

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

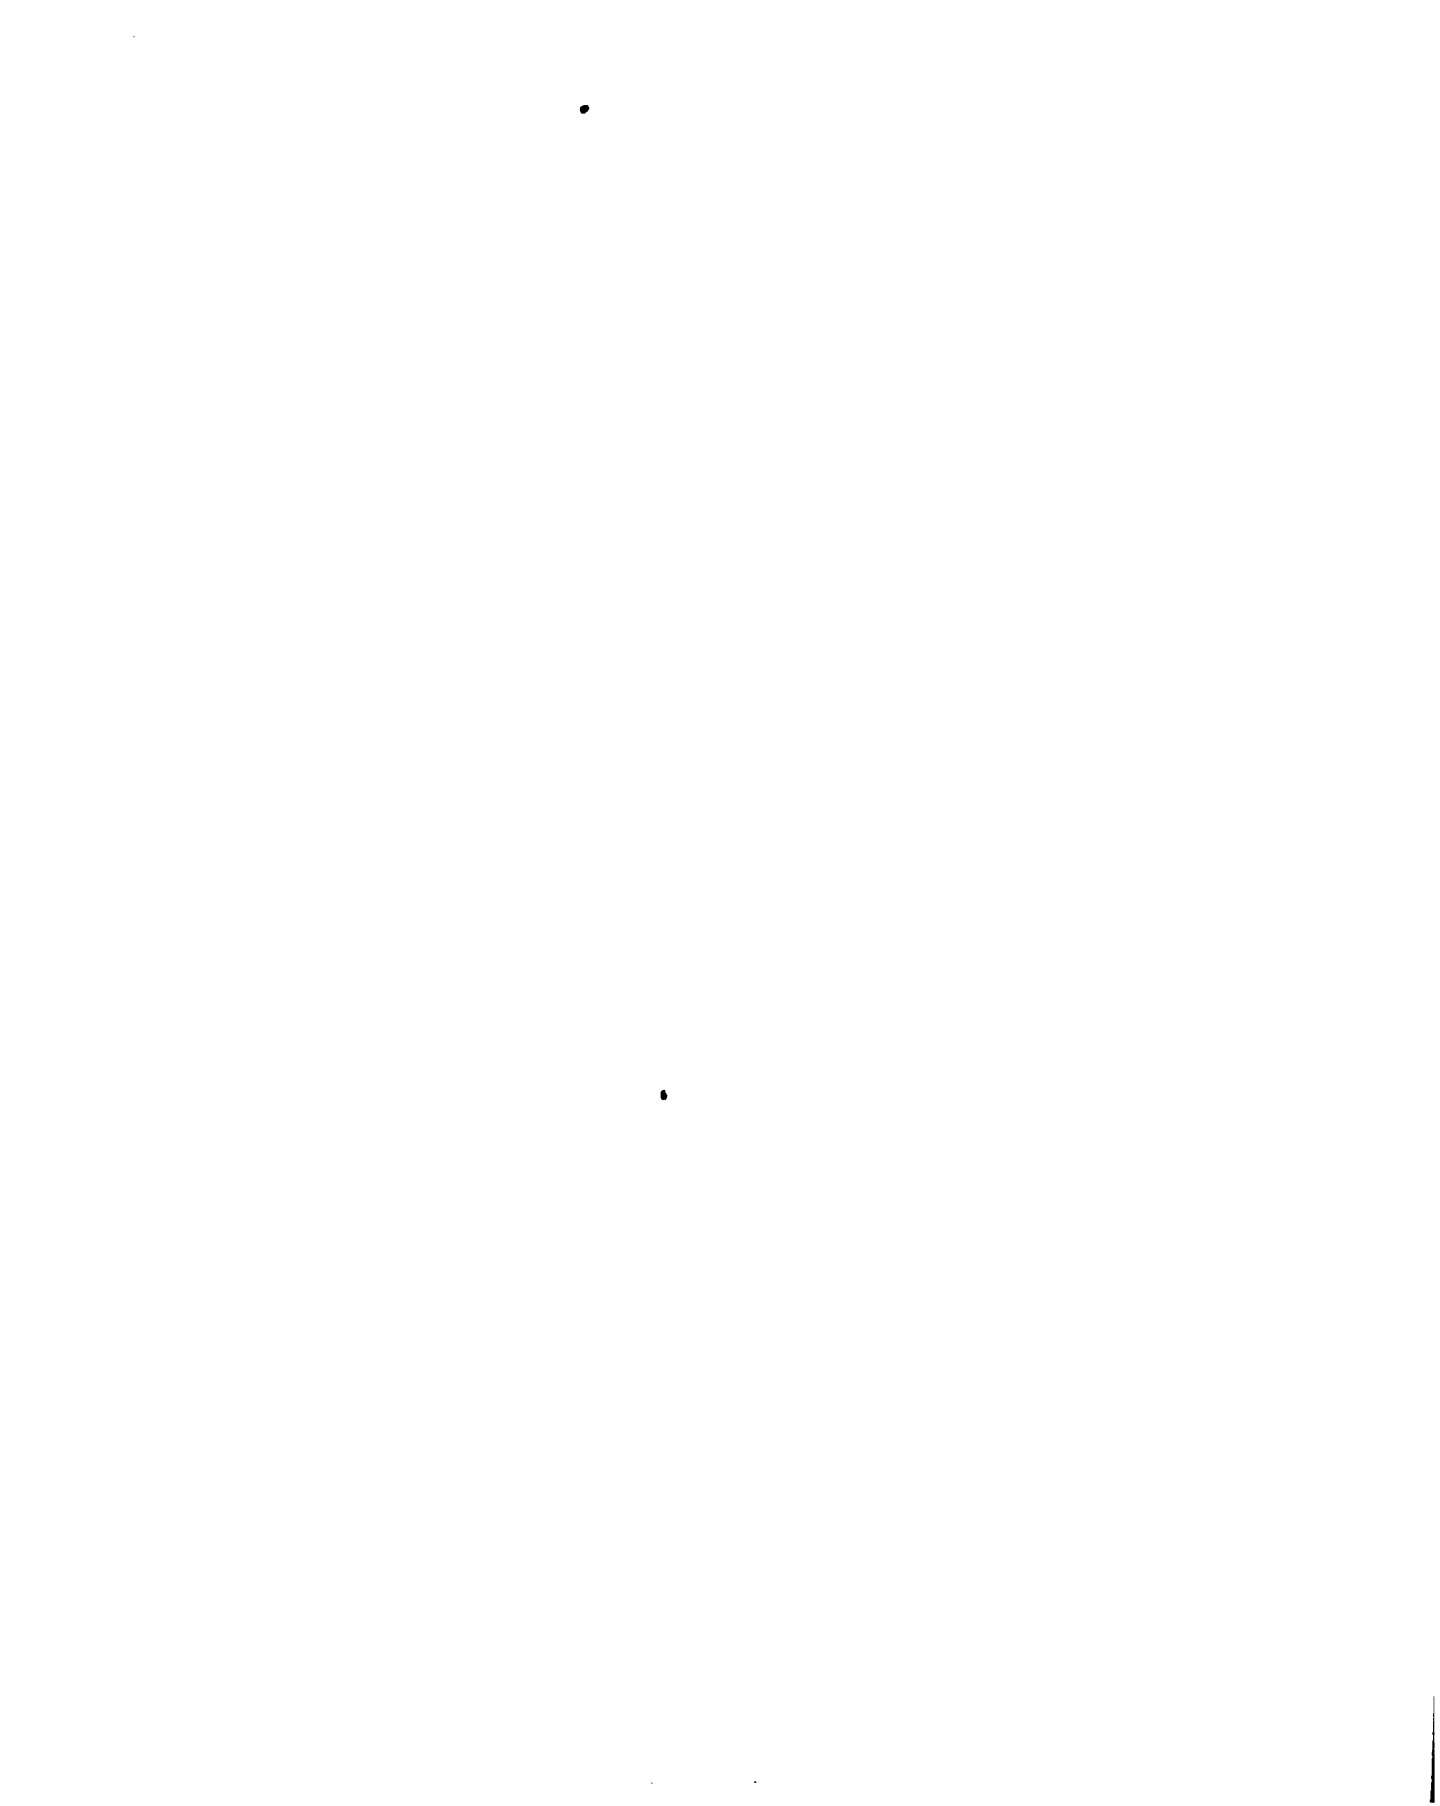

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ment of which they were personally liable. The plaintiff made default, and the defendants were compelled to pay the merchants the loss incurred, amounting to 1100*l.* The plaintiff filed a petition for composition, and entered the names and addresses of the merchants as his creditors in the statement of his affairs. At the first meeting the defendants appeared and tendered a proof for 1100*l.*

J. C. Mathew, and Crump, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendants were bound by the resolutions for composition, and distinguished Ex parte Lang (5 Ch. D. 971).

Herschell, Q.C., and Pollard, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that Ex parte Lang (5 Ch. D. 971) was in point; that the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 126 must be strictly followed, and gave judgment for the defendants.

BINDLEY v. PARTRIDGE.

Will—Conversion—Discretion to postpone—Setting aside Sale—Account of Profits.

In this case, ante, p. 37, the plaintiff appealed from so much of the judgment as declared the trustees not liable in respect of their not sooner converting the bonds and shares. The defendants gave notice that they should ask to have the judgment varied so far as it directed an account of profits made by Partridge, and directed such profits to form part of the corpus to the income only of which the widow was entitled.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and C. Herbert Smith, for the plaintiffs.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the defendants, contended that if the sale to Partridge was set aside the profits belonged to the widow, and that as she waived an account of them no such account ought to be directed.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal of the plaintiffs. Their Lordships expressed an inclination of opinion in favour of the defendants on the points raised by their notice, but it became unnecessary to decide the question, an order being made by consent for affirming the sale to Partridge on payment by him of a further sum for the goodwill of the business and the testator's leasehold interest in the business premises.

OPPENHEIM v. JACKSON AND ANOTHER.

Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 126—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 273, 306—Composition—Name and Address of Creditor not inserted in Statement of Affairs.

Defendants, as agents of certain merchants, entered into contracts with the plaintiff for the purchase of goods, for the fulfilment of which they were personally liable. The plaintiff made default, and the defendants were compelled to pay the merchants the loss incurred, amounting to 1100*l.* The plaintiff filed a petition for composition, and entered the names and addresses of the merchants as his creditors in the statement of his affairs. EXCHANGE AND DISCOUNT BANK v. BILLINGHURST.

Construction of Guarantee—Appropriation of Payments—Practice—Discovery of Fresh Evidence at Hearing before Referee after Trial—Postponement of Appeal.

Action to recover money due upon a guarantee.

The plaintiffs were bankers at Leeds, to whom Whitehead became a customer. Whitehead applied for an overdraft of 500*l.* which the plaintiffs agreed to allow him upon condition of his finding a surety. Harrison was proposed and accepted as surety, but he was afterwards believed to be insolvent, and thereupon the plaintiffs required Whitehead to procure another surety. The defendant thereupon gave a guarantee for the sum of 500*l.* advanced by the plaintiffs to Whitehead. At the time when the defendant became surety, the plaintiffs were creditors of Whitehead for upwards of 330*l.* of which he was unaware. Whitehead made payments to the plaintiffs, which they appropriated in reduction of the debt of 330*l.* At the time of action brought, apart from the debt of 330*l.* for past advances, only 97*l.* was due from Whitehead to the plaintiffs in respect of advances made after the guarantee was given, and this sum the defendant paid into Court. Harrison afterwards paid his creditors 20*s.* in the pound. At the trial Brett, L.J., held that the guarantee applied to both past and future advances, and it was directed that a referee should ascertain the state of accounts between the plaintiffs and Whitehead. The referee certified that if the construction of the guarantee adopted by Brett, L.J., was right, 357*l.* was due upon it from the defendant to the plaintiff, but that if the guarantee applied to future advances alone, nothing was due on it.

G. Bruce, for the defendant, applied for a postponement of the appeal upon the ground that the defendant only became acquainted with the circumstances of the guarantee given by Harrison at the hearing before the referee. He offered that the defendant should pay the costs of the day.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) refused to allow the hearing to be postponed. The defendant ought to have made a substantive application before the appeal was called on.

The case was then heard on the merits.

Cave, Q.C., for the plaintiffs, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT held that the construction of the guarantee adopted by Brett, L.J., was right, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

From Ch. Div. ESDAILE v. VISSER. Jan. 13.
Committal of Debtor under Debtors Act, 1869—Form of Order—Discretion of Judge.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Hall.

The action was brought against several defendants to recover the payment of tithes claimed by the plaintiff from the occupiers of premises in the city of London. At the hearing of the action judgment was given for the plaintiff with costs, which after taxation amounted to 148*l.* 12*s.* A subpoena was issued against Ilderton—who was one of the defendants—for payment of these costs, and on his making default in payment the plaintiff obtained an order that he should pay the sum of 8*l.* monthly until the whole demand should be satisfied (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 52).

Ilderton having made default in some of the instalments, the plaintiff served notice of motion on him under the 5th section of the Debtors Act, 1869, that he should be committed to prison for the term of six weeks from the date of his arrest, or until he should pay the arrears of his instalments. The motion was heard before the Vice-Chancellor on the 5th of August, when His Lordship, being satisfied that Ilderton was able to pay the money, made an order in terms of the notice. But the registrar did not draw up the order in the form given in the Debtors Act, but "that an attachment be issued against the said D. Ilderton for his contempt in not having paid the said sum, &c." The defendant was present when the order was drawn up. Ilderton appealed from this decision.

A. Young, for the appellant, contended, first, that an attachment for contempt in non-payment of a sum of money could not now be issued; and, secondly, that the evidence before the Vice-Chancellor was not sufficient to shew that Ilderton had the means of payment.

Maclean, for the plaintiff.

JAMES, L.J., said that the order, as made by the Vice-Chancellor, was made under the Debtors Act, but the order was drawn up by the registrar in an erroneous form. The defendant was present when this was done and did not object to it. The order must be restored as the Vice-Chancellor made it. On the other question he was of opinion, without laying down any inflexible rule, that in general when a judge had had before him the materials for deciding whether a defaulting party had the means of payment and had come to the conclusion that he had, the Court of Appeal ought not to disturb his decision. The appeal must be dismissed, but as there had been a common mistake there would be no costs of the appeal.

BAGGALLAY and COTTON, L.J.J., concurred.

Bankruptcy—Assignment by Bankrupt of equitable Chose in Action—Notice to Trustee—Bankruptcy Act, 1849, s. 141.

M. O. Bright, who was entitled to a reversionary share in funds held on the trusts of his mother's marriage settlement, was adjudicated bankrupt in 1866. In 1871 he sold and assigned his share to Wake, who had no notice of the bankruptcy, and gave immediate notice to the trustees of the settlement. The trustees had no notice of the bankruptcy till after the fund fell into possession in 1878. Vice-Chancellor Hall ordered payment of the above share to Wake. The creditors' assignee appealed.

Practice—Time for Appeal—Order under Vendors and Purchasers Act—Extension of Time.

In this case a summons had been taken out under the Vendors and Purchasers Act by M. K. Blyth, the vendor of a certain piece of land, for the purpose of obtaining the decision of the Court on one of the conditions of sale. Vice-Chancellor Hall, before whom the summons was heard in chambers, on the 4th of August, 1879, dismissed the vendor's application and directed her to pay the costs of it.

The vendor at once obtained the certificate of the Judge with the view of appealing, and her solicitors informed the solicitors of the purchaser that they had taken the initial steps for lodging an appeal, and that the appeal would come on soon after the vacation, but no notice of appeal was actually given till the 18th of November, 1879.

When the appeal came on to be heard,

Bristowe, Q.C., and Lloyd, for the respondent, objected that the appeal ought to have been presented within twenty-one days, and was too late. They referred to Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII, r. 9.

Hastings, Q.C., and Caldecott, for the appellant, said that it had never been decided that an order under the Vendors and Purchasers Act, which was a final order, came under that rule. They also relied on the letter of the appellant's solicitors as being an informal notice of appeal and asked for an extension of time.

JAMES, L.J., said that there could be no question that an order under the Vendors and Purchasers Act was an order made "in a matter not being an action" within the rule, and therefore the time for appealing was twenty-one days. He was also of opinion that there was nothing in the correspondence between the solicitors that justified the Court in extending the time. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

A limited company, having by its articles of association power to borrow such sums of money as they should deem advisable for any of the purposes of the company, issued debentures for payment of which they thereby bound themselves and their successors and their real and personal estate.

Part of the share capital of the company was still unpaid.

The company was wound up, and an application was now made on behalf of the debenture holders for a declaration that they were entitled to a primary charge on the real and personal estate of the capital of the company, including the unpaid capital.

Davey, Q.C., and Everitt, for the debenture holders.

Chitty, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the debentures were charges on all the real or personal estate as it existed at the date of the winding-up, but not on the uncalled capital of the company.

Metropolis Local Management Act (18 & 19 Vict. c. 120), s. 96—Street—Meaning of Words "Vest in Vestry or District Board"—Disused Street.

Special case.

The plaintiff was tenant for life of land within the limits of the Metropolis Local Management Act, 1855 (18 & 19 Vict. c. 120) comprising certain streets which were vested in the vestry of the parish under s. 96 of the Act.

By order of quarter sessions these streets had been closed and the streets had been made in their place.

The question was whether, under s. 96 of the Act, which provides that the "streets being highways, and the pavements, stones, and other materials thereof shall vest in and be under the management and control of the vestry or district board of the parish or district in which such highways are situated," the vestry became the owners of the streets and the land and soil thereof, and had the absolute property therein; or whether, the streets having been stopped up and diverted, the plaintiff was entitled to convert the same to his own use.

Dunning (Chitty, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

Davey, Q.C., and Everitt, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that the case was governed by Coverdale v. Charlton (4 Q. B. D. 104), which was a decision on the meaning of the word "vest" in s. 149 of the Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55) (a similar section to s. 96 of the Metropolis Local Management Act) and held that the property in the disused streets still remained in the vestry, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to convert them to his own use.

Illegal Contract—Association of more than Twenty Persons for Gain—Non-registration—Companies Act, 1862, s. 4—Dividing Trust Funds by Annual Drawings—Lottery Act.

Action by certificate holder in the Submarine Cables Trust, on behalf of himself and all other certificate holders, against the trustees, claiming to have the trust wound up on the ground of its illegality, as being an association of more than twenty persons having for its object the acquisition of gain and not being registered under s. 4 of the Companies Act, 1862, and also as being within the Lottery Acts.

The object of the trust, according to the trust deed, was to invest the subscribed funds in shares or stocks of Submarine Cable Companies, and by the interest on the investments and by sales at a profit to redeem the certificates at a premium by annual drawings; the remainder of the securities to be distributed among the holders of "coupons of reversion." The certificates to be redeemed were to be selected by lot.

Ince, Q.C., and Maclaren, for the plaintiff.

Speed (Chitty, Q.C., with him), for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered the case to be undistinguishable from Sykes v. Beadon (11 Ch. D. 170), and directed the assets of the trust to be distributed as in that case.

Company—Shares "fully paid up"—Non-registration of Contract—Companies Act, 1867, s. 25.

Adjourned summons on behalf of Bridgman Langdale Barrow, to vary the chief clerk's certificate, by removing from the list of contributories the applicant's name as the holder of 134 shares as unpaid, instead of as fully paid, and as the holder, as executor of Richard Bridgman Barrow, of 750 shares as unpaid, instead of as fully paid.

The company was incorporated on the 11th of January, 1871, and an agreement dated the 10th of May, 1871, and made between the company of the one part, and William Hill and the late Richard B. Barrow, vendors of the colliery, of the other part, contained the following clause:—"The said price or purchase-money of 5115*l.* shall be paid or satisfied, as to 2000*l.*, part thereof, to the said Richard B. Barrow, and as to the sum of 3115*l.*, the residue thereof, to the said Wm. Hill; and of the said sum of 2000*l.* the company shall pay to the said Richard B. Barrow the sum of 500*l.* in cash, and shall satisfy the sum of 1500*l.* (the residue of the said sum of 2000*l.*) to the said Richard B. Barrow, by issuing or transferring to him 300 shares of 5*l.* each in the capital of the company issued and registered as fully paid up; and as to the said sum of 3115*l*. the company shall either pay the same to the said William Hill in cash, or, at the option of either the company or the said William Hill, shall issue or transfer to the said William Hill 623 shares of 5*l*. each in the capital of the company issued and registered as fully paid up."

This contract was never filed with the registrar of joint stock companies.

The 300 and the 623 shares were issued accordingly to Richard B. Barrow and William Hill respectively. Of the latter, 100 were transferred by Hill for 369*l*. 7*s*. 1*d*. to J. G. Kimpton, the engineer of the company, who transferred 80 of them for 269*l*. to Richard B. Barrow. As to 234 others, Hill transferred them for 1053*l*. to the applicant, Bridgman L. Barrow, who kept 134 of them (being one batch of the shares mentioned in the summons) and transferred the remaining 100 for 450*l*. to Richard B. Barrow. As to 120 others, Hill transferred them for 581*l*. direct to Richard B. Barrow. As to the remaining 169, Hill transferred them for 150*l*. to two persons named Cox, who transferred 50 of them, for 212*l*. 10*s*., and afterwards 100 more of them, for 5*s*., to Richard B. Barrow.

Thus Richard B. Barrow became the holder as transferee of 450 of Hill's shares, which together with his own original 300 made up the 750 mentioned in the summons.

Richard B. Barrow was a director and chairman of the company from the first, and the applicant, his executor, was the paid secretary and solicitor of the company.

Upon the winding-up, which was ordered on the 20th of January, 1876, the name of the applicant was placed on the list for the above shares as unpaid, on the authority of s. 25 of the Companies Act, 1867.

Westlake, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the applicant.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the official liquidator.

Westlake, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that though not insensible to the hardship of the case he could not disregard the plain enactment of the statute, which was made in the interests of the public, and of creditors of joint stock companies. The contract not having been registered, the shares must be paid for. It had been argued that these shares were not to be "deemed and taken to have been issued and to be held subject to the payment of the whole amount thereof in cash," because there was in the contract an option that Hill should be paid either in cash or in shares. But the option had been exercised, and the shares had been issued to Hill. Then it was said that the company had been estopped by their acts. But estoppel operated only between parties to a contract; it could not repeal the enactment of a statute affecting the interests of subjects of the realm who were not parties to the contract. Nor was any distinction to be drawn between the shares not directly transferred from Hill to the applicant's testator and the rest.

The summons must be dismissed with costs.

Fry, J. LONG v. CROSSLEY. Dec. 19.
Pleading—Parties—Amendment—Addition of New Plaintiff—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI, rr. 2, 13.

This action was brought to compel the specific performance by the defendants of an agreement to take a lease of a coal mine from the plaintiff. The plaintiff was tenant for life of the property, and she had signed the agreement "for myself and those entitled after me." Some time after the commencement of the action the plaintiff died, and her son, who was her executor, obtained the common order of revivor. When the agreement was entered into, and when the action was commenced, it was supposed that the plaintiff was tenant for life of the property under her husband's will, and that she had power to grant mining leases. After her death it was discovered that she was tenant for life under her marriage settlement, and that she had no power of leasing. Her son and daughter, who were entitled to the property, subject to her life estate, desired to adopt the action, and asked that they might be added as co-plaintiffs. They alleged that the agreement with the defendants had been entered into with their knowledge and approbation. The statement of claim did not allege that the plaintiff had signed the agreement on behalf of those entitled after her.

Romer, and Levett, for the application.

North, Q.C., and Benshaw, resisted the application, on the ground that the action came to an end on the death of the original plaintiff.

Fry, J., held that rule 13 of Order XVI of Rules of Court, 1875, applied, and gave leave to add the son and daughter as co-plaintiffs with the son in his character of executor of his mother.

Practice—Costs—Action with Witnesses—Three Counsel—Copies of Documents.

This was an action with witnesses, in which the defendant succeeded at the trial, the action being dismissed with costs, there were a large number of witnesses. Questions arose as to what costs the defendant was entitled, the principal point being (1) whether it was a case for three counsel; (2) whether the costs of making copies for the use of counsel of affidavits of documents, and of the documents included therein, both of plaintiff and defendant, should be allowed.

The taxing master only allowed the costs of two counsel and disallowed the costs of such documents as he considered immaterial.

Cookson, Q.C., and Solomon, for the defendant.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Romer, for the plaintiff.

Dec. 20. Fry, J. held that considering the number of witnesses three counsel should be allowed, especially as the action was one which would have been dealt with formerly as a common law action, and as to the documents, it was not material for counsel to have every document mentioned in the affidavit. The taxing master must use his discretion and allow the costs only of such as were material.

Will—Direction to settle Real Estate—Insertion of Power of Sale and Exchange.

This was a vendor's action for the specific performance of an agreement for the purchase of real estate. The question was whether the plaintiff had shewn a good title to the property, and this depended upon whether a power of sale, to be exercised by the trustee of a marriage settlement, with the consent of the husband and wife during their joint lives, in respect of real estate of the wife, had been properly inserted in the settlement. The settlement was made on the marriage of a daughter of a testator, who by his will had directed that his daughters' shares in his estate should be so settled that, if they married, one half of their fortune should be settled on them and their children exclusive of their husbands. The plaintiff contended that the insertion of the power of sale was not authorized by the will in respect of the moiety that was directed to be settled on the daughter's marriage.

North, Q.C., and Tremlett, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and J. Chester, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held, on the authority of Peake v. Pennington (2 V. & B. 311) and Turner v. Sargent (17 Beav. 515), that the power of sale was a usual and proper power to insert, and that it was properly inserted in the settlement. The title was therefore good, and there must be judgment for specific performance.

Proof of Debt—Solicitor's Bill of Costs—Taxation.
 A. G. Ditton, who had been the solicitor of the bankrupts, tendered a proof in the bankruptcy for 574*l.*, the amount of a No. 2.—1880.

bill of costs which he claimed to be due to him by them. No signed bill had been delivered. The trustee admitted the proof to the extent of 400*l.* Ditton applied to the Court to reverse the trustee's decision, and insisted that he was entitled to have his bill taxed by the taxing master in the ordinary way. During the hearing by Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, he consulted the taxing master as to the principal items in dispute, and he then affirmed the trustee's decision. Ditton appealed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Houghton, for the appellant.
Winslow, Q.C., and Bigham, for the trustee, were not heard.
 THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the registrar had taken the proper course, and they dismissed the appeal.

COTTON, L.J., said that taxation was not the only way in which a client was entitled to protect himself. In an ordinary case if an action was brought for a bill of costs, the Judge and the jury would not go through the items of the bill, which would be much better dealt with by the taxing master. But in the present case there were really only three items in dispute, which involved the same principle, and the solicitor not having any statutory right to have the proper amount of his charges ascertained in one way only, the registrar was entitled to deal with the matter as he did, taking the advice of the taxing master.

Bankruptcy Petition—Withdrawal of Notice to dispute Petitioning Creditor's Debt—Right of Debtor to dispute without fresh Notice—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 36.

A bankruptcy petition having been presented by Learoyd against Luttman, Luttman gave notice of his intention to dispute the petitioning creditor's debt. He afterwards withdrew his notice. When the petition came on to be heard he, without having given any fresh notice, claimed to dispute the debt. Learoyd was not present, but his clerk urged that, the notice having been withdrawn, the debt could not be disputed, and asked that at any rate the hearing might be adjourned to enable Learoyd to attend. The registrar refused to allow an adjournment. Luttman then deposed that since he had withdrawn his petition he had made a payment to Learoyd on account of the debt which reduced it below 50*l.* The registrar dismissed the petition. Learoyd appealed.

Liquidation Petition—Registration of Resolutions—Blank Proxy—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 80, sub-s. 8—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 85—Bankruptcy Forms, 1870, No. 32.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge in Bankruptcy.

A liquidation petition having been filed by Whitehouse in the Walsall County Court, a form of proof and proxy (in the statutory form) was sent by the debtor's solicitor to the solicitor of Duce, one of the creditors. Duce filled up the proof and signed the proxy in blank, and handed it to his solicitor, who returned it to the debtor's solicitor without giving any directions as to the use of it. The debtor's solicitor inserted his own name as the proxy, and voted at one of the meetings on behalf of Duce in favour of accepting a composition offered by the debtor. The composition was accepted by the proper majority. Duce opposed the registration of the resolutions, and it was objected that he could not do so as he had voted in favour of them. He then applied to the Court to take his proxy off the file of proceedings, and to erase his vote. He said that when he signed the proxy in blank he intended it to be filled up with the name of his own solicitor or his clerk, and that he had no intention of appointing the debtor's solicitor as his proxy. The registrar refused the application, and the Chief Judge affirmed his decision.

Duce appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Hugo Young, for the appellant.

Finlay Knight, contra.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the signing of the proxy in blank and sending it to the debtor's solicitor implied an authority to him to fill in his own name, and to vote at the meeting. The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

Liquidation Petition—General Meeting of Creditors—Removal of Trustee—Voting—Creditor present but desiring not to vote—List of Creditors assembled—Proxies—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 16, sub-ss. 6, 7, 8—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 85, 269, 271, 273, 293, 305, 307.

John Baum filed a liquidation petition in 1876, and T. H. Cooper was appointed trustee of his property. On the 20th of June, 1879, a creditor named Isaacs, with the concurrence of other creditors, who with himself purported to be creditors for more than one fourth in value of those who had proved their debts, gave a notice under r. 305 summoning a general meeting of the creditors for the 1st of July, 1879, for the purpose of removing Cooper from his office and appointing another trustee in his place. The meeting was held accordingly, and resolutions removing Cooper and appointing another trustee were passed by a majority in value of the creditors present or represented at the meeting according to the list taken at the time. Some of the dissentient creditors opposed the registration of the resolutions upon (inter alia) two grounds: (1.) That some of the creditors who voted for the resolutions had previously sold their debts to Isaacs. (2.) That a creditor named Scrivener, who was actually present at the meeting, was not entered in the list of those who were present. He was a creditor for 105*l.*, and he was also proxy for a Mrs. Simpson, who was a creditor for 547*3*s. The proxy was on the file of the proceedings. If Mrs. Simpson had been counted as represented at the meeting, the resolutions would not have been carried by the proper majority, but Scrivener's presence in his own right would have made no difference. He stated at the meeting that he was not present for the purpose of voting, and that he did not intend to vote. Mr. Registrar Murray, as Chief Judge, overruled the objections, and registered the resolutions. The opposing creditors appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and R. Vaughan Williams, for the appellants, contended (1) that the resolutions were bad, because the creditors who had sold their debts to Isaacs could not exercise an independent judgment; (2.) That Scrivener ought to have been counted as present both on his own behalf and on that of Mrs. Simpson, his proof and hers not having been withdrawn; r. 273; Ex parte Orde (Law Rep. 6 Ch. 881). The resolutions were therefore not carried by the proper majority.

E. Cooper Willis, and H. Reed, for the creditors who summoned the meeting.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.JJ.) said that there was nothing in the first objection, for the creditors who voted at the meeting did not stand in any fiduciary position, and were not in any way binding the rights of the other creditors. And as Scrivener's own debt was not large enough to affect the majority, it was not necessary to decide whether Ex parte Orde applied to meetings held after the registration of liquidation or composition resolutions. The principle of that decision could not apply to the case of a creditor who was represented by another creditor, unless the proxy said that he was present on behalf of his principal as well as in his own right. If the proxy did not say that he was present on behalf of his principal, there was nothing to shew that the proxy had not been revoked. There was nothing to shew that Scrivener was present on behalf of Mrs. Simpson. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

AUSTRALIAN MORTGAGE LAND AND FINANCE COMPANY v.
AUSTRALIAN AND NEW ZEALAND MORTGAGE COMPANY.

Trade Name—Injunction—Colourable Imitation.

This was an appeal by the plaintiff company from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins, refusing to restrain the defendant company from carrying on business in their present name. The plaintiff company had for some years carried on business at 123 Bishopsgate Street Within. The defendant company was established in November, 1879, for the purpose (similar to that of the plaintiff company) of making loans in the colonies of Australia and New Zealand on freehold, leasehold, and other property at colonial rates of interest, and their present offices were at 79 Gracechurch Street. The plaintiff company issued a writ, and moved before Vice-Chancellor Malins for an injunction to restrain the defendant company from carrying on business in their present name or in any other name only colourably different from that of the plaintiff company, or calculated or intended to induce the public to believe that the defendant company was the same as the plaintiff company. Vice-Chancellor Malins, being of opinion that the defendant company's name did not so closely resemble that of the plaintiffs as to be calculated to deceive or to call for the interference of the Court, refused the motion. From this refusal the plaintiff company now appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Romer, for the plaintiff company, contended that the name adopted by the defendants was so like that of the plaintiffs, their place of business in the city so near, and the objects for which they were established so similar, that confusion was inevitable.

Millar (with whom was J. Pearson, Q.C.), for the defendant company, was not called upon.

JAMES, L.J., said that the plaintiffs had not made out that there would be the slightest danger of any one being deceived into the belief that the business carried on by the defendants was the business of the plaintiffs. He could not differ from the conclusion arrived at by the Vice-Chancellor, and the appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

BAGGALLAY and COTTON, L.JJ., concurred.

JAMES, L.J., added that the difficulty in these cases was that while the business name of another could not be appropriated, a man could not, on the other hand, give himself any monopoly in a name which, as in this case, merely described the nature of the business or the locality of its operations.

Practice—Service of Statement of Claim on Defendant who did not appear—Statement of Claim not filed—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX. r. 6; Order XXI. r. 1 (b).

In an action brought against several defendants the statement of claim with the writ was served upon some of the defendants who did not appear, under Order XXI. r. 1 (b), but it was not filed pursuant to Order XIX. r. 6.

At the trial of the action judgment was given against these defendants in default of appearance.

The Registrar in drawing-up the order took the objection that the statement of claim had not been filed.

J. Henderson, for the plaintiff, submitted that it was unnecessary that the statement of claim should be filed. He referred to Whitaker v. Thurston (Weekly Notes, 1876, p. 232) where a summons had been personally served under Order XIX. r. 6, and it was held unnecessary to file it afterwards.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that the principle of Omne majus continet minus applied to such a case, and that personal delivery of a statement of claim was sufficient as against a defaulting defendant, and that it need not afterwards be filed.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held (there being no context) that the meaning of the words was if she should die without ever having had a husband, and that the persons who would have been entitled if the lady had died absolutely possessed of the property and a spinster were entitled.

V.-C. M. VERNON v. VESTRY OF ST. JAMES. Jan. 14.

Deliction to Public—Vestry—Nuisance—Injunction—18 & 19 Vict. c. 120, s. 88.

This was an action by the owners of the houses in a mews or court in Regent Street to restrain the vestry of St. James's from putting up a urinal in the mews.

Glasse, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the plaintiffs.

Bristowe, Q.C., and G. Walker, for the defendants.

HIS LORDSHIP said that the case of the plaintiffs was first, that the mews was private property, but it had long been used by the public and had been lighted and paved by the vestry, he must therefore hold that it had been dedicated to the public, and thus came under the control of the vestry. Secondly, that the urinal would be an intolerable nuisance to the plaintiffs, and this, in the opinion of His Lordship, was established. The vestry must not exercise their powers so as to cause an intolerable nuisance, and judgment must be given for an injunction.

Company—Commission on Shares—Fiduciary Relation—Secretary and Solicitor.

Adjourned summons on behalf of the official liquidator for the purpose of recovering from B. L. Barrow, the secretary and solicitor of the company, a sum of 250*l.*, alleged to have been improperly paid to him by the company as commission on 2000 shares allotted to one Kimpton, but by him transferred for a nominal consideration to R. B. Barrow, deceased, father of B. L. Barrow, and chairman of the company.

In August, 1871, the company being in want of money were unable to get their shares taken up. R. B. Barrow, the chairman, was willing to take more shares, but did not wish to apply in his own name. At a meeting of the directors held on the 22nd of August, 1871, B. L. Barrow stated that a client was willing to take 1000 shares upon certain conditions, with the option of taking another 1000 shares within two years at par. The offer, which purported to be made by Kimpton, the engineer of the company, was accepted in a modified form, and it was resolved that a commission of 2s. 6d. per share should be paid by the company, upon allotment of the shares, to B. L. Barrow, the solicitor of the company.

The shares were allotted to Kimp'on and by him transferred for a nominal consideration to R. B. Barrow. Upon payment to the company of the 2000l. for the shares, 250l. was paid to B. J. Barrow as the agreed commission of 2s. 6d. per share.

The present summons was taken out by the official liquidator for the purpose of compelling repayment of the sum so received for the commission by B. L. Barrow.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Crackenall, for the official liquidator:—Mr. B. L. Barrow being in a fiduciary position towards the company was not entitled to receive any commission in respect of a transaction affecting the company, especially when the nature of it was not disclosed.

Northmore Lawrence, for B. L. Barrow, contended, that although the transaction was somewhat indirect, there had been no concealment of facts; the company was just as much benefited by the advance of the money by Mr. R. B. Barrow, the chairman, as by any one else, and B. L. Barrow was entitled to retain the commission.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—Mr. B. L. Barrow being the paid agent or servant of the company cannot retain this commission. The transaction was clearly the transaction throughout of the elder Barrow who was chairman of the company, and the name of Kimpton was used as mere machinery. The money must be refunded, and the respondent must pay the costs of the summons.

HARTNOLL v. BLIGHT.

Will—Construction—Contingency—Subsequent Limitations.

A testatrix by her will gave an annuity of 50l. to her sister for her life, and after her death she directed that the annuity should be applied by her executors in the following manner, viz., that the annuity should be paid to her daughter Sarah during her life, and after her death the testatrix directed her executors to pay the annuity to Lucy, the daughter of Sarah; and if Lucy, after having commenced to receive the annuity, should die, then the testatrix directed her executors to continue to pay the annuity to the then surviving children of Lucy in equal shares, and, in the event of there being then or at any future time no such surviving children of Lucy, then she directed her executors to pay the annuity to the surviving children of Sarah in equal shares. The testatrix died in 1854; Lucy died in 1870, unmarried; Sarah died in 1875. The sister of the testatrix died in 1877. The question was whether the gift to the surviving children of Sarah took effect, Lucy never having commenced to receive the annuity, or whether the annuity was undisposed of after the death of the sister of the testatrix, and fell into the residuum.

North, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the plaintiff.

Methold, for the surviving children of Sarah.

Fry, J., held that the gifts following that to Lucy were independent and substantive gifts, and not part of one series of limitations; consequently, the gift to the children of Sarah was not subject to the contingency which affected the gift to the children of Lucy, and the children of Sarah who were surviving when the sister of the testatrix died were entitled to the annuity.

Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Question of Conviction with intent to defeat Creditors—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33, Vict. c. 71), s. 72.

An adjudication in bankruptcy having been made on the 16th of June, 1874, on the 27th of November, 1878, a motion was made to the County Court at Hanley, in the matter of the bankruptcy, on behalf of the trustee, for the purpose of setting aside two alleged mortgages made by the bankrupt to his son, the appellant, and an order was made, that, it appearing to the Court that there were questions of fact arising on the subject-matter of the motion, it was ordered that the same be tried by jury. The order then set out the issues, which were to the effect of whether the bankrupt executed a memorandum of charge on the 30th of April, 1873, of certain lands and premises at Bucknall, and an indenture of mortgage of the 8th of May, 1873, of the same hereditaments, in good faith and for valuable consideration, and whether the same were executed fraudulently and without the consideration therein stated, and with intent to delay or defraud creditors.

On the 2nd of June, 1879, an order was made by the County Court, appointing the 20th of June for the trial of the issues at the Town Hall, Hanley, and on that day a trial was held before Mr. Selfe, deputy to the County Court Judge, at which the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, the trustee.

Notice of motion for a new trial was served, but the solicitor of the defendant, the appellant, was on the 26th of June summoned to appear at the office of the registrar on the 3rd of July and produce the instruments for cancellation. On the 10th of July the registrar made the order appealed from, directing the memorandum of charge and deed of mortgage to be cancelled.

The motion for a new trial was refused by the learned deputy Judge.

Robson, for the appellant.

THE CHIEF JUDGE called upon

E. Cooper Willis, and F. Knight, for the respondent, the trustee on the question of jurisdiction:—The trustee, claiming on behalf of creditors, claims "by a higher and better title than the bankrupt," within the dictum of James, L.J., in Ex parte Brown (11 Ch. D. 148), and thus the matter is one which was properly dealt with by the Court of Bankruptcy.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said the whole proceeding appeared to him to have been irregular. What higher or better title could the trustee have than the bankrupt himself had? The question was whether this assignment was a bona fide assignment, and whether it was made by the father to his son with intent to defeat creditors. In the case cited Lord Justice James observed "Where the trustee takes only that which the bankrupt himself would have taken, the matter should be left to the ordinary tribunals." How could the bankrupt himself have impeached these deeds? Executed in 1873, there was no attempt to set them aside until November, 1878. No objection could be taken against them under the 92nd section of the Act, so that the question was not one of fraudulent preference. The trustee had no right to have this question tried in bankruptcy. If there were any ground for setting aside the instruments, it ought to have been asserted in some other jurisdiction. The Court of Bankruptcy had no jurisdiction, and the order must be discharged but, inasmuch as the objection was not taken earlier, without costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Ch. Div. Jan. 20.

ORB EWING & Co. v. JOHNSTON & Co.
Trade-mark—Imitation—Onus of Proof—Deception of ultimate Purchaser.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Mr. Justice Fry in THE WEEKLY NOTES, 1879, p. 52). The plaintiffs were manufacturers of Turkey red yarn for exportation to Aden and Bombay and other places. They had No. 3.—1880.

for many years affixed to the packets in which their yarn was made up a ticket of triangular shape and of a green colour, which had embossed on it in gold a crown and two elephants supporting a banner. On the banner was printed the name of the plaintiffs' firm in Guzerathi characters. The plaintiffs' yarn had become known in the Bombay market as "Bhe Hathi" (i.e. two elephants) yarn, and was asked for and sold under that name, and no other yarn was known by that name. The defendants also exported Turkey red yarn to the same places as the plaintiffs. They had recently commenced using a ticket of a similar shape and colour to the plaintiffs' ticket. It also had a banner and two elephants upon it, but between them was (instead of a crown) the figure of the Hindoo idol Gunputti, and the elephants stood in a different position from those on the plaintiffs' ticket. On the banner was printed the name of the defendants' firm in English letters. The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from using the ticket which they had adopted, or otherwise imitating the plaintiffs' ticket. There was no evidence that any purchasers had been deceived by the defendants' ticket, but several witnesses in Bombay said that though the dealers in Bombay would not be deceived, it was probable that the ultimate purchasers of the yarn, i.e., the native weavers who lived in the country, would be deceived. Mr. Justice Fry granted the injunction asked for, and from this decision the defendants appealed.

Aston, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the appellants.
North, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the plaintiffs, were not called on.

JAMES, L.J., said that there appeared to him no conceivable motive for what the defendants had done but the desire to do something which might be instrumental in procuring the acceptance of their goods by inland customers as being a continuation of the same goods as had been previously sold to them as the plaintiffs' goods. It was not necessary to decide that there was any intention to tell an actual lie. It was sufficient that there had been a wilful use of a part of another's trade mark—such a use as was calculated to pass off the goods of one man as being the goods of his neighbour. He was of opinion, independently of the vast mass of evidence which had been adduced, that the mark adopted by the defendants was such as would in all probability have enabled any one who was so disposed to represent that the goods to which it was affixed were goods of the plaintiffs. But beyond that, supposing that a man had inadvertently used a ticket thus calculated to injure the trade-mark or right of property belonging to the plaintiffs, it was his duty, immediately his attention was called to the fact of the similarity of the two marks and to the complaint of the plaintiffs, to have immediately discontinued the use of the mark complained of, however honestly it had been adopted by him in the first instance. However honest such original adoption might have been, its persistent continuance after notice and warning was in itself sufficient evidence that fraud was intended. But he felt bound to say that he was not convinced by the evidence that there was any originally honest inadvertence or mistake on the part of the defendants in the adoption of the trade-mark complained of. The judgment of Mr. Justice Fry was perfectly right and must be affirmed, and the appeal would be dismissed with costs.

BAGGALLAY and COTTON, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Practice—Inspection of Documents—Libel—Tendency to criminate—Privileged Communication—Objection to Produce.

This was an appeal by the defendant from an order for inspection of documents. The plaintiff had been the steward of the defendant, and left his employ in March, 1879. In April he was engaged by Lord Rosslyn, but in the same month the defendant wrote letters to Lord Rosslyn which induced his lordship to dismiss the plaintiff. The plaintiff thereupon commenced his action, alleging by his statement of claim that in the letters the defendant had falsely and maliciously made certain defamatory statements which were set out in the claim, and that in consequence of these libels the plaintiff had lost the situation. The defendant stated by his defence that the letters were confidential and privileged communications written in answer to inquiries. In answer to interrogatories the defendant repeated the statement that the letters were privileged, and admitted having copies of them. The plaintiff applied for an order to inspect these copies, which was granted by Kelly, C.B., and Stephen, J., reversing the decision of the master. The defendant appealed.

Fischer, Q.C., and R. E. Turner, for the appellant.

Bompas, Q.C., and P. Howard Smith, contra.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that although letters of this description were privileged in the sense in which that term is used in questions as to libel, they were not privileged from production, and that if the defendant could protect himself from production at all it could only be by his oath that he believed the production would render him liable to criminal prosecution.

Herschell, Q.C., and Smyly, for the bank, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of the Chief Judge, on the ground that the testator's will did not authorize two of the executors to carry on the business. There was, therefore, no agreement by any persons authorized to make it for the conversion of the assets of the old firm into assets of the new firm, and the bank as creditors of the old firm were entitled to the assets in question, which still remained in specie. Debts—Bequest of Leasehold Estate—Legatees taking cum onere.

The testator gave his residuary estate to the plaintiff, whom he appointed his executor, and specifically disposed of certain property subject to a direction that his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses should be paid out of it. Part of the residue consisted of a leasehold house held at a rack rent, and in respect of which there was a liability for dilapidations. The plaintiff a few months after the testator's death surrendered the lease, paying the landlord a sum of money for dilapidations. The question now was whether he was to be allowed against the specifically bequeathed property, rent up to the time of the surrender and the sum paid for dilapidations, as being debts of the testator. The chief clerk allowed these items and Vice-Chancellor Malins refused to vary the finding. The specific legatees appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Sturges, for the appellant.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that the specific bequest was not liable except for rent up to the testator's death.

The testator's said daughter was at the date of the will, and continued till her death, the wife of William Mitchell. She had seven children, one of whom was the "grandson James" mentioned by the testator, and was born prior to her marriage, her other six children being born after. The question was whether the word "children" in the will included the illegitimate child.

Davey, Q.C., and Humphreys, Chitty, Q.C., and A. T. Watson, and Grosvenor Woods, for the parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the word "children" must be construed as meaning legitimate children only, particularly as the testator had in the prior part of the will made an express and separate provision for the illegitimate child.

Petition by Tenant for Life—Improvements on Settled Estates.

Certain property at Halifax in the occupation of the tenant for life of the estate, having been purchased by the corporation of Halifax under the powers of a Local Government Act, and the purchase-money, amounting to 4250*l.*, having been paid into the bank, the tenant for life presented a petition that the said sum of 4250*l.* might be paid out to him in part satisfaction for an amount of 8458*l.* which he had made in building improvements on the estate. It appeared from the affidavits that the property in question, which comprised a brewery and two malt-houses, had been left by will to the petitioner for life and afterwards to his first and other sons. The malt-houses were found to be in a state of dilapidation, requiring a large outlay for their repair, and under the advice of architects the two malt-houses had been entirely pulled down and new buildings of a more modern construction and better adapted to the present requirements of a brewery had been erected on the site of the old buildings. The cost of these buildings had amounted to 8458*l.*, and it was in evidence that the property was increased in value to at least 1000*l.*

The case of Drake v. Trefusis (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 364) was cited.

Glasse, Q.C., and Stirling, for the petitioner.

Dundas Gardiner, for the infants.

W. Barber, for the corporation of Halifax.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that having regard to the fact that this money was expended by the tenant for life without any expectation of being recouped, and having regard to the authority of Drake v. Trefusis, he considered it was going too far to say that the petitioner should have the benefit of this sum of money which had accidentally fallen in. The order must therefore be for investment of the money and payment of the dividends to the petitioner.

TOTTENHAM LOCAL BOARD OF HEALTH v. ROWELL.

Local Government Acts—Proceedings for Recovery of Rates—Charge on Land—Delay in taking Proceedings.

This was an action by the Tottenham Local Board to enforce a charge upon the property of the defendant for the sum of 25*l.* and interest from February, 1873, being the amount of a rate levied upon the inhabitants by the board under the powers of their Act of Parliament for work done in providing sewers and repairing the roads and footways. It appeared that the works were done in the year 1865, but the expenses incurred by the board were not, until the 31st of January, 1873, duly apportioned by the surveyor of the board, and the demand for payment of the assessment was made in the following month. The objection raised by the defendant was on the ground that the mode of recovering payment, as directed by the various Acts of Parliament, was, in the first instance, by personal action, by summary proceedings before the justices, or in the county court within six months, and no such proceedings having been taken to recover the money the plaintiffs were precluded by lapse of time and unjustifiable delay in now coming to this Court to enforce a charge on the land.

Higgins, Q.C., and Ilbert, for the plaintiffs.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Hunter, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR referred to the Public Health Act of 1843, c. 63, ss. 69, 129, and 133; to the Local Government Act, 1858 (21 & 22 Vict. c. 98, s. 62); 24 & 25 Vict. c. 61, s. 24; and to Tottenham Local Board v. Rowell (1 Ex. D. 514), and decided that the power to charge the land of a defaulting ratepayer under those Acts was subsidiary to the other summary proceedings specified in the Acts, and that the board not having taken any of those proceedings within six months were precluded after a lapse of so many years from claiming a charge upon the land. The action was, therefore, dismissed with costs.

V.-C. B. MCSTEPHENS v. CARNEGIE. Jan. 23.

Practice—Service out of the Jurisdiction—Contract—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XI., r. 1.

Motion on behalf of defendants named Ruys & Co., merchants of Antwerp, to discharge an order made at chambers directing service upon them of notice of writ of summons in the action, which was brought by the first mortgagee of a ship against the second mortgagee Carnegie, and his liquidation trustee, the master of the ship, the trustee in bankruptcy of the owner and mortgagee, Baldwin, and the moving defendants.

The plaintiff's mortgage having been executed in January or February, 1877, and Carnegie's second mortgage in March following, in June, 1877, the ship arrived at Antwerp from Odessa, and proceedings were commenced at Antwerp in the name of Wetherell, the master, under which a sum of 30,000 francs or thereabouts, as freight, was ordered to be paid, as the plaintiff said to Wetherell, representing the owner, Baldwin, but as the defendant Carnegie said, to the moving defendants, as agents for him, as assignee of the freight. This order was made on the 14th of July, 1878, and the fund coming into the hands of Ruys & Co., was immediately attached on behalf of the plaintiff. Meanwhile the ship had sailed again for London, and on her arrival here, Admiralty proceedings were instituted by the master, in which the plaintiff intervened, and the ship was sold by the Court, and the plaintiff part paid out of the proceeds.

In this action, which was for the ordinary mortgagee's account, an order had been obtained in chambers for leave to amend by making Ruys & Co. parties, and for leave to serve upon them notice in lieu of service of the writ of summons.

The amended statement of claim alleged that Ruys & Co. claimed to retain the freight against a debt due to them by Carnegie.

Everitt, for the motion:—The case is not within any one of the alternatives mentioned in Order XI., r. 1. The Court has no jurisdiction, and the plaintiff, if he sues Ruys & Co., must sue them in the foreign Court.

H. Burton Buckley, for the plaintiff:—The case is simply whether a sub-mortgagee should be made a party to the action, which is in respect of a contract "made or entered into within the jurisdiction," within the terms of the order.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he could not accede to the application. In his judgment the Court had ample jurisdiction under the Order. The contract in respect of which the action was brought was an English contract. The order for service of notice of the writ of summons on the defendants was perfectly right, and the motion must be refused with costs.

Practice—Counter-claim—Persons other than Parties to the Action made Defendants—Service out of Jurisdiction—Rules of Court, 1875, Orders XI. and XVI.

Badham v. Nixon was a counter-claim to the action of Nixon v. Luckie.

Beumont now asked that the counter-claim might be served out of the jurisdiction, some of the defendants residing in Demerara and some in New Zealand. Persons other than the plaintiffs and defendants in the action were made defendants to the counter-claim. The will of the testator in the action was made and proved in England, and a contract, in reference to which it was sought by the counter-claim to obtain relief against some of the defendants for defaults, was entered into in England. The rights of the parties under the will could not be disposed of except in reference to the contract.

It was submitted that, having regard to the case of Swansea Shipping Company, Limited v. Duncan, Fox, & Co. (1 Q. B. D. 644) and Rules of Court, 1875, Orders XI. and XVI., the leave asked for could be granted, and without any limitation to the defendants appearing within eight days.

Samuel Hall, for the plaintiff, referred to Dymond v. Croft (3 Ch. D. 512).

No one appeared for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed an account to be taken of what was due to the plaintiff, and payment of the amount within one month from the date of the certificate of the chief clerk, and in default of payment foreclosure within six months.

The order in Dymond v. Croft followed with a variation.

LLOYD'S v. HARPER.

Jan. 24.

Guarantee—Construction—Determination—Death of Guarantor—Contract for benefit of Third Party—Breach—Measure of Damage—Right to sue—Trustee.

This was an action to enforce a guarantee against the estate of the guarantor, who was dead, the defendants being his executors.

In May, 1863, the testator signed the following letter to the committee of Lloyd's, which was then a voluntary association, consisting of underwriting members, non-underwriting members, and subscribers, and under the management of a committee:—"My son, Mr. R. H. Harper, being a candidate for admission to Lloyd's as an underwriting member, I beg to tender my guarantee on his behalf, and to hereby hold myself responsible for all his engagements in that capacity." The son was then admitted as an underwriting member, and continued to underwrite policies at Lloyd's until November, 1878, when he stopped payment, and thereupon, under the provisions of the rules, ceased to be a member. The father died in September, 1876, and notice of his death was soon afterwards given to the committee of Lloyd's. It was the practice for members of Lloyd's to underwrite policies, not only in favour of members, but also in favour of other persons through the agency of brokers who were members. At the time of R. H. Harper's stoppage he was liable upon various policies, some of which were in favour of persons not members of Lloyd's, and some of which he had underwritten after the death of his father. In 1871 an Act of Parliament was passed incorporating the members of the voluntary association under the name of Lloyd's, and vesting the rights of the committee in the corporation. The plaintiffs in the action were the corporation, and a firm of insurance brokers to whom R. H. Harper was indebted on the balance of an account in respect of policies underwritten by him after the death of his father. The firm were not as such members of Lloyd's, though one of the partners was a member. The plaintiffs claimed a declaration that the death of the testator did not operate to revoke the guarantee, and that the defendants might be ordered to pay to the plaintiff firm the amount due to them under the guarantee; that the persons entitled to the benefit of the guarantee and the amounts of their claims respectively might be ascertained; and that the defendants might be ordered to pay the same.

The defendants insisted that, at any rate from the time when the committee of Lloyd's had notice of the testator's death, no liability was incurred by his estate in respect of any contract afterwards entered into by the son; that the plaintiffs, Lloyd's, had sustained only nominal damage, and that there was no privity of contract between the testator's estate and the co-plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Millar, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the defendants.

Fry, J., held that the guarantee was not determined by the death of the guarantor or by notice of his death; that the guarantee extended to all engagements of the son on policies, as well with members of Lloyd's as with other persons; and that the committee, and the corporation as their successors, filled a fiduciary relation towards the persons to whom the policies were given, and were therefore entitled to maintain the action, and His Lordship gave judgment in substance according to the plaintiffs' claim. He said that on the third point he desired to look at the authorities, and, if he saw any reason to alter his view, he would mention the case again.

High Court of Justice.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

M. R. SIMMONS v. STORER. Jan. 21.
Practice—Taxation—Disallowance of Costs of abortive Proceedings Rules of Court, 1875 (Costs), Order VII., r. 26.

Summons to review taxation.

At the trial of the action the Court had directed an account of what was due to the present defendant upon a judgment obtained by him in an action in the Exchequer Division in which he was plaintiff, and in respect of the costs of the several proceedings taken by the defendant to enforce that judgment.

The proceedings referred to were six garnishee summonses which the defendant had taken out but had not proceeded with, and a similar summons under which a sum had been paid into Court by the garnishee, who then successfully defended an action by the defendant to recover a larger sum.

The taxing master of the Exchequer Division, to whom the defendant's bill of costs was referred, disallowed the cost of all the proceedings except those of the last-mentioned summons up to the time of the payment into Court by the garnishee.

The defendant now applied to have the taxation reviewed, alleging that the costs ought not to have been disallowed.

Davey, Q. C., and H. Humphreys, for the summonses.

Chitty, Q. C., and Whitehorse, for the plaintiff.

THE MASTERS OF THE ROLLS considered that, under the order which had been made, and also having regard to Rules of Court (Costs), Order VII., r. 26, the taxing master had jurisdiction to consider what costs should be disallowed, and had properly disallowed them. His Lordship dismissed the summonses.

KING v. VOSS.

Married Women's Property Act, 1870, ss. 7, 8—Intestacy—Married Woman's Personal Estate above 200l.—Separate Use—Examination unnecessary.

In this case a married woman, whose marriage took place after the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, was entitled under the intestacy of the intestate in the action to about 600l. Consols, and the question arose whether it was necessary that she should be examined in Court to enable the stock to be transferred into her name for her separate use, as the fund exceeded 200l. in value.

HIS LORDSHIP thought, having regard to the language of the 7th section and the provisions of the 8th, that the Act intended the limit of 200l. to apply only to gifts by deed or will, and that she was entitled to her share under the intestacy for her separate use, whatever its value might be, without the necessity of any examination. His Lordship said, however, that it was difficult to find a ground for the distinction.

HIS LORDSHIP also observed that there might be a question whether the provision of the 8th section, that rents and profits of property to which a married woman married after the Act was entitled as heiress should belong to her for her separate use did

M. R. BEAUCHANT v. USTICKER. Jan. 26.

Will—Construction—Gift of Real Estate to A. for life and "after her death to such son as she may leave, and to his heirs and assigns"—Gift over—"Son"—Nomen collectivum—Male Descendants—Estate Tail—"Leaving," whether meaning "having had."

Ann Allen, widow, who died in 1805, by her will devised a freehold estate to trustees in trust for her daughter Georgiana for life, "and from and after her death to such son as she may leave, and to his heirs and assigns for ever; and if she shall die leaving no son then to such daughters as she may leave at the time of her death in equal shares and to their heirs and assigns for ever; but in case my said daughter shall happen to die without leaving any child, then to permit and suffer my sisters Jane, Elizabeth, and Lydia, or such of them as shall be living at the time of the death of my said daughter dying without child or children then living, and her and their heirs and assigns, to hold the said premises for ever."

The testatrix's daughter Georgiana had nine children, four sons and five daughters. Two of the sons died in their mother's lifetime and left children, and the other two survived her. Of these two the elder died, leaving his younger brother, the plaintiff, him surviving. This was a special case to ascertain the construction of the will. See 2 Jarm. on Wills, 3rd ed., p. 877, et seq.

Chitty, Q.C., Ince, Q.C., Davey, Q.C., H. A. Giffard, Cozens-Hardy, and A. W. Rowden, for the parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held, upon the words of the will, that on Georgiana's death the property vested in her two sons who survived her, as joint tenants in fee simple, and that the plaintiff having survived his brother took the whole in fee. His Lordship said that the numerous authorities which had been cited during the argument had not assisted him in arriving at a conclusion as to the meaning of this particular will. His Lordship, however, pointed out that Byfield's Case, which was said in text-books to be only mentioned in Chief Justice Hale's judgment in King v. Melling (1 Ventr. 231), was in reality the same as Milliner v. Robinson (1 Moore, 682), a fact which the text-writers had never taken the trouble to discover, but which became evident on a comparison of the language of the wills and the dates of the two cases.

BARKER v. BARKER.

Will—Construction—Gift of Income for Maintenance—"Vested" or "Contingent."

Martha Elizabeth Parker, who died in 1856, by her will dated the 23rd of May, 1856, gave all her real and personal estate to trustees upon trust to sell or convert, and to stand possessed of the proceeds upon trust to invest as therein mentioned, and to stand possessed of the trust funds "upon trust to pay the dividends, interest, or income thereof, or such part thereof as my said trustees for the time being shall from time to time deem expedient, in or towards the maintenance and education of my children, until my said children shall attain their respective ages of 21 years, and from and immediately after their attaining their respective ages of 21 years then upon trust to pay, assign, and transfer the said stocks, funds, and securities to my said children in equal shares, if more than one, or if but one then to such one child." There was a direction that each daughter's share, whether original or accruing, should be settled; also a power of advancement during minorities.

The testatrix left three children, two sons and a daughter, all of whom were living at the date of the will. One son and the daughter attained 21, but the other son died an infant, leaving his brother and sister his sole next of kin. The trustees had applied part of the income of the infant's share towards his maintenance, but there remained a surplus in their hands at his death. The question was, who were entitled to the daughter's moiety of this surplus, and it turned upon the point whether the gift of residue was "vested" or "contingent."

Woodroffe, for the plaintiff, the husband and legal personal representative of the daughter, who had attained 21 and died, claimed her moiety of the surplus income absolutely, relying on Fox v. Fox (Law Rep. 19 Eq. 236).

S. Roberts, for the trustees of the daughter's marriage settlement, which had been made pursuant to the testatrix's directions, was not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the gift was contingent on attaining 21, distinguishing the case from Fox v. Fox on the ground that in that case the gift was of a legacy of a certain amount, whereas in the present case the gift was of residue as an aggregate fund. The daughter's share of the surplus income was therefore bound by the trusts of her settlement.

M. R. GREAVES v. TOFIELD. Feb. 2.

Annuity Deed—Non-registration—Validity—Subsequent Incumbrancers—Notice—Annuity Acts—Judgment Acts.

This was an action by Sarah Brook Greaves and Charlotte Brook Greaves, claiming to have it declared that two annuities of 500*l.* and 200*l.*, created in their favour by a deed dated in 1872, and thereby charged on certain lands in Yorkshire, were well charged on such lands in priority to any other incumbrances thereon.

The defendants in the action were incumbrancers on the lands charged subsequent in date to the annuity deed, and the trustee in bankruptcy of the grantor.

Some of the incumbrancers took with and some without notice of the annuity deed, and in some of the mortgage deeds the annuity deed was recited.

The annuity deed was not registered in the Common Pleas Division under the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 15, until the 17th of July, 1879, after the dates of the several mortgages and of the bankruptcy of the grantor.

Two questions were submitted to the Court: (1) whether the annuity deed was valid as against the incumbrancers without notice, and (2) whether it was valid against the incumbrancers with notice or the trustee in bankruptcy.

Ince, Q.C., and G. Curtis Price, for the plaintiffs.

Chitty, Q.C., Ingle Joyce, H. Hamilton Humphreys, Vernon R. Smith, and E. Martin, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, after commenting on the early Annuity Acts and the Judgment Acts, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, and 3 & 4 Vict. c. 82, and the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 15, held that the annuity deed was invalid against all the incumbrances, whether with or without notice, executed prior to its registration, and against the trustee in bankruptcy of the grantor.

V.-C. M. BUBB v. PADWICK. Jan. 28.

Will—Vested Interest—Payment—Trustees.

George Bubb by his will bequeathed the residue of his estate to his children who should attain the age of 21 years, as tenants in common, but nevertheless that his children so attaining vested interests should not be entitled to receive their respective shares until his youngest child should have attained the age of 21 years unless his trustees in their discretion should pay the share of any child attaining a vested interest to such child; and the testator directed that in case any child should die before the youngest child attained the age of 21 years and without having actually received the whole of his share then his share should go over to the others.

A special case was stated for the opinion of the Court on the construction of the will.

Bristowe, Q.C., and L. E. Pyke, for children who had not attained the age of 21 years.

Higgins, Q.C., and Tremlett, for the other children.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Maddison, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the vesting could not be left to the caprice of the trustees in paying the money and that the children who attained the age of 21 years took vested indefeasible interests in their share.

V.-C. M. BAGSHOTT v. NORMAN. Jan. 29.

Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 10—Attestation by Solicitor—Mortgage of Leaseholds—Bill of Sale of Chattels.

This was a motion for an injunction to restrain the defendant, a solicitor, from taking proceedings to recover a debt which was secured by a deed dated the 6th of October, 1879. By this deed the lease of the Connaught Theatre was mortgaged, and the furniture and fittings were charged by way of security for the debt with interest at 30l. per cent. The deed was not attested by a solicitor according to the provisions of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 10, and a question was raised whether it was partly or entirely void.

Glass, Q.C., and Rose-Innes, for the motion.

Higgins, Q.C., and Cooper Willis, for the defendant.

E. Beaumont, for a receiver appointed by the Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the deed of October, 1879, was void so far as it was a bill of sale upon the furniture and effects in the theatre, but valid so far as it was a mortgage of leasehold. The motion was therefore refused.

V.-C. H. YATES v. FINN. Jan. 28.

Partnership—Business carried on by Surviving Partner—Use of Deceased Partner's Capital—Division of Profits.

Further consideration.

This was a partnership action by the representatives of a deceased partner against the surviving partner.

Upon the death of the deceased partner in 1873 the defendant, who claimed, under partnership articles which had expired in 1857, the right to purchase the business, continued to carry it on, using the deceased partner's capital therein. Up to the death of the deceased partner the profits had been divided equally, and each partner had been allowed interest upon the capital standing to his credit, the capital of the deceased being about 11,000l., and that of the surviving partner about 3000l.

In 1873 this suit was commenced, and at the hearing in 1875 it was decided that the option to purchase claimed by the defendant ceased when the partnership articles expired. The surviving partner having carried on the business and employed the deceased partner's capital therein until the business was sold under the order of the Court, a period of about three years, now claimed to be entitled to an equal share in the profits with the plaintiffs.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and T. Curtis Price, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the principles regulating the division of profits where both partners were living and entitled equally were not applicable to a case where the surviving partner carried on the business after the death of his co-partner, using therein the capital of the deceased partner which exceeded his own in amount; and that the profits must be divided rateably between the plaintiff and defendant according to the proportion in which the partners were entitled to the capital employed in the business.

MILNER v. MILNER.

Will, Construction of—Gift to B. the Wife of A. S. for her sole use—Separate Estate.

Elizabeth Amies, who died in June, 1878, by her will made in April, 1874, declared that her nephews and executors T. T. By a codicil made in May, 1874, the testatrix declared that before a division should take place of the one-third share given to her brother and sisters "there shall be paid thereout to my niece Bettey Ann Scott, the wife of Abiathar Scott of Ironbridge, the sum of 250*l.* for her sole use, and there shall also be paid to her son my great nephew R. Fry, J. WORMS v. DE VALDOR. Jan 28.

Jurisdiction—Disability of Plaintiff by French Law—Change of Status.

The plaintiff sued for the delivery up of bills of exchange alleged to have been obtained by fraud. A preliminary objection was taken as to the status of the plaintiff, who had been declared a "Prodigal" by French law, and was by French law unable to sue without the consent of his "Conseille Judiciaire," which had not been given.

Cookson, Q.C., and Romer, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., Lingens, Morton Daniel, and J. E. Palmer, for the defendants.

Fry, J., said that in his opinion the plaintiff was not personally disqualified from suing. He adopted the language of Mr. Justice Story that "personal disqualifications not arising from the law of nature, but from the principles of the customary or positive law of a foreign country, and especially such as are of a penal nature, are not generally regarded in other countries where the like disqualifications do not exist. Hence the disqualifications resulting from heresy, excommunication, Popish recusancy, and other penal disabilities, are not enforced in any other country except that in which they originate. They are strictly territorial. So the state of slavery will not be recognised in any country whose institutions and policy prohibit slavery." Moreover with respect to slavery, it was well known that in the case of Anderson the Courts of this country, where villenage has never been abolished, refused to recognize a different kind of slavery. The French law as laid down by Toulier's Droit Civile, merely required the assent of the plaintiff's "Conseille Judiciaire" in certain proceedings, and did not change the status of the plaintiff. On the facts the plaintiff was entitled to the decree he asked.

This case (noted ante, p. 12) was mentioned again to-day on the point which his Lordship had reserved for further consideration, viz., how far the plaintiffs, Lloyd's, could recover substantial damages, they not having themselves sustained more than nominal damages.

North, Q.C., and Millar, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the defendants.

Fry, J., held, on the authority of Tomlinson v. Gill (1 Amb. 330) and Lamb v. Vice (6 M. & W. 467), that the committee of Lloyd's, and their successors, the corporation of Lloyd's, were trustees of the benefit of the guarantee for all the persons with whom Harper, the son, entered into engagements as an underwriting member of Lloyd's, whether those persons were members of Lloyd's or outsiders. Consequently, the plaintiffs, Lloyd's, as trustees, could maintain the action for the whole amount covered by the guarantee, and the judgment would stand as his Lordship had already pronounced it.

This was an action by a mortgagee for foreclosure, the defendants being the mortgagor and a person who had agreed to purchase the mortgaged property from him. The plaintiff claimed also a personal judgment against the mortgagor for the mortgage debt.

R. W. Ingham, for the mortgagor.

North, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the purchaser, asked that, in the event of his redeeming the mortgage, the personal judgment against the mortgagor might be transferred to him, as one of the securities held by the mortgagee for the debt.

Fry, J., gave judgment for foreclosure in the ordinary way, and a personal judgment for payment of the mortgage debt by the mortgagor, fixing three months for payment by the mortgagor, and six months for redemption, and he directed that the personal judgment should be transferred to the purchaser in the event of his redeeming the mortgage.

 HOOPER AND ANOTHER v. BOURNE, WESTBURY IRON COMPANY, AND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.
"Superfluous Land."
 Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had affirmed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench Division (2 Q. B. D. 339; 3 Q. B. D. 258), declaring certain land now in No. 5.—1880.

the possession of the Great Western Railway Company not to be "superfluous land" within 8 & 9 Vict. c. 18, s. 127. The land had been originally obtained by private contract, not compulsory purchase, by the Wilts, Somerset, and Weymouth Railway Company in 1848. That company had since been absorbed into the Great Western Railway Company. The whole of the land had not been used, and part of it (that which was now sought to be recovered in the ejectment) had been let to the Westbury Iron Company under special covenants for re-entry whenever the company should have occasion for it. The plaintiffs contended that not merely the non-user, but the letting of it to the iron company, shewed it to be superfluous land, which, not being sold at the end of the ten years from the time of its being originally acquired, gave them a title to it as adjoining owners. Ejectment had, in May, 1875, been brought. The facts were turned into a special case, the fourteenth paragraph of which stated that since 1868 the railway traffic at the part where the land was situated had largely increased, and that the land was required for the purpose of constructing additional sidings for the accommodation of that traffic. Judgment had been, on the facts stated in the case, given for the defendants; that judgment had been affirmed on appeal, and hence the present appeal.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Merewether, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.
 Mr. Davey, Q.C., Mr. Charles, Q.C., and Mr. Fletcher Moulton, for the respondents, were not called on.
 The LORDS affirmed the judgment of the Court below.

From Q. B. Div. CAMPBELL v. FAIRLIE. Feb. 7.
Practice—Appeal from Judge in Chambers—No Divisional Court sitting—Prohibition.

In this case an action had been brought in the Westminster County Court, and was fixed for trial on the 9th of February. The defendant applied to Mr. Justice Field in chambers for a writ of prohibition to restrain the action, who refused the application. By the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 50, an appeal from an order of a judge in chambers ought to be made to a Divisional Court, but as no Divisional Court was sitting the plaintiff applied ex parte by way of appeal to the Court of Appeal sitting at Lincoln's Inn.

Molony, for the appellant, said that no Divisional Court had been sitting during the whole week, and unless the Court of Appeal had jurisdiction to entertain the appeal the appellant was without remedy, as the action was to be tried on Monday the 9th.

BAGGALLAY, L.J. :—If you had gone to a judge of the Chancery Division in the first instance, as you might have done, you would have been in time to have appealed to us from his refusal to grant the prohibition. As it is we have no power to entertain your application.

COTTON, L.J., concurred.

Copyright—Trade-mark—Title of Book—Right to exclusive use of Names "Post Office" Directory—Shorthand Notes of Evidence.

This was an appeal from the judgment of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 107), who dismissed the action with costs.

Kay, Q.C., Hemming, Q.C., and Leeson, for the appellant.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Rigby, for the defendant.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal with costs.

Sir H. Jackson asked for the costs of the shorthand notes of the evidence in the Court below.

JAMES, L.J., said that as a general rule the Court refused these costs, and he saw no reason for departing from that rule in this case. It should be understood by the profession that the Court of Appeal strongly discourage shorthand notes of the evidence. The judge's note of the evidence ought, as a general rule, to be sufficient for the purposes of the appeal.

Company—Liquidation—Directors acting without proper Qualification—Misfeasance—Compensation—Companies Act, 1862, s. 165.

Adjourned summons.

Application on behalf of the liquidator of the above company to make J. A. Dixon and T. P. Coventry, two of the directors, liable for a misfeasance for acting as such without qualification.

The articles of association provided that every member holding not less than one hundred shares should be eligible as a director, and that a director should be disqualified if he ceased to hold his due qualification.

In the list of the directors in the prospectus, which was privately circulated, were the names of these gentlemen, who had not been registered as shareholders and who had not paid anything in respect of any shares. It appeared that they had attended one or more meetings of the board and then ceased to act.

Seward Brice, for the liquidator.

Davey, Q.C., and H. B. Buckley, contra.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS (who had refused a previous application to place Dixon and Coventry on the list of contributors) considered that they had been guilty of a misfeasance under s. 165 of the Companies Act, 1862, and that they must pay by way of compensation 500*l.* each, being the value of the shares which they would have held if they had been duly qualified.

M. R. KINSMAN v. JACKSON. Jan. 30.

Mining Lease—Grant to work for and raise China Clay—Covenant to work at all usual Times so that the same might be made merchantable—Proviso for Forfeiture—Breach—Revocation—Motion for Injunction against Grantors.

Under a lease of mining property for a term of years, license was granted to work for, raise, and make merchantable china clay under the land described, subject to the payment of the dead rent and royalties thereby reserved; and the grantees covenanted to work for the china clay in the most proper and effectual manner and with a reasonable number of men kept employed on the works at all reasonable and usual working times, so that the china clay might be raised and made merchantable as speedily as practicable. The lease contained a proviso for forfeiture in the event of non-performance of any of the covenants.

In August, 1879, the plaintiff, who was the then lessee, having employed his men for several months, not in raising any china clay, but in making merchantable that which had been already raised, the grantors served him with a notice revoking the lease under the proviso for forfeiture. The plaintiff now moved to restrain them from taking possession of the property.

Chitty, Q.C., and Chester, in support of the motion.

Davey, Q.C., and Phear, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that there had been a breach in the covenant, and that the motion must be refused. Costs to be costs in the action.

M. R. OSBORNE v. ROWLETT. Jan. 31.

Will—Devise to Trustees their "heirs, executors, and administrators" in trust to sell—Omission of "Assigns"—Sale by Devisee of Surviving Trustee—Cooke v. Crawford (13 Sim. 91) overruled.

A testator by his will, dated in 1845, devised his real and personal estates to his wife (since deceased) for her life, and after her death to T. Osborne and R. Sutton "their heirs, executors, and administrators, upon trust to sell at such times and in such manner as they my said trustees shall deem expedient."

Both trustees of the will had died, the survivor, Osborne having devised his trust estates to his two nephews.

The question was whether Osborne's devisees could, under the above trust for sale, make a good title to a purchaser, the trust not being, in terms, vested in the "assigns" of the trustees.

Chitty, Q.C., Davey, Q.C., Whately, and W. W. Knox, for the parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, expressly overruling Cooke v. Grassford (18 Sim. 91), held that the trust for sale must be considered as annexed to the fee simple estate taken by the trustees and not to the person, and therefore that the devisees of the surviving trustee could execute the trust, and make a good title to a purchaser.

M. R. BIRMINGHAM ESTATES COMPANY v. SMITH. Feb. 6.
Practice—Counter-claim excluded—Counter-claim to enforce Judgment in Queen's Bench Division.

The statement of claim in this action stated that an estate had been purchased from a person who had assisted in promoting the company, for 57500l., which was alleged to be an exorbitant price, and then mortgaged to him immediately after for 55000l. Certain persons who had been at the time directors of the company had joined in the mortgage deed as guarantors for payment of principal and interest. The plaintiff company sought to have it declared that both deeds were fraudulent.

The defendant had subsequently commenced an action in the Queen's Bench Division against the company and the guarantors for payment of the principal and interest.

A summons was taken out to have the action in the Queen's Bench Division transferred to the Chancery Division, and Lindley, J., made an order giving judgment in the Common Law Division not to be enforced without the leave of the judge of the Chancery Division.

The defendant put in a counter-claim in which he referred to the statements, of claim and defence, and claimed leave to enforce the judgment in the Queen's Bench Division or in the alternative, judgment for the money due to him under the said deeds.

The plaintiff moved to have the counter-claim excluded or struck out.

Brett, for the plaintiff.

Ince, Q.C., and W. Phipson Beale, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS ordered the counter-claim to be excluded, not because it referred to the statements of claim and defence, but on the ground that a counter-claim could only be maintained when an action could be brought; that no action could be brought on the judgment in the Queen's Bench Division; and that the original claim was extinguished by the judgment, so that no further judgment could be given.

properly framed, for that the plaintiffs four days after the agreement of the 15th of April, 1876, had transferred all the patent rights acquired by them to a limited company, and consequently that the company ought to have been plaintiffs in the action.

Glasse, Q.C., Aston, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiffs, asked for leave to amend.

Higgins, Q.C., and Sangster Green, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was clear that the plaintiffs had really no interest in the matter after the transfer of the patent rights to the company. He would not say that the plaintiffs might not also have been advantageously joined as plaintiffs, but the action could not go on without the company being parties. He was now asked for leave to amend under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI, r. 14, which empowered the Court to add, or strike out, or substitute a plaintiff or defendant at any time before trial by motion or summons, or at the trial of the action in a summary manner. The plaintiffs were to blame for this miscarriage in the pleadings, but the defendant was also to blame for not having taken the objection at an earlier period. He should certainly give leave to amend by adding the company as plaintiffs, and in an ordinary case he should have directed the trial of the action to stand over for that purpose, but in the present instance such a course would involve great expense and inconvenience. Under the circumstances, therefore, he would direct the trial to proceed, and would reserve the question of costs.

V.-C. B. WEST v. DOWNMAN. Jan. 24.

Jervis' Act (11 & 12 Vict. c. 43), s. 11—Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63) ss. 68, 70, 129—Local Government Act, 1858 (21 & 22 Vict. c. 98), ss. 62, 63—Expenses of repairing Roads—Limitation of Proceedings.

Summons on behalf of the Corporation of Reigate, acting as a Local Board, to be admitted as creditors against the estate of a testator named West, who died in 1873, and whose estate was being administered in the suit, under a decree dated in July of that year.

Notices to sewer and pave certain roads had been served on the testator in November, 1872. He took no notice, and the board having executed the works, a demand to pay the apportionments was made after his death on the executors, of whom the defendant was the acting executor, and on the plaintiff, one of the beneficiaries under the will. On the 29th of October, 1875, notices were sent by the executors to the corporation disputing the apportionments, on the ground that the roads were highways. The corporation in July, 1876, took out a summons for leave to prove the debt in the administration action. This was refused, and on the 4th of August following the chief clerk certified that there was no debt of the testator left unpaid.

In June, 1877, the corporation gave notice of the appointment of an arbitrator, but the defendant refused to attend, and the corporation going on alone, an award in favour of the corporation, confirming the apportionments, was made on the 9th of August, 1877. On the 19th of January, 1878, the award was made a rule of Court. Then on the 12th of February, 1878, the corporation served the defendant and the plaintiff (who had been let into possession) with a notice demanding payment of the amount awarded. Proceedings in the Queen's Bench followed in July, 1878, which, on the 23rd of January, 1879, were restrained by this Court, and the action was ordered to be transferred hither. An order of this branch of the Court, admitting the corporation as creditors, was on the 30th of April, 1879, discharged by the Court of Appeal, on the ground of want of jurisdiction; but the order of the Court of Appeal was made without prejudice to any claim by the corporation against the testator's estate.

V.-C. M. RUSTON v. TOBIN. Feb. 7.
Practice—Amendment of Pleadings—Addition of Plaintiffs, pending the Trial.

This action was brought by ten persons as plaintiffs against the defendant Martin Tobin, claiming to have an agreement set aside which was entered into on the 15th of April, 1876, for the purchase by the plaintiffs of a patent obtained by the defendant in March, 1873, for the invention of an "Improved mode of ventilating rooms."

After the trial had lasted three days and after several witnesses had been examined on behalf of the plaintiffs an objection was taken by counsel for the defendant that the action was not

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and F. T. White, for the plaintiff.

Lambert, for the tenant for life.

Hemming, Q.C., and Swain, for the defendant Edmunds. The question is whether the limit of six months imposed by Jervis' Act (11 & 12 Vict. c. 43, ss. 9, 11) upon making complaints before justices does not apply to the present proceeding, which is based upon a s. 129 of the Public Health Act, 1848, and whether in consequence the applicants are not out of time: Tottenham Local Board of Health v. Rowell (1 Ex. D. 514), and a similarly named action before Vice-Chancellor Malins, ante, p. 11.

Jones, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, having regard to the Health Acts, and to Jervis' Act, and to the decisions in the Exchequer, and before Vice-Chancellor Malins, that the applicants were not in time, and dismissed the summons with costs.

V.-C. B. BRIGHT v. CAMPBELL. Feb. 6.
Mortgage—Second Mortgage—Foreclosure—Limitation of Suit—Discretion of Court by analogy to the Statute—37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, s. 8.

Motion, dated the 27th of December, 1879, on behalf of a defendant, Betts, an alleged purchaser under a power of sale from Campbell, a first mortgagee of freeholds at Holloway, that an order of revivor dated the 6th of August, 1879, might, as regarded Betts and Campbell, be discharged, or that the proceedings in the action might be stayed against the same two defendants.

The bill was filed in 1858 by second mortgagees, named Bright and Fagg, against the first mortgagee, Campbell, the moving defendant, Betts, the mortgagor, named R. W. Sievier, and his creditors' assignee in bankruptcy, named Lear, to set aside the sale and for foreclosure, and on the 16th of December, 1862, a decree was made, declaring the sale to be void, and that the premises were subject to the plaintiffs' right to redeem; that Campbell and others (who had been in possession up to the date of the sale) were liable to account for the rents and profits; and then directing inquiries, and a foreclosure decree.

On the 15th of July, 1864, Campbell carried in his account, and on the 3rd and 20th of December, 1864, a summons as to whether R. W. Sievier or Leaf was entitled to redeem, was heard and adjourned.

No further proceedings were taken in the suit, except that on the 23rd of April, 1868, the suit was revived by the plaintiffs, Bright and Fagg, against the legal personal representative of the mortgagor, R. W. Sievier, who had died. To this order Betts, the moving defendant, was not a party.

At length, on the 6th of August, 1879, an order was made on the petition of two persons named H. G. Sievier and Jacques, claiming to represent Bright and Fagg respectively, to revive the suit against all the defendants. This was the order sought to be discharged.

A correspondence, extending from 1863 to 1877, having for its object a compromise of the suit, was relied upon by the respondents, the plaintiffs, H. G. Sievier and Jacques, as shewing that the rights of their predecessors in title were discussed "without prejudice" arising from the lapse of time. The moving defendant Betts (who had been in possession all along since the sale), on the other hand contended that it amounted to no more than a challenge on his part to the plaintiffs to proceed with the suit if they thought they could make anything of it.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the motion:—The pendency of the suit prevents the twelve years limit fixed by s. 8 of the 37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, being an absolute bar; but the power of the Court is discretionary, and the Court, acting as it always does, by analogy to the statute, will in this instance hold the lapse of time to be fatal to revivor.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Byrne, for the plaintiffs, Fooks, for a defendant in the same interest as the plaintiff, and Blackmore, for another defendant in the same interests, were not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the meaning of the expression in the correspondence that it was to be without prejudice, meant that it was not to prejudice the plaintiffs' right to revive, nor the first defendant's right to have the accounts taken. No rights that had been established by the decree were to be prejudiced. Consequently the twelve years rule did not apply, and the motion must be refused with costs.

Fry, J. COX v. WILLOUGHBY. Feb. 7.
Partnership—Expiration of Term—Continuance of Business without new Articles—Operation of old Articles.

Articles of partnership between solicitors, executed in March, 1855, provided that the partnership should continue for fifteen years from the date of the articles; and there was a provision that on the decease of Cox, one of the partners, before the expiration of the fifteen years, the surviving partner should pay to his executors or administrators the sum of 1500*l.* as the purchase-money of his interest in the goodwill of the business. After the expiration of the fifteen years the business was continued without any new articles, until Cox died in 1874, and the business was then continued by the defendant, who was the surviving partner, alone. The action was brought by the executors of Cox to recover the 1500*l.*, and the question was whether the provision in the articles as to the payment of 1500*l.* was applicable to the partnership at will which subsisted after the expiration of the fifteen years.

North, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Hornell, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held that the clause in question applied, and that the 1500*l.* must be paid to the plaintiffs. He preferred to follow the decision in Essex v. Essex (20 Beav. 442), rather than that in Cookson v. Cookson (8 Sim. 529).

bankers. The trustees' bonds produced 770*l.*; Mrs. Cotterill's bonds produced 1804*l.* The 770*l.* was entered by the bankers in the account before the 1804*l.* If the rule in Clayton's Case (1 Mer. 604) was to be applied, the whole of the 770*l.* and part of the 1804*l.* had been drawn out before the testator's death. But, on the other hand, there had always been a balance to the credit of the account more than sufficient to answer the 770*l.* and the 1804*l.*, and at the time of the testator's death the credit balance amounted to more than 3000*l.*, so that, if the rule in Clayton's Case did not apply, both the trustees and Mrs. Cotterill would be entitled to be paid in full out of the balance to the testator's credit. Mr. Justice Fry, following Pennell v. Deffell (4 D. M. & G. 372), by which it was decided that Clayton's Case applied to trust money as well as to other moneys, held that the 770*l.* of the trustees had been drawn out, and that Mrs. Cotterill was entitled to so much of her sum of 1804*l.* as remained after the application of the rule in Clayton's Case. From this decision the trustees appealed.

J. Pearson, Q.U., and Dundas Gardiner, for the trustees. De Gea, Q.C., and E. Beaumont, for Mrs. Cotterill. Higgins, Q.C., and B. Fossett Lock, for the plaintiff, who was a creditor of Hallett.

JESSEL, M.R., said that this appeal was in favour of the real opinion of Mr. Justice Fry, although against his decision, because he felt himself bound by the authority of Pennell v. Deffell. He agreed with Mr. Justice Fry on both points, thinking that he was right in his view of the principle on which the case ought to be decided, and also that he was right as a judge of the first instance in deferring to the contrary authority of the Court of Appeal. On principle nothing could be better settled than that where an act which had been done might have been done rightfully, the man who had done it could not be allowed to say that it had been done wrongfully. Applying this rule to the case of trust moneys, which a man blended with his own money, he could not be held to say that he had taken away the trust money when he might have been taking away his own. If the money consisted of sovereigns mixed in a bag no one could feel a doubt of the application of the rule. What difference could it make if instead of putting the trust money into a bag the trustee deposited it with his own money with a banker? Why should the neutral act of drawing out money be an indication of his intention to draw out the trust money rather than his own? The rule in Clayton's Case was a convenient rule, but it was a mere presumption of law which might be rebutted by the circumstances of the case. But then the difficulty arose from the adverse decision in Pennell v. Deffell. His Lordship then examined that case, and said that he had come to the conclusion that the principle laid down there was rightly stated but had been incorrectly applied in this one point; and that the Court ought to follow the principle rather than the mistaken application of it. It would be a misuse of authority, if by reason of this mere slip, which was only a small part of the decision in Pennell v. Deffell, the Court should decide contrary to its own view of what was right. The decision of Mr. Justice Fry must be reversed, and the claim of the trustees allowed.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., expressed his opinion to the same effect. THESIGER, L.J., reviewed the various decisions on the point in question, and said that he had reluctantly come to the conclusion that the Court was bound by Pennell v. Deffell and the other authorities, and therefore he could not concur in the opinions of the other Lords Justices.

FROM CH. DIV. In re HALLETT. Feb. 11.
KNATOBULL v. HALLETT.
Banker's Account—Mixed Fund of Customer's and Trust Money—Appropriation of Sums drawn out—Pennell v. Deffell (4 D. M. & G. 372) not followed.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Fry (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 145).

The testator, Mr. H. H. Hallett, a solicitor, died in February, 1878. After his death his estate was found to be insolvent. The question now in dispute related to the proceeds of the sale of Russian bonds for 1036*l.*, which was the property of the trustees of the testator's own marriage settlement, and the proceeds of the sale of some other Russian bonds for 2442*l.*, which belonged to a Mrs. Cotterill, a client of the testator. All these bonds were sold by the testator in November, 1877, and the proceeds of the sale were paid to the credit of his current account with his No. 6.—1880.

at the rate of 100 drums per month during the year 1878. The shipment was to be free on board at Liverpool, and the goods were to be paid for fourteen days after each delivery. On the same day Knight & Son entered into a similar contract with Taylor & Sons for the sale to them of 1200 drums of caustic soda at a slightly increased price. The contract stated that the goods were to be of Davis & Co.'s make. In October, 1878, Knight & Son, in pursuance of instructions given to them by Taylor & Sons, gave instructions to Davis & Co. to ship the goods at once on board a vessel called the Larnaca, for New York, then lying at Liverpool. The Larnaca was a general ship. The goods were shipped accordingly, and the bill of lading, which had been sent by Knight & Son to Davis & Co., and which was tendered by them for signature by the ship's master, and was signed by him, stated that the goods were shipped by Taylor & Sons, to be delivered at New York to order or to assigns, on payment of freight. On the 7th of November Davis & Co. sent the bill of lading by post to Knight & Son in London. But on the morning of the 8th of November they heard that Knight & Son had stopped payment on the 7th, and they at once telegraphed to them not to part with the bill of lading. They also gave notice of stoppage in transitu to the master of the ship, which was still in dock at Liverpool. The price of the goods had not been paid either by Knight & Son to Davis & Co., or by Taylor & Sons to Knight & Son. Knight & Son filed a liquidation petition and a trustee was appointed. It was arranged that the contract with Taylor & Sons should be completed, and that their purchase-money should be paid into a bank in joint names, to abide the decision of the Court. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, held that the notice to stop came too late, on the ground that the transitus, as between Davis & Co. and Knight & Son, was at end when the goods were shipped, the bill of lading having transferred the property to Taylor & Sons, and that the trustee was entitled to the money. Davis & Co. appealed.

De Gez, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and F. W. Hollams, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.) said that the transitus originally contemplated between the vendor and purchaser had not come to an end, and the notice to stop was, therefore, in time. And, as the rights of the sub-purchaser would not be interfered with, effect must be given to the notice, on the principle of such cases as Spalding v. Ruding (6 Beav. 876). The price due to Davis & Co., according to their contract with Knight & Son, must be paid to them out of the money in the bank, and the balance must be paid to the trustee.

Bankruptcy—Defaulter on Stock Exchange—Differences paid by Members of Stock Exchange to Official Assignee—Rules of Stock Exchange.

Plumbly, a stock jobber and a member of the London Stock Exchange, gave notice on the 25th of June of his inability to meet his engagements, and was declared a defaulter in accordance with the rules of that body. The same day he filed a liquidation petition under which a trustee was afterwards appointed. The official assignee, in accordance with the rules, closed all Plumbly's contracts with members of the Stock Exchange, which were open for the 27th of June, the next settling or account day, at the market prices of the different stocks and shares contracted for at the time of the default, and afterwards received from those members, who, on that footing, were debtors on their contracts with Plumbly, the differences which were due from them. The differences thus received amounted to 3957*l.*, and this sum, by the rules of the Stock Exchange, was divisible among those members who, on the same footing, were creditors on their contracts with Plumbly. The trustee in the liquidation claimed the 3957*l.* as part of the assets of Plumbly divisible among his creditors generally. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, held, on the authority of Tomkins v. Saffery (3 App. Ca. 213), that the trustee was entitled to the money. The official assignee appealed.

Herschell, Q.C., and Romer, for the appellant.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Crump, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that the sum in question was an artificial fund created by the rules of the Stock Exchange, and that it never formed any part of the debtor's assets. It was no more his than a voluntary contribution by members of the Stock Exchange to pay his Stock Exchange creditors would have been. Tomkins v. Saffery did not apply, for there the attempt was to divide the debtor's balance at his bankers among his Stock Exchange creditors exclusively. And, even if the differences now in question belonged to the trustee, and had been wrongly paid to the Stock Exchange assignee, that could not give the trustee any right to recover them from the assignee, who had not received them to his use, but was claiming them adversely. The appeal was allowed, but leave was given to appeal to the House of Lords.

HILL v. KIRKWOOD.

Feb. 13.

Bill of Sale—Registration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 10, sub-s. 1—Attestation by Solicitor—Interlocutory Application.

This was an appeal by the defendant Kirkwood from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

The plaintiffs, who were farmers in Yorkshire, had borrowed from the defendant the sum of 1670*l.*, repayable by instalments and secured by a bill of sale executed by the plaintiffs in September, 1879. The question, which was raised under a 10 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, was whether the bill of sale given by the plaintiffs was valid and could be enforced against them, having regard to the provisions of the Act that "the execution of every bill of sale shall be attested by a solicitor of the Supreme Court, and the attestation shall state that before the execution of the bill of sale the effect thereof has been explained to the grantor by the attesting solicitor." The attesting witness to this bill of sale was a Mr. Wells, who, although he had taken out his certificate as a solicitor, was at the time a clerk to Messrs. Newton, Jones, & Champion, of East Retford, who had on previous occasions acted as the solicitors of the defendant Kirkwood, the lender of the money. The bill of sale in the present case was drawn by Kirkwood without the help of his solicitors. Vice-Chancellor Malins, being of opinion that Mr. Wells was not a solicitor within the meaning of the Act, and also that the plaintiffs had not been properly protected in the transaction by receiving that full information of the powers over their entire property given to the lender by the bill of sale in question to which they were entitled under the Act, ordered the defendant to give up possession of the property of the plaintiffs which had been seized by him upon default made in payment of one of the instalments of their debt. From this order the defendant appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Shield, for the appellant.

Glasse, Q.C., and Bunting, for the plaintiffs.

JAMES, L.J., said that he did not think it was within the ordinary jurisdiction of the Court to grant, on an interlocutory application, a final injunction which would deprive the defendant of the whole property in dispute. The plaintiffs could not call on the Court to decide the whole question in the action on an interlocutory application; and he was far from satisfied that any part of the plaintiffs' case was clear. He was far from satisfied, considering that the case of Davies v. Goodman (5 C. P. D. 20) on which the plaintiffs relied was under appeal and might be reversed, that the Act was intended to apply as between the grantor and the grantee. He was not prepared to say that the attesting solicitor must be a solicitor acting independently on behalf of the grantor, nor that, when the attestation clause stated that the bill of sale had been explained by a solicitor, the Court will inquire whether it has been so explained or what the extent of the explanation was. Nor was he prepared to say that the solicitor who attested the bill of sale was not a solicitor within the meaning of the Act because he was a clerk to a firm of solicitors who had on other occasions acted for the grantee. These points could not be decided on an interlocutory application. All that the Court could now do was to prevent injury being done to the plaintiffs before the trial of the action by restraining the defendant from selling the property or retaining possession of it on the plaintiffs bringing the money claimed in the action into Court.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., said that he agreed that it would be exceeding the jurisdiction of the Court to make an order upon an interlocutory application to turn a man out of possession. He desired not to express any opinion upon the decision in the Common Pleas Division, though he should wish to consider the question there raised very fully before concurring in that decision.

CORROD, L.J., said that the only question was whether the Vice-Chancellor was right in turning the defendant out of possession upon an interlocutory application. As between mortgagor and mortgagee, the rule was that the Court would only interfere upon the whole amount claimed being secured by being brought into Court. Was there any ground for departing from that rule? If the case of Davies v. Goodman (5 C. P. D. 20) had established that the security was under the circumstances of this case bad, the Vice-Chancellor might have been right in considering himself bound by that decision; but the Court of Appeal was in a different position, and he would only say that without further argument he was not prepared to treat that case as a binding authority, though he would not say what the result of the appeal pending from the decision of the Common Pleas Division might be. As to the other points, the Act having provided that bills of sale should be attested by a solicitor, there was no power in the Court, and it was not their duty, to add to the words of the Act. If it had been intended that the attesting solicitor must be some independent solicitor, or a solicitor practising on his own account, the Act would have said so. To deprive a man of his rights by virtue of the Act there must be clear words to that effect. In his opinion the order of the Vice-Chancellor could not be sustained, and the appeal must be allowed.

The plaintiff had an interest in lands required by the Board of Works to be taken under the compulsory powers of the Artisans' Dwelling Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 36), by the Metropolitan Board of Works, the local authority under the Act, and his lands were scheduled to the scheme.

When the arbitrator made his provisional award under a 8 of the schedule to the Act, the plaintiff's interest was through mistake omitted, but he received notice of the meeting which the arbitrator was about to hold under sub-s. 11. The plaintiff attended such meeting under protest and stated his claim. The arbitrator made his final award under a 12 of the whole scheme, and he awarded 1100*l.* as compensation to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff brought this action to restrain the defendants from taking possession of his lands, on the ground that the arbitrator had exceeded his jurisdiction in making the award, when his interest was not mentioned in the provisional award.

Ince, Q.C., and H. M. Pope, for the plaintiff.

Chitty, Q.C., and Everitt, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that the award was valid, inasmuch as the plaintiff was "a person interested" in the provisional award within the meaning of sub-s. 11, and, even if that were not so, it would still be valid under sub-s. 12.

V.-C. B. BENBOW v. LOW. Feb. 6.
Practice—Counter-claim—Reply—Joinder of Issue—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX., rr. 13, 20, 21.

Suit by Henry and Francis Benbow, trading under the firm of "Benbow & Sons," claiming against Alfred Low and Robert Thomas Haydon, trading as "Low, Son, & Haydon," that the plaintiffs might be quieted in their right to make and manufacture soap under the designation of "Low's Highly Perfumed Brown Windsor Soap," and for an injunction to restrain the defendants from representing that the soap manufactured by the plaintiffs was an imitation of the soap manufactured by the defendants, and from interfering with the plaintiffs in respect of the manufacture or sale of such soap under the aforesaid designation, and for damages.

The defence in paragraphs 1 to 13 set out statements to the effect that in 1800 the grandfather of the plaintiff Low invented a recipe for making soap, which he called "Low's Highly Perfumed Brown Windsor Soap;" that Robert Low the grandfather in about 1880 took his son Robert Low, father of the defendant, into partnership, using particular labels for the soap manufactured by them; that Low the grandfather shortly before his death agreed with George Henry Benbow, the father of the plaintiffs, to sell his share to him, which agreement was carried into effect after the death of Robert Low the grandfather by Robert Low the father of the defendant; that a partnership for fourteen years was, on the 18th of February, 1848, constituted between Robert Low the father and George Henry Benbow, which, on the 1st of January, 1862, was dissolved, and by a deed of the last-mentioned date, in consideration of 2000*l.* paid by R. Low the father to G. H. Benbow, all the share of G. H. Benbow in the business was assigned to R. Low the father upon trust for realization and division between R. Low the father and G. H. Benbow; that immediately upon the dissolution R. Low the father took the defendant Haydon into partnership; that in January, 1865, Alfred Low was also taken into the partnership; that R. Low the father died on the 1st of November, 1874, and alleged that thereupon the goodwill and effects of the partnership became the exclusive property of the defendants; that ever since 1843 soap had been manufactured with the defendants' trade-mark; and then stated the discovery by R. Low the father shortly before the dissolution that the firm of Benbow & Son had been selling soap in wrappers with designs and marks like those of the defendants; that the plaintiffs had applied for registration of a trade-mark; that the application had been opposed by the defendants, and the questions ordered to stand to the hearing of Benbow v. Low; and that the defendants had then lately applied for registration of their mark, of which no notice of opposition had appeared.

The defendants by way of counter-claim repeated and relied on the statements in paragraphs 1 to 13 and another of the statement of defence, pleaded misrepresentation, and claimed an injunction on that ground.

The plaintiffs, in reply, joined issue with the defendants upon their statement of defence; and (par. 2), with respect to the statements in the counter-claim, joined issue on paragraphs 1 to 13, and the other, of the statement of defence therein repeated and relied on.

The defendants now moved that par. 2 of the reply might be struck out.

Byrne, for the motion, relied on Order XIX., r. 20, of the Rules of Court, 1875.

Willis-Bund, for the plaintiff, cited Rolfe v. Maclaren (3 Ch. D. 106).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that considering the scope of Order XIX., as shewn by rules 18 and 20, it was not open to the plaintiff merely to deny generally by joinder of issue, but that he must deal specifically with the statements in the counter-claim.

His Lordship also refused to make the costs costs in the action, considering there had been an error in the pleadings, and gave the plaintiff liberty to amend, he paying the costs.

Trade-marks, Registration of—Notice to Registrar of Application in Court—Appearance, Costs of.

Messrs. Orr Ewing & Co., of Glasgow, applied for a declaration that certain marks were trade-marks within the Trade-Marks Registration Acts, 1875 and 1876, and that their application for the registration of these trade-marks might be proceeded with. The marks above referred to had been in use for Turkey red yarns. The application came originally before Vice-Chancellor Hall in December, 1877, afterwards on appeal before the Lords Justices in 1878 (3 Ch. D. 794), and ultimately before the House of Lords in 1879 (4 App. Ca. 479). The House of Lords reversed the order of the Court of Appeal, and though not restoring the order of the Vice-Chancellor, declared that the registrar of trade-marks ought to proceed with the application of the appellants to register as trade-marks the distinctive series of animals on the labels mentioned, with the name and address of the appellants' firm, and the Lord Chancellor said "There were no costs on either side in the Courts below, and as the registrar is obliged to have an order of the Court it does not appear to be a case in which costs should be given."

H. A. Giffard now moved for an order that the registrar of trade-marks should register five other marks which had been used by the above firm for Turkey red cloths. The marks were of a similar description to those above referred to, and which were registered for Turkey red yarns.

Rigby, for the registrar, who had been served with notice of the application, said he did not oppose it as the registrar was satisfied with the evidence produced by the firm before him. He asked for the registrar's costs of appearance, submitting that he was entitled to them, as the applicants could not obtain an order unless he appeared, and informed the Court that, as a matter of fact, there were now no other trade-marks for this class of goods.

H. A. Giffard, in reply, contended that the registrar was not entitled to costs; and that the costs of the application ought to be dealt with as in the former application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the question of costs in this case was one of principle. In every case it was necessary to serve the registrar with notice of the application, and without his appearance no order could be made. The applicants had proceeded regularly and properly, and they must pay all the costs of the order, which was that the registration be proceeded with as asked by them.

Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 87—Execution Creditor—Elegit.

Appeal from a decision of the Blackburn County Court that certain goods of the liquidating debtor seized by the sheriff under a writ of elegit, and after inquisition ordered to be delivered to the judgment creditor, belonged to the trustee.

On the 28th of June, 1879, Ormandy, the appellant, recovered judgment against Gourlay in the High Court of Justice, Common Pleas Division, Preston Registry, for 207*l.*, the amount of his debt and costs.

On the same day he sued out an elegit and placed the writ in the hands of the sheriff of Lancashire for execution.

On the 30th of June the sheriff caused certain goods belonging to the debtor to be seized, and on the 1st of July an inquisition was held and the jury found that the debtor was possessed of goods of the value of l., and the sheriff caused these goods to be delivered to Ormandy the same afternoon in satisfaction of his debt, interest, and costs. The proceedings on the inquisition, which commenced about 10.30 a.m., ended at 11.15 on the morning of the 1st of July without notice of any act of bankruptcy by the debtor. On the same 1st of July the debtor, at 10.30 a.m., presented a petition for liquidation.

The County Court Judge having held that, although a sale had not taken place, the case fell within s. 87 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, the trustee in liquidation was entitled to the goods, Ormandy, the judgment creditor, now appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and E. C. Willis, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and Jordan, for the respondent, the trustee in liquidation.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that when the sheriff seized the goods on the 30th of June the appellant became a creditor holding a security for his debt, and his right to the goods was not affected by the subsequent bankruptcy. The sheriff could only hold the goods in trust for him, and the inquisition was merely a mode of perfecting the execution. It was argued that what had been done in the present case would be a mode of evading the statute, but he could not insert words in the 87th section which he did not find. The appellant was entitled to the fruits of the elegit.

Appeal allowed with costs.

LIVINGSTONE, APP.;
RAWYARDS COAL COMPANY, RESPS. Feb 18.

Coal Mine—Working out Coal beyond Boundary—Mutual Error as to Title—Compensation—Measure of Damages in the peculiar Circumstances.

This was an appeal from the First Division of the Court of Session, in Scotland, by the proprietor of a feu of about an acre and a half near Airdrie, Lanarkshire, the coal under which was not, as was the case in the adjoining feus, reserved to the superior, against the respondents for working out the coal under the feu. The respondents, subsequently to the creation of the appellant's feu, had become the lessees of all the minerals in the superior's estate, and in the course of working through the mineral field they reached the coal under the appellant's feu, and, in the bona fide belief that they had the right to it from the superior, proceeded to work it out, and had exhausted it in May 1876. The appellant also believed all the coal in the estate belonged to the respondents, and at first claimed only surface damage, but subsequently, on consulting his titles and finding that he had right to the coal under his feu, he claimed compensation and damages for, inter alia, the appropriation and consumption of his coals. The Lord Ordinary (Lord Craighill) on the 10th of June, 1878, found that the appellant was entitled to a sum equal to the free profit made by the respondents out of the coal in question. On a reclaiming note the First Division on the 20th of May, 1879, reversing this decision, held that there being mutual error as to the right to the coal, and entire bona fides on both sides; and the extent of the feu being such that the feuar could not have worked or let to profit the coal under it as a separate subject, the measure of damages was in the peculiar circumstances the amount of lordship on the coal excavated, calculated at the rate paid by the respondents to the superior for the surrounding coal-field, in addition to a sum for the surface damage (Court Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. vi. p. 922; Scotch Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 531).

On appeal, Mr. Duvey, Q.C., and Mr. Guthrie Smith (of the Scotch Bar), were for the appellant.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. Gloag (of the Scotch Bar) were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS affirmed the decision of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR remarked that there was here neither the element of wilful trespass nor the element of special and exceptional need for support under the acre and a half for which no money would compensate. Therefore the case was one simply to ascertain what was the value of the coal taken, in situ.

Mortgage—Consolidation—Tassell v. Smith (2 De G. & J. 713), not followed—Parties—Trustee representing Beneficiaries—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI., r. 7.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon.

The plaintiff was the surviving trustee of a settlement of certain copyhold property executed by Thomas Tale in 1838. At this time the property was in mortgage, and Thomas Tale had previously executed mortgages on other properties belonging to him. At the time of the commencement of the action the mortgages were vested in the defendant, Jennings, and the equities of redemption in the plaintiff and in J. Price as the trustees of two settlements. In 1839 Thomas Tale mortgaged another property, called the Union Street property, to John Tale. The action was brought to redeem the mortgage of the settled estate, and the defendant claimed to consolidate all the mortgages—so that the plaintiff should not be at liberty to redeem one of the mortgaged properties unless he also paid what was due on all the mortgages, including that on the Union Street property. Vice-Chancellor Bacon held that the action could not proceed unless the persons entitled to the equity of redemption of the Union Street property were made parties, and gave liberty to the plaintiff to amend for that purpose (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 200).

When the cause came on again the persons entitled to the equity of redemption of the Union Street property had not been made parties, and the Vice-Chancellor accordingly dismissed the action with costs. The plaintiff appealed.

North, Q.C., and F. Millar, for the appellant, admitted that the defendant was entitled to consolidate the mortgages which were antecedent to the settlement under which the plaintiff claimed, but contended the defendant was not entitled to consolidate the mortgage of the Union Street property against the plaintiff, because that mortgage was executed subsequently to that settlement, and could not affect the equity as it existed at the time of the execution of the settlement.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Townsend, for the defendant, relied on Tassell v. Smith (2 De G. & J. 713), and contended that the Court could not decide in favour of the plaintiff without overruling that case, which was a decision of the Court of Appeal in Chancery. They also insisted that the plaintiff and Price being only trustees of their respective settlements, did not represent the beneficiaries for the purpose of a redemption suit.

COTTON, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.J.J.). He said that the Court was of opinion that, independently of authority, the purchaser of an equity of redemption took subject to such equities as arose from acts previously done by the vendor, but he was not subject to any equity arising from acts done by the vendor subsequently to the sale, and therefore as against a purchaser of an equity of redemption of an estate there was no consolidation of a mortgage subsequently created on another estate. But the case of Tassell v. Smith was certainly an authority the other way, and the real question was whether the Court ought now to follow that decision. With all respect to the Lord Justices who decided that case, their Lordships were of opinion that they did not sufficiently consider that they were allowing a subsequent act of a vendor to defeat the rights acquired by a purchaser from him. As a rule this Court ought to treat the decisions of the Court of Appeal in Chancery as binding authorities, but it was at liberty not to do so when there was a sufficient reason for overruling them. As the decision in Tassell v. Smith might lead to serious consequences, their Lordships thought they were at liberty to reconsider the decision in that case as if it were being reheard in the old Court of Appeal in Chancery. Therefore they declined to follow that decision so far as it authorized a subsequent mortgage effected by a vendor to be consolidated as against a purchaser from him of the equity of redemption of another estate. The Court was also of opinion that the plaintiff and Price sufficiently represented the beneficiaries under their respective settlements for the purpose of a redemption suit, under Order xvii., r. 7. Therefore the judgment of the Vice-Chancellor must be reversed, and the appeal allowed but without costs.

Practice—Setting aside Judgment.

Appeal of the plaintiff from the refusal of Grove and Lopes, JJ., to enlarge the time for setting aside a judgment of nonsuit which had been obtained for default of appearance at the trial. The arguments turned chiefly upon the question whether the plaintiff had been guilty of undue delay. The nonsuit had been obtained pursuant to an agreement between the plaintiff's former solicitors and the defendants' solicitor. Principal and Agent—Estoppel—Implied Authority to Servant—Rules of Court, 1875, Order xl., r. 10.

Appeal of the defendant from the argument before Kelly, C.B., and Stephen, J., for a new trial, the Court being divided.

The action had been remitted for trial to a county court. The defendant was the owner and occupier of a farm in Hampshire and employed as his bailiff a man named Doyle. By the custom of the country farm-bailiffs had only authority to buy cattle and sheep and not horses. The defendant had not given to Doyle authority to buy horses for him; but in two or three instances he had kept horses bought for him by Doyle: one of these horses was a stallion bought of one Rudwick. The defendant, however, was annoyed at Doyle's conduct in buying these horses, and threatened to discharge him. The plaintiffs sold to Doyle a mare for 68*l.*; they booked the transaction as a sale to Doyle, but at the time of sale they knew of the purchase of the stallion from Rudwick. The defendant was not aware of the sale, although the mare was worked at his farm for two months. Doyle then absconded. The plaintiffs, not having received the price from Doyle, at first demanded the mare from the defendant, but they afterwards claimed to treat him as the buyer. As the plaintiffs would not take the mare, the defendant sold her for 42*l.*, which he paid into Court; the question was whether the plaintiffs could recover the additional 2*l.* The county court judge held that the defendant, by keeping the horses previously bought for him by Doyle, had estopped himself from denying that Doyle had authority to buy the mare.

Lumley Smith, and Latham, for the plaintiffs.

Crump, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the defendant was not estopped from denying his liability, and that there must be a new trial. They declined to enter judgment for the plaintiffs, on the ground that at a second trial the facts might be found differently.

Principal and Surety—Partial Failure of Consideration—Action against Surety upon Promissory Note—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XL, r. 10.

Appeal of the defendant from an order of Kelly, C.B., and Stephen, J., for a new trial.

The action was tried at the assizes before Bramwell, L.J. The defendant was surety upon a promissory note for 300*l.*; but only 25*l.* was advanced to the principal debtor. The note had been made payable in the first instance to one Thomas, the plaintiff's clerk. The original amount of the note had been reduced by payments made by the principal debtor in his lifetime, and since his death some instalments had been paid by the defendant. The defendant denied at the trial that at the time of the loan he knew of the arrangement under which the principal debtor was to receive only 25*l.*, but he admitted that he knew of it a week afterwards. The jury found for the defendant. The Exchequer Division granted a new trial.

G. Bruce, for the defendant, contended that the consideration for the defendant's becoming surety was that 300*l.* should be advanced to the principal debtor and that the consideration had failed; the matter was for the jury to decide, and their finding ought not to be disturbed.

Waddy, Q.C., and John Forbes, for the plaintiff, were not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.J.J.), held that the finding of the jury could not be justified, and upheld the order of the Exchequer Division.

Waddy, Q.C., for the plaintiff, then applied that judgment might be entered for the plaintiff under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XL, r. 10. The Court, however, refused the application, saying that there was some evidence to go to a jury, and that the rule cited was not intended to put the Court into the place of the jury.

Execution—Non-trader—Right of Sheriff to sell before Levy—Payment of Execution Debt by Third Party—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 12.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge.

On the 19th of March a writ of fi. fa. had been issued by a judgment creditor against Townsend, a non-trader, and was in the hands of the sheriff. An arrangement was on that day made between Townsend and one Hall that the latter should, after the sheriff had seized, purchase some of the goods for the amount of the levy, and that he should select the goods which he would purchase. Hall selected the goods accordingly on that day. He knew that Townsend was about to file a liquidation petition. The next day the sheriff seized, and left a man in possession of the selected goods. After this had been done Townsend filed a liquidation petition. Before the sheriff had notice of the petition he wrote to Hall, asking him to send a cheque for 84*l.*, the amount of the levy. Hall sent a cheque for that sum by post, which the sheriff received the next morning, and out of the proceeds he afterwards paid the execution creditor his debt. The sheriff gave up possession of the goods to the receiver appointed under the petition on the afternoon of the 20th of March. Hall afterwards took possession of them, but was ordered by the County Court at Shrewsbury to give them up to the trustee. The trustee afterwards sold the goods for 174*l*. Hall applied to the county court for an order declaring him entitled to the goods. The application was refused, and the refusal was affirmed by the Chief Judge. Hall appealed.

Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) said that there had never been a sale of the goods by the sheriff to Hall. The sheriff could not enter into a contract to sell before he had seized the goods, and the sending of the cheque by Hall was not till after the sheriff had withdrawn from possession. There was nothing but a fraudulent arrangement between the debtor and Hall, which must have been intended to enable the debtor to retain some of the goods after the filing of the petition. The property in the goods, therefore, never passed to Hall, but they were the property of the trustee. The only question was whether, inasmuch as the seizure was made before the filing of the petition, and the execution creditor would therefore have been entitled to hold the goods as security for his debt, Hall, who had paid the execution creditor, and had thus relieved the debtor's estate from the judgment debt, was not entitled to stand in the same position, and to be repaid his purchase-money out of the assets. But his claim was founded, not on that, but on the fraudulent arrangement between himself and the debtor, and, as he had chosen to deal with a person whom he knew was about to commit an act of bankruptcy, he must take the consequences. The appeal must be dismissed.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Joint and Separate Estates—Disclaimer by Trustee—Lease of Partnership Premises granted to Partners as Joint Tenants—Joint and several Covenant to pay Rent—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 23, 37.

In September, 1864, Corbett granted a lease of part of a house to four persons, who were partners in trade, for thirteen and three quarter years from June, 1864, at a rent of 415*l*. The lessees covenanted jointly and severally to pay the rent. The premises were in fact taken for partnership purposes, and the business was carried on in them. One of the four partners died, and the business was then carried on by the other three in the demised premises, till, on the 10th of August, 1875, they were adjudicated bankrupts. On the 6th of October, 1875, the trustee, with the leave of the Court, disclaimed the lease. After the expiration of the term the lessor claimed to prove against the joint estate of the bankrupts, and also against the separate estates of each of them, for the difference between the rent payable under the lease, from September, 1875, to the end of the term, and the rent which he had actually received for the same period by reletting the premises. Mr. Registrar Pepys, as Chief Judge, admitted the proof against the joint estate only. The lessor appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the appellant.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held, upon the construction of s. 23 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, that the right of proof for the injury occasioned by the operation of the section was conferred as against the estates of those bankrupts of whose property the disclaiming trustee was trustee. In the present case the trustee was the trustee of the property of all the bankrupts, and of the property of each of them, though the demised property, if it had not been disclaimed, would have been acquired by the trustee for distribution among the joint creditors. By virtue of the bankruptcy and the disclaimer the lessor was deprived of his remedy upon the separate covenant of each of the bankrupts, and therefore there was a right to prove for the injury against the separate estate of each bankrupt. Section 37 did not give a right of double proof against the joint estate as well as the separate estates, for there was no joint estate of the original four joint covenantors, and that section applied only to proofs upon contracts, whereas the proof now in question was made under a statutory right. The proof must be admitted against each of the separate estates, and not against the joint estate.

SAXBY AND ANOTHER v. GLOUCESTER WAGON COMPANY.

Practice—Reference to Official Referee—Patent Case—Scientific Investigation—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 57.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from an order of Sir H. Hawkins to refer the issues of fact to an official referee.

Action for the alleged infringement of the plaintiffs' patent for improvements in railway signals. At the trial before Sir H. Hawkins and a jury, during the opening of the case, but before its conclusion, the judge intimated that in his opinion the issues of fact ought to be tried before an official referee. Accordingly, he adjourned the case, and after the lapse of a few days an order was drawn up as an order of the High Court referring the issues to an official referee.

Aston, Q.C., and W. Williams, Q.C. (Macrory with him), for the plaintiffs, contended, first, that the issues of fact in a patent case did not require "scientific investigation" within the meaning of the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 57; secondly, that the plaintiffs were not appealing merely against the exercise of the judge's discretion; thirdly, that as the jury had been sworn, the appeal lay directly to the Court of Appeal, and it was unnecessary to apply in the first instance to the Exchequer Division.

R. E. Webster, Q.C., Lawson, and R. S. Wright, for the defendants, were stopped.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that it was unnecessary to decide whether the appeal was to the Court of Appeal or not; and that it was impossible to say that an action for the infringement of a patent did not require a scientific investigation; that the Judge had decided that it did, and they would not interfere with his discretion.

Court of Appeal—Jurisdiction—Rehearing—Bankruptcy Appeal—Pending Appeal to House of Lords—Judicature Act, 1873, ss. 18, 19—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 9.

This was a motion on behalf of the Banco de Portugal that an appeal by them to this Court, which was heard on the 3rd and 4th of April, 1879 (vide 11 Ch. D. 317), might be reheard pro forma, for the purpose of inserting in the order dismissing the appeal a document, as having been read to the Court of Appeal, which was not in fact read to the Court. The object of the application was to enable the bank to use the document in question as evidence in an appeal which they had presented to the House of Lords. A copy of the document was handed to the counsel of the bank during the hearing of the appeal, but the document, which was a certificate from a foreign Court, could not be adduced in evidence, because it had not then been duly authenticated. No application, however, was made to the Court to postpone the hearing of the appeal to give an opportunity of adducing the evidence.

Cookson, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the bank, contended that Floer v. Lloyd (6 Ch. D. 297) did not apply to a bankruptcy appeal, because the effect of the Judicature Acts was to transfer to the present Court of Appeal all the jurisdiction of the former Court of Appeal in Bankruptcy, and not merely the appellate jurisdiction, as in the case of the Court of Appeal in Chancery, and under s. 71 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, the former Court of Appeal in Bankruptcy had a power to rehear. The pendency of the appeal to the House of Lords could make no difference.

De Gez, Q.C., and McCall, for the trustee in the liquidation, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that under the circumstances they could not accede to the application. If, without altering the date of the order, the Court were to insert in it evidence which was not before it, it would be making an untrue record, and if it were to make a new order and alter the date, the order would be of a date subsequent to the appeal to the House of Lords. And if the Court had the jurisdiction, it ought not to exercise it in a case where the existence of the evidence was known when the appeal was heard, and no application was then made to postpone the hearing. Their Lordships said it was unnecessary to decide whether they had jurisdiction really to rehear the case on new evidence.

Ancient Lights—Alteration—New Building—Evidence.

Action to restrain an alleged infringement of ancient lights.

In 1868 the plaintiffs acquired seven cottages, forming part of the east side of Princes Street, Liverpool, and having demolished these and the adjacent buildings they erected on the site a large warehouse and offices containing on the ground and first floors windows fifteen feet wide and eight feet high. No drawing or measurement of the position and size of the windows in the cottages was preserved. Evidence was given that each cottage had three small rooms in front, one over the other, with one window in each, so that however placed it was alleged the ancient lights must necessarily correspond with some part of the windows of the present building. The defendants had purchased and pulled down the buildings opposite and were erecting new offices which would, in part of their frontage opposite the plaintiffs', nearly double in height the old buildings formerly occupying the site.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., Mansel Jones, and Bardswell, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., and J. Gent, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there being no evidence to shew in what part of the cottages pulled down by the plaintiffs the windows forming the basis of their claim for ancient lights were situated, relief could not be given. There was no instance in which the Court had entertained a claim by the owner of ancient lights which had been altered, where the position and extent of such ancient lights were not formally proved and could not be distinctly ascertained. Moreover, on the facts, the plaintiffs had not made out that they had sustained any damage, or that their enjoyment of all the light they could claim had been in any way interfered with. Action dismissed with costs.

Metropolis Local Management Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 102), s. 61—Metropolitan Main Drainage—Drainage from Houses outside Metropolitan Area.

At the time a particular drain became vested in the Metropolitan Board of Works, the sewage from four cottages outside the Metropolitan area, belonging to the defendants, communicated with and passed into it. The Board allowed the communication to remain, and the sewage from the four cottages to pass through their system. Further cottages outside this area were afterwards built by the defendants, and they claimed the right to use the same communication for their new cottages on the ground that under the 61st section of the Act of 1862, "any person" with the consent of the Board might make or branch any drain or sewer or make an opening into any sewer vested in the Board, and that the board having themselves made the opening, the defendants were entitled to use the drain, and through it, the system of the Board, for all purposes. The Board then brought this action for an injunction with regard to the new cottages.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiffs.

Osborne Morgan, Q.C., and Speed, for the defendants.

Yate Lee, watched the case on behalf of the Local Board of Willersden.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that under the circumstances the concession of the Board was limited to the drainage of the four cottages; that the words "any person" in the sixty-first section of the Act of 1862 must be read as referring to any person entitled to participate in the benefit of the Act—i.e. within the metropolitan area; that the drainage from each one of the new cottages was a separate making or branching of the drain within the meaning of the section, and had been effected without the consent of the Board, and granted an injunction accordingly.

V.-C. H. DAVEY AND ANOTHER AND RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE COMPANY, In re ARBITRATION BETWEEN. Feb. 19.

Letters appointing Arbitrators—Submission, whether to be made a Rule of Court?—Practice under Company's Act (27 & 28 Vict. c. cxxv.) in filing Certificate for Witnesses.

William Davey, in August, 1864, effected an insurance upon his own life in the Railway Passengers Assurance Company for 1000l. The policy granted was a "General Accident Assurance," No. 43856. The assured died in April, 1879. An action was brought by a creditor (Butt v. Davey) against the assured's widow and the administratrix for the administration of his estate. A receiver was appointed, and he claimed the sum assured as an asset of the estate, and as the company denied their liability he obtained leave to bring an action to recover the amount. On the 19th of December, 1879, the solicitors in the action wrote to the solicitors of the company stating the facts and that an action had been authorized for the sum mentioned above, and said, "We presume you will accept service of the writ."

On the 23rd of December the company demanded an arbitration, pointing out that any question arising on any contract of insurance should, if either the company or the assured required it, be referred to arbitration under their Act (27 & 28 Vict. c. cxxv.). After some correspondence the solicitors in the action, on the 26th of January, 1880, wrote to the solicitors of the company stating that they, acting for the administratrix and the receiver, "did thereby appoint" W. S. O., &c., "to whom all questions or differences between" the parties "may be referred pursuant to and so as with regard to the mode and consequences of the reference to conform to the Act, and do hereby request the company within fourteen days after service of this letter or notice upon you also to appoint an arbitrator upon the said questions or differences." The following letter, dated the 7th of February, 1880, signed by two of the directors of the company, was sent to the claimant's solicitors: "We hereby appoint" H. E. O. "arbitrator on behalf of the" company "in pursuance of and in the manner specified in and by the company's Act."

By s. 24 of the Act the arbitrators might call for documents "and may examine the parties or their witnesses on oath and administer the oath for that purpose," and s. 32 enacted that "the submission to any such arbitration may be made a rule of any of the Superior Courts on the application of either of the parties."

In the correspondence the claimant's solicitors required that the submission, alleged to be contained in the letters of the 26th of January and 7th of February, should be made a rule of Court, but the solicitors of the company contended that that was not necessary, stating that the practice was for the solicitors on each side to set out in a certificate the names of witnesses necessary for proving their case, and the order compelling the attendance of such witnesses was made as a matter of course on filing such certificate, at the judges' chambers, Common Law Division, without any rule of Court.

The practice being in dispute, the claimant's solicitors gave notice of a motion that the submission in the letters above mentioned might be made an order of the Court, and that the costs of the submission and of this application might be included in costs of the arbitration.

Renshaw, for the claimant.

Northmore Lawrence, for the company, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the practice adopted in these cases, as shewn by the affidavit, had been not to require a submission to be made a rule of Court for the purpose of getting witnesses to attend before the arbitrators. There was undoubtedly a sufficient submission by the two letters. The practice had been to compel witnesses to attend by getting an order from a judge upon a certificate filed. He believed that no difficulty whatever would occur in obtaining such an order. This motion for an order of Court was unnecessary for any present purpose, and he did not think fit to grant it for any prospective purpose, therefore it would be refused with costs.

in Allsopp v. Wheatcroft (Law Rep. 15 Eq. 59). His Lordship also held that the English Courts will not enforce a foreign judgment obtained against a defendant without notice to him of the proceedings, when the defendant is not domiciled in the foreign country nor resident there, but had entered into the contract on which the judgment was obtained while he was in the foreign country on a merely temporary visit. His Lordship said that in so deciding he was following Schibsby v. Westenholz (Law Rep. 6 Q. B. 155) and Copin v. Admson (Law Rep. 9 Ex. 345). He therefore granted the injunction, and gave the plaintiffs 1s. damages, but refused to enforce the French judgment. And he made no order as to costs.

Mortgage of House and Furniture—Non-registration under Bills of Sale Act—Lease by Mortgagor—Apparent Possession—Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 36), s. 7.

By a deed dated the 22nd of June, 1877, John Westray, the debtor, mortgaged a freehold house at Saltburn with the furniture therein, to the appellant, Mrs. Morrison, widow, to secure repayment of 3000*l.* There was a prior mortgage on the house for 6000*l.* The deed contained an attornment clause, Westray remaining in possession. The mortgage was never registered as a bill of sale. In February, 1879, Westray let the house, furnished, to a Mr. Donaldson for six months, from the 1st of May, 1879, for 260*l.*, and after some correspondence, Westray, in order to satisfy Donaldson that he would not be disturbed, wrote to him (Donaldson) requesting him to pay Mrs. Morrison's solicitor 60*l.* out of the rent, which Donaldson agreed to do. In answer Mrs. Morrison's solicitor wrote to say that if he received 12*l.* a month, he would not disturb Donaldson during the tenancy. In May Donaldson went into possession and paid Westray the whole of the six months' rent, namely 260*l.* in advance, less 60*l.*; and on the 30th of June, Westray filed a liquidation petition.

The question was, whether Mrs. Morrison, the mortgagee, or the liquidation trustee was entitled to the furniture in the house.

The County Court Judge at Stockton-on-Tees, by an order dated the 18th of November, 1879, declared that the furniture formed part of the estate of the debtor. This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said the case turned upon settled principles of law. There was no question about the goods being in the order or disposition of the debtor, under the Bankruptcy Act. The question, if any, was under the Bills of Sale Act, 1854. If there had been no Bills of Sale Act no one could doubt that this would have been an indisputable assignment. The Bills of Sale Act enacted that every bill of sale of personal chattels must be registered, and that personal chattels should be deemed to be in the "apparent possession" of the person making the bill of sale, so long as they should be "used and enjoyed" by him in any place whatsoever, notwithstanding that formal possession had been taken by or given to any other person. The facts were undisputed. The assignment of the chattels had been made, and the attornment clause did not extend to the furniture. The mortgagor agreed to let the house, which was not his, and not enjoyed by him. From the date when the tenant went into possession, not only were the goods not de facto in the "apparent possession" of the mortgagor, but they were not in his apparent possession consistently with the policy of the law, which holds "apparent possession" to be that sort of possession by which a Covenant in restraint of Trade—Validity—Universality—Reasonableness—Judgment of Foreign Court—Enforcing by English Court.

The plaintiffs were champagne merchants at Epernay in France. The defendant had acted for some years as their traveller in England and Scotland and other places. He was a native of Switzerland. In October, 1869, he was domiciled in Switzerland and was residing in England, being then in the employment of the plaintiffs as a traveller there. On the 9th of October, 1869, he, being then at Epernay for a few days on his return from a visit to Switzerland, wrote a letter to the plaintiffs, by which he undertook that, if at any time he should leave the plaintiffs' employment for any reason, he would not establish himself, or associate himself with other persons or houses, in the champagne trade for ten years. On the 1st of March, 1877, the plaintiffs ceased to employ the defendant, and in May, 1878, he started in London as a retail wine merchant, selling champagne and other wines. In his circulars he described himself as of "Ay, Champagne," and he placed a similar brand on the corks of the champagne bottles which he sold. He had no establishment at Ay or elsewhere in Champagne. On the 6th of November, 1878, the defendant being still in England, the plaintiffs obtained judgment against him in the Tribunal of Commerce at Epernay, which condemned him to pay 15,000 francs for damages caused to the plaintiffs by his breach of his agreement. The defendant had no notice of these proceedings until after the judgment had been obtained. There was evidence that there was no mode under French law by which a defendant could set aside such a judgment, but that it would become void if it was not executed within six months or if the plaintiff did not within that time use his utmost efforts to execute it. There was no evidence that the plaintiffs in this case had made any attempt to execute their judgment against the defendant in France. The writ in the present action was issued on the 1st of March, 1879.

The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from carrying on the business of a champagne merchant for ten years from the 1st of March, 1877, and an order for payment by him of the damages awarded by the French Court.

Cookson, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held that the defendant had committed a breach of his agreement, and that the agreement, though in restraint of trade, was valid, because it went no further than was reasonably necessary for the protection of the plaintiffs' trade, though the restriction was unlimited as to space. His Lordship held that there is no hard and fast rule that such a restriction, if unlimited as to space, is invalid. The only question was as to its reasonableness. He preferred the decisions, of which that of Vice-Chancellor James in Leather Cloth Company v. Lozont (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 345) was an example, to that of Vice-Chancellor Wickens Execution Creditor—Seizure—Filing of Liquidation Petition after Office Hours—Date of filing.

Appeal from County Court at Bangor.

The debtor Williams being in business as a builder at Caellwyngydd, near Bethesda, at about half-past two on the 23rd of May, 1878, two sheriffs' bailiffs came to his place of business with a warrant of execution. Several workmen being about, they did not disclose their business, but asked for the debtor. The latter said he would pay them, and they went to a public-house at Bethesda, when the debtor told them to wait for him and he would bring them the money. All they did on the premises, was that one of them "put his hand upon" a horse and cart belonging to the debtor. At 4.15 p.m. the debtor having found that he could not get the money, filed a liquidation petition in the Court of Bankruptcy at Bangor. The debtor then went to the house at Bethesda and handed to the bailiffs a letter from his solicitor informing them that he had filed the petition.

The learned County Court Judge, having held that there was a good seizure at 2.30 p.m., and that there had been no abandonment, the present appeal was brought by the trustee in liquidation.

The County Court Judge further stated that he had conferred with some of his brother judges, and had agreed with them that any documents filed after 4 p.m. should be taken as filed next day.

Yate Lee, for the appellant.

Bigham, for the respondent, the execution creditor.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the only act of seizure which had been proved being the laying hands on a horse and cart, without an inventory having been taken, or any means secured of identifying the goods, in his opinion there was no seizure at half-past two on the 23rd of May. The other ground on which the creditor's title had been supported was, that the petition had been filed "after office hours," and that by the rules which had been made by some of the County Court Judges documents filed after office hours on a certain day were to be treated as filed on the following day. His Lordship was of opinion, however, that if the petition were de facto filed on a particular day, it must be treated as filed on that day, whether filed after office hours or not. The order which had been made was not warranted by the facts of the case, and it must be discharged; but inasmuch as the proceeding, being an appeal for a trifling amount, had been an abuse of the practice of the Court, the discharge of the order would be without costs.

MULLINS v. TREASURER OF THE COUNTY OF SURREY.
Prisoner, Expenses of conveying to Prison—Prisons Act, 1877
(40 & 41 Vict. c. 21), ss. 4, 57.

Special case.

An order had been made by a magistrate on the defendant, the treasurer of a county, under 27 Geo. 2, c. 3, for payment to the plaintiff, a police constable, of the expenses of the conveyance from a police court to prison of a person sentenced to imprisonment on summary conviction. A similar order had been made in respect of the expenses of the conveyance to prison of a person committed for trial for felony. The county treasurer refused to comply with these orders on the ground that the liability to these expenses had been transferred by the Prisons Act, 1877, to the Secretary of State.

The question for the Court was whether the liability had been so transferred.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G. (Avory with him), for the plaintiff.
Herschell, Q.C. (E. Clarke with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, J.J.) held that the provisions of the Prisons Act, 1877, included only the expenses of prisoners subsequent to their reception in prison, and consequently that they did not affect the liability of the county treasurer to pay the expenses ordered to be paid as above mentioned. They therefore gave judgment for the plaintiff.

CHAPMAN v. MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY.

Practice—Costs on Higher Scale—Rules of Supreme Court (Costs), Order VI. r. 2—Injunction, when principal Relief sought.

Appeal against decision of judge at chambers refusing to order the master to review his taxation.

The action was for damages for trespass to land and for an injunction to restrain similar trespasses in future. The nature of the trespass was as follows:—It appeared that the contractors employed by the defendants for the purposes of certain works had while the works were being constructed wrongfully trespassed upon an occupation road and a small quantity of the land thereto adjoining, which formed part of a field belonging to the plaintiff, for the purpose of access by their carts from a public highway to the works. A certain amount of damage had been caused to the land by this use of the occupation road, but not of a permanent or irreparable nature. The defendants paid 10*l.* into Court, but the plaintiff denied that this amount was sufficient. The trespasses continuing, the plaintiff applied to the vacation judge for an injunction to restrain the defendants from further trespasses upon the land in question, which was granted. The defendants subsequently applied for and obtained an order to stay all further proceedings on payment by them to the plaintiffs of 30*l.*, the full amount of the damages claimed by the statement of claim and costs. The plaintiff claimed to be entitled to costs on the higher scale on account of the action being for an injunction under Rules of Supreme Court (Costs), Order VI, r. 2. The master refused to tax on the higher scale.

Wills, Q.C., and B. S. Wright, moved by way of appeal against the decision of the Judge at chambers.

W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Sutton, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, J.J.) were of opinion that the class of actions for injunctions contemplated by the rule in question was where the injunction was sought to prevent permanent and irreparable damage or where title was involved, and did not include actions where the damages were of a temporary and casual character. They therefore held that the higher scale of taxation did not apply and refused the application.

Application refused.

Appeal from the Court of Session in Scotland.
A process of augmentation was raised in 1875 by the respondent, the Rev. Walter Waddell, minister of the parish of Borthwick, for the purpose of obtaining an increase of stipend. An augmentation was granted; and a scheme of locality (allocation of the proportion payable by the heritors) prepared. Mr. Dundas, of Arniston, one of the heritors, objected to the scheme of locality, inasmuch as it included, and localled stipend upon, eighty-one acres of the mains of Arniston. Mr. Dundas maintained that these eighty-one acres were exempt from payment of ministers' stipend in respect that they were held by him under titles cum decimis inclusis et nunquam antea separatis; and that, by two previous processes of augmentation and locality commenced in 1795 and 1807, it was res judicata that the eighty-one acres were so held.
The Court of Session, on the 13th of December, 1878, by a majority of seven judges, repelled the plea of res judicata (Court Session Cases, 4th series, vol. vi, p. 345; Scot. Law Rep. vol. xvi, p. 340.

Salmon Fisheries—Barony Title coupled with Immemorial Possession—Claim by the Crown.

The Lord Advocate, on behalf of the Crown, sought a declaration that the whole salmon fisheries in the river Glass, sometimes called the Beauly, and its tributaries above the falls of Kilmorock, belonged to the Crown jure coronæ. The river or rivers in question rise in the western parts of Inverness-shire, and the respondent, Lord Lovat, is the proprietor of most of the lands bounding them, from their source down to the sea, and he claimed the whole of the fisheries. It was not disputed that Lord Lovat had a perfect title to the fisheries below the falls of Kilmorock to the sea, but the Crown claimed the fisheries above the falls.

The title on which the respondent relied consisted of documents, some of very ancient date, which, he maintained, coupled with parol evidence, amounted to an express grant of the salmon fisheries in the whole of these waters, and which, at all events, shewed a baronial title to much the greater part of the lands through which the waters flow; and of evidence, which shewed such immemorial possession of the salmon fisheries as to make the baronial title sufficient throughout the barony at least. ¶

The Court of Session found that Lord Lovat, by his prescriptive possession following on a baronial title, was entitled to the whole fisheries as far as the barony lands on either side of the waters extend (Scotch Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 418).

On appeal,

The Lord Advocate, The Dean of Faculty (Mr. Fraser), and Mr. Pearson, were for the appellant.

Superior and Vassal—Implied Entry—Conveyancing (Scotland) Act, 1874, ss. 4, 5—Whether Trustees liable as Singular Successors.

In 1873 a testator by trust disposition conveyed his heritable estate to trustees, who were, after payment of debts, &c., to entail the lands upon A. the testator's heir-at-law, if then alive, and his heirs male, whom failing certain other persons. A power of sale was given in the trust deed. The trustees, the appellants, took infestment in the estate, by recording in March, 1874, a notarial instrument. The respondent is the superior of part of the lands conveyed, and he demanded from the appellants, now his entered vassals (Conveyancing (Scotland) Act, 1874, s. 4, sub-s. 2), a composition of a year's rent. The appellants contended that the claim could not be maintained, as the heir of the testator was willing to enter and pay relief duty, and alternatively they were not bound to pay the composition of a singular successor—a year's rent—but only the relief duty exigible from an heir in respect that they truly held the lands for the heir of the last vassal.

Following Grindlay v. Hill (Jan. 19, 1810, F.C.), Ferrier's Trustees v. Bayley (Court Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. iv., p. 738), and Rossmore's Trustees v. Brownlie (ibid. vol. v., p. 201), the Court of Session held (dissenting Lord Young), that the trustees

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. DICKS v. BROOKS. Feb. 25.

Practice—Appeal—Leave to give Fresh Evidence.

The action in this case was brought to recover damages from the defendant for publishing a circular alleging that the plaintiffs were not entitled to issue an engraving of a picture entitled the Huguenot, of which the defendant alleged himself to possess the copyright. Vice-Chancellor Bacon dismissed the action (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 112), and the plaintiffs appealed.

They now moved for leave to examine certain witnesses on the appeal to establish facts which they had not discovered at the time when the action was tried.

Whitehorse, for the plaintiffs.

Ingham, for the defendant, submitted that the application was irregular, and that the appellants ought simply to have given notice of their intention to produce the evidence at the hearing of the appeal: Hastie v. Hastie (1 Ch. D. 562).

JESSEL, M.R., said that Hastie v. Hastie only applied to affidavits and documentary evidence. If witnesses were to be subpoenaed it was right to move for leave to examine them.

Jurisdiction—County Court Admiralty Jurisdiction in Action for Breach of Charterparty—31 & 32 Vict. c. 71—32 & 33 Vict. c. 51.

This was an appeal by the plaintiffs from an order of the Lord Chief Baron and Mr. Justice Stephen confirming an order of Mr. Justice Denman for the issue of a writ of prohibition to the Judge of the County Court at Yarmouth against further proceedings in an action by the plaintiffs against the Russian ship Alina, arising out of the breach of a charterparty. It appeared that by a charterparty, dated the 21st of July, 1879, the master of the Alina agreed with the plaintiffs to proceed to Cronstadt, and there load a cargo of timber, and deliver the same in this country to the plaintiffs. At Cronstadt the master of the Alina refused to receive the cargo of timber, and the plaintiffs were compelled to forward the timber to England by steamer at a greatly increased rate of freight. The plaintiffs accordingly commenced an action in the Norfolk County Court for damages for breach of the charterparty and arrested the vessel. Upon an application to Mr. Justice Denman in Chambers a writ was issued prohibiting the County Court Judge from further proceedings in the action, and this was affirmed by the Divisional Court, consisting of the Lord Chief Baron and Mr. Justice Stephen.

The ground for issuing the writ of prohibition was that the County Court had no Admiralty jurisdiction in cases of breach of charterparty.

The plaintiffs appealed to the Court of Appeal.

Cohen, Q.C., and Aspinall, for the appellants, contended that the County Court Admiralty Jurisdiction Amendment Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 51), s. 2, had conferred the jurisdiction on the County Courts. This was held by the Privy Council in the case of the Cargo ex Argos (Law Rep. 5 P. C. 134) although the contrary had been held by the Court of Exchequer in Gunnestad v. Price (Law Rep. 10 Ex. 65).

Herschell, Q.C., and Wood Hill, for the respondents, argued that the words of the enactment were in themselves far from clear, and that if construed as the appellants contended they would lead to the absurd result that the County Courts would have a wider jurisdiction than the Admiralty Court to which the appeal from them lay.

Jessel, M.R., said that the words of the section were clear and unambiguous—and that being so the Court was bound to give their natural meaning to them unless it would lead to some manifest absurdity. He saw no such absurdity in the natural interpretation of the words of this section. He was, therefore, of opinion that the decision of the Privy Council in the Cargo ex Argos was correct, and that the County Court had jurisdiction in the present case. The appeal must therefore be allowed.

Practice—Costs—Joint Actions of Damage by Owners of Ship and Owners of Cargo—Costs of Claim of Owners of Cargo on Reference.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Judge of the Admiralty Court (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 190).

The action was brought by the owners of the ship Jessore and the owners of her cargo jointly, against the owners of the Consett, claiming damages for a collision.

THE COURT held both ships to blame, and made no order as to costs.

The usual reference then took place as to the damages, and the owners of the cargo of the Jessore brought in their claim supported by affidavits. The registrar reported the amount of the moiety of the damage, but made no order as to the costs of the reference. The owners of the cargo then applied to the Judge of the Admiralty Court to order the owners of the Jessore to pay the costs of the proof of their claims before the registrar. His Lordship made the order asked for, but gave leave to the defendants to appeal from his decision. The defendants accordingly appealed.

E. C. Clarkson (Webster, Q.C., with him), for the appellants, contended that the same rule ought to be followed in the reference as to the amount of the damages as at the trial of the action, and that no costs ought to be allowed to the owners of the cargo any more than to the owners of the ship which carried it.

Myburgh (Butt, Q.C., with him), was not called on.

Jessel, M.R., said that the costs of the reference stood on a different footing from the costs of the action by which the liability of the parties was determined. The reference as to damages was in fact a new litigation, and the costs ought to depend upon the claims and conduct of the parties in the reference. The expenses of the parties might be lessened by a tender of a fair amount, or increased by an extravagant claim. Therefore the costs ought to be in the discretion of the judge, and this Court would not interfere with his decision. The appeal must be dismissed.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.), held that the proviso in the agreement that the chattels in question should be forfeited to the respondent in the event of the builder's bankruptcy was void, as being contrary to the policy of the bankrupt law, on the authority of such cases as Ex parte Mackay (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 643), and Ex parte Williams (7 Ch. D. 138). Such cases as Ex parte Dickin (4 Ch. D. 524), and Brown v. Bateman (Law Rep. 2 C. P. 272), were distinguishable. The trustee was entitled to the chattels, and the appeal must be allowed.

Sale by Auction—Conditions of Sale, Horse "not answering warranty to be returned within limited time"—Warranty.

Appeal of the defendant from an order of the Exchequer Division allowing a demurrer.

Action on a warranty, that a certain roan gelding "was a good worker."

Paragraph 3 of the statement of defence stated that the horse was sold by the defendant to the plaintiff as and being the highest bidder for it at a public auction held at the Royal City Repository situate at Barbican in the city of London, subject to certain printed conditions of sale, and amongst them the following condition: "Horses warranted quiet in harness, or quiet to ride, or good workers, or in any other respect (whether sold by private treaty or public auction) not answering such warranty, must be returned before 5 o'clock the day after the sale; shall then be tried by a competent person to be appointed by the proprietors of this establishment, and the decision of such person shall be final; the expenses of trial, viz. 10s., shall be paid by the party in error; horses returned not answering the warranty will be charged for at the rate of 5 per cent upon the sum realized at sale;" that even if the horse was warranted at the sale to be a good worker, which the defendant denies, the defendant did not return the horse before 5 o'clock the day after the sale in compliance with the conditions.

Demurrer, on the ground that the condition only relates to the return of the horse, and does not debar the purchaser from claiming damages for any breach of warranty.

Digby Seymour, Q.C., and Bray, for the plaintiff, in support of the demurrer, contended that the condition was intended as a protection to the auctioneer, who, if the horse is not returned within the stipulated time, might pay the money over to the seller, but that it was never intended to deprive a purchaser of his remedy for breach of warranty.

Charles, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the condition was not inserted for the benefit of the auctioneer, but was a reasonable bargain between the buyer and seller, and that the purchaser's only remedy was under the condition. They allowed the demurrer and dismissed the appeal.

Principal and Surety—Bond—Construction of Condition—Liability to pay Interest.

Appeal of the defendant from judgment of Stephen, J., at trial.

Etherege, being an executor, desired to buy the business of his testator for the sum of 5000*l.*; of this amount he satisfied 1500*l.* and gave two bonds with sureties for 3500*l.* to his co-executor. Therege became insolvent in 1871, and his estate paid 9*s.* 2*d.* in the pound upon his liabilities. The liability of the sureties upon the bond sued on in this action did not commence until 1877. The defendant was one of the sureties for Therege, and the question between the parties was whether the sureties were liable for interest upon the principal debt, it being clear from the terms of the bond that Therege had bound himself to pay interest. The defendant had paid into Court a sum sufficient to cover the plaintiff's claim, if the defendant was not liable to pay interest.

THE COURT (Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were of opinion that upon the true construction of the bond with the condition and provisos thereto annexed the defendant, as surety, was not bound to pay interest: they therefore reversed the judgment of Stephen, J.

Action by the plaintiff, a member of a trades union, claiming to be entitled to share in the benefits of the union, and an injunction to restrain the defendants, the members of the union, from excluding him from participating in such benefits.

The question that was argued mainly turned on the plaintiff's right to sue, having regard to the Trades Union Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. s. 31), sub-ss. 3, 4.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, considered that in the case of a voluntary association the Court could not interfere in respect of personal rights, but only in respect of rights of property; that in the present case the statement of claim did not allege that the union had any property, and whatever property they actually possessed arose from the subscriptions of its members which were applicable to benefit purposes and to trade purposes; that under s. 4, sub-s. 3 of the Act he had no jurisdiction to give the plaintiff the relief which he claimed, and that judgment must be given for the defendants with costs.

Action by debenture holder to enforce an equitable charge.

The company having gone into liquidation before the time fixed for the payment of the capital sums secured by the debentures, the liquidator contended that there being no immediate charge on the property of the company, the holder of the deferred security must either abide by the terms of his contract as to the time of payment, leaving the liquidator meanwhile to deal with the assets, or must throw up his security, have his deferred debt valued, and prove for the amount, which would be subject to discount.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bradford, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the proviso in the debenture contemplated the continuance of the security, and that when the company went into liquidation the money lent became immediately payable and the security enforceable, that the debenture holder was not bound to wait for the unexpired period of the debenture, leaving the assets to be dealt with, to the possible extinguishment of his security, but was entitled to have the property of the company as it existed at the date of the winding-up applied in payment of his loan.

Copyright—Painting—Engraving—5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 11—25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, s. 1.

This action was brought to restrain an alleged infringement by the defendant of the plaintiff's copyright in an oil painting called 'Going to Work,' and in an engraving made from it. The picture was painted by the artist for a Mr. Halford, who, on the 9th of November, 1870, wrote the following memorandum addressed to the plaintiff: "I assign to you, for the purpose of producing an engraving of one size, the copyright of the picture painted by Mr. Eddis, entitled 'Going to Work,' and being a portrait of my daughter." The picture represented a little girl in a sea-side costume, with bare feet, walking on the sea-shore, carrying in one hand a spade over her shoulder, and in the other hand a bucket. The plaintiff, on the 12th of November, 1870, registered himself, under the Act 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, as the proprietor of the copyright of the picture, and in July, 1871, he published an engraving of the picture, his name being engraved on the plate as the proprietor. In 1879 the defendant published a chromo-lithograph, which the plaintiff alleged to be an infringement of his copyright. This picture was called "Holiday Time" and it also represented a girl on the sea-shore, with bare feet, with a spade in one hand over her shoulder, and a bucket in the other hand. But her dress was different from that of the girl in the picture, and she was standing still instead of walking. The evidence shewed that the chromo-lithograph was derived from a photograph published in New York, and that neither the defendant nor the artist whom he employed to produce the chromo-lithograph had, before its production, seen either the picture or the engraving. There was no evidence to shew how the photograph was produced, or whether the photographer had, before he produced it, seen either the picture or the engraving. The photograph was evidently taken from life.

Locock Webb, Q.C., B. W. Ingham, and Bowen May, for the plaintiff.

Eddis, Q.C., and Leonard Field, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held that the letter of the 9th of November, 1870, amounted only to an assignment of the copyright of the picture, or a license to copy it, for the limited purpose of producing an engraving of one size, and that the right of producing copies in other ways and of other sizes remained in Halford, and could be assigned by him to any one else. And by s. 11 of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, the registration gave only a prima facie title which could be rebutted, and here the assignment itself rebutted the prima facie title. The result was that the plaintiff was only the proprietor of the copyright of the engraving. It was very possible that the photograph might have been in substance copied from either the picture or the engraving, but there was no evidence on which the Court was entitled to assume that it was copied from either. But, even if it was copied from one or the other, it might have been copied from the picture, in which the plaintiff had no right, just as well as from the engraving, and the Court could not assume without evidence that it was copied from the latter. Before the plaintiff could succeed, he must show that the photograph had been taken from the engraving, and this he had not done. The action must be dismissed with costs.

This action was brought to recover possession of land, against McCarthy, and Smith & Co., who were his tenants. On the 7th of January, 1880, Smith & Co. took out a summons in the chambers of Vice-Chancellor Bacon that they might be at liberty to withdraw their defence, on such terms as to the Court should seem fit, on the ground that they had quitted possession of the premises. The chief clerk gave leave to withdraw the defence on the payment into Court of what was due by Smith & Co. for occupation rent, and payment to the plaintiffs of the costs occasioned by the defence and the summons, and that thereupon all further proceedings against Smith & Co. should be stayed. Appeal from the County Court at Sheffield.

Hemming, Q.C., and West, for the appellant.

The respondents objected that the appellants were out of time. The order appealed from was pronounced by the County Court Judge and dated on the 30th of October, 1879, but was not actually settled and signed until the 8th of December following. Notice of appeal motion, dated the 19th of December, 1879, was by special leave of the Court of Appeal ordered to be served on the respondents, but their Lordships expressly stated that the question of whether the appeal was or was not in time was left open for decision by the Chief Judge.

De Gee, Q.C., and Robson, for the respondents, relied upon Ex parte Hookey (4 D. F. & J. 456); Ex parte Dudley and West Bromwich Banking Company (3 D. J. & S. 456); and Ex parte Cochrane (9 Ch. D. 698).

Hemming, Q.C., and West, contra.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said the point was governed by the settled practice of the Court of Bankruptcy and was not varied by the new orders. The judgment of Lord Westbury in Ex parte Hookey (4 D. F. & J. 456) dealt with the principles on which the practice was founded. There was no reason why the appellant should wait till the order was drawn up. The period of twenty-one days must be reckoned from the date of the decision, no matter when the order was finally settled. In this instance the Court had no power to hear the appeal, and the motion must be refused with costs.

Case stated by justices for Gloucester under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, the defendants having been convicted for unlawfully taking from the respondent five shillings as the toll for a bicycle on which he was riding. The tolls to be taken at the turnpike gate were regulated by 3 Wm. 4, c. 1v., and were as follows: "For every horse, mule, or other beast drawing any coach, sociable, chariot, berlin, vis-a-vis, phaeton, curriole, &c., sixpence. For every carriage of whatever description and whatever purpose, which should be drawn or impelled or set or kept in motion by steam or any other power or agency than being drawn by any horse or horses or other beast or beasts of draught," five shillings.

Q. B. Div. CAPPER & Co. v. WALLACE BROTHERS. Feb. 24.

Ship—Charterparty—Place of Discharge—"So near thereto as she may safely get."

Special case, of which the facts were as follows:—By the terms of a charterparty the ship was to take in a full cargo at Bombay and proceed therewith to a safe port on the continent between Havre and Hamburg, as ordered on signing of bills of lading, "or so near thereto as she might safely get." The cargo was to be brought to and taken from alongside at merchant's risk, and the master was to sign bills of lading as presented without prejudice to the charterparty at rates of freight not less than those current at the port of loading. The ship was ordered to Koogerpolder in Holland, and the master signed bills of lading which stated that the cargo was to be delivered at the port of Koogerpolder. Koogerpolder is some distance up a canal, and the vessel with her full cargo on board drew too much water to proceed up the canal. A correspondence took place between the shipowners and the charterers as to the course to be adopted on the arrival of the ship at the mouth of the canal, but the charterers refused to make any arrangement for taking delivery of any part of the cargo at the mouth of the canal. The master on the arrival of the vessel at the mouth of the canal unloaded a sufficient portion of the cargo to enable the ship to enter the canal, amounting to at least one third of the whole cargo. This portion he caused to be lightered to Koogerpolder, and took the ship with the residue of the cargo up the canal to Koogerpolder. The shipowners brought an action against the charterers in respect of the expenses thus incurred in getting the cargo from the mouth of the canal to Koogerpolder. They claimed in the first instance the expenses of lightering the portion of the cargo, and of pilotage, harbour dues, and demurrage of the vessel, but during the argument it was admitted by their counsel that they could only recover the expenses of lightering the whole cargo to Koogerpolder, that being the least expensive course to take.

Herschell, Q.C. (A. L. Smith with him), for the plaintiffs.

Butt, Q.C. (Arbuthnot with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, JJ.) held that under the circumstances the chartered voyage ended at the mouth of the canal, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover the expenses of lightering the cargo to Koogerpolder.

It was contended on his behalf that the burgess list or roll was conclusive that he was entitled to be on it. The question was whether the burgess list or roll was conclusive.

Seaman, farmer, and that defendant wrongfully deprived the plaintiffs of the use and possession of twelve quarters of wheat comprised in the bill of sale.

Defence: That the plaintiffs suffered Seaman to have the possession of the goods, and to hold himself out as having not only the possession but the property in them, and that he sold the same to the defendant who bought them in the ordinary course of business and without any notice that they did not belong to Seaman. That Seaman was suffered by the plaintiffs to carry on his business as a farmer and dealer in grain at the time of the sale, and it was the ordinary course of business of Seaman to make such sales. The appellants claimed to be on the list of parliamentary voters for the borough in respect of property which at the date of the order hereinafter mentioned was within an isolated and detached part of the parish of Sullington and within the parliamentary borough of New Shoreham as defined in 2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 45, s. 5, and was not within the borough of Horsham.

39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, an Act to provide for the better management of divided parishes and other local areas, and to make sundry amendments in the law relating to the relief of the poor in England, by s. 1 enacts that where any parish shall be divided so as to have its parts or any of them isolated in some other parish the Local Government Board may make an order for amalgamating such parts with the parish in which the same may be locally situated. Sect. 4 provides that nothing in the Act contained shall alter the boundaries of any municipal borough and for the purposes of the election of members of Parliament . . . the parishes shall continue to be deemed unaltered until new lists are made and new constables are appointed.

By an order made under s. 1 the Local Government Board ordered that the aforesaid isolated and detached part of the parish of Sullington should cease to be part of the parish of Sullington and should be amalgamated with the parish of Horsham.

New lists of voters had been afterwards duly made for the parish of Horsham. Objection was made to the name of the appellants being retained on the list for Horsham on the ground that their alleged qualification was not within that borough. The revising barrister decided that the property was within the borough of New Shoreham and the objection was good.

A. L. Smith, for the appellants.

Goldie, for the respondent Medwin.

J. F. Clerk, for the returning officer.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Lindley, J.) held that the 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61 was confined to poor law purposes and did not affect the franchise. The decision of the barrister was correct.

Davey, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for persons claiming through the person in question.

Cookson, Q.C., and Shebbeare, Ince, Q.C., and Strickland, and Waller, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for persons interested in contending that the forfeiture had taken place.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as the person in question had not become entitled to a share in the manors in the two counties of Surrey and Suffolk, but to a share in the manors in Surrey only, the forfeiture clause had not taken effect; it was, moreover, His Lordship considered, doubtful whether the words "or otherwise" would include a purchase for value.

Settlement—Resulting Trust—Presumption of Death.

Petition.

A voluntary settlement of stock dated in 1866, declared trusts for the settlor for life, and after her death (inter alia) to raise and pay two sums of 450*l.* each to J. C. and H. C. on their respectively attaining 21.

J. C. attained 21, and was last heard of near Ipswich thirty years ago.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that J. C. must be assumed to have been dead at the date of the settlement, and that there was a resulting trust for the settlor.

H. C. attained 21 in 1850, left England for the United States in 1861, and had not been heard of since that year.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the case of a person named in a settlement was distinguishable from that of a legatee; and that the onus of proving that H. C. had died before the date of the settlement was upon those whose title depended upon such death. In the absence of such evidence H. C. could not be assumed to be dead before the end of the seven years, and accordingly his next of kin were entitled.

The plaintiff claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from obstructing the highway in front of the plaintiff's shop by some building operations which the defendant was carrying on. The plaintiff also claimed damages, alleging that the result of the obstruction had been to prevent customers from coming to his shop, and thus to diminish the profits of his trade. Before the action came on for trial the defendant's operations had been completed.

North, Q.C., and Seward Brice, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the defendant, contended, (1) on the authority of Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 H. L. 175), that damages for loss of custom in trade were too remote; (2) that at any rate damages could only be assessed down to the date of the writ.

Fry, J., held on the evidence that the defendant had made an unreasonable use of the highway, and that the plaintiff had been injured in loss of customers to the extent of 60*l.* That being so, Rose v. Groves (5 Man. & G. 613) and Lyon v. Fishmongers' Company (1 App. Cas. 662) shewed that the plaintiff could recover damages for an interference with his right of access to his house from the highway; and Iverson v. Moore (1 Lord Raym. 486) and Benjamin v. Storr (Law Rep. 9 C. P. 400) shewed that he could recover damages for a particular injury resulting to him from a public nuisance. Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway Company only shewed that when the obstruction was at a considerable distance and was merely temporary, and the injury was suffered by the plaintiff in common with a large number of other persons, he could not recover damages for loss of custom. And as, under Lord Cairns' Act, the Court could give damages in substitution for an injunction, the damages ought to be co-extensive with the injunction. In the present case the injury was now at an end, and, that being so, Davenport v. Rylands (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 302) was an authority for giving damages down to the determination of the wrong. His Lordship accordingly awarded the plaintiff 60*l.* damages, with the costs of the action, except 10*l.* for the costs occasioned by a case of trespass which the plaintiff had alleged and had failed to prove.

Bankruptcy—Farm Business carried on by Tenant for Life with Consent of her co-Executor and co-Trustee—Liquidation—Tenant for Life—Claim to Furniture and Farm Stock.

Appeal from County Court at Madeley, Salop.

William Anslow, of Eyton, near Wellington, Salop, farmer, who died on the 23rd of October, 1867, by his will dated the 20th of September, 1867, after certain devises of realty, gave and bequeathed to his wife Elizabeth Esther Anslow and Robert Anslow "all and singular other my personal estate and effects . . . to them the said E. E. Anslow and R. Anslow, their executors, administrators, and assigns, . . . upon trust to permit and suffer my said wife E. E. Anslow to have, receive, and retain the possession, use, and enjoyment of all my household goods, furniture, and other household and moveable effects, and the dividends, interest, and annual income and produce of all other my residuary personal estate for her own use and benefit" during her widowhood, and after her death, or second marriage, upon trust to pay to his son Samuel the sum of 1000*l.*; and as to all the residue of the said personal estate and effects, the same should be upon trust for testator's two sons, William and Samuel, in equal shares: and appointed his said wife E. E. Anslow and Robert Anslow his executors.

In July, 1868, the debts of the testator were fully paid, and from the residuary account it appeared that the furniture and a considerable portion (in value about 1236*l.*) of the farming stock remained unconverted. The widow, with the consent of Robert Anslow, carried on the farm, and on the 29th of September, 1868, entered into an agreement with the landlord, whereby she became tenant. A banking account which had been opened by the executors was continued by them, and into and out of that account payments in respect of the farming business were made, and so matters continued until the 23rd of May, 1879, when the widow filed a liquidation petition.

An issue under the 72nd section was directed to be tried before the Court itself, whether any or what part of the furniture, farming stock, crops, and effects then or at the time of the filing of the petition in or about the farm at Eyton occupied by the liquidating debtor was the property of the trustees under the will, or to whom it belonged.

The issue having been tried on the 14th of January, 1880, the learned County Court Judge declared that the life interest of the widow in the furniture and stock and proceeds of sale thereof (which amounted to 2063*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, besides two items of 17*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 250*l.*, realised by the liquidation trustees) belonged to the trustees in the liquidation; and that, subject thereto, the same belonged to the trustees of the will.

SMITH, APP.; March 8.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS OF DENNY, RESP.

Public Well on Private Property—Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1867, sub-s. 4 of s. 89—Immemorial Possession—Right of Local Authority to repair Well and erect a Pump.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the Court of Session in Scotland holding (dissenting Lord Ormisdale) that Mr. Smith, the proprietor of the lands of Boghead, was not entitled to interdict the local authority of the adjoining village of Denny from interfering with a well situated on Mr. Smith's land, and which well has been used by the inhabitants of Denny from time immemorial (Court Sess. Cas., 4th Series, vol. vi., p. 858; Scot. Law Rep., vol. xvi., p. 464). By sub-s. 4 of a. 89 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1867, it is, inter alia, provided, that "the local authority may cause all existing public cisterns, pumps, wells, reservoirs, conduits, aqueducts, and works used for the gratuitous supply of water to the inhabitants, to be continued and maintained, and plentifully supplied with water." The local authority, acting under the authority of this sub-section, had entered upon Mr. Smith's land and, inter alia, covered up the well with an unfastened iron cover and erected a pump thereon, so as to protect it against alleged pollution by drainage.

On appeal, The Lord Advocate, and Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., and Mr. Maier (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS affirmed the decision of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that it must be referred to an actuary to ascertain what yearly payment would exhaust the fund in the number of years which the leasehold had to run, and that the tenant for life was entitled to have this yearly sum paid to him during the remainder of the term if he should so long live. Jessel, M.R., also intimated an opinion that the costs which the Vice-Chancellor had ordered out of the fund were not costs of adverse litigation and ought to have been paid by the urban authority, but as the urban authority had not been served with the notice of appeal the question was not discussed.

Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, refused to allow the set-off. Griffin appealed.

Pollard, for Adams.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that the set-off could not be allowed. The case of *Hull v. Notice of the writ was given to the executors of a testator under whose will Hoare was entitled to a legacy, and a copy of the writ was served on them, but nothing further had been done to put the sequestration in force against the balance of the legacy which was in the hands of the executors, when Hoare, on the 3rd of November, filed a liquidation petition. Mr. Registrar Brougham, acting as Chief Judge, held that Hunt had obtained a security on the balance of the legacy. The trustee in the liquidation appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the appellant.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that no charge had been created on the particular fund, and that Hunt was not a secured creditor. Their Lordships also expressed great doubt whether a sequestration could be properly issued to enforce a simple judgment for a debt.

PROPRIETORS OF THE REGENT'S CANAL v. ARCHER.

Poor-rate—Occupation—Demise to Tenants—Replevin.

Appeal of defendant from judgment of Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J., on special case.

This was an action of replevin. The plaintiffs had been invested by certain statutes with powers of making a canal and conducting traffic over it. They had demised certain parts of the land belonging to them to tenants who were in exclusive occupation of the pieces of land. For very many years the occupiers of the land had been rated separately; but the overseers of the hamlet of Ratcliffe had rated the plaintiffs in a lump sum for all their property. The plaintiffs not having paid the amount assessed, the overseers distrained, and the present action was then brought. The defendant represented the overseers.

Meadows White, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, for the plaintiffs, were stopped.

Sir H. Gifford, S.G., and Pope, for the defendant.

Ancient Lights—Injunction—Easement attached to Building which had been pulled down.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall on the 26th of February, refusing an injunction. By the statute 23 & 24 Viet. c. 142, and an Order in Council of the 23rd of October, 1876, the church of St. Dionis, Backchurch, in the City of London, became vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who were to pull it down, sell the materials, and sell the site. The church was pulled down in August, 1878, but the site had not yet been sold and was vacant. The action was brought to restrain the defendant, an adjoining owner, from building in a way which would obstruct the access of light to windows occupying the same position as the ancient windows of the church. Vice-Chancellor Hall held that an injunction could not be granted while there was no building on the site of the church, as there was no interference with any actually existing easement. In an action against a husband and wife married since the Married Women's Property Act, 1874, for the recovery of a debt of the wife contracted before the marriage, it is not necessary that the plaintiff should allege that the husband has received assets of the wife: it is sufficient that he should simply allege that the husband is liable for the debt, leaving it to the husband to exercise his option of pleading non-liability under the provisions of the Act.

A demurrer by the husband to the plaintiff's statement of claim in such an action, on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to allege that the husband had received assets, was therefore overruled.

The effect of the Married Women's Property Acts, 1870 (s. 12) and 1874, considered.

Where a debt is payable "on demand," it is not necessary that there should be a demand before bringing an action for the recovery of the debt, the action itself being a sufficient demand.

Winding-up—Advances by Banker—Charge upon future Calls.

This was an adjourned summons in the winding-up of the Industrial Coal and Iron Company, in which Messrs Prescott & Co., bankers, claimed to be entitled to a charge of 476*l.* upon a call made by the directors, in respect of money advanced by the claimants before the winding-up.

Higgins, Q.C., and Lemon, in support of the summons.

J. Pearson, Q.C., Bristowe, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the debenture holders and their trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the letters which had passed between the directors and the bankers were sufficient evidence that the money advanced by the bankers was to be repaid out of calls to be made for the purpose of paying these advances. The arrangement was made three months before the winding-up. It was a most usual transaction and he could see nothing to support the argument as to fraudulent preference. The claim to future receipts in respect of the call would therefore be allowed and payment of the 476*l.* would be directed.

MARTIN v. TOLLEMAOHE.

March 3.

Settlement—Construction—Forfeiture Clause.

Special case.

A settlement executed in 1864 contained a proviso that if any of certain persons therein specified should, under a certain will "or otherwise," become entitled to two particular third parts or shares of and in certain "manors and other hereditaments in the counties of Surrey and Suffolk, or either of the said two parts or shares, or of or to any part or share of the said manors and other hereditaments," the person becoming so entitled should assure the same to the uses of the settlement, and in default of so doing should forfeit all interest under the settlement. One of the persons became entitled as purchaser for value to a third part of the manors in the county of Surrey only, and did not assure the same to the uses of the settlement.

The question was whether he had forfeited his interest under the settlement.

Davey, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for persons claiming through the person in question.

Cookson, Q.C., and Shebbears, Ince, Q.C., and Strickland, and Waller, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for persons interested in contending that the forfeiture had taken place.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as the person in question had not become entitled to a share in the manors in the two counties of Surrey and Suffolk, but to a share in the manors in Surrey only, the forfeiture clause had not taken effect; it was, moreover, His Lordship considered, doubtful whether the words "or otherwise" would include a purchase for value.

Settlement—Resulting Trust—Presumption of Death.

Petition.

A voluntary settlement of stock dated in 1866, declared trusts for the settlor for life, and after her death (inter alia) to raise and pay two sums of 450*l.* each to J. C. and H. C. on their respectively attaining 21.

J. C. attained 21, and was last heard of near Ipswich thirty years ago.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that J. C. must be assumed to have been dead at the date of the settlement, and that there was a resulting trust for the settlor.

H. C. attained 21 in 1850, left England for the United States in 1861, and had not been heard of since that year.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the case of a person named in a settlement was distinguishable from that of a legatee; and that the onus of proving that H. C. had died before the date of the settlement was upon those whose title depended upon such death. In the absence of such evidence H. C. could not be assumed to be dead before the end of the seven years, and accordingly his next of kin were entitled.

Public Nuisance—Particular Injury to Individual—Obstruction of Highway—Interference with Access to House—Loss of Custom in Trade—Damages—Remoteness—Damages accrued since Issue of Writ—Lord Cairns' Act (21 & 22 Vict. c. 27), s. 2.

The plaintiff claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from obstructing the highway in front of the plaintiff's shop by some building operations which the defendant was carrying on. The plaintiff also claimed damages, alleging that the result of the obstruction had been to prevent customers from coming to his shop, and thus to diminish the profits of his trade. Before the action came on for trial the defendant's operations had been completed.

North, Q.C., and Seward Brice, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the defendant, contended, (1) on the authority of Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 H. L. 175), that damages for loss of custom in trade were too remote; (2) that at any rate damages could only be assessed down to the date of the writ.

Fry, J., held on the evidence that the defendant had made an unreasonable use of the highway, and that the plaintiff had been injured in loss of customers to the extent of 60*l.* That being so, Rose v. Grims (5 Man. & G. 613) and Lyon v. Fishmongers' Company (1 App. Cas. 662) shewed that the plaintiff could recover damages for an interference with his right of access to his house from the highway; and Iveson v. Moore (1 Lord Raym. 486) and Benjamin v. Storr (Law Rep. 9 C. P. 400) shewed that he could recover damages for a particular injury resulting to him from a public nuisance. Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway Company only shewed that when the obstruction was at a considerable distance and was merely temporary, and the injury was suffered by the plaintiff in common with a large number of other persons, he could not recover damages for loss of custom. And as, under Lord Cairns' Act, the Court could give damages in substitution for an injunction, the damages ought to be co-extensive with the injunction. In the present case the injury was now at an end, and, that being so, Davenport v. Rylands (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 302) was an authority for giving damages down to the determination of the wrong. His Lordship accordingly awarded the plaintiff 60*l.* damages, with the costs of the action, except 10*l.* for the costs occasioned by a case of trespass which the plaintiff had alleged and had failed to prove.

Bankruptcy—Farm Business carried on by Tenant for Life with Consent of her co-Executor and co-Trustee—Liquidation—Tenant for Life—Claim to Furniture and Farm Stock.

Appeal from County Court at Madeley, Salop.

William Anslow, of Eytton, near Wellington, Salop, farmer, who died on the 23rd of October, 1867, by his will dated the 20th of September, 1867, after certain devises of realty, gave and bequeathed to his wife Elizabeth Esther Anslow and Robert Anslow "all and singular other my personal estate and effects . . . to them the said E. E. Anslow and R. Anslow, their executors, administrators, and assigns, . . . upon trust to permit and suffer my said wife E. E. Anslow to have, receive, and retain the possession, use, and enjoyment of all my household goods, furniture, and other household and moveable effects, and the dividends, interest, and annual income and produce of all other my residuary personal estate for her own use and benefit" during her widowhood, and after her death, or second marriage, upon trust to pay to his son Samuel the sum of 1000*l.*; and as to all the residue of the said personal estate and effects, the same should be upon trust for testator's two sons, William and Samuel, in equal shares; and appointed his said wife E. E. Anslow and Robert Anslow his executors.

In July, 1868, the debts of the testator were fully paid, and from the residuary account it appeared that the furniture and a considerable portion (in value about 1236*l.*) of the farming stock remained unconverted. The widow, with the consent of Robert Anslow, carried on the farm, and on the 29th of September, 1868, entered into an agreement with the landlord, whereby she became tenant. A banking account which had been opened by the executors was continued by them, and into and out of that account payments in respect of the farming business were made, and so matters continued until the 23rd of May, 1879, when the widow filed a liquidation petition.

An issue under the 72nd section was directed to be tried before the Court itself, whether any or what part of the furniture, farming stock, crops, and effects then or at the time of the filing of the petition in or about the farm at Eytton occupied by the liquidating debtor was the property of the trustees under the will, or to whom it belonged.

The issue having been tried on the 14th of January, 1880, the learned County Court Judge declared that the life interest of the widow in the furniture and stock and proceeds of sale thereof (which amounted to 2063*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, besides two items of 17*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 250*l.*, realised by the liquidation trustees) belonged to the trustees in the liquidation; and that, subject thereto, the same belonged to the trustees of the will.

From this latter part of the order the liquidation trustees appealed.

Yate Lee (Winslow, Q.C., with him), for the appellants:—The widow has become liable for a devastavit; she has carried on business partly with borrowed money; the stock is now considerably larger than it was at the testator's death, but being less than the amount of her debts, having been bought with the money of her creditors, it properly belongs to them.

H. Smith, Q.C., and Banning, for the respondents, the trustees of the will.

Lee, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that in his view the trustees had never abandoned their character. Without being directed, they had thought it best to carry on the business. They might have incurred responsibilities to their cestuis que trust with which this Court had nothing to do. The estate had been preserved intact. Nobody in that Court could quarrel with what had been done. The life interest of the widow had gone to the creditors; and His Lordship saw no reason whatever to disturb the decision of the Court below.

The appeal would be dismissed, but there would be no order as to the costs.

Appeal from an order by the Judge of the Bristol County Court on the appellant Bramble for production to the trustee in liquidation of the partnership deed between the liquidating debtors Toleman and England, which had been prepared by Bramble as their solicitor.

On the failure of Messrs. Toleman & England in October, 1879, another solicitor was employed in the presentation of the liquidation petition. The trustee under the liquidation caused a summons to be issued for the examination of Bramble and for the production by him of the partnership deed which had remained in his custody. Bramble objected to produce the deed on the ground that he had a lien upon it for his costs (£14s. 10d.). The Judge having ordered production, Bramble now appealed.

P. Cramp, in support of the appeal, contended that as Bramble had been discharged he was entitled to retain the deed until his lien upon it for costs was satisfied, and that there was nothing in the fact that the clients had become bankrupt to affect the general rule.

E. C. Willis, for the trustee in liquidation, was not called on.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that Bramble could not resist the claim of the trustee to have the deed produced for inspection. This was not only the right but the duty of the trustee under s. 97, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

NISSLER AND ANOTHER v. CORPORATION OF HULL.

Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 70), ss. 65, 66, 67, 68, 69—Foreign Animals slaughtered at Sea—Right to Compensation.

By the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 70), s. 65, every local authority shall cause all animals affected with cattle plague within their district to be slaughtered. By s. 66 a local authority may, if they think fit, cause to be slaughtered any animal that has been in the same shed or stable, or in the same herd or flock, or in contact with any animal affected with cattle plague within their district. By s. 68, where an animal affected with cattle plague, or affected with disease suspected to be cattle plague, is slaughtered in pursuance of this Act, the local authority (except as otherwise provided in the Act) shall, by way of compensation for the animal, pay to the owner thereof such sum not exceeding 20*l.* and not exceeding one half the value of the animal immediately before it was affected with cattle plague as to the local authority seems fit. By s. 69 where a local authority causes an animal to be slaughtered on account of its having been in the same shed or stable . . . or in contact with an animal affected with cattle plague, the owner of the animal so slaughtered may require the local authority to dispose of the same, in which case the local authority shall pay by way of compensation a sum not exceeding 30*l.* as may equal three-fourths of the value of the animal slaughtered. By s. 71 a local authority may, if they think fit, withhold compensation in respect of any animal slaughtered where the owner or the person having charge thereof has in their judgment been guilty in relation to such animal of any act in contravention of the Act, or of any order, regulation, or license of the Privy Council, or of a local authority, or has in relation to such animal failed to comply with the provisions of the Act, or of any such order, regulation, or license in respect of the giving of notice of disease, or in any other respect, and may, if they think fit, withhold compensation in respect of a foreign animal slaughtered on account of its being affected with cattle plague, &c. . . if it appears to them that the animal was so affected at the time of the landing thereof. By s. 75 the Privy Council have power to make orders for the better execution of the Act, and under this power an order was made that foreign animals landed at any port should be landed in such manner . . . as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs should from time to time direct, and when landed should be placed under the charge of a veterinary inspector appointed by the Privy Council, and should be dealt with in accordance with the instructions from time to time given by the Privy Council.

The plaintiffs were the owners of a number of oxen on board a steamer which left Cronstadt bound for Hull in July, 1872. During the voyage an order in council was made prohibiting the landing of Russian cattle at any port in Great Britain. Upon the arrival of the vessel at Hull the plaintiffs' agent communicated with the inspector and veterinary surgeon appointed by the Privy Council under the Act. The veterinary surgeon examined the cattle, and came to the conclusion that some of them were affected with cattle plague, and made a report to the Privy Council, who sent down Mr. Symonds, the principal of the Royal Veterinary College, to examine them. Mr. Symonds came to the conclusion that a number of them were diseased, and having sent for the inspector appointed by the defendants under the Act directed that the cattle should be slaughtered, and their carcasses placed in lighters and towed out to sea, and that the lighters should be there scuttled and sunk, which was accordingly done. The question was whether the plaintiffs were entitled to recover compensation from the defendants, the local authority of the borough of Kingston-upon-Hull, in respect of the animals so slaughtered.

Beasley (J. H. Johnstone with him), for the plaintiffs.

Cave, Q.C. (A. P. Stone with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, JJ.) were of opinion, apart from the question whether there was any evidence that the cattle were slaughtered by the orders of the local authority, that the compensation clauses of the Act did not apply to foreign cattle which had never been landed in Great Britain, and that the defendants were entitled to judgment.

Bye-law not ultra vires—Regulation for Preservation of Order on Metropolitan Common—Public Meetings, Restriction on—Metropolitan Commons Act, 1866 (29 & 30 Vict. c. 122), s. 6.

Case stated by a metropolitan police magistrate upon a conviction of the appellant for an infringement of the bye-law hereinafter mentioned.

By a scheme made under the Metropolitan Commons Act, 1866, and confirmed by a supplemental Act, it was provided that Olapham Common should be dedicated to the use and recreation of the public as an open and unenclosed space for ever, and the Metropolitan Board of Works were empowered to frame bye-laws for the prevention of nuisances and the preservation of order on the common. The Board made a bye-law prohibiting the delivery of any public speech, lecture, sermon, or address of any kind on the common except with the written permission of the Board first obtained, and upon such portions of the common and at such times as might be by such written permission directed and sanctioned by the Board.

The appellant appeared in person, and contended that the bye-law was ultra vires and invalid.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS THIRD PARTIES.

Practice—Notice to Third Party—Appearance of—Discovery to Plaintiff—Rules of Court, 1876, Order XVI., rr. 20, 21.

Appeal from Field, J., at chambers.

An action in the nature of an action of quare impedit having been brought against the defendants, they gave notice to bring in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners as third parties. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners appeared under Order XVI., r. 20, and the defendants thereupon made an application under r. 21 for directions, and upon hearing counsel for the plaintiff, the defendants, and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, a Master ordered that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners be at liberty to appear and defend the action so far as related to the question whether all things required to be done by the Commissioners in order to enable them, as against the plaintiff, to make a valid declaration of the right of nomination and to vest that right in the defendants (other than the bishop, one of the defendants, and the Commissioners) were done by them, and that they be bound by the finding upon that question. This order was affirmed on appeal by Pollock, B.

The plaintiffs having afterwards obtained from Field, J., an order on the third parties for discovery of documents.

Lumley Smith, for the third parties, moved to rescind it.

Hugh Cowie, for the plaintiff, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Lindley and Lopes, JJ.) held that the third parties having appeared for the purpose of litigating with the plaintiff he had a right to discovery of documents by them.

Bankruptcy, Act of—Notice of—Petition filed—Execution.

Special Case.

The question raised was whether the plaintiff as trustee of a bankrupt's estate, or the defendant as an execution creditor who had seized and sold part of it under a fi. fa., was entitled to a balance of the proceeds. The question depended upon the sufficiency of the following notice given by the solicitor of the bankrupt to the defendant as notice of an act of bankruptcy.

"In the High Court of Justice.

6 May, 1879

"Common Pleas Division.

"Dicker v. Lord C. J. Innes Ker.

"Take notice that a petition in bankruptcy was on the 23rd April last filed in the County Court of Berks holden at Windsor by John Rigby and Thomas Gullick against the above-named debtor and the hearing thereof was fixed for the 10th May inst. at 11 a.m., and take notice that a second petition in bankruptcy was on the 1st day of May inst. also filed in the last-mentioned Court by Walter Thornhill and Henry Nimrod Whitaker and that the hearing thereof is appointed for the 17th of May inst. at 11 also at the said County Court at Windsor."

The facts stated in the notice were true, After the notice the sheriff, at the direction of the execution creditor seized, and on the 7th and 13th of May sold the goods of the bankrupt.

Graham, for the plaintiff, contended that the notice was sufficient, as it stated facts from which a reasonable man would infer that an act of bankruptcy, available for adjudication, had been committed and which would put him on inquiry.

G. Pitt Lewis, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lindley and Lopes, JJ.) held the notice to be sufficient.

The alleged assault was upon two police constables of the county police force of Worcestershire who were apprehending the prisoner within the city and borough of Worcester under a warrant issued by two county justices for his commitment to prison for default in payment of a fine.

Worcester is a city and county having a separate commission of the peace with exclusive jurisdiction and a separate police force.

HOULDSWORTH, APP.; CITY OF GLASGOW BANK AND LIQUIDATORS, RESPS. March 12.
 Joint Stock Company—Action by a Member of an Incorporated Company, in Liquidation, against the Incorporation for Damages, in respect that he was induced to purchase his Stock from the Company through the fraudulent Representations of the Officials.
 This was an appeal from the First Division of the Court of Session in Scotland. The Appellant, Arthur Hooton Houldsworth, purchased in February, 1877, 4000l. City of Glasgow Bank stock from the bank itself at the price of 9000l. He was registered as a partner, and drew dividends, and otherwise acted as a partner. When the bank stopped payment in October, 1878, he was put on the list of contributories, and has since paid large sums in calls. On 21st December, 1878, he raised this action for reparation against the bank and the liquidators, alleging that he had been induced to purchase the stock in question by the fraudulent representations and concealment of the directors, and concluding for reparation of the loss and damages he had thereby sustained, which he estimated at (1) 9046l. 5s. 3d., the price of the shares with sundry charges; (2) 20,000l. being the amount of the call already made upon him; and (3) 200,000l. as the anticipated amount of future calls yet to be made for the purpose of paying the debts of the bank.
 The Court of Session, on the 4th of July, 1879, held (dissenting Lord Shand) that as the appellant was unable to tender restitution of the stock, the action was irrelevant (Court Sess. Cas 4th Series, vol. vi., p. 1161).

On appeal,

The Lord Advocate (Right Hon W. Watson), and Mr. Herschell, Q.C. (with them Mr. Romer), were heard for the appellants. Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davy, Q.C., and Mr. Balfour (Scotch bar), appeared for the respondents, but were not called upon to address the House.

THE LORDS, affirming the decision of the Court below, dismissed the appeal with costs.

M'DONALD AND ANOTHER, APPS.; March 12.
M'DONALD, RESP.

Entail—Disentail—Value of "Expectancy or Interest" of Substitute Heirs—In valuing intermediate Heir's Life, all Facts tending to shorten Life are relevant—Chance of succeeding to Fee Simple to be taken into account—Entail Amendment (Scotland) Act, 1875, s. 5.

The questions in this appeal arose in a petition for disentail by General M'Donald, the respondent. In valuing the "expectancy or interest" of the second and third substitute heirs of entail (the appellants) in an entailed estate, under s. 5 of the Entail Amendment (Scotland) Act, 1875, the Court of Session, on the 18th of March, 1879, held (1) that an averment that the first substitute heir, who had consented to the disentail but refused to be medically examined, "was in good health, but had suffered from ailments which would tend to shorten his life," was not relevant to induce the Court to order an inquiry which was asked into the actual state of health of the first heir, but that his life must be taken as an average one, and be estimated according to proper life tables, according to his actual age; (2) that the chance of the second and third heirs respectively acquiring the fee by surviving all the other heirs of entail was not an element of value that ought to be considered.

On appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and J. P. B. Robertson (Scotch Bar), were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Balfour (with them Mr. J. M. Collyer), were heard for the respondent.

THE LORDS dissented from the decision of the Court below on both the above points, holding (1) that the second and third heirs had a right under the Entail Amendment (Scotland) Act, 1875, s. 5, to bring before the Court any facts relevant to the probable duration of the first heir's life; and his state of health, and the ailments from which he had suffered, if calculated to shorten life, must be relevant to such an issue; and (2) that the chance of succeeding to the fee simple must be taken into account. Cause remitted to the Court of Session with a declaration, and the respondent ordered to pay the costs of the appeal.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. LEVY v. LOVELL. March 8
Bankruptcy—Creditor holding Security—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 12, 16, sub-a. 5—Foreign Attachment—Mayor's Court.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (11 Ch. D. 220), holding that a creditor of a liquidating debtor who had served a writ of attachment in the Lord Mayor's Court on a garnishee in respect of a debt due to the liquidating debtor was a secured creditor within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 12, although no judgment had been obtained in the Mayor's Court against the garnishee before the commencement of the liquidation. The trustee in the liquidation appealed from this decision.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and J. G. Laing, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., Romer and Phipson, for the plaintiff in the Mayor's Court.

JAMES, L.J., said that there were authorities on both sides. In favour of the appellant, there were the decisions of the late Master of the Rolls in Redhead v. Walton (29 Beav. 521), and of Mr. Justice Lush in Richter v. Lawton (27 W. R. 214), and on the other side there was the decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall in In re London Cotton Mills Company (25 W. R. 109). But he was of opinion that the process of foreign attachment was in substance, origin, and intention, only a process to compel appearance; and although in one state of circumstances, namely, if the defendant did not appear, and the garnishee did not dispute the debt, the plaintiff might by means of it obtain payment of the money in the hands of the garnishee, yet that did not constitute it a charge or security within the meaning of the 12th and 16th sections of the Bankruptcy Act. The appeal must therefore be allowed.

BRETT, L.J., said that he was of the same opinion. The real question was this, could a process by a plaintiff which had effect on property or a debt only for a particular purpose—viz., to compel appearance, but which could only take effect on that property or debt in favour of the plaintiff so as to obtain the realisation of the debt due to the plaintiff out of that property or debt in one particular state of circumstances, be called a charge on that property or debt within the meaning of sections 12 and 16 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869? He was of opinion that it could not. In his opinion a process could not be called a security or charge unless it could be enforced against the property of the defendant in all circumstances, and not merely in one state of circumstances only.

COTTON, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Appeal from the judgment of Grove, J., in favour of the defendants.

Action on two bills of exchange, to which the defendants pleaded that they had filed a petition for liquidation of their affairs by arrangement; that afterwards a scheme for a composition of their debts had been agreed to by their creditors and carried out, and that they had obtained their discharge from the trustee of their estate.

The plaintiff had opposed the resolutions passed at the meeting of creditors, and he had received and retained a dividend that had been paid to him under the arrangement for a composition.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell, and Brett, L.J.J.) held 1, that under s. 125 sub-a. 10 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, the certificate of discharge has the same effect as an order of discharge given to a bankrupt, and by s. 49 an order of discharge is made conclusive evidence of the validity of the proceedings of the bankruptcy; the certificate of discharge was therefore an answer to the action; 2, that the plaintiff having received and retained a dividend was bound by the resolutions, and could not be heard to dispute their validity. They affirmed the judgment of the Exchequer Division.

Practice—Adjudication of Bankruptcy—Two Petitions against same Debtor—Adjudication made on second Petition—Right to appeal—"Person aggrieved"—Power of Court as to Conduct of Proceedings—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 71—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 84, 42, 48, 60.

Two bankruptcy petitions were presented in the Sheffield County Court on the 18th of December, 1879, against White, the one by Nicholson and the other by Mason. Nicholson's petition was filed some hours before Mason's. Both petitions alleged the same act of bankruptcy—viz. the filing of a liquidation petition by White. The registrar ordered both petitions to be heard on the 8th of January, 1880. Mason's petition was served on the debtor first, and he consented in writing to an adjudication being made upon it forthwith, and an adjudication was made by the judge on the afternoon of the 18th of December. After this had been done Nicholson's petition was served. Nicholson appealed to the Chief Judge against the order of adjudication, alleging that he was a person aggrieved by it. Mason's petition was presented by a solicitor who had previously acted for White, and there was evidence that it had been presented with the express object of defeating Nicholson's petition, Mason being a friendly creditor. Before the appeal was heard by the Chief Judge a trustee had been appointed under the adjudication. The Chief Judge made an order declaring that the order of adjudication was not to prejudice the right of Nicholson to prosecute the first petition, and ordering that all proceedings under the adjudication should be stayed until after the first petition had been heard and disposed of. Mason appealed.

De Gez, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and W. Wightman Wood, for Nicholson.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that the County Court judge had under the circumstances full jurisdiction under r. 48 to hear the second petition first. Nicholson had taken a wrong course. He had no right to appeal from the adjudication. He was not aggrieved by it, for it was the very order for which he was asking himself; he was only aggrieved by the consequence which resulted, that he or his solicitor did not get the conduct of the proceedings up to the appointment of a trustee. He ought to have applied to the County Court to give him the conduct of the proceedings, which the Court had ample jurisdiction to do, if it was shewn that the hearing of the second petition first had been obtained by collusion. The order of the Chief Judge must be discharged, and Nicholson must pay the costs of the appeal and of the hearing by the Chief Judge. The first petition must be dismissed, but the petitioner would have his costs of it out of bankrupt's estate.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 108).

The motion was made on behalf of a company trading at New York that the register of trade-marks might be rectified by entering the name of the company as the proprietors of a trade-mark consisting of the word "Royal" on a black label. The registrar was willing to register the full name of "The Royal Baking Powder Company" but not the word "Royal" alone. SOUTHWELL AND ANOTHER v. SCOTTER.

Landlord and Tenant—Surrender of Lease—Chose in Action—Judicature Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66), s. 25, sub-s. 6.

The plaintiffs being termors of certain premises, in 1875 mortgaged them to one W. S., but leased a portion of them to the defendant for three and a half years. W. S. transferred his mortgage to B. and C. Afterwards the plaintiff assigned their interest in the equity of redemption to B. and C., and by an instrument in writing it was agreed between the plaintiffs and B. and C. that notwithstanding the sale of the reversion the plaintiffs should receive the rent payable during the then existing lease from the defendant. C. died, and the estate in the premises became vested in B. In 1878, the defendant surrendered her lease to B., having notice from the plaintiffs that they claimed to be paid the rent. The plaintiffs brought an action against the defendant for rent which had accrued due after the surrender; to which the defendant set up as a defence the surrender. At the trial, Stephen, J. held, 1, that the surrender was no answer to the action; 2, that the rent was a chose in action within the meaning of s. 25, sub-s. 6, of the Judicature Act, 1873, for which the plaintiffs could bring an action in their own names.

Foreshore—Right to remove Shingle—Prerogative of Crown—Natural Defence of Coast against the Sea.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Fry (12 Ch. D. 214.) The question came before the Court on an information filed by the Attorney-General on behalf of the Crown, and an action by the Secretary of State for War, for the purpose of restraining the defendant from removing the shingle from the shore of the river Deben in Suffolk, near its mouth, in front of a piece of land in the possession of the Secretary of State, and containing a martello tower and a coastguard station. The Crown sued not by virtue of its prerogative, but simply as owner of the land. The defendant was the owner of the foreshore.

Mr. Justice Fry granted the injunction asked for, and the defendants appealed from this decision.

Cookson, Q.C., and Hadley, for the appellant.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., Sir H. Giffard, S.G., and Rigby, for the Crown.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the judgment appealed from must be affirmed. Upon the question of fact he agreed with Mr. Justice Fry, that the bank of shingle had been materially affected by the acts of the defendant, and that these acts had resulted in injury to the plaintiff's land; and, further, that the defendant was claiming as a right to continue to act as he had done, so as to inflict further injury on the plaintiff, and therefore that it was a proper case for the plaintiff to call upon the Court to determine as between the plaintiff and defendant the right to do these acts. He also agreed with Mr. Justice Fry that it was the duty of the King of England to preserve the realm from the encroachment of the sea, not only by erecting artificial walls where that might be necessary, but also by keeping up the natural protection of a bank like that in the present case. The bank, therefore, was under the protection of the royal prerogative in this sense, that any person removing the bank so as to prevent the Crown from performing its public duty would be doing an unlawful act, although the bank was a natural one, in the same way as it would be an unlawful act to interfere with an artificial sea-wall which it was the duty of the Crown to maintain. Such an act would be in the nature of a nuisance, and any person who was injured by it was entitled to call upon the Court to restrain it. When the foreshore was in the hands of the Crown, as all lands were originally, beyond all question the Crown would have committed a wrong in wilfully destroying the bank; and now that the foreshore had come into the hands of a subject it was wrong for him to do what the Crown could not have done. The judgment of Mr. Justice Fry must be affirmed, and the appeal dismissed with costs.

M. R. In re LOMAX'S ARBITRATION. March 12.

Practice—Arbitration—Agreement to make Submission a Rule of Court in Queen's Bench Division—Motion in Chancery Division to set aside Award.

Motion to set aside an award.

By an agreement made between Henry Lomax and Joseph Lomax it was agreed that P. Graham should decide all matters in difference between them, and exercise all the powers given by the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, to a sole arbitrator, and it was provided as follows, that "the submission may be made a rule of any Divisional Court of the High Court of Justice."

By an order dated the 31st of January, 1880, and entitled "In the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division," it was ordered that the said agreement should "be made an order of this division."

The arbitrator made his award, and the present motion was made on behalf of Joseph Lomax to set it aside. The objection was raised that any proceedings to set aside the award should be taken in the Queen's Bench Division.

Farwell, in support of the motion, referred to 3 & 4 Will. 3, c. 15, which enabled the parties to agree that their submission should be made a rule of any Court of Record, and contended that under the Judicature Act there was no Court of Record except the High Court of Justice, that the Queen's Bench Division was not a Court of Record at all, and therefore that the order was wrong, and further that the applicant was entitled to come to this division to set aside the award.

Millar, for Henry Lomax.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that though the agreement would have been more properly worded if it had provided that the submission should be made a rule of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, yet the objection could not be sustained; that the matter was one which the parties could under the Judicature Act attach to any division which they thought fit; and, it being attached to the Queen's Bench Division, the application to set aside the award must be made there, and the motion be refused.

V.-C. M. EGREMONT BURIAL BOARD v. March 11.
EGREMONT IRON ORE COMPANY.

Production of Documents—Rules of Court, 1875, Order xxxi., rr. 11, 12—Motion by Defendant before Defence filed—Plaintiff entitled in fee—Not bound to produce Title Deeds.

This action was by the Egremont Burial Board to restrain the Egremont Iron Ore Company from improperly working a mining shaft under the plaintiffs' cemetery at Egremont, so as to loosen the earth under the graves and injure the plaintiff's property. The cemetery was constructed upon land conveyed to the plaintiffs in fee by Lord Lonsdale.

The defendants had obtained from Lord Lonsdale a right of searching for and working the minerals in the district of Egremont, and they had been working a mine by means of a shaft which passed under the plaintiffs' cemetery. In this operation they had neglected to carry the shaft to a sufficient depth, and had caused the earth to sink in, and one of the coffins had fallen through into the mine and the cemetery wall had been damaged.

Whitehorse, for the defendants, who had not yet filed their statement of defence, moved for the production by the plaintiffs of their purchase deed and such other documents as would shew the plaintiffs' title.

The object of the defendants was to ascertain at the earliest period whether the plaintiffs had purchased the whole land including the minerals, or whether there was a reservation of the minerals. In the former case the defendants would submit to an injunction and pay the costs, but in the latter case they would give an undertaking to work their mine in such a manner as to do no further injury to the plaintiffs' cemetery. The motion was made under the Rules of Court, 1875, Order xxxi., rr. 11, 12, by which the Court had power at any stage of the proceedings to order production of documents.

Bristowe, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for the plaintiffs, contended that they could not be compelled to produce their title deeds until after the defendant had filed his statement of defence, and relied upon Order xxxi., r. 1.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the plaintiffs rested their title upon a conveyance to them in fee of the land in question, and that being so, they were entitled to the land down to the centre of the earth, and were not bound to produce their title deeds until the defendants had shewn that the plaintiffs were not entitled to the minerals. As a matter of expediency, however, it was no doubt desirable that the defendants should have production at the earliest period, because if there was no reservation of minerals in the conveyance to the plaintiffs, then the defendants' case was at an end, and they would submit to a decree against them. The motion must be refused, but the costs would be costs in the action.

V.-C. B. MARTIN v. HOWARD. March 16.
Practice—Evidence—Admission of Hearsay Declarations—Lis Motu.

Plaintiff Isaac Martin brought this action to recover, as the legal personal representative of one of the alleged next of kin of William Jennens, who died intestate in 1798, one third of the intestate's personal estate, which was of very great value.

The plaintiff having been called, it was proposed to ask him as to statements alleged to have been made to him in 1880 by a great uncle through whom he claimed, for the purpose of shewing that this great uncle, though a labourer only, had been recognised and treated as a relation by the intestate, who was a man of large fortune, with a house in Grosvenor Square.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C. (Cecil Russell, with him) for the principal defendants, objected that declarations of deceased persons, made post litem motam were inadmissible as evidence of reputation: Walker v. Beauchamp (6 Car. & P. 553, 562), in which case the plaintiff claimed as one of the next of kin of the intestate whose property was here claimed.

Hemming, Q.C., and C. H. Turner, for the other defendants, supported the objection.

Fischer, Q.C. (B. Eorabugh, with him) for the plaintiff:—In 1880, when the alleged conversations took place, there was no lis mota which could affect the plaintiff so as to render the proposed evidence inadmissible. The mere fact that litigation relating to the intestate's property was then pending between persons who were strangers both to the plaintiff and to his great uncle is not sufficient. The dictum of Alderson, B., in Walker v. Lord Beauchamp (6 C. & P. 562) has since been overruled: Taylor on Evidence, p. 535 (7th Ed.).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR felt himself bound to exclude this evidence, not only on the ground of authority, but on the reason and justice of the rule that a man should not be allowed to produce evidence preserved by himself of conversations with a person who, though not at the time a claimant or actually prosecuting a litigation, stood by while others litigated the question, and, claiming to be a cousin of the intestate, would therefore be entitled to share, if the parties at that particular time (1880), who were fighting the battle of the succession to the intestate's property should win.

Fischer, Q.C., after this ruling, said he could not carry the case any further.

WATSON v. GRAY.

March 11.

Party Wall—Trespass.

The plaintiff and the defendant were the owners in fee of two adjoining houses in a row of houses the fronts of which faced east, and which ran north and south. The defendant's house was to the north of the plaintiff's. Each house had a yard at the back of it, the two yards being separated by a wall. Both the plaintiff and the defendant derived title from the same former owner of both houses. The plaintiff's house was conveyed in 1855 by the former owner to a Mrs. Lyons, a predecessor in title of the plaintiff; the defendant's house was conveyed to him in 1864. The conveyance of 1855 contained a declaration that the north and south walls of the messuage and hereditaments thereby conveyed should be and remain party walls, and that the eastern and western walls should belong exclusively to Mrs. Lyons, her heirs and assigns. The plaintiff had recently, without the defendant's consent, built a new piece of wall on the top of the old wall dividing his back yard from the defendant's back yard. This new piece of wall was intended to support the roof of a shed which the plaintiff was erecting in his back yard. The defendant had knocked down the new piece of wall. The plaintiff claimed damages and an injunction.

North, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

J. E. Palmer, for the defendant.

Fry, J., said that the expression "party wall" might mean one of four things, (1), a wall of which the two adjoining owners were tenants in common; (2), a wall divided longitudinally into two moieties, belonging respectively one to each adjoining owner; (3), a wall belonging exclusively to one of the adjoining owners, but subject to an easement in the other to have it maintained as a dividing wall between the two tenements; (4), a wall divided longitudinally into two moieties, belonging respectively one to each adjoining owner, each moiety being subject to a cross easement in favour of the other owner. The cases of Wiltshire v. Sidford (1 M. & Ry. 404), and Cubitt v. Porter (8 B. & C. 257), shewed that the first was the primary and ordinary meaning of the words. The third was the meaning in some of the Building Acts. In the present case His Lordship came to the conclusion that the plaintiff and defendant were tenants in common of the wall between their back yards; and, this being so, the cases of Cubitt v. Porter and Sedman v. Smith (8 E. & B. 1) shewed that the plaintiff had no right to build on the top of the wall, and that the defendant was justified in knocking down the new piece of wall. Therefore, the plaintiff was not entitled to an injunction.

"Before the Court, Thursday the 18th day of Dec., 1879. The above mentioned motion coming on for hearing this day. Upon reading, &c. West, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and Atkinson, for the respondents, took the objection that the appeal was too late, not having been brought within twenty-one days from the day when the order was pronounced.

West, contra, contended that the twenty-one days began to run from the day when the order was perfected, in this case the 12th of February, 1880, when for the first time there was any actual order of the Court.

THE CHIEF JUDGE allowed the objection. There was a valid existing order on the 18th of December, 1879, the day on which the order was pronounced binding on the trustees from that date, and for any breach of which they would have been punished by this Court. The appeal was therefore too late.

Leese, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, JJ.) held that though the 28th rule of the Bankruptcy Rules, 1871, makes it the duty of the trustee as between himself and the Court of Bankruptcy to obtain the leave of the Court before disclaiming, the disclaimer was not inoperative as between the landlord and the trustee because such leave was not obtained. They therefore reversed

Q. B. Div. YORKSHIRE WAGON COMPANY v. March 15.

NEWPORT AND ABERCARN COAL COMPANY.

Practice—Costs of Party brought in—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 3, Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI, rr. 18, 21.

In this case the defendants had brought in a third party by notice under Order XVI, r. 18. The third party brought in a fourth party who again brought in a fifth party. In the case of each party so brought in, the master, on being applied to under Order XVI, r. 21 for directions, made an order that the costs should be in the discretion of the judge at the trial. The judge ordered at the trial that the fourth party should pay the costs of the fifth party, and that the third party should pay the costs of the fourth party, including the costs paid by him to the fifth party. He subsequently, on the application of the third party, made an order that the defendants should pay the costs of the third party, including the costs paid by him to the fourth and fifth parties.

Against this order.

Fallarton, for the defendants, appealed.

Finlay, for the third party.

J. Edge, for the fourth and fifth parties.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Lush, and Manisty, JJ.) were of opinion that there was no jurisdiction under Order XVI, r. 21, to impose any terms with regard to payment of the costs of the party brought in on the party bringing him in, and consequently that the orders of the master, upon which the orders of Lush, J. proceeded, were void. They therefore made the rule absolute to rescind the orders of Lush, J.

Bill of Sale—Grantor in Possession of Property—Authority to sell Stock—Bonâ fide Purchaser.

Appeal from the Halifax County Court.

The question was, whether the plaintiff as grantee of a registered bill of sale was entitled to recover from the defendant a cob comprised in the bill of sale, but purchased by the defendant bonâ fide for value, and without knowledge of the bill of sale, at an auction held at a repository to which the cob had been sent by the grantor, who was an innkeeper and horse dealer.

The bill of sale comprised all the grantor's furniture, horses, stock in trade, and other property, amongst which was named the cob in question, and contained a covenant by the grantor that he would not "remove any of the said premises from the dwelling-house," without the previous consent in writing of the grantee, and also a stipulation that until default and notice it should be lawful for the grantor "to hold, make use of, and possess the said premises" without any hindrance or disturbance of or by the grantee. The County Court judge gave judgment for the defendant, and a rule having been obtained to enter it for the plaintiff or for a new trial,

A. L. Smith shewed cause, and cited National Mercantile Bank Limited v. Hampson, decided in the Queen's Bench Division on the 24th of February last.

Lane, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.), approving and following the case cited, held that the intention of the parties to the bill of sale appeared from the terms of it to be that the grantor should carry on his business. The grantee had impliedly authorized the grantor to dispose of the horse in the ordinary course of trade, and the purchaser had therefore acquired a good title.

County Court Appeal—Practice—Request for Note—38 & 39 Vict.
c. 50, s. 6.

Appeal from Warrington County Court.

The action was brought to recover a sum paid by the plaintiff, an agent for an insurance office, at the request of the defendants, as the deposit and premium on a policy. At the trial the defendants disputed only their acceptance of the policy effected on their behalf, and the plaintiff's authority from them to pay the money. The County Court Judge took notes of the evidence, but was not requested, nor did he during the trial, take a note of any point of law. He gave judgment for the plaintiff for 14*l.* 15*s.* An hour and a half afterwards, the defendant having gone away and consulted a solicitor, returned to the Court and made an application to the judge, who reported it in an addition to his note, thus: "After judgment was given I am asked to reserve the following point, which I reserve accordingly—that the plaintiff was not entitled to maintain this action," and the judge found certain facts. A rule nisi having been obtained under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 6, to set aside the verdict and enter a nonsuit, or for a new trial.

McClymont shewed cause.

Bray, in support, endeavoured to raise the question that any contract with the defendant had been made for the insurance company, and that there was no personal contract with the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) held that the judge should have been requested at the trial to take a note of the point, and that as the subsequent application was not in compliance with 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 6, the defendant could not maintain the appeal by motion.

Rule discharged.

C. P. Div. March 10.
CAPITAL AND COUNTIES BANK v. HENTY & SONS.

Defamation—Libel—Innuendo—Privileged Occasion—Express Malice.

Action for libel.

The claim alleged that "the defendants falsely and maliciously wrote and published of the plaintiffs the letter following:—

'Messrs Henty & Sons hereby give you notice that they will not receive in payment cheques drawn on any of the branches of the Capital and Counties Bank (late the Hampshire and North Wilts), meaning thereby that the plaintiffs were not to be relied upon to meet the cheques drawn on them, and that their position was such that they were not to be trusted to cash the cheques to their customers."

"Westgate, Dec. 2nd, 1878.'

The defence denied falsehood and malice, but admitted the publication of the letter, set out the circumstances of the publication, and pleaded that it was privileged.

At the trial before Lord Coleridge, C.J., it appeared that the plaintiffs had a branch bank in C. and in other towns of Sussex and Hampshire. The defendants were brewers owning many public-houses occupied by their tenants in those counties. The tenants were in the habit of cashing cheques, inter alia, cheques on the plaintiffs' bank, for customers, and handing over the cheques periodically, in payment of amounts due, to the defendants, for whom the plaintiffs would cash the cheques at their C. branch although not drawn on it. A new manager of that branch bank having objected to cash a 5*l.* cheque drawn on other branches unless indorsed by the defendants, they wrote to the plaintiffs that if they so refused the defendants would order their tenants not to cash the plaintiffs' cheques, at least with the intention of paying the defendants with them, and that the 5*l.* cheque would again be presented for payment, and on it would depend the good feeling that existed between the defendants and the plaintiffs. The manager cashed the cheque, but replied that he most certainly declined to cash cheques on other branches when presented by parties unknown to him, though as a matter of grace he was quite willing to cash cheques to the defendants' representatives if properly introduced to him, with proof that they had power to sign for their firm, and that he quite indifferent as to the defendants sending out orders to their tenants not to cash the plaintiffs' cheques. Thereupon the defendants issued to their tenants, about 800 in number, printed circulars containing the alleged libel. They caused a serious run on the bank and loss to the plaintiffs. At the close of the plaintiffs' case it was submitted that none was made out. The learned judge declined to nonsuit, but ruled that the occasion of publication was privileged unless there was malice, and ultimately left the case to the jury, who, being unable to agree, were discharged without giving a verdict.

Herschell, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, now moved to enter judgment for the defendants, and contended that the words alleged to be libellous did not support the innuendo; and that, even if they could, there was no evidence that they were published with the meaning alleged. The question was what did the defendants mean by them, not what might be inferred.

C. Russell, Q.C., and R. T. Read, contra.

THE COURT (Grove and Denman, JJ.) were of opinion that there was evidence for a jury, that, having regard to the circumstances of publication, the circular could reasonably bear the meaning alleged, and evidence also of express malice.

Motion refused.

Practice—Notice of Trial—Entry of Cause—Order xxxvi. r. 3, 17a.

This was an application by the defendants, by way of appeal from chambers, to strike the case out of the list of causes for Middlesex, on the ground that it had been improperly entered. The plaintiffs delivered with their reply a notice of trial, under Order xxxvi., r. 3, which says that the plaintiff may with his reply, or at any time after the close of the pleadings, give notice of trial of the action, and the following day entered the cause in the list of causes for Middlesex. House of Lords.

BANCO DE PORTUGAL v. WADDELL. March 19.
Bankruptcy—Double Proof.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had refused the claim of the Banco de Portugal to make a proof of debt under an English commission of bankruptcy, until after what it had received in proceedings against the effects of the bankrupt debtor under proceedings in Portugal, had been fully taken into account. There were two persons who carried on business at Oporto as wine shippers, under the name of "Hooper Brothers," and the same two persons carried on the business of wine merchants in London under the name of "Richard Hooper & Sons." Their agent at Oporto was in the habit of drawing bills on London, and these bills were in London, and until the firms fell into difficulties, paid. When these difficulties arose, proceedings in liquidation took place in both countries. The bank had received under the distribution of assets in Oporto a dividend of about 8s. in the pound in respect of its claims, and this dividend had been distributed among the Portuguese creditors. The bank claimed to put in a proof under the English commission. The registrar ordered that the proof should be admitted, but with the condition that the bank should not receive any dividend thereon until the English creditors had received a dividend equal to that obtained by the Portuguese creditors, under the liquidation in Portugal. The Court of Appeal had affirmed that holding (11 Ch. Div. 817). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Cookson, Q.C., and Mr. S. Woolf, were for the appellant Bank.

Mr. De Gex, Q.C., Mr. Finlay Knight, and Mr. McCall, for the respondent (the trustee under the English bankruptcy), were not called on.

Company—Director—Fiduciary Relation—Fraud on Public, but not on Company.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Vice-Warden of the Stannaries Court made in the winding-up of the above-mentioned company. The Ambrose Lake Mine was formerly worked on the cost-book system. In 1871 Messrs. Moss and Taylor were the principal proprietors of the mine, and as the concern was not prosperous, they determined to convert it into a limited liability company. For this purpose the lease of the mine was assigned to Eaton, a clerk of Taylor, and an agreement was executed that Eaton should convey it to Taylor and G. Harding, as trustees for a new company, in consideration of 24,000*l.*, to be paid as follows, 6000 paid-up shares of 2*l.* each and 12,000 shares of which 1*l.* had been paid up. This agreement was registered under the Companies Acts; and the new company, called the Ambrose Lake Tin and Copper Mining Company, was registered in January, 1872. Moss and Taylor were two of the first directors named in the articles. The shares which formed the purchase-money for the mine were divided between Moss and Taylor, and the other shareholders of the cost-book mine according to their interests in the mine. Moss had shares to the nominal value of 11,450*l.*, and Taylor shares to the nominal value of 11,410*l.* The whole value of the mining undertaking, which had thus been converted into a company, was about 6000*l.* The company was ordered to be wound up in January, 1878.

The Vice-Warden held, on the application of the official liquidator, that Moss and Taylor were in fact purchasing the mine from themselves, and that as they stood in a fiduciary relation to the company of which they were the directors, they must account for the difference in value between their shares in the new company, including all profits made by the sale of them, and the value of their interest in the cost-book mine. From this decision Moss and Taylor appealed.

Cookson, Q.C., and Buckley, for Moss.

Waller, Q.C., and Bunting, for Taylor.

Ince, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the official liquidator.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) were of opinion that although it might well be contended that the manner in which the conversion of the cost-book mine into a limited company was effected, was a fraud upon the public, it was no fraud upon the company, which consisted of no other persons than the shareholders of the cost-book mine, all of whom agreed to it. If any purchaser from Moss or Taylor thought that he had been imposed upon, he would have his remedy against them, but they were not liable to repay anything to the company. Therefore the order of the Vice-Warden must be reversed; but the case was of such a nature that they should give no costs either in this Court or in the Court below.

The action was brought to recover damages for injury done to a rick by sparks escaping from the fire of a traction-engine belonging to the defendant, which was being driven by steam along a highway adjoining the field in which the rick was standing.

At the trial before Mellor, J., without a jury, the learned judge found that the engine was constructed according to the provisions of the Locomotive Acts, and that there was no negligence on the part of those who were in charge of the engine, but gave judgment for the plaintiffs, on the ground that where a man uses anything dangerous he is responsible for any damage which may happen to his neighbours.

Proof—Secured Creditor—Valuation or Realization of Security—Dividend—Right to have Funds set apart—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 40, 41, 42, 43, 72—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 78, 99, 100, 136, 272, 311—314.

The London and Yorkshire Bank were creditors of J. Lee & Sons, liquidating debtors, and held security for their debt. Before the trustees declared a dividend the bank sent in a proof of their debt, but did not assess the value of their security. After they had realized their security they sent in another proof for the balance which remained due to them. But meanwhile the trustees had declared and paid a dividend among the other creditors who had proved their debts. The Chief Judge, affirming the decision of the judge of the Dewsbury County Court, made a personal order on the trustees to pay to the bank, in respect of the balance of their debt, a dividend at the same rate as they had already paid to the other creditors. The trustees appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the bank.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that till a secured creditor has either valued or realized his security he has no debt proveable in bankruptcy within the meaning of s. 42, in respect of which the trustee is bound to reserve any dividend. If there were any special circumstances which prevented the realization of a security, and there was a risk of injustice occurring, the creditor could apply to the Court, which would have full power, under s. 72, to give effect to every just claim. The order of the County Court must be discharged, but this would not prejudice any application by the bank to be paid in priority the rateable dividend which the other creditors had received, out of any further assets which might be realized by the trustees.

Discovery of Bankrupt's Property—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 96—Examination of Debtor and other Witnesses—Application by Creditor.

Messrs. J. & W. Nicholson, creditors of James Willson, a liquidating debtor, applied to the Court to appoint a private sitting for the examination of the debtor and other specified witnesses, and for leave issue subpoenas for the attendance of the witnesses. They also asked that the costs of the motion might be provided for. Notice of the application was served on the trustee only. He had been previously asked to allow his name to be used in the application and had refused. The applicants offered to bear the expense of the examinations, if conducted by their own solicitors and counsel, and to put the depositions on the file of proceedings for the use of the trustee.

The trustee opposed the application, and filed affidavits in opposition to it. Mr. Registrar Peypys, as Chief Judge, refused the application. The applicants appealed.

Creed (Robinson, Q.C., with him) for the applicants.

Winslow, Q.C., and H. Reed, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) said that an order of this kind could not be made on the application of a creditor, unless he made out a prima facie probability that some benefit would result to the estate from the proposed examination. The registrar thought that this had not been done in the present case. He had exercised his judicial discretion in the matter, and their Lordships saw no reason for differing from his conclusions. The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

JAMES, L.J. said that the trustee had no interest in the matter, except for the purpose of saying whether he would make the application himself. He ought not to file affidavits.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

V.-C. M. HINCKES v. ALLEN. March 13.
Contract—Consideration of Marriage—Conditional Agreement—Vague and uncertain Terms.

This was an action to administer the estate of the late John Allen, and to dispose of a claim made by his son-in-law, Edward Thompson, to one-third of his estate, on the ground that the testator previously to the marriage of his daughter with E. Thompson had agreed to settle a third of his estate upon his daughter. The statement made by E. Thompson was that in the month of April, 1850, he became engaged to Mary Anne Allen, a daughter of the testator, and he thereupon had a conversation with the testator as to the settlement he proposed to make upon his daughter, when the testator told him he had already made his will and settled his property upon his three daughters equally, and he considered that to be a sufficient settlement of it. The testator also told him that he should allow his daughter Mary Anne during his lifetime 200*l.* per annum, as he was allowing that amount to his two other daughters who were married. E. Thompson had other conversations with the testator, and on the 6th of June, 1850, he received from him a letter containing these words:—"The settlement you propose I should consider satisfactory. When I made my will a few years ago I then divided my property equally between my children, settling the same upon the daughters. These matters (although it may appear premature to enter upon them now) are subjects which I consider of great importance, and ought to be thoroughly understood in the first instance by all parties." The proposal alluded to in this letter as having been made by E. Thompson was that he would settle 200*l.* a year upon his wife. In the month of July, 1851, E. Thompson married Mary Anne Allen, but the testator informed him that owing to the distressed state of his business he should not be able to allow his daughter 200*l.* a year during his life, and he had never done so, neither had E. Thompson made any settlement upon his wife, who died in June, 1858, leaving three children. The testator died in December, 1875, and by his will gave the whole of his property to trustees to pay the income to his wife for life, and after her death, for the benefit of his daughter Elizabeth Hinckes absolutely. The testator's wife died in February, 1879, and this action was brought to administer the testator's estate, E. Thompson bringing in a claim to be entitled to one third of the estate on the ground that the statements, and the letter of the testator amounted to a contract by him that he would not alter his then existing will, but that it should stand as a settlement of the property among his daughters equally.

Higgins, Q.C., and Wright, in support of Thompson's claim.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the statement made by the testator in the letter of the 6th of June, 1850, as to the disposal of his property, was conditional upon the performance by E. Thompson of his proposal to settle 200*l.* a year upon his wife, which proposal not having been performed, the testator was not bound to carry out his promise. In addition to this, His Lordship considered the allegations as to the contract so vague and undecided that it could not be enforced by the Court.

On both grounds, therefore, the claim would be disallowed, but the costs of both parties would come out of the estate.

V.-C. M. HAMILTON v. SNOWDEN. March 18.
Bill of Sale—Deed set aside—Unnecessary and Improper—Execution without Advice—Misrepresentation.

This was an action to set aside a bill of sale on the ground that the execution by the plaintiff was obtained by misrepresentation, and that it was unnecessary and improper. A motion was now made to restrain the defendants, who were the trustees of the deed, from taking possession of or dealing with the estate of the plaintiff till the hearing of the action, and from registering the deed as a bill of sale.

The plaintiff kept a small haberdasher's shop in Portobello Road, Notting Hill, and on the 10th of February, 1880, the house was burned down. At that time he was indebted in two sums of 14*l.* and 15*l.*, and two executions were put in for those sums. He was also indebted to unsecured creditors in various sums, making his whole indebtedness 105*l.* to unsecured creditors, and there were further sums due upon bills of exchange not yet payable, to the amount of about 200*l.*, for all of which a guarantee for payment had been given by the plaintiff's father.

Immediately after the occurrence of the fire in his house his two principal unsecured creditors called upon him to execute an assignment to them of all his property. The deed was ready prepared, and it was executed by him without advice or previous consideration of the matter. The sum payable under the insurance upon his house amounted to 240*l.*, and the plaintiff required the trustees of the deed to receive the amount of the insurance, and after paying all his creditors to hand over the difference to him. This they refused to do on the ground that the secured and unsecured creditors were equally entitled to share in the property, and that the time had not arrived for settling the claims.

Higgins, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Oswald, for the defendants.

The present application was taken by consent as the hearing of the action.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was clear that the plaintiff's estate was solvent, since the 240*l.* payable upon the insurance was sufficient to pay all his unsecured debts. He was of opinion that the deed of assignment was altogether unnecessary, and the plaintiff ought not without advice to have been called upon to execute it. Under the circumstances the trustees must now receive the money due from the insurance company, and after paying all the unsecured creditors they must hand over the surplus to the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., asked that the order might be stayed to give time for appealing against the decision.

His Lordship thereupon varied the order by directing the trustees, after satisfying the creditors, to pay the surplus into Court, or to lodge it in a bank in the names of the solicitors on either side.

V.-C. M. In re JOHNSTONE'S SETTLEMENT. March 19.
Will—Execution of a Power—Change of Investments—Ademption of Legacy.

By a voluntary settlement executed on the 30th of March, 1872, and made subsequently to the marriage of the Rev. J. B. Johnstone and Mary Ann his wife, it was agreed and declared that a sum of 3606*l.* bank annuities, to which Mary Ann Johnstone was entitled for her separate use, and which had been transferred into names of trustees, should be held by them upon trust to retain the trust premises in the then state of investment, or from time to time, with the consent of the husband and wife, or the survivor of them, to change and vary the investments, and upon trust during the joint lives of the husband and wife to receive and pay the income to M. A. Johnstone for her separate use, and after the decease of either of them upon trust to pay the income to the survivor, and after the decease of the survivor upon trust to transfer and assign the trust premises to such person or persons as Mrs. Johnstone, whether covert or sole, should by will direct or appoint, and in default of appointment upon trust for the then surviving children of M. A. Johnstone, to be divided equally between them.

M. A. Johnstone, by her will, dated the 2nd of April, 1872, and made in execution of the power in the settlement, directed and appointed that, subject to the life interest of her husband in the whole of the 3606*l.* bank annuities, the sum of 2000*l.* bank annuities, part of the 3606*l.*, should belong to and be held in trust to pay and transfer the same to her daughter Margaret Bouchier absolutely, and that the sum of 1000*l.* bank annuities, other part of the said 3606*l.* bank annuities, should belong to and be held in trust for her granddaughter Harriet Money, and that the residue of the said sum of 3606*l.* should belong to and be held in trust for her son Arthur Johnstone absolutely.

In March, 1873, the sum of 2519*l.* bank annuities, part of the 3606*l.* was, with the consent of J. B. Johnstone and his wife, sold by the trustees of the settlement, and the proceeds, amounting to 2317*l.*, were invested in the purchase in the names of the trustees of 2000*l.* guaranteed 5 per cent. stock in the Great Western Railway Company, so that at the death of M. A. Johnstone, which took place in January, 1874, the property subject to the trusts of the settlement no longer consisted of 3606*l.* bank annuities, but of the sum of 1086*l.* bank annuities and 2000*l.* stock in the Great Western Railway Company. T. B. Johnstone died in December, 1878.

A question was raised whether the disposition in the will was ademed by reason of the change of investment. All the parties agreed to accept a division under the will, except the executors of one son who had died, and the share he might be entitled to was consequently paid into Court by the trustees.

Borrett, in support of a petition for payment of the money in pursuance of the trusts of the will.

Pollock, for the persons entitled in default of appointment.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was clearly of opinion that there had been no ademption of the legacies given by the will. The will was made in execution of a power to appoint the fund which was the subject of the settlement, and the change of investment made under the powers contained in the settlement did not prevent the fund from continuing to be the fund over which the appointment operated.

V.-C. M. In re VESTRY OF ST. LUKE'S, MIDDLESEX. March 19.
Property taken under Compulsory Powers—No Power of Sale till 1887—Purchase-money payable immediately—Trusts forestalled.

Arthur Neate, by his will dated in August, 1868, gave all his property to trustees upon certain trusts therein mentioned, and the will contained a power to the trustees to sell the property when they should think fit, but as to a certain portion of the property the power of sale was not to be executed till after the 29th of September, 1887. The testator died in May, 1870. In the year 1879 the vestry of St. Luke's, Middlesex, required for the purposes of enlarging one of the streets in their parish certain freehold messuages and premises being part of the estate devised by the said will, and forming part of the property which the trustees had no power to sell till 1887, and the said vestry under the powers of their Act contracted with the trustees for the purchase of such property for the sum of 4800*l.*, which sum they paid into Court under the Metropolis Management Act (18 & 19 Vict. c. 120).

A petition was now presented by the trustees, by which they submitted that inasmuch as they were by the will of the testator authorized and directed to sell his estates in the county of Middlesex at any time after the 20th of September, 1887, and inasmuch as by the Acts of Parliament under which the vestry of St. Luke had taken this property, the petitioners were authorized to sell and convey the lands before the day fixed by the testator for such sale, the petitioners were entitled to receive out of Court the sum of 4800L., and to hold the same upon the trusts of the will; or if not, that at all events they were entitled to have the sum of 4800L. invested, and to receive the income thereof, to be applied by them for the purposes and in the same manner as the rents and profits of the hereditaments and premises would have been applicable in case the same had not been so purchased.

Dawney, for the vestry.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that although the trustees had no power of sale till 1887, yet as they had been compelled to sell under the compulsory powers of the Act, they could now give a discharge for the purchase-money the same as they might have done in 1887, and the money must be paid out to them, to be dealt with under the trusts of the will as if the property had been sold under their power of sale.

defendants, and that the defendants might be declared jointly and severally liable to pay to the plaintiff 1000L. which he had paid for the shares, and damages. A statement of defence denying the allegations was delivered on the 7th of July, 1879. The plaintiff filed interrogatories, and on the 14th of August the defendant's solicitor wrote to the plaintiff's solicitor to say the defendants would apply for security for costs. After this, on the 6th of October, 1879, the defendants put in an answer to the interrogatories.

This summons, dated the 16th of February last, was that the plaintiff might be ordered to find security for costs to the amount of 800L.

Hemming, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the plaintiff:—The defendants are precluded by having taken a substantial step in the action since they gave notice in August last.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after considering the authorities of Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger (3 Ch. Div. 62), and Corporation of Hastings v. Ivall (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 758), was of opinion, upon the evidence, that security ought to be given, and fixed the amount at 200L.; the costs to be costs in the cause.

V.-C. M. PLATT v. PLATT. March 19.

Partition Act, 1876, s. 6—Sale at Request—Guardian of Infant.

This was an action under the Partition Acts, 1868 and 1876 John Platt died on February, 1878, intestate, leaving a widow and four infant children co-heiresses. It had been found necessary to sell a portion of his property, and this action was brought to effect a sale instead of partition. Two of the infants were made plaintiffs by their next friend, and the other two infants and the widow were made defendants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Oswald, for the plaintiffs.

Bardswell, for the defendants, submitted that it was sufficient for the guardian ad litem of the infant defendants, or for the next friend of the plaintiffs, to make the request for sale, having regard to the 6th section of the Partition Act, 1876, which stated that the request for sale must be made on the part of a married woman, infant, person of unsound mind, or person under any other disability, by the next friend, guardian, committee in lunacy, or other person authorized to act on behalf of the person under such disability.

Eyre appeared for the widow of the intestate, who had taken out administration to his estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the words in the section, married woman, infant, person of unsound mind, or person under any other disability, were each of them to be represented, the first by the married woman's next friend, the second by the infant's guardian, the third by the committee of the person of unsound mind, and the fourth by any person appointed to act on behalf of the person under any other disability; and he considered that a testamentary guardian of an infant, or a guardian appointed by the Court, was the person intended by the Act and not a guardian ad litem. His Lordship then appointed the widow to be the guardian of the infants.

Directors, Breach of Trust by—Companies Act, 1862, s. 165—Summons by Liquidator against Executors of Director, deceased, dismissed with Costs—Payment of Costs postponed—Liability of Directors.

This company (limited) was on the 3rd of June, 1876, ordered to be wound up.

One of the rules of the company was "that 50 per cent. of the premiums paid upon whole life policies is invested in the names of trustees in British Government securities, for which purpose there is a quarterly audit of the income account, when the board hand to the trustees one half of the life assurance premiums."

In the winding-up proceedings the liquidator discovered that this rule had not been followed, and he and Mr. E. Betts, a whole life policy holder, took out a summons (adjourned into Court) under the 165th section of the Companies Act, 1862, against twenty-seven directors and the executors of two other directors who had died, asking for a declaration that each of the directors was jointly and severally liable to account to the company to the extent of one-half of the premiums on policies issued, received by the company or by the directors during the periods when they were such directors, paid under such policies, and for a declaration that the persons named in the schedule thereto, being the directors or the legal personal representatives of such of them as were dead, were liable to pay to the liquidator the sums set opposite their names, being the moieties of the said premiums received by the company or by them respectively during the time they were directors, with interest at 5 per cent. from the date of the above order.

Hastings, Q.C. (Seward Brice with him), for the liquidator. Romer (Beddall with him), for the executors of Vincent Cornwell, objected to the summons being heard as against them, on the ground that a summary proceeding under the 165th section could only be taken against "any past or present director, manager, or official, or other liquidator, or any officer of such company," and not against the legal personal representatives of any deceased director, and therefore the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the claim made against the executors. The point was decided in Feltom's Executors' Case (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 219). That decision was approved in Ex parte Hawkins (Law Rep.

Hastings, Q.C. (Seward Brice with him), for the liquidator.

Romer (Beddall with him), for the executors of Vincent Cornwell, objected to the summons being heard as against them, on the ground that a summary proceeding under the 165th section could only be taken against "any past or present director, manager, or official, or other liquidator, or any officer of such company," and not against the legal personal representatives of any deceased director, and therefore the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the claim made against the executors. The point was decided in Feltom's Executors' Case (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 219). That decision was approved in Ex parte Hawkins (Law Rep.

3 Ch. 787), and had not been departed from; therefore the summons must be dismissed as against the executors.

Northmore Lawrence, for a surviving director, objected to the summons being heard against him on the ground that where a class of persons were liable and one was dead there could not be a summary proceeding under this section against the survivors. The object of the statute was that complete justice should be done between all parties concerned in one litigation.

Hastings, Q.C., submitted that the decision in Fellom's Executors' Case had not been acted upon in more modern cases. Stringer's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 475) was an authority in favour of this application, and the Master of the Rolls on an adjourned summons, before him on the 17th of November, 1877, in In re National Funds Assurance Company, where the application was of a similar character, by the liquidator against sixteen directors and the executors of a director deceased, under the same section, for payment of 50 per cent of the premiums received, declared that the directors (six in number) named in a schedule must pay the sums mentioned, and that all of the directors, including the executors, must pay all the costs of the summons. But should the objection on behalf of the executors be considered valid, then the liquidator should be allowed to issue a writ, and the costs of the executors on this summons should not be paid to them till the result of the action was known. The other objection he submitted there was no ground for and must be dismissed.

Northmore Lawrence, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the objection taken on behalf of the executors was valid, and that they were entitled to their costs, but as other proceedings might be taken by the liquidator against them, he would order the postponement of payment of the costs till the result of the action was known. The other objection could not be maintained, as if any director were allowed to say that all the persons concerned must be present, the application of the section would be brought to a dead lock, and it appeared that all persons would be before him on this summons except the executors. The summons would therefore be proceeded with.

March 13th and 15th. The hearing of the summons as to whether Mr. Williamson was liable was now proceeded with. He was a director of the company down to the time of the winding-up, and during the periods when the transactions complained of took place, viz., the investment of some part of the premiums and the selling out of the same, and applying the proceeds towards the general purposes of the company, and the non-investment of a moiety of other premiums. Clause No. 5 of the company's policies was, in effect, that the funds or property of the company should alone be liable in respect of any demands, and that no director or other member of the company should upon any account be liable to any proceeding against him, it being a fundamental principle of the company that no shareholder should be liable beyond the amount of his share in the capital.

The sum which the liquidator stated ought to have been invested at the date of the winding-up was 3012*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.* The summons was taken out against all the directors, and the executors of two deceased directors, but was adjourned into Court and heard as against one director (Mr. Williamson), and the executors of a deceased director, as mentioned above.

Hastings, Q.C., and Seward Brice, for the summons.

Northmore Lawrence, for Mr. Williamson, opposed the application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Mr. Williamson was liable, both as regarded the non-investment of the premiums, and the application of the proceeds of the sums invested and afterwards sold out, but the liability would be subject to certain allowances of sums paid upon the death of policy holders and surrenders of policies. His Lordship said he would not order interest to be paid, and Mr. Williamson would not have to pay any costs, whether he would be allowed his costs would depend upon what took place in reference to this decision.

In re NEWPORT AND SOUTH WALES SHIPOWNERS COMPANY.
ROWLAND'S CASE.

Debt due by Company to A.—Agreement by A. to take paid-up Shares—Debt due by A. to B.—Agreement by B. with A. to accept paid-up Shares—Request to Company to allot to B.—Agreements not registered—Summons to make B. liable dismissed.

The evidence shewed that in 1876 Rowlands agreed to sell three shares in a ship to Rees for 246*l.*, to be paid in cash. Rees not having the cash, represented that he was the proprietor of fully paid-up shares of 10*l.* each in the above company, and at his request Rowlands consented to accept twenty-four of the shares for his three shares. Rees procured for him from the directors an undertaking to hold for him twenty-four fully paid-up shares, and to give him a certificate for the same as soon as the scrip, which had not been printed, was issued, and he executed to Rees a transfer of the three shares in consideration of the 246*l.*

The late chairman of the company deposed that on business transactions with Rees the company owed him a balance of 450*l.* which was to be paid in cash, but at the request of the company he agreed to accept fully paid-up shares in part satisfaction of the debt.

Rees applied to the directors and requested them to allot to Rowlands twenty-four fully paid-up shares which he had agreed to accept, and the company credited themselves in their account with Rees the sum of 240*l.* in reduction of their debt. At a meeting of the company on the 20th of September, 1876, a resolution was passed thus: "That at the request of Rees twenty-four paid-up shares be allotted to Captain Peter Rowlands," and on the same date an entry was made in the share ledger thus:—

"Peter Rowlands,

To share account, twenty-four 10*l.* shares, 240*l.*

By Rees order on the company, re I. B. shares, 240*l.*" and also on the same date a resolution was passed that six shares of Rees in the Island Belle be purchased at the price mentioned subject to deductions, which made the cash amount to be paid to Rees 240*l.*, for which fully paid-up shares were to be allotted. The twenty-four shares allotted to Rowlands would be (as alleged) the shares to which Rees would be entitled under that resolution.

There was no registration of any agreement relating to the issue of the twenty-four fully paid-up shares to Rowlands, nor were the resolutions registered.

Rowlands, in December, 1877, after his return from a voyage, received in exchange for the undertaking a certificate dated the 20th of December, 1877, under the seal of the company, and signed by two directors, purporting that he was the proprietor of twenty-four shares, on which 2*l.* had been paid, and there was a memorandum signed by the secretary that they were fully paid up.

This was a summons by the liquidator, asking that Peter Rowlands, a contributory of the company, might be ordered to pay to him the sum of 216*l.*, being the amount payable, but unpaid, in respect of twenty-four shares in the company held by Rowlands, and allotted by the company to and accepted by him as fully paid-up shares, less 24*l.*, the amount of a general call upon the shares.

Buckley, for the liquidator.

Cozens-Hardy, for Rowlands.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that under all the circumstances of the case, mentioned in the affidavits, he should hold that Rowlands ought not to be placed on the list of contributories, and therefore the summons must be dismissed with costs.

certain rapids which existed in them, and for constructing a railway, and, by these various means, to connect those rivers with the Amazon, and thus open up communication between Bolivia and the Atlantic. Brazil had an interest in the success of this scheme, and a concession granted by Bolivia to the adventurers was supplemented by a concession from Brazil. A loan was raised in this country to carry the scheme into effect, and most of the loan was vested in Lloyd and Lambert, as trustees, to pay the expenses of the undertaking as it went on. The line of railway was not made, the concessions of the two governments were withdrawn, and the bondholders, contending that the scheme had failed, claimed a return of their money. The Court of Appeal had held them entitled to the return, and hence this appeal.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Rigby, appeared for the appellants, who claimed an interest in the fund and denied the complete failure of the scheme.

F. G. JULIUS v. BISHOP OF OXFORD AND THE REVEREND MR. CARTER. Church Discipline Act—Bishop's Discretion, under that Act as to Proceedings for Ecclesiastical Offences.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench Division. The appellant, who was a member of the church of England and a parishoner of Clewer, had, under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86 (The Church Discipline Act), s. 3, applied to the bishop in whose diocese Clewer was situated for the means to institute proceedings against the Rev. Thomas Thellusson Carter, the rector of that parish, for practices in the forms of celebration of worship which Mr. Julius deemed to be illegal. The bishop had refused the application, giving as his reason that "the repeated occurrence of failures during the last few years in the conduct of legal proceedings of this kind has had a tendency to cover all persons concerned in them with ridicule, and to bring the Church itself into some contempt," that the application was made against the expressed wish of the majority of the parishioners, and that the person complained of was advanced in years and was generally respected. Mr. Julius applied to the Queen's Bench for a mandamus to the bishop to require him to institute proceedings, and the Court ordered the mandamus to issue. On appeal, the judges of the Court of Appeal, though not approving of the manner in which the bishop had exercised his discretion, held that, under the particular words of the 3rd section of the statute, he had an absolute discretion in the matter, and therefore reversed the decision of the Queen's Bench. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., Mr. Jeune, and Mr. Chalmers, were for the appellant.

Mr. Arthur Charles, Q.C., Mr. Muir Mackenzie, and Mr. W. G. Phillimore, were for the two respondents.

THE LORDS (The Lord Chancellor, Lord Penzance, Lord Selborne, and Lord Blackburn) were unanimously of opinion that the words of the 3rd section of the Church Discipline Act did leave it entirely to the discretion of the bishop to exercise the powers which that section conferred on him, and therefore,

Action to recover 89*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*, for goods supplied, a part of which according to the indorsement upon the writ was presumably barred by the Statute of Limitations. The defendant having appeared, the plaintiff applied under Rules of Court, Order XIV., r. 1, for liberty to sign judgment, and contended that the operation of the Statute of Limitations was defeated by some letters from the defendant acknowledging the debt. A master having refused an order, Field, J., upon appeal reversed the master's decision, and directed that the plaintiff should be at liberty to sign judgment unless the defendant should pay to the plaintiff within a week the whole amount claimed; he refused to allow the defendant to defend upon paying the whole of the amount claimed into Court. The defendant had not produced any affidavit of merits. Upon appeal to the Exchequer Division, the judges, Kelly, C.B., and Lopes, J., were divided in opinion. The defendant appealed to this Court.

Reginald Brown, for the defendant, contended that upon a summons under Order XIV. the defendant was entitled to defend as a matter of right upon paying the sum claimed into Court.

Holmes Poulter, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

Person of Unsound Mind—Amount for Maintenance.

A petition was presented on behalf of a person of unsound mind not so found, who was entitled to a life interest under a settlement amounting to 180*l.* per annum, that the whole of the income might be paid to the uncle of the lunatic, to be applied for his benefit until further order. The lunatic was now confined in a private asylum, to which he had been admitted upon the usual certificate of two medical men, and there were affidavits to shew that the insanity was still existing.

Carson, in support of the petition, referred to In re Bligh (12 Ch. Div. 864) and In re Whitby's Trust (Weekly Notes, 1877, p. 208).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order, upon the undertaking of the uncle to apply the money for the benefit of the lunatic until further order.

Costs of Unsuccessful Proceedings—Priority—Official Liquidator.

The official liquidator of the Home Investment Society had applied by summons that Mr. Brabant, the former solicitor of the society, should repay 236*l.* received by him shortly before the winding-up. Fry, J., in July, 1879, dismissed the summons with costs to be paid out of the assets of the society. Mr. Brabant now applied for payment of these costs out of the assets of the society in priority to the claims of the official liquidator for the costs of the winding up and of realizing the assets.

Locock Webb, Q.C., and Brabant, for Mr. Brabant.

Higgins, Q.C., and Chester, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he was bound by authority, and also by common sense, to hold that a person against whom an unsuccessful claim was made by an official liquidator, must have his costs paid out of the assets of the company, and was not merely to come in and prove as a creditor; nor if the assets were likely to be insufficient, had the official liquidator any priority for his own costs. The official liquidator must pay the costs of the former summons and also the costs of this application.

Embarrassing Statement—Heir-at-Law—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX., r. 4.

This was an action to recover certain large estates. The statement of claim alleged certain facts as to a supposititious child, and contained the following statement:—"25. The said Frances Evelyn died intestate as to real estate, and leaving Sir Hugh Evelyn her heir-at-law."

One of the defendants took out a summons that this paragraph might be struck out as embarrassing.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Bethell, in support of the summons:—"The statement must shew how Sir Hugh Evelyn was the heir."

Higgins, Q.C., and Terrell, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for the other defendant, had not been served, but appeared and objected to the summons.

HIS LORDSHIP said that according to Order XIX., r. 4, merely facts and not evidence were to be stated. Here the plaintiff had stated the fact, and if the defendant wished to have the evidence he could deliver interrogatories, and compel the plaintiff to shew how he made out that Sir Hugh Evelyn was heir. The summons must be dismissed with costs.

FORSTER v. MANCHESTER AND MILFORD RAILWAY COMPANY.
In re SAME COMPANY.
Ex parte PUGH.

Sale of Lands to Railway Company—Reservation of Rent-charge—Power of Re-entry—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 11—Arrears—Appointment of a Receiver in Action—Liberty granted to Vendor to exercise his Power.

Mr. Pugh, in 1871, agreed to sell lands to the company in consideration of a rent-charge. The 11th section of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, enacted that "the yearly rents reserved by any such conveyance shall be charged on the tolls or rates, if any, payable under the Special Act, and shall be otherwise secured in such manner as shall be agreed between the parties, and shall be paid by the promoters of the undertaking as such rents become payable, and if at any time any such rents be not paid within thirty days after they so become payable, and after demand thereof in writing, the person to whom any such rent shall be payable may either recover the same from the promoters of the undertaking with costs of suit by action of debt in any of the superior Courts, or it shall be lawful for him to levy the same by distress on the goods and chattels of the promoters of the undertaking."

The vendor granted his lands to the use that he might take thereout the rent-charge, and that if any half-yearly payment should be in arrear for the time mentioned he might enter on the lands and exclude the company, and hold the lands till satisfaction, and subject as aforesaid to the use of the company. The rent-charge fell in arrear in 1874. In an action against the company a receiver was, in July, 1875, appointed, and by an order made in December, 1875, he was directed to apply the balances in his hands, after payment of the working expenses, in discharge of the arrears of rent-charges and accruing payments thereof.

This was a summons by Mr. Pugh for liberty to re-enter upon the lands and exclude the company, and hold the lands till satisfaction of the arrears of his rent charge.

Hastings, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the applicant.
W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the company; the receiver and others, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the vendor was entitled to the remedy which the conveyance to the company purported to give him. The statute provided that persons seised in fee selling to the promoters of an undertaking might make the consideration a rent-charge payable by them, and that was agreed to between the parties. The company had no title to the land except subject to the power of re-entry on the part of the vendor. The agreement between the parties was not ultra vires. The use of the railway by the public could only be subject to the rights which existed between the parties. What course the vendor would take under his power, or what he would do with the land, the Court had now nothing to do with. All that he asked for was liberty to exercise his power of re-entry, and that right could not be withheld; therefore the order would be that Mr. Pugh be at liberty notwithstanding the appointment of a receiver to exercise his power of re-entry contained in the conveyance to the company.

CLARKSON v. HENDERSON.
Mortgage of Reversionary Interests—Covenant that Interest should, if not paid, be capitalized and carry Interest at 6 per cent.—3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27, s. 42—Six Years' Interest.

An adjourned summons.

In 1858, J. and G. P. Henderson, being entitled to reversionary interests under their father's will, mortgaged them to secure the sum of 500*l.*

No interest was paid, and in 1861 the mortgagee sold the interests under his power of sale.

Questions were raised by the mortgagors as to the validity of the sale, and an arrangement was come to whereby it was agreed to create a fresh mortgage.

It was arranged in case the interest should remain unpaid for twenty-one days after it accrued due, it should be treated as capital. When the new mortgage deed (dated the 13th of March, 1865) was ready, the amount due was agreed at 87*l.*, and in it there was a covenant by the mortgagors that all the interest which should accrue on that sum, should, if not paid within twenty-one days become principal and be added to the sum of 87*l.* as or in the nature of a further advance, and should carry interest at 6 per cent, payable half-yearly, and all additions to the principal sum of 87*l.* by means of capitalized interest should be charged on the mortgaged premises.

Another portion of the interests mortgaged had become divisible. The amount now due, as alleged, by the mortgagee was 1628*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.*

C. H. Turner, for the mortgagors, submitted that it was against the policy of the law for a person to enter into such a covenant. It was so when the Usury Laws were in force, and the abolition of them had made no difference in this respect.

Hastings, Q.C., and Everitt, for the mortgagee, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as to the compound interest the security was good, and directed the chief clerk to ascertain and certify the amount due upon that footing.

C. H. Turner then submitted that upon the true construction of the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27, s. 42, payment of only six years' interest could be demanded.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the claim of the mortgagee was not limited to six years.

A question was raised that the deed had not been sufficiently stamped to cover the amount claimed, but it appearing that the amount now available for distribution amongst the parties entitled would give the mortgagee a sum which would be within the stamp, it was left open till after the death of the tenant for life of the third and last reversionary interest.

IN re BRITISH GUARDIAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.
Companies Act, 1862, s. 165—"Officer"—Trustee.

This was a summons by the liquidator of this company in order to fix certain trustees with liability for misfeasance or breach of trust in not having duly invested in government securities a moiety of the premiums on whole life policies, which it was contended they ought to have so invested in their names for the benefit of the policy holders; and one of the defences was that a trustee was not a "director," "liquidator," or "officer" of the company within the meaning of the 165th section of the Companies Act of 1862.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, however, held, that he was an officer of the company within the meaning of that section.

BROWN v. RUTHERFORD.
Promissory Note—Note payable three Months after Demand—Proof of Demand—Payment of Interest.

Adjourned summons in a creditor's administration action.

The representative of a deceased creditor claimed to be admitted to prove for 150*l.* and interest, in respect of a promissory note given by the testator in the action in 1857. The note was in the following form:—

"150/.

May 20, 1857.

"Three months after demand I promise to pay Mr. Robert Rutherford the sum of 150/., for value received in book debts.

"JOHN RUTHERFORD."

On the note was the following indorsement:

"Interest 1st Nov. 1857, 3/., 15s.

Do. 1st May 1858, 3/., 15s."

The main defence was the Statute of Limitations, and this being met by the contention that time did not begin to run until demand, and there was no evidence of any demand having been made before the action, it was replied that lapse of time raised a presumption of demand, and if not that the payment of interest, which appeared by the indorsement to have been made, was sufficient proof between the parties that a demand had been made.

John Henderson, for the plaintiff.

Caldecott, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the payment of interest was no proof of demand, as it was the very thing the debtor would do for the purpose of staying off a demand; neither did the lapse of time afford presumption of satisfaction or demand in a case where the note was still held by the persons claiming under it. He accordingly admitted the claim for 150/., with interest from 1859.

Evidence—Admissibility—Entries in Banker's Books—Copies—Banker's Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict. c. 11), s. 3.

This was a redemption action, the question in dispute being whether a sum of 500/., had or had not been paid by the plaintiff to the defendant.

Cookson, Q.C., and J. Rigby, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and Marcy, for the defendant, proposed to adduce in evidence, under the above Act, some copies of entries in books of the defendant's bankers, verified by an affidavit of one of the officers of the bank.

Cookson, objected that the copies were not evidence against the plaintiff, inasmuch as the originals would not have been evidence against him.

Fry, J. held that the effect of s. 3 of the Act is to make copies of such entries prima facie evidence against any one in any legal proceedings of the matters therein recorded. The objection was therefore overruled.

CHAPMAN v. GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Carrier—Railway Company—Goods destroyed by Fire—When Liability as Carrier ceases.

Action against the railway company for non-delivery of certain goods entrusted to them for carriage.

The facts were as follows:—The plaintiff was a traveller who travelled about the country with drapery goods; a package of such goods was delivered to the railway company for carriage to Wimborne, a station on their line, such package being addressed to the plaintiff "to be left till called for." The package arrived at Wimborne on the 24th of March, 1879. On its arrival it was placed in the station warehouse to await its being called for. On the morning of the 27th of March, the goods not having been called for were destroyed by an accidental fire, by which the warehouse was burnt down. The question was under these circumstances whether the defendants were liable as common carriers for the value of the goods, or whether they had become mere warehousemen in respect of them, in which case it was admitted that they would not be liable, as the fire was not shewn to have arisen through any negligence on their part. This question now came before the Court on motion for judgment.

Poole, for the plaintiff, moved for judgment.

Kinglake, shewed cause.

April 7th. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Lush and Manisty, J.J.) held, that after the interval which had elapsed since the arrival of the goods, the liability of the defendants as common carriers in respect of the goods had ceased, and therefore gave judgment for the defendants.

WAKEFIELD URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITY, APPEALS; MANDAMUS, RESP.

Public Health Act, 1875—Repair of Footway—Apportionment of Expenses.

Appeal from justices at Wakefield on case stated under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43. By the Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), s. 150, where any street within any urban district or the carriageway, footway, or any other part of such street is not paved, &c. to the satisfaction of the urban authority such authority may, by notice addressed to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on such parts thereof as may require to be paved, &c., require them to pave, &c., the same, and if such notice be not complied with the authority may if they think fit execute the works and recover from the owner in a summary manner the expenses incurred.

The respondent's premises are situated on the south side of St. John's Place, Wakefield. The appellants after notice given executed certain repairs of the footway and channel on the south side of the street, the repairs being confined exclusively to the footway and channel on that side of the street and not extending to any part beyond. The apportionment of the expenses was made by the appellants upon the owners of property on the south side only. The respondent, disputed the apportionment, and contended that the owners of property on the north side should have contributed, as being owners of property fronting, adjoining, or abutting within the meaning of s. 150. The appellants contended that the property on the north side did not front, abut, or adjoin the footway to which the repairs were done, and that the south side was liable to pay the whole of the expenses. The magistrates decided in favour of the respondent and refused to make an order for payment of the assessment.

Cave, Q.C., and Forbes, for the appellants.

Wills, Q.C., and Graham, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Grove and Denman, J.J.) thought that the assessment was correct, and reversed the decision of the justices, but gave leave to appeal.

Lord Mayor's Court—Foreign Attachment.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Common Pleas Division (1 C. P. Div. 1). It originally came on before the Court of Appeal at Westminster when the Court referred it to an arbitrator to state the facts in a special case. This having been done the appeal was now brought on again.

Practices—Improper Length of Petition—Amount of Costs fixed by the Court.

This was a petition for payment out of Court of a small sum of money to which the petitioner was entitled upon attaining twenty-one, and which had been paid into Court by the trustees.
Langworthy, in support of the petition.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the petition in this case was drawn at much greater length than it ought to have been. The whole of the facts might easily have been stated in two pages, instead of being made to fill fifteen pages. He observed that it was not drawn by counsel, which accounted for the inordinate length. Under these circumstances he should fix a definite sum to be paid for the costs.

Langworthy observed that no objection was raised by the petitioner to payment of the costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the petitioner was a young man who had just attained his majority, and required protection against such proceedings. He understood from the Registrar that the Master of the Rolls had in similar cases fixed the amount of costs at ten guineas, and he should follow that rule, and order payment of ten guineas only for costs.

Life Assurance Companies Act (33 & 34 Vict. c. 61), s. 14—Transfer of Business—Policy Holders out of England—Service of Notices.

This was a petition by the directors of the London and Southwark Insurance Corporation for the confirmation by the Court of an agreement dated the 22nd of November, 1879, for the sale of their business to the London and Lancashire Fire and Life Insurance Companies. Copies of the various documents which, in accordance with the 14th section of the Insurance Companies Act, 1870, were required to be communicated to the policy holders—namely, the valuation on which the sale was effected, the abstract of the agreement and a statement of the facts, had been forwarded to the policy-holders respectively at their addresses, but in one instance the policy-holder resided in Norway, and in another at Port Elizabeth, and the letters in these cases could not have been answered before the presentation of this petition. Those two policies, however, did not amount to a tenth of the total amount assured in the company proposed to be transferred, and it was not anticipated that there would be any opposition from the other policy-holders, it was therefore submitted that having regard to the fact that if these two policy-holders could appear and oppose, their opposition would not prevail, and considering that by the Act of 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 41, s. 7), they would not lose their rights against the transferred company, the Court would, under the circumstances, consider that service had been sufficiently effected and would confirm the agreement.

Glasse, Q.C., and B. Rogers in support of the petition.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that it was not necessary to wait for a communication from the two policy-holders resident abroad, and there being evidence to shew that the proposed transfer was beneficial, His Lordship made an order in conformity with the petition.

V.-C. H. JENKINS v. MORRIS. March 24.
Issue in Action—Insanity of Lessor—Motion, ex parte, for New Trial—Rules of Court, March 1879, Order XXXIX, r. 1a—Divisional Court—Delusions—Testamentary Capacity—Motion refused.

The plaintiff, the representative of Thomas Price, who died in 1875, sought to set aside a lease of a farm "Newton West" which he granted to the defendant on the 29th of August, 1871. When the action came on to be heard an issue was directed to be tried before a jury. The question was whether T. Price was or was not of sound mind and capable of managing his own affairs at the date of the grant, and it was tried before Mr. Justice Lindley and a special jury at the Carmarthenshire assizes on the 22nd of January, 1880. There was evidence that on the 24th of April, 1874, Price attempted to destroy a will and codicil which he had made in 1862. There was a trial in the Probate Court as to whether Price was at that date competent to destroy those documents and a special jury found that he was not, and they were proved. At the recent trial the plaintiff called about twenty witnesses, including three medical practitioners, and they deposed that Price in 1871 was subject to various delusions, and some of them deposed that he was not able to transact business, while others stated that he attended fairs and transacted business. For the defendant certain letters from Price were produced in reference to the lease, and as they appeared to be so rationally and sensibly expressed the jury gave a verdict for the defendant.

On the 4th of March B. T. Williams, Q.C., Hastings, Q.C., and C. C. Berkeley, for the plaintiff, moved ex parte for a new trial on the grounds that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, and misdirection, because the learned judge did not tell the jury that the letters in themselves did not displace the proof of mental disease adduced by the plaintiff. On the question whether His Lordship was the judge before whom the motion should be brought, reference was made to the case of Hunt v. City of London Real Property Co. (2 Q. B. D. 605, & 3 Q. B. D. 19), and Rules of Court, Order XXXIX, r. 1a (March, 1879), which it was submitted abrogated the effect of the decision in that case; and by Kekewich, Q.C. (as amicus curie) to Williams v. Guest, in which action an issue was directed by the Master of the Rolls, and was tried at Cardiff. Afterwards a motion was made for a new trial, which was refused. But it was submitted that apart from precedent the plaintiff was entitled to make his motion for a new trial before this Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The precedent which has been referred to of Williams v. Guest seems to me to be an authority upon which I can proceed to hear the motion, at the same time the application for a new trial here is entirely opposed to the practice in other divisions of the Court in which the practice has been considered and acted upon, and it is that the application should be made in the Divisional Court of which the judge who tried the case is a member; the object being to have the judge present who tried the case, and I understand that such motions are made when three judges are present. I do not think that upon the construction of the Rules of Court a ground has been shewn for coming here, but in the absence of any rule directing the motion to be made elsewhere, it is made here. I have been furnished with the judge's notes of the trial. There is no reference in them to what took place in the Probate Court, and any reference to those proceedings would have been irrelevant.

The motion was then heard, and upon the conclusion of the argument, the evidence at the trial having been read, judgment was reserved.

March 24. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR after stating, and commenting upon, the evidence at the trial, referred to the cases which had been cited on the motion, of Waring v. Waring (6 Moore, P. C. 401), and Smith v. Tebbett (Law Rep. 1 P. & D. 398), and said that the doctrine there laid down and relied upon for the plaintiff was not now law, it having been overruled by the decision in Banks v. Goodfellow (Law Rep. 5 Q. B. 549), which was followed in Boughton v. Knight (Law Rep. 3 P. & M. 64), and in Smee v. Smee (49 L. J., P. & D. 8), and his Lordship held that it was now settled, and until the contrary should be decided by the House of Lords it must be considered that the mere existence of a delusion was not sufficient to deprive a party of testamentary capacity, and the motion having been made on the two grounds mentioned, he thought it could not be granted on either of them. The learned judge who tried the issue thought the verdict was quite right. The application would be refused.

Fry, J. REES v. METROPOLITAN BOARD OF WORKS. April 9.
Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Foreclosure—Property taken by Corporation under Statutory Powers—Costs of assessing Value—Just Allowances—Form of Inquiry.

This was a foreclosure action by a first mortgagee. The property had been purchased by the Metropolitan Board under their parliamentary powers. After the writ was issued, the sum which had been assessed as the value of the property was paid into Court, and proceedings were stayed as against the Board. The plaintiff claimed an account of what was due to him, and payment out of the fund into Court. The only question was whether there ought to be a special direction in the judgment that the plaintiff was entitled to his extra costs of the inquiry as to the value of the property beyond those costs which had been allowed him on taxation as against the Board, or whether he would obtain those extra costs under the ordinary form of inquiry as just allowances.

The other defendants did not appear.

If the costs in question were just allowances the plaintiff would get them under that form; if they were not just allowances he ought not to have them.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From C. P. Div. VERNON v. COOKE. March 13.
Bill of Sale, Affidavit with—Sworn before Partner of Deponent Solicitor—Registration.
Appeal from the judgment of Coleridge, C.J., on further consideration.
The facts are fully noted in Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 182. The question may be shortly stated to be, whether the affidavit to be filed upon the registration of a bill of sale could be sworn by a solicitor before his partner.
Arnold Morley, for the plaintiff.
Cave, Q.C., for the defendant.
THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the affidavit was duly sworn, and reversed the judgment of Coleridge, C.J.

Solicitor for the defendant: H. Tyrrell.

Ship and Shipping—Marine Insurance—Warranty against Average—Stranding.
Action on a policy of marine insurance to recover an average loss on a cargo of maize shipped on board the White Eagle. The risk was covered by the policy until the goods were safely landed at Dingle, a port in a tidal harbour on the west coast of Ireland, in which, for a vessel of the draught of the ship in question, there is only sufficient water to enable her to reach the quay at the highest spring tide. On the 21st of July the White Eagle arrived at Dingle roads, and as the next highest spring tide was not until the 30th, she brought up there and waited for water. On the 26th there was water enough to float her further in, and she proceeded towards the quay but took the ground within 800 yards of the quay. The next day she was hauled 100 yards further and then again took the ground. On the 28th she again floated, and it was expected she would reach the quay, but she took the ground and remained fast within 20 yards of the quay. As the tide receded she settled down, and instead of resting on an even keel she pitched by the head with a heavy list to starboard towards the pier and remained fast. The tide left her in the night, and the next day it was found that there was a small bank and hole nearly parallel with the quay, which bank had been caused by steamers lying at the berth, and the hole had been formed by the revolutions of their paddles on going out at low tide. On these facts the learned judge at the trial without a jury found that the mode in which the vessel took the ground was accidental and fortuitous, and not such as the parties contemplated, and that the White Eagle was stranded and the plaintiff entitled to recover.

Butt, Q.C., and J. C. Mathew, for the plaintiff.

W. Williams, Q.C., and Bremner, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) affirmed the judgment of the learned judge.

KINLOCK v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

Military Prize of War—Grant by the Crown to Officer of State "in trust" for Persons entitled to share—Obligation of Grantee to account.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 164), by which he held that a grant by the Queen of certain prize money to the Secretary of State for India in Council, in trust to distribute the same amongst the persons who were entitled to share in it, created a trust which could be enforced by one of the persons so entitled. The Secretary of State for India appealed from this decision.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the appellant.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Willis Bund, for the respondent.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the appeal must succeed, having regard to the grantor, the supposed grantees, the subject matter of the grant, and the persons for whom it was intended. The warrant was what it purported to be, a direction by the Sovereign authorizing the Sovereign's servant having possession of the Sovereign's money to deal with it in a certain way. The word "trust" in the warrant had no magical effect. The direction given in the warrant did not become a trust in the sense of being enforceable or cognizable in a Court of Law; it was no more than a grant of money to the Secretary of State to be distributed by him. Another consideration was that in point of law there was no such person or body politic as the Secretary of State for India in Council. Looking at the Act by which the East India Company was brought to an end, the property was not transferred by that Act to a body corporate; it was vested in the Crown for the use of the Government of India. The words "Secretary of State for India in Council" were mere words constituting an officer who should be capable of suing and being sued, and merely indicated the mode in which the Government of India or the Indian Exchequer were to sue and be sued. The constituting of the officer was for the purpose of determining rights between the Government of India and subjects, but the Government, or the officer representing it, was no more capable of being sued as a trustee than the Attorney-General was in England. The moneys in the present case were to be distributed by a servant of the Crown as directed, and the Secretary of State, whoever he might be for the time being, dealt with them as agent of the Crown, under his responsibility to parliament, and subject to accounting to the Crown and to parliament. In His Lordship's opinion it would be a violation of legal principles for a municipal Court to take upon itself to enforce directions which the Crown was minded to give to one of the great officers of state. There was a provision in the warrant which showed that the matter was meant to be a mere Government matter, and that questions as to the individuals who were to share in the prize and as to all claims were to be determined, not by a Court of Law, but by the Secretary of State for India, who was bound to attend to the interests of the Indian Exchequer. The only appeal would be to the Queen's Commissioners of the Treasury in England. His Lordship was of opinion that there was in truth no such person or body as the Secretary of State for India in Council capable of holding property. The appeal must be allowed.

BAGGALLAY and BRAMWELL, L.J.J., expressed their opinion to the same effect.

In re MANCHESTER AND MILFORD RAILWAY COMPANY.

The Railway Companies Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 127), s. 4—Petition by Judgment Creditors—Appointment of Receiver and, if necessary, of Manager.

This was an appeal by the Cambrian Railway Company from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall, dismissing a petition presented by them under the Railway Companies Act, 1867, for the appointment of a manager of the Manchester and Milford Railway.

The appellants were judgment creditors of the last-named railway.

An order had been made on the 23rd of July, 1875, appointing the secretary of the company receiver of the company's undertaking, and on the 9th of December, 1875, an order was made in an action brought by some debenture-holders of the company, giving them the benefit of the receivership to the extent of any surplus in his hands, applicable to the payment of their debts.

The petition alleged that the company was not being properly managed for the interest of its creditors; that the directors were all nominees of one Barrow, who was the principal proprietor and shareholder in the railway; that the directors were also directors of the Pembroke and Tenby Railway, of which Barrow was the principal shareholder and debenture-holder, and were forcing traffic over the last-mentioned railway to the injury of the Manchester Railway, and that they were also giving an unfair preference to one particular coal company, which had the effect of discouraging competition on the part of other coal proprietors.

A large number of affidavits were filed in support of the allegations contained in the petition.

The Vice-Chancellor dismissed the petition with costs, on the ground that notwithstanding the charges contained in the petition, it was not a case in which under the Act it was necessary that a manager should be appointed.

The Cambrian Company appealed.

G. Hastings, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the appellants.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that the 4th section of the Act of 1867 not only prevented the rolling stock, &c. of railway companies from being taken in execution, but gave new rights to judgment creditors of such companies—rights independent of the question whether the companies had or had not rolling stock, &c. Under that section any judgment creditor could obtain the appointment of a receiver, and, if necessary, a manager. The words were not "if expedient," or "if desirable," and having regard to the distinction between a receiver and manager in the ordinary practice of the Court, to the words "due provision," and "if necessary," the construction of the section must be that in any case where the business of a railway company is to be carried on, a manager must necessarily be appointed. As a general rule all or some of the board of directors, if acting fairly, would be chosen by the Court to act as such managers.

The case was ordered to be referred to the Vice-Chancellor to appoint a manager or managers, without prejudice to the directors proposing themselves or any one of their number to act as such managers or manager. The costs of the appellants below and on the appeal to be added to their debt, except so far as they had been increased by the evidence, the whole of the costs of such evidence being left to the discretion of the Vice-Chancellor.

DAVEY AND ANOTHER v. RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE COMPANY. In re ARBITRATION BETWEEN.

Submission to Arbitration—Rule of Court.

This was an appeal by the representatives of William Davies, deceased, against the decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall, dismissing an application to make a submission to arbitration a rule of Court (ante, p. 80).

Renshaw, for the appellants.

Northmore Lawrence, for the company.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that the order of the Vice-Chancellor if allowed to stand would prevent the appellants from enforcing the award, if subsequently made in their favour, and accordingly varied the order by directing the submission to be made a rule of Court. They at the same time agreed with the Vice-Chancellor in thinking that the application was unnecessary and premature. The appellants to pay the costs in the Court below. No order as to costs of the appeal.

WARD v. HALL.

April 14.

Practice—Reference under Judicature Act, 1873, s. 57—Question of Fact so mixed up with Matter of Account as practically not to be dissevered.

Appeal from the judgment of the Exchequer Division in favour of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff was a builder and the defendant a tenant farmer. The action was brought on a builder's bill to recover the price of certain repairs and alterations done to several farm buildings on a contract with the defendant. The defendant denied his liability.

On a summons compulsory to refer the questions in the action to an official referee under s. 57 of the Judicature Act, 1873, the master dismissed the summons. On appeal the judge at chambers made an order which the Divisional Court affirmed, on the ground that the issue of fact was so mixed up with matters of account that they could not practically be dissevered. The plaintiff appealed.

W. Graham, for the defendant.

Forbes, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Brett and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the Exchequer Division had laid down the correct principle under which cases could be referred to the official referee under s. 57 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and they declined to interfere with the decision the Divisional Court had arrived at.

COTTON, L.J., concurred that the principle laid down in the Exchequer Division was correct, but that there was in the present case a contract of liability independent of account which ought not to have been referred to the official referee.

SHOETENSACK v. PRICH & Co.

April 15.

Practice—Appeal, setting down—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII. r. 8.

Order of the Divisional Court from which the plaintiff appealed was made on the 10th of March. Notice of appeal was given to the defendants on the 25th; appeal was set down for hearing on the 31st of March.

McLeod, for the defendants, objected to the appeal being heard, and contended that it had been abandoned. Under Order LVIII. r. 8, the appeal ought to have been set down for hearing on the 30th of March, the day before the hearing.

Moulton, for the plaintiffs, contended that as the 31st of March was in vacation, and the appeal could not be heard until the 6th of April it was not an abandoned appeal.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the contention on behalf of the plaintiffs was right, and overruled the objection. They heard the appeal and reversed the decision of the Divisional Court.

Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Time for taking Objection—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 72.

This was an appeal by the trustee in the bankruptcy from a decision of the Chief Judge (13 Ch. D. 603).

E. Cloper Willis, and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for the respondent, the mortgagee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held, on the authority of Ex parte Swinbanks (11 Ch. D. 525), that the objection to the exercise of the jurisdiction under s. 72, even if it were well founded, had been taken too late. And, as the motion for a new trial had been refused in the County Court, and there had been no appeal from that refusal, the finding of the jury could not now be impeached, and the order for cancellation of the instruments in question was the only order that could be made on that finding. The order of the Chief Judge must therefore be discharged, and that of the County Court restored.

JONES v. HOPE AND OTHERS.

April 16.

Contract, Parties to—Evidence of—Rule to enter Judgment for Plaintiff.

Appeal from refusal of the Common Pleas Division to enter judgment for the plaintiff, upon facts found by the jury. The Court below ordered a new trial.

The plaintiff was a solicitor, and the defendants were the officers of a volunteer regiment.

The action was brought by the plaintiff for his bill of costs;

the jury found that the plaintiff was retained by the defendant Durnford (who was the colonel of the regiment) as representing the corps, and that the business was done by the plaintiff on the credit of the corps.

E. Clarke, Q.C., and Walpole, for the plaintiff.

Sir H. S. Giffard, S.G., Wills, Q.C., and Cunynghame, for Major Burs.

Collins, Q.C., and Wilberforce, for the defendant Durnford.

The defendant Hope appeared in person.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that there could be no contract legally binding on the corps, and that there was no evidence of a contract with the defendants personally, and that the judgment ought to be entered for the defendants. They reversed the decision of the Common Pleas Division.

SAFFRON WALDEN BUILDING SOCIETY v. RAYNER.

Mortgage—Priority—Notice to Solicitors of Trustees.

This was an appeal by Hardy and Cornell from a judgment of Vice Chancellor Bacon (10 Ch. D. 696).

Bristowe, Q.C., and Everitt, for the appellants.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Warmington, for the plaintiffs.

Hemming, Q.C., and Bush, for Stevens and Bawtree.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that notice of the plaintiffs' incumbrance to the solicitors of the trustees was not notice to the trustees, and that it was not proved that the notice had been communicated to the trustees themselves in such a way as to give them to understand that it was something to which they were bound to have regard in the administration of the trust. It was accordingly held that as regarded the personal estate the plaintiffs were to be postponed to the other incumbrancers who had given notice to the trustees.

ANDERSON AND ANOTHER v. OPPENHEIMER.

Lessor and Lessee—Covenant for Quiet Enjoyment.

Appeal from judgment of Field, J., in favour of the defendant. Action on a covenant for quiet enjoyment.

The defendant demised to the plaintiffs the lower portion of a house with a covenant for quiet enjoyment, having let to other tenants the first and second floors. In the upper part of the house was a cistern, which supplied with water the different floors by means of a main pipe, from which smaller pipes branched off. One of these in the upper floor burst, and an overflow of water having occurred the plaintiffs sustained injury from the water. The jury found that the defendant had not been guilty of negligence in the construction of the pipes.

Morgan Lloyd, Q.C., and R. M. Phillips, for the plaintiffs.

Joseph Brown, Q.C., and Jelf, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the cistern and pipes were for the benefit of all the tenants occupying the house, and as the plaintiffs were aware of their existence before the demise to him, he could not recover.

ARNOLD v. ARNOLD.

Vendor and Purchaser—Misdescription—Want of Title to Part—Compensation.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls refusing to discharge a purchaser who had bought lot 18 of estates sold under an order in the action. Part of this lot was described in the particulars as "490a Bottlesy Green, containing 7A. 1R. 27P." but opposite to this description, in the column containing the amounts of the parcels, was "4A. 0B. 38P." Annexed to the particulars was a plan. The parcel numbered 490a on the plan was coloured as if the whole of it was included in the sale, but on inspection of the plan it appeared that it contained much more than 4 acres. The conditions provided that any misdescription in the particulars should not annul the sale, and that no compensation should be allowed in respect of it except such (if any) as the judge in chambers should direct. It turned out that the testator in the cause was only entitled to four undivided sevenths of this plot which contained 7A. 1R. 27P. The purchaser deposed that it was important for him to have the whole of this close on account of its situation with regard to his other property, and of its having an extensive frontage to a road. The parties to the cause proposed to give the purchaser the whole of the close under an arrangement that the owner of the other three-sevenths should give up his three-sevenths, receiving an equivalent out of another part of the lot. The purchaser did not contend that when he bought he believed the field to be seven acres. The Master of the Rolls gave the purchaser an option to complete with compensation, or with the benefit of the above arrangement, and the purchaser, without prejudice to an appeal, accepted the latter alternative.

Ince, Q.C., and E. T. Holland, for the appellant.

M. R. CHRISTIE v. NOBLE. April 16.

Partnership Action—Arbitration—Agreement for Reference—Power to revoke Agreement—Common Law Procedure Act, s. 11.

This was an action claiming the ordinary partnership accounts after a notice of dissolution in consequence of the insolvency of one of the partners.

The defendant now moved, under s. 11 of the Common Law Procedure Act, to stay proceedings, on the ground that the partners had agreed by their partnership deed to refer all accounts and other matters in dispute to arbitration. The plaintiff opposed the motion, on the ground that he had executed a deed-poll purporting to revoke the agreement to refer.

Davey, Q.C., and H. Greenwood, for the motion, relied upon Piercy v. Young (recently before the Court of Appeal, but unreported) and Moffat v. Cornelius (26 W. R.).

Chitty, Q.C., and Rigby, for the plaintiff, relied upon In re Rouse & Meter (Law Rep. 6 C. P. 212), and Randell v. Thompson (1 Q. B. D. 748).

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said he was bound by the decision of the Court of Appeal in Piercy v. Young. Although a particular submission to arbitration might be revoked, a partner could no more revoke a general agreement to refer than he could revoke any other contract in the partnership articles. In Randell v. Thompson the only agreement was one referring disputes to a specified arbitrator. Here there was a continuing agreement to refer; and it was in his power to order a reference which could not be revoked. He should therefore make an order staying proceedings.

Higgins, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the trustee of the settlement, who was also the executor of the will, opposed.

V.-C. M. CRAWCOUR v. SALTER. April 17

Bill of Sale—Act of Bankruptcy—Order and Disposition—Hiring Agreement—Custom of Hiring.

This was an action by the plaintiff, an upholsterer, against the trustee in bankruptcy of W. and F. J. Salter, lessees and proprietors of the Queen's Hotel, Ventnor, to carry into effect a deed of January 7th, 1878, by which the Salters assigned to the plaintiff all the lease, fixtures, furniture, and stock in trade of the hotel to secure the repayment of about 3000*l.* advanced by and owing to the plaintiff, including money due under an agreement to let on hire to the Salters the furniture in the hotel. The plaintiff had, in April, 1877, provided the greater part of the furniture upon a hiring agreement, under which the value of the goods was to be paid for by monthly instalments, and when the money was all paid the furniture was to belong to the hirers, but till then to remain the property of the plaintiffs, with power to distrain and retake possession in case of failure to pay the instalments or upon becoming bankrupts. The Salters failed to pay the instalments, and thereupon the deed of January 7, 1878, was executed, soon after which the Salters became bankrupts. The deed being a mortgage and bill of sale was registered under the Bills of Sale Act.

Glasse, Q.C., and Stock, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and J. Beaumont, for the trustee in bankruptcy.

E. Cutler, for Crawcour's trustee in liquidation.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the deed of January 7, 1878, being an assignment of everything possessed by the Salters without any equivalent consideration was an act of bankruptcy, and was void as to all the personal estate, but that the furniture lent under the hiring agreement not having been paid for remained the property of the plaintiff; and there being a custom that under a hiring agreement the goods hired are taken out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt, the furniture did not pass to the trustee in bankruptcy, but such trustee was entitled to all the personalty in the possession of the bankrupt except the before-mentioned furniture. The deed, however, remained valid so far as it was a mortgage of the lease of the hotel: Ex parte Powell (1 Ch. D. 501, 505); Ex parte Crawcour (9 Ch. D. 421). No costs on either side.

Civil Servant—Superannuation—22 Vict. c. 26, s. 2.

This was a demurrer to a petition of right by a former civil servant of the Crown, claiming a larger superannuation than had been granted by the Lords of the Treasury.

Sir John Holker, A.G., and Rigby, in support of the demurrer. J. Pearson, Q.C., and Macmillan, for the suppliant.

HIS LORDSHIP held that under the Acts 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 24, & 22 Vict. c. 26, s. 2, the decision of the Lords of the Treasury in such cases was final. There was no legal remedy, and the suppliant had no excuse for applying to the Court. The demurrer must be allowed with costs.

V.-C. B. BOLTON v. FERRO. April 8.
Bankruptcy—Composition Deed—Secured Creditor—Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 197.

Samuel Bolton, by letter dated the 28th of January, 1864, stated that he thereby transferred to the defendants Ferro and Hunt a policy on his own life for 200*l.* in the Union Office, to be held by them as a security against all current debts and interest claimed by them from him.

On the 4th of November, 1864, Samuel Bolton executed a composition deed, made between himself of the first part, a surety of the second part, a former inspector of his estate of the third part, creditors signing and sealing of the fourth part, the said parties of the fourth part and all other creditors of the fifth part, and a trustee of the sixth part, whereby in consideration of a composition of 10*s.* in the pound, covenanted by S. Bolton and the surety to be paid, the creditors released S. Bolton "his heirs, executors, administrators, estate and effects, of and from the amounts of their respective now existing debts, and of and from all actions, suits, claims, and demands whatsoever for or in respect of the same." The deed contained a proviso that "nothing herein contained shall prevent the said creditors or any of them from enforcing or otherwise obtaining the full benefit and advantage of any charge or lien which they or any of them now have or hath upon any estate or effects whatsoever" . . . and that "as to any debt or debts for which any creditor or creditors may . . . hold or have any estate or effects of the said Samuel Bolton, such creditor or creditors respectively shall be entitled to the composition hereby provided, on or in respect of the amount of such debt or debts, after allowing for and deducting the value of such charges or liens as aforesaid."

This deed was duly registered under s. 197 of the Act of 1861. The defendants executed the deed as creditors for 229*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.* They valued the policy at 16*l.*, and were paid 106*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*, being the composition of 10*s.* on the balance.

In September, 1878, Samuel Bolton died intestate, and administration was granted to the plaintiff, his widow. Thereupon the defendants claimed the whole debt of 229*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.*, less the 106*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.* They also claimed interest for fourteen years at 5 per cent on the balance, and the policy premiums with interest at 5 per cent.

The officer, being threatened with proceedings, paid the money into Court.

Hemming, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the plaintiff:—Registration under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, imported all the rules of bankruptcy, one of which was, that if a secured creditor proved for the whole or any part of his debt, he must abandon his security for so much as he proved for.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Daniel Jones, for the defendants:—The rule in bankruptcy referred to was a rule for the benefit of creditors, to enable them all to take pari passu. This is a claim on behalf of the estate of the debtor. The debtor has escaped bankruptcy by force of a contract, by the terms of which we were to have the full benefit and advantage of our charge, and it would be inequitable that he should be allowed to take the value of the security without paying the debt.

Hemming, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that this was a case not of bankruptcy, but of composition, but that the principles which governed the two classes of cases did not conflict. This was a contract, whereby, in consideration of the payment of 10*s.* in the pound, the debtor was to be freed and for ever discharged from his debt. The creditors agreed to remain secured creditors for 16*l.*, and for no more. For the rest they took a composition, which fully and completely discharged the debtor from the rest of the debt. There would be a declaration that the defendants were creditors for 16*l.* and interest and no more; and that upon payment of that amount, and also of the premiums, with 5*l.* interest on each, and mortgagees' costs, the plaintiff was entitled to redeem. There would be no order as to the costs of the action.

V.-C. B. HODGSON v. WILLIAMSON. April 9.
Married Woman—Separate Estate—General Engagements.

In this action for the administration of the trusts of the will of Mary Barber, deceased, by a person who claimed to be a creditor upon her separate estate, and was also her legal personal representative (having obtained administration with the will annexed) two questions were raised:—(1.) Whether moneys advanced for the support of a married woman living separate from her husband were debts binding her separate estate; (2.) Whether such debts, being payable out of funds held in trust for her separate use, could be barred by the Statute of Limitations.

In September, 1866, a separation deed was executed between Mary Barber and her husband, by which certain property became vested in the defendant upon trust as to the income for Mary Barber for life for her separate use; and as to the corpus, after her death as she should by deed or will appoint.

Nothing was ever paid to Mary Barber under the separation deed, and being in a destitute condition, moneys for her board, lodging, and support had been advanced to her by the plaintiff, who upon her death in March, 1870, also paid her funeral expenses.

In 1871 the suit of Barber v. Williamson was instituted for the purpose of administering the trusts of the separation deed. A sum of 3500*l.* having been unexpectedly received in another suit, the chief clerk, in July, 1877, certified that the property which was subject to the trusts of the separation deed consisted of this sum; and in November, 1877, the sum of 3500*l.* was ordered to be carried over in moieties to the separate accounts of the appointees under the will of Mary Barber. In 1873, the plaintiff obtained letters of administration with the will annexed to the estate of Mary Barber, and by this action claimed repayment out of the fund representing her separate estate, of the moneys advanced for her support while living separate from her husband.

Osborne Morgan, Q.C., and Finch, for the plaintiff.

Sir H. M. Jackson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Mary Barber's separate estate was liable for payment of the plaintiff's claim; and also that such claim being against her property as a trust fund was not barred by the Statute of Limitations.

V.-C. B. EARL DE LA WARR v. MILES. April 11.
Right of Common—Common Pasturage and Herbage—Jus secundi vel falcidii.

Action by plaintiff, as owner of the soil of Ashdown Forest in Sussex, to try the right of the commoners in the forest to cut and carry away brakes, fern, heather, and litter growing in the forest, for the use of their tenements.

The forest, which included about 13,991 acres, of which the Kings and Queens of England were seized in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, was disafforested by Charles II. in 1661, and granted by him to the plaintiff's predecessors in title.

In 1691 litigation took place between the owners of the soil of the forest and the commoners, and by a decree made in 1693 about 7500 acres of the forest were allotted to the owners of the soil freed of common rights, while the residue, consisting of 6400 acres, was allotted to remain open and unenclosed, so that the commoners should have and take "that sole common pasturage and herbage of all and every the lands, &c, allotted and left for common as aforesaid," and that the owners "should be for ever excluded from having or claiming any common of pasture or herbage upon or in the said lands so left for common as aforesaid."

The plaintiff contended that under this decree of 1693, which fixed and settled the rights of the commoners, the defendants and the other commoners were only entitled to exercise over the 6400 acres (1) a right of pasture for their cattle; (2) in some cases only, a right of estovers of birch, willow, and alder growing on the open lands.

Defendants contended that under this decree the commoners had the right to take the herbage of the 6400 acres either by the mouths of their cattle or by hand as they might deem best; and that they had also the right to cut and carry away the brakes, fern, and heather growing on the forest to litter their yards and manure and improve their lands and tenements; and further, that this right having been exercised without substantial interruption by and with the acquiescence of the plaintiff's predecessors for more than sixty years, a prescriptive right to take litter from the forest had been acquired.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Elton, for the plaintiff.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Q.C., R. E. Webster, Q.C., and P. H. Laurence, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that upon the evidence antecedent to 1693 there was no trace of a claim of right by the commoners to cut and carry away pasture, or herbage, or brakes, heather, or litter, and that there was more than negative evidence that no such right was ever claimed or lawfully exercised. The rights of the parties were entirely and finally disposed of by the decree of 1693, and under it, in his opinion, the commoners were only entitled to the right of taking the growth of the soil by the mouths of their cattle and for the nourishment of their cattle only. The defendants' claim under the Prescription Act, based upon sixty years enjoyment, to take litter from the forest for use on their own tenements, being a claim of profit à prendre in alieno solo, could not upon the authorities be supported. There was no ground upon which it could be held that at any time there existed within the forest a special custom conferring a right on the commoners to cut and carry away part of the growth of the soil. The usage and practice which were proved to have existed for more than sixty years, and which were not disputed by plaintiff, could not be referred to any custom, prescriptive or otherwise, existing at the date of the decree of 1693, and was referable only to the consent and sufferance of successive tenants for life of lands of which the plaintiff was the absolute owner. The plaintiff was therefore entitled to an injunction, with costs.

Privilege of Parliament—Member of Parliament—Protection from Arrest.

This was a motion on behalf of the liquidator of this company to commit a member of parliament for contempt in not complying with an order of the Chancery Division made in the winding-up of this society, that the member in question should within four days deliver up to the liquidator on oath all moneys, documents, and property of the society which had come to his possession since the commencement of the winding-up.

Alexander Young, in support of the motion.

MacSwinney, for the respondent, objected that privilege of parliament protected a member from arrest except in cases of contempt of a gross or criminal nature, while this was, he contended, a case of mere misapprehension.

A. Young, in reply:—Non-compliance with an order of the Court is a contempt against which privilege of parliament affords no protection.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the objection was well founded, and that non-compliance with the order was not such a contempt as to justify the Court in making an order for committal.

Practice—Notice of Writ in lieu of Service to be given out of the Jurisdiction—Affidavit of Service of—Form of—Rules of Court, 1875, Order II., rr. 4, 5—Order IV., r. 1—Order XL., r. 5.

The defendant in this action was a Syrian resident at Beyrout, and the plaintiff had obtained leave to serve notice of the writ in lieu of service out of the jurisdiction.

Romer, for the plaintiff, stated that there was a difference in the forms of the affidavits of service adopted in the Chancery and Common Law Divisions. According to the form adopted in the Chancery Division the person who effected the service deposed that he had personally served the defendant with "a notice in writing which appeared to me to have been regularly issued out of the Chancery Division," and that "memoranda were subscribed to the said writ, and indorsements were made thereon and on the said notice in the manner and form prescribed by the Rules of the Supreme Court;" and it would be difficult if not impossible to find a person in Syria who could make such a deposition, and a great and needless expense to send a person out for this purpose. According to the form adopted in the Common Law Divisions the deponent merely swore that he had personally served the defendant "with a notice in writing a true copy of which is hereunto annexed." The officials in the Chancery Division would not, without the direction of the Court, accept an affidavit in the common law form, and he applied for such direction accordingly.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the difference between the two forms appeared to be that the one described the notice while the other set out a copy of it. The Common Law form appeared to be at least as good if not better than the Chancery form, and he should adopt it and say it was sufficient.

Will—Construction—Gift to Son who should attain twenty-five—Directions as to Maintenance—Vested or contingent Gift.

Petition.

The testator by will dated in 1866, gave the proceeds of residuary real and personal estate in trust for all his children who being sons should attain twenty-five, or being daughters should attain twenty-one or marry, and to be divided and paid on the youngest child attaining twenty-one, with a power to the trustees to apply the whole or part of the income of the vested or presumptive share of any child entitled in expectancy for his or her maintenance. The testator had one son who was aged twenty-three, and one daughter who had attained twenty-one. The son was about to be married, and being desirous of settling his share under the will, the question arose whether it was vested or contingent.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper:—The youngest child has attained twenty-one, and the effect of the direction for payment on the happening of that event, and of the power to apply the income for maintenance (Fox v. Fox, Law Rep. 19 Eq. 286) is to give him a vested interest.

Hastings, Q.C., and Harvey, for the trustees, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the son took contingently on his attaining twenty-five, observing that Fox v. Fox conflicted with In re Ashmore's Trusts (Law Rep. 9 Eq. 99).

Company in Liquidation—Mortgages—Deed of Trust for Debenture Holders—Priority over General Creditors—Stock in Trade and Book Debts—Future Property.

The Company, Limited, was in process of winding-up. A mortgagee had sold some of the company's property, and had a surplus in his hands, and there were claims made by the debenture holders and the official liquidator. The case came before the Court on a petition by the former for a declaration that they were entitled to a charge in priority to the creditors; and on a summons by the latter, who submitted that the deed under which the debenture holders claimed was bad. By the deed there were assigned to the trustees the leasehold premises, factory, works, and buildings, and also the plant, machinery, engines, utensils, and effects in or upon the land, &c., or used in connection therewith, upon trust to permit the company to hold and enjoy the premises and carry on their manufactures and business therein and therewith until default in payment of the moneys secured, and after default on the request of any holder of a debenture in arrear to sell the premises; and the trustees might sell the said premises with the goodwill, &c., as a going concern. The company covenanted that all lands, &c., and all machinery, &c., which they should at any time thereafter purchase, &c., should be included in the security and be subject to the trusts; and that they would do all acts requisite for vesting such after-acquired lands, &c., in the trustees; but the covenant should not preclude the company on purchasing land from mortgaging the same. The company covenanted that the debenture debt should be a first chargeon "all such after-acquired property," subject to such mortgage for securing the purchase-money; and should take precedence over all moneys which might thereafter be raised. The debentures contained the proviso:—"That this debenture shall not operate to prevent the company from dealing with their property for the purposes and in accordance with the objects and business of the company."

Hastings, Q.C., and J. Bradford, for the debenture-holders.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Millar, Q.C., were for the mortgagee, holding the surplus moneys.

Edds, Q.C., and Buckley, for the liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as regarded after-acquired chattels being included in the deed, there could be no real contention; but he did not think that the words included the book debts then owing to the assignors; the words were however sufficient to include the stock in trade. He could not hold that the power to carry on business should operate to give to ordinary creditors, who supplied goods, a preferential right against property comprised in the debentures over debenture-holders. The declaration asked for on behalf of the debenture-holders would be made as to all the company's property, with the exception of the book debts.

Ex parte MOORE AND ROBINSON'S BANKING COMPANY.

In re ARMYTAGE.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Mortgage of Stone Quarry—Assignment of Tramways and Steam Crane—Registration—Bills of Sale Acts, 1854 & 1878.

Appeal from County Court at Derby.

By a mortgage dated the 10th of December, 1878, a stone quarry, "together with the limekilns, stone-sawing mills, buildings, steam engines, boilers, furnaces, shafts, gearing, motive power, plant, fixed and moveable machinery, apparatus, rails, sleepers, implements, fittings, and fixtures of every description, now or at any time hereafter fixed to or placed upon or used in or about" the quarry, were conveyed, in one testatum, by the debtors, Messrs. Armytage, a banking company, to secure a current account. There was a power to sell the hereditaments and premises thereinbefore expressed to be thereby granted, "or any part or parts thereof, either together or in parcels;" and the mortgagors agreed to attorn as tenants, at the rent of 400*l.* a year.

This deed was never registered as a bill of sale. Prior to the deed the mortgagors had placed on the quarry a tramway and a steam crane. The sleepers of the tramway were stated by one party to be embedded in, and by the other to be merely resting on, the soil. The crane was bolted to two large stones cramped together and laid on a bed of mortar, and was supported by two beams of timber called guys, the ends of which were pinned to a bed of natural rock, and piled over with stones. The crane had never been moved since it was first erected.

On the 10th of June, 1879, the first instalment of half-yearly rent was not paid, and on the 22nd of July the mortgagors presented a liquidation petition.

The trustee claimed both the tramways and the crane.

The learned County Court Judge, by the decree appealed from, dated the 14th of February, 1880, adjudged the crane to be the property of the mortgagees, and the tram-road to be the property of the trustee, as representing the estate of the mortgagors.

Either party appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Arnold Morley, for the mortgagees:—Upon the evidence these things were fixed to the freehold. The new Bills of Sale Act, though passed at the date of this mortgage, did not come into operation till afterwards, viz., January 1, 1879. Its effect is not retrospective; hence, the old law applies, under which these things would clearly have passed with the freehold as fixtures.

Winslow, Q.C., and Horace Smith, for the trustee:—Both these items of property were moveable chattels, and as the deed purporting to assign them was unregistered, the assignment of them is void against the trustee. The Bills of Sale Act is retrospective, so far as it disposes of the doctrine of Vice-Chancellor Wood in Mather v. Fraser (2 K. & J. 586), and supports that of Ex parte Daglish (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 1072.)

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he quite agreed that the new Bills of Sale Act was retrospective, so far as it applied to the construction of bills of sale, before the statute, and he thought the effect of the enactment was to confirm the decision of Lord Hatherley, when Vice-Chancellor Wood, in Mather v. Fraser. That these things were fixtures he entertained no doubt, and hence that the assignment of them by this deed required no registration. The appeal of the mortgagees must prevail; the other appeal must be dismissed; and the estate must pay the mortgagees' costs.

 Action for Recovery of Land—Service of Writ—Vacant Possession—Rules of Court, Order IX., r. 8.

Appeal of the defendant from a decision of Cockburn, C.J., and Manisty and Bowen, JJ., refusing leave to defend and upholding the judgment by default.

The writ was issued upon the 27th of November, and upon the following day it was affixed to the door of the house sought to be recovered. The defendant was a medical man; and having been previously to 1878 tenant of the house, in that year took a new lease of it from the plaintiff for fourteen years, at the annual rent of 70*l.*, with a premium of 30*l.* The defendant did not sleep at the house, but called there frequently for his letters, and had furniture in the house. Judgment was signed for want of appearance on the 8th of December, and the plaintiff entered on the 12th, and commenced to repair the house. The defendant became aware on the 21st of December that the plaintiff had entered, but he took no step to set aside the judgment until the 7th of February. The Queen's Bench Division held that the defendant ought not to be allowed to defend. The plaintiff claimed to enter, on the ground that the lease had been forfeited by non-payment of rent, omission to repair, and failure to admit a surveyor to inspect the house.

A. Charles, Q.C. (MacIntyre, with him), for the defendant, contended that there was no vacant possession within Order IX. r. 8, and that the defendant ought to be allowed to defend.

Bulwer, Q.C., and Skipper, for the plaintiff, were stopped.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the judgment ought not to be set aside, and dismissed the appeal.

Bill of Sale—Validity—Attestation by Solicitor—Explanation to Grantor—Statement of Consideration—Collateral Agreement as to Application of Advance—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, ss. 8, 10.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, affirming an order of the judge of the Croydon County Court, which declared that a bill of sale executed on the 3rd of March, 1879, by Haynes in favour of the National Mercantile Bank, was void as against the trustee in the liquidation of Haynes under the Bills of Sale Act, 1878.

There were three objections raised to the validity of the deed. The first was, that the occupation of the grantor was not truly stated in the affidavit made on the registration. The grantor was described as a farmer and auctioneer. He had also carried on the business of a bill discounter, and it was alleged that he was still carrying it on when the bill of sale was executed. The second objection was that, though the execution of the bill of sale by the grantor was attested by a solicitor, and the attestation clause stated that before the execution the effect of the deed had been explained to the grantor by the solicitor, some of its provisions had not in fact been explained. The third objection was that the consideration for which the bill of sale was given was not truly set forth in it. The consideration stated was an advance of 2050*l.* by the bank to the grantor on the execution of the deed. It appeared that the grantor had agreed to apply 550*l.*, part of the advance, in taking up some promissory notes and a bill of exchange upon which he was liable to the bank, and which fell due, one in a week, another in a fortnight, and the third in five weeks after the execution of the bill of sale, and that when the 2050*l.* was handed to him, he at once handed back 550*l.* to the bank for that purpose.

The Chief Judge affirmed the order of the county court, mainly on the ground that the grantor was, when the deed was executed, still carrying on the business of a bill discounter, and that, consequently, his occupation was not sufficiently described in the affidavit. The bank appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for the bank.

Hemming, Q.C., and R. Vaughan Williams, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) were of opinion, on the evidence, that the grantor had ceased to carry on the business of a bill discounter before the execution of the deed. The first objection, therefore, failed. And their Lordships were of opinion that sect. 10 of the Act only requires that the attestation clause shall state that the effect of the deed has been explained, and that it does not require that the explanation shall in fact have been given, and if it did require that, still sect. 8 did not make the bill of sale void against any one by reason of the omission of the explanation. And, as to the consideration, the Act only requires that to be stated which, independently of the Act, would have been properly stated as the consideration between the grantor and the grantee; it does not require a collateral bargain between the grantor and the grantee as to the application of the consideration to be stated. The order declaring the bill of sale void was accordingly discharged.

Appeal—Objection as to Time—Costs—Affidavit filed after Appeal set down.

On this appeal being opened,

Underhill, Q.C., and R. Vaughan Williams, for the respondent, objected that the notice of appeal had been given too late.

E. Cooper Willis, for the appellants, admitted that this was so, but urged that as the respondent meant to rely on this objection, he ought not to have filed, as he had done, affidavits in reply to some new affidavits filed by the appellants in support of their appeal, and that the appellants ought not to pay the costs of the respondent's affidavits in reply.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal with costs, except the costs of the new affidavits in reply.

M. R. BLAKE v. BLAKE. April 22.

Settlement—Power of Appointment—Real Estate—Sale and Reinvestment in Stock—Whether testamentary Appointment of Real Estate passed Investments—Gale v. Gale (21 Beav. 349) considered.

By an indenture dated the 10th of April, 1860, James Bunbury Blake, and the plaintiff Catharine his wife, and the defendant George Pilkington Blake, her only child, being the parties then interested under the marriage settlement of the said J. B. Blake and Catharine Blake, concurred in releasing certain manors and hereditaments, described in the schedules to the now stating indenture, from the trusts of the marriage settlement, except the power of sale therein, and resettling the same after the decease of the survivor of them the said J. B. Blake and Catharine Blake, as to a moiety, to such uses as the said

J. B. Blake should by deed or will appoint, with remainder to the use of the said G. P. Blake in fee.

Parts of the real estate subject to the deed of 1860, were sold with the consent of the said J. B. Blake, the proceeds being received by the trustees thereof and invested in 11,428^l. India stock.

J. B. Blake died on the 15th of July, 1874, having shortly after the sale of the real estate made his will, dated the 19th of July, 1873, whereby, after reciting the settlement of 1860, he appointed that after the deaths of himself and his wife a moiety of the "manors and other hereditaments" described in the schedules to that settlement should remain to the use of trustees for 500 years upon certain trusts, with remainder to the use of his son the said G. P. Blake in fee; and, subject to the appointment he had made of the moiety of the said manors and other hereditaments, he devised and bequeathed all the real and personal estate of or to which he might be seised or entitled, or over which he might have any power of appointment, to his wife, whom he appointed his executrix.

This was an action by J. B. Blake's widow against his son, the said G. P. Blake, claiming that she was absolutely entitled as her husband's residuary legatee and appointee to one moiety of the 11,428^l. India stock, and a transfer to her accordingly.

Chitty, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the plaintiff, relied on Gale v. Gale (21 Beav. 349).

Davey, Q.C., and Whitehorn, for the defendant, contended that the appointment by J. B. Blake to his son was sufficient to pass not only a moiety of the real estate remaining unsold, but also a moiety of the investments representing the real estate which had been sold.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that considering Gale v. Gale had been decided so long ago, and had got into all the text-books, and as the criticism on that case by Lord St. Leonards (Sugd. Pow. 8th ed. 308-9) did not apply to the present case, and looking also at the language of the testamentary appointment, he should hold that the moiety in the India Stock passed to the widow under the residuary gift, and not to the son under the appointment.

NOBEL'S EXPLOSIVES COMPANY v. JONES, SCOTT, & Co.

Practice—Amendment at the Hearing.

Action for alleged infringement of a patent for rendering nitro-glycerine safer for use by causing it to be absorbed in porous unexplosive substances, and thus giving it the property of being insensible to shocks.

The case made by the statement of claim was that the plaintiffs had discovered that the defendants Jones, Scott, & Co., had purchased from Krebs & Co. of Cologne large quantities of a substance called "litho-fracteur," which is a compound of nitro-glycerine absorbed in porous unexplosive substances, and that below Gravesend they had transhipped this substance from the vessels in which it was brought from Germany to ships sailing for Australia, where it was sold on behalf of the defendants. And it was contended that trans-shiping the litho-fracteur from the German to the Australian ship was an infringement of the patent, inasmuch as it would have been impossible, having regard to the statutes relating to explosives, to have brought nitro-glycerine within the territorial limits of Great Britain, and to have trans-shiped or stored it without making the substance safe by means of the patented invention of which the plaintiffs were the owners by assignment.

It appeared by the defendants' evidence that the defendants were not themselves the importers, but had only cleared the nitro-glycerine as agents for Krebs & Co., of Cologne, who had a magazine at Bonfleet, in Essex, and that what they had done was to apply in their own names at the Custom House to be allowed to trans-ship the goods at Gravesend by passing the goods from the German ship to a lighter, and then to Krebs & Co.'s magazine.

When this evidence was given, Aston, Q.C., and E. Cutler, on behalf of the plaintiffs, asked leave to amend, as the nature of the transaction now appeared for the first time; and it now turned out, assuming the statements made in evidence to be correct, that the defendants, Jones, Scott, & Co., had not imported the nitro-glycerine in their own interest, but had acted merely as agents of Krebs & Co. The defendants could not have been prejudiced by the plaintiffs not having in the first instance charged them with doing that which they knew they had done.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and L. M. Goodeve, for the defendants, contended that an amendment at this stage of the proceedings could not be allowed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the amendment must be allowed. The statement of claim did not state anything upon which there could be a decision pronounced upon the defence now presented, viz., that in their dealings with litho-fracteur the defendants had acted merely as agents for Krebs & Co., and not on their own account. Plaintiffs would be at liberty to amend their statement of claim not adding further evidence.

The amendment having been made, the arguments proceeded. Judgment reserved.

Orders for Payment of Costs by a Solicitor not obeyed—Substituted Service—Motion for a Writ of Attachment—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLIV.—Service of Notice of Motion at Respondent's Chambers—Costs of Motion as between Solicitor and Client—Form of Order made.

On the 28th of November, 1879, an order was made that proceedings should be stayed, and that the plaintiff's solicitor, S. G. A., should pay to the defendants their costs in the action as between solicitor and client, it being considered that the action was frivolous, vexatious, and an abuse of the process of the Court. The costs were taxed at 52^l. 14s., and a subpoena was issued.

On the 27th of February, 1880, an order was made for substituted service of the former order and the subpoena, and for payment of 3^l. 11s. 2d., the costs of that application. Substituted service having been made and the costs remaining unpaid,

H. Gaselee, for the defendants, now moved for leave to issue a writ of attachment against S. G. A. He stated that service of the notice of motion was effected by leaving it with a clerk of the respondent at his chambers in the Temple, his residence not being known, but an attempt to discover it had been made. Sufficient, it was submitted, had been done: In re a Solicitor (ante, p. 43); Browning v. Subin (5 Ch. D. 511). The orders for the payment of costs were within the fourth exception of the 4th section of the Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62), the respondent being a solicitor—an officer of the Court—who had been ordered to pay the costs for misconduct: Jenkins v. Fereday (Law Rep. 7 C. P. 358-359). The order made on this motion should provide for the costs of the attachment: Abud v. Riches (2 Ch. D. 528); and as between solicitor and client: Beall v. Smith (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 85-97); Rules of Court, 1875, Form Appendix F. 9, and April, 1880, Schedule, Forms H. 46 and 47.

The respondent did not appear.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order upon the motion for non-payment of sums of 52^l. 14s. and 3^l. 11s. 2d., and an order for the payment of costs as between solicitor and client of the motion and of the attachment, doubting whether looking at the Debtors Act (ubi supra), the respondent could be committed until the payment of such costs; and directing that the order should not be drawn up for a week, and that the respondent should have notice that it had been made, and that at the end of a week it would be drawn up and acted upon.

Company in Liquidation—Contempt of Court by Member of Parliament—Motion to commit—Privilege of Parliament after a Dissolution.

On the 24th of March a motion was made to commit for contempt of Court Mr. J. Fortescue Harrison, a member of the parliament which on that day was prorogued, and later on the same day dissolved. The new parliament, for the election of members of which the writs were issued on the 24th of March, being ordered to meet on the 29th of April, 1880. The contempt alleged was the failure to pay certain moneys and to deliver certain documents to the liquidator of the company under an order made in the winding-up. The Vice-Chancellor on that occasion held that Mr. Harrison was entitled to the privilege of parliament, and refused the motion with costs.

A renewed notice of motion for the same purpose was given for Tuesday, the 6th of April, and notice was also given that the affidavits used on the 24th of March would be read as against Mr. Harrison. On the 6th of April the motion was saved, and it came on to be heard upon this the next motion day.

Alexander Young, for the liquidator, stated that Mr. Harrison was not now a member of parliament and that he had not been a candidate for any constituency, and he moved for an order of committal.

Hastings, Q.C., and McSwinnery, for Mr. Harrison, objected that this was an attempt to obtain a re-hearing of the motion which was refused on the 24th of March, as no new affidavits had been filed, and that Mr. Harrison was entitled to privilege of parliament for forty days after the dissolution, though he had not been re-elected a member. The authorities shewed that there must be a convenient time—a time certain—to enable a member to return home, and that time had been, as admitted, for two centuries, forty days.

A. Young submitted that the time to be allowed after a dissolution had never been defined by parliament or determined by the Courts of Law. The privilege was allowed to secure the attendance of members in parliament. Mr. Harrison was not a member. He resided at Richmond, Surrey, and was not entitled to the privilege claimed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said no case had been cited where, after a dissolution, the Courts had held that a person who was a member of the late parliament and who had not been elected to the new parliament was entitled to the privilege. There seemed, however, to be a tradition that forty days was the time to be allowed to enable a member to return home. In the case of Goudy v. Duncombe (1 Ex. Rep. 480) which had been referred to, it was laid down that a member was entitled to freedom from arrest for forty days both after and before the meeting of parliament, and whether after a prorogation or a dissolution; he should therefore hold that the motion was irregular and must be refused with costs. The other objection was not sound. The refusal of the motion on the 24th of March was no bar to the present motion.

Statute of Limitations—Discontinuance—Secret Adverse Possession.

This was an action to restrain the defendants from digging so as to interfere with the plaintiffs' enjoyment of an underground cellar, which was excavated underground, which had belonged to the defendants, and the question arose whether an adverse possession of sixty years gave the plaintiffs a possessory title to the cellar; the defendants' contention being that the excavation of the cellar was secret and unknown to them, and therefore since there was no negligent discontinuance on their part, the statute did not run against the defendants in favour of the plaintiffs, and they relied on observations of Field, J., in the case of Adnam v. The Earl of Sandwich (2 Q. B. D. 488).

Coleson, Q.C., Everitt, and Lockwood, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Cracknell, for the defendants.

Fry, J., held that in the absence of fraud a discontinuance for the statutory period gave a possessory title, although it might be unknown to the former owner, and considering that the circumstances in this case were not such as to import fraud, he gave judgment in favour of the plaintiffs.

Special Case.

At a municipal election the petitioners were nominated as candidates for the office of councillors by burgesses of the borough, but in the nomination paper containing the names of the burgesses assenting to the nomination the number of one of them on the burgess roll was incorrectly stated as 695, whereas the number on the burgess roll was 704.

The mistake arose from the erroneous number having been taken from an uncorrected proof of the burgess roll; no person was or could be misled by the inaccuracy in the nomination paper. All other particulars were rightly stated in it. Objection was made to it, and the mayor, as returning officer, allowed the objection, and declared the respondents, who were the only other candidates, duly elected.

The question was whether the decision of the mayor was right. Sir H. James, Q.C. (Hopwood, Q.C., and Aspland, with him) for the petitioners, contended that the provision of 38 & 39 Vict. c. 40, s. 2, that the "nomination paper shall be in the form No. 2, set forth in the first schedule to this Act, or to the like effect," and that the requirement in the note to that form of the number on the burgess roll, were merely directory; or that 41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 41, applying s. 13 of the Ballot Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 33, s. 13), to noncompliance with the provisions of, or a mistake in the use of the forms, enabled the mistake to be rectified.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) were of opinion that the provisions of the 38 & 39 Vict. c. 40, s. 2, Sched. METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAY COMPANY v. SHARPE. Costs.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had affirmed a decision of Mr. Justice Manisty. Mrs. Sharpe had brought an action against the company for deterioration in the value of a house through the works of the company. An arbitrator appointed by the Board of Trade had awarded her damages, but had said nothing about costs. The plaintiff's solicitor presented a bill for costs and made an appointment to tax them, but the company objected that the master had no jurisdiction in the matter. They were not taxed. An action was brought for the costs, and Mr. Justice Manisty pronounced for the plaintiff and ordered the amount to be ascertained by the master. The Court of Appeal affirmed (but with a variation which affected a part of the respondent's claim where she had not been successful) the finding and order of Mr. Justice Manisty. The case was then brought up here.

Sir H. Giffard, Q.C., and Mr. E. H. Pollard, were heard for the company.

Mr. W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Mr. E. G. Man, were for the respondent, but were not called on.

Married Woman—Next Friend—Security for Costs—Order XVI, r. 8.

A married woman, the tenant for life under her marriage settlement, brought an action by a next friend against the surviving trustee of her marriage settlement, and executors of a deceased trustee, for an account of the trust funds. The defendant's executors submitted to the appointment of a receiver. Immediately afterwards they took out a summons that the next friend should give security for the costs of the action, alleging that they had then for the first time ascertained that the next friend was a domestic servant in the employ of the married woman, and was a pauper.

The Vice-Chancellor Bacon dismissed the application, on the ground that the matter was governed by the old practice in Chancery, and that as the executors had consented to a material step in the action they had by submitting to the appointment of a receiver waived their right to security for costs.

The executors appealed.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.J.J.) by consent of the parties, directed the writ to be amended, under Order XVI, r. 8, by striking out the name of the next friend, and leaving the married lady to sue alone. Their Lordships also intimated that the old practice both at Common Law and in Chancery with respect to a next friend giving security for costs was superseded by Order XVI, r. 8, under which the Court had a judicial discretion to allow a married woman to sue alone with or without giving security for costs, and to direct a next friend to give security for costs at any time in a proper case.

This was an appeal by the liquidator from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (ante, p. 60), holding on the facts there stated that one Rowland to whom shares had been allotted direct by the company as fully paid-up at the request of one Rees, ought not to be placed on the list of contributories of the company.

H. B. Buckley (Sir H. Jackson with him), for the appellant.

Cozens-Hardy, for Rowland, contended (1) that Rowland was entitled to the benefit of the arrangement between Rees and the company, and therefore the shares had been paid for in cash; (2) that the allotment of the shares as fully paid-up to Rowland at the request of Rees placed Rowland in the position of a transferee of fully paid-up shares within the principle of Curling's Case (1 Ch. D. 115), and Burkinshaw v. Nicholls (3 App. Cas. 1004).

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.J.J.) reversed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor, being of opinion that as there was no registered agreement the shares had not been paid for in cash, for at no moment of time was there a debt on the one side which could be set off against a debt on the other. Further, Rowland was not a transferee but the original allottee of the shares, and took them with constructive notice of the arrangement between Rees and the Company. Curling's Case did not apply, for there the judgment proceeded on the fact that there was a registered agreement. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Contingent Liability—Separation Deed—Annuity covenanted to be paid by Husband to Trustees for Wife—“Incapable of being fairly estimated”—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 31.

In the liquidation of W. Batey the trustees of a separation deed which he had executed claimed to prove for the estimated value of an annuity of 350*l.* a year which he had by the deed contracted to pay to the trustees, during the joint lives of himself and his wife, for her benefit, for her separate use without power of anticipation. The annuity was determinable in case the wife should cease to lead a chaste life, and in case the husband and wife should resume cohabitation; and, in case of the wife becoming entitled to any income independent of the husband exceeding 350*l.* a year, the payments of the annuity were to be diminished to an amount equal to the amount of the excess of her independent income beyond 350*l.* a year.

Mr. Registrar Murray, as Chief Judge, rejected the proof, on the ground that the value of the liability was incapable of being fairly estimated. The trustees of the deed appealed.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the trustees in the liquidation.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that the value of the liability was capable of estimation, and that the proof must be admitted. The trustees in the liquidation were entitled to have the value estimated by a jury if they insisted on it.

Mining—Easement—Right of Owner of Surface to Support.

Appeal of plaintiff from the judgment of Lord Coleridge, C.J., in favour of the defendant Traherne.

Appeal of the defendant Davis from the judgment in favour of the plaintiff.

The defendant Traherne had leased certain building land to the plaintiff who had erected buildings thereon, and the defendant Traherne had also leased the minerals to the defendant Davis, who had covenanted with the defendant Traherne to work the mines in the usual and approved manner according to the way in which mines were worked in Glamorganshire. The defendant Davis in working the mines had let down the surface and injured the plaintiff's land and buildings.

In an action against both defendants the plaintiff contended that he was entitled to the support of the surface of his land and buildings as an incident of property, and that the defendant Davis having removed the minerals and injured the surface was liable to him in damages, and that the defendant Traherne was also liable in that he had authorized Davis to work and get the minerals. Lord Coleridge, C.J., decided, on the construction of the surface lease and of the mining lease, that the defendant Davis was liable in the action, but that the defendant Traherne was not liable. He directed judgment to be entered for the plaintiff against Davis for 700*l.* and costs, and for the defendant Traherne with costs.

Herschell, S.G., Benjamin, Q.C., Bowen, Q.C., and Forbes, for the defendant Davis.

Settlement—Real Estate—General Power of Appointment by Will—Sale of Real Estate and re-investment in Consols—General Bequest by Donee of Power of "all my personal estate"—Valid Appointment of the Consols—Wills Act, ss. 1, 27.

By the marriage settlement, dated in 1832, of John and Ann Brown, Edward Lee, the father of Ann Brown, settled certain real estate, after the deaths of John and Ann Brown, and failure of their issue, to the use of such persons as Ann Brown should by will appoint, with remainder to the use of the said Edward Lee in fee. The settlement contained a power for the trustees to sell the real estate, with a direction that the trustees should lay out the proceeds in the purchase of other hereditaments, to be settled to the like uses, and that until so laid out the proceeds should be invested in government or other securities, the income to be paid to the person or persons to whom the rents of the hereditaments to be purchased would be payable in case such purchase were then actually made.

Edward Lee, the settlor, died in 1843, having by his will devised all his real estate to his nephew Edward Lee Baldwin.

In 1855 the trustees of the settlement sold all the settled real estate for 24,226*l.* consols, which was afterwards transferred to Ann Brown, who survived her husband.

Ann Brown died in 1879, without issue, having by her will dated in 1875, after appointing the defendants her executors, and bequeathing legacies to the amount of upwards of 30,000*l.*, "gave and bequeathed all the residue of her personal estate and effects whatsoever" to two persons absolutely.

The personal estate to which Ann Brown was entitled independently of the 24,226*l.* consols was under 6000*l.*

The plaintiff, who derived title under the said Edward Lee Baldwin, claimed to be entitled to the consols, on the ground that they passed as real estate under the limitations of the settlement as in default of appointment by Ann Brown.

The defendants on the other hand contended that Ann Brown's will operated as a valid execution of her power of appointment.

Chitty, Q.C., and J. G. Wood, for the plaintiff.

Davey, Q.C., and Rigby, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, having regard to s. 27 of the Wills Act, and the interpretation clause (s. 1, "personal estate"), the will should be read as if it stood thus:—"I give and bequeath all the personal estate, including bank annuities, over which I shall at my death have a general power of appointment by will," to the persons therein named; that the consols were, as a matter of fact personal estate at her death; and that the will operated as a valid appointment. His Lordship also thought that, comparing the amount of the legacies bequeathed by the will with the amount of personal estate to which the testatrix was entitled independently of the consols, she must be held to have intended to exercise the power.

E. Cutler applied to the Court for directions as to service of the writ upon the defendant in this case. Several attempts had been made to serve the writ personally upon the defendant at his residence, at first it was stated that the defendant was absent from home, and afterwards the servant refused to take in any papers for the defendant or to open the door, and there being no letter-box, it was found to be impossible to place any document inside the house. Leave was now asked to serve a copy of the writ by post, and to issue an advertisement of the writ in the London Gazette, and to include in the advertisement a notice that judgment would be moved for at a certain time in this Court. The case of Cook v. Dey (Weekly Notes, 1876, p. 122) was cited as an authority, where Vice-Chancellor Hall had suggested that the course now proposed might be taken.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered the course suggested to be desirable in such a case as this, and directed that a copy of the writ should be sent by post and that the writ should be advertised, and notice also given by the advertisement of the time and place when judgment would be moved for.

V.-C. M. DE BERGUE v. DE BERGUE. April 28.
Executors and Joint Legatees—No Power to act separately for Beneficial Interest.

A question was raised in this case as to the power of an executrix to act for her own beneficial interest separately from her co-executrix. Charles de Bergue by his will devised and bequeathed all his real and personal estate unto his widow, the defendant Sophia de Bergue, and his only child, the plaintiff, Anne de Bergue, and appointed them joint executrices thereof. The testator at his death, which occurred in April, 1873, was a partner in a business carried on at Lisieux in France, under the firm of A. Gillotin et Cie, which partnership had existed since the year 1859. This partnership would have expired by effluxion of time in December, 1875. In the latter part of that year the defendant entered into a separate agreement on her own behalf with the continuing partners of the firm of "Gillotin et Cie," and became partner in a new partnership business with them, and she refused to pay over to the plaintiff any portion of the profits of such new partnership, alleging that the surviving partners of the firm, although willing to admit her into the business, refused to admit her and the plaintiff together as partners. The plaintiff claimed a declaration that the defendant was a trustee for her to the extent of one moiety of all moneys, interest, and benefit, which the defendant had received or acquired or might thereafter receive or acquire in the renewal or continuation of the firm of "Gillotin et Cie."

Higgins, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Alexander, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the partnership in which the testator was engaged and everything involved in it formed part of his estate at his death. After the termination of the partnership in 1875, the widow entered into a new partnership agreement on her own account with the surviving partners, but if she did that for the convenience of one person alone being the actual partner, it could only be upon the footing of her accounting for the profits thereby realized to the plaintiff who was her co-executrix, and who was equally entitled with her to the whole property of the testator. There must therefore be an account of the profits which had arisen since 1875 and which should arise during the continuance of the partnership, and such profits would form part of the assets of the testator, and would, subject to the debts of the testator, and the expenses which had been incurred by the defendant, be equally divisible between the plaintiff and the defendant.

A firm of Booker & Co. were largely indebted to the West of England Bank, and it was considered desirable that the business of Booker & Co. should be transferred to a limited company. A Mrs. Booker, who had an interest in the property of Booker & Co., agreed to assign over her interest to the company on receiving a sum in cash and 18,000*l.* in debentures of the company, the interest thereon being guaranteed by the bank. This was accordingly done. The company was unable to pay the interest; the bank went into liquidation, and Mrs. Booker made a claim in the liquidation for 18,000*l.* under the guarantee.

Higgins, Q.C., and Macnaghten, Q.C., for Mrs. Booker.

Glaspe, Q.C., and Romer, for the liquidator, opposed on the ground that the directors had no power to give a guarantee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he had before him no evidence as to the business of banking, but it was dealing in money, and the directors were to do their best for the bank, and might certainly indorse bills, which was much the same thing. They considered it for the benefit of the bank to give this guarantee, and his Lordship held it to be within their power and valid accordingly.

Lands comprised in the settlement executed in 1851 upon the marriage of Thomas Taylor Curwen deceased, and the petitioner his wife, having been taken by the Charing Cross Railway Company, and the proceeds (2395*l.* 11*s.* 0*d.*) paid into Court to a separate account, the trustees now petitioned that a sum of 400*l.* might be raised out of the 2395*l.* 11*s.* 0*d.* and paid to them for the purpose of advancing one of the infant children of Mrs. Curwen by paying the expenses of articling him to a solicitor.

The settlement of 1851 contained a power to the trustees upon the request in writing of Mr. and Mrs. Curwen, or the survivor of them, to advance any sum not exceeding 500*l.* for any child of the marriage, and to pay, apply, and dispose of such sum for the preferment or advancement in life of the child for whose benefit the same might be so raised. The settlement contained a power for the trustees to sell or exchange.

Thomas Taylor Curwen died in October, 1879. Mrs. Curwen had lately by request in writing called upon the trustees of the settlement of 1851 to raise the sum of 400*l.*, and to apply and dispose thereof for the advancement of one of the children of the marriage (an infant) for the purpose of defraying the stamp and other expenses necessary to article him to a solicitor.

Ratcliff, for the company, submitted that the proposed advancement was not a payment out to persons absolutely entitled within s. 69 of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, so as to throw the costs of the application on the company under s. 80.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that this was a payment out within the terms of s. 69, and that the costs were payable by the company under s. 80.

Practice—Winding-up Petition—Costs of Creditor appearing—Filing of Petition—Cons. Ord. 23, r. 23—Cons. Ord. 1, r. 44.

A creditor's petition to wind up this company, presented by one Barnard, was heard before the Master of the Rolls on February 15, 1879, and a winding-up order was made but directed not to be drawn up for a week. Another similar petition, by one Beavan, a judgment creditor, came on before Vice-Chancellor Hall on the 21st of February, 1879, and by arrangement the company did not appear upon this petition. Thereupon Beavan elected to have his petition dismissed with costs.

De Courcy Atkins, for Barnard, now moved that Beavan might be directed to file with the proper officer within four days the original petition so presented by him and dismissed. The ground of the application was that Barnard had appeared on Beavan's petition and had been allowed his costs, but Beavan had since disputed the fact of his appearance, and as no order giving Barnard costs could be passed until the original petition had been filed in the report office (Smith Ch. Pr., 7th Ed. 262, 263; Dan. Ch. Pr. 4th Ed. 1459; Cons. Ord. 23, r. 23; Cons. Ord. 1, r. 44), Beavan refused to file his petition.

Buckley, for Beavan:—Barnard did not appear by counsel and ask for his costs, and if he had done Beavan so would not have elected to dismiss his own petition with costs, but would have asked for it to be transferred to the Rolls where Barnard had already obtained his own order. No order can be now made for costs which were not asked for at the hearing.

De Courcy Atkins then produced a brief marked "Barnard v. The Co.," "to appear," and bearing an indorsement dated the 21st of February, 1879, and signed by counsel, of an order made by Vice-Chancellor Hall dismissing the petition and giving Barnard his costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the indorsement on counsel's brief must be taken to be a true record of what took place as to Barnard upon the hearing upon the petition, and to enable Barnard to get his costs the petition must be filed. The motion was therefore allowed with costs.

The evidence shewed that the father, who was 72 years of age, was owing to pecuniary embarrassment unable to live at the family mansion and keep up the estates, and that the principal object for which it was desired to exercise the power was in order, either by the investment of the purchase-moneys in interim investments or by the purchase of other estates paying a better percentage, to increase the income of the tenant for life.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, adopting Lord Eldon's test in Mortlock v. Buller (10 Ves. 292) that unless some particular re-investment in land was in contemplation there must be "some strong purpose of family prudence justifying the conversion," and that test not being, in His Lordship's opinion, satisfied, he declared that the contemplated sale (which had been abandoned since the institution of the action) would have been an improper exercise of the power of sale, and a breach of trust on the part of the trustees.

Local Board—Disqualification for Membership—Lease of Sewage Farm by Local Board to Member.

Application for a writ of mandamus directing the chairman of a local board to return the applicant as duly elected at the annual election to be a member of the local board. The question raised was whether the applicant was disqualified under the 64th clause of the 2nd schedule to the Public Health Act, 1875, by reason of a lease to him by the board of certain land, the lease containing covenants on the part of the board to supply him with the sewage of the district, and on his part to use such sewage on the demised premises.

Lumley Smith, Q.C., and C. A. Russell, for the chairman of the board, shewed cause against the rule. They contended that the proviso to the 64th clause only applied to sales and leases of land to the board and not to sales or leases by the board, and also that the contract for the supply of sewage was independent of the lease and operated as a disqualification.

R. S. Wright, for the applicant, supported the rule.

THE COURT (Lush and Field, J.J.) made the rule absolute for Motion to remove a petition against a school board election from the files of the Court, on the ground that the remedy by petition under the Corrupt Practices Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 60) did not apply to such an election.

*A. Wills, Q.C. (Anstie with him), in support of the motion, argued that the proper remedy was by inquiry before the Education Department, under 33 & 34 Vict. c. 75, ss. 31 & 33, the Elementary Education Act, 1870, or by quo warranto. Although by the Amendment Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 86, s. 26, sched. 2), the provisions of the Ballot Act (35 & 36 Vict. c. 33), s. 20, were applied to the polling at school board elections, yet the Corrupt Practices Act, 1872, had not been applied to them.*

Jeune shewed cause, contending that by the terms of 35 & 36 Vict. c. 60, s. 2, sub-s. 2, the Corrupt Practices Act was to be "construed as one" with the Acts for the time being in force relating to boroughs and to elections in boroughs, and therefore with the Elementary Education Acts.

HILL v. LONDON AND NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway—Carriage of Animals—Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, s. 7—Sheep—No written Contract—Limit of Damages.

Appeal from Watford County Court.

This action was to recover 10*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* the value of a ram carried by the plaintiff for the defendants on their railway, and injured through the negligence of their servants. At the trial it appeared that a ram of the value of 12*l.* had been sent by the defendants' railway without any special contract in writing made and signed by the consignor or party delivering the animal. At the end of its journey the ram, while being unloaded by the company's servants, fell, broke its leg, and had to be killed.

The County Court Judge found that the mode of unloading was not reasonably careful, and that as no special contract had been made the liability of the defendants was not limited by the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, s. 7, and gave judgment against them for the full amount of the claim.

A rule nisi having been granted to enter the verdict for the defendants, or for a new trial on the ground of misdirection by the learned judge in stating that the liability of the defendants was not limited to 2*l.*

Grosvenor shewed cause.

Sutton, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Denman and Lopes, J.J.) said that s. 7 clearly limited the damages to 2*l.*, no declaration of the higher value of the animal having been made when it was delivered to the company.

Judgment reversed with costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. DICKS v. BROOKS. May 4.
Copyright in Engravings—8 Geo. 2, c. 13—7 Geo. 3, c. 38—17 Geo. 3, c. 57—15 & 16 Vict. c. 12, s. 14.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 112).

Davey, Q.C., Whitehorne, and Oswald, for the appellants.
Hemming, Q.C., and Ingham, for the respondents.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that a pattern for Berlin wool work was not a copy of an engraving within the meaning of the statutes, inasmuch as though there was a reproduction of the design there was no reproduction of anything which constituted the work of the engraver. The judgment was accordingly reversed.

Landlord and Tenant—Notice to Quit—Trustee and Cestui que Trust—New Trustee—Demise by Equitable Tenant for Life—Remainderman.

Action for recovery of a house. At the trial before Lopes, J., without a jury, the plaintiff put in a receipt from certain commissioners dated August, 1807, to one Blanchard for the price of certain land upon which the house was built. Blanchard by his will, dated December, 1810, devised the house to two persons, their heirs and assigns, in trust for his wife for her life, with remainders over. Blanchard died in 1814. One of the trustees died about 1824, and the other about 1831: it was not known who was the heir of the surviving trustee. Mrs. Blanchard during her life let the house to Furnell, and he underlet the house to Becker. No rent had been paid by Becker since 1863, nor by the defendant who represented him. Mrs. Blanchard died in 1864. By an order of the Chancery Division the present plaintiffs were appointed new trustees under the will of Blanchard, and the present action was commenced in November, 1878. No notice to quit had been given. Lopes, J. gave judgment for the defendant, and the plaintiffs appealed.

Webster, Q.C., and Macrae Moir, for the plaintiffs.
Cohen, Q.C., and R. V. Williams, for the defendant.

At the hearing in the Court of Appeal it was proved that by an agreement in writing Mrs. Blanchard had in 1839 demised the house to Becker for seven years if she should so long live.

THE COURT (Coleridge, C.J., Brett, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that there was evidence of seisin in Blanchard and that no notice to quit was necessary. They reversed the judgment of Lopes, J. Solicitors for the plaintiffs: Thompson & Debenham. Solicitors for the defendant: Simpson & Cullinford.

Issue in Action—Insanity of Lessor—Motion, ex parte, for a New Trial—Rules of Court, March, 1879, Order XXXIX, r. 1a—Divisional Court.

In this case Vice-Chancellor Hall directed an issue to be tried before a jury whether T. Price (through whom the plaintiff claimed) was or was not of sound mind when he granted a certain lease to the defendant. The jury found that T. Price was of sound mind. An ex parte motion by the plaintiff before the Vice-Chancellor for a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence and for misdirection, was refused—see ante, p. 66.

The plaintiff then applied ex parte, by way of appeal, to the Court of Appeal, who granted a rule nisi.

Robinson, Q.C., De Castro, and Rowlands, now shewed cause, and, waiving the question whether the motion for a new trial was rightly made to the Vice-Chancellor, contended on the evidence that the finding of the jury was right.

B. T. Williams, Q.C., Graham Hastings, Q.C., and C. C. Berkeley, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.J.J.) discharged the rule, being of opinion that there had been no misdirection, or, if there had been any, it was not such a misdirection as would have had any material bearing on the result of the trial, as it would most probably have made no difference to the finding of the jury. As to the weight of evidence, their Lordships were not satisfied that the judge and jury were so manifestly wrong that there ought to be a new trial.

In re WHEAL UNITY WOOD MINING COMPANY.
CHYNOWETH'S CASE.

Cost-book Mine—Transfer to escape Liability—32 & 33 Vict. c. 19, s. 35.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Vice-Warden of the Stannaries Court.

J. Chynoweth was the holder of 510 shares in the Wheal Unity Wood Mining Company, which was a company conducted on the cost-book principle. In October, 1876, he sold all his shares to his brother-in-law J. Allen, who was a corporal in the marines, for 5*l*. The transfer to Allen was duly registered, and two calls were made on him, which he did not pay. The company then brought an action and recovered judgment against him for the amount of the calls, but were not able to recover anything from him. They then proceeded to forfeit the shares for non-payment of the calls, which they had power to do by the custom of cost-book companies. In March, 1879, an order was made to wind up the company.

Under these circumstances the Vice-Warden held that the transfer of Chynoweth's shares to Allen was a fraudulent transfer under the 35th section of the Stannaries Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 19), and placed Chynoweth's name on the list of contributories for 510 shares. Chynoweth appealed from this decision.

The 35th section provides that a transfer of shares made for the purpose of getting rid of the further liability of a shareholder for a nominal or no consideration, or to a person without apparent pecuniary ability to pay the reasonable expense of working the mine, should be presumed to be a fraudulent transfer, and need not be recognised by the company, or by the Court on the winding-up of the company.

Higgins, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

G. Hastings, Q.C., and Buckley, for the official liquidator.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) were of opinion that, allowing for the purpose of the argument that this was a fraudulent transfer within the meaning of the Act, it was not absolutely void, but only voidable at the option of the company. But the company had treated Allen as a shareholder, they had registered the transfer, had brought an action, and recovered judgment against him for calls, and had eventually forfeited his shares. It was impossible for them after that to repudiate the transfer; and this being so, the Court could not after the company had been wound up set the transfer aside; for they were of opinion that the Court could not set aside a transfer which the company could not have set aside at the time when the winding-up commenced. The name of the appellant must therefore be removed from the list of contributories.

Voluntary Winding-up—Action by Liquidator against Director—Interrogatories sufficiently answered—Summons by Liquidator to examine Director—The Companies Act, 1862, ss. 115, 138.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon.

The company was being wound up voluntarily, and the liquidator on behalf of the company had brought an action against Mr. Heiron, one of the directors, for damages for misrepresentation as to the position and credit of a customer of the company, whereby the company lost about 3000*l*. Interrogatories had been exhibited to the defendant, Mr. Heiron, and had been answered, and a summons by the liquidator for a further and better answer had been dismissed.

The action was set down for trial, and then the liquidator took out a summons in the winding-up under s. 115 of the Companies Act for the examination of Mr. Heiron touching his dealings with the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, considering that the liquidator was entitled as of right to an order, granted the application.

The defendant appealed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

Hemming, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the liquidator.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) were of opinion that the proposed examination was vexatious and oppressive. Under ss. 115 and 138 of the Companies Act, 1862, very inquisitorial powers were conferred on a liquidator in a voluntary winding-up; and, the more inquisitorial they were, the more the Court was bound to see that they were not used for purposes of vexation and oppression. The information the liquidator now sought to obtain could have been ascertained under the statute before he commenced his action. But he had called upon the defendant to put in a defence, he had called upon him to answer interrogatories and had harassed him with a summons for a further answer: and now, after the action was set down for a trial, he sought to take advantage of the powers conferred on him by the statute. The Vice-Chancellor had granted the application not on the ground that it was just and reasonable, but on the assumption that it was a matter as of right; but under the circumstances such a proceeding ought not to be allowed unless a strong case was made out to the satisfaction of the Court. The appeal must be allowed with costs.

Insurance (Fire)—Contract of Indemnity—Landlord and Tenant —Payment by Insurer—Right of Insurer to Benefit of Contract whereby Loss diminished.

Appeal of the plaintiff from judgment of Lush, J., at the trial. One Forbes was the owner of a house in Brighton; he demised it to Bonner by a lease which rendered the lessee bound to repair, "except casualties by fire, demolition by storm or tempest of the building or any part thereof, or destruction by foreign enemies." Forbes insured the house in the Union Society (of which the plaintiff was secretary) by a policy against fire covering injury by explosions of gas. In 1877 the corporation of Brighton repaired the streets by a steam roller which owing to its weight damaged a pipe and caused an escape of gas into the house demised to Bonner, where it exploded and did considerable damage. Forbes sold the house and the policy to the defendant, and after some negotiation the Union Society paid to the defendant a sum of 750*l.* The lessee Bonner received compensation from the corporation of Brighton for the damage done to the house by the explosion, and with the sum received reinstated the house. At the time when the Union Society paid to the defendant the sum of 750*l.* they were unaware that by the terms of the lease the lessee was bound to make good injuries done by an explosion of gas. The Union Society upon hearing that the house had been reinstated by Bonner, claimed from the defendant the sum of 750*l.*, and upon his refusal brought the present action in the name of the plaintiff. Lush, J., gave judgment for the defendant.

May 11. Benjamin, Q.C., and Cohen, Q.C. (Wood-Hill with them), for the plaintiff, contended that a policy against loss by fire is a contract of indemnity, and that insurers who have paid are entitled to the benefit of all contracts entered into by the assured whereby the loss is diminished. They relied upon North British Insurance Co. v. London, Liverpool, and Globe Insurance Co. (5 Ch. D. 569).

R. T. Reid, for the defendant.
May 12. THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover the sum of 750*l.*, and reversed the judgment of Lush, J.

Practice—Discovery—Affidavit of Documents—Application for Further Affidavit—Rules of Court, 1875, Order xxxi., r. 12.

Appeal of the defendants from a refusal by the Queen's Bench Division to rescind a Master's order for further discovery.

This was an action for wrongful dismissal; the defence alleged by way of justification that the plaintiff had been guilty of disobedience and had failed to keep proper accounts. The plaintiff obtained an order under Order xxxi., r. 12, for an affidavit of documents. The defendants, by one of their officers, set out upon affidavit the documents in their possession. The plaintiff made an affidavit specifying certain documents which he alleged had been omitted from the defendants' affidavit. The defendants' secretary made an affidavit stating that the documents were not material or relevant to the action. A Master made an order for a further affidavit by the defendants. Upon appeal Field, J., adjourned the hearing in order that the plaintiff might shew by affidavit how the documents mentioned in his affidavit were material. At the adjournment Pollock, B., affirmed the Master's order. The Queen's Bench Division confirmed the decision of Pollock, B.

April 21. Archibald, for the plaintiff.
Shiress-Will, and Farwell, for the defendants.

May 12. THE COURT allowed the appeal.
BRETT, L.J., stated that the question in this case was whether where a party to an action had made a discovery of documents, he could upon a contentious affidavit from the opposite party be compelled to make a further affidavit. The question no longer depended upon the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, or the orders of the Court of Chancery, or the custom or practice of the Courts of Common Law. It depended upon the construction of the rules and orders of the Judicature Acts. The legislature intended that the practice formerly existing in the Courts of Equity as to matters of discovery must be followed. According to that practice an affidavit of documents was conclusive, unless it could be shewn either from the affidavit itself or from the documents therein referred to, or upon an admission in the pleading of the party from whom discovery was sought, that other documents relevant to the cause existed; and an affidavit in contradiction of the affidavit of documents could not be admitted. The party seeking discovery was not without remedy, if discovery was wrongfully withheld, he could by interrogatories ascertain what other documents existed.

V.-C. M. PIKE v. FITZGIBBON. May 5.

Separate Estate—Covenant—Charge.

By an indenture made in 1875 between Gerald N. Fitzgibbon and Lady Louisa I. G. Fitzgibbon his wife of the one part, and the plaintiffs Pike and Holden of the other part, Mr. Fitzgibbon and Lady L. Fitzgibbon jointly and severally covenanted to pay the sum of 8000*l.* and interest to the plaintiffs for money lent; and by another indenture made in 1875 Lady L. Fitzgibbon covenanted to pay to the plaintiff 5000*l.* and interest. Lady L. Fitzgibbon was, under an indenture made in 1866, entitled upon the death of her mother Lady Clare (since deceased) to receive 15,000*l.* to her separate use, and was also alleged to be entitled to other property to her separate use. The sums of 2006*l.* and 5000*l.* and interest were due to the plaintiffs on their securities, and on the 12th of July, 1878, they issued their writ in this action, and claimed as against Lady L. Fitzgibbon a declaration that her separate estate was charged with the payment of those sums, and consequent relief.

Mr. Fitzgibbon had died since the action was brought.

Higgins, Q. C., and Begg, for the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q. C., and Townsend, for Lady L. Fitzgibbon, contended that only such separate estate as Lady L. Fitzgibbon had at the time when she made the covenants was charged.

W. Barber, for the trustees of Lady Clare's will.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it had long been established that a covenant by a married woman would be enforced against her separate estate. It had been argued that it could be enforced only against such separate estate as she had when she entered into the covenant and remained in specie. But on the authorities and on principle his Lordship thought this was not so, and that the covenant could be enforced against all the property to which Lady L. Fitzgibbon was now entitled for her separate use, including such as had been under restraint against anticipation during the life of her husband. There must be a declaration accordingly, and an inquiry what separate estate there was.

V.-C. M. ROGERS v. WILMOT. May 6.

Theatrical Contract—Specific Performance—No Profit to Plaintiff—Injury to Defendant—Injunction refused.

The defendant agreed to produce at his theatre during four weeks certain, a drama belonging to the plaintiff, and to give the plaintiff half the gross receipts after deducting 140*l.* per week, and to continue as long as mutually satisfactory, or giving a fortnight's notice on either side; the plaintiff to furnish the services of the two principal actors. This agreement was extended for four weeks, but the defendant before the termination of that period gave a fortnight's notice that he should discontinue the performance of the drama in question. There was evidence to shew that there had been a serious loss to the defendant weekly by the production of the drama, and that in no week had the gross receipts approached 140*l.* The plaintiff alleged that the extended term of four weeks commenced from the expiration of the first term, while the defendant contended that the four weeks commenced from the date of the second agreement, so as to terminate two weeks earlier.

This was a motion for an injunction to restrain the defendant from doing anything to prevent the continued performance of the drama until the expiration of eight weeks, and from advertising that the said performance would be discontinued.

Glasse, Q. C., and Lambert, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q. C., and Begg, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that, even assuming the second agreement would not terminate till the end of eight weeks, this was not a contract which the Court could enforce by injunction. The application was to prevent the defendant from discontinuing the performance, which was in effect to compel the continuance of it. Considering the nature of the contract, and the fact that no profit could arise to the plaintiff, while the defendant was suffering an injury, he could not interfere to enforce performance of the contract, and the motion must be refused with costs.

NOBEL'S EXPLOSIVES COMPANY, v. JONES, SCOTT & Co.

Infringement of Patent—Explosives—Transshipment, Handling and Moving of the Manufacture an user of the Patent—Acting as Custom House Agents.

The validity of a patent for absorbing nitro-glycerine by means of some porous substance, and thereby rendering it less liable to explosion by shock, had been established by a judgment of the House of Lords in another action, as to novelty, utility, and sufficiency of specification.

Lithofracteur, a substance manufactured abroad by a process which, if carried on in this country, would have been admittedly an infringement of the patent, was consigned in large quantities by the manufacturers, Krebs & Co. of Cologne, to the defendants Jones, Scott, & Co., to be by them transhipped on board vessels for Australia.

By amendment the plaintiffs pleaded that the defendants had received the lithofracteur as agents or owners in the port of London, and had transhipped the same, or caused it to be transhipped, and stored in the port of London (see ante, p. 77). The defence was that the defendants had not used the patent, and that they were agents for its transshipment only, and, in answer to the charge by amendment, that they had acted only as custom house agents, and that they were in no sense the importers, though appearing to be so described in some of the custom house papers. The evidence shewed that some of the goods so transhipped by the agency of the defendants were taken to storehouses in the river and thence delivered out to purchasers.

Aston, Q.C., and Edward Cutler, for the plaintiffs.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Goodeve, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, following Betts v. Neilson (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 429, 438, 439) that the transshipping, handling, or moving the manufactured article, was a user of the invention within the meaning of the patent laws; and that the intervention of the defendants either as transhippers, or as custom house agents, even if it were gratuitous only, was an infringement of the plaintiffs' right under the letters patent; and injunction granted with damages and costs.

EVANS v. PULESTON.

May 7.

Receiver—Foreign Litigation—Comity of Nations.

Motion on behalf of plaintiff F. H. Evans, one of the partners in the firm of Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co., for the appointment of a receiver to get in the whole of the assets whether in England or America of the late firm of Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co.

In 1870 Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co., were constituted in London as a branch of the American firm of Jay Cooke & Co., of New York, and by the articles of partnership it was agreed that the co-partnership of Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co. should be continued for the term of three years from the 1st of January, 1871. In November, 1873, the New York firm and the individual members, including the American partners in the London firm, were made bankrupt in New York, and E. M. Lewis was appointed trustee of the estate. The London firm (Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co.) did not stop payment, but the English partners met the liabilities as they became due with the assistance of advances made by Williams, Deacon, & Co., such advances being secured by the assets of the partnership, which consisted entirely of American securities. Lewis had paid certain sums on account of the indebtedness of the firm of Jay Cooke & Co. to the firm of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., and also satisfied some of the liabilities in America of the latter firm.

The liquidation of the English firm was left in the hands of the English partners, and in 1876 an agreement was entered into between them and Lewis on behalf of, and as representing the American partners, for the purpose of adjusting the respective claims of the partners, English and American.

In October, 1879, Williams, Deacon & Co. sent over their securities to French, their agent in New York, for realisation. French sold the securities in America, but was prevented from sending the proceeds (40,000*l.*) to this country by an injunction in an action commenced by Puleston, one of the English partners, in the New York Court in November, 1879, against all the partners in Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. and Williams, Deacon & Co., for the purpose of getting the ultimate liquidation of the partnership conducted in America. On the 22nd of December, 1879, Evans, a partner in Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co. brought this action for the purpose of getting the partnership wound up in this country. On the 12th of March a receiver of the English assets was appointed upon the plaintiff's motion, and the object of the present motion by Evans was to extend the receivership to the American assets.

Sir H. M. Jackson, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, in support of the motion, contended that notwithstanding the pendency of the American suit, which had been improperly instituted, the English Court had jurisdiction to appoint a receiver over the American assets.

Romer, and H. B. Buckley, for the defendant Lewis, opposed the motion:—According to the comity of nations, an action in a foreign Court of competent jurisdiction could not be restrained or interfered with by the Courts of this country unless it was shewn that fraud was being practised by the plaintiff in the foreign action, or that substantial justice could not be obtained in the foreign Court. They also moved by cross motion that Lewis should be allowed, after paying off the sum claimed by Williams, Deacon, & Co., upon the securities now in England, and upon giving due security, to take such securities and sell the same in America, and pay over the balance (after repaying expenses) to the receiver in this action.

Ingle Joyce, for Puleston; and

C. B. McLaren, for McCulloch, opposed Evans' motion, and supported that of Lewis.

F. C. J. Millar, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for Williams, Deacon, & Co., would be happy to receive their principal, interest, and costs, but would not consent to the terms suggested by Lewis.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The firm of Jay Cook, McCulloch, & Co., was as much American as English; the assets of the firm consisted of American securities, and the only object of the suit in New York was to get the estate properly administered with a just regard to the interests of all parties concerned. The whole subject matter of the litigation being in America, there was nothing wrong in the American suit, and no ground for any interference with it by this Court. There would be no order therefore on Evans' motion. The other motion by Lewis was equally bad. What had Lewis to do with the debt due to Williams, Deacon, & Co., for which they held security? If he wished to intervene, let him do so in the American suit to which he was a party. Both motions being quite wrong must be dismissed with costs.

Will—Revocation—Codicil—Objects of Trust—Parol Evidence—
"All my personalty, such as cash, furniture, &c."

By a codicil to her will dated in 1877, the testatrix bequeathed as follows:—"To J. B. to whom I have willed my landed property, all my personalty, such as cash, furniture, &c., to be applied as I have directed him to do." After the testatrix's death, J. B. produced a memorandum in his own writing, signed by him but not by her, shewing the new dispositions of the codicil and the alterations of the will thereby, and he gave evidence in the action that the memorandum contained the intentions of the testatrix as communicated by her to him.

The principal questions argued were—1, whether the codicil revoked the will as to all the personal estate of the testatrix; and 2ndly, whether a trust was effectually declared by the codicil the objects of which could be supplied by parol evidence.

Kekewick, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the plaintiff.

Crossley, Q.C., W. Pearson, Q.C., and Giffard, Ingle Joyce, Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Tweedy, and Rawlins, for the defendants.

May 3. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held 1st, that the codicil effectually revoked the will as to the whole of the personal estate; 2ndly, that parol evidence was admissible, and J. B. duly constituted a trustee for the purposes of the will as altered in accordance with that evidence.

RAPIER v. WRIGHT.

May 8.

Judgment in Action in Queen's Bench Division—Action for Administration in Chancery Division—Receiver—Debtor's Annuity—Garnishee Order, under Rules of Court, Order XLV., made absolute.

In June, 1879, B. Willis & Co. obtained a judgment in the Queen's Bench Division against Mrs. J. C. Cowans for a debt and costs, in the aggregate 128*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* (1879, W. 721). A judge's order was obtained in July for payment of 50*l.* within a fortnight, and the balance by two instalments, on the 1st of October, 1879, and the 1st of January, 1880. The instalment due in October was not paid. Under the will of her late husband, Mrs. Cowans was entitled during her life to 1000*l.* a year, payable out of an estate in trust, and which estate was under administration in this Court. In the action (1876, C. 346) a receiver had been appointed, who was directed to pay over to Mrs. Cowans out of the income of the estate 250*l.* quarterly, and also certain rents and profits of real estate. On the 19th of December, 1879, B. Willis & Co. obtained a garnishee order nisi attaching, to answer their debt, any sum or sums of money then or which might come to the hands of the receiver payable or accruing to Mrs. Cowans, subject to any prior incumbrances thereon. This was an application adjourned into Court from chambers to make the order absolute.

C. Browne submitted that under the Judicature Act, 1875, Rules of Court, Order XLV., this Court could deal with the application, and make the order which he asked for.

Aspland, for a prior incumbrancer and Mrs. Cowans, contended that the money payable by the receiver was not a debt from him to Mrs. Cowans, for the recovery of which the ordinary process could be exercised, and that no order could at any rate be made as to future sums.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Court had jurisdiction to deal with the matter—the receiver being an officer of the Court, and that the receiver being in the position of a trustee, who would be liable to attachment, must pay the money to the applicant, both as regarded the money, if any, in his hands, and the future receipts. He could not hold that there must be repeated applications as to future payments. The order would be as asked, but there must be an account taken of what was due to the applicant and to any incumbrancer. The receiver would be ordered to pay the money which he held, and which he might receive, to the parties according to their priorities, and also their costs until their claims were satisfied.

Advertisements by Company of Prospectus, &c.—Payment of Newspaper Proprietors' Accounts in fully paid-up Shares—Voluntary Winding-up—Contributory—Claim for Damages allowed.

This company was incorporated in November, 1875. The proposed capital was 258,645*l.* in 51,729 shares of 5*l.* each. The directors were empowered to borrow money and to enter into contracts for the company, and in all cases where they should agree to give paid-up shares, in payment for work done for the company, such shares should upon delivery be treated and considered as paid-up shares for the amount represented to be paid up in respect of the same at the time of the issue, and no holder of such paid-up shares should be liable to any call in respect of such amount. The company invited newspaper proprietors to advertise their prospectus on condition that they would agree to accept payment of their accounts in fully paid-up shares. Amongst others, Mr. Mudford, the proprietor of the Kentish Observer, in 1876, accepted the proposal. He inserted advertisements in his newspaper, and received fully paid-up shares at various times, as the work was done. The last certificate which he received (ten in all) was on the 4th of December, 1876. The contract between the parties was not registered under the Companies Act. The company went into liquidation, voluntary, by resolution passed in November, 1877. The evidence shewed that after the 4th of December, 175 shares were taken by persons other than newspaper proprietors, and 103 of them at their full value of 5*l.* In accordance with former decisions in the Court of Appeal, the liquidator placed Mr. Mudford's name on the list of contributories for ten shares of 5*l.* each, and against that decision Mr. Mudford appealed to the Court, contending that he was entitled to damages for breach of the agreement equal to the par value of the shares, which ought to have been fully paid-up, and he claimed to be admitted as a creditor for the sum of 50*l.* for the work and labour done for the company.

Edlis, Q.C., and Plummer, for Mr. Mudford.

Hastings, Q.C., and Methold, for the liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the contention of the applicant was right, and made a declaration that the company committed a breach of their agreement with Mr. Mudford by not delivering to him fully paid-up shares, and that the measure of damages for such breach was the value of the shares at the time when the certificates were delivered; and it appearing that shares in the company were taken by persons other than newspaper proprietors after the date of the last issue of shares to Mr. Mudford at the rate of 5*l.* a share and paid for, the Court assessed the damages in this case at the rate of 5*l.* a share, and admitted the claim of Mr. Mudford for 50*l.* The costs of both parties to be paid out of the estate.

Libel injurious to Trade—Right to Jury—Injunction—Proof of Damages—Jurisdiction—Fox's Act (32 Geo. 3, c. 60)—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 8.

The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from issuing a trade circular which the plaintiffs alleged to be a libel upon and injurious to their trade. No application was made by the defendants to have the action tried by a jury.

Cookson, Q.C., and W. Phipson Beale, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., and McSwinney, for the defendants, objected (1) that under Fox's Act (32 Geo. 3, c. 60), the defendant in an action for libel had a right to have the question of libel determined by a jury; (2) that special damage must be shewn, and that the plaintiffs had not proved any damage to their trade; (3) that the Court would not restrain by injunction the publication of a libel.

FRY, J., held that the circular in question was libellous and calculated to injure the plaintiff's trade. And he said that the first objection was untenable. Fox's Act applied only to proceedings by criminal information or indictment, and not to civil actions. Since the Judicature Act an action for libel might be tried like any other action. The defendant could apply to the Court under r. 3 of Order xxxvi. for a trial by jury, but no such application was made in the present case until after all the evidence had been taken. As to the second objection, the Court was in the habit of granting injunctions to restrain the improper use of a trade-mark if the use was calculated to deceive, without proof of actual damage, and Riding v. Smith (1 Ex. D. 91), and Thorley's Cattle Food Co. v. Massam (28 W. R. 295), were authorities that in such an action as the present it was not necessary to prove actual damage. The decision in the latter case had been recently affirmed by the Court of Appeal (ante, p. 80.) And as to the third objection, Saxby v. Eastbrook (3 C. P. D. 339), Thorley's Cattle Food Co. v. Massam (28 W. R. 295), and James v. James (Law Rep. 13 Eq. 421), shewed that the Court would restrain the publication of a libel injurious to trade or property. And s. 25, sub-s. 8, of the Judicature Act, 1873, shewed that it was the intention of the legislature to enlarge rather than diminish the power of the Court as to granting injunctions. An injunction must therefore be granted with costs.

Ex parte THE QUEEN'S BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.
In re THRELFALL.

Landlord and Tenant—Tenancy from Year to Year—Attornment Clause—Distress—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 34.

Appeal from an order of the Lancashire County Court restraining the Queen's Benefit Building Society from proceeding with a distress levied on the 19th of May, 1879, on certain goods, &c., part of the estate of W. G. Threlfall, a liquidating debtor; and ordering the society to deliver to the trustee in liquidation the goods which had come to their possession, custody, or power, under or by virtue of the distress levied by them in pursuance of an attornment clause contained in a mortgage deed of the 1st of June, 1871.

By indenture of mortgage of the 1st of June, 1871, in consideration of an advance of 16,000*l.*, James Threlfall (since deceased) and W. G. Threlfall mortgaged certain land with a cotton mill and buildings and other property and machinery to the Queen's Benefit Building Society, their heirs and assigns, with a proviso that if the mortgagors paid the interest and certain instalments of principal, the mortgagees would not call in the balance of principal until the 1st of June, 1871. In the mortgage deed was contained an attornment clause whereby J. and W. G. Threlfall "did attorn and become tenants from year to year to the trustees of the building society for and in respect of the mill and appurtenances and certain plots of land then held and occupied therewith by J. and Wm. G. Threlfall at the yearly rent of 800*l.* clear of all deductions, by equal quarterly payments. And it was thereby agreed that it should be lawful for the trustees, their heirs and assigns, at any time after the 1st of September, 1871, without giving previous notice of their intention so to do, to enter upon and take possession of the mill, building, and premises whereof J. and W. G. Threlfall had attorned tenants, and to determine the tenancy created by the aforesaid attornment."

James Threlfall died in December, 1871, having by will devised all his real and personal estate to W. G. Threlfall. On the 17th of May, 1879, W. G. Threlfall filed a liquidation petition, and on the same day John Blakey was appointed receiver and manager and entered into possession of his estate and effects. Notice of the liquidation petition was on the 17th of May, 1879, sent to the trustees of the building society, and on the 19th of May the trustees distrained, under the attornment clause, upon the goods and chattels in the mill.

The question between the receiver under the liquidation and the trustees was whether this distress was valid. The County Court Judge, being of opinion that the tenancy under the attornment clause was a mere tenancy at will, and determined by the presentation of the liquidation petition, held that the distress levied on the 19th of May after notice of the petition was not protected by the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 34 (which applied only to a landlord possessing a legal right to distress); and being unauthorized and unlawful could not prevail against the title of the liquidation receiver. From this decision the trustees of the building society appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and S. Taylor, in support of the appeal.

De Geaz, Q.C., and Finch, for the receiver in liquidation.

THE CHIEF JUDGE allowed the appeal. It was the intention of the parties to the deed of 1871 that the relation of landlord and tenant should be created, and that intention must prevail. The parties having therefore been placed by the attornment clause in the relation to each other of landlord and tenant, the landlord had the clear right to distress, and could not be deprived of this right by the act of the tenant in filing a liquidation petition. The distress was lawfully made, and the order of the County Court Judge must be discharged with costs.

Q. B. Div. REG v. HUTCHINS. May 5.
Estoppel—Res Judicata—Previous Adjudication on Summary Proceedings before Magistrates.

Case stated from quarter sessions. The question was as follows:—

An application to justices by a local board under the Public Health Act for the recovery of a proportion of the expenses of sewerage a street from the owner of premises abutting thereon, was dismissed by the justices on the ground that the street was a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large. The local board some years after made a second application against the same person for the recovery of a proportion of other expenses subsequently incurred in respect of the said street. No formal order of the justices dismissing the first application nor any certificate of the dismissal under 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43, s. 14, had been drawn up, but there was a note in the book kept by the magistrate's clerk of the application and the result thereof. The question was whether the adjudication of the magistrates on the first application that the street was a highway rendered the matter res judicata and was conclusive upon the second application, and whether the quarter sessions were right in affirming the order of the magistrates on the second application directing payment of the amount claimed.

Hopwood, Q.C., for the respondents, the local board.

Ambrose, Q.C., for the appellant, the owner of the premises.

THE LOCAL BOARD OF SHANKLIN v. MILLER.

Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55) ss. 150, 259—Streets—Works executed by Urban Authority—Recovery of Cost from Frontagers—Deposit of Plans—Apportionment.

Appeal from Ryde County Court.

The action was for 6l. 11s. 1d., claimed by the plaintiff Local Board of Health from the defendant as his proportion of the expenses, incurred by them in execution of certain works mentioned in notices under the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 150, duly served on him to level, pave, metal, and channel parts of two streets, upon which certain premises of which he was the owner fronted, adjoined, or abutted, and which notices were not complied with by him.

By 88 & 39 Vict. c. 55 (the Public Health Act, 1875) s. 150, the urban authority may by notice addressed to owners of premises fronting on such parts of a street as may require to be sewered, levelled, paved, &c., require them to do the work within a time to be specified in the notice. "Before giving such notice the urban authority shall cause plans and sections of any structural works intended to be executed under this section, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof," to be made, and "such plans, sections, and estimate shall be deposited in the office of the urban authority, and shall be open at all reasonable hours for the inspection of all persons interested therein during the time mentioned in such notice. If such notice is not complied with, the urban authority may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein," and recover the expenses from the owners in default according to the frontage of their respective premises, "in such proportion as is settled by the surveyor of the urban authority."

By s. 257 such apportionment shall be binding and conclusive on such owner unless within three months he shall by written notice dispute the same.

Notices had been given by the Board, and plans and an estimate deposited at the office of the Board, works done, and an apportionment made which was not disputed by the defendant within three months.

The bye-laws of the Board provided that the office should be open on Mondays and Thursdays from ten till three. The County Court Judge decided that the apportionment being of expenses incurred in repairing five or more roads was bad in law; and that the opportunities afforded to the defendant of inspecting the documents deposited were not in the opinion of the learned judge reasonable; and that the plaintiffs were not relieved from proving compliance with s. 150 by the fact of the defendant not having appealed; and therefore gave judgment for the defendants.

Archibald, for the plaintiffs, cited Cook v. Ipswich Local Board (Law Rep. 6 Q. B. 451).

Clerk, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Denman and Lopes, JJ.) held that the defendant not having appealed against the apportionment was bound by it, and that, on the authority of dicta in the case cited, the provision as to the office in which the plans were deposited being open at all reasonable hours was only directory and not a condition precedent.

Judgment reversed.

Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62)—Order of Commitment—Ability of Debtor.

A judge at chambers made an order to commit the defendant for forty-two days, for non-payment of an instalment of 10l., upon an affidavit that the defendant resided in a large and well-furnished country house called Thorne House, at Minster, in the Isle of Thanet; that he had horses and carriages, stables, and a groom, besides domestic servants, and lived in the style of a country gentleman of means; that the deponent had seen him on several occasions at different towns and places with his horse and carriage, and he always appeared to have plenty of money at his command; and that to the best of the deponent's belief—he had ample means to pay the debt and costs in the action.

THE COURT refused to set aside the order, though the defendant swore that the furniture at Thorne House was not at his disposal; that the horses and carriages belonged to his wife, and were bought out of and maintained by the separate moneys and estate of his wife; that the groom and other domestic servants were the servants of his wife and maintained at her sole expense; that he had no horse or carriage of his own whatever, nor had he money at his command that would enable him to attend Court to answer the application, and his wife declined to supply him with any; that he had not received 10l. since the order was made, and therefore he could not comply with the same; that he had no property upon which he could raise money; and that he was unable to pay the debt and costs or to appear in person before the Court, as he had not the means to travel.

TAYLOR v. MCKEAN AND ANOTHER.

May 3.

Conversion—Bill of Sale—Implied Condition—Sale of Stock in ordinary Course of Business.

Action for conversion of goods. The plaintiff advanced money to one Bass on the security of certain stock-in-trade which was to remain in the possession of the grantor until default made in payment of the money by instalments, to be dealt with by him in the ordinary course of his business. On the 24th of October, 1879, the defendants, upon the introduction of one Clements, an auctioneer, bought the stock-in-trade (valued at 13l. 1s. 3d.) of Bass, who shortly afterwards absconded.

On the part of the plaintiff it was contended at the trial before Lopes, J., at the Middlesex Hilary Sittings, 1880, that, inasmuch as this was not a sale by Bass in the usual course of his business, no property in the goods passed thereby to the defendants. The learned judge left it to the jury to say whether Bass sold the goods to the defendants bona fide in the ordinary way of business. They found that Bass sold the goods fraudulently and not in the ordinary way of his business; but that the defendants did not know this, and bought the goods bona fide,—adding that "therefore they found for the defendants." The learned judge directed a verdict to be entered for the plaintiff.

Upon a rule for a new trial on the ground of misdirection, THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.), held that the direction was right, inasmuch as it was an implied condition in the bill of sale that the grantor could only dispose of the goods "in the ordinary course of his business,"—National Mercantile Bank v. Hampson (5 Q. B. D. 177; 28 W. R. 424)—and the sale in question was not "in the ordinary course of business."

Sir Joseph Brooke, Bart., in the year 1823 made his will in this form, "I give and bequeath the whole of my landed property in Tipperary unto my eldest son Henry Warren Brooke and to his children, lawfully begotten, without any reservation or prevarication whatever. In case of his, my eldest son Henry Warren, dying without issue male or female, I give and bequeath the same landed property to my second son, Charles Augustus Brooke, and to his children lawfully begotten." This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge in Bankruptcy. On the 25th of March, 1878, Falk agreed to sell to Kiell a cargo of salt for shipment to Calcutta, to be delivered free on board a ship called the Carpathan, which had been chartered by Kiell. Part of the purchase-money was to be paid in cash on receipt of invoice, and the balance by the purchaser's acceptance at four months from date of shipment. The ship sailed on the 21st of April, and she arrived at Calcutta on the 30th of July. The cash part of the purchase-money was paid, and Kiell gave his acceptance for the balance. The bill of lading was delivered to him. He pledged it with a bank to secure an advance made by them to him, and they sent the bill of lading to their agents in Calcutta. On the 17th of July Kiell's agents sold the salt "to arrive" to different sub-purchasers in Calcutta. On the 20th of July, Kiell filed a liquidation petition in London, and he was afterwards adjudicated a bankrupt. On the 30th of July, the ship having arrived at Calcutta, the bill of lading was given up to the agents of the shipowners there, who gave in exchange for it delivery orders for the whole of the cargo, which directed the master of the ship to weigh and deliver the salt to the respective sub-purchasers, to whom the same day the delivery orders were handed over. On the 3rd of August Falk's agents at Calcutta, in pursuance of a telegram sent by him, gave notice of stoppage in transitu to the master. At this time part of the cargo had been delivered to the respective sub-purchasers. It was weighed as it was delivered over the ship's side. After the notice of stoppage was given the remainder of the cargo was delivered to the sub-purchasers. Kiell's agents afterwards received the purchase-money from them, and, after satisfying thereout the amount due to the bank, paid the balance to Kiell's trustee. Falk claimed this balance, and applied to the Court for an order that it should be paid to him. The parties agreed upon a statement of facts, which did not, however, shew whether, when the notice to stop was given, the whole of the freight had been paid to the shipowners. The registrar dismissed the application. Falk appealed.

Cohen, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the appellant.

Benjamin, Q.C., Watkin Williams, Q.C., and G. W. Lawrence, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that, as it was not stated that the whole of the freight had been paid when the notice to stop was given, it must be assumed that the whole had not been paid. The shipowners consequently had a lien for unpaid freight on the undelivered part of the cargo, and they still held that part as carriers. There had not been a constructive delivery of the whole cargo, and the transit was not at an end; and consequently the notice to stop was given in time. And though, by reason of the sub-sale, the purchaser had lost all right to the actual goods, and the notice to stop could not affect the rights of the sub-purchasers, yet, according to Ex parte Golding, Davis & Co. (13 Ch. D. 628), the unpaid vendor had an equitable right to stop the sub-purchaser's unpaid purchase-money. The appellant was therefore entitled to the balance which had been paid over to the trustee.

Leave was given to appeal to the House of Lords.

Appeal—Locus Standi—"Person aggrieved"—Refusal of Court to act on Report of Comptroller in Bankruptcy against Trustee—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 20, 43, 57, 71—Bankruptcy Rule, 1870, r. 251.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge in Bankruptcy.

The Comptroller in Bankruptcy reported to the County Court at Manchester that in his opinion the estate of Sidebotham, a bankrupt, had sustained a loss of £1253 by the misfeasance, neglect, or omission of the trustee. The judge declined to make any order on this report. The Comptroller did not appeal, but the bankrupt, who had not obtained an order of discharge, appealed to the Chief Judge. The debts proved in the bankruptcy amounted to about £2200, and the trustee had collected assets to the amount of £1200, so that, if he had been ordered to pay the £1253, there would have been enough to pay the creditors nearly 20s. in the pound. The Chief Judge held that the bankrupt was not entitled to appeal from the decision. The bankrupt appealed.

Ambrose, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the bankrupt.

Winslow, Q.C., and S. Taylor, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.J.J.) held that the bankrupt was not a "person aggrieved" by such a decision, and that he could not appeal from it. If the judge made an order against a trustee on a report by the Comptroller, the trustee could of course appeal. But if the judge refused to make an order on the report, and the Comptroller did not appeal, neither the bankrupt nor any creditor was entitled to do so. If the trustee had been guilty of any misfeasance, the bankrupt or any creditor could under sect. 20, make an application of his own to the Court, and could appeal if he was not satisfied with the decision of the judge. The question whether a creditor could appeal from the refusal of the judge to act on the Comptroller's report was not really decided in Ex parte Ditton (11 Ch. D. 56). The decision there was only that a person who alleged that he was a creditor, but who had not proved any debt, could not appeal.

LEIGH v. PATTEN.

Will—Construction—Substitution—Death before Date of Will.

A testator gave a life interest to his wife in all his estate, and after her decease he gave it among several classes, one of which was described as follows: "The brothers of my said wife or the children of the same, if they be dead when this portion of my will comes into force, they only taking the share which would have been their parents' portion had they been living at the decease of my wife." The wife of the testator survived him. She had four brothers, one of whom died before the date of the will. Two survived the testator, but subsequently died in the life of the wife, and one survived her. The three who died left children.

Vice-Chancellor Hall held that the surviving brother and the children of the three who had died were all entitled. One of the children of a brother of the wife who survived the testator appealed.

Medd, for a party in the same interest.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell), L.J.J.) held that the case was within the principle of Christopherson v. Naylor (1 Mer. 320), and that the children of the brother dead at the date of the will were not entitled to participate.

Trust for Sale—Sale by Customary Heir of Surviving Trustee.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. A testator devised to two trustees and their heirs his freehold and copyhold estates, to hold the same to them and their heirs upon trust to permit M. M. to receive the rents during her life, and after her death upon trust that they his said trustees, or the trustees or trustee for the time being of that his will, should sell the freeholds and copyholds and hold the proceeds upon the trusts therein mentioned. The tenant for life being dead, and the surviving trustee having died intestate, his customary heir, who had been admitted to the copyholds, contracted to sell part of them. The purchaser objected that the heir could not execute the trust for sale. The Master of the Rolls overruled the objection. The purchaser appealed.

ECCLIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS v. COMMISSIONERS OF SEWERS.

Compulsory Purchase—Notice to Treat—Separate Assessment.

Under 57 Geo. 3, c. 29, power is given to the Commissioners of Sewers of the City of London to take portions of land within the City for the purpose, among other things, of widening and enlarging streets. The Commissioners of Sewers acting on those powers gave to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners a notice to treat for a piece of land forming Nos. 19, 21, 23, and 25 Ludgate Hill. The Commissioners of Sewers then proceeded to summon a jury to assess the value of so much only of the piece of land as formerly formed part of No. 25. To this the Ecclesiastical Commissioners objected, on the ground that there ought only to be one assessment of the value of the whole property comprised in the notice to treat; and they brought an action to restrain the Commissioners of Sewers and moved accordingly.

Bristowe, Q.C., and B. B. Swan, for the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

RHODES v. JENKINS.

Contract—Specific Performance or Damages—Previous Knowledge and Intention of Parties.

On the 9th of July, 1874, Major Mansell, since deceased, conveyed to Mr. Twyford, a solicitor, certain land at Wimbledon for building purposes. Twyford covenanted to make a public road forty feet wide from point A to point B, as marked in the plan, and Mansell covenanted to give Twyford possession of the land required for making the said road, and there were provisions in the conveyance for handing over the road when completed to the district board.

The road as marked on the plan passed under an arch of the South Western main line of railway, the measurement of which was fourteen feet wide and eleven feet high. In a suit to administer the estate of Mansell, Twyford claimed that his representatives should procure to be made a road of forty feet wide under the railway, or that damages should be awarded for breach of the covenant by Mansell in the conveyance.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Holland, for Twyford, contended that a man was bound to fulfil his contract if it was possible to do so whatever the cost might be, and that Mansell having contracted to supply land for a road of forty feet must fulfil that contract or pay damages. It was impossible to suppose that so small a railway arch could be sufficient for a public road.

Glasse, Q.C., and Levett, and Higgins, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was evident that both Mansell and Twyford well knew that the road must pass under the railway, and there was not a suspicion of any intention to apply to the railway company to enlarge the arch under their railway. It was also clear from the plan annexed to the conveyance that there were to be two roads, one up to the railway and another from the railway and beyond it. The claim was altogether unsustainable and must be dismissed with costs.

The Buenos Ayres Gas Company brought an action to restrain the publication of a certain advertisement as injurious to the company.

The Vice-Chancellor Malins on the 15th of April made an order that the defendant was to continue his undertaking not to publish the advertisement. The defendant sent for publication in a newspaper called The Review of Gas and Water, an account of the proceedings before the Vice-Chancellor Malins, in which the advertisement was virtually set out, and this account was published in conspicuous type.

The company now moved to commit the defendant to contempt.

Higgins, Q.C., and Bradford, for the company.
Glasse, Q.C., and R. Russell, for the defendant.

HIS LORDSHIP said that it would have been well if the defendant had kept silence and not have published this statement; but an inaccurate report of the case had appeared in another paper, and his Lordship would always hold that any one had a right to publish a fair report of proceedings in Court, whether on an interlocutory application or on the trial of the action. On the whole his Lordship would make no order on the motion, leaving each party to bear his own costs.

In this case the question upon further consideration was whether under a direction by a testator that certain charitable legacies should be "paid exclusively out of my personal estate" such legacies were payable in full out of the pure personalty.

The pure personalty was more than enough for payment of the charitable legacies; the impure personalty was not however sufficient.

Cozens-Hardy; Cadman Jones and Dundas Gardiner, appeared.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the words amounted to a plain direction that the charitable legacies were payable out of that which was pure personal estate.

V.-C. B. SWAINE v. DENBY. May 8.

Sale or Partition—Partition Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 40)—Trust for Sale.

Demurrer to an action by persons entitled as equitable tenants in common to a moiety of freehold hereditaments for the purpose of obtaining a sale in lieu of partition.

The property was devised by the will of Jonas Denby in 1847, to trustees upon trust to pay the rents and profits to his two sons during their lives in equal shares as tenants in common; in case of the death of either of the sons without issue the whole was devised unto the survivor in fee; in case of the death of either of them having issue, the rents previously paid to the one so dying to be paid such issue in equal shares until the death of the other son. After the death of the survivor of the two sons, power was given to the trustees to sell the property and divide the proceeds between the children of the two sons.

The testator died in 1850, and one of the sons in 1878, leaving two children, Mrs. Swaine and Mrs. Chadwick, the present plaintiffs.

By this action the plaintiffs requested a sale in lieu of partition and an account of the rents and profits since the death of their father.

The defendants, the trustees, of whom the surviving son was one, demurred.

Birrell, in support of the demurrer, contended that as the time for a sale pointed out by the testator had not arrived the Court had no jurisdiction to direct a sale.

Dunning, for the plaintiffs, submitted that as the plaintiffs, as equitable tenants in common of a moiety, would have been entitled to a partition before the Partition Act, 1868, the effect of that Act was to give them the right to a sale.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR allowed the demurrer. The testator had himself pointed out the time when it might be convenient to put an end to the trusts by selling the property and dividing the proceeds. Until that period arrived the Court had no jurisdiction to direct a sale.

Practice—Claim—Sets of Defendants—Several Causes of Action—Joinder of—Libels—Order XVII, rr. 1, 8—Order XVI, rr. 3, 4.

Appeal from Chambers.

The claim alleged that the plaintiff at the time of the alleged cause of action carried on business as a general merchant at Patras, that the defendants Schunck & Co. were warehousemen at Manchester, and the defendants Fels & Co. general merchants at Patras; that Schunck & Co. were agents for the defendants Fels & Co.; that Fels & Co. finding the plaintiff to be their rival in trade, and to drive him out of the market in England, falsely and maliciously wrote a number of letters to Schunck & Co., stating that the plaintiff was selling his goods under cost price, and was trading recklessly and not to be trusted, and directed Schunck & Co. to circulate this information, and Schunck & Co., knowing it to be false, maliciously repeated the statements in the letters. The claim also alleged that Schunck & Co. wrote certain libellous letters to the same effect about the trading of the plaintiff to Fels & Co., and published the letters in Manchester, whereby the plaintiff's business had been ruined.

Bowen, J., at chambers, having dismissed a summons to strike out the claim.

Sir John Holker, Q.C., and R. Henn Collins, for the defendants Schunck & Co., moved by way of appeal, and contended that separate causes of actions against separate defendants, and joint with several causes of action could not be joined as in the claim.

C. Russell, Q.C., and Mugglestone, for the plaintiff, were not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Grove and Lopes, JJ.) said that as the libels were of the same class, written in the same business, and published in the same place to the same persons, the causes of action might be joined, and that the joinder was not embarrassing, although in cases where there were several defendants, and perfectly distinct and different causes of action, it might be otherwise.

Groat Eastern Company to restrain that company from carrying into effect that agreement. The Master of the Rolls had given the relief prayed, and granted the injunction. On appeal, Lords Justices James and Bramwell were of opinion that the order of the Master of the Rolls should be reversed, while Lord Justice Baggallay was of opinion that it ought to be affirmed (11 Ch D. 449). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Bompas, Q.C., and Mr. Macnaghten, Q.C. appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Chitty, Q.C., and Mr. Smart, were for the respondents.

THE LORDS were of opinion that the provisions of the Great Eastern Railway Act of 1863 fully warranted the arrangement as to the supply of rolling stock; and that being so they declined to express any opinion on a second question raised in the appeal, namely, whether, supposing the arrangement to be invalid, the Attorney-General could rightly intervene to prevent its execution.

MANAGERS OF THE METROPOLITAN ASYLUM DISTRICT v. HILL AND OTHERS.

Appeal for Costs.

This was a question on the competency of an appeal. An action had been brought by Sir Rowland Hill and others (now represented by the respondents) against the present appellants for a nuisance alleged to be created by the appellants in erecting and carrying on a Small-pox Hospital at Hampstead. The case was tried before Baron Pollock, when a verdict was entered for the plaintiffs. The Queen's Bench granted a new trial reserving the costs (4 Q. B. Div. 433). The finding and judgment were, so far as the law was concerned, upheld by the Court of Appeal, but, on a consideration of the evidence, that Court consented to allow a new trial to be had on the condition that the defendants should pay the costs of the first trial within two months. An appeal against that decision was entered, and the question now brought before the House was as to the validity of that part of the order which related to costs, and the respondents contended that that could not properly be made the subject of appeal, as it was not the practice of the House to allow an appeal for costs.

The Solicitor-General (Sir F. Herschell), Mr. Bompas, Q.C., and Mr. Finlay, appeared for the respondents, in opposition to the competency of the appeal.

Sir J. Holker, Q.C., and Mr. C. H. Anderson, were for the appellants, in support of its competency, but were not called on.

THE LORDS did not think that this case at all fell within the rule of practice which forbad an appeal for costs, and therefore declared the appeal competent. Appeal admitted, and costs reserved till appeal heard.

CARMICHAEL v. GEE.

Will.

June 1.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Hall.

Mr. Robert Gee made a will by which he empowered his trustees to make demises of his estate for building purposes, and also, at their discretion, to sell his real and personal estate, and directed them to invest the proceeds and the rents, issues, and profits of his estate, and to set apart a sufficient portion of such investments "as will produce an annuity of 1200*l.* a year, which I bequeath to my wife, payable quarterly &c." to be reduced in case of her second marriage to 150*l.* And, subject to such investment in favour of his wife, the trustees were to set apart 5000*l.* for his daughter Zara, for settlement at 21, or marriage.

The residue was given for the benefit of his other children. The income of the estates was not sufficient to provide for the widow's annuity. The Vice-Chancellor had decided (9 Ch. D. 151) that the widow was not entitled to have the deficiency raised out of the corpus of the trust estate. The Lords Justices had (11 Ch. D. 891) reversed that decision, and hence this appeal.

Mr. W. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. F. Vaughan Hawkins, were heard for the appellant.

CAPITAL AND COUNTIES BANK v. HENTY & SON.

Libel—Judgment entered for Defendant on Ground of Words not being capable of Defamatory Sense.

Appeal of defendants from refusal of Common Pleas Division to enter judgment for defendants.

Action for libel for printing and publishing of the plaintiffs the following circular: "Messrs. Henty & Son hereby give notice that they will not receive in payment cheques drawn on any of the branches of the Capital and Counties Bank," with an innuendo "that the plaintiffs were not to be relied upon to meet the cheques drawn on them and that their position was such that they were not to be trusted to cash the cheques of their customers."

At the trial before Lord Coleridge, C.J., it appeared that the defendants, who were brewers at Chichester, having numerous customers and tenants, were in the habit of receiving from them in payment of their accounts cheques drawn on the different branches of the plaintiffs' bank, and which the plaintiffs cashed at their Chichester branch. In 1878, the plaintiffs' manager at Chichester declined to cash any cheques not drawn on the Chichester branch; upon this the defendants remonstrated, and wrote to the manager that if he did not cash the cheques as before they would send a circular to their tenants declining to take such cheques in payment. The manager replied that he certainly should decline to cash such cheques, and added, "I am quite indifferent to your sending out orders to your tenants;" whereupon the defendants sent to their customers and tenants the circular complained of. There was evidence that the plaintiffs had sustained damage. The jury at the trial were unable to agree, and were discharged. An application was then made by the defendants to the Common Pleas Division to enter judgment for them, which that Court refused.

May 14. THE COURT (Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J., Thesiger, L.J., dissenting) reversed the decision of the Common Pleas Division, and entered judgment for the defendants, on the ground that the words taken in their primary sense were not libellous, and that if taken in a sense distinct from their primary sense, there must be evidence of facts which would reasonably make them defamatory in their secondary sense, known both to the person who indited the libel and to those to whom it was published, and that there was nothing known to those to whom it was published upon which they could reasonably place a second meaning, and therefore there was no evidence that the document was defamatory in a secondary sense.

Practice—Appeal—Interlocutory Order—Discharge of Rule for New Trial—Nonsuit—Rules of Court 1876, Order LVIII., Rules 2, 4, 15.

Appeal of the plaintiff from a rule for a new trial, discharged by Kelly, C.B., and Stephen, J.

At the trial before Stephen, J., at Warwick Assizes, 1880, the plaintiff was nonsuited. A rule for a new trial was obtained in the Exchequer Division and was discharged upon the 4th of May; notice of appeal to the Court of Appeal was on the 15th of May given for the 24th of May. The appeal was entered in the list of appeals from orders made on interlocutory motions, and was called on accordingly.

Gould, for the defendant, by way of preliminary objection, contended, first, that the discharge of a rule for a new trial is a final judgment, and, secondly, that if it is not, it is at least an interlocutory judgment and not an interlocutory order, and that fourteen days' notice of appeal ought to have been given, and that the present appeal ought to have been entered in the general list of appeals, and not in the list of appeals from orders made on interlocutory motions. He stated that the general list contained several appeals of a like nature to the present.

Sills, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.J.J.) held that an order discharging a rule for a new trial is interlocutory, that the notice was sufficient, and that the present case was rightly entered in the list of appeals from orders made on interlocutory motions.

The appeal was then heard upon the merits. It appeared that the plaintiff was the trustee in liquidation of J. W. Bull, and that Sarah Tuckey had deposited 100*l.* in the hands of the defendant in trust for herself during her life, and after her death in trust for J. W. Bull. Sarah Tuckey died in August 1871. After her death a dispute arose as to her property, and J. W. Bull had agreed that the sum of 100*l.* in the defendant's hand should be divided into shares. The plaintiff, as trustee, sought to recover the sum of 100*l.*, less some small deductions. The defendant paid 16*l.* 16*s.* into court, as the share of J. W. Bull.

Sills, for the plaintiff.

Gould, for the defendant.

THE COURT were of opinion that the nonsuit ought not to be set aside, and that the appeal must be dismissed.

Solicitor—Lien—Costs—Garnishee Order—Priority.

Appeal of defendant from an order of Denman and Lopes, J.J. Issue in the form of a special case pursuant to a judge's order.

The plaintiffs in the issue were solicitors on the record for Washington, who obtained judgment against a railway company for 400*l.* and costs. The defendant in the issue was judgment creditor of Washington, and obtained ex parte the ordinary garnishee order, attaching all debts due from the company to Washington. The costs in the action were taxed, and the plaintiffs then first heard of the claim of the defendant against Washington. Field, J., ordered a sum of 190*l.* to be paid into Court by the railway company, to abide the event of the special case. The question for the opinion of the Court was, whether the plaintiffs were entitled as against the defendant under the garnishee order, to a charge or lien upon or to be paid out of the damages and costs recovered by Washington in the action against the company the amount of the costs, charges, and expenses as his solicitors in reference to such action.

The Common Pleas Division gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

Ambrose, Q.C., for the defendant, in support of the appeal.

Hean Collins, for the plaintiffs, relied upon Faithfull v. Even (7 Ch. D. 495).

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal.

Practice—Company—Winding-up Petition—Application by Company for Order to stay Action until Petition disposed of—Motion ex parte—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), s. 85.

Action to recover 82*l.* 10*s.* The writ of summons was issued on the 4th of May, and a petition for winding up the company was on the 11th of May presented to the Chancery Division adversely to the company. The judgment was signed upon the 19th of May, and upon the 26th of May the sheriff seized the goods of the defendant company in execution, and the sale of them was advertised for the 31st of May. The petition for winding-up had been appointed for hearing upon the 28th of May; but the parties arranged that it should stand over for a week. Upon the 27th of May, application was made ex parte to the Exchequer Division for an order restraining the sale by the sheriff until after the petition for winding-up should have been disposed of. The Exchequer Division on the 28th refused an order. Upon the same day the defendants appealed to this Court.

Boome, for the defendants, now moved ex parte for an order to restrain the sale. He stated that if the sale were allowed to proceed the injury to the company would be irreparable, and that if the sale were stayed, the company would be able to raise the funds necessary to satisfy all their creditors in full. He relied upon Companies Act, 1862, s. 85. He stated that the defendants only knew that judgment had been signed when the execution was put in.

THE COURT (Baggallay, Bramwell, and Brett, L.J.J.) held that the application ought to have been made sooner after the petition for winding-up had been presented, and granted the order to restrain the sale only upon the terms that the defendants should pay the amount into court for which the execution had been issued.

Wife's Equity to a Settlement—Property given to Husband and Wife jointly.

Elizabeth Bryan by her will gave and bequeathed to her daughter Mary E. Godfrey, wife of W. V. Godfrey, the sum of 1000*l.*, on condition that the same should be expended in land or put out at interest in good government securities for the benefit in yearly rents or interest of the said Mary E. Godfrey and W. V. Godfrey during their joint lives, and the life of the survivor of them, with a provision in favour of the children of Mary E. Godfrey if she should have any, or if not, then the principal sum of 1000*l.* to be divided equally between the two sons of the testatrix. She also gave authority to her trustees and executors to see the said 1000*l.* given to Mary E. Godfrey secured as thereinbefore indicated. And she gave the residue of her property to be divided equally amongst her sons and daughters, but if either of her daughters should die without leaving children but leaving grandchildren, then such grandchildren to take their mothers' shares.

This action was to administer the estate of Elizabeth Bryan. W. V. Godfrey had become bankrupt, and a question was raised upon summons from Chambers whether or not Mary E. Godfrey was entitled to a settlement of the whole of her interest under the will, or to any or what part thereof.

Bristow, Q.C., and Bardswell, for Mrs. Godfrey, claimed to be entitled to an equity to a settlement.

Owen, for the trustee in bankruptcy, contended that the case was governed by Atcheson v. Atcheson (11 Beav. 485), and Ward v. Ward (ante, p. 88).

J. Pearson, Q.C., Oswald, and Sheild, for residuary legatees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it had already been decided that a married woman had the same equity to a settlement out of property in which she had a life interest only as out of property in which she had an absolute interest, but that was where the property was given to the wife only. It was not so in such a case as this, where the husband and wife had a joint interest. The point had been decided in the cases cited, and he considered both on principle and authority that Mrs. Godfrey's claim to a settlement could not be sustained. She would, however, be entitled to a settlement of the residue, in which no interest was given to her husband.

Practice—Correcting Error in Judgment—Order XLII. (Dec. 1879.)

The judgment in this action (noted ante, p. 44), as drawn up by the registrar and passed and entered, contained no express provision that the plaintiff should have the costs of an interlocutory motion for an injunction which had been ordered to stand over to the trial. The plaintiff's counsel had omitted at the trial to ask for the costs of the motion. The taxing master refused to allow the plaintiff those costs. The judgment reserved liberty to apply to the Court.

North Q.C., and Seward Brice, for the plaintiff, now moved that the judgment might be varied or corrected by giving the plaintiff the costs in question.

Cookson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the defendant, objected that there was no jurisdiction to do what was asked, the application being in effect an application to rehear the order: In re St. Nazaire Co. (12 Ch. D. 88).

FRY, J., held that he had jurisdiction to order the costs in question to be paid, either under the liberty to apply expressly reserved by the judgment, or the liberty to apply which was implied in the order that the motion should stand to the trial, or at any rate under Order XLII. (December 1879, Miscellaneous, January 3, 1880, p. 16), which empowers the Court to correct "clerical mistakes in judgments or orders, or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission," on motion without an appeal.

His Lordship accordingly made a separate order, as in Viney v. Chaplin (3 De G. & J. 282), that the plaintiff should have the costs of the motion for an injunction. And, as the plaintiff had, before giving notice of the present motion, applied to the defendant to consent to the allowing of the costs in question, the defendant must pay the costs of the present motion.

Adjudication—Pending Suit—Judgment Creditor—37 & 38 Vict. c. 57.

Appeal from an order of the Exeter County Court adjudicating the appellant, Colonel O. J. Kemys Tynte a bankrupt.

In January, 1862, Henry Gibbon, the petitioning creditor, obtained judgment against Colonel Tynte for 1740*l.*, principal, interest, and costs due upon a bill of exchange. Execution was issued upon the judgment, which was registered, and periodically re-registered, and pursuant to a judge's order, dated the 3rd of July, 1868, a suggestion was entered on the roll reviving the judgment, but from Colonel Tynte having gone abroad Gibbon was unable to obtain satisfaction of his debt. In March last, on discovering that Colonel Tynte had returned to this country, and was living at Torquay, Gibbon served a debtor's summons upon him, under which, from non-payment of the demand, an act of bankruptcy followed on the 13th of April. A petition for adjudication was thereupon presented by Gibbon, and on the 30th of April, at the Exeter County Court, Colonel Tynte was adjudicated a bankrupt, notwithstanding the objection on his behalf that the proceedings in bankruptcy were an interference with the suits of Ford v. Tynte, &c., in which Colonel Tynte's life interest in estates of great value was being administered for the benefit of his creditors; and the admission by Gibbon, the petitioning creditor, that he was aware of the existence of these suits.

Winslow, Q.C., and R. Vaughan Williams, in support of the appeal from the order of adjudication.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for Gibbon, the petitioning creditor.

THE CHIEF JUDGE allowed the appeal. The petitioning creditor was perfectly aware of the existence of the suit of Ford v. Tynte, which was instituted for the purpose of making available for mortgagees and judgment creditors the only property which Colonel Tynte possessed, but he had not thought it right to come in as he might have done, under the decree which was made in favour of himself and the other creditors. He could not be allowed after all these years to obtain adjudication so as to interfere with the proceedings in Chancery, and get them transferred to the jurisdiction in bankruptcy. It was also a sufficient objection, having regard to the Limitations Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 57), that no proceedings had been taken on the judgment for more than twelve years. Appeal allowed with costs.

Ship's Charter—Port of Discharge.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal by which a previous decision of the Exchequer Division had been by two out of three Lord Justices affirmed (4 Exch. Div. 155).

The Cumberland Lassie, a ship belonging to the plaintiff, had been taken up by the defendant for a voyage to the port of East London on the coast of South Africa. The charterparty contained the following stipulation: "The cargo is to be discharged with all despatch according to the custom of the port." The port of East London to which it was bound was a bar harbour, to which access for ships of a certain burden for the purpose of discharging their cargoes could only be obtained by the means of lighters worked along a warp. The lighters at the harbour were entirely under the control of the authorities there—they were four in number, and by the custom of the harbour each ship could only obtain the use of them in a settled rule of rotation, and that rule was subject to infringement whenever a mail steamer arrived, on the happening of which event precedence was instantly accorded to the mail steamer over any ship then having a right by rotation to the services of the lighters. The Cumberland Lassie arrived at the port on the 31st of August, 1875, and, so far as the vessel itself was concerned, was ready to begin discharging the cargo on the following day. There were then seven ships lying in the harbour, having cargoes exactly similar to that of the Cumberland Lassie, awaiting their turn. From these various causes the Cumberland Lassie did not obtain the services of the lighters till the following 6th of October. The owner brought an action for delay in delivering the cargo, claiming damages on that account, and contended that there was an implied obligation on the part of the charterer to procure the discharge of the cargo within a reasonable time from the arrival of the ship at the port of discharge; and that he was liable in damages in all cases in which this implied duty was not performed. Lord Coleridge at the trial left it to the jury to say whether there was any settled practice or custom at the port, and if so, whether the vessel was unloaded with all dispatch according to the custom. Both questions were answered in the affirmative. The Exchequer Division had given judgment for the defendant after hearing the case upon a motion for a new trial. The case was then taken to the Court of Appeal, and Lord Justices Thesiger and Brett had agreed in affirming the judgment of the Exchequer Division, Lord Justice Cotton dissenting. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Butt, Q.C., Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Bigham, were for the appellants.

Mr. Watkin Williams, Q.C., and Mr. J. A. McLeod, for the respondent.

THE LORDS fully agreed with the decision of the majority of the Court of Appeal, and affirmed the judgment.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. MARTIN v. TOLLEMAOHE. May 31.
Settlement—Construction—Forfeiture Clause.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (ante, p. 43). The shifting clause provided that if Sir William Manners and certain other persons therein named, or any of them, or their or any of their issue male, should under a certain will therein named, or otherwise, become entitled for such estate as therein mentioned to the third parts or shares thereby devised of hereditaments in Surrey and Suffolk, and should refuse or neglect to convey the same to the uses of the settlement, "the uses or estates hereinbefore limited to or for the benefit or in favour of the person who or whose issue male shall so refuse or neglect as aforesaid shall absolutely cease and be void in such and the same manner as if he or they respectively were dead without issue of his or their body or bodies entitled or inheritable under or by virtue of the limitations hereinbefore contained." By the settlement the settled estates were limited to Sir William Manners for life, with remainder to his first and other sons successively in tail male. Sir William Manners died in 1833, and his eldest son succeeded to the settled estates as tenant in tail male by purchase, and was succeeded by his eldest son, the late Lord Huntingtower, as issue in tail male. Sir William Manners bought the third share of the hereditaments in Surrey only, and devised it to uses different from those of the settlement. The question was whether the estate of Lord Huntingtower had become void under the shifting clause.

Cookson, Q.C., and Shebbeare, Ince, Q.C., and Strickland, for the appellants.

Davey, Q.C., and Yate Lee, contra, were not called upon.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, without giving any opinion on the point decided by the Vice-Chancellor, or on the question whether the words "or otherwise" would include a purchase for value, their Lordships being of opinion that if the shifting clause had taken effect it had done nothing more than take away the life estate of Sir William Manners.

William Hawkins (of whom the defendant was the assignee), dated the 23rd of August, 1845, for 49,003l. 10s., on which a sum of upwards of 20,000l. was alleged to be due. At the trial upon the 22nd of June, 1878, Coleridge, C.J., decided that the judgment of the 23rd of August, 1845, was still in force to the amount which might be found to be due thereon, and he directed a reference to the official referee to find the amount still due. Upon the 6th of April, 1880, Lord Coleridge ordered that an account be taken by the official referee to ascertain how much of the original debt had been paid off, and that judgment should be entered for the defendant if a sum remained unpaid larger than the plaintiff's claim, otherwise for the plaintiff. The order when drawn up was dated the 8th of April. Upon the 13th of April the plaintiff served notice of appeal against this order for the 29th of April. The official referee reported that the sum of 28,122l. was still due upon the judgment which had been assigned to the defendant. Judgment was entered upon the order and report, and was dated the 7th of June, 1878. The defendant gave notice of motion to set aside the appeal lodged by the plaintiff on the ground that the same was not lodged within the time prescribed by the Rules of Court, and in the alternative for a stay of proceedings until security for costs should have been given. The plaintiff was in poor circumstances, and on the 10th of June, 1879, issued a writ in the Chancery Division claiming the sum of 675l. being the aggregate amount of three half-yearly payments of the pension.

Liquidation—Resolution by Creditors to accept Composition—Taxation of Trustee's Charges—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 28—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 108.

H. Ranby filed a liquidation petition, and the creditors resolved on a liquidation by arrangement, and appointed a trustee. Afterwards the debtor, under the provisions of sect. 28, offered to pay the creditors a composition of 6s. 8d. in the pound, and this offer was accepted by the creditors at a meeting summoned by the trustee, and the resolutions were afterwards confirmed by the Court. The debtor was also to pay the costs of the proceedings, and the resolutions provided that he was to have his discharge, and that the liquidation should be closed, on the trustee certifying in writing that the debtor had given effect to the resolutions. This was done, and the trustee delivered to the debtor an account of his receipts and disbursements. This account was afterwards audited and approved by the committee of inspection. The debtor was dissatisfied with some of the trustee's charges, and applied to the Court for an order directing an account to be taken of the trustee's receipts and disbursements, and that the balance (if any) which might be found due from him should be paid to the debtor. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, in the first instance referred it to the taxing master to tax the trustee's charges, and adjourned the hearing of the application. The taxing master was of opinion that, as the account had been certified by the committee of inspection, he had no power to tax the charges. The motion was then reheard by the registrar, and he dismissed it. But it did not clearly appear whether he did so because he thought that he had no jurisdiction to direct the taxation, or because he had gone through the account and considered the charges proper ones. The debtor appealed.

Hemming, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the registrar had jurisdiction, because the functions of the committee of inspection were at an end when the resolutions under sect. 28 had been confirmed, and the trustee had certified that the debtor had given effect to them. The hearing of the appeal was ordered to stand over for the purpose of ascertaining the ground of the registrar's decision.

In re JORDAN.

Bill of Sale—Apparent Possession—Fraudulent Preference—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 92.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge.

On the 12th of April, 1878, Jordan executed a bill of sale of his stock-in-trade, furniture, and other chattels to Symmons and Hewitt, by way of security to them for the liability which they had undertaken by joining with him as his sureties in signing a promissory note for 259l. to Wethered. This note was given to secure the repayment to Wethered of moneys which he had advanced to Jordan. The bill of sale was not registered. On the 14th of April, 1879, Symmons and Hewitt went to Jordan's place of business and selected various articles of furniture (part of those comprised in the bill of sale) which were invoiced to them as purchasers at 104l. The goods thus selected were sent the same day by Jordan to their place of business, and he signed a receipt for the 104l. The money was not paid, but was intended to be set off against the liability of Symmons and Hewitt on the promissory note. The note fell due on the 15th of April, and was paid by Symmons and Hewitt on the 16th of April. Before the 14th of April, Jordan had told them that he was in difficulties, and should not be able to pay the note, and had suggested that they had better do what was legal in the matter. On the 19th of April, 1879, Jordan filed a liquidation petition, and was on the 12th of May adjudicated a bankrupt. The trustees in the bankruptcy claimed the return of the goods which had been sent to Symmons and Hewitt. The Chief Judge (affirming the decision of the Judge of the Windsor County Court) held that the transaction by which Symmons and Hewitt obtained possession of the goods amounted to a fraudulent preference. His Lordship therefore ordered Symmons and Hewitt to restore the goods, or to pay the 104l. to the trustees. Symmons and Hewitt appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and A. Beddall, for the appellants.

De Gex, Q.C., and Robertson Griffiths, for the trustees.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that, as, by virtue of the bill of sale, the goods in question had become the property of the appellants, and they were not in the apparent possession of the bankrupt at the time when the liquidation petition was filed, it was immaterial whether the transaction by which the appellants had obtained the actual possession of the goods would, if there had been no bill of sale, have amounted to a fraudulent preference. The order of the County Court was accordingly discharged.

Copyholds—Encroachment on Waste by Copyhold Tenant.

This was an appeal by the defendant from a refusal by Mr. Justice Fry of a summons to vary the chief clerk's certificate as to the amount of damages payable by the defendant. The facts will be found in the report of the case at the trial (5 Ch. D. 750).

Cookson, Q.C., and Hadley, for the appellant.

Hemming, Q.C., and Rigby, contra, were not called upon.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) declined to give any opinion on the question whether an encroachment by a copyhold tenant on the waste was under any circumstances to be treated as an accretion to the original holding, so that the copyholder would only acquire under the Statute of Limitations a copyhold title. Their Lordships held that as the inclosure was made under a grant from the lord to Mair, he acquired a common law interest, after the determination of which the possession of the Board of Ordnance was that of trespassers, and that they had acquired a freehold title under the Statute of Limitations. Their Lordships, moreover, held that, assuming the inclosure to have been an encroachment, the presumption that it was made for the benefit of the lord as well as the tenant, was rebutted by the fact that in the surrenders and admittances after the inclosure the original copyhold only, as defined by metes and bounds, was included, so that the possession of the inclosure by the Board was the possession of trespassers. That the defendant, therefore, in digging for the coprolities had taken them out of land in which he had no interest whatever, and there was no ground for saying that the amount of damages in that view was excessive.

Party-wall—Metropolitan Buildings Act—18 & 19 Vict. c. 122, ss. 3, 88.

This was an appeal by the plaintiff from a decision of Fry, J. (11 Ch. D. 412).

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Holland, for the appellant.

Maidlow, for the defendant, stated that as the defendant could not interfere with the whole wall he did not intend to interfere with any part of it, and had stated this to the plaintiff before the appeal was brought, and had since built an adjoining wall on his own land. The plaintiff having had the costs of the action as to the wall, the argument of the question whether any part of the wall was a party-wall would be perfectly useless.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) acceded to this view, and the defendant by his counsel disclaiming any right to treat any part of the wall as a party-wall, the appeal was dismissed with costs without hearing the question argued whether any part of the wall was a party-wall.

Appeal of the defendant from the judgment of Thesiger, L.J., after a trial with a jury, and appeal of the defendant from the refusal of Lush and Bowen, J.J., to set aside the verdict.

The plaintiff was the trustee in liquidation of one Abbot. The defendant was the owner of a mill which he had mortgaged to Harrison. Abbot became tenant of the mill, and the defendant had bought the machinery for the mill. After Abbot had been tenant for some months, he stated on the 1st of August to the defendant that he had become embarrassed in his circumstances, but that the latter could distrain for the rent. A lease had been granted to Abbot by the defendant, whereby one year's rent in advance was to become payable on demand. On the 2nd of August, the defendant distrained upon the goods of Abbot, and on the 3rd the latter filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement. The mortgagee did not execute the lease to Abbot, until the following September. The plaintiff having sued for a fraudulent preference, the jury found in his favour, and judgment was directed to be entered for him. It further appeared that in the lease to Abbot the rent was reserved to the mortgagee.

MADDICK v. MARKS.

Will's Act, s. 27—Power of Appointment—General Bequest by Will—Contrary Intention—Codicil.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon.

By a voluntary deed G. Clark settled property including 1000*l.* due to him from his son-in-law J. L. Denman—such sum to remain owing during the settlor's lifetime, but not after his death, except on the terms of obtaining security by the assignment of a policy upon Denman's life—upon such trusts as the settlor should by will or deed appoint, and in default of appointment on trust to pay the interest to the settlor for life, and after his death on certain trusts for his daughters and their children, under which the interests of the daughters ceased on their death without issue.

By a subsequent will Clark bequeathed his residuary estate on trusts for his daughters and their children, under which the daughters dying without issue had power to appoint their shares by will.

By a codicil, after reciting that he had advanced to Denman other sums besides the 1000*l.*, and that under the settlement and under the will, or one of them, his daughter, Denman's wife, would be entitled for her life, and their children would be entitled in remainder, to certain shares in the property comprised in the settlement, the testator declared that such share under the settlement or will, or either of them, should be taken to be satisfied out of the moneys owing to him by Denman other than the 1000*l.* On the day following the execution of the codicil Denman assigned to Clark a policy of insurance on his life as security for 2000*l.* then owing by him to Clark.

Clark died about a year after the execution of the codicil, and an action having been brought for the administration of his estate, it was contended by the plaintiff, who represented one of the daughters of the testator, that the general bequest in the will operated as an execution of the power of appointment contained in the voluntary settlement; the defendant, who was the surviving executor of the testator, contending on the other hand that a contrary intention was shewn by the words of the codicil, and by the execution of the security on the following day.

Vice-Chancellor Bacon decided that the will was a good execution of the power, and the defendant appealed.

Levett (Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., with him), for the defendant. Hemming, Q.C., and Popham, for the plaintiff, were not called on.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.), held that the mortgage which was executed the day after the date of the codicil was not a circumstance which could be looked at in determining the intention of the testator; and, without expressing any opinion whether the codicil could be read with the will for the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the testator as to the execution of the power, they were clearly of opinion that there was nothing in the will or codicil to shew any contrary intention within the 27th section of the Wills Act. They therefore, held that the will was a good execution of the power, and dismissed the appeal.

This was an appeal from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (noted Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 197) who held that the plaintiffs were entitled as against the appellants, the National Provincial Bank of England, who were second mortgagees in possession of part of the property comprised in the mortgage of 1871, to consolidate the mortgages of 1871 and 1874, although there had been no default in respect of the mortgage of 1871.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and A. T. Watson, for the appellant. Graham Hastings, Q.C., and P. V. Smith, for the society.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the decision of the Vice-Chancellor could not be sustained. It was a very considerable extension of the doctrine of consolidation. The principle of Selby v. Pomfret (1 J. & H. 336), which had been relied on on behalf of the society, did not apply. There the Court was dealing with a case in which the two properties were reduced to the position of equities of redemption by default on both securities. In their Lordships' opinion the doctrine of consolidation could not be applied to a case where there was no default in respect of one of the existing securities. There was no authority for such a proposition. The appeal must be allowed, with a declaration that the society were not entitled to consolidate the 1874 mortgage with the 1871 mortgage as against the bank.

Kilby delivered a defence and a counterclaim, to which the plaintiffs and Izzard and wife were defendants, by which he alleged that Mrs. Izzard claimed to be owner in fee, and asked to have it determined to whom he could safely pay his rent. Izzard and wife applied by summons for leave to deliver interrogatories for the examination of Molloy and wife. Vice-Chancellor Hall decided that such leave ought not to be given. Izzard and wife appealed.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Cotton and Thesiger, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal on the ground that as Izzard and wife were not parties to the original action, and they and Molloy and wife were co-defendants to the counterclaim, Molloy and wife were not "opposite parties" within the meaning of Order XXXI, r. 1.

 BURGESS'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Application for Shares—Allotment—Non-payment of Allotment Money—Repudiation of Contract—Liability.

This was an application by the liquidators of the Hull and County Bank, Limited, to put F. J. Burgess on the list of contributories for fifty shares.

On the 17th of September, 1878, Burgess, having received a prospectus of the bank, applied by letter for fifty shares, which he agreed to accept, and to pay 1*l.* per share on allotment, and a further sum of 1*l.* per share three months after allotment. On the 18th of October, 1878, fifty shares were allotted to him by the bank, and the secretary wrote to inform him that in accordance with his request fifty shares had been allotted to him, and that the money payable on allotment was 1*l.* per share. No payment was made on receipt of the allotment letter, but Burgess wrote to the secretary that he would send a cheque at the beginning of the next month. On the 27th of September, 1878, Burgess wrote to the secretary of the bank, that having heard that there was a dispute relating to the company of which he was ignorant when he applied for the shares, he desired that his allotment should be cancelled unless the dispute was settled to the satisfaction of all parties. He enclosed the letter of allotment, which was returned to him on the following day. Burgess made no payment in respect of the shares, but took no further steps to repudiate his contract before the winding-up of the bank. About four weeks afterwards a resolution was passed for the voluntary winding-up of the bank, and on the 7th of December, 1878, an order was made that the winding-up should be continued under supervision.

Davey, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the liquidators, in support of the application.

Chitty, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for Burgess, contended that his contract had been rescinded and that he was not a contributory within s. 38 of the Companies Act.

Company—Directors—Improper Appointment—Directors' Fees, Repayment of.

This was an adjourned summons in the winding-up of the Public Supply Association, upon an application by the official liquidator that the name of W. Bentley might be restored to the list of contributories, or that he might be ordered to return to the liquidator the sum of 158*l.* which he had received from the company by way of directors' fees. The company was formed in March, 1876, with a nominal capital of 100,000*l.*, divided into 1*l.* shares, the winding-up order was dated in April, 1878. W. Bentley became a director on the 26th of July, 1876, and attended the meetings regularly from that date. On the 5th of February, 1877, the directors resolved to distribute among themselves the sum of 1000*l.*, which was fixed by the articles of association as the amount of directors' fees, and 158*l.*, being W. Bentley's proportion, was paid to him by cheque. The following day he applied that money in the purchase of 158 l. shares in the company, and it was now sought to make him repay that amount as having been improperly received by him, first, because he was not qualified to act as a director, not being the holder of 50 shares, which was the qualification required by the articles; and, secondly, because he had not been duly appointed a director.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the official liquidator.

Buckley, for Bentley, submitted that as he was the nominee of the first directors of the company, it was not necessary under the articles that he should hold any qualification, and that his appointment was duly made by a letter addressed to him by the secretary, and by acting as a director from the time he first took his seat on the board, with the consent of the other directors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that Bentley had not been properly appointed a director, as no resolution had been passed for his appointment, and no minute of the board had been entered to that effect. It appeared that the whole capital of the company was only 900*l.*, and he considered that the directors were not justified in allotting to themselves 1000*l.* for fees within a year of the formation of the company, when no money had been earned out of which the fees could be paid. It was true that Bentley had laid out the money he had received in taking shares, but those shares were worth 1*l.* each when they were allotted to him. Under the circumstances an order must be made for the repayment by Bentley of the 158*l.*

V.-C. M. ROGERS v. MANLEY. June 1.
Practice—Witnesses to rebut Defendant's Evidence.

This was an action to set aside a deed of dissolution of partnership, and to have specific performance of an alleged agreement for dissolution upon different terms.

Witnesses were examined on behalf of the plaintiff. The plaintiff himself deposed to a certain conversation which took place between him and the defendant at the plaintiff's house on the 19th of August, 1878; this conversation formed the principal ground for the charges made by the claim as to the actual agreement for dissolution of the partnership. The plaintiff's wife also gave evidence as to the conversation which took place in her presence at the plaintiff's house on the 19th of August. This witness was cross-examined as to the effect of that conversation.

Witnesses were then examined on behalf of the defendant. The defendant himself denied that he had been at the plaintiff's house on the 19th of August, 1878, and denied that any conversation to the effect alleged by the plaintiff had ever taken place. After the defendant's witnesses had all been examined.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the plaintiff, asked to be allowed to call further witnesses to deny the statement of the defendant as to his not having been at the plaintiff's house, on the ground that they had been taken by surprise and had been thrown off their guard by the course taken in cross-examination. They cited Taylor on Evidence (7th ed.), p. 392.

Glasse, Q.C., J. Pearson, Q.C., and Macnaghten, Q.C., opposed the production by the plaintiff of further evidence.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the contradictions in the evidence were palpable, the story told by the plaintiff and by his wife being completely contradicted by the defendant. The plaintiff's wife was not cross-examined as to the fact of the defendant having been in the house on the 19th of August; on the contrary, the whole tone of the cross-examination was an admission of that fact, and a denial of the effect of the conversation. His Lordship considered that the cases referred to in Taylor on Evidence were in favour of the Court having discretion to admit additional evidence in such a case as this, and, considering the extremely difficult position in which he was placed, in having to decide upon such contradictory evidence, and it being a turning point in the case, he thought he was at liberty to have the difficulty removed by any further evidence that could be obtained. He would therefore give leave to the plaintiff to call additional witnesses. Three witnesses were then called who confirmed the statement made by the plaintiff and by his wife, and the defendant was in the plaintiff's house on the 19th of August, 1878, for at least an hour.

The further hearing of the action was then proceeded with, and at the conclusion of the arguments his Lordship reserved his judgment.

Costs—Claim dismissed—Counter-claim—Set-off—Apportionment.

A claim and a counter-claim were both dismissed with costs. The taxing master taxed the costs of the claim at 350*l.* and gave 10*l.* 10*s.* as the costs of the counter-claim. The plaintiff took out a summons to review the taxation on the ground that such of the costs of the claim as were common to both ought to be apportioned.

Glasse, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the plaintiff.
Higgins, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the defendant.
His Lordship was of opinion that the principle adopted by the taxing master was right. The costs had not been increased by the counter-claim, and the plaintiff had not taken in any bill of costs occasioned by the counter-claim. The plaintiff must pay all the costs of the claim and the 10*l.* 10*s.* allowed by the master would be deducted.

Bankrupt Law—Commencement of Action by Trustee in Bankruptcy—Assignment by Trustee of Subject Matter of Action—Right of Assignee to carry on the Action—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 15, 25, 111—Rules of Court, 1875, Order L., r. 3.

Motion on behalf of the defendant Edward Levy Lawson, to discharge an order made on the 23rd of April, 1880, of course, on a petition by Horace Whitehead Chatterton, alleging that by a deed dated the 16th of March, 1880, the whole of the premises, the subject matter of the action, were assigned by the plaintiff John Sear, the trustee in bankruptcy of Benjamin Webster, to him, Chatterton, whereby it was ordered that the petitioner Chatterton should be at liberty to carry on and prosecute the action and proceedings therein in like manner as the same might have been carried on and prosecuted by the plaintiff if he had not assigned his interest.

The action was commenced by writ, issued on the 4th of March, 1880. No statement of claim had been delivered. The object was to have it declared that a deed of the 9th of October, 1879, might be set aside, so far it purported to be a conveyance out-and-out by Webster to Lawson of the Adelphi Theatre, and other property, and that the deed might be ordered to stand as a security only for the money advanced and interest.

The deed mentioned in the petition, though dated the 16th of March, was not executed until the 20th of April, 1880.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the motion:—The order at the Rolls was made on the authority of Order L., r. 3. But the rule does not justify an illegal assignment, such as this, which is an assignment not of property, but of a lawsuit.

Winslow, Q.C., and Terrell, for Chatterton:—The rule that choses in action are not assignable on the ground of champerty has no application to bankruptcy: ss. 25, 111, of the Act of 1869. Any assignee of a chose in action of a bankrupt may bring or continue the action. This was the assignment of an equity of redemption.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply:—Only things in action which are legally saleable can be comprised under sect. 111. The thing sold here was not an equity of redemption, but a disputed claim to have an equity of redemption.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR referred to ss. 111, 25, and 15 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and observed that the right of the bankrupt to bring this action was clear. By sect. 15 this right was made part of the bankrupt's property; by sect. 25 it was the right and duty of the trustee to sell all or any part of the bankrupt's property; and by sect. 111 any assignee of a bankrupt's chose in action might bring any action relating thereto in his own name. No question as to champerty could arise. The order at the Rolls was quite right, and the motion must be refused with costs.

Wife's Equity to a Settlement—Benefit of Wife and Children—Subsequent Marital Interest.

Petition for the payment out of Court of a sum of 750*l.* which had been paid in by the Great Western Railway Company for the purchase of land forming part of property to which the three petitioners were entitled absolutely, one of them being a married woman with two children who was living apart from her husband on the ground of his alleged cruelty. The married woman now asked that a settlement of her share might be directed for the benefit of herself for life, and then for her children upon attaining 21, and if no children, then for the benefit of her next of kin excluding her husband, or else that she should have a general power of appointment in default of children.

Poole, in support of the petition.

Dunning, for the husband of the petitioner, claimed to have the settlement of the fund made so as to give him a right to the property after his wife's death, in default of children.

G. A. Watson, for the Great Western Railway Company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after considering the authorities cited, said he considered the rule settled that after the wife's life interest and the interest of the children were satisfied, the marital right would prevail, and the settlement must be framed so as to give him the property in case of his wife's death without children.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Consolidation.

Petition.

Wallace Barrow mortgaged a contingent interest, and subsequently mortgaged an estate in possession to one and the same person to secure different advances. The first security became worthless, because the interest therein comprised never vested in the mortgagor or his representatives, and the question was whether the representative of the mortgagee was entitled to consolidate both the mortgages.

Bevir, Q.C., C. T. Simpson, Stock, Street, Jason Smith, and Daw, appeared for the various parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the doctrine of consolidation was applicable, notwithstanding that the first security had turned out to be worthless, and that the representatives of the mortgagor were not entitled to redeem the property comprised in the second mortgage except upon payment of both mortgage debts.

Will—Specific Legacy—Ademption—"My Debentures"—Debenture Stock.

A testator by his will bequeathed "all my debentures in the St. Paulo, Brazilian, Railway Company," upon trusts therein mentioned. At the date of the will the testator had ten of the company's 5l. per cent. debentures of 100l. each. After the date of the will these debentures became payable, and the company not being willing to renew them, offered the testator the option of converting them into permanent 5l. 10s. per cent. debenture stock. The testator took the debenture stock which amounted to 930l.; and at the time of his death there was standing in his name the 930l. debenture stock of the San Paulo Railway which he had thus taken. The question was whether this stock passed under the gift of the debentures.

Kaye, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the stock did not pass, as it was a new thing taken by the testator which did not answer the description of the subject of his gift.

Jurisdiction—Application at Suggestion of Judge to strike Solicitor off the Roll—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 87—Order LI., r 1a, (June, 1877)—Order of Lord Chancellor of the 19th of June, 1877.

At the trial of this action it appeared to the judge that a solicitor, who was a party to the action, had been guilty of improper conduct, and his Lordship afterwards called the attention of the official solicitor to this fact.

J. Rigby, for the official solicitor, now asked for leave to serve on the solicitor a notice of a motion to strike him off the roll.

Fry, J., at first doubted whether he had any jurisdiction in the matter, inasmuch as the order of the Lord Chancellor of the 19th June, 1877, directed that no causes or matters were to be assigned to him by being marked by the plaintiff or petitioner with his name. But, ultimately, his Lordship came to the conclusion that, as he was acting in this case, not by virtue of any assignment of the matter to him, but mero motu, he had jurisdiction under s. 87 of the Judicature Act, 1873. Leave was, therefore given to serve notice of motion on the solicitor.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. In re McCULLOCH. May 31.
English and Irish Adjudication.

This was an appeal from an order of the Liverpool County Court dismissing a petition to adjudicate one McCulloch a bankrupt.

McCulloch, who carried on business at Liverpool and in Ireland, stopped payment on the 16th of April, and on the 19th of April he presented a petition in the Dublin Bankruptcy Court for the purpose of effecting an arrangement with his creditors. A protection order was obtained upon presentation of this petition, but nothing further was done in the arrangement proceedings. On the 8th of May, 1880, a petition was presented by a creditor at Liverpool for an adjudication in bankruptcy against McCulloch, and on the same day a receiver was appointed. On the 4th of May McCulloch was adjudicated bankrupt in Dublin upon his own petition in the Irish Bankruptcy Court, and a receiver was appointed. The Dublin receiver on arriving at Monaghan, the residence and principal place of business of McCulloch, found the Liverpool receiver there, and turned him out of possession.

On the 13th of May an application for an English adjudication was dismissed by the Liverpool County Court on the ground that there could not be two adjudications proceeding at the same time in England and Ireland against the same person. From this decision the English petitioning creditor appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and French, for the appellant.

Charles Russell, Q.C., and Walton, contra.

It appeared that McCulloch's debts amounted to 48,000l., and that of 112 creditors 71 representing debts of 36,400l. lived in Ireland, where his assets were situated.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that the English petitioning creditor was entitled ex debito justitiæ to have McCulloch adjudicated a bankrupt in this country, and allowed the appeal.

JOHN WALLINGFORD v. MUTUAL SOCIETY AND ITS LIQUIDATOR.
Order XIV., Judicature Act, 1878.

This was an appeal against an order of the Court of Appeal which had affirmed an order of the Common Pleas Division.

The appellant had become a member of the Mutual Society, and as such had borrowed money of the society for which he gave certain securities. The society had brought an action against him for balances alleged to be overdue. The writ of summons had an indorsement claiming a balance of principal and premiums to the amount of 12,703*l.* 10*s.*, and shortly afterwards obtained a summons in accordance with Order XIV. of the Judicature Act, 1875, calling on the defendant (now appellant) to show cause why the society should not be at liberty to sign judgment for the amount indorsed. There was an accompanying affidavit that there was no defence to the action. The defendant, setting up accounts and counter claims, insisted that he had a good defence. The summons was heard by Master Francis, who in August, 1878, made an order that on payment into Court within ten days of 11,703*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*, the defendant should be at liberty to defend the action, otherwise judgment. On appeal to Mr. Justice Manisty the order was on the 6th of September, 1878, varied; the sum was reduced to 5000*l.*, and the time for payment extended to a month. The money was not paid into Court, and nothing was done till the 30th of October, 1878, when Mr. Justice Field refused an order for enlarging the time for appealing from the previous order to the Divisional Court. On that day notice of the motion before the Divisional Court in the way of appeal was given by the defendant. On the hearing in Court the motion was refused on the ground of delay. This refusal was affirmed by the Court of Appeal. On the 8th of November, 1879, the society was ordered to be wound up, and a liquidator was appointed. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Wills, Q.C., Mr. Edward Hadley, Mr. Thrupp, and Mr. J. Bradley Dyne, were for the appellant.

Mr. Joseph Brown, Q.C., and Mr. Reginald Brown, were for the respondents.

THE LORDS discharged the order of the Court below, and made an order declaring that the appellant ought to have been let in to defend, and that accounts must be taken, and special directions were given as to costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ex. Div. PAPAYANNI v. COUTPAS. June 9.
Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIV.—Leave to defend—Discretion not to be overruled.

Appeal of the plaintiff from an order of Kelly, O.B., and Pollock, B. rescinding an order of Bowen, J., giving leave to defend on payment into Court.

The plaintiff was a widow, and a writ had been specially indorsed to recover 664*l.* A summons for leave to sign judgment under Order xiv. having been issued, an objection was taken that by the indorsement it did not appear that the plaintiff was suing in a representative capacity, the alleged debt having really accrued to her husband. The indorsement was amended by Bowen, J. It was further urged that the special indorsement was insufficient, and there were conflicting affidavits as to the defendant's liability. Bowen, J., ordered that if the defendant should pay 400*l.* into Court he should have leave to defend as to that amount, and that he should have leave to defend as to the rest. The Exchequer Division gave the defendant leave to defend unconditionally.

E. M. Jones, for the plaintiff.

D. French, for the defendant, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. Their Lordships were of opinion that the decision of the Exchequer Division ought not to be overruled, and that where leave to defend has been given, appeals ought not to be encouraged.

Appeals of the judge of the County Court of Hertfordshire holden at Royston and of the plaintiff in the cause against a decision of Kelly, C.B., and Hawkins, J., making absolute a rule for prohibition.

The action, which was brought to recover 47*l.* 10*s.* for breach of warranty as to a horse, was tried in the county court before a jury, who found a verdict for 20*l.* The plaintiff being dissatisfied with the small amount of damages, his solicitor forthwith applied for a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence; the judge at first declined to do so; but after the next case had been called on, he stated that he would grant a new trial. No entry had been made by the registrar that the application for the new trial had been refused. The defendant himself was not present when the application for a new trial was made, but his solicitor was. The action came on for trial a second time in the county court, when it was objected that the judge having once refused to grant a new trial could not afterwards alter his mind, and also that at the time of the application the defendant was not present. The second trial of the action having been adjourned, the defendant obtained in the Exchequer Division a rule for a prohibition; when the rule was called on for argument, the counsel who had been instructed to oppose it were present in Court, but declined to argue against it, on the ground that the affidavits, on which they had intended to rely had been mislaid, and had not arrived, and therefore that they had no materials to use in opposition to the defendant's affidavits. The defendant's counsel were willing that the argument should be adjourned, but the Court held that the rule for a prohibition must then be disposed of or allowed to drop; and accordingly upon the application of the defendant's counsel it was made absolute.

John W. Cooper, and Birch, for the defendant, by way of preliminary objection, contended that no appeal would lie from the order for a prohibition, inasmuch as the counsel for the judge and the plaintiff had not argued against it in the Exchequer Division. They relied upon Walker v. Budden (5 Q. B. D. 267).

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) held that that case was distinguishable, inasmuch as here counsel had been present in Court to oppose the rule if the affidavits relied upon had arrived, whereas in Walker v. Budden no counsel had appeared in the Divisional Court; they therefore overruled the objection.

The appeal was then heard upon the merits.

John W. Cooper, and Birch, for the defendant, argued that no new trial could be granted after the judge had once refused to do so, and also that a new trial could not be granted in the absence of one of the parties to the action. They also argued that by the County Courts Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108), s. 42, the decision of the Court below had been rendered final, and no appeal would lie. They relied upon the Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 59) s. 20.

Cockerell, for the Judge of the County Court.

Horace Browne, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT were of opinion that the judge had not definitely refused to grant a new trial, and that as the defendant's solicitor had been present in Court when the application was made, it was unnecessary that the defendant himself should be present, and that an appeal would lie from the order of the Exchequer Division. The appeal was therefore allowed.

Appeal of Grier, third party, from Kelly, C.B., and Hawkins, J., rescinding the order of a master for the payment of costs.

The real question in the case was whether the decision in Yorkshire Waggon Company v. Newport Coal Company (5 Q. B. D. 268) was correct.

During the argument it was stated that in the course of the present case Manisty, J., had said that in that case the judges of the Queen's Bench Division had decided merely with reference to the facts before them.

Henn Collins, for the defendant.

Costs—Taxation—Costs in Court of Appeal.

Action for libel in which the plaintiff had obtained a verdict. The Common Pleas Division, however, granted a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, and this Court upon appeal upheld that decision. The plaintiff now applied to put off the taxation and payment of the costs on the appeal from the order for a new trial, until after the action should have been tried a second time, in order that if he should again succeed, the costs of the appeal might be set off against those to which he would then be entitled.

V.-C. M. MARCH v. MARTIN. June 10.
Company—Winding-up—Distribution of Assets—Proposed Scheme by large Majority acceded to.

This was an adjourned summons by nine-tenths of the shareholders in the Municipal Trust Company, Limited, that Charles E. Lewis, E. Bishop, and R. Paton, the receivers, be directed to deliver over for division among them of nine-tenths of the municipal bonds and other securities now held by them as trustees of the "Municipal Trust," which was a company whose assets were being taken over by the "Municipal Trust Company."

The Municipal Trust was an unregistered company formed of more than twenty persons, and being therefore illegal a new company called the Municipal Trust Company was formed for the purpose of taking over the assets of the old company, but in consequence of the unsaleable nature of the bonds and securities held by the old company it had been thought desirable to divide these securities among the shareholders. A careful analysis and valuation had been made of all the securities, and nine-tenths in value of the shareholders, and more than nine-tenths of the individual members, had agreed to this arrangement, but one-tenth of the shareholders, consisting of Mr. Conybeare and his son and four others, objected to any division of the securities, and required either that they should be sold, or that they should be kept till a favourable opportunity should occur for selling the whole together.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Field, for the official liquidator.

Glasse, Q.C., and Whitehorn, Higgins, Q.C., and Northmore Laurence, and H. A. Allen, for shareholders who supported the application.

Rigby, for Conybeare and the other dissentient shareholders.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered the proposed scheme for handing over the securities to the applicants a just and equitable arrangement, and, considering that an overwhelming majority of shareholders supported this view, he should make an order in conformity with the summons, and direct that nine-tenths of the securities be handed over to the nine-tenths of the shareholders who acceded to the plan. The opposition of the small minority was in his opinion most unreasonable. Costs of all but the dissentients to be costs in the cause. The dissentients to pay their own costs.

Property conveyed to the Crown—Next of Kin—Interest payable by the Crown.

W. Brownlie by his will, dated in 1862, gave considerable leasehold property to trustees without declaring any trusts. Upon a suit being instituted, it was decreed that there was a secret trust for purposes void under the Statute of Mortmain.

An inquiry was then directed for next of kin, and no person coming forward, the executors under the will conveyed the property in June, 1873, to the respondent, the Solicitor for the Treasury, as trustee for, or nominee of, the Crown and by virtue of the Queen's warrant. The leasehold property amounted in value to about 36,000*l.*, and there was paid to the respondent in October, 1873, a sum of 6673*l.* by the executors of the testator. The respondent received the annual rents of the leasehold property from June, 1873, until the appointment of a receiver in March, 1879, and after payment of the outgoings there remained in his hands a balance of upwards of 1300*l.* every year. In April, 1879, the respondent paid into Court the sum of 5575*l.* the balance of his accounts.

This was a petition of right by persons who claimed to be next of kin of the testator. Their right had been established, and the only question now raised was whether the Crown was liable to pay interest upon the sums received by the respondent from June, 1873, to the time the balance was paid into Court.

Higgins, Q.C., and Murray, for the petitioners, cited Edgar v. Reynolds (4 Dr. 269; 27 L. J. (Ch.) 562).

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Romer, for respondents in the same interest.

Rigby, for the Crown, resisted the payment of interest.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Crown was chargeable with interest, where property was conveyed to a trustee or nominee of the Crown, by the executor of a testator in the same way that it would have been if the Crown had administered to the estate of an intestate. The suppliants were therefore entitled to interest at 4*l.* per cent. upon all the moneys received by or on behalf of the Crown.

Voluntary Liquidators—Liability for Acts done by co-Liquidators—Debts contracted by Directors.

This was a summons by the official liquidator in the winding-up of the Nazarkiewich Company that three persons named Calvert, Asser, and Polak, who had been appointed liquidators in a voluntary winding-up before the compulsory order was obtained, might be declared guilty of misfeasance and breach of trust as such liquidators in paying or allowing payment to the Union Insurance Company of a sum of 1000*l.* out of the funds of this company, and that they were jointly and severally liable to make good to the assets of the company, and might be ordered to pay to the official liquidator, the said sum of 1000*l.* The company was formed in December, 1863, and in 1874, being in want of money, a sum of 5000*l.* was borrowed by Calvert from the Union Insurance Company, upon a guarantee given by the acting directors, including Asser. The company proved a failure, and a resolution was passed in April, 1876, for a voluntary winding-up, and Calvert, Asser, and Polak were appointed liquidators under such voluntary winding-up. The Union Insurance company then sued the directors, including Calvert and Asser, for the amount remaining due to them upon the aforesaid guarantee, and the action was compromised by the payment of 1000*l.* in cash, and certain bills of exchange to the amount of 2500*l.*, and in order to pay this sum Calvert and Asser, without the knowledge or consent of Polak, the third liquidator, drew the sum of 1000*l.* by a cheque out of the assets of the company, and paid the same to the Union Insurance Company.

This company was ordered to be wound up compulsorily in June, 1877, and the present official liquidator was appointed in August, 1877.

The official liquidator submitted that Polak was equally liable with his co-liquidators, as it was his duty to prevent an improper application of the funds of the company, and he contended that this payment constituted an illegal preference in favour of the guaranteeing directors, who were themselves personally liable to the Union Company.

Higgins, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the official liquidator.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for Asser.

Glasse, Q.C., and Begg, for Polak.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Maddison, for one of the directors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that Polak the voluntary liquidator who had not signed the cheque could not be made liable for any acts done wrongfully by his co-liquidators, without his knowledge or consent. But that in this case none of the three liquidators were liable to repay the 1000*l.*, since the debt was due from the company, and was contracted on behalf of the company by the guaranteeing directors. The summons must therefore be dismissed, with costs out of the estate.

Practice—Injunction Decree against Local Board of Health—Union of Local Board District with other Local Board Districts in a Joint District—Amendment by adding Joint District Board as Defendants—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 270, 275, 281—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI. r. 13.

In this suit, instituted by information and bill in 1858, at the relation of Sir C. B. Adderley, now Lord Norton, a decree was, on the 16th of April, 1875, made, whereby an injunction was granted restraining the defendants from polluting by sewage the river Tame, and on the defendants undertaking to carry on purification of sewage works, then commenced, and the plaintiffs undertaking not to enforce the injunction for five years, with Sir C. Adderley's consent, it was ordered that the defendants should pay to the plaintiffs 6000*l.* for damages and costs up to the date of the decree.

On the 29th of September, 1877, an order was made by the Local Government Board, under the Public Health Act, 1875, embodying the local sanitary district of the council of Birmingham, with other local districts, into a united district, called the Birmingham, Thame, and Rea Main Sewerage District, and the order was duly confirmed by Act of Parliament.

The five years' undertaking having expired on the 16th of April, 1880, the plaintiffs now took out a summons, under Order XVI. r. 13, to be at liberty to amend the information and bill by adding the Birmingham, Thame, and Rea District Drainage Board as defendants.

T. H. Carson, for the summons.

Covens-Hurdy (Sir H. Jackson, Q.C. with him), for the defendants opposed, on the ground that the proceeding against the new district board ought to be by action; otherwise the new board would be bound by a decree made two years before they came into existence, without being able to say a word in their own defence. Amendment five years after decree was unheard of.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that the terms of rule 13 of Order XVI. were not limited to proceedings before decree; that words were "at any stage of the proceedings." The rule provided that all persons added as parties must be served with a summons or notice, and the proceedings against them begun only when such summons or notice was served. So that they would have an opportunity of alleging what they might be advised in defence. The objection, moreover, was taken by the old local district board, who had no right to object. The rule seemed precisely to meet the case; there must be an order as asked by the summons. The plaintiffs would have leave to amend their information and bill for the purpose of introducing any reference to the Health Act they might think necessary, and the amended information and bill might be served on the defendants, instead of a writ of summons. The costs of the summons would be costs in the suit.

Will—Construction—Trust for "my surviving children or their heirs"—Child dead at date of Will.

A testator by will dated in 1834 devised real estate to two successive persons for life, and after the death of the survivor upon trust to sell and divide the proceeds amongst "my surviving children or their heirs." The testator had six children, one of whom was dead at the date of the will, and the question was whether the next-of-kin of the deceased child were entitled to share under the trust.

Stirling, appeared for the plaintiff.

J. Beaumont, Everitt, Byrne, Maddison, and C. B. McLaren, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the gift was in effect to the surviving children or the heirs (meaning here next-of-kin) of the children who were not surviving, and that the next-of-kin of the child who was dead at the date of the will were entitled to share.

Fry, J. STEEL v. DIXON. June 14.

Pleading—Issue between co-Defendants—Notice—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub. s. 3—Rules of Court, Order XVI, rr. 17, 19.

Four persons named Steel, Chater, Dixon, and Gurney, joined with Robinson, as his sureties, in signing a joint and several promissory note for 800*l.*, as security to his bankers for an advance to him of that amount. Afterwards Robinson executed a deed assigning his furniture to Dixon and Gurney, as an indemnity against their liability on the note. The deed contained a power of sale. Before the note became due, Robinson had filed a liquidation petition. The sureties had to pay the note, and each of them paid 200*l.* Dixon and Gurney afterwards sold the furniture under their power of sale. The action was brought by Steel and Chater against Dixon and Gurney, claiming as co-sureties to share rateably in the proceeds of sale of the furniture. The trustee in Robinson's liquidation was afterwards added as a defendant. He delivered to the plaintiffs a statement of defence, by which (inter alia) he alleged that Robinson was utterly insolvent when he executed the assignment of the furniture, and that the assignment was an act of bankruptcy, and void as against the trustee in the liquidation; that Dixon and Gurney had sold some effects belonging to Robinson, which were not included in the assignment; and that the costs which they claimed to deduct from the proceeds of the sale were exorbitant and improper. And the trustee said that he claimed to receive the whole of the proceeds of sale which had been received by Dixon and Gurney.

Dixon and Gurney moved that the paragraphs of the trustee's statement of defence which contained the above mentioned allegations and claim might be ordered to be struck out or amended, on the ground that they tended to prejudice, embarrass, and delay the fair trial of the action, or that Dixon and Gurney might be at liberty to deliver to the trustee a pleading in reply to his statement of defence. Dixon and Gurney had obtained a copy of the trustee's defence, on their own application and upon paying for it, but it had not been delivered to them in any other

North, Q.C., and Chubb, for the motion.

Millar, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the trustee.

Cookson, Q.C., and Warmington, for the plaintiffs.

Fry, J., gave leave to Dixon and Gurney to serve a notice on the trustee, under rule 17 of order 16, for the purpose of raising as between them and the trustee the question of the right to the proceeds of sale of the furniture. The notice to be served within four days, and the trustee to have a week after service within which to deliver any further pleading. The applicants to pay the plaintiffs' costs of the motion, without prejudice to any question how those costs should be ultimately borne. The other costs to be reserved to the trial of the action.

Composition with Creditors—Right to reject Claim—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 126—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 269, 270, 282, 289, 310-318.

Appeal from County Court at Obelmsford.

On the 21st of September, 1875, F. W. Bond and his then partner, a Mr. Scammell, who died on the 1st of December, 1875, recovered judgment against the debtor, William Randall Lacey, for a debt of 69*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.* and 4*l.* costs. On the 9th of August, 1877, a liquidation petition was filed, and at the first meeting of creditors, on the 1st of September, 1877, a composition of 19*s.* 11*d.* was accepted, and the resolution was duly confirmed and registered. No trustee was appointed. In the debtor's statement of affairs, the name of Bond, as a creditor, did not appear. On the 2nd of December, 1878, a writ of fi. fa. was issued by Bond against the goods of Lacey, whereupon Lacey offered a bill of exchange, dated the 16th of December, 1878, for 49*l.* 15*s.* at three months, drawn by him upon and accepted by John S. Page; and a joint and several promissory note, dated the 23rd of December, 1878, for 25*l.*, at two months, drawn by him and his brother F. W. Lacey, in favour of Bond; upon which the sheriff withdrew. The promissory note was not paid, and upon demand, Lacey, by letter dated the 20th of March, 1879, stated that the debt was satisfied in Scammell's lifetime, by Scammell agreeing to take two bills, drawn by Lacey upon and accepted by T. Buckham, and indorsed by Wyatt, one for 41*l.* 5*s.* at two months, the other for 255*l.* at three months, in satisfaction of the debt. The bill of exchange given by Lacey to Bond was dishonoured, and in June, 1879, Bond issued a debtor's summons against Lacey, which Mr. Justice Field, after hearing evidence, dismissed with costs. The composition, which was payable in September, 1879, was duly paid, and on the 18th of March, 1880, Bond sent in a proof of debt under the composition resolution to Lacey, who made a memorandum on the back rejecting the proof. Thereupon the appellant Bond moved before the registrar to admit the proof, and on the 6th of May the registrar made an order dismissing the application. This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, Q.C., and G. Rose Innes, for the appellant.

E. Cooper Willis (W. Nicholson with him), for the respondent.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he had no doubt that the Court had jurisdiction over this transaction. Whether the debt had been paid or not remained to be proved. If the debt was still due, this was an attempt to baffle a fair claim. The order of the County Court must be discharged with costs and the claim must be admitted.

Appeal from an order of the Exeter County Court of the 6th of May, 1880, annulling an adjudication of bankruptcy against S. W. Alven, bearing date the 12th of May, 1869.

Notice of appeal dated the 29th of May, 1880, was received by the solicitor of the respondent on the 31st of May, 1880, on which day the appeal was entered (the Bankruptcy Court having been closed on Saturday the 29th of May, for Her Majesty's Birthday).

Winslow, Q.C.:—Ex parte Viney was an appeal from the Chief Judge to the Court of Appeal. June 10.

Waste, permissive—Devise of Premises for Life subject to Obligation to repair—Action by Remainderman against Executor of Tenant for Life for non-repair.

Appeal from the decision of the County Court judge of Worcestershire.

The action was by the remainderman in fee of certain premises against the executor of the tenant for life in respect of non-repair of the premises by the tenant for life in her lifetime. It appeared that the premises had been devised to the tenant for life "she keeping them in repair," and after her death to the plaintiff in fee. The tenant for life entered upon and enjoyed the premises during her life, but never did any repairs to them, and at her death the plaintiff repaired them, and he now sought to recover the expenses he had incurred in so doing.

The County Court judge gave judgment for the defendant on the ground that no action lay under 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 42, s. 2.

Whitaker (of the Equity Bar), for the plaintiff.

Gye, for the defendant.

June 10. THE COURT (Lush and Field, JJ.) held that when the instrument under which the tenant for life takes contains an express provision against permissive waste, the tenant for life is liable to an action of tort by the common law for such waste at the suit of the immediate remainderman in fee, and consequently the tenant for life's executor was liable under 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 42, s. 2.

They therefore allowed the appeal.

MANCHESTER BONDING WAREHOUSE COMPANY v. CARR.

July 16.

RENDER, LIM. THIRD PARTIES.

Landlord and Tenant—Warehouse—Floors, Demise of—Covenants to repair—Overloading—Fall of Building—Liability for Rent and Damages.

Plaintiffs demised to the defendant certain floors in a warehouse for seven years at a rent of 450l., the lessee covenanting to repair, maintain, and keep the inside of the premises in good and tenantable repair, and to deliver them up at the end of the term, damage by fire, storm, or tempest, or other inevitable accident, and reasonable wear and tear, only excepted. The lessors covenanting to keep the walls, roof, and main timbers of the premises in good and substantial repair and condition. The lease also provided for the suspension of rent in the event of the premises being burnt down or damaged by fire, storm, or tempest, and against assigning or undertaking without the written consent of the lessors. The defendant sub-let some of the floors without such written consent. Some or one of the under-lessees put a quantity of flour into one of the upper storeys let to the defendant, and overloaded it, in consequence of which the whole building fell. The plaintiffs rebuilt it, and sued the defendant for (1) rent since its fall and during the time it was unoccupied; (2) damages occasioned by the fall, i.e., either the whole cost of reconstruction, or at least of reconstructing the interior of the demised floors as distinguished from the walls, roof, and main timbers. The defendant denied his liability, and claimed damages for a breach by plaintiff of his covenant to repair the walls and main buildings, and upon an implied warranty by the plaintiff that the premises were in a fit condition for the purposes for which they were let. At the trial before Lord Coleridge, C.J., it was adjourned for the determination of questions of law formally raised by a ruling of the Lord Chief Justice on the admitted facts above stated.

Ambrose, Q.C., and C. Russell, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Gully, Q.C., and R. Henn Collins, for the under lessees, third parties.

Curr. adv. vult.

The judgment of THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Grove, and Lindley, JJ.), was read by LORD COLERIDGE, C.J., that the defendant was liable to the rent, as the qualifications of his express covenant to pay it did not include the case which had happened; that the plaintiff was not liable on any implied warranty that the building was fit for the purposes for which it was to be used; nor on the express covenant to keep the walls, roof, and main timbers in repair, as he had no notice of any need of repair; that, on the authority of Saner v. Bilton (7 Ch. D. 815), the defendant was not liable for waste, as the destruction of the building was not wilful or negligent, but by using it in what was apparently a reasonable proper manner, having regard to its character and to the purposes for which it was intended: although there was a prima facie presumption against him, from which he must exonerate himself at the trial; lastly, that as the fall was not the result of an inevitable accident, "nor of fair wear and tear," within the meaning of the exception in the express covenant by the defendant to repair the inside of the demised premises, the defendant was liable for the cost of putting such part into good and tenantable repair.

Judgment accordingly.

BROWNLIE, APP. June 10.
CAMPBELL AND OTHERS, RESPS.

Scotch Conveyance—Sale of Heritable Estate—Clause of Warrandice—Collateral Representation.

The appellant was the purchaser of the Monkcastle Estate in Scotland, and the respondents were the vendors. The lands were sold with an à val de me holding; the disposition conveying them was in the usual Scotch form and contained a general clause of warrandice. Previous to the conclusion of the purchase the vendors' agents had stated to the purchaser "the lands hold of the Crown," "the proprietors are not entered with the Crown; but you are aware the Crown never asks an entry." Six months before the sale a claim to a mid-superiority of the lands had been made by the Rossmore trustees by letter to the vendors' agents, which they disputed, and it was not further proceeded with. The vendors' agents did not think it necessary to inform the purchaser of this claim. After the purchaser had completed his title this claim was renewed, and eventually he had to pay a casualty of non-entry to the Rossmore trustees. He then raised this action in the Court of Session against the vendors for the amount of the casualty, &c., resting his claim on the grounds of (1), warrandice, and (2), concealment and misrepresentation.

The title of the vendors was found to be that in 1799 the mid-superiority stood vested in Douglas, Duke of Hamilton, and by him was conveyed to trustees for behoof of his natural daughter Lady Rossmore, but these trustees did not feudalise their right till 1872. In 1813 the vassal, in ignorance of this conveyance, obtained decree of tinsel of the mid-superiority under an old Scotch Act of 1474, c. 57, against the heir of line; and again in 1849, the vassal obtained decree of forfeiture of the mid-superiority under the Act of 10 & 11 Vict. c. 48, and obtained a Crown charter of confirmation. Owing to these proceedings being directed against the wrong parties, the decree of tinsel and forfeiture of superiority was reduced by Lady Rosemore's trustees in 1876.

The Court of Session on the 16th of July, 1878, after proof, rejected the claim of the purchaser against the vendors (Court Sess. Cas., 4th Series, vol. iv. p. 1076; 15 Scot. Law Rep. p. 718).

On appeal,

The Lord Advocate (Right Hon. J. McLaren), Mr. Davey, Q.C. (with them Mr. MacOlymont), were heard for the appellant.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. Asher (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the respondents, but were not called on.

THE LORDS dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that the case failed entirely as to warrandice, and that there had been no bad faith of any description on the part of the vendors.

STEELE AND OTHERS, APPS.
M'KINLAY, RESP.

June 14.

Bill of Exchange—Indorsement—Collateral Obligation—19 & 20 Vict. c. 60, s. 11, and 41 Vict. c. 13, s. 2.

In February, 1874, William and Thomas M'Kinlay commenced business, in Strabane, Ireland, under the firm of W. & T. M'Kinlay, and, shortly afterwards, commissioned their father, James M'Kinlay, to procure for them in Glasgow an advance of 1000*l.* on the personal credit of the firm. Mr. James M'Kinlay entered into negotiations with J. E. Walker, coach builder there, the result being that Mr. Walker signed, as drawer, a bill bearing date 25th of May, 1874, for 1000*l.*, at twelve months, addressed to W. & T. M'Kinlay. This bill was forwarded to Ireland, and W. & T. M'Kinlay returned it duly accepted in their firm name. James M'Kinlay then wrote his own signature across the back of the bill and delivered it to Mr. Walker, who remitted its amount less discount to the drawees. In March, 1875, Mr. Walker discounted the bill with the National Bank of Scotland, putting his name below that of James M'Kinlay's, on the back, as indorser. The drawees failed to pay the bill at maturity, and it was retired by Mr. Walker.

James M'Kinlay died during the currency of the bill. Mr. Walker died in September, 1875. Previous to the date of this bill, Mr. Walker had lent W. & T. M'Kinlay money on their own security. In these circumstances, W. & T. M'Kinlay having become bankrupt, the appellants, the testamentary trustees of J. E. Walker, sought to make the respondent, Alexander M'Kinlay, as representing his father James M'Kinlay, liable for payment of the 1000*l.* with interest. They maintained that the bill was indorsed by James M'Kinlay as joint obligant with the acceptors. The respondent knew nothing of the bill during his father's lifetime, and contended that it did not form any ground of liability at the instance of Mr. Walker against his father.

The First Division of the Court of Session, in conformity with the opinion of the majority of seven judges, found that the bill constituted no obligation against the late James M'Kinlay (Court of Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. vi. p. 1132; 16 Scot. Law Rep. 647).

On appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Romer, were heard for the appellants.

Mr. John Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. Scott (Mr. Roger with them), were heard for the respondent.

THE LORDS affirmed the interlocutor of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

STURLA v. FRECCIA.

June 18.

Evidence.

Appeal against an order of the Court of Appeal (reported 12 Ch Div. 411-423) which had affirmed a previous order of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

On the 21st of December, 1871, there died at Hertford Street, Mayfair, one Maria Brown. She died intestate, and, not being known to have any relatives, her property, alleged to amount to a very considerable sum (200 000*l.*), was taken possession of by Mr. Gray, the then solicitor for the treasury. Mrs. Brown was the daughter of a gentleman whose name was Antonio Maria Mangini, and who was the consul in London for the Government of Genoa from the year 1781 until his death in 1803. Mangini was an Italian, but in the course of time it was alleged that he had varied his name from the Italian form, and was known in London as Antony Mangin, and was in partnership here for many years with a person named De Tastet. After the death of his daughter, Mrs. Brown, in December, 1871, there appeared certain persons who claimed to be, on the maternal side, her next-of-kin, and so entitled to her property, and in March, 1873, a suit on this ground was commenced by one Eleanor Francis Lane. In the course of the same year two other suits were instituted by persons who claimed to be related to Mrs. Brown through her father Mangini, and in December, 1873, a decree was made for accounts, and also for an inquiry as to the next-of-kin, and several persons, who may be described as of the Freccia family, came forward to establish their claim to that character. They alleged that Antonio Maria Mangini had been born in 1735 at St. Ilario, a village about seven miles from Genoa. In March, 1876, there was a certificate by the chief clerk of Sir R. Malins in favour of these claimants. The appellants became informed of these proceedings, and they then came forward claiming to be the true next-of-kin of Antonio Mangini, alleging that he was born on the 11th of September, 1744, at Quarto, a small hamlet in the Ligurian mountains, near Genoa, and was baptized at Quarto on the 13th of the same month. The proceedings in this contest about the identity of Antonio Mangini were numerous. One great point in the dispute was as to the admissibility in evidence of a paper purporting to be a report of the Giunta della Marina (the Marine Board) of Genoa. Vice-Chancellor Malins had held the report to be inadmissible as proof of the facts stated in it. The Lords Justices had held it to be inadmissible because, though the only matter referred to the Giunta was to report whether the Mangini then in question was a fit person to be entrusted with the duties of diplomatic agent as well as consul, the report went into other matters, and described his place of birth and other particulars quite extraneous to the subject of reference; and also, though the character of the alleged document had been strongly impeached, the Court was only was furnished with a copy, the authorities at Genoa refusing to allow the original to be transmitted here, unless on the condition that it should be received without comment, or allowed to be questioned. The Lords Justices had therefore held that the decision favourable to the Freccia family must be sustained. This appeal was then brought, the appellants contending that the copy of the report of the Giunta ought to have been received in evidence, and also that certain letters of one Felice Gnecco of December, 1838, and November, 1839 (which had been produced by the respondents), ought not to have been received in evidence.

Mr. J. Pearson, Q.C., Mr. Wills, Q.C., and Mr. Edward Beaumont, were for the appellants.

Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Mr. Everitt, Mr. Bagshawe, Q.C., and Mr. Benjamin Eyre, were for the respondents.

THE LORDS, without calling on the respondent's counsel, affirmed the decision of the Court of Appeal as to the inadmissibility in evidence of the report of the Giunta.

The appeal on the merits was not then pressed.

PITT AND ANOTHER v. JONES AND OTHERS. June 21.

Partition—31 & 32 Vict. c. 40.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins, on the construction of the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 40. (The case in both the Vice-Chancellor's Court and the Court of Appeal was entitled Gilbert v. Smith, 8 Ch. Div. 548; 11 Ch. Div. 78). The suit was a suit for partition of some property in Birmingham. The plaintiffs were entitled to three-sixteenths and the defendants to the remaining thirteen-sixteenths of the property. The former desired a sale by auction and the latter objected to it, but offered to take the plaintiffs' shares at a valuation under the 5th section of the Act. The Vice-Chancellor had founded his order on the 5th section of the statute. The Court of Appeal held that the conditions of the 3rd section of the Act were fulfilled, that that section was not controlled by the 5th section, and that consequently a sale ought to be directed with liberty for all parties, other than those having the conduct of the sale, to bid. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. J. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. Bardswell, were for the appellants.

Mr. Davenport, for other parties in the same interest.

Mr. H. F. Bristowe, Q.C., and Mr. Lewis; Mr. Glasse, Q.C., and Mr. Woodroffe, were for the various other parties supporting the decree of the Court below.

LORD HATHERLEY was of opinion that the decree of the Court of Appeal was erroneous and ought to be reversed.

LORD BLACKBURN and LORD WATSON concurred with the Court of Appeal and held that its decision ought to be affirmed.

Order of the Court below affirmed.

Bankruptcy—Secured Creditor—Omission to value Security—Lapsed Policy of Life Insurance—Discharge of Surety.

Appeal from decision of Manisty, J., at trial without a jury. Action brought on a joint and several promissory note given to plaintiff, Mrs. Rainbow, by defendant, and one Pratt, to secure the repayment of a loan which had been made by her to Pratt. The defendant joined in making the note only as surety for Pratt, and under the terms of the contract of suretyship Pratt deposited with the plaintiff a policy of insurance on his life by way of collateral security. Pratt failed to pay the premiums on the policy, which in consequence lapsed. Subsequent to the expiry of the policy, Pratt became bankrupt, and the plaintiff proved against Pratt's estate for the whole amount of the debt due to her, without putting any value on the policy, which was consequently ordered by the Court of Bankruptcy to be delivered up to the trustee. The question was whether the plaintiff by adopting that course had discharged the defendant from his liability as surety.

Alfred Wills, Q.C., and H. D. Greene, for the plaintiffs.

H. Matthews, Q.C., and R. T. Reid, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) held, affirming the decision of Manisty, J., that she had not, and for two reasons:—1st, that the defendant's position had not been altered by the surrender of the policy to the trustee, for having lapsed it was a mere piece of waste paper, of no marketable value whatever; and secondly, that even assuming it was of some value, and could be therefore said to be security, the plaintiff was none the less entitled to exercise the option given by the Bankruptcy Act of surrendering the security to the trustee, and proving for the whole debt, because there happened to be a surety for the payment of that debt.

Undisclosed Principal—Sale of Goods to Agent of—Payment by Principal to Agent—Under what Circumstances an Answer to an Action brought by Seller for the Price.

Appeal from decision of Bowen, J., on further consideration. This was an action for the price of certain oil, which the defendants had employed a broker to buy for them. The broker at the time of the purchase informed the plaintiffs that he was buying for principals, though he did not inform them who those principals were. The terms of the sale were cash on or before delivery. The plaintiffs delivered the oil to the broker without insisting on cash payment, and the defendants, not knowing that the plaintiffs had not been paid, paid the broker. Shortly afterwards the broker stopped payment, and the plaintiffs thereupon sued the defendants for the price. Bowen, J., gave judgment for the plaintiffs, and the defendants appealed.

Gully, Q.C., and Crompton, for the defendants.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and W. R. Kennedy, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) held, affirming the decision of Bowen, J., first that, as the plaintiffs at the time of the sale knew the broker was buying for principals and not on his own account, the fact of the defendants having paid the broker did not preclude the plaintiffs from suing them for the price, unless before such payment they had by their conduct induced the defendants to believe that they had already been paid by the broker; and secondly, that the mere omission on the part of the plaintiffs to insist on payment by the brokers at the time of delivery was not such conduct as would reasonably induce such belief.

Life Policy—Deposit to secure Debt—Death of Assured—Absence of Legal Personal Representative of Assured—Payment to Creditor—Interest—3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 42, ss. 28, 29.

Appeal from the decision of the Master of the Rolls.

In 1847, R. Brown deposited a policy of assurance for 500*l.* on his own life in the defendant company with W. Brown, to secure money advanced to him by W. Brown.

R. Brown died insolvent in December, 1874, and his executor declined to prove his will. According to the terms of the policy the 500*l.* and the bonuses thereon became payable on the 28th of March, 1875; and shortly afterwards W. Brown, whose debt then exceeded the amount of the moneys payable under the policy, demanded payment from the defendant company, but they, although ready and willing to pay W. Brown, declined to do so without the consent of the legal personal representative of R. Brown.

W. Brown died in October, 1878, and his executors brought this action to establish their title to the policy moneys, claiming payment thereof with interest from the 28th of March, 1875.

The Master of the Rolls, following his decision in Crossley v. City of Glasgow Life Assurance Company (Law Rep. 4 Ch. D. 421), dispensed with the presence of any legal personal representative of R. Brown, and ordered payment with interest as claimed. The defendants appealed against so much of the order as directed them to pay interest.

Davey, Q.C., and Millar, Q.C., for the appellants.

Ince, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the respondents.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) reversed the decision of the Master of the Rolls. The contract of insurance did not bear interest: that was conceded. But under 3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 42, ss. 28, 29, damages in the nature of interest might be given for the wrongful detention of money, or for default in payment of money. There was, however, no ground for saying that there had been a wrongful detention by the defendants or a default in payment. They had been always ready and willing to pay immediately they were satisfied that there was a person who could give them a legal discharge for it. It was the mortgagee who had been guilty of delay and default. It was open to him at any time to clothe himself with a legal title to the money, and he did not choose to do so. Under the circumstances the appeal must be allowed, but as the appellants did not ask for costs, there would be no order as to costs.

Public Health Act, 1875, s. 253—Action for Penalty under rule 70 of Schedule II.—Whether Consent of the Attorney-General necessary where Plaintiff not a "party aggrieved."

Appeal from an order of Huddleston, B., and Stephen, J., rescinding an order of Bowen, J., ordering all proceedings in the action be stayed.

This was an action brought by a ratepayer of a local government district, under rule 70 of Schedule II. of the Public Health Act, 1875, to recover a penalty from the defendant for acting as a member of the local board after disqualification. The plaintiff was not a party aggrieved within the meaning of s. 253, unless every ratepayer is in such a case necessarily such; and had not obtained the consent of the Attorney-General to the action being brought. Bowen, J., at chambers, ordered all proceedings in the action to be stayed, on the ground that, the plaintiff not being a party aggrieved, the consent of the Attorney-General was a condition precedent to his right to sue. The Exchequer Division having rescinded that order the defendant appealed.

W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Crompton, for the defendant.

Arthur Charles, Q.C., and Cock, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of the Exchequer Division, being of opinion that, in actions for penalties under rule 70, it is not necessary either that the plaintiff should be a party aggrieved, or that he should have obtained the leave of the Attorney-General.

In re FOX, WALKER, & Co.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Principal and Surety—Guarantor of Bill of Exchange—Proof against Acceptor's Estate.

Bills of exchange were drawn by Fothergill & Hankey on, and accepted by Fox, Walker, & Co. The object of the bills was to raise money, of which each of the firms was to have a part. Fothergill & Hankey discounted the bills with Sanderson & Co, bill brokers, who afterwards re-discounted the bills with the London and Westminster Bank. Sanderson & Co. did not indorse the bills, they having previously, according to the usual practice of bill-brokers, given to the bank a guarantee for the due payment of all bills which they should discount for them. Both Fothergill & Hankey and Sanderson & Co. stopped payment before the bills matured. Fox, Walker, & Co. were unable to pay the bills at maturity, but they made some payments to the bank in respect of them. Fox, Walker, & Co. afterwards stopped payment and filed a liquidation petition. The bank received dividends in respect of the bills from the estates of Fothergill & Hankey, and Sanderson & Co. They claimed to prove in Fox, Walker, & Co.'s liquidation for the balance which remained due on the bills, and their claim was compromised. Sanderson & Co.'s trustee claimed to prove in Fox, Walker, & Co.'s liquidation for the amount of the dividend which Sanderson & Co.'s estate had paid to the bank in respect of the bills. The Chief Judge admitted the proof. Fox, Walker, & Co.'s trustee appealed.

Romer (Benjamin, Q.C. with him), for the appellants, admitted that if Sanderson & Co. had indorsed the bills to the bank, their payment in respect of them would have been made under compulsion at the implied request of the acceptors, and they would have been entitled to prove against the estate of Fox, Walker, & Co. But the guarantee to the bank was given without the knowledge of Fox, Walker, & Co., and without any authority or request by them, express or implied; it was a mere voluntary contract as between Sanderson & Co., and Fox, Walker, & Co., and the payment made in pursuance of it was, so far as Fox, Walker, & Co. were concerned, a mere voluntary payment, and gave no right of proof against their estate.

Winslow, Q.C., and J. Linklater, for Sanderson & Co.'s trustee.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.), held that the proof had been rightly admitted. Fothergill & Hankey were authorized by Fox, Walker, & Co., to get the bills discounted in the ordinary way of business, and in taking them to Sanderson & Co. for discount, Fothergill & Hankey acted within that authority. Sanderson & Co. were, therefore, authorized to deal with the bills in the ordinary course of their business, and therefore to guarantee the payment of the bills to the bank. The payment they made in respect of the bills was, therefore, made under a compulsion to which they had made themselves liable under the implied authority or request of Fox, Walker, & Co., and they were entitled to prove against their estate for the amount which they had paid. The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

There was a further question whether Sanderson & Co.'s trustee was entitled to prove for interest on the amount which he had paid up to the commencement of Fox, Walker, & Co.'s liquidation.

On this point their Lordships reserved their judgment.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from a rule nisi discharged by Kelly, C.B. and Stephen, J.

The plaintiffs were executors of Mrs. Geldart and sued to recover a sum of 800*l.* which she had paid over to the defendant, her medical attendant, in the year 1872. The defendant paid to her a sum of 40*l.* a year, after the 800*l.* had been paid to him. Soon after the year 1872, Mrs. Geldart went to live at a different home, where she saw the defendant less frequently. She died in 1876, without having taken any steps to recover the sum of 800*l.* At the trial the jury found that the sum of 800*l.* was a gift to the defendant and not a loan.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Chadwyck Healey, for the plaintiffs, contended that the gift to the defendant, being the medical attendant of Mrs. Geldart, was void upon principles of equity: they relied upon Rhodes v. Bate (Law Rep. 1 Ch. Ap. 252).

The plaintiffs forthwith telegraphed to the captain to proceed to Nassau, where the ship arrived on the 16th of April. The defendants despatched from London orders by post on the 6th of April, which, however, did not reach Nassau until the 18th of May. The plaintiffs now sued to recover damages for the detention from the 16th of April to the 18th of May. By the will of the Rev. C. J. Raines all the property of the testator was given to trustees for the benefit of his wife for life, and then to be divided between his six children, and he appointed his wife sole executrix of his will. The testator died in 1859, leaving his widow and six children, all of whom were now of age. His property consisted of about 2000*l.* of personalty, and 1000*l.* of realty. One of the children, W. E. Raines, while studying at Oxford contracted debts, which were paid from time to time by the widow, amounting to 332*l.* The widow died in 1877, and this action was brought to administer the testator's property. The chief clerk had allowed the 332*l.* to be set off against the sixth part or share to which W. E. Raines was entitled. This was opposed by two persons who held mortgages of the sixth part belonging to W. E. Raines, as security for money advanced upon his share, the grounds being, that Mrs. Raines had advanced the money out of her own pocket, and there was no evidence to prove that it was taken out of the testator's capital. *J. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered there was sufficient evidence that the advances for the education of the son were taken from the capital, and were not paid out of the income of the widow, which being only 220*l.* per annum was insufficient for the purpose. The rule was that an executrix was justified in making advances out of the share to which the children would be entitled, and it appeared that these incumbrancers had given no notice to the executrix, and had made no inquiry whether or not any advances had been made out of the share. The chief clerk's finding would therefore be supported.

V.-C. M. DORIN v. DORIN. June 14.

Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Building Operations—Ground Rent—Preparing House for habitation.

The will of Joseph A. Dorin will be found in Dorin v. Dorin (Law Rep. 7 H. L. 568) by which the testator gave all he possessed, real and personal property, to his wife Margaret for life, with power to dispose of it amongst their children by will as she should think fit, and in case she made no will then the property at her death was to be divided equally between the testator's children by her, and he named her sole executrix. The testator had two illegitimate children by Margaret his wife, and no legitimate child born after the date of the will. The House of Lords decided, upon appeal from Vice-Chancellor Malins, that the illegitimate children were not capable of taking under this gift, and the property was, subject to the life interest of Mrs. Dorin, undisposed of by the will.

In consequence of this decision the grandson of the testator by a former marriage became entitled as heir-at-law to two-third parts of the testator's real estate, and as next-of-kin to one half of the personal estate subject to Mrs. Dorin's life estate.

Mr. Dorin before making his will had taken a lease of a piece of building land at Ventnor, in the Isle of Wight, and the lease, which was for 999 years, contained a covenant on the part of the lessee to build a house of not less value than 2000*l.* After his death the building of the house was continued, and a sum of 9000*l.* had been expended upon it. Some difficulty was experienced in finding a tenant for the house, but it was now let, and a question was raised whether the ground rent of the land upon which the house had been built, up to the time of its being let, was to be borne by the tenant for life or to be paid out of the capital of the testator's estate; and further, whether or not the tenant for life was to bear the expenses of laying out the garden ground, of paying the insurance, of keeping fires in the house until it was fit for habitation, and of keeping a person to occupy the house until it could be let.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the tenant for life.

Millar, Q.C., and Hume, for the remainderman.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided that the ground rent and all the other expenses above enumerated up to the time that a tenant was obtained for the house must be paid out of the estate, as forming part of the expenses attending the erection of the house.

J. And he appointed his wife and another person trustees and executors of his will. A large portion of the testator's estate consisted of small leasehold houses, the leases of which in many instances were for very short periods, and a question was now raised upon further consideration, in an action to administer the testator's estate, whether the trustees were at liberty to retain the leaseholds, by which the income of the tenant for life would be increased to the detriment of the grandchildren, or whether they were bound to dispose of that portion of the property. The widow of the testator desired to retain the property in its existing state of investment.

Practice—Next Friend—Refusal to appeal.

Adjourned summons for the appointment of a new next friend of the infant plaintiffs and their mother, in place of the existing next friend, who declined to appeal from a judgment given by the Vice-Chancellor, from which the infant plaintiffs, by advice of counsel, wished to appeal.

V.-C. B. STANSFIELD v. STANSFIELD. June 22.
Will—Construction—Legatees, whether a Class or Persons designated.

Special case, arising upon the will dated 19th of February, 1870, of Jonathan Stansfield, who died on the 23rd of December, 1876, having appointed executors, and having given and devised specific freehold hereditaments to his said trustees, on trust to let the same, and pay the income thereof to his wife Hannah, during her life, for her separate use. He made a specific bequest of personal chattels to his wife for life, and at her decease directed that the hereditaments and chattels should be sold, and that the moneys arising from such sale should be divided equally "between my nine children, and I bequeath the same accordingly." He then gave all his money and other personal estate not thereinbefore bequeathed to his said trustees in trust to get in and convert into money, and to pay and divide the same "equally to and between all my children, except that my oldest son John, by reason of his becoming entitled to a freehold cottage (specified), shall receive 30*l.* less than each of my other children, and I give and bequeath the same accordingly."

The testator's wife having died in his lifetime, and one of the testator's nine children, named William, having died in his lifetime leaving issue, the question was whether the residuary bequest was a gift to the testator's nine children as designated persons, so as to render the 33rd section of the Wills Act applicable to the share of William, and enable it to pass to his representative; or whether the bequest was a gift to a class, so as to exclude the operation of the section.

William Barber, for the plaintiff, one of the surviving children of the testator:—Had the residuary gift been a gift to "my nine children," like the gift of the sale moneys, it would have been a gift to designated persons. Being a gift "equally to and between all my children," it is a gift to a class. The distinction was intentionally made.

Dush, for defendants in the same interest:—If the residuary gift be held a gift to designated persons, any after-born children would have been excluded. But for the intention to distinguish, there was no need of the double gift.

C. Herbert Smith, for the representative of William, was not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the nine children of the testator were clearly designated persons in the gift of residue. The result would be that William Stansfield's share would pass under the statute to his legal personal representative.

Fry, J. WILLMOTT v. BARBER. June 19.
Specific Performance—Discretion of Court—Inconsistent prior Agreement—Mistake as to Legal Title—Acquiescence—Oulay of Money on Land of another person.

On the 5th of January, 1874, Barber entered into an agreement with the plaintiff to let him one acre of a field of three acres, which adjoined premises occupied by the plaintiff, and of which Barber was tenant under Bowyer, for the whole of the term of ninety-four years for which Barber held the same. And Barber also agreed to sell his interest in the whole of the field to the plaintiff for 1500*l.*, at any time within five years from the date of the agreement. The lease under which Barber held the field contained a covenant by the lessee not to assign or part with the possession of the demised property, or any part thereof, without the written consent of the lessor. The plaintiff was not in fact aware of this restriction. Soon after the date of the agreement he was let into possession of the one acre, and he laid out a considerable sum of money in improving the land, and also upon his own adjoining premises, with the view of occupying them in connection with the one acre. On the 16th of October, 1877, Barber, without the plaintiff's knowledge, surrendered his lease to Bowyer in exchange for a new lease for a longer term of the same property together with some other adjoining property. The new lease contained a similar covenant by the lessee not to assign the property without the license of the lessor. On the 6th of November, 1877, the plaintiff gave notice to Barber of his wish to exercise his option of purchasing the three acres. Barber declined to carry out his agreement, on the ground that Bowyer refused to give his licence to assign. The action was brought for specific performance by Barber of his agreement to assign. Bowyer was also made a defendant. It was alleged that he had assented to the agreement, and that he had acquiesced in the plaintiff's expenditure knowing that he was mistaken in supposing that Barber was able to assign the property to him, and the plaintiff claimed an order on Bowyer to give his licence to an assignment by Barber to the plaintiff. Bowyer in examination admitted he saw the agreement between the plaintiff and Barber early in the year, 1875. He also said that he was not himself aware of the covenant not to assign without licence in Barber's lease until the year 1877. It was contended that the plaintiff from his knowledge of the fact, that Barber held the property under a lease was affected with notice of the provisions of the lease.

Cookson, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and Freeling, for the defendants.

Fry, J. held that the plaintiff had in fact mistaken his legal rights. It was not necessary to decide whether he was affected with notice of the contents of Barber's lease, for a mistake of fact was not the less a ground for relief because the person who made the mistake had the means of knowledge. When the plaintiff expended the money he had not exercised his option to purchase, or even made up his mind to do so, and there would be great difficulty in coming to the conclusion that he expended the money on the faith of the option to purchase the whole property, rather than on the faith of a tenancy of the one acre. His right to that tenancy was not now in question. Bowyer had no knowledge of his own rights, and, if the agreement was communicated to him, there was nothing in it to shew him that the plaintiff had made any mistake about his rights. He might well have thought that the plaintiff had inquired about the provisions of Barber's lease. There was, therefore, no ground for restraining Bowyer from exercising his legal rights. And specific performance could not be enforced against Barber, because it could not be enforced without compelling him to break his covenant not to assign without the license of Bowyer. Though the original lease had been surrendered, yet the plaintiff, who was claiming to treat it as subsisting for the purpose of taking the benefit of it, must also treat it as subsisting for the purposes of the covenant not to assign. That covenant was therefore prior in date to the agreement with the plaintiff, and the Court would not compel the defendant to commit a breach of his prior covenant. The action was accordingly dismissed.

AUSTIN v. MEAD.

June 21.

Donatio Mortis Causâ—Banker's Deposit Note.

The question in this action was whether a testator, who had a sum of 2700*l.* standing on deposit in his name at a bank, had made a valid donatio mortis causâ of 500*l.*, part of the 2700*l.*, to his wife. The money could only be withdrawn on seven days' notice. On the 23rd of May, two days before the testator's death, he signed a notice of withdrawal, and sent it to the bank by a friend named Anderson, to whom he said, in the presence of his wife, that he meant to give her 500*l.*, part of the 2700*l.* He also the same day signed a form of cheque which was on the back of the deposit note, directing the bank to pay 500*l.* to himself or bearer, and then delivered the note to Anderson. He gave in directions as to the balance of the 2700*l.*

W. Joyce, for the testator's executors.

North, Q.C., and T. C. Jarvis, for the widow.

H. L. Fraser, for the residuary legatees.

Fry, J., said that it had been held that a gift of a banker's deposit note with a view to give the whole sum secured by it to the donee was a valid donatio mortis causâ. On the other hand it had been held that a gift of a cheque upon a banker which did not become payable during the donor's life, was not a good donatio mortis causâ of the sum mentioned in the cheque. To which of these two classes did the present case belong? In his Lordship's judgment it belonged to the latter class. The effect of the notice of withdrawal was to set free a sum of 2700*l.* on the 30th of May, and upon that fund the testator drew a cheque which was not payable until that day. Looking at all the circumstances, and at the practice of the bank, which appeared to be to give to a depositor, when he withdrew a part of the sum which he had deposited, a fresh deposit note for the balance, his Lordship thought that the note was not delivered by the testator with the intention of giving it or the money. His intention was to deliver the cheque for the 500*l.*, and according to the authorities that would not be a good donatio mortis causâ.

Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 8—True Consideration.

Appeal from an order of the Staffordshire County Court refusing an application by the trustee in liquidation of Rogers for an order declaring a bill of sale given by Rogers to A. Challinor to be void. In October, 1879, Rogers, who was a publican at Hanley, owed Challinor, who was a solicitor, a sum of 1366*l.*, for professional charges and money advanced. About this time certain instalments amounting to 143*l.* 6*s.* were due from Rogers to a building society, who held a judgment, and were threatening to put it in force against him. Rogers applied to Challinor for a further advance, and offered to give him a bill of sale. Challinor agreed to lend him on the security of a bill of sale 560*l.* in addition to the amount already owing. A bill of sale was accordingly prepared, in which 560*l.* was stated as the consideration money advanced at the time of the execution of the bill of sale. Of this 560*l.*, 500*l.* was actually paid by Challinor to Rogers, 20*l.* was paid to the auctioneer who had been employed to value the effects, and 40*l.* was retained by Challinor, in discharge of the costs of the bill of sale and other documents.

In January, 1880, Challinor caused possession of Rogers' premises to be taken.

In February, 1880, Rogers filed a liquidation petition under which a trustee was appointed. An application having been made to the County Court for an order declaring the bill of sale of the 23rd of October, 1879, void and inoperative as against the trustee in liquidation, the County Court Judge refused the application with costs, being of opinion that the consideration was sufficiently stated.

From this refusal the trustee now appealed. The question was whether, having regard to the fact that 500*l.* only was actually paid to Rogers, "the consideration for which such bill of sale was given," had been set forth so as to comply with the requirements of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 8.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation by Arrangement—Practice—Right of Trustees in Liquidation to have Possession of Proofs of Debt.

Appeal from County Court at Ipswich.

A trustee in the liquidation by arrangement of the affairs of a debtor applied for leave to take possession of proofs of debt in order to examine them.

The registrar of the Court having stated that the course he had always adopted was not to part with the proofs, the learned judge refused the application on the ground that the Bankruptcy Rules of 1870, rr. 71, 72, did not in terms apply to a trustee in a liquidation.

Linklater, for the trustee:—Sect. 125, sub-s. 7 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, provides that a trustee under a liquidation shall have the same powers as a trustee under a bankruptcy; s. 25, sub-s. 1, enables a trustee to receive and decide upon proof of debts in the prescribed manner; s. 4 says that "prescribed" shall mean "prescribed" by rules of Court; and thus rr. 71, 72, apply to this case.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that it was a mistake to suppose that two distinct separate regulations had been made as to the administration in bankruptcy and that in liquidation. Both formed parts of one system. Looking at the generality of the enactment, it was evident that the duties and powers of the trustee were intended to be the same in either case. To examine the proofs was part of the trustee's duty. The trustee had been told that he must be content with inspecting the file. But as to whether he ought to remain content with inspection of the file or not, it was for the trustee himself to judge; and if he considered it necessary that he should have actual possession of the proofs, he was entitled to such possession. Not only was this the rule in bankruptcy, but under the statute, now ten years old, the practice had been to hand over to the trustee in liquidation, upon his application, any of the proofs he might require. The Court reposed great confidence in trustees, and had full powers to compel them to discharge their duty. No reason could be suggested why the trustee in this instance should not be allowed to have these proofs in conformity with the established practice.

Order discharged, and proofs directed to be handed to the trustee on his application.

Bankruptcy—Fraudulent Preference—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 92.

Appeal from County Court at Luton.

The bankrupt, Arnold, was a straw plait manufacturer at Luton, and the appellants, Manning, Collyer, & Co., were brokers in Fenchurch Street, who were in the habit of purchasing straw plait and foreign made hats by Arnold's order. At first the payments were made at the prompt days, but, becoming irregular, the brokers held the goods till Arnold required them, he paying by cheque when they were delivered. In 1879, the brokers began to press Arnold to reduce his account. On the 1st or 2nd of September a cheque signed by Arnold for 220*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* was returned to the brokers dishonoured, and upon pressure, amounting to a threat of bankruptcy proceedings, Arnold called upon the brokers and said he was in difficulties, but that his creditors were very desirous that he should not stop, and that Manning & Co. were the only firm threatening him. Finally, on the 11th of September, the brokers signed on a stamp a letter as follows: "We, the undersigned, in consideration of Mr. Philip Arnold paying them the sum of three hundred pounds by Mr. Charles Mee's acceptance, six months from the 30th of August, and two hundred pounds by his (P. A.'s) acceptances, say £100 at 6 months, £50 @ 8 months, and £50 at 12 months date, agree to release him from all their claims upon him, contracts on plaits, &c., and to return at maturity to Mr. Arnold his acceptance for £200 due 9th of October, and £200 due November.

"The undersigned reserve their right to claim on Mr. Philip Arnold's estate in full, should he have to make a composition with his creditors, or be made bankrupt; the above £300 in that case to be taken as a payment on account in general account."

On the 11th of October, Arnold filed a liquidation petition, and before the 11th of December he was adjudicated a bankrupt.

On the 25th of May, the learned county court judge made an order that Manning, Collyer, & Co. should refund the 300*l.* to the trustee, on the ground that the payment was a fraudulent preference.

This was the order appealed from.

Channell, for the appellants.

McCall, for the trustee.

THE CHIEF JUDGE could not say that he thought that the transaction came within the 92nd section, which provides that whatever the bankrupt may have done or intended to do shall not affect the rights of a purchaser in good faith and for valuable consideration. The meaning and object of the payment was not to favour the creditor, but in order that the bankrupt might escape bankruptcy. He could not attribute to the bankrupt any intention to prefer this creditor, and that excluded the notion of fraudulent preference. It seemed there were other creditors who made similar bargains. The pressure was very serious and earnest, and though the latter clause of the agreement did seem to savour somewhat of an intention to evade the bankruptcy law, the Court could not say that this transaction, being for the recovery of a just debt, being for the advantage of the debtor, and to satisfy a creditor who might have made him bankrupt next day, was void under the provisions of the statute. The appeal must be allowed, and the costs of the appeal must come out of the estate.

C. P. Div. TEWKESBURY ELECTION PETITION. June 9.
WELLS, PET.; WREN, RESP.

Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 125), s. 11, sub-s. 11—Changing Place of Trial of Petition—Special Circumstances.

Sect. 11, sub-s. 11, of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 125), provides that "the trial of an election petition, in the case of a petition relating to a borough election, shall take place in the borough, and, in the case of a petition relating to a county election, in the county: Provided always that, if it shall appear to the Court that special circumstances exist which render it desirable that the petition should be tried elsewhere than in the borough or county, it shall be lawful for the Court to appoint such other place for the trial as shall appear most convenient: Provided also that, in the case of a petition relating to any of the boroughs within the metropolitan district, the petition may be heard at such place within the district as the Court may appoint." And sub-s. 12 provides that "the judge presiding at the trial may adjourn the same from time to time, and from any one place to any other place within the county or borough, as to him may seem expedient."

An application was, by consent, made to Mr. Justice Lush (one of the election judges) at chambers, for an order that the trial of this petition should take place at Gloucester instead of at Tewkesbury, upon an affidavit of the mayor and others stating that there was not sufficient accommodation at Tewkesbury for the judges and their attendants, and for the numerous witnesses and other persons whose attendance would be required at the trial, and that in their judgment the trial might be more conveniently had at Gloucester.

The learned judge made the order: but he afterwards intimated that he entertained a doubt whether such an order ought not to be made by "the Court."

A. L. Smith, for the petitioner, now moved accordingly.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Grove, J.) thought it clear that such an application could not be made at chambers: and they expressed considerable doubt as to whether the reasons assigned for changing the place of trial were sufficient, and whether the statute did not mean that the "special circumstances" referred to, which should render it desirable that the petition should be tried elsewhere than in the borough or county, did not point to some strong local political feeling from which riotous conduct or the like might reasonably be apprehended, rather than to mere personal inconvenience to those whose duty it might be to attend the trial. But, inasmuch as Mr. Justice Lush had expressed an opinion that the place of trial ought to be changed, the Court would not differ from him; though desiring it to be understood that these applications were not to be entertained without good and substantial grounds.

C. P. D. WILLIAMS v. SNOWDEN. June 21.

Ejectment—Equitable Right to specific Performance "appearing incidentally in the course of the Cause"—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 3 & 4—Counterclaim—Rules of 1875, Appendix C. No. 24.

Ejectment tried in the Mayor's Court before the Recorder of London to recover possession of premises in Hozier Lane, Cheapside.

In 1872, Smith, the freeholder, granted to one Waters a lease for seven years from Christmas in that year. In 1878, Waters agreed to assign his interest to the defendant, who was let into possession. In October, 1879, Smith contracted to sell the premises to the plaintiff, the agreement describing them as "now let on lease for seven years from Christmas, 1872, to one Waters;" and the purchase was completed in March, 1880. It was admitted that prior to the contract of October, 1879, Smith had agreed to grant the defendant a new lease of the premises, and that the plaintiff when he purchased had notice of that agreement; but there was no evidence as to the term for which the proposed lease was to enure. [The Recorder's notes did not shew that any point had been raised before him as to this.]

The action being commenced by the ordinary writ of ejectment, and there being no counterclaim for specific performance of the agreement by Smith (which it was conceded would bind a purchaser with notice) to grant a new lease to the defendant, it was contended for the plaintiff that it was virtually undefended, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict. The Recorder, however, overruled the objection, and a verdict was entered for the defendant.

M'Call, pursuant to leave, moved to enter the verdict for the plaintiff. He submitted that, if the defendant had intended to rely upon the alleged agreement with Smith, she should have counterclaimed in the form in Appendix C. No. 24, to the Rules of 1875; otherwise the plaintiff could have no means of knowing what, if any, defence was to be set up against his claim of possession.

LORD COLERIDGE, C.J. Sub-s. 4 of s. 24 of the Judicature Act, 1873, provides that "the Courts respectively, and every judge thereof, shall recognize and take notice of all equitable estates, titles, and rights, and all equitable duties and liabilities appearing incidentally in the course of any cause or matter, in the same manner in which the Court of Chancery would have recognized and taken notice of the same in any suit or proceeding duly instituted therein before the passing of this Act." This is an equitable right,—a right to have specific performance of an agreement,—“appearing incidentally in the course of the cause.” How can the Court, in the face of that enactment, refuse to recognize it?

M'Call:—The "right" must be claimed according to the forms of procedure given by the Judicature Acts; otherwise the plaintiff is placed at the disadvantage of not knowing what he has to meet.

PER CURIAM. This being an equitable right appearing incidentally in the course of the cause, the recorder was bound to give effect to it, and consequently the plaintiff's objection was properly overruled.

Application refused.

CITY BANK v. BARROW AND OTHERS. June 25.
Agreement—Bills of Lading.

This was an appeal against a judgment of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of Mr. Justice Lindley. The plaintiff bank carried on business in London, where it acted as the agent for the Toronto Bank. The respondents were leather manufacturers, carrying on business in Bermondsey. Hides are often sent over from England to Canada, where they are tanned, and then sent back to England. One William Bonnell, of Montreal, sent a letter to the respondents offering to do business with them in getting hides tanned, and then sent back to England, on certain terms, which they by letter accepted. Hides were sent out and returned, and bills drawn and accepted. Disputes occurred between the parties, and the question arose whether under the terms of their agreement Bonnell was authorized to obtain bills of lading for the hides, and to ship the same in his own name, and to his own order, and so acquire the power of transferring the hides to any person to whom he indorsed the bill of lading. He had done so in this instance, and the City Bank had become possessed of them, and claimed to be the owner of the property. Mr. Justice Lindley had held that the course of the transaction between the parties enabled him to do this. The Court of Appeal, on the ground that Bonnell was not, under the Canadian Code, or the English Factors Acts, an agent to deal with the hides, except for a particular purpose, came to a different conclusion, and hence this appeal.

Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Rowland V. Williams, were for the Bank.

COURT OF APPEAL.

FROM C. P. Div. BUDD v. MARSHALL. June 23.
Landlord and Tenant—Payment of Charge upon Premises—"Duties"—Public Health Act, 1875.

Appeal of defendant from the judgment of Grove, J.
The plaintiffs were the landlords and the defendant was the tenant of certain premises at Brighton, known as "The Portland Mews," which were held for the residue of a term of twenty-one years from the 25th of December, 1867, created by an indenture of lease dated the 1st of July, 1868. In September, 1877, the corporation of Brighton, being the sanitary authority of that borough, and acting under the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1875, caused a notice to be served upon the plaintiffs, requiring them, as the owners of the premises, to abate a nuisance arising from defective drainage, and for that purpose to drain the said premises into the common sewer and to fill up all cess-pools; and, the requirements of such notice not having been complied with, an order to the like effect was, upon the application of the sanitary authority, made by a justice of the peace of the said borough in February, 1878. The proceedings of the sanitary authority were authorized by the 94th and following sections of the Act, and were in all respects regular, and the order made by the borough justices became binding upon the plaintiffs as the owners or landlords of the premises. The plaintiffs executed the required works and expended in so doing 124*l*. If the plaintiffs had neglected or failed to obey such order, the sanitary authority would have had power under the 98th section of the Act to enter upon the premises and to do what might be necessary in execution of the order, and to recover from the plaintiffs in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing. The lease, dated the 1st of July, 1868, contained a covenant providing that the tenant should "bear, pay, and discharge the land-tax (if any), sewers-rate, borough rate, improvements rate, tithes, and tithes-rent-charge in lieu of tithes, and all other taxes, rates, duties, and assessments whatsoever, whether parliamentary, parochial, or otherwise, which at the date of the lease were or at any time thereafter during the said term should be taxed, charged, rated, assessed, or imposed on the said demised premises or any part thereof or upon the landlords or tenants in respect thereof." The question was whether the plaintiffs were entitled to recover from the defendant the amount expended by them in the construction of the drainage works.

Grove, J., by whom the action was tried without a jury, was of opinion that the amount expended by the plaintiffs was a duty charged or imposed upon them as landlords in respect of the demised premises and gave judgment in their favour.

Error—Perjury—Criminal Pleading—Joinder of Counts—Distinct Misdemeanors—Judgment—Separate Punishments—Penal Servitude—2 Geo 2, c. 25, s. 2.

Error upon a judgment pronounced upon an indictment for perjury (Law Rep. 9 Q. B. 350).

The indictment contained two counts. The first count charged that the plaintiff in error had committed perjury upon the trial of an action of ejectment, Tichborne v. Lushington and Others, at Westminster, before Bovill, C.J., in the Court of Common Pleas. The assignments in substance alleged that he had falsely sworn that he was Sir R. C. D. Tichborne. The second count charged that he had committed perjury in an affidavit sworn before a commissioner duly appointed to administer oaths in Chancery in the City of London. The assignments in the second count, although not identical with those in the first, were of the same nature. The indictment was found by the grand jury at the Central Criminal Court, but was removed by certiorari into the Court of Queen's Bench, and, on the motion of the Attorney-General, a trial at bar was ordered. The trial, which took place before Cockburn, C.J., Mellor and Lush, JJ., began on the 23rd of April, 1873, and terminated on the 28th of February, 1874, when the plaintiff in error was found guilty, and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude on each count of the indictment.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Atherley-Jones (Hedderwick and Spratt with them), for the plaintiff in error, contended, first, that the perjury assigned in each count was substantially the same, and that the plaintiff in error could not be punished twice for the same offence; secondly, that a person convicted upon separate counts in the same indictment, could not be sentenced to a punishment greater than that which could be lawfully awarded upon one of the counts; thirdly, that the judgment was bad, inasmuch as it directed simply that the plaintiff in error should be kept in penal servitude, and did not direct that any other penalty should be inflicted, as is required by 2 Geo. 2, c. 25, s. 2; fourthly, that under the provisions of that statute only one sentence of seven years' penal servitude for perjury could be passed upon one indictment, however numerous the counts might be.

Sir B. James, A.G. (Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Poland, and A. L. Smith with him), for the Crown.

THE COURT (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) held that the judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench was valid in law, and affirmed it.

In re BOWES.

Mortgage—Attornment Clause—Validity—Excessive Rent—Bankruptcy of Mortgagee.

Bowes, a trader, executed a mortgage to his bankers of some freehold and leasehold estates belonging to him, to secure the balance from time to time due to them on his current account. The deed also contained an assignment to the bankers by way of mortgage of the mortgagor's stock-in-trade and other chattels. There was also an attornment clause, by which the mortgagor attorned tenant from year to year to the bankers of that part of the mortgaged premises of which he was in possession, at the annual rent of 8000*l*. payable in advance. And it was provided that all rent paid or recovered under the attornment should be applicable in or towards payment of the principal and interest intended to be secured by the deed, and that any surplus should be accounted for to the mortgagor. The deed was stamped to cover 8000*l*. It was not registered as a bill of sale.

On the 30th of May, 1879, the bankers distrained on the premises in the occupation of Bowes for 6530*l*., as part of a year's rent then due under the attornment clause, this being the amount then due from him to them on the balance of his current account.

On the 3rd of June, Bowes filed a liquidation petition. The trustees claimed the goods which had been seized under the distress, on the ground that the distress was not valid as against them. There was evidence that the real annual value of that part of the mortgaged property of which Bowes was in possession was only 140*l*. The Judge of the Whitehaven County Court decided that the trustees were entitled to the goods. The Chief Judge reversed the decision, holding that the bankers were entitled to the benefit of the distress. The trustees appealed.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for the trustees.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Whitworth, for the bankers.

THE COURT (Baggallay, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the rent reserved by the attornment clause was so excessive that it could not have been intended to create a real tenancy. It was only a device to enable the mortgagees in the event of the mortgagor's bankruptcy to seize chattels which would otherwise have been distributed among his creditors. The clause was, therefore a fraud on the bankruptcy law, and was invalid as against the trustees. This was the principle of Ex parte Williams (7 Ch. D. 138), and In re Stockton Iron Furnace Co. (10 Ch. D. 835), did not conflict with it. The appeal was therefore allowed.

Appeal of the plaintiff from the judgment of Grove and Lindley, JJ., on an official referee's report.

Action for a debt which was found to be 37*l.* The defendant by his counterclaim alleged three sums to be due amounting respectively to 8*l.*, to 82*l.*, and 119*l.* The sum of 8*l.* was due to the defendant in his own right; the other debts were due to the defendant as trustee of the estate of John Porter. The plaintiff having filed a petition under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, the defendant tendered a proof (which he afterwards withdrew) for the sums of 82*l.* and 119*l.*, for which he held a cheque and a promissory note, and the plaintiff produced a statement at the meeting of creditors shewing that he owed the defendant those two sums, but he omitted to mention the sum of 8*l.* The plaintiff's creditors resolved to accept a composition of 2*s.* 9*d.* in the pound. Receiver—Foreign Litigation—Interlocutory Application—Security.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (see, p. 88).

At the hearing before the Vice-Chancellor there were two motions, one by the plaintiff for a receiver of the American assets of the firm of Jay Cooke, McCulloch, & Co., and the other by the defendant Lewis, the trustee in the American bankruptcy, that he might be allowed to pay off the debt due to the firm to Williams, Deacon, & Co., and to take their securities in England and sell them in America, and pay over the surplus to the receiver in this action. The Vice-Chancellor allowed both motions, and the defendant Lewis appealed from his decision, so far as related to his application.

JESSEL, M.R., asked if the appellant would give security to the extent of 40,000*l.*, the amount of certain securities which had been realized in America; but the appellant by his counsel declined to do so.

JESSEL, M.R., then said that under these circumstances he was of opinion that the order of the Vice-Chancellor was right. It was not the course of the Court by an interlocutory order to interfere on behalf of one party in a way which might injure the others in case he should succeed. must, therefore, be judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

This was a motion by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for War for an injunction to restrain the defendants until the hearing from proceeding to construct certain tramways near Aldershot, in alleged contravention of their statutory powers. The defendants asked that the motion might stand over for a week that they might answer affidavits, whereupon it was proposed that an interim injunction should be granted in the common form, the plaintiff giving the usual undertaking in damages. An objection was raised that the Crown could not be bound in such an undertaking.

V.-C. M. MOORE v. DIXON. June 24.
Settlement—Appointed and Unappointed Shares—Costs to be borne equally.

This was an action to administer the trusts of a settlement dated in August, 1832, made upon the marriage of Robert Cunningham and Annabella his wife, by which five policies of assurance on the life of the husband, amounting in all to 20,000*l.*, were assigned to trustees to pay the interest to the wife for life, and after her decease upon trusts for such children of the marriage as the husband and wife should jointly appoint, or as the survivor should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment for the children equally. And the settlement contained the usual hotchpot clause. There were four children of the marriage, and after the death of the wife, without executing any joint appointment, the husband appointed by deed the whole of the 20,000*l.* policies, but not including bonuses, amongst the children in unequal shares. The unappointed fund amounted to about 2600*l.*, which would be divided amongst the children after equalizing the shares under the hotchpot clause.

A question was raised upon summons whether the costs of the action, amounting to about 843*l.*, were to be paid out of the unappointed fund or out of all the shares,

V.-C. M. In re MANSELL. June 26.
RHODES v. JENKINS.

Secret Settlement—Voluntary Covenant enforced.

Adjourned summons in an action to administer the estate of Courtenay Mansell. Florence Rhodes, the daughter of Courtenay Mansell, the testator, was married in November, 1867, to Charles Rhodes. Previously to her marriage, her father promised that he would allow her 120*l.* per annum. Subsequently to her marriage the testator told his daughter that he had made a settlement upon her of 120*l.* per annum, but she never saw the settlement. He paid her at various times small sums of money, amounting in the whole to 137*l.* On several occasions he alluded to the allowance, but said he was unable to give her the whole on account of various heavy debts which he was obliged to pay. The testator died in 1875, and a deed was discovered amongst his papers, dated the 4th of February, 1868, by which he covenanted with E. B. Mansell that he would pay to E. B. Mansell or other the trustee of the deed, or to the said Florence Rhodes, during the joint lives of himself and Florence Rhodes, the annual sum of 120*l.* by quarterly payments, upon trust that E. B. Mansell should pay the same to Florence Rhodes for her separate use, free from the control of Charles Rhodes or any future husband. C. Mansell never made any payment to E. B. Mansell in respect of the said annuity, and he was unaware that he had been appointed a trustee of such deed until after the death of C. Mansell.

E. B. Mansell claimed by this summons to be paid out of the estate of Courtenay Mansell the arrears of the annuity less the several sums paid to Florence Rhodes on account thereof. The deed of February, 1868, was prepared and witnessed by a solicitor, and properly executed by the testator.

The question now argued was whether the voluntary covenant by Courtenay Mansell could be enforced.

Higgins, Q.C., and Rawlinson, in support of the claim.

Glasse, Q.C., and Levett, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the evidence of Mrs. Rhodes was confirmed by the existence of the deed, and he was of opinion that the voluntary covenant could be enforced. The claim was therefore allowed.

V.-C. B. EASTMAN'S TRADE-MARK. June 25.
Trade-mark—Registration—Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 91), s. 10.—Special and Distinctive Words.

Application on behalf of Robert Carnes Eastman, of Philadelphia, U.S., for an order directing the Registrar of Trade-marks to enter upon the register the trade-mark applied for by him on the 5th of May last.

The mark in question consisted of the words "Kitchen Crystal Soap," which had been applied by Eastman and his predecessors in business for the last twelve years to a compound manufactured and sold by them, consisting of soap mixed with crushed quartz or crystal, and used for cleansing and scouring purposes. The Registrar of Trade-marks declined to register the words "Kitchen Crystal Soap" as a trade-mark without the direction of the Court, on the ground that, although used as an old mark before the passing of the Trade-mark Registration Act, 1875, they were not "special and distinctive" words within the meaning of s. 10, but merely descriptive of the article, and, therefore, could not be registered as a trade-mark unless accompanied by a design.

Aston, Q.C., and Carpmael, in support of the application.

Rigby, for the Register of Trade-marks.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the words "Kitchen Crystal Soap" were clearly special and distinctive words, which, according to the evidence, had been used as a trade-mark long before the passing of the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875, and accordingly the Registrar would be directed to allow the registration to proceed.

Post-nuptial Settlement—Trust for all the Children—Married Women—Restraint on Alienation—Remoteness.

Special case under 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35. By an indenture dated the 31st of December, 1874, Sarah Sharpe (who died in 1876), and John Sharpe (who died in 1879), who had at the above date been married many years, and had two children living, the plaintiff Emily Herbert, the wife of W. J. Herbert (a defendant), and Hannah M. Mary, the wife of Edward H. Motterhead, defendants, assigned unto two trustees their executors, &c., a sum of 2000*l.* upon trust to invest the same, and to pay the income of the securities in the manner therein mentioned during the lives of Sarah and John Sharpe, and after the death of Sarah Sharpe and the failure of certain trusts, which were determined upon the death of John Sharpe, the trustees were directed to stand possessed of the trust fund and the income thereof upon trusts for the benefit of the children of Sarah by the said John Sharpe, as the said Sarah and John Sharpe should by deed jointly, or as the survivor of them should by deed, or will, or codicil appoint. In default of appointment the trust fund and income was to be held "in trust for all the children or any child of the said Sarah Sharpe by the said John Sharpe, who being sons or a son shall attain the age of 21 years, or being daughters or a daughter shall attain that age or marry under that age, or if more than one in equal shares, but if daughters for their sole and separate use, free from the control and debts of their present or any future husband, and so that during their present or any future coverture they shall have no power to alienate or anticipate the same or any part thereof."

There were in the settlement provisions for the advancement and maintenance of any "child or other issue of the said marriage." The two daughters (above named) were married at the date of the deed.

The power of appointment reserved to the husband and wife jointly and to the survivor was never exercised.

The question was whether the two daughters were entitled to the fund in equal shares for an absolute interest, and free from the restraint on anticipation; and how the costs were to be provided for?

P. B. Lambert, for the plaintiff.

G. W. Lawrance, for the trustees, and Jason Smith, for the other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after pointing out that the cases which had been decided upon the point; In re Michael's Trusts (46 L. J. (Ch.) 651), In re Ridley (11 Ch. D. 645), and Wilson v. Wilson (4 Jur. (N. Gifts of Legacy and Residue—Action in Probate Division—Costs of Executrix—Action for Administration—Costs—Incumbrances on Shares.

W. S., who died on the 14th of December, 1877, by his will, made in February, 1877, gave 2000*l.* to be equally divided between all his lawful nephews and nieces living at his decease, and all the residue of his estate he gave to A. W., and appointed her sole executrix. The will was proved on the 5th of January, 1878, and the estate was sworn under 5000*l.* The plaintiffs—a nephew, H. T. K., and two nieces, Mrs. H. and Mrs. Sp., and their husbands—issued a writ on the 1st of March, 1879, in an action against A. W., for the administration of the estate. The defendant obtained an order on the 2nd of April, 1879, under which she paid the legacy (less duty, &c.) into Court with a restraint against its being paid out without notice. Inquiries were directed as to the persons entitled to shares in the fund, and the chief clerk made his certificate and stated that eleven persons were entitled, and that some of the nieces and the plaintiff H. T. K. had in 1878 and 1879 charged their shares. Notices were given to the executrix of the charges. Two of the nieces, Mrs. De V. and Mrs. S., commenced an action in the Probate Division for the revocation of the will, but it was established. The defendant's costs in that action were 47*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, and the plaintiffs in the action were ordered to pay her a further sum of 40*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* In the probate action two nieces were, as married women, allowed to become interveners without joining their husbands. The order of the Probate Court on the 1st of August, 1879, did not name the persons who were ordered to pay the costs. On that order being obtained an application was made in this action for a charging order on the shares of the plaintiffs and two other nieces, Mrs. De V. and Mrs. S., on the ground of the order being a judgment against them for the costs, and on the 9th of August an order nisi was made. H. T. K. submitted to its being made absolute subject to the charges made prior to the 9th of August, 1879. The husbands of the two intervening nieces contended that they were not parties in the Probate action, and were not named in the order of the 1st of August, 1879; that there was no judgment against them, and as their wives did not take the shares for their separate use they were entitled to receive the shares free from the judgment against the wives. The assignees of other nieces' shares contended that as they claimed under absolute assignments made before the order nisi, there was no interest left in assignors. That view was adopted in chambers. A summons was taken out by the defendant asking that her costs in the Probate action might be set off against the shares for division in this Court.

Hastings, Q.C., and Beaumont, for two assignees of shares.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. W. Kurlake, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR declared that the shares of Mrs. De V. and Mrs. S. were liable to pay to the defendant the 40*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*, mentioned in the order of the 1st August, 1879; that the shares of Mrs. De V., Mrs. S., H. T. K., Mrs. H., and Mrs. Sp., were liable to bear one-fifth of the 47*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.* costs, that the defendant must be paid the same out of the fund in Court. Certain elevenths in the fund were ordered to be paid to the assignees, and the defendant was ordered to pay the costs of administration as between party and party.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte Kirk. June 21.
In re GHEBNER.

Bankruptcy—Two Petitions by same Petitioner—Effect of Priority of first Petition upon Proceedings under second.

Appeal from two orders of County Court at Newcastle, dismissing two petitions for adjudication both filed by the same petitioners, in respect of the same debt. The first petition was presented on the 3rd of May, 1880, for adjudication on an act of bankruptcy alleged to have been committed by the execution by the debtor, Joseph Greener, of an alleged fraudulent conveyance on the 5th of November, 1879. As six months from the latter date would expire on the 5th of May, 1880, the petitioning creditors, Henry and Thomas Kirk, on the 17th of April, 1880, had served Greener, who was a non-trader, with a debtor's summons to pay the debt, amounting to £20l. 14s., and the second petition was presented on the 12th of May, 1880, alleging an act of bankruptcy in the neglect of Greener within three weeks to pay this sum. On the 21st of May, both petitions came on to be heard, and the county court judge was asked to make an order consolidating the petitions under s. 80, sub-s. 2, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. The learned judge thought that he had no jurisdiction, and called upon the petitioners to choose upon which petition they would proceed. The petitioners elected to proceed on the second petition, and thereupon an order was made on the first petition directing that, upon hearing what was alleged, and upon reading the petition and affidavits, and counsel for the petitioners "having agreed on an expression of opinion from the Court to abandon the petition" filed on the 3rd of May, "and having elected to proceed" on the petition of the 12th of May, the petition of the 3rd May be dismissed with costs; and another order was on the same day made on the second petition, directing that petition also to be dismissed with costs.

These were the orders appealed from.

De Gez, Q.C., and Henry, for the appellants:—The decision of the Court below was founded on a case of Ex parte Musgrove (3 M. D. & D. 368), which turned on the 8th sect. of the 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, now repealed. There is no such section in the present Act. Payment of the debt would have relieved the respondent from both petitions.

Winslow, Q.C., and Creed, for the respondent Greener:—The appeal from the first petition, which was dismissed by consent, must fail. As to the second, if Greener had paid this debt in discharge of the debtor's summons whilst the first petition was pending, he might have had to pay it over again to the trustee in bankruptcy, had an adjudication been made on the first petition. The petitioners by their first petition allege the respondent to have been a bankrupt since the 5th of November, 1879, and then by their debtor's summons call upon the alleged bankrupt to pay them a sum of money. This is inconsistent and embarrassing. From the date of the presentation of the petition of the 3rd of May the respondent had ceased to be sui juris.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that in his opinion there would have been no illegality in Greener's paying the debt. He might have applied to have the debtor's summons dismissed on the ground, that the first petition was an impediment in his way, but this he had not done. The appeal against the order on the first petition must be dismissed. The appeal against the order on the second would be allowed, and that order must be discharged; the costs of one petition to be set off against the costs of the other, pro tanto.

Appeal from County Court at Bedford.

The question was whether a bill of sale, under the Act of 1854, was void on the ground that the description of the occupation of the attesting witness was not stated in the affidavit of execution required by the Act of 1854. The affidavit, which was made by one Edward Dodwell, stated (par. 2) as follows: "That the name 'Edward Dodwell' set and subscribed as the witness attesting the due execution thereof is of my proper handwriting, and that I am the only attesting witness to the said bill of sale, and reside at 40 Britannia Road, Bedford, and am a—." It was in evidence that Dodwell was a person of no occupation, but that he did, at the request of Spicer, a sheriff's officer, on the 21st of October, 1878, go into possession of the property and effects mentioned in the bill of sale, and continue in such possession until the 3rd of March, 1879. In examination Dodwell said he had had no occupation for ten years, and that during the last five years he had lived on his own means. All he earned in 1878 was what he was paid for going into possession under this bankruptcy. In examination Spicer said when all his regular men were engaged, he used to ask Dodwell as a favour to take possession for him occasionally. Dodwell was not more than five or six times in possession before this bankruptcy. Was not one of his regular bailiffs or officers.

On the 6th of May, 1880, the learned judge dismissed an application to have the bill of sale declared void against the trustee. This was the order appealed from.

De Gez, Q.C., and Houghton, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Moulton, for the respondent, the bill of sale holder, were not called upon.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said it was clear that the attesting witness was a man of no occupation. Occasionally he had amused himself and occupied his time by going into possession. That was not an occupation. The statute had been fully complied with; and, as this was the only question, the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

ISAAC AND ANOTHER, APPS.; SEELEY AND WRIGHT, RESP.
Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 125), ss. 35, 36—Application for Leave to withdraw Petition—Insufficient Affidavit.

Hannen moved for leave to withdraw the petition against the return of the respondents as members of parliament for the borough of Nottingham. The election took place on the 1st of April, 1880, and Wright, one of the respondents, died on the 14th; and the petitioners were now desirous of withdrawing the petition against the other respondent Colonel Seeley. The notices required by the statute and the rules had been duly given and published; but the affidavit upon which the motion was founded omitted to state that the application was not the result of any corrupt arrangement between the petitioners and the respondents, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other petition.

LORD COLERIDGE, C.J. The affidavit must contain a negation of the matters stated in sect. 36 of the Act. The application may be renewed on the next day the Court sits in banco.

Hannen asked that the order might go upon production of an affidavit in the prescribed form.

LORD COLERIDGE, C.J. As we have to report to the Speaker of the House of Commons whether in our opinion the withdrawal of the petition was the result of any corrupt arrangement, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other petition, we must see that the statute is duly complied with before we make the order.

On the next day of sitting the required affidavit was produced, and the order made upon the same terms as in the Hereford Petition (ante, p. 123). Order accordingly.

SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. MARY SMITHERMAN AND OTHERS.

Railway Mischief—Contributory Negligence.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal in a case in which the present respondents, a mother and her four children, were plaintiffs against the South Eastern Railway, for compensation, under Lord Campbell's Act, in respect of the death of Henry Smitherman, the husband of the first-named plaintiff. The death occurred on the 28th of December, 1878, at the East Farleigh station. The signal had been given for the arrival of a train—the deceased, and, as it appeared, the officer of the railway, thought the signal announced the arrival of the passenger train, and the deceased tried to cross the line from the place where he got his ticket, in order to be in time for it. The passenger train did arrive, but not at that moment, but was preceded by a luggage train which occasioned the mischief. It was alleged that the officials discovered the arrival of the luggage train, and called out to the deceased to stop, and that his brother who was at the platform did the same, and the question was whether he did or not hear the warnings, and improperly neglected them, and so was contributory to his own death. The jury had given a verdict for 400*l.* for the widow, and 125*l.* for each of the children. The Court of Exchequer had thought the damages excessive, and had made absolute a rule for a new trial. The Court of Appeal had reversed that order. Hence this appeal. The plaintiffs were said to consent that the verdict should be reduced to 700*l.* The appeal raised the question of the whole verdict.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. A. M. Bremner, were for the appellants company.

Mr. H. Bargrave Deane, was for the respondents. THE LORDS thought that the order for a new trial was correct, and so directed it to be restored.

From Ch. Div. MITCHELL v HENRY. June 28.
Registered Trade-mark—Colourable Imitation.

This was an appeal from the Master of the Rolls, refusing an interlocutory injunction. The plaintiffs had registered a trade-mark for worsted goods, described as "a white selvage on each side of the piece, having a red and white mottled thread interwoven the full length of the selvage between the edge of the piece, and the edge of the selvage." The advertisement in the Trade-marks Journal stated that a specimen was on view at the Patent Office Museum. The specimen so deposited was undyed, and the selvage was white, and the mottled line nearly in the middle of the selvage. When the piece was dyed black the selvage became dark grey. The defendants sold goods dyed black, the selvage in which was dark grey, with a mottled thread of red, white, and yellow, running along the inner border of the selvage. The white of the mottled thread in the process of dyeing became grey, and the yellow turned to a dusky olive. The plaintiffs complained of this as an infringement, and produced evidence that though the selvage was actually grey it was known in the trade as a white selvage. The Master of the Rolls considered that as the plaintiffs' selvage clearly was not white there was no infringement. The plaintiffs appealed.

Chitty, Q.C., Davey, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the appellants. Aston, Q.C., and Rigby, contra.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) discharged the order of the Master of the Rolls, and directed the motion to stand over to the trial. Their Lordships were of opinion that the case could not be disposed of on the ground that the selvage was not white, without regard to the question whether it was not a white selvage according to the understanding of the trade; and that there was so much conflict of evidence on the point whether there was not such a similarity between the marks as would cause the defendants' goods to be taken for the plaintiffs' manufacture, that the case could not be satisfactorily dealt with before the trial.

Company—Contract—Prospectus—Promoter—Action—Companies Act, 1867, s. 38.

Appeal of defendants, Peele and Brown, from the judgment of Grove, J., overruling a demurrer.

The question was whether, upon demurrer, certain contracts set forth in a statement of claim ought or ought not to be held to come within the Companies Act, 1867, s. 38. Shortly stated, the contracts composed a series of arrangements made by parties to the formation of a joint stock company, and having for their object its formation. They were contracts from which, when disclosed, it would be reasonably inferred that what was purchased by the company when formed was of far less value than the sum which was actually paid by the company for it; that the company's capital had been or was to be expended principally in indirect payments to the promoters of the company, and persons connected with them other than the real vendors to the company, and but little in the real bonâ fide purchase of that which was to constitute the subject of the company's business; that some at least of the persons who by prospectus invited the public to take shares in the company, held such a position in regard to its formation, and in connection with the vendors and promoters, as to make their interests and the interests of ordinary subscribers for shares in the company by no means the same; and finally, that the company itself was one in which no prudent man with knowledge of these facts, and trusting to the success of the undertaking alone, would be likely to embark his money in shares. On the other hand, assuming the company formed, and the purchase, which was the object of its formation carried out, there was nothing in any of the contracts which bound or directly affected the company or its property, nothing which by adoption or otherwise could impose any burden or obligation, any loss or liability upon it, nothing which made the value of it intrinsically greater or less. Grove, J., overruled the demurrer to the statement of claim.

Practice—Submission to Arbitration—Making Award a Rule of Court.

The action in this case was brought to obtain a declaration that the defendant was bound under the terms of the will of his father to provide a home for the plaintiff, who was his sister. At the trial it was ordered by consent that all matters in dispute should be referred to arbitration. The arbitrator made his award on the 28th of July, 1879, assessing the compensation to which the plaintiff was entitled for the past, and awarding the payment of an annuity to her for the future.

On the 27th of November, 1879, the plaintiff obtained an order from Vice-Chancellor Hall making the award an order of Court. Notice of the motion was served on the defendant, but he did not appear (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 188).

On the 12th of May, 1880, the plaintiff obtained an order in chambers that the defendant should make the payment of the annuity which was then due, but which the defendant had refused to make. The defendant appealed from this decision; the ground of his refusal to pay the annuity being that the award as respected the annuity was ultra vires and void.

Robinson, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the plaintiff, took the preliminary objection that the award had been made an order of Court and could not now be questioned, no appeal having been brought from that order.

Taughan Williams, and Beale, for the appellant, contended that the effect of making the award an order of Court was the same as if the submission to arbitration had been made a rule of Court, according to the practice in the Common Law Division. Any person who had reason to object to the award could wait till it was enforced and then object, if it was bad on the face of it.

Jessel, M.R., said that in cases of agreements for arbitration it was not unusual in the Chancery Courts to make the award an order of Court without making the submission a rule of Court. But since the Judicature Act he thought it was very desirable that the practice of all the Courts should be uniform, and therefore in the Rolls Court he had ruled that the submission ought to be made a rule of Court (see Oglesby's Arbitration, Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 188). However, in the present case the reference to arbitration had been made by the Court, and the award had been made an order of Court, and it was as binding as any other order. Therefore the preliminary objection must prevail, and the appeal could not be heard.

In re WRECK RECOVERY AND SALVAGE COMPANY.
Company—Winding-up—Power of Liquidator to continue Business—Companies Act, 1862, s. 95.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

An order having been made for the winding-up of the above company (which was formed for working a method invented by Mr. Albert Leutner for raising sunken vessels), proposals were made by Mr. Leutner to the liquidator that Mr. Leutner should have the use of the company's ships and plant at Dover for the purpose of attempting to raise some sunken wrecks off Dover, upon certain terms. An application was made to the Court, and ultimately, on the 9th of April last, the Vice-Chancellor gave leave to the liquidator to enter into an agreement with Mr. Leutner. Some creditors and a shareholder of the company, who objected to the agreement, applied to the Court for an injunction to restrain the liquidator from acting upon it, and for directions to the liquidator to sell and get in the assets of the company. The liquidator made an affidavit, in which he said that he had carefully considered the terms of Leutner's proposal, and that he was of opinion, having regard to the fact that there were numerous shareholders anxious to re-suscitate the company, and who before coming forward were only waiting to hear of a successful experiment having been made by means of the company's vessels and appliances, that the proposal was a beneficial one for the company, and also that in the event of an ultimate sale of the company's plant it would of course be more advantageous to the company to sell the plant as a going concern.

The Vice-Chancellor refused the application for an injunction, considering that the agreement was a beneficial one. From this order the applicants appealed. The question turned upon the jurisdiction of the Court under sect. 95 of the Companies Act, 1862, which provides that the official liquidator of a company in liquidation "shall have power with the sanction of the Court to carry on the business of the company, so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding-up of the same."

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the appellants.

Higgins, Q.C., and Everitt, for the official liquidator.

Jessel, M.R., said that the word "necessary" in the 95th section shewed that the carrying on of the business was not to be merely beneficial, but something more, though the necessity must be determined by the Court, having regard to all the circumstances of the case. It did not mean that no other course was possible. It must be with a view to the winding-up of the company, not with a view to its continuance. The only point his Lordship meant to decide was whether this agreement had the winding-up of the company in view at all. Looking at the agreement and the evidence, he could not find anything to shew that what was proposed was necessary for the beneficial winding-up of the company, or, indeed, for the winding-up at all. It was plainly a mere attempt to make the shares of the company of value, so as, if possible, to re-suscitate the company. The liquidator did not say he could not sell the plant at a good price. He gave a very cautious opinion. But if the experiments were to fail, then the value of the plant would be diminished. That was, no doubt, the reason why the liquidator was so cautious in giving an opinion. Was it possible to say that the case came within the 95th section? Without saying whether in a proper case there was any limit to the power of the Court as to entering into new contracts or carrying on a business with a view to its sale as a going concern, it appeared to him that the present case was not within the purview of the Act. The appeal ought, therefore, to be allowed, and the order of the Vice-Chancellor must be discharged.

NELSON v. DIXON.
Paymaster-General—North-Western Stock—Option to take Shares

Reginald Hughes appeared on a petition asking for an order under these circumstances. There was a considerable amount of North-Western Railway stock now standing in the name of the Paymaster-General to the credit of this action. The North-Western Company had lately issued new stock, and had given an option to the present holders of stock to take up the new stock in the proportion of 12 per cent. of the old stock, provided they signified their intention to do so on or before the 1st of July. These letters of allotment were now lying at the Paymaster-General's office, and he declined to take any steps in the matter, and refused to hand out the documents to any of the parties without an order of the Court. Now as this stock was at a very high premium, and was readily saleable on the Stock Exchange, it would be a serious loss to the parties if the allotment letters were not taken up. The order he asked was that the Paymaster-General do sign a renunciation on the letter of allotment (whereby a specified sum of new stock was offered to be allotted to him in respect of the stock standing to the credit of the cause) in favour of such person as Mr. Dixon, the husband of the tenant for life, and trustee, should nominate, and should hand over such letter when signed to the said Mr. Dixon, he undertaking to sell the allotment, and invest the proceeds in government stock, and to transfer the same into Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order in this case that the Paymaster-General be directed to sign the renunciation, and to hand out the letter of allotment in respect of the North-Western Railway stock to Mr. Procter, the solicitor in the action, who was to sell the stock and to pay the proceeds into Court to the account of the action.

V.-C. M. PATCHING v. BARNETT. June 28.
Will—Void Limitation—To Child who shall attain 25—Name or Description—Residue of Specified Articles or General Residue—Annuity charged on Real Estate—Personalty the Primary Fund—Apportionment of Rents.

Several questions arose under the will of J. Patching, dated the 5th of April 1856.

First. The testator devised all his real estate unto and to the use of trustees after the decease or marriage of his wife upon trust, if the youngest of the grandsons of his maternal uncles, Anthony and Thomas Patching, who should be living at the death or marriage of his wife should then be under 21, to apply so much of the rents and profits as they should think fit for the maintenance of such youngest grandson until he should attain 21 or die, and after attaining that age then upon trust until such grandson should attain the age of 25 years to pay and allow the same grandson until he should attain 25 or die such yearly sum not exceeding 200*l.* as they should think proper, and upon further trust until such grandson should attain the age of 25 or die to accumulate the rents, and if such youngest grandson should live to attain the age of 25, then, but not otherwise, to stand possessed of the accumulations and income upon trust for such youngest grandson absolutely. But in case he should die under 25, then upon the same trusts as thereinbefore declared as to the residue of his personal estate. And subject and without prejudice to the trust aforesaid, his trustees were to stand seised and possessed of his said real estate upon trust for the said youngest of the grandsons of his two maternal uncles who should be living at the decease of his wife and who should then have attained or should live to attain the age of 25 years, and his assigns, for life, and after his decease for the first son of his body lawfully begotten and the heirs male of his body.

The question arising under this clause was whether the real estate was vested in the youngest grandson so as to allow the possession to be extended beyond the period of 21, or whether the devise was void for remoteness.

Glasse, Q.C., and Lloyd, for the heir-at-law.

Müller, Q.C., and Kingdon, for residuary legatees in the same interest.

Bristowe, Q.C., G. P. Leach, and Ingle Joyce, for trustees.

A. J. Leach, for the same interest as the plaintiff.

Latham, for the Duke of Bedford.

Berkeley, and Ingle Joyce, for other parties in the same interest.

Higgins, Q.C., and Coltman, for residuary legatees.

Onslow, for the executors of Mrs. Barnett.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the youngest grandson.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that he was bound by the decision in Festing v. Allen (12 Mes. & W. 279), which had been followed by several subsequent decisions, and must hold, in conformity with that authority, that this being a devise after a life estate for the youngest grandson who should attain 25 years of age, the limitation failed, and there was an intestacy as to all the limitations beyond the life estate and the maintenance of the youngest grandson till 21.

The testator bequeathed, after the decease of his wife, his marble bust of Oliver Cromwell to the most noble "John, now Duke of Bedford," upon condition that he cause it to be placed and remain in the library in Woburn Abbey, and to be settled as an heirloom in the family. John Duke of Bedford died long before the testator made his will, and the name of the Duke of Bedford then existing, was Francis.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that "John now Duke of Bedford" meant the Duke of Bedford then existing, and the executors of that Duke being willing to accept the bust upon the conditions in the will, it must be handed over to them.

The testator gave four specifically named pictures to the trustees of the National Gallery, for the purposes of that institution, and he gave the residue of his pictures and articles of a similar character, and his household furniture and effects which should be in his house at his death to his wife. The four pictures were declined by the trustees of the National Gallery.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the four pictures did not pass to the testator's wife by the residuary clause following the specific bequest, but were to be included in the subsequent general residuary clause.

The testator by a codicil gave an annuity of 100*l.* to Emily Snowling, and he thereby charged the same annuity upon two specific farms therein named (which were previously devised by his will), and he empowered the annuitant to distrain upon the said farms for arrears of the annuity.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the testator's personal estate was the primary fund chargeable with the annuity, not the two farms.

The will being dated before the passing of the Apportionment Act of 1870, a question was raised whether rents payable to the tenant for life, were to be apportioned up to the day of the death of such tenant for life.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he adhered to what he decided in Re Clive's Estate (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 213), and held that the rents must be apportioned up to the day of the death.

V.-C. M. ASTLEY v. MICKLETHAIT. June 30.
Contingent Remainder—To Children who should attain 21—Mortgage in Fee—Limitation preserved by Legal Estate in Mortgage.

Francis L'Estrange Astley, by his will, dated in August, 1862, devised his Saxthorpe estate to the use of his son Frederick B. Astley for life, and after his decease to the use of all or such one or more of his children who being a son should attain 21, or being a daughter should attain that age or marry, as his said son should by deed or will appoint; and in default of such appointment to the use of the child or all the children of his said son who being a son or sons should attain the age of 21 years or die under that age leaving issue him or them surviving, or being a daughter or daughters should attain the age of 21 years or be married, and the heirs and assigns of such children respectively, in equal shares if more than one, as tenants in common, but if his son should die without children who should attain 21, then he devised the estate to certain uses therein specified, and the testator gave and devised to his son Nathaniel Astley, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, all his freehold, copyhold, and leasehold estates not otherwise disposed of by his will.

The testator died in April, 1866. The Saxthorpe estate was wholly of freehold tenure. It contained about 1382 acres, and was acquired by the testator by two separate purchases. By one he acquired the bulk of the estate containing about 1323 acres, and by the other he acquired the remaining 59 acres. Immediately after the execution of the conveyances the testator mortgaged the larger portion of the estate to the trustees of the settlement made on his first marriage, and their heirs, to secure 20,000*l.*, which they had advanced to him out of the trust property to enable him to complete the purchase. The testator's son, Frederick B. Astley, died in August, 1876, leaving four children, all infants, without having exercised the power of appointment amongst his children. Nathaniel Astley died in 1868, leaving F. J. Astley (an infant) his eldest son and heir-at-law and the heir-at-law of the testator.

The question now argued was how far the limitations in the will as to the Saxthorpe estate could be carried into effect.

Glasse, Q.C., and Chapman Barber, for the plaintiffs, the infant children of F. B. Astley.

J. Pearson, Q. C., and Owen, for the heir-at-law of the residuary legatee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the limitation to the children of F. Barnard Astley who being sons should attain 21, or die under that age leaving issue, or being daughters should attain 21 or marry, was a contingent remainder, and inasmuch as the children of F. B. Astley were at his death all minors, there was then no person answering the description to take under the limitation, and consequently the contingent limitation and all the subsequent limitations of the estate failed as to the unmortgaged portion of the property in which the testator had the legal estate in fee; but that the limitations so far as they affected the mortgaged portion of the property were preserved from failure by the legal estate outstanding in the mortgagees. The mortgaged portion of the property would therefore go to the children of F. B. Astley if any should attain 21 or marry, but the intermediate rents being undisposed of would go to the heir-at-law, as well as the unmortgaged portion of the property.

Devise of Real Estate to Executors—Charge of Debts—Renunciation by Executors—Sale by Administratrix—Objection to Title.

This was a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

Thomas Clay, by his will, dated the 20th of March, 1879, directed that all his just debts, funeral and testamentary expenses should be fully paid and satisfied by his executors thereafter named, and in case his personal estate was insufficient for that purpose he charged his real estate with the payment of the deficiency. He then gave, devised, and bequeathed all his real and personal estate to his wife for life, with remainder to his daughter for life, with remainder to her children equally, some of whom were minors. The testator then directed that his executors should, after the determination of the life interests, sell or dispose of all his real and personal estate for the purpose of dividing the same as therein mentioned, and he appointed T. T. and O. S. his executors.

The executors having renounced probate, the widow obtained a grant of letters of administration with the will annexed. There being an insufficiency of personal estate to pay the debts, the widow entered into a contract in April, 1880, for the sale to Mr. Tetley of a portion of the real estate to make up the deficiency. The purchaser refused to complete the contract, on the ground that the statute 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, s. 16, authorized only executors to sell, and that the administratrix was not entitled to sell, for the payment of debts, under the statute, and could not make a good legal and equitable title.

For the vendor it was insisted that the testator having charged his real estate with the payment of his debts, and not having devised his real estate to trustees, the administratrix with the will annexed was competent to sell under the statute as being the person in whom the executorship for the time being was vested.

Simmonds, for the vendor.

H. Cadman Jones, for the purchaser.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the objection was well founded, and that he could not, looking at the language of the will, in which "executors" were twice mentioned as the persons who were to pay the debts, make the purchaser take the title, but the difficulty might be got over by issuing a writ in an action for the confirmation of the contract; and dismissed the summons.

June 29.

ROBERTS v. YOULE.

Will—Construction—Vested Interest—Gift over on Death before the execution of the Trusts—Gift void for Uncertainty.

William Youle, who died in 1879, by his will dated the 30th of November, 1878, after giving all his real and personal estate to trustees upon trust to sell and get in, with a discretionary power to postpone the sale and getting in of all or any of his real and personal estate, directed his trustees to stand possessed of the net moneys to arise from the sale and getting in of his real and personal estate upon trust to pay and divide the same unto and equally between and amongst his four children (naming them), but he declared that the share of his daughter (who was one of the four) should be retained by his trustees and held by them upon certain trusts for the said daughter or her issue. The will continued: "In the event of any of my said children dying previously to my decease or the execution of all or any of the trusts of this will leaving lawful issue, him, her, or them surviving, I direct that my said trustees shall pay to the issue of such deceased child or children the share or respective shares, his, her, or their respective parents would have taken and been entitled to if living, share and share alike."

A special case was stated for the opinion of the Court on the construction of the will. All the four children named in the will (namely three sons and one daughter), survived the testator, and are still living, two of them, namely, the daughter and one son, have children living. The trustees, in the exercise of the discretionary power given to them to postpone the sale and getting in of the testator's real and personal estate, had not yet sold the real estate, and some part of the personal estate was not yet got in or realized. The three sons of the testator claimed to be entitled to their fourth shares of the testator's real and personal estate absolutely, but it was contended on behalf of the children of one of the testator's sons that according to the terms of the will the said shares must be retained by the trustees until the execution of all the trusts of the will, or at all events until actual sale and getting in.

S. Roberts, for the plaintiff, one of the trustees of the will.

Dunning, for the three sons of the testator.

W. Barber, for the children of one of the three sons of the testator, relied on Johnson v. Crook (12 Ch. D. 639).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the gift over was void for uncertainty, and that the interests of the three sons of the testator were absolute and indefeasible whether the property had already been converted or not; and without considering it necessary for him to say whether he agreed with the recent decision of the Master of the Rolls in Johnson v. Crook (12 Ch. D. 639), he distinguished that case from the present one on the ground that in that case it was not the whole share that was given over on death before having actually received the same, but only the share "or such part or parts thereof" as should not have been actually received.

W. Joyce, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q. C., and T. C. Jarvis, for the widow.

H. Lacy Fraser, for the residuary legatees.

Fry, J., who had reserved his judgment on the ground that the authorities were conflicting, now said that he was prepared to follow Veal v. Veal (27 Beav. 308), and to hold that there had been a valid donatio mortis causâ.

and settlement of the late Lachlan M'Neill Campbell did or did not convey his estates of Kintarbert and Crossaig.

General Robert Campbell died possessed of these estates in 1837, and by his general disposition and settlement he conveyed his whole heritable and moveable estates to his nephew Lachlan M'Neill, and the heirs male of his body, whom failing to a series of heirs in succession. There were no prohibitory clauses. Lachlan M'Neill in terms of this deed assumed the name of Campbell, and made up a title as disponee. It is not disputed that he had complete power to dispose of these estates by testamentary disposition. He died in 1852, without issue, leaving a general disposition and settlement dated 1838, by which he conveyed his whole estate to his brother Dugald M'Neill (who was also heir of provision under General Campbell's settlement), whom failing to his sister Miss Isabella M'Neill (now Miss M'Neill Campbell), the respondent. Lachlan M'Neill Campbell possessed other estates not derived from General Campbell. Dugald M'Neill died intestate and without issue in 1874.

This action was then raised by the respondent for declarator that she was entitled to the estates of Kintarbert and Crossaig, under Lachlan M'Neill Campbell's general disposition, contending that it evacuated the destination contained in General Campbell's settlement. The action was directed against the appellant, who claimed to be heir of provision under General Campbell's settlement. He maintained that Lachlan M'Neill Campbell's general disposition was not intended to convey and did not convey the estates of Kintarbert and Crossaig to the respondent.

The Court of Session, 11th of December, 1878, adhering to the interlocutor pronounced by the Lord Ordinary (Lord Rutherford Clark), held, in accordance with Thoms v. Thoms (Ct. Sess. Cas. 3rd Series, vol. vi., p. 704), decided by a majority of thirteen judges—that in the absence of any indication of intention the general conveyance included the lands specially destined, as well as the other lands belonging to the grantor, and that the special destination had been evacuated.

On appeal, Mr. Horace Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Darling (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the appellant.

The Lord Advocate (Right Hon. J. McLaren), and Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., were heard for the respondent.

THE LORDS affirmed the decision of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

PEARKS v. MOSELY. July 8.
Will—Remoteness.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had declared that the following disposition in a will of one Joseph Mosely, made in 1831, was void for remoteness, and the questions were, whether it was void for that cause, and if void as to part, whether, the gift being to classes, the whole was void. The will bequeathed all the personal estate of the testator to trustees upon trust to convert the same into money, and to hold the produce upon trust, as to the sum of 3000*l.*, part thereof, to pay the income to his son W. Mosely for life, and, from his decease, the said sum of 3000*l.* was to be upon the like trusts for his children and issue as were declared as to the fund for the benefit of the children of the testator's daughter Mary. The trusts thus referred to were in these words, "And from the decease of my said daughter, my will is that the said sum of 3000*l.*, the securities and produce thereof, shall be in trust for all the children of my said daughter who shall attain the age of 21 years, and the lawful issue of such of them as shall die under that age leaving lawful issue at his, her, or their decease, or respective deceases, which issue shall afterwards attain the age of 21 years, or die under that age leaving issue living at his,

Right to levy Dues on Timber—Amendment of Record.

This was an appeal from the First Division of the Court of Session (16 Scot. Law Rep. 41; Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. vi., p. 756). The case having been called on, counsel for the appellants stated that their clients had made an erroneous admission in their record in the Court below and in the printed papers in this House, to the effect that before 1858 the appellants had no power to levy dues or rates on timber; whereas they had since discovered old statutes giving them that power. They therefore asked that the cause might be remitted to the Court of Session to amend the record and receive further evidence adduced by the parties.

Railway—Mines and Minerals—Notice to purchase—Railway Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act (8 & 9 Vict. c. 33), ss. 71, 72.

This was an appeal against a judgment of the Second Division of the Court of Session. The appellants are the owners of the limestone rock lying under and adjacent to the Beith Branch Railway, of which the respondents are joint owners. On the 8th of July, 1878, the appellants gave notice to the respondents in terms of the 70th and eighth subsequent sections of 8 & 9 Vict. c. 33, that they intended to work the "mines and minerals, including limestone," lying under the railway. The 72nd section of the Act provides, inter alia, that if before the termination of thirty days from this notice the railway company did not give a counter notice of their desire that the minerals should remain unworked, the mine owner may proceed to work them as he thinks fit." The respondents did not give a counter notice before the expiration of the thirty days, but they subsequently, on the 20th of February, 1879, did give notice to the mine owner desiring that the limestone should remain unworked. The appellants maintained that the respondents had lost their right to give such notice, not having given it within the thirty days, and that nothing in the Act could now stop them working out the limestone. The Second Division, reversing the decision of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Adam) pronounced an interlocutor interdicting the appellants from working the limestone, being of opinion that the 72nd section of the statute was merely to prevent the mine owner from beginning to work within thirty days of his notice; and that the railway companies were not thereby precluded from giving counter notice at any future time if they considered their safety required it; they making compensation to the mine owner for his loss thereby (17 Scot. Law Rep. 102).

On appeal,

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. Chitty, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Mackintosh (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the respondents, but were not called on.

Bankruptcy Petition—Proof of Act of Bankruptcy—Service of Debtor's Summons—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 8, 80—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 38.

This was an appeal from an adjudication of bankruptcy made by Mr. Registrar Pepys, as Chief Judge, against Rogers. The act of bankruptcy relied on was the non-compliance with a debtor's summons which the petitioner had served on Rogers. Rogers had applied to the Court to dismiss the summons, and filed an affidavit in support of his application, in which he stated that the summons had been served on him. The application was dismissed. Rogers gave notice of his intention on the hearing of the petition to dispute the act of bankruptcy, and the petitioning creditor's debt. On the hearing, there was no evidence of the service of the debtor's summons, except the ordinary affidavit of the petitioner, verifying the truth of the statements in the petition, which was made to justify the sealing of the petition. No notice had been given to read the evidence which had been filed upon the application to dismiss the summons.

A. Beddall, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and J. Linklater, for the petitioning creditor.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) said that the objection was a purely technical one. But the respondent to a bankruptcy petition had a strict right under the rules to have the act of bankruptcy proved upon the hearing. The proceedings on the debtor's summons were an entirely distinct matter, and the evidence upon them was not evidence upon the petition.

unless notice had been given to read it. The order of adjudication must be discharged, and the case must go back to the registrar, to take further evidence as to the service of the debtor's summons. The costs of the appeal would be dealt with by the registrar.

Charity—Mortmain—Bequest of Share of Partnership—Assets partly consisting of Land.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins. The question arose upon the will of Mr. John Dawson, a cotton manufacturer, late of Mount Pleasant, Bacup, Lancashire, by which he directed his trustees to sell his share of the partnership business carried on under the name of Dawson & Howarth, together with the mills, steam-engines, machinery, stock-in-trade, and effects, with a declaration that all the trust moneys, stocks, funds, and securities received under his will should form an aggregate fund and be held upon trust, after paying his debts and legacies, to lay out and expend certain amount in manner therein mentioned, and to pay and divide the residue of the money in the hands of the trustees equally between the Wesleyan Missionary Society, the Worn-out and Decayed Wesleyan Ministers' Fund, and the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Part of the partnership assets consisted of two cotton mills, one of which was on copyhold and the other on leasehold land. The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the proceeds of the sale of this part of the property wore an interest in land within the meaning of the Statute of Mortmain, and could not be applied for the charitable purposes mentioned in his will. The Wesleyan Missionary Society and the Wesleyan Ministers' Fund, appealed from this decision.

Higgins, Q.C., and Bunting, for the appellants.
Pearson, Q.C., Glasse, Q.C., Kekewich, Q.C., Northmore Lawrence, Melbold, Ingle Joyce, Byrne, and Rigby, for the respondents.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor, being of opinion that, although shares in a joint-stock company, limited or unlimited, were exempt from the operation of the Statute of Mortmain and passed as pure personal estate, inasmuch as holding shares in a company gave the holder no direct interest in the land or buildings which might be held by the company for the purposes of its trade or business, the case of a share in a private partnership owning land was very different. Each partner had an immediate and direct charge or incumbrance upon the land which formed part of the partnership property, and upon the death of one of the partners his interest could not, or at least might not, be ascertained without dealing with or selling the land on which for the purpose of raising his share his representatives held an immediate and direct incumbrance.

ANDREWS v. ANDREWS.
Infant—Exercise of Power of Appointment—Power unconnected with Interest—Personal Estate—Voluntary Settlement.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1879, p. 173).

By the settlement which was executed in 1874, upon the marriage of Miss D'Angibau (then an infant of 19 years) with Mr. Perryman, certain personal property in which, by her father's will, she acquired a reversionary interest upon her marriage, was assigned to trustees with an ultimate trust for such person or persons as she should by deed or will appoint. In March, 1875, Mrs. Perryman, being still a minor, made an appointment of the trust funds in favour of her husband. In September, 1876, she died, without having attained 21, and without issue. Her husband became bankrupt, and the plaintiff, who was the trustee in bankruptcy of Mr. Perryman, and also the legal personal representative of Mrs. Perryman, claimed in this action to be entitled to the appointed fund. The defendants, the next of kin of Mrs. Perryman, demurred, disputing the appointment on the ground that, being a minor, Mrs. Perryman had no power to make any appointment under her marriage settlement, and consequently, that the appointment of March, 1874, was invalid. The Master of the Rolls overruled the demurrer, being of opinion that the appointment was valid, on the grounds, first, that the power, being a power over property in which Mrs. Perryman had an interest, but which interest could not be affected by the exercise of the power, was exercisable during infancy; and secondly, that the settlement shewed an intention that the power should be exercisable during infancy. From this decision the defendants, the next of kin, appealed.

Ince, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, in support of the appeal, relied upon the same grounds as in the Court below; and also contended that the husband having survived his wife, and being her legal personal representative, had a legal title to the fund, and that the Court would not interfere with that title on behalf of the wife's next of kin.

Chitty, Q.C., and Philpotts, for the plaintiff.

COTTON, L.J., said that he was unable to concur in the view of the Master of the Rolls, that a power in gross might be validly exercised during infancy. There was no authority that a power, the exercise of which could affect the interest of the infant, or one in gross, could be exercised by an infant, except when infancy would not, if there was no power, prevent him from disposing of the property. In the absence of authority he thought that on principle an infant could not exercise a power like the present, which, in his opinion, was in the nature of property—that is to say, the trusts of the settlement, independently of the trusts for the children and husband, were intended to put the wife as nearly as possible in the same position, as regarded the enjoyment of and power over the property settled, as if she were a feme sole. To hold that an infant could exercise such a power would be to allow an infant to bind the property, which the law on general principles of public policy said she cannot do. The case might be different if there were an indication of intention on the part of the donor of the power that it might be exercised notwithstanding the infancy of the donee. But he could not see any such intention in the present case. But there was another point which the plaintiff had raised in this Court, on which he was of opinion he must succeed: namely, that as the fund in question had never come to the hands of the trustees of the settlement, the plaintiff as legal personal representative of Mrs. Perryman had a legal title to the fund, and that the Court would not at the instance of the demurring defendants enforce the contract by the husband to make a settlement against the legal title of the plaintiff. As, therefore, the demurring defendants could not interfere with or control the legal title of the plaintiff, the demurrer must be overruled, and the appeal dismissed with costs.

BRETT, L.J., said that on the second point, which was sufficient to determine the result of the appeal, he agreed with Lord Justice Cotton. But on the first point, though with great diffidence, he had, after giving much consideration to the case, come to a contrary opinion from that of the Lord Justice. The power given in this case was a pure mandate—that is to say, a power which did not deal with any property or interest of the infant, but with that which was property or interest of the settlor. Even if the power had dwelt with any interest of the infant, one would have thought that the proper inference would have been that it was the intention of the testator that the power should be exercised during infancy. In such a case the period at which it took effect was from the time when the power was delegated by the testator or settlor, and not from the time of execution of the mandate by the infant. Then it was said that, inasmuch as the exercise of this power had been delegated by a person having full authority over the particular property to an infant, it was intended that its exercise should be suspended until the infant was of full age. But this was a most artificial doctrine. If the power had been a power over real estate, then the Court would have been bound by authority, which they were not at liberty to disregard, to hold that the power could not be exercised during infancy, but he was not disposed to extend that doctrine.

The doctrine was, in truth, founded on one of those artificial rules which had done more than anything else to bring the law into popular discredit and disgrace. If the power was to be exercised by will only, then the Court would have been bound by the provisions of the Wills Act (1 Vict. c. 26). But it was a power to be exercised by deed or will over personal estate, and unless there was some principle which compelled them to extend this artificial doctrine to personal estate the Court was not, in his opinion, bound to carry it one step further than they were absolutely compelled by authority or by statute.

JAMES, L.J., expressed his opinion to the same effect.

From Ch. Div. TAMPLIN v. JAMES July 13.

Specific Performance—Mistake—Damages.

This was an appeal from a decision of Baggallay, L.J., sitting for Vice-Chancellor Malins, in a vendor's action for specific performance. Certain property was put up for sale by auction, and lot 1 was described as "All that inn with the brew-house, outbuildings, and premises known as 'The Ship,' together with the message, saddler's shop, and premises adjoining thereto, situated at Newerne, Nos. 454 and 455 on the tithe map, and containing by admeasurement 20P., now in the occupation of Mrs. Knowles and Mr. Samuel Merrick." In the sale room was a plan, and the premises were edged round with green upon it. At the back of the property were two pieces of garden-ground marked on the plan as belonging to the Severn and Wye Railway Company, which, at the back of the inn, were not separated from the premises by any fence. Lot 1 was withdrawn from the sale, but immediately after the end of the sale the defendant, who had been present throughout, made an offer for it, which was accepted, and a contract signed. The garden-ground was in the occupation of the tenants of the inn and shop. The defendant deposed that he knew the property, considered it to include all the property in the occupation of the tenants, and never looked at the plan, and that he bought under the belief that the garden-ground was included, and he resisted specific performance on the ground of mistake. Baggallay, L.J., held that the defendant had no reasonable ground for belief that the garden-ground was included in the purchase and ordered specific performance. The defendant appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the appellant, contended that the defendant was entitled to be relieved on the ground of mistake, and that the action ought to be dismissed.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, contra, were not called upon.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.), dismissed the appeal, stating at the same time that if specific performance had been refused the Court would have proceeded to assess damages, the case being one where before the Judicature Act the bill if dismissed at all would have been dismissed without prejudice to an action.

Contingent Remainder—Remoteness—25 Years—Name and Arms—Possession.

Robert Finch by his will devised his freehold estates to trustees during the life of one Henry Mayer, and after his decease on trust to convey the same to such son of W. Macdonald as should first attain the age of 25 years, with a condition in case such son should neglect or refuse to take the name and arms of Finch then his estate and interest should be void. The testator died in 1840, Douglas Macdonald, a son of W. Macdonald, attained the age of 25 years, and died in the lifetime of Mayer, who died in 1877.

Two questions on this will were now argued. First, whether the gift to the son of W. Macdonald was void for remoteness; secondly, whether it went over because he did not on attaining the age of 25 years take the name and arms of Finch.

HIS LORDSHIP was of opinion that as Douglas Macdonald attained the age of 25 years in the life of Mayer, he then took vested estate, and that the gift was not void for remoteness.

On the second question, he held that the testator did not intend the son of W. Macdonald to take the name and arms of Finch until the estate fell into possession.

Vendors and Purchasers Act—Power of Sale with Consent—Tenant in Tail under Age.

Summons under Vendors and Purchasers Act, 1874. Sir Thomas Neave by his will, dated in June, 1842, devised all his real estate to trustees upon trust for his eldest son Richard D. Neave for life, and after his decease for the testator's grandson, Arundel Neave, for life, and after his decease in trust for the first son of Arundel Neave, for an estate in tail male. And it was provided that it should be lawful for the trustees, with the consent of the person for the time being entitled as beneficial tenant for life in possession, to sell a portion of his said hereditaments, and to enfranchise copyholds, and after directing that the money received from such sale or enfranchisement should be applied in the first place in discharging incumbrances, and then in the purchase of lands, there followed a clause directing that no such purchase or investment should be made while there should be any person entitled as beneficial tenant for life or in tail in possession, and of the age of 21 years without the previous consent of such person.

The testator died in April, 1848, the first and second tenants for life were both dead, and the tenant in tail was an infant of 7 years old. A question was now raised whether, as the tenant in tail was an infant and incapable of giving consent to a sale, the trustees had power to sell without any consent.

Sturges, for the trustees of the will.

J. T. Humphry, for a purchaser, who was willing to purchase if the Court was of opinion that a good title could be made.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the case was reasonably free from doubt, and that there now being a tenant in tail in possession who was under age and incapable of giving his consent, the trustees were at liberty to sell without consent, and could make a good title either upon the sale or enfranchisement of the property.

WATNE'S MERTHYR COMPANY v. POWELL'S DYFFRYN STEAM COAL COMPANY.

Mining Leases—Adjacent Farms—Boundaries by Stones—Production of Documents—Inspection of Lease for Parcels and Plans.

This was an action to restrain the defendants &c., from getting any coals or other materials in the mines under a farm comprised in a lease dated the 5th of December, 1845, and granted by the Marquis of Bute to four persons, named, now represented by the plaintiffs, the company, and two trustees. The above farm was bounded by another farm, the property of Mrs. Gwynne Holford. Both were mountain farms, consisting partly of inclosed, and partly of uninclosed lands. The boundary between the latter portions of the farms was indicated by boundary stones. The complaint of the plaintiffs was that in the course of their workings they discovered that the defendant company had extended their workings beyond their boundary into the coal under the plaintiffs' farm.

The plaintiffs had endeavoured to obtain production of the defendant company's lease, so that they might discover what the parcels were and see the plans therein, but the applications were resisted on the ground that the action was one in respect of trespass, which the defendants denied, but which if established there would be accounts and inquiries as to the coal alleged to have been gotten by the defendants under the plaintiffs' land.

This was an adjourned summons asking that the defendant company might be ordered to produce to the plaintiffs, their solicitors, or agents, their lease of the farm, and which was claimed to be privileged from production.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Macnughten, Q.C., for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and Caldecott, for the defendant company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs were entitled to production and inspection of the lease so far as the parcels, whether in the recitals or the operative part, and the plans were concerned, but the other parts of the lease would be sealed up.

V.-C. H. CLARIDGE v. ARNOLD. June 28.

Will—Devise to two Daughters—No Words of Inheritance—One Daughter dying, leaving no Children, Income to Survivor—Children to have Mother's Moiety for their Lives—Life Estate to Wife, Remainder to Heir-at-Law.

W. M., who died in February, 1805, by his will made in May, 1802, said, "I give, bequeath, and devise all that freehold premises now in my possession, as left to me by my late father, in 12 Bell Court," and let on lease to H. at 60l. a year, "to Mr. E. J. Pinegar, in trust for my two daughters, F. M. and H. E. Malpas, for their sole use and benefit, share and share alike, and of their and each of their separate uses without the control and wholly independent of any husband hereafter to be had by either of them. Moreover the said estate shall not be liable to pay any debts contracted by such husbands or husband, but is to be paid them clear for their own service only; also their receipts and none else shall be a discharge to the aforesaid trustee, Mr. E. T. Pinegar, for the rent. Furthermore, my will and meaning concerning this aforesaid estate is, that when one of my aforesaid daughters, being only two, shall depart this life, the surviving daughter, provided her sister leaves no children, shall be entitled to the whole income arising from aforesaid estate in 12 Bell Court, under the restrictions regarding a husband as is before explained. I wish to have it understood, if one or both of my said daughters shall leave any children at the time of their or either of their decease, the departed mother's moiety of this estate shall be divided among such child or children during their natural lives, but should it please God that both my daughters aforesaid should depart this life and leave no issue before my aforesaid wife S. Malpas, in that case I give, devise, and bequeath this said estate to her only during her life, and then my will is that the said premises in 12 Bell Court shall belong to my own lawful heir for ever." The testator's widow died in 1825. His elder daughter, F. M., in 1802, married T. B. (who died in 1804), and by him had one daughter, who in 1826 married J. P. Gardner. F. M. afterwards married James Bullas.

The daughter of F. M. died in 1853, three years before her mother, intestate, leaving an only daughter, the defendant, Mrs. Barnes.

The testator's daughter, H. E., in 1806 married W. Young, and by him had a daughter now E. Coleman, and other children. H. E. survived her husband, and died intestate in 1859. The children of H. E. excepting E. Coleman died prior to 1875 intestate.

The testator had besides his two daughters, three sons, and it appeared from the pedigree that the plaintiffs were the descendants of the eldest son, and co-heiresses-at-law of the testator. Upon the death of Mrs. Bullas in 1856, her sister, H. E. Young, entered into the receipt of the whole of the rents of the premises, and continued to receive them till her death in 1859, and upon her death Mrs. Coleman received the same from the lessees, and on her marriage the premises were conveyed to trustees upon certain trusts.

The plaintiffs submitted that according to the true construction of the will Mrs. Bullas was entitled for life only to a moiety of the premises, and that upon her death without leaving a child surviving, Mrs. Young became entitled for life only to that moiety, and that the plaintiffs as co-heirs of the testator were entitled as tenants in common in fee simple in possession to that moiety; and also that they were entitled in fee simple in reversion expectant on the death of Mrs. Coleman to the other moiety, and they asked for a declaration that they were entitled to a moiety, or to have the rights of all parties ascertained.

The defendants, Mrs. Barnes and her husband, contended that Mrs. Bullas, besides being entitled for life to a moiety, was also entitled to the same moiety for an estate in fee simple or fee tail expectant upon contingent life estates limited to her children or child, and to Mrs. Young, and to S. Malpas, and that Mrs. Barnes as heiress of Mrs. Bullas was now entitled in possession to a moiety of the premises.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and H. M. Staden, for the plaintiffs.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Everitt, for the old trustees of Mrs. Barnes' settlement.

Hemming, Q.C., and F. Webb, for the new trustees of the settlement.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for Mr. and Mrs. Barnes.

Caldecott, for the tenants of the premises.

W. Pearson, replied.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held upon the authorities that the two daughters of the testator took estates in fee as tenants in common, subject only to the events, which happened, of the elder daughter not leaving a child at her death, to the younger and surviving daughter taking a life estate in her elder sister's moiety, and to the younger sister's children taking their mother's moiety for their lives. He thought that the estates of the daughters were in fee by reason of the gift over "but should it please God," &c. The conclusion arrived at was fortified by the gift over being (subject only to a life estate to the widow) to the heir-at-law. It followed therefore that the plaintiffs had not any interest in the property, and that would be the judgment of the Court.

WEBSTER v. WHEWALL.

Document of Title—Refusal to produce—Admission as Evidence—Order XXXI. rr. 14—17.

The plaintiff sued in respect of alleged trespass and interference with ancient lights, and in his statement of claim referred to a deed of 16th of August, 1866, as one of the principal title deeds.

The defendant gave notice under Order XXXI. rr. 14, 15, of the Rules of the Supreme Court that he required to inspect the said deed.

The plaintiff declined to produce the deed until after the defendant had put in a statement of defence.

At the hearing the plaintiff tendered the deed in evidence, but the defendant contended that it could not be admitted, because the plaintiffs having complied with the defendant's notice were by the 14th rule expressly prevented from putting the document in evidence, "unless he should satisfy the Court that such document related only to his own defence, he being a defendant" (whereas here he was plaintiff), or that he had some other "sufficient cause for not complying with such notice."

North, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the defendant, took the objection.

Cookson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the plaintiff.

DENMAN, J., said the current of decision was in favour of not allowing a defendant free access to documents or discovery from the plaintiff until he put in a defence, and therefore he thought the plaintiff had shewn sufficient cause for not complying with the notice. Besides, the defendant, had a remedy under the 17th rule if the plaintiff was wrong in his refusal.

Q. B. Div. SAUNDERS, APPELLANT. July 5.

SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY, RESP'TS.

Bye-law, Reasonableness of—Ultra Vires—Railway Company—Refusing to show Ticket.

Case stated by a metropolitan police magistrate.

The appellant was convicted in a sum of 1s. 4d. with 2s. costs, for breach of a bye-law of the respondent company, which was as follows: "No passenger will be allowed to enter any carriage used on the railway, or to travel therein upon the railway, unless furnished by the company with a ticket specifying the class of carriage and the stations for conveyance between which such ticket is issued. Every passenger shall show and deliver up his ticket (whether a contract, or season ticket, or otherwise), to any duly authorized servant of the company whenever required to do so for any purpose. Any passenger travelling without a ticket, or failing or refusing to show or deliver up his ticket as aforesaid shall be required to pay the fare from the station whence the train originally started to the end of his journey." The appellant was the holder of a joint season ticket from the London and South Western Railway Company and the respondent company, which entitled him to travel over the lines of both companies from Charing Cross or Cannon Street to Windsor and back. The junction between the two lines is at Waterloo Junction Station. On the occasion in question the appellant having got out of the respondents' train at Waterloo Junction Station of the respondent company, was about to pass through a barrier out of their station, and thence proceed to the South Western Station. On being asked by the respondent's ticket collector at the barrier to show his ticket he refused to do so.

It was found that the appellant had no intention of defrauding and did not defraud the respondent company.

The magistrate convicted the appellant in the amount of the fare from the station from which the train had started to Waterloo Junction station.

Tindal Atkinson, for the appellant, contended that the bye-law was unreasonable and void, and that the conviction could not be sustained.

Cohen, Q.C., Warr, and Bremner, for the respondents.

July 5. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Lush, J.) quashed the conviction. Cockburn, C.J., was of opinion, assuming that it was competent to the company to make such a bye-law under the 108th section of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, which he doubted, first, that it was not competent to the company by their bye-law to make the refusal to produce the ticket an offence in the absence of a fraudulent intention; secondly, that even if it were not so this bye-law was void for unreasonableness inasmuch as the penalties thereunder for offences of equal criminality would vary with the distance from which the train might originally have started; thirdly, that the bye-law was inapplicable to the circumstances of the case, the power to make bye-laws being confined to the case of persons travelling on the railway, which the appellant was not at the time of being required to produce his ticket. Lush, J. also thought the penal clause of the bye-law void, on the ground of the variableness of the penalty and also that the bye-law was bad, because it required the ticket not only to be shewn, but to be delivered up whenever demanded.

Conviction quashed.

R. M., in right of the lease of the house held under the Dean. The lease was sold to J., who surrendered it and took a new lease. Neither this lease nor any other (of which there had been several) included the particular piece of land allotted by the Commissioners, which was the subject of contest in this action. The Dean was alive at the passing of the 3 & 4 Vict. c. 113, but died in 1854, not having done anything to enforce his title to the allotted piece of land. The house and the lands annexed to the deanery passed on his death to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who in 1859 purchased the then subsisting lease of the house. They obtained possession of the house but not of the particular piece of allotted land. In 1877 they brought this action to recover it. The defendant's possession of this piece of land had existed for above twenty but not for sixty years. It was held (4 Q. B. D. 63) that notwithstanding 3 & 4 Vict. c. 113, ss. 50-57 and 75, the title of the plaintiffs was barred by lapse of twenty years and that they could not avail themselves of the 29th section of the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27. ELLIS LEVER AND OTHERS v. DUNKIRK COLLIERY COMPANY.
Contract for Sale of Cannel Coal.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had affirmed an order of the Master of the Rolls in an action brought by the Dunkirk Company against Lever and others to compel specific performance of a contract and for damages for breach of it. The contract related to the supply of cannel coal. The case had been referred to arbitration, and an objection was taken to the amount of damages given. By the order of the Master of the Rolls the amount was to be increased to a certain specified sum. This order was discharged by the Court of Appeal under the Order xxxvi., r. 34. The Court of Appeal had been of opinion that the Order and rule as they then stood did not give the Court authority to change the finding of the referee. The case, however, had gone back to the referee with directions to increase the amount. The original amount was increased by him though not to the amount indicated. But in the meantime, before the case was again heard in Court, an alteration had been made in Order xxxvi., rule 34, which conferred on the Court the jurisdiction which the Court of Appeal had thought that, up to that time, it did not possess, and the Master of the Rolls then confirmed the previous judgment, and his decision was affirmed on appeal. This appeal was then brought.

In re FOX, WALKER, & Co.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Interest—Payment of Debt by Surety.

In this case (noted ante, p. 118) the Court decided that Sanderson & Co., who had discounted bills of exchange drawn by Fothergill & Hankey upon and accepted by Fox, Walker, & Co., and had re-discounted them with their bankers, and who had, instead of indorsing the bills, given to the bankers a general guarantie of all bills which the bankers should discount for them, were entitled to prove in the liquidation of Fox, Walker, & Co. for the amount which they had under their guarantie paid to the bankers in respect of the bills. But their Lordships reserved their judgment on the question whether Sanderson & Co. were entitled to prove for interest on the sum which they had paid, from the time of payment up to the commencement of the liquidation.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J.) now gave judgment, allowing the proof for interest, on the authority of Petre v. Duncombe (2 L. M. & P. 107), Hitchman v. Stewart (3 Drew. 271), and In re Swan's Estate (4 Ir. Rep. Eq. 209). The principle was that the person with whom a contract of indemnity, express or implied, was entered into, ought to be placed in the same position as if the act which he had done, and against which he was to be indemnified, had been done by the person who ought to have done it.

In re HART.

Liquidation Petition—Mortgagee in Possession—Injunction—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 12, 13—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 260.

Before the filing of a liquidation petition by Hart, a trader, Bayley, to whom he had given a bill of sale of stock in trade and other effects, to secure an advance, seized the property comprised in the deed. Immediately after the filing of the petition a receiver was appointed, and Mr. Registrar Broughan, acting as Chief Judge, granted an injunction restraining Bayley, till after the first meeting of the creditors, from further proceeding against the debtor under the seizure which he had made. Bayley appealed. There was no evidence that the bill of sale was in any way invalid, but it was suggested at the Bar that when a trustee was appointed he might be able to make out a case for impeaching the deed.

Winstow, Q.C., and Frank Evans, for the appellant.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and J. Linklater, for the debtor and the receiver.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.), said that it was unnecessary to decide the question of jurisdiction, for the Court could not interfere with a mortgagee's legal rights in the absence of any evidence, on a mere suggestion that it was possible the trustee might be able to impeach the mortgage deed. The injunction had been granted improvidently, and it must be discharged with costs.

Lunatic—Inspection of Documents by Persons claiming under him.

G. E. Smyth was found a lunatic in 1834, and certain affidavits, deeds and documents relating to his estate were deposited with the Master in Lunacy. He died in 1878 intestate as to his real estate, and an action was commenced between two persons, each of whom claimed to be his heir-at-law. The plaintiff now presented a petition asking for permission to inspect and take copies of the documents, and to have them produced at the trial of the action.

Yate Lee, for the petitioner, referred to In re Wood (4 D. J. & S. 134; 33 L. J. (Ch.) 384).

COTTON, L.J., said that it appeared from the report in 4 D. J. & S., which differed in that respect from the report in the Law Journal, that the Court would not allow any one to inspect the documents without shewing a prima facie title to the lunatic's property. An affidavit must therefore be filed verifying the plaintiff's claim in the action. The petition must stand over for this purpose.

This having been done, the Court made the order asked for.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Brett, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that, assuming the right to be one which apart from the Bankruptcy Act, could not be assigned, still under s. 17, it vested in the trustee, and that whatever was vested in him he was entitled to sell under s. 25, and that the assignee could under s. 111 bring an action for it in his own name.

Executors—No Next of Kin—Beneficial Interest.

Cecilia Knowles, by her will, dated in May, 1878, directed that her debts and funeral expenses should be paid by her executors, and she appointed her friend and medical adviser, the plaintiff, Edward Roose, and her friend the defendant John Chalk, solicitor, executors of her will, and she bequeathed certain legacies, including 1000*l.* to Edward Roose, 100*l.* to each of the children of E. Roose, 100*l.* to J. Chalk, and several other legacies to friends and to charities. The testatrix died possessed of considerable personal property, and her debts and legacies had been paid. It was believed the testatrix was illegitimate, and no next of kin could be found.

This was an action to administer the estate, and a question was now raised on demurrer whether the executors were entitled beneficially to the residue of the personal estate after payment of debts and legacies, or whether in default of next of kin the Crown was entitled to the property.

Glasse, Q.C., and Davenport, for the plaintiff. J. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Beaumont, for the defendant. Rigby, for the Crown.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that under the 2nd section of the Act of 11 Geo. 4 & 1 Will. 4, c. 40, the executors were entitled when there were no next of kin to the same rights they would have had before the passing of that Act; and that they were now beneficially entitled to all the residue of the personal property of the testatrix, subject to the payment of debts and legacies.

Eddis, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiff.

C. Griffith Smith, for the executors, submitted that as the period of time was not limited, the executors were entitled to a perpetual annuity.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the annuity was to continue so long only as the executors would have duties to perform, having regard to the provisions of the will; and he directed that the annuity should be paid to them until further order.

Mortgage of Freeholds—Contemporaneous Security for Mortgage Debt—Mortgage of Leaseholds—"Collateral" Security—Incidence of Mortgage Debt.

Action by heir-at-law to administer estate of an intestate. The intestate being possessed of freeholds valued at 6700*l.*, and of certain leaseholds, applied to trustees, empowered to lend on freehold securities only, for an advance of 4900*l.* on mortgage of the freeholds. The trustees considering the freeholds not quite a sufficient security agreed to make an advance upon having the leaseholds as an additional security. Two mortgages bearing even date were accordingly executed. The first a mortgage in fee of the freeholds to secure 4900*l.*, which recited that the trustees had agreed to advance 4900*l.* upon having the repayment thereof secured in manner therein after appearing, "and by a collateral security or indenture bearing even date with these presents, whereby it is intended that the mortgagor shall demise certain leasehold hereditaments," &c. The second a mortgage of leaseholds by demise to secure 4900*l.* which recited the first deed, and that "upon the treaty for the said advance it was agreed that the same principal and interest should be further secured by these presents," and in which the consideration was expressed to be "the sum of 4900*l.* advanced," &c. "and which sum is so secured by indenture of even date herewith as aforesaid."

The question now was whether the mortgage debt was payable primarily out of the freeholds, or rateably out of the freeholds and leaseholds in proportion to their respective values.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Ward, for the plaintiff:—The mortgage debt is payable rateably: Early v. Early (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 204).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after distinguishing Bute v. Cunnyngham, and remarking on the absence from the deeds of any express provision that the freeholds were to be the primary security, held that the mortgage debt must be borne rateably by the freeholds and leaseholds in proportion to their respective values.

Marriage Settlement—Rectification—Uncorroborated Evidence of Interested Person—Parties—Costs.

This action was brought by a widow, claiming rectification of a settlement of her property made on her marriage with her deceased husband. At the time of the marriage she was the widow of a former husband. The settlement was prepared by the second husband himself, who was then a retired solicitor, and who had acted as the wife's solicitor, the night before the marriage, and was executed on the morning of the marriage. The wife said that it was not explained to her, and that she did not understand its provisions until after the husband's death, and that it did not carry out the intentions which she had expressed to the husband. The trusts of the settlement were, to pay the income to the wife during her life for her separate use, and after her death to pay the income to the husband for his life. After the death of the wife a moiety of the capital was to be paid to the husband, his executors, administrators or assigns absolutely, and the other moiety was to be held upon such trusts as the wife should by deed or will appoint. By another deed executed at the same time, the husband appointed to the wife a yearly rent-charge of 100*l.* during her life, arising out of land of which he was tenant for life, with remainder to his issue in tail male. There was no issue of the marriage, and the husband died before the wife. The plaintiff claimed to have the trust of a moiety of the capital for the husband omitted. The defendants were the trustees of the settlement, and one of the next of kin of the husband. The plaintiff was administratrix of her husband.

North, Q.C., and W. S. Owen, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and Begg, for the trustees.

Crossley, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the next of kin.

DENMAN, J., held that, having regard to the fiduciary nature of the relation between the parties, to the fact that the settlement itself shewed on the face of it that it had been very hastily prepared, and to the probabilities of the case, he was justified in acting on the uncorroborated evidence of the wife, though she was an interested person. His Lordship accordingly directed the settlement to be rectified by omitting the trust of a moiety of the capital for the husband. But his Lordship ordered the drawing up of the judgment to be suspended for fourteen days, and notice of it to be served on the other next of kin, so that they might have an opportunity of contesting the judgment if they wished to do so. The costs of all parties to be paid out of the trust fund.

GREEN AND OTHERS, PETS.; HALL, RESP'T.

Parliamentary Election Petition—Time for Delivery of Particulars of Persons bribed, &c.—Rules of Mich. 1872, rr. 6 and 44.

In this case the petition charged bribery, treating, undue influence, personation, and votes by paid agents; but the seat was not claimed.

A judge at chambers having made an order for the delivery of the names of the persons alleged to have been bribed, treated, &c., seven days before the day appointed for the trial of the petition, the order was appealed against, on the ground that the period limited was too short to enable the respondent to prepare his evidence in answer to the charges made against him.

Stone, for the respondent, submitted that the time named was too short and mentioned several cases where judges had allowed ten days, and in one instance, the Boston Petition, fourteen days.

Burnes, contra. The number of days originally limited was three, in accordance with the practice of Election Committees (see Salford Election Petition, 19 Law Times, 600); this was in 1874 increased to five days; and since that period, except under special circumstances, the usual time limited has been seven days.

PER CURIAM (Denman and Lopes, JJ.). The prevailing practice of late has been to order the particulars to be delivered seven days before the day of trial. Without saying what may be done where special circumstances are shewn, we think seven days is ample time for the respondent to get up his evidence in answer.

Appeal dismissed: costs in the petition.

July 22.

THE COUNCIL OF THE PHARMACEUTICAL SOCIETY AND THOMAS BREMBRIDGE v. THE DIRECTORS, ETC., OF THE LONDON AND PROVINCIAL SUPPLY ASSOCIATION (LIMITED).

Pharmaceutical Act—“Person”—“Corporation.”

Appeal against a judgment of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench Division (4 Q. B. D. 313; 5 Q. B. D. 310). The questions in this case were—whether a “corporation” was included within the word “person,” as used in the Pharmacy Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 121), and whether a sale of poisons actually made by persons properly qualified and certificated, being the servants of the corporation, did or did not exempt from the penalties of the statute the directors and managers of the corporators which employed them, and who, themselves, were not qualified or certificated persons.

The 15th sect. of the statute declared that “any person who shall sell, or keep an open shop for the retailing, dispensing, or compounding poisons not being a duly registered pharmaceutical chemist, &c.,” should be liable to a penalty. The directors of the Supply Association were not pharmaceutical chemists, but the person they employed (and who was himself a shareholder in the association), in this particular department of their association was so. An action was, on behalf of the Pharmaceutical Association, brought for penalties against the directors, and was heard before Mr. George Lake Russell at the Bloomsbury County Court. The learned Judge found in favour of the defendants. His decision was taken by appeal to the Queen's Bench Division, where it was reversed by Chief Justice Cockburn and Mr. Justice Mellor. This decision was, on appeal, reversed by Lords Justices James, Baggallay, and Bramwell. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Lumley Smith, Q.C., appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Wills, Q.C., and Mr. Finlay, were for the respondents.

THE LORDS affirmed the judgment of the Appeal Court, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

THE STOOMVART MAATSCHAPPY COMPANY v. July 23.
THE PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

Ship—Marine Regulations.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had varied a previous decision of the Admiralty Court. The “Voorwarts” was a steamship belonging to the appellant company, the “Khedive,” a steamship of larger dimensions, belonging to the respondent company. The two vessels were in the neighbourhood of Penang, when a collision took place. The Dutch company brought an action against the English company, and the defence set up was that the collision resulted entirely from the fault of the Voorwarts, which had needlessly and improperly ported its helm, whereas if it had regularly continued its previous course both vessels would have passed each other in safety starboard to starboard. The Voorwarts' case was that the Khedive had committed the error that was the direct occasion of the collision, which might have been avoided altogether if the commander of the Khedive, when danger threatened, had, as the navigation rules required, reversed his engines at full speed, instead of merely, in the first instance, directing the engineers to stand by the engines, by which time was lost, and his subsequent order to reverse at full speed came too late. The Court of Admiralty had decided that there was error on both sides, and so had divided damages and costs. The Court of Appeal had varied that decision, being of opinion that though the master of the Khedive had committed an error, it was occasioned by the conduct of the Voorwarts, and was excusable under the circumstances existing at the time. This was an appeal from that decision.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Mr. Milward, Q.C., Mr. B. E. Webster, Q.C., and Dr. Phillimore, for the appellant company.

Mr. Butt, Q.C., Mr. Watkin Williams, Q.C., and Mr. Clarkson, for the respondent company.

LORD BLACKBURN moved the judgment of the House, and, though adopting the view that the original cause of the mischief had been the erroneous change of course by the Voorwarts, declared that the Khedive ought to have literally followed the Marine Regulations, and ought to have stopped and reversed its engines at once, and as it had not done so, in such a time and manner as to comply with those regulations, it must be treated as a defaulter and made to bear part of the loss. For this reason, though he was sorry for it under the circumstances here, the judgment of the Court of Appeal must be reversed, and that of the Court of Admiralty restored.

MAYOR, &C., OF ACCRINGTON v. NUTTER. July 23.
Road or Street—Public Health Act, 1848.

Appeal against a judgment of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a decision of the Queen's Bench Division.

The respondent, an inhabitant of Accrington, had brought an action for injury to certain houses in one of the roads there occasioned by the raising of the road, and the question raised was whether the appellants were liable to make good the alleged damage, or were protected under the words of the Public Health Act, 1848, and this depended much upon the question whether the road in question was a "street" within the meaning of the Act. The Queen's Bench Division had held that they were protected, and so refused to give effect to the award which had been made in the plaintiff's favour. The Court of Appeal reversed that decision (4 Q. B. D. 375); hence this appeal.

Mr. C. Russell, Q.C., and Mr. Charles Crompton, were for the appellants.

Mr. Gully, Q.C., and Mr. Jordan, for the respondent.

Appeal—Trial by Judge without a Jury—Rule Nisi for New Trial—Rules of Supreme Court, Order xxxix., r. 1.

This action was tried without a jury by Stephen, J., who ordered judgment to be entered up for the defendant. The plaintiff gave notice of appeal, which was accepted by the officer of the Court, and the appeal was entered. Afterwards the officer informed the plaintiff's solicitor that the notice of appeal had been received by mistake, and that the proper course would have been to apply for a rule nisi for a new trial.

Yelverton, for the plaintiff, mentioned the case to the Court of Appeal.

Lease of Bankrupt—Equitable Mortgage—Assignment by Trustee—Right of Trustee to Indemnity—Disclaimer—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23.

The liquidating debtor, Müller, had deposited the lease of his shop with Buxton, to secure an advance made by him. The trustee in the liquidation applied to the Court for leave to disclaim the lease. The lessor and Buxton were served with notice of the application. Buxton wished to have the lease assigned to him, and the trustee was willing to assign it, upon being indemnified by Buxton against liability. Buxton objected to give the indemnity. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, gave the trustee leave to disclaim. Buxton appealed. Pending the appeal, the Court of Appeal granted an injunction to restrain the trustee from executing a disclaimer.

Adjudication of Bankruptcy—Application to annul—Parties to be served—Appeal—Time—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII., rr. 9, 15.

This was an appeal by Ward from the refusal of Mr. Registrar Pepsy, acting as chief judge, to annul an adjudication of bank-ruptey which had been made against him. Notice of the appeal was served only on the petitioning creditor. When the appeal first came before the Court, the counsel for the petitioning creditor objected that the trustee ought to have been served.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the trustee ought to have been served, and ordered the hearing of the appeal to stand over for a week.

The trustee was then served.

Winslow, Q.C., and H. Reed, for the appellant.

S. Woolf, for the petitioning creditor.

E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, objected that the notice had not been served on him until more than twenty-one days after the refusal of the application.

Winslow, Q.C., and H. Reed, for the appellant, urged that service on the petitioning creditor was the essential thing, and asked that if necessary the time for appealing might be extended.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the objection was fatal, and refused to extend the time, and they dismissed the appeal with costs, to the extent of the deposit.

Sir H. Giffard, Q.C., Horton Smith, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the defendants.

On the second point the Court allowed the parties to adduce fresh evidence, and various witnesses were examined in Court.

JAMES, L.J., said that the most important question was the construction of the 19th section of the Extradition Act. The Act was not confined to political offences, but meant that a man who had been brought to this country under the Act should not be tried for any crime against the sovereign or state except that which could be proved by the facts on which the surrender was granted. Neither the words nor the spirit of the Act had any reference to an attachment, which was a mere civil process to enforce obedience to an order of the Court on behalf of a private person, and did not involve any crime against the sovereign. Upon the second point, there were circumstances leading to a suspicion that the extradition order had been obtained for a collusive purpose, in order that he might be attached for contempt in the action. If that had been proved the Court would have felt it their duty to discharge him. But the evidence having been fully gone into, he was of opinion that this charge had been satisfactorily disproved. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ., also gave judgment to the same effect.

From Ch. Div. POOLEY v. WHETHAM. July 23.
Extradition Act, 1870, s. 19—Offence committed before Surrender—Attachment for Contempt of Court—Collusive Proceedings.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon on the 9th of July, refusing a motion on behalf of the plaintiff, A. G. Pooley, to discharge him from prison.

The action was brought against the chairman and secretary of the Metropolitan Exchange Bank, with reference to certain transactions with the Jersey Railway. The defendant put in a counterclaim against the plaintiff, and in the course of the litigation an order was made in the Chancery Division that the plaintiff should give up possession of the Jersey Railway to the receiver of the Court. Pooley refused to obey this order, and on the 3rd of September, 1879, a writ of attachment was issued against him for disobedience of the order.

On the 22nd of October Pooley was adjudicated bankrupt, and shortly afterwards left the country. On the 1st of June, 1880, he was arrested in Paris by a warrant under the Extradition Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 52), granted on the information of Mr. Holt, the trustee in bankruptcy, for certain offences against the bankruptcy law. He was brought over to this country and placed in Newgate, and a detainer was lodged against him under the order of attachment previously issued. Pooley was brought before the sitting magistrate at Guildhall on the charges against the bankruptcy law, and was acquitted, but he was detained in prison under the attachment in the action.

Under these circumstances Pooley applied to the Vice-Chancellor for a discharge, on the ground that his detention was a violation of the 19th section of the Extradition Act, which provides that a surrendered prisoner shall not be triable or tried for any offence committed in this country prior to the surrender until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to the foreign country which surrendered him. The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the disobedience to the order of the Chancery Division was not an offence within the meaning of the statute, and therefore that he was not protected from the attachment. He accordingly refused the application, and from this decision Pooley appealed.

Hemming, Q.C., and Pollard (A. Young with them), for the appellant, contended, first, that the detention of the prisoner was illegal under the 19th section; and, secondly, that the arrest on the charges under the Bankruptcy Act had been got up by the defendants, or in collusion with them, in order to bring Pooley within the jurisdiction, for the purpose of attaching him for contempt of Court; and that this was an abuse of the powers of the Extradition Act.

From Ch. Div. TOTTENHAM LOCAL BOARD OF HEALTH v. ROWELL. July 24.

Local Government Act—Proceedings for Recovery of Rates—Charge on Land—Delay in taking Proceedings—Public Health Act, 1848, s. 69—Local Government Act, 1868, s. 62.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins (ante, p. 11).

The action was brought by the Tottenham Board of Health to enforce a charge upon the property of the defendant for the amount of a rate levied on the inhabitants for work done in providing sewers, &c., in 1865, at which time the board declared them to be private improvement expenses, and levied a rate upon the occupiers by instalments under the 90th section of the Public Health Act, 1848. They afterwards ascertained that the apportionment then made was invalid, and in 1873 they made a new apportionment, and declared a rate on the owners and occupiers for the amount.

The Vice-Chancellor decided that the power to charge the land of a defaulting ratepayer was subsidiary to the summary proceedings specified in the Acts; and that the board not having taken any of these proceedings within six months were precluded from now enforcing the charge on the land. From this decision the plaintiffs appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Ilbert, for the appellants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Manby, for the defendant.

JAMES, L.J., said that the works having been done under the authority of the 69th section of the Public Health Act, 1848, the expenses were made a charge upon the premises by the 62nd section of the Local Government Act, 1868. Nothing that had been done by the board subsequently had removed that charge; and although they might have lost their summary remedy before the magistrates and in the County Court, the charge still remained on the land and could be now enforced. Therefore the judgment of the Vice-Chancellor must be reversed, and it must be declared that the board had a charge on the premises for the amount claimed with interest.

Power—Appointment—Fraud on Power—Covenant to appoint.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. Judah Guedalla by his will gave his residuary personal estate to trustees upon trust as to one third for his son Moses for life, and after his death for his wife for life, and after the death of the survivor upon trust for the children of his son Moses as he should appoint by will, and in default of appointment, between all his children at 21 or marriage in equal shares. He died in 1858.

On the 4th of January, 1873, Moses Guedalla made his will, whereby he appointed 5000*l.*, part of the one third share of his father's residuary estate, to his son Joseph Guedalla absolutely.

On the 19th of February, 1873, Moses Guedalla executed a bond to his son Joseph, the condition of which was that he should appoint or give the sum of 5000*l.* at the least to Joseph Guedalla, either under the will of Judah Guedalla or out of his own property.

On the 13th of April, 1873, Joseph Guedalla mortgaged his interest under his grandfather's will for 600*l.* with a power of sale.

Moses Guedalla died in 1875, but his widow was still living.

By subsequent assignments the reversionary interest came into the hands of the plaintiffs, who sold it by auction to the defendants. Difficulties having arisen as to the title, the plaintiffs brought this action for specific performance of the agreement; and the chief clerk having reported that the plaintiffs could not make a good title, the matter was brought before the Master of the Rolls on a summons to vary the certificate.

The Master of the Rolls decided that the appointment by Moses Guedalla was valid and the title good, feeling himself bound by the authority of Coppin v. Cooper (2 Dr. & Sm. 365), and Bulteel v. Plummer (Law Rep. 6 Ch. 160).

From this decision the defendants appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Armistead, for the appellants.

Chitty, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the plaintiffs.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the order of the Master of the Rolls must be affirmed. He agreed with what was said by Lord Hatherley in Bulteel v. Plummer (Law Rep. 6 Ch. 160), that to hold such an appointment bad would be to strain the doctrine of improper appointments too far. Both on principle and authority the appointment was valid. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

MILEY v. CAPE.

Remoteness—Bankruptcy—Power of Appointment—Default of Appointment—Contingent Interest—Settlement.

Daniel Sprague, by his will, gave his residuary estate amongst his children, but directed that out of it enough to produce 250*l.* a year for each should be reserved, and the 250*l.* paid to each son until such son should become bankrupt or insolvent, whereupon it should go over to such child of the son as the son should appoint, and in default of appointment then to such children as should attain the age of 25 years. By a deed made between the executors and the children of the testator, after reciting that the gift over to the grandchildren was void for remoteness, it was declared that the sums producing the annual sum of 250*l.* should nevertheless go as directed by the will.

One of the sons became bankrupt without having made any appointment to his children. His interest thereupon went over and the following contentions were raised:—(1.) That as the ultimate trust for the grandchildren was void for remoteness, the capital producing the 250*l.* a year, after bankruptcy and in default of appointment, vested in the son as part of his share of the residue, and upon his bankruptcy passed to the trustee of the bankruptcy, and that his power of appointment was gone; (2.) That under the will the capital in default of appointment went to the children; (3.) That the deed was a settlement of the son's contingent interest in the capital upon the trusts declared in the will for the grandchildren, and came into effect upon his bankruptcy.

Higgins, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the trustee in bankruptcy.

HIS LORDSHIP held that the son could not by appointing to his children defeat the right of his trustees; that as there was a gift over there was no implied trust for the children in default of appointment, although the gift over was void; but that under the deed, which was free from the defect of remoteness, the children who attained the age of 25 were entitled to the capital.

PAUL v. PAUL.

July 23.

Marriage Settlement—Ultimate Limitation for Next-of-Kin—Creditors paid out of Corpus.

This was an action to administer the trusts of a settlement made in 1845, on the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Paul; and of a separation deed between the parties dated in March 1864. By the settlement the trust funds which belonged solely to the wife were vested in trustees, who were to pay the dividends to the husband for life, then to the wife for life, and then to the children of the marriage, and in default of children, if Mrs.

Paul should survive her husband, the capital was to go to her absolutely, but if she predeceased her husband then, subject to a general power of appointment by will given to Mrs. Paul, the capital was to go to the next of kin of Mrs. Paul excluding her husband. The father of Mrs. Paul was a party to the settlement, and covenanted to pay his daughter an annuity of 200*l.* The trustees of the settlement subsequently advanced 600*l.* to Mr. Paul out of the trust funds upon an insurance of his life. By the separation deed of 1864, Mr. Paul assigned to the trustees thereof the dividends of all the settled funds upon trust to keep down the premiums upon the policy for 600*l.*, and to pay one moiety of the residue to himself for his life, and the other moiety to Mrs. Paul for her separate use for life. By an order made in this suit in July 1878, the trustees of the settlement were directed to raise 1300*l.* out of the moiety of the trust funds payable to Mrs. Paul, in order to pay off certain debts contracted by Mrs. Paul, upon her insuring her life for that sum against the life of Mr. Paul, and after keeping down the premiums to pay the residue to Mrs. Paul. There had been no children of the marriage, and possibility of issue was extinct.

A motion was now made that the trustees of the settlement might be ordered to surrender the policy for 1300*l.* for the surrender value thereof, and out of that sum and out of the corpus of the moiety of the trust funds standing to the credit of Mrs. Paul, to pay the debts of Mrs. Paul, amounting, according to the chief clerk's finding, to 1145*l.* 15*s.*, and a sum of 300*l.* to Mr. Paul, he consenting to the surrender of the two policies of 600*l.* and 1300*l.*, and to pay the costs of these proceedings.

Glasse, Q.C., and Romer, in support of the motion.

Higgins, Q.C., and Dyson, for the husband, acceded to the motion.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the trustees of the settlement, opposed the motion on the ground that Mrs. Paul, being only tenant for life of the trust property, with a testamentary power of appointment in case she predeceased her husband, had no power of appropriating the corpus of the fund for the payment of debts, to the exclusion of the next of kin.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the sole purpose of the limitation in favour of the next of kin in default of appointment by the wife was to exclude the husband from any participation in the trust funds. Mrs. Paul had no children, and there was no possibility of her having any, therefore she was the only person who had any interest in the property, except the unknown and unascertained next of kin, who were volunteers; there was no authority to shew that in such a case the Court could not appropriate the money for the benefit of the creditors. He considered the objection unsustainable, and the order asked for must be made, that the corpus of the property may be applied in payment of the debts.

Baptist Viscount Campden by his will, dated in 1620, gave 200*l.* "to be yearly employed for the good and benefit of the poor of Kensington for ever, in such manner as Lord Noel and Sir W. Blake and the churchwardens of Kensington from time to time should think fit to establish, for ever."

Elizabeth Dowager Viscountess Campden by her will, dated in 1643, gave to Sir J. Thorogood and eight other parishioners and the churchwardens of Kensington for the time being 200*l.* upon trust to purchase lands of the yearly value of 10*l.*, "one half whereof should be applied from time to time for ever for and towards the better relief of the most poor and needy people that be of good life and conversation that should be inhabiting within the said parish of Kensington, and the other half whereof should be applied yearly for ever to put forth one poor boy or more being of the said parish to be apprenticed, the said 5*l.* due to the poor to be paid them half-yearly for ever at Lady Day and Martinmass in the church or the porch thereof at Kensington."

These two sums of 200*l.* were each invested in the purchase of lands at Kensington, those bought with Lord Campden's bequest being conveyed to the trustees by deed dated in 1635, and those bought with Lady Campden's bequest by deed dated in 1643.

In 1651, a piece of land of two acres at Kensington (since commonly known as Cromwell's gift), was conveyed to twelve parishioners of Kensington, some of whom were parties to the deeds of 1635 and 1643, but no trust was declared thereof by the conveyance, nor was any mention made as to the parties by whom the purchase-money, which amounted to 45*l.*, was paid.

For a long time these charities were administered together by the same body of trustees, but the income of Lord Campden's charity was applied in pensions to the deserving poor of the parish, that of Lady Campden's charity half in similar pensions and half for apprenticeships, and that of Cromwell's gift, three-fourths in pensions, and one-fourth for apprenticeships. The income of these charities having increased to upwards of 3500*l.* per annum, the Charity Commissioners in the year 1878 settled a scheme for the administration of the three charities. This scheme was objected to by the vestry and parishioners, chiefly on the ground that it diverted to educational purposes a large portion of the income which was originally given for, and had always been devoted to alemsynary objects, and they now petitioned for an order to annul the order, and alter this scheme of the Charity Commissioners, producing evidence that there was no lack of deserving recipients of the charity, ready to take under their mode of applying the income.

Davey, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the commissioners, in support of the scheme.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, (1), that the property belonging to Cromwell's gift should be treated as belonging to the two Campden charities in equal shares; (2) that the revenues of Lord Campden's charity might be dealt with by applying part thereof for educational purposes; (3) that no part of Lady Campden's charity was applicable to educational purposes, but that its revenues ought to be applied, as to one half for the benefit of the poor as personal recipients thereof in the form of pensions or otherwise, and as to the other half for apprenticing boys. His Lordship accordingly remitted the scheme to the commissioners, to be reframed by them in accordance with the above holding.

DUKE v. LITTLEBOY.

Public Policy—Trade Union—Restraint of Trade.

This was an action by the secretary and other officers of "The Amalgamated Society of Watermen and Lightermen of the River Thames," against the officers and trustees of the Brentford branch of the society, to restrain them from dividing any of the funds of the parent society among the members of the Brentford branch, or dealing with them contrary to the rules of the society, and without the consent of the executive council. A preliminary objection was taken at the trial, that the objects of the society were in restraint of trade. The rules were prefaced by a preamble which shewed an intention to restrict the number of persons entering the trade, and to regulate wages and shorten the hours of labour, and there were rules providing for the ordering of strikes by the executive committee against members supplanting the members of other societies on strike, and for rendering assistance to other societies on strike. It was contended on the part of the plaintiffs that the present action was maintainable by virtue of sect. 3 of the Trade Unions Act, 1871, which provides that "the purposes of any trade union shall not by reason merely that they are in restraint of trade be deemed to be unlawful, so as to render void or voidable any agreement or trust," but the 4th section of the Act provides that nothing in the Act shall enable a Court to entertain legal proceedings with the object of enforcing certain agreements, viz.: (1) Agreements between members as to the mode of conducting their trade; (2) Agreements for the payment of subscriptions or penalties; and (3) An agreement for the application of the funds of a trade union—(a) to provide benefits to members; (b) to furnish contributions to non-members in certain cases; (c) to pay fines. (4) Agreements between trade Unions; and (5) Any bond to secure the performance of any of the specified agreements.

North, Q.C., and Bush, for the defendants, took the preliminary objection, and relied on Rigby v. Connol (ante, p. 36), in which a member of a hatter's trade union who had been expelled, sought the assistance of the Court, and his action was dismissed.

Cookson, Q.C., and Cary, for the plaintiffs, distinguished Rigby v. Connol on two grounds; first, that the principal objects of the watermen's union were not in restraint of trade; and secondly, that the defendants were trustees of the funds on behalf of the society, and the trust was made capable of being enforced by sect. 3 of the Trade Unions Act.

DENMAN, J., held that the rules, taken together with the preamble, shewed that some of the main objects of the society were in restraint of trade, and therefore previously to the Act of 1871 the action could not have been sustained. He considered that the case was governed by Rigby v. Connol, and that the action was for enforcing an agreement "for the application of the funds of a trade union to provide benefits to members," and therefore was not made enforceable by the Act. The injunction must be refused.

which shall be conditions precedent to the right of the employer to recover under the policy, the company shall at the expiration of three months next after proof satisfactory to the directors of the loss hereinafter mentioned has been given to the company, make good to the employer "to the amount guaranteed," such pecuniary loss sustained by the employer by reason of any fraud or dishonesty of the employed, as shall amount to embezzlement of money, and within three months of the death, dismissal, or retirement of the employed." It was then provided that on the discovery of any fraud the employer should immediately give written notice to the company—and the company should be entitled to call for, at the employer's expense, such reasonable proof of the correctness of the claim as the directors might require. It was farther provided that "the employer shall (but at the expense of the company if a conviction be obtained) use all diligence in prosecuting the employed to conviction . . . and shall, at the company's expense, give all information and assistance to enable the company to sue for and obtain re-imbursement by the employed, or by his estate, of any moneys which the company shall have become liable to pay." Marshall was stated to have been guilty of fraud and dishonesty which amounted to embezzlement, and the sum of 906l. 11s. was claimed under the policy.

The seventh defence set up was that though the plaintiff was required so to do by the defendants, he did not use diligence in prosecuting Marshall, nor had Marshall been brought to trial. There was a demurrer to this defence, on the ground that it was not alleged therein that there was any obligation on the plaintiff to prosecute Marshall and bring him to trial for embezzlement, or that the non-performance of any such obligation was a condition precedent to the plaintiff's right of action. On argument in the Exchequer, the demurrer was allowed. On appeal the four judges in the Appeal Court were equally divided in opinion, and so the judgment of the Exchequer stood affirmed. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Webster, Q.C., Mr. J. C. Mathew, and Mr. D. Fitzgerald (of the Irish Bar), were for the appellant company.

The Attorney-General for Ireland, and Dr. McBlaine (of the Irish Bar), for the respondent.

LORD BLACKBURN and LORD WATSON were of opinion that the judgment of the Court below was erroneous, and ought to be reversed.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the judgment was right, and ought to be affirmed.

Judgment of the Court below reversed with costs.

From Bkty Ct. Ex parte GREENER. July 29.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, which decision had, by the judges of the Court of Appeal there being equally divided in opinion, been allowed to stand affirmed.

Act of Bankruptcy—Debtor's Summons—Neglect to pay—Bankruptcy Petition by summoning Creditor before expiration of Time limited by Summons—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 6, sub-s. 6.

Fearnley, the present respondent, was the superintendent of an extensive hotel and restaurant in Duke Street, Dublin. He engaged one Frederick Marshall as manager there. He effected with the appellant company a policy of guarantie on the honesty of conduct of Marshall. The policy was for 1000l., and the policy stated that "subject to the conditions herein contained, No. 23.—1880.

This was an appeal by the debtor from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, p. 129.

Winslow, Q.C., and Creed, for the appellant.

De Gez, Q.C., and Henry, for the petitioning creditors.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the mere fact that a creditor, who has issued a debtor's summons, presents a bankruptcy petition against the debtor for the same debt, founded on a previous act of bankruptcy, before the expiration of the time limited by the summons for the payment of the debt, is not a sufficient reason for dismissing a petition subsequently presented by the same creditor for the same debt, founded on the debtor's non-compliance with the summons. It must be shown that the debtor was in fact prevented by the pendency of the first petition from paying the debt. If the debtor had no means of payment, it could not be said that he was prevented from paying the debt by the act of the creditor. Their Lordships remitted the petition to the County Court Judge for him to determine as a question of fact whether the debtor had been prevented by the pendency of the first petition from paying the debt. The costs of the appeal to be reserved.

Vesting Order—Jurisdiction in Chambers—Trustee Act, 1850, s. 43; 15 & 16 Vict. c. 80, s. 26; 18 & 19 Vict. c. 134, s. 16—Consolidated Orders xxxv., 1.

This was an administration action commenced by writ, in which an order for accounts had been made under Order xv. A sum of consols belonging to the estate was standing in the names of the plaintiff and the defendant, and they were ordered to transfer it into Court. The defendant could not be found, and on the 2nd of February, 1880, an order was made in chambers that the right to transfer the stock should vest in the plaintiff for the purpose of making the transfer into Court thereafter directed, and the order went on to direct her to transfer the stock into Court. The bank objecting to this order on the ground of its having been made in chambers, it was arranged that the plaintiff should move for an order, directing them to act in accordance with it. The Master of the Rolls after argument in Court ordered accordingly.

The Bank appealed.

Kekewich, Q.C., for the Bank.

Hadley, contra.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) considered that there was so much doubt whether there was jurisdiction to make in chambers a vesting order, except in the case provided for by Consolidated Order xxxv., r. 1, sub-s. 4, as to render it unsafe to do so. Their Lordships accordingly discharged so much of the order appealed from as expressed an opinion that in chambers the judge had jurisdiction to make the order of February 2, 1880, and as directed the Bank to comply with it.

This was a motion by a married woman and her husband asking that an order made for the appointment of new trustees to a will and for vesting the property might be rescinded, and that the solicitor acting in the matter might be made to pay all costs.

The order was made on the 24th of July, 1879, and the applicants had been joined to the petition as co-petitioners by the solicitor without any authority from them.

Oswald, in support of the motion.

Herbert J. Lake, for the respondent solicitor.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that he doubted whether he had any jurisdiction at this length of time, especially as the order was made on the petition of several persons interested in some six or seven eighth parts of the property, whereas the applicants were interested in a single eighth part. There would have been no difficulty had the applicants been entitled to the whole. Under the circumstances he thought it was the duty of the Court to see to the correctness of the record, and he would therefore now direct that the order in question be amended by striking out the applicants as petitioners, and treating them as having been served with the petition. The solicitor should have written to the applicants, and if they had declined to join in the petition, he then could have made them respondents. As he had acted without any authority he must pay the respondents' costs of this application, but the applicants, who had filed an irrelevant affidavit containing improper imputations, would have to pay their own costs.

Shortly after the eldest son of Mr. Welman attained the age of 21 years, the father and son executed deeds cutting off the entail of a considerable estate, and resettling it on the father for life, with remainder to the son for life, with remainder to his first and other sons in tail male. No provisions for giving jointures to widows or raising portions for younger children were inserted, and a power of revocation had been suggested by the counsel who drew the deed of resettlement, but had been struck out, apparently by the solicitor employed.

The father and son and the younger children brought an action to have the settlement rectified, by inserting a joint power of revocation.

Winding-up—Petition abandoned—Creditors appearing—Costs.

A petition was presented for winding up the Anglo-Virginian Freehold Land Company, which was in the paper for hearing on the 9th of April, 1880. The usual advertisements were issued in the Gazette, and on the 8th of April Messrs. Waterlow Brothers, who were creditors of the company, sent to the solicitor who appeared for the petitioner for a copy of the petition, but was not able to procure one. On the following day Messrs. Waterlow appeared by counsel in Court, and when the petition was called on no counsel appeared for the petitioner, and the petition was abandoned. Thereupon the counsel for Messrs. Waterlow was allowed his costs of appearing.

Sevard Brice now moved that the order made for payment of these costs might be discharged.

Grosvenor Woods appeared for Messrs. Waterlow Brothers.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR desired to intimate his distinct opinion that when a petition was presented for winding up a company, which was advertised in the Gazette, whereby all persons concerned received notice of the petition, which was, in fact, an invitation to creditors to attend, and without any opportunity being afforded them of saying whether they opposed the petition or not—in such cases when the petition was dismissed upon the non-appearance of the petitioner, those creditors who appeared by counsel were entitled to one set of costs. After giving various pecuniary legacies, the testatrix directed that the residue should be invested for the benefit of her two sisters.

Practice—Time for moving for New Trial—Order XXXIX., r. 1a.

A cause was tried on Thursday, the 1st of July, and a verdict found for the plaintiff. On the following Monday, Candy (assuming that it was his last day for moving for a new trial) applied for an extension of time for so doing until the following Thursday, which was the next day on which there would be a Divisional Court sitting, and his application was refused.

H. Giffard, Q.C., on the Thursday, moved for and obtained a rule nisi for a new trial, without mentioning (he being in ignorance of it) what had occurred on the Monday.

Pollard, on Monday, the 19th, obtained a rule nisi to set aside the rule for a new trial, on the ground that it had been irregularly obtained.

Candy shewed cause. He submitted that, Sunday not counting in the computation of the four days allowed for moving for a new trial, he had the whole of Tuesday, the 6th of July, wherein to move; and, inasmuch as there was no day in banco in which he could move until Thursday, the 8th, the motion was made in time: Stirling v. Du Barry (5 Q. B. D. 65) was cited.

Pollard, contra. There being a Divisional Court sitting on Monday, the 5th of July, the defendant was bound to move then.

COCKBURN, C.J.:—According to the old practice,—which I am not aware is altered in this respect—the party's right was, to have four days wherein he could move for a new trial. Here the fourth day was Tuesday, the 6th. There being no Divisional Court sitting on that day, nor until Thursday, the 8th, his time was by operation of law extended to Thursday, the 8th. The rule relied on, Order XXXIX., r. 1, requires the motion for a new trial to be made within four days after the trial, *if the Divisional Court is then sitting. That rule did not mean to abridge the party's right to four days; if deprived of that space of time by reason of there being no Court sitting to which he can apply, he may of right move on the next day in banc. Stirling v. Du Barry depended on Order LV., rule 6, which relates to appeals from chambers.

Rule discharged, with costs.

ASQUITH v. MOLINEAUX.

Practice—Notice of Trial—Completion of Pleadings—Order XXXVI. rule 3.

Notice of trial. On the 24th of July the defendants took out a summons calling upon the plaintiff to shew cause why a notice of trial (for the assizes) delivered on the 19th should not be set aside, on the ground that the pleadings were not closed. The summons was heard before Lopes, J., on the 24th, when it appeared that the notice of trial had been delivered with the replication (which required a joinder of issue to close the pleadings). The learned judge refused to make an order.

Upon appeal against that decision, it was contended upon the authority of Order XXXVI., rule 3, that the pleadings must be actually closed before the plaintiff can deliver a notice of trial with his reply; and a case of Metropolitan Inner Circle Railway Company v. Metropolitan Railway Company (5 Ex. D. 196), where Stephen, J., so held, was relied upon.

[HAWKINS, J. The question there was whether the cause could be set down for trial before the pleadings were closed.]

COCKBURN, C.J. If the cause was really at issue, the only remedy is to apply to the judge to postpone the trial, if the defendant has been prejudiced.]

The rejoinder, taking issue, was delivered on the 28th, and the cause set down for trial on the 29th.

PER CURIAM. The words of the rule are plain,—“Subject to the provisions of the following rules, the plaintiff may with his reply, or at any time after the close of the pleadings, give notice of trial of the action.” Those words admit of but one construction. The plaintiff has literally complied with it. If it had been intended that notice of trial might be given with the reply only if the reply formally closed the pleadings, the subsequent words would have been superfluous.

Motion dismissed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. LEGGOTT v. BARRETT. July 27.
Restraint of Trade—Sale of Goodwill—Injunction—Dealing with Customers of Old Firm.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. The plaintiff and defendant were formerly partners in the No. 29.—1880.

business of ironmongers at Bradford, under the firm of Barret & Leggott. In July, 1879, they agreed to dissolve partnership, on the terms that Barret should retire from the business, and that the goodwill and stock-in-trade should belong to Leggott, who would continue the business on his own account.

A deed of dissolution was accordingly executed, by which all the stock-in-trade was assigned to the plaintiff, and the defendant covenanted that he would not within the space of ten years, either on his own account or in partnership with any other person carry on the business of an ironmonger within ten miles of Bradford except at Leeds; and that in that case he would not do business directly or indirectly in Bradford.

The plaintiff continued to carry on the business at Bradford, and recently the defendant had set up a similar business at Leeds, in partnership with another person, under the firm of Barret & Russell. By circulars and in other ways he had solicited customers of the old Bradford firm, and had dealt with some of them. The plaintiff accordingly brought this action to restrain him from so doing, and moved for an injunction accordingly.

The Master of the Rolls granted an injunction restraining the defendant from applying to any customer of the old firm either privately or by letter, and from actually dealing with such customer or customers, and from otherwise prejudicially interfering with the plaintiff's business.

The defendant appealed from this order, so far as it restrained him from actually dealing with the customers of the old firm.

Chitty, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the appellant.

Rozburgh, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) were of opinion that the insertion of these words were not justified by the law or by the contract between the parties, and accordingly varied the order of the Master of the Rolls in this respect.

From Ex. Div. HARNETT v. VISE. Aug. 2.
Practice—Costs—Trial by Jury—Rules of Court, Order LV.—“Good cause shewn.”

In this case an action was commenced in the Exchequer Division by Dr. Harnett against Mrs. Vise and her husband for damages for a libel contained in a letter written by Mrs. Vise. The defendants denied the innuendoes and also pleaded a justification. The action was tried at Westminster in June last before Baron Huddleston and a special jury, when the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff with 10*l.* damages. The defendant then applied to the judge to disallow the plaintiff's costs, which the judge is empowered to do by Order LV. on “good cause shewn.” Baron Huddleston considering that the plaintiff had brought the libel upon himself by his improper conduct in the matters referred to in the letter, acceded to the application and refused the plaintiff his costs. The plaintiff appealed from this decision to a Divisional Court consisting of Baron Huddleston and Justice Stephen, who affirmed the order of the judge.

The plaintiff now appealed from the decision of the Divisional Court.

Watkin Williams, Q.C., and Tindal Atkinson, for the appellant.

Moulton (Willis Q.C., with him), for the respondent.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the decision of the Divisional Court was right. The power given to the judge by the 55th Order to deprive a successful party of his costs, was not confined to cases in which there had been misconduct in the course of the litigation. The judge was no doubt bound by the verdict of the jury, but subject to that, he might take into account the conduct of the party before the action, and might consider anything which led or conduced to the action, or which shewed that the action had been improperly brought. In the present case the judge was bound by the verdict to hold that the letter was a libel, that there was publication, and that to some extent there was no justification, but he had come to the conclusion that there had been much in the plaintiff's conduct which led to the libel being written. He agreed with this conclusion, and was of opinion that the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ., concurred.

From Ch. Div. MARKWICK v. HARDINGHAM. Aug. 3.

Statute of Limitations—Mortgagee—Acknowledgment of Title—Bankrupt Mortgagee—Principal and Agent.

In September, 1828, the plaintiff mortgaged certain houses at Worthing to Messrs. Bailey in fee, for securing the repayment of 1000*l.* and interest.

In 1832 the plaintiff executed a power of attorney, appointing W. H. Dennett, his attorney, to receive the rents and profits of all his property.

In August, 1845, the plaintiff was adjudicated bankrupt, and an assignee appointed; but the assignee took no steps to redeem or realize the mortgaged property.

In 1849 Dennett took a transfer to himself of Bailey's mortgage.

In January, 1865, the plaintiff wrote to Dennett, saying that he wished to take the property out of his hands. To this Dennett replied on the 1st of February, that it would give him great pleasure to wind up and close all accounts. In 1877, the plaintiff's bankruptcy was annulled.

Dennett died in September, 1877, and in the following December the plaintiff brought the present action for redemption of the property at Worthing against the defendants, who were Dennett's executors. The defendants set up in their defence the Statute of Limitations; and the plaintiff then amended the statement of claim, alleging that Dennett was the agent and trustee of the plaintiff in the management of his property.

Vice-Chancellor Hall, before whom the action was tried, was of opinion that the letter of the 1st of February, 1865, was a sufficient acknowledgment by Dennett of the plaintiff's title to take the case out of the Statute of Limitations, and he accordingly made the ordinary redemption decree against the defendants as mortgagees in possession. From this judgment the defendants appealed.

Hastings, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for the appellants.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Williamson, for the respondent.

JAMES, L.J., in delivering the judgment of the Court (James, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) said that in the first place the evidence did not support the contention that Dennett could be charged as the trustee or agent of the plaintiff; and that in the second place the letter of the 1st of February, 1865, could not be treated as an acknowledgment of the title of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff was at that time a stranger to the property; his estate as mortgagor had become vested in his assignee under the bankruptcy; and he could not be considered a mortgagor capable of receiving an acknowledgment of a right to redeem. Nor could he be considered as the agent for the assignee, for it was quite clear that Dennett did not correspond with him in any such character, nor had he any authority, either express or implied, from the assignee to redeem the property; there was therefore nothing to avoid the operation of the statute, and the judgment of the Vice-Chancellor must be reversed, and the action dismissed with costs.

Practice—Costs—Set-off—Rules of Supreme Court (Costs) VI. 19.

Barker sued Johnson and Hemming as drawer and acceptor of a bill of exchange, and judgment was signed against both. Execution was issued, and the sheriff seized certain goods of Johnson. Hemming applied to have the judgment as against him set aside, and ultimately judgment was entered up for him with costs. He at the same time claimed the goods seized, alleging that they were his, and an interpleader issue was directed on which a decision was given against him with costs. The master in taxing the costs set off the costs due from Hemming to the plaintiff on the interpleader proceedings against the costs due from the plaintiff to Hemming as defendant in the action. This was affirmed by Lindley, J., but on appeal the Queen's Bench Division reversed the decision. The plaintiff appealed.

Bompas, Q.C., and P. Baylis, for the plaintiff.

METROPOLITAN BANK v. HEIRON.

Bribe to Director—Fiduciary Position—Statute of Limitations.

This was an action by the company against Heiron, a former director, to recover a sum of 250*l.*, alleged to have been received by him from a debtor to the company as a bribe to induce him to allow the debt to be compromised by payment of a small sum. It was shewn that more than six years before the action the allegation that such a bribe had been given was brought before a board of directors and considered by them. Stephen, J., held the claim barred by the Statute of Limitations.

The company appealed.

Dr. Phillimore, for the appeal.

Gore, contra.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the claim was an equitable demand on the ground of fraud, and that although while the fraud was concealed the Statute of Limitations would not run, it began to run from the time when the company had notice. The appeal was therefore dismissed.

Practice—Charity—Jurisdiction of County Courts—Action for Money received—Charitable Trusts Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 137), s. 41.

This was a motion to discharge an ex parte order nisi obtained by the defendant for the removal of an action in the County Court, Settle, to the Chancery Division. The plaintiffs, the managers of a Sunday school at Longcliffe, possessing a school-house supported by voluntary contributions, brought an action in the County Court against the defendant, who was perpetual curate of the parish, claiming a sum of money collected by him for the purposes of the school, and also claiming the delivery up of a portfolio and cash book. The defendant contended that the County Court had no jurisdiction to try a question involving the rights of a charity, and referred to the Charitable Trusts Act, 1853, s. 41.

Bagshawe Q.C., and W. Barber, for the plaintiffs.

Ince, Q.C., and Whitaker, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS discharged the order, being of opinion that the question involved was simply the recovery of a sum of money in a collector's hands.

SPEARLING v. ROCKFORD.

Power of Appointment—Will executing Power—Death of Appointee before Testatrix—Failure of Appointment—Real Estate.

Henry Van Hagan by his will, dated in 1826, gave to his mother a general power of appointment over certain real estate, provided always that should his mother die without any will, then he gave the said real estate to Edward Clarke, subject to the payment of certain legacies. The mother of the testator many years afterwards made her will containing a direction to this effect,—“and as to and concerning all the real estate whatsoever and wheresoever, of or to which I or any person or persons in trust for me am, is, or are seised or in any way entitled, or over which I have (either under or by virtue of the will of my deceased son), or over which I shall have any power to dispose, I give, limit, direct, and appoint the same unto and to the use of J. Sperling, F. Wollaston, and G. Sperling, their heirs and assigns, in trust for George R. Green, his heirs and assigns, for ever.” George R. Green died in the lifetime of the testatrix, and a question was now raised whether the property went as in default of appointment, under the will of Henry Van Hagan, or whether it went as part of the real estate of the testatrix.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the heir of the testatrix.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Rodwell, Q.C., for the devisee of Henry Van Hagan.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR having reserved his judgment, decided that this being real estate, the mere circumstance of the testatrix making an appointment which failed did not shew an intention to make the real estate part of her general estate. The only object of the testatrix was to give the property to G. R. Green, and he having died in her lifetime, the result was that the appointment had wholly failed and the property went in default of appointment, under the will of Henry Van Hagan, to the estate of Edward Clarke.

TATE v. ROLLS.

Will—Shares held by Testator in Public Companies—Chartered Banking Company—Liability of Shareholder—Provision not necessary by Executors—7 Wm. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 73, s. 21.

Further consideration. The testator, who made his will in October, 1878, was at the time of his death, in November, 1878, possessed of shares in several public companies, amongst them a chartered banking company. The executors had sold all the shares at a discount, excepting the shares in the banking company. The charter of the bank was dated the 18th of January, 1844, and by it the liability of each shareholder was limited to twice the amount of the capital held by such shareholder. The bank in May last paid a dividend of 6 per cent. on their share capital. The question now submitted on the further consideration, before distributing the estate amongst the legatees, was whether any provision was necessary to be made in respect of the bank shares which were held by the testator. The question turned upon the construction of the statute 7 Wm. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 73, which applied to this bank. By the 21st section it was provided "that any person ceasing to be a member, whether by the transfer of any shares, or by death, or otherwise, shall be considered for all purposes of liability as continuing a member until a return of the transfer, or other fact, whereby he shall have ceased to be a member, shall be registered according to the Act."

In the present case the transfers which were made in January and February, 1879, had been registered. The number of shares held by the testator were 338 in the whole, old and new, and the total amount, stated to be, nominally due on the latter—uncalled up capital, was 4845*l*.

There was nothing in the charter as to liability of past members, and it was supposed to cease after transfer.

G. Hastings, Q.C., and Medd, for the plaintiffs, the executors.

W. S. Owen, and W. P. Beale, for a legatee and the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that under the circumstances it was not necessary for the executors to make any provision in respect of the shares.

HETHERINGTON v. LONGRIGG.

Will—Devise and Bequest to convert, &c.—Division of Residue amongst five Legatees named—Bequest by Codicil of one Share to Issue, but if no Issue, or some, and no Claim made, to full into Residue—Death without Issue—Intestacy.

A. B., who died in April, 1877, by her will, made in September, 1875, after making some specific bequests, devised all her real estate (excepting a small settled estate), and bequeathed all the residue of her personal estate to the defendant W. L., upon trust to sell, and convert and get in all estates, and after payment of debts, &c., to divide the residue of the moneys to arise from such sale and conversion equally between five persons named, including M. H., but as to her share the testatrix directed that the trustee should retain it upon trust to invest, and pay her the income for life for her separate use, and after her decease, both as regarded capital and income, for her child or children. By a codicil made in January, 1877, the testatrix bequeathed to the issue of S. R. (one other of the five persons) all the effects bequeathed to S. R., who was stated to be dead, but if there should be no issue living at the testatrix's decease, or being such, if such effects should not be claimed by such issue within twelve calendar months after her decease, then such effects should fall into the residue of the testatrix's personal estate. S. R. died without issue.

The plaintiffs were the children of M. H., and brought their action for the administration of the trusts.

On further consideration a question arose between the residuary legatees and the heir-at-law and next of kin as to the share of S. R. or her issue.

Hastings, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for the plaintiffs, submitted that one-fifth of one-fifth only lapsed.

Pearson, Q.C., and Brodrick, for a legatee in the same interest.

Maclean, for the new trustees, Longrigg having died.

Pope, for heir-at-law and next of kin of the testatrix, claimed one-fifth of the estates.

Gatey, for the two other legatees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR treated the codicil as applicable to S. R.'s share of the residue under the will, and was of opinion that it was undisposed of. He thought that the case was governed by the decision in Humble v. Shore (7 Hare, 247).

NEVILL v. SNELLING.

Money-lending Transactions—Unconscionable Bargain—Exorbitant Interest—Expectant Heir.

The plaintiff was a younger son of a peer, who was a large landed proprietor; the defendant was a money lender. The plaintiff by his statement of claim asked for a declaration that certain promissory notes which he had given to the defendant to secure the repayment of advances made by him, with bonuses and interest, at a very exorbitant rate, ought to stand as security only for the sums actually advanced by the defendant, with interest at 5 per cent. per annum, and an injunction to restrain the defendant from negotiating the notes. One of the loans was made a few months before the plaintiff attained 21, and the others were made within a little more than a year after he attained 21. The plaintiff had no property of his own, and no expectation of any, except such as was derived from his father's position in life. His father made him an allowance. The statement of claim alleged that the loans were made by the defendant without any hope or expectation that the amounts secured by the notes would be paid by the plaintiff, but on the credit of the plaintiff's expectations as the son of a marquis, and in the hope and expectation that, rather than submit to the exposure attendant upon the plaintiff being made a bankrupt, or being sued upon the notes, the plaintiff's father, who was well known to the defendant to be a large landed proprietor, or other members of the plaintiff's family, would pay the amount claimed by the defendant upon the notes. The Court held that this allegation was substantiated by the evidence. It was objected on behalf of the defendant that the principle of the cases in which the Court has granted relief from unconscionable bargains to expectant heirs or reversioners, could not apply to a plaintiff who did not fill either of those characters.

North, Q.C., and E. Ward, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., Everitt, and Glyn, for the defendant.

DENMAN, J., held that the principle of such cases as Lord Chesterfield v. Janssen (2 Ves. sen. 125), Croft v. Graham (2 D. J. & S. 155), Earl of Aylesford v. Morris (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 484), and Beynon v. Cook (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 389) applied, and that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief which he claimed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Nov 2.

THE LATE LORD CHIEF BARON AND LORD JUSTICE THESIGER.

The Lord Chancellor took his seat on the bench, accompanied by the Master of the Rolls, Lord Justices Brett and Cotton, and Vice-Chancellors Bacon and Hall.

HIS LORDSHIP then said:—Before commencing the business of the day, I wish, for the satisfaction of my own feelings and those of my learned brethen the Judges who are with me, and I think I may add for the satisfaction of the feelings of the members of the Bar, to say a few words as to the losses which this Court has sustained since we last met. The Court of Appeal has lost during that time two of its members, its oldest and its youngest member. The late Lord Chief Baron Kelly lived to an age considerably exceeding the ordinary length of human life. He completely fulfilled the work of a long and prosperous career. He died with his faculties unclouded, and the memory of his learning, his experience, and his unvarying courtesy will long remain with us. Lord Justice Thesiger has been taken from us beyond human expectation in the flower of his years. He inherited from his distinguished father personal qualities which made him justly and universally beloved. He was advanced to the Court of Appeal at a very early age in comparison with the age at which men usually attain to distinction, and after a professional career, brilliant indeed, but comparatively short. In another man so rapid and so early an advancement might perhaps have provoked some envy, but in his case it was attended with universal goodwill. While he sat on the Bench he fully justified the discernment of those who advised the Crown to promote him, by his knowledge, by his learning, by his patience, by his industry, and by that unflinching modesty and dignity of demeanour which in him no circumstances could change. He did good work and well sustained the character of the Bench while he sat here, and the public hoped that it would for many years have had the advantage of his talents and his virtue. These hopes have been disappointed, and it only remains for me to say that we shall long deplore his loss, and shall ever affectionately cherish his memory.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL (Sir Henry James, Q.C.) said (all the members of the Bar standing during his address):—My Lords, I hope that you will permit me on behalf of my brethren of the Bar to express how fully we concur in the words which have fallen from the Lord Chancellor. My Lords, there were none among us, including the most junior member of the Bar, who did not always receive the very greatest courtesy from the late Lord Chief Baron, and while there are few of us who can personally remember the great forensic triumphs which he obtained during his long career, we could all trace the presence of that great intellect which secured him that success, and rendered him so great an ornament to the English Bench. But, my Lords, it is not unnatural that in this Court and on this day our minds should be disposed more to dwell upon the loss which this Court has sustained by the death of Lord Justice Thesiger. He was one of us, one of this generation. He had one advantage at the commencement of his career over many of his fellows, in bearing a name honoured and cherished by every member of the English Bar, and the honour of a name was never more worthily sustained than by Lord Justice Thesiger. But, my Lords, the success which he obtained was all his own. His great ability, his unwearied industry, his zealous and certain advocacy would have gained success for any man, and when to those qualities we have to add a character which endeared him to us all—a character that was so strongly developed in its love of honour and of truth, a hatred of everything that was mean or untruthful, we all felt we had among us a man of whom we justly might be proud. My Lords, I hope you will forgive me if I take this opportunity, the first which has been offered to me, and therefore I take it, of speaking a few words rather to those around me than to your Lordships. It was the wish of the late Lord Justice that I should do so. When his end was coming near—very near—he claimed the attention of one who stood by him, and exacted a promise that a message should be taken from him, in that to him supreme moment, to those who had been his comrades, and he begged that it should be told to them that he had never forgotten, and even in that moment did not forget, the kindness and consideration which he had received from them, and he hoped and trusted that in return he would not be forgotten by them. My Lords, that message I now give, and, although the words seem to come from afar and no reply can be sent to them, still it may be some satisfaction to those who so sadly mourn to know that “men will come and men will go” before he will be forgotten by us, or his character and conduct cease to be regarded as an example to us all. My Lords, I pray your forgiveness for having delivered this message; but my apology consists in the hope that words so coming from such a man will tend to forge stronger a bond of importance to the public—the bond which binds the Bench and Bar together.

Practice—Leave to Person not a Party to appeal.

In this action an order on further consideration had been made declaring the construction of a will in such a way as to exclude from participation all persons claiming under J. R., who had died during a tenancy for life. No person claiming under J. R. was a party to the proceedings. The assignee of his interest now desired to appeal.

Dunning applied for leave to appeal.

THE COURT (Selborne, L.C., Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.), gave leave, being of opinion that as the Judicature Acts and the rules contained nothing bearing on the point, leave to appeal could, as under the old practice, be obtained by ex parte application to the Court of Appeal.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall, holding that an administrator with the will annexed had no power to sell the estate for payment of debts under the 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, s. 16 (ante, p. 136).

The summons was taken out by the vendor, and the order dismissing the summons was to the effect, that the Court being of opinion that a good title had not been shewn to the hereditaments, did not think fit to make any order, but that the applicant should pay the costs of the application.

From this order the vendor appealed.

Simmonds, for the appellant.

H. Cadman Jones, for the respondent, took the preliminary objection that the notice of appeal was too late. The application was dismissed on Saturday the 26th of June. The notice of appeal was served on Saturday the 17th of July after 2 o'clock. He referred to Order LVIII., r. 16; Order LVII., r. 8 (April, 1880).

JESSEL, M.R., said that when the order dismissing an application contained a declaration or expression of opinion of the judge, binding on the parties, that was not a simple refusal of the application within the 15th rule of Order LVIII. The objection, therefore, could not be sustained.

The appeal was then heard on its merits.

In this case the parties had agreed to take the evidence in the action by affidavit. Subsequently, the plaintiff ascertained that some material witnesses refused to make affidavits on his behalf, or to give evidence unless under subpoena, and thereupon obtained an order in chambers to examine witnesses ex parte on oath before an examiner touching the matters in question in this action.

The defendant appealed against this order.

S. Dickinson, for the appellant.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., James and Cotton, L.J.J.) discharged the order on the ground that there was no jurisdiction to make it, and, even if there had been jurisdiction, it could not have been maintained. Where an agreement to take the evidence by affidavit is entered into, and either party afterwards finds that some of his witnesses will not make affidavits, the proper course is for him to take out a summons for leave to be relieved from the agreement, and in a proper case the Court will permit him to have the particular witnesses examined viva voce at the trial, or (at the option of the other party) discharge the agreement, and direct all the witnesses on both sides to be examined orally at the trial.

Practice—Judgment Debtor—Special Examiner—Examination—Order xlv. r. 1.

Appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

The plaintiffs having obtained judgment against the defendant, then obtained an order under Order xlv, for the appointment of a special examiner for taking the examination of the defendant "as to whether any and what debts were owing to him," and that he should attend before the examiner for such examination, and should produce all books, vouchers, &c.

The defendant attended for examination and was asked, amongst others, the following questions:—

Whether he had any banking account with any other banker than Messrs. Drummond.

Whether he was carrying on any business at the present time.
Whether he had any money due to him under any contract now pending.

Whether any money was due to him for rent.

These questions he refused to answer, and in fact declined any questions, other than "whether any debts were due to him."

A motion by the plaintiffs that the defendant should attend again before the examiner to be further examined, was dismissed by the Vice-Chancellor on the ground that the plaintiffs were only entitled to examine the defendant "as to whether any and what debts were owing to him," and not to go into a general examination on the subject.

The plaintiffs appealed.

WILSON v. BIRCHALL.

Compromise on behalf of Infants.

This was an action in which judgment had been given for administration of the estate of Thomas Birchall. His widow, Mary Birchall, took out a summons to have it declared that a large amount of personal property mentioned in the summons had been held by Thomas Birchall as trustee for her, and that his estate was liable to make it good to her. This summons having been adjourned into Court, Vice-Chancellor Malins suggested a compromise, giving Mrs. Birchall about half of the amount claimed. She acceded to this, but the next friend of the infant defendants, the residuary legatees, refused to accept the offer. The Vice-Chancellor, however, referred it to chambers to inquire whether the compromise would be for the benefit of the infants, and on a subsequent day made an order carrying it into effect. The infant defendants appealed from both orders.

Finch, for the appellants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Bryce, for the widow.

W. Barber, for the executors.

E. S. Ford, for another party.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., James, and Cotton, L.JJ.), discharged the orders on the ground that the Court could not compel a compromise which was not assented to by the guardian of the infants, and was not approved by their legal advisers.

Appeal from Denman, J., and Pollock, B.

By 3 & 4 Vict. c. 54, s. 2, and 27 & 28 Vict. c. 29, s. 2, when a prisoner has been certified to be insane, and has been transferred by the warrant of a secretary of state to a lunatic asylum, "it shall be lawful for" two justices of the peace of the county where such person shall be imprisoned, to inquire into the settlement of such person, and to make an order on the parish of his settlement for his maintenance; "and when the place of settlement cannot be ascertained, such order shall be made upon the treasurer of the county where such person shall have been imprisoned."

By the Prison Act, 1877, 40 & 41 Vict. c. 21, s. 4, "all expenses incurred in respect of the maintenance of prisons to which this Act applies, and of the prisoners therein, shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament," and by s. 57 of the same Act, "a prisoner" means "any person committed to prison on remand or for trial, safe custody, punishment, or otherwise," and "the maintenance of a prisoner" includes "all such expenses incurred in respect of a prisoner for food, clothing, custody, safe conduct, and removal from one place of confinement to another, or otherwise, as would, if this Act had not passed, have been payable by a prison authority."

The defendants having refused to make an order under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 54, for the payment of the expenses of the maintenance of a criminal lunatic upon the treasurer of the county where she had been imprisoned, Denman, J., and Pollock, B., made absolute a rule for a mandamus directing them to make such order.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Edward Clarke, Q.C., for the justices.

Sir John Holker, Q.C., Poland, and A. L. Smith, for the Crown.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Brett, L.J.) held that the Acts 3 & 4 Vict. c. 54, and 27 & 28 Vict. c. 29, were in no sense impliedly repealed by the Prison Act, 1877, and affirmed the decision of the Court below.

This was a motion by the plaintiff for an injunction to restrain the defendants from avoiding or declaring void the office of alderman of the borough of Southampton, now held by him; from electing a successor to him; and from interfering with his rights and privileges as alderman.

In January last the plaintiff, who was a coachmaker, made an arrangement with his creditors, but no composition deed was executed, nor were any composition proceedings taken under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

The corporation were on the point of holding a meeting to declare the office held by the plaintiff void, on the ground that he had compounded with his creditors within the meaning of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835, ss. 52, 53, as extended by the Debtor's Act, 1869, s. 21.

V.-C. M. WILLIS v. EARL HOWE. Nov. 3.

Action of Ejectment—Statute of Limitations, 3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 27, s. 26—Concealed Fraud—Reasonable Diligence—23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, s. 13—Administration Action—Dying intestate.

This was an ejectment action by persons claiming to be entitled to a large portion of the estates of Earl Howe, worth three or four millions of money. The plaintiff, George Willis, alleged by his claim that one William Jennens, who died a bachelor in 1798, made a will in 1796, by which he gave his property to his mother, Anne Jennens for life, but made no other disposition of the property. Anne Jennens died before her son, and the plaintiff claimed to be heir-at-law of William Jennens; but he stated that shortly after the death of Mary Blythe, who was the first heiress of William Jennens, R. W. Penn Curzon pretended and represented that he was son of Penn Asheton Curzon, and as such was heir-at-law of William Jennens, and that he thereupon took possession of the freehold estates of the late William Jennens. The claim then alleged that R. W. Penn Curzon was not the son of Penn Asheton Curzon, or the heir-at-law of William Jennens, but was in fact an illegitimate child of Ann Oakes, spinster, daughter of John Oakes, and that the plaintiff George Willis was now the heir-at-law, and the other plaintiffs were the legal personal representatives of William Jennens, and as such were entitled to the estates left by Jennens. It further appeared from the statement of claim that Penn Asheton Curzon and his family had been in possession of the estates ever since the year 1798, and that R. W. Penn Curzon was created Earl Howe in the year 1821, and his successors had ever since been in possession of the title. This action now came upon two demurrers to the claim on the ground that the plaintiffs were barred by the Statute of Limitations.

Lewin, for the first demurrer as to the real estate.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the plaintiffs, relied upon the 26th section of the Statute of Limitations, 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27, and contended that this was a concealed fraud which the plaintiff could not with reasonable diligence have discovered.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said there were two things required under the 26th section to prevent the statute being a bar. There must not only be concealed fraud, but it must be shewn that the person claiming could not with reasonable diligence have discovered it within twenty years. In this case the defendant and his ancestors had been in possession for eighty-two years, and it was the most improbable thing that this alleged fraud should have existed for so long a period without discovery; but assuming that there had been concealed fraud, there was nothing to shew that it might not with reasonable diligence have been discovered. He should, therefore, decide that time commenced running at the end of twenty years from the death of W. Jennens. The demurrer must be allowed with costs.

There was a second demurrer, by persons representing the personal estate of W. Jennens, on the ground that under the 13th section of 23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, no action could be brought to administer the personal estate of a person dying intestate, except within twenty years after the death.

Higgins, Q.C., and C. H. Turner, for the demurrer.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for the representatives of the personal estate.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Mulligan, submitted that the statute did not apply to persons dying before the passing of the statute; and that W. Jennens did not die intestate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that "persons dying intestate" meant persons who had died, or shall die intestate and that it applied to intestacy as to the particular property claimed.

The second demurrer was also allowed with costs.

This was a summons by the official liquidator of the Alexandra Palace Company that he might be at liberty to deliver interrogatories for the examination of the secretary of the London Financial Association, who had made an affidavit as to documents; and the question was whether, this being a winding-up, the association, which was making a claim of nearly 150,000*l.* against the Palace Company, was entitled to this order as a matter of course. It was admitted that it would be so if this had been an action, as Rules of Court, Order xxxi., r. 1, would then apply.

V.-C. M. HARPHAM v. SHACKBLOK. Nov. 10

Mortgage—Priority—Notice—Negligence—Banker's Security—Payment.

The plaintiff, R. Harpham, in 1876 gave to his solicitor 550*l.*, which was to be advanced to one Padley on the security of freeholds and copyholds, 350*l.* to be applied in payment of a prior mortgage to one Peck. The plaintiff received from the solicitor the conveyance of the freeholds to Padley and a copy of the admittance to the copyholds, but no mortgage to him was executed. On the 22nd of July, 1877, the solicitor paid off Peck, advanced a further sum of 150*l.* to Padley, and took a transfer and a mortgage to himself from Peck and Padley for 700*l.*; but in November, 1876, Padley had mortgaged the property to W. Pritchard and S. Jones, subject to the mortgage to Peck for 150*l.* Pritchard and Jones had no communication with Peck. In 1877 the account of the solicitor with Beckett & Co., bankers at East Retford, being overdrawn, he deposited with them the mortgage of the freeholds and copyholds, and some muniments of title, to secure payment of whatever was then or might become due to them; they not knowing anything of the mortgage to Pritchard and Jones, or that the 700*l.* was not all the money of the solicitor. In 1879 Beckett & Co. were admitted to the copyholds on the conditional surrender of Peele, a balance of 613*l.* being due to them.

Harpham brought this action claiming priority. It came out on the hearing that between the years 1877 and 1879 there had at times been balances with Beckett & Co. on the solicitor's account more than enough to pay off the 550*l.* mortgage.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Simmonds, for Harpham.

Higgins, Q.C., and Langworthy, for Beckett & Co., claimed priority as representing Peck, the original mortgagee.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and H. C. Jones, for Pritchard and Jones.

HIS LORDSHIP said there had been negligence on all sides. The plaintiff had not obtained a mortgage. Pritchard & Jones had not made any inquiry, or given Peck notice of their security, and Beckett & Co. had not inquired for the conveyance and admittance, which were in Harpham's hands. Moreover, Beckett & Co. had had large balances in their hands, and might have paid themselves the amount due by the solicitor on the deposit, which was clearly not intended to be a permanent loan. All parties having been negligent their equities were equal, and they must rank according to their priorities in time, Harpham being first, Pritchard and Jones next, and Beckett & Co. last. As Beckett & Co. had resisted, they must pay all the costs.

on by the original plaintiff, Seear, if he had not assigned his interest.

A statement of claim was afterwards delivered, containing, with the exception of the formal note stating that it was delivered by Chatterton, solicitor, in person, who, by order, had liberty to carry on and prosecute the action, no further reference to the fact that Chatterton was now prosecuting the action as plaintiff in place of Seear.

Upon a summons by defendant to set aside the statement of claim as irregular, for not shewing that the action was being prosecuted by Chatterton,

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the summons.

Winslow, Q.C., and Terrell, for Chatterton.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR dismissed the summons, holding that as Chatterton's right of action was to carry on proceedings in the same manner as the same might have been carried on by the original plaintiff, Seear, if he had not assigned his interest, the title of the action and of the statement of claim were perfectly regular.

C. P. Div. BURCHALL v. HICKISSON. Nov. 3.

Negligence—Houseowner—Defect in Railing of Outer Door Steps.

Action for negligence.

The plaintiff, a child of 4 years, was taken by his sister, a girl of 12 years, who carried a baby in arms, to visit on business a lodger at premises of which the defendant was lessee. A few steps with upright railings beside them led up from the street to the front door. One of the rails at the topmost steps had been for some time broken away, leaving a gap of eighteen inches between the rails on either side of it. Rope had been interlaced across the gap, but had worn away and not been renewed. The girl had frequently visited the house, and three weeks before had noticed the rope. On the day in question she went up the steps, telling her brother, the plaintiff, to stop below. He, however, came up two or three of the steps; she turned to knock at the door, and she next saw that he had fallen through the gap into the area below, and was hurt. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, damages 15*l.*, and negatived contributory negligence.

A rule having been granted to set aside the verdict and enter a nonsuit on the ground that there was no evidence of negligence for the jury, and no evidence that the spot where the accident happened was in the nature of a trap, and that the judge misdirected the jury on the question of negligence.

Fitzgerald shewed cause.

Willoughby, and J. Gerard Leigh, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Lindley and Lopes, JJ.) held that the plaintiff, although not a trespasser, was on the steps by permission merely, there was no implied invitation from the defendant to a child unable to take care of himself to come up the steps, and if there was an implied invitation to the plaintiff guarded by a person able to take care of him, then there was no danger not perfectly obvious to that person, and therefore no evidence of any trap or of any breach of duty by the defendant.

Adjourned summons on behalf of defendant to set aside the statement of claim in the action as irregular on the ground that it did not disclose the real plaintiff who was prosecuting the action.

The action was commenced by Seear, the trustee in the bankruptcy of B. Webster, for the purpose of setting aside as fraudulent an assignment to the defendant Lawson of his equity of redemption in certain property, or to have it declared to be a security only for the money actually paid by the defendant. After issuing the writ, but before delivery of the statement of claim, Seear assigned to Chatterton all his estate and interest as trustee of the bankrupt's estate for 2000*l.* Chatterton obtained an order of course giving him liberty to carry on and prosecute the action of *Seear v. 	Practice—Security for Costs—Delay in Application.
	Application on the part of the plaintiffs for security for costs in respect of the appeal of defendants from the judgment of the Common Pleas Division on a special case (reported 5 C. P. D. 481).
	The judgment was delivered on the 22nd of March last, and the notice of appeal was given on the 6th of April. The taxation of the costs was not completed until the 4th of November instant, but the master reported that this was not owing to the defendants. The plaintiffs then issued a fi. fa. for the amount of their judgment and costs, and there being no property of the defendants on which the same could be levied, the plaintiffs made the present application, contending that until the return of the fi. fa. they did not know of the defendant's inability to pay. The appeal had been set down, and was only nine out of the list for the day in this Court.

	In re PARKER.
	Bill of Sale—Statement of Consideration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 8.
	Parker executed a bill of sale of his furniture to the Charing Cross Advance and Deposit Bank by way of security for the payment of 120 l. In the operative part of the deed it was expressed to be made in consideration of 120 l. paid on its execution by the grantees to the grantor. In fact only 90 l. was paid to the grantor, 30 l. being retained by the grantees for "interest and expenses." The execution of the deed by the grantor was attested by a solicitor, and the attestation clause stated that the deed was before its execution explained by him to the grantor. Immediately below the attestation clause there was a receipt for 90*l.* signed by the grantor, which stated that the 90*l.* "together with the agreed sum of 30*l.* for interest and expenses, makes the sum of 120*l.*, being the consideration money within expressed to be paid" by the grantees to the grantor. The grantor having filed a liquidation petition, Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, declared the deed void as against the trustee, on the ground that the consideration for it had not been set forth as required by s. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878. The bank appealed.

Guiry, for the appellants.

J. F. H. Bethell, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.), held that the receipt, coming as it did after the attestation clause, did not form part of the deed, and that the consideration was not truly stated in the deed. The case of Ex parte National Mercantile Bank (15 Ch. D. 42), was distinguishable, because there the debt, to the payment of which part of the expressed consideration was applied, existed independently of the transaction of loan, while in the present case the interest and expenses arose only out of the transaction of loan. The appeal was accordingly dismissed with costs.

WEST INDIA AND PANAMA TELEGRAPH COMPANY v.

HOME AND COLONIAL MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Marine Insurance—Perils of the Seas—Bursting of Boiler of Steamer—Negligence of Engineer—Wear and Tear.

Appeal of defendants from judgment of Baggallay, L.J., at trial, without a jury, of an action upon a marine policy.

The plaintiffs had insured the steamer Investigator (including amongst the subject-matters of insurance "machinery and boilers") with the defendants by a time policy in the ordinary form, containing the ordinary insurance clause, as follows:—

"And touching the adventures and perils which the said company are liable unto, or are intended to be made liable unto, by this insurance, they are of the seas, men of war, fire, enemies, pirates, rovers, thieves, jettisons, letters of mart and counter mart, surprisals, takings at sea, arrests, restraints and detentions of all kings, princes, and people of what nation, condition, or quality soever, barratry of the master and mariners, and of (sic) all other perils, losses, and misfortunes that have or shall come to the hurt, detriment, or damage of the aforesaid subject-matter of this insurance or any part thereof."

Whilst the policy attached, and during fair weather, the port boiler burst, with an explosion which made a complete wreck of the vessel. The learned Lord Justice found as a fact upon the evidence that the bursting of the boiler was to be attributed to the reduction of its shell; and that such reduction might have been discovered and guarded against by the exercise of ordinary care on the part of the servants of the plaintiffs who had charge of the boiler, and being of opinion that explosion was a peril insured against, gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

Limited Company—Maximum and Minimum Number of Directors—Carrying on Business by less than Minimum—Shareholder—Resolution—Forfeiture of Shares.

By the articles of association of the above company it was provided that its business should be conducted by not less than five nor more than seven directors, and that a director should vacate his office if he ceased to hold less than twenty shares, or became bankrupt or insolvent; and the directors were empowered to make calls upon shares, or, on non-payment, to declare shares forfeited.

The board of directors consisted of five persons, one of whom, B., became insolvent, and failed to pay calls upon 250 shares held by him, whereupon the remaining directors passed a resolution declaring his shares forfeited.

The company afterwards went into voluntary liquidation, and it was contended by B. that he was entitled to share in assets in the liquidator's hands on the ground that the directorship vacated by his insolvency was not filled up, and that therefore the resolution of forfeiture was invalid.

Chitty, Q.C., and Romer, for the liquidator.

Seward Brice, for B.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that clauses regulating the number of directors were analogous to those contained in foundation deeds of charities with reference to the number of the trustees to be appointed. The rule of construction in those cases was, that where the deed named a given number, the existing trustees might nevertheless act in performance of the trust, although by reason of death or other causes the actual number was not immediately filled up; but where there was, as here, a given maximum and a given minimum number of persons to act, it was necessary that the number should always be within the limits given. The resolution of the remaining directors was, therefore, nugatory, and the shares not forfeited.

V.-C. M. CHILD & Co. v. THORLEY. Nov. 13.

Bankers—Advances to an Executor—Executorial Purposes.

The bankers Child & Co., brought this action against G. Thorley and J. Thorley to enforce the payment of money advanced to the defendants as executors of a testator named Thorley. The plaintiffs' case was that they had been asked by J. Thorley, as the acting executor, to advance 3000*l.* to him for the purposes of his executorship; that the money was advanced with the sanction of G. Thorley, the co-executor, and certain stock certificates had been deposited as security for the advance; that the securities were afterwards sold, and the transfer was signed by both executors; that G. Thorley then signed a note addressed to the plaintiffs requesting them to follow the instructions of J. Thorley as to the disposal of the proceeds, which amounted to 3874*l.*, and the plaintiffs, at the desire of J. Thorley, placed the money to his account, and repaid themselves the advance of 3000*l.* Subsequently the plaintiffs advanced J. Thorley a further sum of 1145*l.*, for payment of the legacy duty and other sums chargeable to the executorship account, and deposited certificates for 2500*l.* London and North Western Preference Stock, as security for the advance. These certificates now remained in the custody of the plaintiffs, but the defendant G. Thorley refused to permit the sale of such certificates to repay the money, on the ground that the advance was made to J. Thorley personally and was placed to his separate account, and must, therefore, be discharged by him personally; whereas the plaintiffs alleged that such advance was made to J. Thorley as executor and for executorial purposes. The claim was for payment to the plaintiffs of the 1145*l.* and a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to a lien upon the railway stock certificates for the amount due to them. The defendants' case was that the account was opened in the name of J. Thorley alone, thus stamping it as his private account, and not as an executorship account, and that G. Thorley had withdrawn his authority to the plaintiffs to follow the directions of J. Thorley before the advance of the 1145*l.* There was a counter-claim by the defendants that they might have credit for the 3874*l.* improperly placed to the separate account of J. Thorley.

Bristowe, Q.C., and W. Karlake, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and Woodhouse, for G. Thorley.

Fisher, for J. Thorley.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said there was sufficient evidence to shew that the management of the executorship affairs was left in the hands of J. Thorley with the consent of G. Thorley, and that the advances were made by the plaintiffs to J. Thorley for executorial purposes. The private account of J. Thorley was opened expressly for the executorship, and the bankers were justified in placing the money to his separate account, and they had no reason to suppose that any mistrust of J. Thorley existed in the mind of his co-executor. There was no ground for setting up this defence, and the plaintiffs were entitled to the decree they asked, with costs. The counter-claim must be dismissed with costs.

Practice—Objection for Want of Parties—Judicature Acts,

Order XVI., rr. 13, 14, 17.

The plaintiff brought his action for an account of royalties to which he alleged he was entitled for the use of a patent taken out by him for a new process for converting iron into steel. The patent was dated in 1878, and in the years 1875 and 1876 the plaintiff transferred a portion of his interest in the profits of the patent to three persons who were not parties to the action. The acts complained of took place before 1875. The defendants raised a preliminary objection at the hearing that the three persons who were co-owners with the plaintiff of the patent ought to have been parties to the action.

Glasse, Q.C., Charles, Q.C., and Smart, for the defendants, in support of the objection.

Higgins, Q.C., and McSwinnery, for the plaintiff, raised three points in answer to the objection, which were allowed by the Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR overruled the preliminary objection, first on the ground that one person being co-owner of a patent might sue without his co-owners being parties. This he considered a good answer, and referred to Mr. Justice Lindley on Partnership (vol. i. p. 68), and Dent v. Turpin (2 J. & H. 139). The second ground was that under Order XVI., rr. 13, 14, 17, the defendants ought to have taken this objection by motion at an earlier stage of the proceedings, instead of allowing the plaintiff to incur the expense of bringing the action to a hearing; and the third ground was, that the complaint against the defendants for user of the patent was for acts done prior to the period when the plaintiff parted with any share in the profits of the patent to the three persons who it was urged should have been made parties. On all these grounds the objection must be overruled.

The action was afterwards compromised.

V.-C. B. JENNER v. TURNER. Nov. 13.

Will—Condition in Restraint of Marriage—Restriction qualified to the event of Marriage with "a Domestic Servant."

Mary Elizabeth Turner, spinster, devised real estate to trustees and their heirs upon trust for her father for life, remainder, in case her brother John William Turner should not then have married, or should have married during her life with her consent, or should have so married after her death some person not being a domestic servant, to her brother John William Turner for life, remainder to his first and other sons in tail, with divers remainders over. She then bequeathed the proceeds of her residuary personality as a trust fund in trust for her brother John William Turner absolutely. She continued: "but if my said brother shall marry during my life without my consent in writing, or if he shall already have married, or shall hereafter marry a domestic servant, or a person who is, or has been, or who shall at any then previous time or times have been a domestic servant," then her estates should be held in trust for the plaintiffs; and she further declared that the trust fund should be held and enjoyed with a specified portion of the real estate, so far as the rules of law and equity would permit.

The will was proved in February, 1868. The testatrix's father died in September, 1871. On the 17th of December, 1872, John William Turner, the testatrix's brother, married Mary Annie Sowerby.

On the 20th of July, 1879, John William Turner died, leaving two children, one of whom was the first defendant. The three other defendants were the other child, Mary Annie Turner, the widow and executrix, and a co-executor of J. W. Turner's will.

The plaintiff claimed the real estates on the ground that J. W. Turner had forfeited them by having married a domestic servant. The defendants denied that M. A. Sowerby ever had been a domestic servant, but their counsel, after the evidence, preferred to rest their case on the legal ground that the estates had not become forfeited, by reason that the condition on which the estates were to go over was a condition in restraint of marriage, and on that account illegal and void.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Wolstenholme, for the plaintiffs.

Hemming, Q.O., and B. B. Rogers, for the defendants.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it had been clearly admitted and proved that Mary Annie Turner had been and was a domestic servant at the time of her marriage with John William Turner. The only remaining question was, whether the condition was illegal and void, as being in restraint of marriage. The rules applicable to personal estate had no application to limitations of real estate; and as to the question, thus limited, there was no reasonable doubt. There was neither reason nor authority for holding that a testator might not make it a condition that his donee should not marry any individual by name, or a person of any nation, or a member of any specified class of society. This was established by Perrin v. Lyon (9 East, 170), and was the law. The result was that the plaintiffs must succeed in their contention, and were entitled to the estates, with six years arrears of rents and profits from the date of issue of the writ.

V.-C. H. JAMES v. GILES. Nov. 10.
Delivery up of Deed—Fraud by Solicitor of Mortgages—Forged Memorandum of Deposit—Purchaser for Value without Notice—Judicature Act, s. 25, sub-s. 11.

A lessee mortgaged the leasehold premises, and the lease was delivered to the solicitor of the mortgagees. The solicitor managed to procure from the lessee a memorandum signed by him stating how the property was insured, and fraudulently altered it so as to make it appear a memorandum of the deposit of the lease as a security for a loan by the solicitor to the lessee. Upon the security of the lease and of this memorandum of deposit, the solicitor procured a loan from an innocent lender. In an action by the lessee and his mortgagees against this lender for delivery up of the deed, it was contended on her behalf that in equity she was entitled as a purchaser for value without notice to keep whatever she had honestly come by, and that, as under the Judicature Act, s. 25, sub-s. 11, the rules of equity were to prevail where in conflict with the rules of law, she was entitled to keep the deed.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Maclean, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and W. Renshaw, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs had a clear legal title to the deed, which must be delivered up, and that the s. 25, sub-s. 11, did not apply.

BESWICK v. ORPEN.

Debt due by a Son to his Father—Deed of Composition by Son—Debt not scheduled—Bankruptcy of Son—Debt not mentioned or proved—Composition—Son entitled to Share under Father's Will—Assignment by Son—Claim by Executors.

An adjourned summons.

Daniel Orpen was indebted to his father, the testator in the action, in the sum of 550*l.*, 350*l.* of which was secured by a bill of sale, under seal, dated in December, 1861, and which contained a covenant to pay that sum; and 200*l.* of which was due on a promissory note dated in December, 1863. The testator, who died in May, 1874, by his will, made in April, 1865, gave all his estate to his three executors, the defendants in the action, and of whom D. Orpen was one, in trust for his six children equally. D. Orpen in August, 1868, executed a deed under the 192nd section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, by which he agreed to pay 10*s.* in the pound at the times mentioned, and the deed (afterwards registered) was assented to by the statutory majority, representing three-fourths in value, of the creditors scheduled. The testator was not scheduled; nor did he sign the deed. D. Orpen in his affidavit verified the schedule as a true and full account of his debts, but did not mention the debt due to his father; and if he was a creditor for a proveable debt in bankruptcy in respect of the two sums, the composition was not assented to by the requisite majority.

D. Orpen was in June, 1872, adjudicated bankrupt; and a meeting of his creditors agreed that a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound should be accepted by the trustee in satisfaction of the debts upon condition that the adjudication should be annulled. The composition was to be payable within fourteen days after the approval of the Court to the resolution, and an order to that effect was obtained in September, 1874, and the adjudication was annulled.

The testator did not prove, and no composition was paid to him by D. Orpen. The testator's will was proved in August, 1874, but not by D. Orpen.

D. Orpen in December, 1874, charged his share under the will in favour of the plaintiff, who gave notice to the executors.

D. Orpen was adjudicated bankrupt in July, 1875. Question arose as to whether the proceedings under the deed of 1868, or in bankruptcy in 1872, got rid of the claim of the testator, and discharged D. Orpen and his share under the will from any liability to make good the debt or some part of it, and if not, then whether the share ought not to be debited with interest at 5 per cent. on both sums.

The plaintiff, as assignee of the share, brought an action for administration of the testator's estate. In chambers it was stated that he might not be entitled to any part of the estate, and he was directed to prove his claim. The chief clerk prepared a draft certificate shewing that the plaintiff was not entitled, i.e., that the right of retainer of the executors would exhaust the share of D. Orpen under the will. The plaintiff took out a summons for the opinion of the Court.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Methold, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and Romer, for the executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the executors were entitled as against D. Orpen's share to 2s. 6d. in the pound on the 550*l.* and all such interest at 5 per cent., as might be due thereon to the 19th of June, 1872, not exceeding six years on the promissory note; but the whole of what was due on the covenant from 1861 to the date of adjudication in 1872.

Agreement to sell Chattels—Payment by Instalments—Lease of Workshop and Chattels—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31).

Appeal from County Court at Halifax.

By a deed dated the 26th of July, 1879, John Whittaker demised to the debtors, Job Gelder and Richard Iredale, a bakery in Sunderland Street, Halifax, with the fixtures, machinery, and apparatus, for six years from the 16th of July, 1879, at a rent of 182*l.* 10*s.*, payable by four quarterly payments in advance, on the 16th of October, the 16th of January, the 16th of April, and the 16th of July, the first payment of 45*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* being due and payable on the execution, with a proviso that if the rent should be behind and unpaid for the space of ten days next after any of the days appointed for payment thereof, being demanded, or if the lessees should commit waste or not fulfil the covenants, or if they should become bankrupt or assign or underlet, or do or suffer any act whereby the premises should become transferred or assigned, then it should be lawful for the lessor to re-enter; also that at the expiration of the term, the rent being paid, and the covenants observed and performed, the lessees should be "absolutely entitled to all fixtures and machinery" thereby demised, for their own absolute property.

Whittaker's statement was that the lease was executed in fulfilment of a treaty for a lease of the premises, fixtures, and all the chattels and effects (except consumable articles, which were to become the immediate property of the debtors); and the fixtures and other chattels to become the property of the debtors at the end of the term, upon their regularly paying the rent. Gelder's statement was, that Whittaker agreed to sell and that the debtors agreed to buy the chattels set out in an inventory for 862*l.*, to be paid with interest by equal instalments over six years, along with the real rent of the premises, the ground rent being only 23*l.* a year; and he (Gelder) produced an invoice, or account, which he said was received by the debtors from Whittaker for the price of the goods and chattels, stock-in-trade, and effects enumerated in the inventory, shewing them to be indebted to him on a balance of account in the sum of 806*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

On the 19th of July, 1879, the debtors went into possession.

On the 17th of March, 1880, Whittaker served the debtors with notice of breach of covenant, by omission to repair, and by removal of fixtures. On the 3rd of April he distrained for arrears of rent; and on the 6th he put a man into possession for breach of covenant and arrears of rent.

On the 8th of April the liquidation petition was filed. The trustee claimed the chattels; and on the 22nd of July, 1880, Whittaker was ordered to give up possession of the goods and chattels to the trustee. This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

De Gez, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the respondents, contended that the instrument of the 26th of July, 1879, was in reality a bill of sale, which being unregistered was void against the trustee, and that the goods were in the order and disposition of the debtors.

Winslow, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he was unable to apply the reasoning on behalf of the respondents to the facts of the case. The transaction whereby goods were sold at a price to be paid by instalments was an everyday transaction, and its legality was established by cases of which Ex parte Cruwcur (9 Ch. Div. 419) was an example. Considering this case to be entirely within that authority, his Lordship must discharge the order of the County Court, and the costs would follow the result.

Case stated by justices, in which the question was whether the appellant was liable to be rated to the poor-rate, under the following circumstances. The appellant was the owner of certain grass land. The land being unlet, he sold the grass upon it by auction. The conditions of sale described the sale as being of grass for a certain time, and set forth the conditions under which the purchasers were to be entitled to turn their cattle in to eat the grass. They also provided that the purchasers should dress the dung, cut the thistles, and leave the fences in good repair. It was a term of the sale that the vendor should pay the rates and taxes. The point raised was shortly as follows, viz.: whether an inspector of nuisances procuring a sample of milk in the course of delivery for analysis under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act Amendment Act, 1879, must comply with the requirements of s. 14 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, 1875, which provides for the delivery of a third part of the sample to the seller or his agent.

Parliament—Occupation of House and Land—Reform Act (2 Wm. 4, c. 45), ss. 25, 27—County Vote—Representation of the People Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 102), s. 6—12l. Occupier.

Searson, whose name appeared in the list of voters for the northern division of the county of Northampton as "occupier of land" in Flag Fen within the borough of Peterborough, was objected to on the ground that the land in Flag Fen was occupied by him "together with" the house in which he resided in Peterborough, within the meaning of s. 25 of 2 Wm. 4, c. 45, and conferred upon him the right of voting for the borough.

The facts were as follows:—Searson had since 1869 occupied a close of land in Flag Fen, in the borough of Peterborough, as tenant to Mr. Fitzwilliam, at a rent which would confer upon him a right of voting as a 12l. occupier, under the Representation of the People Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 102, s. 6. Some years afterwards he took a house in Bridge Street, Peterborough, under the same landlord, and has occupied it to the present time; and in respect of that house he enjoys the right of voting in the election of a member of parliament for the borough of Peterborough. Since taking the house he had become tenant of and still occupies under the same landlord another piece of land in Flag Fen, within the borough, which also is rated at upwards of 12l. per annum. The lands in Flag Fen are apart from each other, and are both distant upwards of a mile from the voter's borough-qualifying property in Bridge Street, Peterborough. Each of these occupations is held under a Lady-Day tenancy. Each parcel is held at a separate rent; and it was proved and admitted that a separate notice to quit would be required for each property.

In answer to the objection it was urged that the lands in Flag Fen were not occupied "together with" the house, within the meaning of s. 25 of the Reform Act, but that the occupation of the lands was distinct from the occupation of the house.

The revising barrister decided that the voter had the right to have his name retained on the list of voters for the northern division of the county, in respect of the occupation of the land, under the Representation of the People Act, 1867.

THE COURT (Grove, Lindley, and Lopes, JJ.), affirmed his decision; holding that the words "occupied therewith," in s. 25 of the Reform Act, mean that, to deprive the voter of his vote for the county, the land must be required to supplement or eke out the value of the house so as to give him as occupier of the house and land a vote for the borough.

Decision affirmed, with costs.

The only difference between Searson's Case and Smith's Case was, that Smith was the owner in fee-simple of the land, which was of the yearly value of more than 40s., and also of the house, in respect of which alone he was entitled to a vote for the borough.

The revising barrister held that the land was not occupied with the house, within the meaning of s. 25 of the Reform Act. And the Court affirmed his decision.

COURT OF APPEAL.

C. A. THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE COOKBURN. Nov. 22.

At the sitting of the Court, JESSEL, M.R., said:—Before commencing the business of the day, we think it right to express in a few words the great sorrow felt by the members of the Court to which that most eminent Judge the late Lord Chief Justice of England belonged at the sudden and unexpected termination of his life on Saturday last. He was admitted by his competitors at the Bar to have been a consummate advocate, and was recognised by his fellow-members of the House of Commons as a brilliant orator. But it was chiefly by his long career of nearly a quarter of a century as a Judge that he had acquired the respect and admiration of his fellow-men, and it is by that he will, I believe, be remembered to the remotest posterity. He was a man of great natural ability and of vast and varied acquirements. He possessed a grace of manner and a refinement of diction equalled by few, and he used his great intellectual gifts and the ripe fruits of his experience for the public service and the furtherance of justice. We cannot forget that he seemed unaffected by the weight of advancing years. With unimpaired, or apparently unimpaired, physical powers and with undimmed intellect he performed to the last day of his life with efficiency the duties of his high office. In lamenting his decease, as we all must, we cannot but feel that in losing him we have lost not only an upright and able magistrate, but one of the brightest ornaments that ever adorned the English Judicial Bench.

Master and Servant—Employers and Workmen Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 90), s. 11—Contract of Service—Wages due but not payable—Piece-work—Forfeiture—Women.

Appeal from the Queen's Bench Division dismissing an appeal from the justices on a case stated under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 45.

The appellants was a woman subject to the provisions of the Factory Acts, and was in the employ of the respondent as a weaver at his mill, in which there were certain rules, inter alia, rule 15, that no person shall leave his or her work without giving fourteen days' previous notice, such notice to be given on a Saturday, and rule 16, that any person leaving without giving such notice "shall forfeit all wages then due, or earned, or unpaid." The case stated that the appellant was paid by the piece, and that all work done was booked up at 3 o'clock on the Wednesday in each week, and paid for on the following Saturday.

At 12 o'clock on a Wednesday the appellant had certain work which she had done booked, and she then left the mill without giving the required notice. On the following Saturday she applied for the wages due at the time she left, but payment was refused on the ground that the same were forfeited by rules 15 and 16. No claim, however, was made for damage sustained by the respondent. Sect. 11 of the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 90), enacts that "in the case of a child, young person, or woman subject to the provisions of the Factory Acts, 1833 to 1874, any forfeiture on the ground of absence or leaving work shall not be deducted from or set off against a claim for wages or other sum due for work done before such absence or leaving work, except to the amount of the damage (if any) which the employer may have sustained by reason of such absence or leaving work." The appellant summoned the respondent under s. 4 of that Act for the wages she had earned, but the justices dismissed the summons, stating that they found the hiring was a weekly one, and that being of opinion the week ended at 3 o'clock on the Wednesday afternoon, and that she had left her work before her week was completed, no wages were due.

The Queen's Bench Division, considering the case to be concluded by Gregson v. Watson (34 L. T. (N.S.) 143), dismissed the appeal, but gave leave to appeal to this Court.

Hopwood, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, for appellant.

Gully, Q.C., and Attenborough, for respondent.

THE COURT (Baggallay, Brett, and Cotton, L.J.J.) held that the case was distinguishable from Gregson v. Watson, as the finding in the present case that the hiring was a weekly one was not a finding of a fact by the justices, but a conclusion of law from the facts previously stated, and which the Court thought was a wrong one, and the Court considered that as soon as the appellant had finished a piece of work she had earned the price for it, though such was not payable until the following Saturday, and that being a woman, and there having been no damage, the 11th section of the Act protected her from forfeiture.

Appeal allowed.

In re KITCHIN.

Mortgage—Attornment Clause—Fixtures—Bankruptcy of Mortgageor.

On the 10th of April, 1873, Kitchin executed a mortgage (by way of underlease) of a public-house of which he was the lessee, to Punnett, to secure the payment of 7965*l.* and interest. The deed contained no assignment of the fixtures. It contained a clause by which "for the purpose of better securing the punctual payment of the interest" on the mortgage debt the mortgageor did thereby attorn tenant to the mortgagee of the mortgaged property at a yearly rent, equal to the amount of a year's interest on the debt, payable quarterly. There was a proviso that the mortgagee might at any time after the 18th of April, 1877, enter and determine the tenancy without notice. On the 4th of February, 1878, Kitchin executed a second mortgage of the public-house, to secure 5500*l.* and interest. This deed contained an attornment clause similar to that which was contained in the first mortgage, the yearly rent (payable half-yearly) being fixed at the amount of a year's interest on the debt. There was a similar proviso for the determination of the tenancy. The first mortgage was recited in the second. On the 3rd of July, 1879, Kitchin filed a liquidation petition. On the 25th of August the first mortgagee distrained under his attornment clause on the chattels in the public-house for a quarter's rent, and on the 11th of September the second mortgagee distrained under his attornment clause for half a year's rent. The first mortgagee afterwards sold the public-house, under a power of sale contained in his deed, and sold the trade fixtures at a valuation. The questions afterwards arose whether the second mortgagee was entitled to be paid the amount of his distress out of the proceeds of sale of the chattels, and whether the first mortgagee was entitled to the proceeds of sale of the fixtures. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, held that there could not be two tenancies of the same property under different landlords subsisting at the same time, and that the attornment to the second mortgagee was therefore inoperative, and his distress invalid, and his Honour also held that the trustee was entitled to the whole of the proceeds of the fixtures.

The mortgagees appealed.

Upon the hearing of the appeal it was admitted by the trustee that the first mortgagee was entitled to so much of the proceeds of sale of the fixtures as represented the fixtures which were in the public-house at the time of the execution of the first mortgage; but it was contended that, as the tenancy created by his attornment clause had not been determined, the trustee was entitled to remove such of the trade fixtures as had been attached to the public-house since the execution of the first mortgage, and was therefore entitled to so much of the proceeds of sale as represented their value.

There was evidence that the total amount of the two rents reserved by the two attornment clauses was less than the fair letting value of the property.

Winslow, Q.C., and W. B. Heath, for the appellants.

A. Wills, Q.C., and Arthur Powell, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.J.J.) held that there was no reason why the two attornment clauses should not subsist at once. The case in this respect was governed by the ratio decidendi of Morton v. Woods (L. R. 4 Q. B. 293). The sum of the two rents being not more than the fair value of the property there was no violation of the bankrupt law, and the second mortgagee was entitled to his distress. And, as to the fixtures, the tenancy created by the attornment clause was only for the purpose of better securing the payment of the interest on the mortgage debt. The mortgagee did not cease to be mortgagee because he was made a landlord for this purpose, and consequently the first mortgagee was entitled to the whole of the proceeds of sale of the fixtures. The appeal was allowed, with costs.

Ex parte SHEARD.

Nov. 18.

In re POOLEY (No. 1).

Removal of Trustee in Bankruptcy—Judicial Discretion—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 83, sub-s. 4.

In the bankruptcy of A. G. Pooley the creditors chose A. A. Sheard as trustee, and he was appointed by the Court. Afterwards Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, on the application of some creditors, removed him from his office, on the ground that, when he was appointed, he had misdescribed his employment; that he was under the influence of the bankrupt, and that since his appointment he had taken no steps to examine the bankrupt or to realise his assets. When Sheard was appointed he described himself as an accountant. He was in fact a book-keeper, at a weekly salary of 45*s.*, in the office of a newspaper of which a son of the bankrupt was the editor. He had consented to act as trustee at the request of the son, who was not a creditor.

Winslow, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

De Gez, Q.C., and Pollard, for the respondents, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., James and Lush, L.J.J.) said that the power of removal given to the Court was a discretionary power, but it must be exercised according to law, and if it had been so exercised by the registrar, the Court of Appeal would not interfere. No doubt the removal must be, not at the mere discretion of the Registrar, but for good cause shewn. Here the registrar had come to the conclusion that sufficient cause had been shewn. No doubt his conclusion was to a great extent a matter of inference from the facts, but what the Court of Appeal had to consider was, whether the inference had been fairly drawn. Their Lordships saw no ground for differing from the registrar's conclusion. The appeal was accordingly dismissed with costs.

Appeal—Locus Standi—Removed Trustee.

Before the order for his removal as above, Sheard had given notice of an appeal from the admission by Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, of a proof against Pooley's estate tendered by S. Toppin. After Sheard's removal a new trustee was appointed, but he had taken no steps to prosecute the appeal. The appeal now came on for hearing.

Winslow, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

De Gez, Q.C., and Romer, for Toppin, objected that the appellant had no locus standi.

Winslow suggested that some of the creditors might wish to prosecute the appeal.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., James and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the appellant had no locus standi. But they ordered the hearing of the appeal to stand over for a fortnight, to give the creditors an opportunity of prosecuting the appeal if they should wish to do so.

Ex parte NATIONAL MERCANTILE BANK.
In re PHILLIPS.

Bill of Sale—Registration—Growing Crops—Severance—Bills of Sale Act, 1854.

In December, 1878, Phillips, a farmer, executed a bill of sale to the National Mercantile Bank of the furniture, live and dead stock, growing crops and future growing crops, and other chattels on his farm, to secure the payment of 575*l*. The deed also assigned to the bank all his tenant right and interest then unexpired in the farm, and there was a covenant by the grantor not to remove any of the assigned property from the farm without the previous written consent of the grantees. The deed was not registered as a bill of sale. In October, 1879, Phillips filed a liquidation petition. At this time the crops which had been growing on the farm when the deed was executed, or which had been since planted, had been severed and stacked on the land. The bank had taken no possession under their deed until after the filing of the petition. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, held that the severed crops belonged to the trustee. The bank appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for the appellant:—Growing crops are not "personal chattels" within the Bills of Sale Act, 1854, and registration was not necessary as to them: Brantom v. Griffiths (Law Rep. 2 C. P. D. 849, 2 C. P. D. 212). The grantees having once acquired a good title to the growing crops, their title is not affected by the fact of subsequent severance.

Hemming, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.JJ.) said that the growing crops were an interest in land which passed by the deed, and as to which registration was not required. But by the ordinary law the rent and profits of the land belonged to the mortgagor while he was in possession, and he was therefore entitled to sever the crops, and thenceforth they became chattels under the bill of sale, and subject to the Bills of Sale Act. Reliance was placed on the bargain that the mortgagor should not remove them from the farm. But that was a bargain relating to chattels, and was void as against the trustee, because the deed was not registered. The appeal must be dismissed.

Marine Insurance—Concealment of Material Fact—Open Policy—Declaration at less than Value of Goods shipped.

Action by the underwriters of certain policies dated October 7 and November 3, 1875, to have them set aside as having been obtained by fraud. In 1875 the defendants effected with the plaintiffs four open policies to cover fruit, &c., coming from Greece or the Ionian Islands to Liverpool and London. The policies were dated September 3, October 1, October 7, and November 3, 1875, and were to succeed each other. The complaint was that the shipments when respectively declared were declared at less than their values; the effect of which was, that when the two last policies were subscribed by the plaintiffs there was apparently more to run out on the former policies than there was in fact, and therefore the plaintiffs would be liable to be sooner called upon in respect of the last policies than they would otherwise have anticipated. At the trial before Field, J., the jury found that the declarations of the prior shipments were falsely and fraudulently made, and that the defendants concealed the amounts which had been so on risk and insured, and that it was material that the underwriters should have been informed of the matters so concealed. The learned Judge thereupon gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

The defendants appealed.

Butt, Q.C., Webster, Q.C., and J. C. Mathew, for the plaintiffs, were not called upon.

Motion for Committal of Defendant in Contempt—Previous Order for Attachment.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff, who had already obtained leave to issue a writ of attachment against the defendant for non-compliance with an order of the Court, that an order for committal might now be made.

Alan Stewart, in support of the motion, which was made ex parte, submitted that an order for committal would be cheaper and more expeditious than a writ of attachment. He referred to Piper v. Piper (Weekly Notes, 1876, 202), where Vice-Chancellor Malins had made an order for a writ of attachment, although the notice of motion was for an order to commit. He asked that notice of motion might be dispensed with.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS observed that Piper v. Piper was a converse case to the present, and considered that the plaintiff was not entitled to the order asked for, without serving a fresh notice of motion.

Lands settled by will upon one for life, with remainders over, and, under powers in the will, demised to various persons &c.

various terms, and principally on repairing leases, were taken by a railway company, and the purchase-moneys paid into Court. The dividends on the fund in Court would when invested be largely in excess of the aggregate rents. A petition presented by the tenant for life for payment to him during his life of the whole of the dividends, was opposed by the remainderman, who contended (upon the authority of Kindersley, V.-C., In re Woolton's Estate (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 559), and Romilly, M.R., In re Mette's Estate (Law Rep. 7 Eq. 72)) that during the subsistence of each lease the tenant for life should receive so much only of the dividends of the purchase-money attributable to the property comprised in the lease as would be equal to the rent reserved by the lease; although upon the determination of each lease, he would be entitled to the income of the whole of the purchase-money attributable to each lease.

Alfred Bailey, for the remainderman.

Jason Smith, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the contention of the remainderman was correct, and directed an inquiry to ascertain how much of the purchase-money ought to be attributed to each lease, and gave liberty to the tenant for life to apply at the expense of the company, at the time when each lease would have fallen in, for a proportionate increase of income.

In re MAMMOTH COPPEROPOLIS OF UTAH COMPANY.

Company in Liquidation—Dividend paid by Directors in 1873—Summons by Liquidator in 1879, for repayment, dismissed—Stale Demand.

This was an adjourned summons.

The above company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working a copper mine in America, where the bulk of the business was transacted. The company, which had a registered office and a board of directors in London, went into liquidation in November, 1876, and a liquidator was appointed.

The directors in November, 1872, issued a report of their proceedings, and in December, 1872, declared a dividend, and paid the same in January, 1873.

The liquidator in his affidavit made in July, 1879, alleged that the company had not, when the dividend was declared and paid, or at any subsequent time, any profits available for dividend, and that it was in fact paid out of capital. The figures shewing the company's proceedings were very complicated, but the directors considered that looking at them they had out of the proceeds of the ore sold and saleable in England, and on which they had obtained advances, a sum of money which was reasonably payable as dividend out of income. On the 22nd of July, 1879, the liquidator took out a summons, asking that the five directors might be ordered jointly and severally to repay to him the sum which, as he alleged, was wrongfully applied by them in payment of the dividend declared by them in December, 1872, together with interest at 5 per cent. from the 2nd of January, 1873, and costs. It appeared that only two or three creditors proved their claims, and that they were not creditors at the time when the dividend was paid in January, 1873.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Northmore Laurence, were for the liquidator.

Hastings, Q.C., and Brooksbank, for the directors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that in the view which he took of the case it was not necessary for him to deal with any other question than the one which he meant to decide, viz., that whatever were the duties of a liquidator in reference to realising the assets, and in regard to the shareholders and the creditors, this was an ordinary claim by the liquidator on behalf of the company of what was called a debt, and such a claim ought to be made in a reasonable time; and he looked upon this claim as a stale demand, as more than six years had elapsed before the payment of the dividend and the date of the summons. The directors after such a lapse of time would have great difficulty in justifying their proceedings by reference to the books and accounts, and also great difficulty, if they were held liable, in obtaining an indemnity from those who would have been liable to give it, if the claim had been made in a reasonable time. There seemed to be no excuse for these proceedings not having been taken at an earlier time. On these grounds he should dismiss the summons with costs, to be paid by the liquidator.

He gave the plaintiffs the general costs of the action, but he reserved the costs of the inquiry, observing that he did this, not with the view of excusing the defendants from paying them, but in order that the judge in whose chambers the proceedings on the inquiry might take place might have full control over the costs, and see that they had not been unreasonably exaggerated.

Vendor and Purchaser—Sale of Goods in Good Faith and for Valuable Consideration—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 92.

Appeal from County Court at Bradford.

The appellant Isaac Gaunt and the debtor Alfred Wilkinson were co-executors and trustees of one John Speight, who died in April, 1877. They had had dealings together, being wool merchants. The debtor was the acting executor, and kept the pass book. About the 23rd of November, 1878, the debtor called on the appellant. He seemed in great trouble, and said that the manager of the bank had required him to reduce his account or give security, and that he could do neither. He urged the appellant to buy some wool of him, which the appellant at first declined to do. The debtor said he would have to buy it, and upon the appellant asking why, told him he had been using some of the trust fund. Appellant at first offered, to lend the money, but upon the debtor saying he had no security, agreed finally to buy the wool; for which he paid the debtor on the following day, in bank notes, 2050*l.*, the amount of the deficiency in the trust account. The money was applied to to make good the deficiency, and it was afterwards found that the debtor had been overpaid to the amount of 200*l.* This sum was afterwards repaid to him in account; and the management of the trust was thenceforward undertaken by the appellant.

The liquidation petition was filed on the 28th of January, 1879.

The learned County Court judge was of opinion that this sale amounted to a fraudulent preference, and on the 18th of July, 1880, made an order that the respondent should pay to the trustees the sum of 2050*l.*, with interest.

De Gex, Q.C., and West, for the appellant.
Winslow, Q.C., and E. Tindal Atkinson, for the trustee.
De Gex, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE was of opinion that the transaction was protected by the concluding paragraph of s. 92 of the Bankruptcy Act. His Lordship said he could see nothing in the circumstances of the case which induced him to think a fraud had been committed. He must therefore, discharge the order of the County Court, with costs there and below.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Composition—Mortgagee holding Security—Jurisdiction—Practice—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 28.

Appeal from an order of the County Court at Gloucester dated the 20th of July, 1880, whereby it was ordered and found that the Llantwit and Black Vein Coal Company, Limited, were entitled to a lien on 500 shares in the company standing in the name of the debtor, Simeon Holmes, for the sum of 1118*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* with interest, at 4 per cent. from the 8th of November, 1878; and that the shares be sold by auction by the company, that out of the proceeds be paid the costs of the company incident to the application and that order, and of the sale, and the balance paid to company in payment or part payment of the debt due to them; and in case there should be a deficiency, that the company should be entitled to prove under the liquidation for such deficiency.

When the application was made in the Court below, it was objected to on behalf of the appellants, who were the debtor, Samuel Wilkinson Woods, the trustee, Maurice Frederic Carter, solicitor, and Poole & Hughes, solicitors, on the ground that the whole of the composition and costs payable under certain resolutions passed in the matter on the 7th and filed on the 10th of May, 1879, having been paid, the jurisdiction of the Court was at an end.

Resolutions for liquidation by arrangement were passed in the terms prescribed by the Act, on the 2nd of April, 1879, and on the 7th of May other resolutions were passed, to the effect that a composition of 8*s.* in the pound be accepted by the trustee in satisfaction of the debts due to the creditors; that such composition be paid in certain instalments; that upon payment of the composition to the trustee, and of the costs, charges, and expenses of him and of the solicitor incidental to the proceedings, the discharge of the debtor be granted; and that upon the distribution of the composition amongst the creditors, "the liquidation be and it is hereby closed, and the discharge of the trustee shall be, and the same is hereby granted."

Yate Lee supported the appeal, on the ground of want of jurisdiction.

Bagshawe, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the respondents, the company, argued that, it being conceded that for the balance, if any, after the realisation of their security under what was still known as Lord Loughborough's order, the respondents would be entitled to come in and claim the composition, there must be jurisdiction left in the Court of Bankruptcy to sell.

THE CHIEF JUDGE was of opinion that a mistaken view had been taken of the Act of Parliament. After the composition resolutions had been duly passed, the equity of redemption in these shares which had previously vested in the trustee had been divested out of him, and re-vested in the debtor, who had become a free man, having all his rights restored to him. The mortgagees must realise their security by action in the High Court, and then if any balance remained unpaid, they would have a right to enforce payment of the composition for such balance in this Court under the last clause of s. 28 of the Bankruptcy Act.

The order below must be discharged, with costs in both courts.

Practice—Costs—County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868—31 & 32 Vict. c. 71—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LV., r. 1.

Action brought in the High Court for damage to cargo. The amount claimed was under 300*l.*, and the matter was consequently within the jurisdiction of the County Court under s. 3 of 31 & 32 Vict. c. 71. The action was tried by a jury, who returned a verdict for the plaintiffs for 73*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.* The judge gave judgment for that amount; but, no application having been made to him for that purpose, did not certify under s. 9 of the above Act that the cause was a proper one to be tried in the Superior Court.

The plaintiffs having applied to a master to tax their costs of action, the master refused, on the ground that less than 300*l.* having been recovered, and no certificate having been given by the judge, the plaintiffs were by the above last-mentioned section deprived of their right to costs.

The plaintiffs then applied to the Court for an order to the master to tax.

THE COURT (Field and Manisty, JJ.) held that s. 9 of 31 & 32 Vict. c. 71, was inconsistent with and repealed by Order LV., r. 1, of the Rules of Court, 1875, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to their costs of action.

DUNCAN, FOX, & Co. v. NORTH AND SOUTH WALES BANK. Bills of Exchange—Indorsers—Sureties—Securities.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a previous decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the county palatine of Lancaster (11 Ch. D. 88). Samuel Collins Radford & Sons carried on the business of dealers in wheat. They were desirous of getting their bills discounted at the North and South Wales Bank, and on the 1st of December, 1874, Mr. S. C. Radford deposited with the bank the title-deeds of two freehold properties of his own, and signed a memorandum acknowledging that the deeds had been so deposited to secure to the bank the balance for the time being owing to the bank by the firm of Radford & Sons for discounts, advances, and all other moneys in which the said firm might become indebted to the bank. In November, 1875, Duncan, Fox, & Co. sold a cargo of wheat to Radford & Sons. This wheat was partly paid for in cash, and a bill was tendered for the remainder, which Duncan & Co. declined to receive, and suggested that Radford & Co. should get the bill discounted at their own bankers and hand over the proceeds. One of the Radfords told Duncan & Co. that if they would inquire at their own bankers (the North and South Wales Bank), they would find that it would be all right with the Radfords' bills. Mr. Duncan answered, "If the bank will accept those bills without our indorsement, then I can oblige you." The manager of the bank on being applied to said it was contrary to custom to pass the proceeds of bills to the credit of a person whose name was not on them, but he believed that Duncan, Fox, & Co. would incur no more than a nominal responsibility by putting their names on the bills. Duncan & Co. then took the bills, indorsed them, and the bankers discounted them and placed the proceeds to the account of Duncan & Co. The bills were dishonoured, and in January, 1876, Radford & Sons stopped payment, and executed a deed of inspectorship. Duncan & Co. had not up to that time any knowledge of the deposit, by S. Collins Radford, of the deeds of the freehold property. They afterwards became aware of it, and now claimed the benefit of the security afforded by such deposit, as against the bills of Radford & Co., on which Duncan & Co., by making themselves indorsers, had become responsible. The Vice-Chancellor of the county palatine had held that Duncan & Co. were entitled to have this benefit. The Court of Appeal had reversed his decision, and this appeal was then brought.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. F. Robinson, Q.C., and Mr. Neville, were for the Messrs. Duncan.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Marten, Q.C., and Mr. F. Thompson, were for the creditors of Radford & Co. other than Duncan & Co. and the bank.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., Mr. Rotch, and Mr. Charles Peile, were for the bank, but did not address the House.

THE LORDS considered Duncan & Co. to stand in the character of sureties on these bills, and to be entitled in that character to have the benefit of the property deposited with the bank in 1874. The judgment of the Court below was, therefore, reversed, and that of the Vice-Chancellor of the county palatine restored.

DEBENHAM & FREEBODY v. MELLON. Nov 27.
Husband and Wife—Tradesman's Bills.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had affirmed a ruling of Mr. Justice Bowen. The appellants were drapers in Wigmore Street, the defendant lived at Bradford. The appellants had supplied Mrs. Mellon with clothes for herself and children, to the amount of 43*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*, and they brought an action against the husband to recover that sum. It was admitted that the things supplied came within the description of necessaries, and that they were charged at reasonable and proper prices. It was also admitted that at the time the goods were supplied the husband and wife were living together in the ordinary way. But the defence set up was, that in 1869 a verbal agreement was made between the husband and wife by which the wife was forbidden to pledge the husband's credit, he making her an allowance. The prohibition was continued from that time down to and including the date when the plaintiffs supplied their goods to the wife. The plaintiffs had no notice or knowledge of the existence of this prohibition. At the trial in December, 1879, before Mr. Justice Bowen, the question put to the jury was, whether at the time the goods were supplied Mellon had withdrawn from his wife authority to pledge his credit, and had forbidden her to do so. The jurors answered this question in the affirmative, whereon the learned Judge directed the verdict to be entered for the defendant, and the Court of Appeal sustained the ruling (5 Q. B. D. 394). The case was then brought up to this House.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. A. L. Smith, for the appellants.
Mr. Willis, Q.C., Mr. McCall, and Mr. Newson, for the respondent.

THE LORDS, following the decision in Jolly v. Rees in the Common Pleas in 1864 (15 Com. B. (N.S.) 628; 33 Law J. (N.S.) C. P. 177), held that the husband having prohibited his wife from pledging his credit, the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Duchy of Lancaster. Nov. 22.
OCEANIC STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY v. SUTHERBERRY.
Administrator—Underlease by, with Option of Purchase—Breach of Trust.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Mr. Little, the Vice-Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

In January, 1873, the defendant, W. L. Sutherberry, who was the administrator of his father, he and his two sisters being the sole next-of-kin, granted an underlease for twenty-one years, at an annual rent of 500*l.*, of a shipwright's yard in Neptune Street and Great Howard Street, Liverpool, to the plaintiff company (who are commonly known as the White Star Company). The property was held under a lease for seventy-five years, granted in 1861 by the Corporation of Liverpool, which was subsequently assigned to Mr. Sutherberry, the father. The underlease to the plaintiffs contained a clause providing that Sutherberry (the son) would not at any time before the 1st of December, 1879, sell the property without first offering it to the company for the residue of the term of seventy-five years at the price of 6500*l.*, and allowing them three months for determining on the acceptance of such offer, and that the company should in like manner at any time before the 1st of December, 1879, and before the property should be sold as aforesaid, have the option of purchasing the same at the above price for the residue of the term of seventy-five years upon giving three months' notice. After the execution of the underlease the company entered into possession of the property, and laid out at least 6000*l.* in the erection of buildings. In May, 1878, they gave notice of their desire to exercise the option of purchase. Difficulties arose in the completion of the purchase, because the daughters of the intestate father and their trustees opposed it, and ultimately the present action was brought by the company to enforce specific performance of the agreement for an option of purchase. The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the evidence proved that at the date of the underlease the property would have been well sold for 6500*l.*, and that it was well let at 500*l.* a year. But his Honour held that the agreement which it was sought to enforce amounted to a breach of trust on the part of the administrator, and for this reason he refused to enforce specific performance.

The company appealed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Neville, for the appellants.

F. Thompson, for the administrator.

North, Q.C., and Clare, Gazdar, and S. Hall, for the other next-of-kin and their trustees.

Lake and Arkle, for the mortgagees.

The respondents were not called on.

JESSEL, M.R., said that he regretted to be obliged to come to a conclusion which, although according to law, was apparently great hardship upon the plaintiffs. He was unable to dissent from the conclusion of the Vice-Chancellor. An administrator was considered in a Court of Equity as a trustee, and his primary duty was to sell the intestate's effects for the payment of his debts. It was true that in some cases he might underlet leasehold property, and the underlease would be supported in equity as well as at law. But that was an exceptional mode of dealing with assets, and those who accepted a title of that kind must take it subject to the question whether it was a necessary mode of administration. It might be that the letting of the property for 500l. a year was a proper and beneficial letting, but the question was whether it was proper to fetter the exercise of the trust for sale by preventing the administrator from selling the property to any one but the plaintiffs, for a period of seven years at a price fixed then. In the case of an ordinary trustee such a transaction could not be supported, and it seemed to him that to support it in the present case would be a dangerous and unwarranted extension of the power reposed in an administrator. The agreement was a breach of trust, and specific performance of it could not be enforced. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

JAMES and LUSH, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

THE COURT added to the Vice-Chancellor's order a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to the benefit of the agreement, so far as the administrator's own beneficial interest was concerned.

In re GREAT BRITAIN LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

Company—Winding-up—Jurisdiction—Mutual Life Assurance Society—Liability of Policy-holders—Disputed Claim—Reduction of Amount of Contracts—Companies Act, 1862, s. 91—Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870, ss. 21, 22.

Two petitions were presented for the winding-up of the above society, which was an unregistered mutual one. The only members were the policy-holders, and the deed of settlement expressly provided that no member of the society should be personally liable in respect of any policies, but that the property of the society should alone be liable to satisfy them, and each policy contained a provision to the same effect. The first petitioner was the administratrix of a deceased policy-holder. The directors had disputed the claim, on the ground that the state of the health of the assured had been misrepresented when the policy was granted, and the petitioner had commenced an action against the society which was still pending when the petition was presented. The petitioner filed affidavits by a number of persons who had been acquainted with the assured to prove that there had been no misrepresentation. The only evidence adduced by the society in answer to this was that of the belief of some of their officers. The second petition was presented by the holder of a still current policy. The two petitions came on for hearing together by Hall, V.-C., and the society did not oppose the making of a winding-up order. The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the society were bonâ fide disputing the claim of the first petitioner, and he therefore made a winding-up order on the second petition, giving the first petitioner liberty to apply for the costs of her petition in case her claim should ultimately be established. The first petitioner appealed. After the hearing by the Vice-Chancellor, a committee of policy-holders was formed, who desired that the Court should exercise the power given by s. 22 of the Life Assurance Companies Act of 1870, to reduce the amount of the contracts of the society, so as to make it solvent again.

Ince, Q.C., and A. Beddall, for the first petitioner.

Hastings, Q.C., and G. Cave, for the second petitioner.

Robinson, Q.C., and B. Fossett Lock, for a policy-holder.

A. Dunham, for policy-holders.

Davey, Q.C., for the society and for the committee of policy-holders, asked that the winding-up order might be discharged, and that a meeting of the policy-holders might be held for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.JJ.) held that there was jurisdiction under s. 21 of the Act of 1870 to wind up such a society, and that, as the case stood before the Vice-Chancellor, the order ought to have been made on the first petition. It was not enough for the respondents to say that they disputed the petitioner's claim; they were bound to make such a primâ facie case as would shew the Court that there was a question to be tried. But, inasmuch as a considerable number of policy-holders had come forward and asked the Court to exercise its power under s. 22, the Court ought, looking at the great loss which would result to many of the policy-holders from a winding-up, to direct a meeting of the policy-holders to be held to ascertain their wishes. The winding-up order would, therefore, be discharged, and the hearing of the appeal would stand over. The proceedings on the action would be stayed.

THEIR LORDSHIPS expressed a strong opinion that the policy-holders in a mutual society could not be called upon to contribute to the payment of any debts, and that the only thing which could be done in the winding-up was to distribute the assets among the policy-holders, after providing for the costs, in proportion to the amounts of their claims.

Infants Custody Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 12, s. 1)—Application to vary Order—Appeal—Locus standi.

In 1878, upon the petition of a mother under the above Act, Vice-Chancellor Malins ordered the father to deliver an infant daughter into the petitioner's custody "until she should attain 16 or further order." The father now moved for leave to appeal from the Vice-Chancellor's order, notwithstanding the expiration of the time limited by Order LVIII, rr. 9, 15, on the ground that there were circumstances which now rendered it unfit that the mother should have the custody of the child.

W. Renshaw, for the motion.

Freeman, for the mother.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the proper course was, not to appeal, but to move before the Vice-Chancellor to vary the order. This could be done at any time, as the order was only "until further order." The provisions of s. 1 of the Act, that the application must be made by the mother, applied only to the original petition.

Practice—Judgment Creditor—Elegit—Equity of Redemption—Application for Receiver—Interlocutory Order—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 8.

The plaintiff in this action having recovered judgment sued out a writ of elegit. The defendant had no goods or lands which the sheriff could deliver. It appeared, however, that he was entitled to the equity of redemption of certain freehold and leasehold property. The plaintiff accordingly, without commencing any fresh action for the purpose, made an application to a judge at chambers for the appointment of a receiver, which application was refused. A similar application to the Queen's Bench Division having also been refused, the plaintiff then applied to the Court of Appeal. The question was whether such an application could be made in the original action after judgment, or whether it was necessary to commence a new action for the purpose in accordance with the old practice of the Court of Chancery.

Willis Bund, for the plaintiff.

Robert Williams, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Baggallay, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the words "interlocutory order" in s. 25, sub-s. 8 of the Judicature Act, 1873, were not confined in their meaning to an order made between writ and final judgment, but meant an order other than final judgment in an action, whether such order were made before judgment or after; and that under those words the Court were empowered to make an order in the original action for the appointment of a receiver after final judgment pronounced.

Bankruptcy—Annuling Adjudication—Subsequent Resolution for Composition—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 28, sub-s. 10—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 125, 126, 266.

On the 25th of September, 1880, W. Stanley filed a petition for liquidation or composition in the London Bankruptcy Court.

On the 4th of October he was duly adjudicated bankrupt in the Birmingham County Court. No stay of proceedings under the adjudication was ordered.

On the 11th of October the first meeting of creditors was held under the liquidation petition, when the creditors present passed a unanimous resolution to accept a composition from the debtor. This resolution, having been confirmed, was presented to the registrar of the London Bankruptcy Court, sitting as Chief Judge, who registered it, notwithstanding the opposition of one of the creditors. The creditor appealed from this decision.

Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

McCall, for the debtor, relied on Ex parte Foster (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 59) and Ex parte Davis (2 Ch. D. 231).

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.), held that Ex parte Foster substantially differed from the present case. There the adjudication was merely provisional, and was ancillary to what might be the result of the intended meeting of the creditors; and this was in accordance with rule 266. But in the present case the adjudication was made on sufficient materials, and was intended to be final. After that there was no power under the Act to register any resolution for liquidation. The 23rd section of the Act had no operation in this case. Under that section the trustees must approve of a scheme, and then, with the sanction of the Court, the bankruptcy might be changed into liquidation. But such a scheme did not require registration, and, moreover, in this case the trustee was opposing the liquidation. Therefore the order for registration must be reversed. Their Lordships added that in their opinion the decision of the Chief Judge in Ex parte Davis (2 Ch. D. 231) could not be supported, and must be considered as overruled by the present decision.

Ex parte WILLIAMS.

Consolidation of Mortgages—One Mortgage ceasing to exist.

In this case Raggett and Williams, two members of the firm of Raggett, Williams, & Beadon, which afterwards became bankrupt, made an equitable mortgage of a leasehold house in the city of London to W. J. Williams for securing 500*l.* and interest. This house was held as part of the partnership property.

A few months afterwards the firm mortgaged a leasehold house in Mansfield Street to W. J. Williams for securing 200*l.* and interest.

The house in the city of London was held on a lease which contained a proviso for forfeiture and re-entry on the bankruptcy of the lessees. The firm having become bankrupt, the landlord entered and put an end to the lease.

Under these circumstances Williams claimed in the bankruptcy to consolidate his two mortgage debts of 500*l.* and 200*l.*, so that the house in Mansfield Street should not be redeemed until payment of both debts.

The Registrar, sitting as Chief Judge, refused to allow the claim, on the ground that the bankrupts' title to the house in the city of London had ceased to exist, and therefore there could be no consolidation. The creditors appealed from this decision.

Romer, for the appellant, cited Barrow v. Manning (ante, p. 108).

Winslow, Q.C., and G. W. Lawrance, for the trustee, were not called on.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was not disposed to carry the doctrine of consolidation of mortgages any further than had been actually decided by authority. There was no reported case in which a mortgagee had been allowed to consolidate a mortgage debt with one which had once been a mortgage debt, but the security for which had ceased to exist. This was the ground on which the Registrar had decided the case, and he agreed with his opinion. That was sufficient for the dismissal of the appeal. If Barrow v. Manning was inconsistent with this, it could not be supported. He also thought that a mortgage by three persons could not be consolidated with one by two of them as trustees for the three.

COTTON and LUSH, L.JJ., agreed that the appeal must be dismissed on the first ground, but gave no opinion on the second.

WINSPEAR v. ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Insurance—Injury by Accident—Drowning—Epileptic Fit—Construction of Policy.

Special case. The plaintiff was the executrix of William Winspear, who had effected an insurance with the defendants against "any personal injury caused by external and visible means," and the policy was for the payment of 1000*l.* in case the direct effect of such injury should occasion the death of the insured within three calendar months, but it was subject to a proviso by which it was provided, inter alia, that the insurance should "not extend to death by suicide, whether felonious or otherwise, or to any injury caused by or arising from natural disease or weakness, or exhaustion consequent upon disease." It appeared from this case that the insured, whilst fording a brook, was seized with an epileptic fit and fell, and there, whilst suffering such fit, was drowned in the waters of the brook, and that he did not sustain any personal injury to occasion death other than drowning.

The Exchequer Division decided that the death was occasioned by an injury within the meaning of the policy, and gave judgment for the plaintiff for 1000*l.*

The defendants appealed.

Cohen, Q.C., and Gainsford Bruce, for the defendants.

Crump and Tarleton, for the plaintiff, was not called on.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Baggallay and Brett, L.J.J.) affirmed the judgment, holding that the injury was covered by the risk insured, and that it was not within the words of the proviso.

Practice—Order dismissing Action for want of Prosecution—Appeal from Order—Power to enlarge Time—Order L.VII, r. 6.

On the 17th of June last, Master Francis made an order ordering that the action should be dismissed for want of prosecution unless the plaintiff should file an affidavit in answer to interrogatories within seven days. On the 24th of June the plaintiff made the affidavit required, but it was not filed until the 25th of June, when the time limited by the order had expired, and the action was therefore at an end. The plaintiff then applied to extend the time for filing such affidavit, but his application failed, on the ground, as decided by Whistler v. Hancock (3 Q. B. D. 83), that the action being at an end, there was no jurisdiction to extend the time. He then took out a summons to rescind the order of Master Francis, and on the 9th of July Master Gordon made an order to that effect. The defendant thereupon appealed, and the matter came before Hawkins, J., who adjourned the appealed summons to the 4th of November, and in the meantime two summonses were taken out by the plaintiff, one to extend the time for appealing from the order of Master Francis, and another to vary it by making the time for filing the affidavit fourteen days instead of seven days, and on the hearing of these summonses Hawkins, J., made orders accordingly in those terms. The defendant appealed, and the Divisional Court of the Common Pleas affirmed these orders.

The defendant now appealed to this Court.

Gould, for the defendant.

Reid, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay and Brett, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, holding that under Order L.VII, r. 6, Hawkins, J., had jurisdiction to enlarge the time for appealing from the order of Master Francis after the action had become dismissed, and that there was nothing to justify this Court in overruling the discretion he had exercised in so enlarging the time.

Previously to the marriage of Edward Viret with Constance Wright, a Mr. Mackenzie, a friend of Miss Wright's, wrote a letter to Mr. Viret asking him in the event of his marrying before a settlement could be prepared to write a letter to Miss Wright's solicitor engaging to make a settlement of her property. A letter was accordingly written by Mr. Viret, agreeing to settle her property, which was entirely reversionary. At the same time negotiations as to a settlement of Miss Wright's property and also of Mr. Viret's property were going on between their respective solicitors, but the marriage took place without any settlement being executed.

This action was brought in order to determine whether the letter written by Mr. Viret constituted a binding agreement for a settlement.

Millar, Q.C., and Warrington, for Mr. Viret, contended, first, that there was no writing within the Statute of Frauds, and next, that the marriage took place without relation to the letter.

Coll, for the issue of the marriage.

Everitt, for trustees.

HIS LORDSHIP was of opinion on the evidence that a settlement had always been contemplated, and that the letter was written in connection with the marriage which took place soon afterwards and according to the letter. Mr. Mackenzie was to be considered as agent for Miss Wright, and there was a valid agreement for a settlement. Mr. Viret must do all that he could to give effect to the agreement, and his wife must concur. The settlement would be in the usual form, and would be approved of in chambers.

Practice—Taxation of Costs—Expenses of Witnesses.

Summons to review taxation.

By a decree made in the action in January last by Mr. Justice Fry, the defendant was ordered to pay the plaintiff his costs of the action. The taxing master had allowed to the plaintiff, and charged the defendant, for a batch of witnesses, who had attended the Court from Wales, sums at the rate of 25s. a day for each, taking them all round. The defendant objected to this charge as extravagant. As to one of the witnesses, it was stated on one side that he was a farmer, on the other that he was a farm labourer; the rest were farmers, except one, who was a public-house keeper.

J. Horne Payne, for the summons:—By the scale of Hilary Term, 1853, which was never binding in Chancery, and has ceased, the allowance for a labourer would have been 7s. 6d., and for a yeoman farmer 15s. a day. So also by the Order of 1879 under the Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874. The Court will follow this analogy, and review the taxation, not merely in cases where the master has committed an error of principle, but where he is clearly and palpably wrong: Clarke v. Tyne Commissioners (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 230).

Hemming, Q.C., and Snape, for the report.

Payne, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that no assistance was to be derived from the scales that had been referred to. The matter was one of discretion. The master had considered the whole matter, and treating this cargo of witnesses altogether, had considered 25s. a day for each a fair allowance, not merely for their maintenance in London, but for their loss of time in attending to their respective businesses. He could not see that the master had gone wrong, and the summons must be dismissed with costs.

Will—Leaseholds—Tenant for Life—Discretionary Power of Sale—Right to enjoy Income of Leaseholds in Specie.

The testator, John Leonard, gave and bequeathed all his freehold and leasehold properties and personal estate to three persons to such uses as they, or the survivors or survivor, or the executors or administrators of such survivor, should appoint, and subject thereto, unto and to the use of the same three persons, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, "according to the respective tenures and natures thereof." Testator declared that the power of appointment was vested in his trustees, and the freehold and leasehold properties and personal estate were devised and bequeathed to them upon trust that they should deal with them according to the trusts of his will. He declared that it should be lawful for the trustees and trustee for the time being of his will, "in their or his absolute discretion, and if and when they or he shall think fit, but not otherwise," to sell and dispose of his said freehold and leasehold properties and personal estate in such manner as they, or he, "in their, or his, discretion shall see fit, and in every respect as they or he could sell the same if beneficially entitled thereto." He then directed that the trustees or trustee should stand possessed of his real and personal properties and moneys to arise by the sale thereof, after payment of costs, charges, and expenses, upon trust to pay "the annual income" thereof to his daughter Emily King (a married woman) during her life, for her sole and separate use, and after her death to pay one moiety of "such annual income" unto William Thomas King (her husband) for his life, and subject thereto, upon trust for all and every such one or more of the children or child of Emily King as she should appoint, and in default for all her children as therein mentioned. The will contained a power of leasing.

The question upon further consideration was whether Emily King (now a widow) was entitled to the rents and profits of the leaseholds in specie.

Simmonds, for the widow.

Bush, for other parties.

C. H. Turner, for an infant child of Emily King, contended that all Mrs. King was entitled to was interest, for life, on the capitalized value of the leaseholds, at 4 per cent.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the rule in Howe v. Lord Dartmouth (7 Ves. 137) had no application to cases like the present, where an absolute discretion was given to the trustees, a discretion with which the Court had neither the inclination nor the right to interfere, and declared that the widow was entitled to the income of the unsold leaseholds in specie.

PETERS v. EAST GRINSTEAD RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Purchase of Lands by Agreement—Power of Sale—Termination of the Power—Parties under Disability, Agreement by—Ascertainment of Purchase-money—Trustee appointed Surveyor—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, ss. 6, 7, 8, 9.

A testator by will gave residue (which included a freehold property) to trustees upon trust for his wife for life, and after her death to pay and assure the same to his two daughters (of whom the plaintiff was one) in equal shares as tenants in common, and if either of them should die without issue to the survivor, and if either or both should die leaving issue, the issue were to take the parent's share on attaining 21 years, "and for the purpose of division" he empowered his trustees to sell his residuary estate, and he declared that his trustees should be entitled to charge and be paid for all business, whether strictly professional or not, done by them in relation to the trust estate.

Before the testator's death the company had given him notice to treat in respect of a portion of the freehold property, but the trustees after his death required them to take the whole, and brought an action to compel them to do so. The company then paid into Court 4950*l.*, and took possession, and the testator's widow having meanwhile died, the trustees agreed to sell the whole property to the company at a price to be determined by two able practical surveyors under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 9, and, as one of the trustees was an able practical surveyor, they appointed him as their surveyor. The price was then determined by him and the company's surveyor at 3400*l.*, and this amount was carried over out of the fund in Court to answer the purchase, the rest of the amount paid in was paid out to the company, and the trustees conveyed the property to the company. The sale was effected without the consent of the plaintiff, but with the consent of her sister.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the plaintiff.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and J. T. Prior, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as the plaintiff and her sister were absolutely entitled, the property was "at home," and the trustees had no longer any power to sell; that if they sold under ss. 6, 7, 8, 9, of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, as persons under disability, they should have first fixed the price by agreement, and then tested its sufficiency under s. 9; moreover, that the appointment of a trustee to be surveyor on the part of the trustees was not in accordance with the Act; and consequently that the company had acquired no title to the undivided moiety of the plaintiff and her trustees, and that the latter were entitled to hold and enjoy that moiety as tenants in common with the company of the other moiety.

WYE VALLEY RAILWAY COMPANY v. HAWES.

Action against Directors to recover Moneys paid as Dividend out of Capital—Ex parte Application to serve Notice on Third Parties—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI., rr. 18, 20, 21.

An adjourned summons. This action was commenced in August, 1879, against the five directors of the company; the contractors and the financial agents (Messrs. Grant), for, inter alia, declarations that all the defendants were liable to repay to the company a sum of money which it was alleged had been expended in the purchase of a sum of Great Western Railway stock; and that the directors were liable to repay to the company all moneys paid by them out of the capital of the company as interest or dividends on the ordinary and preference shares of the company; and for accounts; for damages; for misfeasances and breaches of trust; and costs. The case was that the directors had improperly paid a dividend to certain preference and other shareholders, some 450 in number, and that the company, comprising the shareholders who had received the dividend, were now seeking to make the directors personally liable for such payment. The directors were advised that if they should be held liable, they would have a right to recover from such shareholders the sums which they had received as dividend on their shares, and consequently a summons was in May, 1880, taken out on their behalf that they might have six weeks further time to deliver their statement of defence; and that they might be at liberty to issue a notice to, and serve the same upon all the past or present ordinary and preference shareholders to whom any part of the proceeds of the stock (above mentioned) had been paid by way of interest or dividend, claiming to be indemnified by such shareholders against all liability the applicants might be under to the company in respect of the sums so paid.

Romer, for the directors, referred to Rules of Court, Order XVI., rr. 18, 20, 21, and contended that they applied to third party notices, strictly so-called, and that leave to issue them should be applied for ex parte, as the case of the plaintiff would be in no way affected until it was known whether the third parties wished to intervene. The probability was they would not wish to do so.

Whitehorne, for the plaintiff company, suggested that there was a preliminary question as to whether the application could be made ex parte as against the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that notice of the application should be given to the plaintiff.

Romer then contended that this being a question of contribution and indemnity, it was a case in which the Court should give leave to serve notice on third parties.

Whitehorne was not called upon to oppose the application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR holding that it could not be entertained, on the ground that it would not merely be inconvenient to sanction it, but that it would be a proceeding which would embarrass the plaintiff, and might affect persons who had since become shareholders, and the creditors who might be interested in the question. Each shareholder served might raise a different defence, and other questions might have to be decided in the same litigation. The directors must be left to take the ordinary course. The application would be dismissed with costs.

Conveyance by Trustees and Husband and Wife to Husband—Non-execution of Deed by Husband—Fines and Recoveries Abolition Act, s. 77—Purchase by the Board of Works—Wife a necessary Party to Conveyance.

Adjourned summons. Under a will Mrs. Green, the wife of Francis Gwinnett Green, and her three brothers became entitled to certain freehold property, vested in three trustees, in equal fourth parts. F. G. Green purchased of his three brothers-in-law their three-fourth parts. By an indenture dated the 1st of March, 1871, the trustees (F. G. Green and his wife being parties of the second part, and F. G. Green of the third part) and Mrs. Green conveyed the entirety of the property to F. G. Green. The deed was executed by the trustees and Mrs. Green, and it was acknowledged by her, but it was not executed by F. G. Green.

F. G. Green some time afterwards made his will, devising the property to two trustees upon certain trusts, and died. Since his death the Metropolitan Board of Works had under the provisions of the Artizans &c. Act, 1875, purchased the property for the sum of 2525*l.*, and they required the concurrence of Mrs. Green in the conveyance, on the ground that the deed of 1871 was not binding upon her. The vendors declined to obtain Mrs. Green's concurrence, on the ground that it was not necessary.

By arrangement between the parties, Mrs. Green agreeing in writing to be bound by the decision of the Court, and to join in the conveyance, a summons was taken out by the Board under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, for the opinion of the Court, the trustees and Mrs. Green being respondents. The question was whether or not under the Fines and Recoveries Abolition Act, s. 77, execution by the husband was essential to the validity of the deed.

Chester, for the wife.

V. R. Smith, for the trustees.

SEAB v. HOUSE PROPERTY AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY.

Demise of Business Premises—Covenant by Lessee not to assign without Consent, but not to be unreasonably withheld—Consent refused—Action for Injunction or Damages—Demurrer allowed.

The plaintiff, a grocer and tea dealer, carrying on business at Peckham, in July, 1879, obtained a lease of the house and premises, now vested in the defendant company, for twenty-one years, determinable as therein mentioned. The plaintiff covenanted with the lessor, his executors, administrators, and assigns, that he, his executors, administrators, and assigns, would not carry on or suffer to be carried on any other business upon the premises than that of a grocer and tea dealer (including the sale of wines and spirits) without the previous consent in writing of the lessor, his executors, &c., and that he, his executors, administrators, and permitted assigns should not assign or underlease the premises without the like previous consent in writing, but such consent not to be unreasonably withheld, and on the granting of such consent the plaintiff, his executors, &c., should pay to the solicitor of the lessor, his executors, &c., a fee of two guineas for the preparation of such consent; and that the plaintiff, his executors, &c., should within one month after any assignment or underlease by him or them or his or their underlessees give notice in writing to the lessor, his executors, &c., or his or their solicitor or agent, of such assignment or underlease, and the nature and object thereof. In July, 1880, the plaintiff, who was indebted to his father in various sums of money, and was desirous of securing the same by a mortgage of the premises by way of underlease, applied to the defendants for the necessary licence. The father was stated to be a respectable person, and that no reasonable objection could possibly be made to the underlease to him, and none had been made, but the defendants had, as alleged, unreasonably withheld the licence, although frequently applied to to grant the same, and solely for the purpose of causing vexation and embarrassment to the plaintiff. The plaintiff had, as alleged, incurred legal and other expenses, and had been put to great loss and inconvenience, and he claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from withholding their consent to the proposed underlease, and an order on them to give it in accordance with the covenants in the lease, and to have them specifically performed, or, in the alternative, if the Court should not think fit to grant such relief, damages for the unreasonable withholding of the consent, and, in any event, damages for the loss occasioned to the plaintiff by the defendants' breach of the covenants, and costs.

The defendants demurred to the statement of claim as being bad in law, on the ground that it shewed no covenant or contract binding them to grant the licences claimed by the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and W. H. Gover, for the demurrer.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and N. Lawrence, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that if he were to decide the case quite irrespective of any authority, he should hold that on a fair reading of the clause the words in question merely qualified the obligation contained in it; but he should adopt the judgment in Treloar v. Bigge (Law Rep. 9 Ex. 151), which applied to the case, and hold that there was not any covenant on the part of the lessor to give his consent; therefore the foundation of the action failed, and the demurrer must be allowed.

The husband and wife covenanted with the trustees that if at any time during the joint lives any further portion, fortune, or estate, should come to or devolve upon the wife, or upon the husband, or either of them, through her or in her right, by descent, or by any will, or by donation, or settlement, they would settle all such estate, "except such future portion, fortune, or estate, as shall be

There were children of the marriage. Mrs. Gooch, by a codicil to her will made in 1876, bequeathed to Mrs. Kane the sum of 2000*l.* for her separate use, free from the debts, control, and engagement of any husband, when the same should be paid, and her receipt alone should be a sufficient discharge to the trustees for the money.

The plaintiff's husband and children claimed to have a declaration that the legacy was bound by the provisions of the settlement of 1857.

Official Referee—Judicature Act, 1873, ss. 56, 57—Reference of Issues—Trial of Action.

This was an action for accounts and for the removal of a trustee. The parties had agreed that certain questions should be referred to an official referee, but desired that further consideration should be reserved, that the question of the costs might come before the judge.

The question arose in what form the order referring the questions to the official referee should be made.

Millar, Q.C. (Gregory Walker with him), for the defendant.

Fry, J., ordered that the agreed issues should be referred to the official referee, and that the trial of the action should stand over until the official referee's report should be made, with liberty to apply.

Prosecution of Fraudulent Debtor with Accomplices—Alleged Implication of Trustees—Creditor ordered to prosecute—Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62) ss. 11, 16—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 71.

Appeal from County Court at Colchester.

In May, 1868, Edward Cornell bought a parcel of hops from John Orbell the debtor, and the goods not being delivered, Cornell brought an action against Orbell, in which he recovered judgment; and execution having been issued, J. Orbell on the 6th of June, 1878, filed a liquidation petition, the appellant, John Evans, acting as his solicitor. On the same day Thomas Harry Cooper was appointed receiver. On the 10th of June following, David Felton proved for an alleged debt of 298*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* and at an adjourned first meeting of creditors on the 13th of July, Cornell, the chairman, formally indorsed an objection to Felton's proof. On the 22nd of July the liquidation resolutions were registered by means of Felton's debt, and the certificate of Cooper as trustee was signed. Cornell's objection was referred to the trustee; and several notices were served by the registrar on Cornell to attend and support his objection, but he failed to attend, on the last occasion through illness, and on the 24th of October, 1878, the trustee, on the uncontradicted evidence of Felton, the debtor, and of William Orbell, the debtor's son, that the money was lent by Felton to the debtor, and was still owing, admitted the proof. Cornell having been ordered to pay the costs of his objection, appealed; and upon the hearing of the appeal motion, on the 16th of April, 1879, the learned County Court judge, on the application of Cornell's solicitor, directed a further inquiry before himself and a jury. On the 11th of August, 1879, the jury found for Cornell; Felton's proof was disallowed, and the costs of the trial were ordered to be paid by the trustee and Felton. Notice of appeal against the verdict and order was given by Felton and Cooper on the 23rd of September, and on the 30th of September, 1879, the County Court judge, on the representation of Cornell, directed Cornell to prosecute the debtor, the trustee, Evans and Felton, for offences under the Debtors Act, 1869. The order was filed on the 5th of November. On the 10th of January an information was laid against the four last-named persons for a conspiracy to defeat the bankruptcy laws; and on the 6th of February, 1880, the magistrates dismissed the charge against Evans and the trustees; but committed Felton and the debtor for trial.

On the 10th of February, the solicitor, Evans, gave notice of a motion to expunge from the file of proceedings so much of the order of the 30th of September, 1879, as referred to him. In this notice he was described as "a person aggrieved by" the order. The County Court judge, on the 18th of February, refused to make any order on this motion; and this was the order now appealed from. On the 15th of March, 1880, the present appeal was in the paper, but the hearing was adjourned until after the conclusion of the prosecution, which resulted in Felton and the debtor being convicted at the Chelmsford Assizes on the 19th of July, 1880, for conspiring to prove a fictitious debt, and to defeat the Bankruptcy Laws. They were sentenced to one year's imprisonment with hard labour. The appeal of the 23rd of September had been ordered to stand over, and proceedings in the liquidation had been ordered to be stayed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the appellant.

Northmore Lawrence, for the respondent, Cornell:—The appellant is not "a person aggrieved" within the 71st section of the Bankruptcy Act: Ex parte Brown (2 Ch. D. 799), and cases there referred to.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply:—The appellant has been acquitted of any charge ever made against him, and hence is "a person aggrieved" within the 71st section.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he entertained no doubt about the case. The application to take proceedings off the file in bankruptcy was a most unusual one, and under the circumstances most unreasonable. The appellant was clearly, both on authority and principle, not "a person aggrieved" within the 71st section. The appeal was erroneous, and must be dismissed with costs.

Bill of Sale—Failure to set forth Consideration—Bills of Sale Act 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 8.

Appeal from an order of the County Court at Bedford, dismissing an application by the trustee to have a bill of sale declared void as against him.

The instrument, dated the 14th of January, 1879, recited as follows: "Whereas the said Elizabeth Field hath agreed to lend to the said Frederick Alexander Young the sum of 65*l.* upon having the repayment thereof with interest secured to her in manner hereinafter expressed, now this indenture witnesseth that in pursuance of the said agreement and in consideration of the sum of 65*l.* now paid to the said Frederick Alexander Young by the said Elizabeth Field," F. A. Young assigned to E. Field the goods and chattels specified.

The facts were that the 65*l.* was advanced on loan by Miss Field to the debtor, Young, at intervals as follows: 12*l.* on the 16th of April, 1877, 16*l.* on the 16th of June, 1877, 20*l.* on the 10th of November, 1877, 10*l.* on the 25th of July, 1878, and 7*l.* on the 16th of November, 1878.

E. Cooper Willis, for the appealing trustee, referred to observations of Grove, J., in Hamlyn v. Betteley (5 C. P. D. 327).

Jacques, for the bill of sale holder, relied upon Credit Company v. Pott (42 L. T. Rep. 592).

THE CHIEF JUDGE observed that the circumstances of the case last cited were totally different from those of the present. The Act of Parliament required that a bill of sale should set forth the consideration for which it was given; otherwise that as against a trustee it should be deemed fraudulent and void. The statement in this bill of sale of the consideration for which it was given was a mere falsehood, and rendered the bill of sale wholly void. The appeal must be allowed, with costs.

Bankruptcy—Proof of Debt—Cheques drawn against Bills—Dishonour of Bills—Invalid Security.

Appeal on behalf of William Griffith Hughes, claiming to be a creditor of the estate of Thomas Cobb, bankrupt, against an order of the judge of the Liverpool County Court on the 30th of July, 1880, directing the proof of the appellant to be reduced from 1830*l.* 11*s.* 1*d.* to 35*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.*, admitted by the trustee to be due to the appellant.

In 1876, John Richard Hughes, a brother of the appellant, being indebted to him in a sum of 1077*l.* for money lent, deposited with the appellant a number of documents as security, and gave him a memorandum of deposit, dated the 10th of June, 1876, charging the documents with payment of the debt and interest. On the 19th of June J. R. Hughes further charged the same documents with a sum of 465*l.* and interest, which was afterwards paid off. In the list of documents were seven cheques for various sums amounting together to 1830*l.* 11*s.* 1*d.*, and dated, one on the 27th of May, three on the 30th of May, two on the 31st of May, and one on the 10th of June, all in 1876. They were all drawn by the bankrupt in favour of J. R. Hughes, but the dates were not in the bankrupt's handwriting. The appellant deposed that he got them before the 19th, that they were all duly presented, and were all dishonoured, that he believed they had never left his custody, and that the amounts of them were still due. He admitted that he was told, when he received them, not to present them for some time.

The bankrupt stated that it was his practice in about 1875 to discount bills for J. R. Hughes, who was a quarry owner. Whenever the bankrupt's banker consented to discount the bills, the bankrupt used to give J. R. Hughes two cheques, one dated, the other undated, each for half the amount of the discounted value. In 1876 the bank asked for security, whereupon J. R. Hughes executed to the bank, on the 23rd of June, 1876, a second mortgage of the quarry for the sum of 2000*l.* At the same time the bank handed to J. R. Hughes 1000*l.* worth of the bills drawn by him and accepted by the bankrupt, which were running, and in return he and the bankrupt signed a promissory note for 1000*l.* to the bank. J. R. Hughes refused to return the cheques, until the security of the note for 1000*l.* had run off. The remainder of J. R. Hughes' bills, accepted by the bankrupt, and for which the rest of the cheques were given, were dishonoured; and finally the trustee paid off the bank, and became entitled to all the bank's securities.

The adjudication was dated the 13th of October, 1876. There was evidence to shew that the cheques were, for a time, again in the possession of J. R. Hughes after the 19th of June.

Winslow, Q. C., and Mulholland, for the appellant.

R. Horton Smith, Q. C., and Walton, for the trustee, were not called upon.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he could not accede to the argument that the appellant took these cheques unaffected by the equities between the bankrupt and J. R. Hughes. It was absurd to suppose that the appellant was not put upon inquiry from his brother, the bankrupt, how he became possessed of these overdue cheques. Little as the cheques were worth when they were drawn, they were of still less value when they were deposited. All that the appellant ventured to say was, that "he did not believe" he ever handed them back to his brother, and it was upon such evidence as this that the Court was asked to treat this assignment of overdue cheques as if it was a valid security for the sums mentioned in the cheques. The County Court judge was perfectly right; and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Poor Law—Settlement by Residence under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34—Removal, Order of, made without Corroboration—Corroboration before Sessions on Appeal.

Case stated from quarter sessions upon appeal against an order of removal.

The facts were in substance these:—An order of removal was made by justices in respect of an alleged settlement under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34, which provides that an order of removal in respect of a settlement acquired under that section shall not be made upon the evidence of the person to be removed without such corroboration as the justices or court think sufficient. There was no corroboration before the justices who made the order. Upon appeal to the quarter sessions against the order, the grounds of appeal were, first, that the pauper had not acquired a settlement under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34; and, secondly, that there was no corroborative evidence before the justices who made the order of removal. Corroborative evidence was tendered on behalf of the respondents at the sessions, and received by the Court, who considered the same sufficient, but quashed the order of removal on the ground that, as a matter of law, upon the facts proved, the pauper had not acquired a settlement under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34.

Lawrence, for the appellants.

Maddy, for the respondents.

Nov. 25. THE COURT (Manisty and Bowen, J.J) held that the sessions were right in receiving the corroborative evidence, but that (the case being concluded by Queen v. Brampton Union, 3 Q. B. D. 479) they were wrong in holding that the settlement was not acquired, and that therefore the order of removal must stand good.

Order of sessions quashed.

Higgins, Q.C., Winslow, Q.C., and Terrell, for the respondent.* THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Cotton and Lush, L.J.J.) discharged the order of the Vice-Chancellor. The assignee (Mr. Chatterton) had obtained the common order to continue the action in the same manner as the original plaintiff might have done had he not assigned it. That order was the same as a supplemental order under the old practice, which had not been altered by the Judicature Act or Rules, and was quite right. The assignee therefore ought to have amended the title of the action by adding a new title in which his name would appear as plaintiff and to have amended the statement of claim by adding such averments as would shew his title as assignee. Having refused to do so, and obliged the appellant to come to the Court, he must now be ordered to make the necessary amendment, with costs.

Appeal by Trustee in Bankruptcy—Removal of Trustee before hearing of Appeal—Costs.

Sheard, the trustee in the bankruptcy of Pooley, gave notice of an appeal from the admission of a proof against the estate. Before the appeal came on for hearing, Sheard had been removed from his office, and a new trustee appointed, who declined to prosecute the appeal. When the appeal came on for hearing, the Court ordered it to stand over, to give the creditors an opportunity of prosecuting it (ante, p. 175). The appeal now stood in the paper again. No creditor had adopted it.

De Gez, Q.C., and Romer, for the respondent, asked that the appeal might be dismissed with costs.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.) held that the respondent was entitled to have his costs paid out of the deposit, so far as it would extend, but that no personal order could be made against the appellant.

Bill of Sale—Statement of Consideration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 8.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, p. 122.

A bill of sale of chattels was expressed to be made in consideration of 560*l.* advanced by the grantee to the grantor. In fact only 500*l.* was paid to the grantor, 60*l.* being retained by the grantee, who was the grantor's solicitor. 40*l.* of this was retained to pay some costs which the grantee owed to the grantor for professional business previously transacted for him (the bill for which had not then been delivered), and the costs of preparing the bill of sale, and the other 20*l.* went to pay the charges of an auctioneer who had been employed to value the property with a view to the advance. The bill of sale was given to secure not only the 560*l.*, but the amount for the time being due on a mortgage of real estate which had been previously given by the grantor to the grantee to secure advances and charges for professional work. The mortgage was recited in the bill of sale, and there was also a recital that there was then due on the mortgage the sum of 1045*l.* There was in fact then also due a further sum of 321*l.*, but for this sum a bill of exchange had been given which was still current. The grantor having filed a liquidation petition, the trustee sought to set aside the bill of sale on the ground that the consideration had not been set forth in it in accordance with s. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878; (1) because of the retention of the 60*l.*, (2) because the recitals did not truly state the amount due on the prior mortgage. The Chief Judge held that the bill of sale was void as against the trustee. The grantee appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.
E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.) held that the consideration had been truly stated. It was always the practice that the mortgagee should pay the costs of preparing the mortgage and of valuing the property with a view to it. Those costs were therefore properly deducted from the amount advanced, and so was the sum already owing for previous costs. Ex parte Charing Cross Advance and Deposit Bank (ante, p. 167) was distinguishable, for there the sum retained by the grantee was in the nature of bonus and future interest. As to the other objection, the consideration for a deed was that which the grantee received for giving it; the amount secured by it was not the consideration intended by s. 8.

Bankruptcy Petition—Disputed Debt—Stay of Proceedings pending Trial of Validity of Debt—Waiver of Irregularity—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 43.

When the proceedings on a bankruptcy petition have been stayed for the trial of the question of the validity of the petitioning creditor's debt, and the validity of the debt has been established by the judgment of a Court of first instance, the registrar has a judicial discretion to proceed with the hearing of the petition and to make an adjudication, and is not bound to wait the result of an appeal from the decision as to the debt.

Before, however, fixing a time for the further hearing of the petition, the registrar is bound to require the production of an office copy of the judgment establishing the debt.

An order fixing a time for the further hearing of a bankruptcy petition was made without the production to the registrar of the judgment establishing the debt. The debtor's solicitor appeared at the time fixed, and took no objection to the regularity of the proceedings. An order was then made, again adjourning the further hearing of the petition. No proper notice was given to the debtor of the day fixed for the second further hearing. He did not attend, and an adjudication was made against him in his absence.

Held (by JAMES, COTTON, and LUSH, L.J.J.) that, by the appearance of the debtor's solicitor without objection on the first further hearing, the irregularity of the order fixing the day for that hearing had been waived. Consequently the order for further adjournment was made in the debtor's presence, and it was not necessary that any notice should be given to him of the day appointed for the second further hearing.

But the appeal was ordered to stand over until after judgment should have been given in an action in the Chancery Division, the result of which, it was alleged, might shew that the petitioning creditors had moneys in their hands applicable to the payment of the debt claimed, the advertisement of the adjudication being stayed meanwhile.

Husband and Wife—Articles of Settlement—Infant—Protection Order—Married Woman suing alone—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI., r. 8—Jus tertii.

This was an action by a married woman suing in her own name for moneys received by the defendant since her marriage under a power of attorney given by the plaintiff previously to her marriage. The plaintiff had married twice, and under the will of her first husband she was entitled to a leasehold house absolutely and to three other leasehold houses as executrix and trustee under such will. She appointed the defendant her agent to collect and receive the rents, and afterwards went to New Zealand, where, on the 25th of December, 1875, she married her present husband, who was a son of the defendant, and was then an infant under the age of 21. On the day before such last marriage articles of settlement were executed by which her present husband promised that he would, after the marriage, assign to a trustee the whole of her property upon trust for her separate use. He never performed this promise, but he shortly after the marriage deserted her, and she afterwards obtained two protection orders, one from a magistrate in New Zealand, and the other from a London police magistrate, protecting all her earnings and property acquired by her since the 25th of December, 1875. The defendant admitted that prior to the plaintiff's second marriage he had been appointed her agent to receive the rents, and that he had as such agent received the same both prior to and since the marriage, but he claimed to have received them after the marriage as to part for the plaintiff's husband and as to part for such husband as co-trustee with the plaintiff, who, being a married woman, could not, he said, give him, the defendant, a valid receipt or discharge for the moneys sued for in the action. It appeared that the plaintiff was ignorant where her husband was, and that he had never claimed any of the moneys, but that he was not of age when the action was commenced, and had never ratified the articles of settlement. The defendant took out a summons calling on the plaintiff to shew cause why the action should not be stayed until she added a next friend or gave security for the defendant's costs. The master before whom such summons came refused to make any order, and the defendant appealed. Such appeal was dismissed by Pollock, B., at chambers, and afterwards on appeal by the Divisional Court. The action was tried before Lopes, J., without a jury, who, being of opinion that the plaintiff could not sue in her own name without her husband, gave judgment for the defendant.

The plaintiff now appealed.

Locock Webb, Q.C., and Wellington Cooper, for the plaintiff.

McIntyre, Q.C., and Oppenheim, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay and Brett, L.J.J.) held that the protection orders did not apply, and that the articles of settlement were not binding, as the husband was an infant and took no benefit under them. The Court also held that by the dismissal of the defendant's summons for staying the action, unless the plaintiff added a next friend or gave security for the defendant's costs, leave was in effect given to the plaintiff to sue without her husband pursuant to Order XVI., r. 8, which leave, though more properly granted before action, might be granted after. That the plaintiff could, therefore, give a valid discharge for the rents received in respect of the houses of which she was trustee, and that as to these the plaintiff was entitled to judgment; but that as to the money received since the marriage in respect of the rent of the house to which the plaintiff was entitled absolutely, and which, therefore, by the marriage passed to the husband, it was held by Lord Selborne, C., and Baggallay, L.J., that the plaintiff must fail, Brett, L.J., dissentiente, and holding that as the husband had never claimed the money the defendant could not be allowed to say in answer to this action that it belonged to the husband and not to the plaintiff.

Judgment accordingly, the defendant to pay the whole costs of the action.

Practice—Further Evidence during the Hearing.

This action was brought by the plaintiffs to enforce the execution of a lease of a house, which the defendant had agreed to accept from the plaintiffs. After the conclusion of the vivâ voce evidence on both sides, the plaintiffs' counsel asked leave to call a witness to rebut certain scientific evidence adduced by the defendant. The defendant's counsel opposed the application.

Higgins, Q.C., and Batten, for the plaintiffs.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was difficult to lay down any positive rule for the admission of further evidence. In this case the evidence was of a very contradictory nature, and it would assist him in forming an opinion upon the merits to have further scientific evidence, and he should accede to the plaintiffs' application for leave to call another witness.

It subsequently appeared that the proposed witness could not be brought up till the following day, and it was arranged that the hearing of the case should be proceeded with, and at the conclusion of the reply, the Vice-Chancellor reserved his judgment.

V.-C. M. DE BERGUE v. DE BERGUE. Dec. 1.

Practice—Amendment of Defence—Leave given at the Hearing.

A testator left his property to be divided equally between his wife and his daughter by a former marriage. The wife claimed to be entitled to the sum of 8000. derived from a policy of insurance, on the ground that the policy was taken by her in payment of money advanced by her to her husband out of her separate estate. The daughter claimed that the policy formed part of the testator's general estate.

The defence set up by the pleadings was that no money was ever lent by the plaintiff out of her separate estate, for that she had no separate estate. After the witnesses on behalf of the plaintiff had given their evidence, the defendant's counsel proposed to call witnesses to shew that if any money really was lent by the plaintiff she had been repaid under a claim carried in against the estate of her husband.

Glasse, Q.C., and Alexander, for the plaintiff, objected to evidence being given in support of a case not set up by the defendant's pleadings, and which they had no opportunity of meeting.

Higgins, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the defendant, urged that the Court could give leave to amend the pleadings at the hearing, but that it was not necessary to amend for the purpose of shewing that if the alleged loan was really made, it had been repaid.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it appeared that the plaintiff carried in a claim against her husband's estate for a very large sum, to the amount of 15,000*l.*, which she succeeded in proving, and the money was paid. It was a most improbable thing that this should not have included the 800*l.* now claimed; but the defendant knew of the claim from the first, and repayment ought to have been set up by the defence, or the defence should have been amended. He would now give leave to the defendant to amend the pleadings, but the case must stand over to give the plaintiff an opportunity of replying to the evidence proposed to be called.

V.-C. M. MARQUIS CAMDEN v. MURRAY. Dec. 2.
Trustees—Power of Sale—Infant's Estate—Power not enforced by the Court.

This was a suit for the administration of the estate of the late Marquis Camden, and the case now came on upon an application to the Court that the trustees might be ordered to sell a portion of the estate of the present Marquis Camden, who was an infant tenant in tail of 9 years of age. The trustees had power of sale at the request of any tenant for life, or in tail in possession, or of the guardians of an infant tenant in such possession. The guardians of the infant were his mother and her second husband and the Duke of Marlborough, and they had requested the trustees to sell the Wilderness Estate forming part of the testator's property in order to increase the income, it being in evidence that the sale of this property would bring in an increased income to the amount of 4000*l.* per annum. There were two trustees, one of whom, Mr. Murray, had been appointed by the testator, who died in 1865, and he objected to the sale; the other trustee, Mr. Beresford Hope, who had been lately appointed a trustee in the place of a deceased trustee, was willing to exercise the power of sale.

The application was strongly opposed by Lord George Pratt, who was the first tenant for life expectant upon the death of the present infant marquis under 21; and the next tenant for life also opposed, on the ground that the Wilderness Estate was an old family property, and there was no necessity for increasing the income, which was sufficient for all the charges upon it.

Glasse, Q.C., and Alexander, for the infant plaintiff and his guardians.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Cust, for Lord George Pratt.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Coltman, for Murray, the trustee. The other trustee not being represented.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the trustees had power to sell at the request of persons who had now made the request, but they were not bound to exercise the power; and one of them who had for many years acted as trustee, and had been originally appointed by the testator, was opposed to this property being sold. The question was whether the Court ought to exercise a control over that trustee and direct the sale to be made. There could be no doubt that a sale would be beneficial if an increase of income was desirable, but many persons preferred to keep an old family estate rather than increase their income, and this might be the case with the infant when he came of age. The Court would never direct the sale of an infant's estate unless there was an overwhelming necessity for the sale. Here there was no such necessity, since the income was quite sufficient to provide a full sum to the mother for maintenance of the infant plaintiff and to pay all requisite charges and outgoings upon the estate. Under the circumstances, therefore, and in the face of the opposition raised, he should decline to control the trustees, and the application must be refused.

Jacob L. Hill by his will gave, after the death of Louisa M. C. Hill, to each of four charities one-twelfth part of such of his residuary personal estate as he was by law enabled so to give. His residuary estate consisted of 4994*l.*, arising from the two legacies given to him by the will of Josiah R. Hill, and the question was whether the charitable legacies were wholly or in part void as coming out of a fund arising in part from land. The pure personalty of Josiah R. C. Browne, for the next of kin of Jacob L. Hill.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the charities.

A suit was instituted for the administration of the estate of Lord Southampton, in which a claim for 800*l.* was made by Mr. Roper.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for Mr. Roper, contended that Birt having been solicitor for both Lord Southampton and Mr. Roper, Lord Southampton must be held to have had notice that part of money was Mr. Roper's.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and V. Hawkins, for the trustee of Lord Southampton's estate.

Practice—Affidavits in reply—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVIII, r. 3.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Maddison, on behalf of the defendants, moved that plaintiff's affidavits in reply might be taken off the file, on the ground that they were not, as required by Order XXXVIII, r. 3, "confined to matters strictly in reply."

The question at issue was the meaning of the words "run of the piece," and plaintiff had filed no less than fifty affidavits in reply. In support of the motion it was contended that the plaintiff was not entitled in reply to file affidavits directed entirely to the strengthening and confirmation of the case put forward in his affidavits in chief, but that evidence in reply must be confined to meeting the case raised by the defendant.

Everitt, for the plaintiff, was not called on.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that there was nothing in Order XXXVIII, r. 3, to prevent the filing of affidavits in reply which were not confined to matters strictly in reply, but if they turned out at the hearing not to be strictly in reply, the Court would not regard them. That was a question which could not now be decided, and the application must be refused with costs.

V. C. B. PASS v. DUNDAS. Dec. 4.
Breach of Trust—Liability—Indemnity Clause.

Testator by his will authorized his trustees and executors to carry on his business of cornbroker, with full discretion as to its management, and power to employ collectors of debts and accountants. The will contained an indemnity clause, that each trustee or executor should be answerable only for losses arising from his own default, and not for involuntary acts and for the acts or defaults of his co-trustee or co-executor, and any trustee or executor who should pay over to his co-trustee or co-executor, or should do or concur in any act enabling him to receive any moneys for the purposes of the will, should not be obliged to see to the due application thereof, nor should such trustee or executor be rendered responsible by an express notice or intimation of the actual misapplication of the same moneys.

With the assent of the persons beneficially interested under the will, the business was continued to be carried on after the testator's death by P. H. Adams, one of the executors and a son of the testator; and an account was opened at a bank, and a letter was signed by both executors, authorizing the bank, at which the account had been opened, to honour the signature of P. H. Adams.

Under this authority, P. H. Adams in the management of the business had drawn out large sums of money, of which he had misapplied and lost about 20,000*l.*

The question upon summons to vary the certificate, was whether Colonel Dundas, the trustee and executor who had signed the authority but had not acted otherwise in the management of the business, was liable for repayment of the money lost by the defalcations of his co-trustee.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and H. Fellows, for the defendant, Colonel Dundas.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, following Wilkins v. Hogg (3 Giff. 116; 8 Jur. (N.S.) 25), held that in the absence of proof of gross negligence or personal misconduct on the part of Colonel Dundas he was fully protected by the indemnity clause from liability in respect of the loss to the estate occasioned by the acts of P. H. Adams.

V.-C. B. JOHNSTONE v. COX. Dec. 7.
Officer's Commission—Charge—Priority—Retirement—Regulation of Forces Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. c. 86), s. 3.

Action to determine the priorities of charges upon the proceeds of an officer's commission in the hands of Messrs. Cox, the army agents, which were insufficient for payment of all the incumbrances.

On the 29th of March, 1879, Messrs. Cox, the army agents, received from H. M.'s Paymaster General the sum of 800*l.*, the amount due to Captain A. M. Smith on his retirement. There were three incumbrances upon that fund, in order of date as follows:—(1) Price, Boustead & Co.; (2) Thomas Kayler; (3) the plaintiff Johnstone, and before the 16th of May, 1879, Price & Co. and the plaintiff had given notice to Cox & Co. of these charges. On the evening of the 16th of May, 1879, Captain Smith's retirement was gazetted. On the 17th of May Kayler and Johnstone both gave notice of their charges as soon as Cox and Co.'s office was opened. Price, Boustead & Co. did not give notice of their charge after the retirement was gazetted until the 21st of May, 1879.

The Regulation of the Forces Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. c. 86), s. 3, provides that every officer "shall on his retirement be entitled in respect of such commission to receive on application to the Commissioners, &c., the price or sum thereinafter mentioned."

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for plaintiff.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Romer, for Price & Co.

Hemming, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for Kayler.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, upon the construction of 34 & 35 Vict. c. 86, s. 3, that "on his retirement" meant when the officer had in effect retired, which did not take place until his retirement was gazetted. Up to that time the commission money remained the money of the Army Purchase Commissioners, and no notice given previous to the notification of Captain Smith's retirement in the Gazette could have any effect. As between the plaintiff and Kayler, who gave simultaneous notices on the 17th of May, 1879, Kayler's charge, which was older in point of date, was entitled to priority. After payment of costs the fund would be paid out as far as it would go (1) to Kayler; (2) to plaintiff; (3) to Price, Boustead & Co.

C. H. Turner, for the respondent.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the words within inverted commas were merely descriptive of the motive of the gift, and that the annuity continued during the life of the testator's niece.

Company in Liquidation—Qualification of Director—Resolutions appointing Director and Medical Examiner—Acceptance by Letter—Acting as Director.

This was an application by the liquidators of the company to have the name of Dr. Purcell placed on the list of contributories in respect of ten shares. An article of association was that the number of directors should not be less than three nor more than seven, and that each director's qualification for a seat at the board should be the holding in his own right of not less than ten shares. On the 12th of June, 1879, Dr. Purcell wrote to the secretary of the company in reference to the resolutions passed regarding his appointment the following letter:—"Dear Sir,—I thank you for your communication received this day, enclosing resolutions passed by your board on the 11th inst. I will be most happy to comply with the same, viz., accepting a seat on the board and accepting the office of medical examiner." The doctor did take his seat at some of the board meetings.

Hastings, Q.C., and C. Lyttellon Chubb, for the liquidators.

Romer, for Dr. Purcell.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Dr. Purcell agreed to take shares in order to qualify himself for a seat as director, and that agreement on his part was equivalent to an application for the qualification shares. Moreover, by his acting as a director he confirmed his agreement. The fact of his name not being upon the register was no answer, because he had himself neglected his duty in not placing it there. It was not, as in Jenner's Case (7 Ch. D. 132), a condition precedent to his being on the board of directors that he should take the shares; but even if it had been so that condition was in his opinion performed by his letter of the 12th of June to the secretary of the company, and after that letter he became a holder of the ten shares, and qualified to act as a director. As to the dismissal for want of prosecution of an action which was brought against Dr. Purcell to recover calls, it was not, under the circumstances, any answer, even considering it could have been pleaded in any case. The order for winding up was made on the 9th of November, while the order dismissing the action for want of prosecution was not obtained till the 15th of November, and the list of shareholders had to be settled as at the date of winding-up. Dr. Purcell must be placed upon the list of contributories for ten shares, and he must pay the costs of the application.

Fry, J., held that the gift to the children of the two sons was a vested interest in all who were either living at the testator's death or born afterwards during the lifetime of the tenants for life, liable to be divested only in the event of their death during such period leaving issue, and consequently that the representatives of the two who died in the lifetime of the tenant for life without issue took their shares.

Fry, J. POST v. MARSH. Dec. 8.

Specific Performance—Agreement contained in several Documents—Failure to prove one Document at Trial—Fraud on Public.

This was an action for the specific performance of an agreement by the defendant to edit and prepare the letterpress of an illustrated guide to London. The plaintiffs also claimed the delivery up of some manuscript; an assignment of the copyright of the work; an injunction and damages. The book was to be published under the name of "Kenny's Illustrated Guide to London," Kenny being a person who had obtained a reputation as a publisher of guide-books. Kenny, however, took no part in the compilation of the book. The plaintiffs alleged that it was part of the agreement that the defendant should not require his own name to appear as author on the title-page of the book; the defendant, on the contrary, asserted that it was agreed that his name should appear on the title-page as author. The plaintiffs had printed a title-page, preparatory to the publication of the work, on which it was stated that the book was "by Kenny, assisted by Marsh." The plaintiffs claimed the performance of an agreement of the 20th of March, 1878, as modified by two other agreements of the 14th of November, 1879, and the 19th of January, 1880. The defendant by his statement of defence denied that he ever agreed with the plaintiffs in writing in the manner stated by them as the effect of the agreements of the 14th of November and the 19th of January. At the trial the document of the 14th of November was not produced, and no evidence was given of its contents.

North, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held that no relief could be given to the plaintiffs, on the ground that the document of the 14th of November had not been proved, and also on the ground that the title-page proposed by the plaintiffs would be a fraud on the public in stating that the work was by Kenny. Judgment was therefore given for the defendant, with costs.

Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 8—Statement of Consideration.

Appeal from the Newcastle County Court declaring void, for want of true statement of the consideration under the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, a bill of sale given by Fothergill, the debtor, to Ord, the appellant.

On the 13th of January, 1880, Fothergill, having to make a payment to a colliery company, obtained from Ord a cheque for 1444*l.*, which was given, not as a loan, but in prepayment of an instalment not then due for the purchase of shipping shares, which Ord had bought through Fothergill. Before the cheque was presented at Messrs. Hodgkin & Co., Ord having heard rumours as to Fothergill's solvency, caused payment to be stopped. He was afterwards, however, persuaded to withdraw the stop, and to lend the 1444*l.* to Fothergill on having repayment secured.

On the afternoon of the 16th of January the stop was withdrawn, and on the morning of the 17th, and prior to the execution of the bill of sale, the cheque was paid. Later in the day Fothergill executed a bill of sale (which was duly registered) of his furniture to Ord. It was therein recited that Fothergill being indebted to Ord in the sum of 1444*l.*, for money lent, and being unable to pay the same, had, "in order to induce Mr. Ord not to institute proceedings against him," agreed to execute a bill of sale, and in consideration of the premises Fothergill assigned his furniture to Ord. Shortly after executing the bill of sale, Fothergill filed a liquidation petition. Ord having sold the debtor's furniture under his bill of sale, and repaid himself his loan of 1444*l.*, was ordered by the Newcastle County Court to repay the amount to the trustee in liquidation, on the ground that the bill of sale did not truly state the consideration, as required by s. 8.

Winslow, Q.C., and Linklater, for the appellant.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Creed, for the trustee.

THE CHIEF JUDGE allowed the appeal with costs. The consideration was truly stated in the bill of sale, viz., the advance agreed to be made, and which was actually made by Ord the mortgagee to Fothergill the mortgagor, and the statement in the bill of sale that it was agreed to be executed in order to induce Ord not to take legal proceedings was wholly immaterial. The transaction was perfectly honest and straightforward, and the order of the County Court must be discharged.

BROMLEY v. TAMS.

The Employers and Workmen Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 90), s. 10—"Workman"—Potter's Printer—Yearly Hiring—Assistants engaged and paid by Printer—Strike of Assistants—Inability of Printer to work—Liability for Breach of Contract.

Cases stated under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, by the stipendiary magistrate for Stoke-upon-Trent.

In each case the appellant was employed as a potter's printer by the respondent, a manufacturer of earthenware, under a yearly hiring, from Martinmas to Martinmas, subject to termination at any time on a month's notice. The printer finds, engages, and pays his "transferrors," women who assist him in his work by transferring printed impressions on to earthenware.

In December, 1879, the appellant's transferrer, who had been engaged by him without any condition as to notice by her, refused to work at reduced wages, and went out on strike. He, however, regularly presented himself at the works of the respondents ready to work, but was unable to do so in consequence of the strike of the transferrer.

The respondents took proceedings against him under the 38 & 39 Vict. c. 90 (Employers and Workmen Act, 1875), to recover damages for breach of contract. The magistrate decided that the appellant was liable, and that he should have stipulated with his transferrer for the same notice that he himself must give to his employer.

The question for the opinion of the Court was whether the appellant was a workman within the meaning of the Act, and liable under his contract. Sect. 10 provides that in this Act the expression "workman" does not include a domestic or menial servant, but, save as aforesaid, means any person who being a labourer, servant in husbandry, journeyman, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, or otherwise engaged in manual labour . . . has entered into or works under a contract with an employer, whether the contract be . . . express or implied, oral or in writing, and be a contract of service or a contract personally to execute any work or labour.

C. P. Div. MILLINGTON v. LORING. Dec. 7.
Practice—Pleading—Breach of Promise of Marriage—Seduction—Aggravation of Damages—Allegation of—Order XIX., r. 4; Order XXVII., r. 1.

Statement of claim alleged a promise by the defendant to marry the plaintiff.

Par. 4. The plaintiff, relying upon the said agreement, permitted the defendant to debauch and carnally know her, whereby the defendant infected the plaintiff with a venereal disease.

Par. 5 alleged a breach of the promise of marriage; and

Par. 6. That by reason of the premises the plaintiff had been greatly injured in her health, feelings, credit, and reputation, and had lost the benefit which would have accrued to her from the said marriage.

The defendant applied at chambers for an order to strike out or amend paragraph 4 of the claim. The master made no order. On appeal, Hawkins, J., ordered that paragraph 4 should be struck out, saying that the evidence therein might be given at the trial.

Somerville, for the plaintiff, moved to reverse the judge's order, and argued that facts in the paragraph 4 could be given in evidence in aggravation of damages, and therefore should be pleaded so as to inform the defendant.

F. O. Crump, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Denman and Lindley, JJ.) held that the statements in paragraph 4 were rightly struck out, as they tended to prejudice and embarrass the fair trial of the action.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

C. C. R. REG. v. SALMON, HANCOCK, AND SALMON. Dec. 4.
Manslaughter—Omission to take proper Precautions whilst performing dangerous Act—Dangerous Act causing Death in the absence of proper Precautions—Joint Wrong-doers.

Case stated by Lord Coleridge, L.C.J.

The three prisoners went into a grass field, taking with them a rifle, sighted for 950 yards, which would probably be deadly at a mile, for the purpose of practising firing with the rifle. One of the prisoners placed a board, which was handed to him by another of them in the presence of the third, in a tree in the field, for the purpose of being used as a target or mark for firing.

All three fired shots aimed at this board from a distance of about 100 yards.

No precautions of any kind were taken to prevent danger from such firing.

One of the shots thus fired by one of the prisoners, though it was not proved by which of them, passed over one or more public roads, and killed a boy in an apple tree in a garden at a spot distant 393 yards from the firing point. The jury found all three prisoners guilty of manslaughter.

Norris, appeared for the prosecution.

No counsel appeared for the prisoners.

Held by THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Field, Lopes, Stephen, and Williams, JJ.), that it being proved that the prisoners had jointly committed a dangerous act in practising rifle shooting at the spot in question, and had negligently omitted to take proper precautions to prevent danger to others, the verdict of manslaughter found was correct and must be upheld.

Conviction affirmed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

FROM Q. B. DIV. MULLISS v. TREASURER OF SURREY. Dec. 8. Prisons Act, 1877 (40 & 41 Vict. c. 21), ss. 4, 57—Maintenance of Prisoners therein—Expenses of conveying to Prison—Liability of Secretary of State for.

A metropolitan police magistrate having convicted an offender and adjudged her to be imprisoned, made out a warrant for her commitment; in obedience to which warrant the plaintiff, a police constable, duly conveyed her to prison. By reason of such conveyance the plaintiff incurred certain expenses which the prisoner had no means to defray. The committing magistrate subsequently made an order under 27 Geo. 2, c. 3, directed to the defendant, as treasurer of the county of Surrey, ordering him to pay to the plaintiff the amount of the above expenses. The defendant refused to comply with such order, on the ground that the liability to pay the expenses of conveying prisoners to prison had been transferred to the Secretary of State by s. 4 of the Prisons Act, 1877, which provides that after the commencement of the Act all expenses incurred in respect of the maintenance of prisoners to which the Act applies, and of the prisoners therein, shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament. On a special case stated for the opinion of the Queen's Bench Division, Lush and Manisty, J.J., gave judgment for the plaintiff, being of opinion that the above section referred only to expenses of prisoners incurred subsequently to their reception in the prison. The defendant appealed.

Sir Farrer Herschell, S.G., E. Clarke, Q.C., and E. Baggallay, for the appellant.
Sir H. Giffard, Q.C., and Poland, for the respondent.
THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay and Brett, L.J.J.), held, reversing the decision of the Court below, that the above expenses were by s. 4 transferred to the Secretary of State, and that the word "therein" pointed to the class of prisoners to whose maintenance the Act was intended to apply, not to the point of time from which the liability for such maintenance was to begin.

Decision of Bacon, C.J., reversed.
The appeal was heard on the 24th of June, 1880, by Baggallay, Cotton, and Thesiger, L.J.J., and after the death of Thesiger, L.J., the parties agreed to accept the judgment of the surviving members of the Court.

Composition—Creditor omitted from Statement of Affairs—Application after Registration of Resolutions to admit Proof—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 126.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, pp. 113.
The question was whether, after the registration of composition resolutions and payment of the composition, the Court had jurisdiction to order the admission of a proof tendered by an alleged creditor whose name had not been mentioned in the debtor's statement of affairs, and who had taken no part in the proceedings. The Chief Judge held that there was jurisdiction, and ordered the proof to be admitted.

The debtor appealed.

E. Cooper Willis, and F. Cooper Willis, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and G. Rose Innes, for the creditor.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that there was no jurisdiction to entertain the application, the proceedings being at an end on the registration of the resolutions. The creditor was not bound by the composition, but was entitled to sue the debtor in the ordinary tribunals, and this was his proper remedy. Ex parte Carew (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 308) was distinguishable, because there a fund had been set apart in the hands of a trustee to answer the composition for all the creditors, including the claimant whose debt was disputed and was the subject of a Chancery suit, and the Court refused to order the trustee to hand over the surplus to the debtor pending the result of the Chancery suit.

The appeal was therefore, allowed with costs. Leave to appeal to the House of Lords was refused.

Debtor's Summons—Jurisdiction of Court—Residence of and carrying on of Business by Debtor—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 17.

A debtor's summons was issued out of the London Bankruptcy Court against a person who was a clerk in the employment of a bank in the city of London, but who lived with his mother in one of the suburbs outside the district of the London Court. The debt claimed had been contracted in the city. The only address of the debtor given in the summons was the office of the bank, and the summons was served on him there. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, dismissed the summons as irregular, on the ground that the debtor did not reside within the district of the London Court.

The summoning creditor appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bigham, for the appellant.

McIntyre, Q.C., and Vennell, for the debtor.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the debtor was, within the meaning of r. 17, carrying on business within the district of the London Court, his occupation or business in life being that of a bank clerk. The words of the rule were elastic, and must be construed with regard to its object and intent, which were that the proceedings should take place in what might be called the debtor's natural forum.

JAMES, L.J., was also of opinion that the debtor's residence was within the district of the London Court, on the ground that a man might fairly be said to reside where he was to be found daily.

The appeal was accordingly allowed.

Burkinshaw recovered judgment on the 3rd of June, 1880, against the company for a debt, and issued a fi. fa. under which, on the 10th of July, the sheriff seized certain chattels of the company. On the 14th of July a winding-up petition was presented. On the 15th of July an order was made in the action staying all further proceedings till the winding-up petition was disposed of, and the sheriff thereupon withdrew from possession. On the 30th of July a winding-up order was made. On the 31st of July, Burkinshaw applied for leave to enforce his judgment and that the sheriff might be at liberty to resume possession of the goods taken in execution. Vice-Chancellor Malins made an order for payment of the judgment debt out of the first assets that should come to the hands of the liquidator. The liquidator appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Boome, for the appellant.

Company—Shares allotted—Payment of Deposit—Name expunged.

Brabant moved on behalf of H. Wilkin that his name might be removed from the register of shareholders in respect of 250 shares allotted to him in the Gold Company of Southern India. Wilkin applied for shares on the 15th of March, 1880, through Byers, a promoter of the company. The application was handed to the secretary on the 16th, and on the 17th Wilkin wrote to Byers withdrawing his application for shares. That letter was handed to the secretary, but on the 6th of April the directors allotted the 250 shares to Wilkin, and the deposit of 31*l.* 5*s.* was then paid by Byers, but it was stated by Byers that that sum was included in a larger sum of 251*l.*, which he paid on behalf of various clients by whom he had been employed to procure shares, and he was not aware that Wilkin's name was in the list.

Glasse, Q.C., and Boome, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the 31*l.* 5*s.* had evidently been paid in mistake by Byers, who had no authority to pay the money; and after notice had been given to the company of the withdrawal of the application for shares, they had no authority to place Wilkin's name on the register of shareholders. The motion must be acceded to, and the costs paid by the company.

Company—Winding-up—Immediate Appointment of Liquidator.

Two petitions were presented for winding-up the South Kensington Stores. The first petition was on behalf of a very large majority of the creditors, who also asked for an immediate appointment of Mr. Leslie, who had been appointed interim liquidator, to be the official liquidator. It was stated that an immediate appointment was required in order that the business might be carried on and the goodwill thereby preserved. The second petition was by a creditor for 101*l.*, who also desired a winding-up order, but objected to the appointment of a liquidator in Court, and urged that the ordinary application must be made in chambers.

Higgins, Q.C., and Buckley, for the first petition.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the company, and White-horne, C. B. McLaren, and Ilbert, for other creditors, all supported the immediate appointment of Mr. Leslie.

Warrington, for an execution creditor.

Glasse, Q.C., and Beddall, for the second petition.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that he had power to make an immediate appointment in Court of a liquidator, and, considering that an overwhelming majority of the creditors were desirous of this course being adopted, and wished Mr. Leslie to be appointed, he should make the winding-up order on the first petition, and should appoint Mr. Leslie the official liquidator. The second petition must be dismissed with costs.

CAMPBELL v. CAMPBELL.

Administration of Assets—Executor suing on behalf of himself and all other Creditors—Right to retain.

On the further consideration of an action by an executor on behalf of himself and all the other creditors of the testator, against the co-executrix, the question was raised whether the right of an executor suing in this character, to retain for his debt, still subsisted, and after he had submitted to account in the ordinary form of an administration decree.

Fischer, Q.C., and Knox, for the plaintiffs.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Owen, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the executor's right to retain was not affected by the circumstance that he was a plaintiff suing on behalf of himself and all the other creditors, or by the fact that he had submitted to account; and declared accordingly.

In re METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAY COMPANY AND COTTON'S TRUSTEES.

Purchase of Land under Lands Clauses Act, 1845, by Railway Company—Mines and Minerals not expressly negotiated under s. 77—Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

This was a summons, adjourned into Court, taken out under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, by the railway company for a declaration that the company were entitled to have the words "mines and minerals in and under the land, &c., conveyed," included in the conveyance from the trustees to the company, and that the trustees might be ordered to pay the costs of the application. The company purchased compulsorily under the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, certain lands at Walham Green, Fulham, for the purposes of the railway. The lands were valued by an arbitrator and sold, and purchased as building land, the price paid being after the rate of 2000*l.* an acre. Nothing was said in the award in reference to the mines and minerals. It was stated that there was nothing that would come under the description other than gravel and brick earth. The terms being settled, the draft conveyance of the company contained the words, "including mines and minerals in and under all," &c., but the solicitors of the trustees struck the words out. The 77th section of the Railways Clauses Act, 1845, enacted that "the company shall not be entitled to any mines of coal, ironstone, slate, or other minerals under any land purchased by them, except only such parts thereof as shall be necessary to be dug or carried away or used in the construction of the works, unless the same shall have been expressly purchased; and all such mines, excepting as aforesaid, shall be deemed to be excepted out of the conveyance of such lands unless they shall have been expressly named and conveyed thereby." The land purchased, if it were not building land, would be only worth about (as alleged) 200*l.* an acre as garden ground. If the mines and minerals were reserved it would include the power to break open the surface of the land and search for and get the minerals, which would be wholly incompatible with the use of the land as building ground. The company, having had to pay about 2000*l.* an acre, considered that they were entitled to have the words above mentioned inserted in the conveyance, and as their request was refused, took out this summons for the declaration above mentioned.

Bidder, Q.C., and Samuel Roberts, for the company's summons.

Hastings, Q.C., and Archibald, for the vendors, were not called upon to oppose it.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the section in the statute was clear, and under it the company were not entitled to the mines and minerals unless they were expressly purchased, with the exception mentioned, and to what depth they might be found in this case it would be difficult to say. At any rate, the Act of Parliament was very precise in its language, and as nothing had been said during the negotiations for the purchase of the land as to the mines and minerals he could not hold that the company were entitled to have the words inserted in the conveyance. The summons would therefore be dismissed, with costs.

Fiduciary Relation—Solicitor and Client—Improper Sale—Measure of Damages—Costs as between Solicitor and Client.

The plaintiff employed the defendant, who was his solicitor, in 1872 to procure him money on mortgage.

The defendant accordingly negotiated a first mortgage for 450*l.*, and a second mortgage to himself for 50*l.*

The second mortgage to the defendant contained a power of sale without the usual provision that the power should not be exercised except in default of payment of principal or interest. This mortgage was prepared by the defendant, who did not explain the peculiarity of the power of sale to the plaintiff.

In 1878 the defendant, without notice to the plaintiff, sold the mortgaged hereditaments under the power contained in the mortgage to himself. The Court decided that the plaintiff was therefore entitled to recover from the defendant such damages as he had sustained from the improper sale.

BANKRUPTCY.

Ex parte ALLEN.
In re LEAROYD, WILTON, & Co.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Issues of Fact—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 72.

Appeal from the County Court at Huddersfield.

The debtors were woollen merchants in London, who filed their petition for liquidation on the 30th of September, 1879. Between May and September, 1879, they had purchased woollen cloth in Huddersfield, Leeds, and Dewsbury to the value of 14,000l. or 15,000l., which they then pledged at enormous rates of interest with certain parties in London, and amongst others they so pledged to the appellant goods to the amount of 6391l. 8s. 3d.

The trustee in the liquidation sought to set aside the transfers, on the ground that they were fraudulent, that the appellant was aware that the debtors had bought the goods for the purpose of pledging them, that they were transfers of substantially the whole of the debtor's property, and without any present advance.

On the 15th of October, 1880, an order was made by the learned County Court Judge whereby, after reciting that an application had been made by the trustee for an order directing that the questions of fact should be tried by a jury, namely, whether the transfers of goods amounted to an act of bankruptcy as being a fraudulent delivery of the property, and further that objection had been taken on behalf of the appellant that the Court had "no jurisdiction" in directing the questions of fact to be tried by a jury, that, "it appearing to the Court that there were questions of fact arising in the motion which ought to be tried by a jury," it was ordered that "such questions of fact be tried accordingly" in the Huddersfield County Court, that the evidence be taken in vivo, and that the Court should settle the issues in the event of the parties not being able to agree upon them.

From this order Allen now appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., Winslow, Q.C., and Woolf, for the appellant:— We desire the question to be tried by a special jury, which we cannot have in the County Court.

E. C. Willis, and Warmington, for the trustee.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said there could be no doubt, as the learned County Court judge himself had held, that the Court had ample jurisdiction. The only question was as to how the discretion of the Court should be used in exercising that jurisdiction. The appellant was desirous of having a special jury, but the learned judge had ordered the trial to be held before himself with a County Court jury, which consisted of only five jurymen. In his (the Chief Judge's) opinion, the case was of sufficient importance to justify the appellant's demand to have the case tried with a special jury in a branch of the Supreme Court. The order would therefore be varied accordingly, the costs to be reserved, with liberty to apply.

9 & 10 Will. 3, c. 15, s. 2.

The action having been referred to arbitration, the award was published on the 14th of July. On the 24th of November the defendants moved the Court to set aside the award, but the application was refused on the ground that notice of motion had not been given to the plaintiff as required by Order LIII., rr. 3, 4. Later in the same day, the defendants served the plaintiff with a notice of their intention to move the Court, on the 27th, to set aside the award on the ground that it was not final.

Sir J. Holker, Q.C. (Myburgh with him), for the defendants, now moved accordingly.

Sir F. Herschell, Q.C., S.G., (Crompton with him) for the plaintiff, took the preliminary objection that the motion was out of time.

THE COURT (Hawkins and Stephen, JJ.) held on the authority of In re Corporation of Huddersfield and Jacomb (Law Rep. 17 Eq. 476; 10 Ch. 92), that service of the notice of motion on the 24th was "a complaint made in the Court before the last day of the next term," within the meaning of 9 & 10 Wm. 3, c. 15, s. 2, although no affidavit had been filed as in that case, and heard the case on the merits.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Ch. Div. MELLOR v. HOLLINSHEAD. Dec. 15.
Decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins reversed.
No. 36.—1880.

From Prob. Ct. DAWKINS v. SIMONETTI. Dec. 15.

Action to establish Will in England—Like Action instituted in Foreign Court—Injunction—Jurisdiction.

Appeal from refusal of President of Probate Division.
In 1871, Miss Dawkins, an English lady and the sister of the plaintiff, married the defendant, an Italian, domiciled at Naples, where the parties lived after their marriage, and where she died in 1873.

In February, 1879, the plaintiff commenced this action, claiming probate of a will made by Mrs. Simonetti in 1865, such will, by the law of Naples, not having been revoked by her marriage. The defendant by his defence and counterclaim set up a will made by his wife in 1872, and claimed probate thereof. The plaintiff by his reply denied the authenticity of the will of 1872, and issue was joined. The defendant then commenced an action in the Neapolitan Court to establish the validity of the will of 1872.

The plaintiff then applied for an injunction to restrain the proceedings at Naples, on the ground that they were vexatious, the action here having been first instituted and all the testatrix's property being in England, which was refused. The plaintiff appealed.

Dr. Tristram, for the appellant.

Dr. Pritchard, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Cotton and Lush, L.JJ.) held that, assuming there was jurisdiction to entertain the application, the granting of it was a matter of discretion. In the present case the defendant was domiciled at Naples and preferred his own Court, the will of 1872 was made at Naples, all the witnesses resided in or about Naples, and the Court there was competent to decide the question at issue between the parties. It appeared to their Lordships, therefore, as a mere matter of convenience, that the question at issue had better be tried at Naples. The appeal was therefore dismissed.

In re MALTRY.

Receiver in Liquidation—Application for Payment of Charges—Locus Standi—Bankruptcy Rules, 1871, rr. 3, 7.

After the filing of a liquidation petition by Maltby, a publican, Browne was appointed receiver of his property and manager of his business. On the subsequent appointment of a trustee, he handed over the property to him and gave him possession of the business. The receiver's costs out of pocket were paid to him. He afterwards applied to the Court for an order that the amount of his charges as receiver and manager, which had been taxed at 60l. 15s., should be paid by the trustee. He alleged that the trustee would have had ample funds to pay the amount claimed if he had not mismanaged the realization of the debtor's estate, and he claimed to have the trustee's accounts taken. The trustee deposed that, after paying mortgages and other preferential claims, he had a balance of only 122l. in hand, and that the costs of realizing the estate, which were still unpaid, exceeded that sum. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, refused the application. Browne appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Wightman Wood, for the appellant.

Robinson, Q.C., and D. L. Alexander, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.) said that the receiver was not entitled to come to the Court as a litigant to question the propriety of the trustee's management of the estate. The creditors would suffer if there had been any mismanagement, and they were the proper persons to complain. The receiver, according to r. 3 of 1871, had no lien on the assets for his remuneration; he was only entitled to be paid out of the net assets. He was not, therefore, entitled to apply for payment of his remuneration unless he could shew that there were net assets, and in this case the trustee had shewn that there were not. The appeal was accordingly dismissed with costs.

Appeal from decision of Denman and Lindley, J.J. (ante, p. 196).

Somervell, for the plaintiff.

Crump, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay and Brett, L.J.J.) held, reversing the decision of the Court below, that the facts alleged in the paragraph complained of were "material facts" within the meaning of Order XIX., r. 4, and as such were properly pleadable; but that, even if they were not, the Court had no power to strike the paragraph out, the statements therein neither being scandalous nor tending to prejudice or embarrass the fair trial of the action within the meaning of Order XXVII., r. 1.

Sheriff—Abortive Execution—Possession Money—Who liable to pay.

This was an action by a sheriff's officer against the solicitor of an execution creditor to recover fees for executing a writ of fi. fa. On the 31st of July, 1879, the defendant in the course of his duty as such solicitor lodged the writ at the office of the sheriff for execution, but gave no instructions as to the employment of any particular bailiff. The sheriff employed the plaintiff to execute the writ. The plaintiff accordingly entered on the premises of the execution debtors, who are a company limited, and seized the company's goods. Prior to such entry and seizure, however, a petition had been presented in the High Court of Justice for the winding-up of the company. On the 7th of August an order was made staying further proceedings in the execution; and a copy of such order was on the 8th of August served on the plaintiff. Receiving no instructions from the defendant to withdraw, the plaintiff remained in possession of the company's effects until the 17th of November, when he was served with a notice that a winding-up order had been made. The plaintiff then withdrew, without having sold any of the company's goods under the fi. fa. He then sued the defendant for possession money for the whole period during which he had been in possession.

Bigham, for the plaintiff.

Henn Collins, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay, and Brett, L.J.J.) held, affirming the judgment of Bowen, J., that whether or not it was the duty of the plaintiff to withdraw from possession, without any instructions from the defendant, immediately upon service on him of the order of the 7th of August, still the action would not lie against the defendant, there being upon the above facts no evidence of any promise by the defendant to the plaintiff to remunerate him for his services.

Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31)—Statement of Consideration.

This was an interpleader issue tried before Pollock, B., without a jury at Croydon Summer Assizes, 1879, and the question was whether the consideration for a registered bill of sale given in January 1879, to the plaintiffs by one Augustus A. Smith, the execution debtor, was truly set forth so as to satisfy the 8th section of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31). Before this bill of sale was given, there had been various loans and advances by the plaintiffs to Smith, secured by bills of sale from time to time renewed within the 21 days to avoid registration. Shortly before the bill of sale in question was given, the parties met and the amount due to the plaintiffs, after giving credit for payments, was ascertained to be 7247l. 10s. Besides this debt, Smith was indebted to the plaintiffs to the extent of 24,000l., for which they held security, and the plaintiffs were liable for him as guarantors in the sum of 20,000l. The bill of sale in dispute was given to secure 7350l., which it was agreed represented the 7247l. 10s. and costs, and after reciting that the company had agreed to lend Smith, described therein as the mortgagor, the sum of 7350l., and that the mortgagor was already indebted to the company in 24,000l., and that the company were liable also as guarantors for the mortgagor in a further sum of 20,000l., and that it had been agreed that the mortgagor should execute such deed as a security for the repayment of the aforesaid sum of 7350l., it went on as follows:—"Now this indenture witnesseth that in pursuance of the said agreement, and in consideration of 7350l. now paid by the said company as the said mortgagor doth admit," &c. By the deed the 7350l. was to be repaid on demand, but such demand was to be in writing. No money was in fact paid when the bill of sale was given, and it was urged therefore on behalf of the execution creditor (the defendant in this action), that there was no fresh loan, and the consideration was not truly stated. Pollock, B., held that there was substantially a fresh loan, and that the requirements of the statute were satisfied by the said statement in the bill of sale.

The defendant appealed.

M. Howard, Q.C., and Eyre Lloyd, for the defendant in support of the appeal.

Lumley Smith, Q.C., and Atherley Jones, appeared for the plaintiffs, but were not called on.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay, and Brett, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of Pollock, B.

In re DRONFIELD SILKSTONE COAL COMPANY.

Limited Company—Power to purchase its own Shares.

This was an appeal from a decision of Jessel, M.R. (ante, p. 65).

The articles provided that the directors might from time to time purchase for the company any shares in the company, and deal with the shares so purchased as if they had never been issued. In 1872 the directors purchased from Ward his 549 shares in the company, and he executed a deed of transfer of them to the company. This arrangement was confirmed at a meeting of the shareholders in March, 1872. In the returns made to the registrar of joint stock companies the company was entered as holder of the shares, Ward's name being removed from the register. The company went on prosperously for several years, but afterwards fell into difficulties, and in 1879 an order was made for winding it up. The Master of the Rolls held that Ward must be on the list of contributories. Ward appealed.

Davey, Q.C., Macnaghten, Q.C., and Curtis Price, for the appellants.

Chitty, Q.C., Kekewich, Q.C., and Burton Buckley, for the liquidator.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.) reversed the decision appealed from.

From Ch. Div. SALT v. COOPER. Dec. 21.

Bankruptcy—Appointment of Receiver—Equitable Execution—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 95.

This was an appeal by the plaintiffs from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. The plaintiffs had obtained a judgment against Cooper for 165*l.*, and issued an elegit. The sheriff returned nulla bona, and no lands which he could seize. The defendant was entitled to an equity of redemption, and on the 14th of September, 1880, the plaintiffs obtained the appointment of a receiver. Earlier on the same day a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy against Cooper was presented, and a receiver appointed. Resolutions for liquidation were subsequently passed. The plaintiffs had not on the 14th of September any notice of Cooper having committed an act of bankruptcy, or that any proceedings in bankruptcy were pending. The Master of the Rolls held that the title of the trustee under the liquidation must prevail against the equitable execution of the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Fooks, for the appellants.

Macnaghten, Q.C., and Oswald, contra, were not called upon.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, holding that as by the appointment of the receiver in bankruptcy the property was at law taken possession of by the Court, the subsequent equitable execution of the plaintiffs was ineffectual, and was not protected by s. 95 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

V.-C. M. In re LORD SOUTHAMPTON'S ESTATE. Dec. 11.

Equitable Mortgage—Confidential Solicitor—Constructive Notice.

This was a claim against the estate of the late Lord Southampton. On the 28th of February, 1871, the Rev. Mr. Banfater applied to his solicitor, Jacob Birt, to invest for his son upon mortgage a sum of 2000*l.*, and gave him a cheque for the amount. On the following 2nd of March, Birt wrote to the wife of Banfater, jun., informing her that he had received the 2000*l.*, and had placed out the amount in her husband's name on a freehold 5*l.* per cent. mortgage on the Southampton estate, carrying interest as from that day. On the 25th of March, 1871, Birt sent to Banfater, jun. a memorandum of agreement which recited that on the 6th of January, 1871, Lord Southampton had deposited with Jacob Birt the counterpart lease of property specified in the schedule, of which Lord Southampton was seized in fee, for securing a sum of 3000*l.* and interest at 5 per cent. The memorandum then stated "the sum of 2000*l.* part of the annexed 3000*l.* security from Lord Southampton, now belongs to the Rev. H. W. Banfater with interest at 5 per cent. per annum (signed) Jacob Birt." The documents mentioned in the schedule to the above equitable mortgage were then handed over by Birt to Banfater. Subsequently Birt applied to Banfater to return him the documents as the property was about to be sold, and promised to replace them by other leases of equal value. The documents were accordingly returned by Banfater, and he afterwards received from Birt other counterpart leases, which turned out to be entirely without value, the property comprised therein having been long before disposed of. Upon the death of Lord Southampton the mortgage for 3000*l.* was paid off, and Birt afterwards died insolvent.

This claim was brought by Banfater against the estate of Lord Southampton for the 2000*l.*, on the ground that Lord Southampton had received constructive notice of the loan through Birt, who was his confidential agent and solicitor.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for Banfater.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the trustees of Lord Southampton.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that Banfater had personally trusted Birt with his money. If he had kept the original deeds he might have had a good claim, but he parted with them, and received worthless documents in exchange. It was impossible to hold that any man could have constructive notice of all the frauds committed by his solicitor. Banfater should have employed an independent solicitor, who would have given notice to Lord Southampton that his 2000*l.* formed part of the loan by Birt, and then his claim would have been allowed; but he neglected this, and made no inquiries as to the value of the documents he received in exchange. The claim must therefore be disallowed. There would be no costs against Banfater.

V.-C. M. LAWES v. CARTER. Dec. 14.

Interim Injunction—Power of the Court—Order to pull down—Compensation in Damages.

Glasse, Q.C., and E. Cutler, moved to continue an interim injunction restraining the defendants from continuing to erect certain buildings in Whetstone Park to such a height as to interfere with the light coming to the plaintiffs' windows to a greater extent than such light had been interfered with at any time during the last twenty years. They refused to agree to any terms until the hearing, which would give the Court power to inflict damages by way of compensation, in lieu of an order to discontinue the erection or pull down the building causing the obstruction.

J. Pearson, Q.C., Bristowe, Q.C., and Phipson Beale, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that he had power at the hearing either to order the defendants to pull down any part of the building which interfered with the plaintiffs' light, or to order the defendants to pay any sum of money by way of compensation for the damage the plaintiffs might have sustained; and being of opinion that the evidence upon this interlocutory application was not sufficiently conclusive to enable him to decide the question, he should refuse to continue the injunction, without prejudice to any question at the hearing.

V.-C. M. NEWMAN v. HOOK. Dec. 15.

Sale of Estate by the Court—Private Contract—30 & 31 Vict. c. 48, s. 7—Opening Biddings—Principle applicable to Private Contract.

An estate was put up for sale by auction on the 5th of August, under the direction of the Court, at a reserved price of 18,500*l.*, but there being no bidding higher than 15,700*l.* the property was not sold. An offer of 18,000*l.* was then made by Mr. Walker, subject to the sanction of the Court being obtained within 10 days. The matter came before the chief clerk on the 24th of September, when Mr. Aird, the solicitor for some of the parties interested, urged the postponement for a fortnight, saying that he thought he could get a higher price. The chief clerk being unwilling to grant a postponement beyond the 10 days stipulated, fixed the 29th of September, when Mr. Aird again urged postponement, stating that he was in negotiation with an intending purchaser. The chief clerk refused further postponement, and, at the request of the trustees conducting the sale, made an order approving the sale at 18,000*l.* to Walker, who had already paid his deposit. The chief clerk's order was drawn up, but not passed and entered. The abstract had been delivered to the purchaser.

Glasse, Q.C., and Anderson, appeared in support of a summons to vary the chief clerk's order, and asked a declaration that an offer of 20,000*l.*, which had now been received by Mr. Aird should be accepted.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Robson, for Walker, the purchaser.

Higgins, Q.C., and Dobbs, for the trustees.

Everitt, and E. Ford, for the other parties interested in the estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that the chief clerk had acted perfectly right in accepting the positive offer of Walker, rather than run the risk of losing him without having secured another purchaser. His Lordship was of opinion that the principle of the Act 30 & 31 Vict. c. 48, s. 7, putting a stop to the opening of biddings at auctions directed by the Court, was applicable to a sale by private contract with the sanction of the Court. The order of the chief clerk must be confirmed.

One of three Executors—Retainer—Two Trustees—32 & 33 Vict. c. 46.

Mr. Bissill was one of the three executors of W. W. Stewart, and was jointly with G. A. Crowder, a creditor on the estate of W. W. Stewart. A sum of money was due to the estate of W. W. Stewart from his father's estate, which was being administered in another suit. Mr. Bissill now applied in a suit for the administration of the estate of W. W. Stewart, that he might be at liberty to receive from the receiver in the other suit a sum of 200*l.*, and retain it in respect of the balance due to him and G. A. Crowder from the estate of W. W. Stewart.

Glasse, Q.C., and Bissill, in support of the application.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Badcock, for the plaintiffs, contended, first, that by Hinde Palmer's Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 46) the right of retainer was incidentally abolished; and secondly, that the Court would not assist one of three executors to defeat the other creditors by receiving money and retaining it.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that if three executors received money, and one of them was a creditor, he had a right of retainer. Mr. Hinde Palmer's Act did not apply to retainer, and the application must be granted.

Agreement for Settlement—Letter—Lapse of Time.

Mr. Tagert had proposed marriage to the daughter of Mr. Badcock. Mr. Badcock thereupon, on the 6th of May, 1853, wrote a letter to Mr. Tagert saying that he and his wife had determined to settle at once upon their daughter 2000*l.*, and in addition to this she would get at her mother's death 2000*l.*, and the same, at least, on his death. Mr. Tagert was married to Miss Badcock on the 27th of April, 1854, and on the day before, a formal agreement was executed whereby Mr. and Mrs. Badcock agreed to settle 2000*l.* on Mr. and Mrs. Tagert and their children in the usual manner.

Mrs. Badcock died in 1870, and Mr. Badcock died in 1879, and an action was instituted for the administration of his estate. Mr. and Mrs. Tagert claimed to have 4000*l.* out of Mr. Badcock's estate settled upon them. Mr. and Mrs. Tagert deposed that the marriage took place solely on the faith of the letter of the 6th of May, 1853.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, in support of the claim.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Prior, for the other two daughters of Mr. Badcock.

N. Lawrence, for trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that if the marriage had taken place immediately after the letter had been written there could be no doubt about the case. But it did not take place until nearly a year afterwards, and in the absence of evidence, Mr. and Mrs. Badcock being both dead, he must presume that there had been negotiations between the parties, and that the agreement of 1854 had been accepted as the only agreement. Mr. Tagert did not appear to have mentioned the other 4000*l.* when the agreement for a settlement was made, nor did he make any claim to 2000*l.* on the death of Mrs. Badcock in 1870. On reason and on the authorities this claim must be rejected.

V.-C. H. ASSER v. GOETZE. Dec. 16.
Partnership—Accounts taken by Referee—Statement of Case for the Opinion of the Court—Articles of Partnership—Right of Widow to leave Capital of deceased Partner in the Business at 10 per cent.

This was an action in reference to a partnership between the late J. H. Goetze and the plaintiff, H. W. Asser. The taking of the accounts was referred to one of the official referees. During the progress of the proceedings a question arose upon the construction of the testator's will and the articles of partnership, and the referee stated the facts for the opinion of the Court. They were that Mr. Goetze, being a widower with children, in 1860 married the defendant. There was no settlement. By his will, made in 1865, he gave to four trustees all the residue of his property to invest, and to pay the income to his wife for life or widowhood, and after her death or marriage he gave the capital to his children. In January, 1870, Mr. Goetze entered into a new partnership with Mr. Asser to carry on business as colonial brokers during their joint lives. One article of partnership was that Mr. Goetze might introduce into the partnership a son or sons at majority, and give him or them a share or shares in the profits; "and in case of the death of Mr. Goetze if his widow shall determine to leave part of the capital in the business she shall have the like powers of introducing her sons or either of them into the business as partners," with a fair share of the profits for them. There were other articles which directed how the accounts should be taken on the determination of the partnership; and if either partner should die during the partnership his executors should be entitled to the capital belonging to him and to an allowance of 5 per cent. in lieu of profits, and for the payment of such capital a bond was to be given to the executors with interest at 5 per cent., and such capital as to one moiety was to be paid at the end of six months, and the residue at the end of twelve months from the date of the death, and the surviving partner was to enter into a covenant with the executors to indemnify them against the debts and the liabilities of the partnership. Another article was that in addition to such bond to be given to the executors, the partner should execute and deliver to the wife who might survive Mr. Goetze another bond "for the payment to any wife who may survive him during her life a clear annuity of 10*l.* for every 100*l.* of the capital of Mr. Goetze which she may be willing to allow to remain in the business of the partnership to the amount of not more than 10,000*l.*, by equal quarterly payments, the first quarterly payment to be made in three calendar months after the death of" Mr. Goetze, and in the event of the death of Mr. Asser his executors "shall be at liberty to allow" his capital to remain in the partnership for the term of one year, and during that period should be entitled to 5 per cent. per annum. Mr. Goetze, in May, 1876, executed a codicil making equal the shares of his children, but making no mention of his wife having any right to leave any portion of his capital in the business. He died in July, 1877. The widow claimed the right, and was willing and had determined to leave a sum of 5,000*l.*, part of the said capital, in the business at 10 per cent. per annum. Mr. Asser denied that she had any such right, and he was unwilling that any part of Mr. Goetze's capital should be left in the business upon the terms mentioned in the articles, and the question for decision was whether the widow had the right which she claimed.

Pearson, Q.C., Shiress Will, and F. Watson, were for Mr. Asser. Hastings, Q.C., and Hull, for the claimant, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was no difficulty in construing the clauses, and the conclusion which he came to was that the widow was entitled to leave the sum of 5000*l.* as capital in the concern, and to have an annuity after the rate of 10 per cent. for it.

LANDOWNERS' WEST OF ENGLAND AND SOUTH WALES LAND DRAINAGE AND INCLOSURE COMPANY v. ASHFORD.

Mortgage—Priority—Statutory Charge—Reclamation of Land from Sea—Condition Precedent—“Owner of a limited interest in land.”

The Act (11 & 12 Vict. c. cxlii.) incorporating a company for the purpose (inter alia) of draining and reclaiming land, empowered the "owner of a limited interest in land" to contract with the company for the execution of drainage and reclamation works, and for that purpose to charge on the land (in the manner provided by the Act) the cost of executing the works. The Act defined the term "owner of a limited interest in land" as including "any person entitled to any land subject to any mortgage or charge thereon, provided such person shall be in possession of the land mortgaged or charged."

Held, that this definition included a purchaser in possession of land upon which the vendor had a lien for unpaid purchase-money.

The Act provided by s. 34 that "from and after the due execution of the works mentioned in any contract" (between the company and an owner of land) "or of any part of any such works, such execution, together with the amount due in respect of the same, being duly certified by three directors of the said company under the seal of the said company, the company shall be entitled to and shall have a lien and charge upon the lands so drained, &c., for the moneys or money mentioned in such certificate as aforesaid . . . and such lien or charge shall have priority over every other charge or incumbrance affecting the same lands," except ground rents and tithe commutation rent-charge.

Held, that the certificate of the directors was not conclusive, but only prima facie, evidence of the due execution of the works mentioned in it, and that if, notwithstanding the certificate, it could be shewn that the works mentioned in it had not been duly executed according to the contract, the company would not be entitled to the statutory charge on the land as against a prior incumbrancer, or even as against the equitable owner.

North, Q.C., Lumley Smith, Q.C., and Daunev, for the plaintiffs. Davey, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence; Millar, Q.C., and W.

Phipson Beale; Fischer, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy; Kekewich, Q.C., and Hornell; Cookson, Q.C., and Romer; Kaulins; Daw; and Davenport, for the different defendants.

Solicitors: J. C. Stogden; J. H. Hortin; J. B. Batten & Co.; Ovans, Bayley, & Adams; G. E. Philbrick; Clarke, Woodcock, & Ryland; Brownlow & Howe; Coode, Kingdon, & Cotton; Longcroft & Myers.

Fry, J. LAIRD v. BRIGGS. Dec 14.
Prescription Act—2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 71, s. 8—Computation of period of 40 years—Exclusion of Life Estate—“Person entitled to any reversion”—Practice—Amendment of Pleadings—Alteration of Case.

Held by FRY, J., that the words in sect. 8 of the Prescription Act, "person entitled to any reversion expectant on the determination" of a tenancy for life, are not limited to an owner of the whole reversion, but include a tenant at will to such an owner; and that, therefore, a tenancy for life is to be excluded in the computation of the period of 40 years mentioned in the Act, if within three years after the termination of the tenancy for life, an action is brought by such a tenant at will against the claimant of an easement by prescription.

The plaintiff claimed to be tenant in possession of a part of the foreshore at Margate, and sought to restrain the defendant from removing shingle from the foreshore and from placing bathing machines upon it. The defendant claimed by 40 years' enjoyment an easement entitling him to do the acts complained of, and by his statement of defence he denied that the plaintiff was or ever had been in possession of the foreshore in question, "save subject to the rights of the defendant." At the trial the defendant asked for leave to amend his statement of defence by striking out these qualifying words, and making the denial of the plaintiff's possession an absolute one.

Cookson, Q.C., and Follett, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and T. Brett, for the defendant.

FRY, J., said that, having regard to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Newby v. Sharpe (8 Ch. D. 39), he ought not to allow the defendant thus entirely to alter his case. The effect of the amendment would be to convert an action by a person in possession of land into an action to recover the possession of land.

Solicitors: Harrisons; Remnant, Penley, & Grubbe.

Fry, J. MATTHEWS v. JEFFREY. Dec. 15.
Burials Acts—15 & 16 Vict. c. 85—Grave—Family Rights.

A grave space was granted by a burial board in perpetuity under the Burial Acts to E. Matthews and her heirs, and she left her son the plaintiff her heir-at-law and executor. Her daughter buried a child in the grave space, with the consent of the burial board, but without the consent of the plaintiff, and the plaintiff contended that this was illegal, and asked for damages and for an injunction to restrain future use of the graveyard by the daughter of Eliza Matthews. The defendant was the husband of the daughter. The principal contention on the part of the defendant was that by analogy to other ecclesiastical faculties the grave space belonged to Mrs. Eliza Matthews and her family residing in the parish, and the law could not admit of a grant to descend to heirs.

Jelf, Q.C., and H. D. Greene, for the plaintiff.

Anstey, and Tyssen, for the defendant.

FRY, J., held that the grant was justified by s. 33 of the Burial Act, 15 & 16 Vict. c. 85, and that it was convenient that the plaintiff should have the control of the right of burial, and he gave the injunction with nominal damages.

THE ROYAL PHRASEOLOGICAL FRENCH-ENGLISH AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

'Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phraseology by Mr. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the mind of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns fourrés everywhere, untrammelled by "the forty"—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson.—Quarterly Review.

A MILITARY DICTIONARY,

Comprising TERMS, SCIENTIFIC AND OTHERWISE, connected with the SCIENCE OF WAR.

COMPILED BY

MAJOR-GEN. G. E. VOYLE, Retired Royal (Bengal) Artillery, Author of "The Gunner's Aid";

ASSISTED BY

CAPT. G. DE ST. CLAIR-STEVENSON.

THIRD EDITION, WITH SUPPLEMENT. Crown 8vo. Cloth, 10s. 6d.; post-free, 11s.

"The Officers' ends mean; . . . in every respect adapted to the wants of those for whom it is intended. . . . The work extends to the duties of officers of every grade, and the knowledge essential to their successful execution. . . . Civilians as well as military will find it an extremely useful addition to their libraries."—Morning Post.

"The book is one which will be constantly useful to all who are engaged in any military studies."—Volunteer Service Gazette.

"It is a handy and useful book, and it is a substitute for the larger and more expensive works of the same description, quite sufficient for the purpose of battalion officers."—Army and Navy Gazette.

"It would be difficult to find, in so handy a shape, so much valuable information of its kind as is given in this book. . . . The authors have shown fitness for the task they have undertaken, and have produced as the result a most useful book."—Scotsman.

THE ROYAL PHRASEOLOGICAL FRENCH-ENGLISH AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the mint of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns paraphrasées undreamt of by "the forty"—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review.

"An examination of the work has convinced us that it really supplies a mass of fresh material which every conveyancer will find a most useful addition to his library. . . . We can thoroughly recommend the book to both branches of the profession, but more especially to solicitors, who will find it a valuable aid for ready use in all ordinary conveyancing practice."—Law Magazine.

LINDLEY'S (Sir N.) LAW OF PARTNERSHIP.—A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF PARTNERSHIP, including its application to Joint-Stock and other Companies. By SIR NATHANIEL LINDLEY, one of the Judges of H.M.'s High Court of Justice.

"The main changes in this edition are, of course, in the portions relating to legal procedure. Book 2, chapter 3, on actions between partnerships and companies and non-members; and book 3, chapter 10, on actions between partnerships and companies and their members, and between the members themselves, have been re-cast, and now contains a singularly clear, practical, and concise exposition of the changes effected by the Judicature Act. We may say in general of this edition that it is refreshing to find the old characteristics of the book still conspicuous in the treatment of new matter. Difficulties are neither evaded nor dismissed with the dogmatic assurance or easy flippancy to be met with in certain recent law books. We have almost always here a conscientious effort to help the reader to the meaning and limits of doctrines and legislative provisions, and to point out to him the pitfalls—in short, to adopt as far as possible the process of judicial interpretation."—Solicitors' Journal.

In 2 vols., royal 8vo., price £3 15s., cloth.

FLOOD'S EQUITABLE DOCTRINE OF ELECTION.

A Treatise on the Rule of Practice in English Law; embodying what is known as the Equitable Doctrine of Election: being an Introductory Sketch of the subject for the use of Students. By JOHN C. H. FLOOD, of the Middle Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

In 1 vol., 8vo., price £1 10s., cloth.

FLOOD ON THE LAW RELATING TO WILLS OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.—A Treatise on the Law of Wills relating to Personal Property, and Subjects appertaining thereto. By J. C. H. FLOOD, of the Middle Temple Barrister-at-Law.

"Contains everything which can render it valuable, either as a text-book for the student, or a book of reference for the practising lawyer. . . . A few more works equal to the present, should he have leisure to write them, would entitle Mr. Flood to rank among the foremost of our legal writers."—Saturday Review.

"A large chapter on 'Executors and Administrators' is not the least valuable part of a work likely to be used by students who, alarmed by the size of the two volumes of Williams on 'Executors,' cannot easily 'gain' information from other sources."—The Law Journal.

Second Edition, in 1 vol., royal 12mo., price 21s., cloth.

HEYWOOD'S PRACTICE OF THE COUNTY COURTS;

comprising the whole Practice, except in Admiralty and Bankruptcy. The Sections of the Judicature Act applying to County Courts, and the whole of the County Court Statutes, and the Rules, Orders, Forms, and Scales of Fees and Costs, are printed in the Appendices. Second Edition, entirely re-written and greatly enlarged. By GEORGE WASHINGTON HEYWOOD, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"It is an extremely useful volume, comprehensive and compendious in form. In an introductory chapter, Mr. Heywood explains the operation of the Judicature Act upon the County Courts, and in the body of his work he makes suggestions wherever they are likely to prove of value with reference to the working of the new system. . . . Our examination has satisfied us that Mr. Heywood has done his work thoroughly."—Law Times.

Illustrated by Notes of all the important Decisions thereon; with careful Cross References and a copious Index. By F. PITT-TAYLOR, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

"We have used it in practice and found it extremely handy. . . . As far as we have tested the result of Mr. Taylor's labours we have found him reliable, and we can confidently recommend his work."—Law Times.

8vo., price 16s., cloth.

DICEY'S PARTIES TO AN ACTION. A Treatise on the Rules for the Selection of the Parties to an Action. By A. V. DICEY, Esq., of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law, and Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford.

"The volume before us is that rare production of our time—a scientific treatise on a specific branch of the law. . . . It is a work that will be as welcome in the County Courts as in the Superior Courts, and it is written with the clearness and precision always found where the author has thoroughly mastered his subject."—Law Times.

8vo., price 16s., cloth.

MAXWELL (Sir P. BENSON) ON THE INTERPRETATION OF STATUTES.

"This is an admirable book, excellent in its method and arrangement, and clear and thorough in its treatment of the different questions involved. The work will be found of great practical utility, as affording a key to the method adopted by our Courts in the construction of statutes, and it will be of much value as showing the uniformity which has in general marked the application of the principles of interpretation to a vast variety of legislative enactments."—Law Magazine.

Price 10s. 6d., cloth.
