Mr. Editor, -There is an evil which is every day regressing, and which ultimately may lead to the worst consequences, should our city officers not take immediate pleasures to put a stop to it; the evil. Mr. -Editor, to which I have reference, is the great number of ranaway slaves who shelter themselves within the vicinity of our city. These slaves, should we only number those belonging to this parish, amount at least to five hundred. But if we take into consideration those longing to the adjoining parishes, it can be said with unth that our city affords an asylum for at least, seven hundred vagrant slaves. It is perha a useless to dwell minutely upon the necessity of effecting a remedy to this evil as our aldermen, no doubt understand its nature, and the necessity of putting a stop to it, by the enactment and enforcement of efficacious ordinances It is said that there is a good ordinance upon this; subject: if there is, why do not the police officers en-
