LIFE & LETTERS

MY HOME

By George Gissing.

我的家庭

The exquisite quiet of this room! I have been sitting in utter idleness, watching the sky, viewing the shape of golden sunlight upon the carpet, which changes as the minutes pass, letting my eye wander from one framed print to another, and along the ranks of my beloved books. Within the house nothing stirs. In the garden I can hear singing of birds, I can hear the rustle of their wings, And thus, if it please me, I may sit all day long, and into the profounder quiet of the night.

My house is perfect. By great good fortune I have found a housekeeper no less to mind—a low-voiced, woman of discreet age, strong and deft enough to render me all the service I require, and not afraid of solitude. She rises very early. By my breakfast-time there remains little to be done under the roof save dressing of meals. Very rarely do I hear even a clink of crockery; never the closing of a door or window. Oh, blessed silence!

這屋子安靜得無以復加！我十二分懶散地坐在那兒，望望天空，看看地毯上隨時移動的金黃色的太陽光，遊目盪環地逐一流覽壁上鑲框的畫片，和我喜歡的書架上排列着的圖書。室內萬籟無聲。我聽得見花園裏面雀子唱歌，和拍翅膀的聲音。假如我願意，我可以終日閑坐，甚至於坐到更幽靜的深夜。

我的房子十分完美。運氣好得很，居然找着了一位稱心的女管家，年紀相當，謹慎小心，說

There is not the remotest possibility of any one's calling upon me, and that I should call upon any one else is a thing undreamt of. I owe a letter to a friend; perhaps I shall write it before bedtime; perhaps I shall leave it till to-morrow morning. A letter of friendship should never be written save when the spirit prompts. I have not yet looked at the newspaper. Generally I leave it till I come back tired from my walk; it amuses me then to see what the noisy world is doing, what new self-torments men have discovered, what new forms of vain toil, what new occasions of peril and of strife. I grudge to give the first freshness of the morning mind to things so sad and foolish.

My house is perfect. Just large enough to allow the grace of order in domestic circumstance; just that superfluity of intramural space, to lack which is to be less than at one's ease. The fabric is sound; the work in wood and plaster tells of a more leisurely and a more honest age than ours. The stairs do not creak under my step; I am waylaid by no unkindly draught; I can open or close a window without muscle-ache. As to such trifles as the tint and device of wall-paper, I confess my indifference; be the walls only unobtrusive, and I am satis-

之後，才翻閱報章，這個時間讀報，看着煩囂的世界在幹些什麼，人們發覺了什麼新的自苦之道，那些白費的勞力，那些新的危機與爭鬥，這一切倒是蠻有趣的。

我的房子十全十美。雖不滌

大，却夠開展，使家庭裏井井有條。屋內的空間恰到好處，少那一點就會叫人不稱心。屋子的構造結實，木工土工比我們這時代的勝一籌，表示是更優閒更誠實的時代的東西。樓房結實，上下時也不軋軋有聲，門窗完整，沒有由縫隙間穿來的風吹着我，開窗關窗也便當，不會使肌肉發疼。至於糊牆紙的顏色和濕樣，我認爲是小節，倒滿不在乎，只要牆壁不討厭，我就心滿意足了。

ted. The first thing in one's home is comfort; let beauty of detail be added if one has the means, the patience, the eye.

To me, this little book-room is beautiful, and chiefly because it is home. Through the greater part of life I was homeless. Many places have I inhabited, some which my soul loathed, and some which pleased me well; but never till now with that sense of security which makes a home. At any moment I might have been driven forth by evil hap, by nagging necessity. For all that time did I say within myself: Some day, perchance, I shall have a home; yet the "perchance" had more and more of emphasis as life went on, and at the moment when fate was secretly smiling on me, I had all but abandoned hope. I have my home at last. When I place a new

Describing the treaty as 'a *wise act<sup>12</sup> confirming the status which New China has gained,<sup>13</sup> the journal<sup>14</sup> says that extraterritoriality<sup>15</sup> was a *legacy of evil days<sup>16</sup> partly because *foreign traders demanded special rights<sup>17</sup> and partly because the *Chinese Government was not established on a *sure, or lasting basis.<sup>18</sup> These extraterritorial rights were *clearly an offence against China's sove-

volume on my shelves, I say: Stand there whilst I have eyes to see you; and a joyous tremor thrills me. This house is mine on a lease of a score of years. So long I certainly shall not live; but, if I did, even so long should I have the wherewithal to pay my rent and buy my food.

在架子上的時候，我就說：我有眼睛看你的時候，你就留在這兒吧，我這樣說時，愉快得有點發抖。這房子我租了二十年。我當然不會活到那麼久長，萬一我能再活二十年，我就有錢付房金，也有錢買飯吃。 reignty.<sup>19</sup> The Chinese were "rejoicing naturally" when their "National Government"<sup>20</sup> was able to "fulfil the policy so long advocated by Dr. Sun Yat-sen."<sup>21</sup> One after another, all countries in the world, except France, "Brazil and Peru,"<sup>22</sup> have followed the British and American example to recognize<sup>23</sup> China's new status.

The Journal recognizes that "there are still outstanding issues to be settled between Britain and China,"<sup>24</sup> but the "principle is unalterably established"<sup>25</sup> and "the advantages which must flow from it in future are immense."<sup>26</sup> China will need aid from the "Western democracies"<sup>27</sup> in "postwar reconstruction."<sup>28</sup> The new treaty gives her a guarantee<sup>29</sup> that "assistance and cooperation shall not take the form of exploitation."<sup>30</sup>

ENGLAND AND THE ENGLISH

AT THE TOBACCONIST'S

If anybody were to ask me which shop-windows I found the most interesting in London, I should find it very hard to answer. My wife, I know, would be all in favour of the drapers, the milliners and the jewellers.<sup>2</sup> My eldest son would be all for the sports shops,<sup>3</sup> with their golf clubs,<sup>4</sup> tennis rackets,<sup>5</sup> cricket bats<sup>6</sup> and footballs.<sup>7</sup> The children would vote for<sup>7</sup> the toy-shops<sup>8</sup>—and I—well—I must confess to a weakness for the tobacconist's window.<sup>9</sup> Not that I smoke a lot,<sup>10</sup> but there's something fascinating<sup>11</sup> about seeing the neat little piles<sup>12</sup> of different coloured tobaccos,<sup>13</sup> the beautifully polished briar pipes,<sup>14</sup> the attractive boxes of cigars and cigarettes.<sup>15</sup> If you smoke a pipe, you have the choice<sup>16</sup> of dozens of excellent brands of pipe tobacco;<sup>17</sup> if you are fond of cigars, then you can get them at any price you care to pay; and if you prefer cigarettes, then you may have Virginian,<sup>18</sup> Turkish,<sup>19</sup> or Egyptian,<sup>20</sup> whichever you like. Virginian cigarettes are, of course, those made of American tobacco.

Matches are good and cheap, and you'll find all kinds of articles for smokers such as tobacco pouches, cigar and cigarette cases and holders, lighters and so on,<sup>21</sup> in every tobacconist's window. Many tobacconists, especially in the suburbs,<sup>22</sup> are at the same time newsagents,<sup>23</sup> stationers,<sup>24</sup> and booksellers, so that you can also buy books, magazines, newspapers, picture post-cards,<sup>25</sup> and other stationery<sup>26</sup>—notepaper,<sup>27</sup> envelopes,<sup>28</sup> and so on.

Conversation

Can you recommend<sup>29</sup> me some pipe tobacco?

Certainly, sir; mild, medium, or full strength.<sup>30</sup>

Oh!—er—medium, please.
I have a very good mixture<sup>1</sup> of my own; would you care to try it?

How much is it?

It's *a shilling an ounce,<sup>2</sup> sir, and very cheap at the price. *I just keep it for my regular customers.<sup>3</sup>

Well, give me two ounces, please.

Have you a pouch, sir, or shall I *pack it up?<sup>4</sup>

Put one ounce in the pouch and pack the other . . . thank you.

*Anything further,<sup>5</sup> sir?

Yes, let me have a box of fifty cigarettes.

Virginian or Turkish, sir?

Turkish, please.

Now, this is a very good cigarette, sir. I think you'll like it. *Six shillings for fifty.<sup>6</sup>

All right, give me fifty. And let me have some matches, too.

Yes, sir, one box?

Yes, one box. How much is that altogether?

Let me see, that's 2/- (two shillings), 8/- (eight shillings), 8/1d. (eight-and-a-penny) in all, sir . . . thank you, sir. Good morning.

In the latest issue of the Moscow journal, War and the Working Class, Japan is reminded of an ancient Eastern proverb—"he who bestrides a tiger cannot easily dismount." It concludes that Tokyo as well as Berlin has lost the strategic initiative.

"Japan made a mistake in altering her policy of non-interference in the world war," the "Soviet newspaper" adds. "Germany is not very pleased with her Far Eastern ally's military operations against Britain and America which do not inflict sufficient military and economic damage. Disappointment over the military might of Germany is growing in Japan."
