AUDITORS CHECK L. A. TAX OFFICE

Collector's Books Balance For Four Year Period With $187,111,997

Eight special auditors assigned from Washington to examine the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell for the fiscal year 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922, reported yesterday to the Treasury Department that their two months' investigation showed Collector Goodcell's office to be entirely in balance, although the staggering sum of $187,111,997.72 had been collected in taxes during the period covered by the examination.

In reporting to Collector Goodcell, the chief auditor declared that the handling of $187,000,000 without any discrepancies was a remarkable feat, and that the Los Angeles office was considered a rare case in revenue affairs. It was pointed out the collection of the $187,000,000 involved the handling of 875,000 active annual accounts and 500,000 active monthly accounts. High compliments were paid Collector Goodcell's office for its account of the accuracy and efficiency which made the splendid showing possible.

That Southern California is considered the "wonder district" of the Treasury Department, as a producer of federal revenue, is indicated by the announcement from Washington that in percentage of collections for 1922 as compared with 1921, the Los Angeles district led all internal revenue districts in the United States, barring North Carolina, which depends upon tobacco tax for 72 per cent of its receipts and, therefore, its percentage does not reflect true business conditions.

Shrinkage Shown
The following figures announced from Washington show the shrinkage in collections of the principal Internal Revenue districts in 1922 as compared with 1921:
Los Angeles 12 per cent
San Francisco 35 per cent
Portland 33 per cent
Seattle 35 per cent
New York 32 per cent
Denver 42 per cent
Columbus, O. 37 per cent
Boston 35 per cent
New Orleans 43 per cent
Chicago 30 per cent
St. Louis 30 per cent
Philadelphia 29 per cent
Striking evidence of the wonder growth of Southern California as a producer of federal revenue was presented by Collector Goodcell's statement that in 1915 the total receipts of the Los Angeles district were only $2,593,447 as against $187,000,000 for the last four years.

Church Now At War Over Woman Pastor

Bishop Benjamin Brewster

Bishop Benjamin Brewster is charged by many New England members of the Episcopal church with breaking a rule of the church by extending an invitation to a woman preacher to hold services in his church in Boston. It is said no woman has ever been permitted to hold services before in an Episcopal church, either in America or Europe. The woman in question is the Rev. Miss A. Maude Royden, pastor of the Congregational City Temple, in London, who is the guest in America of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

ROTARIANS HEAR INFORMAL TALKS

Pledge Aid to Boy Scouts to Carry Out Program of Local Council

Members of Glendale's Rotary club yesterday listened to several informal talks by members, Roy L. Kent, the president, and others urging attendance at the Boy Scout banquet next Monday night. F. J. W. Henry, George E. Bentley and J. G. Huntley being named patron leaders of three divisions of 11 members each, they made inspiring appeals for 100 per cent attendance. A. R. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills Scout Council, and Dan Kelly, secretary, also talked on the boys' work and assurances were given by J. C. Crawford of the Burbank Rotary club that it would be in a position to aid in carrying the program there to successful fruition.

President Kent also spoke on Glendale's attendance at the district conference to be held soon in Pasadena and announced that on Thursday evening, March 8, the local club would hold its first anniversary banquet with District Governor Jack Williams of Long Beach and other prominent Rotarians in attendance.

Visitors Attend
V. M. Hollister talked on membership. It is reported that the Glendale club will have had two 100 per cent meetings this month if Dr. Fay G. Stone, who is ill, can attend some other meeting between now and Thursday. Mrs. Stone also is a victim of the influenza and both are in the hospital.

Visiting Rotarians included Bert Hilborn of Spokane, Wash.; J. Will Johnson of Pueblo, Colo.; Ed O. Stafford of Marquette, Mich.; J. C. Crawford, W. S. Sandison and Bartley Sims of Burbank. Guests introduced were Preston L. Hatch, general manager of the Glendale & Montrose railway, and Frank Marsh, secretary of the Mountain View Chamber of Commerce.

LUMBER COMPANY BUSINESS GROWS

Glendale Firm Brings Wood From Own Forests to Retail Buyers

The surprising growth of the Independent Lumber Company's yards at San Fernando road and Doran street, in their fourteen months of operation, has centered on this busy five-acre plant and its general manager, Edwin F. Heisser, no small amount of attention.

Starting with one shed, a little over a year ago, the plant now numbers nearly a dozen sheds, that house between two and three million feet of fine kiln-dried lumber, in addition to cement, plaster board, sash and door material, moldings and other incidentals forming a complete structure.

Two other yards, furthermore, comprise the Independent Lumber Company's present southwestern distribution facilities—one at Tujunga and one at Reseda. And more are planned for the near future.

Lumber from Own Mills
"Naturally," stated Manager Heisser, "the question arises, where do we get the large supply of high grade lumber we merchandise? In answer, I can say that most of the stuff we sell comes from our own mills at Aberdeen, Wash., and is cut from our own extensive timber lands in six northern counties of that state. We own also large redwood tracts in Humboldt county, California, and word has just come from our people of the acquisition of a vast block of Oregon timber land, extending over almost an entire county. Within the year 1923 we expect to have mills of our own in operation on this Oregon tract.

"This yard here at San Fernando and Doran, and the yards at Tujunga and Reseda, are only the beginning. In another year or two we plan to have a dozen yards established. Our idea in entering this territory in a retail way is to find a direct outlet for the enormous footage our mills are turning out. For twenty years we have been wholesalers of lumber. Now we plan to bring our own product directly to the consumer—from tree to house.

"Naturally, manufacturing and distributing our own product, numerous economies must accrue. What we pride ourselves on is being the chief of these is the fact that, dealing in our own material and not forced to buy it on the open market, we can and do create a product of the highest quality."

Explains Process
In this connection, Mr. Heisser pointed out, all the "finish" sold by the Independent Lumber Company is put through the dry-kill process at the mill, and freighted down by rail, in closed box cars, no upper grades being allowed to travel by water, as it is greatly deteriorated by dampness. Nor does the company handle any "air-dried" finish.

"We are giving the people here the same grade of lumber we ship to Chicago and New York," stated Mr. Heisser, "and our success is attested by the fact that we are selling about a million feet a month, or between forty and fifty carloads. This is in the neighborhood of 10 per cent of our mills' capacity, latest reports showing that they are turning out eleven million feet a month—a solid train of four hundred and fifty cars."

Plans for Future
Among the company's plans for the future is one that has an especial appeal to home builders. Realizing that the average layman's greatest problems are selection of proper plans and estimation of probable cost, the Independent Lumber Company is having a prominent local architect draw up a number of specifications for genuine Southern California homes, of different types,

REALTY DEALERS TO CHANGE NAME

Association Members Will Adopt Designation of 'Realtors' at Meet

The word "realtor" is becoming more widely used throughout California as a result of the eighty-two California local realty boards having joined the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Only members of local boards which have affiliated with the California Real state association and the National Association of Real Estate Boards are entitled to use the word realtor. First use was only granted to local boards that had joined the national convention at Chicago added the state association proviso.

Will Change Name
In California, however, the local realty boards have taken a new tack. They are beginning to drop the words "realty board" and "real estate board" and are calling themselves realtors. Thus have been organized the Sacramento Realtors' association who will entertain the California Realtors at their state convention October 10, 11, 12 and 13, 1923.

The Long Beach Realty Board, founded in 1906, has changed its name to the Long Beach Board of Realtors. It is reported that at the next national convention of the realtors to be held in Cleveland, June 27-30, the matter of changing the name of the parent body to the National Realtors' association will be considered at length.

There are now approximately 481 realty boards in the United States affiliated with the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Eighty-two of these boards are California boards. The national membership of realtors is around 20,000, of whom about 2500 to 3000 are members of California boards.

Nor does the company stop here, but goes to the logical limit of service, furnishing a list of reliable contractors and carpenters, so that any one desiring a home and having a little "nest egg" can get the maximum of value for the minimum of investment, either of money or time.

Shallow Grave Yields Bullet Riddled Corpse

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 9.—Authorities are seeking to unravel the mysterious murder of an unidentified man whose body, bound hand and foot, was unearthed from a shallow grave to which it had been packed.

Two bullet holes were found in the head. Several cards, bearing a street address but without any names, and $52.30 in cash, were found in the pockets of the victim. Authorities believe from the fact that both bullets had been fired through the top of the victim's head that he was on his knees when killed. It is believed that the man was killed several days ago.

SPORTS CHATTER
By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

While home run records, batting and pitching feats are constantly coming to notice there is one feature in baseball in which the record in the minor leagues has stood for ten years and in the major leagues no change has occurred in two decades. This refers to the number of consecutive innings a club has been able to shut out its opponents.

Back in 1902 the Philadelphia Athletics set a record of thirty-one consecutive "shut out" innings for three games, one of which was thirty-three innings. The next year, 1903, the Pittsburgh Nationals slashed this record to atoms, running up to fifty-two consecutive shut outs in five games before they were seven on. These two records made nineteen and twenty years ago today stand as the records of the respective major leagues.

The world record for "consecutive shut outs" is held by the Portland team of the Pacific Coast league and twice within three years this team exceeded eighty shut outs of shut outs. In 1910 Portland went nine games and seven innings for a total of 88 shut out innings and this is the latest figure on record in this phase of baseball statistics. In 1913 the same Portland team played nine games and three innings, or a total of 82 innings, before their opponents scored on them. Another minor league team has a large record in this respect, the Lincoln team of the Western league playing five games and seven innings, or a total of 52 innings, back in 1912, before a score was made against them.

The honor of having played the longest game without a score by either side belongs to a semi-professional team. Fargo, N. D., team on July 18, 1891, and the Grand Forks team at Devils Lake, N. D., went twenty-five innings without a score (before the game had to be called on account of darkness. Here again is another feature of baseball wherein a minor league team excels the major league.

This time the Burlington and Keokuk clubs of the Central association sharing honors by having played a twenty-two inning game without either team scoring, this happening at Burlington June 27, 1911. The major league record for this feature belongs to the Pittsburgh National league team. On August 1, 1913, Pittsburgh defeated Boston, 2 to 0, the score being made in the twenty-first inning, up to the twentieth neither team having scored. The American league record is eighteen innings made July 16, 1909, when Detroit and Washington played an eighteen inning scoreless tie.

The individual pitcher's record for consecutive shut outs was made in 1903 season, when Pitcher O. Faulkner of the Wilmington, Del., team went seventy-seven consecutive innings before he was stopped. The major league record in this respect is fifty-five consecutive innings, credited to W. Johnson of the Washington Americans in 1913. Back in 1902 J. Chesbro of the Pittsburgh Nationals pitched forty-one consecutive innings and this was equaled by Grover Alexander of the Philadelphia Nationals in 1911.

Winner of Lightweight Bout to Meet Leonard

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—A bout with Benny Leonard for the lightweight championship hangs in the balance as the result of the 15-round clash between Charley White of Chicago and Rocky Kansas of Buffalo here tonight. Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, has promised White an early date with Leonard, provided he gets by Kansas successfully, while one later plans to make the bout the climax of his comeback since his defeat by Leonard at Michigan City last summer.

White has been made a prohibitive favorite and many bets have been made that he will win by a knockout.

The men will weigh in at 135 pounds.

Seeks to Collect Bet On 'Framed' Bout

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Startling revelations concerning "fixed" wrestling matches in Chicago were promised with the filing of a suit here by Frank Snyder of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to collect $1600, deposited as a bet on a bout last April between Johnny Meyers and Ralph Parcaut, which Snyder claims was "fixed."

JESS STARTS TO TRAIN FOR BOUT

Plans to Convince Fans He Can Stage Comeback In Title Fight

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—This being the buck hunting season in various localities, Jess Willard is soon to set out on a three weeks' tour, during which he will stalk sections of the United States and Canada. Armed only with a pair of boxing gloves, he means to trail the buck right into the box office and there claim it as his own battle though it may. Jess seldom is bested in a fair and square stand up fight with a buck.

This is by way of constituting his early training for his bout with Floyd Johnson at the Yankee stadium May 12. However, we have the gentleman's own word for it that actual training and not hippodroming, is the object of the tour.

"I am taking young Bob Fitzsimmons with me as a sparring partner because he resembles Dempsey and Johnson in build," the former champion declared today. "It is not an exhibition tour at all. I mean it to be a legitimate training stunt and will appear only at fight clubs on a percentage arrangement and not at theaters."

Wants Fans to Judge
"My only object, aside from getting work-outs in places where I am not crowded as is the case here, is to let the fans of the country at large judge for themselves whether I can make a successful comeback. I will follow my regular routine, shadow boxing, rope skipping, wrestling and sparring with young Bob."

Willard and his party will leave here February 19 and the premier of the tour will take place at Cleveland, where a new hall is to be opened with an amateur boxing tournament. Willard's exhibition is to be the feature event of this enterprise. Other points of call include Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, St. Paul, Duluth, Tulsa, Kansas City, Wichita and Cincinnati.

Legion Quintet Drops Game to Vernon Team

The basketball team of the Glendale American Legion post dropped the game with Vernon last night by a score of 22 to 24 in favor of the orange-clad boys, in a contest that was started with the local quintet crippled by the absence of some of their best players. Four of the regular lineup were on hand at the opening of the game and the usual team work was absent from the showing made by the Legion outfit.

The full strength of the team, however, is expected to be on hand at the game with the 145 pound team of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday, February 13, when a different result is predicted.

The lineup:
Glendale.—Hayward, Clavin, Austin, f; Bunker, c; Keller, Dick, g.
Vernon.—Rogers; Gibbs, f; Hughes, c; Cooper, Tillon; Gibbs, g.

Baskets.—Glendale: Clavin, 4; Hayward, 3; Bunker, 3; Keller, 2; Points, 24.
Vernon.—Hughes, 9; Rogers, 6; Gibbs, 1; Points, 32.

Denver Youth Held on Two Charges by Police

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Arrested at Monrovia on a charge of impersonating J. L. Ruth Will Start South With Yank Detachment

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Babe Ruth, former home run king, who has arrived with his family from Sudbury, Mass., announced he would remain here until next Thursday when he plans to accompany the early detachment of Yankees to Hot Springs, Ark.

FIGHT RESULTS

At New York—Tarzan Larkin knocked out Soldier Jones in the sixth round.
At Paslaic—Harry Gordon won popular decision over Frankie Fascino; Johnny Green got popular decision over Claude Wilson, southern bantamweight, in ten rounds.

The World Over
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Always it is the heavyweight division in the boxing game that creates a furor. It is this division that creates the greatest interest in the greatest number of people. There have been no heavyweight championship fights since the days of Sullivan that have not been "played" up and given columns of matter in the newspapers.

Not only the fight itself, but all of the preliminaries are covered for weeks in advance by special correspondents assigned by their various papers and press agencies. No fight ever had a larger colony of correspondents camped on the spot than the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. Papers from the Pacific coast had their sports editors on the ground for weeks in advance during the preliminary training stunts.

Up to that battle, the Dempsey-Willard match held the record and each succeeding fight has created a new record over the previous one. While persons thought a lot of matter was coming out of New Orleans prior to the Corbett-Sullivan fight, a week's output of "copy" in those days wouldn't measure up with a single day at the present time.

In view of the tremendous interest aroused by heavyweight battles, it is unfortunate that a man of the money grubbing tendencies of Dempsey's manager is interested in the sport. Kearns, at the present time has been doing more to disgust the general public in the fight game than any other element. His talk of millions of money has transferred the proceedings to the financial page from the sport page, or it ought to. As far as any sportsman is concerned, it is totally eliminated from any consideration on the part of Kearns.

Boxing to him presents no other angle than the money in it. Money is the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. To be sure, that is his profession, but there is less sportsmanship in his profession as he conducts than there is in a shoe-store or a grocery.

There is no reason in the world why a heavyweight match for Dempsey can be arranged if quietly and decently gone about. But Kearns in his blatant way has figured on the publicity to be gained. "Feeling his oats" is the way many sports put it. A few years ago he was a nobody and today he is talking in millions and it simply has gone to his head. With the punch that lays Dempsey on the floor for the count, will come the utter oblivion of Kearns.

Few fight managers have done the boxing game any good. The tendency has been all the other way, but it is doubtful if anyone has done less for the sport than has Kearns, whose eyes are focussed on the dollar sign to the total oblivion of everything else.

Montana Promoter May Land Dempsey in Bout

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 9.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul promoter for Jack Dempsey's crown, was offered $50,000 to meet the champion in Shelby, Mont., July 4. Dempsey would get $200,000 under the offer, made by L. A. Sampson, who would promote the fight for the American Legion boxing association.

Play doubtless would become very tiresome if we had to do it to earn a living.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST
by ALBERT L. CLOUGH
Editor Motor Service Bureau Review of Reviews

FOOLPROOFING THE LUBRICATION SYSTEM
Engines Can't Be Run Without Gas and Mustn't Be Run Without Oil

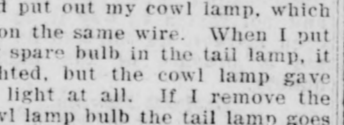

By all means the most serious danger to which a motor car is subject, is the failure of its engine's oil supply, for this almost inevitably means vital damage to its most important and expensive unit—the engine. The accepted system of lubrication, depending upon pump circulation of the oil, possesses a high degree of reliability, but yet is subject to occasional failure as is recognized by the almost universal practice of providing an oil pressure gauge as a visual indicator as to whether or not the circulating force is acting. Nevertheless experience indicates that the dashboard oil gauge is not always a sufficient safeguard, for the operator may not consult it at all or may do so at very long intervals and moreover he may take a chance and run his car even though the gauge has warned him that no oil pressure is acting. Obviously the engine requires its regular supply of oil so long as it is running or, in other words, so long as it is consuming gasoline and if matters were so arranged that the same force which provides fuel should also supply oil, the fuel supply would cease and the engine soon stop upon the cessation of the oil supply, the engine thus being automatically protected against running in an unlubricated condition. This principle has been embodied in a radically new and improved fuel and oil feed car system, which is being installed on some late cars and which can be briefly described as follows: The pump which circulates the oil is also a vacuum pump, but will not create a vacuum unless oil is being pumped. The vacuum tank, which is of ordinary form and appearance and located and connected to the carburetor and main tank in the usual manner, is not connected to the intake manifold and thus does not depend for its action upon engine suction, but is connected to the intake side of the pump and is operated by the suction there produced. If the oil supply runs low or the pump fails, the vacuum tank suction ceases and the engine stops for lack of fuel, as the supply in the auxiliary tank becomes exhausted, and before engine parts can suffer from lack of oil. The vacuum tank is of simplified valvular construction and maintains a practically constant fuel head in its lower compartment. Unlike most vacuum systems, in which the suction available for filling the auxiliary tank is of maximum fuel demand (open throttle), the suction produced in this system increases with pump speed (engine speed) and thus becomes greater with increased fuel demand.

Testing for Electrical Leakage
N. T. writes: My battery gradually loses its charge; whether it is in use or not, in about a week, and I have wondered if there is an escape of current through defects in the wiring. What test can I make to settle this point?

Answer: Take your car where they have a reliable, low-reading ammeter and get them to connect this in circuit between one of the battery terminals and the end of the cable which goes to this terminal. If there is any leakage through the wiring, this ammeter will indicate a flow of current, when all the switches are in the "off" position. Do not forget the considerable electrical leakage can take place from one terminal of the battery to the other, if the cover is dirty and wet with spilled acid. It should always be wiped clean with a piece of waste wet with ammonia water and then dried. If you find there is no leakage through the wiring, the discharge of your battery is probably from short-circuits within the cells, especially if one cell tests much weaker than the others.

Trouble With Series-Connected Lamps
W. E. B. writes: My tail lamp bulb burned out the other evening and put out my cowl lamp, which is on the same wire. When I put my spare bulb in the tail lamp, it lit, but the cowl lamp gave no light at all. If I remove the cowl lamp bulb the tail lamp goes out, so it seems that the wiring is all right. How do you explain this?

Answer: You will probably find that the voltage marked on the bulb you put in the tail lamp is higher than that of the cowl lamp bulb. It may be that the former is 6-8 volt and the latter 3-4 volt, which is intended to run on half the current of the latter, would be the only one to light. When two bulbs are burned "in series," as in this case, they have to be of exactly the same voltage and candle power or one will burn brightly and the other not. In fact, it sometimes happens that of nominally identical bulbs one burns brighter than the other when operated in series.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A PERSONAL LETTER TO GLENDALE P. T. A. SOCIETIES

DEAR FRIENDS: When you go shopping in Glendale for your Spring Suit you will probably find out what the various buyers have brought back with them from New York. You will at least visit several stores before making your purchase. You will be governed by style, price and quality. You will eventually buy from the store that presents the best bargain.

Do you not think it advisable to have the purchasing committee of your Parent-Teachers' Association do likewise? When you plan to buy a PHONOGRAPH for your children to march by in their respective school—or to be educated in high class music thru a record—is it not the most practical plan to give each music dealer in Glendale an opportunity to display his particular brand of machine?

There are probably only three or four dealers in Glendale and each and every one has given assistance—be it financial or otherwise—in building up this wonderful city. Think this over. Very truly yours,

SOCIETY ISSUES

RULES FOR WIVES

New Decalogue for Married Women Tells How to Hold Husbands

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Behavior of wives has something to do with home happiness, the Legal Aid Society set forth in a recently issued decalogue for husbands.

Out of the wisdom acquired in bringing about 4,000 conferences for domestic disarmament in a year, the society today issued these ten rules for wives:

- 1.—Don't be extravagant. Nothing appeals more strongly to a man than economic independence.
- 2.—Keep your home clean.
- 3.—Do not permit your person to become unattractive. A slovenly wife makes a truant husband.
- 4.—Do not receive attentions from other men. Husbands are often jealous and some are suspicious without cause. Do not supply the cause.
- 5.—Do not resent reasonable discipline of the children by their father.
- 6.—Keep away from mother. Do not spend too much time with your mother. You may easily in such way spend too little time at home.
- 7.—Do not accept advice from the neighbors, or even stress too greatly that of your own family. Have a plan of your own. In all cases consult freely with your husband.
- 8.—Do not disparage your husband.
- 9.—Smile. Be attentive in little things. An indifferent wife is often supplanted by an ardent mistress.
- 10.—Be tactful. Be feminine. Men in the last analysis, are but overgrown children. They do not mind coaxing but they resent coercion. Femininity attracts and compels them. Masculinity in the female repels.

ORDER SALESMEN TO GET LICENSE

Owners of Real Estate to Procure Permits for Selling Agents

All salesmen employed by owners of real estate must be licensed. This is the decision of the attorney-general in an opinion recently issued to State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser, according to the California Real Estate Association news service.

This materially clears a mooted question and paves the way for much more satisfactory control of such a situation as was presented to the real estate department by a company in Alameda county. It was charged that salesmen for that concern were seriously misrepresenting their wares. The company owned the land, and the salesmen were not licensed. The department was forced to use publicity to put a stop to certain practices. This it did with great success, although the men were then operating outside of California.

The owner employers declined to license their salesmen, resting their case on the provision of the license law exempting owners selling their own land. This decision of the attorney-general will compel these salesmen to procure licenses, and thus come under the control of the department.

Gas Explosion Caused By Exhaust of Truck

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Flames from the exhaust pipe of a motor truck escaped the gas from a broken gas meter, causing an explosion that resulted in serious injuries to J. B. Crippen and the destruction of the truck and Crippen's home in West Eighty-ninth street.

The accident happened when the truck, being backed close to the house to be loaded, struck a gas meter and broke it off. The escaping gas blew almost directly into the hot exhaust of the truck motor. Within a few seconds an explosion followed with a sheet of fire that spread to the house. Crippen was badly burned when he tried to save some of the household articles.

BIG INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL IS SEEN

Julius H. Barnes Predicts Immense Activity in World Commerce

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH For International News Service
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Out of European chaos, from political and economic turmoil, will grow industrial and commercial activity hitherto undreamed of, Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States told the International News Service.

In spite of French occupation of the Ruhr and low hanging war clouds over the Near East, Barnes sees a rift in the skies. He predicted that "barring unforeseen catastrophes the day is clearly at hand when European merchants may again use their business judgment and world commercial policies will be established on a sound basis."

Encourages Signs
Barnes gets particular encouragement in the British debt negotiations and the fact that five nations, the United States, Japan, Switzerland, Holland and Sweden, are back to the gold parity, with Great Britain approaching this goal.

"It would require small farther progress now to set up conditions where gold metal might move in settlement of international trade balances," Barnes declared. "The commercial world will be able to base its foreign commerce on the liquidation of exchange balances by the flow of gold in settlement and hazards will measurably disappear. This would eliminate many merchant risks and would mean large overseas trade."

"When that starts the revival in Europe, with its vast potential

Morse Seeks to Have Indictments Quashed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, and his two sons, asked the District of Columbia supreme court to quash indictments charging them with conspiracy to defraud the United States. The trial of the cases is set for February 19. The Morses charged the indictments against them were illegally obtained.

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

"Moonshine Valley" the thrilling Fox western feature picture, continues at the Glendale Theatre. William Farnum, that virile star of thrills and action, plays the stellar role, that of a man who fights against heavy odds for right and justice.

The man's name is Ned Connors, a gold prospector with a run of bad luck. His wife, believing him dead, elopes with a doctor. Four nightmare years go by for Connors (Farnum).

Then the runaway wife returns, with her new husband, bringing a little three-year-old daughter. The child disappears but Connors finds her and brings her back to the mother. The doctor-husband runs away but Connors pursues him, and the doctor is killed at the end of a thrilling fight. The story ends in reconciliation.

The T. D. & L.

Gloria Swanson and Antonio Moreno, screen favorites, are entertaining T. D. & L. patrons today and tomorrow. They are appearing in "My American Wife," recently received by record audiences in Los Angeles.

The film will be shown again tomorrow and Manager Allan announces that every Glendale film fan should make a point to see what has been cited by critics as Gloria's latest success.

The picture went over big when shown in Los Angeles and Manager Allan considers himself fortunate in securing the picture for presentation here.

It's a good story and, of course, Gloria Swanson, with Antonio Moreno, makes it a "different" production from the usual run of pictures.

Enlarge Buying Power
"Europe needs chiefly re-establishment of peace and stable currencies that employing industries can safely enlarge their operations without resultant larger employment, to create an increase of buying power."

Barnes predicted that ultimately a conference will be held at which American representatives would sympathetically attempt to adjust the destructive social, political and economic practices of the old world. He said the conference would find a solution for the economic ills, and political, financial and economic errors which now hold back the tide of world recovery.

The MUCKER

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

To find the horses now required but a few minutes' search. They stood huddled in a black mass close to the barbed-wire fence at the extremity of the pasture. As she approached them they commenced to separate slowly, edging away while they faced her in curiosity. Softly she called: "Brazos!"

"That's a good pony," she cooed. "That's a good pony," she cooed. The animal let her reach up and stroke his forehead, while he muzzled about her for the expected titbit. Gently she worked the hackamore over his nose and above his ears, and when it was safely in place she breathed a deep sigh of relief and throwing her arms about his neck pressed her cheek to his.

"You dear old Brazos," she whispered. The horse stood quietly while the girl wriggled herself to his back, and then at a word and a touch from her heels moved off at a walk in the direction of the ford. The crossing of this time was one of infinite ease, for Barbara let the rope lie loose and Brazos take his own way.

Through the willows upon the opposite bank he shouldered his path, across the meadow still at a walk, lest they arouse attention, and through a gate which led directly from the meadow into the ranchyard. Here she tied him to the outside of the corral, and while she went in search of saddle and bridle. Whose she took she did not know, nor care, but that the saddle was enormously heavy she was perfectly aware long before she had dragged it halfway to where Brazos stood.

Three times she essayed to lift it to his back before she succeeded in accomplishing the Herculean task, and had it been any other horse upon the ranch than Brazos the thing could never have been done; but the kindly little pony stood in stolid resignation while the heavy Mexican tree was banged and thumped against his legs and ribs, until a lucky swing carried it to his withers.

Saddled and bridled Barbara led him to the rear of the building and thus, by a roundabout way, to the back of the office building. Here she could see a light in the room in which Billy was confined, and after dropping the bridle reins to the ground she made her way to the front of the structure. Eddie was stretched out in cramped through seeming luxury in an office chair. His feet were cocked up on the desk before him. In his lap lay his six-shooter ready for any emergency. Another reposed in his holster at his belt.

Barbara tiptoed to the door. Holding her breath she turned the knob gently. The door swung open without a sound, and an instant later she stood within the room. Again her eyes were fixed upon Eddie Shorter. She saw his nervous fingers relax their hold upon the grip of his revolver. She saw the weapon slip farther down into his lap. He did not move, other than to the deep and regular breathing of profound slumber.

Barbara crossed the room to his side. Behind the ranchhouse three figures crept forward in the shadows. Behind them a matter of a hundred yards stood a little clump of horses and with them were the figures of more men. These waited in silence. The other three crept toward the house. It was such a ranchhouse as you might find in the scores or hundreds throughout Texas. Grassy, evidently, or some other Texan, had designed it. There was nothing Mexican about it nor anything beautiful. It stood two stories verandaed and hideous, a blot on the soil of picturesque Mexico.

To the roof of the veranda clambered the three prowlers, and across it to an open window. The window belonged to the bedroom of Miss Barbara Harding. Here they paused and listened, then two of them entered the room. They were some for but a few minutes. When they emerged they showed evidences, by their restlessness to the third man who had waited outside, of disgust and disappointment.

Cautiously they descended as they had come and made their way back to those other men who had remained with the horses. Here there ensued a low-toned conference, and while it progressed Barbara Harding reached forth a steady hand which belied the revolver in her soul and plucked the revolver from Eddie Shorter's lap. Eddie slept on.

Again on tiptoe the girl recrossed the office to the locked door leading into the back room. The key was in the lock. Gingerly she turned it, keeping a furtive eye upon the sleeping guard, and the muzzle of his own revolver leveled menacingly upon him. Ed raised a hand to his face. The heart of Barbara Harding ceased to beat while she stood waiting for the man to open his eyes and discover her; but he did nothing of the kind. Instead his hand dropped limply at his side and he resumed his regular breathing.

The girl turned in the lock beneath the gentle pressure of her fingers, the bolt slipped quietly back and she pushed the door ajar. Within, Billy Byrne turned inquiring eyes in the direction of the opening door, and as he saw who it was who entered surprise showed upon his face; but he spoke no word for the girl held a silencing finger to her lips.

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad!

TODAY—Premier Bonar Law of England, has learned something about publicity, writes David M. Church, London correspondent.

TOMORROW—Karl M. Elish, Berlin, writes of the Tiergarten, the "central park" of the German capital.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Bonar Law has learned his first lesson in publicity.

When Bonar Law went to the fateful Paris Conference it was with full approval from his Cabinet the British attitude to the press. The Cabinet had urged a complete veil of secrecy during the December conference of Premiers in London, and it came to the conclusion that this policy of secrecy had been a failure. Hence it was decided that in the future when there are international conferences that the British views will be disclosed to the press, by the British. During the December conference the British views were disclosed by everybody, but the British, and it is understood that the Cabinet is not at all pleased with the versions which were given.

That is why Bonar Law talked to newspapermen when he was in Paris. He had learned his first lesson in publicity, which was that every man must "toot his own horn," for if he permits someone else to "toot" for him the reputation may be a little bit of scale.

Now correspondents in London are hoping that the Prime Minister will take a few further lessons and learn that perhaps his administration may be made easier if he opens up No. 10 Downing Street and gives the newspapermen a fair chance to learn what the Government is really doing.

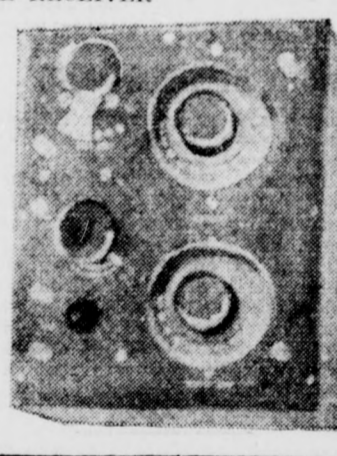

There have been many interesting repercussions concerning the publicity at the December Conference of Premiers. It happened that both the French and the Italian delegations were housed at the exclusive Claridge's. Never before had newspapermen been received in Claridge's with any degree of welcome, but this time things were different. M. Manning, the manager, and Richmond Temple, the hotel publicity expert, put their heads together and decided that things would be much more orderly, there would be less loitering in the lobby, if the newspapermen were given a press room. Hence a luxurious suite was thrown open for the correspondents, and not

REGENERATIVE RECEIVER

The type of regenerative receiver depicted in the illustration is admirably suited for the reception of radiophone signals, and very fine and accurate vernier adjustment is possible. The cabinet is of a dark oak with hinged cover to give ready access to the vacuum tube detector and to an inside "B" battery compartment. All terminals are plainly marked for connecting antenna, ground, telephone receivers, storage batteries and the "B" battery. For increased signal strength and higher output, a two-step amplifier can be added at any time. The receiver has a wave length range of 150 to 825 meters.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

BY LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

THE ARC SYSTEM

The transmitting method described in the preceding articles has been known as the "spark" or damped system of radiotelegraphy, which was almost universally used prior to the year 1910, and which is still in general use for communication to and between vessels at sea, although the more modern ships employ both systems, spark and continuous wave.

Because only groups of waves are sent out from the spark type of radio transmitting station, it is not possible to use the antenna system to maximum effectiveness. In order to develop some kind of practical apparatus for generating sustained or undamped high frequency currents having a suitable frequency for this use, it was not until the use of hydrogen gas in conjunction with a direct current arc for the production of high frequency currents was discovered that a simple and reliable means of accomplishing the desired purpose was secured.

Since that discovery, the adoption of the arc to radio purposes has been widespread, so that today it constitutes one of the most important and satisfactory equipments known to the art. Spark transmitters have met with great success at short range communication with small power such as is usually available on shipboard, for which requirements they have been particularly adapted. For long distance communication, however, such as would be required for transcontinental and

Murderer of 8 Persons Admitted by Prisoner

WACO, Tex., Feb. 9.—A Mitchell, a negro, has admitted killing eight persons in and near Waco within a little more than a year. County Attorney C. S. Farmer announced he today. Following his signed statements in which he declared, according to the county attorney, he had killed W. P. Driskill, Harrell Bolton, Grady Skippworth, W. E. Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SHADOW

Uncle Wiggily was up bright and early one morning—even before the sun.

"What is your hurry, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. The muskrat lady housekeeper was up early also, but that was nothing new as she had to get breakfast. "But you could have stayed in bed an hour more, Uncle Wiggily," said Nurse Jane.

"Thank you, I don't want to," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I want to get over to the burrow of Woodie and Waddie Chuck as soon as I can."

"Do you want to hear Uncle Marmot whistle again?" asked the muskrat lady.

"Not exactly that," answered Mrs. Wuzzer. "Though Uncle Marmot is a good whistler and by whistling yesterday he saved my ears, for he frightened away the Bob Cat. But what I am going over to the ground hog house for this time is to see about shadows."

"Shadows! What do you mean?" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "Are you going to wobble your ears and make shadows on the window curtain to amuse Woodie and Waddie?"

"No, it is the ground hog boys themselves who are going to make the shadows," answered the bunny. "At least they are coming out to look and see if their casts their shadow on the ground. If it does we shall have six weeks more winter."

"How is that?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Don't ask me!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "All I know is that this is Candlemas Day and if a ground hog or bear sees his shadow today he gets a bit frightened and goes back into his den to sleep for six long weeks more before spring comes."

"But if he doesn't see his shadow he isn't frightened and he only goes back to his den for a month—so spring comes more quickly."

"Do you believe that?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Not exactly," answered the bunny. "But, anyhow, it's true that Woodie and Waddie are coming out of their den to see if the sun will cast their shadows, and I'm going to watch them. That's why I'm up so early—before the sun has risen. And if you'll let me have a bit of breakfast I'll hop along."

"I'll have it ready for you in just a moment," said Nurse Jane. "Soon Uncle Wiggily was hopping over the fields in the early morning toward the burrow of the ground hog family where Uncle Marmot was residing."

Early as it was, however, there were others besides Uncle Wiggily who had arisen. Among them was the Fuzzy Fox, who was hungry. Along over the fields he slunk, looking for ears to nibble, and soon he saw Uncle Wiggily hopping through a patch of woods.

"Ah, ha!" snickered the Fox. "I'll sneak along after him and have a good breakfast."

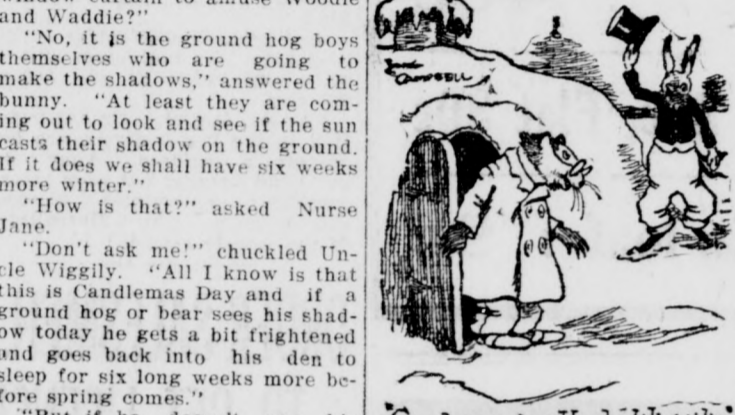

So the Fox sneaked softly along after the rabbit. Uncle Wiggily reached the burrow of the woodchucks. Mr. Chuck had just arisen and was coming out to see if the sun was shining.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily," greeted the groundhog gentleman, "have you seen any shadows this morning?"

"Not yet; it is too early. But I think the sun is going to rise and then, if you are out, it will cast your shadow," said the bunny. "That means a longer winter, I suppose."

"Well, it may and it may not," answered Mr. Chuck, "carefully. 'Come on out, family,' he called down the hole. 'Let's see if there are to be shadows today.'"

The old Fox was hiding behind a stump ready to grab Uncle Wiggily. But, all of a sudden, up came the glorious golden sun, and it cast the shadow of the Fox on the ground in front of Uncle Wiggily, Uncle Marmot and the "Good morning, Uncle Wiggily," Chuck family, all of whom were now out of the burrow.

"Oh, I see my shadow!" cried Woodie.

"Yes, and I see the shadow of a Fox after Uncle Wiggily!" cried Uncle Marmot with a shrill whistle. "But he shan't get my bunny friend!" cried Uncle Marmot. And with that he caught up a chunk of ice and threw it at the Fox, hitting him on the nose and driving him away with a yowling howl.

Then the sun rose higher and made shadows for all the woodchucks, but whether we have six or four weeks more of winter you will have to wait and see. Anyhow it was a good thing the sun cast the shadow of the Fox or otherwise he might have nibbled the bunny's ears.

So it all happened for the best, you see, and if the ice pick doesn't take all the hard words out of the spelling book and feed them to the blackboard, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Woodie's wagon.

Woman Prominent In British Politics

BEAUTY CHATS

MORE SHINING PEBBLES
A woman I know had a new dinner ring for Christmas.

It is a platinum ring, of course, and it has a sapphire in it and two good sized diamonds and some smaller diamonds scattered about in the lacy work of the platinum setting.

It is a very pretty ring, it shines and sparkles as she moves her hand about. All the other women of the bridge club exchanged it admiringly at that after-Christmas meeting when trophies of the season are displayed, examined and appraised. ("Yes, it's very effective, but when you look closely, my dear, you'll see that the diamonds are very small. I don't believe it cost more than $200 if it did that.")

It Came Out of Him
As it happened I saw that ring the day after Christmas. And I also saw the woman's husband. He looked frightfully tired, drawn, haggard, almost gray with fatigue. And this was the explanation. He works hard enough anyway and he had been working nights to get his wife that ring for Christmas. In other words all the sparkle and life that was in the ring had come out of him. I wonder if his wife liked it that way better. It seems inconceivable to me that she could.

After all, what did she get out of it? Joy in its beauty. Yes, we will say that was part of her pleasure. But how large a part do you think compared to the pleasure of displaying it to the bridge club? Suppose she had to choose between a marvellously beautiful ring which she could only look at in the privacy of her home or one-half as beautiful which she could display. Which would she choose?

The Eternal Cry
Some years ago I saw two children on the shore collecting colored pebbles. When it was time for them to leave one of the children held out his handful and said to the others: "Look, I've got more shining pebbles than you have."
I never come into touch with a woman who is greedy for jewelry—and by that I don't mean simply fond of trinkets, but greedy for them to the extent that she wants jewelry even if it means unpaid bills or a shabby home or an over-worked husband—that I don't think of those children and their shining pebbles.

What else is the woman who manages to outdistance all the other women at the bridge club in the number and costliness of her rings delighting in but that she has "more shining pebbles" than the rest.
And is it really worth while? And I pity the man
Often when I pass a jewelry store in the city I will see a woman standing in front of it pointing out to the man with her some bit of jewelry. And I wonder if he is going to have to work and worry and save to get that before there can be happiness in his home.

Happiness? What a wrong use of the word! As if the possession of one shining pebble more really gave happiness. All it can possibly give is a temporary pleasure which soon gives way to some new desire, some new envy.

NEAT LOOKING HAIR
I wonder what the ugliest thing in the world is? Our ideas on this subject are apt to vary from day to day, yet I think that the most exasperatingly ugly thing is the sight of a woman with wisps of hair blowing around her face and hanging down her neck. Possibly I think so because I notice these things more than other women, and possibly because I know this form of untidiness is so unnecessary.

Some people are cursed with what is known as wispy hair, short fine hairs that will not lie neatly in the way the comb places them. No amount of recombining will make them stay in place; they will detach themselves from the general mass to flop dejectedly around their owner's ears or to slide down her back. Yet even the most wispy head of hair can be made, and certainly should be made, neat looking.

How? By wearing hair nets. Nets come cheaply enough for anyone to be able to afford them. It takes little time and skill to learn to adjust them, and if the color is carefully chosen (and they come in every possible shade) there is no reason why they should be noticeable.

The cap shaped one I think is best. It shapes naturally to the head holding itself around the front, and leaving only a little to tuck in under the hair or the knot behind. Of course, even the straight nets are easily adjustable, they stretch in the middle where the hair is thickest and draw more tightly around the edges. But they leave quite a bit to be disposed of. And it's a test of cleverness, disposing of the left-over hair net. For a tangle of it held by a pin to the hair is not at all pretty; it must be tucked out of sight under a knot or a bit of hair held securely by an "invisible" hair pin.

Do You Use Hair Nets?
sample you sent me. Better use an oil tonic, I think this will restore its color.

DRAPERY EXPERT OPENS BUSINESS

George J. Lyons' Premises In Court Shops Hold Varied Stocks

George J. Lyons has opened a store in the Court Shops, at 211 East Broadway, carrying a complete new line of rods and draperies exclusively.

With the consistent and rapid growth of Glendale, Mr. Lyons feels he will be kept busy supplying curtains and drapes as structures continue to go up. He has been a resident of Glendale for the past eleven years and has watched its development with satisfaction and pride.

During all Mr. Lyons' eleven years as a Glendelian, he has been caring for the city's drapery wants and needs no introduction. He feels that his experience of six years with Bullock's and the past five years with the Holland-Work Rug Company of Los Angeles, fit him uniquely to care for the large business he anticipates in his new enterprise.

Special Feature
"As a special feature of our establishment," states Mr. Lyons, "all plain curtains will be made up for customers without charge; and this applies also to measuring, estimating and hanging. We know that Glendian owners will appreciate this offer."
Mr. Lyons adds that any one contemplating the erection of a home will find him glad indeed to offer his wide experience and knowledge in eliminating improper windows and groups of windows before the completed construction makes it too late to effect a change.

Diet and Health By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

I, I, I, I, MYSELF, I THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME CHAPTER XLV I Don't Get Rickets

Pure cod liver oil isn't so bad, I don't mind it at all. "What!" you Mamas say, "You a perfectly healthy baby, taking that nasty cod liver oil?"

Yes, Mamas, I am. And it isn't nasty. You must not say that and I am a perfectly healthy baby, too. My doctor is giving me the cod liver oil so that I shall get perfectly healthy. She does not want me to develop rickets. I get a teaspoonful twice a day, morning and afternoon, after feeding. Perhaps I spit a little out, but not much. I get the most of it. Mama began by giving me five drops twice a day, and she increased a drop each dose every day until now I am getting the two teaspoonfuls.

Did you ever think that babies that were fed on the wonderful precious milk made by their own mamas never got rickets? Well, they do sometimes. Even though apparently they are thriving and happy, and their mamas are getting apparently perfect diets and behaving perfectly properly so as to make them good milk.

While those of us who are so fortunate as to have our mama's milk do not develop rickets nearly so often as bottle-fed babies do, still we occasionally are afflicted. This disorder, rickets—the technical name is rachitis—develops especially during the winter months and manifests itself in the spring.

Cod liver oil will prevent rickets because it has a very high content of the anti-rachitic and growth vitamins in it, and because it helps the system to use properly the mineral elements supplied by the food. It is what the doctors call a specific medicine. A specific medicine is one that is known to prevent and cure certain disorders.
I have not got rickets. I am

WILL PUT TEETH IN REALTY LAWS

License Law to Be Amended To Demand Bonds From Realty Brokers

Measures proposed by real estate organizations in California, either sponsored by the California Real Estate association or local boards, include strengthening of the realty license law to provide for a $2,000 bond from brokers, and the placing of farm land subdivisions and colony projects more particularly under the control and supervision of the state real estate department. This announcement was made today by the state association news department. Another measure would require a realty broker to pass an examination before a board of real estate broker examiners. This measure includes the qualification test which was unanimously endorsed by California realtors at their recent state convention. Penalty Provided A penalty is also to be provided for the realty broker and salesman who does not conform to the license law. The dealer must maintain an office and advertise that fact in front of his office. The realtors and land owners of California have gotten together in a constructive program for safeguarding the public in its investments in California lands. A plan is also being worked out whereby the present legislature will have to pass on an act putting an end to the so-called "unit" promotional schemes, which, state officials estimate, is responsible for $30,000,000 in savings being invested in projects of questionable and unstable value.

News Notes From Valley Towns

Valley Population Now 25,000 Says County Registrar

THE San Fernando valley now has a population of 25,000, according to statistics recently compiled by David B. Lyons, county registrar of voters.

Of the registered voters in the valley, Los Angeles city precincts had 3,803; Burbank, 2,123; San Fernando, 1,199; Lancaster, 615, and Chatsworth and Calabasas, 138. The total registration in the San Fernando valley for the November election was 7,882. The estimate of population is based on three persons to every voter. An allowance is also made for the increase in population since last November. Van Nuys' population is now estimated to be over 6,000. Twelve years ago there was no Van Nuys.

School Budget Gets Increase of 23 Pct.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9. — Political educators, under the barage of Governor Friend W. Richardson's message are attempting to throw out a smoke screen of misrepresentation to cover up the orgy of extravagance that has been rampant in educational circles in the past few years.

Education is not crippled, as is clearly stated in Governor Richardson's budget message. An increase of $8,618,627.60 or 23 per cent during the past two years is shown and the executive says, "The recommendations made for the schools are undoubtedly greater than they should be, but it has been my purpose to be liberal in the matter of education."

A majority of the instructors have noted the building up of this immense political machine with grave concern, and are in full accord with Governor Richardson, but they have hesitated in protesting for fear of inciting the wrath of the politicians, according to the statement of a prominent high school principal.

GOODCELL SHOWS TAX REDUCTIONS

Federal Revenue Act Cuts 15 Million Dollars From L. A. Receipts, Claim

Facing tax reductions of $15,000,000 per annum, which were provided for by the new revenue act, the collections of the Los Angeles district for the first seven months of the fiscal year reached the immense sum of $21,299,293.51, according to a report submitted to Washington by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

Collector Goodcell in his survey showed that the repeal of the transportation tax alone had reduced taxes in the district $5,600,000 during the past year. In the immense saving to the taxpayer must be included a reduction of $600,000 in theatre admission taxes, $7,000,000 in income tax, and sales and soda water taxes of $800,000. Yet in the face of these sweeping reductions $21,299,293.51 was collected for the seven months ending January 31.

Collector Goodcell in his report to Washington referred to the fact that the new revenue act had reduced federal taxes in this district $15,000,000 per annum and he contended that this shrinkage in receipts would have to be offset by taxes originating from new business enterprises, expansion of established industries and from increased incomes of individuals. In other words, business prosperity must take care of the tax reduction.

Canopies to Guard Guests From Rain Are Erected Across Sidewalks

Jupiter Pluvius will not be permitted to interfere tonight with the first annual ball of the Police and Firemen's Benefit Association.

Canopies are being stretched across the sidewalk in front of both the hall at 133 North Brand boulevard and at 201 West Broadway where this two-ring affair will be held. Capt. Ralph Dodsworth and Tom Philip, members of the fire department were busy all day with the decorations.

According to Sergeant W. J. Boyle, president of the association, humidity in the atmosphere is not going to be allowed to dampen any spirits. He called attention to the fact that a little rain would be desirable, anyhow, and that a truck load of Green Hill beverages had been donated by the S. W. Brown company of 463 West Los Feliz road for the occasion.

Mayor Spencer Robinson and Harry Girard have both promised to sing during the course of the evening. George Blix of the fire department, and C. E. Epps of the police department, will also sing.

Two Orchestras

A. M. Kelly of 1191 East Wilson avenue, director of the Shrine Club Orchestra, has charge of the music.

The orchestra at Odd Fellows' Hall will be composed of the following: Roy Donaldson, drums; Mike Kamin, piano; Earl Floyd, saxophone; C. E. Jones, banjo; and A. M. Kelly, violin.

The orchestra at the other hall will be composed of the following: Miss Pansy Corp, piano; Jack McFarland, saxophone; J. W. Hamilton, drums; and Jack Dootner, banjo.

The musical program will consist of all the latest popular "hits" including "Fuzzy-Wuzzy Bird," "Through the Night," "China Boy," and "Carolina in the Morning."

Arrangements are being made by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, and A. H. Lankford, fire chief, to permit as many of the members of the association to attend this affair as possible. Five trucks will be kept on duty at Fire Station No. 1. In addition, one of the fire trucks will be parked in the vicinity of Brand boulevard and Broadway.

Firemen On Duty

No. 1 Fire Station has the following attendants: Ed Fairfield, Ralph Dodsworth, Frank Kiefer, Al Moniot, Jack Rockwell, George Meyers, Deal Williams, George Blix, Hugh Chrisman, Tom Philip, Harry Elliott, and Al Psenner.

No. 2 is attended by a quartet composed of Johnny Meyers, William Gould, Jesse Wilkes and Sam Rich.

No. 3 is attended by a trio composed of Tom Young, Joe Becker and Arthur Schuster.

The police department has the following members: Lieut. Joe Griffin, A. Kerns, W. J. Royle, M. H. Collins, George M. Booth, R. L. McLean, Thomas McGuire, J. H. Lauritzen, E. Epps, L. Nunn, W. W. Timmons, I. F. LaRock, R. Baugh, W. A. Loving, J. H. Simmons, D. L. Fleming, B. H. Connors, William Schilling, Charles B. Blake, C. S. Hamilton, James Claxton, L. R. Hollingsworth, E. E. Covert, William Hobensack, William LaRock, W. W. Hedrick, Harry Williams, J. D. Cole, George Brewster and Capt. W. A. Loving.

GLENDALE'S TEMPLE OF MUSIC IS MASTERWORK OF ARTISTRY

New Brand Boulevard Establishment Opens With Special Program Saturday

By GIL A. COWAN

No Moorish castle on Mediterranean shore— No Athenian palace of Grecian lore— No Japanese pagoda shall, furthermore, Surpass in beauty this Glendale store.

FOR, in the new Artistic Brunswick Shoppe at 123 South Brand boulevard, Glendale, is created a Temple of Music which combines the several arts appreciated best when seen and heard.

Reporting the mere investment of $5000 in architecture, art and furnishing fails to do justice to that work of Charles Cressey, architectural designer for the R. L. Kent Company, or Charles L. Jenkins, woodcarver, or William Schulz, artist, formerly of the Tiffany studios, to whom the Glendale Phonograph Company gives full credit for the beautiful action of their new establishment.

This temple, for truly that is what the gods would decree it to be, opens to the public tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock with music and souvenirs and a program in the evening. It will be an event in the commercial life of this city which reflects credit on the owners who were inspired to give Glendale the very finest mind you, in a musical merchandise establishment.

Atmosphere of Art

One feature predominates—that is the atmosphere of an art gallery. It is realized by the owners that good music and fine arts are allied. Three months' work have been expended and every effort made to make the Artistic Brunswick Shoppe most elaborate in all points of detail, even to the manufacture of special furniture unobtainable in this country's marts.

The main floor display room incorporates two specially constructed sound proof booths for the convenience of those who desire to hear the latest records. Moorish design gives a touch of splendor such as is seldom found even in the drawing room of the most exclusive home. Two valuable paintings, the work of Mr. Schulz, adorn the walls and lend richness to the setting.

A broad staircase leads to the mezzanine where there are two separate display rooms of generous proportions, each fitted like the conservatory, but entirely different in design and purpose.

One, with a Grecian motif in its decoration, will be devoted to the Artistic Brunswick consoles, the finer phonograph which is now to be found in so many Glendale homes. The other room, with its orchids and blossoms and furniture exuding the exotic breath of old Japan, will be used for the display of grand pianos.

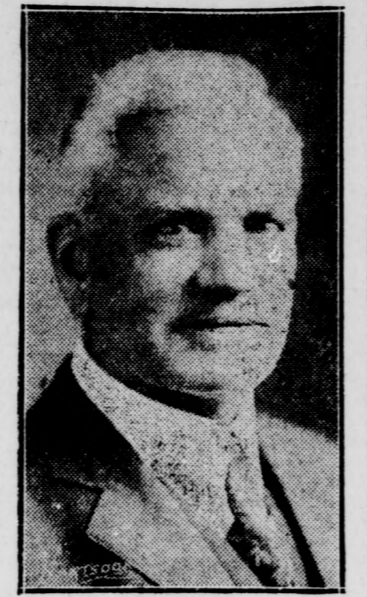

Harmony Is Keynote

Even the furniture for the latter setting had to be hand made and it works into beautiful harmony with the leading lines of pianos which the Brunswick Shoppe boasts. Acoustics, also, had their share of attention and nothing is left undone to make ideal.

Plan Milk Benefits For War's Victims

REV. CHARLES V. LAFONTAINE, here to arrange dates for speakers on Near East relief work.

With the approval of the ministers of the city, to whom the matter of the campaign for the Near East Relief was presented, Rev. Charles V. LaFontaine and Mrs. LaFontaine, authorized representatives, are in the city and are arranging dates for the Near East Relief speakers for all the churches and local organizations.

As a part of the campaign a milk benefit is being arranged for at each of the grammar schools, by permission of the board of education, and the approval and co-operation of City Superintendent R. D. White and the teachers.

Mr. LaFontaine will show a new three-reel motion picture of the educational and vocational work of the Near East Relief, without any of the gruesome details of the horrors of that land. At each showing a donation of canned milk is asked of the children and this milk will be shipped over to the orphanage in Armenia.

Meetings Scheduled

- The schedule is as follows: Tuesday, February 13, 3:30 p. m., at the K. of C. hall, corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard, for the children of the Glendale avenue schools; Wednesday, February 14, 3:15 p. m., at the Wilson Intermediate school, for the children of the Wilson avenue, Colorado street and Pacific avenue schools; Thursday, February 15, 3:15 p. m., at the Grand View school; Friday, February 16, 7:30 p. m., at the Broadway school for the children of the Broadway and Doran street schools; Saturday, February 17, 3:15 p. m., at the Central school for the children of the Columbus avenue and Central avenue schools; Friday, February 16, 3:30 p. m., at Cerritos avenue school.

The admission to see the picture will be the donation of one or more large cans of evaporated milk.

REST HOME FOR MISSIONARIES FOUNDED BY GLENDALE WOMAN

Christian Workers in Foreign Fields Find Peaceful Haven for Furloughs

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Member of Evening News Staff

SEEDS that may bear fruitage to encircle the earth are being planted at 1506 South Glendale avenue, where a woman with a great vision, and a heart almost as great, is completing the first six units of her premiere Missionary Rest Home. The woman is Mrs. J. E. Suppes and the scope of her project includes similar homes in Seattle, Wash., and at such foreign points as Japan, the Canary Islands and Central America.

The idea is a development of the Christian Missionary Alliance home for single missionaries, at 2663 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles, which Mrs. Suppes developed and has conducted with marked success for the past five years.

Previous to that, for eight years, Mrs. Suppes had run a home for working girls at 2007 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles. It was during her proprietorship of this establishment that she first conceived her idea, Mrs. Suppes states, for missionaries were frequently brought to her for lodging, and she came to realize that no proper accommodations existed anywhere for their exclusive care.

Catches the Vision

"During the war," explains Mrs. Suppes, "I first realized forcibly how little was being done for the Soldiers of the Cross, those brave warriors who leave home and friends and all, and go to the desolate and savage outposts of the world, to fight in the darkness the battle for Christ.

"When brave souls such as they gladly give everything they have, staying seven years at a time in those lonely lands, their brief furloughs home should be filled with peace and rest—and that is the light I saw and what I aim to provide."

Mrs. Suppes talked of the small way in which her work began, with no church or board to back her up. Step by step she told of the slow upward climb. And then she spoke of her final decision to locate her first Missionary Rest Home in Glendale, after long seeking a location that would combine quiet, beautiful surroundings with accessibility and other desirable points.

Mrs. Suppes considers that one of the strongest stones in the foundation she is building for this great work is its undenominationalism. "I have only one aim and that is to bring more light to a Christian and Missionary Alliance church, which is undenominational, and my work, too, is undenominational. My cottages will be open to all Soldiers of the Cross, and especially those with

PEACE LOOMS IN IRELAND, REPORT

Leader of Irregulars in Plea To Comrades to Halt Hostilities

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—The Irish peace campaign took a sensational turn today when a statement, signed by Liam Deasy, chief of staff of the republican irregulars, was issued urging the republicans to lay down their arms but under protest.

Later the authenticity of the statement was questioned and it was attributed to a faction of the republicans hostile to Deasy. Up to noon it had been impossible to obtain a statement from Deasy. Friends said that the statement was written on January 29 and had been in the hands of rebel leaders since that date.

President Cosgrave of the Dail Eireann, head of the Irish Free State government, was reported in London today on a mission closely linked with Irish peace negotiations.

Would End Conflict

The Deasy statement said in part:

"I thought it best to advise my comrades to agree to terms (Free State terms) rather than prolong the conflict. By ending the struggle now we await a more favorable opportunity to renew it with a common foe."

It was reported that President Cosgrave was accompanied to London by Hugh Kennedy, legal adviser of the Free State Government, and Kevin O'Higgins, home secretary.

Large numbers of irregulars in the northern part of County Cork were reported to be surrendering their arms.

Free State military officials said they had received word that irregular bands were breaking up and that many fighters were returning to their homes.

Reports of train wrecking continue to arrive. In some districts the irregulars are confining their activities to wrecking trains.

Hooded Mob Evidence Goes to Grand Jury

BASTROP, La., Feb. 9.—The Morehouse parish grand jury commission was ordered to assemble at the court house next Tuesday to select the new jury which will decide whether indictments will be returned against those accused of killing Thomas Richards and Matt Daniel at Mer Rouge last August.

The grand jury will consider evidence developed last month in the state's "open hearing" in Bastrop.

Old King Coal was a merry old soul. And there is nothing particularly significant about that except the tense.

LENDALE REALTY BOARD WILL FORM APPRAISAL COMMITTEE

O. H. Vickery, Chairman of L. A. Organization, Gives Ideas; Discuss Title 'Realtor'

APPRAISING the values of real estate was the subject of the address of O. H. Vickery, chairman of the appraisal committee of the Los Angeles Realty Board, at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Realty Board at the C. & S. Cafeteria yesterday, in which he stressed the necessity of an unbiased valuation of any property by men who are thoroughly conversant with all the conditions governing the development of property.

The custom of securing expert appraisals is becoming more general, said Mr. Vickery, as investors, banks, courts and other persons realize the value of an expert valuation of the property involved, and the best and most reliable opinions can be secured through the adoption of the report of a committee of three, the majority of whose members are in accord. To this big committee, the speaker asserted, tends to become unwieldy and there is always difficulty in securing the right kind of co-operation when a committee consists of too large a number.

With Open Minds

The men who form such an appraisal committee, Mr. Vickery stated, should approach their subject with open minds and unprejudiced by any previously expressed opinions either by themselves or others and in order to be able to appraise properly they must have judgment and an intimate knowledge of actual conditions that affect the property involved in any way. All kinds of factors enter into the fixing of the value of a piece of property, and these must all be given consideration by the committee.

Mr. Vickery's address followed immediately on the adoption of a report of a committee headed by C. B. Guthrie, which had been appointed to investigate the question of organizing an appraisal committee from among the members of the Glendale Realty Board.

In his report Mr. Guthrie stated that the committee was agreed that the organization of an appraisal committee would be of advantage to the board, but the report stated distinctly that the committee ought not to be asked to decide disputes between members of the board, and that it should only act when asked to do so by some outside person or by some public philanthropic body interested in local real estate.

Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, spoke briefly following Mr. Vickery's address, confining his remarks to endorsing the suggestions made by the latter.

Committee Reports

Mayor Spencer Robinson and G. H. Wende, who had been appointed as a committee to take up with the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce the question of the submission of all real estate inquiries received at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce to the Realty Board, reported that they had taken the matter up with the officials of the Chamber of Commerce and had been told, after a lengthy discussion, that the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce would, in future, handle all communications that came with reference to real estate here.

The reason for the adoption of this stand by the Chamber of Commerce, it was stated, was that a prospective newcomer to Glendale, whose preliminary enquiry had been placed at the disposal of a number of real estate men, usually received a flood of letters from local real estate men that tended to confuse him and to give him the idea that "everything in town was for sale."

Only those inquiries in future that asked for particular information regarding realty dealers would be turned over to the Glendale Realty Board, Mayor Robinson stated.

Title of 'Realtors'

Mr. Wende called the attention of the board to the annual report that has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce, stating that many of the persons whose names in the report are listed as "realtors" are not, in reality, entitled to use this title, which is to be used only by such real estate men as are members of the California Real Estate Association, and through that organization, or the national association.

It is not claimed, Mr. Wende declared, that the men whose names are thus wrongfully listed gave the published descriptions of themselves as realtors, as it is more likely, he said, that the title was applied to many of them through error.

A motion was adopted instructing the secretary of the Glendale Realty Board to communicate with the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce demanding that the latter organization refrain from issuing any more of the annual reports until such time as the real estate dealers in the city had been properly classified and the proper corrections made in the designations applied to them in the report.

The secretary reported that the sales made through the multiple listing system since the first of the month totaled $71,000.

A resolution from the Pasadena Realty Board was submitted asking that the members of the state legislature be asked to support the legislative program of the California Real Estate Association, and a request was made that the Glendale Realty Board go on record as endorsing the resolution.

In an industrial controversy, the public's sympathy usually goes to the side that can tell the most convincing lies.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Need Regional Chief Turkey To Take Tumble One Man Questions Law Home Talent Smiles

By Gil A. Cowan

GOVERNMENT ownership, as represented by the United States postoffice department, develops a weakness in administration in such rapidly growing sections of the country as Southern California which is apparent only to officials and difficult to rectify.

Specifically, there should be a representative of the postmaster general's office on the Pacific coast vested with authority sufficient to eliminate the wasted time and effort in waiting on Washington to act.

The national capital and the officials there are too far from the scene of activity to really appreciate what inspectors and postmasters have to contend with in the most rapidly developing portion of the States.

In some instances it takes six months to get action and by that time the situation has become almost unbearable. The only effective remedy in the writer's opinion would be a regional postmaster general with power to act. The army, navy and most other departments of government recognize this principle of liaison and just as there is a commander of the Pacific fleet, there should be similar autonomous authority in the matter of mails.

There is a district federal reserve bank governor, there are district judges, divisional prohibition chiefs, and so forth, but nothing like it in the postoffice department. Just an oversight, perhaps, but it is a missing link that is keenly felt.

In the death of Congressman H. Z. Osborne, Los Angeles and Southern California have lost a public servant whose work will live long after his name has faded from the memory of man.

Los Angeles harbor is among the achievements which has marked the late representative's activity in Washington and for that alone all of the southland may say:

"Well done, my good and faithful servant."

Turkey issued an ultimatum for all foreign craft to withdraw from Smyrna harbor. The commanders were ordered to stay and they are still there.

The Ottoman empire for years has been the biggest bluffer, the dumbest duffer, of them all. While it is reported that the allied ships are undetermined, there is every indication that once again the Turkish government will have to back down or have a war on its hands.

And a further belligerency on the part of the Turks may make it desirable to put them back where they belong.

For years past Eagle Rock has been collecting toll from those who sped across a little span, unhappily called bridge, near the famous Bird Rock behind which speed officers laid their trap for unwary motorists.

Now it is revealed that all of this was illegal. The city based its right to collect a fine on a ruling of the highway commission, which in the first place had no jurisdiction, and in the second place had no legislative right, and in the third place could impose no penalty if it desired.

It took just one man with more courage than common sense, more money than an ordinary fine, and enough regard for his personal rights to question the court—and expressly said, "He won."

Eagle Rock and other cities should be careful in collecting fines from speeders.

What a host of talent may be found in a production of a play in your own home town.

Glendale is only an instance and in its Shrine club presentation of "Smile Again" there is no question but what amateurs equal professionals.

This is not only true of Glendale, but most other cities. The professional actor sometimes is not "so much," but has taken to the work.

In the home, at the office, in every walk of life, there are real actors, people who act their very life.

Visiting a country club not so long ago the writer was surprised at those who graced the ballroom. Perhaps the motion pictures have made this change in national character which permits the artisan to put away his denims and don a dress suit for the evening.

No reason why they shouldn't, anyway.

Harbor Appropriation Increased by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Disregarding the wishes of President Harding, the senate has upheld the action of the house in providing an appropriation of $5,000,000 for rivers and harbors improvements—$29,000,000 more than was recommended by the bureau of the budget for this purpose.

REEVES INDORSES BUYING AT HOME

City Employees Are Urged to Supply Needs From Local Stores

The trade-at-home slogan is indorsed by City Manager W. H. Reeves, who yesterday issued the following bulletin to city employees:

"Your attention is respectfully called to Section 4 of Article 23 of the city charter, which reads as follows: "When making purchases for all departments of the city, local merchants shall be given the preference, quality and prices being equal."

"The city of Glendale is endeavoring to loyally carry out the above charter provision, knowing it to be in the city's interest so to do. We are calling this matter to the attention of city employees at this time for the reason that in certain instances city employees are making extensive purchases on their own account outside of the city of Glendale without giving the home merchant an opportunity to do the business.

"On account of the fact that the Glendale merchants are very heavy taxpayers and that the money which they thus contribute goes to pay the salaries of city employees, it should be evident that our city employees owe a certain duty to the home merchant in these matters.

"It is the wish and desire of the city administration that all city employees give the merchants of Glendale the first opportunity to supply their needs, going elsewhere only when their requirements cannot be met by our local merchants."

North Dakotans Give McKee Surprise Party

Thursday morning, at about 11 o'clock, a party of fifty people gathered at 1545 South San Fernando road, and sprung a surprise on John McKee, who lives at that address.

Anyone breezing by from Devil's Lake, North Dakota, and not knowing what was in the wind, would have recognized many old friends, for the party comprised of families that used to live in that vicinity.

At 1 o'clock a dinner was served to the entire party, after which, in Mr. McKee's own words, "A darn good time was enjoyed by all."

RUSH TO RESCUE OF ENTOMBED MEN

Many of Miners Held in Underground Prison May Be Still Alive

(Continued from page 1) leading from the mine to Dawson were torn down by the blast and word of the disaster did not reach the outside world for more than two hours.

Immediately rescue workers from Raton, N. M., and Trinidad, Colo., were summoned and, aiding the rescue crews of the owners of the mine, they started clearing away the mass of earth and rock that blocked the entrance to the mine.

Four of the seven bodies recovered up to noon, had been identified as H. A. English, a nipper; Albert English, his son, a foreman; A. E. Similla, a motorman, and Arthur Trujillo, a mucker. These men were in a car only a short distance from the portal of the mine when the blast came.

A continual procession of women and children marched before the mine mouth in the cold February weather, hoping against hope that their loved ones might be rescued, but the cordon of guards had little difficulty in maintaining order. A majority of the entombed men are foreigners and as their bodies were slowly brought from the subterranean sepulchre, their sad-faced, tearful women folk hovered between mine portal and the temporary morgue fearful that each was the body of "her man."
