The porthern mail of yesterday duly arrived, and furnished title or nothing of interest.

Three great fires occurred in New-York on the 7th inst. Two of their amounted to heavy configrations.

On reference to our columns, it will be seen that the oppo sition in the scenare of the U.S., have made a move for a renewal or clongation of the charter of the present U. S. Bank The Grobe has taken a very proper view of the subject, and te remarks are worthy of attentive perusal and serious conthe panie and the pressure are now apparent

STARS OF THE FIRST MAGNITUDE. -Mr. Booth, Mr. and Miss embic, and Mr. and Mrs. Wood, were all playing at the Lioliday-street ineatre, Baltimore, at the last advices.

Never, we feel confident, were the republican party in this state more united or better able to cope with their old onemes than at present. The attempt to create discord and engender antipathics among them, for the purpose of effecting 1-100 in their ranks, is now perfectly understood, and will ceive only for the future to make their more watchful. Let it now be remembered-Edward D. White is the candidate of the discomfitted and twice defeated Clay party. John B. Dawson is the candidate of the democratic party, which in the late presidential election were in a majority of upwards of 1500. (See the statement of the last presidential election

Once a week we may expect advices from New-York vis Charleston, four days sooner than received by the direct route as an ar angement has been effected by Mr. Barry with the proprietors of the Charleston and New-York tackets, to transmit a mail once a week between those cities

The northern papers mention, that resolutions have passed the legislative assembly of Lower Canada, impeaching Lord Aylaner, and calling conventions of the people, on the Tist of January, by a vote 56 ayes to 24 noes. Every amendment and substitute, designed to moderate their tone was lost by a like vote. A special committee were appointed to prepare an address to the king and both houses of parlia-

The big Medina, at New-York, furnishes the editor of the Commercial Advertiser with intelligence from Carthagena to the 12th February. The affair of the French consul is represented as still pending. It is difficult, however, torreconcile this account with the intelligence received and pablished in this paper on Wednesday via New-York. The Jamaica Herald of the 14th of Feb., stated that the difficulty acter were adopted, sustaining the removal of the Deposites relative to Mr. Barrot, the French consul, had been settled upon the terms that his functions as consul should cease, and that on the other hand, the Alcade should be punished This result is confirmed by the circumstance, that the same paper contained a copy of a letter signed by many respecta-ble gentleman of Carthagena, addressed to M. Odillon Bar-Lassters which had been brought upon the country by he rot, a distinguished member of the chamber of deputies in France, and the brother of the consul, bearing testimony to the nutegrity of his character and the correctness of his conduct. We are hence led to conclude that the account by the power of explanation or reply, but Mr Van Burn received France, and the brother of the consul, bearing testimony to

The premium on the loan was $13,51, per centum, and the whole primium on the deficiences is therefore nearly $100,000.

A statement has been published by the directors of the Bank of the United States, in which an attempt is made to induce the public to believe that their curtailments have not been as excessive, nor their oppressions of the community so gross us they are shown to be by the state of the times and the posture of affairs. We have seen an interesting enumeration of the cotton We have seen an interesting enumeration of the cotton trade of France with the U.S. from 1643 up to the present period. The immber of bales which arrived in France during the last year are stated at 305,402. In 1832 they amounted to only 260,600. The greatest importation into France was in 1326, when 320,000 were entered. In 1832, it was 276,109, in 1826, when 320,000 were entered. In 1832, it was 276,109, we firmly believe he died without an enemy.—[Giobemaking nearly an equal balance for the last two years. The general sales in 1832 and 1833 show an average of 23,000 a month. In this we have at last the explanation of all the debate in the city—the general ontery of its participant of the bank from its pressure in the control to the other, about the Deposites!—the Deposites!—the Public and the Sword!—the Sword!—the Sword is pressure which the Earth has attempted to make the narrows of such has attempted to make the narrows of such Archives in the respect to excited mineral lasting the transmitted to make the narrows of such Archives in the sense at tumph for the Bank, by mining, and the natorning, the fortess newly garrisoned by the Prople, to prote the first has attempted to make the research of the control of the survey of the Earth has attempted to make the narrows of such as a transmit of the survey of a strong demonstration on the period the fence of the storm in their service. They are a body of disappointed politicians, who, having sear edu retreat in the Senate under false professions now set at naught the wiches of this whom they represent. They are, in a word, men who have nothing sow to expect from public favor, and are resolved to set up a control above it, in the corrupting influence and compulsive power of a Bank, which is ready for subserve all their political views, in converting the Government into an edica chy—[Government in Begister. Correspondence of the Mobile Commercial Begister.

The recent movements in Pennsylvania have already produced a most evident effect in both branches of Cou-gress upon the Bank question. Before this re ches you, the Message of Governor Wolf to the Legislature, in the Message of Governor Well to the Legislature, in which he do nounces the management of the Bank, and which from the best information, will be sustained by large majorities in both b anches of the Legislature of that State Will have been received by you. In addition to this, the late meeting in Phaladelphia, the most numerous ever assumbled in that city which was addressed by Mr. Rush, late Secretary of the Treasury Mr. C. J. Ingersol, and other disting ut had men in support of the measures of the President, and where resolutions of the most explicit character were adopted, sustaining the removal of the Depos. Its indicate the popular feeling in the very contre of Bank in-fluence. To day, in presenting to the Sonate, a petition from the horse-wrights of Philadelphia, Mr. Webster took occasion to express his views at length upon the necessity of restoring t e Deposites. He was followed by Mr. Clay removal and made a most patient appeal to Mr. Van Buren personally, to exercise influence to procure the restera

Median is erroneous.

The Harrisburg Coronicle states that the governor of Pennsylvania has received a proposal for the whole of the state loan of seven hundred and twenty-nine thousand dollars; and an offer, from another quarer, to take a portion failte widow as the carried when the carried with the state loan of seven hundred and twenty-nine thousand dollars; and an offer, from another quarer, to take a portion failte widow as to the catures alone reporting all the of this month.

The Philadelphia Chronicle says that aircort was again current in that city on Wednesday, that the loan had been and do baltle in his own hel all.

It will be seen by the following article from the London l'ines, how and why a National Bank can cause distress. The power possessed by the Directors of the Bank of England in regulating the circulation, has always been England in regulating the circulation, has always been regarded with great jealou-y 1y the merchants at large, and although that piwer seems to have been exercised with more discretion of late years, and particularly since the passing of the new charter, we do not find that the jealousy which, it creates has, on the whole, undergone much diminution, and the late speculations in colonial produce, joined with the part which the Bank has acted with regard to them, though in itself proper e ough, has caused at to be manufested in a very remarkable degree. It is observed, but without meaning thereby to impugn the honor of the parties—1st, that the Directors of the Bank are many of them partners in some of the most active and extensive is of the parties and the posture of affairs. It appears from their report, that from the 1st October to the 1st of March, the reduction of the deposites have been $7,929,934, and the reduction of the deposites have been $7,929,934, and the reduction of loans, during the same period, have amounted to $3,926,373. While we have vauutingly exhibited here the aggregate list of discounts, the directors have taken good care, to concear the immense fluctuations that have been independent in them in different cities. If this were exposed, we have only a partial account, shewing it is true, perhaps, the total of the reductions, but not the discounting operation affecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the saffecting those cities, from which the have and cry of the saffecting those cities, from which the saffecting the saffecting those cities, from which the saffecting and stopped in the course of his address, by the most unequivocal tokens of popular approbation.

C. J. Ingersoll, Esu, presented and read a number of resolutions, which he prefaced with a short speech, abounding in the most culting satire upon the opposition, which, it heard by them, might have proved beneficial. He spoke of the cramp pame pervading the Bank and its antellite Banks, and instanced Doctor Jackson as the physician, whose practice was confessedly the most efficacious in such cases, his metallic currency being the remedy, and saliuation the cure. An allusion was made to the entire impunity granted to all men who buttled for the Bank, and to judges in particular, as Bankism is a no party cause. "But," continued the speaker, "had one of our democratic judges but peeped over the fence, which a Hank judge has overleaped, he would have been accused of she. p stealing." Mr Ingersoli's remarks were as gratifying to the people, as we presume their reception of them was to him.

were as gratifying to the people, as we presume their reception of them was to him.

Additional resolutions were then read and offered by Mr Dellas, after which he read the memorial, all of which were unanimously adopted.

It being ascertained that the Hon. Richard Rush was on the ground, a loud and general call was made for him, and promptly complied with. He addressed the meeting with much carnestness, and at considerable length, drawing all his arguments against the Bank from the reasons urged by its friends in favor of its extension. He looked upon it as a gross libel upon the people and the resources of the country, to assert that the Bank is essential to their prosperity, and thet they cannot do without it. He gave the Bank fair play, and granted that it had done some good; but argued its dairg rous tendency, from the 'ery fact that it had so entwined itself with the frame-work of seciety, that to tear it off, was to bring jabout the convulsions which are now repading the land. The control it would have upon us in our foreign relations, and how completely in that respect the country would tions, and how completely in that respect the country would be held in check upon any emergency on which its stockholders should disagree with the people and the government were ably pointed out. Mr Rush was listened to with that the people and the government were ably pointed out.
