THE NORTHERN MAIL came through yesterday with the latest dates.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

The past week has failed to fulfill the expectations of those who had fondly hoped to witness a progressive alleviation in the pressure of the monetary crisis. The panic, it is true, has subsided. Public confidence in the strength and stability of our banks has gradually revived, partly in consequence of the prudent counsels of the press, and partly on account of the favorable financial exhibit shown in the weekly statements of these institutions. In other respects, however, there is little improvement manifested. A lifeless torpor paralyzes commercial movements, and operations in cotton are clogged by the difficulty of effecting exchanges. Under such circumstances it is almost superfluous to remark that the money market is a blank. Negotiations for paper are out of the question. The banks are as lenient as possible to their debtors, renewing freely with or without curtailment, but absolutely declining new discounts. Relief seems to us more distant than we had at first imagined; and we can discern in the vista of the future but a single prospect of permanent amelioration, to-wit: in the expected remittances of specie from Europe for the purchase of the incoming cotton crop. Meanwhile, our merchants, as a general rule, are battling with wonderful energy and perseverance against the crushing disasters of the times, and are sparing neither sacrifice nor exertion to meet their liabilities. No language can do justice to the resolute and honorable conduct of this meritorious class of our community.

The weekly statement of the banks appeared on Saturday evening, and entirely substantiate our previously expressed opinions of the standing and solvency of these depositories. But, as will be perceived by the annexed tables, it demonstrates the determination of the banks to maintain their position by a process of contraction, terrible in the existing condition of monetary affairs, but indispensable, as many persons believe, to their safety and security. We have no doubt that whenever the banks think they may, without danger, resume their former system of accommodations, this course will be resorted to.

A noticeable feature in the record of the present crisis, is a public meeting of planters in the parish of Tensas, at which resolutions were adopted not to send their cotton to the city to be sold at current rates. This startling decision has provoked much unfavorable comment. The principle which should govern the planter is perfectly clear and intelligible. Either he is unembarrassed and free from debt, or he owes heavy sums to his factor for advances made and predicated on the cotton crop. In the first instance he has, of course, an indefeasible right to do exactly as he pleases—to store his cotton and wait for better prices, or to send it to town and dispose of it at the best rates it will command. But the planter who is largely indebted to the factor is bound by the plainest obligations of justice and honesty to redeem his pledged faith. He borrowed money to work his plantation, and procured it from the house to which he usually consigns his cotton. It is the property of these acceptances incurred by the factor for the benefit of the planter, and redeemable alone by the value of the crop, which now places in peril the advency of our largest and soundest commission houses. The factor who has extended pecuniary facilities to the planter has an unquestionable right to require the latter to forward his crop at the earliest moment, as that he (the factor) may, by disposing of it, be placed in possession of funds to meet the heavy liabilities maturing against him. We are glad to perceive that one of our contemporaries—the Delta—has denounces the false and selfish view taken by the cotton planters of Tensas. We cordially endorse every word uttered by that journal. We conceive that the cotton growers of Louisiana would not only be guilty of an inexcusable breach of faith by seeking back their crops, but would injure themselves, forfeit their claims upon their factors, materially aggravate the financial crisis, and be directly responsible for every suspension and failure which might result from the unwise, impolitic and discreditable determination. Doctrines like these are somewhat of a novelty on the soil of Louisiana, and it is to be hoped they will not extend beyond the small circle of rash and unadvised persons in which they originated.

Our cotemporary, the Picayune, appeared yesterday in a new and handsome typographical dress—an evidence of the prosperity which that enterprising journal well deserves, and has long enjoyed.

NOTHING TO EAT.—We are indebted to the publishers, DICK & FITZGERALD, through J. C. MORGAN, Exchange Place, for a copy of this exceedingly handsome and richly illustrated comic volume. It is a clever parody of Edgar Allan Poe's famous poem of "Nothing to Wear," and is full of sprightliness and wit.

ONE PRICE THE MOTTO.—At HUNSON & CO.'s great depot, No. 34 Magazine street, may be found every article of clothing for men, boys and children, suited to all the varied tastes and callings—every article is marked low, to suit the times, and the price is unchangeable. See advertisement.

A RELIC OF THE ITALIAN REVOLUTION OF 1849.—Under this title Mr G. DARLU, an Italian patriot, has issued a large and magnificent volume containing fifty fine engravings, executed in copper by eminent artists at Rome, which were secreted from the Papal police after the restoration of order, and brought to America. These engravings comprise an historical and satirical series of the leading events during the momentous period referred to, and are replete with significance. Their execution is exquisite, and, considered merely as works of art, they are worthy of admiration. A sketch of the circumstances to which the engravings relate, and an explanation in detail of each of them, are furnished by way of preface. The work may be obtained at Galeti's music store, and, from its beauty and merit, constitutes a superb album which may fitly decorate the centre table of a drawing room, and will interest every lover of the fine arts.

A most melancholy accident, attended with loss of life, occurred in the rear of No. 36 and 38 Remson street, between Union and Lorimer avenues, Williamsburg, on Sunday, the 18th inst. Four persons were, without the slightest warning, launched into eternity, and the hearts of many poor people were made sad and gloomy in consequence. The victims were stone masons, who were employed upon an extensive liquor beer vault which was in course of erection at the rear of the above-mentioned place, when a heavy mass of earth fell upon them from the embankment above, producing suffocation and death.

U. S. BANK.—The National Intelligencer, in an elaborate essay, broaches the propriety of the re-establishment of an United States Bank.

NATIONAL CHESS CONGRESS.—Tenth Day.—The playing still continues with unabated vigor, and considerable progress was made in the games on Friday. The only remaining contestants in the first section of the grand tournament, Messrs Fiske and Maranche, played on Friday evening for the first time in four days. Mr. Maranche having been absent. In the second section of the grand tournament Mr. Lichtenstein won one game; Perry, none. Messrs. Paulsen and Morphy are clear of this game.

In the first section of the minor tournament the games of the parties who have yet to play stood: Dodge two, Miller two—one drawn game; Martin one, Mobile two, Dunning one, Faulner none, Horner two, Carpio none—one drawn game.

But little interest in the game time next week, Mr. Paulsen will play five games at once blindfolded. This will be quite an event in the history of chess-playing, as the best blindfolded players heretofore have never attempted more than three games at one time.

On the 17th the Chess Banquet took place, at which, says the Tribune, Mr. Paul Morphy showed proof of possessing talents as an orator equal to those as a chess-player. This young gentleman has been preparing himself for a legal career, and promises to be one of the most eloquent members of the Louisiana bar.

MEXICO.

ARRIVAL OF THE TENNESSEE.

The U. S. mail steamship Tennessee, Capt. FORBES, from Vera Cruz, Oct. 21st., arrived here on Saturday night. She brought 349,356 50 in specie, consigned to various commercial houses. By this arrival we are put in possession of dates from the city of Mexico to the 19th inst. One of the chief items of intelligence is the appointment of a new cabinet, as follows:

Minister of Foreign Affairs, Jose Fuente.
Minister of the Interior, Benito Juarez.
Minister of Justice, Manuel Ruiz.
Minister of War, Jose M. Garcia Conde.
Minister of the Treasury, Manuel Payno.
Minister of Fomento, Sabina Flores.

We learn from our correspondent that the Legislature and the Executive are, as usual, at issue. The President demands extraordinary powers, which Congress is unwilling to grant. Mr. Comonfort is strongly censured for his misplaced lenity towards the reactionists, and is held responsible for the spirit of disaffection and attempts at revolt prevailing in many portions of the republic.

COBOS, the great leader of the rebels, has been soundly thrashed at Chilapa, by Gen. ALVAREZ, and forced to fight. He lost a large proportion of his troops.

We take the following items from the Mexican Extraordinary:

NEWS TOPICS.

The powers of endurance of this poor country are being strained to an extent that we guarantee no one ever before believed she could endure. Day by day the prospect becomes more gloomy. If to-day we have simple robberies, to-morrow we have robberies and assassinations. To such a pitch has the state of things come that we find the channels of commerce congealed, while the country is not disturbed by a foreign war, whilst our country is free from commercial panics, whilst a demand exists to a large extent—simply by the insecurity of the roads from thieving bands. The ancient annual fair of San Juan has this year been given up from this cause.

Travel is in a like manner disturbed. No one can take the road for ever so short a distance without the fear of being robbed, insulted or murdered before he has reached his journey's end. A robbery has just occurred of the most daring and outrageous character, on one of the greatest thoroughfares of the city, which makes every one here fear to stir abroad. The most audacious are lost in their speculations as to how the present rule of robbers is to be brought to an end. The excesses, although a month has now elapsed since, according to the constitution, their functions commenced, has not yet proposed any plan for the remedy of the present state of government. Constituted by the inaction of that body, is left powerless to do aught. In this way the government of the nation is left without power. And in the meantime the whole country are plotting and in ruin in the Northern and frontier States; the robbers and revolutionists in the central States, and the Indians in the extreme South.

The news our correspondent furnishes us from Yucatan will be found interesting and at the same time of a melancholy character. As is clearly shown, the central government is unable to sustain there a sufficient force to keep down revolutions and to protect the inhabitants from the fear of being robbed by the Indians. The murder of four hundred persons lately in cold blood is sufficient evidence of this. Will they be the last? Is there any hope for a more stable state of things in time? We fear not, under the embarrassed condition which Mexico must be thrown for many years. If Mexico cannot keep Yucatan quiet and protect its inhabitants from massacre, is it not right for her to dispose of that territory? We make this suggestion, because the territory is worthless to Mexico as her property, but would doubtless be sold to the United States for a large sum of money.

The unnatural coldness of the weather for the past few days is proof positive that a severe norther is raging at Vera Cruz.

Congress has done nothing as yet. Day after day follows without any positive action upon the important question of how the nation is to be governed.

A correspondent, writing from Tepic, under date of Oct. 3d, says:

"This place has become more quiet since my last letter. Lozada, with his band of robbers, retired from the vicinity on hearing of the approach of the troops from Guadalajara. Notwithstanding their rapid retreat, a portion of the troops encountered him, and after a short engagement eighty of the robbers were taken prisoners. As the Governor had given the troops liberty to execute summary punishment, the prisoners are since shot. Lozada has gone, with the surviving members of his force, into the Sierra."

MEANS.—This rebel leader has lately met with a defeat in the north, in the section of Flores. Report does not give us the sanguinary details of the battle.

QUERETARO.—The State of Queretaro is threatened with a revolt, and the towns and villages have been declared under martial law.

DURANGO.—This State is yet the scene of daily outrages from the Indians. Robbers are also numerous.

RESIGNATION OF GOV. BAZ.—Gov. BAZ has resigned his position as the Governor of the District of Congress. The cause given for this is his inability to fill that post and hold his seat in Congress. He will, however, still govern the city. His place is to be filled by Gen. ALCERRECA as governor.

JOSEPH NELSON, a native of West Point, N. Y., U.S., died in this city, on the 11th inst., after a short but severe illness.

Mormon Outrages.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19, 1857.—A letter has been received in this city from W. P. Landon, one of the clerks whom the late Surveyor-General Burr left in charge of the office, when he, for his own safety, left the Territory of Utah, last spring. He was, on the 18th September, at Placerville, California. In giving an account of his escape from Salt Lake City, he says that while engaged in conversation with a party of emigrants, he was assaulted by a gang of Mormons, led on by a fellow named Dark Petuit, and a ruffian associated, who, without cause, severely beat him with sticks and clubs. He was scarcely able to reach home in consequence of his wounds. The same afternoon they attacked the house Surveyor-General Hoge, by stoning him.

Landon was driven from home at night, leaving his wife and child at Salt Lake City. After adroitly eluding his armed pursuers, he reached Placerville in the most distressed, ing condition. He says he met on the road with Judge Cradlebaugh, who used frequently to visit the Surveyor-General's office. Judge Cradlebaugh informed him that Brigham Young had been driven away from his family. They commenced him to "come along and make no fuss, or they would "d—d soon show him what they were going to do with him."

Mr. Landon concludes by saying that all the Mormons have left Placerville and Carson Valley, for the purpose of defending "Zion."

Mr. Landon's letter thrills with interest.—It will be laid before the government.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—The Parties Hanged and only Wounded.—A serious affray occurred yesterday morning, about 9 o'clock, at the corner of St. Ann and Carter streets, between Mr. Johnson and Lieutenant Hunt, of the First District police, the cause, we have been led to suppose, being an old grudge between the two gentlemen. Mr. Johnson, a former constable with the police service. From all we learn, Hunt, on the corners above, when observing that Johnson was looking at him, as he thought, very strangely, he asked him "Who are you looking at?" Johnson replied, "You, you son of a bitch!" Hunt observed back, "You are a d—d son a b—h yourself!" In the same time, each of Johnson if he was armed, both drew their pistols, commenced firing, we learn, simultaneously, each of them receiving discharges from the other four in the body. Johnson's head, without doing much harm, is said to be a bullet-proof one, and was not at all dangerous, but the third penetrated his groin, and, it is thought, probably a mortal injury, the ball remaining within Johnson's body. John Hunt's pistol, we learn, without effect, but as Hunt approached him (they commenced firing at about ten paces apart) he struck him a severe cow with it on the head, cutting the skin. He also threatened with his cane sword, which, we learn, he had in hand, and pierced very near his heart, inflicting a dangerous but not a fatal puncture. Hunt was arrested, and taken home to his residence back of the gas works, where he seemed to be suffering intense pain in drawing his breath, from the effects of the very critical condition alluded. Hunt was taken to Dr. Harris's hospital. The affair, occurring as so early an hour of the day in the presence of numerous witnesses, of course created a great deal of excitement.

RECORDERS' COURTS.—Patrick Maughan was examined before Recorder Stith, last Saturday, and was committed for trial in the First District Court, on charge of living with his wife in a state of concubinage. Thomas Harrington, on the night of the 27th ult., on Bayou road, in the Second District, was the case testified to the parties having had a dispute, when he heard threatened Harrington, and the latter, showing no desire to fight, turned to leave, but when he would, started upon him Harrington left and ran, and Maughan, in pursuit, struck him with a stick, returned. Witness then called to him, stating what Maughan said Harrington returned, when Maughan turned and stabbed him without warning or provocation.

Nathan Adams, being up to Mr. Paisley, was seen to sell on a charge of having attacked an old man on the levee, on sunday morning, and robbed him of a bundle containing a pair of old pants. No evidence was presented in the case, but in view of the circumstance that the negro attacked him and after strong solicitation, robbed him of his shirt, charged, the Recorder committed for trial in the Criminal Court on a charge of larceny. The negro was therefore committed for trial in the Criminal Court, yesterday, yesterday, and to day was $57,200. The amount of money subject to draft in the Treasury is $12,896,831; the reduction of the amount from last week being upward of two millions and a half of dollars. The receipts of the week were about $196,000.

Landon was driven from home at night, leaving his wife and child at Salt Lake City. After adroitly eluding his armed pursuers, he reached Placerville in the most distressed, ing condition. He says he met on the road with Judge Cradlebaugh, who used frequently to visit the Surveyor-General's office. Judge Cradlebaugh informed him that Brigham Young had been driven away from his family. They commenced him to "come along and make no fuss, or they would "d—d soon show him what they were going to do with him."

Mr. Landon concludes by saying that all the Mormons have left Placerville and Carson Valley, for the purpose of defending "Zion."

Mr. Landon's letter thrills with interest.—It will be laid before the government.

INQUESTS.—Accident—Suicide—Infanticide.—The Coroner held the following inquests yesterday: One on the body of Carey Watkins, of York, Va., aged 29 years. He died at Dr. Lunenburg's Hospital from the effects of scalding when the engine of the Pontchartrain cars ran off the track a few days ago. A verdict was rendered accordingly, attributing the occurrence to accident.

Another on the body of an unknown white man, found on the river at the foot of Peyroux street. Verdict—"Committed suicide by jumping overboard from the steamer Petrel's yawl, on Thursday last." He was probably an Irishman, 40 years of age. He was drawn from the bottom of the river by the hook of a boy, who was fishing, and hooked the corpse in the foot.

A third inquest was held on the body of an infant, found in the body of a trunk under strange circumstances. A negro boy was observed, on Saturday morning, while playing along St. Andrew's Fourth District, with a small trunk on his head, which he placed down at Coliseum Place, as was supposed, to rest himself. As he walked off, however, and did not return for it, a police officer concluded to examine it, when, to his amazement, he found that it contained a new born babe. The Coroner was called, whose post mortem examination showed that its death had been occasioned by a violent dislocation of the neck. The jury rendered a verdict accordingly, of "Death by infanticide at the hands of some person or persons unknown." The police are on the search for the negro, in the hopes of obtaining through his arrest some clues to the discovery of the perpetrators of the crime.
