CHINESE TROOPS USING EXPLOSIVE SHELLS IN FIGHT

Large Number of Machine Guns in Action on Front in Shanghai Region

Much Ammunition Wasted; Primitive Provision For Care of Wounded

Shanghai, Sept. 5.—Explosive artillery shells were used for the first time to-day. Large numbers of machine guns also were placed in service.

There was no evidence yet that co-operation was being accorded the Kiangsu forces by the naval contingents reported assembling at Nanking for action down the Yangtze River.

No notable gains were made by either side in to-day's fighting around Luchoa, it was reported. The Kiangsu troops under General Chi Shieh Yuan appeared to-day to be concentrating on that sector, heavy reinforcements being brought up from the attackers' base at Quinsan.

AMMUNITION WASTED

Due to the heavier fighting, the number of wounded has been increased considerably, though it continues out of all proportion to the extent of the fighting, it was stated. Still wasting ammunition by careless firing in characteristic fashion.

GROWS MORE INTENSE

Shanghai, Sept. 5, 5:30 p.m.—Kiangsu forces attacking on the Luchoa sector, about thirty miles northwest of Shanghai, continued their assault all last night, and late this afternoon appeared to be preparing for another night of continuous fighting.

This information was brought to the city by a competent eyewitness who visited the battlefield during the afternoon. The firing was becoming more and more hourly, it was stated, both sides using artillery, mainly three-inch guns.

SECOND INQUEST ADDS LITTLE TO FIRST EVIDENCE

Death of Janet Smith, Nursemaid, in Vancouver is Still Unexplained

Foreman of Jury Asks Questions of Each Witness Brought to Stand

Vancouver, Sept. 5.—With the events shrouded in mystery from the moment she died in the basement laundry of the Baker home at 3851 Osler Avenue, Shaughnessy Heights, the evidence adduced at the second inquest on the body of Janet Smith conducted by Coroner W. D. Brydone-Jack, which is proceeding before crowded galleries in the largest room in the courthouse here, has so far done little towards adding to the testimony given at the first inquest. The manner in which the Scottish nursemaid met death has not yet been determined, if anything, the case seems more involved than ever.

here to-day on the steamship Mauretania. Sir Walter explained that Cornwall is the duchy from which the Prince derives his chief income. The Canadian ranch, with its 4,000 acres on which the royal hunt is raising blooded cattle and thoroughbred horses, is not yielding a revenue to the Prince's coffers, as all its net receipts are being put back into improvements, he explained. When the Prince, John, Sir Walter in Canada, business problems concerning the operation of the ranch will be discussed, the secretary said. WAS AMUSED Sir Walter was amused when asked concerning truth of a recent cable dispatch which maintained that the Prince's investments were so prosperous that they would make him Europe's wealthiest king. "Is the Prince then, so wealthy?" he was asked. "Oh, not so wealthy, I should say," Sir Walter replied.

DECLARES SOVIET VIEWS RIDICULOUS

M. Rothstein denied the Russo-Chinese treaty contained any secret clauses. The form of action Russia is to take has not yet been decided. Possibly the Moscow Government will propose a conference, and it would certainly participate in one if invited. RIDICULOUS, SAYS HUGHES Washington, Sept. 5.—When informed of the statement by M. Rothstein to the foreign correspondents at Moscow, relative to the policies of the United States in China, Secretary Hughes said: "It is not only false, but ridiculous." The Secretary refused to supplement this statement, apparently not wishing to dignify the Rothstein observations by giving them further attention.

NO AUTHORITY Other treaty-experts of the State Department, however, pointed out that the American Secretary of State, even if he had desired, had no authority to enter into an agreement respecting China with the Governments of France, Japan and Great Britain. They pointed out that the nine-power treaty was an absolute prohibition against any such action and would have to be abrogated and a new treaty reached and ratified before the Washington Government could become a party to such an arrangement as that described by M. Rothstein.

McFADDEN GETS FULL PENALTY

Prisoner's wife, in her evidence, told how her husband set out in the morning to bring home two of their four children, who had been staying at Salt Spring Island, where she had been in hospital. When he returned home he attacked her and later pointed a gun at her. She sprang at him and turned the gun from her. It was discharged but did not hit her. Dr. H. P. Swan of Duncan gave evidence of attending defendant in hospital, and he stated that he found two inches long and a half-inch wide starting from the lobe of the right ear. Constable G. G. Steadham recognized a carved hunting knife with about a four-inch blade with which he saw defendant gouging his neck when he rushed to the Robinsons and grasped a call. Defendant dropped the knife on being told to do so. BLEEDING BADLY By the time witness had reached the hospital defendant was bleeding badly and had to be taken to the hospital on a man's back. J. Taylor who was working on the Robinson farm in which home defendant is alleged to have been confined, gave evidence of seeing defendant in the home with a knife in his hand and in a great rage. Alice Clarina McFadden described a quarrel in their home in which her husband pointed a gun at her. She turned the gun aside in a struggle. Cross-examined by Mr. Maclean she had no personal knowledge of her husband had fired at his father, or any other man. He had told her some time previous that if anything happened to witness he would kill himself.

DRINKING PARTY McFadden stated that on the day of the affair he started out to Salt Spring Island to bring home his children. He had no personal knowledge of the Robinsons. He bought some beer at Chemainus and drank about seven quarts altogether. He had no personal knowledge of pointing a gun at his wife or at his father. The only recollection he had was when he found he was cutting himself and then he was medically stopped. He had no reason whatever to attempt to shoot his wife or his father. Mr. Maclean for the defence stressed his point that there was no prima facie evidence that he had declared a typical case of homicidal insanity which comes across a man sometimes and it was an irrational act for him at the time, even if he had been held until after the case had been before the jury.

For the crown Mr. White contended that no evidence had been brought forward to support the plea of insanity.

gested the girl might have been shot while lying on the floor. Dr. Hunter said his suspicion had been aroused by the discovery of the fractures and he had noticed the marks. It was possible, he said, that another surgeon. He did not know at that time the calibre of the bullet. The knife that had been used as a pistol satisfied him that the bullet had also caused the fractures.

NO POWDER MARKS Dr. Hunter had examined other cases in which there had been no powder marks. It was possible, he said, that the powder marks might have been removed. The mark on the girl's left hand, a smudge, looked to Dr. Hunter like the mark that would be made by touching machinery. The foreman of the jury, James Wilson, suggested that it might have come from the wringer. Dr. Hunter thought this possible.

INDICATION OF EVIDENCE The evidence of the morning pointed to nothing more serious than accidental death, though many points remain to be explained, if ever they are explained, witness said. baseless by the statements of witnesses.

CHINESE WITNESS Wong Fung Sing, the Chinese houseboy at the Baker home, who discovered the girl's body in the laundry, was called to the stand. It was decided to give him the chicken oath, the only binding oath known to the Chinese. The witness, after the swearing of the Chinaman and the blood, and this will take some time.

Vancouver, Sept. 5.—Contradiction was given by John Edwards, undertaker of statements made by Constable James E. Green of the Point Grey police and F. L. Baker, in whose home Janet Smith, nursemaid, met her death on July 2, at this morning's session of the second inquest held on the body of the girl.

The policeman stated on the stand before Coroner Brydone-Jack yesterday that he had not given any instructions for the embalming of the body. The undertaker to-day stated definitely that the constable had so instructed him, and that when he doubted the wisdom of this course and telephoned the coroner, the instructions were confirmed. Coroner Brydone-Jack interjected that his first instructions were to hold the body, and later he permitted the embalming, but this order the witness would not admit having received, stating positively Dr. Brydone-Jack had told him to go ahead with the embalming.

NO INSTRUCTIONS "When he was on the stand yesterday afternoon F. L. Baker stated definitely he had given no instructions respecting the funeral, except to suggest that it be held on Wednesday instead of Tuesday as the undertaker wished, because he had a business appointment which would prevent his attending on Tuesday. He also stated he had had nothing to do with securing the services of Rev. S. Henderson, having received the services, the undertaker having made all such arrangements. When questioned on this point he exclaimed: "He the minister who was there?"

TELLS OF CONVERSATION The witness this morning declared Mr. Baker, on the day of the girl's death, had given him an order for the removal of the body from the morgue to the home of the girl's father. He stated Mr. Baker had come to his office on Tuesday at noon and had there discussed with him the details of the funeral, and that Mr. Henderson had been asked to officiate because the girl was an attendant at St. Andrew's Church.

REVOLVER IDENTIFIED The revolver which figured at the session yesterday afternoon by F. L. Baker, as having been issued to him while in the army, Mr. Baker was the first to admit having received it. He held the theory that she had taken the revolver from the haversack in curiosity and carried it to the basement and there he picked it down into his arms. The result was that his apron was bloody. Mr. Baker said his family was planning to move on the Monday, and it was his suspicion that the girl had done some preparing for the move and had found the pistol.

MRS. BAKER TESTIFIED Mrs. Baker, formerly Miss Doreen Smith of Victoria, went on the stand. She was examined by Mr. Craig. She said she recalled July 26 distinctly. In the house that day were her husband, Janet Smith, the Chinese and herself. She left by motor with her husband at 9 o'clock, going to 1991 Nelson Street, the house now occupied by the family. She remained there working with a Chinese, fixing up the place, until 11 o'clock. Her husband telephoned her and she went down town, going first to the Bank of Montreal, where she drew out some money. Mrs. Baker was asked several times by Mr. Craig if she knew by name the persons with whom she transacted business during the morning, but she did not. She did not know the bank teller by name, she said. TALKED WITH FRIEND Then she went to a store on Granville Street. At Dunsmuir and Granville she met Mrs. Reginald Hamilton and talked with her for a while.

At about 12 o'clock she went to her husband's office, remaining there with him for ten or fifteen minutes. Then she went to the David Spencer Limited store, going back to her husband's office about 12.20 or 12.25. There was nobody there. Five minutes later Mr. Norris, employed by her husband, came in. Mrs. Baker remained in the office until her husband returned. "I couldn't think what had happened to him," she said. "He came in about 1.30 and told what had called him away."

OF CHEERFUL DISPOSITION Asked about the girl, Janet Smith, Mrs. Baker said she was a girl of a very sweet disposition. On the morning of the tragedy Janet had been cheerful. The girl's moral character was excellent. Questioned again as to her movements in the store of David Spencer Limited, Mrs. Baker said she had bought some groceries for cash. Questioned further, Mrs. Baker said the girl and the Chinese never seemed to have anything to do with each other. They seemed quite friendly, however.

NO QUESTION MADE Mr. Henderson asked if Miss Smith had ever given any intimation that she did not want to be left alone with the Chinaman. Witness replied that she had not. Mrs. Baker said there was nothing in a story that there had been a dispute between the girl and the Chinaman over a cake, which had been brought to her notice for settlement.

PREMIER OF FRANCE URGES U.S. TO AID DISARMAMENT EFFORTS

TO AVOID TOO GREAT HASTE In his plea for some plan for preventing the smaller countries, Mr. Herriot, drawing his conclusions from the philosophy of Pascal, said justice and force must go hand in hand, but that neither should exist without the other. He declared France had no illusion that security could be had by means of force alone. He agreed with Premier MacDonald that any hurriedly prepared disarmament conference would be doomed to failure and he insisted that when one was held it should be entrusted to the League of Nations. He developed the idea that the resolutions adopted by previous assemblies, upon which the League's disarmament endeavors were founded, contemplated the following out of article eight of the League covenant, which declares armaments should be reduced to an extent compatible with national security.

WORLD COURT M. Herriot agreed with his British colleague that the statutes of the Permanent Court of International Justice should be amended. "We must combine right with might," he exclaimed. "We must make what is mighty just and what is just mighty."

CHINESE TROOPS USING EXPLOSIVE SHELLS IN FIGHT

ROPES AND HANDCUFFS The press gang continues busy here. The work is carried out by groups of soldiers with ropes and handcuffs, who seize likely looking Chinese for military duty, roping five or six of them together and handcuffing those who resist. ARTILLERY USED Shanghai, Sept. 5.—Fierce fighting in three sectors between the armies of the rival Chinese military governments contending for possession of Shanghai continued unabated today, and added fury was given to the battles by the movement of several planes into the war zone and the reported concentration of Chinese battleships for action along the Yangtze River. The major engagement appeared to centre between Kuo Ting Hsian and Luohu, about thirty miles northwest of Shanghai. The outcome of this engagement was still doubtful, both sides using artillery, according to the Lungwha military headquarters of the Chekiang military governor. Troops were proceeding from the Lungwha headquarters of General Lu Yung Hsiang, Chekiang, to reinforce the Governor's defending troops at Hwangtu, fifteen miles west of here, where fighting continues. MUCH JOCKEYING There is considerable jockeying for position in this quarter, according to an observer who returned from Nansiang to-day. The Lungwha headquarters explained this with the announcement that the Chekiang troops were taking positions to stop expected enemy swing southeasterly. The enemy movement would be along the Grand Canal with the immediate objective the Sunkiang and Hangchow railway. Any movement toward the southeast would make the battle front extend about Chekiang province, the seat of Lug Yun Hsiang's Government.

SECOND INQUEST ADDS LITTLE TO FIRST EVIDENCE

DR. HUNTER TESTIFIED Dr. A. W. Hunter, who performed the first autopsy on the body of Janet Smith, was the star witness to-day. The doctor swore that the mysterious fractures on the side of Janet Smith's head could have been caused by the passage of the bullet. The dynamic force of a bullet from a .45 calibre pistol, the largest size made, would be sufficient to cause the fractures, he swore. Much controversy has occurred over the fractures which were found on the same side of the head as was traversed by the bullet. As a result of the injuries which appeared additional to those caused by the bullet, it was suggested the girl might have been first struck on the side of the head, rendered unconscious and then shot to make it appear as if it had been a case of suicide. It was sug-

COMMUNISTS NOT NAMED CANDIDATES

Executive of British Labor Party Makes Decision Affecting Parliament

Anti-Communist Movement Also at Meeting of British Trades Congress

London, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press Cable)—The anti-Communist revolt in the ranks of Labor in this country was exemplified by the speeches and resolutions before the British Trades Union Congress at Hull this week, and was further illustrated by the decision of the executive of the Labor Party at its meeting also in Hull that members of the Communist Party may be accepted as delegates to the party conference but must not be endorsed as Labor candidates for Parliament.

One prominent Communist affected by this decision when interviewed to-day, said it would compel many trade unions to consider their relationship to the Labor Party. He was confident the approaching Labor conference would reject the party executive's decision.

MAN ENGIRLING EARTH ON WAGER

Helmer Stub, Dane, Leaves Moose Jaw For Calgary; Bet is $10,000

Moose Jaw, Sept. 5.—Helmer Stub, twenty-four, Danish rover scout, who is endeavoring to go around the earth on foot, by train, horse, aeroplane and other means of transportation, to fulfill the requirements of a unique bet made with a fellow scout in his native country, arrived here yesterday and will take off to-day for his next port of call, Calgary.

The young Dane was entertained here by the Moose Jaw district Boy Scouts' Council, to the members of which organization he told interesting tales of his adventures since leaving in April of this year.

The Danish scout must not accept food, transportation or lodgings without first working for them, otherwise he will forfeit a $10,000 bet, but he says he has received many offers of food or transportation.

LIQUOR PROFIT PLAN IN SASKATCHEWAN

Government is Asked to Distribute Money Among Municipalities of Province

Regina, Sept. 5.—A request that any profits made out of the Government sale of liquor be distributed among the municipalities of the province was made before the Saskatchewan Government yesterday when the executive of the Union of Urban Municipalities waited upon the Provincial Cabinet with the resolutions passed at the 1924 convention.

Premier Dunning repeated what he had told the Moderate League deputations, saying he did not know of any community which would drink itself rich or drink itself into low taxation.

M.P. of Vancouver Appeals to Ottawa Against Racing

Vancouver, Sept. 5.—Protesting against the horse racing situation in British Columbia, Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P., has addressed a letter to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa, asking for the Minister's intervention.

Mr. Stevens asserts that the Miller Act, providing for only two meets each year of seven days, has, in the course, been circumvented by the device of resurrecting obsolete racing charters, to the extent that ten weeks' continuous racing has been staged in the vicinity of Vancouver. He states, $4,500,000 passed through the pari-mutuel betting machines, and for the whole period it is expected the sum in British Columbia will total $7,000,000 in addition to admission fees. This, Mr. Stevens emphasizes, constitutes a terrific drain on the economic wealth of the community. The letter discounts entirely the claim that racing is giving an impetus to the breeding of blooded stock, and states most of the horses are brought here from the Tia Juana, Mexico, connection.

"The whole," Mr. Stevens holds, "is based on the commercializing of the gambling instinct, largely at the expense of legitimate business interests." In conclusion he states steps are being taken at present to add to the "already excessive number of racing associations and tracks."

SALE OF STOLEN BONDS IS CHARGED

Two Men Arrested in New York; Securities Were Taken in Montreal

New York, Sept. 5.—Two men who are said to have sold at cut rates some of the $55,000 in securities taken by six bandits from a mail wagon in Montreal on August 5 were arrested here yesterday. The prisoners gave their names as Harry Saultman and Harry G. Lewis of this city.

Backarach & Company, brokers, discovered that bonds of a face value of $11,000 for which the firm had paid only $4,300 on Tuesday were part of the Canadian securities. The police were informed and four detectives were in the brokers' offices when Saultman and Lewis presented themselves with another $5,000 in bonds.

CONSTRUCTION WORK TO BE UNDETAILED

Unemployment Conference in Ottawa Makes Recommendations For All Canada

British Columbia Deputy Minister of Labor and Others Spoke

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—The Unemployment Conference, called by the Federal Government, came to a close shortly before midnight with the adoption of a report embodying a number of recommendations for improving conditions of unemployment throughout Canada. The report of the special committee was in part as follows:

"The unanimous opinion of the conference is that assistance in the form of money or doles should not be entertained, but that work of some description should be encouraged in order to provide the unemployed with a permanent nature such as building construction, etc.

WINTER WORK

"From representations made, it is the judgment of this conference that certain classes of work, which in the past have been discouraged during the winter season, can with perfect safety and economy be undertaken throughout this country."

"We recommend: That all Federal, Provincial and Municipal Government work now under construction should be continued with a full complement of employees during the winter months. Government work that has been provided for during the last sessions of the different parliaments should be immediately undertaken and continued during the winter months with a full complement of employees.

"As the greater number of hours' work per day on all work undertaken the smaller will be the number engaged and invariably the shorter the winter season, it is recommended that this policy be adopted.

"That a national committee be appointed consisting of representatives of the Federal and Provincial Governments for the purpose of determining what necessary work can be initiated the best to relieve unemployment and to find ways and means for financing the proposed work, this class of work to be commenced as soon as possible.

EMERGENCY RELIEF

"The conference desires to recommend that where, after full and careful investigation emergency relief is found to be necessary, such relief should be extended. The expense involved to be borne by the Federal, Provincial and Municipal authorities on the basis of fifty per cent. by the municipality, the balance of fifty per cent. to be taken care of equally by the Federal Government and the Provincial Government concerned, the responsibilities of the municipality in this emergency relief to be confined to its bona-fide residents."

ADVISORY COMMITTEES

"After hearing representations respecting the work carried on by the committees appointed under the Co-ordinating Act, we feel justified in recommending to the Federal Government that these advisory councils be properly constituted and their activities placed on a working basis and continued during the coming winter."

TOM MOORE'S VIEWS

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, took issue with Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, on the question of unemployment.

Mr. Robb refused to admit trade in Canada was bad.

Mr. Moore read reports from many parts of Canada to show unemployment in Canada amounted to a crisis. If there was a stone wall of Parliament he said, he would not prevent the Government from taking practical steps to alleviate such conditions now, then a special session of Parliament should be called to deal with the crisis, he said. Could not the Government undertake to spend during the coming winter all the money voted for any public works in the country? Parliament next session would vote more.

MEN FOR HARVEST

Grant MacNeil, speaking for the ex-service men, said he had had no intention of speaking until he had heard the statement of Mr. Robb about trade being good and men being unemployed in the cities because they were unwilling to work on the land. Mr. MacNeil asserted that when 20,000 men had been called for recently for service work, 20,000 had answered the call. He denied ex-service men were unwilling to work on the land or elsewhere, and he cited the history of individual cases of unavoidable distress resulting from unemployment. Co-operation between the Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments was essential in the unemployment problem was to be solved.

Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Labor of Ontario, urged the stopping of all immigration except farm labor. "If those admitted do not stay on the farms, send them back where they came from," he said.

Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works of Manitoba, dealt with the plans of his Government in regard to public works and said that while he had hoped the Federal Government would be more generous, his province would carry its own burden if there were no alternative.

ALBERTA MARKS TIME

Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer of Alberta, said his province was compelled to mark time in construction of public works in order to retrench and keep down capital

STEEL INDUSTRIES IN BRITAIN QUIET

Manchester City Council Gives Order For Street Car Rails in U.S.
London, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press Cable)—That the state of the iron and steel industries indicates the general condition of trade in this country is agreed by Winston Churchill and Joynton Hicks, who seldom find themselves in agreement on any question. Seldom have these two trades ever suffered such a prolonged period of stagnation as at present. Quotations for the pig iron and steel companies have touched the lowest level ever recorded.

Joynton Hicks, who in the Conservative hierarchy is usually accorded a position immediately after the leaders, Stanley Baldwin and Austen Chamberlain, hopes for an election this autumn. Seemingly he is resolved to tell the iron and steel industry workers that Britain must manufacture at such cost as will enable her to meet foreign competition. Whether he will say frankly that he means that wages must be cut and the hours of labor lengthened is not clear, although he has already pointed out that German colliers are working nine hours to the British seven hours.

The Corporation of Manchester has given a big order for tram rails in the United States because the tender was $1,900 lower than any British tender. There is considerable resentment over this in the north of England, where thousands of steel workers are existing on doles. It is maintained, the day has gone when each municipality should merely study its own affairs.

RETAIN THE WILLOWS

THE Willows property is very useful to the city for exhibition and recreation purposes. If it were disposed of to a private corporation, the city would have to develop some other property for the same use, since it could not afford to be at the mercy of private interests regarding the terms and conditions on which it must hold its annual exhibition. This would involve a heavy expenditure, probably in a locality not nearly as convenient or as suitable as the Willows, where there is now the nucleus of what some day may be a fair and amusement centre of important proportions. In the light of these considerations the offer of sixty thousand dollars which has been made for the property is very much under the mark. In fact there is no reason to consider any offer unless it involves a sum large enough to guarantee the development of civic property elsewhere for exhibition and amusement purposes which possesses present and prospective advantages superior to those of the Willows, including ample provision for the erection of the numerous buildings which such an establishment must contain. A place of this character would be extremely hard to find. The city should retain the Willows, for the present at any rate.

MAKING PROGRESS

GREAT BRITAIN and France seem to be drawing closer together in their efforts to bring permanent peace to Europe and the rest of the world.

Mr. MacDonald is a staunch advocate of arbitration as a way out of international difficulty and discounts the idea that military alliances offer security. He would widen the influence and power of the League.

France would prefer to obtain a measure of security for herself at the outset and follow that by a generous trial of arbitration and ultimately support a League of Nations movement towards disarmament on a world-wide scale.

The presence in Geneva of the Prime Ministers of Great Britain and France lend weight to these views, somewhat divergent as they may appear at the moment, and serve to furnish the rest of the world with evidence of a resolute desire on the part of the two members of the Entente for a better assurance of international accord than exists at present.

If the people of Britain were asked to vote on a policy of military alliance as a means of security they would vote it down. France would probably approve such a plan. This is the point of conflict between British and French policy; it is not a new one; at the same time French opinion has undergone a considerable change since the experiment in the Ruhr has disposed of the theory that ancient methods of establishing the proof of conquest do not suit modern conditions.

Before the assembly of the League has finished its deliberations, therefore, it is highly probable that the relief which approval of the Dawes plan has brought to Europe may be followed by the promise of still more practical progress towards international peace.

THE HALF-HOLIDAY

ALTHOUGH opinion on the subject is considerably divergent, many people in Victoria will approve of the course of the Union of Municipalities in passing a resolution which urges the abolition of the Wednesday half-holiday in this city.

In supporting the principle involved in the resolution the delegates to the convention at Pentiction must have been seized with the importance of extending every trading facility to the thousands of visitors who pour into Victoria during the Summer months. Under present conditions the holidaymaker who arrives on Wednesday after the stores are closed must get the impression that the city is not overly anxious for his business. Apart from this factor, however, it is important that our stores should have every opportunity of doing business throughout the week.

Closing stores on Wednesday afternoon is economically unsound as a business principle. It is not necessary in order to give employees a breathing spell, for it ought to be possible to provide this by private arrangements, in many instances at least. In any case some expedient should be devised which will be satisfactory to both merchants and their employees.

HARDLY FAIR PLAY

OUR interpretation of a part of Dr. Tolmie's speech in Calgary the other day has been challenged by a correspondent. He can not understand how we reached the conclusion that the Federal Member for Victoria was referring to what "he chose to regard as the unpopularity of the Premier" and that the "unpopularity of their own leader" was a case of misquotation on the part of a Calgary newspaper. The report of the proceedings at which Dr. Tolmie delivered the "important speech of the day" credited him with saying that "the Liberal Government was returned in British Columbia because of the presence of a third party and the unpopularity of their own leader." Our correspondent is apparently persuaded that this is a direct reference to Mr. Bowser and has nothing whatever to do with the Premier. We naturally assumed that the national organizer of the Conservative party would not so far forget himself as to belittle Mr. Bowser, who for eight years occupied the important position of Conservative leader in the local Legislature.

We inferred that Dr. Tolmie must have meant that the presence of a third party and what he chose to regard as the unpopularity of the Premier had been joint factors in increasing the Government's opposition in the Legislature. We are forced to admit, however, that our correspondent's version of the report undoubtedly fits the situation which had developed in the Province while Federal as well as provincial Conservatives were running to and fro in their hurry to fill Mr. Bowser's shoes before he had taken them off. It is none the less hard to believe Dr. Tolmie, who entered the political arena declaring his innocence of partisan tactics, virtually protesting that nothing on earth would entice him into those muddy waters under normal circumstances, should feel it necessary to administer the body blow to a friend in adversity. It will, of course, please the rebels; and Mr. Bowser no doubt will note it for future reference.

MR. FORD IN MONTREAL

WHEN he visited Montreal recently Mr. Henry Ford is reported to have made a few extraordinary statements.

Starting with the declaration that Montreal would be a village if it were not for its harbor, the automobile magnate is alleged to have said that the Ku Klux Klan was the victim of a mass of lying propaganda and if the truth were known it would be looked upon as a patriotic body. He is also credited with an opinion that world peace is a myth.

Mr. Ford by no means compliments his country or its institutions when he upholds the activities of the hooded legions as patriotic service. And his attitude towards international concord is strangely out of harmony with the spirit which he took aboard the Oscar II. on his way to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

Mr. Ford has proved himself a very successful man of business; but his attempts to direct public thought would seem to prove that his forte is automobile making.

THE ARMY'S TAG DAY

ONCE a year the local branch of the Salvation Army makes its appeal to the public of Victoria for funds to support its social service and rescue work. This time has come round again and collectors will be on the street corners to-morrow for the purpose of giving Victorians an opportunity of assisting this very important and deserving cause. We speak the usual generous response.

The British Air Ministry is testing aeroplanes which are to be capable of carrying fifty soldiers and to travel at one hundred miles per hour. Thus do naval programmes become less important in matters of defence.

South Vancouver seems to be getting a good deal out of the C.P.R. in the matter of constructing a golf course in that community. This is another proof of the business side of the royal and ancient pastime and what the world's greatest transportation system thinks of its possibilities.

THE ALTERNATIVE

This little face will never know
Cut of wind or bite of snow,
The sea will never wind its sheet
About these pallid hands and feet.

Nor shall its sleeping heart, grown cold
After a pulse of life, unfold
That grim refusal on the face
Of her who with a last embrace

Could only cheat the earth to save
The plunder for another grave—
For as the island mothers know,
"There are two ways a lad may go."

The waters hide their time to do,
Death does not need a grave of clay—
But with her arms about him, she Forgot the patience of the sea.

ONE CURE FOR ALL DISEASE

What is disease? Is it possible that all diseases are really one, and that one antidote might be discovered to cure every ill? That is the startling theory of Mr. J. E. R. McDonagh, F.R.C.S., discussed in The World To-day, by Mr. J. Johnston Abraham, the famous surgeon. Mr. Johnston Abraham believes that this theory may be the beginning of a new creative crisis in modern medicine.

"Disease," he writes, "if Mr. McDonagh's thesis be accepted, is simply a successful attempt on the part of the invading organism to rob the protective particles in the blood of their free electricity; and recovery from disease is a reversal of this process, due to the protective particles finally getting the upper hand of the invading organism by recapturing this electricity.

It will thus be seen that the idea underlying this revolutionary doctrine is based on the electron theory—the theory which has already altered all modern ideas of physics, chemistry, and electricity."

In Mr. McDonagh's view, the body possesses a general protective substance which resists generally. The basis of cure would be in every case of organic illness the strengthening of this substance; and given certain poisonous conditions, the antidote most suitable for increasing the condenser power of the protective particles could be worked out by chemists.

This antidote would be a cure-all. It would put reinforcements into the system to fight the germs of all disease.

Dr. Frank Crane on "The Dog"

(Copyright)

SOMETIME ago I published an article which was almost entirely another's opinion and in direct quotation, but which has aroused antagonism against myself.

The article was published because the opinions were so unusual and bizarre, but I must have reckoned without the limitations of the public for they seem to have leaped to the conclusion that the opinions were my own and not those of another.

As a matter of fact it was on the subject of "Dogs" and those who deal with that subject are up against a solid wall of sentiment which they will be unable to move.

I am not so far removed from my fellow-men that I am indifferent to what concerns them and I know that that which lies nearest their hearts is not made of logic but of sentiment. All the reason in the world falls when it comes to a mother and her child, a lad and his lass and a man and his dog.

Dogs interest us mostly because they are a natural and simple expression of love and loyalty. Maeterlinck says that the dog is the only animal in the world that loves a man. All the arguments which we bring forward fall to the ground before one honest look of his eyes.

And then a dog is the only animal that wags his tail as an expression of pleasure. Others may wag it for other reasons but the dog does so only because he is happy.

Furthermore a dog likes you for yourself alone. It makes no difference whether you are the President of the United States or a hobo, his affection is just as genuine and unfeigned.

A love of this kind is not to be despised. To think that the most amazing fidelity and affection in the world is ours for a little kindness, for a little of the common currency of attention, is amazing. And no money nor fame nor position would draw to itself that attachment which is shown by a dog to his mistress or mistress.

Speaking of the meanness of men it has been said that no man is so low but that he can find a woman to love him and it is certainly true that no man is so low but that he cannot find a dog to follow him.

Do not blame my correspondents for bridling up, although they might have exercised a little more discrimination. Any attack upon the dog, who is the best friend of man, notwithstanding that his companionship is associated with certain dangers, will be resented. What are dangers compared with the privilege of such unmatched affection?

The Red River Colonists

IN the Toronto of 1815, Muddy York as it then was, resting after the fever of recent war with the United States, there arrived on September 5 a motley-clad and strangely interesting company of men, women and children, to the number of one hundred and forty. They were the larger part of those two hundred colonists whom the romantic and generous Lord Selkirk, lover of peace and dreamer of empire, had drawn from their bleak Scottish crofts and had planted beside the far Red River three years before. Since that day their life had been one long series of bitter hardships, and above these had been added the constant danger of fire and murder. For, the Northwest Company, the powerful and mighty competitor of the Hudson's Bay Company, whose Governor, Lord Selkirk, was, and whose colonists these appeared to be, had leagued itself with the half-breed population in an effort to dislodge the strangers or, failing that, to wipe them out.

Duncan Cameron, a masterful Scotch fur-trader, possessed of great executive ability and liberally endowed with the gift of gab, had been chosen by half-breeds and by the Nor-Westers as the leader in the movement. By intimidation, by plausible assumption of legal authority, by insidious propaganda among the settlers themselves, inciting them to mutiny and general resistance to Lord Selkirk's Governor, by the staging of sniping attacks on individual colonists by armed Indians, the colonists' houses in general, he so thoroughly dominated the settlement that the Governor, Miles Macdonell was surrendered to the Northwest Company and sent as prisoner to Montreal.

Duncan Cameron was at the height of his prestige. With his apparent sincerity and kindness he won the hearts of many of the colonists. Others he had sufficiently frightened, and now to complete the work, he attempted to seduce them all with a fair and generous offer to move each and every one to some of the best lands close to market centres in Upper Canada. The Northwest Company would arrange the transportation, provision them, and secure them two hundred acres of free farm land for each family. Not only did Cameron use his personal persuasive power, which was great, but to gain his end, he bribed right and left in liberal fashion, selecting for this the disaffected and the rebellious.

A large number of the colonists succumbed and on June 15, 1815, the canoes shot out on this extraordinary journey of a thousand miles and more, bearing men, women and children, even babes in arms, together with their pitiful baggage. By stream and lake and portage they reached Fort William. Thence they followed the rock-bound northern shore of Lake Superior to the St. Mary's River, down the seething rapids, and through the island-studded waters of Georgian Bay. They landed at Penetanguishene, crossed to Holland Landing, thence to York. Here they received lodging and food till, party by party, they were moved out to their grants—some to the Township of West Gwillimbury on the southern shores of Lake Simcoe, some to the Talbot settlement near St. Thomas, others to the neighborhood of London, and in all these localities their descendants remain to this day.

Of the colonists who remained on the Red River about sixty were driven northward from their homes toward Hudson's Bay by a band of armed half-breeds under Cutbert Grant, who had their buildings burnt to the ground. The Northwest Company and the Bois-Brules had temporarily triumphed and for the moment the land was wiped clean of the hated settler.

SONG OF SPAIN

(Ballad for a Lady in Seville)
A faint guitar . . . Somewhere a woman sings,
And idle fingers . . . play,
Sweep bold and burning songs along its strings,
Brave songs I knew in years long gone their way,
When youth held high its cup for love to fill,
Across the sea in languorous Seville.

Ah, flowered Spain and one who lingered there,
With blood-bright lips like stains of cinnamon,
And flashing eyes and glory in her hair!
She loves me . . . I love her,
Sang burning songs beside her window still,
Across the sea in languorous Seville.

But youth forgets the rose-bloom of its day,
And men forever lean toward lesser things:
So drift our golden-crested dreams away,
A faint guitar . . . Somewhere a woman sings—
But I am old and all the songs are still,
Across the sea in languorous Seville.

SHIDZUOKA IS DUE WITH ORIENT CARGO

In the transpacific service of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the steamship Shidzuoka Maru, with a heavy cargo of freight and passengers, is due here Tuesday next, according to advices reaching the local offices of the company.

The freighter Hakata Maru, Capt. Kitano Date, commanding, departed yesterday from Seattle for the Orient via Vancouver, where she will be loading until September 12. This vessel is to call at Osaka this voyage, a port not usually made by the N. Y. K. fleet.

Another Japanese vessel due here Tuesday is the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Manila Maru, which is bringing one of the largest cargoes brought to the coast by a vessel of this line this year. The Manila Maru has 5,000 tons of export cargo, 1,000 tons of cargo for Seattle and 3,000 bales of silk. The vessel also has twenty-five passengers.

THE GERM THEORY

To the Editor:—In reference to a letter from the Canadian Anti-Vivisection Society in The Times of September 3, stating that the germ theory of disease is unproved and rapidly being abandoned, the following item from The Glasgow Herald of July 17, 1924, may be of interest:

"Dr. H. Fergie Woods of Harley Street, alluding to the futility of experimenting on animals to obtain information about germs, said: 'The germ theory is beginning to wobble, in fact, I think it is dead only the world has not yet found the corpse.' He spoke to a famous Harley Street pathologist who agreed with me that it is doubtful whether a germ has ever caused a disease. He added that the most serious theory that had been put forward was that of germ carriers. In his opinion a much more common-sense theory was that germs were not the cause of disease but the result of it. He thought that every disease would fit in with that theory."

Similar paragraphs appear in the Liverpool Daily Post and Mercury, The Lancashire Daily Post, The Birmingham Gazette and Express, The Southport Guardian and The Dundee Evening Telegraph and Post, so that the press is evidently awaking to the importance of giving publicity to the views of scientific men upon this important question. A very illuminating and convincing work on this subject is to be found in the public library, entitled "Bechamp or Pasteur," by Hume.

SMART WEDDING AT CHEMANUS CHURCH

Miss Greta Dunne of Crofton Becomes Bride of Lt.-Gen. G. Poole, D.S.O., C.M.G.

Duncan, Sept. 4.—All Saints' Church, Chertisium, was the scene of an extremely smart and pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon when Greta, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunne, Crofton, became the bride of Lieutenant-General Gerald Robert Poole, D.S.O., C.M.G., Royal Marines (England). Rev. F. L. Stephenson of Ladysmith, the bride's uncle, performed the ceremony and Colonel C. E. Barnes acted as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked very handsome in a lovely, yet simple, gown of white crepe de Chine, with handsome pearl trimmings, and on her head an exquisite lace veil, an heirloom in the family, was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and fern. Miss Betty Dunne, the bride's sister, made a sweet and picturesque little bridesmaid in a mauve crepe de Chine dress and Dutch lace cap and carried a basket of mauve sweet peas and asters.

Nearly 200 guests attended the reception which was held afterwards at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dunne, where the many and beautiful presents were much admired. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a car and to the bridesmaid a wrist watch; the bride's gift to the bridegroom was a fishing rod and outfit.

General and Mrs. Poole left by motor for Victoria, the bride wearing a most becoming three-piece suit of Oriental embroidery, smart fawn hat and choker fur.

They intend to visit Jasper Park for a few weeks and then return to Dunsmuir and afterwards leave for England.

Mr. W. A. Willett presided at the organ and the church was prettily decorated by the bride's friends with white and pink asters, carnations, gladioli and ivy.

RESIGNS FROM LIBRARY STAFF

Miss Margaret Jones, of Reference Department, Going to Seattle

The Victoria Public Library which last week suffered the loss of its librarian, Miss Helen Stewart, is to have another change in its personnel. Miss Margaret Jones, who has been reference librarian for the past two years, in which position she has done excellent work, has resigned in order to accept a position with the University of Washington, Seattle.

Miss Jones will leave for the Sound city on Sunday and on Wednesday evening she was entertained by her fellow members of the library staff at an informal farewell party as an expression of the good wishes which will accompany her to her new sphere of work.

'VINEGARY' SPINSTER POLICEWOMEN TABOO

London Women Police to be Increased; no "Middle-aged Fanatics"

London, Sept. 5.—That the number of women police employed in London in 1922, before the force was reduced—is recommended in the report of the home office committee appointed in April under the chairmanship of Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, M.P., formerly Home Secretary.

At present twenty-four women police are employed in the metropolitan district and eighty-six in the rest of the country.

On the question of women's street patrols the committee state: "The circumstances of modern life, with its large degree of freedom from parental control, have increased the number of growing girls brought into contact with temptation to such an extent that police authorities may well extend their responsibilities and try to reduce or defeat temptation by some restraining influence.

"In criminal investigation the committee consider that women, acting either alone or with men, have better chances of success, either because their sex helps to disguise their identity and purpose, or because it secures the confidence of people from whom information is sought.

"The committee hold that the efficiency of the service has been improved by women police."

MIDDLE-AGED FANATIC

General Sir Nevil Macready, who was Metropolitan Police Commissioner before Sir William Horwood, writing to the committee on the difficulty of securing the right sort of women police, said: "The main point is to eliminate any women of extreme views—the vinegary spinster or blighted middle-aged fanatic—and to get broad-minded, kindly, sensible women who use common sense in dealing with their sisters who have taken a wrong turning, more often from the desire to lighten a dull existence than from inherent vice.

"That women police should have power to arrest is essential, but this power should be restricted so as to avoid absurd situations, where enthusiastic women might try, for instance, to tackle a burly drunken man."

POPULARITY OF SUMMER COLORS, HOWEVER, DELAYS GENERAL ACCEPTANCE

It is probable that the question of wearing of the navy blue skirt and middie uniform at the Victoria High School will be left to the students themselves. As anticipated, more of the students have opted for the uniform of the girls who attended the first day of the term in the suggested new dress but less than one-third have fallen in line and regulation dress will not come into effect until next year, it is thought. When the loved gay colors of Summer have gone out of style the uniform adherents predict more will drop into line and at least half of the school students will be dressed alike.

BOYS INTERESTED

In the meantime the interest of the boys has been aroused, although originally the suggestion of a uniform made in different cities of the Province because of the extent to which extravagance in dress, silk hose, jewelry and the use of cosmetics had gone in some instances. The boys have heard reports from California of the uniforms worn by boys in the United States high schools and are interested. Students down South, it is understood, wear serviceable white cords of the once popular college peg top model and coats fashioned after army tunics. Although the dress is not compulsory it is general, but by an unwritten law exclusively confined to those in their second year.

DEFYING THE EDICT

A mixed reception is given to the uniform at New Westminster, according to reports from that city. One report states: "Dressed in white middie and navy blue skirts about 200 students at the Duke of Connaught High School attended classes Tuesday. They were the 'victims' of a recent decision reached by the High School Board, which have high school girls dress in regulation plain costumes. However, fifty girls turned up in a varied assortment of Summer dresses, apparently defying the edict of the school trustees. It is not known whether they intend to ignore the board's request or whether they have not yet secured the school outfit.

WOMEN'S SOCIAL

Wearing of the uniform of middie and blue serge skirts is popular at Westminster, declares Robert Gray, secretary of the school board. The plan is not being made compulsory, he states, but was only put forward by the board to curb the cost of dressing the students attending the high school.

BABY'S CRIES SAVE HALL FROM FIRE

New York, Sept. 5.—Webster Hall, in East Eleventh Street, one of the city's oldest landmarks, was saved from destruction by fire when a baby in the family next door cried and awakened its parents, who saw the blaze.

In the old days Webster Hall was a meeting place for New York society. Now it is the centre of social activities for bricklayers, plasterers, hod carriers. Two nights a year the Bohemia of Greenwich Village hold rallies there, appearing in sensational costumes.

CONGRESS COMING

Important Gathering of Welfare Workers to Meet Here Next Month

Of all the gatherings and conventions which have been held in Victoria during the past year, few will be of more interest to women than the Social Service Congress which is to take place on October 13 and 14. The sessions will be held in the First Presbyterian Church.

The congress has been arranged under the auspices of the Social Service Council of Canada and will bring to this city welfare workers from all over the Dominion as well as a number from the United States.

While the agenda is not yet complete, it is definitely settled that one of the speakers will be Graham Taylor of Chicago, an authority on matters pertaining to social and mental hygiene and a brilliant speaker.

SERBIAN PRINCE IS BORN IN ENGLAND

Baby Son of Prince Paul to be Christened at Duke of York's Home

London, Sept. 5.—The infant son of the Prince and Princess Paul of Serbia, which was born on August 13, is to be christened at White Lodge, Richmond Park, which was lent them for the summer months by the Duke and Duchess of York and where the baby was born. The Princess is a daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece.

The Serbian Princess's son was born in the room where the Prince of Wales was born.

Special waters for the christening are to be brought from the rivers of Jugo-Slavia and a baptismal font will be erected. The baby will be three times dipped in tepid water and his limbs will be anointed with holy oils.

As the Duke of York was Prince Paul's best man, or "boom," he will, as is customary in Serbia, be the chief godfather to the son.

He will receive the infant from Princess Nicholas, the child's grandmother, who with Prince Nicholas Greece, has been staying at White Lodge. The Duke will hold the child during a long ceremony, but does not give the name to the priest until half-way through the christening.

The Holy Patriarch of the Orthodox Russian Church and priests from the Greek Church in London will officiate.

It is understood that the Queen, who is very fond of Prince Paul and his wife, will be one of the baby's godmothers.

MORE GIRLS IN UNIFORM DRESS

Popularity of Summer Colors, However, Delays General Acceptance

It is probable that the question of wearing of the navy blue skirt and middie uniform at the Victoria High School will be left to the students themselves. As anticipated, more of the students have opted for the uniform of the girls who attended the first day of the term in the suggested new dress but less than one-third have fallen in line and regulation dress will not come into effect until next year, it is thought. ### HAIR CURLING TROUBLES ARE OVER—READ THIS!

Procure a few ounces of plain liquid aluminum from your druggist. Apply enough with a brush to moisten the hair from root to tip just before doing it up. You will be quite astonished when you find you have such lovely waves and curls they appear altogether natural, instead of having been artificially acquired. Best of all, the waviness will last very much longer than it would otherwise, whether the hair be bobbed or long.

Your hair, of course, will have more "body" than when the drying, shining, waving iron is used. It will appear glossier and livelier, for aluminum has proved equally desirable as a dressing for the hair. You'll find it pleasant to use, and it will leave no sticky, crasy or sticky track.

City Hall Will Greet Municipal Leaders After Long Interval Next Fall

The last annual meeting of the Union here was in 1921, which time both the auxiliary bodies, the B. C. School Trustees Association, and the B. C. Hospital Association, were held in Victoria. ### BUSH FIRES REACH OAK BAY SECTION

Wind in the West Would Fan Blaze Now Being Carefully Watched

Spreading from the Saanich portion of Mt. Tomlin bush fires have crossed the Hudson's Bay property at Oak Bay between the Cedar Hill and the Lonsdale Roads, threatening a large tract of land. The fire, which broke out Sunday when the flames broke out and with all growth dried by a prolonged spell of sunshine and absence of rain, has been hard to control. The services of gangs of men have been enlisted for fire-fighting in Saanich particularly around the Hudson's Bay property where fire broke out Monday but the danger is now believed past. As far as the fire on the outskirts of Oak Bay is concerned the handiwork of the last of water has been felt but as long as the wind stays at present the men watching it will be able to prevent it from spreading further west to the West it may break out again.

SURPRISE MOVIES IN LOEB-LEOPOLD CASE

If Death Decreed Counsel May Ask Jury Determine Mental Condition

Chicago, Sept. 5.—In the event of a hanging decision by Judge John R. Caverly in the murder and kidnapping case of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, the defence attorneys are understood to have under consideration two surprise moves by which they hope to carry on the battle to save the lives of the two youths.

The ace card to be played by the defence in the event of a death sentence next Wednesday would be the filing of a petition in a court of equal jurisdiction setting forth that the boys have become insane since the trial. This petition would ask that a jury be called to determine their mentality.

CHANGE OF PLEA

The other move, it is understood, would involve two steps, one before and the other after sentence is pronounced. The first step would be the presentation of a motion asking Judge Caverly to withdraw the plea of guilty now entered and change it to a plea of not guilty. The second step would be a trial by a jury.

In the event that either move should be successful, the long drawn-out legal battle would be in prospect.

This year Washington is making a great bid for the honors and at present is two games in front of the New York Yankees. The Senators seem to be fired with fresh ambition under the leadership of the kid manager, Stanley Harris, and are setting the fans all over the continent wild with delight. Everyone appears anxious to see the New York teams defeated. If Brooklyn should succeed in winning the National pennant and Washington the American the baseball world would witness one of the greatest series in history. In the opening game the umpire would undoubtedly announce Walter Johnson as the pitching selection for Washington and "Dizzy" Vance, ace of the National League, as Brooklyn's choice. What a battle this would be! Johnson and Vance possess the fastest ball in the big leagues at present. Both are strike-out and shut-out kings.

Polo Teams Ready For International Match To-morrow

British and Americans Meet at Meadowbrook Club in First Game of Series

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 5.—Luis Lacey, Argentine member of the invading British international polo team, will be field captain of the British team when it lines up against the American four at Meadowbrook in the first game of the international series to-morrow. Lacey was elected to this position yesterday after the resignation of Major Hurdall.

The official team which will face the Americans was announced yesterday by Colonel Miller. Kirkwood will be at No. 1, Hurdall at No. 2, Atkinson No. 3 and Lacey at back. Lacey is the only ten-goal man on the team, Kirkwood and Atkinson being eight-goal men and Hurdall a nine-goal man. This makes the British team a thirty-five-goal team. The American team is a thirty-eight-goal team.

Keen Soccer Game Expected When Vets Take On Seattle

Splendid Eleven Will be Here To-morrow For Game With Victoria Team

W. G. Stone, president of the Veterans' football team, has just received word that a fine silver cup has been donated for the game to-morrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park between Victoria and Seattle.

It appears from the press that considerable enthusiasm has been aroused in Seattle over this game, and the visiting team feels very certain it will walk off the field winners, as they have not yet been defeated in the Cascade games at Vancouver. They were able to defeat such teams as Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Vancouver at the five aside games, thereby winning the championship of this Province for such competition.

The captain of the visiting team, Sam Abbey, is also the star player. Abbey is regarded as one of the best centre halves on the coast.

The whole contingent of the visitors from the American Legion will attend the game, and it is expected that the Veterans will likewise receive strong local support.

The teams are as follows:

Seattle—Goal, J. Duncan; backs, Blundall and Purves; halves, Kelly, Abbey and Davidson; forwards, Kempton, Corbett, Griffiths, W. Duncan and Farran. Reserve, Corbett.

Victoria Veterans—Goal, Bridges; backs, Bell and Davidson; halves, Roe, Christ, Owens (Capt.), McKinnon; forwards, H. Cummings, Preston, C. Campbell, Mirfield and Clarkson.

Mr. Dealey of Seattle will referee. The Veterans team will report at the Veterans of France clubrooms at 2.30 o'clock.

Vancouver, Sept. 5.—Playing championship baseball the classy hurling of Eddie Olson, their big right-handed star, Hammond Cedars last night at Athletic Park won the British Columbia baseball title. They defeated Victoria C.P.R.'s in the third and deciding game of the final series 3-0.

The big hurler let the Victoria squad down with two scratch hits, both by C. Campbell. The first was a little pop over the third base that Craig would have gathered in had not Freshfield gone back for it. Between them they let it fall to the ground.

Tilden Tells of Different Styles For Tennis Games

Thinks Johnston's Game Best For Hard Courts; Has Little Use For Same

By WILLIAM T. TILDEN

Once each year I strive to master the mysteries of the hard-court tennis games. By "hard courts" I mean asphalt or cement, the type of court used exclusively in California.

Every time I go out on a hard court I marvel at the long-suffering players who play only on them, for of all courts these are the hardest on one's feet, temper and tennis equipment.

Hard-court tennis is a very different game from grass or dirt. The ball grows light within five games and thereafter it must be heavily topped to hold it in court. That is one reason that an Eastern player is seldom seen in the West.

There is little or no finesse to hard-court play. It is speed, speed, and then more speed. Such shots as a stop volley, soft, short slice or even the ordinary slice drive are useless on cement or asphalt, since they bounce far too high, allowing your opponent the time he needs to reach and hit them. The whole scheme of the hard-court game is to hit the ball so hard it goes to sleep at once.

That is why Bob Kinsey, who in the East has made the first ten million in the game, and his soft, accurate placement seldom produces a really good match in California, on his home courts. I cannot see how Bob Kinsey ever developed his game under the conditions.

Upsets Occur In Meeting of French And Australians

La Coste Defeats Gerald Patterson While Wood Conquers Borotra

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 5.—Gerald Patterson, of Australia, went down to a straight set defeat before Rene La Coste, of France, in the opening match of the Davis Cup series at the Longwood Cricket Club turf courts here yesterday, but Pat O'Hara Wood furnished a second surprise by outlasting Jean Borotra, champion of England and France, in a five-set contest. As a result the score stands one match apiece for the rivals who are competing for the international trophy at Philadelphia next week.

La Coste defeated Patterson 6-5, 6-2, 10-8, and Wood defeated Borotra 1-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Poles Will be Deciding Factor in Games, Critics Say; History of Game

New York, Sept. 5.—Although the polo matches for the historic International Challenge Cup between British and American teams, scheduled to begin Saturday, started in 1886, polo was played before Columbus discovered America. Polo was introduced in the United States until 1876, but it was centuries old then. According to reliable sources, it originated in Persia more than 1,000 years ago, and was played in China and India long before cavalry officers, garrisoned in India, and a second century B. C. A. D. made it a sport which has few rivals for wealth of tradition.

Largely because of the excellent training in horsemanship which polo affords, it has been fostered by government and army officials. At the close of the World War, Sir Douglas Haig conferred upon the sport the status of a "deciding" factor in the most efficient training for army officers yet devised. During and since the war, the game has been widespread among American army officers.

A REAL MENACE

Two years ago Wills was considered a real menace to white supremacy; since that time, however, he has fought only four times. The test of his prowess is to stand the test of a championship bout which has been doubted; his failure to knock out Bartley Madden in fifteen rounds in his most recent fight, has added food for skeptics, who declare that he has "gone back."

Meanwhile Wills is carefully, methodically preparing for the moment when in the first ring, as he has conscientiously trained for each of his ninety-five fights. To his critics he answers calmly: "I am not holding my opponent cheaply and am working into my best condition. My hands are ready and I am confident. I like to fight."

It is doubtful whether polo can boast of a more remarkable character than Jimmie. He is seventy—"turned seventy"—and a smiling fellow with plump legs and considerable of a paunch. He looks as though he might be forty, or at the most in his fifties. It is easier to believe him seventy when you learn that he is the father of thirty-one children. Jimmie will start in his fortieth year with his father, who is ninety-nine to-day and "doing pretty fair," had thirty-seven. Jimmie is the eldest of them.

PROPERTY MAN IS MASTER MIND SAYS POLA'S DIRECTOR

The property man, as he appears in Hollywood studios, is one of the most amazing developments of the motion picture industry, says Dimitri Buchowetzki.

Brought to America for the purpose of directing Pola Negri in the Paramount production, "Men and Women," Dimitri Buchowetzki, who has experienced his first taste of motion picture methods when he began work in the Hollywood studio.

"The prop man in America has a brain which seems to be at once a camera film and blank gramophone disc. Everything he sees is permanently photographed and what he hears is recorded for future use," declares Buchowetzki.

One of the incidents which Buchowetzki relates in support of his admiration for the studio property men occurred in filming "Lily of the Dust," in which Ben Lyon, Noah Beery and Raymond Griffith head the cast supporting Pola Negri.

A scene was filmed in which Ben Lyon climbed a hotel stairway. The scene showing him in the corridor above was not taken until two weeks later.

"Mr. Lyon had an unlighted cigarette in his left hand," declared the property man attached to the Buchowetzki unit.

"I have learned to place so much coincidence in the property man's memory that I did not even question his statement," says Mr. Buchowetzki. "When we looked at the shot taken two weeks before, we saw Mr. Lyon with the cigarette in his left hand, just as the property man stated."

"Lily of the Dust," with Noah Beery and Raymond Griffith appearing with Lyon in Miss Negri's support, is the feature this week at the Capitol Theatre.

LATEST SWANSON PHOTOPLAY DEALS WITH ROYALTY

Of more than usual interest to picture patrons is "Her Love Story," starring Gloria Swanson, at the Dominion Theatre all this week. The story is based upon Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel, "Her Majesty the Queen."

The story deals with royalty, with kings and queens. In this photoplay Gloria has the role of a beautiful princess who is forced into an unhappy marriage with a king. She is already given her heart to a handsome young captain of the Guards, to whom she was secretly wed. Later when she gives birth to an heir and the king learns that he is not the child's father, he has her sent away. Her subsequent experience and sufferings are sympathetically brought out and prove that royalty are real humans after all.

It is the kind of a part that suits Gloria to a "T." It offers wide opportunities for strong, dramatic acting and at the same time gives Gloria a chance to wear some of the most stunning gowns.

Allan Dwan, who wielded the megaphone for several of Gloria's previous pictures, also directed this one.

ous pictures, also directed this one. Hedy surrounded Miss Swanson with a superb supporting cast, which includes Ian Keith, George Fawcett, Mario Majeroni and others equally well known. Incidentally, it may be of interest to mention that there are several real dukes and earls and duchesses in the picture, so that the court scenes are absolutely true to life.

'SWEETHEART OF MINE' IS ATTRACTION AT PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Everyone who knows James Whitcomb Riley's immortal poem, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," will appreciate Metro's picture version of the great poem, which is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

This picture is a masterpiece in itself. It has in it the very essence of the poem—all of its pure sentiment, its pathos, its heart throbs and homey charm. Harry Garson, who produced the photoplay, has transferred to the screen those qualities of the original poem which make it the most beloved of poets. This picture is the poem itself, breathing the breath of life—a beautiful story of undying love. And full development of the poem's theme, the highest dramatic power of the story. It is filled with action and thrills.

Elliott Dexter and Helen Jerome Eddy were well chosen for the leading roles. They seem imbued with the spirit of the poem and their is a performance of the highest quality. The rest of the cast is of uniform excellence.

The screen adaptation was made by Louis Duryea Lighted. The picture is photographed by L. Williams O'Connell and edited by Violet Blair. The lighting effects were executed by Harry Collins and Joseph Wright was art director.

"OLD BILL THROUGH THE AGES" TOOK THREE MONTHS TO COMPLETE

In "Old Bill Through the Ages," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, the leading roles are played by Syd Walker as "Old Bill," Arthur Clavin as "Bill," and Jack DeLeon as "Alf." The production is a most elaborate one. Since most of the action represents the haphazard incidents of a dream, many unusual photographic effects, executed by Horace Wheddon, are introduced. There are something like 1,600 scenes in the picture which took three months to complete.

CHILDREN FROM ORPHANAGE TOOK PART IN PICTURE

Kiddies from a Los Angeles orphanage are to be seen as Alpine village children in Eric von Stroheim's picture "Blind Husbands," which is showing at the Pantages Theatre.

As a result, extra portions of ice cream are served on the kiddies' menu at one particular institution for a number of weeks, according to the superintendent.

"Only a daring director would star himself as a villain," according to a famous critic. Eric von Stroheim does this in his great Universal production, "Blind Husbands," in which he is not only stars, and directed, but he is likewise responsible for the play. Besides von Stroheim, a number of well-known players are in the cast.

Book Review

LITERARY NOTES

In the death of Palmer Cox, a few weeks ago, at Granby, Quebec, Canada, has lost one of her most famous artist-poet sons. He was born in 1840, in the place where he died. In early life he went to the United States, later came back to Ontario and, after spending some years in business in California, moved east again to New York. A born artist, he never succeeded in mercantile pursuits. Finally he attended some sort of art classes at night, took up cartoon work for newspapers, and, as an illustrator in New York, drawing pictures for other people's books, used his Brownies for the first time. This was over forty years ago. From the time he published his first Brownie pictures and rhymes in St. Nicholas' Magazine Palmer Cox was a made man. He continued to draw Brownie pictures for over thirty years. Although a million copies of his Brownie books have been sold, they are still in demand.

I wish to call the attention of teachers of music, their pupils, and lovers of music generally to a new book entitled "Musical Appreciation and the Studio Club," by Miss Eva Clare of Winnipeg (Longmans, Green & Co.). Professor Granville Bantock of the University of Birmingham, has written a foreword, and Miss Clare's work is warmly praised by Professor J. Phillip, of the Paris Conservatory, and by Dr. A. S. Vogt, the well-known Toronto conductor. Miss Clare's purpose in writing this book has been to supply musical clubs with interesting suggestions for programmes, to give them a list of good

WHITE EVERY MAN AND WOMAN IN VICTORIA

Every Person in This Section Who is Weak, Rundown, Sick or Nervous to Try This Great Medicine at My Expense—Free Bottle Will Be Given to All Who Come Early All Have the Same Chance to Get Well and Strong

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. I'll tell you why. I am going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and put an end to all chances of indigestion, rheumatism, constipation, catarrh and kindred ills.

The medicine of which William Bronson said, "It is the only medicine that eased my stomach and stopped the gas, wiped away stomach trouble and put strength and vitality into my blood."

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, bark, leaves and a few other good things for the nerves, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get steam out of water without fire; you can't get brain power, nerve force and red blood corpuscles out of food without digestion.

Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why. They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old, indigestion that's the matter with them and six days of Drecto will prove it. They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running corn through the mill with the rollers too wide apart, the corn goes through but the mill doesn't grind.

DON'T THINK YOU MUST HAVE A PAIN TO HAVE INDIGESTION

Lack of flesh, too much fat, pimples, blotches, sallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, sleeplessness, headaches, back-aches, siccachies, weak brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating before the eyes, may all be due to the faulty digestive process, either in the stomach or the bowels.

Take Drecto with your other food for a week and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the Drecto helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, you may set it down that your liver and bowels are not doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy, you had the "blues," were cross, nervous and irritable, everything seemed to go wrong and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia, slyly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, and ity, upset your liver and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but try a bottle of Drecto and see if it doesn't change "blues" to a bright, cherry red, make the old world laugh in a merry glee, and put new vigor in your life again.

—Lewis J. Todd, the traveling salesman, had stomach trouble so bad he practically had to live on liquid foods. He couldn't even eat vegetables without suffering terrible pain. He took two bottles of Drecto and can now eat anything he wants and without any distress whatever—sounds like a miracle? Well, we have Mr. Todd's own signed statement to that effect.

C. L. Matlick, the B. & O. Conductor, says he had rheumatism so bad that he had to use a cane to get around at all. On his fourth bottle of Drecto he said: "I am now feeling fine—have thrown away my cane." These are only two of hundreds, yes, thousands.

TEST THIS MEDICINE FREE

Mr. Sufferer, have you ever heard of the wonderful medicine that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do—that's Drecto. Five minutes after you take it the medicine begins to unfold its virtues, and it will by actual demonstrations, unfold to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than I could probably make you believe if I wrote you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"Words cannot tell you how glad we are for Drecto," declared Mrs. Treasa Copley. "The first bottle fixed me up," said Walter F. Dixon. "Am a changed man now," states Rev. Joseph L. Butler.

You may know something of these people, or know somebody who knows them. We'll send you their full address if you want them, so that you can find out about Drecto and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true; stop it. Come at once to the Vancouver Drug Store, corner of Fort and Douglas Streets, Victoria, and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Drecto expert. He will give you absolutely free, a good-sized bottle of Drecto. This offer is open to every man and woman in Victoria. There are no ifs, ands, or buts attached to it, except that you come early before the generous supply of free bottles has been used. You don't have to buy anything if you don't want to. All I ask is that you step in and test this wonderful medicine, and see for yourself what it can do for you. So please come as early as possible.

Drecto is being especially introduced in Victoria by Vancouver Drug Company, Limited, corner Fort and Douglas Streets. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Drecto expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Drecto will benefit you. Drecto is also on sale in New Westminster and Vancouver by Vancouver Drug Stores, and in other towns as follows:

Port Haney—Campbell's Drug Store.	Hammond—H. C. Betts.	Langley Prairie—R. A. Royston.	Marpole—C. H. McFarlane.

WINNIPEG MAN GETS QUICK RELIEF

Strongly Recommends Drecto to Those With Similar Ailments.

The story of the recovery of Mr. H. Reeves, 125 Harriet Street, Winnipeg, should be read by every person who is suffering from those common disorders of the digestive organs that tap the body of energy, vigor and health. Mr. Reeves was so quickly and effectively relieved that he has no hesitation in recommending Drecto to those who are suffering from similar ailments. He writes: "I suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion. My food seemed to sour and lay heavily in my stomach. After each meal I had a distressing feeling of fullness, caused by gas. My kidneys were weak and I suffered from pains across the small of my back. My liver was sluggish and I was constantly troubled with constipation."

"I have finished just one bottle of Drecto and it is a pleasure for me to say how it has given me relief. My food does not sour and the gastric troubles are almost gone entirely. My kidneys are much stronger and the pains in my back are completely gone. Constipation is apparently a thing of the past and I enjoy my work and my meals because I am enjoying better health all round.

"I strongly recommend Drecto to anyone suffering from any of these ailments."

No stronger proof of the genuine merit of Drecto could be had than the enthusiastic recommendations of the thousands who have used it. It is a compound of the juices of medicinal herbs, roots, barks and leaves. It is healthful and pure in every respect and acts as a tonic and regulator of the whole system. Drecto contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

HOW DRECTO ACTS

A spoonful of Drecto taken with your meals, for a few days, acts upon everything you eat, first separating all the fats, oils, starches, sugar, vitamins and other ingredients from the useless waste matter and then preparing all these strength-making nourishing elements into a form which the blood can readily absorb and carry to the parts when Nature's call for help is the strongest.

Drecto is a new and scientific combination of herbal remedies, some of which have been used for the last 5,000 years. It contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

books for their libraries, and to interpret for them the distinctive features of the work of such masters as Bach, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, Liszt and several modern composers. The author of this book has had a very extensive musical education, both at home and abroad, and what she has written in such a clear style is the outcome of her practical experience as a teacher and organist.

A memorial to Shelley, which will be the finest ever erected to any poet, will be a colossal marble statue of Prometheus by Fontana, the famous Italian sculptor, and is now on the beach near Carrara, Italy, and will exceed 180 feet in height, taller than the American Statue of Liberty. The statue is a few miles from the point on the beach where Shelley's body was washed ashore a century ago, and burned by his friends Byron and Trelawney.

A. S. M. Hutchinson, author of "If Winter Comes," a title which was lifted from Shelley's "Ode to the West Wind," has been on a thousand-mile trip up the Amazon River. After his South American journey he rested for a while in the Balearic Isles in the Mediterranean and is now editing another book in Haute Savoie in the French Alps. He expects to spend a year on this new novel. Let us hope the author will be deemed improved on the last heir of his invention, "This Freedom."

It will no doubt surprise many Freudians to hear that Dr. Freud has come to the conclusion that thoughts of life beyond the grave play a greater part in one's life than other instincts, including love. Yet that, we are assured, is the impression to be gained from a perusal of Dr. Freud's new book, "Beyond the Pleasure Principle."

Edmund Gosse, the famous English bookman, has in his old age what he refers to as a distressing tendency to see things double or triple and sometimes even quadruple. Recently Mr. Gosse described most humorously the difficulty he had getting about London. "You may imagine," he said, "that it is a trifle embarrassing when I am trying to cross a street that has two or even more taxi-cabs or motor-lorries descending upon me when I know perfectly well that only one of them exists in reality. It is rather too sporting a thing to have to decide which of these apparitions is the actual car itself, so I keep to the tubes as much as I can and avoid the streets. Less dangerous, but still not without its element of the ridiculous, is the problem that confronts me when I see four or more girls, arm-and-arm, approaching me on the pavement, and I find myself unable to pass, though I know that at most there are only two! This is one of the disadvantages of age, though in other respects I am most fortunate, in view of my seventy-five years. For a very long time I have been served by a barber who is a great comfort to me, as he always does his work well and in utter silence. One day he astonished me by an inclination to talk. Asking me to pardon him for any seeming presumption, he proceeded: "I merely wanted to remark, sir, that I have been observing your hair for a longish period of time when I thought as 'ow you might lose it, but now, sir, I am sure you will die in your hair. Yes, he repeated, you will die in your hair, sir.'"

RECORD HONEY CROP IN COMOX VALLEY

Recent Shipment Indicates Increasing Interest in Beekeeping

In a report made by A. Finlay, Government Inspector, which has been received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, it is stated that the district north of Courtenay will harvest a record crop of honey. The average yield for the Fraser Valley will approximate sixty pounds to the hive.

According to C. G. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist, a conservative estimate of the Canadian honey available for export this year places the quantity at 6,000,000 pounds. This will have the effect of stabilizing the price of the commodity in the home market, says Mr. Gooderham.

40,000,000 BEES

A tangible indication of that increasing interest in beekeeping in Western Canada to which attention has recently been drawn was given recently when a record shipment of 40,000,000 bees, valued at $10,000, was received at Winnipeg from South Carolina, destined for distribution throughout the entire Western territory. The remarkable development of interest in apiculture in the Prairie Provinces has already been noted with the cult coming more generally into favor every year in that territory from the Great Lakes to the Rocky Mountains. It will be found that in British Columbia also a progress is being achieved which is keeping the Pacific coast province in line with the prairies.

British Columbia is in every respect an ideal territory for the apiarist. In its temperate climate nectar-producing blossoms bloom practically throughout the year. The fruit-growing valleys are planting thousands of additional fruit trees each year and apiculture is a pursuit naturally allied to fruit production.

The Okanagan and Kootenay valleys, which have made their fruit products favorably known in so many remote parts of the world, have taken enthusiastically to the production of

WOOLLENS ADVANCE

20% but JOHN CHRISTIE'S Prices are LOWER

In the Fall of last year we had an opportunity to make a contract for a two years' supply of British-made Woolen Goods for our big mail-order department and chain of retail stores. Fortunately for us we made the contract, and still more fortunately, the prices of these particular lines of woolens have advanced 20% since the beginning of the year. We are still selling at the same old prices, however, and this fact has a special significance for you, because even in the regular way our prices are a great deal lower than ordinary market values, owing to our tremendous purchasing power. Our foresight in making such a huge contract means a saving of thousands of dollars to our customers during the coming Fall and Winter.

UNDERWEAR

Selling at 40% Under Present Market Values

You will find this Two-piece All-wool Underwear is priced at least $2.00 per suit under present values, thus constituting a very remarkable saving. It was made to the order of the British Government of the finest Long-strand wool. It was possible to secure, and painstakingly inspected by competent government inspectors before being accepted. The remarkably long life of this underwear, due to its high quality material and super-workmanship, combined with its unshrinkable qualities, stamps it beyond question as the best-buying opportunity on the market to-day. So low is the price that even at this early stage of the season the demand at our various retail stores and in our mail-order department is extraordinary, and we would advise that you anticipate your requirements make your purchases

Super Quality White Woollen BLANKETS

Were it not for the fact that we are able to buy these at the present time far below the market value, our price to you would be very much higher. We would ask you to especially note the weight—EIGHT POUNDS—and the size—70 inches—because both of these are greater than you would expect to get at this price. And the quality is extra special, too, because of the long-staple military wool used in their manufacture. Our price, per pair, only

A LAND OF GREAT PROMISE IS PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

One of America's Most Richly Endowed Regions Now Being Settled by Superior Class of Nation Builder —Transportation Problems.

By JOHN NELSON

In fact the livestock of the whole district is of a very superior quality. Not only are the animals sleek and fat, something easy to understand where herbage is so luxuriant and green, but there is an utter absence of the scrub animals. It is a great turkey country, droves of these birds being seen on almost every homestead—and served with generous abandon on every table.

And no reference to the Peace River country should fail to record the generosity of its treacher. Nature has been lavish in providing some of those delicacies which in other districts are available only to the wealthy. The mushroom grows prodigiously everywhere and the epicure who finds a great bowl of them at his plate relishes them none the less because they are served in a log roadhouse with a sod roof. The settlers pickle these mushrooms, and they make them into catsups, and serve them in other delectable forms.

ABUNDANCE OF GAME

The hills are full of moose and caribou and deer, while the streams, though less generous than might be supposed, are high and carry other palatable fish. Wild geese and duck are abundant. At Brainerd, thirty or forty miles west of Grande Prairie, the hostess who gives her name to the settlement provided a noonday meal which, though it included only the ordinary bill of fare, was such as to tempt hungry travelers beyond the limits of discretion. Turkey, home cured ham, mushrooms, green peas, new creamed potatoes, jellies, pickles, lemon pie, home made bread, and other edibles were served in such bounteous measure and consumed in such quantities as to lead some of the party to declare that if they did not soon go home, they would have to be rolled there. In fact the hostess of the various communities threatened to destroy the cause of suffering and hardship which they offer as a plea for more means of communication with the outside world.

THE RADIO A BOON

Those who trifle in city parlors with the radio can scarcely appreciate what a boon it is proving to those removed by great distances from populous centres. Waterloo is a town north of the Peace River, the centre of a great plain of wheat. The day previous to the visit of the thousands of people who had attended its annual fair. The occasion was made one of profit as well as pleasure by "listening in" at midday to the closing quotations of the Winnipeg wheat market which had moved up several points. On a modest little section house, at the water tank in the valley of the Smoky River, the wireless apparatus indicated a priceless connection with the front. "We hear concerts in Vancouver, Edmonton and San Francisco," said one of the women, "and we know all the important happenings before we get it by the newspaper." A drover, who after two hours of exertion had induced his cattle to swim the swift brood river just above the bridge and who was sleeping on the next freight, was able to consult the market before his cattle left the siding. President Thornton's train, like all Canadian National trains, is equipped with wireless, for the president is a radio enthusiast, and it was by this aerial highway that he was advised of the death of the chairman of the Railway Board, Hon. Frank Carver.

One of the finest sights in the whole Peace country is the ranch which is owned by the Gundys of Toronto. It is on the liberal scale that fancy has always painted for such an institution for it comprises 500 acres. About 500 head of cattle are now being grazed and other livestock as well. This ranch is in the Peace Coulee region in B.C. and here the manager, A. Edgeworth, and his wife are developing an estate of great beauty as well, doubtless, as of much value. The great areas of green oats stretching down the valley flanking on the higher hillside by the verdant woods, presents an alluring vista as approached from the highway. "We are not without our compensations for a little loneliness," said Mrs. Edgeworth, as she indicated the radio receiver on the wall; "we hear all the coast stations, and often get Montreal."

SELF-RELIANT SETTLERS

The land breeds great self-reliance and indifference to conditions that cause apprehension to the more sophisticated. After one of the evening meetings, a man and his wife, with two or three small and sleepy children, called to pay their respects to Sir Henry Thornton. It was then no far from midnight, and the family were about to start for home, with team and buggy, a distance of fifteen miles. Perhaps the matchless nights over which the sun relinquishes a reluctant and brief control may account for it. But distance and difficulties, certainly do not deter either men or women, even at night. At the little hamlet of Hythe, the neighbors were welcoming back Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Sunderman from Jasper. They had not traveled in the conventional way. Mr. Sunderman is a drover and guide, and his athletic young wife can pack horse as adeptly as her husband. So when they wanted to see Jasper they chose the means of locomotion to hand and loading their ponies, struck out following the passes and draws in the hills, and often, because of fallen timber and lost trails, making no more than ten miles a day. The journey consumed nearly three weeks. Mrs. Sunderman declared that she had a glorious time. Evidently they sought further exercise by joining the Alpine Club in a climb of over 13,000 feet up Mount Robson.

Only an approximation of its area can be attempted. It is irregular in shape, and on the south and west slopes up into foothills and mountains, while on the east it loses itself in an area where there is much muskeg and scrub timber land. The area concerned, however, lies roughly between four points—High Prairie on the south-east, Rio Grande on the west, Peace Coulee and Fort St. John on the north-west, and Peace River on the north-east. With the great country lying northward along the Peace to Fort Vermillion and beyond, the reach is not for the moment constricted.

A WASTED REGION

Within the four corners of the area mentioned there lie about 35,000,000 acres. A reference to topographical surveys, to settled areas as indicated on the map, and a cursory appraisal of fertile lands acquired by a rapid trip through the district, leaves little doubt that fifty per cent of the land is at least as cultivatable as the wheat-crop about Peace Coulee—runs thirty-two bushels to the acre. At Fort Vermillion, on the experimental farm it runs as high as sixty, and even as high as sixty-seven. But taking an average yield at thirty bushels this 26,000,000 acres is capable of yielding 600,000,000 bushels of wheat in a season, which is easily 100,000,000 bushels more than the Dominion of Canada has ever produced. Given transportation facilities, and an enlightened land policy, the Peace River, as it is now understood, is capable of adding another Dominion of Canada to the productive areas of the world. Those who witnessed the rise of cities like Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, and Edmonton, based on a wheat production of 300,000,000 or 350,000,000 bushels, can visualize what would follow by the opening up of a new territory which would produce similar or larger amount, and the diversion of this golden stream to the cities of the Pacific coast, as well as the stimulation of communities already in existence in the Peace, into prosperous cities.

The wheat test is applied only for convenience. This is also a great stock country. It has enormous promise in coal, more than mere promise in petroleum and oil, of which there are 300,000 acres under lease, and a capped well in the valley of the Peace Coulee River alone. Beds of gypsum from ten to thirty feet thick are exposed on both banks of the Peace for fifteen miles and it has been estimated that there are 217,000,000 tons of this available. Though it may appear that the Hoppe coal fields are not pure anthracite, the deposits are at least anthracitic and of a quality to make their transport over long distances commercially profitable where the movement of other western coals of inferior quality presents a difficult problem.

ATTRACTIVE CLIMATE

Climatically the Peace, in spite of its latitude, is very attractive. There are no blizzards; there are instead the balmy and welcome Chinooks. Summers bring bright sunshine with long days and short nights. "For three months there is almost constant light," says F. H. Kitto of the Department of the Interior who knows his north so well, "the nights being merely a couple of hours of semi-darkness except when the sky comes very heavy with rain, and the more prolific the land seems to be, the lower elevation and the long hours of sunshine accounting for wheat growing thirty inches in two months and oats growing eleven inches in seven days. In spite of a long drought this summer, the whole country is green, fewer acres inches of moisture being required than in regions farther south."

The proposal to bring this rich territory into closer touch with markets opens up more questions than the fertility of the soil or its ability to produce. The whole country stands in urgent need, not alone of railways, but of highways. Here, as on the prairie, the settler has the double problem of a country soil which becomes very heavy with rain, and an absence of road metal. There are excellent trails throughout the settled portions of the country, but they are destitute of any form of road surface, and in the interval between dry weather and the freeze up, when the rains come, they present the same problems as other roads on the prairie. A fine broad highway is now being built from Peace Coulee to Grande Prairie, a distance of about 125 miles. But the work consists alone of grading. There is no gravel available. Any satisfactory plan for the development of the Peace must take account of this defective road system and provide for its remedy. It must also provide for the development of electrical power and light. The Peace and its tributaries suffer, as sources of power, from irregularity of flow and high cost of development. The Canyon is about 250 miles above Peace River crossing the Vermillion Chutes upwards of 200 miles below it. There are no intermediate points at which power can be developed. In eighteen miles in the Canyon the river falls nearly 300 feet and undoubtedly this will be the source from which ultimately the country south of the Peace at least, will draw its energy.

A wise colonization plan for this region will take cognizance of its remoteness from centres of population, and the opportunity this fact provides for hand picking its immigrants. It should also anticipate the manipulations of realty operators whose activities, immediately preceding the advent of a railway, will have the old tendency to inflate land values near the railroad and drive settlers further and further back for cheap land. It would be pitiful if, in the event of Canada undertaking what is asked in this new territory, sagacious provision should not be made against the operations of the speculator.

To-day Peace River is a land of quarter, half, and full sections. One acre of every seventy boasted held title to seventeen quarter sections and was actually tilling over forty acres. Nowhere is less than 150 acres—the regulation quarter-section—held. One is driven to the conclusion that when properly opened up a country of such fertility, with no waste land, with little bush, and given those marketing facilities which should go hand in hand with other development, should be a country of small intensively cultivated farms, and not one of large holdings. Then after this is done, there will stretch far away to the north great arable lands on either side of the lower Peace, still beckoning the settler, still promising comfort, and, in time, still insuring to Canada deeper and deeper frontiers toward the north. The basin of the Peace River is more than a great valley, or an expansive watershed—it is an Empire.

DR. KING DUE HERE
SEPTEMBER 13

Minister of Public Works on Western Tour Ahead of Prime Minister

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, is expected on the Coast on September 11, and will arrive here on the morning of Saturday week, remaining until Monday evening, September 15.

The chief engineer of the department, K. M. Cameron, has already reached the Coast and is viewing various public works ahead of the arrival of the minister. In view of the approaching visit of Premier Mackenzie King, and the expectation that a date will shortly be set to fill the seat at Yale held by the late J. A. McKelvie of Vernon, Dr. King's arrival is eagerly anticipated in political circles.

The minister is expected to spend several days in the Coast cities before returning East. Now that his plans are definitely known, various matters which have awaited his arrival will be advanced.

MINING NEWS

Stockholders of the Lucky Jim Lead & Zinc Company have been notified that about ten days ago development work was undertaken which is considered the most important yet done toward opening the ore resources of the mine, says The Nelson News. This was the extending of the cross-cut on No. 3 tunnel level to undercut what is known as the "big fracture," stated to be an unusually promising lead-silver surface showing, the most impressive on the property, and hitherto undeveloped.

FIVE HUNDRED FEET DEPTH

The report issued by the company states: "There is every reason to believe that at the depth of No. 3 tunnel this fissure will disclose a large volume of commercial ore. According to survey made about ten days ago, No. 3 tunnel lacked only about 125 feet of reaching this showing. Therefore this objective should be attained some time during the month of September. The depth from the surface at this point is nearly 500 feet. Should ore be encountered in volume according to expectations, it would require but very little preparation to start production from this part of the mine."

In addition to the development on No. 3 level, the board of directors has just taken action to put a crew at work in developing the downward continuation of the known ore bodies on the No. 4 tunnel level, which yielded most of the important lead-silver production from the mine. This work will be under way in a few days, and will require but a comparatively short time to prove it up.

The Lucky Jim Lead & Zinc Company Limited, incorporated under the laws of British Columbia, was formed to acquire the Lucky Jim group at Zintcon, consisting of eleven claims, and containing approximately 345 acres, all crown granted, together with all mine equipment and improvements. Payment for the property has been completed and title conveyed to the new company.

The officers and directors of the company are: Andrew G. Larsen, president and manager; F. Cushing Moore, vice-president; J. V. Fohlman, secretary-treasurer; All of Spokane; R. H. Stewart and Robert S. Lennie of Vancouver, B.C. The head office of the company has been established at 605 Empire State Building, Spokane, with mine office at Zintcon.

A substantial block of treasury stock was sold and underwritten for the purpose of financing operations at the property. After considerable preliminary work incident to revival of activities at the mine, development work was commenced the latter part of May, and has been progressing steadily since.

OPPOSE BUILDING OF SKYSCRAPERS

Members of Ontario Association of Architects Meet in Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Arguments against the building of "skyscrapers" were presented to the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Architects yesterday by Lieut.-Col. W. N. Moorehouse, chairman of the Toronto chapter. The buildings were coming into disfavor all over the continent, he said. Some of the objections cited were:

1. They affect public health by diminishing light and air space.
2. They affect the safety of the public by increasing the risk from fire and panic, and indirectly by street congestion.
3. They cause unfair inequality of land values, making equitable assessment difficult and in the long run lowering the average value of real estate.
4. They prevent an even growth of the city and impede the replacement of obsolete and obsolescent buildings.
5. They increase traffic congestion and the problem of transportation.

Col. Moorehouse suggested that the height of buildings should be limited to twice the street width, but not over 130 feet, further height to be set back one foot horizontally for every two feet vertically, with minor regulations regarding cornices and courts.

It was decided that a sub-committee should frame a suitable resolution along these lines and submit it to the seventeenth general annual assembly of the Royal Architects' Institute of Canada, which will give to the resolution a Dominion-wide significance if adopted.

HOUSE OF MEMORIES IS RETAINED AFTER BROKEN ROMANCE

London, Sept. 5.—There is, a few miles from Beckenham, Kent, a large residence known as Longcroft House.

More than thirty years ago a man who still lives near by bought Longcroft House and made preparations to occupy it after his approaching wedding. His engagement, however, was broken off, and to this day the house remains locked up and untenanted.

A gardener who lives on the estate told a reporter that every morning he takes a pony-trap load of fruit and vegetables from the gardens to the owner's house, and that every week a basket of fruit and flowers is sent to the owner's former fiancée, who is said to reside in a south coast town.

Los Angeles Raid May Lead to Suits Against Policemen

Los Angeles, Sept. 5.—An over-abundance of natural amphitheatres in the hills back of Hollywood was indirectly responsible for the arrest of twenty-three members of the Mexican picture colony at a birthday party in Laurel Canyon early yesterday, according to police officers who participated in the raid.

The twenty-three celebrants, including Jack Sherrill, former motion picture director, and W. L. Sherrill Jr., in whose home the party was progressing, were arrested on the complaint of several Laurel Canyon residents who telephoned the police that a "wild party" was disturbing their sleep. They were booked at the city hall on charges of disturbing the peace.

TWO ARE CHARGED

When, however, it developed that no odor of intoxicating liquor could be detected on the breath of any one of those arrested, the city prosecutor refused to issue complaints against any except the two Sherrills, who are alleged to have been on the point of bringing five bottles of liquor into the house when interrupted by the raiding officers. These two were arraigned on charges of possession and transportation of liquor, and their cases set for trial in police court October 7.

ARRESTED ON RETURN AFTER TWO YEARS

Henry William Barnes Remanded on Charge of Defrauding City of $6

After two years absence from the city, Henry William Barnes was brought before Magistrate Jay in the city police court this morning on a charge of obtaining goods to the value of $6 from the corporation of the City of Victoria. The charge arose out of transactions with the relieving officer. Barnes returned to Victoria yesterday and was immediately arrested on a warrant issued March 11, 1922. Stuart Henderson, K.C., appeared for the accused, who pleaded not guilty. Witnesses were not on hand to proceed with the case, and an adjournment was agreed to.

Cabourg, France, Sept. 5.—Raoul Gusborg, composer and director of Monte Carlo Opera, and the Russian Colonel Bezobrazoff fought a duel with swords among the sand dunes of Varville. SAYS TOURISTS BLAME FAILURE TO IMPROVE ROADWAY

That there is an urgent necessity for the paving of the road connecting the West Saanich Road with the Butchart Gardens at Brentwood, is stated by Alderman E. B. Andros on his return from the Summer season in charge of his cottages at Brentwood.

"While I found hundreds of people delighted with Vancouver Island," he stated "they were absolutely unanimous in the opinion that the fly in the ointment so far as the south end of the island is concerned was in the failure to improve that much used roadway. Its character has circulated as widely as the fame of the gardens. I learned with surprise, and one man from Los Angeles declared he had heard that the pleasure of a visit to the grounds was spoiled by the short approach road from the trunk highway."

SPEAKERS EXTOL MEMORIAL HALL

Big Congregation Heard Dean of Columbia and Others Last Night

A big congregation again filled the Anglican Memorial Hall last evening for the public meeting held in connection with the formal opening and dedication of the new structure. The speaker of the evening was the Dean of Columbia, who entertained his audience with an account of his recent visit to England. The Dean recorded his gratification on hearing that the financial position of the cathedral congregation had improved.

A suggestion that the new Memorial Hall might be used for week-day classes in Bible instruction for boys and girls, and thus form the nucleus of a solution to the problem of religious instruction, was propounded by H. Charlesworth. Another speaker was Rev. W. G. Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who touched upon the possibilities of the new hall as a meeting place in which to unify the religious and social activities of the community.

BRINGS NEW PATENT MEDICINE TO LOCAL RETAIL DRUG STORE

Draco Is Latest Health Tonic Manufactured in Canada

J. W. Vaughan of the Draco Company of Canada, Limited, announced here to-day that the Vancouver Drug Company has been selected as agents for the patent medicine manufactured by the concern, which he represents. The Draco Manufacing plant is in Montreal, as are their head offices, and in the east of Canada the medicine has been on the market for the past two years, apparently giving satisfaction.

Mr. Vaughan announced that the Draco product had been introduced on the prairies this year and that it had met with as great a reception there as it had done in the East.

A display of the Draco patent medicine is being given at the store, corner of Park and Douglas Streets.

Mr. Vaughan is himself supervising the arrangements for the sale here. A heavy sale for the product, although it has only been in stock for the past few days.

Looking very depressed and shaking his head sorrowfully, George Kalamus drew a bulky purse from his pocket and paid from a heavy roll of bills a $5 fine inflicted by Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court this morning for driving his car without head lights. The little Jap advanced a sound reason for the absence of lights. "When I turn on the lights the car it stop. Only when I turn them off the car it go," he told the court. He expressed surprise when the court constable informed him that the fine was due at once, but dug down in his pocket for the well filled purse, and then paid.

Erwin Dathe, thirty-nine, medical student, whose wife is abroad, decided to buy it. A bill of sale was drawn, a payment of $50 was made, and the baby changed hands. But there was some dissatisfaction about the price. The mother demanded $225 more, according to charges made by Dathe. Soon the matter reached the ears of the authorities. They jailed both buyer and seller, and now have to look up the law to find out what disposition to make of the child.

SELLING CONTINUES IN STOCK MARKET

New York, N.Y., Sept. 5 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—With the exception of the oil department, prices decline were rather general to-day and in several instances the shrinkage in values was rather pronounced. The late announcement yesterday by the American Woolen Co. with respect to the omission of the quarterly dividend on the junior shares of the company started a rather active selling movement late yesterday, and in addition inspired an accumulation of selling orders over night and as to-day's session progressed fresh weakness developed in certain specialties, particularly in the oil department. It is estimated that the maintenance of present disbursements. Some concern seems to be observable in certain quarters over the Chandler Motor dividend which is being paid and the activities were very prominent in to-day's turnover. As various specialties displayed rather pronounced weakness, same served to attract quite a little outside liquidation, and the afternoon trading the downward tendency in practically all directions became rather pronounced. Car loading figures for the week were a very unfavorable interpretation, and seems to bespeak some improvement in most lines of business.

We see nothing in the fundamental factors to lead us to believe that the market during the present week, and the activities were very prominent in to-day's turnover. As various specialties displayed rather pronounced weakness, same served to attract quite a little outside liquidation, and the afternoon trading the downward tendency in practically all directions became rather pronounced. Car loading figures for the week were a very unfavorable interpretation, and seems to bespeak some improvement in most lines of business.

$480,000 PAID INTO HOME BANK FUND

Twenty-five Per Cent of Double Liability Has Been Collected

Number of Shareholders in Western Canada Received Great Surprise

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Shareholders of the Home Bank have paid to the liquidators to date on account of double liability the sum of $480,000, or about twenty-five per cent of the total to be collected, excluding those who have filed defences against the order of the court directing payment of a double liability. About 170 shareholders in the West from twelve to fifteen years ago bought from one to forty shares each at a premium of $132 a share. They paid ten per cent down and the rest was not called for by the bank. The number of shareholders must have had a great shock when they were notified of their double liability. About 170 shareholders in the West from twelve to fifteen years ago bought from one to forty shares each at a premium of $132 a share. They paid ten per cent down and the rest was not called for by the bank.

LOCAL TRADE HURT BY POOR SERVICE

Vancouver Benefits Where Victoria Loses Up-island Market

Victoria will be directly affected by the building and operating of four new barges, together with a fleet of similar type and number, at present running out of Vancouver and between that city and points on Vancouver Island, notably Courtenay. These barges are to be used for the purpose of carrying timber and other goods from the interior to the coast, and it is expected that the new service will benefit Vancouver and hurt Victoria.

Huge Crowd Pays Tribute to Grand Old Man of Turf

Memorial Services Held for "Pop" Geers; Peter Manning Participates

Wheeling, W.Va., Sept. 5.—At the scene of his last race, a crowd of 50,000 yesterday paid eloquent tribute to the memory of Edward F. Geers, noted harness driver and "grand old man of the trotting turf," who drove to his death on Wednesday at the West Virginia State Fair. Just at 2 o'clock, when Geers had been scheduled to drive Peter Manning in an attempt to lower the half mile track record, the horse was led onto the track in front of the grandstand. It was draped in black in memory of the man who had driven it to victory many times. A hush fell over the great throng as the horse was led slowly down the track while a funeral dirge was being played in the grandstand. As the draped horse stood before the thousands of spectators, Howard M. Gore, assistant secretary of agriculture, mounted the judges' stand and read a glowing tribute to the late reiner. All other activities at the fair were suspended during the memorial services. Geers' body, accompanied by relatives and friends, was taken to his home at Memphis, Tenn., yesterday. Scores of persons stood in silent tributes as the train carrying the body of the famous driver passed out of sight.

Albion Will Play Five C's Cricket Eleven To-morrow

The Albion will play a friendly match to-morrow afternoon at Cranmore Road against the Five C's. This game is being especially staged to provide a benefit for the groundsman of the home club. It is generally admitted that the team in which the Cranmore Road playing fields have been kept during the past season warrant special recognition, the condition of the turf being especially commented upon thereby, making safe fielding for the players.

Firpo Deportation Case May be Taken Before President

New York, Sept. 5.—Canon Wm. Leonard Chase, who is seeking the deportation of Luis Firpo, Argentine fighter, yesterday stated he would take his evidence before President Coolidge, if necessary.

Canon Chase, after numerous charges in published statements that Henry H. Curran, commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island, had blocked the investigation and that attorneys for Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, had intimidated witnesses, yesterday received a hearing before Commissioner Curran.

Mr. Curran said that Canon Chase had appeared to answer a subpoena in countering previous statements by Dr. Chase that he appeared voluntarily to demand a hearing.

After this hearing, Mr. Curran said he would subpoena several others to appear to-day. The names were given him by Canon Chase, and the commissioner asserted that whereas Canon Chase had stated the commissioner was blocking the hearing, Canon Chase himself had been withholding necessary evidence.

Uncle Wiggly, "I don't want you to beat your drums. You make too much noise. I have hidden your drum sticks."

"But if we had some nice soft drum sticks, that wouldn't make any noise," said Billie, looking at the bunny.

"Oh, do you?" cried Johnnie.

"Yes," said Mr. Longears, after waving his short tail around in a circle like a goat. "I think I do. I will take your squirrel boys with me to the swamp, Mrs. Bushytail," said Uncle Wiggly. "If the swamp grows tall plants, the cat tails have long stems, on the end of which are soft, brown, fuzzy things that will make fine drum sticks. Come on boys, we'll get some cat tail drum sticks."

They softly beat out a jolly rub-a-dub-dub.

 By Howard R. Garis

As Uncle Wiggly was hopping one day past the seashore cottage where Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, were spending part of the summer the bunny rabbit gentleman heard one of the nut eaters saying: "Why can't we have them, mother?"

"Because, Johnnie," chattered Mrs. Bushytail, "you make too much noise with them."

"But we'll go away off and drum," said Billie, who was Johnnie's brother. "You said that before, but you always come back and drum around the cottage, and it makes my head ache," said the lady squirrel. "You had better go down and play in the sand."

"What is this talk about a drum?" thought Uncle Wiggly, as he stood for a moment outside the squirrel cottage. "Can Johnnie and Billie have caught a drum fish out of the ocean? I must find out."

Hopping closer, Mr. Longears saw the two squirrel boys looking sadly and pleadingly at their mother, who sat in a rocking chair. Each of the squirrel boys had a toy drum with Uncle Wiggly's picture painted on it for the bunny rabbit had given the squirrels their drums, but neither Johnnie nor Billie had drum sticks. "And you can't beat a drum with-

The Surprising Sex

By MILDRED BARBOUR—Author of "Love Stakes," Etc.

He had left a child, and he returned to find a distractingly pretty girl on the verge of womanhood. She had blossomed into a loveliness and maturity which made him uncomfortably aware of the grain of truth in certain brutal sayings he had received from his political backers. "There's a stud in your house," an influential voter had said. "Better send her to school or get an official chaperone before your enervating opponents begin to sling that sort of mud."

Blake had protested. "But she's as good as away at school now—I'm never home! And my housekeeper is sufficient chaperone."

"But you go home occasionally," was the grim reminder. "Nobody can know about your comings and goings. You're too young a man to have a pretty ward and escape gossip. Mind what I'm telling you!"

At another time, a hostess of official prominence in Washington who had a reputation for daring innuendo, said to him with sly malice: "Are you quite immune to matrimony? Or is there a girl back home?"

When he had denied both allegations laughingly, she had said, with narrow, amused eyes: "I hear you have an enchantingly pretty ward. It's quite a fashion nowadays. So many prominent men have that sort of mud."

Blake was recalling all these things while he greeted Julie, who had just returned from her first day in the city. "You're looking splendid, Julie. Mrs. Ames has taken good care of you. By the way, where is she?"

"In Chicago," replied Julie promptly. "She's been there for ever so long. Her niece was very sick and she had to go. I didn't mind at all. We didn't expect you home, of course, but it doesn't matter. I can cook for you perfectly well."

Blake frowned to hide his dismay. "I'm sorry you've been without a companion. I hope you weren't very lonely."

"Oh no," Julie shook her tawny head. "Everyone has been very kind. I didn't know there were so many kind people in the world. Lots of folk I never even heard of have called since Mrs. Ames left. Some men came, who said they were friends of yours. They were awfully interested in everything and seemed to think I was very strange my staying here alone. That's absurd, of course. I've been quite content, and not at all lonely."

IN THE GRIP OF SCANDAL

Blake raged inwardly over Julie's naively given information that strangers had thrust their way into his home during his absence to spy upon its inner workings.

He knew the purport of their curiosity, the political forces that set the vultures on the trail. For himself he didn't care so much. He had confidence in his ability to combat their evil insinuations—though he didn't relish the particular type of mud with which they had chosen to splatter his political aspirations. It was not only degrading but an insinuation hard to disprove, and moreover, one from which he had taken scrupulous care to keep his life free.

The main source of his rage was consideration for Julie. It was brutal to drag an innocent young girl into the political cesspool. Mrs. Ames, of

Special to The Times
 Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 5.—At Tuesday night's meeting of the Nanaimo City Council two by-laws dealing with the reconstruction of Bastion Street bridge were up for consideration and occupied most of the council's time. The first by-law introduced was to authorize the construction of a wooden bridge over the ravine at a cost of $10,000, and the second by-law provided for the erection of a steel structure at a cost of $50,000. Both by-laws were given the three readings and will be voted on by the ratepayers when the law books have been published the required number of insertions.

It was decided that tenders will be called for the erection of a public convenience.

In connection with the hurried call from Ladysmith on the morning of August 29 for one of the local fire engines to help combat the fire that for a while threatened the business section of Ladysmith, Mayor Busby reported that he received a telephone call from Alderman Mrs. Marshall of Ladysmith asking that one of the local fire trucks be rushed to that city, as a big fire was raging and help was needed. The truck made the distance of seventeen miles within half an hour, arriving at Ladysmith to find that their services were not required. There had been, said his Worship, some comment in Ladysmith, and Alderman Mrs. Marshall had been censured by some for having sent for the Nanaimo apparatus. The speaker believed that Alderman Mrs. Marshall was justified in her action, though she should have consulted her local chief first.

It was brought to the attention of the council that a bush fire had started at the South Forks, and that the city pumping station there was in danger if the fire was not checked. The waterworks foreman had a number of men at hand, and with the addition of five lengths of hose, were doing their best to get the fire under control.

The city clerk reported that he was awaiting information from Victoria in connection with the analysis being made as to the purity of the local water supply, and it was decided to have it published on receipt of same.

Special to The Times
 Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 5.—At Tuesday night's meeting of the Nanaimo City Council two by-laws dealing with the reconstruction of Bastion Street bridge were up for consideration and occupied most of the council's time. The first by-law introduced was to authorize the construction of a wooden bridge over the ravine at a cost of $10,000, and the second by-law provided for the erection of a steel structure at a cost of $50,000. Both by-laws were given the three readings and will be voted on by the ratepayers when the law books have been published the required number of insertions.

It was decided that tenders will be called for the erection of a public convenience.

In connection with the hurried call from Ladysmith on the morning of August 29 for one of the local fire engines to help combat the fire that for a while threatened the business section of Ladysmith, Mayor Busby reported that he received a telephone call from Alderman Mrs. Marshall of Ladysmith asking that one of the local fire trucks be rushed to that city, as a big fire was raging and help was needed. The truck made the distance of seventeen miles within half an hour, arriving at Ladysmith to find that their services were not required. There had been, said his Worship, some comment in Ladysmith, and Alderman Mrs. Marshall had been censured by some for having sent for the Nanaimo apparatus. The speaker believed that Alderman Mrs. Marshall was justified in her action, though she should have consulted her local chief first.

It was brought to the attention of the council that a bush fire had started at the South Forks, and that the city pumping station there was in danger if the fire was not checked. The waterworks foreman had a number of men at hand, and with the addition of five lengths of hose, were doing their best to get the fire under control.

The city clerk reported that he was awaiting information from Victoria in connection with the analysis being made as to the purity of the local water supply, and it was decided to have it published on receipt of same.

Labor Performing Great Duties in World Affairs, Says United States Leader

Peter J. Brady of New York Addresses British Trades Union Congress

Hull, England, Sept. 5.—Labor unions in the world's great democracies are founding, upon newly forged pillars of great political, economic and financial power, an enlightened civilization, Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation of Labor of New York and envoy of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address before the British Trades Union Congress here yesterday.

CARRIED GREETINGS
Bringing to this fifty-sixth congress of British labor organizations the cordial greetings of the trade union movement in America, the president of the American Federation of Labor's most representative bank in his country said he had come here also to "knit more closely the bonds of understanding between the workers of Great Britain and the United States."

For, he said, the great Allied debts still existing, the new reparations agreement and the prospect that United States investors would shortly be called upon to loan many more millions to European nations, "link us more closely than ever, with your fate."

Mr. Brady praised British labor for its course in politics. American labor, too, was making itself felt in the politics of its nation, he said. But, as he pointed out, the differences between Britain's "right little island" and the United States' aggregation of state sovereignties obliged labor in his country to accomplish its ends with the aid of all parties, rather than through one purely labor party. He called the United States "a babel of nationalities."

DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM
As for the American Federation of Labor policy toward other international organizations of workers, that was controlled by the democratic system of autonomy which prohibited the American Federation of Labor from dictating to its unions. As Mr. Brady said, "it gets its mandate from its affiliated members." Of the international relations that were broken off during the World War, he said:

"We are still eager to restore fraternal relationships when it can be brought about on a practical basis, jointly to solve the pressing problems confronting the workers of all nations. We believe in such international kinship, for we hold that the trade unions of the world are the only substantial bulwark against Kaiserism or Bolshevism or however we term the form despotism may take to overthrow democratic institutions."

VAST ACCUMULATION
Mr. Brady went on to describe the vast accumulation of labor capital as represented by workers' savings deposited in labor-controlled banks in the last four and a half years.

"If we can poll our votes to get control of governments," he asked, "if we can unite our economic power in the hands of those who are not by combining our savings, small individually but bulking enormously large in the aggregate, make finance responsive to the will of those who produce the world's wealth? We think it can be done, and so do the workers of America."

THIRTY-THREE BANKS
"We have thirty-three labor banks with resources of $125,000,000—but a drop in the bucket of what our trade union banks are capable of accumulating. We have 5,000,000 trade unionists. Each year $2,000,000,000 is paid our industrial workers and from $6,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 is saved in various ways. It is this large sum which labor banks hope eventually to control."

"There is no peace," declared Mr. Brady, discussing the reparations agreement. "The armistice was signed and peace declared. It was followed by a six-year purgatory."

MORE UNDER ARMS
"More men are under arms than before the war. Only lately have six years of conferences borne fruit—whether the poison applies of the next World War or the wholesome fruit of World Peace none can tell."

The most hopeful portent, said Mr. Brady, has been "the vision and achievement of the new leaders of the British and French Governments within the last six months." He held forth the prospect that "with the growing power of labor and strengthening of democracies we glimpse an enlightened future civilization."

DON'T NEGLECT A WOUND, NO MATTER HOW TRIVIAL

By Royal S. Copland, M.D.

Among the many inhabitants of the globe are tiny organisms which everybody knows as germs. Some of them are essential to our well being, but others are dangerous and even deadly. These are watchful, crafty, sneaking, treacherous things, like assassins in the night they pounce upon their victims and work their way with him.

One of the most vicious of these germs is known to the scientific world as the staphylococcus. This is the agent responsible for many deaths.

I wish we could get everybody to understand that any wound where the skin is broken, is an open door through which these deadly germs may enter. Once inside the body nobody knows what havoc will be wrought. Let me give you a word of warning against neglect of any injury or bruise, even the slightest.

It is characteristic of boys and girls and even of some men and women to desire to appear brave and foolhardy. When we are young we scoff at a small cut or abrasion, a blister, burn or the tear from a rusty nail. Fear of being considered a "poor sport" or the desire to swagger a bit in bravado, makes people look lightly on such seemingly simple wounds.

No one should neglect any injury or bruise whether the prick of a pin or a more serious accident. Blisters, burns, tears and abrasions, lacerations, punctured wounds made by sticks or toys, scratches from nails, splinters and torn flesh, and simple wounds which require careful attention to prevent blood-poisoning with the possibility of a fatal effect.

Every wound, no matter how slight, should have immediate attention. It should be washed with clean water and soap to remove all dirt and foreign material.

Then iodine of two per cent strength should be applied.

If the skin is broken, a small dressing of clean gauze, held in place by adhesive plaster, should be applied. Blisters, cuts and bruises of the feet are very apt to become infected. The irritation from the shoes increases the inflammation and the dye and the germ-laden dust from the stocking may be carried into the wound.

For this reason the greatest care must be exercised to keep these abrasions surfaces covered and free from the possibility of infection. Once an infection starts it rapidly travels through the entire system.

If the redness around the wound begins to spread or if tenderness or other signs of inflammation are present, consult your family doctor at once.
