on conducted by him in perso i, in conformity to a resolution of the Ger rai Assembly. The report is singularly olga many depth of water at mid-lide. On both these bars the work done by order of the Federal Government consists of lines of pilling, which have been entirely abandoned as ineffectual. On the 3d March there were thirty-free ships at another inside the bar, waiting for a passage out. There were three on the bar, and seventeen at another outside, waiting to be towed in. In all there were fifty-five vector sais detained, the periods of detention varying from one to thirty-nine days. Between the 28th February and the 3d March, a few of these ships were taken to sea; but others and firing the internal improvement tax of requiring all vessels and water of the sain brought from the city. Two of the ships on the bar were much in the way. The

of the immense power they are composited to make and the long time they have to give to each ship.

Col. Hassar then proceeds to inquire into the most effective means of remedying the evil, by deepening the passes. He is utterly opposed to the wing-dam work of pilling undertaken by the General Government. It cannot be permanently successful, because the worms will destroy the woodwork in a few years; and its effect is merely to remove a bar from one point to another. However far the dam may be carried, the bar cannot be washed away or the channel deepened, ser the dam may be carried, the bar cannot washed away or the channel despend. The state Enter declares that the mouths of the Missispip are constantly changing; that passes re filing up and new ones forming, and that Mississippi delia is extending farther of farther South; that as the causes for the formation of the bars are constantly bearing, the effects must likewise be qualified and constant. In other words, so may as the sediments of the Mississippi reach sees, so long will bars be formed. Hence keep any artificial depth of water across to be bars, unremitting labor must be resorted to the seed of the see
