Henry Clay on Strong Agitation.

In the United States Senate as long ago as Feb. 7th, 1839, in speaking on a petition from the inhabitants of the District of Columbia, to be protected from the designs of the Abolitionists, this illustrious Statesman availed himself of the occasion to advert, at length, on the meddlesome disposition of those fanatics, and to warn the country of the danger of their pernicious interference with slavery. He said:

"With them the rights of property are nothing; the deficiency of the powers of the General Government is nothing; the acknowledge and incontestable powers of the States are nothing; civil war, a dissolution of the Union, the overthrow of a Government, in which are concentrated the fondest hopes of the civilized world, are nothing. A single idea has taken possession of their minds, and onwards they pursue it, overlooking all barriers, reckless and regardless of all consequences. With this class the immediate abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, and in the Territory of Florida the prohibition of the removal of slaves from State to State, and the refusal to admit any new State, comprising within its limits the institution of domestic slavery, are but so many means conducing to an accomplishment of the ultimate but perilous end, at which they avowedly and boldly aim, are but so many short stages in the long and bloody road to the distant goal at which they would finally arrive. Their purpose is abolition, universal abolition; peaceably if it can, forcibly, if it must be. Their object is no longer concealed by the thinnest veil; it is avowed and proclaimed. Utterly destitute of constitutional or other rightful powers, living in totally distinct communities, as alien to the communities in which the subject on which they would operate resides, so far as concerns political power over that subject, as if they lived in Africa or Asia, they nevertheless promulgate to the world, their purpose to be, to manumit forthwith, and without compensation, and without moral preparation, three millions of negro slaves, under jurisdictions altogether separated from those under which they live. I have said, the immediate abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia and the Territory of Florida and the exclusion of new States, were only means toward the attainment of a much more important end. Another and much more lamentable one, is that which this class is endeavoring to employ, of arraying one portion against another portion of the Union, with that view, in all their leading prints and publications, the alleged horrors of slavery are depicted in the most glowing and exaggerated colors to excite the imaginations and stimulate the rage of the people in the free States, against the people in the slave States. The slaveholder is held up and represented as the most atrocious of human beings. Advertisements of fugitive slaves and of slaves to be sold are carefully collected and blazoned forth to infuse a spirit of detestation and hatred against one entire, and the largest, section of the Union. And, like a notorious agitator upon another theatre, they would hunt down and proscribe from the pale of civilized society, the inhabitants of that entire section."

Who, that has read the Republican papers for years past, does not recognize the exact truthfulness of the prophetic picture drawn of them, by the immortal Clay, twenty-three years ago?

Mr. Clay then turned to the question of Constitutionality and policy, and, among his concluding remarks, said:

"Sir, I am not in the habit of speaking lightly of the possibility of dissolving this happy Union. The Senate knows that I have deprecated allusions, on ordinary occasions, to that direful event. The country will testify that, if there be any thing in the history of my public career worthy of recollection, it is the truth and sincerity of my ardent devotion to its lasting preservation. But we should be false in our allegiance to it, if we did not discriminate between the imaginary and real dangers by which it may be assailed. Abolition should no longer be regarded as an imaginary danger. The abolitionists, let me suppose, succeed in their present aim of uniting the inhabitants of the free States, as one man, against the inhabitants of the slave States. Union on the one side will beget union on the other. And this process of reciprocal consolidation will be attended with all the violent prejudices, embittered passions, and implacable animosities, which ever degraded or deformed human nature. A virtual dissolution of the Union will have taken place, while the forms of its existence remain. The most valuable element of union, mutual kindness, the feelings of sympathy, the fraternal bonds, which now happily unite us, will have been extinguished forever. One section will stand in menacing and hostile array against the other. The collision of opinion will be quickly followed by the clash of arms. I will not attempt to describe scenes which now happily lie concealed from our view. Abolitionists themselves would shrink back in dismay and horror at the contemplation of desolated fields, conflagrated cities, murdered inhabitants, and the overthrow of the fairest fabric of human government that ever rose to animate the hopes of civilized man. Nor should these abolitionists flatter themselves that if they can succeed in their object of uniting the people of the free States, they will enter the contest with a numerical superiority that must insure victory. All history and experience proves the hazard and uncertainty of war. And we are admonished by holy writ, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. But if they were to conquer, whom should they conquer? A foreign foe; one who had insulted our flag, invaded our shores, and laid our country waste? No, sir; no, sir. It would be a conquest without glory; self, a suicidal conquest; a conquest of brothers over brothers, achieved by one over another portion of the descendants of common ancestors, who, nobly pledging their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, had fought and bled, side by side, in many a hard battle on land and ocean, severed our country from the British crown and established our national independence.

The inhabitants of the slave States are sometimes accused by their Northern brethren with displaying too much rashness and sensibility to the operations and proceedings of abolitionists. But, before they can be rightly judged, there should be a reversal of conditions. Let me suppose that the people of the slave States were to form societies, subsidize presses, make large pecuniary contributions, send forth numerous missionaries throughout all their own borders, and enter into machinations to burn the beautiful capitals, destroy the productive manufactories, and sink in the ocean the gallant ships of the Northern States. Would these incendiary proceedings be regarded as neighborly and friendly, and consistent with the fraternal sentiments which should ever be cherished by one portion of the Union toward another? Would they excite no emotion, occasion no manifestations of dissatisfaction, nor lead to any acts of retaliatory violence? But the supposed case falls short of the actual one in a most essential circumstance. In no contingency could these capitals, manufactories, and ships, rise in rebellion, and massacre inhabitants of the northern States."

FACTS.—It seems to us, when we come to see facts calmly in the face, that we entirely too much disparage our own country, its population and solid importance, in comparing it with the nations of Europe. Suppose, for instance, we take the United States census for 1860, what shall we see?

Firstly, that the population of the nineteen free States of this Union exceeds that of all Spain, or all Russia, or all Turkey, or if Kentucky was added in, that of all England and Wales.

Secondly, that the cities of Brooklyn and New York alone contain more people than all Greece, or all Tuscany, or all Finland, or all Norway.

Fourthly, that Pennsylvania has a population exceeding that of all Saxony, or all Switzerland, or all the Roman States.

We might institute a few more comparisons just as striking, but these will be sufficient to show that when we speak of the nations of Europe, we are very apt to indulge in an exaggerated idea of their several populations, and forget the magnitude of our own.

"FATHER, look here: wot's the reason you and mother is allars a quarrelling?"

"Silence, my son. Do you know what you're talking about?"

"Yes sir-ee, I do. I was just wonderin' what you'd do if you had as many wives as Solomon."

"Child, go to bed!"

"Yes, it's very well to say go to bed. Solomon had mor'n a hundred wives, all of 'em a living in the same house, a eatin' together, and never a fight. Now what a time you'd have of you had half as many. Why, you'd kick up such a rumpus as 'ud fetch up the police, and kick things to thunder."

A broomstick interrupted the fugacious youth and very suddenly suggested to him the idea of traveling which he did.

THE growth of grace is like polishing metals. There is first an opaque surface; by-and-by you see a spark darting out; then a strong light; till at length it sends back a perfect image of the sun that shines upon it.

It is more disgraceful to distrust one's friends than to be deceived by them.

WISDOM is to the mind what health is to the body.

A Kind Act and Its Reward.

The Cleveland Plaindealer sketches an incident that lately occurred on one of the railroads running through Ohio. The sketch is interesting, though it is impersonal.

The train is running over the road at a rapid rate. The car is full of well-dressed aristocratic passengers. The conductor enters and proceeds to collect the accustomed fare. Presently he comes to a young woman who is dressed in deep mourning, traveling with three little children, and calls for her ticket. The lady quickly put her hand in her pocket for the same but it was gone, with the wallet containing all her money, within which the ticket had been placed for safe keeping. The lady is of exceedingly modest retiring disposition, and in an agitated manner explains the reason why she cannot pay the fare. The conductor is one of your hard-hearted kind—one of those men without a particle of gentle feeling; and without taking into consideration any of the palliating circumstances in the case, rung the bell, stopped the train, and the young woman and her little ones were ordered from the car, she weeping as is easy to imagine a person would feel under the circumstances. The engineer had not been an uninteresting spectator of this scene. He had left the engine and advanced to where the lady was standing, looking so distressed and friendless. The engineer had a big warm heart. Putting his hand in his pocket produced a fifty dollar gold piece, and handing it to the lady, remarked as he did so:

"Here, madam, take this and get into the car again. It is shameful that you should be thus treated."

The lady hesitated about receiving it, but was in a desperate strait, and after showering her thanks upon the noble engineer, and insisted upon receiving his home and address, she returned to her seat in the cars, and the train went on its way.

About one month from that time the same engineer received a note requesting him to call at the express office and take from thence a package addressed to him. He did so. Upon opening the package he found it contained fifty dollars and an elegant gold watch, seals and chain. Upon the inside of the case was inscribed the Golden Rule, the substance of which is, "Do to others as you would wish others to do to you."

IN "Forest Creatures," by Charles Bonner, we have an account of the power possessed by the eagle of instantaneously arresting himself while dropping through the air at a certain spot, with folded wings, even when descending from a height of four thousand feet:

"When circling so high up that he shows but as a dot, he will suddenly close both wings, and, falling like an aerolite, pass through the intervening space in a few seconds of time. With a burst his broad pinions are again unfolded; his downward progress is arrested, and he sweeps away horizontally, smoothly, and without effort. He has been seen to do this when carrying a sheep of twenty-six pounds weight in his talons! and from so giddy a height that both the eagle and his booty seemed not larger than a sparrow. It was directly over a wall of rock in which the eyrie was built; and while the speck in the clouds was being examined, and doubts entertained as to the possibility of its being the eagle, down he came headlong, every instant increasing in size, when, in passing the precipice, out flew his mighty wings; the sheep was flung into the nest, and on the magnificent creature moved, calmly and unflurried, as a bark sails gently down the stream of a river."

A VERY learned and compassionate judge in Texas on passing sentence on one John Jones, who had been convicted of murder, concluded his remarks as follows: "The facts is, Jones, that the court did not intend to order you to be executed before next spring; but the weather is so very cold; our jail, unfortunately, is in a very bad condition; much of the glass in the windows is broken; the chimneys are in such a dilapidated state that no fire can be made to render your apartments comfortable; besides, owing to the great number of prisoners, not more than one blanket can be allowed to each; to sleep sound and comfortably, therefore, will be out of the question. In consideration of these circumstances, and washing to lessen your sufferings as much as possible, the court, in the exercise of its humanity and compassion, hereby order you to be executed to-morrow morning, as soon after breakfast as may be convenient to the sheriff and agreeable to you."

WOMEN require more sleep than men, and farmers less than those engaged in any other occupation. Editors, printers, reporters and telegraph operators need no sleep at all. Lawyers can sleep as much as they choose, so as to keep them out of mischief.

TREATMENT OF CROUP.—Croup is an inflammation of the inner surface of the windpipe. Inflammation implies heat, and that heat must be subdued, or the patient will inevitably die. If prompt efforts are made to cool the parts in case of an attack of croup, relief will be as prompt as it is surprising and delightful. All know that cold applied to a hot skin cools it, but all do not as well know and understand, that hot water applied to an inflamed skin will as certainly cool it off. Hence the application of ice cold water with linen cloths or of almost boiling water with woolen flannel, are equally efficient in the cure of croup. Take two or three pieces of woolen flannel of two folds, large enough to cover the whole throat and upper part of the chest; put these in a pan of water as hot as the hand can bear, and keep it thus hot by adding water from a boiling tea-kettle at hand; let two of the flannels be in the hot water all the time, and one on the throat all the time, with a dry flannel covering the wet one, so as to keep the steam in to some extent; the flannels should not be so wet, when put on, as to drip the water, for it is important to keep the clothing as dry as possible, and the body and feet of the child comfortable and warm. As soon as one flannel gets a little cool put on another, with a little interval of exposure as possible, and keep up this process until the doctor comes, or until the phlegm is loose, the child easier, and begins to fall to sleep; then gently wrap a dry flannel over the wet one which is on, so as to cover it up thoroughly, and the child is saved. When it wakes up, both flannels will be dry.—Hall's Journal of Health.

MASONRY.—The New Orleans Bulletin pays the following merited compliment to the Masons of the United States. It remarks:

"Here is a body of men, composed of all classes and professions, entertaining every kind of opinion upon religion and politics, and existing in every State of the Union, who come together and exhibit among themselves the utmost harmony of feeling and action. No word of opprobrium escapes from the lips of any one to insult and wound the feelings of another. No fierce anathema of sections is heard. Everything is quiet, gentlemanly, respectful, dignified. The bitterest political enemies meet face to face, and you shall never know by their actions or words that they do not belong to the same party. Religionists of the most opposite, embrace each other in arms of an exalted character. Fanaticism finds no entrance into the society of the Brotherhood. Not a wave of discord disturbs the waters of the inner temple; no plunge into the abyss of atheism, rant, lawlessness, shocks the moral sense of mankind. No revolutionary hydra comes up from beneath to break up the foundations of order and send the tornado over the fair face of society. But what is the secret of their unanimity, of their harmony, of their brotherly love, of the conservative front which, without a tremor, they maintain, amid the general commotion, hatred and fanaticism existing around them? It is found, it seems to strike us, in one word—TOLERATION."

BOUND FOR THE SALMON.—Every day way see parties making their way to the north, through our city, bound for the famous mines of the Salmon river. Some go with one mule, some with a pair, while some have a long train of animals and take along passengers. One party which has lately started from here had 30 mules for riding and packing, and took along passengers whom they agreed to deliver at the Salmon mines for $30, furnishing their packing animal and grub for that amount and for what work they were expected to do on the route.—Appeal.

COLONEL.—"Bill, you must put down thirty more names at least on the roll. It will be impossible to drink and smoke cigars all day upon our pay, without we have a few dummies in each company. Put a dozen Smiths, and a half a dozen Browns, Jones and Robinsons." Orderly—"All right, Colonel—I know my duties." This fully accounts for the missing after a battle.

AN Irishman, who was at work on a stone wall caught a small spotted animal which he took to be a neighbor's kitten; but dropped her almost instantly, and clasped both hands to his nose and exclaimed:

"Howly mother! what has she been aiting?"

"GOOD morning, Mr. Smith, you look sleepy."

"Yes," replied Smith, "I was up all night."

"Up where?"

"Up stairs in bed."

THE body of a middling sized man contains a pound of phosphorus, which if in free state, and inflamed, would burn him up and every thing around him.

Probable Loss of Life.

On Saturday last, O. S. Colgrove and Robt. Dickinson, who live in Sutter Co., at Colgrove's Landing, on the Sacramento River, visited this town on business; in the afternoon of that day they started to return home in a skiff by crossing the Tules on Grand Island, since which time nothing has been heard of the men. The skiff was found on Tuesday last drifted ashore near Smith's Ferry, bottom up, with two oars still in it. Mr. Colgrove is acting Postmaster at Rome P. O., Sutter Co., and had the U. S. mail in the Boat with him when he left here. He is an esteemed citizen, and one of the oldest settlers on the upper Sacramento. He was formerly from Fairfax Co., Virginia.

THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.—The Boston merchants are circulating petitions to President Lincoln, asking for the removal of Gideon Welles as Secretary of the Navy and the appointment of a more efficient man in his place.

Reorganizing the Democratic Party.

The theme among politicians at present is the shaping of party lines preparatory to the fall campaign; and as it becomes necessary that we should have at least two parties, each large enough to be a check on the other to prevent abuse of power, we must look around to provide the best means to obtain this desired end. That the Republican party is a large, well organized party, with both the State and National patronage in its hands, to consolidate and perpetuate its destiny, no one can deny, and that it will adhere to its policy, and never abandon its principles, so long as it holds the reins of power, as at present is also self evident, all the protestations of a few of its assumed leaders to the contrary notwithstanding. On the other hand, the Democratic party is disorganized from a long course of success; an internal feud arose which rent the party in twain for three successive years; two Democratic tickets have been run, each professing to be the simon pure article, until, like the fox dividing the cheese, each wing has come to defeat, and the Republicans have stepped in and carried off the prize. Now, as far as the patronage and emoluments of office to either party is concerned, we don't care a fig, but we do believe the Republicans have shown themselves unequal to the task they have assumed, in this State especially. Instead of being an improvement on their predecessors, they have adopted all their extravagance, and added thereto a hundred fold—they professed economy, but practiced reckless expenditure of the public money—they professed purity, and have shown themselves reeking with corruption—they are weighed in the balance and found wanting, a change is needed, and the sentiment prevails to a very great extent among all conservative men of both wings of the Democracy, that that party should no longer be divided. Old issues have passed away, and new ones have taken their place; the question is not union or disunion; but economy and patriotism, against extravagance and assumed devotion to the Union, to better cover up fraud and corruption. There are very few men in the State who desire a disruption of the Union, and party principles should be adopted without their aid or councils; and should the Democratic party come together and adopt a liberal and truly national policy, without regard to spoils, we firmly believe they would, as of old, vanquish all their foes. Instead of disputing which wing should make the largest overtures to the other, let both come together; let both agree to sustain the Union intact; let both agree to oppose the enormous swindles, in both the State and National Governments, and re-adopt the old Democratic faith, as reiterated in all the party platforms for the past ten years, and should a few of the ultras of either wing become dissatisfied, let them go; and we'll warrant for every such one who leaves, a hundred good men will come to fill their place in the party ranks if this course is adopted, and there is no good reason it should not be. We have very sanguine hopes that they can carry this State in the coming election by a handsome majority.

A "FIRST RATE NOTICE."—The San Jose Tribune says: "They [the present Legislature], are the most ignorant, most impotent and most corrupt Legislature we have ever had; and if they could be considered as Representatives of the constituencies they pretend to represent, would prove conclusively that we are utterly unfitted for a representative form of government." RUSH FOR SALMON MINES.—There has passed through this place during the past two weeks probably fifteen hundred or two thousand persons bound for the Nez Perce and Salmon regions, every man of whom expects to make his 'pile' in double quick time after his arrival. A few will, no doubt, make a good thing, but ninety-nine out of every hundred will curse the fates that sent him into that desolate region, and about next November or December we expect to see them struggling back, disappointed in hopes, and 'busted' in pocket.—Yreka Union.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Any person knowing the whereabouts of James C. Newlin, Samuel S. Berger and Frank Hollowell will confer a favor by giving information to the Post Master at Yreka. A SKILLMAN has disposed of his interest in the Shasta Courier to John J. Conmy; the Courier is ten years old. LARGE HAUL.—Mr. Meyer, a passenger on the Panama from Mazatlan, had $2,500 in cash stolen from him just as that vessel arrived in San Francisco. DENMARK, it is rumored, will join Austria and the secondary German States in the coalition against Prussia.

The Knight Grant.

In reference to this title and the late action of the Supreme Court in the case, we are permitted to make a few extracts from a letter from Jas. S. Shunk, Law Partner of Judge Black, who attended to the case on the part of the United States, and the settlers on the Grant. He says the case involved an immense deal of labor and preparation. Mr. Sunderland, previous to the meeting of the Supreme Court in December, employed Mr. Stanton (present Secretary of War) to argue the case, and the contest in court was a very close and severe one. The Brief of Judge Black filed on behalf of U. S., covered ninety-nine printed pages. On the 20th of January the Supreme Court decided against the Knight title, and dismissed the case.

Three weeks afterward the claimants made a motion, praying the court to change its decree, and send the case back to California for a further examination. Reverdy Johnson and Senator Latham were both employed by Mr. Sunderland to aid him in pushing the motion. Judge Black prepared a Brief against their motion. He denied in his behalf that the court had any authority to even hear such a motion, or change its decree. Yesterday (March 18th) the court decided they would not hear the motion, or change its decree, and rejected it absolutely. The Knight title is therefore, past praying for.

Indian Depredations and Murder. We learn from parties just arrived from Stony Creek, that a band of Indians have been committing serious depredations on Stony Creek; On Monday, 28th April, the cabin of Chaffin was rifled of its contents during the temporary absence of the owner. On his return, he with several others, got on the trail of the Indians, assisted by a number of peaceable Indians of Stony Creek; they followed the trail to the crossing of main Stony, where they found the Indians had murdered Hiram Watson the day before, by shooting five balls through various parts of his body, and rifling his house of all its available contents, besides stripping the body of its clothing. They also murdered an Indian boy who was herding sheep for Mr. J. Sheppard, and robbed his cabin of its contents. A large party then organized and followed in pursuit. We learn they were overtaken about six miles west of Nome Lackoc Reservation, and fourteen Indians killed and three Squaws taken prisoners. One man was killed and one dangerously wounded in the engagement. The Indians fled to the Coast Range. They are said to be a band of escaped Pitt River Indians from Nome Cult Reservation, led on by two Mexicans. Mr. Hiram Watson was well known in this county, where he formerly lived, and was a very peaceable and inoffensive man. He was formerly from Massachusetts.

Sheep Shearing Festival.

The Sheep Shearing Festival came off at Marysville on Wednesday last, as announced, and the ceremonies were very interesting. The large average yield of wool proves the sheep of Mr. Bingham to be of superior breeds, and fully sustains the reputation he has acquired, of possessing the finest Merino sheep in the State. The result is thus given in the Journal of that city: Weller ... 6 sheep in 6 hours 25 min. Scott..... 9 " " 50 " Peck..... 10 " " 38 " Outing... 5 " " 38 " Galbraith. 8 " " 25 " Butler.... 8 " " 7 " 5 " Anderson. 6 " " 7 " 5 " Hodge.... 5 " " 6 " 25 " Scott was the quickest and Waller the slowest, but Weller did the best work. The first premium was awarded to Galbraith and the second to Hodge, for the handling of the shep was considered by the Committee. The average weight of the clip from 18 bucks was 25 pound and 1 1-3 ounces. THE BRODERICK MONUMENT.—The following is a description of the monument to be erected over the grave of Broderick, at Lone Mountain Cemetery, San Francisco: The fabric is to be of California marble, rising at the height of thirty-one feet, including the pedestal, and surmounted by a statue of the deceased; the whole within a tasteful and appropriate circular enclosure; forty feet in diameter. In the last three months almost four thousand more people have arrived in this State by sea than have left.

HARBISON'S

BEE Hives and Books for sale at RAVELEY'S Opposite Steamboat Landing.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of May 5th:

CHICAGO, May 3.—Fort Macon, [near Beaufort, N. C.] surrendered on the 25th of April, after a bombardment of ten and a half hours. During the bombardment seven men were killed and eighteen wounded.

The Memphis Argus of April 26th publishes a list of the killed, wounded and missing of forty rebel regiments at the battle of Shiloh, [Pittsburg.] It foots up 927 killed, and 361 missing.

St. Louis, May 3.—A gentleman who left Memphis on Saturday last, says that from that city to New Orleans the water was very high, causing great apprehensions.

The banks were about to inaugurate a new policy, by resuming specie payments upon twenty per cent. of their issues, throwing out the discredited Confederate notes.

Throughout Louisiana, with the exception of officeholders and army contractors, there was a very general desire for a settlement of differences and a close of the war.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A dispatch from the army at Yorktown, dated yesterday, says:

On Tuesday a steamboat loaded with troops, probably from West Point, thirty miles above, was seen before Yorktown, indicating that the enemy were being reinforced. A battery at the mouth of Wormly Creek, commanding the rebel water batteries at Yorktown and Gloucester, opened yesterday on the rebel shipping, distant two miles. The rebels left hastily. The guns were then turned on the works at Yorktown and Gloucester, and were soon answered by the large pivot gun on Yorktown Heights. The fire continued briskly for two hours. We sustained no damage, though the enemy's shell fell close. Some of our shells were seen to explode directly over the enemy's parapet, when the moment before was covered with men. What damage they sustained is of course not known. About sixty shots were fired from 100 to 200-pounder Parrott guns.

Specials to the New York papers say General Prentiss and seven hundred Federal prisoners arrived at Selma, Ala. The officers are to be sent to Talladega, the privates to Montgomery.

Commodore Hollins passed through Columbus, S. C., on Saturday, en route to Richmond. He is amazed at the fall of New Orleans city, and states that there were one hundred heavy guns between Fort Jackson and the city, and that numerous boarding parties were organized to capture the national vessels at all hazards; that the gunboat Louisiana was ready, and that the gunboat Mississippi, though unfinished, could be brought into action.

CAIRO, May 2.—Gen. Lew Wallace's Division occupied Purdy, Tenn., Tuesday, without opposition. The enemy's left flank had rested in the town. Nothing new from the fleet. It was reported that the fleet was preparing for a general attack. It was expected that the rebel fleet would attack us on Tuesday. Our flotilla formed in line of battle, but no demonstration was made. The Benton continues to fire every ten minutes.

Advices from Pittsburg Landing to Wednesday noon says:

A reconnaissance in force was made on Tuesday morning towards Purdy, on the Memphis and Ohio Railroad. The rebels fled at our approach. Our forces took possession of the town, burned two bridges and ran the locomotive into the river, completely destroying the communication between Corinth and the country, from whence large rebel supplies have been obtained.

We have dispatches from Ft. Wright dated yesterday. There has been no change in the outward appearance of things for the last two days. A deserter from the rebel fleet says the gunboat to which he has been attached, has been cruising between the Fort and Memphis for nearly a week, burning all the cotton she could find. The aggregate amount burned was several thousand bales. The rebel gunboat fleet from New Orleans had arrived off the Fort and joined Hollins. They have now a naval force sufficiently large to make a show of resistance.

The news from Pittsburg Landing is of the highest importance. The transmission of it by our telegraph is prohibited at present.

Memphis papers of the 29th say that a meeting held the night before, concluded to burn the city in case of the appearance of the Federal fleet. Editorials urgently call on the people to reinforce Gen. Price at Fort Wright, as the only means of salvation for the city.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Advices from Madrid, April 19th, says: Spain will not withdraw her troops from Mexico; they will stay until the satisfaction demanded is obtained.

HALIFAX, May 1.—The steamer North American, from Liverpool on the 14th and with Queenstown dates to April 20th, has arrived.

The London Times editorially expatiates on the importance of the struggle for New Orleans, and says the occupation of that place by the Federals would be a terrible tightening over the great artery of the seceded States.

The Herald sees no exhaustion in the North—no discouragement in the South, Federal predictions to the contrary notwithstanding. It believes that no probable military achievement on either side will be sufficient to bring the parties to terms, and adds that the Washington Government should be allowed one more chance, and if that trial fails, the Great Powers should peremptorily interfere in behalf of the well being of mankind. That this has not been done before is owing to the generosity of England.

CAIRO, May 5.—A refugee from Memphis a week since, reports that Memphis papers on Sunday last published a dispatch announcing the occupation of Baton Rouge by the Federal forces.

Butler's army had landed and occupied New Orleans. A large number of citizens had held public rejoicings, which were attended by hundreds. They indulged in an enthusiastic demonstration of joy on the passage of the gunboats up the river. No opposition was made at Baton Rouge. The rebel troops lately enlisted and stationed there fled on the appearance of the fleet. The publication of the news in regard to the movements of the Federal fleet was forbidden by the Southern authorities, but an informant learned from persons from below that the gunboats had passed Ft. Adams and were near Ft. Dana.

At Vicksburg, the fortifying of which has been in progress of construction for the last few weeks, the work is nearly completed. Guns of heavy caliber have been sent from Memphis, and mounted for its defense.

The rolling stock of different railroads which had been concentrated at Memphis will be taken away by citizens on the approach of the enemy. All the cities and towns along the river are in great terror at the unexpected capture of N. O.

Great indignation was felt towards Gen. Lovell, who is accused of cowardice and imbecility.

WASHINGTON, May 5th.—The following has been received from Yorktown:

Our advance, under Gen. Stoneman, came up with the enemy's rear guard twelve miles from Williamsburg at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. As they approached the enemy's works, a rebel regiment of cavalry advanced in line of battle. Capt. Gibbons' battery opened on them, but did not change their course. The rebels also opened fire from behind earthworks. A portion of the First and Sixth Cavalry then charged on the advancing column, and a hand to hand fight ensued. The rebel cavalry were finally forced to yield. Our want of infantry prevented us from advancing on the works. Hancock's Brigade soon arrived, but it was concluded to defer further operations until to-day. The enemy is still retreating beyond Williamsburg, but the rear guard is very strong.

WASHINGTON, May 5th.—The New York Herald's dispatch says that the Administration is fully satisfied that the road to Richmond is opened, and the rebel army of the East utterly routed.

The Times dispatch says that the main road of retreat up the peninsula is close to the banks of the York river, which will bring the rebel army within range of our gunboats that are conducting Franklin's division in transports to their rear. This division will doubtless be able to intercept the rebel retreat, and force them to give up battle or surrender. McClellan has transports sufficient to forward 200,000 troops from Yorktown to West Point, and it will not be surprising if he captures the bulk of the rebel army, and take Richmond in a week.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 6.—McClellan has telegraphed to the War Department the following:

I have the pleasure to announce that the occupation of this place is the result of the hard fought action of yesterday. Hancock's brigade during the fight turned the left of the enemy's line of works. The enemy abandoned his entire line during the night, leaving all his sick and wounded in our hands. His loss yesterday was very severe. We have some 300 wounded and more than 1,000 prisoners, including the enemy's wounded. Our victory is complete. I have sent cavalry in pursuit. The conduct of our men, with scarcely an exception, was excellent. The enemy's works are extensive and exceedingly strong. Hooker's division suffered considerable, while the loss of others was comparatively small. Hancock's success was gained with a loss of not over twenty killed and wounded. The rebels are flying toward Richmond. Other battles are to be fought before we reach there.

Knight's Landing News.

NEW READING OF SCRIPTURE.—Mr. M—, of Moline, Illinois, has been a kind of preacher for several years. He at length got the notion that it was wrong to make any preparation for his sermon, believing that his duty required that he should trust to the inspiration of the moment.

One Sunday, when he was to preach at Moline, he walked into the pulpit and opened the Bible, as was his custom, at random. He happened to open at the first chapter of Matthew, and began to read the second verse as follows:

"Abraham forgot Isaac; and Isaac forgot Jacob; and Jacob forgot Judas and his brethren."

The old man seemed somewhat puzzled to find any application for this Scripture, but at length started ahead.

"My friends," said he, "this passage of Scripture is meant to teach the shortness of human memory, and it does seem to me that them old patreaks was mighty forgetful."

A WISE father once endeavored to teach his son the nature of an inference, said: "Thus, for example, when we read that the deluge covered the whole earth, the inference is that the inhabitants thereof were all drowned. Now, Naaman the Syrian, was commanded to wash seven times in the river Jordan—what inference would we draw from that?"

"That he must have been plagued dirty!" was the precious one's reply.

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS, AND dealers in Pitt's, Ball's, Russell's, and other popular

Thrashing Machines.

Also, the following

Reapers and Mowers.

Improved for the harvest of 1862:

Burt's Eagle Combined Machine; New York do.; McCormick's do.; Heath's Eagle do;

Kentucky Harvesting Machine;

Haines' (Illinois) do.; Ball's Ohio Reaper and Mower;

Manny's Improved Machine.

Esterly's Improved Machine; Rugg's Combined machine; Vermont mowing machine; Buckeye do.; Bay State do.; Molly Stark (Ohio) Mower:

And sole agents for the celebrated Nourse, Mason & Co's

Ketchum's Improved Mowers,

With or without Reaper attachments—the best mowing machine in use. They will be furnished this season at greatly reduced prices, bringing them within the reach of every farmer. These machines are very much improved, and never fail in the matted or lodged clover—cutting with equal ease the tall or tangled grass without clogging, or breaking; and so close that it will save from one to five dollars' worth of hay per acre more than any other machine. They are furnished with Reaper Attachment, at small cost—making them a good and serviceable combined machine; and when all other machines have failed in the tangled grain, the work has been done by the Ketchum machine to the perfect satisfaction of all. The one horse machine cuts four and a half and five feet—two sizes; the heavy two-horse machine cuts five and five and a half feet, two sizes. Any boy capable of driving the team can manage the machine; it is not liable to get out of order.

The New Bay State two-wheeled Mower.—We have purchased the patent right to the New Bay State Mower for the State of California. It is one of the many machines lately invented, and stands far ahead of all others in point of excellence as a two-wheeled mowing machine, having all the new improvements that have been fairly tested. It is very light, strong, durable machine, and cuts full four and a half feet.

The Vermont Mower.—Also, a two-wheeled machine. It is made mostly of iron, simple in construction, and can be managed with ease.

The Buckeye Machine has two driving wheels like the Vermont machine, and is simple in its construction.

The Molly Stark Mower, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a very light mower, of the Buckeye pattern.

Ball's Ohio Harvester, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a two-wheeled Reaper and Mower. Has two cutter bars—one for reaping and one for mowing. We have exported a few for trial this season.

The Kentucky Harvester cuts about five and a half feet. Said to be a very good machine.

McCormick's Reaper and Mower—a very good reaper—intended for four large horses.

Burt's Eagle Reaper and Mower,

(Improved for 1862.) Baker & Hamilton, sole agents for this machine in California and Oregon.

We have imported these machines for the past two years, which were furnished to some of our neighboring farmers and thoroughly tested. They gave general satisfaction both in cutting grain and grass. The style is very much the same as the celebrated Esterly's machine, except that they are better made; have a strong iron finger bar; are hand-raking reapers and have no side draft. They have a large four foot driving wheel. The outside grain wheel is thirty inches in diameter. The driver's seat is over two iron truck wheels, each thirty inches in diameter, and the machine may be turned round without crowding the horses, as there is no weight upon their necks. They have two sets of gearing for fast and slow motion; a smooth knife for mowing, and a sickle for reaping; the back of each is made of hammered cast steel. They cut about six and a half feet, and can be worked with two light horses. We have but a few for this season's trade, owing to the fact that the great demand at the factory made it impossible for the manufacturer to fill our orders for a large number in season for shipment to this market.

Rugg's Reaper and Mower, cutting six and nine feet. This machine cuts in advance of the horses, and the cutter can be raised by the driver from one to twenty-four inches. Sold very cheap.

Haine's Illinois Harvester, or Header, cuts ten feet. Improved for the harvest of 1862. We have also imported complete sets of trucks, or running gear for header-wagons, with neck yokes and whiffletrees complete.

P. Manny's Improved Combined Reaper and Mower.—This is a new style of machine, very light, yet strongly built, lately patented by P. Manny, in which there are many valuable improvements. We are willing to guarantee this Combined Reaper and Mower in every instance.

We have imported a large stock of extras for repairing Reapers, Mowers and Thrashers, all of which will be sold cheap for cash.
