the folly of resorting to exaggerated statements to produce a revolution in the public mind. He should have remembered that no editor of the Argua, his witolesale denunciations, his hyperbolical recriminations, his measuraless centempt and thigh devision of the president, and every thing connected th his administration, served but to little purpose. following scandalous culumnies which are of a piece with the coffinhand-hill slanders:

"Within a few years past, our government has advance "Within a few years past, our government are avanced four centuries in profigacy, and assumption." So writes a correspondent, who informs us of one good sign at Washington, viz: That none but professed office-hunters will now be seen in the company of the aitchen Cabinet, a horde of conspirators, who poison all they touch, and tarnish the bright fame of Gen. Jackson."

"Great embezzlement is talked of at the seat of government and the seat of govern ment. It is a species of Robbery, not easily proved, where a manitteel are packed for factious ends.

"The junto are said to be in league with the stock-jobbers of New York."

Now what honorable man of common segacity, will be in duced to regard all this in any other light than as a miserable ebullition of low, despicable partizan feelings. Whe does not the Bulletin publish the proceedings of the

New-York and New-Jersey Legislatures, on the subject of tite Deposites? Is it the part of an independent paper to suppress what militates against its opinions? The Bulletin was established neutral in politics, and has no doubt many subswithers anxions to see both sides of all important questions agitated. It has given place to the fishminations of every trifling little meeting that the Bank agente have tramped up, and why can it not find room for the more important action of States proclaiming their views? If the Bulletin desires to have that reputation for candor and fairness which it claims, it should not hesitate to be impartial. Nothing evinces ; urtisatiship more than refusing an adversary an opportuni w of being heard!

The Baltimore American observes that Baron D'Hansser's ook, "Great Britain in 1833," has nettled the British critics, nd brought down the fulminations of the reviewers.

The Lordon Quarterly Review, (continues the same paper) the ex-Minister of Charles X., forgets the defender of absolutions to the traveller, and denounces his book in good round phrases, for every fault that ignorance, and shallownees, certiess and malice could furnish forth. The article is worth reading by Americans, as a good fund for retort upon the English eulogists of Hall and Hamilton. There is nothing argued against the French nobleman's means and capacity for representing England truly, that does not apply, with three times the force, to the speculators to write books on America. When John Bull is pricked with the Frenchman's spire till he roars, it is a good time to hint to him, that his own aners in that respect need improvement. It will be a wholesome commend him to be patient, and profit by the discipline.

The New York evening Star says that husbands are as thick as blackberries in North Carolina; for the men are so numerous, that a woman marry one to-day and another to-morrow. A lady recently married a person who did not possess her affections, and said she did it turerly to delude her fitiends. In a few hours she abandened the bridegroom, and soon after sued for a divorce, which "the Legislature very gallantly granted." North Carolina, must, as suggested, be an excellent market for old mesids.
