R.P. J. POULTRY BOOKS

SUCCESS WITH POULTRY Is a book of 112 pages, 9 x 12 inches in size, that contains, we believe MORE and BETTER practical, reliable information on the subject of "Poultry for Profit" than any other book published. Gives the cream of established facts. Written and compiled by the editor of the RELIABLE POULTRY JOURNAL, who has given many years of careful study to the poultry business. Price $1.00

ARTIFICIAL INCUBATING AND BROODING Is most up-to-date and most practical work on this important subject. It is contributed to by the leading authorities of this country. It has 83 pages, each 12x9 inches, with many illustrations, including a number of designs of modern brooder houses, laying houses, and incubator cellars. Complete instructions on the use and abuse of incubators. How to start right and go right in raising chickens by artificial means. Price 50c

THE WYANDOTTES Silver, Golden, White, Buff and Partridge. A new publication treating extensively upon this breed. The frontispiece is a handsome reproduction from Mr. Sewell's oil painting of "White Wyandottes to date," representing the winning cockerel and pullet at Boston, in January, 1898. We have had made especially for this book full-page drawings of Silver, Golden, White and Buff Wyandottes. Eighty pages fully illustrated. Price 50c

THE LEGHORNS All Varieties. This publication will delight fanciers of that widely bred and favorite fowl—the Leghorns. No breeder can afford to be without the information written by such judges as L. K. Felch, T. J. Marshall, H. S. Babcock, F. H. Shellbarger, Theo. Hewes, D. T. Heimlich, C. A. Emry, Cbas. McClave, Ezra Cornell, W. S. Russell, F. B. Zimmer, Wm. Ellery Bright and others. Twelve full-page illustrations and many others. Price 50c

EGGS AND EGG FARMS Is made up of contributions from experienced and successful breeders. It gives their methods of housing, breeding, rearing and feeding fowls with a view to increasing egg production. The lengthy chapters on Pedigree Breeding will be found invaluable to breeders of exhibition or utility fowls. An 80-page book, fully illustrated. Price 50c

DUCKS AND GEESE Tells how the most successful breeders of the day manage their enormous flocks and derive handsome profits; gives detailed instructions for breeding, rearing and feeding, and presents the best and most reliable information relating to details of management and profits on Ducks and Geese. It is fully illustrated with up-to-date cuts of the big farms and their stock. Price 50c

TURKEYS Their Care and Management. The most complete book written upon turkey culture. It treats of every branch of the subject. Among the prominent breeders who have spent time and effort in preparing articles for this book are Mrs. Mackey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hargrave, Mrs. Singleton, S. B. Johnston, J. F. Crangle, W. J. Bell, B. P. Ulrey, B. F. Hislop, W. A. Moon, Ed Isley, J. A. Leland and S. T. Jones. The colored reproduction of an oil painting by Sewell aided by numerous half-tones makes this the very best turkey book published. Price 50c

POULTRY HOUSES AND FIXTURES Consists of 32 large pages, 9x12 inches, and contains the latest designs of practical poultry buildings for the city lot, the village acre and the farm; also complete and convenient houses for the fancier and plans for building extensive poultry farms. Price 25c

THE BANTAM FOWL The most complete and fully illustrated Bantam book published in this country. Mr. T. F. McGrew, judge and breeder, spent many months collecting person interested in Bantams as pets or for profit will want a copy. Price 50c

RELIABLE POULTRY REMEDIES Consists of 64 pages, each 5x6 inches, points out the causes, describes the symptoms and gives tried remedies for roup, colds, cholera, canker, indigestion, constipation, dysentery, congestion of liver, gapes, chicken pox, black rot, crop-bound, scaly legs,bumble-foot, and other diseases of fowls. Contains full instructions on care of poultry to prevent diseases. Price 25c

Perilous Riches.

What makes a man rich? Is the term merely comparative? Not merely. To be rich is to have, beyond the demands of our bodily needs, abundant means to supply our spiritual wants. To possess more material resources than we can or will use or bestow to the spiritual advantage of ourselves and others is to be perilously rich, whether we belong to a grinders' union in the cutlery works or to a royal family. Why is it so often right that a rich college, for example, should, in its money chest, feel poor? Because it could so easily supply more spiritual wants if it had more money.

GEORGE W. CABLE

Not low wages will ever make men harmless, nor high wages make them happy, nor low nor high save them from a spirit of pauperism or of malignant envy; but having wages bigger than their bodily wants, and having spiritual wants numerous and elastic enough to use up the surplus; spiritual wants, that know both how to suffer need and how to abound, and to do either without backsliding toward savagery. Whoever would help this state of things on, let him seek at the same time to increase the home's wage-earning power and its spiritual powers to put to fine use the wages earned; the love of beauty in nature and in art, the love of truth and knowledge, the love of achievement and of service, the love of God and of human society, the ambition to put more into the world than we get out of it. Wages will never be too high, nor the hours of a day's work too many or too few, which follow that "sliding scale." —George W. Cable in Good Housekeeping.

Hen Superstition.

There are always those who believe more or less of superstition about almost everything and hens come in for their share of this kind of belief.

An old German legend says: "Watch the flight of the hen if you are in search of the castle."

In Ireland some of the girls wear the tip of the wings of a hen so as to insure early rising.

In Formosa it is considered unlucky to hear a hen cluck at night.

Beware of gossip if two hens are seen fighting, and should a hen crow near a patient's bed or go to roost at noon, it is said to be a sign of a death in the family.

In some places a black hen is said to be an omen of evil.

In Transylvania should a black hen crow, death can only be prevented by placing the hen in a bag and carrying it three times around the house.

It is considered very lucky to have a hen and her brood stray into the dwelling.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE CARE OF THE TEETH.

The secret of the preservation of the teeth is absolute cleanliness. The first rule is to cleanse the teeth thoroughly after eating, no matter how many times a day. A tooth wash should be for the most part of soap in some form, since soap is both cleansing and alkaline: The next matter of importance is the tooth brush. It is well to have the two kinds, one in which the bristles are even and the other in which the bristles have been cut across so as to be in points. Each tooth must be thought of as something to be brushed in its entirety, front, back, sides, and the junction with the gum. One a month is none too often to have a new brush. The teeth should be brushed with the hand of the opposite side; that is, the right hand for the teeth of the left side and the left hand for the right. After brushing the teeth an antiseptic mouth wash should be used. If the teeth become yellow or show discolored spots in spite of good care a little powdered pumice stone should be used—From "The Fountain of Youth," in the May Delineator.

Several original features characterize the May issue of Good Housekeeping. A novel idea for the summer exchange of children is set forth by the most genial of American essayists, Edward S. Martin, with illustrations by Henry McCarter. There is a feature entitled "Baby Talk," opening with a true story and containing important news of Babyland; another feature is a collection of bird stories, from life. In this issue is the second and concluding paper by George W. Cable on Neighborly Gardens. Ten cents a copy, one dollar a year. The Phelps Publishing Co., Springfield, Mass., New York, Chicago, San Francisco.

"The Rat-Trap" is the rather unique title of a novel written by Dolf Wyllarde, the author of "The Story of Eden." It could be called an English military story as the scenes are laid in "Key Island" and east Africa. The characters are military and it is a good story of modern British army life. The description portion is especially vivid, the language bold, and the character drawing really excellent. It is in reality a story of a strong man, a weak man and of a woman. (Price $1.50. John Lane, Bodley Head, New York.)

"How Tyson Came Home," by William H. Rideing, is a book that tells of American and English life. Tyson came to America from England when a boy, poor and an orphan. He goes west and after years of ups and downs at last has become wealthy through a mine. His one dream has been to go home, and to him there is no place that can compare with England. He also wishes to find his sister who was left in an orphan asylum. His home coming was not all he had imagined, but his wealth gave him access to the best society. After a long search he finds his sister and at the same time discovers his best friend has betrayed her. At this time the stock in the mine in which he is interested takes a sudden drop, his old friend and partner dies and Tyson finds that his English friends who have bought stock in his mine all desert him. He takes the first steamer for America and upon his arrival is met by his late partner's daughter who has settled the big strike and again has the mine on a paying basis and he is still wealthy. Published by John Lane, The Bodley Head, New York.

"RUNNING THE RIVER," by George Cary Eggleston.

With an enthusiasm and spirit which readers will feel at once, Mr. Eggleston has written a wonderfully vivid and varied story of American boys' and girls' pluck and success in the picturesque and adventurous life of the great river. Mr. Eggleston has chosen a most stirring period, when the Mississippi and other rivers were crowded with steamboats, and the scenes of thrilling adventures. The adventures of his characters are accompanied by fascinating sketches of actual life and historic happenings. The author has written a book that is not only a good story, but a picture of fresh and quaint phases of American life which will delight readers young and old. A. S. Barnes & Co., New York. Price $1.50.

"THE CLOSE OF THE DAY," by Frank H. Spearman.

Mr. Spearman, in this story, has entered a new domain, leaving far behind the atmosphere of railroading, which was so refreshing and invigorating in the "The Daughter of a Magnate," and with originality which has stamped with distinction his previous works. He, however, presents an interesting study in George Durant of a man who "goes the pace," and has painted the portrait with bold strokes and fidelity to life. "The Close of the Day," rather departs from the main traveled road of novel writers. There is, of course, the necessary romance, but the striking and realistic features are the girl who wins her way under adverse circumstances without sacrificing a whit of her womanliness, and a business man who loses like a hero. Mr. Spearman's book is really a modern novel, which comes with especial refreshing after the flood of pseudo historical writing of the past few years. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price $1.50.

"HENDERSON," by Rose E. Young.

Henderson is a young physician who settles in a Missouri town, falls in love with the daughter of its wealthiest man, although she is happily married, and conquers that love in big, manly way. Her husband, this Hardin Shore just alluded to, is a self-made man, not all bookish, but reading human nature like print. He is a politician for the fun and glory of it. Between him and his wife there is a strong love, and yet, unconsciously, the finer qualities of the other man. this brave doctor, seep into her heart.

She has typhoid fever, and in her delirium it is the doctor's name that is always on her lips. He saves her life by his skill and his devotion as a nurse, and she takes up life again with her material husband as if there had never been this unconscious betrayal of her true affections. It is a rare bit of psychology, and treated with a skill that renders it plausible. Then the husband dies in saving them both from danger, and the usual happy ending follows.

The character of the husband, though less in the light of the writer's eyes, is really the strongest in the book. Particularly good in his mental attitude when he finds that he must lose his arm to save his life. He had been the most powerful young man in the little farming region where he was born. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. Price $1.50.

“A BROKEN ROSARY”

A novel by Edward Peple, illustrations in color by Scotson Clark. 12mo. $1.50.

John Lane's star spring novel, "A Broken Rosary," has received a glowing review from the critic of the Baltimore Sun, who writes as follows: " 'A Broken Rosary' is one of those novels that makes for good while it entralls the reader with its story of things worldly. In fact the characters of the tale are the reverse of godly. The heroine, Le Corbeau, is a strong picture of all that a woman should not be. The story is that of the conflict of vice and virtue—a fine piece of work. The first chapter opens with a murder, and the action of the tale ends with a murder, and between the two we have mad love-making, fierce play of passion and attempts at evil. The power of the vows of the priest is maintained, and the renunciation of love for the cause of the church is as complete on the part of LeCorbeau as it is upon that of the priest. The climax is strong—very strong. The artist has well illustrated, by novel methods, the occurrence.

“THE NAPOLEON OF NOTTING HILL.” A novel by Gilbert K. Chesterton.

John Lane takes pleasure in announcing that on the 22nd inst. he will publish Mr. Gilbert K. Chesterton's new romance, "The Napoleon of Notting Hill," upon which he has been engaged for a considerable time. Mr. Chesterton's work as an essayist and a contributor to John Morley's famous "Men of Letters" of the volume of Wordsworth is too well known and appreciated to need more than a word of explanation as to the meaning of the title. The reader is transported a hundred years into the future, and finds London as it then will be according to Mr. Chesterton's ideas. The king is elected on the same principle as juries are now summoned. There will be very little difficulty in recognizing in King Auberon the personality of a well known humorist and critic; indeed the illustrations themselves assist the text to this end. The story concerns itself with the rise of the Borough of Notting Hill, owing to the military and administrative ability of its provost. The illustrations themselves are a remarkable and arresting feature, being reproductions from designs by Mr. William Graham Robertson. John Lane, publisher, New York. Price $1.50.

“TYPEE” by Herman Melville.

This is Vol. XVI of a handy edition of standard novels published by John Lane, 67 Fifth avenue, New York. This book is a real romance of the south seas. It is an old story written more than 50 years ago but in the new edition its popularity will be long continued. "Typee" is a charming book of adventure, unequalled description of scenery and studies of the natives of the South Sea Islands. Price 50 cents net, cloth.

Fred Smith of E. 827 Ermina avenue, Spokane, states that he has 40 full blooded white leghorns, and during the month of March they produced 617 eggs, or 51 dozen and 7 eggs. Mr. Smith prides himself on having one of the best flocks in this section, and he has taken premiums with them.

INDIA JUNGLE FOWLS.

We herewith show three cuts of a cock and three hens just imported from India. For five years Mr. E. H. McCoy has been trying to import some Jungle games. The result of his efforts as herewith pictured, were secured through Mr. Carl Hagenbeck, the world famous animal importer of Hamburg, Germany. For three years Mr. Hagenbeck has been trying to secure these fowls. On last May 23d, Mr. Hagenbeck wrote he had secured two cocks and four hens from an India Rahjah, that he purchased elephants from. The two trios left Calcutta August 2, in care of Mr. Johansen, Mr. Hackenbeck's India traveler, and arrived in Hamburg, Germany, in September, one hen dying on the voyage. They were given a rest of two or three weeks there and were shipped on the Steamship "Pennsylvania" to me in care of the United States Express Co., New York City, where a cock and three hens arrived on October 12, one cock dying on the voyage from Hamburg to New York City.

Mr. Hagenbeck's agents in India have experienced much trouble in securing these fowls, and it was with the assistance of Mr. Sanyal, director of the Zoological Gardens in Calcutta, that they secured these. It seems that the Bahoo, or Rahjah, who breeds these fowls is an enthusiastic cocker and fights them with much success, and they had considerable trouble convincing him that they were going to leave India and never return, as he was afraid that some other Rahjah wanted to secure this strain of fowl.

These three pictures were taken the day the birds arrived in Chicago. They were in bad feather and health.

The cock and one hen are feathered like spangled Duckwings would look. One hen is mahogany with partridge markings, and the other is jet black with a tail like a stag, carried very low and whipped similar to Exhibition Games.

Life in a Garrison Town.

John Lane will publish immediately a new translation from the German of the famous military novel which has created such a furore in the Fatherland, entitled "Aus Einen Kleinen Garrison." Lieutenant Bilsse, the author, was born in Kirn on the river Nahe, a branch of the Rhine on March 31, 1878. In 1886 he entered the army and was appointed lieutenant two years later. He was sent to Ferbach, which is the little garrison he has immortalized in his novel. In 1903, having completed his novel, he sent in his resignation just before its publication. His exposure of the iron discipline and the lax morals of the German army as he saw them created the wildest excitement. He was brought to trial and sentenced to six months imprisonment, a sentence that he is now undergoing. He is, however, allowed considerable latitude, for he has been able to send a letter addressed to his publisher, whom he has promised to visit after his incarceration. John Lane, publisher, New York, Price $1.00.

Plantsman's Spring.

Real, real spring in all its loveliness—all plant life sending up and out, expanding, enlarging the breathing pores, desirous of arraying itself into gorgeous splendor according to Nature's laws, all for the benefit of mankind. This is the season we are now enjoying. Nature has provided for the germinative period after which it is man's duty to further encourage plant life, embellishing the earth for his pleasure and profit. In plant life there is a great deal of food for thought in a reflecting mind, but in our hurry we as gardeners forget the wonderful lessons to be learned. If we were more familiar with the embryo, (seed) the male and female organs of flower bloom, the assimilation of plant food and other fundamental principles underlying plant life we would be far more successful agriculturists. I am reminded along this line of an incident relative to this same subject. Prof. Massey in a lecture at a farmer's institute on "How Plants Grow," was interrupted by a farmer who said: "I suppose professor that this is all true and pretty, but what we want to know is, how to make a living on our farms in these hard times." The professor in answering said in part: "He had not realized that there is any need for a farmer to be acquainted with the sciences that make up his profession, but looked upon farming as a trade which a farmer should follow just as his mule follows the furrow, and with as little thought about the reasons for anything. The idea that an intimate knowledge of nature and her operations has anything to do with the making of a more successful farmer never seems to occur to them." A man may learn mechanically how to do things on the farm or garden but he will never be a real agriculturist until he has mastered the first principles of the "how" and "why" plants grow.

What to sow: Radishes every ten days; lettuce every two weeks, beets, carrots, turnips and other small vegetables that deteriorate rapidly; cabbage plants should be set now and tomato plants after the first of May in favored localities, i. e., free from frost. Usually the last half of April and first half of May is the proper time to set all kinds of trees, vines, roots, etc. in this latitude, although they can be set before or after this time and yet do well, but often require special care. But whenever you set a plant or plant a seed do it well. Plant in regular rows and they should be straight equi-distant, it adds beauty to your garden and reduces waste space. Mark each different variety of tree, plant or seed row and during the growing season with your note book and pencil carried constantly in your vest pocket you can write down the behavior of this or that variety. One word more and that is about "weed." Kill the rascals before they show themselves, then is the easiest and best time. I know you can't afford to tolerate them.

TOMORROWS' TANGLE

By Geraldine Bonner

The author of this book touches a key-note of pathos not found in many of the recent books. The settings are entirely Californian, covering a period of about 30 years, beginning with the "49ers." The conception is lovely but the surroundings at times incongruous. Mariposa, the heroine, first sees the light of day in an emigrant wagon on the Utah desert and the pathos of her lot is enhanced by her beautiful, sensitive sweet nature. There is an odd blend of realism and characters of a tawdry type woven into the life of the girl as she attains womanhood. Sorrow attends her everywhere but love and virtue triumph and the epilogue puts the finishing touches on to the satisfaction of the reader. The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, Indiana. Price $1.50.

FARM AND GARDEN

Black cows give white milk.

Don't keep more fowls than you can attend to well. Neglected poultry are money losers.

Gather up the charcoal from the old brush pile and throw it into the poultry yard or into the scratching shed.

Either eggs are being used more largely or the American hen is not doing her duty. At any rate eggs are wanted and they bring spot cash.

A smooth millstone grinds no grist and smooth gravel will not grind grain in the gizzard of a fowl. Furnish your birds gritty grit and plenty of it.

Better have the whole side of the house open than a crack or a knot-hole in the wall, through which the wind can blow on the head of a fowl on a perch during the winter months.

It is better sense to stable animals a good many nights when unnecessary than to leave them to the not tender mercies of a cold, frosty place just once.

Contagion frequently comes through the drinking vessels. Clean out and scald them often and do not allow diseased birds to drink with the rest of the flock.

Never carry a fowl by the legs, with its head hanging down. It is an old and cruel fashion. Just as much as carrying a duck by its neck, or a rabbit its ears.

Neither hens or incubators can hatch strong chicks from weak eggs. Use only vigorous, healthy stock in the breeding pen, provide clean quarters and proper food, and strong, healthy chicks will be the result.

The executive committee of the Walla Walla Poultry association has decided to hold its 1905 exhibition the first week in February. The committee is now in correspondence with a well known eastern poultry fancier and it is expected arrangements can be made to have him come to Walla Walla and judge the exhibit.

There is one thing for the beginner to remember. Start with a good standard bred fowl. Don't invest one cent in dunghills, they are worthless. The thoroughbreds will cost a few cents more to start with; there the difference in expense ceases. They occupy no more room, require no more care, will eat no more than the mongrels, and when you sell them for breeding or exhibiting, or their eggs for hatching, you'll find the balance greatly in their favor.

Few people realize what enormous quantities of poultry and eggs are consumed or how rapidly modern methods are revolutionizing the poultry business. Not many years ago there was not a large poultry farm in existence and no one believed exclusive poultry farming could be made to pay, but today there are many large poultry farms which are giving a good account of themselves, and it is difficult for one to say what the limit is to the size of a poultry farm or the wonderful improvements in methods of handling and selling. It is certain that the American hen is making herself famous and is rapidly being recognized as on an equal footing with our other great interests, such as dairying, stock-raising and other agricultural pursuits.

Two men were disputing over their churches. The one was a Methodist and the other a Baptist. Finally one of them called to a neighbor who was passing by and asked his opinion as to which was the only church in which to be saved. "Well neighbors," said he, "son and I have been hauling wheat to mill nigh forty years. Now there are two roads that lead to the mill, one's the valley and t'other takes over the hill. Sometimes I go one, sometimes the other, and never yet, my friends, has the miller asked which road I took, but he always asks, is your wheat good."—Ex.

Literary Notes.

A happy characteristic of Everybody's Magazine is the versatility exhibited in its contents-table. The editors are not riveted to a single set of ideas, but manage in each issue to strike some new note or touch some novel phase of life or endeavor. There are to salient features in the May issue, which, though serious in tone and treatment, are of so much importance to the world just now as to have an almost sensational interest. One is on the Great White Plague, Consumption; the second, the subject which the Methodist Church Conference is debating with so much ardor—the relation of Christianity to amusement: may the Christian dance, play cards, and attend the play? The ablest of American churchmen—such men as Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Greer, of New York, Dr. Parkhurst, Dr. MacArthur—have contributed to a symposium opinions which, stating the attitude of the great denominations on the subject, are of the greatest value to all readers.

The May issue of SUGGESTION, a Magazine of the New Psychology (Chicago,) has a department devoted to the natural methods of curing consumption, which will interest a large class. This department contains a variety of information showing how consumptions may be cured by rational treatment—out door living, exercise, breathing, right mental attitude, etc.—and the editor takes the stand that drugs cannot cure this disease, and that all so-called "consumption cures" sold in bottles are delusions. Several instances are given in which advanced cases of tuberculosis were cured by means so simple that they are within the reach of everyone.

Regularity and carefulness are the keystones of success in poultry culture.

BIG PAY FOR NAMES

In offering you the combination below papers of real merit have been selected and such as ought to be in every farmer's home. Money in Poultry.

An impression prevails that poultry raising is a hazardous business; but hazardous business; but the experience of two Palouse farmers proves that there is money in it. There is always a demand for chickens, and the high price of eggs during the present winter is evidence that large returns may be obtained by the careful poultryman, if his business is properly looked after.

Poultry raising seems to have been somewhat neglected in the Inland Empire, even as a side issue. It has been shown, however, that those who go into it and give the industry careful supervision make money out of it. There is always a good market, and, as a rule, strong prices prevail for both chickens and eggs. Two young men in the Palouse country have made a success of it; there is no reason why others cannot be equally successful.—Spokesman-Review.

A Seattle poultry man has invented a crowless rooster, by crossing the Black Spanish and Wyandotte breeds, and he thinks this style of bird will be used exclusively in the future. This is cruel. It shouldn't be. What would this proud emblem of democracy amount to without a voice? From time immemorial this "bird of dawn-ing" has served the farmer as an alarm clock, as well as article of food. Strike him dumb and you take away one of his attributes of usefulness. Not only this, but you shear him of the honors he has borne in poetry, history and religion. It was at the third crow of the cock that Peter denied his Master. Suppose the crowless cock would come into vogue, think of the difficulty theological students would have in future generations explaining that this monarch of the barnyard once possessed a voice! There doubtless, too would be skeptics to disbelieve the explanation and thus discredit the Sacred Word. No, it would never do.—Miner.

Tired

After Mental Exer-tion—No Rest.

Nervous, Irritable and Wretched.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Saved My Life.

There is little joy in living when the disordered nerves prevent sleep and rest; when one wakes from a restless night more tired than the night before; when one is forced to drag through the round of daily duties without energy, ambition or interest. This condition is due to a derangement of the nerves which may be speedily regulated and strengthened by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. This remarkable medicine has a wonderful record of cures. Supplying as it does the exact element needed for the restoration of the nerve force and vitality, its good effects are felt after the first few doses.

"I have used your remedies myself and in my family for the past seven years and it is not too much to say that they saved my life. The tired feeling I used to have after giving a few music lessons has left me entirely and instead of lying in bed three or four hours trying to get sleep and then getting up and walking the floor until morning, I can now go to bed and sleep eight, ten and twelve hours without any trouble. When I think of my former nervous, wretched, irritable state I want to tell everyone what Dr. Miles' Nervine has done for me. I can do as much work now in a day as I used to take a week to accomplish. I think Dr. Miles' Nervine is the best remedy for nervousness and general debility on earth."—L. D. EDWARDS, Prof. of Music, Preston, Idaho.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE
 The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT PEARSON'S MAGAZINE FOR 1904

PEARSON'S MAGAZINE appeals to every member of the family. In the words of a subscriber, "It is the easy-to-read Magazine." It is different from any other magazine, and by that quality, although less than five years old, has taken its place amongst the very best sellers. Its field is a general one of wholesome entertainment and instructiveness.

Following are four of the special features for 1904:

WALL STREET METHODS OF "FINANCE"

By HENRY GEORGE, Jr.

A number of true accounts of some of the Wall Street "deals" by which the savings of the many have been sacrificed to satisfy the cravings of the few. Read these articles and realize the wisdom of the advice of the Late Governor Roswell P. Flower to a party of his friends to "keep your money in your pocket."

MODERN INDIAN WARS

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. World's Fair Poultry Show.

The regular cash prizes offered for exhibits of poultry, pigeons and pet stock at the Universal Exposition of 1904 aggregate more than $16,000. This large amount will be greatly increased by appropriations made by World's Fair commissions for state exhibits. One state, Missouri, has provided $7,000 to cover special prizes and expenses connected with the state's poultry exhibits at St. Louis.

The Exposition's prizes were never before nearly approached in amount at any poultry show or exposition; in fact they largely exceed with one exception the total sum offered by the leading state fairs for the combined live stock breeding interests, including horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

The specialty clubs of this and other countries are making a very successful canvass for funds for special prizes for exhibits. One club gives assurance of its purpose to provide a prize fund of at least $300 for its favorite variety.

The Universal Exposition has in a marked and complimentary manner recognized the poultry industry by placing the matter of receiving, cooping, feeding, exhibiting and returning the poultry, pigeons and pet stock at the World's Fair in the hands of a committee recommended for this purpose by the American Poultry Association. Chief Curburn has also highly honored the poultry fraternity by choosing as superintendent of the poultry show Mr. T. E. Orr, the secretary and treasurer of the American Poultry Association.

The committee recommended by the American Poultry Association to assemble, exhibit and return the poultry shown at the World's Fair consists of Henry Steinmesch of St. Louis, T. F. McGrew, New York, and U. R. Fishel, Hope, Ind. This committee is composed of one of the most successful and experienced superintendents of large poultry shows; a former secretary of the American Poultry Association and popular poultry author, and as the third member one of the largest and most successful breeders and exhibitors. These are public-spirited gentlemen, noted for their enterprise, knowledge, and devotion to the best interests of the poultry industry they so creditably represent.

Incubator Hints.

A good incubator cannot do well with poor eggs; the older the eggs are when placed in the incubator, the smaller will be the per cent. hatched and the less vigorous will be the chicks.

Be sure that the thermometer bulb rests on a live, fertile egg, because a dead or infertile egg is usually 2 or 3 degrees colder than one that is fertile.

Egg should be turned at regular stated time, morning and evening, after the third day. Discontinue turning after 18 days.

Frequent use of the egg tester will show approximately the proper size of the air cell at various times of testing. Do not put any moisture in the incubator unless you find the air cell is getting too large.

Do not place an incubator where the sun can shine on it.

Cooling the eggs should in the incubator begin on the fourth day at noon and they should be cooled each day at noon until the 18th day. Discontinue on the 18th day, leaving the bulb resting on a live egg. Cool down to 85 or 90 degrees; never before 85 degrees.

The room in which the incubator is operated should be ventilated so that the air is always pure and fresh. Care should be taken not to cause a draft across the incubator.

Tenderly she laid the tiny white form beside those that had gone before. She made no outcry, she did not weep, such a moment was too precious to be spent in idle tears. But soon there came a time when it seemed as if nature must give away. She lifted her voice and cried loud and long. Her cry was taken up by others who were near and it echoed and reechoed over the grounds. Then suddenly all was still. What was the use of it all? She would lay another egg tomorrow.—Ex.

LITERARY NOTES.

The brilliant manner in which the publishers of Everybody's Magazine have handled the subject of the St. Louis Exposition affords a clew to the success of the publication. The April number opens with an article on "The Greatest World's Fair," and the two men most able to do the subject justice have treated it. David R. Francis, president of the Exposition Company, furnishes the text, and Vernon Howe Bailey, the distinguished young artist, has done the illustrations. One is told and shown in the most interesting way just what to expect at St. Louis in May, and the prospect is amazing.

Numerous practical, helpful features make the March number of The Housekeeper one of great interest to every housewife. "A March Hare Luncheon," a unique and timely entertainment, is charmingly illustrated and described by Elizabeth W. Morrison.

The March Review of Reviews has an illustrated article by L. R. Freeman on "Desert Irrigation in the Far West." This article describes the results of irrigation on what is known as the Colorado Desert, in southeastern California, and outlines the comprehensive plans of the government engineers for reclaiming the valley of this American Nile.

The April Delineator is an uncommonly interesting magazine, from the standpoint of both fashion and literary features. Almost as good as a trip around the world, educationally, promises to be the pictorial series Around the World in Eighty Pictures, the first installment of which appears in this number. Landon Knight's Romance of a Pair of Bluebirds is a story that will appeal strongly to lovers of nature, and to all women Dr. Grace Peckham Murray's article on the care of the ears and nose will be of deepest interest. In Beauty for Ashes, Allan Sutherland tells of an interesting experiment that has been tried in several large cities of changing unbeautiful vacant lots into garden spots. In addition there are entertaining stories and pastimes for little folks, and for every phase of the household information of a practical character.

"The Yeoman" from the press of John Lane, New York, by Charles Kennett Burrow, is brilliantly descriptive of English Farm Life and depicts the "Dorsetshire brogue" undefiled by contamination with "book English." To enliven the gloom and to create dissatisfaction among those doomed to remain forever within their limited sphere, the prodigal returns from Australia, wealth laden and assumes a position higher in social life than he ever could have dared aspire under his local environment. The book is lacking in the vivacity requisite to attract the average reader.

"The Body Beautiful"—common sense ideas on health and beauty without medicine. The author is an expert physical culture teacher. In her life and through her teachings she demonstrates the principles embodied in this book, that health and beauty are synonymous, and that right living and good bodily development are the requisites of good health. The book is attractively written and illustrated and in every way an interesting, readable work. Net $1.25. The Baker & Taylor Co., publishers, 33-37 East 17th St., New York.

Down and Feathers.

Procrastination is the thief of early chickens and robs many a man of money in the egg yield.

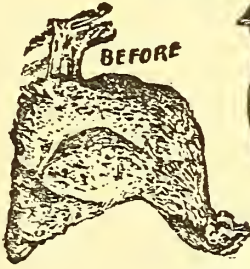

Force the growth of broilers by feeding a little fresh sweet green cut bone every day. There's nothing like it to make the youngsters grow, but it must not be the least bit tainted.

The system of marking turkeys, similar to the old way of marking sheep, and registering the marks, is desirable for many reasons, and might lessen theft.

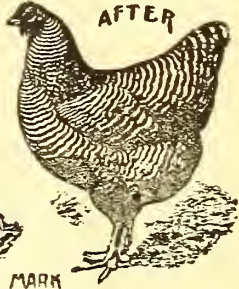

The best way to feed green cut bone is to mix it in the dough; if it is fed clear, the bosses will get more than their share.

Thirty-six ducks will produce enough to make a pair of large pillows, but if not needed at home there is a ready sale for them. In selecting the ducks for marketing we choose those whose feathers are nearly ripe, because they yield the most and are much more easily picked, owing to absence of pinfeathers.

INCUBATOR FRAUD.

FOR THE AMERICAN POULTRY JOURNAL.

Last spring I saw an ad. of Mr. J. W. Miller, Freeport, Ill., in the American Poultry Journal. He advertised an incubator. I sent for a catalogue in which he says he has an incubator; the best in the world, the Ideal. I wrote to him and asked him if it was true what he says about the incubator. He said every word was true. So, I sent for two incubators, one of 230, the other of 115 eggs size.

I made four hatches. The first 70 chickens from 230 eggs. The three hatches averaged about 55 each. In one hatch there were fifteen cripples. While the chickens nearly all died in the shell the seventh day to the last day. I put some of the same eggs which I put in the incubator, under the hen, and she hatched from 90 to 100 per cent.

I wanted to know where the fault was and why the chickens died. I took the box apart and thoroughly inspected it. I found 24 knots inside the box. The size of the box is 2x3 feet and 9 1-4 inches deep. The largest knot is about 3 3-4 inches in diameter. Bringing them all in one block, we have about 43 square inches of sappy knots in the box. The boards are all sappy too, and the matched boards are shrunk open from 1-8 to 3-16 of an inch. The lumber of this box is made—so-called incubator—is hog fence boards, and perhaps not even as good. The box is full of offensive odors from the knots and sappy boards.

In the catalogue Miller says, between the two walls there are two layers of three-ply rosin sized building paper. I have pulled off the outside casing, and have found one layer of paper. Here he lied. And 1 1-4 inch air space between the two thicknesses. Here he lied again. There is only 3-4 of an inch. The cover is composed of two boards, one 7-8 of an inch of hog fence board with eleven knots; the joints shrunk open 3-16 of an inch, and one 5-8 of an inch ceiling board and one layer of paper between the two boards.

When in operation the cover is warm on the outside. The temperature inside the box when in operation is as follows: At the lamp corner 103 1-2 degrees; on the opposite end 101 1-2 degrees; on the upper left corner 101 degrees; on the upper right corner 103 degrees, and in the center 104 degrees.

These degrees were taken with a standing temperature in the room of 60 degrees. When the room temperature was raised to 72 degrees in one and one-half hour the temperature in the box raised two degrees at the same time. The regulator did not move a trifle. Sometimes the temperature in the box would rise to 107 degrees, and the regulator would set on the box like a dead hen. So I did the regulating with the lamp. The first hatch the regulator was a little active after that he was dead.

On August 19th Mr. Miller wrote me a letter asking for a testimonial, and I did give him a true testimonial of what I discovered in the hatching box. I told him that the Ideal is not as represented. I told him how many knots there were in the box and that the box was built out of hog fence board. This cheap flimsy box built out of hog fence boards which you call an incubator is not fit to hatch eggs in. The best I can say of this box, it is a first-class high grade dead trap. This hatching box was $250 damage to me. The regulator isn't worth a cent. I have taken the box apart and called my neighbors in to see the rotten hog fence boards of which this hatching box is made, so-called a first-class high grade incubator. If everybody who has bought a hatching box of Miller will examine his box as I have, he will find that Miller has probably lied about his hatching box too.

The space under the tray is so low that the chickens can't stand upon their feet. The elbows of their legs were worn sore from creeping. Then I put one-half of an inch under the trays to give the little fellows a chance to stand. Then the eggs were all out of sight. The glass is only 3 1-8 inches wide. We have two of the hatching boxes here; they are both alike.

Miller says they will last you the rest of your life. Yes, if I set it in the corner of the barn. Mr. Miller says I have built it of good honest materials, but he dishonestly represented it. I could not give Miller a testimonial in his favor without lying to the people.

I wrote to Miller asking him to settle with us for $200 damages. If he would refuse we would sue him for $600 damage done with his infernal hatching machine. Upon this he wrote me this letter:

FREEPORT, ILL., NOV. 2, 1903.

MR. JOHN GRENNING,
Spokane, Wash.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 28th ult. is received, and in reply to same, will say that you are either a fool, or a fit subject for the Insane Asylum. We would advise the officials of your country to look after you. A person who would write a letter as you have, should not be allowed to run at large.

Our Incubator is built in a first-class way, from first-class material, and you know it. We have hundreds of testimonials from people who have used our machine, that prove what we say is true.

You talk about advertising us and suing us for damages. This is simply the talk of a person who is not responsible, and we therefor do not find it necessary to give the same, any further attention. Yours truly,

THE J. W. MILLER Co.
Per J. W. Miller.

This letter is written by the man who knows how to handle his customers after he has their money. I warn every reader of this journal not to buy a hatching box of Mr. J. W. Miller of Freeport, Ill. It is good for nothing; it is a damage to you; it is a fraud. He advertised his as the best incubator in the world. It is the best incubator fraud in the world, made by the man who knows how to conceal his fraud.

I have sent to the American Poultry Journal a pair of rotten knots which I have chiseled out of a board in the inside of the box in the presence of a neighbor. In the American Poultry Journal of October 1903, on page 657 you see a report to the Journal during the six months dating from Dec. 1st, 1902 to June 1st, 1903. We sold Ideal incubators and brooders to the amount of $2542.80.

In the same Journal on page 630 he says he has sold thousands of them. To whom has he sold the thousands of incubators in 1901? For he did not have a single testimonial in his catalogue of 1902. If Miller has sold thousands of incubators, then he has thousands of testimonials against him, and hundreds for him.

POTATO VARIETIES.

TO SUBSCRIBERS: Mr. Kelly will try to answer all questions relative to garden subjects and we will appreciate communications along this line. PUBLISHERS.

Like my old friend T. Greiner of the Practical Farmer, I have a great deal of sympathy for any one whose experience with testing new varieties of seed potatoes, has been similar to my own. Of course we all must do this experimenting in order to obtain purer stock, earlier, more prolific or an improvement in some manner or other, as results are often different in different localities. Mr. Greiner writing upon this same subject has this to say:

"There can be no question that the Carman No. 3 for general crop, the Freeman for quality and the Early Ohio for earliness, are in many localities just as good sorts as we have. I have found nothing better as yet for me. But some of these, especially the Early Ohio, do not succeed everywhere. In fact, I have heard complaint about the Ohio in more than one locality. These potatoes are not doing equally well everywhere. Other growers have better luck with other potatoes. Neither can it be supposed that in the three sorts mentioned, or in any others now existing, we have reached the climax of perfection. Better sorts will be found, even if those we now have could be expected to forever maintain their present excellence, or, in other words, would never "run out." We are liable to come across some new potato variety that is as much better than anything we now have, as the Early Rose, or the Burbank, and other sorts in their time were better than the potatoes grown before their arrival, and we can hardly afford to ignore the new sorts offered by seedsmen or originators. The potatoes which take the popular fancy, change every few years. Early Ohio has held out longer than any other so far as I can recollect. Indeed, its record is remarkable. But its time will come, together with that of Carman No. 3, and the growers who get hold of the coming favorite first will be in shape to make something out of it. From this point of view we find it advisable to keep on testing new sorts."

We concur with Brother Greiner that with the dozens of varieties tried we really have only a half dozen that are entirely satisfactory or at least the cream of the whole lot. The Carman No. 3 is a splendid main crop potato and I believe it is as good here in Eastern Washington as it is in New York state where it originated. The old Early Ohio, an old standard variety, is yet one of the very best earlies. It is not as prolific as some varieties but the tubers grow close to the stem and all of about the same size, which is of value to the market gardener.

The Freeman as spoken of by friend Greiner is a beautiful and fine quality potato, but I am sorry to say it was an entire failure with us. We tried it three years and a very large percentage of the tubers had the brown spot through them which made them unfit for use.

In the Bovee, a variety of recent introduction we have a splendid potato, usually classed as an extra early, finest quality, good yielder and handsome appearance. We would add to those already mentioned a good strain of Early Rose and the genuine Burbank. The Burbank however succeeds best on irrigated land as our late summers are a little dry for this variety. Mr. A. I. Root in "Gleanings in Bee Culture" writing along this same line, says.

"Well, a potato just now has got to have some very remarkable quality to compete successfully with the good potatoes we already have—Carman No. 3, for instance. After spending lots of time and money in testing the much-lauded new kinds, Carmen No. 3 steadily comes out ahead. If you want quality and beauty of appearance, Freeman comes out steadily ahead. If you want an extra early potato, somehow the old Early Ohio bobs up after a little, year after year. When it comes planting time purchasers keep calling for the Early Ohio, no matter how strongly seedsmen urge other kinds that are 'ten days' or 'two weeks' earlier—'better yielder,' 'better quality,' etc. The potatoes that are sent me for trial have, many of them, proved to be very good; but when one thinks of the labor of introducing a new variety, and proving that it will thrive in all localities, he had better think twice before he puts much money in it."

How fast to that which you know is good. Try the new varieties cautiously but thoroughly.

A. A. KELLY.

Dry Feed for Young Chicks.

The young chicks are left in the incubator until they are 48 hours old and then taken to the brooder, the floor of which is covered with sand and chaff. I feed entirely upon dry feed for the first week or more. I use a mixture of dry cracked grains and seeds made up as follows: 25 lbs. cracked wheat, 15 lbs. rolled oats, 15 lbs. millet seed, 10 lbs. cracked corn, 5 lbs. granulated charcoal, 10 lbs. chick size grit, 5 lbs. each silver hull buckwheat, rape seed, broken rice, cracked peas and ground beef scrap. If all these cannot be easily obtained, use as many of them as possible. When three weeks old, I use whole wheat in the place of the cracked and hulled oats instead of rolled oats. When five weeks old drop out the millet seed, broken rice and rape seed and if chickens have full liberty, feed them three times daily.—F. M. Andrews, Onondago Co., N. Y.

House for Young Chicks.

Build your poultry houses on wheels for convenience. The house should be 8x24 ft. and 6 ft. high, with a shed on south side boarded on ends and wire netting in front. This house should have two partitions of netting to separate the building into three compartments for young chicks of different ages. When they have been kept in each part 3 weeks they will be ready for market.

Incubator Fraud—Continued.

In A. P. J. of Nov. 1902, before he had my money, he says it in this way: The incubator is guaranteed and backed by every cent we're worth. After he had the money and the incubator was tried and proved a miserable failure and damage was asked, then, he says it in another way, I will ask is he either a fool or a fit subject for the insane asylum. Why? Because I have bought one of the infernal hatching boxes which have proved a miserable failure.

Yours very truly,

A Kansas City teacher of a kindergarten was incapacitated from work one day last week by the following incident. The subject of the lecture and object lesson was animals, birds and then more animals.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "I want each of you to think of some animal or bird and try for a moment to be like the particular one you are thinking about, and make the same kind of noises they are in the habit of making."

Here was the command. Here the finale:

Instantly the schoolroom became a menagerie. Lions roaring, dogs barking, birds singing and twittering, cows lowing, calves bleating, cats meowing, etc., all in an uproar and excitement—all, with one exception.

Off in a remote corner a little fellow was sitting perfectly still, apparently indifferent and unmindful of all the rest. The teacher, observing him approached and said:

"Waldo, why are you not taking part with the other children?"

Waving her off with a deprecating hand and wide rebuking eyes, he fervently whispered:

"Sh-sh-sh-sh, teacher-sh! I'm a 'ooster, and I'm a laying a aig!"—Kansas City Star.

A Washington Manufactory.

A partial view of the St. Helens Incubator factory at Toledo, Wash., is here given. We say partial as the factory has been greatly enlarged since the making of the cut.

The apparent growing demand for good incubators and brooders indicates the growth of the poultry business. The St. Helens Incubator Co. have been manufacturing hatching and brooding machines for several years and their rapidly growing business is a guarantee of fair treatment and the worth of their goods.

you can feel safe in leaving the machine all day or night without danger of the eggs receiving too much heat. There is hardly anything for the operator to do but fill the lamp with oil and turn the eggs, and when the time for hatching comes around the little chicks drop into a nursery, as soon as freed from the shell, and without assistance.

The St. Helens machines are especially adapted to successful work in the climate of the West and Pacific coast, also are said to operate at the highest altitude without supplied mois-

There is hardly any other business that will yield as large a profit for the amount of cash and labor expended as the poultry industry, and it is now conceded by all up-to-date poultrymen that good incubators and brooders are indispensable in gaining the highest profit.

It is also great pleasure to operate an incubator of the modern make, as the automatic heat regulator will maintain the heat at an exact point after once having it properly adjusted and ture. Without question these machines are of the very best, as you can find them all over the country and the customers seem to think there is nothing like the St. Helens incubators and brooders.

The St. Helens Incubator Co. have issued a neat 78-page catalogue which is free for the asking and we would advise all our readers that are interested in poultry and incubators to send for a copy.

A man may successfully cultivate a large pair of ears for himself at his neighbors expense: but in the final accounting he will be heavily indebted to to his neighbors, for his luxury.

Agony

Of Apprehension of Sudden Death.

Twenty Years of Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure cures heart disease. It has positively no equal in that regard. The fluttering, palpitation and heart pains readily disappear before its magic influence; the shortness of breath, the frightful smothering spells vanish after a short course of treatment; the pulse beats become strong and regular, the circulation is improved so that the veins are charged with healthy, pure, life giving blood carrying strength and health to every nerve and muscle and replacing the dead tissue with solid flesh.

"For eighteen years I suffered from heart trouble. The least excitement caused severe fluttering and palpitation and at night smothering spells would frequently cause me to sit up in bed for breath. Beside the frequent physical pains I was constantly in an agony of apprehension lest it might bring about my sudden end. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and experienced almost immediate relief from my former disagreeable symptoms. I believe that my cure is permanent because I have not had occasion to use the Heart Cure for six or seven years, which time has elapsed since I quit taking the Heart Cure. As a household remedy I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in the house all the time. I consider the Dr. Miles Remedies fully as good as they are recommended to be and I trust that you may live many years for the sake of humanity."—R. T. HEWITT, Chehalis, Wash.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE
 The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT PEARSON'S MAGAZINE FOR 1904

PEARSON'S MAGAZINE appeals to every member of the family. In the words of a subscriber, "It is the easy-to-read Magazine." It is different from any other magazine, and by that quality, although less than five years old, has taken its place amongst the very best sellers. Its field is a general one of wholesome entertainment and instructiveness.

Following are four of the special features for 1904 :

WALL STREET METHODS OF "FINANCE"

By HENRY GEORGE, Jr.

A number of true accounts of some of the Wall Street "deals" by which the savings of the many have been sacrificed to satisfy the cravings of the few. Read these articles and realize the wisdom of the advice of the Late Governor Roswell P. Flower to a party of his friends to "keep your money in your pocket."

MODERN INDIAN WARS

By

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

A brilliant and thrilling history of the hostile frontier of the past forty years, giving justice to the public service of such men as MILES, LAWTON, CROOK, FORSYTHE, CUSTER, CARRINGTON, MCKENZIE, HOWARD, WHEATON, DAVIS, SULLY, BAKER and others;—taking Indian fights out of the category of boys' story books and dignifying them with their proper place in the history of our nation. A series of six or eight articles.

TOM NAST, CARTOONIST

By ALBERT BIGELOW PAINE

Illustrated by the choicest of the world-famous cartoons of the man who has been described as the greatest molder of public opinion ever known. The biography of Nast is veritably a world's picture of the times when history was warm in the making.

The Overthrow of the Tweed Ring—The Civil War Period—The Horrors of Slavery—The Reconstruction Period—The Greeley Presidential Campaign—The Garibaldi Campaign in Italy—The Great Heenan-Sayers Fight in London—The Blaine Presidential Campaign are a few of the important headings upon which the series of six or eight papers are built.

THE REVELATIONS OF AN INTERNATIONAL SPY

Which ran in PEARSON'S through the first six months of 1903 will be resumed in January, 1904. This new set of detective stories has been arranged for in response to the demands of thousands of readers who regretted the termination of the first series. The author still stipulates that his name must remain a secret.

R.P.J. POULTRY BOOKS

SUCCESS WITH POULTRY Is a book of 112 pages, 9x12 inches in size, that contains, we believe MORE and BETTER practical, reliable information on the subject of "Poultry for Profit" than any other book published. Gives the cream of established facts. Written and compiled by the editor of the RELIABLE POULTRY JOURNAL, who has given many years of careful study to the poultry business. Price $1.00

ARTIFICIAL INCUBATING AND BROODING Is most up-to-date and most practical work on this important subject. It is contributed to by the leading authorities of this country. It has 88 pages, each 12x9 inches, with many illustrations, including a number of designs of modern brooder houses, laying houses, and incubator cellars. Complete instructions for the use and abuse of incubators. Price 50c
How to start right and go right in raising chickens by artificial means.

THE WYANDOTTES Silver, Golden, White, Buff and Partridge. A new publication treating extensively upon this breed. The frontispiece is a handsome reproduction from Mr. Sewell's oil painting of "White Wyandottes to date," representing the winning cockerel and pullet at Boston, in January, 1898. We have had made especially for this book full-page drawings of Silver, Golden, White and Buff Wyandottes. Eighty pages fully illustrated. Price 50c

THE LEGHORNS All Varieties. This publication will delight fanciers of that widely bred and favorite fowl—the Leghorns. No breeder can afford to be without the information written by such judges as I. K. Felch, T. J. Marshall, H. S. Babcock, F. H. Shellabarger, Theo. Hewes, D. T. Heimlich, C. A. Emry, Chas. McClave, Ezra Cornell, W. S. Russell, F. B. Zimmer, Wm. Ellery Bright and others. Twelve full-page illustrations and many others. Price 50c

EGGS AND EGG FARMS Is made up of contributions from experienced and successful breeders. It gives their methods of housing, breeding, rearing and feeding fowls with a view to increasing egg production. The lengthy chapters on Pedigree Breeding will be found invaluable to breeders of exhibition or utility fowls. An 80-page book, fully illustrated. Price 50c

DUCKS AND GESE Tells how the most successful breeders of the day manage their enormous flocks and derive handsome profits; gives detailed instructions for breeding, rearing and feeding, and presents the best and most reliable information relating to details of management and profits on Ducks and Geese. It is fully illustrated with up-to-date cuts of the big farms and their stock. Price 50c

TURKEYS Their Care and Management. The most complete book written upon turkey culture. It treats of every branch of the subject. Among the prominent breeders who have spent time and effort in preparing articles for this book are Mrs. Mackey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hargrave, Mrs. Singleton, S. B. Johnston, J. F. Crangle, W. J. Bell, B. F. Ulrey, B. F. Hislop, W. A. Moon, Ed Isley, J. A. Leland and S. T. Jones. The colored reproduction of an oil painting by Sewell aided by numerous half-tones makes this the very best turkey book published. Price 50c

POULTRY HOUSES AND FIXTURES Consists of 32 large pages, 9x12 inches, and contains the latest designs of practical poultry buildings for the city lot, the village acre and the farm; also complete and convenient houses for the fancier and plans for building extensive poultry farms. Price 25c

THE BANTAM FOWL The most complete and fully illustrated Bantam book published in this country. Mr. T. F. McGrew, judge and breeder, spent many months collecting and writing the matter, and over sixty copyrighted illustrations were made expressly for this book. Every person interested in Bantams as pets or for profit will want a copy. Price 50c

RELIABLE POULTRY REMEDIES Consists of 64 pages, each 5x6 inches, points out the causes, describes the symptoms and gives tried remedies for roup, colds, cholera, canker, indigestion, constipation, dysentery, congestion of liver, gapes, chicken pox, black rot, crop-bound, scaly legs, bumble-foot, and other diseases of fowls. Contains full instructions on care of poultry to prevent diseases. Price 25c

THE "TRIUMPH" OF WHITE WYANDOTTES

Bred and owned by W. E. Mack, West Woodstock, Vermont, winner of second and special for best shape, Boston.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR FOWL.

BY IRA C. KELLER

In speaking of America's most popular fowl, the White Wyandotte, one can't say too much of their good qualities, for there has not been a breed produced to date that is their equal, both as layers and market birds; and for the fancy, they take care of themselves along with the rest of them. We have noticed the decided improvement in the breed and the rapid advancement in popular favor each year since 1885. We well remember white sports we got from our silvers in the early 80's. They were nice looking birds which attracted wide attention, as the fine silvers of those days were very popular, and we often said then that the White Wyandotte would become the leading market bird of this country and it looks like we didn't miss our guess, for there has never been a breed that was ever taken up with more favor among all classes of poultrymen in general. They are the broiler man's fowl, for they mature rapidly—no bird grows and feathers quicker, and the color of their plumage and skin is just what the market man wants, for they dress carcasses like butter balls at any age, and for layers, there is no breed that will lay as many eggs, weight of breed considered, as the Wyandottes. Flocks from the best laying strains should under the right treatment average from 175 to 200 eggs per bird, while there are individual records far above that number. The Wyandotte has proven its fine laying qualities when they become two and three-year-old hens, not so with many other breeds at that age, for most heavy breeds after the first year become fat and give very unsatisfactory returns. The whites as show birds have become immensely popular, and the demand for fine show birds is far in advance of the supply. This is very encouraging to the breeder, for the more popular the breed becomes the higher the prices the fine specimens will bring. The demand for market birds and layers is far in advance of the supply. This upholds the fanciers trade, for he can sell all of his product. We have always had trade for all of our cull birds that were not deformed and that had size which we have always been able to sell at fair prices to the market breeders. This brings in quite a source of revenue to the breeder. There are many lanes that should be guarded in breeding, when one is starting a strain of fancy birds: First should be size and form. There has been a rage for large birds. This is all wrong for several reasons, very large birds become coarse and lose their Wyandotte characteristics. They lose the type which is purely its own, not approached closely by any other breed. These large birds are not profitable, as they don't mature quick enough, and are not near such good layers as the standard weight specimens. We like size if it is not carried too far. Birds of 1-2 to 1 pound over weight are all right but when they run heavier it is not the best road to travel in breeding.

The white has improved wonderfully fast during the past ten years, many of the serious faults of the breed have almost disappeared; there are not near so many different types found in the show room; breeders are coming closer together each year and breeding closer to standard requirements; one sees fewer long and ungainly birds, and the coarse comb has been replaced with those neat close-fitting combs to a large degree. It requires a very fine specimen now to win in our leading shows and a bird must approach very close to perfection to be in the money. There is no breed today that shows so many specimens that approach perfection so closely in our leading shows as the White Wyandottes do. This is largely due to the class of breeders who are breeding them. No man can miss it in taking up this valuable fowl for whatever purpose he wants them.

Is the National Government Going to do Something for the Farmer?

The National Government gives the rivers and harbors some $30,000,000 a year.

It gives the cities great public buildings, post offices, court houses, etc.

It gives manufacturers protection by the tariff.

It gives its veterans and their families $140,000,000 a year in pensions as it should.

It has loaned its credit to private individuals to build railroads, and gives them grants of millions of acres of land.

It has, however, done but little for the farmer and for agriculture.

The farmer is the backbone of the country; it is he who feeds the entire population, and he is no longer satisfied with poor roads.

At last it seems as if the National Government was going to do something for the farmer. A bill has been introduced in Congress called the Brownlow Bill, which appropriates $24,000,000 as National aid for the building of roads. The farmer wants this bill to pass, and he is determined that the National Government shall do something for him, as well as the rest of its citizens.

WHITE WYANDOTTES AS I HAVE FOUND THEM

Written for the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL. Chas. C. Johns, Tacoma

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL has certainly shown foresight in making a Wyandotte number of this issue, the most important month in the year for poultrymen. The best month to sell stock and eggs and the time most peoples' thoughts are with poultry. April and May are as good months to hatch Wyandottes, but most people have at least made their plans by this time. A few years ago a special Wyandotte edition would have almost required explanation, even apology, from the publisher, but times are changing. At the Portland show just closed, which was the largest and most representative show held on the coast this year, the Wyandotte was the largest of all the classes; something like 250 birds being entered, almost a show in itself.

The supremacy held by the Plymouth Rocks for so long is in dangerous circumstances and they may lose their high station before they are even aware of competition. One thing comforting to the American is the fact that both are American breeds and the popularity of each is a thing to be proud of and shows that the Yankee does nothing by halves.

Merit, from the practical side of the poultry business (market poultry and eggs) is what the life and popularity of a breed depends on, and no bird, however beautiful, can attain any great prominence except on genuine merit. We are a discriminating people and we only admit the absolute truth when we say that we discriminate from the dollar and cent standpoint. Mercenary America! whether we consider the term complimentary or otherwise, it is a fact that every new thing introduced depends for its life on its earning capacity. The reader knows that the above is true and this condition is what the Wyandotte has gone against; what I could say in their behalf would count for little if they had not already made their record. We believe each other when we have corroborative evidence. The Wyandotte as a breed of fowls attracted the first public notice about the year 1870, and the name Wyandotte was given them in the year 1883. The Silver Laced was the first variety produced, and Silver Hamburgs, Dark Brahmas and Buff Cochins all entered into their production. The White variety originated from sports thrown by the Silver Laced, some claim as far back as 1872, but they were not sufficiently established to be admitted to the Standard until the year 1888. The strides they have made since then have never been equaled.

It seems hardly necessary to give any further evidence of their practical qualities, than we could not help know belonged to them, judging by their record as already shown. However it is well to emphasize some few points. I believe they are the equal of any breed as layers, the gentlest and best of mothers and sitters, the best broiler fowl, and as roasters are only excelled by fowls bred exclusively for that purpose. I also find them very easy to break up from setting. Two days shut up in a pen a hundred feet away from their coop will cause them to forget every maternal instinct, until the next time, which is after they have layed two or three dozen more eggs. They seem to have a mind of their own and mean everything they do. A sort of earnestness and sincerity of purpose seems to characterize their actions and I have styled them the "Busy Bird." Busy layers, busy foragers, busy setters and busy mothers. They have the true American spirit and make a business of everything they do. It is a fact that most of my White Wyandotte mothers commence to lay long before their chickens are weaned. One other quality worthy of special consideration is the combination of practical and exhibition qualities in the same bird. There has been a great hue and cry raised by several papers claiming to be devoted to the interests of poultry, arguing that fancy birds were not good layers. This I have proven to my own satisfaction is absolutely false. I believe in all varieties, but in no variety will you find the practical and fancy points more closely allied than in the White Wyandotte. The type called for by the Standard for the perfect show bird is also the type most profitable for eggs and meat. One instance for example.

At the last Tacoma show I had a White Wyandotte pullet which scored 96 points, the highest score in the show, and during the show, although in the dead of winter and cooped, she laid an egg each day and was still laying the 20th of May.

Another feature of the White Wyandotte is the trueness with which they breed to the requirements of the Standard. Culls are few and high grade specimens many; this is an important feature when you are selling breeding stock and eggs, as you have the comforting assurance that you can please every customer.

These are a few of their fine qualities as I have seen them, but to know them all it is best to breed them.

In conclusion, if the reader hears reports of a startling nature in his vicinity, don't get scared for fear the Russians and Japs are in the neighborhood, but remember it is more than likely that it is the great Wyandotte boom.

The National White Wyandotte Club.

BY MR. GEO. KUHNS, PRESIDENT

The National White Wyandotte club was organized in September, 1899, and held its first annual meeting in connection with the Chicago show, January 27, 1900.

The object of the club is to promote the breeding of white wyandotte fowls and urge the adoption of the true type and color by breeders, exhibitors and judges, to advance the interests of the breed and to bring their good qualities to the attention of the world.

While the club was organized in the central west, the past year has brought in quite a number of new members from the east and far west, and the club continues to grow more national in character.

Grand Sweepstakes Bird

This White Wyandotte Cockerel is owned by Geo. Kuhns, owner of the Roycroft Farms, Des Moines, Iowa.

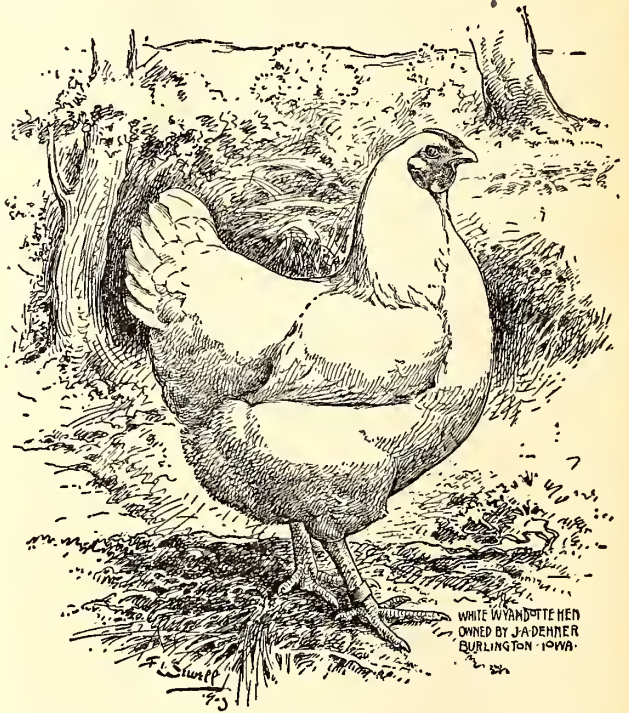

The demand for white wyandottes has never been as great as during the past year. Breeders of other varieties of poultry are discarding them for the white wyandottes—America's most popular fowl. What's the use of breeding birds you can't sell? The demand for white wyandottes cannot be supplied. The white wyandottes are egg machines. They are bred for utility purposes by many large poultry plants. They are utility and beauty combined. The club has done much to bring to the attention of the public the good qualities of America's most popular fowl, as a glance down the white wyandotte aisle at any of the leading poultry shows will convince.

WHITE QUEEN, Owned by J. A. Dehner

(Copyrighted Sept. 8, 1903)

Mr. F. L. Sewell, the famous poultry artist, in writing to Mr. Dehner, said: "Your bird has been a beautiful model. She is one to be proud of. She is not just the type that has been winning in the East lately, but is much finer cut than some. Several of late have shown too much coarseness, which does not look well in a wyandotte. Your bird is one of the whitest plumaged wyandottes I have seen this year."

WHITE WYANDOTTES AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The poultry show in connection with the World's Fair at St. Louis this year will be held under the auspices of the Department of Live Stock from October 24 to November 5. Chief F. D. Coburn has prepared a prize list which offers to poultry fanciers $11,786 in cash, and which is shaped with the idea of making it in every way worthy of the greatest universal exposition ever held.

In making up the poultry classification the varieties have been divided into three classes, "A," "B," and "C," according to the respective values and total number of fowls. White Wyandottes are placed in group "A," in which each variety is allotted $100 for prizes. The first prize for cock is $10; the second, $6; the third, $4, and the fourth and fifth are certificates of high commendation. The same division of $20 each is made for hen, cockerel, pullet and breeding pen. In group "B" the first prize is $7; the second, $5; and the third, $3. The first in group "C" is $6; the second, $4, and the third, $2.

White Wyandotte Pullet, Bred and Owned by Chas. V. Keller, Winamac, Ind.

No charges are to be made for entry fees or space in any manner. This is a general rule of the Exposition's Division of Exhibits and has been applied to all the shows in the Department of Live Stock. The exclusion of inferior fowls will be done by inspection of the birds on arrival at the grounds. Exhibitors will not be limited in the number of worthy birds they may wish to display at the show, but no more than four birds owned by one exhibitor will be permitted in a single competition for awards. Entries must be filed with Chief Coburn on or before September 10, 1904. The Exposition grounds will be ready to receive poultry exhibits on October 20.

Judging will be by comparison. Great diligence will be exercised in the selection of all the live stock judges at the World's Fair in an effort to obtain unquestioned awards.

The prize list and any other information desired about the World's Fair poultry show may be secured from F. D. Coburn, chief of Department of Live Stock, World's Fair grounds, St. Louis, Mo.

White Wyandottes as Layers.

BY E. H. WILLIAMS

White Wyandottes as layers are equal to the best—that is my experience after breeding them for a good many years. Before taking up the White Wyandottes I had tried several other breeds but never got as many eggs (for the year) from any of them as I am getting from the White Wyandottes. I find that they come to maturity very early and are excellent winter layers, in fact the cold winters of Michigan do not seem to have any effect on their laying qualities. Pullets will begin to lay in the fall and shell out the eggs all winter.

My first hatch came off March 23, and Aug. 7 one of my pullets began to lay, making her four months and fifteen days old. She layed the 7th, 8th, 10th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 24th, 25th, 27th, and 29th.

Outside the laying qualities I think the White Wyandottes are in greater demand than any other fowl bred today. The chicks are plump from the time they are hatched, and they have no equal as broilers and roasters. It is a great pleasure to me to see the White Wyandottes gaining popularity so fast, and they deserve it to say the least.

Hoover's Wyandottes.

The Walla Walla Poultry Show, Feb. 2-6, was one of the largest that has been held in the Pacific Northwest. C. E. Hoover, of Pullman, should feel well satisfied at the treatment his birds received in the competitive displays. His winnings were as follows:

| WHITE WYANDOTTES | | (sc) WHITE LEGHORNS | |
| 1st Cock | - 92 | 1st Cock score | 92 1-2 |
| 1st Pullet score | - 95 | 1st Hen | - 95 |
| 2nd " " | - 94 | 2nd Hen " " | - 94 1-2 |
| 1st Hen " " | - 95 | 2nd Pullet " " | - 95 |
| 3rd Hen " " | - 94 | 3rd " " " | - 95 |
| 2nd Pen " " | 186 1-2 | 1st Pen " " | - 189 3-8 |
| Special—Highest scoring solid color female in show | | Special—Engraved Silver Cup, best Pen Leghorns, any variety. | |

The above awards were placed by Chas. McClave, an eastern judge of national repute. Judge McClave remarked that these birds would give any that he had judged in the East a hard race for honors.

SEASONABLE.

To SUBSCRIBERS: Mr. Kelly will try to answer all questions relative to garden subjects and we will appreciate communications along this line. PUBLISHERS.

Now commences another season of real activity for the gardener. There is nothing probably of more help to the vegetable grower than the acquisition of plant houses or hot-beds. A well regulated market garden should have at least a small green house in connection with sufficient hot beds. The former is valuable on account of the ease with which plants can be handled in inclement weather and the satisfaction of having something green in the winter months. Whether we have a greenhouse or not, we must have hot-beds. There is something peculiar about hot-beds, that a great many plants find a more congenial home therein than in any other plant structure. The making of hot-beds is a very simple matter and yet we have so many inquiries and reported failures, that it might not be out of place here to again repeat how to make them. Procure fresh horse manure only from stables where grain is fed and if possible where straw is used for bedding. The bulk of the manure must be of straw, leaves, etc., as it is the slow combustion of this material that creates the heat for the bed. When in a state of fermentation and combustion, thoroughly mix and scatter and place into a square bed three feet wider than your sash, on the surface of the ground. Pack it firmly but not solid and from one to two feet deep depending on the earliness of the season. Place your frame on this and put in six to eight inches of the very best soil, which must be very rich and fine, bank up around the bed with hot manure, put on the sash, let stand usually about a week, when it is ready for plants or seeds. Hot-beds require an unusual amount of care and must never be neglected.

Early March is the season for sowing seeds in the hot-bed of early cabbage, lettuce, beets, celery, onions, cauliflower for transplanting and radishes, lettuce, etc., for to mature in the beds. As soon as the little plants have made their first or second true leaves, they must be transplanted to another bed somewhat cooler than the first, giving them plenty of room, so that they can develop into strong, hardy plants that can endure hardships if necessary, when they are transplanted directly in the open.

The first opportunity that presents itself should find us ready, if all conditions are good, to sow onion seed for the matured bulb, as this particular crop requires a rather long season to produce a well matured bulb in this climate. This for outside planting, but to obviate this difficulty, we advocate and encourage the transplanting method or "New Onion Culture," which consists of sowing the seed in a hot-bed and transplanting into the open, when the plants are of pencil thickness in size.

The results will be very satisfactory and besides we can grow by this method those large, mild, foreign varieties that are so attractive and usually profitable. Everything points to another season of prosperity and with this encouragement we must roll up our sleeves with renewed vigor and determination to produce better and more on the same area.

The Best All-Purpose Fowl.

BY ARTHUR F. HARTMAN

No breed of fowls of recent origin stands as high in the commercial world or poultrydom as does the white Wyandotte.

The white wyandotte is the market man's choice, be it broiler, squab broiler or grown chicken; they are the farmer's favorite and the fancier's pride. They are fast growers and are rivals of the leghorn, but instead of growing by jerks, as some breeds do, that is, they do not grow awhile, stop and take on a coat of feathers and then fill out, but they keep right on growing all the time and are always plump and compact, instead of slim and loose jointed. The size and blocky build of the wyandotte is to the poultry market as the Holstein is to the cattle market; this is why the marketmen and the poultry dealers rather purchase them and also by their yellow skin, beak and legs give the rich butter-like color that is relished by the purchaser, also by the fancier for beauty.

ANOTHER KEELERITE

Pullets commence to lay in about four to five months, beginning along in the fall and will continue to lay through the winter when eggs bring such good prices. The energetic wyandotte will not only lay during fall and winter, but will keep right on shelling out the eggs during the spring and summer months as well. No artificial heat is needed to keep their combs from freezing and to encourage egg production.

This issue will be read by 10,000 people interested in poultry.

The farmers who held hay last fall for a higher price in the spring, have lost by it. An open winter lessened the demand for hay.

Senator Foster has sent this Journal another sack of garden seeds. We will send them out as long as they last free to subscribers who will write for them. The majority of the packages contain beans, lettuce, onion, carrot, and summer squash.

Just the other day an aged Indian was seen following his squaw into a store, having the papoose strapped to his back. Can it be that woman's rights have seized hold of the Indian woman?

A gentleman from Sprague was in Spokane a few days ago to get a supply of white Wyandotte eggs to start an incubator. He was referred to the publishers of this Journal. No white Wyandotte men advertise, so C. E. Hoover of Pullman was patronized. It pays to advertise.

A new farmers' organization has made its appearance in this county. It is, as its name implies, the Inland Farmers'

Mutual Fire Insurance Co., confined at present to Spokane county, insuring only farm property, and its members must have insurance in the company. There will be no salaried officers, and it shall never be allowed to become a stock company, and when a loss occurs it shall be met by assessment of its members. This is no new thing by any means, as these Mutual Farmers' Insurance companies are a decided farm economic throughout the eastern states and particularly in the middle West where the loss is very severe from cyclones, lightning, etc. Each member is interested in the company which makes him careful and insurance in such a company is very safe, and no individual loss can be very large as the risks are scattered. The state law of Washington requires that there must be $200,000 in policies pledged before a charter will be issued. This has been done and the new company is about ready to commence active business. Anyone interested, and all farmers should be, should write to J. A. Groves, Sec. Inland Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co., R. F. D., No. 3, Spokane, Wash.

Prof. Elmer Gates has a letter in the March Suggestion regarding certain wonderful stories concerning the soul of a rat, that have been published in the daily press. The professor denies ever making any statements to the effect that a soul of an animal had been seen, or that its shadow had been thrown on a screen. Suggestion is a magazine of the New Psychology for health, happiness, and success, 4020 Drexel Boulevard, Chicago, and is interesting to those studying psychology, occult phenomena, suggestion in the treatment of disease, etc.

Kelly's Market Garden has made arrangements with us whereby he will give a year's subscription to the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL as a premium on every $2.00 worth of plants, roots, etc., purchased from his 1904 price list, provided you mention this when ordering.

"Stony Lonesome," is an admirable book of boy life, by Arthur J. Russell. The book is a succession of pictures of boylife all bound together and worked in as incidental to the development of a plot in which "Peewee" Jackson, the Sherlock Holmes of Stony Lonesome, is the silent but deep conspirator and discoverer of crime. In reading it, one, by a strange magic, finds himself with the delectable youth of Stony lonesome chasing after the village hand power fire engine, or playing "knife" on the village green, smoking cornsilk cigars, shrinking from touching a toad for fear of warts, or working a magical cure for warts started by handling toads, playing Indian, hiding in a pirates' case, hunting birds' eggs, going in "swimmin'" and staying in all afternoon and having his shirt tied in a hard knot and soaked in water, working the "tick-tack" on some lonely old lady, and going after a left-handed monkey wrench or sending some other boy after one. It is worth something to do all these things again, and Mr. Russell has made it possible.

DEATHS AND DAMAGES.

The Northern Pacific is Still at Its Deadly Work.

All who travel should read this list and then look up a route freer from such dangers. When one's life is hazarded in making a trip over the Northern Pacific railway it is time the public's attention was called to the dangers of travel. The company should endeavor to employ more competent employes and fix the road bed so that it would be at least comparatively safe to travel over that road. Since the brief synopsis of the accidents published in our last issue came out, and which by the way was copied in other journals, we know of several who have taken another route east. Here is a new list of deaths and accidents:

Mrs. Edith Raiff of Denver, who sued the Northern Pacific railroad for $25,000 for injuries sustained in two collisions, September 19, 1902, while enroute from Seattle to Denver, was given a verdict of $5,000 by a jury in the circuit court.

Alexander Montgomery obtained a verdict against the Northern Pacific railway company yesterday in the United States circuit court for $12,000 for damages for alleged injuries sustained in an accident.

A collision of an engine with a passenger train on the Northern Pacific is alleged to have caused serious injury to James J. Walsh, of Butte, and a suit to recover damages has been begun in his behalf for $10 210.50.

Willie Bell, a 15-year-old boy of Bothell, has been apprehended by detectives of the Northern Pacific railroad company in the act of attempting to derail trains. This was the third attempt.

The Northern Pacific has another $50,000 damage case to fight. A complaint was filed in the superior court by Madie Rader and Cleara Rader, a minor, asking for $50,000 damages. The complaint alleges that on October 22, 1903, Harry H. Rader was working as a switchman and through the negligence of the defendant he was caught between two cars and killed.

Officers and others are fighting for a reward for capture of persons who made numerous attempts to dynamite the N. P. trains.

An immense landslide on the Northern Pacific railroad near Blue Canyon, has made it necessary for all business of that road into this city to be handled over the Great Northern. It is estimated that 4,000 tons of earth are piled on the track to the height of fifteen feet.

There were two accidents on the Grays Harbor branch in one day, an engine of a freight while near Elma breaking down and delaying traffic. The train which reaches here at night was delayed this side of Olympia by running into a tree which the wind had blown across the track.

Why I Like the White Wyandotte.

By Mr. A. G. Griggs.

I like the White Wyandottes for their shape and the business that is in them. They are built for business and are full of it at all ages. Place chicks just from the shell of any breed "fit to eat" together, and see how our birds will outstrip the others in every respect. As young, they are good eating while chicks of other varieties are forming bone. In my experience the mortality of the White Wyandotte from three weeks of age to the "hatchet" is a very small per cent. If the weather is warm the young will care for themselves at six weeks of age, and from this time on, to my notion, they are the most interesting, responding so promptly to good treatment.

If properly fed and cared for, the wyandotte is a dead sure layer at six months, and will keep on shelling out large brown eggs all winter, and never let up except while hatching or brooding chicks. In summer we have the coolest bird, as the white plumage reflects the sun's rays. In hatching and as mothers they are ideal, not clumsy or nervous, and go back to laying so quickly. A good worker in the scratching pen, and she will yield the largest profit of anything that cackles. Her low comb is a good assurance of winter eggs, and in the years round-up our wyandottes will furnish the most eggs of any breed.

The white wyandotte is a bird of pleasant curves, wide, short and plump. A good wyandotte male is proud, intelligent, attentive, the best shaped male of any breed, and a show bird at four years. We have just the bird a calculating man would ask for. Sufficiently small for enough activity, large enough for the table and all good meat. The absence of dark pin feathers scores another point for the white wyandotte. They are not so hard to breed true to color as the colored varieties. If the white wyandotte has one fault I have failed to find it. The knowing ones are forsaking all breeds for the white wyandottes.

"Keeler's Pride" and Mates.

The Noble White Wyandotte.

BY J. S. MARTIN, FORT DOVER, ONT.

To many breeders of other varieties the popularity of the White Wyandotte has been a cause of wonder and envy. They seek to explain it by saying that it is simply the result of a boom and that this popularity will wane just as quickly as it came. I think every White Wyandotte breeder will join with me in a protest against any such theory. An analysis of this popularity will, however, not be out of place. I shall explain it by simply stating the reasons that led me some years ago to give up all other varieties for the white wyandotte. First of all I decided that they see a flock of them with their snow-white plumage, bright yellow legs and rose combs; who could help admiring them? Therefore it seems to me their popularity lies in their beauty and their usefulness. Taken together, what stronger combination could be devised? In all the large shows it is the white wyandottes that attract the most attention. Even the breeders of other varieties never fail to size up this class and pick the probable winners. Take the history of the barred rock. At one time no breed was more popular and justly so because this popularity was based on utility qualities. Lately they have been los-in this practical age the utility or general purpose fowl was the one to breed. I found this in the Plymouth Rock and wyandotte, but after many years' experience I found that the wyandotte excelled the rock as a layer. So it was a case of wyandotte, and my choice was naturally the white variety, as being in my eyes one of the most beautiful of domestic fowls. They attract everyone from the amateur to the veteran poultryman. Even people who know absolutely nothing about fowls are struck with admiration when ing ground and it is quite certain that this to a great extent is the result of the double mating farce. I claim that no double-mating variety can rightly be called an ideal utility fowl. At least nine-tenths of the breeders of poultry are farmers and they cannot nor have they the inclination to practice double-mating. In a short time they become disgusted with their birds because they find they are not up to the mark. I have seen dozens leave the Barred Rock and commence breeding white wyandottes for this very reason.

Verge

Of Insanity Despite Doctor's Care.

Nervous Cramps in Hands and Feet.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Was My Salvation.

Sleeplessness is at once a symptom and a disease. Just as soon as the nerves become deranged the patient suffers from sleeplessness. Deprived of their natural rest the nerves soon lose all force and vitality and while sleeplessness is a symptom in such cases it frequently becomes chronic and remains the chief effect of disordered nerves. Dr. Miles' Nervine quiets the nerves and strengthens them; soothes the tired brain and permits sleep; restores lost energy and vitality and brings sleep, health and strength.

"Previous to our coming to the territory three years ago, we lived in Virginia, and it was there that I got acquainted with the wonderful powers of Dr. Miles' Nervine. I had been under the doctor's care and taking his medicine for over two years, but the nervous trouble that was gnawing my life away grew steadily worse. I had nervous cramps in my hands and legs, which would draw up and pain me so that I could not sleep at night. Often I never closed my eyes for days and nights together. The doctor finally told me he could do nothing more for me and that I was on the verge of insanity. He told me I might try your Nervine as a last resort, and it proved to be my salvation. When I had used four bottles of the remedy together with the Nerve and Liver Pills I had regained my former good health."—MRS. MARTHA J. SHEFFER, Omer, Oklahoma.

Possibilities of Poultry Business.

The next thing in New York may be an egg corner. The eggs laid in the United States every year by hens are worth fully $145,000,000. The poultry sold brings $139,000,000. To haul to market all the eggs that all the hens lay every year would take a train of cars 866 miles long. This would reach from Washington to Chicago, where everybody eats one egg a day, or a total of 2,000,000. The great American people are only beginning to realize what a boon they have in the great American hen, and they are cultivating her and her progeny. They are providing incubators to raise her little ones that she may not be interrupted in her work of delivering the daily egg for the daily consumption of not only the Chicagoan but all other townsmen.—New York Commercial.

vinced there is nothing equal to or greater than the "pure white" wyandottes. They are large birds and always lay large eggs. From our numerous pens the egg production surpasses all records we ever made with other breeds, and there is no time in the year but what we can supply our customers with eggs.

A Business Proposition.

If you are going east a careful selection of your route is essential to the enjoyment of your trip. If it is a business trip time is the main consideration; if a pleasure trip, scenery and the conveniences and comforts of a modern railroad.

Why not combine all by using the ILLINOIS CENTRAL, the up-to-date road, running two trains daily from St. Paul and Minneapolis, and from Omaha to Chicago. Free Reclining Chair Cars, the famous Buffet-Library-Smoking Cars, all trains vestibuled. In short, thoroughly modern throughout. All tickets reading via the Illinois Central will be honored on these trains and no extra fare charged.

Our rates are the same as those of inferior roads—why not get your money's worth.

White Wyandotte Club Meeting.

The fifth annual meeting of the National White Wyandotte Club was held at Rochester, N. Y., February 2, 1904. There were 53 names presented for membership and all were duly elected. The secretary reported he received a list of 105 names of members from the former secretary; that during the past year 757 new members had been received and acted upon by the executive committee, which together with the 53 new names, gives the club a total membership of 915.

The treasurer reported a cash balance of $201.37.

It was decided to allow any member of the club to compete for the cups whether a resident of the state where the cup is offered or not.

Invitations were received from the Chicago and New York shows to hold the next annual meeting with them. It was voted to hold the next meeting at St. Louis during the World's Fair poultry exhibit. The executive committee was instructed to solicit subscriptions and prepare special prize lists for each of these meetings in order to make the White Wyandotte class the largest at each show.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, M. F. Delano, Millville, N. J.; vice-president,

New York and Chicago Winners Trio of White Wyandotte, bred and owned by Ira C. Keller, Prospect, Ohio.

Arthur G. Duston, Marlboro, Mass.; secretary and treasurer, Ross C. H. Hallock, St. Louis, Mo.

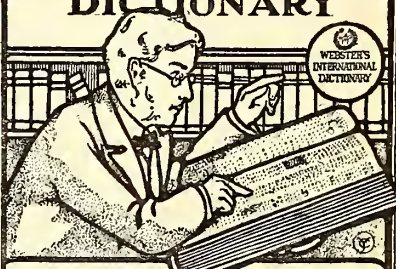

During the past year the club has issued a handsome catalogue of 144 pages, containing valuable reading matter and advertisements of the members only. The club offered $250 in cash specials at the Rochester meeting, which brought probably the best and largest class of White Wyandottes shown this year. Special ribbons have been offered at nearly every poultry show this winter, and silver cups were offered in twenty different states. Work will be started right away on the 1905 catalogue. We still have a limited number of the 1904 catalogues on hand, which will be mailed free to breeders of White Wyandottes, upon request, as long as they last,

LITERARY NOTES.

A REMARKABLE OFFER

Arrangements have just been perfected whereby we are able to offer the well known national semi-monthly agricultural and household paper, Farm and Home, at a price that is within the reach of all. Farmers must adopt up-to-date methods and have fewer wastes, if profits are to be maintained or increased. This enterprising paper is really a leader in its way, in that it prints the experiences of thousands of successful practical farmers. All features of farm work are considered in each issue, including all kinds of stock and crops. Special pages are filled with well-prepared matter pertaining to buying and selling farm crops and stock, farmers' organizations, treatment of sick animals, legal affairs, etc. The household features are well prepared and besides a good story in each issue, hundreds of cooking recipes and other kinds of household helps are printed. The paper is all it claims to be and as it can be obtained through this office, it should be in the home of every farmer. Notice the ad. on last page. The Farm and Home and the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL both one year for the price.

THE CARE OF THE EYES

The eyes are the most wonderful and delicate optical instruments in the world, and easily subjected to strain. This produces the inflammation that is the trouble of many and which in turn is often the cause of the unsightly puffiness under the eyes. Although it is not possible to change their color or shape, the appearance of the eyes can often be materially improved by proper care, and the surrounding tissues and features so modified as to add greatly to the looks. Excellent information on the care of the eyes is given in the March Delineator.

EVERYBODY'S

Timeliness is only half the program in good magazine making. The real achievement is to have the subject of the moment treated by the man who knows most about it. For instance, there have been hundreds of sketches of the Czar of Russia, the paramount figure in the world at the moment. In the February number of Everybody's Magazine there is a character study of the Muscovite autocrat by Arnold White, the well-known English publicist, who is one of the few men outside the Empire familiar with the conditions actually prevailing in Russian court circles.

Small Flocks.

Young and old birds do much better in small flocks than in large ones, especially where the range is limited. In young birds, those of the same age and size should be kept together. If room is limited, select out the most promising cockerels and give them separate quarters, doing the same with the most promising pullets. This will give them a better chance to develop their best qualities, where ample room can be had, it is a good plan to grade the cockerels and pullets according to the quality shown at the time, dividing them into lots of 15 or 30 according to size of roosting room and yard range; then, as often happens, as a bird in a lower grade develops unexpected quality, transfer it to a higher grade and where birds in higher grades show a dropping off in quality transfer them to their proper place. One may thus study their unfolding of qualities of shape and color to better advantage than in a large miscellaneous flock.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Marlin 16-Gauge Shotgun

This is the smallest and lightest weight (about 6 1-2 pounds) repeating gun ever manufactured, and opens up many new possibilities to the up-to-date sportsman. It is not a 16 barrel on a 12 action, but a new, well-balanced, properly-proportioned gun that, with modern smokeless powders, enables a shooter to use a powerful load in a small shell and reduce, materially, the weight of shells and gun to be carried. The small, light gun handles fast, results in close holding and increased accuracy. Full description in new Marlin Catalog No. A542, just out. Seed Time and Harvest.

The expression as usually understood, denotes the agriculturist's season of spring and fall. But there is another meaning which I shall try and explain that now is the seed time and harvest. As spoken of in some recent issue we obtained a plat of our last year's crop, and since we know that if possible we must rotate our crops for the very best results, we have decided probably by this time what we are going to plant this year, where we are going to plant, that is which plat we are going to use for this or that kind, and now we know precisely how much seed we will need. This then is seed time. The annual inventory comes in handy now to refer to, we are wanting to know what we have on hand and how much. Then we want to know the vitality of the stock on hand. As so much depends on the seed we must not make a serious error by planting seeds of low germinative power or worse yet to run the great risk of planting seeds that we have had for years or know nothing whatever about their germinative power. Allow me to give you a few of the common garden vegetables that are almost useless to sow after the limit of age herewith appended. I do not mean to say that these seeds will not grow but I do say that if you want maximum crops, and for the small amount of money that first class seeds cost, don't you run the risk. Let the "penny wise and pound foolish" fellow take the risk.

Reliable seedsmen have a reputation at stake and their best customers are those who place confidence in them. The best customer is the one who sends in his order early in the season, because he wants his seeds on hand when the time arrives for planting, and also to get his seeds from the original and unbroken package and furthermore he wants his order filled before the "rush" is on. The seedsman sends this early customer stock from the top of the package, he wants his trade next year, and he wants him to have the very best. The fellow that waits until he is ready to plant, and there is always so many in this class that is always behind, causes the big rush, and by this time the best have all been sold, he has to take the remnants, often carried over from stock of the previous year or get the polite notice "sold out." Now my friends, you surely will agree with me that that this is seed time.

During this time of the year there is a cessation of active operations on most farms and gardens, and the producer, manufacturer or dealer takes advantage of this opportune time to interest the agriculturist in most anything that he uses or consumes. The modern and established method accomplishing this object is by the great silent salesman "the catalogue." On most farms and gardens at this time of the year the vast amount of this literature often amounts to nearly a deluge and this is what I call a "harvest."

A peculiar harvest, you say, yes, but a welcome one to me and actually some of the seed catalogues are a veritable work on gardening.

Handsomely illustrated with lithographs and engravings taken from photographs of the actual vegetable or plant. The descriptions given by reputable houses are usually true and can be duplicated. One of the greatest benefit to be derived by the acquaintance of the different silent salesmen is by the acquisition of new varieties that are improvements. The expert seed grower discovers a sport or an improvement in some manner of some strain, while roguing his fields of seed bearing plants, and you get the benefit of this only through the great catalogue. Every new variety may not be an improvement for you but this is the only sure method, to try it yourself. The high standard of perfection attained of our fruits, flowers, grains and vegetables have been gotten in this manner and the catalogue is means of transferring this valuable and welcome information world-wide.

Increase the catalogue harvest and don't forget that this is seed time and I know that these will help you to gather a real harvest at the regular season, and it will also please yours truly.

SPOKANE, WASH.

The American hen is the greatest mortgage lifter in the world.

Whole or cracked wheat is one of the very best grains for hens during the winter months.

Give the hens something to scratch over during the winter. They will then want to lay.

Get the breed that suits your surroundings. Don't condemn a breed because a few fowls did not come up to expectations.

Did you keep a strict account during this year of receipts and expenditures in the poultry yard? If you never did before begin with the year just ahead and try it for twelve months. The fellow who "just guesses" never will realize profit from poultry.

The next month or so will prove a good time for culling the flock. Everything that is not first-class should be hustled in to market as speedily as possible as a better price will be received than a month or two later when the market is fully supplied with fryers.

Don't overcrowd. One of the greatest stumbling blocks to success is in trying to keep too large a number in too small a space. Overcrowding is responsible for many diseases and always results in stunted birds and impaired vitality, and a disgusted breeder. Give 'em room.

When the conditions are favorable the good summer layer will prove a good winter layer. A warm, comfortable house, plenty of grain, an abundant supply of green food, a small quantity of meat and bone and plenty of grit and shell will produce eggs if the hens are made to exercise enough to keep in good health with good appetites.

Any observing poultryman knows that when the general flock is fed the males fool away lots of time strutting about and fail to get their share of food. An excellent plan that has been tried with satisfactory effect is to feed the male breeders separately every day after the flock has gone to roost. The males soon catch on and come down for their extra ration.

Straw, chaff, leaves and other litter is enjoyed by hens as a pond of water is by ducks. The only difference is that while the water may not do the ducks any particular good, plenty of dry litter is beneficial to hens. The scratching keeps them warm and healthy and the litter absorbs moisture and keeps the ground or floor of the poultry house dry. In caring for them during winter we should study their comfort in every particular.

Notwithstanding the fact that a great deal depends upon the breed, good blood will pay no better than scrub unless the flocks are well fed and well cared for. Poultry needs as regular attention as the cows. There is very poor wisdom, as results will prove, in caring for them one day and neglecting them the next. Feed well and regularly and see that plenty of pure water is provided.

An exchange says: A flock of turkeys and guineas herded in a cotton field would do more toward destroying the boll weevil and worms than all of the high-toned institutes and all of the suggestions made at them.

Hundreds of farmers' wives have each sold from $200 to $300 worth of poultry and eggs which they have raised on the farm, in a year. This makes the hens which may be kept in an ordinary way upon the average farm as good money makers as a dairy of from six to ten average cows.

Poultry houses can be built in many ways, can be made cheaply or at great cost, just as you like, but we urge that three points never be lost sight of: The open or partially open side should face south, they should be on high ground so as to have dry floors, and they should admit the sun's rays during a considerable part of the day.

Poultry on the Farm.

Prof. Gilbert, of Ottawa, Canada, in answer to the question, "Why is poultry valuable to the farmer?" gives the following reasons:

1. Because he ought, by their means, be able to convert a great deal of the waste on his farm into money in the shape of eggs and chickens for market.
2. Because, with intelligent management, they ought to be all-year revenue producers, with the exception of perhaps two months during the molting season.
3. Because poultry will yield him a quicker return for the capital invested than any of the other departments of agriculture.
4. Because the manure from the poultry house will make a valuable compost for use in either vegetable garden or orchard. The birds themselves if allowed to run in plum or apple orchard, will destroy all injurious insect life.
5. Because, while cereals and fruits can only be successfully grown in certain sections, poultry can be raised for table use or layers of eggs in all parts of the country.
6. Because poultry raising is an employment in which the farmer's wife and daughters can engage, and leave him free to attend to other departments.
7. Because it will bring him the best results in the shape of new-laid eggs during the winter season, when the farmer has the most time on his hands.
8. Because to start poultry raising on the farm requires little or no capital. By good management poultry can be made with little cost a valuable adjunct to the farm.

Will Get "Uncle Sam" After Them.

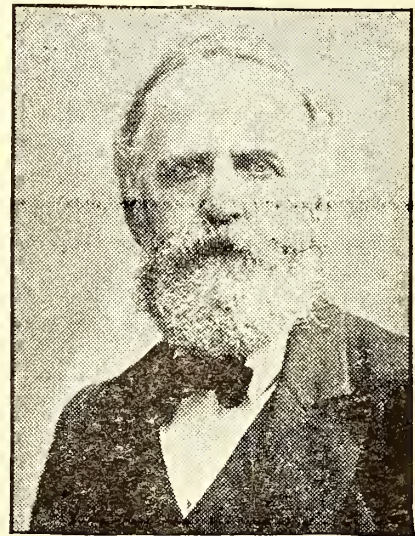

Now that the hunting season is open, hunters are warned not to shoot at the mail boxes scattered along the country roads throughout this country, where rural mail boxes are established. Uncle Sam's mail boxes are excellent marks at which to shoot and no doubt a good many hunters thoughtlessly try their marksmanship. Out in Minnesota a couple of weeks ago a hunter tried his marksmanship at a mail box and hit the mark. The shooting was witnessed by other parties. The owner of the box complained to the postmaster who reported the matter to the postoffice department at Washington and an inspector was sent to the grounds; the man was arrested and fined $200. Uncle Sam is bound to protect his mail boxes and will not be fooled, consequently, no matter how attractive marks the mail boxes may be; we advise the hunter to leave them alone.

Two acres immediately west of the Palace of Agriculture at the World's Fair grounds have been converted into a natural garden. There may be seen all the wild flowers and shrubs indiginous to the Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

A Celebrated Reform Writer.

An article on "Family Prayers" by W. T. Stead appears in the February Good Housekeeping. We are permitted to quote a portion of the article and present a good likeness of the author.

"Besides the reading of the Bible and the singing of a hymn or psalm, the habit of united prayer in which the father acts as the natural priest of the family, which is the real unit of society, and the prototype of every church that ever was founded, is one which in the interest of civilization and humanity, not to say of morality and religion, ought not to fall into desuetude. Take an agnostic household the members of which are cultured and ethically quite as good as any of their orthodox neighbors. Can we find any attempt to supply a substitute for family prayers? So far as my observation goes, I have come upon no instance in which any attempt has been made even by the most religious minded agnostic to give to his children and his servants the advantages which every old Puritan regarded as absolutely essential for the training of a household and the right conduct of life. Surely something might be done in this direction."

The average reader of a publication like ours, reaching as it does into the homes of all classes and of all political beliefs and faiths, has but a faint conception of the difficulties which its editor experiences in trying to cater equally satisfactory to the tastes and desires of all who read it. What may be accepted as instructive and beneficial by one may be considered trashy and unworthy of perusal by another, and it is only after years of patient study and experiment that a happy medium has been reached. We pride ourselves with the belief that we are now giving our readers the sort of literature they desire.

Agriculture Building.

The Agriculture Building will stand on a hill just west of Skinker road and about half a mile south of the Administration Building. Its dimensions will be 500 by 1600 feet. The long facade will be broken up into bays accentuated by piers, the latter 100 feet from center to center. The ornamentation is to be concentrated in the main entrances, of which there will be five; one in the center of each of the shorter fronts, one in the center of the front on Skinker road and two placed at equal distances on the front toward Arrowhead lake—the western front. The openings in these entrances will be 52 feet wide and 74 feet high. A massive arch flanked by heavy pylons that rise only a short distance above the cornice make up this entrance composition.

The lighting of the building has received special attention from the architect and will probably be the best lighted structure of the fair. The roof will be carried on nine bays of trusses, those in the center having a span of 106 feet. The building will have little ornamentation and although the largest structure on the grounds it will cost less than some of the buildings in the main architectural picture of the Fair. The contract price is $529,940. The contractors are Caldwell & Drake, who also have the contract for the erection of the Horticulture Building.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL

AND

Inter-Mountain Poultry Journal.

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON,

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL is published the first of every month at 50 cents per year, payable in advance.

Subscriptions may commence with any issue.

REMITTANCES should always be made in the safest manner available to the remitter. Postoffice and Express Money Orders are always safe and may be sent at our own risk.

REGISTER your letters when you remit by cash.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.—Always give both your old and your new address when you ask us to change your address.

THE NAME of your postoffice and of the state you live in should always follow your own name when writing to this office.

BACK NUMBERS.—We cannot undertake to supply back numbers, nor to make good omissions caused by tardy renewals.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted only for responsible and reliable houses. We must have copy by the 25th of each month.

ARTICLES on subjects suitable for this publication are always acceptable, though no compensation will be given for them. Articles appertaining to any of the departments should be sent direct to the editor of that department.

Letters should be addressed:

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL,
521 First Avenue,

Spokane, Washington.

Entered at the Postoffice, Spokane, Wash., as second class matter.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The Walla Walla poultry show is now in full swing. It is a success as usual.

Another farmer's paper is said to have been started in Spokane. We have not seen a copy.

Notice the article giving a list of deaths and accidents on the Northern Pacific railway and then think about what road to take when traveling.

What is the "butter flavor?" A solicitor for a Spokane butter dealer when told by a customer that some worked over Minnesota butter was not good, said, "Why, the people in the west don't know what good butter is. That butter has the real butter flavor which the western butter never will be able to attain."

MARTHA WASHINGTON.

We have an inquiry from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where a subscriber wishes to purchase some pure light Brahma chickens. Who has any for sale?

The Anderson Seed Co. of this city, has just issued a nice catalog of seeds and poultry supplies. This is a reliable firm and deserving of your patronage.

The new town of Irrigon, Oregon, has a paper, the Irrigator. They print a clean paper and claim they intend to keep it that way by excluding all patent medicine and kindred ads.

Take the best paper of its class published—the Northwest Horticulturist. We will send it and the Western Home Journal a year for 50 cents to persons outside of Spokane. Fifty cents is the regular price of either paper.

The next issue of the JOURNAL will be a White Wyandotte number. We are receiving a large number of cuts of the most noted of these handsome birds. Articles and ads for this issue will be acceptable.

We have been sending statements to delinquents. Some have been notified three times without responding. All such will soon get a collecting agency after them. We are endeavoring to get a paid in advance subscription list. To this end we make several liberal subscription clubbing offers which are advertised elsewhere.

BOOK REVIEWS.

Practical Journalism.

A Complete Manual of the Best Newspaper Methods

The foregoing is the title of a book by E. L. Shuman, book reviewer on the Chicago Record-Herald. The author presents in detail an analysis of all the writing departments of a progressive city daily newspaper. It is a most readable volume—not a dull sentence in its 265 pages. Mr. Shuman has a facile pen, direct, entertaining, and follows his advice to ambitious newspaper writers not to use two words when one will do. The trials and difficulties of a beginner in daily newspaper work are set forth as the rewards of the successful.

The book embodies the author's observation of twenty years spent in more or less close connection with journalistic work, ranging from the responsibilities of a printer's devil to editorial positions, with the usual intervening steps. It is a timely work, in view of the chairs of journalism established in various colleges, and of schools that advertise to teach "journalism by mail." "Practical experience," says Mr. Shuman, "is the only university that can confer the degree of Master of Pen. Some help can be had from the journalistic courses now springing up in the larger universities. Correspondence schools of journalism also may give aid if they be conscientiously conducted, but nothing can teach journalism so thoroughly as hard experience under exacting orders."

"Practical Journalism" will be an invaluable aid to any young man or woman now doing newspaper work or who thinks of it as a vocation. It is published by D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price $1.25 net.

"THE BARONET IN CORDUROY."

By Albert Lee.

A stirring romance of the times of Queen Anne as told by Mistress Boydell, chaperon of Ellenor Froude, heiress, who becomes the wife of the profligate Sir Eustis Cely, baronet. James, the pretender, is brought into the story, and, as might be expected, it is full of action, intrigue and adventure. Sir Eustis, who is a worthless "high roller," has about come to the end of his financial rope when he meets Ellenor and marries her. She soon sees that she has made a terrible mistake, for she finds herself tied to an inordinate tippler and gamester who is rapidly wasting her fortune. Incidents crowd upon one another, and most of them are unpleasant; but the movement is irresistible and there are absorbing qualities to the tale even to the time of the wretched demise of the baronet when he has become little better than a sot. There is some excellent character drawing and the portrayal both as to place and persons is realistic. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price $1.50.

"DENSLOW'S TWELVE BOOKS,"

By W. W. Denslow.

W. W. Denslow, the illustrator for children, has made a new departure: Instead of making one sumptuous, large volume, as he has done for the last four years, he has employed his talents on 12 small books, of 12 pages each, for the delight of the little ones.

In four of these—"Mary Had a Little Lamb," "The House that Jack Built," "Old Mother Hubbard," and "The Five Little Pigs"—the artist has merely taken the good text of the old, familiar rhymes and illustrated them in his own peculiar, quaint and decorative style.

"The One Ring Circus," "The Zoo," "The A B C Book" and "Humpty Dumpty" are creations of his own fancy, both in text and pictures. These books possess a charming originality that is destined to place them beside the old classics in the heart of the children. G. W. Dillingham Co., publishers, New York. 25 cents each.

The first novel of the new year from the press of Doubleday, Page & Co. will be Miss Ellen Glassgow's new romance of the Virginia tobacco fields, "The Deliverance," illustrated in color by Frank Schoonover. January 15 is the date set for publication, and in this apparently "off season" the same house has before issued some of its best novels with unusual success, so they no longer consider it an experiment. Last year, their first novel, which appeared on the same date, was "The Pit."

OUR GREAT BUTTER GROP.

"Butter judges at the Paris Exposition held an almost unremovable prejudice against American exhibits because they were salted," says F. W. Hewes in Everybody's Magazine for February. "To a Frenchman, salt is put in butter only to cover up a bad flavor or other defect. However, in spite of that prejudice, after laborious argument and convincing proof, fifteen and a half per cent. of American exhibits took gold medals, while of the French exhibits only sixteen per cent. won similar honors. No other country could compete at all successfully."

The February Delineator is a magazine of uncommon interest and value. Its stories, article and pictures are excellent, and the review of the fashions, including a letter from Mrs. Osborn, thorough and enlightening. In fiction there is a mystical tale entitled The Silver Boat, by Albert Bigelow Paine; a strong love story from the Pacific by Ednah Proctor Clarke, The Wooing of Tia; and a delightful middle-age romance by L. M. Montgomery; also a chapter of the Evolution of a Club Woman, the much discussed serial by Agnes Surbridge.

Life

Long Sick and Nervous Headaches.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills Cured Me.

They Gave Me Instant Relief.

The common affliction of all mankind is headache. From it few are entirely free. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will cure and in most instances prevent headache of any kind or degree. If you cannot enjoy theatre going, car-riding, dancing, if you are subject to nausea from nervous excitement, the fatigues of travel or sight-seeing, take an Anti-Pain Pill before an attack comes on and you will find that you can successfully ward off all disagreeable symptoms. Anti-Pain Pills are the best of remedies for backache, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatic pains; contain no opiates, non-laxative; never sold in bulk.

"With the greatest pleasure I recommend Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills to everyone who suffers from nervous or sick headache. All my life long I was troubled with headaches of a very severe nature, and have tried many powders and other remedies without success. By chance I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they gave immediate relief. Never since the first dose have I been troubled with headache. Whenever I feel it coming on I take one or two Pain Pills and it all disappears."—WILLIAM BROWN, Genesee, Idaho.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for neuralgia and neuralgic headache and have found them to give relief."—E. D. WEED, Ex-Mayor and Ex-U. S. Dist. Atty., Helena, Mont.

All druggists sell and guarantee Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They are non-laxative; contain no opiates, never sold in bulk, 25 doses, 25 cents. Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

It Depends on the Person.

Only in recent years has poultry keeping taken its place among the recognized industries, as the bulk of the world's enormous supply of poultry and eggs has hitherto come from numerous small producers, says Farmer's Review. The number of people who make a living out of the business are comparatively few compared with the small producers, but they are increasing rapidly, and to one who is naturally adapted to the business is the most pleasant and profitable employment upon which he can enter. It is true that many have failed when they tried to keep poultry in large numbers, through lack of ability or because in a bad location, but that is not saying that there is no money in the poultry business. It all depends on the man and his ability to make money. The poultry business is not one for children or invalids, but men and women are both making a success of it, and find it a profitable vocation. To make the business a success a person must be an expert in the management of fowls. While it is true that many have started before they became experts and made a success of it, they have been willing to begin in a small way and grow in the business as their knowledge of the business increased.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

Suggestion

is a popular scientific magazine of the New Psychology for health, happiness and success; it appeals chiefly to those interested in psychic research, drugless methods of healing, hygiene, auto-suggestion, etc., published at 4020 Drexel Boulevard, Chicago.

Josh Billings on Hens: The best time tew sett a hen is when she is ready. I kant tell you what the best breed iz, but the Shanghai is the meanest. It kosts az much to board one az it duz a stage hoss, and you might as well undertake to fat a fanning mill running goats thru it. There ain't no profit in keeping a hen for his eggs if he laze less than one a day. Hens are long lived if they don't contract the habit of dying without assistance. I kant tell eggsactly how to pick out a good hen, but as a general thing the long eared ones, I kno, are the least apt to scretch up the garden. Eggs packed in equal parts of lime water, with the other end down, will keep from 30 to 40 years if they are not disturbed. Fresh beef steak is good for hens. I suppose four or five pounds a day would be all a hen would need, at fust, along, I shall be happee to advise with you at any time on the hen question and take pay for my advice in eggs.

A Business Proposition.

If you are going east a careful selection of your route is essential to the enjoyment of your trip. If it is a business trip time is the main consideration; if a pleasure trip, scenery and the conveniences and comforts of a modern railroad.

Why not combine all by using the ILLINOIS CENTRAL, the up-to-date road, running two trains daily from St. Paul and Minneapolis, and from Omaha to Chicago. Free Reclining Chair Cars, the famous Buffet-Library-Smoking Cars, all traiais vestibuled. In short thoroughly modern throughout. All tickets reading via the Illinois Central will be honored on these trains and no extra fare charged.

Our rates are the same as those of inferior roads—why not get your money's worth.

Salzer's National Oats.
Most prolific Oats on earth. The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, says: "Salzer's Oats are the best out of over four hundred sorts tested by us." This grand Oat yielded in Wisconsin 156 bu., Ohio 187 bu., Michigan 231 bu., Missouri 255 bu., and North Dakota 310 bu. per acre, and will positively do as well by you. Try it, sir, and be convinced.

A Few Sworn to Yields.
Salzer's Beardless Barley, 121 bu. per A.
Salzer's Homebuilder Corn, 304 bu. per A.
Salzer's Big Four Oats, 250 bu. per A.
Salzer's New National Oats, 310 bu. per A.
Salzer's Potatoes, 736 bu. per A.
Salzer's Onions, 1,000 bu. per A.

All of our Farm and Vegetable Seeds are pedigree stock, bred right up to big yields.

Salzer's Speltz (Emmer).
Greatest cereal wonder of the age. It is not corn nor wheat, nor rye, nor barley, nor oats, but a golden combination of them all, yielding 80 bu. of grain and 4 tons of rich straw hay per acre. Greatest stock food on earth. Does well everywhere.

Salzer's Million Dollar Grass.
Most talked of grass on earth. Editors and College Professors and Agricultural Lecturers praise it without stint; yields 14 tons of rich hay and lots of pasture besides, per acre.

Salzer's Teosinte.
Salzer's Teosinte produces 113 rich, juicy, sweet, leafy stalks from one kernel of seed, 14 feet high in 90 days; yielding fully 80 tons of green fodder per acre, doing well everywhere, East, West, South or North.

Grasses and Clovers.
Only large growers of grasses and clovers for seed in America. Operate over 5,000 acres. Our seeds are warranted. We make a great specialty of Grasses and Clovers, Fodder Plants, Corn, Potatoes, Onions, Cabbage, and all sorts of Vegetable seeds.

For 10c in Stamps and the name of this paper, we will send you a lot of farm seed samples, including some of above, together with our mammoth 140 page illustrated catalogue, for but 10c in postage stamps.

IS IT SAFE TO TRAVEL?

Lots of Accidents on the Northern Pacific.

Near East Butte the engine and some cars of Nrain No. 6 were derailed owing to an open switch. Passengers badly shaken up.

On the Central Washington Jan 7, a collision occurred near Davenport. Cars were wrecked, property destroyed, but luckily no lives were lost.

David Berkey, an employe of the Northern Pacific railway at Vancouver, was seriously injured owing to defective supporting stakes.

A lot of bunk cars which were used by tramps and criminals as a rendezvous, were burned at American lake, Jan. 9.

A G. Boyer won a suit in the Spokane courts for $700 damages for baggage which was burned in a wreck.

Two locomotives crashed together at Mabton, Wash., Jan. 14, delaying traffic.

John Hayes was run down and killed by a freight train between Tacoma and Seattle, Jan. 24.

Louis Harris won $2000 damages against the Northern Pacific. He claimed to have been thrown from a train by employes.

The Chehalis Advocate tells how J. C. Wiley was killed by falling into the "Northern Pacific death trap" at that place.

Passenger train No. 3 crashed into a huge boulder which had rolled on the track near Eagle Gorge. Some damages resulted and the passengers were justly alarmed.

Everett Morrison has been awarded $8000 by the supreme court for injuries received in a wreck at Selah station. The superior court had awarded $12,000 damages.

An unknown man was ground to fragments by the wheels of a passenger train near Ellensburg, Jan. 17.

A passenger train was derailed in Montana not long since. Seven coaches left the track. The mail car was only prevented from rolling down a rocky embankment and into the river by lodging against a tree. The mail clerks were injured and passengers badly shaken up. A similar accident occurred near the same locality only a short time from this one.

A test of the signal light service of the Northern Pacific recently proved conclusively that the employes of that company are very careless and passengers really take their lives in their hands when riding on that road. At a point north of Portland four trains failed to note signal lights and only one stopped and asked for a clearance.

Please note that these accidents are only an incomplete list that have happened on the western divisions. In our next issue we expect to show the eastern portion is also endangering the life of men.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE NECESSARY MAGAZINE IN THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

The Review of Reviews is often called a necessity, in recognition of its usefulness in keeping readers "up with the times."

In Presidential election years the REVIEW OF REVIEWS is more than ever "the necessary magazine." Everybody wants to be truly and quickly informed about this or that public question that has forged to the front; to know about the new candidates and personal factors in politics, to have a complete picture at hand of the current movement of history.

In Dr. Shaw's editorials, in its authentic and timely contributed articles, in its brilliant character sketches, in its condensations and reviews of all the important articles of other magazines, and in its hundred a month of valuable portraits, witty cartoons, and interesting views, the REVIEW OF REVIEWS gives the much desired news of the world's and our own progress. "The World under a Field-glass" is the way one subscriber describes it.

Men in public life, like President Theodore Roosevelt, the members of Congress, and the great captains of industry, who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided it is "indispensable."

A Change of Labor in the Garden.

On most farms and gardens for the next month or so is a season of rest but before you take exception to this remark, understand me, I don't want it to be understood that there is nothing to do, but I do want to say at this time, above all others, the agriculturists can take a siesta from the active labor necessary in the production of crops. It is well he should have some recreation after devoting the past nine or ten months to this active labor. For fear that someone may misunderstand me, and quit immediately, sit down and not even think, I want to explain myself. There is a certain amount of work that must be done, the "chores" being the most important. After these are done and especially on days of inclement weather, this recreation that I have hinted at should be in full force. Of course you have discussed and planned with the good wife, and it was carried out extremely gratifying, especially by the little ones, the Christmas entertainment. When this jollification has passed the next recreation is an inventory. What's that? What's that for? It's a business proposition, and a recreation to take an inventory and know our resources. Procure a book suitable for the purpose, line it off carefully with the intention of annually taking stock for the entire life of the business. The first and usually the most difficult is the land value. A satisfactory manner is to get the price asked by your nearest progressive neighbor for his land, and other conditions being equal, yours is worth as much and probably more. The object is to get a value and in the annual inventory a comparison can be made as to increase or decrease. Next comes improvements along with itemized list of stock, implements, machinery, produce, etc., and a value placed upon growing crops. Everything of value must be included if we are to know in a year from now whether we have or have not increased our holdings.

On and after January 1, 1904 you and I will have a moments recreation each evening by placing down in a suitable book, our income and expense, itemized so that January 1, 1905, we will know how much we took in and what it was for and how much we spent and what it was for. Any suitable day now, you and I will take a large sheet of paper with pencil, and make a visit to the garden. We first take a general survey of the whole plat then commencing at one side we line off on our paper the subdivisions of each crop, stating the name of crop grown, together with the acres, rods or feet in the enclosed lines. Now we have a plat before us of our garden as it was in 1903 and we have been advised by the best authorities also by our own experience that our annual crops must be rotated for the best results. This is not by any means an easy task, the rotation of garden crops, especially where the soil is of a different character, the susceptibility of frost and the moisture holding capacity of the different soils. But now we have the survey and plat before us and all the available literature, together with our experience of previous years we are in the best position to circumvent these adverse conditions spoken of. This is a recreation or a change of labor and I hope we all shall profit thereby.

Wishing all a prosperous New Year, I am your garden friend.

The Wife of Today.

Oh, don't you remember the girl you once met
In the Kingdom of Love long ago?
Ah, surely her sweet face is haunting you yet
As when first it enraptured you so!
How happy you were in those summery days
With that dear little girl by your side,
Who listened to all of your fond words of praise,
When she promised she would be your bride.

And well you remember how happy you were
On the day she was wedded to you;
How proudly and fondly you looked upon her.
Like a flower of radiant hue!
And wasn't life joyous and roseate then
And sufficient the fullness thereof,
In those dreamy days so long ago when
You sojourned in the Kingdom of Love?

Ah, yes, you remember those bright days of old,
And you think of the girl you met,
And back through the years that have over you rolled,
Comes that memory haunting you yet.
But, pray, do not dwell in the past evermore,
While the present is gliding away,
For, husband, remember that sweet girl of yore
Is the true, loving wife of today!

And do you e'er love her as tenderly still
As you did in the long, long ago,
When she was a girl and your heart felt the thrill
Of that rapturous passion aglow?
Those summery days have long vanished and gone
In the past's silent vistas away,
But the love of that maiden still lives on and on
In the heart of the wife of today!

Why I Raise Buff Leghorns.

BY HENRY BAILEY, WEST POINT, MISS.

Like breeders of other strains of poultry I am frequently asked why I raise Buff Leghorns, and will proceed to make general and intelligent answer, as briefly as possible.

I have bred poultry more or less extensively for twenty years, and in that time have experimented with many breeds, always having in view the variety that would earn the most coin. I have bred about all the popular breeds, and have given them all possible chance incident to poultry breeding. About five years ago the Buff Leghorn came to my notice and I started a pen against the advice of a friend and many prominent breeders. They were a new variety, and I liked their looks; they had a business air I had never observed about any other fowl. Their good qualities soon began to make themselves manifest, and I began to drop out the other breeds, and last spring I discarded my last pen of Barred Rocks, the last of the old has-beens to go.

The Buff Leghorn is a beautiful fowl, and as an egg producer their equal does not exist upon the face of mother earth; as a broiler I have never seen their equal for quality, and they net as much meat at twelve to fourteen weeks as the larger varieties. They dress much easier and nicer than other fowls, have a fine, rich yellow skin and legs. Early pullets commence laying as early as four months and ten days of age; they are the only almost absolutely perfect non-sitter. The incubator must do the hatching, or else some of the old fashioned biddies. They have earned more money for me by half than any breed of fowls I have ever raised, and I find it absolutely impossible to supply the demand for them, and I think it no vain prediction to say that they are the coming fowl; everything points toward it.

To the man who takes no care of his chickens, lets them roost any and everywhere, lay and sit the same way, they are not for him. But the man who houses comfortably, devotes a little care, and makes poultry a part of his business, will find the Buff Leghorn to be a fowl that will not only pay for his keep, but put a handsome balance on the right column of his ledger.

White Wyandotte Club Meeting.

The fifth annual meeting of the National White Wyandotte Club will be held at Rochester, N. Y., during their show to be held January 29 to February 4, 1904. Silver cups are being offered by the club in nearly every state, and a fine list of cash specials is being prepared for the Rochester show. The club now numbers over 800 members and is the largest specialty club in America whose annual dues amount to $1.00 or more. Every breeder of White Wyandottes should join this club or send for one of the new catalogues.

Ross C. H. Hallock, Sec., St. Louis, Mo.

Horticulture Building.

The Horticulture Building stands on Skinker Hill, 250 feet south of the Agriculture building. The structure is in the shape of a Greek cross with a center pavilion two wings. The center pavilion is 400 feet square; the wings are each 204 feet by 250 feet. They are divided from the center pavilion by glass partitions and the floor of each is nine feet lower than that of the center pavilion. This difference in elevation produces a monumental effect, which is further heightened by the use in the rain entrance on the north front of two towers about 150 feet high.

A scientific authority says that there are 200 kinds of mosquitoes, and among all there is only one kind that is harmless and that is the kind that has been hit on the small of the back with a firm hand.

SINGLE COMB BUFF LEGHORNS.

(By Fred E. Olson, Galva, Ill.)

A few lines about this most popular variety of fowls that have made steady advance in popularity since their introduction into this country in 1890, will no doubt be of interest to some one.

Having as they do, the greatest of all, the elements of beauty and utility What will you find more beautiful than a pen of these golden beauties? To see them on a green lawn is a sight that is very pleasing to the eye, their rich, golden bluff blending so nicely with the green grass.

They are a fine table fowl, yellow skin, and meat that is tender and sweet; are rapid growers, and if kept free from lice and given good range will make good broilers and fryers at an early age. At maturity males will weigh six to seven pounds each, and females four to five pounds each.

As layers they cannot be beaten; have heard them called the best layers on earth, which expression I think does not go very far wrong.

Pullets will begin to lay when five months old; at the age of six months they begin in earnest and keep at it even during the moult—I have had hens lay a few eggs during the entire month.

The Buff Leghorns are great foragers, which accounts for their being such a healthy breed. On account of activity they seldom get over fat. If the grain is kept in litter where they have to dig for it they will work all day long, and a working hen is bound to be healthy and lay eggs. In disposition they are wild and restless, but this can be overcome by gentle handling and kind treatment.

During my seven years' experience I have had very few that offered to sit. I gave three a trial this spring and they proved a success by hatching ten chicks each, and taking care of their chicks like an old mother.

To sum up we have in the Buff Leghorns four excellent qualities: Beauty, table use, laying qualities, and great foragers, making them the ideal bird for the farmer and fancier.

Prospective buyers will do well to give them a trial before buying any other variety. There never has been such a demand for stock and eggs as there has been the past season, and I think the future outlook for the Buff Leghorn is getting brighter every day.

Then we have the American Buff Leghorn Club, composed of the best breeders in the country, to push this popular variety to the front, where it belongs. If not a member join at once; it only costs $1 and the annual dues of $1, and the benefits derived will repay you many times.

The club will offer silver cups and handsome ribbons $1, and the benefits derived will repay you many times. don't delay, but send your membership fee at once.

Holstein-Friesian Special Prizes.

The World's Fair committee of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America is sending out an address to breeders and exhibitors of Holstein-Friesian cattle relative to an especial effort toward an exceptional display of that breed at St. Louis next September. The committee is composed of six prominent breeders, with W. J. Gillette of Rosendale, Wis., as chairman.

The address makes the following reference to the World's Fair prizes offered by the Holstein-Friesian association:

Public esteem and the merits of the Holstien-Friesian brood demand that a most creditable show of our cattle be present at this great exposition. Realizing the importance of a representative exhibit of Holstein-Frisians at St. Louis, the Holstein-Friesian Association of America has offered special prizes for exhibits of it cattle, which, together with the regular prizes offered by the Exposition, make a sum to be competed for in amount never before offered at any live stock show. It will be seen from the arrangement of prizes offered that the large and the small breeder have an equal chance of winning something, and that it would be hardly possible for any herd of ordinary merit to show at St. Louis and win nothing.

Once upon a time Senator Depew and Mark Twain were fellow-passengers on a trip across the ocean. One night a dinner was given, and Twain was called upon to speak. He made a characteristic speech. Mr. Depew was next called upon. "Mr. Clemens and I exchanged speeches before dinner," he said, "and he has delivered mine. His is so bad that I won't disgrace him by repeating it." Then Mr. Depew sat down, while everybody laughed. The next morning while Mr. Clemens was pacing the deck, an Englishman came up to him. "Mr. Clemens," he said, "I always thought that Mr. Depew was a smart man, but that speech of his which you delivered was the worst drivel I ever heard."

$1.00 WORTH OF MUSIC FOR 10c

If there is a piano in your home we will send you without charge seven splendid musical compositions, two vocal and five instrumental. Three of these selections are copyrighted and cannot be bought in any music store for less than $1.00. With them we will send four portraits of great composers and four large reproductions of famous paintings of musical subjects.

WHY WE MAKE THIS OFFER.

We make this offer to reliable men and women to enable us to send information regarding our Library of the World's Best Music, which is absolutely the best collection of vocal and instrumental music ever published. It contains more music, more illustrations, and more biographies of composers than any other musical library. It is for general home use and enjoyment, as well as for students. Send your name and address and ten cents in stamps to pay for postage and wrapping. When writing, kindly mention this periodical.

Spokane, Washington.

Entered at the Postoffice, Spokane, Wash., as second class matter.

In the regular interesting letter of that practical gardener, A. A. Kelly, you will find a suggestion that is worthy of strict investigation and then emulation. There is no reason why a farmer, gardener, poultryman or stockman should not take an annual inventory as well as the merchant.

The Northwest Horticulturist of Tacoma, is the best paper for the fruit grower we have ever seen. It is neatly printed in good large readable type and contains many nice engravings. It is also a paper for the farmer and poultryman. We are not saying this at the request of the publishers but simply because we think that way.

Now that Christmas has passed, a little advice to eastern relatives of the western people is in order. Next year when you wish to remember your friend don't go hunting around the stores for some heavy book or useless bric-a-brac. Crack some butternuts, walnuts, hickory nuts and send a small box of the meats or a small cake of maple sugar. A taste of these will revive youthful memories as nothing else can do.

A word to subscribers: You do not subscribe for a paper except for the purpose of increasing your knowledge in the line of work in which you follow. You want new ideas. You want to be further educated. And then you want the best. You also want these ideas to suit your environment.

You want advice, occasionally, from practical men and women, who are successful in their line. You do not want to stand still, in a business way, and as American people you will not go backward. You must and will advance. There is no better medium of the agriculturist, for this purpose, than the Agricultural press. The lawyer, the doctor, the business man all have their periodicals devoted to their respective lines, and if they are successful, they devote a portion of their time, interesting themselves in what others are doing and how they do it. You must do the same. You must support your paper, the nearer home the better. Get personally acquainted with the contributors and advertisers. They want your acquaintance. They will be of service to you. Interest your neighbor. Interest your friends. Tell them, and truthfully you can, that the expense of a years subscription to their home periodical, devoted to their interests, are often fully repaid four-fold in a single issue. The management of this paper is anxious for further development. It remains with you, however. If each one of you get your neighbor or friend to subscribe which doubles the subscription, your paper will double in value to you. At the present time commences an era of Agricultural development in this state, and the factors identified with this movement are the Farmer's Institutes, Farmer's Clubs, Horticultural societies, Poultry organizations, etc., and the gist of all of this is given to you in your Agricultural paper. You want to read the best advertisements. You want to patronize those who are anxious to satisfy your demands and make you pleased. The management of this paper will not allow you to be humbugged by placing in their paper unscrupulous advertisers. Mention this paper when you write advertisers. It gives you an absolute security of fairness and besides it increases your paper in every way. Support this paper, friends, and I assure it will do you good.

A. A. KELLY.

A Home for Suburb or Country.

In the January Delineator is shown an attractive house for suburb or country, wherein comfortable provision is made for the needs of both Winter and Summer. The exterior lines of the house are pleasing and within the arrangements are economical as well as artistic. The interior decorations are characteristic and the furnishings no less distinctive. The illustrations will be of value to prospective home builders. This suburban house is the first of a series of houses that have been built at moderate cost and furnished attractively to be shown in The Delineator.

Late Music.

We acknowledge the receipt of two late pieces of music from the publishing house of Hamilton S. Gordon, 139 Fifth avenue, New York. The first is a song entitled "My Dearest Heart;" the other is a march (two-step) "Liberty Forever."

Spokane has added a fence factory to her rapidly increasing list of new industries. Simmons & Sons have completed their new factory, corner of Northern Pacific railway and Walnut street, an illustration of which appears above, for the manufacture of the Excelsior Farm Fence. The company come to Spokane with years of successful experience in farm fencing in the east but were attracted here by the rich farming country tributary to the city and the great farming prospects in the Inland Empire. This firm also makes their own staples. A noteworthy feature about the staples manufactured by this company is that they are paralleled and square turned so that the hammer strikes directly upon the part to be driven and the staple cannot sprawl or flatten out like the common staple. The clamps and staples are manufactured from No. 9 galvanized wire and will not rust. Messrs. Simmons & Sons will send an illustrated catalogue upon application. Send for it now.

In each succeeding number of Everybody's Magazine is found some significant and valuable article bearing on the subject about which the people are most interested at its appearance. Nothing could have been better than O. K. Davis's explanation of the issues between Russia and Japan in the December number. Every day, since, there have been telegrams from Tokio and St. Petersburg telling of the progress of negotiations between the belligerent powers.

One reason why the agricultural colleges are not filled with students of both sexes is because the advantages of these institutions are not made known. Our agricultural colleges, at least in the middle and western states, do little, if any, advertising, either in the newspapers or in other ways. It is an open secret that the vast attendance which most of the great universities have is due to the earnestness which those institutions are constantly working for students. In some cases, they employ one or more representatives to constantly visit the high schools and preparatory institutions, to tell the students about the university, and to get them interested in its work. The new president of Yale college announces that even that sedate institution should go into this sort of work more thoroughly than ever. Any agricultural college that will "get a move on itself" along these lines can easily secure more students than it can accommodate, and we believe that every one of these institutions should be open to both sexes. The girls have as many rights as the boys to a practical education, and our agricultural colleges can or should furnish it better, and at less expense than any other institution. —The Ranch.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

The effect of excessive smoking shown by such symptoms as heart pains, heartburn, smothering spells, shortness of breath, fluttering and palpitation, is most serious. If your heart is in any way affected you should at once begin the use of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure which enriches the blood, regulates the heart's action and improves the circulation.

"I am a local newspaper man and have been an inveterate smoker since my boyhood. A little over a year ago I first noticed symptoms of heart trouble, palpitation and acute pains and a peculiar, I might say, indescribable feeling across my chest. Local physicians said I had 'tobacco heart.' I quit smoking for a while and took regular doses of digitalis and belladonna with some relief but the same old symptoms were still there. A friend of mine here recently died of what the doctor said was valvular disease of the heart. Knowing that his symptoms were similar to mine I felt that my time too was limited, although I am still a young man, in my thirty-ninth year. In Skillman & Stone's drug store here Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure was recommended. I began taking it and I can positively state that its effect is marvelous. I have just finished my third bottle and feel like a 'kid' and believe I am cured. This letter is the spontaneous utterance of one who wishes to thank you for benefits received."—W. M. N. "The Jumping Frog."

By Mark Twain.

Harper & Brothers announce a new specially illustrated holiday edition of "The Jumping Frog," by Mark Twain, with pictures by F. Strothmann. As will be recalled, this is the story which first made Mark Twain famous as a humorist, but it has never before been published as a book. The author has recently made additions to the original story, and the Strothmann illustrations are in keeping with its irresistible humor.

"The Tu-Tze's Tower."

We have before us a new book "The Tu-Tze's Tower," by Louise Betts Edwards. Nearly all the scenes are laid in China where the first chapter opens with the death of Victor Blaize, a writer of considerable fame, who is accompanied by his wife and numerous servants. During his last hours he complains of dying before his book of the country through which they are traveling is finished. His young wife, Winifred, promises to complete his work and he dies in peace. Winifred then returns to her sister in Washington, D. C., where she remains two years and is much sought by society. A young English gentleman who has been in love with her for years renews his suit but with no success, she declaring she will return to China at once to complete her husband's book. She advertises for a companion and secures an old maid of about 40 years. We next find them in China making for the interior with a large body of servants and a half Chinese girl, Candace, whom Winifred has attached to her. Later we find them in Somo land, quartered in the King Tu-tze's tower near his castle. Winifred is taken prisoner by the Tu-tze, escapes, is recaptured but her companions get away with word to Winifred's lover to come for her and she will marry him. After many months of danger he reaches her to find she is in love with the Tu-tze and intends to stay and marry. The lover leaves broken hearted. Recovers and marries Candace. The description of China is very good. Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia, publishers.

"Butternut Jones."

By Tilden Tilford.

This is a tale of modern ranch life in Texas. The author now resides in that state, and, presumably, has found such a character as Butternut Jones among the hundreds of strenuous cow punchers in the southwest. This hero, however, is different from the commonly accepted type of Texas cowboy. He has been through college, shaves three times a week, keeps his clothes clean, has a pony that is wellgroomed, enjoys books and eschews the usual amusements of which the average puncher is so fond when he is privileged to visit the frontier town. Such an individual on a Texas cattle range is something out of the ordinary and that is probably the reason why he is used as the leading character in this story. Despite the fact that his associates call him "Lambkins" Butternut is no lambkin when it comes to a show down, in fact he is always a leader where there is danger. D. Appleton & Co., publishers.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

IN THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

The Review of Reviews is often called a necessity, in recognition of its usefulness in keeping readers "up with the times."

In Presidential election years the REVIEW OF REVIEWS is more than ever "the necessary magazine." Everybody wants to be truly and quickly informed about this or that public question that has forged to the front; to know about the new candidates and personal factors in politics, to have a complete picture at hand of the current movement of history.

In Dr. Shaw's editorials, in its authentic and timely contributed articles, in its brilliant character sketches, in its condensations and reviews of all the important articles of other magazines, and in its hundred a month of valuable portraits, witty cartoons, and interesting views, the REVIEW OF REVIEWS gives the much desired news of the world's and our own progress. "The World under a Field-glass" is the way one subscriber describes it.

Men in public life, like President Theodore Roosevelt, the members of Congress, and the great captains of industry, who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided it is "indispensable."

R.P.J. POULTRY BOOKS

SUCCESS WITH POULTRY Is a book of 112 pages, 9x12 inches in size, that contains, we believe MORE and BETTER practical, reliable information on the subject of "Poultry for Profit" than any other book published. Gives the cream of established facts. Written and compiled by the editor of the RELIABLE POULTRY JOURNAL, who has given many years of careful study to the poultry business. Price $1.00

ARTIFICIAL INCUBATING AND BROODING Is most up-to-date and most practical work on this important subject. It is contributed to by the leading authorities of this country. It has 88 pages, each 12x9 inches, with many illustrations, including a number of designs of modern brooder houses, laying houses, and incubator cellars. Complete instructions on the use and abuse of incubators. How to start right and go right in raising chickens by artificial means. Price 50c

BARRED, WHITE and BUFF PLYMOUTH ROCKS This book consists of 114 pages, each 9x12 inches. It contains elegant color plates of Barred, White and Buff Plymouth Rocks, shown in their natural colors, reproduced from oil paintings made by the world's greatest poultry artist, Franklane L. Sewell. Among the contributors are the following: A. C. Hawkins, E. B. Thompson, Bradley Bros., A. C. Smith, I. K. Felch, D. J. Lambert, U. R. Fishel, Robt. H. Essex, C. H. Latham, F. W. Richardson, Theo. Hewes, F. W. Hitchcock, W. S. Russell, C. A. Emry, S. S. Noble and others. Price 50c

THE WYANDOTTES Silver, Golden, White, Buff and Partridge. A new publication treating extensively upon this breed. The frontispiece is a handsome reproduction from Mr. Sewell's oil painting of "White Wyandottes to date," representing the winning cockerel and pullet at Boston, in January, 1898. We have had made especially for this book full-page drawings of Silver, Golden, White and Buff Wyandottes. Eighty pages fully illustrated. Price 50c

THE LEGHORNS All Varieties. This publication will delight fanciers of that widely bred and favorite fowl—the Leghorns. No breeder can afford to be without the information written by such judges as I. K. Felch, T. J. Marshall, H. S. Babcock, F. H. Shellabarger, Theo. Hewes, D. T. Heimlich, C. A. Emry, Chas. McClave, Ezra Cornell, W. S. Russell, F. B. Zimmer, Wm. Ellery Bright and others. Twelve full-page illustrations and many others. Price 50c

EGGS AND EGG FARMS Is made up of contributions from experienced and successful breeders. It gives their methods of housing, breeding, rearing and feeding fowls with a view to increasing egg production. The lengthy chapters on Pedigree Breeding will be found invaluable to breeders of exhibition or utility fowls. An 80-page book, fully illustrated. Price 50c

DUCKS AND GEESE Tells how the most successful breeders of the day manage their enormous flocks and derive handsome profits; gives detailed instructions for breeding, rearing and feeding, and presents the best and most reliable information relating to details of management and profits on Ducks and Geese. It is fully illustrated with up-to-date cuts of the big farms and their stock. Price 50c

TURKEYS Their Care and Management. The most complete book written upon turkey culture. It treats of every branch of the subject. Among the prominent breeders who have spent time and effort in preparing articles for this book are Mrs. Mackey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hargrave, Mrs. Singleton, S. B. Johnston, J. F. Craigie, W. J. Bell, B. F. Ulrey, B. F. Hislop, W. A. Moon, Ed Isley, J. A. Leland and S. T. Jones. The colored reproduction of an oil painting by Sewell aided by numerous half-tones makes this the very best turkey book published. Price 50c

POULTRY HOUSES AND FIXTURES Consists of 32 large pages, 9x12 inches, and contains the latest designs of practical poultry buildings for the city lot, the village acre and the farm; also complete and convenient houses for the fancier and plans for building extensive poultry farms. Price 25c

THE BANTAM FOWL The most complete and fully illustrated Bantam book published in this country. Mr. T. F. McGrew, judge and breeder, spent many months collecting and writing the matter, and over sixty copyrighted illustrations were made expressly for this book. Every person interested in Bantams as pets or for profit will want a copy. Price 50c

RELIABLE POULTRY REMEDIES Consists of 64 pages, each 5x6 inches, points out the causes, describes the symptoms and gives tried remedies for roup, colds, cholera, canker, indigestion, constipation, dysentery, congestion of liver, gapes, chicken pox, black rot, crop-bound, scaly legs, bumble-foot, and other diseases of fowls. Contains full instructions on care of poultry to prevent diseases. Price 25c

Transportation Building.

The Transportation Building is 525 by 1300 feet, being as wide as the Varied Industries Building, a short distance east, and 100 feet longer. To the south is the Machinery Building and on the north across Lindell avenue are some of the chief attractions of the "Pike." Skinker road separates the west end of the structure from the pavilions of Great Britain, Mexico and other foreign countries. The distinguishing feature is the massing of three great entrance ways at each end so as to form an arcade taking up almost the entire facade. Director-of-Works Taylor says of the structure:

"The Transportation Building covers over 15 acres. The facades show a most pleasing adaptation of the French Renaissance. On the east and west fronts are three magnificent arches which embrace more than half of the entire facade. Each of the arched openings are 64 feet wide and 52 feet high. Through the archways 14 permanent railroad tracks will be laid from one end of the building to the other. At the sides of the three openings the projecting angles are accentuated by tower or pylon effect, which reach to a height of 150 feet to the base of the crowning statue. The roof treatment of the building is peculiarly happy. Over each of the big archways is a lofty curve which supplies a back ground for the architectural features.

"The statuary is happily placed in front and at the base of the main piers at the sides of the grand openings. This affords 16 groups which will illustrate transportation in all its phases as well as the progress made by the United States in this science. There will also be four groups of statuary surrounding the four pylons placed at the east and west fronts. The architect has subdued the use of sculpture in the building. He depends on mass effects and on the grouping of masses. That is, he depends on architecture rather than on tawdry decorations for his effect.

"The building will contain about four miles of standard gauge railroad track. Even with this immense trackage two entire bents of the building are left free of rails and afford an exhibit space of 270,000 square feet. At the east end a gallery 20 feet in width extends across the building. This affords a place for guard room and for the office of the department chief and will be an excellent place from which to view the picture below."

Editor and Doctor.

If an editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if a doctor makes one he buries it. If the editor makes one there is a lawsuit, swearing and the smell of sulphur, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and a smell of varnish.

The doctor can use a word a mile long without knowing what it means, but if the editor uses it has to spell it.

If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes to see another man's wife he gets a charge of buckshot.

Any old medical college can make a doctor. You can't make an editor. He has to be born.

When a doctor gets drunk, its a case of "overcome by heat," and if he dies it is heart trouble. When an editor gets drunk its a case of too much booze, and if he dies it is a case of delirium tremens.—Exchange.

What Was the Matter.

The Susquehanna Journal contains the following: "As pretty as a pink, and yet she was knock-kneed, bandy-legged, and wobbled as she walked. She had no rheumatism, corns, in her shoes. What ailed her? Spiked tail-shaped heels, that is all."

GEORGE WASHINGTON JONES.

Even the professional critic would be hard pressed to name a story of its own genre more delightful than Ruth McEnery Stuart's daintily told narrative of the fortunes that befell "George Washington Jones" (Henry Altemus Company, Philadelphia). This charming tale of "a Christmas gift that went a-begging"—a very attractive book typographically—is written in a delicately artistic style which is singularly appropriate to the deft mingling of humor and pathos that provokes a feeling of exquisite tenderness in the reader, making a smile wait on a tear. This was the rare and precious quality that made the appeal of the Christmas books by Charles Dickens irresistible, and it is not hazardous to predict that the kindly little volume now under consideration will be treasured for many years and be re-printed in edition after edition for a long time to come.

Christmas gifts do not usually go a-begging, but there was good reason why the one devised by George Washington Jones should not find eager acceptance. He was little and poor and black; he had no relation and could hang up no Christmas stocking. Yet he boasted of going after a Christmas gift better than gold or diamonds, and secretly dreamed of gaining a beautiful young mistress by the simple process of offering himself as a Christmas gift to her. The fanciful little darkey lived in New Orleans. His grandfather had fired his imagination with wonderful stories of those halcyon days before the war, the glories of which could never be recalled. When the grandfather was a little boy like George Washington Jones he was given to his "young mistus," and "by that same token" she was given to him for his Christmas gift. "You can't give a pusson a servant widout givin' de servant a boss." But, alas, the war came and "the folks" were lost, and the old grandfather never succeeded in finding them again.

The name of this unusual fairy godmother is Aunt Sarah, and she cherishes the faded tintype of such another little boy. Aunt Sarah's portrait is sketched in masterly style. Nothing could be more touching than the account of her wistful motherings of George Washington Jones. The time comes when our youthful hero realizes his ambition and goes on service wearing "a nuniform," two "nuni-forms," in fact, and in due time passes through a series of experiences that result in his "finding the folks" that were lost by his grandfather after the war and in becoming the faithful servant of the daughter of the "fairy lady" who played the harp" and had been the "Christmas gift" of his grandfather. Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart is seen at her best in this story, which is sympathetically illustrated from drawings by Potthast. (Price $1.00.)

The two "men of the month" in America—Speaker Cannon, of the national house of representatives, and M. Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new-born Panama republic—are the subjects of character sketches in the Review of Reviews for December. In the same issue there is interesting editorial comment on the Panama situation, the question of Cuban reciprocity, and other live topics.

AN APACHE PRINCESS.

General Charles King's latest novel of army and Indian life in the west will take first rank with his previous works on the same line. It is a much better story than "The Daughter of The Sioux" and more in theme and construction resembles "A Garrison Tangle" and "Fort Frayne." From the opening chapter the interest is sustained to the end, incident crowding incident until, as with many of the general's stories, the reader is loth to lay down the book until the complicated puzzle is explained. The "princess" does not figure largely in the story until near the close, but her character is drawn with the author's well known art in describing Indian maids of the higher type. To the reader's relief he does not bring about a reconciliation between the girl and her white rival, but passes the princess out of the story in a manner consistent with her character.

Perhaps the greatest charm of General King's novels are the realistic touches of frontier post life. As in all previous novels, he brings out the little incidents, jealousies and military customs which abound at frontier garrisons with such vividness that the reader can picture real life at one of these forts. General King causes his latest hero to perform almost seemingly impossible feats of bravery and endurance while suffering from fever and wounds, but these inconsistencies are easily forgiven.

One of the strong characters is that of a spinster who, acting as a sort of self appointed guardian for the heroine, manages to complicate the love affair and damage the hero's character in his sweetheart's eyes, through a mistaken sense of duty and apparent desire to save the young woman from what the elder woman believes to be a bad marriage. Strong in religious zeal, even unto misguided judgment, the spinster works strenuously to break up the love affair and when finally convinced of her error, grudgingly gives way to a more kindly feeling.

Illustrations by Frederick Remington and E. W. Deming are uniformly good and in strict accord with the author's descriptions. The novel will doubtless enjoy the popularity of the earlier stories of the west by the same author. (The Hobart company, New York. Price, $1.50).

The new publishers of Everybody's Magazine declare the holiday issue of the publication to be much the best they have yet produced. It is not the typical Christmas number made up of stilted fiction and pictures of the festival in many lands. It is just an especially lively and entertaining magazine, full of really good stories, clever pictures, and well-written and timely articles.

In Everybody's one never finds a distinguished name tacked to a dull tale. Among its contributors are the ablest writers of the day, but it is in connection with their best work, not their pot-boilers. The reading public, which has become familiar with O. Henry, Juliet Wilbor Thompkins, and F. Walworth, for instance, will find in the holiday issue the most successful story each has written this year.

Another big thing the magazine has is Eugene Burnand's pictures of Bible scenes, reproduced for the first time in America. Burnand is the greatest painter of sacred subjects since the old masters, and his studies of the Saviour and the Last Supper are of extraordinary interest. In this number a new department, "The Players," a gossipy resume of theatrical doings, by Hartley Davis, set off with superb pictures of the stars and lesser stage luminaries, is inaugurated.

All Sorts.

Among the many resources of our wonderful state and one that is fast becoming prominent in the agricultural line, is the growing of seeds, bulbs, etc. Garden peas have been grown very successfully in the Big Bend country, and one of the largest seed houses in the east having contracted their entire supply for one season, from this locality. For a number of years cabbage and cauliflower seed has been grown with excellent results, at La Conner on Puget Sound. These two vegetables require a very moist soil and atmosphere for the perfect development of seed. Practically the entire supply is grown on the low reclaimed lands from the ocean, of Holland, Belgium and Denmark. The imported seed is very expensive, especially cauliflower which sells for from $50 to $60 per pound. We use largely of the Puget Sound seed and it gives good results.

Now comes the Department of Agriculture at Washington, having grown a lot of tulips, hyacinths and narcissus bulbs over on the sound, and are putting them in the hands of the Agricultural Station investigators to compare them with those imported. A South Carolina writer in the Practical Farmer received some of these bulbs through his Agricultural Station and has this to say: "The tulip bulbs are the largest I ever saw, many of them being as large as the largest Dutch hyacinth bulb. The hyacinth bulbs compare very well with the imported Dutch bulbs, while the narcissus are about equal to what we grow here." How is that for bulb growing in Washington? The possibilities of our state are many along this line.

FORCING RHUBARB.

Have you got a green house? If so under the benches is an ideal place, and besides this otherwise vacant space may be turned into a source of profit. If you haven't a green house you could prepare a hotbed frame for this purpose by putting three feet of fresh horse manure in bottom and around the sides, and after placing the roots, put sufficient manure on top of a strong board covering to protect them in severe weather. There is still another method and one that is more feasible on the ordinary farms and home surroundings and that is a cellar or dugout partly or wholly under ground. It might pay to build such a cellar and it could be done cheaply if a convenient side hill could be used for the purpose. Having decided upon the place the question of temperature to be maintained is the next requisite. From 45 to 65 degrees is a good growing temperature and gives best results. Unless the lower temperature can be maintained it would be useless to try forcing rhubarb.

During November or early December dig up or procure your roots which should be not less than two years old and let them lay out in the open for a week or so or until they have been entirely and thoroughly frozen. After they have gone through this severe process they are then in the best condition known for their unseasonable work. Place them close together and fill in sufficient soil to fill the interstices between the plants, wet them down thoroughly and they are ready to begin their labor months before their regular season. When they cease bearing salable stalks their hardships and life are over and almost worthless so we usually consign them to the rubbish heap. If you have the proper conditions you will be pleased with the results of this vegetable fruit and if for market it will find ready sale.

SALTING ASPARAGUS.

A friend was about to purchase salt to scatter on his asparagus bed, he having been told that it was absolutely necessary for best results. The idea was given credence that because asparagus was found flourishing near the ocean that salt was a necessity. Salt is a destructive agent to weeds and some larvæ but the price is too high and would not pay the game. I advised my friend to put its equivalent in time and money into a good fertilizer like poultry droppings worked into the soil in the late summer or early fall and he will get results that will be satisfactory.

If you have an opportunity it is a wise plan to plow all the garden patches now, especially those that were infested with cut worms. These larvæ get frozen and the fall plowing facilitates planting in the early spring.

During the winter months is a good time to get the elements of fertility back in the soil, in the way of fertilizers, that you took off during the season in the way of crops, and by all means add a little more as a reserve fund for some future rainy day. Your soil is your bank account.

A. A. KELLY.

The Ms. in a Red Box is a story of unusual interest. The history of the manuscript is interesting and should be known before the story is read. Some months ago a parcel was sent to the publisher which contained the Ms. in a red box, without an explanatory letter, without title, author's name or address. It was labeled "The Ms. in a Red Box," and laid aside awaiting a claimant. The publisher's reader finally read it and made a highly favorable report. Advertisements were inserted in the leading papers asking for the owner and author without result. Finally the publisher advertised that he would publish the book on a certain date unless the author communicated with him. The story is published and is a historical novel of merit. The scene is laid in England during 17th century. There is sufficient life, activity and adventures in the story to keep the strict attention of the reader. John Lane, Publisher, The Bodley Head, New York.

THE EGGLESS HOME.

Mrs. Rorer, once the queen and author of one of the best works in the English language upon the art of preparing food, has long been suffering from a revulsion of feeling brought on, probably, by the satiety induced by her profession. From recommending the homiest and most comfortable things to eat, drink and live by, she passed to the indorsement of breakfast foods of the baled hay and bran-and-molasses order; then she advocated filtering through cotton cloth saturated with disinfectants all the out-door air allowed to make its way into sleeping rooms, and now in her frenzy she attacks one of the most harmless and nutritious articles of breakfast diet known.

"If fewer women ate eggs for breakfast," says Mrs. Rorer, "there would be fewer cases of divorce." She is convinced that eggs make their eaters lazy, and neglectful of their proper duties; and that in case of the woman who has no work to do, she loses her brightness of eye, her piquancy and charm.

If the egg is responsible for such things as there, and the domestic dissensions conceivably resulting therefrom, it is well that we know the worst. Unfortunately, however, the day has gone by when the housewife can say with confidence: "If you see it in Mrs. Rorer, it's so." The eggless home may be the ideal domicile, but, thus far, the demonstration is incomplete.—Ex.

A short illustrated article in the December Cosmopolitan shows what the poorest farmers can accomplish when driven to the last ditch. Home-made windmills constructed of box boards, barrel staves, scrap iron and odds and ends of discarded threshing machines and farm implements, costing in cash about thirty cents, have been made in the prairie states to irrigate farms, pump water for thousands of cattle and sheep, shell corn, and relieve the farmer of what used to be the hardest manual labor.

An exchange gets off the following: "If men are the salt of the earth women are undoubtedly the sugar. Salt is a necessity, sugar a luxury. Vicious men are saltpeter, stern men are rock salt. Old maids are brown sugar, good-natured matrons are loaf sugar and pretty girls are the fine pulverized sugar." Pass the pulverized sugar, please.

GROW GINSENG

Little gardens pay enormous profits. 400,000,000 Chinese use ginseng, and are looking to America for their supply. The wild stock is about exterminated and the plant must be cultivated. Demand is increasing, supply very limited. Fall and spring is time to plant. Send us 4c for our ginseng book and a copy of the—

"HIS PA'S ROMANCE."

This is the title of the latest of the Riley books. James Whitcomb Riley has won his place among the people as being the best American poet. His poems touch the heart. "His Pa's Romance" is embellished with illustrations by Will Vawter and a portrait of Riley by John Cecil Clay. The principal poem, which gives the title to the book, starts out with these lines:

All 'at I ever want to be
Is ist to be a man like Pa
When he was young and married Ma!

In addition to the Hoosier dialect there are a number of other poems. This is one of the very best of the Riley books. (The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, publishers. $1.25 net).

There is a belief widely current in this country that the United States is the only country with a corn producing belt, but this belief is erroneous. South America, too, has a large area of land suitable to the cultivation of the yellow cereal and considering the population of that country the showing made by the product is very credible. Argentine corn is little known in the markets of the world because it has been easier for the people to make money out of other grain or grass involving less work. However, recent statistics show that South America is raising corn. Argentine, a country two-fifths as large as the United States, has only 5,000,000 inhabitants. With this sparse population 4,030,000 acres of corn were cultivated last year, yielding 130,600,000 bushels. The United States had in 94,000,000 acres, which yielded 2,253,000,000 bushels. Considering the population of the South American country the showing made was very flattering. The average yield in Argentine was thirty bushels to the acre, while that of the United States was but twenty-seven.

The Tramp—A Scathing Indictment.

The "Tramp of 1903" has had the most strenuous season of his life. He has actually had to work hard to keep away from work. The wheat-growers wanted him to work and offered him $1 to $3 a day and board if he would work, but he was seeking rest, not work. The corn-growers wanted him to work. The hay-growers wanted him to work. The truck-growers wanted him to work. In the towns and cities, in the mines and forests, in the mills and factories he was wanted. Wherever he has applied for a "handout," he has found an invitation to work thrust at him. Where he has tried to beg and sponge, he has found the chance to work and earn and become a man. The hoe, pick, shovel, crowbar, saw, ax, hammer, rake, drill, weeder and other tools have haunted him all summer. Through it all the genuine, full-blood, thoroughbred tramp has come a tramp with hands unsmirched by work, with stomach unfilled by earned food, and with scorn for all labor undiminished. Those philanthropic fuddleheads and palaverers, who assert that the tramp is the product of this or that fiscal or political system, or this or that business combination, should now be able to see that a tramp is a tramp because he is born and inborn, bred and inbred a tramp, and that no need of the community appeals to him. He is on the road because he wishes to be there. He is out of work by choice. He would rather die than work. He is the hopeless, careless, helpless and willful social scrub. He has turned his back on work. He will ask food, lodging, clothing and money from a farmer, whose crops are spoiling because he can get no help to harvest them, but the tramp will not harvest them. The rural community is absolved from all obligations to feed the able-bodied who will not work. The word should henceforth pass through the farm communities: "Feed no tramps who refuse to work enough to pay for their meals." One year of refusal to feed these insolent, indolent vagrants would solve the tramp problem for the farm communities. Through the handoutless sections no tramp will pass. The towns breed the tramps, and the country should not feed them. Turn them back to the towns by refusing to feed them.—New York Farmer.

The Literary Guillotine.

This is a literary curiosity just issued. It will give any lover of books a delightful evening. The author is unknown which adds to the interest of the production. The book is "an authorized report of the proceedings of the Literary Emergency Court in and for the district of North America." The bench is composed of Mark Twain as chief justice, Oliver Hereford and the author, justices. Richard Harding Davis, John Kendrick Bangs, James Brander Matthews, Mary Augusta Ward, Marie Corelli, Hall Caine, Alfred Austin, Ella Wheeler Wilcox and others were arraigned and tried before the court. John Lane, 67 Fifth avenue, New York. $1.00 net.

Among the Advantages.

The Erie Railway Company is said to have reached the decision to discharge five hundred men. That will insure a hard winter for somebody. All the great railroads will discharge as many men as they can spare to reduce expenses. It has been estimated that building operations have fallen more than $40,000,000 short in eight cities of what was paid for labor and material last year. A summer of voluntary idleness followed by a winter of forced idleness will ensure a hard winter for many people.—Broome Republican.

One of the advantages of a farmer's life, and a big one too, is that nobody can turn him out of a job when work is slack and leave him to hustle in a new field or go hungry. Independence is a priceless thing, and the farmer, who enjoys as much of it as any other inhabitants on earth, does not always appreciate his advantage. He would if he once lost it, however, and had to go and ask somebody else for the right to work for a living. Crops are sometimes poor, returns are rarely large, hours of summer work are long enough and hard, though for that matter no work is easy, but it is only an unusual and surprising combination of circumstances that finds a New York state farmer, when the days grow chill, without a food and fuel supply in sight to carry his family through the winter. Let farmers put this fact in their credit column when they feel like comparing their line of work with that of village and city toilers.

Food Value of Fruit.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently carried on, at the University of California, investigations into the food value of fruits and nuts.

Nine dietary studies and thirty-one digestion experiments were made, part of them with persons who had lived for a number of years on a strictly fruit and nut diet, and others with university students who had been accustomed to the ordinary fare. In the majority of the dietary studies and all but one of the digestion experiments fruit and nuts constituted all or almost all of the diet. In general, it may be said that the chief nutriments in fruit consist of sugars and other carbohydrates and in nuts of protein and fat. In other words, while both fruits and nuts furnish the body with energy, nuts furnish some building material (protein) as well.

Though further data will be sought, enough work has been done to show that nuts are quite thoroughly digested and have a much higher nutritive value than is popularly attributed to them. In view of this it is certainly an error to consider nuts merely as an accessory to an already heavy meal and to regard fruit merely as something of value for its pleasant flavor or for its hygienic or medicinal virtues.

As shown by their composition and digestibility, both fruit and nuts can be favorably compared with other and more common foods. As sources of carbohydrates, fruits at ordinary prices are not expensive; and as sources of protein and fat, nuts at usual prices are reasonable foods.

The Popular Science Monthly

The contents of the December number include the following articles:

Recent Theories in Regard to the Determination of Sex—Professor T. H. Morgan.

The Academy of Science of St. Louis—Professor William Trelease.

The Tetrahedral Kites of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell—Gilbert H. Grosvenor.

Hertzian Wave Wireless Telegraphy—Dr. J. A. Fleming.

The Salmon and Salmon Streams of Alaska—President David Starr Jordan.

The Storm Center in the Balkans—Dr. Allan McLaughlin.

The Growth of Rural Population—Frank T. Carlton.

Rear Admiral Melville, U. S. N., and Applied Science in the Construction of the New Fleet—The late Professor R. H. Thurston.

The Popular Science Monthly has had few rivals and no equal in the educative service it has done for the American people. A complete set of the volume thus far published is both a history of science for the period covered and at the same time a pretty complete cyclopedia of natural science. There is nothing to fill its place, and to carry it on is a benefaction to the public.—W. T. Harris, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

The Popular Science Monthly, Sub-Station 84, New York City. $3.00 per year, 30 cents per copy.

The Popular Science Monthly will be sent for six months for one dollar to new subscribers mentioning the Western Home Journal.

The December Delineator (Christmas number) represents the high-water mark of beauty and utility, and possibly of circulation also, in a woman's magazine, having a first edition of more than a million copies. It contains 240 pages. To produce this mammoth edition 728 tons of paper and 49 presses working 25 days were required. In addition to, exquisite color work, clever fiction and strikingly illustrated articles, the number includes a display of charming winter fashions covering forty-two pages, letters from the foreign fashion centers and illustrated articles on the fashionable fabrics and trimmings, millinery, etc.

There are many beautiful art features, among them four pages in colors representing Babyhood, Childhood, Girlhood and Motherhood—the work of Bernard J. Rosenmeyer. For the children there are entertaining games and stories, and for the housewife many practical suggestions in cookery and other departments of the home, for the Christmas season.

A Business Opening.

The publishers of "Success," the great home magazine of America, published in New York, writes us that they desire to secure a local representative in this county to receive and solicit subscriptions. The compensation given by "Success" is said to be the largest offered by any first-class periodical, and if any of our readers are desirous of undertaking work of this character, we suggest that they communicate at once with The Success Company, Washington Square, New York.

The Scholarship Bureau of The Success Company will also gladly explain a plan by which boys and girls can secure an education, The Success Company itself purchasing Scholarships in return for a comparatively small amount of work. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine.

If, after an attack of LaGrippe, your strength does not return, you cannot sleep, or rest or eat; if you have frequent headaches, if your heart flutters, blood is thin, your circulation poor, you are in more danger than when stricken with fever and in the deadly grasp of grip itself. The after effects of La-Grippe are terrible. To guard against its dangers, strengthen the heart with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure which, by enriching the blood and improving its circulation, will cure any affection of the heart and strengthen it against further attacks. Tone up the system and revitalize the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine. When your nerves are in proper condition, you need never fear the attacks of LaGrippe or its terrible after effects.

"From my personal experience with Dr. Miles' Remedies I always take pleasure in recommending them to my customers. Six years ago I suffered from a severe attack of LaGrippe which left me with a weakened heart and nervous system. I was weak, run down, frightened at my condition and miserable. I used two bottles each of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure and I was quickly and completely cured, furthermore I have never had a return of the trouble. I am selling vast quantities of your medicine, especially the Anti-Pain Pills. Every customer is thoroughly satisfied with the results."—EUGENE MARSH, Druggist, Ft. Scott, Kansas.

Single and Rose Comb Buff Leg-

BY F. S. ZWICK, SEYMOUR, CONN.

I have read a great deal about the Single Comb Buff Leghorns in different periodicals, and have had some of the best strains myself in the years gone by, and I must say they are grand fowls both in appearance and for their laying quality, and as egg producers they are certainly superior to either their white or brown cousins, and their eggs are large. As a fanciers' fowl they have no equal; their golden buff color harmonizes well with most any surrounding. I gave up the S. C. variety and started in the R. C. Buff Leghorns; and here I think we have a coming breed when their good quality is better known. They are the same as their cousin, the Single comb, in every respect except their rose comb. I have bred them the last ten years or more, and have yet to find any frozen combs in the severest winter we have. Who likes to go into the poultry house on a mid-winter morning and find their best birds with frozen combs twice their natural size; and have them stop laying when eggs are scarce and bring a good price. The R. C. Buffs are the same as the S. C. Buffs, starting to lay at an early date; I have had them laying at five months old; they laid large eggs, and have laid all through the winter.

Now I wish some of the Rose Comb Buff Leghorn breeders would give their experience and try to get this breed before the public more than they are. Although there are a number of breeders who breed the R. C. Buffs, and many of the shows give them a class, let's put our shoulder to the wheel and see if we cannot get them in the Standard of Perfection. Allowing them to be a new breed, I think they will show a large percentage of good birds.

Hope to hear the experience of other breeders. I don't mean to say I have the best R. C. Buffs there is, but they are as good as the best, and will say that they are one of favorite breeds.

We hope you will join the Buff Leghorn Club, and get their new catalogue telling you all about this wonderful laying fowl.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

Residents of Medical Lake are deriving much amusement from an offer of a reward posted on the bulletin board of the postoffice. The notice was posted on permission of the postmaster by an honest farmer named Hans Bog, who lives a few miles out of town. Bog came to the postmaster in great trouble and asked for permission to put up a notice offering a reward for a calf he had lost. On being given permission and a sheet of paper, he wrote and posted up the following remarkable example of phonetic spelling:

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

NOT IN ANY TRUST
 Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.
The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.
 It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

R.P. J. POULTRY BOOKS

SUCCESS WITH POULTRY Is a book of 112 pages, 9x12 inches in size, that contains, we believe MORE and BETTER practical, reliable information on the subject of "Poultry for Profit" than any other book published. Gives the cream of established facts. Written and compiled by the editor of the RELIABLE POULTRY JOURNAL, who has given many years of careful study to the poultry business. Price $1.00

ARTIFICIAL INCUBATING AND BROODING Is most up-to-date and most practical work on this important subject. It is contributed to by the leading authorities of this country. It has 88 pages, each 12x9 inches, with many illustrations, including a number of designs of modern brooder houses, laying houses, and incubator cellars. Complete instructions on the use and abuse of incubators. How to start right and go right in raising chickens by artificial means. Price 50c

BARRED, WHITE and BUFF PLYMOUTH ROCKS This book consists of 114 pages, each 9x12 inches. It contains elegant color plates of Barred, White and Buff Plymouth Rocks, shown in their natural colors, reproduced from oil paintings made by the world's greatest poultry artist, Franklane L. Sewell. Among the contributors are the following: A. C. Hawkins, E. B. Thompson, Bradley Bros., A. C. Smith, I. K. Felch, D. J. Lambert, U. R. Fishel, Robt. H. Essex, C. H. Latham, F. W. Richardson, Theo. Hewes, F. W. Hitchcock, W. S. Russell, C. A. Emry, S. S. Noble and others. Price 50c

THE WYANDOTTES Silver, Golden, White, Buff and Partridge. A new publication treating extensively upon this breed. The frontispiece is a handsome reproduction from Mr. Sewell's oil painting of "White Wyandottes to date," representing the winning cockerel and pullet at Boston, in January, 1898. We have had made especially for this book full-page drawings of Silver, Golden, White and Buff Wyandottes. Eighty pages fully illustrated. Price 50c

THE LEGHORNS All Varieties. This publication will delight fanciers of that widely bred and favorite fowl—the Leghorns. No breeder can afford to be without the information written by such judges as I. K. Felch, T. J. Marshall, H. S. Babcock, F. H. Shellbarger, Theo. Hewes, D. T. Heimlich, C. A. Emry, Chas. McClave, Ezra Cornell, W. S. Russell, F. B. Zimmer, Wm. Ellery Bright and others. Twelve full-page illustrations and many others. Price 50c

EGGS AND EGG FARMS Is made up of contributions from experienced and successful breeders. It gives their methods of housing, breeding, rearing and feeding fowls with a view to increasing egg production. The lengthy chapters on Pedigree Breeding will be found invaluable to breeders of exhibition or utility fowls. An 80-page book, fully illustrated. Price 50c

DUCKS AND GEESE Tells how the most successful breeders of the day manage their enormous flocks and derive handsome profits; gives detailed instructions for breeding, rearing and feeding, and presents the best and most reliable information relating to details of management and profits on Ducks and Geese. It is fully illustrated with up-to-date cuts of the big farms and their stock. Price 50c

TURKEYS Their Care and Management. The most complete book written upon turkey culture. It treats of every branch of the subject. Among the prominent breeders who have spent time and effort in preparing articles for this book are Mrs. Mackey, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hargrave, Mrs. Singleton, S. B. Johnston, J. F. Crangle, W. J. Bell, B. F. Ulrey, B. F. Hislop, W. A. Moon, Ed Isley, J. A. Leland and S. T. Jones. The colored reproduction of an oil painting by Sewell aided by numerous half-tones makes this the very best turkey book published. Price 50c

POULTRY HOUSES AND FIXTURES Consists of 32 large pages, 9x12 inches, and contains the latest designs of practical poultry buildings for the city lot, the village acre and the farm; also complete and convenient houses for the fancier and plans for building extensive poultry farms. Price 25c

THE BANTAM FOWL The most complete and fully illustrated Bantam book published in this country. Mr. T. F. McGrew, judge and breeder, spent many months collecting and writing the matter, and over sixty copyrighted illustrations were made expressly for this book. Every person interested in Bantams as pets or for profit will want a copy. Price 50c

RELIABLE POULTRY REMEDIES Consists of 64 pages, each 5x6 inches, points out the causes, describes the symptoms and gives tried remedies for roup, colds, cholera, canker, indigestion, constipation, dysentery, congestion of liver, gapes, chicken pox, black rot, crop-bound, scaly legs, bumble-foot, and other diseases of fowls. Contains full instructions on care of poultry to prevent diseases. Price 25c

Where but a small amount of room is available for keeping poultry, a pen or two of bantams might be introduced with profit. A very tiny house will accommodate the little birds.

Eggs are cash bringers the year round and if a flock of hens is managed rightly they can be made to produce eggs when a few dozen of them will bring a snug little sum.

If the hens or young chicks are yarded, do not forget to provide them a liberal supply of green stuff every day. It will save grain and help to make a mixed ration.

It is the lazy fat hen that is an indifferent layer. If such hens are compelled to work for their feed they will soon be laying.

If a man knows ducks and has a suitable range for them with a pond of clean water containing aquatic animal and vegetable life, ducks can be raised at little cost.

Take good care of the young poultry. To lose a chick by carelessness is like letting money be lost through neglecting a hole in the pocket, and just as useless.

Some shippers to private customers go so far as to have a little padlock on every crate of eggs they send out, and claim it is a help in holding customers.

Clean quarters and fresh water every day will add to the comfort of the hens. See to it that they have both.

Poultry is susceptible in kind treatment and good keeping as any kind of stock.

He who fears drudgery will fall short of success.

Confined fowls require bone food in some form. Where fowls have a free range there is no need of artificial preparations.

For breeding fowls, select those that come up to the standard in points, but do not discard a good specimen of robust constitution for a slight defect.

It is not always the largest fowl that is the most vigorous, but the one with full bright eyes, heavy bone, compact body and quick movement.

The cost of producing poultry meat on the farm is less than the production of pork and beef, yet it sells for as much and is better eating. Don't neglect the farm flocks.

A correspondent writes that his business is fruit, poultry, truck and dairying. This poultry can make meat and eggs out of the other three. But he must have his hands full of work.

It is only in exceptional cases that it is advisable to keep hens after they are two years old, as after that they are after their prime as egg producers and will not pay as well as pullets. The early hatched pullets and the one-year-old hens that molt early make the best winter layers, and eggs in winter pay the best profit.

Electricity Building.

The Electricity Building was erected by the William Goldie Sons Company, the contract price being $399,940. The structure was planned by Walker & Kimball, of Boston and Omaha, who were chief architects of the Omaha exposition. It is located on the main central avenue and forms one of the leading elements of the main exposition picture. It has a frontage of 650 feet toward the north and 225 feet toward the east, facing the main lagoon.

The design is a bold columnated treatment of the Corinthian order. The columns are carried well down toward the ground, to give height to the facades. The latter are well accentuated by elevated pediments and tower effects over the four main entrances and at the corners. Over the accentuated places, as well as over the twin columns, which form a pleasing variation of the treatment of the facades, opportunity for ample sculptural decoration is supplied.

The fenestration is appropriate, giving ample light and substantial wall treatment. On two sides of the building are loggias which add pleasing effects of light and shadow. There are numerous openings on the facades, such as exhibitors always seek in selecting their exhibit place. The plan of the building is simple and well treated, showing an effort to supply as much exhibit space as is possible with the 292,000 square feet of floor space. The exhibit space is compact and symmetrical. An extensive balcony sweeps around four sides of the building, supplying 100,000 of additional space.

A tremendous traveling crane, to be used in the installation of the big electrical machinery, which is to be shown in the building, will run on tracks in the western bay. Two big toilet rooms are to be located in the court of the building. The doors of the building are of gigantic dimensions, 11 by 18 feet. The structure has 176 trusses, the largest span being 82 feet in length. 125 tons of iron and steel were used.

LITERARY NOTES.

The popularity of fine illustrations handsomely reproduced on good paper is becoming more and more evident, as the make-up of the leading magazines is studied. The November Cosmopolitan, for instance, contains 119 reproductions of portraits and drawings illustrating a wide range of interesting subjects.

SUCCESS WITHOUT MONEY.

The brisk attack on snobbery that was a leading feature of the October Everybody's has been followed up in the November issue by a significant article on "Successful Men who are not Rich." Success without money seems anomalous to the modern American; yet, on reflection, the most eager devotee of plutocracy cannot deny that such men as Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, President Eliot of Harvard, Dr. Rainsford and General Joe Wheeler are, in the best sense of the term, successful. And the private income of the most successful man in the United States today—Theodore Roosevelt—is said to be well under $7,500 yearly. It is good to be reminded of these triumphs that are not measured in dollars.

THE DELINEATOR FOR NOVEMBER.

In the November issue of The Delineator sustains its recognized position as the foremost fashion publication and one of the high-class literary magazines. Excellent reading and refined art supplement the display of Winter fashions, which are more charming than at any previous time. In fiction there is the second installment of The Evolution of a Club Woman, the bold narrative of a woman's experiences in clubdom, purporting to be fact; a clever short story by William MacLeod Raine, entitled An Unpremeditated Engagement; An Interrupted Honeymoon, by Lillie Hamilton French, a pathetic incident of a little Yorkshire terrier; and a Western story by Minna C. Smith. In the second of his remarkable photographic articles, J. C. Hement relates some of his thrilling adventures with the camera. N. Hudson Moore has a strikingly-illustrated paper on Chrysanthemums, and in the "Miladi" paper Clara E. Laughlin writes of Conflicting Tendencies in early married life. A House Small but Artistic is pictured and described by Alice M. Kellogg, and in "Carlotta and I" Miles Bradford tells the story of an old-fashioned Thanksgiving. For the children, there is a Firelight Story, by Livingston B. Morse; entertaining Pastimes, by Lina Beard, describing the construction of the Statue of Zeus at Olympia, an amusing story by C. V. C. Mathews, called We Meet Monsieur Daguerre, and a Sewing Lesson. In addition there are numerous articles by experts treating problems of the home and household.

The Review of Reviews is keeping up its reputation as the best interpreter of the news of the among our monthly journals. The November number deals with the postal investigations, the fall elections, the recent exposures of "high finance" in trust organization, the Panama Canal situation, the award of the Alaska boundary tribunal, the protectionist movement in England, and the issue in the far East between Russia and Japan.

Betty's Butter.

Betty Botter bought some butter;
 "But," she said, "this butter's bitter;
 If I put it in my batter.
 It will make the batter bitter;
 But a bit of better butter
 Will make my batter better."
 So she bought a bit o' butter,
 Better than the bitter butter.
 And made her bitter batter better,
 So 'twas better Betty Botter
 Bought a bit of better butter.

PREPARING FOR WINTER IN THE GARDEN.

By way of introduction I want to criticise an article that appeared in one of the Spokane dailies that is very misleading. The editor quotes Prof. Elliott as saying that lettuce and radishes can be successfully grown here in mid-winter without any heat other than the sun's rays, through a covering of glass sash. I do not question Prof. Elliott but I do know the information is wrong. In the first place the sun is with us a very short time during the day with very, very little heat, and as a rule the winter months are cloudy; have had 43 successive days with practically no sun. Knowing the temperature we generally have in the winter months it is utterly impossible to grow the vegetables mentioned without artificial heat. This applies to Spokane and vicinity.

The climatic conditions have been almost perfect for harvesting, storing, etc., our fall crops for winter protection and use. The potato requires our first attention; largely grown by all of us and now considered the staff of life. In order to keep this esculent vegetable for use, market or seed, we must provide suitable storage. In our experience potatoes have kept best in a building above ground with treble walls and floor containing a like amount of air spaces. We have excellent results with a rock wall, frost proof cellar, and expect that this storage cellar will give better results, especially for late keeping, than a frame building above ground. This is however an experiment as yet but hope to report favorably next summer. We must provide darkness, plenty of ventilation, and the thermometer should not register lower than 36 F. It goes without saying that the harvesting of the crop needs special attention, and we have found that the average man does not dig as carefully as necessary, especially where potatoes are grown for seed purposes. This season we purchased a moderate priced potato digger, and are well pleased with the machine. Any one can pick up potatoes. Our varieties are kept separate, and our potatoes are not prodded as is usual with the ordinary hand-fork method. The rock root cellar is an admirably place for carrots, beets, rutabagas, turnips and the like. During October some of the precocious cabbages intended for winter, get the swell head and bust, (we always thought to show their ignorance), but we can prevent this if we cut a few of his toes off on the south side and turn his head over to the north. This will prevent too rapid development until such time as is necessary to prepare for winter protection. In our many years of cabbage growing we have never been entirely successful. In short we would advise, and we think it best for ordinary winters, to pull the cabbage up about the time you read this, place them together, heads down, in bunches rather than rows, on a well drained location and cover them with an inch or two of dirt, and after this is frozen, finish with about 5 or 6 inches of litter straw, etc. This for ordinary winters. Varieties has a great deal to do with keeping qualities. For market use, Danish Ball Head is yet the peer of cabbages. For home use such varieties as All Head, Early and Succession are of superior quality and by planting so as to mature in half last of October they will give you cabbage quality and will keep fairly good.

Let us have a clean up throughout the garden, burning all litter thereby destroying injurious insects and larvæ that seek refuge in such places. We must begin now to prepare for next year.

with yours truly,
A. A. KELLY.

Initial Farmer's Institute in Spokane.

Spokane has had her first Farmer's Institute with a very successful meeting of two days duration. It came about in this way: A few agriculturists decided that they must learn more of their occupation and to come in closer touch with their Experiment Station, the value of which is very apparent. They forthwith prepared plans for the purpose of obtaining an Institute. In order to have a base of operations and interest as many as possible in this good work it seemed necessary to organize a Farmer's Club which was done with an initiation membership of some fifteen or more enthusiastic farmers, who named it the Spokane Valley Farmers' Club. Another reason why we should have this paid for education: the statistics of 1900 gives Spokane county, compared with the other thirty-five counties of the state, a high rank in Agricultural wealth, with consequent taxation, which provides for Experiment Station and Institute work. The Agricultural Statistics of Spokane county and rank as follows in the counties of the state:

A word about Institutes: The aims and purposes of Farmers Institutes are to disseminate agricultural knowledge, by the Professors and Lecturers, gained from the results of experiments at the experiment Stations and also obtained by the experience of practical agriculturists throughout the states. Such is the Farmers' Institute and the nucleus of agricultural development.

The five sessions were attended by a large and appreciative audience although it was very little advertised, and at an inopportune time: for this is a season of activity on most farms. As is usual at these Institutes, it was very noticeable, that the most successful agriculturists in the county were in attendance, and while they were well up in their line, they manifested that they did not "know it all." Hawthorne and His Circle.

This is the title of Julian Hawthorne's important volume of reminiscences of his father and his father's friends, which the Harpers have just published. The book relates chiefly to the personal side of the greatest American writer or romance—his domestic ways, and his relations to his family and his friends, who numbered many of his illustrious compatriots, both American and English. For the writing of such a work none could be so well fitted as his son. In addition to this peculiar fitness, Julian Hawthorne has himself been a prolific writer; about 30 volumes of fiction bear his name, and he has written a history of Oregon, a history of the United States, a manual of American literature, a biography of his father and mother, a biography of Hazen S. Pingree, and a volume of "Confessions and Criticisms." Besides these, he has contributed largely to journalism, as special commissioner of newspapers and magazines, and as literary critic of the London Spectator, the London Examiner, the Pall Mall Gazette, and of several American papers. He is likewise the author of about a hundred short stories, which have never been collected in book form. Altogether, it would be within the mark to estimate his total works as equivalent to over 60 octavo volumes. Harper & Bros., New York. $2.25 net.

The Liquor dealers in convention in Seattle recently made known their intention to ignore all of the state laws which they do not approve. A fund is formed and any retailer who is arrested for the violation of these laws is to be defended and money will be spent to help him evade the law. We have no use for the saloon and believe it to be an unmitigated nuisance. Of all its evils this spirit of anarchy is the most serious. If the people of this state have no more sand than to swallow this bluff, there is not enough decent citizenship in the state to keep it from rotting.—Oakville Cruiser.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL.

INITIAL FARMER'S INSTITUTE IN SPOKANE

registration books showed names, not only from our state, but from different states East and South. A very valuable feature of the Institute is the questions asked and answered with full discussions by all. This along with the lecturers brings thinking "thought" and when applied with willing hands is resultant of better conditions and endless improvement. The agriculturists, as well as others, can congratulate themselves on the able professors and lecturers of the Washington Agricultural College and School of Science.

President E. A. Bryan has been very instrumental in advancing the interests of this institution. Commencing some twelve years ago with a very commonplace building, and now, today, some half dozen or more elaborate buildings necessary to carry on this great work of education. He is not alone however, as under his wise direction there are a great many proficient men who have aided very materially in the Agricultural and Scientific progress of the State.

Fortunately, the college was able to secure the services of a very able man, in the person of Prof. C. L. Smith, formerly of Minnesota, to arrange and conduct Institutes throughout the state. His twenty odd years as a farmer, dairyman and Institute lecturer has given him a pre-eminence and his lectures are conclusive evidence of his ability.

Prof. E. E. Elliott, the efficient agriculturist, is very much devoted to the upbuilding of agriculture and is in close touch with the real farmer.

Prof. Lawrence has made a study and gathered valuable collections of the plants of Washington. His lecture of experience with sprays and spraying for the destruction of insects and fungous is valuable.

Prof. S. B. Nelson, professor of Veterinary Science, and his department has kept pace with the other departments of the college. He has prevented and eradicated some of the most dangerous contagious diseases in our State that affect our domestic animals. The above mentioned Professors lectured there, and we feel that we know them.

There are many other professors in the different departments of our Station that we hope to meet at future institutes. The programme was well selected and of vital interest to every agriculturist in the county.

Prof. C. L. Smith discoursed on the building up of a dairy herd. He said in part: You must first decide on the breed, that depending on whether you want butter or milk, and if you already have a herd select your best and only those that show a profit, in which you are interested. His talks on economic feeds and feeding were valuable along with his well prepared charts describing in full the nutrient value of practically all feeds and feeding stuffs. At the present high price of feeds the profits are the results of judicious feeding and this subject was welcomed.

Prof. E. E. Elliott's lecture on "The Place of the Hog in Eastern Washington," was well received. Experiments conducted fully demonstrated that the hog was at home here and by feeding feeds, the growth of which is well adapted to this section, a better quality of pork was produced, and cost, compared favorably with the great corn section. The very best types of pedigree stock is only considered in this profitable industry. The present market desires a two-hundred pound hog, not fat, but lean meat, and the grower must produce this hog in six months time, to be profitable. He can do so, by furnishing suitable pasture, a nutrient variety of grains, fed dry, and clean pure water. Discussion followed; especially on the subject of dry feeds.

Prof. Lawrence gave an interesting and valuable lecture on sprays and spraying. He advises the use of whale oil soap as a safe insecticide for most aphides and insects. Mention was made of Kerosene Emulsion as a very effective remedy for soft bodied insects, but must be used with intelligence as it is very caustic in its nature.

Prof. S. B. Nelson's lecture on Tuberculosis in cattle and the value of the Tuberculin test was interesting and instructive. The information that there has been numerous cases of tuberculosis in our State was surprising. His further lecture on Hygienic Problems exposed to view the necessity of extreme cleanliness especially in the dairy barn.

Mr. E. D. Brown, the noted local poultry and egg producer, kindly gave a very comprehensive and exhaustive report of his occupation. On his five acre poultry farm, he had a gross income of $1350 from 600 fowls. His record pen of nine months, ending Oct. 1st gave an income per hen of $3.43 and expenditure for feed of $1.06 per hen. To bring about these splendid results required careful and judicious management. The breeds, the feeds, and above all, "cleanliness" are the important factors.

This completes the lectures of the institute but does not give many details. Some, and possibly all, of the lectures have been published in full, and you can procure them at a nominal cost by addressing the editor. The business men of the city of Spokane gave an excellent luncheon to those in attendance at the Tuesday sessions. State Senator Crow, one of the board of Regents of Washington Agricultural College and School of Science, gave an after-dinner address which was highly welcomed and applauded. The Farmers through one of their members, thanked the business men as well as others for the excellent hospitality shown them.

Don't Understand Poultry.

G. W. Firth, a poultryman of Chicago, is investigating the methods of poultry farming in and about Spokane. He is looking for a business location.

"I visited the Hazelwood farm recently," stated Mr. Firth, "and I find there as fine a lot of young breeding stock and some as finely matured pullets (incubator hatched) as I have seen on Chicago farms or elsewhere. The Hazelwood people are widely reputed as raisers of fancy poultry, and what they have done others can do if they apply the required amount of attention. E. D. Brown, who lives near Hangman creek, is also demonstrating the possibilities of poultry raising in this locality. For the size of his business, I should say that he is one of the most successful men in his line I have ever met.

"From what I have seen thus far I am inclined to believe that the majority of farmers about Spokane have an incomplete understanding of the poultry business. Most of them pursue it as an avocation aside from their regular business, when really, were it taken up in the right manner, material profits would result."

Need a Good Place.

"If we can get a good place in which to exhibit, I feel assured that there will be a poultry show held in Spokane this winter."

So stated Mr. Smith of the Hazelwood poultry farm to the Chronicle reporter.

"The last two shows held in Spokane have been but incomplete successes by reason of the unsuitable location at which they were held. This season the proposition is that we secure a better location or give no exhibition.

"If we can get the right kind of a place in which to show, there will be no difficulty in making the event a success. Local poultrymen will take an active interest in the affair, and Palouse and Sound exhibitors will contribute to its success. The show is now only in discussion, but there is a very likely probability that it will be held sometime during the winter."

Nervous Prostration-Faint Spells.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Saved My Life.

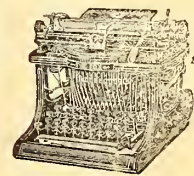

There is great danger in a run down condition. Overwork, mental strain, the cares and worries of business and the home, all have a deleterious effect upon the nerves, which in their devitalized condition readily fall prey to the attacks of disease. Aside from the danger there is no condition attended by so many disagreeable symptoms; such as loss of appetite, indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, headache, tired feeling and loss of ambition together with the agony of sleepless nights spent in tossing restlessly about, only to rise exhausted in the morning. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a true nerve tonic which, by strengthening the nerves, restores health and appetite and brings sweet sleep.

"For six years I suffered almost constantly from a complication of troubles which culminated in complete nervous prostration. I had no appetite, I could not sleep, I suffered from indigestion and nervousness. As is so often the case in nervous prostration I frequently had weak, fainting spells. Doctors did not help me. They said my blood was very poor, and I know my face was always very pale. The very first bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine I took gave me noticeable relief and I felt stronger than I had in years. My neighbors in Puyallup, Wash., where I then lived will testify to this. I also used some of Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and Anti-Pain Pills. I believe the Dr. Miles Remedies saved my life."—MRS. Apples Wanted.

Many of our farmer subscribers have apples. Any who wish may bring some in to us on subscription to the Western Home Journal 521 First Ave. Regular price allowed.

Nature intended man when walking to have the foot square on the ground. To see the average woman who resides in town one would think that she is exempt from Nature's plan, for her shoes have her heels elevated about two inches above her toes. Of course her walk is not very graceful but she feels pretty good by knowing that she is "in style."

Bright's Disease

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hereto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address John J. Fulton Company, 409 Washington St. San Francisco, Cal.

Nothing Less Than the Best.

While Dr. Lorenz, the famous Viennese surgeon; who has performed operations of so wonderful a nature as to astonish the world, was in this country, he told a friend that he never allowed himself to indulge even to the slightest extent in alcoholic beverages, because he had found it detrimental to the steadiness of his nerves. He said that he believed a man who had human life at stake was in duty bound to avoid everything that made him less than his best.

Here is food for thought. It is reasonable to suppose that Dr. Lorenz would never have succeeded in his services to humanity as he has, had he not been absolute master of himself. Such self-mastery is the price of success everywhere in this age. Only the clear brain and the steady hand can hope to achieve those results that make a great and good name.

The Best Soldiers.

It has been found that soldiers are at their best only when their brains are unclouded by stimulants. Last year a general in the German army at Metz forbade the sale of alcoholic liquors in any way to soldiers under his command. The results were so favorable, and there was such an improvement in the service, that other commanders are issuing similar orders.

"That Printer of Udell's"

By Harold Bell Wright is a story of the middle west. The characters are drawn true to life so that in reading the book one is sure that he knows the originals. It is a deeply interesting story—so interesting that it takes an effort to put it aside. Dick Falkner, the real hero, is an example of what firmness and liberal thought will do to advance a man's own social standing and thereby through him the moral welfare of a community. In getting rid of the tobacco habit he says, "I can't afford to do anything that robs babies and mothers, and makes me disagreeable to my friends."

It is without doubt the most interesting novel that has been placed before the public this year. There are just two classes of persons who should read this book—church members and those who are not.

(The Book Supply Co. Chicago, $1.50)

Many of Spokane's leading citizens openly declared that if the wide open public gambling houses were closed that disaster to the business interests would follow. Five months has now elapsed and business seems to be as good as it was a year ago at this time, in fact it must be better for many of those who prophesied disaster and owned property, have raised on their rents.

The American Newspaper Directors

Issued Semi-Annually. Established 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Gov't rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers having a Sunday issue.

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which these are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is Five Dollars---net cash, all transportation charges paid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the Directory reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements; while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

Varied Industries Building.

The Varied Industries Building is a magnificent structure on the outer perimeter of the main picture of the fair. It comes into the view of the beholder immediately after he has passed through the main entrance gate. The building presents a facade of 1,200 feet on the north and south and 525 feet on the east and west, giving 656,250 feet of exhibition space all on the ground floor. It is a columnated design embodying a free treatment of the Ionic order, showing an increase in the size of the columns used at the southern main entrance, but in such style and taste as not to interfere with the general design.

In the center of the north facade is a low dome flanked by towers about 200 feet high. These towering features afford ample space for electrical display and illumination. Numerous entrances are on the facades, exclusive of the main entrance in the center.

A specially featured entrance is made at the center of the south front, this entrance being thrown back and a magnificent circular colonnade thrown out in front of it. The colonnade construction on the main fronts affords protection for pedestrians from both sun and rain. In the center of the structure are two large courts, affording light and ventilation to the building. Graceful iron sheds, or canopies, will be erected in the courts. Two ornate kiosks, used as toilet rooms, are placed in the courts. The building is so designed that it has a magnificent corridor or passageway through the center from north to south.

The size and grace of this building adds materially to the beauty and attractiveness of the group of buildings forming the main picture of the fair.

Van Brunt & Howe, of Kansas City, are the architects. It was the first exposition building for whose erection a contract was let. It was built by the Rountree Construction Company at a cost of about $650,000. It was practically completed on Dedication Day, April 30, 1903, and was occupied by the members of the National Guard who picketed these grounds and participated in the military parade on that occasion.

The building houses exhibits of manufacturing processes and of manufactures. Milan H. Hulbert, chief of the Department of Manufactures, has charge of the exhibits in the structure.

New Music.

A waltz lately published and deserving of high comment is a dreamy, catchy and descriptive piece entitled "Dream On Forever," composed by Walter A. Phillips. It is composed of first, second and third waltzes, ending with a coda which gives a grand finale. In its description it expresses ball-room moods and scenes, which has a graceful tendency to please the dreamy listener and carry him with the rhythmic step of the dance.

"The Song Bird and the Rose," by Everett J. Evans, is a song of characteristic dance, and cleverly written. It describes the mood of the composer in its pleasing rhythmic melody. It describes the sights and sounds in nature which are stirring, touching and impressed by ideas—the delicate chirp of the song bird and the beautiful loveliness of the rose.

The "Imperino Waltzes," by Pautine B. Story is a pretty, melodious and well constructed composition. It has much brilliancy and dash and keeps the mind and heart alive and awake in its perception of realistic meaning.

All of these come from the great publishing house of Hamilton S. Gordon, 139 Fifth avenue, New York.

Here's one that has been going the rounds of our exchanges, but as there is so much in it, we reprint it for the benefit of our readers. "Girls did you ever think that boys have more self-respect than the members of your sex? There is not a young man of any respectability that would be seen with a drunken girl. You might search the streets with a fine tooth comb and not find a young man who would lock arms and go promenading with a lady who is puffing a cigar or squirting tobacco juice around on the sidewalk. Girls have no hesitancy in accepting the company of such characters and too many of them are too anxious for the companionship of almost anything that wears pants. Society will be refined when the girls demand of the boys the same purity of character the boys demand of the girls. Over the heads of the young ladies of this land hangs the possibilities of the greatest moral reform that ever swept over this country.—Seneca Tribune.

On the last page will be found two propositions that will interest anyone that reads.

The Interstate Fair now in session is better than any of its predecessors.

LITERARY NOTES.

OF INTEREST IN THE KITCHEN.

The Delineator for October presents an especially attractive array of culinary topics. In the unique cookery series "Carlotta and I," the story of the wedding dinner is told, and excellent recipes accompany the narrative. Autumn Fruits and Vegetables occupies two pages with illustrations and recipes. In a special article the making of ginger bread and cakes is explained, and another paper imparts the secret of making old-fashioned New England pies—"pies like our grandmothers used to make." Useful Knowledge about Eggs gives information not generally known but well worth possessing.

In the Review of Reviews for October are two articles on the problem of the country school which deserve special attention. Professor Hays, of the University of Minnesota, writes on "Our Farmer Youth and the Public Schools," showing what is being done in many parts of the country, through school consolidation and the development of agricultural high schools, to give the country boy and girl the advantages of a connected, well-adjusted, and rational system of public instruction, while Superintendent Kern, of Rockford, Ill., in a brief illustrated article, gives the results of practical efforts among farmer boys in his country in the direction of interesting the boys in the business of farming and in teaching them the things worth knowing in their rural environment.

The wonder ball much in use in Germany is good as a means to both interest and amuse a child. It is made by winding a hank of worsted into a ball, stopping every now and then to wind in some little present. The nicest or most expensive gift should be placed in the center, while tiny boxes of pure chocolates may be only partially concealed near the surface. The recipient of the gift should knit until the little presents fall out. The wonder ball might very well prove a source of entertainment to an invalid.—Good Housekeeping.

Everybody's Magazine begins to be something more than an entertaining ten cents' worth of fiction and articles. An identity has been developed—a sturdy and aggressive identity all its own and full of interest and promise. Thus far, the magazine has prided itself on the timeliness of its features and the healthy virility of its fiction. Now, it has found itself, entered on its own mission, headed out on its particular crusade. The key-note of this individuality is the article by Alfred Henry Lewis, in the October number, "The Madness of Much Money." This is a scathing attack on the vulgar displays of great wealth to which the new generation of millionaires has treated the country. With a brutal directness Mr. Lewis diagnoses the madness which often goes with much and sudden wealth, and ridicules unsparingly the gilded idlers who make up the so-called American aristocracy. It is a rough, even a pitiless arrangement of certain prominent persons and it is safe to be generally read and appreciated all over the country. Throughout this number the magazine shows a purpose to depart from the baleful worship of Mammon and its possessors which characterizes so much of the writings in current periodicals.

Fall Gardening.

Keep the soil active. If instructions were followed in our last, and attention given, instead of the bare and sear-looking spaces where the earlier vegetables matured and also in between the rows of the late maturing ones, you will have a green growth of radishes, turnips, lettuce, spinach, etc., well on their way to succulent, tender vegetables for fall use. A few years back vegetables of this class were considered unseasonable except in the early summer months but now they are generally appreciated the year around. And now, close to the larger eastern cities, extensive glass structures have sprung up to supply the ever increasing demand for this class of vegetables, even in the severe winter months. While the price is higher, compared with that of those grown in the open, yet the palatableness is unquestioned, and is eagerly sought by the epicure. In the home gardens the season can be extended very profitably by the use of hotbeds in the fall as well as in the spring and further, in a small way, the erection of a lean-to on the south side of the dwelling, roof of glass, and often can be heated by the surplus heat from the dwelling at not much expense, offers a splendid place for at least lettuce and radishes in the winter months and an admirable location for the winter flowering house plants. The recreation and enjoyment that a house of this kind affords is considerable.

It will be too late when you read this to seed anything that will mature this fall, with the possible exception of radishes, in the open, but this should not deter you from having the garden covered with a mantle of green during the winter months. We use Spinach largely, it being a hardy vegetable, and it answers a two fold purpose, a cover crop for winter and a very salable vegetable in the early spring.

C. L. Allen, a noted gardener, writing in American Gardening says, "Spinach should be sown as late as the seed will germinate, If not wanted as a vegetable it is the best possible food for some other plant, and not a square foot of ground should be left bare during the year. Keep the soil constantly doing something useful and it prefers to do something that will be a benefit to its owner. If nothing else at hand sow rye (winter) it will improve the mechanical condition and add humus to your soil when turned under in early spring.

A. A. KELLY.

The next annual meeting of the American Poultry Association will be held at Rochester, N. Y., February 2, 1904.

Heavy feeding is profitable only when the feed is balanced so that extra large cockerels are not pushed off their legs.

We really believe that the discussion of the merit of each system of judging are bringing about better judging all around.

The World's Fair premium list is now ready and same may be had of Hon. F. D. Coburn, Chief of Live Stock, St. Louis, Mo.

The color of egg shells in every flock should be even. Where eggs bring better prices owing to evenness of color of shells the breeding of such birds as lay off-colored shells is time wasted.

All judging at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904, will be done by the one judge system and that by comparison. This is a good broad basis and ought to bring out a magnificent display of poultry. No fees for pens will be charged.

In selecting breeding birds each fall, where layers are wanted retain only large, growthy pullets. This increases the tendency to early maturity and also to vigorousness. Late hatched and small pullets make poor breeding hens.

If your hens are going through the molt slowly get a bone cutter and feed them fresh green cut bone. Besides helping the molt you will have the machine for use in getting winter eggs. A bone cutter always pays for itself and much more too.

The turkey crop will be worth more this year than ever before—dampness being the reason of the shortage in the young stock. If you have any turkeys to dispose of this fall, fat them well before marketing that you may get all that is coming in the line of good prices.

We want every show secretary to send us their show dates as we desire to give them publicity in these columns. Also write us for our proposition to show associations—they are very liberal this year and all poultry shows should take advantage of them. Write today.

The cheapest way to get cut clover if you have any large number of hens to feed is to procure your own clover cutter and cut the clover. Where one can get it this way the cost is small and the value as a feed in both fall, winter and early spring cannot be over estimated.

Mr. Edward Brown gives a very good sketch of poultry raising in Italy, in the Country Gentleman, and we hardly understand how the Leghorn of today could be evolved from the scrub fowls of that country. The article would forever quite the song of the fancier who wanted "genuine Leghorns."—Topics.

STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The trip from Seattle to Victoria by the Steamer Clallam was one of the features. The steamer was somewhat crowded owing to the presence of many tourists making it difficult to get anything to eat. A short stop was made at Port Townsend, giving the passengers a chance to see this historic place. Near Port Townsend several hills are bristling with huge cannon—Uncle Sam's quiet way of saying he means to keep peace and protect the citizens.

Victoria is one of the prettiest cities in the west. It seems to have more natural points of interest than any other town. The Press Association were made to feel at home as soon as they landed. In the evening they met at the city hall where Mayor McCandless and Mr. C. Hayward, the president of the Tourist Association welcomed the visitors. Our president, Will A. Steel, responded to the addresses in a happy speech of well chosen words. After the exercises the members went to the Douglas gardens.

The Gorge is a charming spot where nature has done its best to provide a place to entertain. A narrow channel through which the tide's rush, causing a reversible cascade, is the primary attraction, but the woods and grounds gave us one of our most pleasant periods of pleasure while at Victoria. The ride to and from in the launch Kootenay is very nice.

The parliament buildings with its museum and library were visited. The buildings are massive structures that were built at a cost of $1,000,000. It is said that it would take double that sum to duplicate them.

The Tourist Association provided cars and took the entire party to Esquimalt. This navy yard of the British government in its American possessions. Building after building is passed containing vast quantities of stores. Several warships in the harbor were interesting to all who could visit them.

A carriage and tally-ho ride of ten to fifteen miles was one of the most enjoyable features of the visit. The drive was principally along the sea shore though it passed through a beautiful park and the residence portion of the city. Many cottages facing the sea followed the English custom of being named.

The Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway runs north from Victoria, through some of the most picturesque scenery in any country.

The Press Association were taken to Shawnigan lake at the Strathcona hotel. This is an ideal spot and one where tourists love to tarry.

Nothing short of good engravings can tell anything of the interesting places which surround the city of Victoria.

The Mormon Temple.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City is no doubt the most substantial and well constructed religious edifice in the United States, if not in the world. Corner stone laid April 6, 1853, cap stone April 6, 1892 and dedicated April 6, 1893, over forty years of constant labor being consumed in its construction. This magnificent structure 200 feet long, 100 feet wide is built entirely of Utah white granite, beautifully carved, symbolic of the Mormon faith, surmounted by six towers, the highest being 230 feet from the ground, supporting a bronze statue of the angel Maroni. The cost of this building is about $6,000,000. There are many other attractions at Salt Lake City of interest to the traveler or tourist, where a day can be well spent. The Rio Grande is the only Trans-continental route passing directly through Salt Lake City, where a stop-over is allowed on all classes of tickets. The service of the Rio Grande lines is unexcelled. Three trains daily between Ogden and Denver, carrying all classes of modern equipment. If you are contemplating a trip to the east, write the undersigned for information regarding rates via the "scenic line of the world." W. C. McBride, General Agent, M. J. Roche, Traveling Passenger Agent, 124 Third St., Portland, Oregon.

Send in poultry items for this Journal.

Alexander & Co., the newspaper advertising agents, report the sale of several country papers this year.

The Pacific Templar outfit of type and material—no presses—is for sale by Alexander & Co.

Another of Kelly's letters on gardening appears in this issue. These articles are practical and well worth the perusal of all.

We have received the premium list of the Spokane Interstate fair. It is a pamphlet of 80 pages and anyone who has anything to take to the fair should send for it. It is free. Just write to H. G. Stimmel, secretary.

The WESTERN HOME JOURNAL acknowledges the receipt of complimentary tickets to the Spokane Interstate Fair and the Fifth Annual Lincoln County Fair. We expect to attend both.

The Reliable Poultry Journal contains 68 to 164 pages each month. We will send it one year with this Journal for 50 cents. The regular price is one dollar.

Write to the advertisers in this issue with confidence that they will do as they say. Send for catalogs and select what you want. Mention the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL and you will get the best they have.

The manager of the Spokane Interstate Fair is preparing a catalogue of the blooded stock which will be sold at auction on the fair grounds October 8 and 9. Persons wishing a copy of this catalogue can secure it by addressing H. G. Stimmel, secretary and manager of the fair. Every animal which is sold at this auction has its pedigree given in full in this catalogue.

Treat your wife well. She needs all labor saving appliances. You know how anxious you are to get any machinery that will save you labor. Treat your wife as well. Buy her an "Easy" washing machine, the ad. appears in another column. Call at this office and see the machine and you will be convinced that it is a labor saving device.

The Spokane Newspaper Union now prints on the average 75 papers each week, the Northern Pacific Union of Portland, 117 papers and the Seattle Union 60 papers. These three lists contain a majority of the country papers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a large number in Montana and British Columbia. Alexander & Co., Spokane, Wash., are the authorized agents for the lists.

We would say to our readers that if you are in need of any breeding stock or eggs for hatching you cannot do better than to consult our advertisers' announcements. We believe each and every one of them thoroughly reliable and know they will treat you courteously. Our advertisers are all fanciers in every sense of the word and are breeders of just as fine fowls as will be found anywhere. When you write them always say you saw their advertisement in the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL; this will aid you in your business relations with them. We can heartily recommend them all.

In Texas a man once advertised for a "a boss hand over 5,000 sheep that can speak Spanish fluently." Then there was the horse dealer who boldly advertised: "A splendid gray horse calculated for a charger, or would carry a lady with a switch tail." W. S. Gilbert, of Gilbert and Sullivan opera fame, was standing on the steps of his club house, when a stranger approached and asked: "Does a man belong to your club with one eye named Walker?" "I don't know," was the answer: "what's the name of his other eye?" An ad contains the request for "a coachman to look after a pair of a religious turn of mind."

We are apt to think of the world as we know it to-day as having a softer side than it boasted of when Rome was in the fulness of her glory. At the same time, we go to the theater and to the circus to witness feats of human daring, in the design of which risk of life is the paramount element. The old Adam which, when Nero ruled in Rome, found its glut of blood in gladiatorial fray, asserts itself anew in complacent contemplation of such a suicidal device as Diavolo's loop-the-loop on a bicycle; in a gathering of a multitude to watch the death-struggle of a swimmer in the whirlpool of Niagara: in the encouraging cheer which goes with the flight of every balloon from which a parachut jumper thows out a grim challenge to death. "Risk Life for Entertainment" is the title of an article in the October Cosmopolitan in which we see a large collection of illustrations of the most hazardous feats ever attempted.

Be enthusiastic where temperance is concerned, no matter if you are sometimes called disagreeable names. Occasionally it happens that the very people who shout themselves hoarse over the election over their favorite candidate deem it a mark of weakness to show anything like animation in regard to temperance. You can be enthusiastic over golf or football, over business or study, and nothing is said, but if you are enthusiastic in temperance matters, thoroughly interested in the subject, someone is going to call you a "crank." But do not let that frighten you. It will take a much harder name than that to do you any serious harm.

Newspapers, which know all about grain and the grain business, continue to publish and republish long articles regarding the growing of enormous crops from seed taken from ancient mounds and mummies. Such statements are without foundation on fact, because many experiments have been conducted to test the vitality of seeds, and in no case has any seed been found to grow after it was fifteen or eighteen years old, and this applies only to seeds taken from desert plants. Corn and oats seldom grow after four years, their vitality being much below that of wild seeds. Hardly a month elapses that some district is not much agitated over reports of this character. Sometimes a fakir will sell his prehistoric seed at a fabulous price which he fixes according to the promises he gives with the seed. It would seem that suckers had been caught on this trick so often that it was time they were learning better.—Chicago Grain Dealers Journal.

"As a Surgeon I Must Not Drink."

Total abstinence from intoxicating liquor as a beverage is simply common sense. Wise men in all lines of life see that that it unfits them for duty. At a banquet given to Dr. Lorenz, the great surgeon, in New York, wine was served, but the doctor pushed the wine glass aside, and in reply to the question as to whether he was a teetotaler, he said:

"I cannot say that I am a temperance agitator, but I am a surgeon. My success depends upon my brains being clear, my muscles firm, and my nerves steady. No one can take alcoholic liquors without blunting these physical powers which I must keep always on edge. As a surgeon, I must not drink."

County Auditor's Fees.

Spokane, Wash., September 1st, 1903
To The Patrons of the Auditor's Office:

Our object in issuing this pamphlet is to give all the information obtainable for those who transact business with the Auditor's office.

The list given, includes most of the instruments commonly used in Spokane County. The computation is made to include 40 words in each description, and when a note is used in the instrument, allowance is made for the copy of one note. For each note additional, add 30 cents to the amount given in the list. If the description given in the instrument exceeds 25 words in addition to the 40, add 15 cents for each 100 words or fraction exceeding 25 words. Remit fees by Post-office Money Order, Express Order or Bank draft. If personal checks are sent it necessitates delay in filing until the check is paid. A synopsis of the laws in regard to filing of Chattel Mortgages and Conditional Sales is given. Trusting the information given will facilitate the work of the office and the convenience of its patrons, I am,

Very truly yours,
Z. STEWART,
County Auditor.

ALL FEES ARE PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

PROVISIONS OF THE LAW

RELATING TO THE

FILING OF CHATTEL MORTGAGES

Which went into Effect June 9, 1899.

An act passed March 8, 1899, approved March 13, 1899, relating to Chattel Mortgages, and the filing thereof, provides that Chattel Mortgages and Crop Mortgages shall be filed within ten days from the time of the execution thereof in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the mortgaged property is situated, and the county auditor shall receive as fees the sum of 25 cents for every instrument so filed.

Section 3 provides that "Every mortgage filed and indexed in pursuance of this act shall be held and considered to be full and sufficient notice to all the world, of the existence and conditions thereof, but shall cease to be notice, as against creditors of the mortgagors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of the time such mortgage becomes due, unless before the expiration of two years after the time such mortgage becomes due, the mortgagee, his agent or attorney, shall make and file as aforesaid an affidavit setting forth the amount due upon the mortgage, which affidavit shall be annexed to the instrument to which it relates and the auditor shall endorse on said affidavit the time it was filed."

Section 4. The effect of any such affidavit shall not continue beyond one year from the time when such mortgage would otherwise cease to be valid as against such creditors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith; unless before the time when any such mortgage would otherwise cease to be valid, as aforesaid, a similar affidavit be filed and annexed as provided in the preceding section, and with like effect.

Section 6. That a mortgage given to secure the sum of $300 or more exclusive of interest, costs and attorneys or council fees may be recorded and indexed with like force and effect as if this act had not been passed, but such mortgage or a copy thereof must also be filed and indexed as required by this act.

Section 7. That in case the property mortgaged exists in two or more counties, a copy of such mortgage may be filed in each of such counties with like force and effect as the original mortgage.

Section 8. Whenever any mortgage, filed under the provisions of this act has been paid, or the conditions thereof satisfied, the mortgagee, or his assignee or personal representatives shall make to the mortgagor, his assignee or personal representatives, a certificate in writing, under his hand stating the date of the mortgage and a description of the property thereby mortgaged, and that the same has been discharged in full; and on delivering said certificate in writing to the officer with whom such mortgage is filed the said officer shall deliver said mortgage to the person producing such certificate on payment of the sum of 25 cents for filing said certificate in his office, endorsing thereon the true time of filing the same, and shall keep and preserve said certificate among the records in his office, and shall write the word "satisfied" with the date opposite to such mortgage, in the index in which such mortgages are entered under the heading "release."

Amending Act Relative to Conditional Sales and Leases of Personal Property.

An act to amend Sections 1 and 2 of an act entitled "An act in relation to conditional sales and leases of personal property," approved March 10, 1893.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Washington:

Section 1. That Section 1 of an act entitled "An act in relation to conditional sales and leases of personal property, approved March 10, 1893" (the same being Section 4585 of Ballinger's code and Section 6547 of Pierce's code,) be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows: That all conditional sales of personal property, or leases thereof, containing a conditional right to purchase, where the property is placed in the possession of the vendee, shall be absolute as to the purchasers, encumbrancers and subsequent creditors in good faith, unless within ten days after taking possession by the vendee, a memorandum of such sale, stating its terms and conditions and signed by the vendor and vendee, shall be filed in the auditor's office of the county wherein, at the date of the vendee's taking possession of the property, the vendee resides.

Section 2. That Section 2 of an act entitled "An act in relation to conditional sales and leases of personal property," approved March 10, 1893 (the same being Section 4586 of Ballinger's code and Section 6548 of Pierce's code,) be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows: Such instrument shall remain on file for the inspection of the public until full payment has been made thereon, and shall be satisfied or can-

But For Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

Do not neglect the warning symptoms of a weak heart. Palpitation, smothering spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pain in and around heart; oftentimes affections of the stomach, lungs, liver, bladder, kidneys, etc., arise from heart weakness. A weak heart must be helped. It cannot stop to rest. It must be strengthened and regulated. The blood must be enriched, the heart nerves strengthened and the circulation improved by the great heart and blood tonic, Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. There is positively nothing to equal this wonderful medicine in its beneficial influence upon hearts weakened from any cause.

"I am very grateful for what Dr. Miles Heart Cure has done for me, as I am confident I would not be alive today had I not learned of its wonderful virtues and taken it before it was too late. I had been a sufferer from valvular heart disease for many years, in fact ever since I was a little girl and for three years before I began using Heart Cure I was in very bad shape. I could not sleep on my left side at all and would frequently have the most dreadful smothering spells. At times my left side would swell up. I had pain in my head all the time from which I suffered greatly. Nothing I took did me any good until I used eleven bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure which removed all these distressing symptoms and made me feel well and strong."—MRS. H. C. Five Good Reasons.

That the Rio Grands Route is the most popular one between the Pacific Coast and the East, is evidenced by the fact that the greater per cent of trans-continental travelers use it.

FIRST; the scenic attractions in view from trains are unequaled in the world.

SECOND; the daily personally conducted tourist car excursions being especially adapted for ladies traveling alone or with children, affords a comfortable mode of travel at rates within reach of all.

THIRD; it is the only route between the East and West passing directly through Salt Lake City or modern Zion.

FOURTH; the choice of two distinct routes through the heart of the Rocky Mountains.

FIFTH; three fast through train daily between Odgen and Denver equipped with every modern convenience.

There are many other reasons why this route is the most comfortable and enjoyable in the whole country.

You can learn a great deal on the subject of through travel, and receive some very beautiful and interesting booklets, by calling on or writing to the undersigned. W. C. McBRIDE, Gen'l Agent or M. J. ROCHE, Traveling Passenger Agent, 124 Third St., Portland, Ore.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE OFFER

Two of the greatest magazines in the world a short time ago made an offer to the management of this periodical for a special rate to OUR READERS EXCLUSIVELY. That offer is now and hereby announced, to hold good for sixty days from date.

THE OFFER

|-----------------------------------|--------|
| Woman's Home Companion, one year, | $1.00 |
| Cosmopolitan, - - one year, | 1.00 |
| Western Home Journal, two years, | 1.00 |
| Total, | $3.00 |

Special Price for all Three, - - - $1.60

For Farmers and Poultrymen.

The Woman's Home Companion is now the greatest of the magazines intended for the home---for father, for mother, for the children. It has seventy-five to one hundred beautiful illustrations in each issue, three to eight complete stories by famous writers, magnificent reproductions of great paintings, a special department for children, departments for different matters of the home-life, and many pages especially for women. It is a beautiful magazine---attractive, interesting, entertaining, helpful. Three hundred and fifty thousand homes receive it every month.

The Cosmopolitan is without a peer among the magazines of general subject matter. It has more enterprise than any other; it secures and prints more new and original articles. It has a splendid fiction department. It is finely illustrated. Like the Woman's Home Companion, it finds a place in nearly four hundred thousand homes.

SEND ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THIS OFFICE

We are the sole agents for this offer, and subscriptions must come to us. The offer is made by us to give readers of our periodical the best that is to be had in magazine combinations this year.

The above list includes publications suited for the whole family. Pearson's, Success, Frank Leslie's, Everybody's or nearly any other "dollar" magazine may be substituted for the Cosmopolitan.

We are subscription and advertising agents for all publications. Let us handle your business in this line. Address all orders to

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

The American Newspaper Directory

Issued Semi-Annually.

Established 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Gov't rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers having a Sunday issue.

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which these are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is Five Dollars---net cash, all transportation charges paid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the Directory reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements; while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

Administration Building.

The Administration Building at the World's Fair, St. Louis, is the principal structure of seven new and magnificent buildings, known as the Washington University group, which is to be the permanent home of this institution after the close of the exposition.

This building is in the Tudor Gothic style of architecture as exemplified in the college buildings of England of the time of Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth. It is 325 by 118 feet, and in the shape of the letter "H" with an imposing center entrance, the most noteworthy architectural effect of the structure. It consists of a massive tower 77 feet high, topped by four octagon towers, one at each corner. The doorway in this tower is a magnificent arch. The facade of the tower is elaborately ornamented with canopied niches and with strong courses on which appear the heraldic shield bearing the University Coat of Arms. In front of the entrance is a terrace 50 by 264 feet and leading up to this terrace are steps of cut granite 35 feet wide.

The building is built of pink Missouri granite with Bedford, Indiana, limestone trimmings and cost $250,000. It is fireproof throughout and contains over fifty large office rooms which are occupied by President Francis and the various executive departments of the exposition.

Other buildings of the group now used by the World's Fair are: Busch Hall, the two Cupples halls, Liggett hall, and the boiler house. These buildings are built of the same material and in the same style as the Administration building. Other buildings are in course of construction, one of them being the Hall of Congresses.

Green Vegetables Summer and Fall.

The very general impression prevails that spring is the only season for planting and the whole garden is usually put in at that time. After a few messes of green "sass" has been used interest in the garden lags, and other than the few varieties that takes the whole season to mature, the garden looks sear and bare. A writer in the American Gardening has this to say on this same subject: "The common practice, especially with those who have a small plot is to start in when the 'spring fever' of gardening comes on with an energy that knows no failure and complete the whole work in as few hours as possible, and then, with satisfaction complete, await results. The result is a garden unworthy the name, a disappointment that disgusts at least for the season, but is sure to be repeated as often as spring appears."

How often do we see just such gardens, when by a little persistent effort the same may be covered with green, succulent vegetation, a pleasure to behold and a satisfaction to the grower. The same writer speaks of a plot 100x40 feet that furnishes nearly all the vegetables for a family of five other than potatoes, and the secret of such a garden is intensive culture and successive plantings. Of course the best of conditions must exist, most especially rich soil and an abundance of water not only to germinate the seeds but to keep the soil cool. Plants evaporate moisture very rapidly at this season and require sufficient for the purpose but after they have covered the soil they resist the attraction. Another practice well worthy of your attention for the purpose of keeping the soil cool also resisting evaporation is by mulching and probably one of the most convenient is very fine straw or strawy manure. Scatter it evenly in between your plants to a depth of two to five inches depending of course on size of plants.

Don't forget the weed, for—

"He who keeps his garden clear
Will have less weeds to fight next year."

Sow spinach, radish, (round scarlet and Black Spanish for winter.) Turnips (Milan.) Lettuce (Grand Rapids, Simpson or some other bunch variety.) Kale for winter greens. You can now sow onions for green onions for spring. When about half the tops of your onions of this years growth has fallen over then it is time to pull the whole crop, let them cure several days or until the tops are entirely dry, then gather and store in a cool airy place. To describe the growing and storing of the onion crop would be quite lengthy but will probably be taken up at some future time.

We hope the strawberry plants that were set out last spring have had all they could eat and drink as the growth this year determines the quantity and quality of your fruit next year. There is probably no better paying crop or more acceptable one than the strawberry and it pays handsomely to give them good care.

As a parting reminder let us all keep our gardens covered with a mantle of green and forever make warfare on our ever present enemy the "weeds."

A. A. KELLY.

A Glance at the Future.

Professor Collins, Pennsylvania's scientific agriculturist, some time ago was recommending to a Berks county farmer a powerfully fertilizing manure in which he was interested. After some discussion the sagacious farmer declared that he had no faith in the manure, as the proposed quantity was too small to be of any use.

"My dear sir," said the professor "such are the wonderful discoveries in science that I should not be surprised if in the near future we carry the manure for acres of land to the field in the pocket of our coat."

"That may be so," replied the farmer, "but in that case I'm inclined to think you would carry back the crop in the pocket of your vest."

Thy friend has a friend, and thy friend's friend has a friend; be discreet.—Talmud.

Send in poultry items for this Journal.

Ostriches have been given a classification in the World's Fair live stock shows.

The National Polled Hereford Breeders' Association is among the breeders' associations making appropriations for special prizes at the World's Fair.

The American Association of Live Stock Herd Book Secretaries will hold its annual meeting at the World's Fair grounds and at the Southern hotel, St. Louis, August 12 and 13.

The National White Wyandotte Club will hold its 1904 annual meeting at St. Louis during the World's Fair. The Club will make liberal provision for World's Fair special poultry prizes for the variety.

The Kentucky Exhibit Association, which has in charge World's Fair matters pertaining to that State, has sent notices to Kentucky breeders and fanciers that the Association will pay the entire expense of sending their stock to St. Louis next year. L. L. Dorsey, a prominent breeder, has been given charge of the assembling of the State's live stock exhibits for the World's Fair. He has the assistance of fifteen sub-committees representing the leading breeds and varieties. The Association will offer special prizes for Kentucky winners at the World's Fair live stock shows.

Through the persistent advocacy of Chief F. D. Coburn of the department of live stock at the World's Fair, in the face of considerable opposition from some sources, the butter made there next year during the proposed cow demonstration will be judged by giving a possible credit of 15 points in a total score of 100 to "aroma" and 30 to "flavor," instead of ignoring the element of smell or aroma and giving a possible 45 points to flavor alone. Chief Taylor of the department of agriculture, under whose supervision the butter will be made and judged, is heartily in favor of recognizing aroma, and the representatives of the different breeders' associations furnishing cows for the test are unanimously for it.

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

It is a fact that the United States of 1810, with seven million inhabitants owned more registered tonnage for over-sea trade than the United States of 1903, with a population of eighty million.

This tonnage in 1810 was 981,000; it is now 873,000, and, worse still, it showed an actual decrease of six thousand tons from the year before.

In 1810 American ships and American sailors carried 91.5 per cent. of their country's ocean trade, and, moreover, a great share of that of Europe.

In 1861, though we had already lost our Atlantic steam lines and our ship building was falling off, we still carried 65.2 per cent. of our own trade and some of the trade of other nations.

American ships last year conveyed only 8.8 per cent. of our imports and exports. Our registered tonnage in 1861 stood at 2,496,000. It stands now at 873,000. Two-thirds of our once great and powerful deep-sea fleet has vanished—and not one new keel for a deep-sea ship is being laid on either our Atlantic or Pacific coastline.

Meanwhile an ever increasing fleet of foreign vessels throngs our ports and monopolizes the carrying of more than nine-tenths of our import and export commerce.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE LILAC.

In The Delineator for September, N. Hudson Moore writes charmingly of that favorite of old gardens, the lilac. In the language of flowers, the lilac, it is said, is unrequited love. Many superstitious fancies hover about this flower, particularly in England, where in some rural parts it is regarded with especial disfavor by lovers. In many small hamlets in the heart of England, to give to your sweetheart a sprig of purple lilac, is to say you wish the engagement broken, while stout-hearted bachelors sport a boutonniere of it to show that they are proof against the woman. The white lilac is called less unlucky than the mauve, but neither should be made a gift between lovers. "She who wears lilac will never wear a wedding ring," runs an old proverb, so wise mothers with marriageable daughters see to it that no sprig of this unfortunate flower is brought inside the house. In Devon and Cornwall, pixie ridden counties, the lilac is the May-flower and a peculiar virtue attaches to it, if gathered before the sun is up.

Every road supervisor and overseer, and the county commissioners and county surveyors throughout the country should attend the meeting of the Washington Good Roads association, which is to be held in Spokane in connection with the Tenth Annual Interstate Fair. Which days of the fair the Good Roads association will meet are not definitely decided, but they probably will be from October 8 to 10. Samuel Hill, president of the association, says there will probably be eight speakers present, some of them of national reputation. There is no subject at present of such vital importance to our farming communities as the question of better roads over which to haul their product to market. Conditions are different here than in any other section of the country, and the people who are locally conversant with which road builders have to contend, should be present to consult on this important question. It is quite possible that Presidents Hill, Mellen and Mohler of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. roads, will be on hand at this meeting.

STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

It seems strange that at first glance the Washington State Press association should hold its meetings on foreign soil, but when all the facts are known, the natural beauties of Victoria, B. C., and the cordial welcome that was given us by our Canadian cousins, the executive committee should be praised for its decision in accepting the invitation of the mayor and the Tourist association. The annual outing of the newspaper men of Washington is always one of pleasure as well as business. It is the occasion when the wives and some of the children can enjoy a trip from home. Travel always broadens one's views. This is more especially true when the travel is within the section where one is stationed. When one is thoroughly familiar with the scenery and resources of his own town, county and state, let the adjoining territory be investigated.

It was our good fortune to travel over the Great Northern railway from Spokane to Seattle on the Flyer. Much has appeared in this journal in the past, praising this railway and showing many illustrations of the natural scenery while enroute, but one must make the trip in order to properly appreciate it.

As the magnificently equipped train rolled out of the Spokane depot on the solid steel bridges that span the river over the falls of the Spokane, one sees new and magnificent scenery. Much of interest is seen as the train follows the broad curves out of the Spokane valley and enters the Big Bend country. It is in this section that even the most progressive and well informed resident of the locality is surprised when he has a chance to note the development going on. The side tracks that a few years ago were but streaks of rust are now polished by the busy wheels of wheat-laden cars. The single side track has increased to several and are surrounded by prosperous well built villages containing, in many cases, newspapers that would be a credit to any locality. The homeseeker has located on government land and is improving it as rapidly as his resources will permit.

Just before Columbia river is reached there is some of the grandest, and at the same time unique, scenery to be found anywhere. The Moses Coulee breaks through the immense walls of basalt at this point. Many scientists claim that at one time the Columbia river flowed through this coulee. The railway winds its way down the precipitous basalt bluffs, crosses the coulee on a steel bridge and finally the train glides along the banks of the Columbia. Nature has provided a place for a bridge across this mighty river and the Great Northern has taken advantage of it. Walls of basalt press close together so that a single span of steel conveys the trains across with safety. The Columbia is the Mississippi of the West. Navigable at many stretches yet rocks and boulders abound which separate these. Some day steamers will ply the Columbia for a thousand miles.

Wenatchee is the irrigated section. Fruit is found here in abundance, and the price is quite reasonable. Still the venders at the station charge more than the fruit stands in Spokane and Seattle. Land is very high and the annual water tax must certainly take the profits of the small gardener or fruit grower.

Up Wenatchee river as the train speeds toward the crest of the Cascades, Nature has been very liberal in providing for the entertainment of man. Tumwater canyon is a series of ever changing intermingling of rock, forest and water. The river is white from its lashing of the huge boulders, while occasionally a quiet pool is seen where the trout finds its home. The tunnel, which does away with the famous switch-back, is 2 1-2 miles in length. It is one of the famous tunnels of the world. The train glides through in six minutes and then the Pacific slope of the mountains is at hand.

From the Cascade tunnel to Puget Sound the scenery is superior to that east of the Cascades. As soon as the train dashes out of the darkness of the tunnel one realizes that a different country is before him. The vegetation is more luxuriant, the trees taller and the very atmosphere has a different "feeling." Between Skykomish and the Great Northern Hot Springs is some of the most picturesque scenery in the world. This railroad makes some stupendous curves in order to reach a lower level with easy grades. At one point a tunnel pierces the mountain, curving until it opens on the other side of the valley several hundred feet below where it enters.

Seattle is a progressive city and the metropolis of Washington. The streets are thronged with a busy, rushing people. The ocean and coast commerce is immense. Weak kneed people cannot live here—the hills are too steep.

At Seattle the members of the Press Association were treated to a banquet by the Press Club. It was fully appreciated by the hundred present. This was the only feast during the trip and the memory of it was all the more pleasing. The Press Club also treated the visiting brethren with tickets to a local theatre.

The Steamer Clallam took the party over to Victoria where they were soon safely housed in the various hotels of the city. In a later number we will give an interesting account of the royal way the Victorians treated the members of the Association.

The one heavy business session of the convention opened, and a vast amount of work was got through with. Officers were elected, a series of resolutions dealt with and Spokane decided upon as the place for the next convention. The newly-elected officers are as follows:

President—C. W. Gorham, Snohomish.

First Vice-President—J. D. Medill, North Yakima.

Second Vice-President—Frank Teck, Fairhaven.

The Mormon Temple.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City is no doubt the most substantial and well constructed religious edifice in the United States, if not in the world. Corner stone laid April 6, 1853, cap stone April 6, 1892 and dedicated April 6, 1893, over forty years of constant labor being consumed in its construction. This magnificent structure 200 feet long, 100 feet wide is built entirely of Utah white granite, beautifully carved, symbolic of the Mormon faith, surmounted by six towers, the highest being 230 feet from the ground, supporting a bronze statue of the angel Maroni. The cost of this building is about $6,000,000. There are many other attractions at Salt Lake City of interest to the traveler or tourist, where a day can be well spent. The Rio Grande is the only Trans-continental route passing directly through Salt Lake City, where a stop-over is allowed on all classes of tickets. The service of the Rio Grande lines is unexcelled. Three trains daily between Ogden and Denver, carrying all classes of modern equipment. If you are contemplating a trip to the east, write the undersigned for information regarding rates via the "scenic line of the world." W. C. McBride, General Agent, M. J. Roche, Traveling Passenger Agent, 124 Third St., Portland, Oregon.

Letters should be addressed:

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL,

521 First Avenue,

Spokane, Washington.

Entered at the Postoffice, Spokane, Wash., as second class matter.

Write to the advertisers in this issue with confidence that they will do as they say. Send for catalogs and select what you want. Mention the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL and you will get the best they have.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL will be represented at the National Irrigation Congress, at Ogden, Utah, Sept. 15-18, by E. D. Furman, business manager, who has been selected by the Chamber of Commerce as a delegate to represent Spokane.

It is doubtful if any fair association ever made any money by having their premium list filled with advertisements. A smaller pamphlet—one that will fit the pocket—is what the people interested want. Big display ads are not attractive in a premium list.

We have received Bulletins 45 and 46 from the Montana Experiment Station at Bozeman. One treats of the Rosebud Curculio and the poplar leaf folding sawfly, and the other of the Loco and other poisonous plants in Montana. Both are valuable to farmers in the Pacific Northwest.

Treat your wife well. She needs all labor saving appliances. You know how anxious you are to get any machinery that will save you labor. Treat your wife as well. Buy her an "Easy" washing machine, the ad. appears in another column. Call at this office and see the machine and you will be convinced that it is a labor saving device.

The Spokane Newspaper Union now prints on the average 75 papers each week, the Northern Pacific Union of Portland, 117 papers and the Seattle Union 60 papers. These three lists contain a majority of the country papers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a large number in Montana and British Columbia. Alexander & Co., Spokane, Wash., are the authorized agents for the lists.

When Uncle Jerry Rusk, as he was familiarly and affectionately called by the farmers, was secretary of agriculture, he said; "I know of nothing else that so accurately reveals the character of the farmers and the farming of a neighborhood, a progressive spirit and progressive methods or the reverse, solid prosperity or discontent on the farm, as the character and condition of the fences. Where there are good, up-to-date fences there are good up-to-date farmers and that is saying that the farmers are prosperous and have the money to buy the other things wanted by an intelligent, progressive man and his family."

When Governor Henry McBride of Washington was in Spokane last week he was invited by Mr. H. G. Stimmel, secretary of the Spokane Interstate Fair, and Mr. George T. Crane, one of the directors, to come to Spokane and open the fair October 5 and be the guest of the fair association. At the time he was unable to say whether it would be possible for him to accept the invitation, but said he would do so if he could possibly arrange his work to get away on that date. He will let the fair management know definitely within a few days.

We would say to our readers that if you are in need of any breeding stock or eggs for hatching you cannot do better than to consult our advertisers' announcements. We believe each and every one of them thoroughly reliable and know they will treat you courteously. Our advertisers are all fanciers in every sense of the word and are breeders of just as fine fowls as will be found anywhere. When you write them always say you saw their advertisement in the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL; this will aid you in your business relations with them. We can heartily recommend them all.

It is an interesting calculation in reviewing the part that magazines have played in the wide dissemination of literature to figure out what the reader receives during the year. For one dollar—less than the price of the average novel—a magazine such as The Cosmopolitan sends fifty complete stories, one long novel, more than one thousand beautiful illustrations, twenty articles on popular science, invention and discovery, twenty articles on travel, twenty essays on the most important things to know regarding home life, marriage, choice of profession, et cetera, and twenty articles for young men and young women.

Everybody's Beats.

Dame Fortune seems to smile on the efforts of the young men who are at the helm of Everybody's Magazine. They have scored a third magazine "beat" in the September number, with a character study of Joseph Pulitzer, who, at the moment, is the most conspicuous personality before the American public.

Their first "scoop" was an article on Thomas Wallace Russell and the Irish Land Bill, in June, when everyone was talking of the new era for Ireland.

The August issue was on the news-stands a few days after the Pope's death with an article, by Marion Crawford, on "Pope Leo's Successor." It was the expression on the subject of the man best fitted to give the facts, and the degree to which it was quoted in the newspapers shows the value set upon it by men who are the real judges of timeliness.

The article on Joseph Pulitzer is peculiarly illuminative of the man's character and his ideals of newspaper making. In the light of his present extraordinary endowment of a College of Journalism at Columbia, it affords an interesting index to the line of thought of which that is the culmination.

Joseph McCulloch, of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, once defined great editing as the art of knowing what would happen two months in advance, and having the best man on the spot to write of it.

Recent issues of Everybody's Magazine come nearer filling this definition than anything else is current magazine making. It also illustrates the theory of the publishers that timeliness is as important in a magazine as in a newspaper.

Galloways Top the Market

J. M. Rinker, the big shortgrass shipper, had in 123 head of branded Galloway stockers from Comanche County, Kansas. They averaged 899 pounds and sold for $5.25 per hundredweight, which price was $1 per hundredweight higher than any cattle sold of similar weight. This is proof of what has been said of the Galloways by prominent breeders and ranchmen, so you see it takes the Galloway to top the largest feeder market in the world, with 13,000 cattle offered day of sale. So you gentlemen who have to be shown will now be convinced of the merit and high selling qualities of the Galloway. At our large feeder markets you will observe someone always has an order to buy Galloways at a premium of 50 cents to $1 per hundredweight over any other breed of like quality and weight. Speaking of the Galloway breed of cattle reminds us that the leading breeders have issued a pamphlet entitled, "Why you should Breed Galloways." This book is free for the asking. Write to R. W. Park, 224 Live Stock Exchange, Kansas City, Mo., and mention this Journal.

FASHIONS AT NEWPORT AND SARATOGA.

Yachting Gowns. Afternoon and Evening Dresses. Stylish Hats.
Foot and Neckwear.

In all its glory the yachting gown is seen at Newport and if a dream can be made in material designed to face wind and weather, such vision lately greeted the fortunate ones who accompanied a blonde visitor from the far west on a sail inaugurated by her hostess, Mrs. Astor. It was made in finest white cloth, the skirt laid in box plaits and showing a wide band of blue silk around the lower portion. The waist was in blue silk to match and over it was worn a jaunty short jacket of cloth finished in blue. The sleeves had each a deep puff of blue chiffon on the lower portion. Pastel shades are reconed very stylish, even in this era of whiteness and fine serge is sometimes chosen and mohair as well.

AFTERNOON DRESSES

both at Newport and Saratoga, are often elaborate as those for evening and a lovely gown worn lately at a lawn party given in the latter place, was of pale pink pongee made with folds set on the lower part of the skirt, large drooping sleeves with white lace cuffs and revers to correspond on the waist. The yoke was of white mousseline, hat of pink chiffon trimmed with daisies.

IN MILLINERY,

seen at both resorts mentioned, elegant examples are in fine embroidered white muslin edged with lace, the latter falling over the face with fine, softening effect and an example in this style, showed a trimming of forget-me-nots. Despite, moreover, of the great prestige given to white, colored hats are largely noticeable, chiefly in fine or quite rough straw and throughout millinery in general, a notable preference is given to monotonous, rather than contrasts. Red has much showing, especially at Newport, where cool—often cold breezes invite to gaudy attire, rather than at Saratoga, which attracts by its waters, more than by low temperature.

ROSALIND MAY.

“Keep Sweet and Keep Movin’ ”

Hard to be sweet when when the throng is dense,
When elbows jostle and shoulders crowd;
Easy to give and to take offence
When the touch is rough and the voice is loud;
“Keep to the right” in the city’s throng;
“Divide the road” on the broad highway;
There’s one way right when everything’s wrong;
“Easy and fair goes far in a day.”

Just

“Keep sweet and keep movin’.”

The quick taunt answers the hasty word—
The lifetime chance for a “help” is missed;
The muddiest pool is a fountain stirred,
A kind hand clinched makes an ugly fist.
When the nerves are tense and the mind is vexed,
The spark lies close to the magazine;
Whisper a hope to the soul perplexed—
Banish the fear with a smile serene—

Just

“Keep sweet and keep movin’.”

Soldiers Subject to Aches and Pains.

I Have My Share—I Find Relief in

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Nervine.

"I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills as first-class in every respect. They have done wonders for me. I was a soldier in the late war and am subject to and have my share of the aches and pains from the hardship that usually falls to the lot of the soldiers who saw service. Anti-Pain Pills never fail to relieve the rheumatic twinges, headache or other pains. A number of old comrades in this vicinity who have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic, Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills speak highly of their virtues in every respect. My health is greatly improved, thanks to your Restorative Nervine, with the exception of an old wound which troubles me somewhat."—TIMOTHY J. LYNCH, 4th Regt. Maryland Vol. Inf't, The Dalles, Oregon.

Rheumatic twinges, headache, and the pains of a disordered stomach are frequent reminders of the strain and hardships of an army campaign. In all such cases the nerves are affected too seriously to right themselves, and prompt treatment is necessary. The best treatment consists of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, which restores vitality to the nerves and helps them to throw off various disorders which bring about pain and suffering. There is nothing so good for the stomach and bowels as Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills. They act directly upon the nerves of the digestive organs, speedily restoring them to normal activity.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Open Handed Generosity, Excursions and Entertainments for Delegates to Ogden's National Irrigation Congress.

All the delegates to the National Irrigation Congress, which meets at Ogden September 15, will receive broad, generous and true western hospitality.

A representative reception committee, headed by Mayor Glasmann, Editor of the Ogden "Standard," will meet delegates at all incoming trains and escort them to reserved accommodations. They will be adorned with magnificent, silver bronze badges, in the shape of medallions pendent from the Beehive of the Land of Deseret; and on these medallions, in relief, is a symbolic design of early Egyptian irrigation and the resultant palm.

The delegates will be taken in carriages to see a wonderful Fruit, Cereal and Sugar-Beet competitive Exhibit—from the sixteen semi-arid states and territories—and the four, magnificent, silver loving cups, each costing five hundred dollars, which are the chief prizes of this exhibit. Other awards are ornate and heavy gold medals for the various fruits exhibited, and cash will be given as second prizes.

In the evening a grand reception, splendid Buffet Supper and Soiree Musicale will be given in honor of President Clark, the visiting newspaper men, and all of the delegates. All the arrangements for this entertainment will be made by the Ogden Press Committee. Hon. Fred J. Kiesel, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Congress, has guaranteed to supply a thousand bottles of champagne for this Buffet.

On the next day the delegates will be taken by electric cars and carriages to view a model irrigated farm, which has been especially laid out so that intricate methods of the distribution of water and the growing of grains, fruit trees and vegetables, under irrigation, may be practically demonstrated.

On the third day of the Congress the delegates will be taken in carriages to the famous Ogden Canon, where they may see a wonderful power plant, a boiling mountain stream, frowning precipices and the verdant slopes of this famous Canon Resort.

On one of the evenings it is planned to take the delegates on the first excursion train across the Lucine cut-off, over great Salt Lake—the Dead Sea of America—which has been bridged by the Southern Pacific railroad. The trestling, forty-five miles long, will soon be so nearly completed as to allow the Local Board of Control of the National Irrigation Congress to run the first excursion train across the cut-off, which shortens, by many miles, the overland trip west from Salt Lake.

It is probable, too, that a magnificent concert will be arranged for the delegates in the Tabernacle, where they may hear a fine choir of over two hundred voices, and the most famous virtuosos in the State.

Throughout the Congress, Weber County, which is reputed to be one of the richest counties in the United States according to its population—because of the wonderful fruitfulness of its soil under irrigation—will hold a great fair, in Ogden, at which there will be interesting horse races.

On the day following the sessions of the Congress, the delegates, probably, will be taken on a complimentary railway excursion through the northern part of the State, inspecting the Bear River Company's Irrigating Canal, said to be one of the most elaborate of the irrigation systems in the West, and also to the United States Experiment Station and the State Agricultural college at Logan.

On Sunday the delegates will be expected to visit Salt Lake and to enjoy a splendid service and hear a magnificent choir in the great Tabernacle. Salt Lake City will show them many compliments and courtesies.

The entire arrangements for the entertainment, reception and accommodation of the delegates are under the direction of Hon. Fred J. Kiesel, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Irrigation Congress, and under the direct arrangements of the Board of Local Control, consisting of Judge L. W. Shurtliff, President; Hon. Wm. Glasmann, vice-president; Hon. Fred J. Kiesel; Messrs. Angus Wright, I. L. Clark, David McKay and Joseph Scowcroft. The reception and the securing of proper accommodations for all the delegates is in the hands of the Reception Committee, whose chairman is Hon. Wm. Glasmann, mayor of the city of Ogden, and to whom all applications for accommodations should be addressed.

 Large flat hoofs and a waddy gait,
 A voice that blasts the ripening corn
 And away of eyeing heifers with hate.
 A tail, virtuous

 folly-scorning, puritanical cow is she.

How she groans with disgusted ire
 When the neighbor cows go galloping!
 "Pray," she says, "that they fall in

 And the farmer gives them a walloping."

A good, upright,
 pure-minded, respectable,
 irreproachable cow is she.

"LAUGH AND GROW FAT."

Life is such a serious business to the average mortal that an opportunity for a hearty laugh is more than welcome to most people. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," and so do the humorous features of that great metropolitan daily, THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD. The first thing that greets you on the first page of every issue is the humorous cartoon that frequently tells more at a glance than could be conveyed in a column of reading matter. Every issue contains also a humorous short story on the editorial page as well as "Out of the Ginger Jar," noted for its snappy qualities, and the "Alternating Currents" column written by S. E. Kiser, one of the most popular humorists in the country. In addition to all these the Sunday issue always includes a comic section guaranteed to produce laughter from the most lugubrious of mortals. Then the inimitable "Bob" Burdette, one of the most noted of American humorists, is a regular contributor to THE SUNDAY RECORD-HERALD, and every issue contains, in addition, other special articles of a delightfully humorous character.

Many of our readers may possess a Camera and therefore have photographs of scenery worthy of reproduction in this journal. Will you not favor us with copies? Persons wishing half tone pictures made of poultry or live-stock can procure them of us for a very reasonable price. We can get them made for less than you can and we will only charge you what they cost us is the greatest labor saving device yet produced for making woman's work easier. Why? Because when you press the lever down the air confined in the funnel becomes very compact and thereby forces the water and soap through the clothes, and the same action takes place when you lift it up through suction.

That the

How to get it. Hand your banker or your storekeeper $3.00, take his receipt and send to me, then I will ship you the washer at once with card of direction. Wash with it for five weeks in your own house and give it a fair trial, if not satisfactory return it and get your money back from party you left it with, who is to keep it for 5 weeks, thus you run no risk.

10 per cent. discount when cash follows order, with the same privilege to return washer if not satisfied. Circulars free. Agents wanted in cities and the country.

FOR several years the publishers of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION have been searching for something, to give to their subscribers, that would ECLIPSE ANYTHING EVER OFFERED BY ANY PUBLISHING-HOUSE IN THE WORLD. At last, at great expense, they are able to make it possible for every home in America to possess a magnificent and faithful reproduction of one of the most remarkable paintings ever produced by mortal man in this or any other age. It secured for the artist the honor of immediate admission to the ranks of the Royal Academy. The original painting was shown all over Europe, and thousands upon thousands of people gazed upon it with rapture. It was quickly bought up for $75,000.00, and placed in the position of honor in one of the most celebrated galleries in Europe, and no American money yet offered has been able to secure it for this country. The whole picture fascinates one with its absolute accuracy to life. Every figure in itself alone is a study that would make a wonderful picture. Every face is alive with the spirit of action. It is a picture of mirth and merriment; a picture to bring sunshine into every home and the heart of every one who gazes upon it. You cannot tell our engraving from the only other authorized reproduction, which sells in Europe for $18.00 (eighteen dollars). Our exquisite reproduction is 25 by 38 inches, including margin, the exact size of the costly European engraving, and will be a splendid addition to the art collection of any home, whether framed or hung without framing, a fashion now so much in vogue.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

The American Newspaper Directory

Issued Semi-Annually. Established 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Gov't rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers having a Sunday issue.

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which these are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is Five Dollars---net cash, all transportation charges paid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the Directory reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements; while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

A Chance to Visit Utah.

The Eleventh Irrigation Congress to be held in Ogden, Utah, September 15 to 18, 1903, promises to be the most important session of any congress or gathering held in the United States outside of the national capital. The Legislature of Utah has appropriated $6,000 to defray the expenses of this Congress, and the citizens will contribute enough more to make the total fund $15,000. The Utah people are said to be the most hospitable people in the whole West, and the delegates who visit this congress at Ogden, Utah, will have a delightful time.

In addition to visiting the famous Ogden canyon, said to be one of the beauty spots of the world, the delegates will be treated to a free excursion through the northern part of the State inspecting the Bear River Irrigation company's canals, stated to be one of the most expensive irrigation systems in the west. The United States experimental station, Logan, Utah. A dip in Great Salt Lake the most exhilarating bathing on earth. The Great Dead Sea of America is now being bridged by the Southern Pacific railway, and the trestling, forty-five miles long, will be so nearly completed as to allow the irrigation delegates to run the first excursion train across the cut-off over Great Salt Lake. The scenery of this moonlight trip will be the treat of a lifetime. The Ogden Sugar factory will slice 400 tons of beets daily and turn them into sugar while the delegates of the irrigation congress inspect the plant.

The full program has not been prepared, but the foregoing states enough to show that the trip to Ogden will be one of pleasure as well as business and public interest. The railroads will make a one fare rate for the round trip to Ogden with ample stop over privileges. Each city in this state and county is entitled to representation to the National Irrigation Congress. Ladies are eligible to membership. Fred J. Kiesel, chairman on the executive committee, Ogden, Utah, will be pleased to furnish all information required.

World's Fair Notes.

The Department of Horticulture at the St. Louis World's Fair has just issued a circular of forty pages which gives very complete information with regard to every possible question which may arise with relation to that department.

A part of this pamphlet is devoted to a statement as to the importance of placing a large amount of fruit in cold storage this fall in order that the space to be assigned any state may be covered at the opening of the Exposition and kept covered during its entire period. Accompanying this are very full instructions for collecting, packing, wrapping and handling the fruit, in order that the best results may be obtained. Those who have given the subject no thought will be surprised when they study it to learn the great advance which has been made along this line within the past ten years. As a matter of fact the refrigeration fruit in a commercial way may be said to have grown up within that very brief period.

The information contained in the pamphlet is all new and is brought together at a considerable expenditure of labor in order that every person interested may be able to participate in an intelligent way in the fruit exhibit at St. Louis.

The Chief of the Department of Horticulture will be glad to mail a copy of this pamphlet to any one who asks for it. Requests should be addressed to Frederic W. Taylor, Chief of Department of Horticulture World's Fair, St. Louis.

Belgium hare fanciers will make a big display at the World's Fair at St. Louis. Many American fanciers have already arranged for exhibits and many parties from England and other European countries have announced their intention of exhibiting. This exhibit will come under the Live Stock Department. Large displays of fancy rabbits, poultry, pet stock and domestic animals will be made.

Spokane Interstate Fair.

The people of Spokane never did a better thing for the agricultural communities of this section of the northwest than when they established last year an auction sale of registered cattle and hogs. By this means scores of farmers and stock raisers who wished to better the grades of the stock they were raising were able to buy some of the best animals in the west. Last year some 57 to 100 head of not only registered stock, but first-class blooded animals, were sold at prices ranging from $150 to $1,000 a head, and perhaps 50 hogs were auctioned off, some bringing as high as $50 a piece. Mr. H. G. Stimmel, manager of this year's Interstate Fair, has promised to make similar sales on October 8 and 9. An auctioneer will be brought from the east for the express purpose of conducting this sale. A number of breeders of the best stock in the northwest have agreed to contribute from one to five head each of their best animals for this sale. These owners do not always get the full value of their stock but they figure they can afford to do it for the benefit of the stock-raising interests of the country and the advertising which it gives them. The Spokane Interstate Fair opens this year on October 5.

Treat your wife well. She needs all labor saving appliances. You know how anxious you are to get any machinery that will save you labor. Treat your wife as well. Buy her an "Easy" washing machine, the ad. appears in another column. Call at this office and see the machine and you will be convinced that it is a labor saving device.

Those wishing good job printing should send their orders direct to the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL, Spokane, Wash.

Poultry-Raising for the Farmer's Wife.

A great many good chickens can be raised on the farm without any elaborate preparations and expenditure of money. All the up-to-date appliances are a help and enable one to grow more chickens with less work. But if the means to secure the appliances is not to be had, do not sit idly by waiting for them. Set some old hens at most any time in the summer and take as good care of the chickens as possible and you will be able to raise enough chickens the first summer to buy some of the appliances for the next season.

A woman of my acquaintance who had nothing in the way of improvements, and arose from a sick bed in the middle of July, went to work to try her hand at raising some chickens yet that summer. She got some old barrels, boxes, etc., and made some coops for the old hens and chicks to have ready when the chicks were hatched. She placed them under some trees that grew near the barn and by using the most simple contrivances managed to make her chickens comfortable. Cleanliness and plenty of fresh water were her watchwords.

At the end of the summer she had over three hundred chickens and raised three hundred to maturity. About Christmas she had no trouble in getting $2.75 per dozen for them and some of them sold at $3 per dozen. Although under adverse circumstances, she had made enough to buy an incubator for the next year, and make some needed improvements.

If you have no conveniences, go to work with a few old hens, making home made contrivances answer for the work, and see what can be done. Be careful to keep the coops clean and free from insects; furnish fresh water often, and in every way possible keep the fowls comfortable. It will be rather hard, annoying work the first season, but it will pay sufficiently to give a good start for the second year's work.

LITERARY NOTES.

DELINEATOR.

In the August Delineator is shown a unique dwelling. The site of the house is a deviation from the conventional, being level with the street in front and dropping back abruptly at the rear. This unusual location contributes to the architectural style of the house and makes some particular features possible on account of the roomy basement afforded. An expansive disposition of the rooms is carried out, the living rooms being thrown together as a whole. The interior arrangements, as shown in the illustrations, are attractive and artistic throughout. The article will be very suggestive to homemakers.

TERRORS OF THE TOBACCO HABIT.

A wealthy Indiana grocer, whose name is here shrouded in silence since a good man might, could, would, or should wish to do good by stealth, has burned a collection of idols. In California he got a message from the land of spirits. Whether by medium or by telepathy, the story declines to say. He is sure that he received the message, and that it warned him that the use of tobacco was not consistent with salvation. Like a prudent man, he resolved to save his soul and lose his tobacco. When he got back to Indiana and his grocery, he found that his manager had just "put in" a large and expensive stock of "smokers' goods." The grocer ordered them destroyed. The manager protested. The grocer was firm. "Burn them up," was the order, and burned they were; and great was the smell thereof. Here was an iron resolution and a fine disregard for profit. But is tobacco so deadly in its moral effects as the message from California asserts? May it not be in some sort a means of discipline, a trial and a punishment? Think with what agony, what mutiny of the system, the habit is acquired; with what far different and keener agony it is given up, if it has to be given up, at the doctor's orders; with what doubt and worry it fills the man who knows that he is smoking too much. Think, most of all, how bad many cigars are, and how rebellious against suction. If smoking be on evil, has not the smoker his punishment here? If it be a good, why are so many cigars totally depraved?—From "With the Procession," in Everybody's Magazine.

WHERE "KNOW HOW" COUNTS.

When the first news of the Pope's serious illness was received in this country, the August forms of Everybody's Magazine were already on the press. The publishers, realizing that all live Americans would be interested in knowing the name of the Pope's successor, stopped the presses that were running on the August number, worked photo-engravers, compositors, and electrotypers overtime, got to press in record time with the distinguished article "The Pope's Successor," by F. Marion Crawford, ran the presses night and day, worked the bindery force until twelve o'clock every night, and made complete deliveries to their distributing agents two days ahead of the usual time, issuing the Magazine on the 18th of the month instead of the 20th, the usual day of issue. The illustrations are superb, the article is authoritative, convincing. The publishers of Everybody's Magazine are to be congratulated upon their achievement, but especially upon the alertness and enterprise which made it possible.

The Spokane Newspaper Union now prints on the average 75 papers each week, the Northern Pacific Union of Portland, 117 papers and the Seattle Union 60 papers. These three lists contain a majority of the country papers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a large number in Montana and British Columbia. Alexander & Co., Spokane, Wash., are the authorized agents for the lists.

Water in the Garden.

How fortunate is the gardener who has plenty of water on tap at any place or time. Our state is blessed generally with sufficient precipitation for most crops provided we have done our part that is the frequent use of the wheel hoe, etc., except the next two months or so when the evaporation through the leaves of the thrifty vegetation is very great then is the time when artificial irrigation is absolutely necessary. As on the quality of his products depends his success, There are methodical and economical ways of irrigating almost a science to be learned largely by practical experience. We are in the experimental stage ourselves yet we have irrigated in a small way for a number of years. The manner of distribution is a very important factor and each one will have to find out for himself the best manner depending on existing conditions and environment.

Water and plenty of it is one of the secrets of success of gardening. You can sow your seeds or set a plant at any time and by so doing you can mature a crop when the market is not over-stocked.

Don't forget to keep the cultivator and hoe a going to break the capillary tubes that form to rob the soil of its moisture to satisfy old Sol and other agents. Even under irrigation it is very necessary to thoroughly pulverize the top soil for an inch or so after each application of water.

Sow seeds of lettuce, turnips, (purple top Globe or White Egg) spinach, beets and kale for fall use also endive (Green Curled) a very appetizing salad, grown the same as lettuce only wher. nearly matured the outer leaves are drawn together and tied near the top. In a week or two the inner leaves are blanched to a whitish yellow and is then ready for use.

Celery requires from now on plenty of moisture, and of course rich soil, and at short intervals the plants must be "handled" which is done by drawing the earth up to the plants in the most convenient manner being careful not to get soil in between the leaves. "Blanching" is accomplished by excluding the light and any method that will do this is all right. Where only a few plants are grown the ordinary 4 or 5 inch drain tile are excellent celery bleachers. Heavy paper wrapped around each plant is also good. The unused hotbed or cold frame is an admirably place to grow fancy celery. Set plants 8 or 10 inches apart each way in the beds, keep boards around bed as high as the celery grows tall and when nearly matured cover the top as well. The soil must be very rich and an abundance of water. We have grown the finest of celery in this manner. We hope you will do the same.

The Review of Reviews is unequaled among monthly periodicals in the freshness and range of the topics which it "covers" every thirty days. In the August number, for instance, we have a most interesting character sketch of the late Pope from the pen of that stalwart English Protestant, Mr. W. T. Stead, while the art of the eccentric James McNeill Whistler, who died suddenly on July 17, is represented by reproductions of several of his most characteristic works, with a biographical sketch by Mr. Ernest Knaufft; Mr. Wolf von Schierbrand writes on the results of the recent German elections. The great wheat harvest in Kansas, which ended late in July, is described in an illustrated article by Mr. Philip Eastman; "The Present Status of the American Labor Movement,"—a subject much before the public in the last few weeks.—is carefully analyzed by Mr. John R. Commons, while the untoward conditions that confront the English worker are described by Mr. Frank Fayant; the postoffice scandal is reviewed by the editor; the new "general staff" of the army, which will begin its work on August 15, is discussed in the department of "Leading Articles of the Month;" and in the same number the very latest electric power plant installations from the Hudson River to southern California and Mount Ranier are described in a series of illustrated articles which bring out the possibilities of American water-power development in a most interesting and striking way.

The Mormon Temple.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City is no doubt the most substantial and well constructed religious edifice in the United States, if not in the world. Corner stone laid April 6, 1853, cap stone April 6, 1892 and dedicated April 6, 1893, over forty years of constant labor being consumed in its construction. This magnificent structure 200 feet long, 100 feet wide is built entirely of Utah white granite, beautifully carved, symbolic of the Mormon faith, surmounted by six towers, the highest being 230 feet from the ground, supporting a bronze statue of the angel Maroni. The cost of this building is about $6,000,000. There are many other attractions at Salt Lake City of interest to the traveler or tourist, where a day can be well spent. The Rio Grande is the only Trans-continental route passing directly through Salt Lake City, where a stop-over is allowed on all classes of tickets. The service of the Rio Grande lines is unexcelled. Three trains daily between Ogden and Denver, carrying all classes of modern equipment. If you are contemplating a trip to the east, write the undersigned for information regarding rates via the "scenic line of the world." W. C. McBride, General Agent, M. J. THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL

AND

Inter-Mountain Poultry Journal.

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL is published the first of every month at 50 cents per year, payable in advance.

Subscriptions may commence with any issue.

REMITTANCES should always be made in the safest manner available to the remitter. Postoffice and Express Money Orders are always safe and may be sent at our own risk.

REGISTER your letters when you remit by cash.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.—Always give both your old and your new address when you ask us to change your address.

THE NAME of your postoffice and of the state you live in should always follow your own name when writing to this office.

BACK NUMBERS.—We cannot undertake to supply back numbers, nor to make good omissions caused by tardy renewals.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted only for responsible and reliable houses. We must have copy by the 25th of each month.

ARTICLES on subjects suitable for this publication are always acceptable, though no compensation will be given for them. Articles appertaining to any of the departments should be sent direct to the editor of that department.

Letters should be addressed:

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL,

521 First Avenue,

Spokane, Washington.

Entered at the Postoffice, Spokane, Wash., as second class matter.

Look up the free picture offer made on the last page.

Yarded fowls appreciate good yards. A filthy, bare yard is not a good health promoter.

The editors of the Western Home Journal acknowledge the receipt of complimentary tickets to the state fair.

The season for fighting lice is here. Chicks and lice cannot well occupy the same coops; they never thrive together.

Spokane's mayor seems to favor boxes in saloons. He was elected on a platform that forbids such encouragement to vice.

There will not be a poultry exhibit at the Spokane Interstate Fair. It would seem the management would have interested many more patrons by having poultry attractions.

We have received the premium list of the state fair which is to be held at North Yakima. The premiums are very liberal and those interested should send to the secretary for a copy. The fair promises to excel any of its predecessors.

The man who is not a horseman in a technical sense who wishes to raise a colt or two on his farm will find it safer to confine his efforts to raising the heavy draft breed—beef horses we call them—because they may be raised with as little care and trouble as a steer. There is always a good market for these horses at three or four years of age at good prices and always will be.

At the Oneida centennial celebration an ox cart and an automobile took part in the parade to show the progress of a century. In 2003, when the Christian world will be out of its teens, that automobile will take the place of the ox-cart and a flying machine will be the fleet competitor of the auto.

The birds and the milliners and the fruit growers are coming to a better understanding of things. The milliners are going to quit using dead birds for decorative purposes, and the birds allowed to live will eat the insects which destroy so much of the fruit crop. It is a good thing all round.

A profitable flock can be kept by any gardener in conjunction with the gardening work. The chicks can be reared easily during the summer while the garden commands the greatest amount of attention, and in the winter, when gardening is at its dull season, the profits from the flock will pay well for their care. A medium-sized flock would thus be a paying proposition to any energetic gardener.

We would say to our readers that if you are in need of any breeding stock or eggs for hatching you cannot do better than to consult our advertisers' announcements. We believe each and every one of them thoroughly reliable and know they will treat you courteously. Our advertisers are all fanciers in every sense of the word and are breeders of just as fine fowls as will be found anywhere. When you write them always say you saw their advertisement in the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL; this will aid you in your business relations with them. We can heartily recommend them all.

A farmer from the Waterville section of the Big Bend called at our office recently. During his conversation he stated that the Spokane papers seemed to quote a higher price for produce than the Seattle papers, but when the produce was shipped a better price was obtained from Seattle commission men. He stated as a result of a few shipments Seattle was becoming their market. The Seattle papers are driving out the Spokane papers in this territory for the same reason were being supplemented by the coast papers. Market reports must be reliable. The misleading kind, those quoted by some retail grocer, for instance, react against the paper and the town.

Type, Racks and Cases for Sale.

We have several fonts of job type which are practically new that we will sell at less than one-half price, also job racks and cases, to make room for new cabinets and type just ordered. Alexander & Co., 521 First ave., Spokane, Wash.

Pilgrim Congregational Church and Parsonage.

Shipping Poultry in Summer.

During the very warm weather no live poultry should be shipped to market. The loss is in most cases much too great, as the lack of good care, want of water, exhaustion and consequent falling off in weight cause too great a shrinkage, and the freight, commission and loss from lack of condition in fowl at the time they are sold compel return for the merchant that are not usually very satisfactory.

Do You Want a Business Education?

Then get it and get a good one cheap. We have scholarships in the best business colleges in Spokane and Seattle. Write to the editor of this monthly for the price.

Four For One Dollar.

Your subscription to this paper and three friends who you want to help, all for $1. This is a bargain that should not be overlooked.

Printers and Publishers.

Do you want to buy a new proof press for just one-half the regular price? If interested call or write to the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL, 521 First avenue, Spokane, Wash.

Butter Milk or Sour Milk for Chicks.

At what age do you think it proper to begin giving butier milk or sour milk to growing chicks? Or should it be fed at all?

Milk in any form is excellent for growing chicks. However, it is not advisable to give them milk until they are about three weeks old unless it be made into "Dutch cheese." The latter is highly nutritious and can be given in small quantities to chicks of any age as an alternate to other animal food.

Those wishing GOOD job printing should send their orders direct to the WESTERN HOME JOURNAL, Spokane, Wash.

To Get Rid of Lice.

Can you tell me how to rid hens and hen-house of hen lice?—G. W. N., Adams, New York.

The poultry house should be kept clean and thoroughly sprayed once or twice each month with kerosene or a solution of carbolic acid. The fowls should be provided with a convenient place to dust themselves. This will answer for a general treatment, but to be positively sure that they are free from lice they should be dusted with some good lice powder once each month during hot weather.

Farm and Village Garden.

Early peas, turnips, snap beans and lettuce may yet be planted—a fair prospect of giving fresh supplies for the family table. Even if late plantings yield poor crops they look better in the garden than weeds.

A few beet seeds came up soon after the spring sowing. When these were nearly ready for the table a rain came and sprouted the rest of the seed, and a new crop will soon be ready for the table. This is a new method of double cropping not found in the books.

When rains are frequent this month I try to keep the surface of the soil about celery worked over with a rake. This allows it to dry out a little and tends to prevent blight.

A spray of a weak solution of copper sulphate, one ounce to twenty gallons of water, is the best preventive I know for the blight fungus on celery.

Brush laid under my tomatoes is keeping them off the ground and forms a cheap trellis.

Dairy and Stock.

The man who has his silo and does not have to build it is in luck. Silos should be full to the top this fall.

Please the pigs by sowing a patch of Dwarf Essex rape. It is equally acceptable and beneficial to sheep.

"My horse knows me as far as it can see me, and as I leave the wagon will look after me and watch for my reappearance; then, if I wave my hand, will come to me." Will yours do that?

J. C. Ristau's Fruit Farm, near Spokane.

Newspaper Notes.

J. W. Redington, a pioneer newspaper man of Oregon and Washington, has purchased the Tacoma Sun. The Sun already shows originality and improvement under his care.

The Washington state press association will meet on British soil this year. Victoria extended an invitation to entertain the editors August 24 to 27.

The Downs Spectator is one of the newest papers.

The Twisp News is a late newspaper venture.

The Hillyard News has been enlarged to a six column quarto.

The Western Home Journal and Inter-Mountain Poultry Journal is the only farmers paper between Missoula and North Yakima.

After being without a paper for some time Pasco, the county seat of Franklin county, has a paper, the Express. E. P. Greene runs it.

Alexander & Co, the newspaper advertising agents, report the sale of several country papers this year.

The Daily Record of Spokane has collapsed.

The Woman's Home Companion offers a fine reproduction of a $75,000 painting for subscriptions. See their ad. elsewhere in this Journal.

The Pacific Templar outfit of type and material—no presses—is for sale by Alexander & Co.

One at a Time.

Be content with one advertising idea at a time. You will be lucky if you have one idea that is really worth something, but if you do happen to have two at once, save the second for a while. It will keep, and, as a matter of advertising fact, one idea does are all that your customer's constitution will stand. When that has worked well, then give him pellet number two. If he finds it agreeable, the notion that you have other good things you have not given him, takes possession of him. When that time comes he is an enthusiast in recommending your goods. When he wants something in your line he will not be satisfied with something "just as good," or if it is his friend who is in need, it will be yours he tells him to get.—Agricultural Advertising.

Edwall's Souvenir.

The Union Printing Co. of Spokane has recently issued some handsome souvenirs of Edwall, Wash. There are about 64 half tone engravings of the business institutions and the business men. It is a neat booklet. The subject matter was written by Rev. W. J. Herwig.

Read THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL for northwest items.

Sex of Chicks.

After some experience chicks can be selected before they are two months' old. Leghorn pullets soon show their sex on the wings. Barred Plymouth Rock cockerels are lighter than the pullets, and there is a difference in the shape. Pullets seem to fill out the wings sooner and take form early. Cockerels are straight up (their heads curl over their feet), have longer legs and necks, and are bare about the shoulders. The pullets have rather more of the Dorking or duck shape, not standing up so straight. Observation and experience are the best guides. It is claimed that if the little combs are examined with a magnifying glass, those of the cockerels will be straight, while those of the pullets will be inclined to lean over.

Summer Fiction.

The Cosmopolitan for August is particularly noteworthy from three different aspects: First, every article is not only interesting in subject, but entertaining in style; second, it is a Midsummer Fiction Number, replete with brilliant short stories of love and adventure; third, its articles are profusely and finely illustrated. "Dramatic Schools," by David Belasco; an article on the meat packing industry; Frank Moss's "The Tragedy of Policy in New York;" "Shakespeare in Modern Settings," and "Romances of the World's Great Mines—The Klondike," all are illustrated with splendid photographs, and written in an entertaining way.

Show Birds.

Those who desire white birds will find that keeping them in out of the rain will work wonders. The sun does not seem to be as detrimental in putting a brassy color on the birds as the rains and wet weather. Northern exposure and shade will, with the feeding of white corn, accomplish great results. Pen the birds in small coops such as are used in the show room, in order to get them accustomed to the coops and teach them to be quiet before taking them to the show.

Back to the Farm.

A St. Louis policeman after ten years' service became tired of life in the great city and resigned his position to go back to the country again. Referring to it the Post-Dispatch of that city very truthfully says: "He has gone back from the force to farm; from politics to potatoes; from courts to carrots; from station to stable; from clubs to clods; from "pug-uglies" to plows; from garbage to garden; from blood to blossoms. He has gone back from writs to roses; from arrest to rest; from violence to violets; from helmets to hollyhocks; from dens to daisies; from running crooks to running brooks; from murderers to meditation; from quick thieves to quiet thoughts, and from green goods men to the green things of Nature herself. Who shall say that he has not chosen the better part of life? "God made the country and man made the town," and at the very best it sometimes seems that he made a bad job of it.

Pure Food for Poultry.

Unless the water is changed daily and kept very clean it will occasion disease. If a bird has the roup, or even a severe cold, the discharges from the nostrils will contaminate the water and disease will be the result. A sick bird should always be removed, but there are occasions when the presence of a sick bird may not be known, and for that reason the water should be changed once a day, or oftener if convenient. A few drops of carbolic acid in the drinking-water will greatly assist in keeping it pure.

If man would not babble so much, we could much oftener hear God.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned has been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, New York.

Served in the Black Hawk War.

John S. Eastman of Cheney, Washington, is probably the only survivor of the Black Hawk war in the state. The survivors of this Indian war are not numerous. Mr. Eastman was born in 1814 and moved to that portion of Illinois which is now a part of Wisconsin. His parents settled near Hazel Green, Wis. He has resided in Cheney since 1884.

Mr. Eastman is an old man yet he is energetic and full of life and vigor. It is interesting to hear him tell of his life on the frontier in Wisconsin, Nebraska and finally Washington. The account of Black Hawk's war as he tells it is very interesting and conforms very much to that written by Charles V. Porter, who spent considerable time in interviewing survivors to get the real facts, and printed in the De Soto (Wis.) Chronicle in 1887. Mr. Eastman served as scout during the campaign traversing a region which at that time did not have a single white settler. At the present it is one of the most thickly populated and richest agricultural section of the state of Wisconsin. He describes the final defeat of Black Hawk and his followers as almost a massacre. This occurred at Battle Hollow between the present villages of De Soto and Victory. While the fleeing women and children were crossing the Mississippi river a govern-

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure
Cured Me.

No matter what's the matter with your heart, it will pay you to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It is a great heart and blood tonic that cures by removing the cause. Try it for a short time and you will find that you are no longer short of breath after brief exertion; that you can sleep in any position with comfort and without the dread of smothering spells. It removes the symptoms and cures the disease. It strengthens the heart's action, enriches the blood and improves the circulation. It has cured heart disease when all else failed. It has brought relief when death seemed nigh.

"Since taking a number of bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure during the past year my health is better than for many years. I no longer experience any trouble from lying on my left side, which disagreeable symptoms used to bother me greatly. The frequent spells of palpitation and fluttering that I was at that time subject to were most alarming. At times my heart would beat so violently that the movement was noticeable through my clothing. Doctors said my heart was enlarged and I had frequent severe shooting pains through and in the region of my heart. I think Dr. Miles' Heart Cure a great medicine and have always been able to secure great relief from its use. I am in good health now, considering that I am 60 years old. I wish you success."—ANDREW JACKSON, Centralia, Wash.

ment steamboat fired a small cannon loaded with canister at their helpless victims. An island in the Mississippi where the greatest slaughter occurred is now called Battle Island, and has now become a pleasure resort.

Relics of this battle are even now picked up. Fred Z. Alexander of Spokane possesses an iron tomahawk which was found on the island and a grape or small iron cannon ball which the guns of the Warrior fired.

Ethan Allen of Spokane is also interested in the defeat of Black Hawk for he says his uncle was the only white man killed during the engagement.

DON'T BELIEVE IT UNTIL YOU FIND IT TRUE

is the greatest labor saving device yet produced for making woman's work easier. Why? Because when you press the lever down the air confined in the funnel becomes very compact and thereby forces the water and soap through the clothes, and the same action takes place when you lift it up through suction.

How to get it. Hand your banker or your street keeper $8.00, take his receipt and send to me, then I will ship you the washer at once with card of direction. Wash with it for five weeks in your own house and give it a fair trial, if not satisfactory return it and get your money back from party you left it with, who is to keep it for 5 weeks, thus you run no risk.

10 per cent. discount when cash follows order, with the same privilege to return washer if not satisfied. Circulars free. Agents wanted in cities and the country.

AN ELEGANT REPRODUCTION OF A CHARMING

$75,000.00 Painting

Given Away

REDUCED ILLUSTRATION

FULL SIZE 25 BY 38 INCHES

FOR several years the publishers of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION have been searching for something, to give to their subscribers, that would ECLIPSE ANYTHING EVER OFFERED BY ANY PUBLISHING-HOUSE IN THE WORLD. At last, at great expense, they are able to make it possible for every home in America to possess a magnificent and faithful reproduction of one of the most remarkable paintings ever produced by mortal man in this or any other age. It secured for the artist the honor of immediate admission to the ranks of the Royal Academy. The original painting was shown all over Europe, and thousands upon thousands of people gazed upon it with rapture. It was quickly bought up for $75,000.00, and placed in the position of honor in one of the most celebrated galleries in Europe, and no American money yet offered has been able to secure it for this country. The whole picture fascinates one with its absolute accuracy to life. Every figure in itself alone is a study that would make a wonderful picture. Every face is alive with the spirit of action. It is a picture of mirth and merriment; a picture to bring sunshine into every home and the heart of every one who gazes upon it. You cannot tell our engraving from the only other authorized reproduction, which sells in Europe for $18.00 (eighteen dollars). Our exquisite reproduction is 25 by 38 inches, including margin, the exact size of the costly European engraving, and will be a splendid addition to the art collection of any home, whether framed or hung without framing, a fashion now so much in vogue.

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

RIPANS

Ripans Tabules
Doctors find
A good prescription
For mankind.

Ripans Tabules are a common sense, effectual cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, heartburn, headache, constipation, dizziness and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. They are intended for the use of men, women and children everywhere, and have proved beneficial in the majority of cases. It is not claimed that they will perform miracles, but some of the cures which they have effected amount almost to that. Easy to take and prompt in action, they have no rival as the best remedy for the every-day ills of humanity.

A MEDICINE WHICH PROLONGS LIFE.

"I have used Ripans Tabules for a number of years and would not be without them. I was troubled with indigestion and constipation, and have noticed since I have been using them that I am getting rid of those terrible bilious spells which confined me to bed on account of the dizziness. Of late I have not had any. I had just got over a bad spell of bilious fever and was sitting on the step, when a neighbor came to me and remarked how bad I looked. I told him I had just got over the fever and that I was afraid to eat anything on account of indigestion, from which I had suffered since I was quite young. He advised me to take Ripans Tabules. I said I would try them, and from then I haven't been without them. I can eat anything, provided I finish with a Tabule instead of dessert. I feel very thankful that I have found something that will prolong my life."

GASTRIC TROUBLES.

"I had suffered three years at least from gastric troubles. I could not sleep at night. My head ached and my feet would be cold as ice. My bowels were not regular and I would have such cramps from gases forming on my stomach that I would faint away. I was in such distress that I would have sooner died than live. About three months ago I was suffering and felt as if my body was tied up inwardly. My brother recommended Ripans Tabules to me. My husband obtained some for me from the nearest drug store and I would not now be without them. They relieved me of all the foul gases that formed in my stomach and they move my bowels regularly, for which I had been taking physics all the time. I have no more gases, my bowels move regularly, I have no more headaches and can sleep well; in fact, I feel as light as the air which I breathe, and that is saying a good deal for a woman who weighs 100 pounds. I am sorry that I did not commence using the Tabules a year ago, for they would have saved me a great deal of pain and suffering."

One gives relief

A Ripans Tabule, now and then,
Will benefit the wisest men.

No. 2.

LARGEST AFLOAT.

The Great Northern's Big "Minnesota" Steamship Ready for Service.

One of the largest passenger and freight carrying boats afloat has been launched at New Haven, Conn. The Dakota, her sister ship, is now nearing completion. These two boats are larger than any battleship in Uncle Sam's navy. President J. J. Hill, of the Great Northern railway, was the first to conceive of this plan, and the boats are to be put in service between Seattle, the western terminus of the Great Northern railway, and points in the Orient. The enormous size is also another point of interest, and they are made large enough to carry as much freight as twenty trains having twenty cars each, or a total of 20,000 tons. Their greatest capacity will be 28,000 tons in case of necessity, besides a passenger list of nearly 2,000.

The farmers, stockgrowers and manufacturers of the northwest will have a market open to them by means of these boats which will create a great demand for all products, stock and manufactures that can possibly be raised, and the state of Washington in particular, whose every part is accessible to Puget sound, will have a field for disposing of her surplus products that no other section of the country may enjoy. The Puget sound is the natural outlet of the state, and already large demands are made for the shipments of agricultural products and stock for supplying the trade which has arisen from the shipping of the ports.

The Minnesota is 630 feet in length, 73 feet broad, and has a molded depth of 56 feet. In the draft of 33 feet the displacement will be 33,000 tons, and on a maximum draft of 36 1-2 feet the displacement will be 37,000 tons, or within 870 tons of the Cedric. The plating is carried everywhere to the upper deck, being flush throughout the whole ship. The vessel in all has eleven decks—the outer bottom of the ship, six feet above the inner bottom, forming the floor of the ship, the orlop, lower, between, main and upper decks. All are of steel, the whole being 56 feet in height. Above the upper deck in their regular order are the promenade deck, then the boat deck, 25 feet above and 8 feet higher the navigating bridge, which is, in all, 90 feet above the keel.

The interior of the ship is composed of a double bottom, with a space between of six feet, containing the trimming and ballast tanks for trimming the vessel and giving her ample stability in the light condition. The engine and boiler space and the coal bunkers are amidships, extending between the double bottom and the main deck. With the exception of the space occupied by engines, boilers and coal, the space below the main deck is given up entirely to cargo, one series of compartments on the boat being devoted to cold storage and the storage of silk from the Orient. The main deck forward of the engines and boilers is occupied by the crew, cargo and cattle, and the space aft of the engine is devoted to second cabin passengers and to the steerage passengers. Forward on the upper deck is a deckhouse filled with refrigerating machinery, and aft on this deck are the second cabin, smoking room and ladies room, while astern is the laundry and steering gear. Amidships on the main deck are the first-class dining saloon, lavatories, first cabin staterooms, galley and the officers' rooms. On the promenade deck amidships are the library, a series of first-class passenger state rooms and a children's room. On the upper promenade deck are the first cabin staterooms, smoking room and barber shop, while on the boat deck are the chart house and accommodations for the captain and officer's.

The vessels are also to be fitted with electric machinery for taking and discharging their cargoes, and are to be lighted throughout by incandescent lights.

No time, thought or expense has been spared in making these the most complete and modern ships afloat, and the passenger accommodation equal, if not surpass, those aboard any vessel. Every appointment and device for the convenience and comfort of the passengers have been given attention, and those who travel on the new ships will feel as much at home as in the best and largest hotels. Also as freight carriers they will be the largest ships on the Pacific ocean, and their capacity can hardly be understood by those unfamiliar with their size and construction.

The Marks of a Lady.

There are certain marks of a lady which are easily recognized and possible to cultivate. These are a gentle voice, refinement in the use of language and neatness in dress. Not all girls can be educated, but they can be thoughtful in the use of words, and can eliminate from their vocabulary all slang. Slang from the lips of a woman is exceedingly vulgar. A gentle voice is possible. Thoughtlessness more than anything else is responsible for the loud, harsh tones often heard when girls are in conversation. Loud speaking spoils the attractiveness of the most beautiful face. It is worse than giggling, for the giggling girl may sober down when she gets older, but the loud mouthed girl is likely to become louder. Neatness is an essential characteristic of womanliness. The cloths may be poor, the wardrobe may be limited, but the true lady is neat in her dress. The slovenly girl who indulges in loud talk marred by slang could cultivate neatness, gentleness of voice and purity of language.

Treat your wife well. She needs all labor saving appliances. You know how anxious you are to get any machinery that will save you labor. Treat your wife as well. Buy her an "Easy" washing machine, the ad. appears in another column. Call at this office and see the machine and you will be convinced that it is a labor saving device.

Poultry Pointers.

Close attention to the needs of poultry is what counts in the profit and loss item. Given the breed and the feed and yet a little carelessness will result in disappointment. The great drawbacks to poultry raising in the average yard of the Pacific Northwest is the great fatality during the first month from the hatch. With May and June hatched chickens there is less loss of the young but unless sold for broilers there is too much time wasted before these youngsters begin laying eggs. However, from May to August, broilers hatched out can be raised cheaply. There will be more net profit at present prices than from the earlier hatched fowls.

Keep the chickens in enclosures especially where any gardening is done, but if possible alternate the fowls in pens where there is grass or else mow and feed grass every day. It is astonishing to see the amount of green feed a hen will consume in warm weather and it is not or should not be, costly.

Provide shade for the poultry during the hot days now coming. Green boughs from trees thrown in the yard are much enjoyed. The dust bath and the grit must never be neglected.

Eggs are somewhat lower than a year ago. But poultry is high. It is not just clear why eggs should be much lower than last season. It is claimed that production is much greater than last spring. This may be true, and yet we have our doubts. We know that in many sections the hens were sold out very close. It would seem that this should be a good time, for those who have the facilities, to store eggs and hold for higher prices. If this cannot be done they should go promptly for what they will bring.

Many farmers follow the practice of feeding poultry practically nothing during the summer. There is profit in doing this. But the flock will pay better, and the garden will look better, if the flock is fed regularly in addition. See to it, at least, that a full meal is given at night. It will pay.

There is no place for narrow jealousies amongst poultrymen, nor anywhere else, for that matter.

Grit, grass, grain and green bone, are not a bad food combination for the chicks or old lowls.

It is getting warm. Don't let the lice get the jump on you.

Remember that cholera is a filth disease, and is usually inexcusable.

You are making a great mistake if you do not give the chicks sweet, clean skim milk, provided you can procure it at a reasonable price.

Orchards and Poultry.

As orchards are the abode of insect enemies, the hens will perform invaluable service if allowed to wander at random therein. No orchard is put to full use without having poultry. It will cost nothing to allow the hens to use the orchard. If they are turned out in the morning, no food given them, and close observation is made, it will be found that in a short time they will have full crops, and the greater portion of this food will be insects, which costs nothing at all. There is no necessity for feeding hens when they can secure it for themselves, while they will be more serviceable if compelled to search for their food than when it is given to them liberally by their owner.

Prizes for Sheep.

The American Oxford Down Record Association will offer $60.00 in special prizes at the Washington State Fair in 1903, at North Yakima provided the Oxford breed is allowed a separate class. The money to be divided as follows: Best yearling ram $10.00; second $6.00; third $4.00 Best yearling ewe $10.00; second $6.00; third $4.00 Best pen of 4 lambs either sex $10.00; second 6.00; third 4.00

All stock competing for these prizes must be good specimens of the breed or no prizes will be awarded; must be bred and owned by the exhibitor in the State of Washington, registered in the American Oxford Down Record, bear the A. O. D. R. A. Ear Tag and Certificate of Registry under seal of the Association, presented at time of exhibition. Where there is but one exhibitor, but one prize will be paid.

$175.00 will also be offered by this Association in special prizes to Oxford Down Sheep at the International Live Stock Exposition, Chicago, December, 1903, and $75.00 will be offered at the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, Guelph, Ont., December 1903. For further information, address, W. A. Shafer, Secretary, Hamilton, Ohio.

Will Write a Book.

"I understand you dropped some money in your chicken raising venture?"

"Yes, I did; but I am going to get it all back."

"How are you going to do it?"

"I am going to write a book on successful chicken raising."—Printers' Ink.

THE WESTERN HOME JOURNAL.

$250,000 for Live Stock.

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition, in recognition of the magnitude and importance of the live stock industry, and appreciating that St. Louis, the seat of the World's Fair of 1904, is practically the geographical center of the largest improved stock-producing area on the globe, has appropriated a quarter-million dollars to prizes for which the world's stockmen are invited to compete.

This vast sum makes possible classification much in advance of any heretofore attempted, with prizes on a scale of generosity before unknown in the history of expositions. The largest sum previously offered by a like enterprize was $142,500 at the Columbian in Chicago in 1893.

In the classification every branch of improved animal industry is to have its proportionate recognition, whether it be the Percherons, Short-Horns, Pigeons or Pointers; whether the meek-eyed cows from the Channel Islands or descendants of the American bison that once made populous the plains beyond the Missouri; whether the petite pony from the Shetland Isles or the robust mule that has in recent years so rapidly advanced in public esteem by his proven usefulness in war no less than in the prosaic paths of peace.

For the accommodation of the array of exhibits which will compete for the prizes offered, the management have allotted thirty acres of the most desirable ground in all the exposition tract of over twelve hundred acres, most of which it overlooks, and upon this hill will erect the requisite buildings, combining the desired modern features of utility and adaptation with harmonious and pleasing architectural effect. The building scheme will comprehend between forty-five and fifty structures, including thirty-three barns to accommodate eighty or ninety horses and cattle each, several others with slightly less capacity, four octagonal barns, 100x100, to accommodate cows to be used in a dairy demonstration, with silos and feed barns, a grand amphitheater and arena, 250x450 feet, for an exhibit ring and a building for public sales of live stock and for stockmen's conventions, in which will also be made the exhibits and demonstrations with relation to live stock under the auspices of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

Aside from those usually shown various classes of horses not previously taken up at Expositions, such as those for artillery, cavalry and ambulance use in the military service, fire department, express and ambulance horses for city purposes, will be given the consideration their importance justifies.

Cattle, sheep and swine, as with horses, will be given such a wide range of prizes as to reward generously, independent of the specials given by States and breeders' organizations, the exhibitor, the breeder and the feeder, aggregating offerings so inviting that they must attract the choicest products that pasture and feed-lot, supplemented by human skill, have yet evolved.

One of the most interesting and instructive features planned for the exposition will be a comparative test of breeds of cows with reference especially to their dairy qualities in both butter and cheese production, and incidentally their gains in flesh.

Poultry, pet stock, dogs and the minor animals and fowls are to be recognized more fully than has ever before been done, and every energy will be bent to have at St. Louis in 1904, along with the other magnificent arrays of the world's most interesting and best, the most extensive and instructive presentation of animal exhibits ever assembled.

The Mormon Temple.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City is no doubt the most substantial and well constructed religious edifice in the United States, if not in the world. Corner stone laid April 6, 1853, cap stone April 6, 1892 and dedicated April 6, 1893, over forty years of constant labor being consumed in its construction. This magnificent structure 200 feet long, 100 feet wide is built entirely of Utah white granite, beautifully carved, symbolic of the Mormon faith, surmounted by six towers, the highest being 230 feet from the ground, supporting a bronze statue of the angel Maroni. The cost of this building is about $6,000,000. There are many other attractions at Salt Lake City of interest to the traveler or tourist, where a day can be well spent. The Rio Grande is the only Trans-continental route passing directly through Salt Lake City, where a stop-over is allowed on all classes of tickets. The service of the Rio Grande lines is unexcelled. Temperance Notes.

According to the report of the Philippine Commission, 1,990 places were licensed for the sale of intoxicating drinks last year in Manila.

Five hundred boys at the St. Mary's Industrial School promised Cardinal Gibbons lately that they would not touch liquor until they were twenty-one years of age.

William Onion, whose name has so often figured in the London police court news, and who has now been a total abstainer for four years, has just commenced a series of articles entitled "The Story of a Mis-spent Life."

The anti-cigarette measure introduced by Mrs. Coulter in the Utah legislature, which provides a fine of $5 or five day's imprisonment for any person under eighteen years of age who has in his possession any cigarette, cigar, tobacco or opium, has been signed by the governor and is now a law.

Dr. Clouston, in the last report of the Royal Edinburgh Asylum, says, "The cause of insanity for the past year which stood the highest in the list was intemperance from drink. Twenty-eight per cent of all admissions were due to alcohol. It is a sad and discouraging prospect, that this most preventable cause of disease should continue to increase.

A Cook county grand jury has voted 121 indictments against saloon-keepers and cigar dealers for running slot machines. A Chicago lawyer says he has been employed by a number of business men to keep up the fight until the evil is rooted out, because they are tired of having their clerks and employes victimized by these gambling devices.

Carried it With Him.

Dr. Talmage used to tell a story about an old presiding elder who had a great fondness for tabasco sauce. Not always able to get it on his travels through his district, he carried it with him. This he always had placed on the table of the hotel where he stayed,

One day an old rustic sat opposite the venerable elder at dinner and helped himself freely to the compound. He got a big dose of it—in fact, it took some time for him to recover from the effects. When he did finally stop coughing long enough to talk, he glared at the elder and said: "I've heard lots of preachers preach about hell-fire, but you are the first I ever seen that carried it about with him."

The New Issue.

"Thou art master of thy unspoken word; thy spoken word is master of thee."

In this world there are few voices and many echoes.—
Tennyson.

The only way to speak the truth is to speak lovingly.—
Henry D. Thoreau.

Imagine a procession of 10,000 cattle marching, two by two, in a line 15 miles long; let 20,000 sheep follow them, bleating along 12 miles of road; after them drive 17 miles of hogs 27,000 strong, then let 30,000 fowls bring up the rear, clucking, and quacking and gobbling, over a space of six miles; and in this whole caravan, stretching nearly 50 miles and requiring two days to pass a given point, you will see the animals devoted to death in the packing houses of Swift & Co., in a single day.

He didn't have a dollar; he didn't have a dime. His clothes and shoes were looking just as though they'd served their time. He didn't try to kill himself to dodge misfortune's whacks, instead, he got some ashes and he filled five dozen sacks. Then, next he begged a dollar. In the paper in the morn he advertised tin polish that would put the sun to scorn. He kept on advertising, and just now, suffice to say, he's out in California at his cottage on the bay.—Exchange.

The largest tree in Oregon was felled recently to be sent as a curiosity to the World's Fair. It is the Aberdeen spruce, and stood nearly 300 feet high, 40 feet around and 118 feet from the ground to the first limb. Its age is calculated at 440 years, being a good sized tree when Columbus discovered the land that was afterward called America.

The Spokane Newspaper Union now prints on the average 75 papers each week, the Northern Pacific Union of Portland, 117 papers and the Seattle Union 60 papers. These three lists contain a majority of the country papers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a large number in Montana and British Columbia. Alexander & Co., Spokane, Wash., are the authorized agents for the lists.

Type, Racks and Cases for Sale.

We have several fonts of job type which are practically new that we will sell at less than one-half price, also job racks and cases, to make room for new cabinets and type just ordered. Alexander & Co., 521 First ave., Spokane, Wash.

The Northern Pacific.

Sometimes we wonder if there is a civil employe with the Northern Pacific. It seems impossible to get any reliable information from a conductor of a passenger train down to the Spokane city passenger agent. It seems as if they all delight in giving short I-know-it-all-and-mean-to-let-you-know-nothing answers to questions. July 3 parties buying tickets were told after the tickets were paid for that it was doubtful if they could go as only a few coaches were available. This was kind on their part. They also said one train would go in the morning and one in the afternoon. They sent two in the forenoon.

Coeur d'Alene City, Idaho.

This has the making of a good progressive town. The location is ideal. It ought to grow with Spokane. Some day it will be a great summer resort and mecca for tourists. To succeed in this particular it must have another railroad besides the grasping unaccommodating Northern Pacific.

Some Formidable Foes of the Gardener.

When our attention is diverted to our foes in the insect line our mind usually wanders to that despicable larvæ, the cutworm (Agrotis.) There are several species and all work in about the same manner. They are afraid of us in the daytime and guillotine the tender plants at night or very dary weather. Among the various ways of combating this dreaded larvæ the safest is probably hand picking at night or very early morning. Soil known to be infected can be planted with some quick growing plant, like beans used as a bait and the rascals hunted up and destroyed, or by poisoning some bits of clover or other green stuff by immersing in a strong solution of Paris Green water, and the greens distributed over the infected area early in the season. Wrapping the plant or placing a paper, tarred paper is best, around the stem of cabbage plant, etc., to extend down an inch or so below surface of ground and also likewise above offers a protection to the tender plant.

The Flea Beetle (Haltica.) Here we have a mischievous little insect, black and quick, and his seeming delight is to bore as many small holes through the leaves and plant tissue as possible. The turnips, cabbage, tomato and potato suffer most; our best remedy has been air-slacked lime sprinkled on the leaves early in the morning when the dew is on; road dust used in the same manner is very often effective. He don't like the gritty substance to eat through but if very voracious and in great numbers probaly Paris green will have to be resorted to—mix one part to one hundred of air-slacked lime.

Cabbage worms (Pieris Raphæ.) At this time you will see a pretty butterfly, white winged with two black spots on each pair of wings, flitting about your early cabbage for the purpose of laying the eggs to produce the green cabbage worm and as the eggs are always laid on the under side of the leaves they are very hard to eradicate. Pyrethrum or Persian insect powder when perfectly fresh is a good remedy and, Buhach, a California product from about the same source is also of value for destroying this larvæ. Hot water of about 120 degrees is a good remedy but not practicable. Kerosene emulsion made by dissolving common washing soap in boiling water adding kerosene, emulsifying (stirring while adding) so that when the compound is cold it will have the consistency of thick cream. It is then diluted sufficient and sprayed with a good sprayer and nozzle that will reach to underside of leaves. Experiments will be necessary to determine the exact amount of dilution so as to destroy the larvæ and not the plants.

Radish Fly (Anthomyia.) This fly resembles the common house fly, only a little smaller, is the parent of the maggot that is so destructive to the radish, turnip, onion and cabbage. The fly deposits the eggs near the surface of the ground and in a very short time the maggot begins its ravages. Fresh slack lime spread evenly through the soil is destructive to all soft bodied worms, and its presence is a repellant to the parent fly. Wood ashes moistened with kerosene is distateful to the fly and the ashes is a valuable fertilizer.

Yet, after all this advice of remedies for destructive bugs and worms there is nothing as good as good soil and proper care to forward the vegetable or plant beyond the ravages of any insect. It is when a plant gets sick or otherwise suffers that insects attack. Learn the proper conditions for each variety of plants, forward them to maturity as quickly as possible and I hope you have no need for remedies.

Historic Forest Fires.

In point of loss of life, the Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin, in October, 1871, was the most severe this country has known. This fire burned over two thousand square miles, destroying millions of dollars worth of timber and other property. The number of lives lost was between one thousand and fifteen hundred, including nearly half of the population of the town of Peshtigo. About the same time, a series of fires occurred in Michigan in which several hundred persons perished. The property loss was about ten million dollars.

Still more recent, and one of the most destructive, was the Hinckley, Minn., fire of Sept. 1, 1894. The burned area was less than in some of the others, but the life and property losses were unusually heavy. Hinckley and six other towns were destroyed, nearly five hundred lives were lost, and more than two thousand persons rendered destitute. The estimated loss of property was twenty-five million dollars.

The recent great disaster from forest fires was that of September, 1902, in Oregon and Washington. It resulted in a loss of eighteen lives and twelve million dollars in timber and property of various kinds.—From "Forest Fires in the United States," by H. M. Suter, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July.

The Kingdom of the Tobacco Trust.

The year's consumption of tobacco in the United States alone includes seven billions of cigars, ten billions of cigarettes, and two hundred and eighty millions of pounds of manufactured tobacco. The one item of smoking and chewing tobacco, exclusive of cigars, cigarettes, and snuff, registers an annual over-all value of more than $500,000,000. In addition, England smokes six billions, Japan three billions, and China one and one-half billions of cigarettes every twelvemonth. This outside cigarette-puffing burns up forty-five millions of pounds of tobacco and puts about $4,000,000 into the bank account of the American grower, giving the giant balance to the Trust.—Everybody's Magazine.

Class Song.

BY CHARLIE DEPEW.

There is a time in each year,
Which is always held dear—
Graduation time.
For we think of the fun
That we'll have now we're done—
Graduation time.
School days are over,
And we are in clover,
And everything seems so sublime;
No studies annoying—
Each one is enjoying Graduation time!

CHORUS.

O, we're the bright eighth grade!
May our glory never fade.
Just look at us, and you will see
That we are not N. G.
Of all the classes round,
We're the brightest ever found;
Of High School we're not afraid,
May our glory never fade.

We are chuck full of knowledge,
Though we're not yet in college;
Hurrah for the red and white!

Just think of the work
That we'll not have to shirk;
Hurrah for the red and white!

Arithmetic's fun
(Before it's begun),
But it is a terrible fright.

But now we are through
We'll bid you adieu;
Hurrah for the red and white!

Climbing Roses.

The following is taken from The Delineator for July: June and July are the months to train climbing roses. The hardy climbing roses are the main reliance in the North, for free effects, and one of the most artistic uses to which they are adapted is for embow-reing verandas, balconies and doorways. Other picturesque uses for climbing roses are as a covering for summer houses and canopied walks, for arching gateways or festooned from post to post along driveways, using heavy wires for support. A very pretty effect is secured by training a climbing rose to a substantial post of imposing height, the result being a pillar of roses. The crimson rambler is the most satisfactory variety to use for these purposes. Other fine "ramblers" are Psyche, Philadelphia, and the Dawson. Dorothy Perkins, a new climber, Cumberland Belle, a new moss-rose climber, and climbing

There is always a demand for the latest music when published by a reliable firm. Some of the very latest comes from the press of Hamilton S. Gordon, 139 Fifth avenue, New York. "Evening Recollections" is a nocturne for the piano by C. A. Egner, "Crown March" is another piano production. "Chase of the Butterflies" by Egner is a nice piano piece. "The Thistle" is very pretty.

"LAUGH AND GROW FAT."

Life is such a serious business to the average mortal that an opportunity for a hearty laugh is more than welcome to most people. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," and so do the humorous features of that great metropolitan daily, THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD. The first thing that greets you on the first page of every issue is the humorous cartoon that frequently tells more at a glance than could be conveyed in a column of reading matter. Every issue contains also a humorous short story on the editorial page as well as "Out of the Ginger Jar," noted for its snappy qualities, and the "Alternating Currents" column written by S. E. Kiser, one of the most popular humorists in the country. In addition to all these the Sunday issue always includes a comic section guaranteed to produce laughter from the most lugubrious of mortals. Then the inimitable "Bob" Burdette, one of the most noted of American humorists, is a regular contributor to THE SUNDAY RECORD-HERALD, and every issue contains, in addition, other special articles of a delightfully humorous character.

Prostration—Com-

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Me.

Dr. Miles' Nervine will cure nervous prostration. It will bring sweet sleep and rest; it will relieve the mind of the tendency to worry; it will make the nerves strong and the patient well. It has cured thousands. It will cure you. Try it to-day.

"Some years ago I was stricken with nervous prostration caused by overwork and worry. I was in such a weakened, exhausted, run down condition that I was unable to do my housework. I felt too weak and tired to even make calls on my neighbors. Frequently when out driving I would become so exhausted that it seemed that I would die before I reached home. I was also troubled with sinking spells at night which left me so weak that I thought I could not live until morning. I was in this deplorable condition when one day Dr. Miles' Nervine was brought to my notice. I had little faith in proprietary remedies but determined to give the Nervine a trial. After the second dose of the Restorative Nervine I was able to sit at the table and eat a meal, something I had been unable to do for many days. I have since taken a number of bottles of Nervine.
I consider myself cured. I am doing my own work and give Dr. Miles' Nervine credit for my general good health. My object in writing this is to recommend your medicine but I cannot write as strongly as I feel."

"WHAT SHALL WE EAT?"

Every day the same old question,
What shall we eat for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner? assails with monotonous regularity the patient housewife who seeks to provide good living for the family in agreeable variety at a moderate cost. There is a daily department in THE CHICAGO RECORD-HER-

Washington's Superb Scenery.

Famous Artist to Spend a Year Painting Representative Views for Exhibition at the World's Fair.

The exhibit of the State of Washington at the World's Fair will be unique in that one of the prominent displays will be a collection of large landscapes, painted by a famous artist, faithfully portraying the grandeur of Washington scenery. Artists have asserted that the scenery in that State exceeds in diversity and rugged beauty that to be seen in any other section of the world.

Washington's World's Fair Commissioners have arranged with Mr. Julian E. Itter, a noted landscape painter, to Coeur d'Alene Park, Spokane.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned has been arrested to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and: Throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, New York.

produce on canvas a series of views showing the national scenery of the State. Mr. Itter has passed four years in Washington which he terms the artists paradise, and he has traversed every portion of it. For months at a time he has camped in the mountains and has climbed the steepest peaks. He says there is no lack of material.

Critics praise the work of Mr. Itter's brush. They say his pictures are not overdrawn, and are true from an artistic standpoint. His coloring is said to be perfect, and there is none of the impressionist's art about his pictures. It is also proposed to collect other paintings representing scenery from all parts of the state.

The artist says that while the majestic mountains, the wonderful glaciers, the beautiful lakes, and the splendid waterfalls of the Mount Rainier district are comparatively unknown in the world of art, and are but little appreciated at home, he doubts if any other part of the world can produce their equal.

The Horseshoe Basin, in the Chelan country, will also be pictured by Mr. Itter's brush. The basin lies up in the Steekin Valley, twenty-five miles from the head of the lake.

"Imagine," says the enthusiastic artist, "a vast amphitheater, with innumerable peaks rising close together, forming a back wall. Some of these peaks form monster grotesque pieces of statuary, standing in bold relief against the sky. Immediately below these peaks an immense glacier is bedded. Numerous crystal streams spring from it, and fall over a circular rim, hundreds of feet to the valley below."

Among other subjects treated by the artist will be the mountain lakes of the Chelan country, and the bunch grass plains of Eastern Washington parked with yellowjack pine trees. In West Washington, Puget Sound, the numerous lakes, the Olympic mountains and Mount Ranier will all be spread on canvas for the pleasure of the visitor in the City of Knowledge.

Oregon, Washington and Idaho is the title of a very neat and valuable publication issued by the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company. This book is replete with fine half tone engravings of the finest scenery and agriculture views in the best section of the United States. To the prospective settler or anyone interested in the true facts of this great section of country this work is valuable. Copies may be had by addressing the passenger department of either the O. R. & N. Co. or the S. P. Co., at Portland, Ore.

DON'T BELIEVE IT UNTIL YOU FIND IT TRUE

is the greatest labor saving device yet produced for making woman's work easier. Why? Because when you press the lever down the air confined in the funnel becomes very compact and thereby forces the water and soap through the clothes, and the same action takes place when you lift it up through suction.

How to get it. Hand your banker or your storekeeper $8.00, take his receipt and send to me, then I will ship you the washer at once with card of direction. Wash with it for five weeks in your own house and give it a fair trial, if not satisfactory return it and get your money back from party you left it with, who is to keep it for 5 weeks, thus you run no risk.

10 per cent. discount when cash follows order, with the same privilege to return washer if not satisfied. Circulars free. Agents wanted in cities and the country.

REDUCED ILLUSTRATION

FULL SIZE 25 BY 38 INCHES

FOR several years the publishers of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION have been searching for something, to give to their subscribers, that would ECLIPSE ANYTHING EVER OFFERED BY ANY PUBLISHING-HOUSE IN THE WORLD. At last, at great expense, they are able to make it possible for every home in America to possess a magnificent and faithful reproduction of one of the most remarkable paintings ever produced by mortal man in this or any other age. It secured for the artist the honor of immediate admission to the ranks of the Royal Academy. The original painting was shown all over Europe, and thousands upon thousands of people gazed upon it with rapture. It was quickly bought up for $75,000.00, and placed in the position of honor in one of the most celebrated galleries in Europe, and no American money yet offered has been able to secure it for this country. The whole picture fascinates one with its absolute accuracy to life. Every figure in itself alone is a study that would make a wonderful picture. Every face is alive with the spirit of action. It is a picture of mirth and merriment; a picture to bring sunshine into every home and the heart of every one who gazes upon it. You cannot tell our engraving from the only other authorized reproduction, which sells in Europe for $18.00 (eighteen dollars). Our exquisite reproduction is 25 by 38 inches, including margin, the exact size of the costly European engraving, and will be a splendid addition to the art collection of any home, whether framed or hung without framing, a fashion now so much in vogue.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO

had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. Ripans Tabules
Doctors find
For mankind.

Ripans Tabules are a common sense, effectual cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, heartburn, headache, constipation, dizziness and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. They are intended for the use of men, women and children everywhere, and have proved beneficial in the majority of cases. It is not claimed that they will perform miracles, but some of the cures which they have effected amount almost to that. Easy to take and prompt in action, they have no rival as the best remedy for the every-day ills of humanity.

A MEDICINE WHICH PROLONGS LIFE.

"I have used Ripans Tabules for a number of years and would not be without them. I was troubled with indigestion and constipation, and have noticed since I have been using them that I am getting rid of those terrible bilious spells which confined me to bed on account of the dizziness. Of late I have not had any. I had just got over a bad spell of bilious fever and was sitting on the step, when a neighbor came to me and remarked how bad I looked. I told him I had just got over the fever and that I was afraid to eat anything on account of indigestion, from which I had suffered since I was quite young. He advised me to take Ripans Tabules. I said I would try them, and from then I haven't been without them. I can eat anything, providing I finish with a Tabule instead of dessert. I feel very thankful that I have found something that will prolong my life."

GASTRIC TROUBLES.

"I had suffered three years at least from gastric troubles. I could not sleep at night. My head ached and my feet would be cold as ice. My bowels were not regular and I would have such cramps from gases forming on my stomach that I would faint away. I was in such distress that I would have sooner died than live. About three months ago I was suffering and felt as if my body was tied up inwardly. My brother recommended Ripans Tabules to me. My husband obtained some for me from the nearest drug store and I would not now be without them. They relieved me of all the foul gases that formed in my stomach and they move my bowels regularly, for which I had been taking physics all the time. I have no more gases, my bowels move regularly, I have no more headaches and can sleep well; in fact, I feel as light as the air which I breathe, and that is saying a good deal for a woman who weighs 160 pounds. I am sorry that I did not commence using the Tabules a year ago, for they would have saved me a great deal of pain and suffering."

Mining Scenes in Washington.

Eternal Vigilance in the Garden.

Those pesky weeds are in evidence and are trying to have their innings, especially in this last rainy, cool weather. They spring up as if by magic and surround and choke the very life out of useful vegetation also they are soil fertility robbers; yet man has dominion over them and can subdue them easily if he is alert. The time to destroy these robbers is before they appear and with the timely use of the rake and hoe, with that admirable tool the wheel-hoe, it is comparatively an easy matter. Really the most severe task, and now a timely one, is the thinning out of your onions, carrots, beets, turnips, etc., and it should be done while they are small so that the remaining ones will come to maturity weeks before they would if left until they are half grown before thinning. There is only one known way of doing this laborious or rather tedious task and that is to get down on your hands and knees and do it right. From one to three inches apart is about right for most vegetables. It takes a great deal of courage to thin out vegetables properly but it must be done and the results will be gratifying. Often your stand will be uneven, come up in bunches. Thinning out and transplanting where needed is the only solution to an even stand. Nearly all of the vegetables can be transplanted easily and if done when small they will hardly know they have changed their location. The tendency of most gardeners is to plant too thickly and then lose courage or neglect to thin properly. Everything in the cucurbitae family, namely squashes, melons, etc., need careful thinning. One of the best and largest growers of musk melons here, thins to two plants to each hill and the results are satisfactory. It pays handsomely to thin the fruit on your trees, particularly apples, pears and peaches; you will get nearly as many pounds and the extra large size in your fruits and vegetables will command the extra price and the ready sale.

The tender things can be set out such as tomatoes, peppers, egg plants, also astors, verbenas, etc., but don't forget that frost is likely to fall in most localities hereabout until June 8. As an indicator of probable frost there is nothing better than a good thermometer. Keep one in a free open location and if upon examination you find that the mercury has got down as low as 40 F. and the sky clear at about 7 to 8 o'clock in the evening, there is a likelihood of frost. I have saved acres of perishable products by attention to this otherwise minor detail.

Sow radishes for succession and if you want a large solid long radish, sow China Rose or Chartier, they are red and scarlet with lower extremity white, slow to run to seed and very solid. Sow lettuce in a cool place, or better, set plants of head varieties (Hanson is a fine one). Sow carrots and beets for main crop; the Oxheart carrot is yet the best for table use, easily harvested and good yielder; the White Mastodon is a very fine stock carrot, and in the yellow ones the Danvers 1-2 long and the Long Orange are the favorites. Some good strain of "Blood Turnip" Beet for fall and winter use.

As a parting reminder keep the hoe and rake going, loosen the soil around the tiny plants as well as destroy the weeds, keep the ground level and success will be yours. Your vigilance will be rewarded by a bountiful supply.

World's Fair News Notes.

Hawaii has appropriated $50,000 to defray the expense of an exhibit at the World's Fair, St. Louis.

Thirty thousand persons participated in the great civic parade at the World's Fair dedicatory ceremonies on State Day, May 2.

Live stock breeders of Canada will make a big display at the World's Fair, St. Louis. They have asked for government assistance to the extent of $250,000.

The British National Pavilion at the World's Fair, St. Louis, will be a reproduction of the Orangery or banquet hall of the Kensington Palace, in Kensington Gardens, London.

The World's Fair aerial tournament to be held at St. Louis next year has another entry. W. L. Tinney, of Wheeling, West Virginia, has invented an airship with which he is going to compete for the $100,000 prize.

H. E. Huntington, the multi-millionaire, is building a palatial private car which will be exhibited at the World's Fair, St. Louis. The type will be a sleeper and will be adapted to use on both steam and electric roads. The car will cost over $25,000.

Buffalo, N. Y., will have a municipal exhibit at the World's Fair, St. Louis. The exhibit is to cost $12,500. The aldermen have appropriated $7,500 and $5,000 is being raised by private subscription through the Merchants' Exchange and Manufacturers' Club.

Mrs. Lorraine J. Pitkin, vice-president of the Auxiliary Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair Fraternal Building Association, has been elected department commander of the Woman's Relief Corps of the Illinois Division of the G. A. R. Mrs. Pitkin has been identified with fraternal movements for the last twenty-five years.

The Best Farmer Defined.

The best farmer is not always the one who derives the most profit from a farm. Happening to grow certain crops that failed to grow elsewhere, or a chance rise in the price of some product, may result favorably to any one who is so situated as to take advantage of opportunities. A good farmer keeps his house and grounds in perfect order, weeds are not allowed to grow on his farm, he uses the best breeds of animals and the most productive of plants, while the farm is not allowed to depreciate in fertility.

Eggs Should be Cheaper Now.

"You may believe it or not," began the amateur poultryman's friend, graciously, "but old Sam Swift tells me that food, drink and lodging are not enough to make a hen lay. But he says he can make hens lay when he wants them to, in spite of themselves. He says that he's going to get a patent on the process."

"Nonsense!" said the amateur poultryman, promptly. "I know something about hens," he continued, "and I know that they won't lay when they make up their minds not to."

"Sam says—"

"I don't care what he says! I've fed my hens all winter on everything calculated to make them lay; they are properly housed and all; and yet, now that eggs are scarce and high, they refuse to produce and—"

"That's just the point," interrupted the friend, quietly. "Food, drink and lodging have not done their work. Something else is needed. What is it? Sam says it is strategy."

"Strategy?" queried the poultryman.

"Yes," returned the friend "Sam says you must outwit each individual hen, and he claims that his invention will do it."

"I don't believe anything of the kind!" the poultryman declared stoutly.

"Let me tell you Sam's scheme," persisted the friend.

"That's what I'm waiting for," said the poultryman, sarcastically.

"If you have studied hens," continued the other, blandly, "you have noticed that whenever a hen lays an egg she gets up off her nest, turns round, and, after she has made sure that the egg is there, she goes off. Not that I know anything about it, but Sam says it's so. Now his scheme is this: He has invented a trap, or false bottom, which fits into the nest, and is so arranged that an egg drops out of sight just as soon as it is laid."

"Suppose it does?" said the poultryman. "What of it?"

"I'm coming to that. Sam says that in a nest built without his strategic appliance the hen turns round, sees the egg and goes away because all her dreams and ambitions are accomplished. She has attained her ideal and hasn't any further incentive. Life is full—sated, so to speak. But with Sam's scheme the hen turns round to reassure herself, and is surprised not to see an egg. The nest is empty. Her curiosity is aroused, her imagination stimulated. So she goes back and lays another egg."

"Now see here—" began the poultryman.

"Oh, I'm simply telling you what Sam told me," interrupted his friend.

Had No Arms.

A Waitsburg young man recently called on a Dayton young lady to spend the evening. When about to return home the conversation chanced to turn on art and the young lady told him that he reminded her of the Venus of Milo. Whereupon the young man chuckled with delight, thinking it was his symmetrical form that his sweetheart alluded to. When he got home he consulted an encyclopedia and to his deep chagrin and mortification found that the Venus of Milo had no arms. He went down cellar and tried to butt his brains out on a soft cabbage.—Dayton Courier.

Cost of Three Beers a Day.

A merchant at Coleman, S. D., has been doing a little figuring, and as a result attempts to discourage drinking among the people of his town by publishing the following unique advertisement in a Coleman paper: Look at this— "Three beers a day for a year would bring into your home one barrel of flour, 50 pound of sugar, 12 pounds of cornstarch, 10 pounds of macaroni, 10 quarts of beans, four 12 pound hams, one bushel of sweet potatoes, 10 pounds of coffee, 10 pounds of raisins, 10 pounds of rice, 20 pounds of crackers, 100 bars of soap, three 12 pound turkeys, five quarts of cranberries, 10 bunches of celery, 10 pounds of prunes, four dozen oranges and 25 good beefsteaks."

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Bridal Dresses, Accessories, Veils, Flowers, Waists, Entire Dresses, Trimmings, Millinery.

Some elegant wedding gowns are still made in satin and two other materials more frequently used, are a satin faced crepe de chine, called Olga and likewise serge crepe de chine showing a slight twill, hence the name. The three fabrics just mentioned, being especially suited to princess gowns, are preferably made in that style, when a finely proportioned figure will permit of such trying outlines, but for an average aspirant, the greater attractions of more conventional modes are found preferable. Elegant wedding dresses having the advantage of individuality, are made in crepe de chine embroidered to order and orchids are the favorite pattern. Chiffon has great prestige among bridal fabrics and is therefore most frequently employed, its rare softness and special aptitude in symbolizing the simplicity of early girlhood, being very attractive to young maidens, to say nothing of its universal becomingness. Lace gowns—the fabric of course in fine quality—are beautiful and made over chiffon supported by satin, combine the softness of the former material, with the richness of the latter.

TRANSPARENT YOKES

of shirred chiffon or lace are in extreme favor for wedding dresses of every description and as a finish to elbow sleeve, the flowing gracefulness of angel drapery, commends itself to the great majority of brides. Where such finish does not appear, the sleeve is generally prolonged by some gossamer fabric. Trains are round and of course in varying lengths according to fancy. Veils are of tulle in general and worn over the face until after the ceremony, but lace of course is the choice at times of brides to whom expense is not much consideration and is almost always preferred when an heirloom. Orange buds and blossoms lead, but lilies of the valley or Star of Bethlehem blossoms afford change and indeed any small white flower may be the choice. Garlands with ends hanging at the back are placed on the veil and sometimes both train and the remainder of the skirt are adorned by tiny floral additions set about according to taste, the corsage adornment being of course more elaborate. Notes on fashions would be greatly wanting were mention of the remarkable ascendancy of not brought forward with emphasis. Windows of department stores and "waist houses" often resemble white billowy expanses, nor does a fashionable dealer venture to show a colored cotton or linen waist, unless it be plain color relieved by embroidery and even then as an occasional feature. Waists in washable striped silks, are happily, however, in much vogue and as the material is inexpensive as pretty, they are an acceptable and delightful change. The numerous thin, fancy materials are made up in entire dresses and here comes in a special opportunity for very pretty and most serviceable shirt waist suits in light quality silk, in checks or dotted patterns. They are not expensive, running from $12 to $18 and as they do not require laundering, are very cool and always ready to wear. In general however, there is a marked tendency towards plain goods embroidered, to the disadvantage of fancy patterns. This is apparent everywhere and renders embroidery very frequent, more particularly in white linen waists and robe dresses.

TRIMMINGS.

Black velvet ribbon is rapidly growing in popularity, this being really a revival, since not long ago, it was an important factor among garnitures. At present baby widths are alternated with half inch wide ribbon, as for example, a waist that showed the former laid lengthwise, while the skirt was trimmed by half inch widths placed in a similar manner. Sometimes black buttons appear in connection with the ribbon and at times, black velvet buttons are placed in lengthwise rows on skirt seams.

MILLINERY.

Sailor hats in rough straw, are as far from hats worn by the tar, as can well be imagining, since in very large sizes, they turn abruptly up, the trimming a simple band or bow. In general, the difference between utility and dressy hats, is very marked, the former exponents of all that is severe and the latter, flower laden and fairy like in texture, suggesting all that is feminine in soft beauty. As exceptional, may be quoted a hat made in very light weight cloth in an ecru shade, edged with white passementerie and finished in front by a large white and ecru ribbon bow.

ROSALIND MAY.

Decorative Possibilities of Vines.

Vines lend themselves with facility to many and varied uses. Walls, pillars and embankments may be clothed in them; walks exposed to the burning sun may be covered; and a back porch, a post sunk in a neglected spot, a sunny back door, all furnish opportunities for thrifty vines. For permanent effect, nothing surpasses the Boston or Japanese ivy. It is hardy and luxuriant, climbs firmly and does not run across openings of doors, windows, etc. For flowering effects clematis paniculata is supreme, and when intermingled with the scarlet, ever blooming honeysuckle the effect is dazzling in the extreme. For the thrifty home maker, whose garden is planned with a view to utility, the grape-vine appeals with two-fold interest, and for picturesque effects the wild-grape vine is especially adapted.—From the June Delineator.

The Mormon Temple.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City is no doubt the most substantial and well constructed religious edifice in the United States, if not in the world. Corner stone laid April 6, 1853, cap stone April 6, 1892 and dedicated April 6, 1893, over forty years of constant labor being consumed in its construction. This magnificent structure 200 feet long, 100 feet wide is built entirely of Utah white granite, beautifully carved, symbolic of the Mormon faith, surmounted by six towers, the highest being 230 feet from the ground, supporting a bronze statue of the angel Maroni. The cost of this building is about $6,000,000. There are many other attractions at Salt Lake City of interest to the traveler or tourist, where a day can be well spent. The Rio Grande is the only Trans-continental route passing directly through Salt Lake City, where a stop-over is allowed on all classes of tickets. The service of the Rio Grande lines is unexcelled. The very best dollar monthly magazine now is surely Everybody's. John Wannamaker made a success of it and the new management have made a triumph. It is a magazine of merit.

A young lady near Oakesdale had a needle stuck in her side about a year ago, which was broken off, one piece remaining there. The matter was almost forgotten, until some time ago a young man who had been calling on the young lady felt a pain in his arm and the doctor extracted the piece of needle from that useful member. Who said fish?

Every year, says Senator Davis, of Illinois, every local paper gives from 500 to 5,000 free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor in proportion to his means does more for his town than any other man. A local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be crowded with great thought, but financially it is of more benefit than both preacher and teacher. Today editors do more for less pay than any men on earth.

"New Hope for Consumptives" is the title of an important series of papers in the Review of Reviews for June. Mr. Day Allen Willey describes "The Outdoor Treatment of Tuberculosis" as applied in various sanatoria in this country and abroad; Evelyn Mae Hart offers practical suggestions to the consumptive patient under the title, "How to Live Out of Door;" Mr. Francis S. Kinder describes "The Consumptive's Chances in Colorado;" and Mr. Charles H. Johnson gives an account of "New York's Fight Against Tuberculosis." The purpose of these articles is to show what has been accomplished in public institutions and by private initiative along the lines of modern methods, especially the fresh-air cure.

The Spokane Newspaper Union now prints on the average 75 papers each week, the Northern Pacific Union of Portland, 117 papers and the Seattle Union 60 papers. These three lists contain a majority of the country papers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a large number in Montana and British Columbia. Alexander & Co., Spokane, Wash., are the authorized agents for the lists.

Boundary Lines of Forest Reserves.

During the coming field season portions of the boundary lines of the Mount Ranier and Washington Forest Reserves, in the State of Washington, and of the Bitterroot Forest Reserve, in Idaho, will be located and marked by the United States Geological Survey, which is authorized by special legislation to do this class of work. Much difficulty has arisen in the administration of the different forest reserves from the fact that in many cases the boundary lines have not been determined. As a result of this uncertainty, the forest supervisors and rangers have not always been able to protect the government interests properly, as it is a difficult matter to keep lumbermen, grazers, and herders on the outside of an undetermined line when their interests lead them to get on the inside.

The party engaged in the survey of the Mount Ranier Forest Reserve under the charge of Mr. S. E. Blout, obtained its outfit at North Yakima, Washington, early in May. After portions of the eastern and northern boundaries of the reserve have been located, this party will cross to the western side of the Cascade Mountains and survey a portion of the southern boundary of the Washington Reserve, extending the line to the crest of the Cascade Mountains.

A second party, under Mr. R. A. Farmer, obtained its outfit at Wenatchee, Washington, about May 15, and proceeded to the unsurveyed portion of the eastern boundary of the Washington Reserve and will extend it to the International Boundary, making connections with the monuments of the latter. After this work is completed, this party will begin the location of the southern boundary of the reserve, commencing in the vicinity of Lake Chelan, and will extend the line to the summit of the Cascades, effecting a junction with the corresponding line from the west to be run by the Blout party.

A third party, under Mr. Sledge Tatum, obtained its outfit in the vicinity of Moscow, Idaho, and proceeded thence to Pierce and commenced the survey of the northern boundary of the Bitterroot Forest Reserve. After the completion of this work, portions of the western boundary of the same reserve will be located and marked.

All of the lines to be run are in a mountainous and heavily timbered country. The question of transportation will be a difficult one, as it will be necessary in many localities to carry along forage for the pack animals engaged in moving the camp supplies and equipment. A number of young men from the State Universities at Seattle, Washington, and Moscow, Idaho, and from the Agricultural and Mechanical College, at Pullman, Washington, are employed on these surveys.

A Strange Sight.

An observant man said today: "I have just seen something that I never saw before and never dreamed that I would see in Orange county—a farmer hauling home a load of baled shavings to bed his stock. The problem how not to make the farm productive seems to have been solved. First, western feed, then baled western hay, then baled western straw and, worst of all, baled western shaving. If they get that $101,000,000 canal job through western farmers may send to Orange county baled western manure—which wouldn't be such a bad thing. It would, however, be an almighty good thing if with all the other baled things that they sent eastward, the western farmers would send a little of the compressed energy and willingness to work that makes western farming pay."—Downsville News.

See to it that the chicks never become chilled by huddling in the corners of the brooder outside the hover, for when once they become chilled they cannot get warmed, they become weak legged and sit as close to the heater of the brooder as they possibly can get, while the other chicks stand upon them and crush them; or, having become chilled, their food will not digest and they die of bowel complaint.

A couple of young ladies hired a livery horse to make a drive into the country. The liveryman told them the horse would be all right if they kept the rein away from his tail. On their return they were asked by the liveryman if they had any trouble. "Oh, no," said one, "there was one little shower, but we held the umbrella so that not one drop touched the horse's tail." And that explains the dazed look the liveryman has been wearing during the past few days.—Exchange.

One of our exchanges states that, "the place to catch suckers is in the creek." But unfortunately they are not all there. Sharpers know where the suckers are and they cast their hooks where they are to be found. Just now some of the sharpers are selling stock in an enterprise purporting to be a "corned beef mine." They say that immense droves of cattle were during the triocene period caught by a revolution of the earth and buried in thrown down masses. The ice of the glaciers and the saline products have preserved the meat from time until now and great chunks of corned beef can be mined just as coal is now taken out. Exactly; that is nice. This has a gold brick appearance.

Our Sizable Apple Crop.

The latest estimate places the total number of apple trees of bearing age in the United States at somewhat over 200,000,000. This is nearly three trees to every person. These trees yield more than 175,000,000 bushels. Not all of these apples are consumed at home, for in years of full crop more than 3,000,000 go abroad. Yet the apples kept at home are more than two bushels to every adult and child.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine.—It stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.

A Morning's Catch, Priest Lake, Idaho.

A Common Sight, Priest Lake, Idaho.

An Ideal Outing Place.

Idaho, the "Gem of the Mountains," is particularly favored in picturesque scenery and beautiful lakes. Almost to the British line lies two lakes—Kaniksu and Priest. Both lakes are commonly called Priest lake but in reality the lake of that name is the smaller one. These two lakes are about 35 miles in length and at present are truly the fisherman's and hunter's paradise. The foot of the lakes are about 25 miles from Priest River station, a prosperous village on the Great Northern railway. The lakes are 2442 feet above the sea level and on either side the mountains reach their hoary heads. Numerous streams of ice cold water empty into the lakes from the mountain sides and the waters abound in the beautiful mountain trout. The lakes themselves are noted for rainbow trout. The hills and mountains contain grouse of all descriptions, deer, cariboo, elk and mountain goats. Wolves, bear and mountain lions also abound, so a hunter can have his choice of game. Many of the small streams have been peopled by the beaver and their operations have cleared a number of tracts of land of the trees making meadows covered with a luxuriant growth of grass. These choice spots were settled upon before a wagon road was within 50 miles.

A few years ago a party of four from Spokane were camped at the head of the lake. Trout weighing 5 to 10 pounds were caught, big blue grouse killed without going out of sight of the camp. One of the party, E. E. Alexander, killed a nice fat black tail deer with a shot from his revolver.

There is a hotel at the foot of the lake where board is reasonable, boats can be hired and fishing tackle rented.

The way to reach this popular resort is by the Great Northern railway to Priest River station, thence by stage to Williams postoffice, which is at the foot of the lake. The round trip fare from Spokane including the stage is but $5.15.

That the

is the greatest labor saving device yet produced for making woman's work easier. Why? Because when you press the lever down the air confined in the funnel becomes very compact and thereby forces the water and soap through the clothes, and the same action takes place when you lift it up through suction.

How to get it. Hand your banker or your storekeeper $8.00, take his receipt and send to me, then I will ship you the washer at once with card of direction. Wash with it for five weeks in your own house and give it a fair trial, if not satisfactory return it and get your money back from party you left it with, who is to keep it for 5 weeks, thus you run no risk.

10 per cent. discount when cash follows order, with the same privilege to return washer if not satisfied. Circulars free. Agents wanted in cities and the country.

Attack

Of Fast Heart Lasted
160 Hours.

Doctors Didn't Know What To Do.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

"For seven years I have been troubled with what the doctors called a 'fast heart,' going at once from the usual beat to twice as fast, which in a short time would exhaust me terribly and only after treatment by a physician it would get back to normal speed. These attacks increased in frequency and severity until December, 1901, when they came on once a week. Each attack would lay me up a day or more. The attack beginning January 13th, 1902, lasted 160 hours (almost a week) my heart beat almost one hundred and fifty per minute and some times more. During this week my physician consulted with four other doctors, but all to no purpose. My heart finally slowed up, and it was then a serious question with my family what to do next; as for me, I was too far gone to care much what happened. Dr. Miles' almanac said, "write for advice" and my son wrote, receiving a nice reply. A neighbor told us he had used your remedies with great benefit. I took courage, began the use of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine until I had taken eleven bottles of the Heart Cure and seven bottles of the Restorative Nervine. I had two slight attacks after I began the use of your medicine the last one lasting only thirty minutes. For more than three months my heart has run without a flurry. I am cured, and Dr. Miles' Remedies did the work. I have been postmaster here for more than ten years."—M. T. CANTRELL, P. M., Fredonia, Kansas.

AN ELEGANT REPRODUCTION OF A CHARMING Given
$75,000.00 Painting Away

REDUCED ILLUSTRATION

FULL SIZE 25 BY 38 INCHES

FOR several years the publishers of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION have been searching for something, to give to their subscribers, that would ECLIPSE ANYTHING EVER OFFERED BY ANY PUBLISHING-HOUSE IN THE WORLD. At last, at great expense, they are able to make it possible for every home in America to possess a magnificent and faithful reproduction of one of the most remarkable paintings ever produced by mortal man in this or any other age. It secured for the artist the honor of immediate admission to the ranks of the Royal Academy. The original painting was shown all over Europe, and thousands upon thousands of people gazed upon it with rapture. It was quickly bought up for $75,000.00, and placed in the position of honor in one of the most celebrated galleries in Europe, and no American money yet offered has been able to secure it for this country. The whole picture fascinates one with its absolute accuracy to life. Every figure in itself alone is a study that would make a wonderful picture. Every face is alive with the spirit of action. It is a picture of mirth and merriment; a picture to bring sunshine into every home and the heart of every one who gazes upon it. You cannot tell our engraving from the only other authorized reproduction, which sells in Europe for $18.00 (eighteen dollars). Our exquisite reproduction is 25 by 38 inches, including margin, the exact size of the costly European engraving, and will be a splendid addition to the art collection of any home, whether framed or hung without framing, a fashion now so much in vogue.

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION This magazine is edited and made up in the city of New York, the leading literary and art center of America. It contains the most timely illustrated articles, the most beautiful illustrations, the best short stories, the most popular serial stories, the most practical household departments, the best of everything desirable for a home magazine. RIPANS

Doctors find
A good prescription
For mankind.

Ripans Tabules are a common sense, effectual cure for dyspepsia; biliousness, heartburn, headache, constipation, dizziness and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. They are intended for the use of men, women and children everywhere, and have proved beneficial in the majority of cases. It is not claimed that they will perform miracles, but some of the cures which they have effected amount almost to that. Easy to take and prompt in action, they have no rival as the best remedy for the every-day ills of humanity.

A MEDICINE WHICH PROLONGS LIFE.

"I have used Ripans Tabules for a number of years and would not be without them. I was troubled with indigestion and constipation and had noticed since I have been using them that I am getting rid of those terrible ailments which used to trouble me to bed on account of the dizziness. Of late I have not had any. I had just got over a bad spell of bilious fever and was sitting on the step, when a neighbor came to me and remarked how red I looked. I told him I had just got over the fever and that I was afraid to eat anything on account of indigestion, from which I had suffered since I was quite young. He advised me to take Ripans Tabules. I said I would try them, and from then I haven't been without them. I can eat anything, providing I finish with a Tabule instead of dessert. I feel very thankful that I have found something that will prolong my life."

GASTRIC TROUBLES.

"I had suffered three years at least from gastric troubles. I could not sleep at night. My head ached and my feet would be cold as ice. My bowels were not regular and I would have such cramps from gases forming on my stomach that I would faint away. I was in such distress that I would have sooner died than live. About three months ago I was suffering and felt as if my body was tied up in a dy. My brother recommended Ripans Tabules to me. My husband obtained some for me from the nearest drug store and I would not now be without them. They relieved me of all the foul gases that formed in my stomach and they move my bowels regularly, for which I had been taking physics all the time. I have no more gases, my bowels move regularly, I have no more headaches and can sleep well; in fact, I feel as light as the air which I breathe, and that is saying a good deal for a woman who weighs 160 pounds. I am sorry that I did not commence using the Tabules a year ago, for they would have saved me a great deal of pain and suffering."

One gives relief

A Ripans Tabule, now and then, will benefit the wisest men. And if dyspepsia is their woe, Continued, R.I.P.A.N.S. make it go.
