THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.

We copy from the Albany Evening Journal the following report of the debate on the suffrage question.

The report of the committee No. 4 was then taken up. Mr. Kennedy, in behalf of the chairman of the committee, explained the grounds on which he considered the franchise as it stood.

Mr. Dana followed, expressing his belief that there were rights which were neither merely natural nor civil, but which were the result of the laws of God.

Mr. Bruce then rose to speak, and in a long and able speech, he maintained that the franchise should be extended to all men, without regard to color.

Mr. Kennedy then replied, and in a very able and eloquent speech, he maintained that the franchise should be restricted to the white race.

Mr. Bruce then replied again, and in a very able and eloquent speech, he maintained that the franchise should be extended to all men, without regard to color.

Mr. Kirkland by asking out the words "of color," which were called for by the speaker.

Mr. Kirkland said that there was a desire to exclude from taxation women, slaves, and aliens, and that it was the duty of the State to do so.

Mr. Patterson said that there were certain corporations which were exempted from taxation by the amendment.

Mr. Kennedy modified his amendment, so that it should not be construed as including corporations.

Mr. Kirkland then moved for the yeas and nays, and the question was put.
