SUMMONS

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Santa Clara

Genia Powell, Plaintiff, vs.
Raymond Powell, Defendant. Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Santa Clara, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Santa Clara.

The People of the State of California send greetings to Raymond Powell, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara within ten days after service on you of this Summons, if served within this County, or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you so appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, this 31st day of May, A. D. 1924.

The Standard Oil Bulletin for February sees no reason for disturbing the present fees and gasoline taxes of this state and ventures the opinion that with a normal business growth the state will have $400,000,000 from rates that now obtain during the next ten years, and by way of clinching its argument points out, that including $73,000,000 in bonds, the state has spent only $103,000,000 during the past twelve years.

Recodification of state school laws suggested by State Superintendent Wood in a report to Governor Richardson He argues that school laws are generally complicated by amendments and provisions to meet a variety of conditions and says it is common to find a single topic treated in three different sections of the code in as many conflicting manners, and asks that a committee be named to redraft the statutes.

To study California mining and business methods, five leaders of soviet Russia's industrial enterprises are in California visiting communities and establishments from which to gather a measure of the golden state's manner of doing things on a big scale.
Dredging and placer mining operations on the American and Sacramento rivers are coming in for a share of their attention.

THOSE HOURS OF LEISURE

There are few of us who can not so arrange our time in order to have an hour or two of genuine leisure each day. Assuming that we can find some leisure when not occupied in the necessary day's work, what shall be done with it?
History gives the answer of what some have done with it. It was the little margin left over after the day's toil that gave Lincoln a preparation for what he called his "opportunity." Franklin laid much stress upon margins of time as well as of thrift in material gain. Napoleon drew battle lines in the sand, while his playmates romped in the school yard. Plato, with bowed head, mused in the market place, and now after 2000 years the world still clamors for his logic.
Edison cuts his sleep to four hours, and turns his leisure into wizardly achievements that startle the world. The value of that well known "fifteen minutes a day" is certain and sure. The great masterpieces of literature and art have been snatched, as it were, from the fleeting moments of time, while the rest of the world followed the path of least resistance. Leisure is golden if properly used.

TAXES AND CHARITIES

It has been claimed, and with authority, that we get more value out of the dollar that goes for taxes than for any other dollar that we spend.
Yet, the nation-wide cry is against more taxes.
But this is wholesome and most necessary, in order to keep taxation within reasonable limits.
Another dollar well spent is the one we give for worthy charitable purposes and to civic organizations that are worth while in the community. Yet the dollars that are given in both cases cited are sometimes begrudged, or to say the least, difficult to collect. There is just a little of the human in it all. In the one case we have to pay, and that hurts. In the other case we are prevailed upon to give, and that also hurts.
But the fellow that is hurt the worst usually jumps in and gets something back. We appreciate the things we pay for, and the compensation usually comes in the use to which we put our citizenship.

NEW CURTAINS AT GRAM. SCHOOL

The grammar school teachers had a kids party last Friday night. It was a valentine party also. No one over six years was admitted and short dresses, rompers, curls, pigtails, huge bows of ribbon, knee pants and blouses were the order of the day. Everybody had such a good time that they hated to grow up again in time for Monday morning.

The curtains are up in the cafeteria, office, and in all the rooms, and the public is invited to see them on Old Settlers' Day when most of the rooms will be open for inspection.

Miss Farman had a special valentine menu last Friday. The new curtains were also put up then making a pleasant surprise for everybody in the cafeteria.

The pictures, which were bought last Spring, have been framed and hung in the rooms. The teachers and the P. T. A. paid for the framing by food sales, entertainments, etc.

J. P. Hulsman met with a mishap a week ago causing him to take a three week's forced vacation. While loading his big truck at the G. E. Hyde plant, he slipped breaking one bone in the lower right leg.

Congresswoman Mae E. Nolan of San Francisco has established a line of "firsts" at Washington that is hard to beat. She is the first woman chairman of a house committee; the first to serve more than one term; the first widow of a member to be elected; and the first redheaded woman to sit in congress.

The SANDMAN STORY

MR. FOX, MR. COON, MR. DOG AND JIMMY SKUNK

MR. COON and Mr. Fox knew that Mr. Dog was very curious—he was always looking into places and nosing about where they thought he had no business to be.

Mr. Dog Dropped His Tail and Ran for Home.

"That's all right for you, Mr. Fox," replied Mr. Coon. "You can run faster than I and you know that unless there is a tree nearby I might get caught. I am going to run up the first tree I come to and stay there."

But as Mr. Coon could not be persuaded, Mr. Fox ran off alone to see where Jimmy lived, and then he ran up to the farm so Mr. Dog could get sight at him and chase him.

It all worked out as Mr. Fox had planned it until he let Mr. Dog see him, and then Mr. Fox's plan did not work just as he had expected, though he led Mr. Dog straight to the doorway of Jimmy Skunk's home.

Jimmy was sitting outside in the sun, and when Mr. Fox came bounding along with Mr. Dog at his heels Jimmy was frightened and angry, as well. He didn't care whether it was Mr. Fox or Mr. Dog who disturbed him.

"Guess he got a lesson that day," said Mr. Fox boldly. "He won't care to run into Jimmy again, and he will stay away from here. We shan't be bothered with him again."

"Oh, I was just rolling over laughing at Mr. Dog the way he dropped his tail and ran home," said Mr. Fox.

"I have not seen you since that day, either, Mr. Fox," said Mr. Coon. "Didn't you get a little of Jimmy's perfume on your coat as well as Mr. Dog? I thought I saw you rolling in the dirt."

The Appleton Family

LYSANDER JOHN APPLETON has always had a dim notion that this is what happens every night when he turns the corner in reaching home.

Daysey Mayme Appleton is always talking of "going all to pieces," as if she were a piece of fragile china, and someone had thrown her against a rock wall.

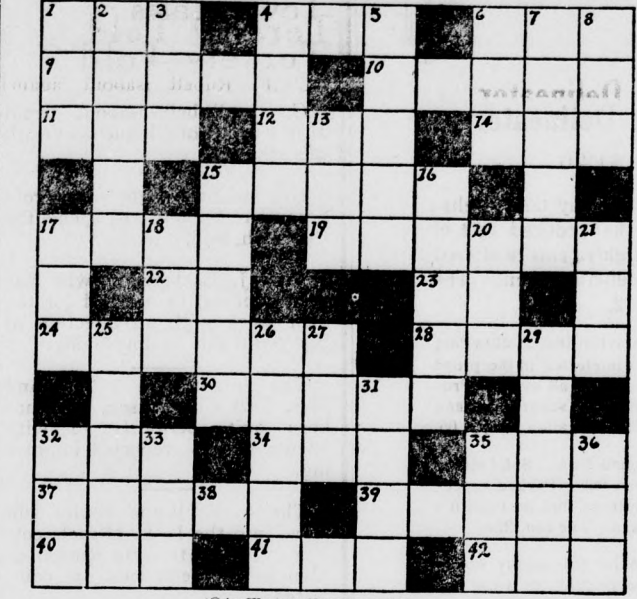

Mrs. Lysander John Appleton and Daysey Mayme were preparing for a party. "We will lay covers for ten."

said Daysey Mayme. That night when the dinner was ready, Lysander John and Chauncey Devere failed to appear.

The religious instruction that has been pounded the most unceasingly into Chauncey Devere's head is that when the preacher is there for a meal he must bow his head as if accustomed to a blessing three times a day.

Story of Three Frogs Made Lesson to Pupils

A prominent lawyer of Tennessee told the following story in a recent address to the graduates of a grammar school. He said that his son, a high school graduate of that season, came home one day and asked him if he were a good mathematician.

"Yes, my boy, I think I'm pretty good," the father replied. "Well, then, I have a problem I'd like to have you work. There were three frogs sitting on a log—a bullfrog, a tree frog and a toad frog. The bullfrog decided to jump off. How many frogs were left?"

The father smiled. "Why, that's easy. Two frogs were left." "And that's where you are wrong!" exclaimed the boy, grinning. "Three frogs were left. The bullfrog only decided to jump off. He didn't jump."

System That Did Away With Need for Watch

"Halt, there!" commanded Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the well-known guardian of the peace and dignity of Petunia. "Consider yourself under arrest for exceeding the speed limit."

"What'at!" returned the offending motorist. "How do you know how fast I was going? You didn't even glance at your watch."

"I don't need to. If I see you coming and turn my head away just as you pass the Methodist church corner, and then turn it back and you've reached the hay scales, I know you've reached the limit. You may say I can't tell time by my head, but I've been using it for forty-nine years now, and know just about what it can do."—Kansas City Times.

Old Secret of Health

There occurred last December the two hundredth anniversary of the death of Dr. Hermann Boerhaave, and the city reiterated for the two hundredth time the famous message he left to his heirs.

The doctor's executors found among his possessions a sealed book entitled "The Deeper Secrets of Medicine." His fame had been such, in his life, that all Leyden was keenly interested and eager for the promised revelation. The book was sold, unopened, at public auction, for a large sum. It contained in fourteen words the doctor's advice to the world: "Keep your head cool and your feet warm. Then you will defy all doctors."

Citrate Production

A citrate factory is always an object of interest to tourists in Sicily. One that a traveler describes hummed with the industry of several hundred boys and girls who sat at long benches. With one stroke of the knife they cut a lemon in two and with two more strokes remove the pulp, which is then squeezed in a press. The juice is piped to vats where after it has been condensed by boiling it is mixed with slaked lime. The product is then baked and comes out as slabs of citrate of lime, which are shipped to the chemical factories of the world.—Youth's Companion.

Floricultural Triumph

Some exceptional new types of dahlias produced in 1924 in Great Britain and Ireland were on exhibition at a recent national dahlia show in London. A number of these were vivid golden yellows, a color which has been regarded as rather difficult to produce in dahlias whose basic colors are white and red. The most notable, it is reported, was the Scarlet Queen, a vivid scarlet with a ring of yellow petals in the center.

Odd Mail Arrangement

In Glacier National park, 30 miles from the railroad, is the only post office of its kind on record with the postmaster general. The mail is brought from the railroad and is hung in weatherproof bags on the side of a log cabin, whence it is taken by the residents within a radius of five miles, who are permitted to help themselves.

Liquid Rubber. Four lines of steamers are now busy transporting rubber in liquid form from the Far East, especially Sumatra and the Malay peninsula to America.
