Introduction.

THE productions of the Elzeviers may no longer command, in England at any rate, the fabulous prices they once did ; I attribute this, first, to the numerous forgeries which the unwary so often purchase as genuine ; and, secondly, to the fact that so little is really known in England of the works of these celebrated Dutch printers, though to all lovers of early typography, they must ever remain treasures to be long sought and dearly-prized. To a few, the family history of these world-known typographers may prove interesting: I have therefore ventured to subjoin a slight biographical sketch of the family. This, while of use to genuine students, will prove, I fear, “caviare to the general” to the ordinary reader.

The year 1580 was a hard one for the Flemish Protestants and many left their fatherland to seek their fortune elsewhere. A bookbinder of Louvain, Louis Elzevier by name, born probably about the year 1540, had settled down, when quite a youth, in the town of Antwerp. There he had married Marie Duverdyn and two children, Matthew and Louis, had come to share the very modest pittance the bookbinder managed to earn. A few years before, another bookbinder had settled in Antwerp, but had soon relinquished bookbinding for printing. His name was Christopher Plantin.

What a strange coincidence was that which brought into the same town, about the same period, and with the hope of earning their bread in the same modest way, the two men to whom the typography of the Netherlands owes its glory and renown !

Antwerp was Protestant, and so long as Margaret of Parma held the reins of government, the inhabitants were left in peace ; but in 1567, Philip II. sent the terrible Duke of Alva, with orders to extirpate by fire and sword every germ of heresy. Like thousands of others, Louis Elzevier left Antwerp and retired to Wesel, a small town on the Rhine, in the duchy of Cleves. Here his third son Giles was born. Between 1574 and 1580 he removed to Douai ; but in the latter year, Spain having re-obtained possession of Artois and Hainault, Louis, accompanied by his wife, his five sons (for two more had been born in Douai) and a daughter (date of birth unknown) withdrew to Leyden in Holland. Leyden was then the most commercial, and after Amsterdam, the most populous city in Holland, and (a great inducement no doubt to Louis) possessed a Protestant University, the gift of William the Taciturn.

Having purchased a house on the Rappenberg, he became binder and soon after bookseller to the University. In 1583 appeared the first volume with Louis Elzevier's name as publisher. It is a book of 126 pages, "T. Drusii Ebraicarum quæstionum, sive quæstionum ac responsionum libri duo, videlicet secundus ac tertius." (In Academia Lugdunensi, 1583, 8vo). The name of the Publisher appears at the end of the errata. In February, 1586, having been appointed apparitor (pedellus) to the University, he applied to the Curators for leave to build a shop on the grounds belonging to the University. His request was granted, and there arose the humble building which was the foundation of the fortune of the Elzeviers and the cradle of their glory.

It has been generally supposed that the position of this house is now unknown, but Mr. Alphonse Willems has had the good fortune to discover in an old copy of Simon van Leewen's description of Leyden, a curious engraving representing the University building, and, to the right of it, the premises occupied by Louis Elzevier.* In 1594 he took his son Matthew into partnership, and from that date his publications followed one another in a ceaseless stream. The Eutropius of 1592 was the only work he had previously published at his own expense. In 1595 he began to attend the Frankfort Fair, and in 1602 we find him in Paris. Many publishers and editors confided to him their works for sale, and his business sharpness, if not his morality, is proved by his various devices, so frequently made use of by booksellers of a later period. Thus the Arnaldus and Passerat of 1594, the Boxhorn and Montanus of 1595, printed by Paetsius, but falling flat, were purchased by him for a trifle, and soon re-appeared with a new title-page, bearing his own name. Again we find him tricking the public by passing off as new editions old ones increased by a few pages of supplement, e.g., the Chronicle of Carion, of 1596, or merely substituting title-pages, or again, as in the Cluverius of 1611, combining two old works into one new one.

Everywhere we find the clever, industrious, artful bookseller, but we also find a man looked up to and esteemed by such men as Heinsius, Puteanus, and Gruterus. Thus at the end of his career, Louis Elzevier could look back with pride on the events of his life. The obscure workman, the fugitive from Alva, had made his name known on the principal markets of Europe. But up to this date (Feb. 1617), his publications had been in no wise distinguishable from those of his rivals. It is as well to mention this, for amateurs, misled by the name, often exaggerate their importance. He left nine children, seven sons and two daughters. The four eldest sons and the sixth we shall speak of presently. The fifth, Arnold, was a painter, and left a son, likewise a painter. The youngest son, Adrian, was born in 1585, and all we know of him is drawn from the Journal of Admiral Wittert, published in 1875, by a descendant of the Admiral. It appears that in 1607 the Dutch East India Company sent a fleet against the Portuguese in Mozambique. In 1609, the squadron arrived at the Moluccas. The Directors had ordered a small fort to be built on one of the islands, Banda Neira. They sent Adrian Elzevier, who knew the Malay language, into the interior, where he was afterwards massacred with thirty followers.

MATTHEW ELZEVIER, the eldest son of Louis, joined his brother Bonaventura, in carrying on their father's business. Only two works, however, bear their name, both dated 1618, the "Castramétation" of Simon Stevin, and the "Nouvelle Manière de fortification par Escluses" of the same. All their other publications were dated, Ex officina Elzeviriana. Matthew was married three times, in 1591, 1624, and 1626. By his first wife, Barbara Lopes, he had five children, of whom three sons, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, a biblical trinity, will be dealt with hereafter.

LOUIS ELZEVIER II., son of Louis I., settled as a Bookseller at the Hague in 1590. His shop was one of those which were let out by the States General within the waiting room of the Palace, and we find the first work bearing his name is dated 1594. A letter of Paul Merula, dated May 5th, 1601, relates that being appointed by the Academic Council to wait upon the States of Holland, with regard to some mission or other, he met Louis Elzevier, the son, in the palace of the Estates: "Incidit in filium pedelli nostri, Ludovicum Elzevirium."

The Hague library seems to have been a branch of that of Leyden. In 1620 Louis Elzevier must have been still living, judging from a letter to Meursius, but as we know that Jacob Elzevier settled at the Hague in October, 1621, we may presume that Louis died somewhere between those dates.

GILES ELZEVIER was the third son of Louis I. We can hardly rank him as a Bookseller and Publisher, for only one book seems to have been published with his name, the Navigatio ac itinerarium of Linschoten, in 1599. We are even inclined to doubt whether he had a shop of his own at all, for we find that the volume was published at the Hague at the very period when his brother, Louis

II. had been called to Leyden to help his father, Louis I., temporarily. Probably, therefore, Giles was merely replacing his brother for a time. In 1620, we find him manager of the Leyden branch of the Dutch East India Company. He died in 1651.

JUSTUS ELZEVIER, the fourth son of Louis I., was inscribed in 1590, as a student in Arts at the University of Leyden. From this inscription we learn his place of birth: "Justus Elseverius Duacensis," of Douay. It was long thought that he never followed the business of a bookseller, but in the accounts of the city of Utrecht, we find three entries of payments made to "Justus Elzevier, bookseller." He left two sons, Louis III., and Peter.

ISAAC ELZEVIER.—In genealogical order we ought now to follow the career of Bonaventura Elzevier, but as the latter only took up the business of bookseller on the retirement of his nephew Isaac, we will follow events in their normal and regular order. We saw just now that Matthew, the eldest son of Louis I., left three sons, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The second of these, Isaac, born in 1599, married in 1616, and the next year, probably with his wife's dowry, he bought a printing press, the first the Elzeviers ever possessed. His first productions, printed that same year, were printed at the expense of his grandfather, Louis I. After his grandfather's death, he continued to work for his successors, and also for other Publishers; amongst others, for a certain Henry Hondius, of Amsterdam. Query, Was this a relation of Hondius, the engraver, the friend of Henry Hudson? *

Some people have maintained that Isaac was also a publisher, but this is an error resulting from some books printed by him having the sole indication apud Isaacum Elsevirium. These were merely academical books of little importance, or nuptial hymns, which it would not be worth while for any firm of publishers to undertake. On the 9th February, 1620, Isaac was named printer to the University of Leyden. From this date he adopted the celebrated typographical mark of the "Solitaire;" a recluse beneath a tree round which is entwined a vine, bearing the motto: "Non solus," a mark which remained henceforth that of the Elzeviers of Leyden. At this period he possessed six presses, and in 1625 he completed his material by purchasing from the widow of Erpenius the Oriental types which that learned man had collected. That very year he sold to his Uncle, Bonaventura, and his own brother Abraham, his whole stock-in-trade, entered the Navy, in which he obtained the rank of Captain, and finally died in Cologne, in October, 1651. None of his sons followed his business.

BONAVENTURA ELZEVIER was the sixth son of Louis I. Born in 1583, he early took part in his father's affairs, and seems to have travelled considerably in his youth. After the death of Louis I., he and his brother Matthew carried on the business, as we have already mentioned. In 1622 Matthew ceded his share to his son Abraham, and from that period dates the partnership which was to immortalize the name of the Elzeviers. Nothing at first indicated their future greatness. For three years they continued to issue works printed for them by Isaac, but in 1625 Isaac, as we have seen, entered the navy, selling his presses to the two partners. Bonaventura had just married the daughter of Daniel Van Ceulen, better known as Colonius, the pupil of Calvin. During his whole life he remained firmly attached to the Calvinistic faith; I mean the Calvinistic faith in its most rigorous and exclusive sense; such as it had been defined by the celebrated Synod of Dordrecht.

The twenty-six years which followed the purchase of Isaac's presses were for the Elzeviers twenty-six years of glory and success. I need not dilate on the merits which distinguish this period, the most brilliant of all in Elzevirian annals. Not that they began by issuing masterpieces: masterpieces are not executed at a moment's notice in typography any more than in any other branch of art. But their very first volumes were superior to those of Isaae, and we can follow, step by step, their progress, till at the end of ten years they have reached the summit of excellence in the Cæsar, the Terence, and the Pliny of 1635!

Bonaventura treated with authors and clients; Abraham managed the typographical department.

Bonaventura's last years were saddened by domestic misfortunes. A few years before his death, he lost a son, aged sixteen, and three years later his wife, Sarah Van Ceulen. His partner Abraham died on the 14th August 1652, and on the 17th of the following month he himself followed him to the tomb. His death put an end to the three projects which he had conceived, and to which bibliophiles will ever look back with regret. The first was a complete edition of the Greek historian Procopius, with a Latin version by Grotius; the second, a complete edition of the works of Galileo; and the third an edition of Montaigne on the lines of the Memoirs of Commynes.

ABRAHAM ELZEVIER, the eldest son of Matthew, and partner with his uncle Bonaventura, was born at Leyden in 1592. His career as printer and bookseller is identical with that of his uncle, and having entered with some detail into the latter, we need only say that Abraham was the real author of those typographical marvels in which the most ingenious taste is accompanied by the most delicate execution. Had it not been for him and for one other man about whom more anon, Bonaventura would have been an ordinary publisher, and his productions would long ago have disappeared under the dust of ages. Jean, Louis III., and Daniel came after Abraham, yet none surpassed him ; so that he remains the first and at the same time the greatest of the four printers who have made famous the name of the Elzeviers. Only one of his sons followed his profession.

JEAN ELZEVIER, at the age of sixteen, had been sent to France to learn the language and become acquainted with the world of letters. From a letter of Gronovius, we learn that he lived in the house of a bookseller : probably Guillaume Pellé, his father's correspondent in Paris. He received much kindness from Chancellor Séguier. His stay in Paris extended over a year. In January 1643 we find him at Soroé, in Denmark (Vossii Epistolæ, p. 343) and the following year again in Paris, which city he seems to have revisited in 1645, 1646, and 1647. In this last year he married at Leyden Eva Van Alphen. In 1652, as we have seen, Abraham died, leaving his share in the business to Jean, and a month later Bonaventura breathed his last, leaving his share to his son Daniel.

Naturally the two cousins entered into partnership. They were both young, yet we must confess that the Leyden establishment maintained its reputation,—witness their “Imitation of Christ” and the “Psautier” of 1653. But troubles were coming. That brilliant constellation of authors, Salmasius, the opponent of Milton, Heinsius, Spanheim, were dead, or died within a few months. Others such as Grotius, Vossius, De Laet, &c., had rallied round Louis III., son of Justus, who had started a press at Amsterdam. The characters, too, of the partners differed materially; Jean was always full of plans and projects which he never carried out; Daniel, matter of fact and cool as only a Dutch business man can be. Some quarrel arose between them, and, in 1655, Daniel withdrew, and joined Louis at Amsterdam. Jean continued the business alone, but matters went from bad to worse with him, and in 1659 and 1660 we find him selling off his stock by public auction. A year later, at the age of 39, he died, after what may well be called a chequered career. His widow, Eva Van Alphen, decided to continue the business under the style and title of “The Widow and Heirs of Jean Elzevier.” She produced little, however, except the great Dutch Bible which had been begun several years before, the Variorum Tacitus of 1672, and the Confessions of St. Augustine of 1675. In 1681 she died, leaving the presses to her son Abraham II., her eldest son Daniel having entered the navy, in which he became vice-admiral.

ABRAHAM ELZEVIER II.—Nothing can give an idea of his negligence and ignorance. A German traveller, Dr. Lammermann, says: “The Elzevier Press, once so celebrated, is now much fallen off, and seems to decline daily. Nowhere in Europe are things so badly printed, because the workmen are masters, and only correct when they feel inclined. There are now four presses, of which only one, or at most two, are ever employed.” Abraham died in 1712. He had only one daughter; the business therefore came to an end, and the Elzeviers of Leyden were a thing of the past.

LOUIS ELZEVIER III.—In 1637, this son of Justus Elzevier, of Utrecht, established a book-selling business in Amsterdam, and in 1640 added to it a printing press; but many of his books for many years were printed by the Leyden House. Relations were also opened with the house of Hackius, of Leyden; and many books published by Louis issued from their presses; and so good was the work, so clear the type, that many books printed by Hackius might be compared with the best work of the Elzeviers themselves. Louis Elzevier was a man of vast knowledge, the intimate friend of Holstenius, Vossius, and Descartes.

His affairs prospered, and the house of Amsterdam soon equalled in importance that of Leyden. Between 1640 and 1655, it produced 219 publications: a large number for one man to superintend. As we have seen, in this year he was joined by his cousin Daniel, and from that day the Amsterdam press produced the Latin Classics, 12mo, of which the Leyden House had had a monopoly. At the age of sixty, in 1664, Louis Elzevier withdrew from business. After that date, we only find his name on one book, the folio French bible of Desmarets, which appeared in 1669. It had been begun many years previously, and was one of the most splendid works produced by the Elzeviers. Thus Louis closed his career with a masterpiece. He died the following year, from a compound fracture of the leg. He left to his nephew Daniel most of his share in the house, and Daniel purchased the remainder from the executors.

DANIEL ELZEVIER now carried on, alone, the Amsterdam firm. The war between the Netherlands and England caused him heavy losses. In 1669, he managed to secure the services of Henry Wetstein. As this point has been imperfectly cleared up, it may be as well to devote a few words to it. Wetstein was born at Basle in 1649, his father occupying the Chair of Greek in that university. Whilst his elder brother threw himself into the career of letters, he started for Holland, where he became apprentice to Daniel. From his own words, we learn that he remained with him seven years. (See his letter to Thoynard, 10th July 1681.) Now he had started for himself in 1676: thus he must have entered the house of Daniel Elzevier in 1669.

During these seven years, Daniel found in Weststein a zealous and skilful assistant. From that moment the firm was transformed. In less than six years, we find it issuing more than 100 works. Daniel gathered the harvest sown by so many of his ancestors. He was besieged by a crowd of notable and learned customers. Even the fanatic Antoinette Bourignon, that monster of ugliness, whose deformities almost induced her parents to stifle her in her infancy, and who afterwards founded that celebrated sect whose rule was the love of God alone, claimed Daniel's good offices to compose the quarrels between herself and the Carthusians. With Heinsius, and others, he carried on the closest correspondence. The only persons who seem to have done their best to ruin Daniel were the advisers of Louis XIV. The unheard-of success which Bussy-Rabutin's Histoire Amoureuse des Gaules had obtained, produced a perfect epidemic of scandalous and libellous publications against the leading men of the court of Louis XIV. Notwithstanding every effort, however, the skill of the publishers baffled all inquiries.

Daniel was still meditating vast projects, when, in the autumn of 1680, at the age of fifty-four, he was carried off by the epidemic fever so common in Amsterdam in those days. The philosopher Locke writes: "The death of Mr. Elzevier is a public loss." After his death, his widow determined to carry on the business, but, five months after, she followed her husband to the grave.

With Daniel had perished the last of the Elzeviers. For the obscure descendants who were still vegetating in Leyden were quite unworthy of their name. And it was not only the glory of the Elzeviers, it was the glory of Dutch typography that was buried in Daniel's tomb. By a singular coincidence, the Blaeus, the Janssens, the Hackiuses, disappear from the scene at the same time. Wetstein, indeed, made great efforts to preserve the reputation of Dutch printing, but his productions never showed those delicate touches which distinguish the Elzeviers' work.

PETER ELZEVIER, the grandson of Justus, is the last of the race whose biography we have to trace. Born in 1643, we find him, twenty-four years later, establishing a publisher's business at Utrecht. He never was a printer, as has been pretended, and few works bear his name. The most important is Pliny's Panegyricus of 1671; and even of these, most copies bear the name of Hackius of Leyden. In June 1675, Peter Elzevier withdrew from business, and two years later, became treasurer to the Municipal Council. He died in 1696.

A few words in conclusion on the work of the Elzeviers. Who was the maker of the punches used by the Elzeviers? This question has caused as much discussion as the birthplace of Homer. Henceforth this question is at rest. It was not Garamond, Sanlecque, or any other foreign master. The engraver was a Dutchman, and his name was Christopher Van Dyck. When Daniel died his widow determined to sell part of the printing stock, and wrote the following letter to the widow Moretus at Antwerp. The letter was discovered by Mr. Willems in the Plantin Archives in that city :

“Madam,—No longer feeling myself able to manage the whole business, I have resolved to sell part of my printing stock. This portion consists of twenty-seven kinds of punches and fifty kinds of matrix moulds, which are the work of Christopher Van Dyck, the greatest master of his time and of ours. This is consequently the most famous collection of type that has ever existed. I have thought it right to inform you of the fact so that you might seize the opportunity, if you think proper to do so.—I am, Madam, etc.,

Relations were also opened with the house of Hackius, of Leyden; and many books published by Louis issued from their presses; and so good was the work, so clear the type, that many books printed by Hackius might be compared with the best work of the Elzeviers themselves. Louis Elzevier was a man of vast knowledge, the intimate friend of Holstenius, Vossius, and Descartes.

His affairs prospered, and the house of Amsterdam soon equalled in importance that of Leyden. Between 1640 and 1655, it produced 219 publications: a large number for one man to superintend. As we have seen, in this year he was joined by his cousin Daniel, and from that day the Amsterdam press produced the Latin Classics, 12mo, of which the Leyden House had had a monopoly. At the age of sixty, in 1664, Louis Elzevier withdrew from business. After that date, we only find his name on one book, the folio French bible of Desmarests, which appeared in 1669. It had been begun many years previously, and was one of the most splendid works produced by the Elzeviers. Thus Louis closed his career with a masterpiece. He died the following year, from a compound fracture of the leg. He left to his nephew Daniel most of his share in the house, and Daniel purchased the remainder from the executors.

DANIEL ELZEVIER now carried on, alone, the Amsterdam firm. The war between the Netherlands and England caused him heavy losses. In 1669, he managed to secure the services of Henry Wetstein. As this point has been imperfectly cleared up, it may be as well to devote a few words to it. Wetstein was born at Basle in 1649, his father occupying the Chair of Greek in that university. Whilst his elder brother threw himself into the career of letters, he started for Holland, where he became apprentice to Daniel. From his own words, we learn that he remained with him seven years. (See his letter to Thoynard, 10th July 1681.) Now he had started for himself in 1676: thus he must have entered the house of Daniel Elzevier in 1669.

During these seven years, Daniel found in Wctstein a zealous and skilful assistant. From that moment the firm was transformed. In less than six years, we find it issuing more than 100 works. Daniel gathered the harvest sown by so many of his ancestors. He was besieged by a crowd of notable and learned customers. Even the fanatic Antoinette Bourignon, that monster of ugliness, whose deformities almost induced her parents to stifle her in her infancy, and who afterwards founded that celebrated sect whose rule was the love of God alone, claimed Daniel's good offices to compose the quarrels between herself and the Carthusians. With Heinsius, and others, he carried on the closest correspondence. The only persons who seem to have done their best to ruin Daniel were the advisers of Louis XIV. The unheard-of success which Bussy-Rabutin's Histoire Amoureuse des Gaules had obtained, produced a perfect epidemic of scandalous and libellous publications against the leading men of the court of Louis XIV. Notwithstanding every effort, however, the skill of the publishers baffled all inquiries.

Daniel was still meditating vast projects, when, in the autumn of 1680, at the age of fifty-four, he was carried off by the epidemic fever so common in Amsterdam in those days. The philosopher Locke writes: "The death of Mr. Elzevier is a public loss." After his death, his widow determined to carry on the business, but, five months after, she followed her husband to the grave.

With Daniel had perished the last of the Elzeviers. For the obscure descendants who were still vegetating in Leyden were quite unworthy of their name. And it was not only the glory of the Elzeviers, it was the glory of Dutch typography that was buried in Daniel's tomb. By a singular coincidence, the Blaeus, the Janssens, the Haekiuses, disappear from the scene at the same time. Wetstein, indeed, made great efforts to preserve the reputation of Dutch printing, but his productions never showed those delicate touches which distinguish the Elzeviers' work.

PETER ELZEVIER, the grandson of Justus, is the last of the race whose biography we have to trace. Born in 1643, we find him, twenty-four years later, establishing a publisher's business at Utrecht. He never was a printer, as has been pretended, and few works bear his name. The most important is Pliny's Panegyricus of 1671; and even of these, most copies bear the name of Haekius of Leyden. In June 1675, Peter Elzevier withdrew from business, and two years later, became treasurer to the Municipal Council. He died in 1696.

A few words in conclusion on the work of the Elzeviers. Who was the maker of the punches used by the Elzeviers? This question has caused as much discussion as the birthplace of Homer. Henceforth this question is at rest. It was not Garamond, Sanlecque, or any other foreign master. The engraver was a Dutchman, and his name was Christopher Van Dyck. When Daniel died his widow determined to sell part of the printing stock, and wrote the following letter to the widow Moretus at Antwerp. The letter was discovered by Mr. Willems in the Plantin Archives in that city:

“Madam,—No longer feeling myself able to manage the whole business, I have resolved to sell part of my printing stock. This portion consists of twenty-seven kinds of punches and fifty kinds of matrix moulds, which are the work of Christopher Van Dyck, the greatest master of his time and of ours. This is consequently the most famous collection of type that has ever existed. I have thought it right to inform you of the fact so that you might seize the opportunity, if you think proper to do so.—I am, Madam, etc.,

“THE WIDOW OF DANIEL ELZEVIER.

“Amsterdam, Jan 3rd, 1681.” *

* This letter is given in the original as an appendix to Vol. III.

In this letter was enclosed a catalogue, a single sheet printed on one side, containing specimens of forty species of type and eight ornamental headings. I need not describe this precious document: for full particulars I refer the reader to the Catalogue of the works printed by the Elzeviers, under the heading Proeven. To Christopher Van Dyck then let us henceforth give the honour which is his due.

The ornaments used by the Elzeviers were the following:—

1. The Small Hermit, as it is called; for an example of which see the Argenis of Barclay of 1630.
2. The Boughs springing from a circular centre, with a bird on each side, as in the Erasmus of 1643.
3. The Boughs with the two heads profile, also found in the same Erasmus.
4. The Mask, improperly called the Buffalo's Head, but which is really the head of an Ægipan, and of which there are four kinds, slightly different.
5. The Siren, of which there are also four kinds—the black Siren, used in 1636; the white Siren, used in 1639; and two inferior kinds, seen in the Charron of 1656, and the Aristippus of 1658.

6. The grotesque figure which appears in Pliny's Letters of 1640.
7. A bouquet of flowers and fruit in the Polyander of 1644.
8. A vase containing flowers, used in the Fienus of 1635.

These were used by the Leyden firm. Those employed by the Amsterdam house were—

1. A garland of roses, of which there are three different kinds.
2. A fine network of lines, used in the Milton of 1651.
3. The crossed sceptres, with the Rose of England and the Thistle of Scotland.
4. The English Rose, with the letters E.R., evidently Elisabetha Regina. Seen in the Adagia of Erasmus of 1650.
5. The same as No. 2 of Leyden, but the centre piece forming a delta.
6. The Buffalo's Head, very rarely used, but to be seen in the Brantôme of 1666.
7. The same as No. 3 of Leyden, but larger.

Typographical Marks.

Four of these were used by the Elzeviers.

1. The Eagle with seven darts, representing the seven provinces of the Netherlands, and adopted by Louis Elzevier, the founder of the family

The result of the work done by the whole family amounts therefore to 1618 books in 129 years.

As regards the following catalogue, it contains every work which I have been able to ascertain was printed by any of the Elzeviers, and the section devoted to forgeries includes all that it has been my fortune to meet with, during the last twenty years, either in my rambles through the shops of the second-hand booksellers in the principal towns of England, France, Germany, and Italy, or in the pages of Ebert, Brunet, and especially Willems. The work of the latter,* indeed, is almost perfection, and the present catalogue aims at being no more than a revised and abridged translation of that masterpiece of exactitude. Having collated (with about a dozen exceptions) every work mentioned in the pages of that work, I have not found a dozen errors in the whole. The alphabetical arrangement I have adopted for the purpose of facilitating the researches of bibliophiles, to whom I trust this catalogue may prove useful.

phetiam 30. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elzevir.
Academ. typograph., 1631. 8vo.*

Mr. Pieters, following Adry, mentions an edition of 1645. As no other bibliographer has ever met with it, and as it is not in Daniel Elzevier's catalogue of 1674, it is probably apocryphal.

Collation: xvi and 291 pp.—13 pp. of index.

ACTA Synodi Nationalis, in nomine Domini nostri Iesv Christi. Lugduni Batavorum, typis Isaaci Elzevir I, Academiae typographi, Societatis Dordrechtanae sumptibus, 1620. Cum privilegio Ill. Ord. Generalium. Folio.

Collation: 189 pp.

ADVIS du gazetier de Cologne à celuy de Paris. Traduit d'allemand en françois. 1647. 4to.

This tract is undoubtedly a Leyden Elzevier. The head-piece on p. 3 is found in the Académie de l'épée.

Collation: 35 pp.

ÆLIANI (Clavdii) Tactica. Lvgduni Bata- vorum, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno cIo.Io c XIII. 4to.

Collation: viii and 214 pp.;—3 folding plates facing pp. 173, 176, 179.

— et LEONIS Imp. Tactica. Lvgduni Bata vorum, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno cIo.Io cXIII. 4to.

This is the previous article, to which is added Leo's Tactica and the tract by Modestus.

Collation: like the last article for Ælianus; 447 pp. for Leo;—one leaf on which is written, "Excud. I. Balduini," &c.—8 pp. for Modestus.

AFFAIRES, (Les) qui sont aujourd'huy entre les maisons de France et d'Avs-triche, 1648. 12mo.

The author of this work is unknown. (See under the same heading amongst the forgeries).

Collation: 384 pp.

— The same work, 2nd edition, 1649.
It is rather better printed than the preceding.

Collation: 384 pp.

— The same work, 3rd edition, 1662.

Collation: 384 pp.

AHMEDIS Arabsiadæ Vitæ et rerum gestarum Timuri, qui vulgo Tamerlanes dicitur, historia. Lugduni Bata-vorum, ex Typographia Elseviriana. 1636.
sm. 4to.

Collation: viii and 448 pp., numbered in Arabic figures.

AITZEMA (L. ab) Historia pacis. *Lug-sertatio quædam Aben Sinæ. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elzevir. Acad. typogr., 1629. 8vo.

Arabic text only.

Collation: 24 leaves unnumbered—(A, B, C in fours; D in twos; E in fours; A in sixes.)

ALTERA Appendix, seu Responsio S. theologiæ professorum in Academia Leidensi, ad Prodrum adversus ipsorum specimen à Remonstrantibus emissum. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elzevir. Acad. typograph. 1631. 4to.

For the Dutch Version, see Antwoorde op den Voorlooper.

Collation: 22 pp.—one blank leaf.

AMAMA (Sixtini FrisI), Anti-Barbarvs Biblicvs. Franequeræ, typis Isdardi (sic) Alberti. Sumptibus Ludovici et Danielis Elzeviriorum. Anno 1656. 4to.

A long analysis of this book will be found in the Mémoires de Paquet, vol. ix., pp. 130 to 137.

Collation: lxxxviii and 784 pp.

AMESIUS (G.). Coronis ad collationem Hagiensem, quâ argumenta pastorum Hollandiæ adversus Remonstrantivm quinque articulos de divinâ prædestinatione, et capitibus ei annexis, producta, ab horum exceptionibus vindicantur.

Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana, Anno 1618. 4to.

At the end, it is stated to have been printed "Typis Isaaci Elzevirii."

Collation: xvi and 368 pp.

AMICORUM Congratulationes, ad eruditum D. Abrahamum Knyff Vltraiectensem. Lugd. Batavor., ex officinâ Elzeviriorum. Anno 1647. Folio.

Contains nine poems in Latin, French, and Dutch.

Collation: 12 pp.

AMIRAULT (M.). La Vie de François, seigneur de la Nouë, dit Bras-de-fer. A Leyde, chez Jean Elzevier, 1661. 4to.

Collation: viii and 368 pp.—two genealogical tables facing p. 1.

AMOURS de Catulle. Par le S<sup>r</sup> D. L. C. Suivant la copie à Paris, chez Claude Barbin, 1680. 2 vols. in 1. sm. 12mo.

The author was the Sieur de la Chapelle. This book, though mentioned in the Elzevier catalogue of 1681, is fairly printed, but certainly never issued from the Elzevier press. Either Daniel Elzevier had it printed by another printer, or there was another edition really Elzevirian now lost. The latter hypothesis seems the most probable. The edition we are now alluding to may be recognised by pp. 196 and 224 being wrongly numbered 169 and 124. The title of part 2 is on page 105.

Collation: xxiv and 240 pp.

ANDREA (T.). Brevis replicatio reposita brevi explicationi mentis humanæ. Amstelodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii, 1653. Sm. 12mo.

This book was written in defence of the Notæ of Descartes, and not against them, as Brunet asserts.

ANGLERIUS (Peter Martyr). Opus epistolarum. Cui accesserunt Epistolæ Ferdinandi de Pulgar. Editio postrema. Amstelodami, typis Elzevirianis. Veneunt Parisiis, apud Fredericum Leonard, typographum regium, 1670. Folio.

“There is a folio volume with which those who have much attended to the history of the xvth century are well acquainted, purporting to be a series of letters from Anghiera to various friends between the years 1488 and 1522. They are full of interesting facts, and would be still more valuable than they are, could we put our trust in their genuineness as strictly contemporary documents. But . . . some one long since charged the author with imposture, on the ground that the letters, into which he wove the history of his times, are so full of anachronisms as to render it evident that they were fabricated afterwards."—(Hallam's Introduction to the Lit. of Europe, vol. i.).

This collection of letters is somewhat scarce. It is a reimpression of that issued at Compluti, apud Michaelm de Eguia, 1530. Folio, together with the letters of Pulgar.

Collation: xxviii and 486 pp.—title page and 94 pp. for Pulgar's letters;—2 pp. index.

ANTIGONI Carystii historiarum mirabilium collectanea. Lugduni Batarorum, apud Isaacum Elzevirium. Anno 1619. 4to.

Collation: viii and 210 pp.—2 pp. errata.

ANTIQUÆ MUSICÆ auctores septem. Marcus MEIBOMIUS restituit ac notis explicavit. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1652. 2 vols. 4to.

A rare and valuable edition. It fetched £2:16s. at the Pieters sale, and £4:4s. at the Yemeniz sale.

Collation: Vol. i., xlviii pp.; Aristoxenus, ii and 132 pp.—1 plate; Euclides, ii and 68 pp.—1 plate; Nicomachus, ii and 60 pp.:

Alypius, iv and 80 pp.—3 plates; Gaudentius, ii and 40 pp.; Bacchius, ii and 36 pp.

Vol. ii.—viii pp.; Aristides, 363 pp.

ANTWOORDE op den Voorlooper der Remonstranten, teghen de Proeve van hare lasteringhen ende vremede leerstucken. Tot Leyden, by Bonaventuer ende Abraham Elzevier, ordinaris druckers der Universiteyt, 1631. 4to.

This is the Dutch version of the reply of the Leyden Professors, of which we have already noticed the Latin version, p. 5. (see Altera Appendix.) It is printed in Black Letter.

Collation: 32 pp.

ANTWOORDE van de Heeren Staten Generael der vereenichde Nederlandtsche Provintien/ opten Brief van-den Eertshertoghe van Oostenrijck/hier achter by-ghevoeght. *Ghedruckt

ende aent Marckt-velt| Int Gulden
A| B| C. Men vindtse te coop by
Lowijs Elsevier| Boeckvercooper op de
Sael| inden Haghe*. 4to.

Though there is no date given, the letter itself bears that of 1594, and from its character, there can be no doubt such a tract could only be printed that same year. There exist three other Dutch editions and one French one, two of which are dated 1594, and the other two undated, but none bear the name of Elzevier.

Collation: 16 unnumbered pages.

APHORISMI DE STATU. See Consilium.

APHTHONII Progymnasmata. Amsterdami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1642. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: iv and 400 pp. ;—10 pp. of index ;—1 blank leaf.

— dated 1645.

An exact reprint of the first edition.

Collation: as in first edition.

— dated 1649.

This is a better printed edition than the two former.

Collation: 383 pp. ;—12 unnumbered pages of index.

— Amsterdami, apud Ludovicum et Danielem Elzevirios, 1655. Sm. 12mo.

Fourth and last edition of this work. An exact reprint of the 1649 edition. Some copies, instead of the 12 pages of index, have an Avctarium, continens variationem tractationis fabularum et chreiarum, forming pp. 385 to 441 ; this is followed by a new index of 14 pp., fuller than the original one. (See also under Forgeries.)

Collation: same as last edition.

APOCALYPSIS Sancti Iohannis, edita caractere Syro, et Ebræo, cum versione latina. Lugduni Batavorum, ex typographia Elzeviriana, 1627. 4to.

The Latin translation is said to be very literal. It is by de Dieu.

Collation: xx and 211 pp.

APOLLONII Dyscoli Historiæ commentitiæ liber. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Isaacum Elzevirium. Anno 1620. 4to.

Collation: xx and 174 pp.—1 blank leaf.

APOLLONII Rhodii Argonauticorum libri IV. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana. Anno 1641. 8vo.

Brunck pronounces the following flattering criticism of this edition: "Omnium pessima. . . . Tenebrosam versionem adjecit Hælzlinus. . . . putidoque commentario exoneravit hominum futillissimus." Being somewhat scarce, however, it has been sold as high as £3:16s. at the Brunet sale.

Collation: xvi pp.;—44 pp. of prolegomena;—543 pp. of text;—368 pp. of commentaries—16 pp. index.

APOLOGIE ov déclaration des raisons pour lesquelles les trois Estats du royaume de Bohème sub utraque ont esté contraints de prendre les armes pour leur défense et conseruation. Le tout traduit en françois par S. W. L'an 1619. 4to.

Though this volume bears no name of printer, we find that the States-General, to whom the work was dedicated, debated whether to prosecute the printer or not for having omitted to place his name on the title-page; and the magistrates of Leyden wrote to their representative in the States a letter in favour of Isaac Elzevier, which was reprinted in the Nauwrscher of Amsterdam, 1863, p. 176.

The initials S. W. stand for Samuel Weiss, of Berne. The expression sub utraque refers, as the author informs us (p. 4,) to "those of the reformed religion who communicate in both kinds."

Collation: viii and 245 pp.

Ἀποστολίου (Μιχαήλου) παροιμίαι. Lugdduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana, A° 1619. 4to.

The same edition appeared bearing the imprint Lugd. Batav., apud Joh. et Dan. Elzevier, 1653.

Collation: xvi and 387 pp;—15 pp. unnumbered; — 1 leaf bearing: Lugd. Batav., typis Is. Elzevirii, 1619.

ARETINO (P.) Capricciosi et piaceuoli ragionamenti. Stampati in Cosmopoli. L'anno 1660. 8vo.

— La Puttana errante overo diologo, di Madelena è Giulia, di M. P. Aretino, cognominato il flagello de principi, il veritiro el divino. 8vo.

Under this date of 1660 there exist two editions corresponding page for page, and almost line for line. The first and handsomest may be recognised by the long z used in many marginal notes. It is to this edition that the Puttana Errante belongs. This is not the general opinion, but any one who takes the trouble to compare the type used in the latter with the notice to the reader (pp. 9-12), will see that this must be so. Besides, the pages have each 31 lines, and the paper is absolutely identical. Renouard thought the Puttana in 38 pp. was the original, and Berard, Brunet, Pieters, and others have followed him. Millot, however, and more especially Willems, have pointed out the above conclusive reasons for believing that the Puttana of 38 pages belongs to the second edition of the Regionamenti, whilst the Puttana in 54 pages belongs to the first edition. Probably the reason one sometimes finds the 38 page Puttana bound up with the first edition of the Regionamenti is that the latter was issued alone, and many purchasers, afterwards unable to secure the first edition of the Puttana, added to it the second. The first edition was evidently printed by Jean Elzevier; the second by Daniel in 1668. (See catalogue of 1674).

The question as to the bookseller for whom the Elzeviers printed the Ragionamenti seems to be solved by a manuscript addition to the Catalogus librorum officinae Joannis Blaeu, 1659, in the library at Brussels. The work is there designated as: Ragionamenti di Arcino, Puttana Errante, 8vo, Amsterdam, J. V. R. Now these initials stand for John Van Ravesteyn, the well-known bookseller of Amsterdam. Brunet's suggestion that Joly was the publisher has been disposed of by Willems (p. 212).

Collation: the Ragionamenti, 541 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Puttana, 54 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

ARISTOTELIS de Poetica liber. Lugduni Batavorum, typis Ioannis Balduini impensis Bonaventurae Elzevirij, CIO IO C X. 8vo.

Edited by Heinsius.

Collation: xvi and 104 pp.

— dated 1611.

A re-issue of the above, to which is added a treatise of Heinsius on Tragedy.

Collation: xvi and 104 pp.;—(2nd part) 253 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

'Αριστοτέλους πολιτικῶν βιβ. θ. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana. Anno 1621. 8vo.

Collation: xvi and 1045 pp.;—41 unnumbered pp. of index;—1 leaf bearing imprint of Isaac Elzevier.

ARISTOXENVS. NICOMACHVS.

ALYPIVS. Auctores musices antiquissimi, hactenus non editi. Lugduni Batavorum ex officinâ Ludovici Elzeviri. Typis Godefridi Basson. Anno MDCC.

MDCC. XVI. 4to.

Edited by Meursius.

Collation: viii and 196 pp. (the last numbered in error 160).

ARMETZAR, ou les amis ennemis, Tragi-comédie. A Leide, chez Jean Elzevier 1658. Sm. 12mo.

The name of the author, Samuel Chappuzeau, is found at the end of the dedication.

Collation: 102 pp.

ARNALDUS (M. A.). Oratio contra Iesuitas reos. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Ioannis Paetsij et Ludovici Elzevirij. Anno MDCC. IX. XCIV. 4to.

Collation: 76 pp.

— The same work, to which is added Passeratii Praefatiuncula, 1595 (which see).

Collation: 91 pp.

— Ingenua et vera Oratio ad Regem

Christianissimum prescripta, ut Iesuitæ restituantur in regno Galliæ. Lugduni, 1602. 4to.

Though said to be printed at Lyons and not at Leyden, there seems to be no doubt that this is the work of Louis Elzevier, for the Frankfort catalogues attribute it to him, and Louis was in the habit of printing Roman Catholic books under the false imprint of Lyons. (See Junius.)

Collation: 72 pp.

ARNISÆUS (Henningus). Doctrina politica. Amsterodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1643. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xii and 610 pp.;—19 leaves of index.

— The same works, with extra tables. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1651. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 584 pp.;—73 unnumbered leaves for indices;—1 blank leaf.

ARREST donné, prononcé et exécuté contre Gilles Ledenberg. A la Haye, chez Loys Elzevir, marchand libraire à la Salle, anno 1619. Avecq privilège. On ne tient pour copies authentiques celles, qui ne sont imprimées chez le dict Loys Elzevir. 4to.

Printed in italics.

Collation: 14 pp.

ARREST donné, et exécuté contre Hugues de Grot. A la Haye, chez Loys Elzevir, marchand libraire à la Salle, anno 1619. Avec privilège. On ne tient pour copies authentiques que celles, qui sont imprimées chez le dict Loys Elzeuire (sic). 4to.

Printed in italics.

Collation: 12 pp.

ARREST donné et prononcé et exécuté contre Iehan d'Oldenbarnevelt. A la Haye, chez Loys Elzevir, marchand libraire à la Salle. An. 1619. Avecq priuilege. On ne tient pour copies authentiques celles ne qui sont (sic) imprimées chez le dict Loys Elzevir. 4to.

The mistake above noted was corrected in some of the copies. There are two editions under the same date: the best is printed in italics, the other in Roman characters. There is also a forgery, for which see Vol. iii.

Collation: 16 pp.

ARREST donné, et exécuté contre Rombault Hoguerbets. A la Haye, chez Loys Elzevir, marchand libraire à la Salle, anno 1619. Avecq privilège. On ne tient pour copies authentiques, celles qui ne sont imprimées chez le dict Loys Elzevir. 4to.

Printed in italics.

Collation: 12 pp.

ART (l') de parler. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, chez André Pralard, 1676.
Sm. 12mo.

Rarer than the second Elzevier edition.

Collation: xii and 336 pp.;—5 leaves of tables:
—1 blank leaf.

— dated 1679.

An exact reprint of the preceding.

Collation: same as first edition.

ART (l') de régner, ou le sage gouverneur.
Tragi-comédie. Suivant la copie im-primée à Paris, 1649. Sm. 12mo.

The author was Gillet de la Tessonnerie. The book appears in the official catalogue of 1650. It was printed by Bonaventura and Abraham Elzevier at Leyden.

Collation: 103 pp.

ASTERIUS (J.). *Deploratio pacis germanicæ sive dissertatio de pace Pragensi, tam infaustè quam injustè inita
Pragæ Bohemorum  $\frac{30}{20}$  Maii M.DC.XXXV
. . . Iuxta exemplar Lutetiæ Paris-*

iorum, sumptibus Sebastiani Cramoisy, typographi regii ordinarii, viâ Jacobæâ, sub Ciconiis, 1636. Cum privilegio regis. 4to.

This edition is unknown to Bibliographers, although, by comparing it with Thibault's Académie de L'Espée, it will be evident that it was printed by the Elzeviers of Leyden.

Collation: viii and 56 pp.

AUBERY. L'Histoire du cardinal-duc de Richelieu. A Cologne, chez Pierre du Marteau, 1666. 2 vols. Sm. 12mo.

See also under Forgeries.

Collation: vol. i, xxiv and 644 pp., not including the portrait;—50 unnumbered pages of indices;—vol. ii, viii and 482 pp. (the last wrongly numbered 842);—26 unnumbered pages of indices.

AUGUSTINUS (D. Aurelii) libri XIII Confessionum ad 3 M. SS. exemp. emendati. Opera et studio R. P. H. Sommalii e Soc. Iesv. Lugduni, apud Danielem Elzevirium, 1675. Sm. 12mo.

This handsome edition, which was printed by the widow of Jean Elzevier (compare the Bacon de Ventis of 1662), is much sought after, and at the Potier sale fetched £61:4s.

Collation: 334 pp.;—18 unnumbered pages of index.

AVLICVS involpatvs ex gallico auctoris anonymi traductus a Ioach. Pastorio, Med: D. Amsterdami, apud Lud. Elzevirium, 1644. 18mo.

The anonymous author was Du Refuge. Brunet and others name Marconnet, having mistaken the editor of an edition published at Halle in 1664 for the Author.

Collation: xii and 204 pp.;—36 unnumbered pages of index.

— 2nd edition, 1649. 18mo.

AUTORES rei venaticæ antiqui cum commentarijs Jani Vlitii. Ludg: Bat: apud Elsevirios. A<sup>o</sup> 1653. Sm. 12mo.

This is the same edition as that of 1645 (for which (see Ulitius), with slight alterations. According to Pieters, some copies, instead of 12 preliminary leaves, have 16. At the Turner sale a copy fetched £4:16s.

Collation: xxiv and 491 pp.;—13 unnumbered pages for index and errata;—48pp. for Cura Secunda.

BACONI de Vervlamio Historia naturalis et experimentalis de ventis, etc. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1662. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xvi and 232 pp.;—16 pp. of index.

— Historia regni Henrici Septimi Angliæ regis. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1662. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 403 pp.;—5 pp. of index.

— Scripta in natvrali et vniversalì philosophia. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1653. Sm. 12mo.

It appears that Louis Elzevier only printed the sheet bearing the signature  $\alpha$ , and the six preliminary leaves. The printer of the remainder was probably J. de Jonge.

Collation: xii and 495 pp.;—between pp. 336 and 337, a folded sheet.

— Sermones fideles, ethici, politici, œconomici. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1662. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 404 pp.;—4 pp. of index.

— Sylva sylvarum, sive hist. naturalis, et novus atlas. Amstelodami, apud

Ludovicum Elzevirium. A° 1648. Sm.
12mo.

Collation: xxxvi and 612 pp.;—48 pp. of index and errata;—87 pp. for novus atlas.

BACONI de Verulamio. Second edition,
ex officina Elzeviriana, 1661.

Is decidedly preferable to the first edition.

Collation: xxxii and 549 pp.;—39 pp. of index unnumbered;—86 pp. for nova atlantis.

BALDE è societate Jesu Lyricorum libri
IV, et Epodon lib. unus. *Coloniæ
Ubiorum, apud Jodocum Kalkovium*,
1645. Sm. 12mo.

Some copies are dated 1646, probably to be bound up with the next work.

Collation: xvi and 330 pp.:—1 blank leaf.

— Sylvæ lyricæ. Coloniæ Vbiorum, apud Jodocum Kalkovium, 1646. Sm.
12mo.

That these books were printed by the Elzeviers is proved by their appearing in the catalogues of 1649 and 1656. According to Millot some copies were printed on thick paper. Kalco-vius was a well-known bookseller at Cologne (see Burmanni Syll., vol. iv., p. 161). Balde was born in 1603, and died in 1668. Herder thought much of him, and translated many of his poems into German. Hallam, however, speaks somewhat deprecatingly of him.

Collation: viii and 390 pp.;—1 leaf for privilege and errata;—4 blank pages.

BALZAC. Aristippe, ou de la Covr.

A Leide, chez Jean Elzevier, 1658.

Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xii and 272 pp. (pagination begins with 7);—24 pp. of tables.

— Second edition, same date, but with title-page engraved by Philippe.

Collation: 259 pp.;—24 pp. of tables;—2 blank leaves.

— Third edition, à Amsterdam, chez

Daniel Elzevier, 1664. Sm. 12mo.

A reprint of the second edition, but inferior. See also under Forgeries.

Collation: The same as the 2nd edition.

— Les Entretiens de feu monsieur de

BALZAC. A Leide, chez Jean Elzevier.

Anno 1659. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 396 pp.;—10 pages of tables;—1 blank leaf.

— Second edition, à Amsterdam, chez

Louys et Daniel Elzevier. Anno 1663.

Sm. 12mo.

Inferior to first edition.

Collation: 388 pp.;—18 pages of tables;—1 blank leaf.

— Lettres de feu monsieur de BALZAC à monsieur Conrart. *A Leide, chez Jean
Elsevier, 1659.* Sm. 12mo.

Brunet mentions, on the authority of Ebert, an edition of 1656; but as Girard, in his dedication, states that he only finished his work in 1659, this is evidently a mistake.

Collation: 424 pp.;—4 pp. of tables.

— Second edition, à Amsterdam, chez les Elseviers, 1664. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: As 1st edition, but ending with 2
blank leaves.

— Lettres choisies du S<sup>r</sup> de BALZAC.
Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris.
Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 440 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— Second edition, à Leyden, chez les Elseviers, 1652. Sm. 12mo.

A reprint of the first edition, but containing, instead of Balzac's letter to Courbé, a new epistle to the Elseviers. This letter, which shows the high esteem in which the Elseviers were held by Balzac, is given entire as an Appendix.
(See Vol. III.).

Collation: xxiv and 432 pp.

— Third edition, 1656. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 404 pp.;—2 blank leaves.

- Fourth edition, 1678. Sm. 12mo.
 Inferior to the others, but fetched £2 : 4s. at the Potier sale.
Collation: like the 3rd edition.
- Lettres familières de M. de BALZAC à M. Chapelain. *A Leiden, chez Jean
 Elsevier, 1656.* Sm. 12mo.
Collation: 333 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- Second edition, à *Amsterdam, chez
 Louis et Daniel Elsevier, 1661.* Sm.
 12mo.
Collation: 332 pp.;—2 blank leaves.
- Les Œuvres diverses du sieur de BALZAC; Augmentées en cette édition, de plusieurs pièces nouvelles. A Leide, chez les Elseviers, 1651. Sm.
 12mo.
Collation: xvi and 389 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- Second edition, à Leide, chez Jean Elsevier. A° 1658. Sm. 12mo.
Collation: xvi and 388 pp.
- Third edition, à *Amsterdam, chez
 Daniel Elsevier, 1664.* Sm. 12mo.
 A pretty edition. The works of Balzac, printed by the Elzeviers, consist of six volumes, viz.: Les

Lettres choisies. Leyden, 1648 or 1652; Amsterdam, 1656 or 1678.

Les Œuvres diverses. Leyden, 1651 or 1658; Amsterdam, 1664.

Les Lettres à Chapelain. Leyden, 1656; Amsterdam, 1661.

Aristippe. Leyden, 1658 (two editions); Amsterdam, 1664.

Les Entriciens. Leyden, 1659; Amsterdam, 1663.

Les Lettres à Conrart. Leyden, 1659; Amsterdam, 1664.

To these may be added Le Socrate Chrestien, printed by Pluymer, at Amsterdam, in 1662, or by Haagen, at Arnheim, in 1675, in imitation of the Elzeviers' productions, as also the three first collections of letters, Le Prince, and L'Apologie pour M. de Balzac, by Ogier, published in Paris in sm. 12mo., and thus a complete collection of Balzac's works may be secured.

The Leyden series is rarer and prettier than that of Amsterdam, although the latter (with the Aristippe of Leyden) fetched £44 at the De la Villestreux sale. A moderate price for either series would be about £15.

BAN (J. A.). Zangh-bloemzel, t' Amsterdam, by Paulus Matthijsz. Voor Louys Elzevier op 't Water, inden Olm-Boom, 1642. 4to.

One of the rarest of the Elzeviers, only one copy being known. It contains thirty-eight songs set to music (treble only).

Collation: viii and 64 pp. of music not numbered.

BARATOTTI (A.). La Semplicità ingannata. In Leida, appresso Gio. Sambix, 1654. Sm. 12mo.

This book appears in the catalogues of 1656 and 1675. It was written by Angela Tarabotti, a nun of the Convent of St. Ann, at Venice. Its scope is contained in its motto—

*La divotion forzata
A. Signoze non è grata.*

It is rare.

Collation: xxiv and 307 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BARCLAI (J.) Argenis. Lvgd. Bat., ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1627. Sm. 12mo.

This is the first and very rare Elzevier edition of this allegorical romance.

Collation: xii and 791 pp.;—11 pp. unnumbered for the key and index.

— Second edition, 1630.

Collation: xl and 705 pp.;—11 pp. tables;—1 page with imprint;—1 blank leaf.

— Third edition, 1630.

Collation: xl and 708 pp.;—11 pp. of tables;—1 page for imprint;—1 blank leaf.

— Fourth edition, 1630.

Of the three editions bearing the same date the last is generally preferred.

Collation: xl and 690 pp.;—5 pp. of index.

- Fifth edition. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno 1655.
Sm. 12mo.
Collation: 569 pp.;—7 pp. unnumbered for key and index.
- Sixth edition. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1659. Sm. 12mo.
Collation: same as 5th edition.
- Seventh edition, 1671.
The least valuable of all.
Collation: same as 5th edition.
- Euphormionis Lusinini sive Satyricon, partes quinque cum clavi. Accessit conspiratio anglicana. Lugd. Batavorum, apud Elzevirios. A° 1637.
Sm. 12mo.
There are two editions under the same date; the first has pages 207 and 209 wrongly numbered 107 and 109.
Collation: 717 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- Second edition, 1637.
Collation: same as 1st edition.
- Third edition, 1655.
Some copies contain, after the title, an inserted dedication to Daubray, signed 14th Jan. 1655. As Jean and Daniel dissolved partnership three months later, it was probably not added to copies sold afterwards.

Collation: viii and 568 pp.

— Fourth edition. Amstelodami ex officina Elzeviriana, 1658.

Collation: xii and 573 pp.;—I blank leaf.

BARLÆI (C.) Poematvm editio nova. Cum privilegio. Lvgdv. Batav., ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1631.

Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xvi and 511 pp.

BARLÆI (L.) Oratio inauguralis de græcarum litterarum præstantia ac utilitate. Lvgduni Batavorvm, ex officina Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elsevir. Academ. typograph., 1642. 4to.

Collation: 30 pp.;—I blank leaf.

BARRICADES (les) de Paris, en vers burlesques. A Paris, 1649. 4to.

Until Mr. Willems discovered seven Mazarinades* in the Library at the Hague, it was not known that the Elzeviers had printed any. They certainly chose some of the wittiest. No one who has compared these seven pamphlets with the Elzevier 4tos., can doubt their being the production of the Leyden presses. (See also Décision, Lettre à M. le Cardinal, Guerre civile, Raisons, Récit and Passeport.)

Collation: 28 pp.

BASSECOUR (F. de la). Sermons de piété, pour réveiller l'âme à son salut. A Amsterdam, chez Louys Elzevier, 1645. Sm. 12mo.

One of the rare Elzeviers.

The Catalogue of 1674 mentions an edition of 1652: this is probably a typographical error.

Collation: xvi and 312 pp.

BASSOMPIERRE (Mareschal de). Mémoires. A Cologne, chez Pierre du Marteau, 1665. 2 vols. Sm. 12mo.

This book was printed by the widow of Jean Elzevier for Steucker Brothers, of the Hague. In 1666, having started presses of their own, they reprinted the work with a fine portrait of Bassompierre. Both editions are equally handsome, and the latter fetched as much as £48 at the Montgermont sale. There have been innumerable forgeries of this work.

Collation: original edition, vol. i., x and 564 pp. Vol. ii., title-page and 824 pp. Reprint, vol. i., x pp., including portrait;—552 pp. Vol. ii., 813 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BASSON (S.) Philosophiæ naturalis adversus Aristotelem libri XII. Ams-

Anno 1649. 8vo.

Collation: xxxii and 631 pp.;—40 pp. of tables.

BAVDII (D.) Amores; edente Petro Scriverio. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1638. 12mo.

Printed by Van der Marse for Louis Elzevier.

This quaint collection contains the love confessions of Baudius, the Cento in fœminas of Capilupus, the nuptial hymn, and the Cupido cruci affixus of Ausonius, two different texts of the Pervigilium Veneris, Thomas More's Qualis uxor deligenda, and the An, et qualis viro literato sit ducenda uxor of Heinsius.

Collation: xii pp., with portrait of Baudius;—518 pp. ;—1 leaf with imprint of Van der Marse.

— Moralis et civilis sapientiæ monita: libris IV. comprehensa. Leydæ in Batavis, typis Ioannis Balduini, Prostat apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno c15. 15c. xi. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 177 pp.;—3 pp. of errata unnumbered.

· — Carmen heroicvm dictum honori et maiestati Iacobi I. magni Magnæ Britanniæ regis. Sub nomine Vnitarum

Belgii Provinciarum. Leydæ in Batavis.

M D CXI. Sm. 12mo.

Both these last works are printed in italics, and are evidently from the same presses. They are often found bound in one volume.

Collation: 36 pp.

— Epistolæ semicenturia auctæ. Amstelodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii.

Sumptibus societatis, 1654. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 659 pp.

— Second edition. Amstelodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii. Sumptibus societatis, 1662. Sm. 12mo.

Though printed by Louis and Daniel, the title page of first edition has been preserved.

Collation: Same as 1st edition.

— Libri tres de indvciis belli Belgici. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno MDCLXIII. 4to.

Collation: xxviii and 318 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— Second edition, 1617. 8vo.

Collation: xl and 343 pp., the last of which bears the imprint of Isaac Elzevier, one of whose first productions it was.

— Third edition. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Elseviriana. Anno 1629. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxviii and 468 pp.;—4 blank leaves.

— Oratio fynebris dicta honori et memoriae maximi virorum Iosephi Ivsti Scaligeri. Lugduni Batavorum, Prostant apud Ludov. Elzevirium et Andream Cloucquium. Anno 1609. 4to.

A congratulation from the University to Cornelius de Witt, on the occasion of his victory over the English fleet near Chatham.

Collation: 12 leaves, the last one blank.

BEKA (J. de). Chronicon continens res gestas episcoporum sedis Ultraiectionæ et comitum Hollandiæ à Christo nato usque ad annum 1345. Expletum porro appendicæ, deducta ad annum Christi 1574. Franequeræ, excudebat Roubertus Doyema, 1611. Prostant apud Elsevirium in officina Lugduensi. 4to.

Collation: viii and 191 pp.;—the two last unnumbered.

BELGII confœderati Respublica. Cum privilegio. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elseviriana, 1630. 24mo.

Edited by J. de Laet.

Collation: viii and 359 pp.;—7 pp. of tables;—
1 blank leaf.

— Second edition, same date.

Differs from first edition, in that the two appendices have been incorporated into the text.

Collation: xvi and 352 pp.;—10 pp. of indices;—
3 blank leaves.

— Third edition, same date.

An exact reprint of the second edition, but on finer paper. This is the edition which is preferred.

Collation: same as 2nd edition.

BENIAMINIS (D.). *Itinerarium. Lugd.
Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana,*
1633. 8vo.

Contains both the Hebrew and Latin texts. This journey into the south of Europe and to the East took place in the twelfth century.

Collation: xlviii and 234 pp.;—11 leaves of index.

— Lugd. Batavorum, apud Elzevirios,
1633. 24mo.

Hebrew text alone.

Collation: 203 pp.

— Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1633. 24mo.

Latin text alone.

Collation: lxxii and 333 pp.;—7 pp. of index unnumbered.

BENTIVOGLIO (Card. de). Della guerra di Fiandra, con le aggiunte, fatteui dall'avtore. In Colonia, 1635. Con licenza de' superiori. 3 vols. 8vo.

A real Elzevier mentioned in the catalogues of 1638 and 1644.

The second volume is entitled Dell' historia di Fiandra, descritta del cardinal Bentivoglio. Parte seconda.

The third volume has the same title as the first.

Collation: vol. i, viii and 598 pp.;—9 leaves of tables. Vol. ii (dated 1636), 396 pp.;—10 leaves of tables. Vol. iii (dated 1640), 565 pp.;—13 leaves of tables.

— Raccolta di lettere scritte in tempo delle sue nuntiateure de Fiandra e di Francia. In Colonia, 1646. Con licenza de' superiori, 2 parts in 1 vol. 8vo.

That this volume was printed by the Elzeviers is proved by the printer's device of the palm, which belonged to Erpenius, and at his death became the property of the Elzeviers of Leyden.

Collation: 1st part, 233 pp.;—3 pp. of tables;—2 blank leaves. 2nd part, xvi and 479 pp.;—7 leaves of tables;—1 blank leaf.

— Relationi. In Brusselles, appresso Giovanni de Meerbeecq, 1632. Con licenza de' superiori. 8vo.

The book appears in the catalogues of 1638 and 1644.

Collation: xvi and 479 pp.;—7 leaves of tables; —1 blank leaf.

— Second edition. In Colonia, 1646.

With the printer's device of the palm, purchased by the Elzeviers in 1625.

Collation: same as 1st edition.

BERALDE, Prince de Savoye. A Leide, chez Simon Schouten, 1672. Sur la copie imprimée à Paris, 2 parts in 1 vol. Sm. 12mo.

This book appears in the catalogues of 1675 and 1681. It is rare and interesting. The author is unknown.

Collation: 227 pp.

BERTIUS (P.). Ad Leonem Batavum adlocutio. Lugd. Batav., typis Isaaci Elzevirii, 1618. 4to.

This book is mentioned by Paquot (Mémoires, vol. xiv., p. 16), but neither Mr. Willems nor myself have been able to find a copy.

— Epicedium in obitum inlustrissimi

viri Iac. Aug. Thuani. Ad. Cl. virum Petrum Cl. F. Puteanum. Folio.

This is generally found as an appendix to Heinsius's
Apotheosis of Thuanus, which see.

Collation: 4 leaves, the last blank (sigs. A<sub>2</sub>, A<sub>3</sub>).

— Hymenævs des ertor siue de sanc-

Collation: viii and 244 pp.

BEVEROVICII (J.) De Calculo renum et vesicæ liber singularis. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elzeviriorum, 1638. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: viii and 306 pp.;—7 leaves of index.

— Exercitatio in Hippocratis aphorismum de calculo. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officinâ Elseviriorum, 1641. Sm.

12mo.

Collation: 285 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— Idea medicinæ vetervm. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elseviriorum, 1637.
8vo.

Collation: iv and 390 pp.;—5 leaves of index.

BEZÆ (T.) De Pestis contagio et fuga dissertatio. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elseviriorum. A° 1636. Sm. 12mo.

Printed in large type. The book had appeared originally at Geneva in 1579, and had acquired fresh interest in the Netherlands after the two incursions of the Plague in 1630 and 1635. Leyden had suffered greatly, 16,000 victims having succumbed in the former year, and even more in the latter. (See Fossii Epistolæ, 3 Non. Jul. 1631, and 12 Kal. Dec. 1635.)

Collation: vi and 154 pp.;—1 leaf of errata.

BIBLE. *La Sainte Bible, qui contient le Vieux et le Nouveau Testament.
A Amsterdam, chez Louys et Daniel Elsevier, 1669, avec privilège. 4 parts in 2 vols. Folio.*

A magnificent but not very correct edition. According to the catalogue of 1675 it was printed in four sizes of type, Imperiael, priced 110 florins; Frans Real, 56 florins; Veluws Real, 50 florins, and

Grand Mediaen, 44 florins. There is not more than 10 millimetres difference in the size of the three last books, but the Imperiael is fully 19.685 inches high.

Collation: First part, lxxxiv and 732 pp.;—
2 large maps facing pages 3 and 172.

Second Part, iv and 324 pp.

Third part, iv and 404 pp.;—2 large maps facing pages 1 and 136.

Fourth part, 140 pp.

BIBLIA, dat is, de gantsche Heylige Schrifture, vervattende alle de canoni-jcke boecken des Ouden en des Nieuwen Testaments. Tot Leyden, by de weduwe ende erffgenamen van Johannes Elzevier, boeckdruckers van de Academie. Met privilegie. Zijn mede te bekomen tot Amsterdam by Louys ende Daniel Elzevier, mitsgaders Abr. vander Burgh, 1663. 3 parts in 1 vol. Folio.

The Bible had been translated in 1637 by order of the Synod of Dordrecht, and printed by Ravestein. Many errors were discovered in the printing, and a catalogue of them issued in 1655 by the same printer. In 1657 his widow reprinted the Bible, correcting former errors. The Elzeviers' edition is a mere reprint of that of 1657. It is well printed, but fetches a very moderate price, except in the case of the large paper copies, which are nearly 19 inches high.

This Bible is known as The States' Bible.

Collation: First part, xliv and 936 pp.;—4 double maps.

Second part, xxviii and 334 pp.;—2 double maps.

Third part, iv and 154 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BIBLIOTHECA HEINSIANA. Lugd. Batav., apud Johannem de Vive (sic), 1682. 12mo.

De Vivie was the real name of the publisher, but the book was printed by Abraham Elzevier. The library of Heinsius was the finest private collection that had yet been formed in Europe. Its sale produced 23,833 florins, an immense sum for the time. (See Hofman Peerlkamp, de Vita Nederl. qui carmina latina composuerunt, Harlemi, 1838, 8vo, p. 426.)

Collation: i and 374 pp.;—1 blank leaf;—286 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BHDLOO (G.) Dissertatio de antiquitate anatomes. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Abrahamum Elzevier. Anno 1694. Folio.

Collation: vi and 26 pp.;—5 leaves of Latin verse;—1 blank leaf.

BILDE (E.) 1170. Minos. rex. sapientissimus, etc. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1654. Folio.

Collation: iv and 20 pp.

BISTERFELDII, Nassovii, de vno Deo, Patre, Filio ac Spiritu Sancto, mysterium pietatis, contra Iohannis Crellii, Franci, de vno Deo Patre, libros dvos, breviter defensum. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Elseviriana.
A° 1639. 4to.

Collation: xl and 641 pp.;—7 pp. for index and errata.

BLAUEN (R.) Adriatische Rosemund. Amsteldam, bei Ludwig Elzevieren.
1645. Sm. 12mo.

A rare book. The author's real name was Philippe Zæsiën, in latin Cæsius, whence Von Blauen.

Collation: xvi and 368 pp.;—there are 12 plates.

BLESSEBOIS (P. C.) Le Lion d'Angélie. Histoire amoureuse et tragique. A Cologne, chez Simon l'Africain, 1676.
Sm. 12mo.

— Le Temple de Marsias. A Cologne, chés Simon l'Africain, 1676.

There is only one set of signatures for the two works.

It is a very rare book, and the extreme scarcity of this author's Œuvres Satiriques, published by F. L. de Haro of Leyden in 1676, and which has sold for over £60, causes it to be sought after. It is undoubtedly a Leyden Elzevier. The "Lion d'Angelie" is dedicated to "M. Elzevier, capitaine ordinaire de mer pour le service de la république de Hollande, montant aujourd'hui un vaisseau de 70 pièces, appelé le Chêne;" and the "Temple de Marsias," to "très discrète, très pudique et très vertueuse demoiselle Emerentia van Swanevelt, épouse de M. Elzevier." This, no doubt, induced Jean Elzevier to print the book, as captain, afterwards Vice-Admiral, Daniel Elzevier was his son. In good condition, the book is worth about £10.

Collation: Le Lion, 168 pp.;—Le Temple, 44 pp.

BLOEMERTII (A. A.) Singularis liber de nobilis et studiosæ juventutis institutione. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1653. Sm. 12mo.

A well printed, stupid book. As a kind of appendix, a drama in three acts is given, the principal incident in which is the appearance at a feast of a dead body which an Atheist had jokingly invited to supper. An early version of the statue in Don Giovanni.

Collation: xii and 344 pp.;—1 leaf of errata;—1 blank leaf.

BLYENBURGIUM (D.) Cento ethicvs ex varijs poëtis hinc inde contextus. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Ludovici Elzevirij, c15. 15. 1c. 8vo.

Collation: xvi and 260 pp.;—2 leaves of errata.

BOCCACCIO (G.) Il Decameron di messer Giovanni BOCCACCI cittadino Fiorentino. Si come lo diedero alle stampe gli SS<sup>ti</sup> Giunti l'anno 1527. In Amsterdamo, 1665. 12mo.

Rare. A fine copy sold for £47 at the Payne sale. The genuine edition is known by the first words of the preface: "Eccovi, Gentilissimi Signori lettori," etc. Though Brunet attributes this edition to Blaeu, the typographical mark proves it to be the work of Daniel Elzevier.

Collation: xxiv and 744 pp.

BOCCALINI (T.) Lapis Lydivs politicus. Latinitate donavit Ern. Ioan. Creutz. Amsterodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. A° 1640. Sm. 12mo.

The first work printed by Louis Elzevier at his own press.

Collation: viii and 196 pp.

— Pietra del paragone politico. Con una nuoua aggiunta dell' istesso. Impresso in Cosmopoli, per Giorgio Teler, 1640. 24mo.

The Italian version of the preceding article. Though bearing another name, evidently the work of the Leyden House. Other editions were issued by other firms in 1642, 1653, 1654, and 1671.

Collation: 268 pp.

BOCHARTI (S.) Epistola, qua respondetur ad tres quæstiones. Iuxta exemplar impressum Parisiis, 1650. Sm. 12mo.

Certainly the work of the Amsterdam house.

Collation: 160 pp.

BOERHAAVEN (H.) Oratio de commendando studio Hippocratico. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Abrahamum Elzevier, Acad. typogr., 1701. Prostant apud Jordanum Luchtmans. 4to. Collation: iv and 31 pp.

BOETZELER (J. R.) De bono concordie Oratio. Lugduni Batavorum, typis Isaaci Elzevir I. Anno 1618. Folio.

Collation: iv and 52 pp.

BOEY (C.) Het nieuwe werck der Psalmen van den koningh David, volgende de neuwe oversettinge des H. Bibels. Tot Leyden, by Johanes Elsevier, drucker der Vniversiteyt, 1659. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxxii and 317 pp.;—3 unnumbered pp. for index and errata.

BOGERMANNUS (J.) Het christelijck overlijden van den doorluchtichsten ende hooghgheboren Prince, Mavritivs van Nassau, Prince van Orangien, etc. hoogh-loflijcker ghedachtenisse. Tot Leyden, by Isaac Elzevier, ghesworen ordinaris drucker der Vniuersiteyt. A<sup>o</sup> 1625. Met privilegie der H. M. Heeren Staten Generael voor 8 iaren. 4to.

A second edition appeared under the same date, as also a German translation bearing the name of Elzevier, but not printed by him.

Collation: xxviii and 35 pp.

N.B.—The second edition contains only viii and 19 pp.

BONAIR (De). La Politique de la maison d'Avstriche. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, chez Antoine de Somerville, au Palais, à l'Escu de France, 1658, avec privilège du Roy. Sm. 12mo.

Though Mr. Pieters is of a different opinion, the work is evidently printed by Jean Elzevier.

Collation: 233 pp.;—3 blank leaves.

— La Politique de la maison d'Avstriche. Avec un discours sur la con-joncture présente des affaires d'Allemagne. De l'élection et couronnement des empereurs et des roys des Romains. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris chez Antoine de Sommaville, 1658. 2 parts in 1 vol. Sm. 12mo.

An enlarged edition of preceding article. A reprint was issued under the same date, &c., by Blaeu, but the collation is different. De Bonair was Varillas the historian.

Collation: First part, 233 pp.;—3 blank leaves. Second part, iv and 130 pp.;—3 unnumbered pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BONARELLI (G. de'). Filli di Sciro, favola pastorale. In Amsterdam, nella stamperia del S. D. Elsevier. Et in Parigi si vende appresso Thomaso Jolly, nel Palazzo, 1678. 24mo.

Collation: 168 pp.:—6 plates by Sebastien Leclerc.

BONGARSI (J.) Epistolæ ad Joachimum Camerarium. Lvgd. Batav., ex officinâ Elzeviriorum, 1647. Sm. 12mo.

These letters are highly spoken of by Bayle, both for elegance of style and historical value. They embrace the ten years from 1588 to 1598.

Collation: xii and 444 pp.

BONNEFILLE (C.) L'Homme irréprochable en sa conversation. A Leide, chez Jean Elsevier, 1661. Sm. 12mo.

Scarce and curious.

Collation: xxiv and 413 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BOURIGNON (A.) Traitté admirable de la solide vertu. Deuxiesme partie. Qui enseigne le chemin assuré de paradis à tous ceux qui le voudront suivre sans feinte, sans fard et sans hypocrisie. A Amsterdam, chez Pieter Arentz, marchand libraire, aux trois navaux, rue de la Bourse, 1678. 8vo.

Mr. Campbell, the well-known librarian at the Hague, called Mr. Willem's attention to the following words at the end of the catalogue of Antoinette Bourignon's works at the beginning of the Dutch translation of this book :—

“Het eerste deel der Waare Deugt vint men by Michiel Pietersz.

“Het tweede deele is nu onder de pres, in de Fransche tael, by Daniel Elzevier, boekverkooper, op het Water.

“Den 23 october anno 1677.”

This means that in October 1677, the second part of this book was being printed by Daniel Elzevier. On examining it, it is clearly the work of that printer, and from the following entry in the catalogue of 1681, it would appear that the first part had also been printed by the Elzeviers :

“Bourignon (Ant.) de la solide vertu. 8. 2 parties.

“ ——— première partie séparée.”

Bourignon was a celebrated mystic.

Collation: xxiv and 324 pp.;—4 unnumbered pages containing summary.

BOURSAULT. Le Portrait du peintre, ou la contre-critique de l'Escole des femmes, Comédie représentée sur le théâtre royal de l'Hostel de Bourgogne. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris. 1663. Sm. 12mo.

Scarce. Mentioned in the catalogues of 1675, 1678, and 1681.

Collation: 45 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

BOXHORNIUS (H.) Anticyckivs et Commentariorvm de Evcharistica Harmonia, libri tres. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Ludouici Elzevirij. Anno M.D.XCVIII. 8vo.

Collation: 127 pp. for the Anticyckivs;—421 pp. for the Harmonia;—13 unnumbered pages of index;—1 leaf of errata;—between the first and second pages of the index, a folded sheet containing a Tabula Methodica.

— Commentariorum de Eucharisticâ Harmoniâ libri tres. Lugduni Bata- vorum, ex officina Ioannis Paetsij, et
Ludovici Elzevirij. Anno c15.15.xcv.
8vo.

Collation: xxxii and 421 pp.;—13 unnumbered pages of index;—1 leaf of errata.

BOXHORNII (M. Z.) Ad illustr. Dom.
Thomam Howardum, comitum Suffolcii filium ac fratrem etc., sponsum;
cum domum duceret nobil. eximiamque virginem Walburgam à Kerckhove, sponsam. Lugd. Batav., ex officina
Elzevir, 1646. Folio.

Mentioned by Mr. Pieters in his catalogue of his library.

Collation: 8 pp.

BOYLE (R.) Tentamina quædam physiologica diversis temporibus et occasionibus conscripta. Amstelodami, apud
Danielem Elzevirium, 1667. 12mo.

Collation: viii and 424 pp.

BRA (H. a) Medicamentorum simpli-cium et facile parabilium, ad icterum et hydropem, catalogus: et quomodo iis utendum. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Ludov. Elzevirii, 1597. 8vo.

I mention this book on the authority of Paquot (Mémoires, vol. ix., p. 89).

BRANTOME. Mémoires, contenant les vies des hommes illustres et grands capitaines françois de son temps. A Leyde, chez Jean Sambix le Jeune, à la Sphère. 1666. 4 vols. Sm. 12mo.

These volumes are evidently the work of the Amsterdam house. Of the works of Brantôme, this is the only one printed by Daniel Elzevier. The collection may be completed by adding Les vies des Dames illustres de France, Leyden, 1665 (printed by Foppens at Brussels), Les vies des Hommes illustres et grands capitaines estrangers, Leyden, 1665 (printed by Hackius at Leyden) or Leyden 1666 (2 vols. printed by Foppens); Les vies des dames galantes Leyden, 1666 (2 vols., printed at Amsterdam, in all probability by Wolfgang); Les Anecdotes de la cour de France, sous les Rois Henry II. François II., Henri III. et IV., touchant les duels, Leyden, 1722. All these works bear the imprint of Jean Sambix le jeune, à la Sphère. Though very incorrect, this edition is much sought after, and fetched as much as £10 at the De la Villestreux sale.

Collation: vol. i., viii and 417 pp.;—3 blank leaves.

Vol. ii., iv and 404 pp.

Vol. iii., iv and 442 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

Vol. iv., ii and 352 pp., the last unnumbered.

BRONCHORST (E). In titvlvm Digestorvm de diversis regvlis iuris antiqui enarrationes. Lugduni Batavorvm, ex officinâ Elzeviriana. Anno 1624. Sm. 8vo.

Collation: xxxii and 338 pp.;—12 unnumbered pages of index.

— Second edition, 1641. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 355 pp.;—5 pp. of index.

— Third edition, 1648. Sm. 12mo.

A line for line reprint of the 1641 edition.

Collation: as above.

BROUWER (H.) De Jure connvbiorym apud Batavos recepto, libri duo. Amstelodami, apud Casp. Commelinum, 1665. Cum privilegio. 4to.

The ornaments prove that it was printed by Jean Elzevier's widow.

Collation: xx and 718 pp.;—46 pp. of index;—2 pp. of errata.

BRUYDOF-DICHT, 'Ter eeren des eersamen ende godtsaligen Henrici de Putter. Sich iu dén echten staet verbindende met de eerbaere ende deuchtrijcke Jonckvrou Digna Hvyghens. Den 18 novembris, anno 1618. Tot

BUCHANAN (G.) Paraphrasis Psalmorum Davidis poetica. Lugduni Batavorum, typis Isaaci Elzevir I, iurati Academiae typographi. Sumptibus Henrici Lavrent I. Anno 1621. 16mo.

Extremely rare.

Collation: 421 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— The same work. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1628. 24mo.

Collation: ii and 561 pp.;—15 unnumbered pages of notes.

— Poëmata quæ supersunt omnia.

Lugd. Batavorum, apud Abrahamum Elzevirium, Anno 1621. 24mo.

Abraham Elzevier having purchased most of the copies of this edition, which was printed at Salmur, inserted a new title-page. In the library at the Hague, there is a copy, to the second part of which is prefixed the original title-page, bearing the imprint Salmurii, ex typis Joannis Burelli, 1620.

Collation: xvi and 316 pp.;—part ii., 376 pp.

— Poemata quæ extant. Lugduni

Bataw., ex officina Elzeviriana, A°
1628. 24mo.

Collation: 511 pp.;—14 unnumbered pages of notes;—3 blank leaves.

— Poemata quæ extant. Amstelodami, apud Danielem Elzevirium, 1676. 24mo.

The edition of 1628 is to be preferred.

Collation: 531 pp.;—10 unnumbered pages;—1 blank leaf.

— Rerum Scoticarvm historia. Ad Jacobum VI, Scotorum regem. Accessit de jure regni apud Scotos dialogus. Amsterodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1643. 8vo.

Collation: viii and 818 pp.;—38 pp. of index.

— The same works. Ultrajecti, apud Petrum Elzevirium, 1668. 8vo.

A facsimile of the former edition, differing, however, in the ornaments.

Collation: as above.

BURGERSDICIUS (F.) Collegium physicum, disputationibus XXXII. absolutum. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriorum, 1637. Sm. 12mo.

BVRGI (P. B.) Genvensis de Bello Svecico commentarii, quibus Gvstavi Adolphi, Suecorum regis, in Germaniam expeditio usq. ad ipsius mortem comprehenditur. Leodii, apud Henricum Edelmannum. Anno 1639. Superiorum permissu. Sm. 12mo.

This is a reprint, even to the very imprint, of a work published at Liège in 1633. This edition was published but not printed by Louis Elzevier.

Collation: vi and 416 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— The same work, figuris æneis adornata. Leodii, apud Henricum Edelmannum. Anno 1643. Superiorum permissu. Sm. 12mo.

A fine edition, printed in large type by Louis Elzevier; scarce and sought after. See also under Forgerics.

Collation: viii and 424 pp.;—25 portraits.

BVSBEQVII (A. G.) Omnia quæ extant. Cum privilegio. Lugd. Batavorum, ex

officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1633.
24mo.

There are two editions bearing this date : the heading of the Letters in the first reads Epistole, in the second Epistolae.

Collation: 575 pp.;—23 unnumbered pp. of index.

— The same work. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1660.
24mo.

A line for line reprint of the Leyden edition of 1633, to which, however, it is inferior.

Collation: as above.

CÆSARIS (C. J.) Quæ exstant. Lugd. Bat. Typis Isaaci Elzevirii, sumptibus Henrici Laurentii, 1619. 8vo.

The first edition of Cæsar issued by the Elzeviers.

Collation: viii and 480 pp.;—54 pp. of index;—2 folding maps facing p. 1.

— The same work. Cum commentariis variorum. Lugduni Batavorum, Prostant in officina Elseviriana, 1635.
Folio.

This book was printed by George Corvinus at Frankfort, as may be seen by the Colophon.

Collation: xxxii and 265 pp.;—1 blank leaf;—24 pp. of index.;—207 pp. of notes.

— The same work. Ex emendatione

Ios. Scaligeri. Lugduni Batavorum,
ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1635.

Sm. 12mo.

Four works produced by the Elzeviers may be reckoned their masterpieces: the Cæsar and Pliny of 1635, the Virgil of 1636, and the Imitation, without a date. Of these, the Cæsar, in my opinion, ranks first. Mr. Willems calls it, "Un des plus enviabiles joyaux qui puissent orner l'écrin d'un Bibliophile." The genuine first edition may be recognised by having the buffalo's head above the dedication, and the pages 149, 335, and 475 numbered in error 153, 345, and 375. The finest known copy is in the National Library of Paris. A tall copy is worth from £12 to £20. There are two reprints under this same date. The first is extremely fine, and is known by the siren's head above the dedication, and by having page 238 numbered 248. The second reprint is very inferior, and has 37 lines to the page instead of 35. Its collation is therefore different, being viii and 526 pp., with 34 pages of index.

Collation: xxiv and 561 pp.;—70 unnumbered pages of index;—3 small maps, generally placed between signatures * and **.

— The same work. Amstelodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii. Sumptibus societatis.

1650. 24mo.

A poor edition.

Collation: 456 pp.;—56 pp. of index;—3 folding maps facing p. 3.

— The same work. Cum selectis variorum commentariis, opera et studio Arnoldi Montani. Accedunt notitia Galliae et notæ auctiores ex autographo Iosephi Scaligeri. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. A° 1661. 8vo.

A well printed edition.

Collation: xvi and 918 pp.;—32 pp. of index;—1 blank leaf;—a folding map facing p. 1.

— The same work. Ex emendatione Ios. Scaligeri. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1661. Sm. 12mo.

An exact reprint of the 1635 edition.

Collation: viii and 526 pp.;—46 unnumbered pages for index;—2 blank leaves;—3 maps.

— The same work. Amstelodami, typis Danielis Elzevirii, sumptibus societatis, 1664. 24mo.

A reprint of the 1650 edition.

Collation: 456 pp.;—56 unnumbered pages for index.

— The same work. Cum selectis variorum commentariis operâ et studio Arnoldi Montani. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. A° 1670. 8vo.

The first French work bearing the name of Elzevier.

It is no other than the book printed by J. Berjon, 1579, 2 vols., 8vo, which was purchased by Louis Elzevier, and to which he added a supplement of 103 pp., and reprinted the first sheet so as to introduce the new title-page. No perfect copy is known, but the Library of the Hague possesses the first volume, and the library of St Petersburg the Second.

Collation : vol. i, lxiv and 858 pp.;—68 unnumbered pp. for indices. Vol. ii, 366 pp. (book v) and 665 pp. (books vi and vii);—103 pp. of supplement.

Collation: 24 pp.

— Librorum officinæ Danielis Elsevirii; designans, etc. Amstelodami, apud Danielelem Elsevirium, 1675. 12mo.

A copy of this, the most important of all the Elzevirian catalogues, is in the National Library at Paris. It mentions the qualities of the papers on which the books are printed, the fount of type used, the plates in each work, and, in the case of 437 books, the number of sheets or half sheets contained therein, with the price subjoined.

Collation: 36 pp.

- Librorum officinæ Danielis Elsevirii; designans, etc. Amstelodami, apud Danielem Elsevirium, 1675. Sm. 12mo.

Only one copy known, in the possession of Mr. Alphonse Willems.

Collation: 34 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

- Librorum officinæ Danielis Elsevirii, designans, etc. Amstelodami, apud Danielem Elsevirium, 1678. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 36 pp.

- Librorum officinæ Danielis Elsevirii; designans, etc. Amstelodami, 1681. Sm. 12mo.

This was a catalogue of the stock left by Daniel Elzevier, which was sold in July 1681. It was reprinted by Didot in 1823. The edition being limited to 100 copies, with one copy on vellum. The original is extremely rare.

Collation: 40 pp.

— Librorum officinæ Johannis Elsevirii, designans, etc. Lugd. Bataſ., ex typograph. Joh. Elsevir., 1655. 8vo.
Collation: 21 pp.

— Librorum officinæ Joh. Elsevirii. Lugd. Bataſ., ex officina Elseviriana, 1661. 4to.

Mentioned in the Gættingiſche gelehrte Anzeigen, vol. ii., 1823.

— Librorvm officinæ Lvdovici Elzevirii; designans, etc. Amſtelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1649. 12mo.

The only copy known is in the public library at Hamburg. It was firſt reprinted in the Serapeum of 15th May 1854: Then Mr. Jules Chenu had 100 copies printed at Paris in 1855, and Dr. Hoffman printed 50 copies at Hamburg in 1857.

Collation: 16 pp.

— Librorvm officinæ Lvdovici et Danielis Elzeviriorvm. Designans libros, &c. Amſtelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1656. Large 8vo.

A copy is in the Library of the Arsenal at Paris.

Collation: 16 pp.

— Librorum officinæ Ludovici et Danielis Elzevirorum, designans, etc. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzevirianâ, 1661. 8vo.

Collation: 20 pp.

— Librorum qui in bibliopolio Elseviriano venales exstant. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Elseviriana. A° 1634. 4to.

A copy is in the National Library at Paris.

Collation: 80 pp.;—30 pp. for French, Italian, Spanish, German, and Flemish works.

— Librorum qui in bibliopolio Danielis Elsevirii venales exstant. Amstelodami, ex officinâ Elseviriana, 1674. Sm. 12mo.

The special value of this catalogue is that it gives the real publishers of works which appeared without address or with a fictitious name attached. It is not nearly so scarce as the other catalogues, but copies should be carefully collated, as many pages are often missing.

Collation: 176 pp. to end of books of theology;—86 pp. for works relating to jurisprudence;—1 blank leaf;—60 pp. for medicine;—200 pp. for miscellaneous books;—2 blank leaves;—120 pp. for French books;—24 pp. for Italian, Spanish, and English works;—103 pp. for German works;—

2 blank leaves.

— Librorum qui in bibliopolio Danielis Elsevirii venales extant. Amstelodami, 1681. Sm. 12mo.

Interesting, though less extensive than the last entry. It is difficult to find a complete copy.

Collation: 491 pp. for Latin and French books;
—22 pp. for Italian, Spanish, and English works;—80 pp. for German books;—12 pp.
for Dutch books.

— Plantarvm horti academici Lvgdvno-

CATS (J.) Faces Avgvstæ, a Casparo Barlæo et Cornelio Boyo latino carmine celebratæ. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Johannem Elsevirium, Academ. typograph. Anno 1656, 2 vols. in 1. 4to.

This book had been published by Havius of Dordrecht in 1643, and was purchased by Jean Elzevier, together with the sermons of Jacob Lydius. The copies bearing the name of Havius are to be preferred, as they contain the first impressions of the portrait of Elizabeth of Bohemia. The two books are generally found in one volume.

Collation: For the Fuces, xlii and 302 pp., with portrait of Elizabeth of Bohemia;—for the dialogi, ii and 64 pp.;—for the Faces Sacrae, 32 pp.

CATS (J.) Selbs-streit. Zu Amsterdam, bei Ludwig Elzevier. Anno 1648.
Oblong 16mo.

Extremely rare. For another translation of this book, which appeared originally in Dutch, see Gervinus, Gesch. der Nat. Litter. der Deutschen, vol. ii., p. 270.

Collation: xxiv and 203 pp.

CELESTE (le) Divorce. Traduit de l'italien en françois. Anno 1644 Sm.
12mo.

I agree with Mr. Walker in attributing this translation of Ferrante Pallavicino's book to Louis Elzevier, although Vander Marse is mentioned by Motteley as the possible printer.

Collation: 165 pp.;—2 pp. of tables.

CELSI de Medicina libri Octo. Lugduni Batav., apud Johannem Elsevirium, Academ. typograph., 1657. Sm. 12mo.

Rare. Patin, to whom the book is dedicated, lent Van der Linden many books to enable him to edit it. The portrait on the engraved title-page is that of Fernel. (See Renouard Catal. d'un Amateur, vol. i., p. 273, and Patin, Letters, vol. i., p. 230, and vol. iii., p. 279.)

Collation: xxiv and 558 pp.;—2 pp. of errata.

A ridiculous title to an absurd book on stone in the bladder.

Collation: xii and 242 pp.;—5 blank leaves.

CHARMES (Les) De Félicie, tirés de la
Diane de Montemaior. Pastorale.
*Suiuant la copie imprimée à Paris,
1657. Sm. 12mo.*

Printed by Jean Elzevier. The author was J.
Pousset de Montauban.

Collation: 93 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

CHARRON (P.) De la Sagesse. A Leide, chez les Elseviers, 1646. Sm. 12mo.

The first and best of the four editions printed by the Elzeviers. The original edition of Bordeaux, 1601, has been followed. A nice copy is worth about £4.

Collation: xxiv and 663 pp.;—8 pp. of tables.

— The same book. A. Leide, chez Jean Elsevier, 1656. Sm. 12mo.

The commonest of the four editions.

Collation: xxiv and 621 pp.;—12 unnumbered pages of tables;—3 blank leaves.

— The same work. A Leide, chez Jean Elsevier. Sm. 12mo.

This undated edition seems to have been printed in 1659, since Jean Elsevier had only started printing one year when he issued the 1656 edition, and the date, 1659, would come midway between that edition and the 1662 Amsterdam edition. This is confirmed by the Catalogus librorum of J. Blaeu, 1659, where that date is given. This edition is not so handsome as that of 1646, but it is rarer, and has fetched as much as £10 to £12. It is an exact reprint of the edition of 1656, reproducing even the mistake of the pagination. From page 264 both editions jump to page 295, and both also omit pages 367 to 376. The only difference is that the edition of 1656 is dedicated to Maximilian of Burgundy, whilst the undated one is dedicated to the Provincial Court of Holland.

Collation: as in 1656 edition.

— The same work. Amsterdam, chez Louis et Daniel Elsevier, 1662. Sm. 12mo.

Well printed. The value is about £8 to £10, although a copy at the Villestreux sale fetched over £20.

Collation: xvi and 622 pp.;—8 pp. of tables;—1 blank leaf.

accurate collata. Lvgd. Batavorum,
ex officina Elzeviriana. A° 1642. 10 vols. Sm. 12mo.

There are two editions of vol. ix., one containing 301 pp., includes an apocryphal work, the Consolatio. This should be preferred to the edition in 237 pp., where the Sennium Scipionis replaces the Consolatio. The Sennium is also in vol. x. The edition is extremely handsome, and much sought after, and was printed on two different papers. Although at the Libri sale, one copy, which formerly belonged to Hoym, fetched £61, and was afterwards resold for £197 at the Montgermont sale, a very fine copy is really not worth more than £15 to £20.

Collation: vol. i., xxiv and 768 pp. Vol. ii., 614 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. iii., 550 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. iv., 560 pp. Vol. v., xvi and 506 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. vi., xii and 685 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. vii., 486 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. viii., 386 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. ix., 301 pp.* Vol. x., 318 pp.:—10 unnumbered pages for the Index Consulum.

The same work. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum et Danielem Elzevirios. Lugd. Batavorum, apud Franciscum Hackium. A° 1661. 4 vols. in 1. 4to.

Sometimes bound in 2 vols. A good and handsome edition, but of little value.

“De tous ceux qui ont entrepris de concilier les divers témoignages de l’antiquité au sujet des embouchures du Rhin, Cluvier est celui qui nous paraît encore aujourd’hui, avoir le plus d’autorité. S’il n’a pas donné la solution complète du problème, c’est lui qui nous paraît avoir approché le plus près de la vérité, ou tout au moins de la vraisemblance.”—(E. Desjardins. Géographie de la Gaule Romaine. Paris, 1876, vol. I., p. 118.)

 cinianæ doctrinæ propagatio coercetur.
Lugduni Batavorum, apud Johannem Elsevirium, Academ. typograph., 1656.
 4to.

At the instigation of the University of Leyden, the States of Holland had issued an edict against the Socinians. The latter replied in an Apologia pro Veritate accusata, Censcripta ab equite polono. This Apology has been attributed by Adry and Pieters to Carpzovius, but according to the Bibliotheca Anti-Trinitariorum, the Polish knight is Jonas Slichtingius. The work of Cocceus is a Calvinistic refutation of this Apology. It was also published in Dutch. (See Cocceus, Verantwoordinge).

Has the typographical mark of Erpenius purchased by the Elzeviers in 1625.

Collation: x and 532 pp.;—14 unnumbered pages of tables.

CONJURATION (La) du Comte Jean-Louis de Fiesque. A Cologne, 1665.
 Sm. 12mo.

An English account of this conspiracy is to be found in my Bibliotheca Curiosa, No. 9. The French account was the work of the Cardinal de Retz. It is rare, and fetches about £5.

Collation: 136 pp.

CONRINGIUS (H.) de Sangvinis generatione et motu naturali. Lugd.-Bat., apud Franciscum Hackium. Amsterod., apud Ludovicum Elzevirium. Anno 1646. 8vo.
Collation: xvi and 626 pp.

CONSEILLER (Le) d'Etat. Jouxte la copie imprimée à Paris, 1641. Sm. 12mo.

Printed by F. Hegerus. It is written by Philippe de Bethune, brother of Sully.

Collation: xl and 501 pp.

— The same work, 1645.

Collation: xl and 539 pp.

CONSILIUM Gregorio XV. . . . exhibitum. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1623. 2 parts in 1 vol. 4to.

The second part is entitled Aphorismi de statu restaurando. The volume is rare, and is the work of Gerard Vossius.

Collation: 1st part, 28 pp. 2nd part, 23 pp.

CONSTANTINI Imperatoris Porphyrogeniti, de administrando imperio. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ typographicâ Ioannis Balduini, impensis verò Ludovici ElzevirI, c16.16c.xi. 8vo.

Collation: viii and 230 pp.;—1 blank leaf;—45 pp. for the notes of Meursius;—1 leaf with colophon.

- Opera. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriana. Anno 1617. 8vo.
Collation: xvi and 230 pp.;—1 blank leaf;—
 45 pp. of notes;—58 pp. for Tactica;—
 1 blank leaf;—viii and 307 pp. for the De Thematibus;—1 leaf with colophon.
- CONSTITUTIONS (Les) du monastère de Port Royal du S. Sacrement. A Mons, chez Gaspard Migeot, en la Ruë de la Chaussée, à l'enseigne des trois Vertus, 1665. Avec privilège et approbation. Sm. 12mo.
 Printed by Daniel Elzevier.
Collation: xvi and 528 pp.;—2 pp. of errata.
- CONTARENI (C.) De Repvblica Venetorvm libri quinque. Lugd.: Bata-vorum, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1626.
 24mo.
- The same work, 1628.
Collation: 447 pp.
- The same work, 1628.
 Not so well printed as the last.
Collation: 431 pp.
- CORNEILLE. Le Cid. *Jouste la copie
 imprimée à Paris, 1638.* Sm. 12mo.

Very rare. It is evidently an Elzevier, being printed in the same italic type used for the Herodes Infanticida of Heinsius.

Collation: 95 pp.

— The same work, 1641.

Mr. Pieters, misled by a typographical error in the catalogue of 1644, has announced an edition 24mo. Had there been one, why should the catalogue, when giving the names of the four other plays of Corneille contained in the Illustré Théâtre, have omitted the 12mo Cid, which had just been printed by the Elzeviers?

Collation: 87 pp.

— The same work. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1644. Sm. 12mo.

Under the date of 1644 there are two editions, the first having the siren's head above the dedication, the second the buffalo's head.

Collation: 87 pp.

— The same work, 1651.

Collation: 81 pp.; the last two being numbered in error 62 and 63;—1 blank leaf.

— The same work, 1656.

Collation: 81 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— Cinna ou la clémence d'Auguste.

Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1644. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 86 pp.*;—1 blank leaf.

---

* The last page is numbered 84. This is caused by pages 71 and 72 being repeated, and thus throwing all numbers after them wrong by two pages. This was first pointed out by Picot.

— The same work, 1648.

Collation: 72 pp.

— The same work, 1656.

Collation: 72 pp.

— Héraclivus empereur d'Orient, tragédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1647. Sm. 12mo.

A true elzevier. Picot states that some copies have the date of 1648.

Collation: 84 pp.

— Horace, tragédie. Iouxté la copie imprimée à Paris, 1641. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: viii and 75 pp.

— The same work, 1645.

Collation: vi and 65 pp.

— The same work, 1647.

Collation: vi and 65 pp.

— The same work. A Leyde, chez Jean Sambix, 1654. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: vi and 65 pp.

— L'illvstre Théâtre. A Leyden, 1644. Sm. 12mo.

Extremely rare, only some eight or ten copies being known. At the Benzon sale it fetched £264.

Collation: Le Cid, 87 pp.;—Les Horaces, viii and 75 pp.;—Cinna, 84 pp.;—1 blank leaf;—La mort de Pompée, 82 pp.:—1 blank leaf;—Polyeucte, 93 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

- L'Imitation de Jésus Christ. Traduite en vers françois. A Leyde, chez Jean Sambix, 1652. Sm. 12mo.

Extremely rare pamphlet, printed by the Elzeviers of Leyden. It is worth from £14 to £15 if a tall copy.

Collation: 71 pp.

- Le Menteur, comédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1645. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: viii and 88 pp.

- The same work, 1647.

Collation: as above.

- La Svite dv Menteur, comédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1645. Sm. 12mo.

This is generally bound up with the Menteur of 1645.

Collation: 95 pp.

- The same work, 1647.

This is generally bound up with the Menteur of 1647. Although these works are evidently from the Elzevier press it may not be out of place to quote the testimony of Gronovius, who, writing to N. Heinsius says, under date of March 20th 1645. "Habent nunc (Elzevirii) sub manu comædiam Gallicam Cornellii quam mendacis titulo insignivit." (Epist. Syll. de Burman, vol. iii. page 146.)

Collation: 95 pp.

- La Mort de Pompée. Tragédie. Sui-vant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1644.
Sm. 12mo.
Mentioned in the catalogue of 1644.
Collation: 82 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- The same work, 1648.
Collation: 82 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- Nicomède, tragédie. A. Leyde, chez Jean Sambix, 1652. Sm. 12mo.
Collation: 88 pp.
- Polyeucte martyr, tragédie. Sui-vant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1644.
Sm. 12mo.
Mentioned in the catalogue of 1644.
Collation: 93 pp.;—1 blank leaf.
- The same work, 1648.
Collation: as above.
- The same work. *A Leyde, chez
Jean Sambix, 1655.* Sm. 12mo.
Collation: as above.
- The same work. *Suiuant la copie
imprimée à Paris, 1656.* Sm. 12mo.
Collation: as above.
- Rodogune, princesse des Parthes.

Tragédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1647. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 84 pp.

— The same work. 1652.

Collation: as above.

— D. Sanche d'Arragon, comédie héroïque. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1650. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 90 pp.;—3 blank leaves.

— The same work, 1656.

Collation: as above.

— Sertorius, tragédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1662. Sm. 12mo.

The only one of Corneille's works printed by the Elzeviers at Amsterdam.

Collation: 84 pp.

CORNEILLE (T.) D. Bertran de Cigarral. Comédie. A Leyde, chez Jean Sambix, 1652. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 113 pp.

— Le Geolier de soy-mesme, comédie. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1657. Sm. 12mo.

Dedicated to "Son altesse Royale Mademoiselle."

Collation: 96 pp.

— Timocrate, tragédie. Suiuant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1659. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: 95 pp.

CORONA virtutum principe dignarum. Lugd. Bat., ex officina Elseviriana, 1634. 24mo.

The author was Walter Quinn, whose name will be found at the foot of the dedication.

Collation: xvi and 242 pp.

CORPUS juris civilis. Amstelodami, apud Johannem Blaeu. Ludovicum et Danielem Elzevirios. Lugd. Batavorum, apud Franciscum Hackium, 1663. Cum privilegio S. C. Majestatis, 4 parts in 2 vols. Folio.

Bonaventura and Abraham, of Leyden, had some sixteen years previously commissioned Claudius Sarran to induce Denys Godefroy to complete the commentary begun by his father. In December 1648, he writes to the Elzeviers that Godefroy finally refuses, adding that he is endeavouring to induce Salmasius to take up the matter. (Cl. Sarravii Epistolæ, p. 195.) Salmasius, however, declined. This is the less to be regretted as this Corpus Juris of the Amsterdam house, published in conjunction with Blaeu and Hackius, is perhaps the finest work issued by the Amsterdam presses.

It is worth about £8.

Collation: 1st part, xx and 796 pp. 2nd part, xii and 388 pp. 3rd part, xii and 300 pp. 4th part, 92 pp.;—40 pp. of tables.

— Editio nova. prioribus correctior.

M DC LXIV. Amstelædami, apud Ioan- nem Blæu. Ludov. et Dan. Elze virios, et Lugduni Batavorum, apud Franciscum Hackium. 2 vols. 8vo.

Though inferior to the first edition, a copy at the Brunet sale fetched £52.

Collation: vol. i., xxiv and 1037 pp.;—1 blank leaf. Vol. ii. (dated 1663), 820 pp.;—1 leaf with colophon;—1 blank leaf.

— The same work. Amstelodami, Sump- tibus Societatis, 1681. 2 vols. in 1. 8vo.

Collation: vol. i., xx and 904 pp. Vol. ii., 754 pp.

CORRARO (A.) Relation de la cour de Rome, faite l'an 1661 au conseil du Pregadi. A Leide, chez Almarigo Lorens, 1663. Sm. 12mo.

The author's real name, according to Barbier, was Charles Ferrare du Tot, a counsellor in the parliament of Rouen. Almarigo Lorens are a pseudonym of Laurent Maurry of Rouen, by whom the original was printed. See also under Forgeries.

Collation: viii and 136 pp.

CORVINI (T. A.) Enchiridivm. Amsterodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium.

A° 1640, Sm. 12mo.

— Les Passions de l'âme. A Amsterdam, chez Louys Elzevier, 1649. Avec privilège du Roy. Sm. 8vo.

Great confusion has arisen with regard to this book : I therefore quote Willems at length :—

“ Edition originale de cet ouvrage célèbre, imprimée par Louis Elzevier, de compte à demi avec un libraire de Paris nommé Le Gras. En effet une partie des exemplaires portent : à Paris, chez Henry Le Gras, 1649, avec cette unique différence que la Minerve est remplacée par les armes de France et de Navarre, avec les colliers des ordres de S. Michel et du S. Esprit.

avec les adresses suivantes : A Amsterdam, par Louis Elzevier, et se vendent à Paris chez Henry Le Gras, 1650 ; ou bien : Amsterdam, par Louis Elzevier, 1650 ; ou bien : Amsterdam, et se vendent à Paris, chez Thomas Jely, 1651 ; ou enfin, sans date : à Paris, chez Guill. Angot. Mais tandis que les titres de 1649 au nom de L. Elzevier et de Le Gras, sont d'impression elzevirienne, les autres titres que nous venons de citer ont été exécutés à Paris.

“ Il résulte clairement de là que Le Gras a cédé successivement des parties de l'édition à quelques-uns de ses confrères. C'est même lui qui a fait imprimer en 1650 des titres au nom de L. Elzevier, soit par suite d'un arrangement avec l'imprimeur, soit plutôt qu'il ait cherché à tirer parti de la vogue qui s'attachait aux produits des presses elzeviriennes. Quoiqu'il en soit, il est sûr que cette substitution de titres a été faite à Paris. D'abord les exemplaires signés L. Elzevier, à la date de 1650, portent au lieu de sa marque un simple fleuron typographique. En outre le titre fait corps avec un feuillet blanc qui précède, tandis que le 8<sup>e</sup> f. limin. n'a pas de correspondant. Enfin l'édition était déjà épuisée à Amsterdam, puisqu'en cette même année 1650 L. Elzevier se décida à en publier une seconde dans le format pet. in-12.”

The edition of 1649 is rare, and is worth £5,—in good condition.

No copy of this edition is known, but that it is genuine is proved, first because it is mentioned in the Frankfort Catalogue of 1617, and in that of 1628; and secondly, because Adry must have had it in his hands, as he mentions the number of pages it contains. The author, according to Willenis, was Jean Money, schoolmaster at Tiel.

DYEMENI (G.) Cæsarei ad Regvlas ivris Romanorvm antiqui notæ. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Ludovici Elzevirij. Anno M.DC.XVI. 8vo.

An edition of 1654, with the imprint of Jean and Daniel Elzevier, is quoted in the Motteley catalogue of 1848, with the observation that the title-page seems to have been added to a previous edition. It is probable that Jean and Daniel merely put a new title-page to this edition, as they did to the Paræmia of Apostolus of 1619, and the Commentaries of Gerard Tuningus of 1618.

Collation: xxxvi and 551 pp.;—59 pp. of Indices;—1 leaf of errata.

Ἐκκλησιῶν τῆς Βελγικῆς ἑξομολόγησις καὶ κατήχησις. Hoc est: Ecclesiarvm Belgicarvm confessio. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elseviriana, 1623. Sm. 12mo.

Greek and Latin text. Each version seems to have been published separately.

Ἐκκλησιῶν (Ἦων) τῆς Βελγικῆς χριστιανικῆς καὶ ὀρθόδοξος διδασκαλία καὶ τάξις: ἡγοιν, ἑξομολόγησις, κατήχησις, λειτουργία, καὶ κάνονες ἐκκλησιαστικοί. Εἰς τὴν τῶν Ἑλλήνων κοινὴν γλῶτταν μεταφρασμένη. Ἐτυπώθη ἐν Λουγδούνῃ τῶν Βατάβων, παρὰ Βοναβεντούρα καὶ Ἀβραάμω τοῖς Ἐλξεβιρίοις, τῷ ἀχμῇ ἔτει τῆς Χριστοῦ γεννήσεως. 4to.

Every word in the volume is in Greek, even the imprint, as above. This translation of the creed of the Dutch Protestant Church is attributed to Hierotheus, Abbot of Cephalonia. Having been printed on somewhat large paper, it is not uncommon to see it marked in catalogues, "large paper copies." There are really none on larger paper.

Collation: xii and 500 pp.

8vo.

Barbier names Frédéric Rivet, son of the tutor of William of Orange, as the author.

EMMIUS (U.) Genealogia universalis imperatorum, regum, principum, aliorumq. illustr. virorum. Lugduni Bataavorum, sumptibus Elseviriorum. Prostant apud Davidem Lopes de Haro. Folio.

This is really the third part of the Opus Chronologicum with a new title-page.

— Græcorvm Respyblicaë. Lugd. Bataavorvm, ex officina Elseviriana. Anno 1632. 2 vols. 24mo.

There is another edition, the first vol. of which bears the date of 1632, whilst the second has the real date—1644. This inferior edition contains 416 pp. in the first vol., and 304 pp. in the second.

Collation : Vol. i., 432 pp. Vol. ii., 330 pp.

iv and 169 pp.;—1 blank leaf.*

- Rerum Frisicarum historia. *Lugdoni Batavorum, apud Ludovicum El-sevirium, c10 10c xvi. Cum privilegio.
2 vols. in 1. Folio.*

There are two editions under the same date. The first is very incomplete, having neither the preface of Emmius, nor the critical letter on Pontus Heuterus and Hamelman, nor the maps and plans, nor the indices. The second, therefore, should always be obtained.

Collation: Vol. i., xxxii and 962 pp.; 34 pp. for errata and indices;—1 plate (p. 33.) Vol. ii., viii and 70 pp.;—1 leaf of errata; 92 pp.; 64 pp.; 60 pp.;—12 pp. of tables. —12 plans and maps, (pp. 36, 48, 52, 54, 58, 59, 60, 62, and 64 of the first treatise; p. 14 of the second; and pp. 2 and 6 of the third.)

FURSTENERII (C.) de Jure suprematus
1677. 8vo.

Great difficulties occurred during the discussions which preceded the treaty of Nimegnen as to the various rights of the numerous princes of the Empire. Leibniz published the above work which really fixes the bases of the public law of Europe. It is therefore well worthy of the Bibliophile, not only on account of its rarity and interest, but because it has long been omitted from all bibliographies of the Elzeviers. It appears in the catalogue of 1681, and the initial Q can be verified in the Seneca of 1672, vol. iii., p. 7.

Collation : xvi and 245 pp. ;—1 blank leaf.

Collation: iv and 38 pp;—1 blank leaf.

HORACE. Odes en vers burlesques. A Leyde, chez Jean Sambix, 1653. Sm. 12mo.

Like the burlesque of Homer mentioned above, this Horace travestied is utterly worthless, yet fetches an even higher price, though it has not the rarity of the former to recommend it. A copy at the Benzon Sale, which had formerly belonged to Bertin and had fetched at his sale £5 15s., sold for £48. The average price is about £30.

Collation: 69 pp. ;—3 pp. for table.

HORATII (Q.) Opera. Cum animadversionibus et notis Danielis Heinsii. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Ludovicum Elsevirium. Anno MDCC. XII. 8vo.

Collation: xxxii and 614 pp.

— The same. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elseviriana. Anno 1629. 3 parts in 1 vol. 16mo.

Generally considered rare, but is not so in reality. The real value is about 25s.

Collation: Part i., xxxii and 239 pp. Part ii.,

286 pp. ;—1 blank leaf ;—part iii., 250 pp. ;
—3 blank leaves.

— The same. *Lugd. Batav., ex officina

16mo.

Merely the 1629 edition with a new title-page.

Collation: 239 pp.

— Poemata. Amstelodami, apud Dani-elem Elsevirium, 1676. Sm. 12mo.

Somewhat rare ; handsome, but not very correct edition. Avoid copies printed on poor paper.

Collation: 235 pp. ;—4 pp. for Life of Horace and Testimonia.

— The same. 24mo.

Collation: 213 pp. ;—1 blank leaf.

— Sapientia. *Lugduni Batavorum,
ex officina Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elsevir, Academiæ typograph., 1626.*
8vo.

Printed in italics. Rare, like all school books.

Collation: 110 pp. ;—1 blank leaf.

HORN (C.) Oratio panegyrica, etc.
Lugduni Batavorum, ex officina Isaaci Elsevir, iurati Academiæ typographi,
1622. Folio.

Collation : viii and 42 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

HORN (G.) Orbis Imperans. Lugduni Batavorum, apud Felicem Lopez de Haro, A° 1668. Sm. 12mo.

Evidently printed by the widow of J. Elzevier.

Collation : iv and 341 pp.;—31 pp. of tables ;—2 blank leaves.

HORNE (J. van). Μικροτέχνη. Lugd. Batav., apud Gaasbekios, 1668. Sm. 12mo.

Anno 1631. 24mo.

There is a second edition, containing xii and 299 pp.;—17 pp. of index;—and 2 blank leaves.

Collation: viii and 285 pp.; 16 pp. of index;—
1 blank leaf.

INGENUA et Vera oratio. Lugduni,
1602. 4to.

There is no doubt the book was printed by Louis Elzevier, as it appears in the Frankfort catalogues. Lugduni, instead of Lugduni Bata-vorum, is merely a fraud to avoid suspicions of such a book being printed in a Protestant country.

Collation: 72 pp.

INSTITUTIONES Aulicæ. Amsterdami, apud Lud. Elzevirium. Anno 1642. 18mo.

This is the translation of the second part of the Traicté de la Cour of Du Refuge.

JACCHÆUS (G.) Institutiones Physicæ. Amstelrodami, apud Ludovicum Elzevirium, 1644. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 356 pp.;—2 blank leaves.

—— Primæ Philosophiæ. Lugduni Batavorum, prostant apud Elsevirios. Anno 1640. Sm. 12mo.

Brunet is wrong in giving an edition of 1621, first, because no book of that date bears the imprint of the above; secondly, this edition says “priore correctior” which presupposes only one, and that would be Patius’s edition of 1616; thirdly, because it is not mentioned in any of the catalogues. If Pieters is correct, however, there must be another edition of 1640, as he says his copy bears a foreign mark instead of the Elzevier Hermit.

Collation: xii and 399 pp.

JONSON (S.) Nova cubi Hebræi tabella. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Bonaventuræ et Abranami Elzevir., Academ. typograph., 1627. Oblong 4to.

JUSTINI Historiarum lib. XLIV. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriana.
Anno 1640. Sm. 12mo.

There is a second and somewhat inferior edition under this date, containing xii and 395 pp.

Collation: xvi and 294 pp.;—39 pp. of notes; —54 pp. of index.

— The same. Amstelodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii, A° 1650. Sumptibus societatis. 24mo.

A poor edition.

Collation: 260 pp.;—2 blank leaves.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1656. Sm. 12mo.

The Amsterdam editions are all inferior to those of Leyden.

Collation: xii and 330 pp.;—38 pp. of index.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum et Danielem Elzevirios.
Anno 1659. 8vo.

Collation: iv and 547 pp.;—73 pp. of index.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1664. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: Like edition of 1656.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum et Danielem Elzevirios. Anno 1669. 8vo.

Collation: iv and 567 pp.;—73 pp. of index.

— The same. Amstelodami, typis Danielis Elzevirii. A° 1671. Sumptibus societatis. 24mo.

Very poor edition.

Collation: 260 pp.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1673. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: Like edition of 1664.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1675. Sm. 12mo.

Extremely rare: the only copy known being in the Winterthur Library.

Collation: Like edition of 1656.

JUSTINIANI Institutiovm libri qvatvor.
Lugd. Batav., ex officina Fr. Hackii.
A° 1646. 12mo.

The Elzevier's name appears on the frontispiece.

Collation: xxxiv and 637 pp.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Ludovicum Elzeverium, 1652. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 643 pp.;—2 blank leaves.

— The same. A° 1654. 24mo.

Printed in red and black.

Collation: ii and 393 pp.;—32 pp. of index;—1 blank leaf.

— The same. Amstelædami, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1658. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xxiv and 643 pp.

— The same, 1663.

Collation: Like edition of 1652.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Danielelem Elzevirium, 1664. Cum privilegio Cæsareo. 24mo.

Printed in red and black.

Collation: viii and 391 pp.;—106 pp. of index;—1 blank leaf.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1669. Cum privilegio sacr. Cæs. Majest. Sm. 12mo.

The frontispiece is sometimes dated 1663 and sometimes 1679. This proves that there were two editions, in the first of which the old frontispiece was used, while in the second a new one was inserted. It is evident, too, that the date of 1669 on the printed title-page is an error for 1679. One edition also has Elseviriana instead of Elzeviriana.

Collation: Like edition of 1652.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Danielem Elzevirium, 1676. Cum privilegio Cæsareo. 24mo.

Printed in black and red.

Collation: viii and 391 pp.;—102 pp. of index; —1 blank leaf.

— The same. Amstelodami, apud Danielem Elzevirium, 1676. 24mo.

Collation: ii and 391 pp.;—102 pp. of index; —1 blank leaf.

— The same 1679. See edition 1669.

JUSTI (P.) De allea. Amsterodami, apud Ludovic Elzvirium. A° 1642. 18mo.

There are two editions under the same date, the second not having the errata.

Collation: lx and 213 pp.;—42 pp. of index; —1 p. of errata.

JUVENAL et Persius. Amsterodami, typis Ludovici Elzevirii. Sumptibus societatis. 1651. 24mo.

A poor edition.

Collation : 119 pp.

— The same. Amsterodami, typis Danielis Elzevirii. Sumptibus societatis. 1671. 24mo.

Collation : 119 pp.

KEMPIS (Thomas a). De imitatione Christi. Lugduni, apud Joh: et Dan: Elzevirios. Sm. 12mo.

One of the most beautiful as well as one of the rarest books printed by the Elzeviers. It bears no date, but it was probably produced in 1653, as Jean and Daniel were only partners from 1652 to May 1655, and it is often found bound up with Corneille's French metrical translation of 1653. Good copies (above 128 millimetres) are worth £10 to £15, and one copy (132 millimetres) fetched £28, 10s. at J. T. Payne's sale. The MacCarthy copy measured 134 millimetres.

Collation : 257 pp.;—3 blank leaves.

— The same. Lugduni, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1658. Sm. 12mo.

Was evidently printed at Amsterdam, not at Leyden.

Collation : 261 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— The same. Amstelodami, ex officina Elzeviriana, 1679. Sm. 12mo.

Very inferior to the former editions.

Collation: 261 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

— The same. Leidæ et veneunt Parisiis, apud C. Angot, via Iacobea. 32mo.

Printed, as Willems has shown, by Daniel Elzevier in 1669. The title-page was afterwards used for other editions, which, however, do not correspond as to collation.

Collation: 454 pp. in all.

KEUREN ende ordonnantien, etc. Tot Leyden, gedrukt ten beveelē vande voornoemde dijkgrave ende hoogeheemvanden, by de weduwe ende erfgenamen van Johannes Elsevier, 1664. 4to.

Collation: iv and 454 pp.;—24 pp. of tables;—1 blank leaf.

KIMCHI (M.) Ὀδοιπορία ad scientiam. Lugduni Batavorum, ex officinâ Bonaventuræ et Abrahami Elzevir. Academ typograph., 1631. 8vo.

A large-paper copy is in the library at the Hague.

Collation: xvi and 256 pp.;—16 pp. of index.

KLACHT-GHEDICHTEN over de doodt van Mr. Symeon Rvyting, etc.

The second part of "Epicedia in Obitu . . . .
Simeonis Rvtingii," 1622, 4to, with which it is almost always bound.

Collation : 13 pp.

Very rare.

Collation: viii and 146 pp.;—3 blank leaves.

LA CHAMBRE. L'art de connoistre les hommes. A Amsterdam, chez Jacques le Jeune, 1660. Sm. 12mo.

A second edition of the same date wants the errata.

Collation: xii and 278 pp.;—8 pp. of tables;—1 blank leaf.

— Les caractères des passions. A Amsterdam, chez Antoine Michel. L'an 1658. 3 vols. in 4. Sm. 12mo.

In the catalogue of 1681. A beautiful book, and somewhat scarce. There are two editions of vols. i. and ii. In the second the title of chapter ii. reads LES CHARACTERES DE L'AMOUR, whilst in the second it reads Les caractères de L'amour.

Collation : Vol. i., xxiv. and 236 pp.—Vol. ii., pp. 237 to 599, with bastard title and iv pp. of preliminary matter.—Vol. iii., viii and 397 pp.;—1 blank leaf.—Vol. iv., 323 pp. in all.

LANGUETI (H.) Epistolæ. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officinâ Elzeviriorum, 1646. Sm. 12mo.

Collation : xvi and 477 pp.

LAPIDE (H. a). Dissertatio de ratione status. Freistadii. Anno 1647. Sm. 12mo.

Usually attributed to de Chemnitz. This edition must not be confounded with three others of the same date, which may be distinguished from that of the Elzeviers as follows. The first, which has the same number of pages as the Elzevir edition, is easily detected by having page 229 numbered 329. Another, also with 583 pp., has the last page unnumbered. The last edition has only 576 pp.

Collation : xxiv and 583 pp.

LA PLACE (P. de). Du droict usage de la philosophie morale. A Leyde, chez Jean Elsevier, 1658. Sm. 12mo.

The author had been massacred on the Eve of St. Bartholomew.

LIVIUS (T.) Historiarum Libri. Lugd. Batavorum, ex officina Elzeviriana. Anno 1634. 3 vols. Sm. 12mo.

This is the best of the 12mo editions. The vol. of notes by Gronovius of the 1645 edition is sometimes found with it. A copy of 124 millimetres is worth about £3.

Collation: Vol. i., xxiv. and 726 pp.;—16 pp. of index;—1 blank leaf. Vol. ii., 848 pp., and 16 pp. of index. Vol. iii., 796 pp.;—14 pp. of index;—3 blank leaves.

— The same, 1645. 3 vols. Sm.
12mo.

Though less sought after, this edition is more correct than that of 1634.

Ryer, sieur de la Garde Malezair.
Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris,
chez Antoine de Sommaville, 1649.
Avec privilège du Roy. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xvi and 692 pp.

“Les premiers exemplaires, copiant l'édition de Paris (chez Antoine de Sommaville, 1647, in-4), contiennent la dédicace au chancelier, comprenant 4 pages. Louis, qui ne la réitérait pas, la fit supprimer après quelques tirages; voilà pourquoi le plus grand nombre des exemplaires de cette édition ne renferment que 12 pp. aux pièces prélim.; mais, avec ou sans dédicace, les exemplaires sont très complets d'après le témoignage des signatures.” (Millot.)

Brunet and Pieters are wrong in attributing this volume to the Elzeviers of Leyden: everything proves it to have come from Amsterdam, besides which it is so described in Blaeu's Catalogue of 1659. Its value varies from £2 to £4. Be careful not to be taken in by the imitation of the same date, and which can be known by the title page bearing the words “Jouxte la copie” instead of “Suivant la copie.”

— The same, 1672. Sm. 12mo.

Collation: xii and 490 pp.;—1 blank leaf.

MAIMBOURG (L.) Histoire du Luthéranisme. Suivant la copie imprimée à Paris, 1681, 2 vols., sm. 12mo.

Collation : Vol. i., 304 pp.;—vol. ii , 268 pp.;—
28 pp. of tables.

This is proved to be an Amsterdam Elzevier by the ornaments : that at the head of the dedication is also used in the Malebranche of 1680. It was probably printed before the sale of Daniel Elzevier's plant, and if it does not appear in the catalogue of 1681 it is probably because it was printed on some other bookseller's account. Another edition of the same date is known with title page and collation similar to this, but it is a forgery, and can be known by the figure of a squirrel which appears on the title page. Maimbourg's other works were subsequently printed in the same style by some Dutch printer (probably Wetstein) who had purchased the Elzevier plant.

MARIGNY (Le.) Lettres de Monseieur (Sic). A la Haye, chez Antoine la Faille, dans la grande salle de la Cour, 1655. Sm. 12mo.

Wil'ems and Nodier attribute this work to Jean Elzevier, but Brunet and Pieters consider it the work of Foppens of Brussels. The former are right, for the printer's device (the sphere) can be verified on the Virgile Travesti of 1651, and the sheets are all signed in fives, the constant practise of the Leyden Elzeviers.

Collation : 54 pp.

— The same. A la Haye, chez Antoine la Faille, dans la grande salle de la Cour, 1658. Sm. 12mo.

The same observations apply to this as to the last edition, but being more complete, it is to be preferred.

— Les Œuvres. A Amsterdam, chez Jaques le Jeune, 1675. 5 vols. Sm. 12mo.

Very rare and valuable. A very fine copy, 131 to 132 millimetres, is worth about £100. Anyone interested should read the article of Willem's on this edition. As it does not quite contain all Molière's works one should try and add to it: Œuvres posthumes, Amsterdam, Jacques le Jeune, 1684 or 1689, and if possible Le Festin de Pierre, Amsterdam, 1683. Lastly, copies containing the Sganarelle of 1662 are to be preferred to those having the edition of 1674, as it is followed by La Cocue Imaginaire of Donneau de Visé. Each play has a separate title, all bearing the date of 1674, except Sganarelle, (sometimes 1662); L'amour Medecin, 1673; Amphitryon, 1669; George Dandin, 1669; Les Fourberies de Scapin, 1671; Psiche, 1671, and Le Malade Imaginaire, 1673. All but the last being exhausted in 1675, Daniel Elzevier reprinted them in that year. Any of these editions are good, but one must be careful that none of the plays are dated later than 1675.

Collation: Vol. i., 8 pp. of prelim. matter, and 5 plays;—vol. ii., title and five plays;—vol. iii., title and 7 plays;—vol. iv., title and 4 plays;—vol. v., title and 5 plays,

Le Malade Imaginaire consisting of 2 separate pieces.

— The same. 1679.

The only difference between this and the previous edition is that the Malade Imaginaire forms a single piece. A fine copy is worth about £15 or £20. All the plays should be dated 1679, except Les Femmes Scavantes, 1678; Sganarelle, 1680; La Critique de l'Escole des Femmes, 1680; L'amour Medecin, 1680; Le Sicilien, 1680; George Dandin, 1680 or 1681; Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, Les Fourberies de Scapin and Psyché, all 1680; et L'ombre de Molière, 1681.

Collation: like the edition of 1675.

XLIV. A Amiens, pour la Veuve du
(sic) Robert Hubant, ruë de Beaupuis,
1671. Avec privilège du Roy. Sm.
12mo.

One of the rarest of the Elzeviers, and has sold for as much as £32. Some copies are said to bear the imprint of Daniel Elzevier, but the existence of but one copy seems to be authenticated. Daniel was condemned in 1687 for making use of a false name on the title-page of this book, and a large number were seized in Paris by the French Government, hence probably its rarity.

by Michael Verino, an Italian, who died at the age of 19.

Collation : 280 pp.;—2 blank leaves.

— The same. *Amsterodami, apud Lud.
Elzevirium. A° 1647. 18mo.*

There seem to be three editions under this date.

The best ends at the bottom of p. 1 with the word Sales. The first seems to have been that which has an X in a triangle in the headpiece at the top of first page ; the second, that which has the same head-piece on p. 1 ; and the third, that which has a tailpiece on p. 204.

Collation : iv and 212 pp.

There are five editions of the same date, with same collation, but of very different value.

The first and best has page 101 numbered 69, and on p. 51 the word Laches is printed in red.

The second has Laches in black, and the second comedy is entitled EVNVCHVS.

The third reads Eunuchus and has LACHES in black.

The fourth has Laches in black, but has Prologus (on page 54) in red. [It is black in the three first editions.]

The fifth has both Laches and Prologus in red.

The fourth edition is nearly as rare and as good as the first.—The value is about £3.

A° 1622. Sm. 12mo.

A poor but rare edition.

Collation: xxiv and 444 pp.

- The same. Lugd. Batav., ex officina Elzeviriana. A<sup>o</sup> 1636. Sm. 12mo.

A lovely, rare, but incorrect edition. It sells at very high prices, viz., from £10 to £50. There are three editions of the same date. The original has the fragment of letter before the Bucolics: Ego vero, etc., printed in red, as also the dedication on p. 92. The reprints are worth about £1.

Collation: xl and 411 pp.;—43 pp. of index; —1 blank leaf;—1 map facing p. 92.

- The same, 1676. Sm. 12mo.

This edition was printed on two different sized papers. The larger (over 170 millimetres) is very rare, and worth £20 to £30. There were but 48 printed. (See correspondence of Daniel Elzevier.) Part of the edition was issued in 1676, and part in 1679. The latter may be known by the word lector forming the fifth word in the address to the reader. They also vary sometimes from the original issue in the contents of the prelim. matter. The text is extremely correct. Beware of the forgery (see under Forgeries).

Collation: xlviii and 307 pp.;—29 pp. of tables; —1 blank leaf;—1 map facing p. 84.

APPENDIX I.

List of Forgeries bearing the imprint of the Elzeviers.

- 1641.—CLUVERII (P.) Introductionis in univ-sum (sic) geographiam libri vi. Apud Elzevirios. Sm. 12mo.
- 1645.—SERRE (de la). Le Secretaire à la mode.
Chez Bonneventure Elseuier. 24mo.
- 1648.—FLORI (L. A.) Historiæ romanæ lib. iv.
sumptibus Elzeviris (sic). 24mo.
- 1649.—COMMINES (P. de). Memoires, chez les Elzeviers. Sm. 12mo.

∴ An exact reprint of the real Elzevier edition of 1648, but rather larger in size.

— CONFESSION of Faith and the larger and shorter catechisms, &c. Amsterdam, printed by Leuice Elsever, for Andrew Wilson, and are to be sold at his shop in Edinburgh. 1649. 2 parts in 1 vol.

∴ This book appeared in the Caxton Loan
Exhibition 1877. It belonged to Mr

Laing of the Advocates' Library. As the apparently only English work printed by the Elzeviers it caused a great sensation, but the mere sight of the volume was enough to satisfy anyone having the slightest knowledge of the Elzeviers that the volume could never have issued from their presses. Neither type, size, nor mode of pagination was in any way like theirs, and lastly, even the name of the supposed printer was atrociously murdered.

- 1652.—LIPSIUS (J.) de Constantia. Typis Ludovici Elzevirii. Sm. 12mo.
- SANTS (T. de). Historia del tumulto di Napoli. Nella stamparia d'Elseuir. 4to.

- 1669.—DVEZ, N. Le vray . . . . gvidon de la laugve françoise. Chez Louys et Daniel Elzevier. 8vo.
- 1670.—CVRTHI (Q), Rvfi Historiarum libri, ex officina Elzeviriana. Sm. 12mo.
 ∴ Has not the twelve pages of preli-matter of the original nor its ornaments.
- The same. 24mo.
 ∴ The real edition has the imprint of Daniel Elzevier, but this forgery bears ex officina Elzeviriana.
- LUCIEN. Chez J. Elzevier le jeune. 2 vols., 12mo.
