched to fill a long-felt want, by Mr. Melrose, has made its appearance. It is printed in Los Angeles and presents a good appearance, the contents creditable in every way to an initial number.

The completion of the bore of the great Elizabeth Lake tunnel for the Owens river aqueduct is the greatest feat in tunneling that has ever been accomplished and to Chief Engineer Lippincott and those under him who did the work, too much credit cannot be given. The bore is about five miles in length; there has been less than three years and a half put in on the work.

Senator Gates is reported as saying, in regard to Hewitt's city and county consolidation bill: "I have made up my mind that I can support no measure having for its object the division of Los Angeles county, which does not permit a separate vote by the portions to be dismembered." His position in regard to this matter is so eminently just that the only thing to wonder at is that any fair-minded, intelligent representative of the people can have a contrary opinion.

A Los Angeles paper has a great scheme for turning the river bed in that city over to the transportation companies for railroad tracks, the water of the river to be turned into a little watercourse at one side. Some day the spirit of the Los Angeles river will arouse to a sense of the contempt with which it is looked upon by the tenderfoot, and give them an object lesson showing that it yet possesses the power to avenge itself upon the puny creatures who clutter up its course to the sea with all manner of modern contraptions. And when it does so, there will be some good "copy" for the newspaper that now has the temerity to suggest interference with the bed, not on, but beneath which, a sleeping giant lies.

The editor of the NEWS appreciates highly the following from the Sierra Madre News, one of the most attractive and ablest of our exchanges. As the legislature did not adopt a song after all, the point made need not be pressed!

BY THE WAY.

"Before adopting an official state song the legislature should have held an open competition so Editor Sherer of the GLENDALE NEWS could have submitted a sample to prove his theory that poetic expression can be stimulated by a properly arranged vegetable diet. Sherer, by the way, had a mighty fine poetic offering with Glendale as the subject in his recent illustrated special edition. The whole edition was a credit to Glendale and its leading newspaper which is one of the best suburban papers in Southern California."

OUR SPECIAL.

The NEWS is particularly pleased at reports from some of the advertisers in our Special, to the effect that they are getting returns from their investment in that issue. As far as the publisher is concerned it is not a pecuniary success, but it is doing good work for Glendale and vicinity and will continue to do so for months to come. Hence are we satisfied.

SOME ELECTIONS.

The election called to vote on the incorporation of Tropico as a city of the sixth class, comes off next Tuesday. Should it carry, it will mean the permanent limitation of the city of Glendale southward. Should it fail to carry, there will be a vote on the 21st on the annexation of the eastern part of Tropico to the city of Glendale, which if carried will extend the southern boundary of Glendale to the Southern Pacific railroad track (the city of Los Angeles). Four days before the latter election occurs, there will be a bond election held in Glendale for the purpose of determining whether bonds to the extent of $18,000 will be issued for the purpose of purchasing a lot or lots upon which to erect a city hall immediately and a library at some subsequent time. No other elections in this territory are just now in sight, but there are interesting possibilities.

NOT YET CAUGHT UP.

Lady Tennessee Clafin Cook has taken occasion to denounce the opponents of equal suffrage as "corrupt politicians and grafters," which shows that she has not lost all of the vitriolic linguistic ability of the days when she and her sister, Victoria Clafin Woodhull, were the two most talked of women in the United States; the latter particularly, on account of her radical and unique views upon the marriage relation, having a reputation which may be fairly stated as "notorious." Apparently tiring of notoriety, both women married wealthy Englishmen, and settling down to a quiet life, achieved "respectability." It was not their views in regard to the franchise that made them unpopular in the best society, but views in regard to the married relation which Mrs. Woodhull retailed in lectures at a remunerative price. These views were so "advanced" that the world has not, after the lapse of thirty years or more, yet caught up with them.

OUR CITRUS INDUSTRY.

From a speech made at the Chamber of Commerce banquet by Mr. G. Harold Powell, we glean the following:

Invested in orange and lemon growing in California, $175,000,000 to $200,000,000.

There are from 100,000 to 150,000 people depending on it for a livelihood.

Between 45,000 and 50,000 carloads of fruit will be shipped this year, bringing in a probable revenue of $35,000,000 to $40,000,000, out of which $15,000,000 to $17,000,000 will be paid to the transportation companies. This crop will represent about one-fourth of the output of the world in citrus fruits, being exceeded in any one other section only by the crop of Italy, which will be about 70,000 carloads.

We pay for labor from two to four times as much as is paid in Europe, and it costs about three times as much to place our fruit before the consumer as it costs Italy and Spain. The tariff on foreign productions is necessary to protect the American industry, but there must be an effort made to increase the quality and to improve upon methods of production and distribution.

A MISFORTUNE.

An election in which Glendale had a serious interest, took place in Eagle Rock last week and resulted in the incorporation of that place as a city of the sixth class. That Eagle Rock incorporated shows that its people are progressive and know what is best for their own interests. The result, however, as far as Glendale is concerned, is little less than a misfortune, for the new city reaches across the hills westward and takes in territory which naturally belongs to Glendale, coming to our present corporate limits. This territory was included in the annexation proposition which was defeated at the election held early in January. The result of Eagle Rock's incorporation shuts out any possible extension of the city of Glendale eastward, and curiously enough the majority of the anti-annexation vote within the city limits, at the January election, came from the voters on the east side of Glendale. The territory alluded to above as naturally belonging to this city is at present sparsely settled, but it has all the desirable advantages of a home section, including beautiful hill side sites and is in the pathway of rapid development, a number of subdivisions having recently been put on the market.

REPUBLICAN?

A few of the members of the legislature at Sacramento appear to be getting tired of supporting measures simply because they have the stamp of executive approval, or because they appear to carry out the program laid down in a freak platform prepared by a handful of leaders temporarily in power. The fact seems to be overlooked by many that a county or state party platform is not "Republican" when in conflict with the principles of the platform of the national convention of the party last adopted. The state platform may be, as it claims, "progressive," but until its radical and revolutionary planks are ratified or adopted by the national assembly of the party, the individual representatives of the party are justified in a refusal to be bound by it. As long ago as 1892 the Republican state convention in California adopted a platform declaring for free silver and woman suffrage, but the voters of the party refused to be bound by it, and no attempt was made to enact laws in accordance with it, and that platform of eighteen years ago has not yet been ratified by the national convention. Certain measures affecting local or state affairs only may be adopted, irrespective of the national definition of the meaning of the party name, but no measure revolutionizing the political methods or principles of the national, authoritative head of the party deserve to be called Republican, if in their application they affect the election of members of the legislature

(who elect senators), members of congress or president of the United States.

LOS ANGELES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Washington's Birthday banquet by the Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles was a great event, and the sentiments expressed by the principal speakers were in themselves explanatory of the wonderful work accomplished by that organization. As Mr. Joseph Scott stated, the success of the organization was largely due to the fact that it kept all questions of politics in the background. The eloquent speaker never stated a greater truth than when he said that "politics breeds cowards." He uttered another truism which should, and we believe will be the final verdict of the American people, when he declared that "neither capital nor labor shall run this government or this community." That this expression of Mr. Scott signified no antagonism to the people who work for a living is shown by another extract from his excellent speech:

"The laboring man must not forget the responsibilities and anxieties and the dangers of investment by the capitalist; but, on the other hand, the capitalist ought to remember at all times that the working man is worthy of his hire—that he ought to be afforded the opportunity to take unto himself a wife and raise a family; that he may have some of the comforts and blessings which come from a healthy home atmosphere. He ought not to have to worry his soul out in degradation and want and misery by reason of insufficient means whereby to sustain his family properly."

The speech of the incoming president, Mr. James Slauson, referred principally to present industrial conditions in Los Angeles, particularly as contrasted with San Francisco, and was a patriotic appeal for the "open shop." The membership of the chamber is 3,000.

TAFT AND RECIPROCITY.

Republicans who have been pretending to be in favor of a practical reduction of the tariff along lines that would benefit the consumer have now a chance to show their sincerity by supporting the reciprocity treaty which President Taft and Secretary of State Knox have negotiated with Canada. At the time of this writing it appears that the present congress will adjourn, and the president be compelled to call an extra session and depend upon Democratic votes largely to endorse the treaty. If it shall at last be ratified, it will be one of the greatest achievements of President Taft's administration, and will go far toward a solution of the somewhat intricate tariff problem, because it will no doubt be followed by other treaties. The practical character of the proposed treaty is shown by a glance at its provisions. It provides for the free admission from Canada into the United States of poultry, vegetables, fruit, butter, eggs, fish and dried apples, all of which at present pay a duty, amounting on poultry to as much as five cents a pound, and on eggs to five cents a dozen. On fresh meat the duty is reduced from one-half cent to one-quarter cent a pound, and on bacon and hams from four cents to one and one-quarter cents per pound.

Upon the terms of the Republican platform, there is no ground for calling this a free trade measure. The tariff plank of that platform declares for a tariff which shall be the measure of the difference in production between other countries and this, with a reasonable addition for profit. In regard to the admission of Canadian products free, it should be remembered that the difference in the cost of production as between the two countries is non-appreciable. Canada and the United States are separated only by an imaginary line, and both sense and sentiment dictate the abolition of the tariff wall between them. The contrast between the achievements of President Roosevelt and President Taft in regard to the tariff is most marked. The former achieved nothing along this line, but President Taft has created a tariff commission, and provided for tariff revision by schedules upon separate merit instead of in a batch, and gives promise now of putting into effect the reciprocity tariff plans first attempted by James G. Blaine and successfully opposed by the high protectionists of California and other states. And yet the one who did nothing is looked upon as a "progressive," and the other as a "reactionary." But evidence accumulates that this decision will be essentially modified, if not reversed.

MEDICAL LEGISLATION.

Senator Thompson has introduced a bill in the legislature which is to add a new section to the political code relating to "health and development supervision in the public schools." It proposes to give governing bodies of school districts authority to establish health and development supervision in the public schools, and clothe said bodies with what seems to be arbitrary power. The bill appropriates $30,000 to start the work going in the state.

It further requires that counties shall establish departments of health, with such officials as are necessary, and that upon recommendation of county superintendents the county supervisors shall levy a special tax to cover the expense of the new auxiliary to the school system. The bill is too long to be discussed here in detail, but its very comprehensiveness leads us to look upon it with suspicion. It undoubtedly, if adopted, will greatly increase the present very heavy tax which the people pay for the support of schools, and there is good reason for the fear that this tax, which for the first year or so might be very moderate, will be a constantly increasing one, as the possibilities for the "control of health and development" continue to grow in the minds of the medical politicians who will be put in charge of the health department. And one of the principal objections to the law is that it will inject politics and the "political pull" into every school board in the state. At present there is not sufficient interest taken in the election of school trustees, but if this law becomes effective, every doctor who aspires to the position of health examiner for the schools will see to it that apathy no longer exists in the minds of the voters; but the campaign then carried on will not be on a particularly high plane, nor for the good of the cause of education.

The principal objection urged against the proposed law is being made by those who think that it will result in turning over to the "regular" or allopathic school of medicine all the educational system of the state, with arbitrary power to enforce its dictum, even to the extent of going into the home against the wishes of parents. We do not think that public opinion would submit to this un-American intrusion into the privacy of the family, but, on the grounds first stated above, it seems to us that the bill goes much too far, although a more moderate measure, not conferring arbitrary power and very much less expensive in its application, might be beneficial. In Los Angeles, a number of Parent-Teacher associations and the State Congress of Mothers have put themselves on record in opposition to this bill.

The one thing that would seem to indicate that the proposed measure is less revolutionary than it appears to be on the surface is the fact that its sponsor, Senator Thompson, is one of our best informed, most reliable and conservative representatives in Sacramento.

THE BURBANK ELECTRIC ROAD.
The committee having in charge the collection of bonds and the securing of rights of way for the extension of the Pacific Electric railroad from Glendale to Burbank, has made a statement of which the following is a part. It is stated that work will begin March 20th.

"At the outset a contract was secured from H. E. Huntington, then president of the Pacific Electric Company, whereby he agreed to build a line from Glendale to Burbank upon the fulfillment of certain terms and conditions, among which were the following:

"It was agreed that a bonus of $10,000 should be raised on the part of the citizens of Burbank and adjacent territory, and free right-of-way secured for the proposed extension, including a fifty-year franchise over Fourth street in Burbank. In return the Pacific Electric Company were and are to build an extension from Arden avenue, Glendale, through to Cypress avenue, Burbank, at first building only a double track road and building a single track thereon, giving an hourly service at the start, during morning and evening hours, and during the day, such service as the traffic warrants. The line at the start will not be as complete as the Glendale line and there should be no misunderstanding on this point. As the traffic grows more frequent service will result and a double-track road will soon be necessary to handle the business, we feel sure."

"The committee wishes publicly to acknowledge the support and backing it has had. The committee moves a vote of thanks to Mr. McClure for support given by his paper. It is met that it be hereby acknowledged that Mr. and Mrs. Stough, by their generous subscription of $8000 gave the cause a boost which lifted it above the difficulties in the way. Among the other heavy contributors were the Big Conduit Land Company, with a subscription of $3000, G. H. Sawyer of Riverside with $1000, W. H. Thompson of Burbank with $800, F. A. Halberg with practically an even thousand, D. S. Nickerson who subscribed $500 himself and advanced loans aggregating several hundred more to others who had no money to subscribe at the time. J. T. Shelton with a subscription of $1000, and many others averaging from small to large contributions."

He Obeyed Orders.

General Dabney H. Maury in his "Incidents of General T. J. Jackson" says that when the war between the states broke out Jackson was the professor of mathematics at the Military College of the South. He wished strongly to take command of a cadet corps, but the heads of the institution were desirous to have him continue his teaching. Governor Wise called out the state troops and ordered that a corps of cadets be held ready for immediate service. Jackson, then major, reported at once at the guardroom as ready for duty. General Smith said:

"Major Jackson, you will remain as you are until further orders." Jackson at that moment was sitting on a camp stool in the guardroom with his saber across his knees. At reveille the next morning he was found in the same position.

"Why, major, why are you here?" exclaimed General Smith.

"Because last night you ordered me to remain where I was," was the reply.

Royal Jewels In Pawn.

The ex-Sultan Abdul Aziz pawned all his crown jewels for a million francs at the Mont de Piete at Paris, and they were only just redeemed by the Moorish government in time to prevent their being sold among other unredeemed goods.

The sword of state, which is regarded in Serbia as a sacred relic, was also pawned by a former king, while one well known European monarch found himself in such straitened circumstances that the famous house of Attenborough once temporarily had possession of all his old silver.

Queen Isabella was, however, the most famous royalty who made no secret of the fact that she raised money upon the security of the portraits of her ancestors, which hung on the walls at the palace of Castile, her Parisian home. The royal lady often declared how deeply she was indebted to her royal forbears for coming to her rescue and helping her out of her financial predicaments.—London M. A. P.

The Road to Success.

Just tack this up somewhere where you can see it:

Success consists in getting out of yourself everything that's in you. It does not consist in doing almost quite as much or a little more than the other fellow. What the other fellow does doesn't amount to a dent in a door-knob so far as you are concerned. The fact that he succeeds by laying an Atlantic cable, building an Eiffel tower, inventing wireless telegraphy or cornering the world's supply of oil doesn't make you a failure because you haven't got enough ready money to buy an automobile. You're successful when you put to some useful purpose every ounce of energy, every grain of gray matter, every mite of muscle that you've got. You're successful when you've developed all there is to you. —Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

A Hard Hearted People.

Filial piety finds no place in Tibetan character. It is no uncommon thing for a son to turn his father, when too old for work, out of doors and to leave him to perish in the cold. The superstition that the souls of the dead can, if they will, haunt the living drives their hardened natures to gain by the exercise of cruelty the promise of the dying that they will not return to earth. As death approaches the dying person is asked, "Will you come back or will you not?" If he replies that he will they pull a leather bag over his head and smother him. If he says he will not he is allowed to die in peace.

A Lightning Change Artist.

The rapidity with which chameleons change their color is marvelous. You gather one from an outdoor shrub and it immediately becomes dark, almost black, hissing and with its mouth wide open, threatening to bite. Meanwhile it is never still, but continues to crawl upward whenever possible—up you, up your sleeve, always upward. By degrees the angry black changes into whatever color is nearest. If one's dress is of a brownish color so is the chameleon's.

The Real Thing.

"This," said the young benedict who was just realizing that he had caught a tartar, "is what I call real married life."

"I'm glad you're satisfied with something," she snapped.

"Oh, I'm not! I merely meant to inform you that it is not ideal."—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Good Action.

A little Canadian boy went to bed and then suddenly recollected that he hadn't done one good action that day. His conscience was gnawing at him. He heard a little squeal in the corner of his room, and he got up and released a mouse that had been caught in the trap. Then he gave it to the cat.

PIEDMONT PARK TRACT

The above plat shows the location of this tract: it lies just east of and adjoining the Leavitt place on First Street. When the late Mr. Leavitt raised strawberries on his land a few years ago, he made a record unequalled in the Los Angeles market, of marketing ripe berries every month in the year, which shows that this section of Glendale is in the frostless belt. Leaving out all considerations except those of natural advantages, First Street in Glendale is one of the most desirable locations for homes that can be found anywhere. The elevation is about 650 feet and the nearness to the mountains gives an unobstructed outlook at this most inspiring feature of our scenery and an excellent view is afforded of the valley below and to the westward. The tract consists of 21 lots averaging about 60x230 feet, to be sold for prices averaging about $1100. This includes street work, the contract for which has been let to Mr. F. R. Sinclair parks and parkways are to be set to trees and shrubbery, Watson & Son having the contract for setting the same and caring for them one year. The larger park shown in the plat contains nearly three-quarters of an acre, the one at the entrance having an area of an eighth of an acre. The tract is to be put on the market next Monday and very easy terms will be given to home seekers. The owners are J. F. McIntyre, E. M. Pierce, Tupper & Pierce, of Glendale, and Elmer Ellsworth, J. W. Smith, and Simpson & Erickson of Los Angeles. The owners are to be congratulated on putting such restrictions on buildings ($2000) and in laying out and improving the tract in such a manner as will guarantee a very valuable addition to the resident section of Glendale.

A Buttered Book.

How the Rev. Mr. Johnston, a Scottish minister and the author of numerous books, succeeded in getting one of his works reviewed by Alexander Russel, the distinguished editor of the Scotsman, is told by the writer of "Famous Editors."

A member of Mr. Johnston's congregation was an old and valued servant in Mr. Russel's family. When the preacher published his new book he asked this member to bring it under the notice of his master, with the request to review it in the columns of the Scotsman. Glad to be of service to her master, the good woman lost no time in making her wish known to the celebrated editor and next morning placed "The Gospel Roll" beside his breakfast cup.

When at breakfast Mr. Russel took up the book and remarked, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "Helen, this is an awful dry roll which you have given me this morning."

"Perhaps it is, sir," the servant quickly replied, "but you can butter it well on both sides."

Next morning an excellent review appeared.

Conking and Thurman.

Senator Roscoe Conking was once addressing the senate in an impassioned manner and seemed to direct his remarks to Senator Thurman. At length the latter got irritated.

"Does the senator from New York," he roared, "expect me to answer him every time he turns to me?"

For a moment Mr. Conking hesitated, and everybody expected a terrific explosion. Then, with an air of exquisite courtesy, he replied:

"When I speak of the law I turn to the senator from Ohio as the Mussulman turns toward Mecca. I turn to him as I do to the English common law as the world's most copious fountain of human jurisprudence."

The usually decorous senate broke into a storm of applause, and the Thurman eye moistened a little. The two statesmen were the best of friends and greatly enjoyed each other's society when "off duty."

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again.

"Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll earn ye to leave me a widow! After sousing him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said:

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sorr, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

Knew He Was Worshipped.

"In Paris Mr. Whistler and an English painter got into a very turbulent argument about Velasquez at a studio tea," said an artist. "Mr. Whistler at one point in the argument praised himself extravagantly. The Englishman, listening, sneered and said at the end: 'It's a good thing we can't see ourselves as others see us.'"

"Isn't it, though?" said Mr. Whistler. "I know in my case I should grow intolerably conceited."

Theology and the Thermometer.

A point of theology is raised by Sir Francis Youngusband in "India and Tibet." "An interesting detail," he says, speaking of the religion of the natives, "is that their hell is not hot, but cold. If it were hot the inhabitants of frozen Tibet would all flock there."

The Young Man's Tact.

The man who was having his picture taken in the photograph gallery was an innocent listener to the conversation between two young ladies on the other side of the screen:

"You know, Kate, I sometimes wear a long curl hanging down the back of my neck?"

"Yes."

"Well, when Phil was calling on me the other evening he asked me if he might have that curl, and I jokingly said yes. Before I knew what he was about he had taken a little pair of scissors out of his pocket and clipped it off close to my head."

"Why, the idea! Didn't that make you furious?"

"Not for the smallest fraction of a second. I thought it was splendid of him that he didn't seize and pull it off."

Not His Fault.

A doctor was summoned to attend the miller's little boy. He wrote out a prescription, which was promptly made up and administered in due form. The next day he called again to see his patient and found the whole family in tears.

"Alas," said the mother, "I shouldn't have thought that my poor child would have died of the measles!"

"What!" exclaimed the doctor. "He had the measles, and you never told me?"—Paris Journal.

The Soft Answer.

Irritated Frenchman (to Yankee, who had taken him for a waiter): "Sir, you have gr-r-rossly insulted me. There is my card. My seconds will wait upon you, sir."

Yankee—Never mind your seconds, Frenchy. You can wait upon me just as well. Pass me the sauce, and be quick about it.

Not long ago in a little town in one of the prohibition states a young man entered the postoffice and asked the postmaster for a postoffice order.

Playing at Death.
The mother of Ivan Turgenev, the Russian novelist, was a trying person to live with, irritable, capricious and unreasonable. On Ivan's birthday in 1845, we are told in "Two Russian Reformers," after a day of festivities, Mme. Turgenev pretended to be dying. "She sent for her confessor and, placing before her the portrait of her son Ivan, exclaimed 'Adieu, Ivan! Adieu, Nicolas! Adieu, my children!' Then she ordered her forty servants and all the men employed about the house to say goodby to her. When they had fled out of the room Mme. Turgenev declared that she felt better and asked for tea. The next day the following 'order' appeared:
"I give orders that tomorrow morning the disobedient servants, Nicolas Jacobov, Ivan Petrof and Egor Kondratief, shall sweep the court in front of my windows."
"Those names were those of servants who had not appeared at her bedside, possibly because they were a little drunk that evening. 'Good for nothing! Drunkards!' exclaimed Mme. Turgenev. 'They rejoice at the death of their mistress!'"

The Bank Beat the Prince.
The Gentlewoman of London recalls the following story of the prince regent and Coutts' bank: "When George IV. was a regent he had a grudge against Coutts and determined to play a trick on the authorities. In those days even the great banks kept very small reserves of cash, and the playful prince thought out a plan to close Coutts'. So he sent his querry round from Carlton House with a check for £100,000, fondly hoping that the bank would not be able to pay over the counter. The prince's trick, however, failed of success, as the wary old partner of the Strand bank proved equal to the occasion. He said at once to the querry, 'How will your royal highness take the amount, in gold or notes?' The querry hesitated and then said he had better go back to Carlton House to inquire. So he departed, and Coutts' had time to send to the Bank of England and get the cash required, but it was not needed, as the prince regent, seeing that Coutts' had got the best of him, did not return the check in question."

Eggs That Can't Be Found.
The eggs of some common birds of the present day have never been found. There is the robin snipe; its eggs have never been seen. An English zoologist kept a man going up and down the coast of Labrador for weeks purposely to get a robin snipe's egg, but it was in vain. The bird is known by thousands of people, but it breeds so far north and so remote from any civilization that no scientific observer can ever get to its nest ere the young are hatched and have taken to wing. The frigate bird that is so commonly seen at sea on the Pacific and off the West Indies is such a solitary bird and is so seldom seen in its nest during the hours of daylight that its egg is rare. It seems strange, but the eggs of so well known a bird as the sandpiper have never been found and are almost priceless.—London Globe.

Reversed the Proposition.
Robert Wickliffe Woolley, the writer, found it necessary not long ago to take a trip west. On the dining car of the train he saw that he had in his pocket 10 cents in change, his small-est bank note being one for $50. He handed this to the porter, who went to the end of the car for a conference with the conductor.
"I'm very sorry about this," said the conductor, standing in front of Woolley and toying with the big bill, "but we haven't the change for $50. We'll just take your address and send you the change."
Woolley calmly reached over and took possession of the banknote.
"You've got nothing on me," he said. "I'll take the address of the railroad and send the price of the meal."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Baths of Caracalla.
The Romans appear to have been well off in the matter of bathing places in the first and second centuries. In the baths of Caracalla 1,000 bathers could be accommodated at one time. The inclosed area was 300 square yards, but it included a course for foot racing. The bathing establishment was 240 yards in length by 124 wide. The remains of the walls are eight and ten feet thick and in some places as much as fifty feet high.

A Cumulative Test.
As the thin man and the stout man were talking of that and so on, the thin man said: "Brother Lobstock—But, name o' goodness, sah, yo' nose isn't located on yo' back! Brother Tump—No, sah, an' needer was Bradder Wack—Puck."
"One of 'em! Yes, I should say I had," said the stout man. "Why, I ate four of 'em one day last week!"

The Best Thing.
"What do you mean by kissing me, Herr Frisch?"
"My aunt told me to. She told me to come and help myself to the best thing I could find in the kitchen."—Fliegende Blätter.

Just Men.
If any one says that he has seen a just man in want of bread I answer that it was in some place where there was no other just man.—St. Clement.

Why She Quit Her Job.
A lady of my acquaintance in Tokyo, says a writer in the World Wide Magazine, possessed a valuable servant of somewhat mature years who rejoiced in the poetic name of Oharu Sa—"The Honorable Miss Spring."
One day Miss Spring brought in luncheon as usual. All seemed serene; there was not a shadow of a cloud in the domestic sky. But at teatime no tea appeared; neither, in answer to calls at first patient and afterward impatient, did Oharu. After awhile the lady went herself to the back regions and found—desolation. The charcoal box was filled with gray ashes, the kettle cold. Half the luncheon plates lay immersed in a bowl of soapy water; the other half stood on the sink ready to be put away. Oharu herself simply was not.
The next morning, however, she re-appeared, very much on her company manners, with a clean kimono and her hair done in a shining bun to denote the state of a matron, demanding the fragment of wages due to her since the beginning of the month. The lady expostulated and asked why the servant was leaving thus suddenly.
"Oh," replied Oharu, "just as I was washing the plates yesterday I remembered that Saito San, the pawnbroker, wanted a wife. Therefore I went out and married him."

Unjustly Accused.
Andrew Carnegie, when talking about the Scotch dialect once, said: "Scotch dialect is a lingo hard to understand, and it often causes awkward mistakes. Once an American divine spent Christmas in a highland inn. On Christmas morning he gave the maid a tip of a sovereign, and he said, looking earnestly at her, for she was a pretty maid:
"Do you know, Kathleen, you're a very good looking lassie?"
"Of course Kathleen was pleased, but, being modest, she blushed like a rose and answered:
"Ah, na! Ah, na! But my klesing, sir, is beautiful!"
"The divine frowned.
"Leave the room, you wicked young baggage!" he said sternly.
"He didn't know, you see, that modest Kathleen had been simply protesting in her highland dialect the superior charms of her cousin Janet of Peebles."

Philosophic Tea.
The famous Adam Smith had all the proverbial absentmindedness of the philosopher. An amusing story of him is told in Mr. Fyrie's book, "Noble Dames and Notable Men of the Georgian Era." "Mr. Damer, it appears, called one morning upon the Scottish philosopher just as he was preparing his breakfast. As he talked the learned man took a piece of bread and butter in his hand and, after rolling it round and round, popped it into his teapot and poured the boiling water upon it. Damer watched with quiet amusement without drawing attention to this peculiar proceeding, and presently he had his reward, for when Adam Smith poured himself out a cup of this queer decoction and tasted it he quite innocently remarked to his visitor that it was the worst tea he had ever met with."

Net Stealing.
David Belasco delicately dissected a certain playwright one evening at a dinner given by the former to some of his friends of the theatrical profession. This playwright is successful and produces many plays, but it is admitted, owes nearly all his best ideas to others.
"One night the playwright imagined that he heard a noise in his house," said Mr. Belasco. "He lighted a lamp, went downstairs, searched his library, parlor, dining room and kitchen, then went to the butler's pantry and there discovered a masked man kneeling over the chest of silverware.
"Ah!" said he huskily. "Stealing?"
"Oh, no," replied the burglar calmly. "I'm only adapting."

Time to Make a Change.
Sir William Philips was appointed governor in chief of the province of Massachusetts Bay in 1692. During his administration the terrible war against witchcraft raged for some sixteen months. When his own wife, Lady Philips, was named as having exercised the powers of witchcraft Sir William began to view this whole terrible madness in a new light, and he put a stop to all trials and discharged the prisoners then awaiting trial.

The Way It Happened.
Brother Lobstock—How did yo' all get yo' nose busted? Brother Tump—He slipped down an' plumb lit on it. Brother Lobstock—But, name o' goodness, sah, yo' nose isn't located on yo' back! Brother Tump—No, sah, an' needer was Bradder Wack—Puck.

Ambiguous.
"Why did you spend so much money on your wife's funeral?" asked a man of a neighbor.
"Ah, sir," was the reply, "she would have done as much for me and more, too, with pleasure."

Sincerity.
Be resolutely and faithfully what you are; be humbly what you aspire to be. Man's noblest gift to man is his sincerity, for it embraces his integrity also.—Thoreau.

Too Busy For Repentance.
Singleton—Do you believe in the old adage about marriage in haste and repent at leisure? Weddler—No, I don't. After a man marries he has no leisure.—Spartan Set.

If we gave assistance to each other no one would be in want of fortune.—Menander.

The next meeting of the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles which a number of Glendale ladies will attend will be devoted to a program given by Mrs. George Coswell, who will read her paper on anti-suffrage which she originally delivered before the senate in Sacramento, and an answer to this paper which will be made by Mrs. Seward Simons, president of the Political Equality League of Los Angeles.

A most interesting afternoon was spent by the members of the Recreation Club at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett on Brand boulevard last Tuesday. Each lady busily worked at her dainty bit of needle work while various subjects were well discussed, all of which showed the intellectual abilities and splendid debating powers of the members of the club. The next meeting March 7th, will be at the home of Mrs. Dr. Sinclair on First street.

The Sixth street Parent-Teacher Association will hold its regular monthly meeting next Friday, March 10, at 3 o'clock in the Sixth street school. Dr. Jessie Russell will address the mothers on the "Moral Training of the Child."

All women who are interested whether mothers or not, are most earnestly invited to be present. Arrangements have been made to take care of the small children whom mothers find it necessary to bring with them to these meetings.

Mrs. George Mitchell, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. Menzo Williams, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. E. W. Richardson, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley, Mrs. Charles Shattuck and Miss Emma Williams, were among the Glendale ladies who attended the pageant given by the Friday Morning Club in honor of Daughters' Day in the Woman's Club house last Friday. Mrs. Charles Shattuck, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley and Miss Emma Williams had prominent parts in the program.

Mrs. Foster Elliot, chairman of the forestry committee of the district federation of clubs, addressed the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club at their last meeting with a splendid speech on forestry. Mrs. Denese of the Alhambra Woman's Club, read the paper written by Mrs. J. B. Lippincott on "Water Ways," which Mrs. Lippincott was unable to read herself on account of illness. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to a report on the Reciprocity day of the Eagle Rock Twentieth Century Club by Mrs. P. S. McNutt and a report on the Reciprocity day of the Sierra Madre Club by Mrs. Gridley, followed by a number of musical selections.

On Washington's birthday a merry auto party comprising Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Pack, left Glendale early in the morning. The first stop was made at Fullerton to call at the home of former Glendale friends. From there they proceeded to Anaheim arriving in time for lunch, thence they journeyed to Long Beach to enjoy the sea breezes and from there home, where a well-appointed dinner awaited them. The country passed through was charming, the orange trees so well laden, the well-kept walnut orchards green hills and snow capped mountains were hugely enjoyed by these lovers of nature.

Mrs. Mary H. Gridley and Mrs. P. S. McNutt were Tuesday Afternoon Club delegates at the Sierra Madre Reciprocity day given by the members of the Woman's Club there. The affair was held in the artistic new club house of the Sierra Madre ladies and began with an elaborate course luncheon. The afternoon was devoted to a program consisting of addresses by the most prominent club women in this vicinity. Among the most noteworthy was the address made by Mrs. Gridley on "Political Equality." "Mrs. Gridley," to quote one of Los Angeles' most prominent club women, "has in but little more than a year become firmly entrenched with local club women, as a woman of broad and progressive ideas, a logical thinker and a speaker who is always greeted with the most earnest attention."

TROPICO

E. H. Weston, proprietor of the Bungalow Studio, was in Los Angeles Wednesday on business.

Kenneth Wilbur has entered the U. S. C., where he has entered upon a course of civil engineering, which will take him about three years to complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Kirkham have moved into the home recently finished by John Kirkham on Central avenue immediately south of Palmer avenue.

John Kirkham is constructing a 5 room bungalow on Palmer avenue near Central for an eastern party. The home will be strictly modern and will be occupied just as soon as completed.

Mrs. Mary Ayers is putting up a modern six-room bungalow on the lot just west of her home on Palmer avenue. The home will be up-to-date in every respect and will be worth about $2200 when completed. It will be put on sale as soon as completed.

W. G. Black is putting up a modern home of about seven rooms on Parke avenue just east of Brand boulevard, on a lot which he purchased a short time ago. Work on this structure is being rushed to completion and when finished will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Black.

Mrs. H. E. Hopkins, of 1200 Glendale avenue, entertained with a Kentucky dinner Friday afternoon. The floral scheme was in violets and maiden hair ferns. The invited guests included Mrs. W. C. Wattles, Mrs. A. M. Watson, Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Mary Ayers.

An injunction was served Wednesday afternoon on the Board of Supervisors and the Tropico Election Board restraining them from holding the incorporation election called for March 7th. As the matter has not been passed upon by the court, as we go to press, the practical result cannot be stated.

W. R. Light, road overseer of this district, is personally overseeing the work of leveling and otherwise improving Brand boulevard, north of Park avenue, and also other streets in this place. Tropico's streets were never in as good condition at this period of the year as they are at this time, and Mr. Light should be commended for his good work.

A reception will be given in the Methodist church on Palmer avenue next Tuesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Haines and Mr. and Mrs. George Seal, the affair being given by the members of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Haines will move to Riverside next week, having sold their home on Verdugo road, Glendale, a short time ago. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Seal will leave in a few days for the north, where they will remain. All of these people have been active workers in this church and they will be greatly missed.

Gerald Kirkham is completing a small office building at the corner of Palmer avenue and Central. He will use it as an office for the fuel and feed business which he will start soon. "The Old New Hampshire Home," a comedy in three acts, was presented by the Tropico Dramatic association in the G. A. R. hall, Glendale avenue, last (Thursday) night, and the second production will be given tonight. The show is being given for the benefit of the W. R. C. of the valley and, as it is up to the standard of the exhibitions given by this company, is well worth seeing.

TROPICO M. E. NOTES.

Next Sunday afternoon a meeting will be held in the church to which only boys and girls will be admitted. Stereophon pictures will be shown, which will interest all the little ones. The service will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Another service of pictures will be held Sunday evening, when the picture sermon entitled, "The Other Wise Man," will be given. This sermon will be illustrated with 40 hand-colored slides and will be of interest to young and old alike. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

The Ladies' Aid society of the church will hold an all-day meeting in the church on Tuesday of next week.

THE ELECTIONS AT TROPICO.

As March 7th draws nigh there is all kind of talk as to how the election is going, what kind of advantages and disadvantages are offered by either, and to how badly the other faction will be snomed under. This election is of vital interest to the entire valley and is being watched closely. Those on the outskirts of Tropico are declaring that it is impossible for Tropico to incorporate, while their brethren living in the central portion of the town and around the business district, for those are the districts, practically speaking, which compose the opposing factions, state emphatically that there isn't one chance in a hundred that incorporation will get the little end of the argument.

From the outside it looks as though the incorporationists were willing to do anything rather than go in with Glendale. Some have said that hard feeling between the north and south end of the valley had at last died out, but this incorporation struggle proves that this is not a fact. High taxes was the cry in the recent annexation election put up by the anti's, but now these same anti's have turned around and are boosting incorporation, which, if it takes place, will doubtless result in higher taxes than would have resulted had Tropico and Glendale united.

The incorporationists are extremely confident and are doing all the boosting. A meeting boosting incorporation will be held in Logan's hall tomorrow (Saturday) evening. At this meeting Hon. Frederick Baker will be present, as will also the proposed board of trustees, Daniel Webster, C. C. Rittenhouse, E. W. Richardson, C. A. Bancroft and John Hobbs. A dodger has been circulated by this faction bearing the words: "Incorporation means progress—saves the school house, and puts the business affairs of Tropico in the hands of Tropico people."

THE INCORPORATION QUESTION IN TROPICO.

Since the defeat of annexation to Glendale on January 3rd, Tropico has been the scene of great activity and contest between two factions. The people who opposed annexation, immediately after its defeat, filed a petition with the supervisors asking for incorporation of Tropico. In so doing, they manifested a decided change of opinion, inasmuch as their main argument against annexation was the expense of a municipality and the desire to remain in the county.

The advocates of annexation who reside principally east of Brand boulevard to protect themselves against the incorporation and to obtain the benefits of economical municipal government, presented the trustees of Glendale with a petition containing 99 names of voters, asking them to take steps to annex them to Glendale. The trustees looked with favor on the proposition, especially as the annexationists to show their good faith pledged themselves to stand the cost of the election in the event of failure, and the date of election was set for March 21.

Meanwhile, the incorporationists by forced march, prevailed upon the supervisors to call their election for March 7. The board of supervisors were presented with three different protests, one from Oak Drive, signed by every property owner and voter but two; one from east of Brand boulevard signed by 125 out of 150 owners and voters, and one from the Forest Lawn Cemetery association, a corporation. All these protests asked that the territory concerned be cut out from the proposed incorporation. The only one considered was that of the Cemetery association, which was left out in the final description.

There seems to be no real reason for feeling in favor of incorporation, except in the case of the personal motives of a few interested parties, but there are a number of people who do not care, particularly one way or the other.

The principal argument these incorporationists are advancing in favor of a municipality is that it is a protection against Glendale's ambition and will prevent a division of the school district. As a matter of fact, there is quite a large territory outside of the proposed city of Tropico, which is inside the Tropico school district, so their argument is against them. The opponents of annexation say that the territory proposed to be annexed to Glendale contains the school house and that the remainder of the district will be left stranded, without a school. This argument is worthless for Mr. Keppel, county superintendent of schools, has stated that the balance of the district could be annexed to Glendale, for school purposes only, and the position of the whole territory with reference to the school, would be the same as at present. Trustees could be selected from that territory as at present.

It does not seem that any reasonable argument whatever can be advanced in favor of incorporation, and the people east of the boulevard who wish the benefits of Glendale's government should be allowed to obtain it without any protest on the part of those living outside of the proposed annexation lines.

WM. C. WATTLES.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Ross B. Boyd are located in their handsome new home, 1463 Ivy street.

Mrs. R. W. Hammond and children spent Wednesday with her cousin, Mrs. A. E. Giddings of Tropico.

Don't forget the social at the West Glendale M. E. Church, Friday, March 10. Program and refreshments.

Mrs. William Hyatt returned from Barry, Nebraska, Thursday last. She reports a real California winter in the Eastern city.

L. M. Maquarium and family are late arrivals from Portland, Ore., and are at present located on Hawthorne and Columbus avenue.

The ladies of West Glendale and vicinity who last November subscribed to a magazine called "Every Woman's Magazine," are beginning to think the name should be "No Woman's Magazine," as it has never showed up since they subscribed to it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Casteel of Boyle Heights were the guests of their sister Mrs. W. T. Parker on Sunday last. The afternoon was spent in viewing property in Glendale and vicinity with the expectation of buying and building and making their home here.

Mr. Charley Wolfe accompanied by Mr. Ayres made the ascent of Mt. Wilson on Sunday. The trip up the trail was made by foot. These gentlemen struck the trail about 8 a. m. and were back in Glendale about 5 p. m., which goes to show that they must have "gone some." They reported the weather quite cool. But since then, it must be rather cold—from the looks of the mountains.

Mr. C. D. Cheney of Topoka, Kas., arrived in Glendale the first of the week. His visit is one of business and he expects to leave for home the latter part of the week. Mr. Cheney reports all well at home, but the weather was extremely cold, with six inches of snow on the ground when he left Tuesday the 21st.

Mr. J. H. Cochran who has spent the past six weeks in Glendale and Los Angeles, left for his home in Provo, Utah, Saturday evening. Mr. Cochran expects to return with his family and make California his home, probably settling in Perris, where he has purchased land, with the intention of planting the same to alfalfa principally.

Nellie Ruth Atkinson and George Symes Reitter, who were married February 21 at Temple Baptist Church in Los Angeles, are now at home to their friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, Millford street. Mr. Reitter is a promising young business man of Los Angeles, and the bride before her marriage held a very responsible position with the Owl Drug Company.

In last week's write-up we forgot a few little items connected with the reception tendered our neighbor, Mrs. Gallagher. The name of Mrs. Mildred Ayers was inadvertently omitted from the list of ladies present. The mixed double quartet from "Nursery Row" also rendered some of their choicest selections which was highly appreciated. We wish to apologize, especially to the "quartet," as it was their first appearance together, and their numbers were above criticism.

West Glendale school continues to grow right along. There have been four new scholars this week. Several of the pupils of Miss Yarnell's room (girls) are very busy during their spare time making gardens, both flower and vegetable. The ground has been put in excellent shape, beds laid out, with little paths between each, which presents a very neat appearance. The children have little hoes and rakes, and together with their teachers are taking a great interest in their work, and are looking forward to the time when they gather their first basket of vegetables.

To all the subscribers of the Sunset phone we would say, get out your old books and study up your multiplication tables, alphabet, tables of weights and measures, etc., for if you are not pretty well up on these subjects it will take you about a day to be able to remember even your own new number. As it is, it takes us so long to call up a number that just as we think we are going to get our party and have a nice little chat with them, Central will say in her clear, sweet, little voice, "Five-minute limit, please," and it is all off again, and we have by this time forgotten the number and are obliged to start the alphabet all over again from "A to Izzard," until we strike the letter we are looking for,—but such is the life of a Sunset subscriber.

A fair-sized crowd gathered at the high school on Friday last to hear the speech addressed on "The Flag," given by Miss Frances Richardson, the Flag Lady, who proved to be a most interesting and entertaining speaker. Had it not been for the number of other entertainments at the different churches, clubs, etc., the crowd would have been much larger. Tropico was not represented by as large a gathering as it should have been, owing to the fact that the majority of the people were gathered at the incorporation meeting, which is a very vital question just at present. The children from the Tropico school rendered several excellent selections and the pupils of West Glendale school delighted the audience with some choice numbers which were highly appreciated.

F. L. CHURCH,
City Treasurer of the City of Glendale.

Dated, Glendale, California, Feb. 25, 1911.

MASQUERADE WAS ENJOYABLE.

Not for years has such a really "classy" masquerade ball been held in Glendale as was the one given in the K. of P. hall last Monday night under the direction of Messrs. Eudemiller and Collins. It is estimated that more than 100 people were present in costume, and as they tripped the light fantastic they presented a sight which we believe has never been equalled in Glendale. In a word, the hall was well filled, and those present appeared to have the "time of their lives."

The fact that the customers from Los Angeles, who were to have been at the ball all Monday afternoon, did not appear, doubtless caused many who called for costumes to remain away from the dance, but in order to accommodate some who came during the evening and desired to rent costumes, the managers brought several from Los Angeles, and these dancers were supplied.

Cash prizes were given during the evening. Mrs. E. S. McKee, crowned in an Egyptian costume, received first
