DUKE.

FITZ-GERALD, DUKE OF LEINSTER.

THE most noble Prince WILLIAM-ROBERT FITZ-GERALD, Duke of LEINSTER, Marquis and Earl of Kildare, Earl and Baron of Offaley, and Viscount Leinster of Gaplow, in the kingdom of Great Britain, and Knight of St. Patrick, was born March 3, 1749, and succeeded ceeded his father, the late Duke, Nov. 19, 1773. His Grace married, in Nov. 1775, the Hon. Miss St. George, daughter of the late Right Hon. Lord St. George, by whom he has issue, a daughter, born May 7, 1777, another Nov. 6, 1780, another Aug. 1779.

This ancient family is deduced from Otho, a Baron in Italy, descended from the Great Duke of Tuscany; and of this family were several Barons of Offaley, before they were Earls of Kildare; and of it were the Earls of Desmond, March, and Macclesfield, and the Lord Grandison, and Barons of Bromley. Otho, before-mentioned, was father of Walter, who came into England with William the Conqueror, and was a Baron, and Constable of the Castle of Windsor: he married Gladys, daughter of Rywall ap Conyn, by whom he had three sons; from the youngest, who was William of Windsor, the Earl of Plymouth, and the Lord Windsor, maternally descended; Robert, the second, surnamed of Windsor, was Baron of Eston or Estaines, in Effex*. Gerald, who was the eldest son, was sometimes surnamed Fitz-Walter; and marrying Nesta, daughter to Rheefe Prince of South Wales (concubine to King Henry I.) by her had three sons, William, Maurice, and David. From William descended, in a direct male line, Dutton, late Lord Gerard of Bromley, Charles Earl of Macclesfield, Sir Thomas Gerard, Bart. and the Earls of Kerry. Maurice, the second son, was one of the adventurers, who with Richard Strongbow Earl of Pembroke, in the year 1169, went into Ireland, where, in the year 1180, he had given him by the said Strongbow, great store of lands, amongst which was the Barony of Offaley. In the year 1172, he was one of the Governors of Ireland, and had four sons; Gerald; William, who left an only daughter, Emma, married to the Lord Saunders of Naas, whose heir general marrying into the family of Preston, Visc. Gormanston, the Barony of Naas centered in that family; Alexander, and Maurice, who both died without issue; and a daughter Nesta. Gerald, the eldest, was Lord Offaley. He married Catherine, daughter of Hamo de Valois, Lord Justice of Ireland, and by her had two sons, Maurice, his heir, and Gerald, who died without issue. Maurice, who in 1205 succeeded him, and in 1219 and 1232 was also Lord Justice of Ireland; and, dying in 1250, left Thomas, who was also

* The seniority of these sons is disputed, William being made the eldest in the Earl of Plymouth's Pedigree, and Gerald the youngest,

also Lord Offaley, and died 1260, leaving two sons; of which, Thomas, the eldest, dying in 1261, without issue, was succeeded by Maurice, his brother, who dying the same year, left issue Gerald Fitz-Maurice, his heir, and Thomas, who was Chief Justice of Ireland. Gerald had issue Maurice, who, in 1272, was Chief Justice of Ireland; but, he dying without issue, we return to Thomas, his uncle; who had two sons, John and Maurice; whereof

(1st Earl.) JOHN was created Earl of Kildare, 9 Edw. II. and on August 27, 1329, Maurice his brother was created Earl of Desmond. To the former King Edward II. gave the Town and Castle of Kildare. He married Blanch, daughter to John Lord Fermoy, and died in Sept. 1316; he had issue Gerald, who died in 1303; Joan, married to Sir Edmund Butler, created Earl of Carrick; Elizabeth, married to Nicholas Netterville, ancestor to the Viscount Netterville; and

(2d Earl.) THOMAS, who married Joan, daughter to Richard de Burgo, Earl of Ulster: and dying in 1328, by her (who in 1329 married John D'Arce, ancestor to the Earl of Holderneffe) had three sons; John, who died at nine years of age;

(3d Earl.) RICHARD succeeded to the Earldom; but, he dying at twelve years of age, (4th Earl.) MAURICE, his brother, became heir, and was the fourth Earl, but died on the 15th of August 1390; having married Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Bartholomew Burghersh, by whom he had Gerald, his successor; Richard, who died in his life-time without issue, and Thomas.

(5th Earl.) GERALD. He left issue by Margaret, daughter and heir to Sir John Rochford, Kt.

(6th Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded him. He married Margaret De la Herne, and by her had (7th Earl.) THOMAS, who by Joan, daughter to James, the 7th Earl of Desmond, had, Gerald, his heir.—Sir Thomas, who was killed at the battle of Stoke, June 6, 1487.—James.—Maurice.

(8th Earl.) GERALD. He died in the year 1513, having married two wives; by the latter, Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Oliver St. John, who married 2dly Sir John Wallop, he had seven sons, five of whom were executed, with their nephew, Thomas Earl of Kildare, for treason; and by his first, Alice, daughter to Sir Rowland Eustace, he had a daughter, Margaret, married to Sir Pierce Butler, Earl of Ormond and Ossory; and one son,

(9th Earl.) GERALD, who in 1513 was appointed Lord Justice of Ireland, and dying before his sons in the Tower of London, was there buried. He married to his first wife Elizabeth, daughter to the Lord Zouch, by whom he had

(10th Earl.) THOMAS, who suffered with his uncles. He married Frances, daughter of Sir Adrian Fortescue, and died without issue. And the said ninth Earl having married to his second wife, Elizabeth, fourth daughter to Thomas Grey, Marquis of Dorset, by her had two sons, and three daughters; which were Gerald; Edward, of whom hereafter; Margaret, Elizabeth, and Cicely; who were all attained by King Henry VIII. but in the 11th of Elizabeth were restored; and

(11th Earl.) GERALD, the eleventh Earl, married Mabel, daughter to Sir Anthony Brown, and sister to Anthony Visc. Montagu; by whom he had three sons, Gerald, Henry, and William; and two daughters, Mary, married to Christopher Nugent, the ninth Lord Delvin; and Elizabeth to Donogh, the fourth Earl of Thomond. The eldest, dying before his father, left issue by Catherine, daughter to Sir Francis Knolles, Lettice, his daughter and heir, who married Sir Robert Digby, and carried into that family the Barony of Geashill, was mother of Robert Lord Digby, and was created Baroness of Offaley for life; but, her father having no issue male,

(12th Earl.) HENRY, his next brother, succeeded his father, and was the twelfth Earl. He married Frances, second daughter to Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, by Catherine, daughter to Henry Carey, Lord Hunsdon; and by her, who afterwards married Henry Broke, Lord Cobham, had three daughters; Eleanor, who died young; Lettice, who died unmarried; and Bridget, who married first O Rory Donel, Earl of Tyrconnel, and secondly, Nicholas Barnwall, first Visc. Kingsland; but, having no male issue,

(13th Earl.) WILLIAM, his brother, became the thirteenth Earl, and in 1599 was drowned between England and Ireland, unmarried. We now return to Edward, younger brother to Gerald, the eleventh Earl; who marrying Mabel, daughter and heir of Sir John Leigh, and widow of Sir John Paston, by her had two sons, and three daughters; Elizabeth, married Sir John Hill; Lettice married first Sir John Coppinger, and secondly Sir John Pointz; and Douglas was the first wife of Sir Francis Aungier, created Baron of Longford; and of the sons, which were

(14th Earl.) GERALD and Thomas, the eldest was the fourteenth Earl. He married, by the Pope's dispensation, his cousin Elizabeth, daughter to Christopher Lord Delvin, and sister to Richard the first Earl of Westmeath, and had a son,

(15th Earl.) GERALD; but, he dying at eight years old, we return to Thomas, his uncle; who marrying Frances, daughter to Thomas Randall, had three sons and four daughters, viz. Gerald, John, George; Anne, married to John Morris, Esq. Lettice, and Elizabeth; and of the sons, Gerald and John dying young,

(16th Earl.) GEORGE became the sixteenth Earl. He married Joan, fourth daughter to Richard Boyle, Earl of Cork, by whom he had three sons, and six daughters; whereof Elizabeth and Jane died young; Frances, the fifth, was married to Sir James Shaen; Eleanor, the third, to Sir Walter Borrows, Bart. Catharine, the fourth, died unmarried; Elizabeth, the sixth, was first married to Callaghan, Earl of Clancarty, and secondly to Sir William Davis, Chief Justice of the King's Bench. Of the sons, which were Richard, Wentworth, and Robert, the eldest dying an infant, (17th Earl.) WENTWORTH, the second, succeeded his father; and he marrying Elizabeth, daughter to John Holles, Earl of Clare, by her had John, his heir, and three daughters, Mary, Anne, and Eleanor; Anne was first married to Hugh Boscawen of Tregothan in Cornwall, Esq; grandfather of the present Visc. Falmouth; and, after his decease, to Francis Robartes, Esq; and died on the 4th of May, 1715.

(18th Earl.) JOHN, who died Nov. 9, 1707. He married to his first wife Mary, eldest daughter to Henry Lord Ibrican, eldest son to Henry O'Brien, Earl of Thomond, by whom he had a son that died a minor; secondly, the Lady Elizabeth Jones, eldest daughter to Richard, Earl of Ranelagh; but, having no issue, we return to Robert, brother to Wentworth, the seventeenth Earl; who marrying Mary, daughter and heir to Colonel James Clotworthy, brother to Sir John Clotworthy, Visc. Massareen, by her he had four sons and six daughters; of which, Mary was married to John, Visc. Allen; Elizabeth, to Henry Sanford; Frances, to William Tisdall, Esq; Catherine to Dive Downs, Bishop of Cork; Anne died unmarried; and Margaret, to Toby Hall, Esq. Of the said four sons, which were James,

George, Robert, and James, the two eldest and the youngest died unmarried, and

(19th Earl.) ROBERT, the third son, became the 19th Earl. He married Mary O Bryen, eldest daughter to William Earl of Inchiquin, who died Feb. 1780. and dying Feb. 20, 1744, had five sons and six daughters; nine of whom died in their infancy. Those who survived were (20th Earl and 1st Marq. and Duke.) JAMES, the late Duke; and Margaret, married in March, 1748, to the Earl of Hillsborough. James, the late Duke, was born May 29, 1722, and succeeded his father as Earl of Kildare, February 20, 1744; was created a Peer of Great Britain, Feb. 28, 1746, by the title of Visc. Leinster of Taplow; on March 3, 1761, was raised to the dignity of Marquis of Kildare, and on Nov. 16, 1766, was advanced to the dignity of Duke of Leinster. He married Feb 7, 1742, Emilia, daughter of Charles the late Duke of Richmond, and had issue, George Earl of Offaley, born 1748, and died in 1765.—William-Robert, the present Duke.—Charles, born June, 1756.—Henry, born July, 1761.—Edward, born October, 1763.—Robert, born January 1765.—Gerald, born March, 1766.—George, born Dec. 1767.—Emilia, born March 15, 1752, and married in August 1774, to the Earl of Bellamont.—Charlotte.—Sophia.—Fanny, died in 1775.—Lucy.—Louisa. ## DE BURGH, EARL OF CLANRICARDE.

THE Right Honourable HENRY DE BURGH, Earl of CLANRICARDE, and Baron of Dunkellin, and Knight of St. Patrick, succeeded John Smyth, May 1782, was born Dec. 1742.

In the year 1066, Serlo de Burgo, and John Monoculus, two brothers, the sons of Eustace a Norman, accompanied William the Conqueror into England, where, in the County of York, the said Serlo built the Castle of Knaresborough, and was succeeded by John his brother. He married to his first wife Beatrix, daughter and sole heir to Ivo de Vefey, a Norman, and by her had Eustace Lord of Knaresborough, and Richard, whose son, named Walter, had three sons; whereof Hubert was Earl of Kent, William was ancestor to the Earl of whom we are speaking, and Jeffrey was Bishop of Ely. William, the second son, who was surnamed De Adelmel, was Steward to King Henry II. of whom he obtained great part of the Province of Connaught, and by his wife, who was an English lady, had a son Richard, who died in the year 1243. He married Juliana, daughter to Robert Doifnell, and left two sons, Walter and William; of which, Walter marrying Maud, daughter and sole heir to Hugh de Lacy, (the younger) Earl of Ulster, he in her right became Earl thereof, and dying in 1271, left issue a son, Richard, and six daughters; Ellen, married to Robert Bruce, King of Scotland; Elizabeth, to the Earl of Gloucester; Joan, to the Earl of Kildare; Catherine, to the Earl of Louth; Margaret, to the Earl of Desmond; and Eleanor, to the Lord Multon. Richard, who was son to Walter Earl of Ulster, was called the Red Earl; and had two sons, John and Edmund, and six daughters; which Edmund, marrying Slaney, daughter to Thurlogh O'Brien Earl of Thomond, from that match descended the Lords of Castleconnel and Brittas; and John, the eldest brother, dying in the year 1313, and before his father, left issue by Elizabeth, third daughter to Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, by Joan of Acres, his wife, second daughter to King Edward I. a son William, and a daughter Matilda. William, who in 1326 succeeded his grandfather in the Earldom of Ulster, married Maud, second daughter to Henry Earl of Lancaster, second son to Edmund Earl of Lancaster, second son of King

Henry III. and had an only daughter Elizabeth, who was his sole heir, and was married to Lionel of Antwerp, third son to King Edward III. which Lionel, in right of his wife, became Earl of Ulster, and Lord of Connaught; and, because he had with her the honour of Clare in the County of Thomond, he was in 1362 created Duke of Clarence, from which Duchy the name of Clarencieux (being the title of the King of Arms for the south parts of England) is derived. By the said Elizabeth, the said Lionel had a daughter Philippa, who was married to Edmund Mortimer, Earl of March, and by him had Roger Earl of March, whose daughter Anne was Countess of Cambridge, and mother to Richard Duke of York, father of King Edward IV. and Richard III. We now return to William, second son of Richard Lord of Connaught. He was slain in 1270, leaving issue Sir William Bourk, Kt. who died in 1324; and from him descended, in a direct male line,

(9th Baron.) SIR RICHARD NUGENT succeeded his grandfather very young, and was the ninth Baron of Delvin. He was succeeded by his son

(10th Baron.) RICHARD, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Jenico Lord Gormanstown. His issue were two sons, Richard, who succeeded him; and William. He was Lord Deputy of Ireland, in the year 1526, in the reign of King Henry VIII. and conducted public affairs with great integrity and honour, till taken prisoner by O Conner. He had a special livery of his lands, in 1545, in 1552, and in 1558. King Edward VI. made him a grant of many lordships ships and lands, in 1553, with the English of Athlone. He conquered Thadeus Rufus Omeclaghlen, and expelled him out of the country. He burnt the country of Mac Coghlan, Dinash, lower Delvin, which territory, the better to defend the Pale from the incursions of the Irish, he again laid waste, in 1554, with fire and sword. He died in 1559, and was succeeded by

(11th Baron.) SIR CHRISTOPHER NUGENT, his son, the eleventh Baron, who, in 1563, had grant of the castle and lands of Ballycorbet, in the King's county, to him and his heirs male. He was knighted in 1566, and made Captain of Sleught William in the Annaly, which place his father held for life; and he expressed such forwardness and fidelity in the service of the Crown, that, in 1567, articles were made with his Lordship by the Queen, authorizing him to extirpate the O Mores, sons of Ferrasse Mac Rosse, and their followers; but notwithstanding this commission, and his services to the Crown, he was sent prisoner to London in 1580, and committed to the Tower, on suspicion of holding correspondence with the rebels of Leinster; but his innocence being after fully proved, he was enlarged and returned to Ireland; and so acceptable were his services to the Queen, that besides divers leases of lands, which had been granted to him in 1567, she ordered him a grant in fee farm of so many manors, and forfeited lands in the Counties of Cavan and Langford, as should amount to the Crown rent of 100l. a year. He died August 17, 1602; and having married Mary, daughter to Gerald the eleventh Earl of Kildare, had issue by her, six sons and six daughters, viz. Richard, created Earl of West-Meath. Christopher, died without issue. Gerald, who left Richard, his heir, by the sister of Rory O Donnell, Earl of Tyrconnell. Thomas, died the 17th of August 1602, and was succeeded by his eldest son

(1st Earl.) RICHARD, as twelfth Baron of Delvin, who was knighted in 1603, and had a special livery of his estate in 1606; but the year following he was arrested, and committed to the Castle of Dublin for high treason, being suspected of a conspiracy in concert with the Earls of Tyrone, Tyrconnell, Mac Guire, &c. to surprize the Castle of Dublin, cut off the Lord Deputy and Council, dissolve the State, and set up a Government of their own. Having escaped out of the Castle, a Proclamation was published for apprehending him; but the next year his Lordship surrendered himself, and made his submission to his Majesty, who thereupon took him into favour, and directed a pardon to be passed for his life, lands and, goods, and ordered that he should enjoy the full benefit of all his former warrants for granting lands to him by patent; and he so effectually regained the King's favour, that, Sept. 4, 1621, he advanced him to the dignity of Earl of West-Meath by patent, with the annual creation fee of 20l. from the Crown revenues arising out of the County of West-Meath. In 1634, he sat in the Parliament, and was a leading man in the House of Peers; but refusing to join with the Lords and Gentry of the Pale, in the rebellion of 1641, a severe course was threatened to be taken with him for his denial; whereupon quitting his house, he was escorted to Dublin by a party of horse, but being attacked near Athboy by a thousand rebels, he was obliged to yield; they seized his plate and money to the value of 1000l. stripped his Countess and her gentlewoman in a shameful manner, massacred his servants, and damaged his houses and lands to the amount of 20,000l. and he died of the wounds he received on that occasion. He married Jane, daughter to Christopher the ninth Lord Killeen, and sister to Lucas, created Earl of Fingall, by whom he had two daughters, Bridget and Mary, who both died unmarried; and five sons, viz. Christopher Lord Delvin, his heir apparent.—Francis, who died without issue.—John, who married Catherine, daughter to James Dillon, Esq.—Laurence, died unmarried.—Colonel Ignatius Nugent, who commanded a regiment in the French service, and married Jane, daughter of Matthew the fifth Lord Lowth.—Christopher married the Lady Anne M'Donnell, eldest daughter to Randal Earl of Antrim, and dying before his father, July 10, 1625, left issue by her, (who afterwards married with William Lord Slane) an only son,

(2d Earl.) RICHARD, successor to his grandfather, and second Earl of West-Meath. He was, in 1650, General of the Irish forces, raised by the province of Leinster against the rebels, and, in 1652, was excepted from pardon, for life and estate, by Cromwell's Act of Parliament, for settling of Ireland; but his Lordship, with others of the Irish party, entering into certain articles, with the commissioner of the Government, leave was given him to transport one thousand Irish foot into Spain, and, in 1653, he had an order to enjoy such part of his estates as lay waste and undisposed of, and after his return from Flanders, where he was in the service of Spain with his regiment, the government being credibly informed that the public peace was disturbed in England,

England, the Lieut. General of the army was required, in August 1659, to apprehend his Lordship, with other leading men, in the county of Gallway; but surviving all these troubles, he was considered, after the Restoration, as a person meriting, in an especial manner, his Majesty's grace and favour. He died in the year 1684, and by Mary, daughter to Sir Thomas Nugent, had six sons and five daughters, viz. Christopher Lord Delvin.—Thomas.—Francis, and—Francis, who both died young.—Joseph, died a captain in France.—William.—The Daughters, Lady Mary, married to Henry the second Visc. Kingland.—Lady Anne, first married in 1681, to Lucas the sixth Visc. Dillon, and secondly to Sir William Talbot.—Lady Alifon, to Henry Dowdall, Esq.—Lady Elizabeth died young.—Lady Jane, married General Alexander Mac-Donnell, otherwise called Mac-Gregor. Christopher Lord Delvin, the eldest son, to Richard the second Earl of West-Meath, he married Mary, daughter to Richard Butler of Kilcash, Esq. niece to James the first Duke of Ormond; and dying before his father, left issue by her, who died March 28, 1737, three sons, Richard, Thomas, and John; and three daughters, who died unmarried.

(3d Earl.) RICHARD, the eldest son, succeeding his grandfather in 1684, was the third Earl of West-Meath; but taking on him the religious order of the Capuchins in France, and dying in April, 1714, at Wafley, in a convent order, (4th Earl.) THOMAS, his brother, became the fourth Earl. He was born in the year 1669; about the time of the Revolution, he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel to the Earl of Tyrone's regiment in King James's army; and afterwards succeeded to a regiment of foot, and succeeded Colonel Parker in the command of a regiment of horse; for his services in which stations he was outlawed, May 11, 1691: but being in the city of Limerick, when besieged by King William's forces, and one of the hostages exchanged for the observation of the articles of surrender, his outlawry was reversed, and he was restored to his honours and estate in 1684. He died, June 14, 1752, in a very advanced age. In 1684 he married Margaret, only daughter to John Lord Bellew, and by her, who died in 1700, had two sons and nine daughters, whereof only two survived; who were Lady Mary, married in 1705 to Francis Lord Athunrey; and Lady Catherine, married to Andrew Nugent;

the sons were, Christopher Lord Delvin, who died at Bath, April 12, 1752; and John, who died July 1, 1725.

(5th Earl.) On the death of Earl Thomas, JOHN his brother became the fifth Earl, and succeeded to the honour and estate of the family. He married the Honourable Magaret Molza, daughter of Count Molza, of the Dutchy of Modena in Italy, by whom (who died in Feb. 1776) he had issue three sons, viz. Thomas Lord Delvin, now Earl of West-Meath.—Edward,—Charles, who died in 1775, unmarried.—And Lady Frances, his only daughter. He died on July 3, 1754, in the eighty-third year of his age, on whose death, the honours and estate of the family descended to his eldest son

THE Right Honourable RICHARD BARRY, Earl of BARRYMORE, Viscount Buttevant, Baron Barry of Oletan, and Ishawne, succeeded his father 1 August 1773.

This noble family are said to derive their name from the island of Barry, in the county of Glamorgan in Wales, (so called from Baruch an holy man buried there) and from their great riches and estates have been called by the people Barrymore, or Barry the Great. Sir Robert, in the year 1170, went into Ireland, where he did great service for Dermont King of Leinster, against Donald King of Ossory; and Philip his brother marrying the sister of Robert Fitz-Stephen, the said Robert gave to William the son of Philip, three cantreds of land in the county of Cork. In the year 1229, the said Philip endowed the friary of Ballibey in the county of Cork, for which his effigies on horseback was cast in brass, and hung up in the church. ## O'BRYEN, EARL OF INCHQUIN.

THE Right Honourable MURROUGH O BRYEN, Earl and Baron of INCHQUIN, Baron of Burren, and Knight of St. Patrick, succeeded his uncle William, July 8, 1777, he married 1753, his cousin Mary, daughter of the late Earl, the present Countess of Orkney, by whom he had two daughters.

Connor, was the last of twelve Princes of the O Bryen family, after the landing of King Henry II. in Ireland, that reigned successively in Thomond, and were stiled either Kings of Limerick or Thomond, instead of being Sovereign Monarchs of all Ireland, as their ancestors were. The said Connor, marrying Honora Bourk, had two sons, Donogh and Daniel; whereof Donogh was the second Earl, and he marrying Hellen, daughter to Pierce Butler, Earl of Ormond, by her had Connor O Brien, the third Earl; who married Mac Ibrienara's daughter, and had three sons, of which, Donogh, the eldest, was fourth Earl. He married to his first wife the Lord Roch's daughter, and by her had the Lady Margaret O Brien, who married Cormack Mac Carty, who was created Earl of Clancarty; and by his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter to Gerald the eleventh Earl of Kildare, he had Henry the fifth Earl of Thomond, and Sir Barnaby O Brien, Knt. Henry, who was the fifth Earl, married the daughter of Sir William Brereton, Knt. and had five daughters, of which, Mary was first married to Charles Cockain, Viscount Cullen; and secondly to George Blount, Esq. son of Sir George Blount, Bart. Margaret, to Edward, Marquis of Worcester; Elizabeth, to Dutton Lord Gerard of Brimley, by whom he had a daughter, married to William Spencer, Esq. brother to Henry the first Earl of Sunderland, by whom he had a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Robert Hesketh, Esq. Anne, to Henry the seventh Earl of Thomond; and Honora was first married to Sir Francis Englesfield, Bart. and afterwards to Sir Robert Howard, son to the Earl of Berkshire; but the Earl their father having no issue male, his title descended to Sir Barnaby his brother, who was the sixth Earl, and died in the year 1612, leaving issue by Mary, eighth and youngest daughter to Sir George Fermor, Knt. ancestor to the present Earl of Pomfret, and widow of Robert Sanguhar, a Scotch Lord, Henry, the seventh Earl of Thomond, and a daughter, Penelope, married to Henry Mordaunt, Earl of Peterborough, and by him had an only daughter, Mary, who became Duchess of Norfolk. Henry, who was the seventh Earl, and died on May 2, 1691, married his first cousin Anne, fourth daughter to Henry the fifth Earl of Thomond, as before-mentioned, by her had Henry Lord Ibrikan, who died before him, and left issue by the Lady Catharine Steuart, sister and sole heir to Charles Duke of Richmond and Lenox, two sons and two daughters; whereof, Mary, the eldest, was married to John Fitzgerald, the eighteenth Earl of Kildare; and Catharine to Edward Hyde, Earl of Clarendon; and the said Catharine, their mother, being at length sole heir to her brother, laid claim to the Barony of Clifton in England, which is enjoyed by her descendant, the present Earl of Darnley. Of the said two sons, which were Donogh or Donatus, and George, the latter died young; and the elder, who married the Lady Sophia Osborne, sixth daughter to Thomas Duke of Leeds, mother of the late Earl of Pomfret, attending on his Royal Highness James Duke of York, in his voyage towards Scotland, was drowned on May 5, 1682, so that we return to Henry the seventh Earl of Thomond, his grandfather, who died May 2, 1691. He married to his second wife, Sarah, third daughter to Sir Francis Ruffel, Bart. and had two sons and three daughters, of which Elizabeth died young; Penelope was married to Henry Howard, Earl of Suffolk; and Mary to Sir Matthew Dudley, Bart. and of the sons, which were Henry and Horatio, the eldest (in the seventeenth year of his age) having married the Lady Henrietta Somersset, third daughter to Henry Duke of Beaufort, and dying July 10, 1690, (aged twenty-one) the year before his father, by her (who was afterwards married to Henry Howard, Earl of Suffolk) left a son, Henry, and two daughters; whereof, Elizabeth died an infant; but Mary, the eldest, who was born Sept. 14, 1687, had a warrant of precedency, dated April 18, 1698, to William III. to take place as if the Lord O'Brien, her father, had lived to have been Earl of Thomond; and the said Henry, her brother, who was born August 14, 1688, succeeding his grandfather, was the eighth and last Earl. He married the Lady Elizabeth Seymour, eldest daughter to Charles Duke of Somersset, and dying without issue the title became extinct; he left his estate to Percy Wyndham, Esq. second son of Sir William Wyndham, Bart. by the Lady Catherine Seymour, his wife's sister, who took the name of O'Brien, and was created Earl of Thomond, but died without issue. We now return to Teige, second son to Connor third Earl of Thomond, which family is extinct; and Daniel O'Brien, the third son, was created Viscount Clare, July 17, 1662, the 14th of Charles II. He married Philadelphia, eldest sister of Thomas Lennard, Earl of Suffex, and had two sons, Charles and Murrough; the eldest was the second Viscount; but was outlawed for his service to King James II. and on May 11, 1706, at the battle of Ramilies received nine wounds, of which he died, being then in the French service. He married the eldest daughter of Henry Bulkeley, Master of the Household to King Charles II. and had several children. Teige and Donogh, who were the next brothers to Connor, ancestor to the family of Thomond, died without issue; but Murrough, the youngest, marrying Eleanor, daughter to Thomas Fitz-Gerald, by her had (1st Baron.) DERMOID O'BRIEN, who was the first Baron of Inchiquin; and the said Connor, who was the last King of Thomond, and eldest brother to Murrough, leaving a son, named Donogh O'Brien, who was a minor, to him of right belonged the principality, whereof the said Murrough his uncle had possessed himself; the pretence being a most unreasonable custom called Thanistry, then used in Ireland, whereby the estate and title were to descend for life only, upon the eldest and worthiest man of the blood and surname of him that died last seized; and afterwards the said Murrough, or Mauro, resigning his title and principality to King Henry VIII. was by Letters Patent created Earl of Thomond for life, and Baron of Inchiquin to him and his heirs male; and as by the same Letters Patent that he created Murrough O'Brien Earl of Thomond for life, he also appointed the said minor, Donogh, to be Earl of Thomond during his life, from and after the death of his uncle Murrough; he for the present was created Baron of Ibrican to him and his heirs male; which title of Earl, the said Donogh enjoyed after the death of his uncle, as before mentioned.

But in King Edward the Sixth's time he surrendered the Letters Patent, whereby he was created Earl of Thomond for life; the King granted in return, by another Patent, the Earldom of Thomond to him and his heirs male. Murrough O'Brien, who was the first Earl of Thomond, as before mentioned, had issue two sons, Dermoid and Donogh, which

In the reign of King Robert II. Sir John Forbes of that ilk, acquiring from Thomas Earl of Mar several lands, in the county of Aberdeen, was therein confirmed by the charter of that King; and, in the fifth of Robert III. was constituted Justice-General, and Coroner of that that county. ### MAULE, EARL OF PANMURE.

THE Right Honourable JOHN MAULE, Earl of PANMURE, Viscount and Baron Maule, succeeded his brother, Jan. 1780.

This very ancient and noble family is originally French, and derive their surname from the Town and Lordship of Maule in France, eight leagues from Paris, upon the confines of Normandy. Guarin de Maule came into England with William the Conqueror, among the names of whose followers Maule is always found, particularly in Holingshed, and got the Lordship of Hatton de Cliveland; out of which Robert de Maule, his son, made a donation to the Abbey of Whitby, in the reign of Henry I. from whom descended Serlo de Maule, who was a Baron of England in the reign of King John, and named at the Coronation of King Henry III. Of this same family was William de Maule, who sided with David I. King of Scotland, in the battle of the Standard, in 1138; and, continuing to follow that King's fortunes, obtained the Lordship of Foulis, out of which he made donations to the Priory of St. Andrew; and is witness to some of the Charters made by King David, and his son Prince Henry, before the year 1152. He dying without issue male, Sir Richard de Maule, his nephew, carried on the line of the family, and was succeeded by his son Sir Peter de Maule, who about the year 1224, in the reign of Alexander II. obtained the Barony of Panmure, by the marriage of Christian, daughter and sole heir of William de Valoignes, Lord Panmure, and Great Chamberlain of Scotland; and, dying in 1254, left issue Sir William, his successor, and Sir Thomas, who was Governor of Brechin, which he defended forty days against King Edward I. and was there slain in 1303. Which William, Baron of Panmure, was High Sheriff of the county of Forfar

Forfar at the death of King Alexander III. and one of the Barons of Scotland, who did homage to King Edward I. for his lands which he held of the Crown, in 1292. He married Etham, daughter to John de Vaus, Lord Dirleton, High Sheriff of the county of Edinburgh, by whom he left issue Sir Henry de Maule, his heir, who was knighted by King Robert Bruce, whom he served in the wars against England: and married Margaret, daughter to William Hay of Locherwert, ancestor to the Marquis of Tweeddale; by whom he had Walter de Maule, Baron of Panmure, who was Governor of Kildrummy in the beginning of the reign of King David Bruce, and had two sons, Sir William, and Henry Maule of Glafier, ancestor to the family seated there. Sir William, the eldest son, married Marion, only daughter to Sir David Fleming of Biggar, ancestor to the Earl of Wigton, by Jane his wife, daughter to David Barclay Lord Brechin; and had Thomas, his successor, who was knighted by King Robert III. and was one of the Commanders of the Governor of Scotland's army at the battle of Harlaw, where he was slain, with all the gentlemen of his name, in 1411. He had issue by Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Andrew Gray of Foulis, ancestor to the Lord Gray, a son born after his death, Thomas, Baron of Panmure, who was knighted by King James I. and upon the death of Walter Earl of Athol, and Lord Brechin, in 1437, laid claim to the Lordship of Brechin, in right of his great grandmother, daughter to David Lord Brechin, and obtained some parts of the estate of that family; but was kept out of the Barony, by the ministry of King James II. which after some time returned to the family of the Maules. He was at the battle of Lithgow Bridge, with the Earl of Lenox, for that King's liberty, in 1526; and in Queen Mary's reign, with the Lord Gray, stormed the town of Perth, which held out against the Queen's authority. He was a great opposer of the Union with England; and, after the battle of Pinkinleugh, was besieged in his castle of Panmure by the English, wounded, and carried prisoner to the Tower of London; from whence he was released, after a year's imprisonment, and died May 2, 1560. His Lordship is descended from an ancient family in Yorkshire; of whom were the Saviles, Earls of Essex, which title is now extinct; and George Savile, Marquis of Halifax, whose son William having no male issue, that title also became extinct. Of this family was Thomas Savile, of Newsted, in the county of York, who had issue two sons: from the eldest, Sir John Savile, Knt. is descended the present Sir George Savile, of Rufford, in the county of Nottingham, Bart. Henry, the second son of the said Thomas, having married Eleanor, daughter and heir of Thomas Copley, of Copley, possessed that lordship. He had issue three sons, John, Thomas, and Nicholas; from John the line of Copley descends. Thomas, the second son, married Anne, daughter of John Stansfeld, and had issue four sons, John Savile, of Hullingridge, near Eland, who married Alice, daughter of Ralph Lister, of Halifax.—Thomas, who married Elizabeth Lady Waterton, of Walton, but had no children.—Henry.—Nicholas, of Newhall, near Eland. Which Nicholas, by his wife Margaret, daughter of William Wilkinson, had issue two sons and four daughters, John and Thomas, ancestors of the Saviles of Welborne. John Savile, of Newhall, Esq. eldest son and heir of Nicholas, married Margery, daughter of John Gleadhill, and had issue, Nicholas, who married Jennet, daughter of Thomas Foxcroft, Esq.—John, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Frigot, of South Kirby, Esq.—Henry, of whom hereafter.—Thomas, who married Jennet, daughter of Nicholas Boothroyd; from him descend the Saviles of Watergate, near Halifax; and four daughters, Agnes, wife of Thomas Harrison, of Woodhouse.—Alice, of Robert Holt, of Stubbley, in Lanc. Sir Henry, aforesaid, born November 30, 1549, was entered in Oxford, anno 1561, and admitted Bachelor of Arts in Lent 1595. In 1578, he travelled into France and other countries; on his return was instituted tutor to Queen Elizabeth for the Greek tongue, who made him Warden of Merton College, and in the year 1596, Provost of Eton. He was afterwards employed by Queen Elizabeth, as Resident in the Low-Countries. When King James I. came to the crown, he had a great respect for Mr. Savile and his learning, and would have advanced him to a higher place, either in church or state; but he refused it, and accepted only of the honour of knighthood, at Windsor, 21 Sept. 1604; and soon after Henry, his eldest son, dying, he bestowed much of his wealth in publishing books. He collected the best copies of St. Chrystom, and employed learned men to transcribe and make annotations on them, which he fairly set forth at his own cost, (computed at 8000*l*.) in a most beautiful edition. He was an excellent mathematician, as witness his learned lectures on Euclid, for which science he founded two lectures in Oxford, allowing a liberal salary to the Professors. He died in Eton college 19 Feb. 1621, and the university of Oxon erected in Merton college a sumptuous honorary monument to his memory. Elizabeth, his daughter and sole heir, became the wife of Sir John Sidley, of Ailesford, in Kent, Bart.

He had issue several sons and daughters that died young; and a son, John, who just arrived at age, and died in France in the life-time of his father, who died 23 June 1632, in the 53d year of his age; so that the dignity became extinct, and the estate descended to John Savile, Esq. his half brother, who also inherited the same by conveyance from Sir Henry, his uncle. This John was High Sheriff of Yorkshire, 24 Charles I. and died about the year 1651. He married first, Mary, daughter of John Robinson, of Ryther, near Selby, in Yorkshire, by whom he had issue two sons and four daughters that died in their infancy. ### ST. LAWRENCE, EARL OF HOWTH.

THE Right Honourable THOMAS ST. LAWRENCE, Earl of HOWTH, Viscount St. Lawrence, and Baron of Howth, in the county of Dublin, born May 10, 1730, succeeded his father William, April 4, 1748, and was advanced to the dignity of Viscount and Earl, August 15, 1767. He, November 17, 1750, married Isabella, daughter of the Earl of Kingston, by whom he had issue William Viscount St. Lawrence, born October 4, 1752, married June 1, 1777, to Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of the Earl of Louth; and a daughter, Isabella, born August 30, 1751, married November 16, 1773, to the late Lord Sidney, who died without issue, and the title became extinct.

This ancient and noble family, which is of English extraction, was originally named Trifram, till, on St. Lawrence's day

(1st Lord.) SIR ALMERICUS being to command an army against the Danes, near Clantarf, he made a vow to that saint, that, if he got the victory, he and his posterity, in honour thereof, should bear the name of St. Lawrence, which has so continued to this time; and the sword wherewith he fought is now hanging up at the great hall at Howth, the seat of the present Lord: and what is very remarkable in this family is, that the estate and barony they now enjoy they have possessed near 600 years, without the least increasing or diminishing, during which time there never was an attainder in it. His valour and conduct were so remarkable, and the fight so successful, that the lands and title of Howth were allotted to him for his part of the conquest. In this engagement he lost seven sons, uncles, and nephews, and had three large wounds, which caused his life to be despaired of. In 1189, upon the removal of Sir John Courcy from the government, by King Richard I. and substituting Hugh Lacy in his room, the Irish resolved to regain their country from Courcy, now divested of his power. Sir Almericus, being then in Connaght with 30 Knights and

200 foot, was desired to repair to the assistance of Courcy ; but O'Connor King of Connaght, opposing his March, all the horsemen killed their horses, that they might not be tempted to flight, and engaging the enemy, which consisted of 20,000 men, killed 1000 of them, but were overpowered by numbers, and all perished to a man. He married the sister of Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, and left three sons ; of whom,

(2d Lord.) SIR NICHOLAS, the eldest, was so desperately wounded, in nine several places, that he was left for dead ; but he happily recovered. He was succeeded by his son,

VAUGHAN, EARL OF LISBURNE.

THE Right Honourable WILMOT VAUGHAN, Earl of LISBURNE, in the county of Antrim, Viscount Lisburne, and Lord Vaughan, Baron of Fethers, succeeded his father January 10, 1766, as Viscount Lisburne, and was raised to the dignity of Earl of Lisburne, July 16, 1776. In 1755, he was chosen Member for Cardiganshire, and Lord Lieutenant of that county, and was elected Member of Parliament for Berwick-upon-Tweed, on the death of his uncle Thomas Watson, Esq. who dying January 6, 1766, left him sole heir to his estate. His Lordship, in 1768, was elected to represent the county of Cardigan; also in the Parliament called in 1774, and again elected to the present Parliament, in 1780. He is also Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum for the said county. In 1768, he was appointed one of the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations, and, in 1770, one of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, at which Board he continued to sit till the general change in 1782. He married to his first wife, Elizabeth, sole daughter to Joseph Gascoyne Nightingale, of Mamhead, in the county of Devon, and Enfield, in the county of Middlesex, Esq. by Elizabeth his wife, eldest daughter and coheiress to Washington Earl Ferrers, sister, and at length sole heiress to her brother Washington Nightingale, Esq. who died in 1754, and by her, who died May 19, 1755, has one son, Wilmot, Lord Vaughan, born May 9, 1755. His Lordship married to his second wife, April 19, 1763, Dorothy, eldest daughter of John Shafto, of Whitworth, in the county of Durham, Esq. and by her he has one son, John, born March 10, 1770, and two daughters, Dorothy-Elizabeth, born May 13, 1764.—Mallet, born July 30, 1765.

Of this ancient family, which has flourished at Trow-coed (Crosswood) in the county of Cardigan, for fifteen generations, in a direct line, was Edward Vaughan, Esq. He married to his second wife, Jane, widow of John Stedman, of Kilkinnin, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. daughter to Sir Thomas Jones, of Abermartis, in the county of Caermarthen, Knight, by whom he had several children, who deceased without issue; but by his first wife, Lettice, daughter of John Stedman, of Strata-Florida, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. he had three sons and one daughter, who became the wife of John Stedman, of Strata-Florida, Esq. son of John above mentioned. Of the sons, Morris died unmarried. Henry was seated at Kilkinnin, in the county of Cardigan, and married Mary, second daughter and coheirefs to John Stedman, of that place, Esq. and dying in 1663, left three daughters his coheireffes; of whom, Jane married Sir Matthew Price, of Newton, in the county of Montgomery, Baronet; the second married Morgan Herbert, of Havod, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. and the third married Thomas Lloyd, of Lanlawtoy, in the county of Caermarthen, Esq. John, the eldest son, who proved a very learned lawyer and eminent patriot, was educated at the King's school at Worcester; whence, after five years stay, he was removed to Christ-church, Oxon, in the fifteenth year of his age, and thence, at eighteen, to the Inner-temple, where, for some time, he preferred his academical studies of poetry and the mathematics to the municipal laws of England, till at length falling into the acquaintance of the incomparable Mr. Selden and others, he was instructed by them in the value of civil learning, and applied closely to a course of that study, particularly of the law, which he made his profession. His practice was mostly in the Star-chamber, where he soon became very eminent. In the parliament of 1640 he was chosen to represent the town of Cardigan, and acted firmly with Selden, Pym, and Hampden, in their noble and spirited opposition to the arbitrary measures of Charles I. being much noted and admired for his learned speeches. Lord Clarendon, in a character very invidiously drawn of him, mentions, that he looked most into those parts of the law that disposed him to least reverence to the Crown, and most to popular authority; but without any inclination to any change of government; which proves the very contrary to the noble historian's purpose, pose, and will in these times be remembered to his honour. He persevered in the same principles as a Judge in the reign of Charles II. when he was appointed Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, of which he has left memorable proofs in his judgments from the bench, and died in this high station, December 3, 1674. He was buried in the Temple church, near the grave of his friend Selden; part of whose fortune he inherited as one of his executors. A marble monument is erected to his memory, on the south-west end of the said church.

He married Jane, eldest daughter and coheirefs of John Stedman, of Kilkinnin, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. by whom he had one son, Edward, and one daughter, married to Richard Herbert, of Swansea, in the county of Glamorgan, Esq. Edward, the son, served in several parliaments for the county of Cardigan, and distinguished himself by his learned speeches against a corrupt and arbitrary court. Many of his speeches, upon the most interesting points, are printed in the Parliamentary Debates, and in Anchitel Grey's collection. Bishop Burnet, in the History of his Own Times, ranks him amongst those eminent men who preserved the constitution in that critical season, and bears testimony to his great integrity and the public service he did. He published the Reports of his father, with a Preface written by himself, and died at Ludlow, in Shropshire, in 1683, leaving issue by Letitia, his wife, daughter to Sir William Hooker, Knight, two sons and three daughters. Of the daughters, the eldest was married to Robert Davies, of Llanerth, in the county of Flint, Esq. and secondly to ——— Pennant, Esq. The second daughter was married to John Owen, of Cundover, in the county of Salop, Esq. and the youngest daughter died unmarried. Of the sons, Selden died unmarried; and,

(1st Baronet and Viscount.) JOHN, the eldest, was, by King William, created by patent, bearing date June 25, 1695, a Baron and Viscount, by the titles of Viscount Lisburne, Lord Vaughan, Baron of Fethers, in the kingdom of Ireland. He represented the county of Cardigan in several parliaments, of which he was appointed Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum at the accession of George I. He married Mallet Wilmot, third daughter to John Earl of Rochester, sister and coheirefs to her brother Charles Earl of Rochester (she died in 1716) and his Lordship dying in 1720, left issue by her three sons and three daughters. Of the daughters, Anne married Sir John Prideaux, of Netherton in the county of Devon, Baronet; and Elizabeth died unmarried. Of the sons, Henry died unmarried; and (2d Viscount.) JOHN, the eldest, succeeded his father. In 1721, he was appointed Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the county of Cardigan; and, in 1727, was chosen to represent that county in parliament. He married to his first wife, the daughter of Sir John Bennett, Knight, Serjeant at Law; and she dying July 31, 1723, he married, in 1725, his second wife, Dorothy, daughter to Richard Hill, of Henblas in the county of Montgomery, Esq. by whom he had one daughter, born in 1727, and now deceased; and a son, who died young. His Lordship died at Crosswood, in the county of Cardigan, January 15, 1741, without issue male, and was succeeded by Wilmot, his second brother.

(3d Viscount.) WILMOT, the third Viscount, was appointed Lord Lieutenant of the county of Cardigan, in 1744, and was Captain of an independent company of foot. In Dec. 1734, his Lordship married Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Thomas Watson, of Berwick-upon-Tweed, Esq. and dying at Crosswood, January 19, 1766, left issue two sons and one daughter, Elizabeth, married to Thomas Lloyd, of Abertrinant in the county of Cardigan, Esq. Of the sons, John, the second son was, in 1746, appointed a Cornet in the 10th regiment of dragoons, and proceeding through the several ranks, served the last war in Germany, North-America, and the West-Indies, particularly at the taking of Martinico, where he commanded one of the battalions of grenadiers, that distinguished themselves in the reduction of that island. On the 11th of May, 1775, he was appointed Colonel of the 46th regiment, which being ordered to North-America, he served as Brigadier and Major-General on that staff. On the 29th of January, 1777, he was appointed Major-General on the British establishment, and led the grenadiers to the attack of the Rebels at Brooklyn, in Long-Island. At the landing on New-York island, he first advanced at the head of the same corps, and in ascending the heights was wounded in the thigh. He commanded the attack at Fort Montgomery, on the north river, where his horse was killed as he was dismounting to lead the troops to storm that Fort, in which he succeeded, and is noticed by Sir Henry Clinton's orders, dated the 9th Oct. 1777, in these words, 'Fort Clinton is henceforth to be distinguished by the name of Fort Vaughan, in in memory of the intrepidity and noble perseverance, which Major-General Vaughan shewed in the assault of it.' After the campaign, in 1779, he returned to England, and was in December appointed Commander in Chief of his Majesty's forces in the Leeward Islands. On the 3d of February; 1781, he took the island of St. Eustatius, in conjunction with the fleet under Admiral Lord Rodney, and resigned that command the same year. In 1779, he was appointed Governor of Fort William; and in 1780, advanced to the Government of Berwick, which place he represents in the present, as he did in the last parliament.

(4th Viscount, 1st Earl.) WILMOT, the eldest, is the present Earl of Lisburne.

This noble family, descended from the Crosbies of Great Crosbie, in Lancashire, first came into Ireland in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; and about the latter end of that reign there were two brothers resident there, viz. Patrick, and John, the ancestor of the present Earl. Patrick was the father of Sir Pierce Crosbie, who was bred to arms, and served under the Duke of Buckingham at the siege of Rochelle, and under Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, in his German wars. On his return to Ireland he incurred the displeasure of the Earl of Strafford, for opposing his measures, and was again obliged to quit the kingdom, till the trial of that nobleman occasioned his return, to appear against him in support of the charges. After the execution of the Earl, Sir Pierce continued in Ireland, and dying without issue, left the whole of his estates, which were considerable, to his uncle's sons.

John, younger brother to Patrick, was bred to the Church, and by Privy Seal of Queen Elizabeth, October 2, 1600, had the episcopal sees of Ardfert and Aghadoc, in the county of Kerry. Walter was created a Baronet of Nova-Scotia, April 24, 1630, and was Member of Parliament for the county of Kerry, in 1634. He was ancestor to Sir Edward Crosbie, Bart. and father of Sir John Crosbie, Bart. who by his attachment

This nobleman is of a very antient and noble family, paternally of English and maternally of Irish extraction. The Stratford (or English) of mixed origin, the Oneals (or Irish) scarce to be traced to its source. Of the former Gualtera de Lupella, vulgarly called Lovel, or Tonci, according to Cambden, are from Amiens, the capital of Picardy in France, who as Sir Thomas Chatterton the antiquarian asserts, came to England with William the Conqueror, and was at the battle of Hastings, as appears by the Stowe roll of Battle Abby. This Gualtera, married Allotte de Ewe, of the city of Ewe, in Normandy, and his issue mixing with the Stratfords of Saxon descent, formed the common ancestor of this house, who took the name of the female, as was customary in those days, if the maternal was of a more distinguished lineage than the paternal. The name of Stratford is, however, clearly of Grecian import, and is derived from Στρατοδης, i. e. a leader or the song of armies; from Στρατος, Exercitus, and οδη, Cantus; and the rather as the arms of the noble peer are the same as those of Alexander the Great, which atchievement or bearing his several generals wore on their banners, and assumed at his death, on their division of his mighty empire. The Saxon branch flourished in the reign of Alfred the Great, from whence this family is easily traced. They were considerable during the Heptarchy, long before the Conquest, for Edward Stratford, built at his own expence the church of Old Stratford, in Barlichway Hundred, anno 1000, which is 66 years before the conquest, as asserted by Dugdale;

dale; who also says, that Edward Stratford possessed Bishopstone and Drayton before the time of Canute the Dane. Stratford on Avon was founded by Stratford, 300 years before the Conquest, agreeable to the authority of the same antiquarian. The monastery of Stratford, in the see of Worcester, was founded by Stratford, anno 872. Edward Stratford, of Ansley, in Warwickshire, married Anne Bracebridge, anno 1057, according to Cambden, who also mentions 15 towns and 2 hundreds in England of the name of Stratford. Clapton, in Warwickshire, which contained 10 hydes in the Conqueror's survey, belonged to Robert de Stratford, according to Dugdale; who also says, that Morton Bagot came to Robert de Stratford by the Conqueror's gift. He also possessed Wolverton in the Conqueror's time. Robert de Stratford, founded Stratford Tonci, in memory of his ancestor, in Wiltshire, in Richard II's reign. He possessed also Horton Limosi and Woolverdinton, now Hampton, the 13th of John, 1211, and a Stratford owned Willy, in Edward I's time. Thomas Stratford, Archdeacon of Gloucester, owned the manor of Shottery, the 31st of Edward I. and also Dodwell, Ryvine, Clifford, Stratford, Bishops Manor, of Old Stratford, Brushwood, Wooton, Bishopsden Warren, and divers other manors and lordships in Berks, Northampton, and Staffordshire; and Wighorn, Lincoln, Orford in Suffolk, bestowed on him by the Conqueror, and descended from that great and noble family of the Tonci totius Normandiæ Signifer. Mockley also belonged to him, and Allenhole, Butler, Whitley, Langley, Edstone, Bearty, and Ufford, as reported by Cambden; by which it appears, that this ancient and renowned family founded many towns, and were possessed of many manors at very early periods, in the counties of Cheshire, Stafford, Warwick, Gloucester, Worcester, Northampton, Wilts, Berks, Bucks, Herts, Bedford, Somerset, Middlesex, Essex, and Suffolk, which to this day bear their name; and the present noble Peer hath added to their number, having founded in the center of one of the principal streets of Westminster, Stratford-place, one of the principal ornaments of the metropolis, and erected a superb edifice for his residence at the upper end of the street and square, which form a cul-de-sac, anno 1772; and also a town in Ireland, in 1775, called Stratford-upon Slaney, consisting of four streets, laid out at right angles, and an octagon area in the center of 260 feet; and has obtained a grant for two fairs and a weekly market. He hath

hath also considerably augmented his corporation town of Baltinglass. His Lordship has also much improved the mansion seat at Belan.

The Stratfords also possessed Aldborough-Tunstal, Blackfel, Farnham, and Stratford upon Ald, in Suffolk, which went by a female into the family of the Glenhams, as appears by their arms quartered with the Stratfords on a brass monumental inscription, at Glenham-Hall parish church, and it is remarkable, that as the Stratford and Glenham estates came at length to the Norths, in whom the last were vested; so by the marriage of the present Earl, with the heiress of Mrs. Herbert, otherwise North, heiress to her brother, Dudley North, they will on their death be again properly reinvested in the Strafford. The arms of Aldborough (granted to Stratford by William Hervey, Clarenceux King of Arms, 1561, viz. a ship of three masts in full sail on the waves of the sea, having the mainsail charged with the Stratford lyon, rampant) being the bearing of that family. The foresail is charged with a cross of St. George; and on the round-top of each mast, four spears, with their barbs upwards.

This family has produced many eminent prelates and statesmen, an Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishops of Winchester, London, Durham, Chichester, and Chester; Lords Regents and Treasurers, Justiciary of England, several Lord Keepers of the Great Seal and Lords Chancellors. They have also represented the counties of Gloucester and Northampton, and county of Warwick, in 42 parliaments; the city of Coventry in 52, and the town of Taunton, the county of Wicklow in 2, and the boroughs of Harristown and Baltinglass in several other parliaments, as may be collected from the parliamentary rolls, registers, and journals of each kingdom, and other public records.

It would exceed the limits prescribed us to give the whole of the pedigree of this antient house, which can regularly trace its descent from the time of Alfred, through forty generations, many of whom have intermarried with the principal families of the two kingdoms, and from whom have originated a great number of our present nobility, &c. and the present family has a great number of quarterings in their arms, of the heiresses they have married, and whose estates it now enjoys.

Robert Stratford, a younger branch of the house of Merevale, and the first of the name who settled in Ireland, 1660, was one of the original burgesses in the charter constituting stituting Baltinglass a borough, and afterwards Knight of the shire for the county of Wicklow, where he was so careffed and esteemed, that the body of the county, besides choosing him their representative, desired he would name his colleague. He married, 1662, Miss Walsh, daughter to Oliver Walsh, Esq. of Ballykillcavin, in Queen's county, from whom descends Colonel Hunt-Walsh: the said Robert purchased several estates, and held several lands, copyholds, and farms, in the provinces of Leinster and Munster, and counties of Limerick, Tipperary, Dublin, and Wicklow. He left two sons and seven daughters. Edward the eldest, who succeeded his father in his estate, was born Jan. 28, 1663-4.—Francis, born 1667, was Consul at Bourdeaux, and partner with his uncle Francis, of the city of London, secretary to the Duke of Chandos, Paymaster of the Forces, and Secretary at War to Queen Anne. He married, and died without issue.—Grace, born May 2, 1666, married Samuel Burton, of Burton-Hill, Esq. in the county of Catherlough, father to the Right Honourable Benjamin Burton, Commissioner of the Revenue, married to Anne Ponsonby, sister to the Earl of Besborough, and also to Viscountess Netterville, mother to the present Lord.—Elizabeth, born Sept. 27, 1672, married to Thomas Eyre, of Eyreville, in the county of Galway, Esq. from whom Stratford Eyre, Governor of Galway, and his brother Thomas, his Majesty's surveyor and engineer general, are descended.—Anne, born April 6, 1675, married to Robert Perse, of Roxborough, in the county of Galway, Esq.—Jane, born June 5, 1674, married to John Carleton, of Darling-Hill, in the county of Tipperary, Esq.—Abigail, born 20, 1673, married to George Canning, of Garvagh, in the county of Donegal, Esq. who dying, she married, secondly, to Major Cadmore.—Mary, born April 1, 1668, married to Robert Hickman, Esq. of the county of Clare.—Catharine, born May 3, 1676, married to John Spencer, Esq. of the city of Dublin. Robert their father died 1699, having been a very considerable sufferer in the devastations which then unfortunately prevailed in the kingdom. Edward, son and heir to the said Robert, purchased the fee of the several farms and leaseholds his father held, and added the lordship and manor of Great Belan, Little Belan, Pill, and Grangford, in the county of Kildare, purchased from Lord Fitz-Harding and Doctor Wellesley, and divers other estates to them. He married Elizabeth, daughter to Euseby Baisley, of Ricketstown, in the county of Carlow, by whom he had issue three sons and one daughter; and, secondly, Penelope, mother to Sir Robert Ecklin, by whom he had no issue. To his sons Robert and Easeby he left his Queen's county estates, and the rest of his estates to his third son and heir, John, the late Earl. His daughter Anne, married to Charles Plunkett, of Dillonstown, in the county of Louth, Esq. son of Matthew, the seventh Lord Louth, who dying before the title came to him, left by the said Anne Stratford, five daughters, viz. Anne, married to Alexander, Earl of Antrim, by whom she left issue, the present Earl, and two daughters.—Elizabeth, married to Mr. Lethiculier, and afterwards to Mr. Shadwell; by neither of whom had she issue.—Frances, married to Henry Meredyth, Esq. secretary to the Lords Justices.—Charlotte, married to Mr. Ross.—Penelope, unmarried.

Edward, the eldest son, as well as his father Robert, having been involved in the troubles subsisting in Ireland in James the II.'s time, were very serviceable to, and instrumental in, the establishment of the house of Orange and Hanover succession; he furnished King William's army with two thousand sheep, and two hundred oxen, entertained his Majesty at Belan, and maintained such of his forces as were quartered near him with bread and beer, for which King James's adherents threatened their lives, plundered their Munster estates of their stock, and did other considerable damages; dispossessed them of their houses, and deprived them of their property and several years income of their estates. The then commissioners, by order of the King, sent public letters of acknowledgment to them for their great aids to him, expressing at the same time his concern at his inability in those distressed times to make any recompence for their losses and sufferings on his account. A Peerage was offered to Edward soon after his father Robert's decease, which, for family reasons, he chose to decline accepting of. He died Feb. 23, 1739-40, and was succeeded by his third son

(1st Earl.) JOHN, who represented the borough of Baltinglass till moved to the House of Peers. He served the offices of High Sheriff of Carlow, Wexford, Wicklow, and Kildare, was a Trustee of the Linen Manufacture, a Member of the Dublin Society, and a Col. of the militia horse. Following the example of his father and grandfather, having a predilection to the House of Commons, he often refused the honour of Peerage, till induced to accept a transfer of it from his son and successor, Edward, to himself (who declined preceding his father) May 10, 1763, under the title of Baron Baltinglass; and was further advanced by his son's means, to Viscount Aldborough, June 26, 1776; and raised by the same interest to the dignity of Earl of Aldborough and Viscount Amiens, Jan. 29, 1777. His Lordship married, Martha, one of the coheiresses of the Rev. Benjamin Oneal, Archdeacon of Leighlin, by Hannah Paul, coheiress of Colonel Joshua Paul, by whom he had issue five sons, and nine daughters; Edward the present Earl.—John, married to a daughter of Archdeacon James Hamilton, by whom he has several daughters.—Rev. Francis-Paul, unmarried.—Benjamin Oneal, late a Captain in the army, married to Martha, only child of John Burton, Registerer of Public Deeds, by whom he has several daughters.—Robert, a Captain in the navy, who died unmarried, 1778.—Hannah.—Elizabeth, married to Robert, son of James Tynte, Esq. member of Youghall, by whom she has issue, the present Sir John Stratford Tynte, Bart. who has married his cousin.—Martha, married to the late Morley Saunders, Esq. by whom she had issue, Morley, a Colonel in the Aldborough legion; and Stratford, a Captain of foot; and several daughters; of whom Sophia is married the Rev. Mead-Swift Dennis; and Hannah, to her cousin, Sir James Stratford Tynte, Bart.—Anne, married to George Powell, Esq. Barrister at Law, Dublin.—Grace is also married.—Amelia, married to Viscount Powerscourt, by whom she has issue.—Harriot, married to Robert Hartpole, Esq. of Queen's county, by whom she has a son George and two daughters.—Deborough is unmarried.—Frances, married to William Holt, Esq. of Season Park, by whom she has issue a daughter Edwarda. His Lordship died May 29, 1777, at the age of 86, and was succeeded in his honours by his eldest son,

(2d Earl.) JOHN, the present Earl, the 40th in descent from Edward Stratford, who lived in the reign of Alfred, and who is maternally descended from Oneal, head of the Oneals, Kings of Ulster, and for a time of all Ireland, and Earl of Ulster, from whom are descended the Oneals, Earls of Tyrone, and Oneal of Shane Castle, and others in the North of Ireland. Fergus Oneal, of a branch of this family founded Carrickfergus, and crossed into Scotland, then Scotia Minor (as Ireland was then called Scotia Major) and there became the first king of Scotland, anno 402; his son Eugenius Oneal, the hero of his time, was the second king. Lionel, Duke of Clarence, second son of Edward III. married Maud, only daughter of Oneal, Earl of Ulster, by whom he had the Princess Philippa. Edward III. was a kinsman to Maud, Countess of Ulster. Of the Oneals also were several Bishops, Fitzneale was Bishop of London, and King's Treasurer in Hen. II.'s time, and son to Oneal, Bishop of Ely, who was canonized. There is nothing further necessary to demonstrate that this nobleman's descent on both sides, is from as illustrious progenitors as any whatever, and allied to as many great houses as any person in the realm.

MOORE, EARL MOUNT-CASHELL.

THE Right Honourable STEPHEN MOORE, Earl and Viscount MOUNT-CASHELL, of the city of Cashell, in the county of Tipperary, and Lord Baron of Kilworth, of Moore-Park, in the county of Cork, succeeded his father Stephen, the late Viscount, February 22, 1766, and was

was advanced to the dignity of an Earl, Feb. 2, 1781. He married, June 3, 1769, Helena Rawdon, daughter of the Earl of Moira, by his first wife, Helena Percival, daughter to the Earl of Egmont, by whom he has three sons, viz. Stephen, the present Lord Kilworth, born in 1770.—John, born in 1771.—William, born in 1772, and died 1775.— And one daughter, Helena.

This noble family is descended from Thomas De Moore, who came from Normandy with William the Conqueror, in the year 1066, and whose name is enrolled in the ancient list taken at their embarkation at St. Valery, and also in the list of those who survived the memorable battle of Hastings, fought on Saturday the 14th of October, in the above year, in which he had a considerable command. The name of this family has been variously written, viz. In the catalogue of John-Brompton, Abbot, of Jorvil, 1599, he calls them Seint Mor. Guillim calls them, De La Mores: and Philpot, the Somersset Herald, calls them De More, and Atte More, &c. After the death of William the Conqueror, this family settled in the West of England, and in the year 1355, Henry De Moore accompanied Edward the Black Prince, the Earls of Warwick, Oxford, &c. to France, and was wounded at the battle of Poitiers, in the year 1356. In the beginning of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, this family purchased an estate in Shropshire; the mansion house being near Larden, in the said county, where they were well known by the appellation of the Moores of Salop, for near a century. In the year 1558, when the King of Spain fitted out the invincible Armada against Queen Elizabeth, John De Moore, of Shropshire, had the command of a regiment in the army encamped at Tilbury, under the command of the Earl of Leicesters. In the reign of King Charles I. Richard Moore was the first of this family who came over to Ireland, and settled at Clonmell, in the county of Tipperary; he had two sons, Stephen and Thomas; from Thomas are descended the Moores, of Barn, in the said county; Stephen, the eldest son, married the grand-daughter of Sir George Croke, Knight and Baronet, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, in England, in the above reign. [It was this great lawyer and Hutton, who, in the year 1636, were the only two of all the Judges who disapproved of a prosecution being commenced against Hampden, for refusing to pay ship-money; he died in October 1641] and who had the honour to be personally acquainted with King William III. and on that
Monarch's

Monarch's landing in England, lent him the sum of three thousand pounds at Taunton, in Somersetshire. He had one son, Richard, who, in the year 1690, married Elizabeth Ponsonby, eldest daughter of William, Viscount Duncannon (who afterwards married colonel Thomas Newcomen, of Dove Hill, in the county of Tipperary) and by her had one son, Stephen, created Lord Baron of Kilworth, of Moore-Park, in the county of Cork, and Viscount Mount-Cashell, of the city of Cashell, in the county of Tipperary, whose patent bears date, June 16, 1766. He married Alicia, only daughter and heiress of Hugh Colvill, Esq. [descended from Roger De Colvil, who came from Normandy with William the Conqueror, in 1066; he was at the battle of Hastings, and went into Scotland with King David I. about the year 1120] son and heir of Sir Robert Colvil, of Newtown, in the county of Downe, by Sarah, daughter of James Margetson, Esq. only son of Dr. James Margetson, Archbishop of Armagh, who afterwards married Brabazon, Earl of Besborough. Alicia, died Aug. 10, 1761, aged sixty years. Stephen, Lord Mount-Cashell, who died February 22, 1767, aged sixty-eight years, had four sons and four daughters, viz. Stephen, present Earl Mount-Cashell.—Colvil.—William.—Robert.—Sarah, married, 1760, to Henry Sandford, Esq. eldest son of Robert Sandford, Esq. of Castlereagh, in the county of Roscommon, who died in October 1764.—Mary, married, 1760, to the late Earl of Inchiquin.—Elizabeth.—Catharine, married, 1765, to Maurice Mahon, Esq. eldest son of Thomas Mahon, Esq. of Stoakston.

This noble family is descended in a direct line from Silvester Grimston, of Grimston, in the county of York; who accompanied the Norman Duke in his expedition into England, and was his standard-bearer at the famous battle of Hastings. In the year 1067, he was Chamberlain of the Household to the Conqueror. He was succeeded by Daniel, his son; who married the daughter of Sir Adam Sprinual, and was father of Sir Thomas Grimston; who, by the daughter of Sir John Boswel, of Aldersey, had John, his successor at Grimston; who, marrying the daughter and heir of Sir John Goodmaghan, had Sir William, his heir, living in 1231; who, by the daughter and heir of Sir John Calholme, had two sons, Sir Roger; and Alexander, who married the daughter of John Frowick, of Middlesex. Sir Roger was Under-Sheriff of Kent to Hubert de Burgo, from 1223 to 1228; and, marrying the daughter of Fulk Constable, of Fulmark, had two sons, Walter, his heir; and Sir Gervase, who left no issue by his wife, the daughter of Sir John Baskerville. ## BARRINGTON, VISCOUNT BARRINGTON.

THE Right Honourable WILLIAM-WILDMAN BARRINGTON, Viscount BARRINGTON, of Ardglass, Baron Barrington, of Newcastle, was born in 1717, succeeded his father in 1734. Was chosen Representative for Berwick in 1739, and served for that place, and for Plymouth, without interruption, till June 1778, when he voluntarily resigned his seat by accepting the Stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds. Six months after he also resigned, at his own request, the office of Secretary at war, after serving the Crown thirty-four years, either in that office, to which he was twice appointed, or in those of Lord of the Admiralty, Master of the Great Wardrobe, Chancellor of the Exchequer, or Treasurer of the Navy. In 1740, he married Mary, daughter and heiress of Henry, son of Sir Salathiel Lovel, one of the twelve Judges in the reign of Queen Anne, and widow of Samuel, son and heir to William Viscount Grimston. Her Ladyship died in 1764, leaving no issue.

It appears, by the Heralds Office, that the family of Shute is originally Norman, and was settled there while the Kings of England were in possession of that duchy. They served those Princes with reputation and success, both in the field, and as governors of fortresses. The remains of a castle, bearing the name of Shute, and formerly belonging to the family, were extant in Normandy so late as the beginning of the sixteenth century, as also monuments of the Shutes in several towns of that duchy. Christopher Shute, of Hockington, in the county of Cambridge, Esq. a descendant of the Norman family, was father of Robert, who being bred to the law, was one of the twelve Judges, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; appointed second Baron of the Exchequer, in 1579; and Justice of the King's Bench, in 1585. He was Recorder of Cambridge, and served in several Parliaments for that town till he became a Judge. He married Thomasine, daughter to Christopher Burgoine, of Long-Stanton, in Cambridgeshire, Esq. by whom he had, Francis.—John.—Christopher.—Thomas.—Jane, married to John Hatton, father of Sir Christopher Hatton, Knight of the Bath. Benjamin, youngest son of Francis Shute, died in 1683, leaving by Elizabeth Caryl, his wife, three sons and three daughters; Samuel, Lieutenant-Colonel of Horse, with brevet of Colonel. He served abroad in most of the campaigns during the reigns of King William and Queen Anne, and was severely wounded at the battle of Blenheim. He was appointed Governor of New-England, in the reign of George I. and died unmarried, in 1742.—Benjamin also died unmarried, in 1714.—John was created a Peer, as hereafter.—Mary, married to Henry Yeomans, Esq. of the island of Antigua.—Martha, married Henry Bendysh, Esq. of Garleston, in Norfolk.—Anne, first married to Richard Offley, of Norton-Hall, in Derbyshire, and afterwards to Gervase Scrope, of Cockington, in Lincolnshire, Esq.

(1st Viscount.) JOHN, youngest son of the before mentioned Benjamin Shute, was born in 1678, educated at the University of Utrecht, and for some time studied the law at the Inner-Temple, but left it in 1708, when he was appointed a Commissioner of the Customs; and being adopted by Francis Barrington, Esq. (who married his first cousin, as before mentioned;) and by John Wildman, of Beckett, in Berks, became possessed of their estates about the year 1710. In consequence of the settlement made by the former of those gentlemen, he took the name and arms of Barrington, a family of antiquity and distinction in Essex; descended from the Plantagenets, by a marriage with a great-grand-daughter of the Duke of Clarence, brother to King Edward IV. He was chosen Representative for the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, in both Parliaments of King George I. In 1717 he had the reversionary grant of the office of Master of the Rolls in Ireland, after the decease of the possessor, the Lord Berkeley of Stratton; and on June 20, 1720, was created Viscount Barrington, of Ardglafs, and

This family is of Norman extraction, and claims a lineal descent from Sir Marmaduke D'Offone, who accompanied William the Conqueror, in his expedition to England. THE Right Honourable JOHN CREIGHTON, Viscount and Baron ERNE, of Crum-Castle, in the county of Fermanagh, succeeded his father May 25, 1772, and was advanced to the dignity of a Viscount December 12, 1780; he married, in February 1761, Catharine, daughter of Robert Howard, Bishop of Elphin, by which Lady, who died July 15, 1775, he had issue Elizabeth.—Patience.—Abraham.—Catharine.—Meliora. He married, secondly, February 22, 1776, Miss Hervey, daughter of the present Earl of Bristol, Bishop of Derry.

This family is of Scotch descent, being a branch of the house of Frendraught, transplanted into Ireland in the reign of Charles I. Abraham Creighton, grandfather of the late Lord Erne, was the first of this family who came into this country. He went early into the army, and rose to the command of a regiment of foot, at the head of which he had the honour to distinguish himself for King William III. at the battle of Aghrim, and other battles fought in the time of the Revolution, 1688; and in 1692, was returned to Parliament, one of the knights of the shire for the county of Fermanagh. He married Mary, daughter of James Spotswood, Bishop of Clogher, by whom he had David, father of the late Lord Erne, and many other children. David Creighton, father of the late Lord Erne, in 1689, then about eighteen years old, acquired great reputation by his gallant defence of Crum-Castle for several days with a handful of men, his father's tenants and neighbours, against an army of six thousand chosen troops of King James II. which with some artillery had laid siege thereto; but upon advice being received by their general, that a body of two thousand Enniskillers were put in march, and were advancing fast towards them, in order to relieve the Castle, they broke up the siege suddenly, after a very great loss, and abandoned their design. In 1692, he was returned to Parliament one of the burgesses for the borough of Enniskillen, and in the reign of King George I. was promoted to the command of a regiment of foot. At the time of his death, in 1728, he was a Major-General and Governor of the Royal Hospital near Kilmainham. He married, in 1700, Catharine, daughter of Richard Southwell, of Castle-Matrefs, in the county of Limerick, Esq. by Elizabeth O'Brien,

The ancestors of this noble family appear to have had large possessions in Ireland for several centuries past. John Maxwell, Esq. of the county of Cavan, the first Lord, father of the late and present Lords, was bred to the Law, and, on April 27, 1756, was created a Peer, by the title of Baron Farnham, in the county of Cavan. His Lordship had three sons, who survived him, viz. ### LUTTRELL, VISCOUNT CARHAMPTON.

THE Right Honourable SIMON LUTTRELL, Viscount CARHAMPTON, and Lord Innham, of Luttrellstown, in the county of Dublin, was created a Baron September 28, 1768, and advanced to that of Viscount Carhampton, of Castle haven, in December 1780. He married Maria, only daughter and heiress of Sir Nicholas Lawes, by whom he has issue Henry Lawes, Lieutenant-Colonel in the army, married June 25, 1776, to Miss Boyd.—Temple, married, April 27, 1778, Miss Gould, daughter of Sir Henry Gould, one of the Judges of the Common-Pleas.—John, Captain in the navy.—James.—Catherine.—Anne, married, first, to Christopher Horton, of Catton, in Derbyshire, Esq. and secondly, to his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland.—Elizabeth.—Lucy.

The first of the Luttrell's mentioned in the annals of this country, we find among the Norman chiefs, who attended William the Conqueror in his expedition in 1066, and, according to the list of Battle Abbey, was present at the victory of Hastings. Soon after the conquest, the Luttrells became Lords of Hooton-Pagnel, in Yorkshire; and in the reign of King John were Barons by tenure; in that of Henry III. they inherited the Barony of Irnham, in Lincolnshire, together with large possessions in the western counties, from Maurice de Gaunt, one of the most powerful subjects of his time; they paid fines in the same reign for a considerable property in Ireland; and Ralph Luttrell was Lord Chancellor of that kingdom anno 1237. In the twenty-third year of Edward I. 1295, Robert Luttrell, Baron of Irnham and of Hooton-Pagnel, was summoned by writ, and sat also in the King's Council. Sir John Luttrell was a distinguished leader at the battles in France, under Edward III. Sir Hugh Luttrell was in the wars under Henry V. and Counsellor to that Prince. Sir John Luttrell was a Knight of the Bath, 1399 (at the institution of the Order) as was Sir Hugh Luttrell in the reign of Henry VII. Two branches of this family, it is said, are still remaining, one at Dunster, in Somersetshire, an honour and castle inherited in the reign of Henry IV. from the Mohuns, Lords of Dunster, and Earls of Somerset, and which came by a sole heiress, about twenty years ago, to Henry Fowns, Esq. who has since taken the name of Luttrell, and married, August 1, 1782, Miss Drewe. The other branch is that of the Luttrells of Luttrellstown, in the county of Dublin. In the year 1687, Simon Luttrell, of Luttrellstown, was Governor of Dublin, Lord-Lieutenant of the county of Dublin, Knight of the shire for the said county, Colonel of a regiment of dragoons, and Privy-Counsellor; he died without issue, and his estates devolved to his brother, Henry Luttrell, Knight of the shire for the county of Carlow, in 1687, Colonel of a regiment of horse, and Brigadier-General; and in 1699, appointed a Major-General in the service of the United Provinces. He married Elizabeth, daughter to Charles Jones, Esq. of the county of Flint, by Elizabeth, daughter to Sir Simon Clarke, of Warwickshire, Baronet, and had issue by her two sons, Robert, who died on his travels; and Simon now Lord Irnham.

COURCY, BARON OF KINSALE.

THE Right Honourable JOHN DE COURCY, Baron of KINSALE, in the county of Cork, and Baron Courcy, of Courcy, and Baron of Ringrone, in the said county, succeeded his father, the late Lord, March 12, 1776. His Lordship married Oct. 31, 1763, Susannah, daughter of Conway Blennerhassett, of Castle Conway, in Kerry, Esq. who is descended from the ancient family of Blennerhassett, in Cumberland, and in the female line, from the ancient family of Conway, of Conway, in Wales; by whom his Lordship has issue, four sons and three daughters.

Richard de Courcy, Lord of Courcy, was one of the Noblemen that accompanied William Duke of Normandy, into England, in his expedition for the conquest thereof, and was present with him in the battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066, where King Harold was slain, and the fate of the kingdom decided in the Duke's favour. He was rewarded by the Conqueror for his services with a great number of Lordships in England, particularly the Lordship of Stoke, in the county of Somerset, called from him Stoke Courcy, which he held with several others per Baroniam. The said Richard de Courcy died in the year 1098, and was succeeded by his son, Robert de Courcy, Lord of Courcy in Normandy, and Baron of Stoke-Courcy, in England; he was Steward of the household of King Henry I. and was by the said King created one of the great Barons at Westminster, in 1133. He was founder of the nunnery of Cannington, in Somersetshire, and left five sons;

William, the eldest, was Baron of Stoke-Courcy, and Dapifer to King Henry I. but, dying without issue, was succeeded by his brother,

Robert de Courcy, Baron of Stoke-Courcy, who in the reign

reign of King Stephen, was a principal Commander at the battle of Northampton against the Scots. He married Avicia, one of the two daughters and coheirs of William de Meschines, Earl of Cambridge, and Lord of Coupland and Harewood, second son of Randolph de Meschines, Earl of Carlisle, and Lord of Cumberland and Westmoreland. By this Lady he had a son, William, who succeeded; in the 12th year of King Henry II. upon the aid then levied for marrying of the King's daughter, certified the Knights fees of his Barony, which his father and grandfather held, to be twenty-four and three parts de veteri Feoffamento, and four and a fifth de novo, and those of the Barony of William de Meschines, his mother's father, to be seventeen; for all which de veteri Feoffamento, in the 14th of the said King, he paid sixteen pounds ten shillings, and fifty-six shillings for those de novo. In the 18th of Henry II. he was Lord of Islip, in the county of Oxford, and Justice of Ireland. He also founded the Priory of Stoke-Courcy, in the county of Somerset; and married Juliana, daughter of Richerius de Aquila, a great Baron of England, in the reign of King Henry I. and dying in 1171, left issue a daughter, married to Sir Almerick Tristram, ancestor to the Lord Howth, and Sir John de Courcy, Knight, Baron of Stoke Courcy, who served King Henry II. in all his wars; and in Ireland, at his own charge, fought five remarkable battles, whereby he conquered the Province of Ulster, and a great part of Connaught. In the year 1181, he was created by King Henry II. Earl of Ulster, and Lord of Connaught; from the year 1175 to 1179, he was Joint Governor of Ireland; and from 1185 to 1190, sole Governor; but being in that year accused by Hugh de Lacy, Earl of Meath, of disrespect to the King, was sent prisoner to London, and confined in the Tower for about a year, when a dispute arose between John, King of England, and Philip-Augustus, King of France, about the title to the dutchy of Normandy, the which was referred to two Champions to decide. The French Champion was ready, but none of King John's subjects would answer the challenge: upon which the King was informed, that John de Courcy, late Earl of Ulster, who was then a prisoner in the Tower of London, was the only man in his dominions who could do it, if he would undertake it.

The King sent twice to the Earl for that purpose, but he refused it each time, by reason of the ungrateful returns made for his services, in imprisoning him, unheard, at the suit of his rival and enemy, Hugh de Lacy; but the King sending the third time, he made answer, that for the crown and dignity of the realm, he would hazard his life.

The day of combat being appointed (in Normandy) the Earl's own sword was sent for out of Ireland; but when the day came, and every thing was ready for the fight, and the Champions were entered the lists, in the presence of the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, the French Champion, not liking the strong proportion of the Earl's body, nor the terrible weapon he bore in his hand, when the trumpets sounded the last charge, he set spurs to his horse, broke through the lists, and fled into Spain, from whence he never returned. The French Champion thus taking his flight, the victory was adjudged to the Earl of Ulster: but the King hearing of his great strength, and being willing to see some trial of it, then ordered an helmet of excellent proof, full faced with mail, to be laid on a block of wood, which the Earl with one blow cut asunder, and struck his sword so deep into the wood, that none there present but himself could draw it out again; which sword, together with his armour, are to this day preserved in the Tower of London. After this noble performance, the King restored him to his former titles and estate, which was valued at that time at twenty-five thousand marks sterling, per annum (a vast income in those days) and likewise bade him ask for any thing else in his gift, he had a mind to, and it should be granted; upon which the Earl replied, he had titles and estate enough, but desired that he and his successors, the heirs male of his family (after him) might have the privilege (after their first obeisance) to be covered in the royal presence of him and his successors, Kings of England; which the King granted, and the said privilege is preserved in the family to this day.

The Earl died about the year 1210, leaving issue by Africa, his wife, daughter to Godred, King of the Isle of Man, and of the western Isles of Scotland, Miles, his heir and successor.

(1st Lord.) MILES, who succeeded, was kept out of the Earldom of Ulster by Hugh de Lacy, who had a grant of it from King John, on taking Earl John, and sending him prisoner to London; for Miles claiming the Earldom after his father's death, the said Lacy, replied, that he would maintain King John's last grant of it to himself, since Earl John never returned into Ireland to reverse his outlawry; and the said Lacy being a great favourite of the King's,
and

and a very powerful man, Miles was forced to quit his pretensions: but was created Baron of Kinsale, and living afterwards altogether in Ireland, he never claimed the Barony of Stoke-Courcy; but, dying in the beginning of King Henry III.'s reign, was succeeded by his son,

(2d Lord.) PATRICK de Courcy, Baron of Kinsale; who married the daughter and heir of Miles de Cogan, who was one of the great Conquerors of Ireland. To this Miles de Cogan, and Robert Fitz-Stephen, and to their heirs, King Henry II. in a Parliament held at Oxford, in the year 1177, did grant the whole kingdom of Cork to be held of him, and his son John, by the service of sixty Knights fees; the half of which kingdom, Patrick enjoyed in right of his wife; for in the twentieth of King Henry III. he was stiled Dominus medietatis Regni Corcagiæ. He was succeeded by

(3d Lord.) NICHOLAS de Courcy, his son, who divided the chief rents of his Barony of Kinsale, with the then Bishop of Cork. By Mabella, his wife, he had three sons, and was succeeded by the eldest,

(4th Lord.) EDMUND, who dying without issue, was succeeded by his brother,

(5th Lord.) JOHN de Courcy, who, with his brother Patrick, and most of their company, were slain in the island of Inchiduin in the county of Cork, in the year 1290, by Daniel Moel Mac Carty Riegh. To him succeeded his son,

(6th Lord.) MILES de Courcy, and by Johanna, his wife, who survived him, he had a son,

(7th Lord.) MILES de Courcy, who overthrew Florence Mac Carty More, with a great army of his followers. He married Annora O'Brien, and, dying in the 32d of King Henry III. left issue by her,

(8th Lord.) JOHN, at that time in his minority; who, dying about the 10th of King Richard II. was succeeded by his son,

(9th Lord.) WILLIAM, to whom the said King Richard II. (in 1397) granted a special licence, by patent, to buy a ship to pass and re pass whenever he pleased, between England and France; and by Letters Patent of that King received a confirmation of the honours and titles of Baron Kinsale and Ryne Rone. To him succeeded his son,

(10th Lord.) NICHOLAS de Courcy, and to him his son,

(11th Lord.) PATRICK, who lived in the reigns of the Kings Henry V. and Henry VI. He left two sons, Nicholas, his

his heir, and Edmund, a Franciscan Friar, advanced to the See of Clogher, June 18, 1484, from whence he was translated to the See of Ross, September 26, 1494, and died in 1518.

(12th Lord.) NICHOLAS de Courcy, died in February 1474, the 15th of King Edward IV. and left issue (by Mora, daughter to O'Mahony, chief of an ancient family) four sons, James, David, Nicholas, and John.

(13th Lord.) JAMES, the eldest, not being present in a solemn procession, lost his precedency of the first Baron of Ireland, which Henry VII. gave to the Lord Athenry. This Lord died in 1499, and left issue, by Ellena, daughter of David Viscount Roche of Fermoy, (14th Lord.) EDMUND de Courcy, his only son; but he dying without issue, was succeeded by his uncle, (15th Lord.) DAVID de Courcy, who married Joan, daughter of Edmund Roche, Esq. and left five sons, John, Edmund, James, Nicholas, and Maurice.

(16th Lord.) JOHN de Courcy, the eldest, succeeded his father; he married Sarah, daughter of Donogh Mac Carty, and dying in 1535, the 27th of King Henry VIII. left an only son,

(17th Lord.) GERALD de Courcy, who commanded an Irish Regiment at the siege of Boulogn in France, under King Henry VIII. by his great expences in serving the crown, he considerably lessened his estate. Having married Ellena, daughter of Cormuck Mac Donogh Carty, he died in 1599, leaving an only daughter, Mary, married first to Donogh O'Driscoll, and secondly, to John Galway, of Kinsale, Esq. We now return to Edmund, second son of David the fifteenth Lord, who married Juliana, daughter to William Barry, Viscount Buttevant, and had Edmund, his heir, who married Juliana, daughter of Dermoid Mac Teige O'Hurley, chief of an ancient family of that name, and had issue,

(19th Lord.) GERALD de Courcy. He married Ellena, daughter of John Fitz-Gerald, of Dromanagh, Lord of Decyes, by whom he had Mary de Courcy, his only child, married to Sir Patrick Gough, and, dying in 1642, was succeeded by his brother, (20th Lord.) ## BUTLER, LORD CAHIER.

THE Right Honourable JAMES BUTLER, Baron of CAHIER, in the county of Tipperary, born Aug. 1, 1711, succeeded his father Thomas, in May 1744; and, in January 1739, married Christian, fourth daughter and coheirefs to Michael Moore, of Drogheda, Esq. she died without issue, July 25, 1759.

James, the fourth Earl of Ormond, married, to his second wife, Catharine, daughter to Garret, Earl of Desmond, and from these two illustrious persons was descended, in a direct line, Thomas Butler, of Cahier, who, in 1543, was made a Peer, by the title of Baron of Cahier, by Henry VIII. This Thomas, first Lord Cahier, married Eleanor, daughter to Pierce, Earl of Ormond, and by her had one surviving son, (2d Lord.) EDMUND, who enjoyed the title but fifteen months, and dying without issue male, though twice married, ried, the title was extinct. But Queen Elizabeth renewed it, in 1583, by a new creation, in favour of Sir Theobald Butler, nephew to the first Lord, son to his brother Pierce, by a daughter of Mac-Pierce, Lord Dunboyn.

(3d Lord.) Sir THEOBALD, was a man of eminent merit, and had rendered great services to the crown. Sir Henry Sidney, so often Lord Deputy, ever had a great confidence in his ability and probity: in the preamble of his patent, Queen Elizabeth expresses, in the most energetic style, the motives of her esteem and gratitude. He married Mary, daughter to Sir Thomas Cusack, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and by her had six sons and two daughters; Thomas was his successor.—From Pierce descends the present Lord Cahier.—From Edmund, the Butlers of Kilcop, in the county of Waterford.—Ellin, was second wife to Richard Butler, of Ballyboy, in the county of Tipperary.—Mary, was married to Sir Cormac Mac-Carty, of Blarney, by whom she was mother of Cormac, or Charles-Oge; created, November 15, 1628, Baron of Blarney, and Viscount Carthy, of Muskerry. This great man died April 2, 1596, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

(4th Lord) THOMAS, who first married Eleanor, daughter to Richard, the first Viscount Mountgarret: secondly, Elice, daughter to Sir John Fitz-Gerald, of Dromana, in the county of Waterford. He died, without issue male, Jan. 31, 1627: when the title devolved to his nephew, (5th Lord.) THOMAS, who married Eleanor, granddaughter to Lord Poer, by whom he had, Edward, his son and heir apparent, who died before him, and was buried at the abbey of Cahier, with his ancestors. THE Right Honourable CHARLES BINGHAM, Baron LUCAN, of Castlebar in the county of Mayo, was created a Peer July 15, 1777. He married, in 1760, Margaret, daughter and coheir of James Smith, of Cannonfleigh, in Devon, and of St. Audries, in the county of Somersset, Esq. deceased, by whom he has issue, Richard, born at Castlebar, in December 1764, and four daughters; Lavinia, married, March 6, 1781, Lord Althorp, eldest son of Earl Spencer; Louisa, Anne, and Margaret.

The Bingham family is of Saxon origin, and of very great antiquity, as appears in their pedigree, in the College of Arms; this family was settled at Sutton-Bingham, in the county of Somersset, from whence it removed, and settled at Bingham's-Melcomb, in the county of Dorset, where a branch of the family continues to reside.

The branches of the family which settled in Ireland, have for many years represented the county of Mayo in parliament.

John de Bingham was knighted by Henry I. He had a son Silvester, the father of Geffery, whose son, Augustin, had a son William, the father of Ralph, whose son Ralph was knighted, and left three sons; William, living in 1256, whose only daughter, Margaret, was the wife of Ralph Lord Bliffet.—Robert, married Lucy, the daughter and heir of Sir Robert Turberville.—Robert, was a man of eminent piety and learning, and was elected Bishop of Salisbury, in 1228. He carried on the building of his cathedral, and died in 1246, and was buried in the nave of that cathedral.

Robert, the second son, had, by Lucy his wife, Robert de Bingham, who had the manor of Malcombe-Bingham; he died 32 Edw. I. and left by Emma, daughter of Sir Anthony Wake, Richard de Bingham, who died in 1317, 11 Edw. II. and had by his wife Parnelle, daughter of Sir Geffery Warmwell, Knt. Robert de Bingham, who married Catharine, daughter of Sir Thomas Aston, and left Richard, who, by Catharine, daughter of Thomas Silvester, had Robert de Bingham, who married Margaret, daughter of John Frampton, of Moreton, in Dorsetshire, Esq. and had two sons, Sir John Bingham, who died without issue.—Richard, who, by his wife Margaret, daughter of John Basket, had a son Robert, who by his wife Joan, daughter of John Delalynde, left issue; Robert.—William.—Catharine, the wife of William Lanterton.—Anne, the wife of Mark Hayes.

Robert, the eldest son, married Alice, daughter of Thomas Coker, and had eight sons, and two daughters; Robert.—Christopher.—Sir Richard.—Sir George.—Roger.—Sir John, who was an Officer in Ireland under his brother Sir Richard.—Thomas.—Charles.—Cecily, married first to Christopher Martin, and secondly to George Poulet.—Joan, married first to John Willoughby, and secondly to Mr. Goldeborough.

Robert, the eldest son, held great possessions in Dorset and other counties. He married Jane, daughter of Robert Williams, of Herringston, Esq. and had four sons, and four daughters; Robert.—John.—Thomas.—Francis.—Mary.—Jane.—Cecily.—Anne.

Robert, the eldest, married Anne, daughter to William Chaldecot, Esq. and had Richard, who died in 1656, and left left by his wife Jane, daughter of Sir Richard Hopton, eight sons, and three daughters, viz. John, who was in the time of the rebellion Colonel of a regiment, Governor of Pool, Commander at the last siege and demolition of Corfe-castle; he married Frances, daughter of John Trenchard, Esq. and had five sons and five daughters; Richard.—Robert.—Arthur.—Christopher.—Henry.—Strode.—Francis.—Dorothy, wife of Delalind Hufley, Esq.—Rachel, wife of William Shergall.—Anne, wife of the Rev. Mr. Clark.

Strode Bingham, the seventh son, married Cecily, daughter of Mr. Chapman, and left one son, and three daughters; Richard, Jane, Dorothy, and Rachel the wife of George Mullens, M. D.

Richard, who was some time member for Bridport, and represented the county of Dorset, married Philadelphia, daughter of John Potinger, Esq. and had six sons, and seven daughters, viz. Richard.—John.—Thomas.—Robert.—William.—George.—Philadelphia, wife of ——— Borlace, Esq.—Rachel.—Annabella, married to Robert Hann.—Susanna.—Elizabeth.—Leonora, wife of John Wheeler.—Mary. Richard, the eldest, was Counsellor at Law, and practised many years with credit and reputation; he married ———, daughter of William Batt, Esq. and died in 1755, leaving three sons; Richard, who married Sophia, daughter of Charles Halsey, Esq. and had Sophia, Richard, Martha, and William.—William.—John.

We now return to Sir Richard Bingham, third son of Robert, by Alice Coker. He was the most eminent person of his family, and one of the best officers of that age. He was instrumental in reducing some insurrections in Ireland, particularly in 1586, 1590, and 1593, but was on some complaint recalled; but, in 1598, sent back with the title and authority of Marshal of Ireland and General of Leinster, and died at Dublin soon after his arrival, leaving issue an only daughter.

Sir George Bingham, the fourth son of Robert Bingham, Esq. and Alice Coker, married Cecily, daughter of Robert Martin, of Athelhampton, in the county of Dorset, Esq. and served under his brother in the Irish wars, and about 1596, was Governor of Sligo; where he was afterwards killed by Ulick a Burgh, an Ensign, who delivered up the castle to O Donnel and the Irish rebels. He cut a way through the Curlew mountains, in the county of Roscommon, in Ireland, which were before unpassable; he had issue

Henry Bingham, of Castlebar, in the county of Mayo, created by King Charles I. anno 1632, a Baronet of Nova Scotia, and by a daughter, of the family of Berne, of Cappanteely, near Dublin, had issue Sir George, and other children.

Sir George Bingham, of Castlebar, Bart. married two wives; by his first he had Sir Henry Bingham, Bart. who married, but died without issue. The second was a daughter of Sir Hugh Middleton, Bart. by whose skill and perseverance the New River was brought to London. The issue of this second marriage was

Sir George Bingham, Bart. who had also two wives; by his second wife, Phœbe Hawkins, he had one son, George Bingham, and by his first wife, Mary Scotts, he was father of Sir John, and other children.

Sir John Bingham, of Castlebar, in the county of Mayo, Bart. married Anne, the daughter of Agmondesham Vesey, Esq. of the kingdom of Ireland, by Charlotte, the sole daughter of William Sarsfield, of Lucan, Esq. (elder brother of Patrick, Earl of Lucan) by Mary, daughter of Charles II. and sister of James Duke of Monmouth, which Earl of Lucan was one of King James's best commanders. His military skill and address at the siege of Limerick, made King William raise the siege, and forced him to sign the articles of Limerick; he was afterwards killed at the battle of Landau, in Flanders. The issue of Sir John, who died in 1749, and his Lady in 1762, were three sons, and five daughters, viz. Jane, first wife of Thomas Bermingham, Earl of Louth, and died in 1746.—Mary, who married first, Hugh Montgomery, Esq. a Captain in the West Fusiliers; secondly, to her cousin-german, Vesey Colclough, Esq. son of Cæsar Colclough, Esq. by Henrietta Vesey, younger sister of Anne, wife of Sir John Bingham, Bart. before-mentioned.—Charlotte.—Henrietta, both died unmarried.—Anne, married Crossdall Miller, of Millford, in the county of Mayo, Esq.

Sir John Bingham, Bart. eldest son (of Sir John and Anne Vesey) died unmarried in 1752, at the age of twenty-two years, and was buried at Castlebar. George, the younger son, was a Captain in the Welsh Fusiliers, and died at Dolmin, in Germany, unmarried.

Sir Charles Bingham, of Castlebar, Bart. the second and only surviving son, was created Lord Lucan:

MACDONALD, LORD MACDONALD.

THE Right Hon. ALEXANDER MACDONALD, Lord MACDONALD, Baron of Slate, in the county of Antrim, was so created July 17, 1776. His Lordship, who is the lineal heir male of the Earls of Ross, and Lords of the Isles in Scotland, married, May 3, 1768, Elizabeth-Diana, eldest daughter of Godfrey Bosville, Esq. of Gunthwaite, in Yorkshire (by Diana, eldest daughter of Sir William Wentworth, Bart. of Bretton) by whom he has had Alexander Wentworth, born December 9, 1773.—Godfrey, born October 14, 1775.—Archibald, born May 21, 1777.—Another son, born January 1783.—Diana, born September 28, 1769; and Elizabeth, Annabella, and Julia, who died young.

This family has always been reputed the most powerful of any in the Highlands, being stiled Kings of the Isles for many generations (under which titles they granted their charters) and were acknowledged as such by many foreign Princes, with whom they entered into leagues offensive and defensive; and they were for many generations successful in asserting their independence.

Somerled, (a) Thane of Argyl, is the ancestor of all the Macdonalds; he was the son of Gilbryde M'Gilleadam, vic (or son of) Sella, vic Mearshaigh, vic Neil Neufyallach (or the nine hostages) vic Swyffine, vic Malgheufa, vic Eacime, vic Gothefred, from whom they were called the clan Gothefred, and continued to be so entitled until the time of Donald Somerled's grandson. This Gothefred was the son of Fergus M'Eriche, vic Cartayne (there are of this

This Somerled, the first conspicuous person of this line in history, during the non-age of Malcolm Kenmore, the 4th of that name, entertained hopes of enjoying the kingdom. To his own hereditary possessions on the continent, he added the Æbudæ, or Western Isles, to his fortune, by the marriage of the daughter of Olaus, Lord thereof, whereupon he assumed the title of King of the Isles. He was encountered by Walter, High Steward of Scotland, and slain anno 1164. He was succeeded in his possessions by

(a) Reginald; always called "Filius Sorleti, dominus de Ergyle et Inchgael." He founded the abbey of Sandal, within the territory of Cantyre, for Cistercian Monks, and gave thereunto the lands of Glassadil and Baltebean, with the lands of Casken, in the isle of Arran (b). To the monastery of Paisley he gave very great donations, that he and Fonia his wife might be entitled to all the privileges and brotherhood in that convent, and of the whole rights and order of Cluny (c). He granted charters of certain lands in Lovat to Bisset, in which he styles himself Rex Insularum. He was succeeded by his son

(d) Donald, who imitated his father's munificence to the church, particularly to the Monks of Paisley, on condition, "Quod ille, uxor sua, hæredes sui et homines sui participes sint in perpetuum omnium bonorum quæ in domo de Paslet et in toto ordine Cluniacensi sient, tam in orationibus, quam in cæteris divinis servitiis." This Donald left issue two sons, Angus of Isles, and Alexander from whom the Macalisters of Loup, in Argylshire are descended.

This Angus, surnamed Chen, or the elder, entered himself a brother in the convent of Paisley, granting "Dimidiam

“ diam mercatam argenti de domo suâ propriâ, et de singulis domibus per omnes terras suas de quibus fumus exit, unum denarium singulis annis in perpetuum in puram eleemosynam.” He gave to the same monastery the patronage of the church of Kilkerran, in Cantyre, “ pro salute animæ domini sui Alexandri regis Scotiæ, et Alexandri filii ejus, etiam pro salute suâ propriâ, et hæredum suorum.” (a) When King Alexander III. settled the succession to the crown upon his grand-daughter Margaret, he was one of the nobles who swore to the defence of her title, to which he set his seal in a solemn assembly in the year 1284. He died soon after, leaving two sons, Alexander and John (or Ean) of whom the clan Ean, and many families of the name of Johnston are descended. In the Register of Paisley, he confirms to that abbey the patronage of the church of St. Querran, signing himself “ Filius et hæres Angustii Donaldi de insulis.” After the death of Queen Margaret, anno 1292, he had a commission for keeping the peace within the isles, and was one of the Magnates Scotiæ, who declared they would maintain and defend the title of whatever person should be adjudged to have the nearest right in blood to the deceased King. Alexander III. (b) owned Baliol’s title; he ratified to the Monks of Sandal the donations of his ancestors, adding many more of his own; ratified his father’s grant of the church of Kilkerran, to which he appended his own seal, in conjunction with Laurence, Bishop of Argyll, and Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick, for the more certain verification of his deed. He died in 1303, succeeded by

Angus More, or the Great Angus, who entertained King Robert Bruce at a time when he had been refused an asylum elsewhere. He raised 2000 men, with whom he engaged at the battle of Bannockburn, where King Edward II. was defeated; he displayed much gallantry and courage, which Mr. Barber has celebrated in these lines:

Angus of Isles and Bute alswa,
 And of the plain lands, he had mae
 Of armed men a noble rout.
 His battle stalward was and stout.
 He said the rear guard he would maw

 And the King that behind them was,
 Should see where there was maist misser,
 And then relieve them with his banner.

He continued in that Prince's service and interest with singular loyalty and inflexible constancy, and his fame has been handed down to posterity in history as a patriot, and true friend to his country. He was succeeded by his son

Angus Oig, or the younger, Lord of the Isles, who married the daughter of O'Cane, the Chief of a very powerful family in Ireland; this Lady brought with her from that country, by way of a marriage-portion, a number of very handsome young men, whose posterity are yet in the isles, and are known by the difference of their names, to belong to that race, which have never undergone any alteration. He had by her a son

(a) John of the Isle, Lord of the Isles, who stood in such high favour and esteem with King Robert II. for his constant attachment to him in the beginning of his reign, that he gave him in marriage the Lady Margaret, his daughter. He is called in some charters of that Prince, "dilectus filius meus." He died in 1396, and by his Lady had three sons, and two daughters; Donald, Lord of the Isles; John of Isle, ancestor to the Earl of Antrim; Alexander, progenitor of Macdonald of Keppoch; Margaret, married to Nicholas, Earl of Sunderland; Elizabeth, to Lachlan Maclean, of Dowart, a very powerful Chieftain, and had issue.

Donald, Lord of the Isles. The history of this great man is very remarkable. In the reign of King Jac. I. Robert Duke of Albany, by an unwarrantable act of power, endeavoured to disappoint him of the Earldom of Ross, his lawful inheritance. He prevailed upon Eupheme, the young Countess, who had rendered herself a religious in North Berwick Nunnery, to surrender the Earldom in favour of John Earl of Buchan, his son, in prejudice of this Lord's wife, who was aunt to the said Countess of Ross, and consequently undoubted heir of that Earldom after her decease. The Lord of the Isles challenged this procedure, but the governor told him the resignation was legal, and he would maintain it; whereupon the Lord of the Isles resolved to have recourse to arms, marched through Ross and Murray down to Aberdeenshire, with 10,000 of his vassals, where a most desperate battle was fought between him and Alexander Stewart, Earl of Marr, at a village called Harlaw, on St. James's day, 1411. The Lord of the Isles had the advantage, and recovered the Earldom of Ross, which was confirmed to him by King James I. and became too powerful a subject, which laid the foundation of ruin to his family. This Donald, Earl of Ross, died anno 1427, leaving issue by Euphemia his wife, daughter of Walter Lesley, Earl of Ross, by Euphemia, daughter of William Ross, of the original Earls of Ross, Alexander, Earl of Ross, who sat in Parliament on the trial of Murdoch, Duke of Albany, in 1424. He was of a turbulent disposition, and given to many irregularities, to atone for which he gave several donations to the Monks of Sandal. Third of James II. he was Justiciary of all Scotland benorth the river Forth, and continued in that office for some years after. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Alexander Seton, and sister to Sir Alexander, first Earl of Huntley, and left issue, John Earl of Ross; Hugh of the Isles, and of Slate, ancestor to Lord Macdonald Cælestine. His brother John, Earl of Ross, granted several charters in 1642, 3, and 4, "Carissimo fratri nostro carnali Cælestino de insulis," to revert to him or his right heirs, if he should have no lawful issue male by Finvola Maclean, or any other wife.

The daughter of Alexander, Earl of Ross, married John, Earl of Sutherland, by whom she had Elizabeth, heiress of that noble family.

This John Earl of Ross acted a very considerable part in the times in which he lived; he continued a very loyal subject to King James II. but fell from his allegiance in the succeeding reign (a). The Feuds of the houses of York and Lancaster occasioned his downfall; for when King Edward IV. had dethroned King Henry VI. in order to preserve the balance of power in Scotland, and to counteract the machinations of Margaret of Anjou, who was a suitor to King James III. to invade England on behalf of her injured husband's title, King Edward sent some of the greatest Nobles of his court, with the Bishop of Winchester, to treat with (b) John Earl of Ross, and Donald Ballach (son of of John More (or the Great) of Lord Antrim's line, and cousin to Alexander, Earl of Ross) it was stipulated, that the Earl of Ross should be the King's Lieutenant from the river Forth northwards, and James Earl of Douglas, Knight of the Garter, then in London, who had fled there, anno 1455, on account of a former conspiracy entered into with this Earl (with the Earls of Crawford, Murray, and Ormond) should be the Lieutenant from the Forth to the borders. The Earl of Ross had a pension of 200*l.* from King Edward, which was considerably greater than the Duke of Gloucester's. It does not appear that this conspiracy was ever put in practice; and as fifteen years elapsed between the confederacy and the forfeiture, the Earl of Ross was not aware of his danger, and King Edward forgot that part of the stipulation where it was expressly provided, that no peace was to be made between the two Kings, without his being included. In the interim he kept at a distance from Court, and did not sit in Parliament; the cause of his disgust was owing to some offences from the guardians of the young King during his minority, and being excluded from an intimate concern in the administration of publick affairs, to which his propinquity in blood entitled him. The Earl of Athol was commanded to attack him with a powerful fleet, but he previously wrote to the Earl to submit to the King's clemency, which advice he prudently followed, and submitting himself accordingly, the Earldom of Ross was annexed to the Crown, Nov. 27, 1475; but King James restored him to the Lordship of the Isles, at the request of the Queen and whole Parliament assembled at Edinburgh, July 25, 1476. This Earl married Elizabeth, daughter of James Lord Livingston, Lord High Chamberlain of Scotland, by whom he had no issue. The Lordship of the Isles devolved upon Donald, his grandson, son of Angus, his natural son, by Isabel, daughter of Colin, Earl of Argyll, who dying unmarried, King James V. assumed the lordship of the Isles, though according to the Act of Restoration it was provided to his heir male, consequently the right of succession came to the family of Slate, the descendants of Hugh of Isle, brother of John Earl of Ross, whose descendants have been always distinguished from the other tribes of the name, and called Macdonalds absolutely and by way of eminence. John Earl of Ross gave "carissimo fratri suo Hugoni Alexandri de Insulis domine de Slate, terras de Skirhoug, &c." By his wife, daughter of Macean, of Ardnamurchan, he had a son John, who succeeded him without issue, dying in 1503; but by his second wife, a daughter of the Chief of the Clan Gunn, he had

Donald, who died a young man about 1506, leaving a son, Donald, by ——— Macdonald, a branch of that name in the kingdom of Ireland, which

Donald, surnamed Grumack, or the swarthy, of Dunskaigh, by which title he was called in the Letters of the Privy Council, directed to him by the Earl of Murray, married a daughter of Macdonald, of Moidant, or Clanranald, by whom he had Donald, who succeeded him; he died anno 1534, which Donald, upon the death of Lord Donald of the Isles, in 1535, claimed the lordship of the Isles, as next heir male of John Earl of Ross; but King James V. refused to grant him possession, whereupon he resolved to assert his right by force of arms, and raising a band of his vassals, he laid siege to the castle of Elandonan, where he was shot dead with an arrow; his corpse was carried to an adjacent island, which to this day is called Labby Macconiel, or Macdonald's bed; he was carried to the island of Sky, to be transported from thence to Icolmkill, the ancient burying place of his ancestors, the Lords of the Isles, but the wind proving unfavourable, his remains were deposited in the church of Kilchrist, in Strath, leaving by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Roderick Macleod, of the Lewes, ancestor of the Earls of Cromarty, a young child, his son

Donald Gorme, called Safunach, or the Englishman, from his education in that kingdom in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, who is said to have been particularly kind to him. He made no claim to the lordship of the Isles, by reason of the distracted state of the kingdom, occasioned by the civil wars in the reign of Queen Mary, which broke out in 1567. This gentleman acted a very loyal part, and continued in her service till the end of the war. He wedded Mary, daughter of Hector Maclean, of Dowart, and dying anno 1585, left issue three sons, Donald, Archibald, and Alexander; which Donald, called More, or the Great, was a happy instrument of King James VI. (who much favoured and esteemed him) in suppressing the irregularities of the Macleods of Lewes, and other disorderly Highlanders. He married Margaret, sister to Colin M'Kenzie, Lord Kintuel, ancestor of the Earl of Seaforth, by whom he had no issue. He had three other wives, by whom he had no issue, all of whom he successively repudiated; in 1585, he entered into a solemn league offensive and defensive with the most powerful Clans in the Highlands, against all deadly, excepting the King's Majesty, which strengthened his authority, and enabled him to do acceptable service to his Majesty King James VI. and departing this life sine prole, in Dec. 1616, his fortune came immediately to his nephew Donald, son of his brother Archibald, by his wife Margaret, daughter of Æneas Macdonald, of Duniveg and Glyns, in com. de Argyll, ancestor to the Earl of Antrim.

Which Donald, called Donald Gorme Oig, had a liberal education at Oxford, where he made a proficiency in useful knowledge, and standing much in favour with King Charles I. his Majesty was pleased to create him a Baronet by letters patent, bearing date at Windsor, July 14, 1625, his patent having this remarkable speciality: "Quod dictus
" dominus Donaldus Macdonald de Slate, hæredes sui mascululi et assignati locum habebunt ante unumquodque
" alium Baronettum excepto Joanne Gordon, de Gordonston, non obstante quod ipsorum literæ patentes sub sigillo nostro hæctenus expeditæ sunt." When the civil war broke out, anno 1639, the King thought his assistance of so much consequence to his affairs, that he wrote him a letter (a) dated June 11, in that year, from the Birks before Berwick, where his Majesty was then encamped promising him his lands of Punard and Ardnamurchin, the lands of Strathordill, the islands of Roume, Muck, and Cannay, which were to accrue to him by the forfeiture of the Earl of Argyll, Sir Dougal Campbell, and M'Kinnon, seeing that the said Sir Donald at this time stood out for the good of his service, and was resolved to undergo the hazard of his person and estate for the same; all which he promises on the word of a King to ratify to the said Sir Donald and his heirs, in any manner they shall think proper, provided that he use his best endeavours in his service at this time, according to his commission granted him to that purpose. He made some discoveries of the secret designs of the Covenanters, of much importance to his Majesty, but died in Oct. 1643, at a time when he expected Col. Alexander Macdonald, commonly called Colonel Kitta, kinsman to the Earl, afterwards Marquis of Antrim, who was to land upon his estate with a considerable force from Ireland, for his Majesty's succour; they had agreed to furnish man for man. By Janet his wife, commonly known by the name of the fair Janet, sister to Colin, first Earl of Seaforth, he had

Sir James Macdonald, his son, was with the Marquis of Montrose, at the siege of Inverness, anno 1645, and sent some men to the battle of Worcester, anno 1651. When the Loyalists were universally suppressed, and the King had submitted to his fate, he retired into the Isle of Sky, where he lived with that circumspection which was necessary in such times. The Lord Broghill, who was in Scotland during the Usurpation, in a letter to Mr. Secretary Thurloe (a) writes, that he had conversed with Sir James Macdonald, whom he represents as a man of very great abilities, and of great interest among his people, and of good intelligence abroad. On King Charles II's restoration, he was fined to a very large amount, at the instigation of the Earl of Middleton, Secretary of State, who had a grant of his fine, a practice which he successfully used against many families who incurred his displeasure. The Privy Council sent Sir James a commission to pursue and punish the murderers of his kinsman, M'Donald, of Keppoch, who had usurped his possessions. Sir James sent their heads to Edinburgh, and received the thanks of the Privy Council by letter from the Earl, afterwards Duke of Rothes, who signified that he had done most acceptable service to his Majesty. His first wife was Margaret, daughter of Sir Roderic Mackenzie, of Tarbat, ancestor to the Earls of Cromarty; by her he had, Sir Donald, his successor.—Hugh, of Glenmore.—Sorlie, or Somerled, of Sartie.—Catharine, wife of Sir Normand Macleod, of Bernera.—Florence, wife of John Macleod, of Macleod. His second wife was Mary, daughter of Roderic Macleod, Esq. of Macleod, by whom he had one son, John Macdonald, of Bachoy, and dying Dec. 8, 1678, was succeeded by his eldest son,

The surname of Mayne is of great antiquity in Scotland, and in former times was variously written, Maign, Mayne, and Main, though all the same name. Jasper Main, got a charter under the great seal, from King James IV. of some tenements of land about Edinburgh, dated anno 1511.

Lord Newhaven is a younger son of the late William Mayne, of Powislogie, in the county of Clackmannan, and Shire of Perth, where they have been settled since the middle of the 14th century, and is descended from the ancient House of Mayne, of Lockwood, as appears by the register of Lyon’s Office. ## UPTON, LORD TEMPLETOWN.

THE Right Hon. CLOTWORTHY UPTON, Baron of TEMPLETOWN, in the county of Antrim, in the kingdom of Ireland, was created a Baron, July 27, 16 Geo. III. anno 1776. He married, August 25, 1769, Elizabeth, daughter of Shuckburgh Boughton, of Pilton, in Herefordshire, Esq. by whom he has had issue three sons and four daughters, viz. Augusta, died young.—John-Henry-Upton, first son, born Nov. 8, 1771.—Fulke-Greville Upton, second son, born April 2, 1773.—Arthur-Percy Upton, born June 12, 1777.—Elizabeth Albana, born Aug. 16, 1775.—Caroline, born Oct. 1778.—Sophia, born Sept. 1780.

This noble and antient family is descended from the Uptons, of Upton, in the county of Cornwall, as appears by entry and record made in the Herald's college, London, from whence this pedigree, or the greatest part, is taken; and which is further confirmed, by a visitation made by Ralph Broke, Rouge Croix, who, as appears by the warrant, visited for Clarencieux, in the year 1591, in Somersetshire, where a branch of this family was seated.

The first of whom, on record, was John Upton, of Upton, who had issue Andrew Upton, father of Hamelyn Upton, whose name appears to a deed bearing date 2 Henry III. 1218. He had issue Edward Upton, of Upton, living 12 Edward I. anno 1284, and was father of Richard Upton, who who lived 4 Edward III. anno 1331, and married Agnes, daughter and heir of Walter Carnother, by whom he had issue John Upton, his only son and heir, who married Margaret, sister and coheir of John Mules, and had issue Thomas Upton, son and heir, living 28 Henry VI. anno 1450, who married Joan, daughter and heir of John Trelawney, and by her he had issue, John Upton, second son, of Treslake; and first, William Upton, who married Joan, daughter and heir of Richard Palmer, of Launceston, by whom he had issue, John, who married Elizabeth, daughter of — Leverfedge, of ———, and was father of Geoffery Upton, who married Margaret, daughter and coheir of Robert Hone, Esq. who had issue George Upton, of Wells, Esq. living 1591, who married Frances, daughter and heir of John Newton, of Hartree, Esq. by whom he had issue, Frances Upton, daughter and heir.

We shall now return to John Upton, of Treslake, in the county of Cornwall, second son (of Thomas Upton, and Joan Trelawney) who married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Mohun, of Postlinch, in the county of Devon, Esq. by whom he had issue two sons, both christened John. John the eldest had Postlinch, in right of his mother, and married Elizabeth, daughter of John Burley, of Chencomb, in the county of Devon, by whom he had issue, three sons and two daughters, John Upton, the eldest son, married Elizabeth, daughter of Patrick Bedlow, and died without issue. Nicholas, the second son, married Edelborough, daughter of ——— Troise, of Hampshire, Esq. and died without issue. “ This Nicholas is supposed to be the famous Civilian; but whether he was of L’Upton, Postlinch, or of some other branch of the Upton family, is uncertain. Dr. Thomas Fuller, Westcot and Risdon, say, expressly, that he was of this county (viz. Devon.) He devoted his younger years to learning and war. He followed that famous General Thomas Montagu, Earl of Salisbury, into France, and was with him at the siege of Orleans; who, taking a view of the city from a window, was wounded by a shot in the head, of which wound he died, Nov. 3, 1428. His friend, the great Earl of Salisbury, being dead, Humphry Duke of Gloucester, the general patron of learning in those days, observing the talents and parts of Mr. Upton, persuaded him to lay aside the sword, and take up his books again. He returned to the University, and took the degrees of Bachelor and Doctor of the Civil Law. By the interest of his patron, Humphry Duke of Gloucester, he was made canon of the church of Wells, then of Sarum, and afterwards chanter of Salisbury. He was a person of that piety and learning, that he was chosen and sent by the church of Sarum, to Pope Nicholas V. to move him, that Osmund, their Founder and Bishop, might be canonized and inserted in the catalogue of Saints. He composed a book of Heraldry (Fuller says, the first of that kind) which, in a dedication, he presented, as a testimony of his gratitude, to the Duke of Gloucester. The titles of his works are, De Officio Militaris, lib. I. Leges Faciales, lib. I. Delineationes Armorum, lib. I. De Colorum Insigniis, lib. I. He died at Salisbury, An. Dom. 1457."

William Upton, third son, became heir, and married Mary, daughter of Thomas Kirkham, of Blackdown, in the county of Devon, and had issue two sons and one daughter; George Upton, first son; and John Upton, second son, who died unmarried. George, the eldest, married Philippa, daughter of John Wray, of Trebitts, in Cornwall, and had issue, four daughters and two sons. The sons were, William and George. William Upton, the eldest, married Amey, daughter of Richard Loves, of Bereden, in Cornwall, Esq. and was living in 1626, and had issue two sons and four daughters. The sons were, first, Mark Upton, aged seventeen years, in 1620; and Richard, the second son.

We shall now return to John, the younger son of John Upton and Elizabeth Mohun; which said son, John, the younger, married Agnes, daughter of Nicholas Pennells, and sister and heir of John Pennells, by whom he had issue, one son and one daughter. The son, named William, was seated at L'Upton, in the county of Devon, and married Joan, daughter of John Pont, of the county of Derby, by whom he had issue two sons and one daughter. The sons were John and Thomas. John Upton, the eldest, married Joan, daughter of Simon Rowley, of Fardell, in the county of Devon, by whom he had issue, three sons and two daughters, John, William, and Nicholas, the third son, who was a "Knight of Malta. The first date we have of him, from authentick records at Malta, under the Great Seal, in possession of the present Lord Templetown, is by leave granted to him to return to England, dated the 20th of Oct. 1537, seven years after the Order had taken possession of the island. By the same records we find that he was appointed to the commandry of Ripston, the 15th of November, 1547. He was instituted one of the eight Conventual Bailiffs, the 8th of November, 1548, and raised to the dignity of Turcopulerius, the 17th of October, 1549, a rank attached to the English nation only, and which gave a seat in the Council of State. He was at Malta when the attack was made on the island by the Sultan Soliman II. in the year 1551. Vertot, in his History of the Knights of Malta, says, that he was one of the bravest knights of the Order; that, at the attack here mentioned, he put himself at the head of thirty other knights, and five hundred inhabitants of the island, and presented himself boldly on the beach, near the Bourg, to oppose the landing of the Turks, which he effected at the place where he commanded. He died not long after the retreat of the Turks, of an illness occasioned by the great fatigues that he had sustained during that important siege." Vide Bossio, Bishop of Malta, brother to the famous commander, Bossio.

Of the sons above-mentioned, John, the eldest, married Anne, daughter of ——— Cooper, of Somersethire, Esq. and widow of Thomas Allen, of Glastenbury, and was father of Arthur Upton, of L'Upton, in the county of Devon, which Arthur married Gertrude, daughter of Hugh Fortescue, of Filley, in the county of Devon, and had issue four sons and one daughter. The sons were, first, John; second, Henry, who went into Ireland, and was ancestor of the present Baron of Templetown; Hugh, third son; Arthur, fourth son. John Upton, the eldest son, "whose extraordinary piety and virtue are recorded on a marble monument in the parish church of Brixham, to which L'Upton belongeth, dated 1590," was seated at L'Upton; and married —, daughter of Sir Anthony Rouse, of Halton, in the county of Cornwall, Knight, by whom he had issue, seven sons and eight daughters. The sons were, Arthur Upton, who was recommended, September 29, 1645, by the House of Commons, to be Governor of the fort and island of Plymouth. John, Ambrose, Anthony, Gilbert, Hugh, and Thomas, who died in 1641. Arthur Upton, the eldest, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Gould, Esq. and widow of Robert Heyden, and had issue three sons, John, Arthur, and William; and died in the year 1660. John Upton, the eldest, married Ursula, daughter of Sir John Lycott, Knight, and died without issue; "which Ursula erected a marble monument to his memory, in the north aisle of the parish church of Brixham, in the county of Devon, with the following inscription: In memory of John Upton, of L'Upton, Esq. who piously and religiously religiously served God and his country in his private and public station, whilst a Justice of Peace, and Burgess for Dartmouth, in three Parliaments, at his proper cost and charges, died September 7, ætatis 43, anno 1687." Arthur, second son, died unmarried; William Upton, third son, married Catharine, daughter of Sir John Otway, Knt. by whom he had issue three sons, and two daughters. Of the sons, William the eldest, and Arthur the youngest, died unmarried. John Upton, the second and only surviving son, married Elizabeth, daughter of Tho. Boucher, of Twickenham, in the county of Middlesex, Esq. by whom he had one son, and one daughter. John Upton, the only son now living, seated at Ingmore-Hall, in the county of York, married Mary, daughter of George Noble, in the county of Durham, Esq. and had issue one son, and two daughters, viz. John Upton, Mary, and Jane, now living.

John Upton (second son of John Upton and Dorothy, daughter of Sir Anthony Rowe) married to his first wife Elizabeth, daughter of John Bence, of London, by whom he had one daughter. His second wife was Jane, daughter of Sir John Lytcott, of Moulsey, in the county of Surrey, Knight, by whom he had issue four sons, and three daughters. The sons were, first, Arthur Upton, living in 1687; Nicholas, second son, died unmarried; Anthony, third son, one of the Judges of the Common Pleas in Ireland, anno 1717; John, fourth son, was a merchant of London, in 1687, and married Mary, daughter of William Warren, of London, merchant, by whom he had issue four sons, and one daughter. The sons were, John, who died an infant; William, John, and Anthony.

We shall now proceed with Ambrose Upton, third son of John Upton and Dorothy Rouse, which said Ambrose was Canon of Christ Church in Oxford. He married Mary, daughter of Francis Charleton, of Apley Castle, in the county of Salop, by whom he had three sons and four daughters, and died in 1668. Of the sons, Ambrose Upton, first settled in Dublin; he having married Jane, daughter of William Wright, of Oxford, Esq. had by her five sons, and one daughter. The sons were, Ambrose, William, Richard, Arthur, and Thomas. Francis Upton, the second son, was settled in London, as Doctor of Physick. He married Sarah, daughter of Robert Norman, before-mentioned, by whom he had John, who married Elizabeth, daughter of John Hill, of Luggerdine, in the county of Hereford, Esq. and had issue one son, John, a Captain in his Majesty's army, Lieutenant-Colonel in his Majesty's service, in India, and Lieutenant-Colonel in the Hon. East-India Company's service, and who died in India, unmarried, in 1779. Mary, only daughter (of Francis Upton) married to John Upton, Colonel in the army, and father to the present Lord Templetown. Arthur, third son, a merchant at Barbadoes, married Sarah, daughter of Clement Horne, of Norfolk, Esq. by whom he had two sons, Arthur and Anthony, and three daughters.

Having gone through the several descents from John Upton and Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Sir Anthony Rouse, Knight, I shall return back to Henry Upton, second son of Arthur Upton, of L'Upton, and Gertrude, daughter of Hugh Fortescue, of Filley, in the county of Devon, which said Henry went into Ireland, a Captain in the army, under the command of the Earl of Essex, in 1598. He established himself in the county of Antrim, and was chosen a representative for the county and town of Carrickfergus. He married, September 13, 1628, Mary, daughter of Sir Hugh Clotworthy, Knight, and sister of John Clotworthy, first Viscount Massareene, by whom he had four sons, and three daughters; Arthur, eldest son, born May 31, 1633; John, second son; John third son, and second of that name; and Henry, the fourth son, who died unmarried. Arthur Upton, of Castle-Upton, eldest son and heir, whose principles about civil Government were full of untainted loyalty, and a dutiful respect to the Royal Family, of which he gave many undeniable evidences. When he was summoned by the Commissioners to Carrickfergus (during the exile of Charles the Second) to take the oath of fidelity to the commonwealth of England, without King and House of Lords; he (though a Dissenter) positively refused it; and for his refusal, and other non-compliances with the courses of those times, he was to have been transported to some distant part of Ireland, but news soon arrived of Oliver's taking upon him the title of Lord Protector, to the no small confusion of the Commissioners, and the satisfaction and reputation of Mr. Upton, who continued firm in the allegiance to his lawful Prince. The Government thought him fit to be a Magistrate; and his country to be a member of Parliament for above forty years; in which capacities he was faithful both to God and man, adhering to the interest of religion as a good Christian, asserting the liberties of his country as a true patriot, and maintaining

maintaining the authority and honour of Government, as a faithful subject. He was not to be biassed against his conscience, neither by frowns nor smiles. He hated a temporising spirit, and flattery and dissimulation were his aversion. He had courage to assert his own principles, and adhere to his persecution in the worst of times, in face of the greatest opposition. He lived under diverse revolutions, both of civil and church government, and was uniformly the same. He was appointed by Government to defend the county of Antrim, and the contiguous northern counties, at the time of the rebellion, which he did, by frequently repelling and routing the rebels. He was a representative for the county of Antrim. He married Dorothy, daughter of Michael Beresford, of Colerain, in Ireland, Esq. by whom he had issue eight sons, and ten daughters.

Of the sons, Henry Upton, the eldest, was born August 15, 1654, and died unmarried. Michael, second son, was born Dec. 18, 1656, and died unmarried. Arthur, third son, born October 26, 1658, a Captain of foot, was slain at the battle of Aghraim, in Ireland, 1691, unmarried. Clotworthy Upton, of Castle Upton, in the county of Antrim, fourth son and heir, was born Jan. 6, 1665, and succeeded his father in the honours of the county. At the siege of Limerick he raised a party of men, and joined the army of King William III. before that town, attacked the breach with the Forlorn Hope, entered it singly sword in hand; and, most of the men being cut off, he mixed with the enemy, and was undiscovered till the affair was over, when he surrendered himself a prisoner to the commanding officer of the place, with whom he had been formerly acquainted. He married to his first wife, Mary, only daughter of Roger Boyle, Earl of Orrery, by whom he had no issue. He married, secondly, Margaret, daughter of William Stewart, of Killimoon, who died also without issue. He married to his third wife, Jane, daughter of John Ormsby, of Athlaccra, in Ireland, Esq. by whom he had Elizabeth, married to Hercules-Langford Rowley, of Somerhill, Esq. and was created Viscountess Langford, to her and her issue male, by patent, dated Feb. 19, 1766.

Arthur Upton, the second of that name, and fifth son, was born January 25, 1669, and died unmarried. John, the sixth son, of whom hereafter. Hercules Upton, seventh son, born September 24, 1673, died unmarried. Thomas Upton, eighth son, born August 4, 1677, was King's Council and Recorder of Londonderry. He married Sarah Rowley, daughter of Hugh Rowley, of Tubbermore, in the county of Derry, and had issue Dorothy, married to Thomas Tennison, Esq. second Justice of the Common-Pleas in Ireland. He was Representative of the county of Antrim, and afterwards chosen for the city of Londonderry, which he represented to his death. John Upton, above-mentioned, of Castle-Upton, sixth son, was born April 19, 1671. He was a Captain in King William's army, and assisted at the storming of the citadel of Liege, where he was wounded. He was engaged as Lieutenant-Colonel of Dragoons, at the memorable battle of Almanza, under Lord Galway, who, for his spirited conduct that day, gave him the command of the regiment, upon the death of Colonel Killegrew, killed at the beginning of the action. He was afterwards a Colonel by brevet. He was twice Representative for the county of Antrim, and married, on the 10th of March, 1711, to Mary, only daughter of Francis Upton, before-mentioned, by whom he had issue three sons, and five daughters. Of the sons, Arthur Upton, of Castle-Upton, eldest son and heir, was born Jan. 9, 1715. ### HOLROYD, LORD SHEFFIELD:

THE Right Honourable JOHN-BAKER HOLROYD, Lord SHEFFIELD, Baron of DUNAMORE, in the county of Meath, and Lord SHEFFIELD, Baron of ROSCOMMON, with remainder of the last title in failure of issue male, severally to his daughters and their issue male.

This family is of great antiquity in the West Riding of the county of York, and derived its name from the Hamlet of Howroyd, or Holroyd, in Barkisland, six miles from Halifax, which they formerly possessed. The name has been differently spelt, viz. Howroyde, Howle-royd, Hooleroid, Holerode, Oulroyd, Holroide, Holroid, Holeroyd, Holroyd, &c. The origin of which has been derived by our antiquaries, from the Anglo Saxon hou an Hill, and roïd which word signifies, when applied to land, such as was barren and uncultivated, and which on that account paid only two-pence per acre, and was freed from the service of grave and other taxes. This origin well suits the soil and situation of Howroyd or Holroyd (now the property of Joshua Horton, Esq.) which joins to the mountainous country, separating Lancashire from Yorkshire, called Blackstone Edge. The name also is to be found in Holstein, &c. whence the Anglo-Saxons came.

It appears from grants, ancient deeds, and records, that William de Howroyde, possessed the lands of Howroyde, in the reign of King Edward I.—John, his son, was living the 8th of Edward III.—His son, John de Howroyde, 30th of Edward III.—Henry de Holroide, 2d of Richard II.—Thomas de Holroide, 9th of Richard II.—John de Hol-roid, roid, in the same king's reign.—John, his son, 3d of Henry IV.

Hugh de Holroid, of Barkisland (in which manor is Howroyde or Holroyd) and Gracia, his wife, granted two oxgangs of land in Barkisland, to John Faber, 8th of Henry IV. to which deed a seal is appendant, being a rose encircled with the words, “ S. Hugonis de Holroid,” which was afterwards increased to five roses in saltire, now borne by the family, and shews the antiquity of the coat.

John Holroid, of Barkisland, was living temp. Henry V.—Isaac Holroid, his son, 16th Henry VI.—Isaac Holroid, 8th Edward IV.—Thomas Holroid, 7th Henry VII.—John Holroid, 12th Henry VIII.—Isaac Holroid, 37 Henry VIII.—John Holroid, 18th Elizabeth.—Henry Holroid, 40th Elizabeth.—George Holroid, married Maria Bell, 3d James I.—Isaac Holroid, lived in the reign of Charles I.

Isaac Holroid, Esq. his younger son, acquired lands in Ireland, and settled there. The elder branch ended in an heiress. He married four wives, and had issue only by Mary his first cousin, of the same name, viz. John, born 1680, and Mary, who married Isaac Ambrose, Esq. Clerk of the House of Commons, in Ireland, and they left an only daughter, married to Hugh Eccles, Esq. John Holroyd, Esq. the son, married Sarah, the daughter of Joseph Elwood, Esq. (originally of Yorkshire) and coheiress of John Elwood, Representative in Parliament for the University of Dublin. He died in 1729, leaving issue, Isaac, Mary, and William. Mary, married to Thomas Enery, of Bawnboy, in the county of Cavan, Esq. had issue, 1. John, married to the daughter of — Hamilton, Esq. 2. Frances, married to James Whitshed, Representative in Parliament for Cirencester. 3. Sarah, married to William Gore, of Woodford, in the county of Leitrim, Esq.—William, the second son of John Holroyd, above mentioned, was Rector of _____ in the county of Wicklow, died in 1768, leaving two daughters, Sarah and Mary.—Isaac Holroyd, Esq. the eldest son, was born July 1708; he married Dorothy, the youngest daughter of Daniel Baker, of Penn, in the county of Bucks, Esq. by Martha his wife, daughter of Samuel Mellish, of Blythe, in the county of Nottingham, Esq. *

The said Isaac died in the 70th year of his age, at Bath, on the 11th of May, 1778. Dorothy, his wife, died in the 73d year of her age, at Sheffield Place, in the county of Suffex, on August 29, 1777. They were both buried in Fletching church, Suffex, having had issue, four sons and four daughters; a daughter who died soon after her birth.—Isaac, who died in the eighth year of his age.—John, the present Lord Sheffield.—Daniel, who distinguished himself both at school and the university, by the liveliness of his talents. On the breaking out of the war with France in 1756, his eagerness for the military profession was indulged; he was appointed ensign in the 18th or Royal Irish regiment of foot, and in 1759, Lieutenant in a new raised regiment of Light Infantry, viz. the 90th, under the command of Colonel Morgan. He distinguished himself at the capture of Belleisle and at Martinico, where he commanded the grenadiers of the regiment, particularly on the 24th Jan. at the attack of the heights, which were thought impregnable, and commanded St. Pierre. From Martinico, the regiment went to the siege of the Havannah. Four officers, of whom he was one, and thirty-four men of the regiment on an out-post, being attacked

Daniel Baker, Esq. who was born in 1627, and married Barbara, daughter of John Steele, Esq. to whose memory there is a handsome monument in the church at Penn, in Buckinghamshire. Elizabeth, who died unmarried. 11. Martha, married to Henry Faure, Esq. and left three daughters, viz. Margaret, who died unmarried. Anne, who married Dennes Farrer Hillersdon, of Elstow, in Bedfordshire, Esq. Dorothy, married Daniel Falkiner, Esq. 12. Barbara, married to Richard Andrews, Esq. and left one son John, who died unmarried. 13. Maria-Josepha, married to Thomas Atkinson, Esq. and left no issue. 14. attacked by a body of 500 Spaniards, repulsed them, for which they were thanked in orders by General Lord Albemarle. At last, through the length of the siege, the army was greatly weakened, and its situation became desperate. The attack of the Moro Fort had now been carried on some months, the breach made by the springing of the mines was very incomplete; however desperate, it was resolved, as a last resource, to storm the fort. Lieutenant Daniel Holroyd, whose health at that time was much impaired by fatigue, offered himself to command a detachment of the regiment, to act as a forlorn hope. He was obliged to pass to the breach, (which would only admit one man abreast) along a narrow ridge of rock hanging over the sea on one side, on the other side was the ditch, upwards of fifty feet deep. The detachment forced its way into the fort. Velasco the governor was mortally wounded. The Spaniards gave way, but a priest with a dozen men got into a tower, and firing from thence, Lieutenant Holroyd was shot dead on the spot, one ball entering just above the eye. Of the forlorn hope, which consisted of about forty, two-thirds were killed, but they were the whole that fell in this extraordinary attack, the boldness of which entirely confounded the Spaniards. Four hundred out of eight hundred of the garrison were put to the sword. It is well known the Havannah being commanded by the fort, it surrendered in consequence of this successful attack. Lieutenant Daniel Holroyd was buried on the Glacis of the Moro castle.—Sarah-Martha, is now living and unmarried.—Martha, died young.—Elwood, the fourth son, died young.—Dorothy, died, aged twenty-four years, and was buried at Fletching in Suffex.

To return to John, now Lord Sheffield, he did not enter into the army till four years after his younger brother Daniel, just mentioned. But when the regiment of light dragoons, called Royal Forresters, was raised in 1760, under the command of the Marquis of Granby, he offered his service, and had the honour of commanding a troop in that regiment. When it was disbanded on the peace in 1763, he went abroad, and travelled for three years over the principal parts of Europe, visiting the several courts of France, Italy, and Germany. He returned to England in 1766, and in 1767, married Abigail, the daughter of Lewis Way, Esq. by Abigail his third wife, only daughter and heiress of John Lockey, Esq.

This John left his estate to his heir, Robert, who married Dorothy, daughter and heiress of Thomas Flannock, in the county of Cornwall, Esq. William, grandson of Robert last mentioned, removed to Yard, in the said county of Somerset, whose son Roger Hill, Esq. in the time of King Henry VIII. removed to Poundesford, in the county aforesaid, whose lineal heir, Roger, of Poundesford, Esq. (by Catharine his first wife, daughter to Giles Green, of the county of Dorset, Esq.) had issue, William, and (by Abigail his second wife, daughter of Brampton Gurdon, in the county of Suffolk, Esq.) Sir Roger, first mentioned, who in the reign of Charles II. settled at Denham, in the county of Bucks, and upon the death of his brother William, without issue, became possessed of the estate of Poundesford. His representative and great-grandson, Benjamin Way, of Denham, Esq. married Elizabeth-Anne, eldest daughter of William Cooke, D. D. Provost of King's-College, Cambridge, Dean of Ely, &c. and has several children.

† The estate and manor of Sheffield in Suffex, from which his Lordship takes his title, are very considerable, and give name to the hundred. The house is large, elegantly ornamented, and situated in a beautiful and extensive park, midway between East-Grinstead and Lewes. The first foundation is not known, but it has undergone great alterations, and especially within a few years has been very much beautified. It is in the best Gothic style, and in a battlemented frize, which goes round the house, are introduced the arms of the possessors of the lordship or manor of Sheffield, from the year 1058, when the Conqueror granted it to his half-brother Robert de Mortaigne, or Morton, to the present time, including those of the families of Lancaster, Norfolk, Dorset, Abergavenny, Delawarr, &c. Before the conquest it belonged to Earl Goodwin.

the month of March of that year, under the command of the Duke of Richmond, he entered into it as Major. In the summer of the year 1779, when the Combined Fleet was upon the coast of England, he offered to raise a regiment of Light Dragoons without expence to the public, which offer was graciously accepted by his Majesty, and he was permitted to nominate his own officers. The regiment was completed in a few weeks, and called the Suffex, or 22d Regiment of Light Dragoons. In February 1780, he was elected Representative in Parliament for the city of Coventry without opposition. In June, of the same year, during the most extraordinary insurrection and disturbances in London, he distinguished himself by his activity. At the head of a detachment of Northumberland militia, he was the first to put a stop to the riotous and outrageous violences of the mob at Mr. Langdale's in High Holbourn, and at Holbourn-Bridge. At the general election in September, the same year, through the proceedings of the corporation of Coventry, and by the means of the sheriffs, his reelection was prevented, and no return made. After a long hearing before the House of Commons, the Sheriffs were committed to Newgate for their conduct. A new election was ordered, which began the latter end of November, and through the management of the corporation, the poll was continued four weeks and two days, and notwithstanding a great majority in favour of Col. Holroyd, and Mr. Yeo, Sir Thomas Halifax and Mr. Rogers were returned; but on petition to the House of Commons, the two latter were declared not duly elected, and Col. Holroyd and Mr. Yeo were declared duly elected.

His Majesty, by Letters Patent, bearing date the 18th of December, 1780, was pleased to create him a Peer of Ireland, by the name; stile, and title of Lord Sheffield, Baron of Dunamore, in the county of Meath, and on the 20th of Sept. 1783, Lord Sheffield, Baron of Roscommon, with remainder, severally, in failure of issue male, to his daughters and their issue male.

This noble Lord is descended from the Earl of Glencairn's family in Scotland, which family branched out in Edward VI.'s time, by a younger son, William, who was Bishop of Argyl, in Scotland, whose grandson, Dean Coningham, came over into Ireland, about the latter end of James I.'s reign, to sue for a considerable estate, which he recovered. He left issue Halbert Conyngham, who was knighted in King Charles II.'s reign; and at the head of a regiment, which he raised at his own expence, joined King William at the battle of the Boyne, which regiment the King established the day after the battle, for their gallant behaviour, and gave him the command thereof; but he was soon after killed near Killoony, in the county of Sligoe. His son Henry was Major in Lord Mountjoy's regiment of foot, at the battle of the Boyne, and for his gallant behaviour, King William soon after ordered him to raise a regiment of dragoons, with a power to nominate his own officers, and gave him the command thereof. At the battle of St. Stephen's, in Spain, in 1705, he was killed, where he commanded in chief, as Major-general in the English service, and Lieutenant-general in the Portuguese service. He married a daughter of Sir John Williams, of the county of Caermarthen, Bart. widow of the Right Honourable the Earl of Shelburne, by whom he had a very large estate in Wales, and in the isle of Thanet and county of Kent. His Lordship is descended from a very respectable family in Dorsetshire, which in the civil wars possessed a very considerable landed property. His Lordship's father was bred to the church, and resided many years Vicar of Butleigh, in Somersetshire, and afterwards of Thorncombe, in Devon; and having married, had issue Samuel, the present Lord Hood.—Alexander, a Captain in the royal navy.—Arthur-William, who was brought up to the church, and succeeded his father in the above-mentioned livings, but is now dead.—Elizabeth, married to Mr. Edward Walker, an Alderman of Exeter.—Anne, now unmarried.

His Lordship, from the early part of his life, was brought up in the navy, and very early distinguished himself by his knowledge and bravery, and his letters from the fleet, when young, were esteemed the best models of nautical writing. In 1756 he was raised to the rank of a Captain in the navy, and in 1759, for his bravery in taking the Bellona frigate, had the honour of being introduced by Lord Anson to his late Majesty. In 1778 he was appointed Commissioner of Portsmouth-yard, which he resigned in 1780. In 1778 he was created a Baronet, and in 1780 made a Rear-Admiral. THE Right Honourable ARTHUR POMEROY, Lord HARBERTON, Baron HARBERTON, of Carbery, in the county of Kildare, was so created September 20, 1783. His Lordship married in October, 1747, Mary, youngest daughter and coheirefs of Henry Colley, Esq. of Castle Carbery, in the county of Kildare (elder brother to Richard first Lord Mornington) and by her has had issue four sons, now living; and three daughters, all of whom are deceased. The sons are Henry, member in the last and present Parliament for Strabane, in the county of Tyrone.—Arthur-James, Major in the 9th regiment of dragoons.—John, in holy orders.—George. The daughters were Elizabeth, the eldest, who died very young.—Henrietta, the second, who married, in July 1779, the the Hon. and Rev. The family of Pomeroy is very ancient. They came into England at the conquest, and were settled in Devonshire, where they were a long time possessed of the lordships of Berry Pomeroy, Harberton, and divers others; and had, to the time of Henry the Third, a seat as Barons in Parliament, as may be seen at large in Fuller and Prince's Worthies of Devonshire.

The particular branch from which Lord Harberton is descended, was settled at Engesdon, in Devonshire, in the reign of King James the First. From thence his grandfather, the Rev. Arthur Pomeroy, came into Ireland, in 1672, chaplain to Arthur Earl of Essex, Lord Lieutenant of that kingdom, who established him in the deanry of Cork, and other considerable preferments in that county. He married Elizabeth, one of the sisters and coheireffes of St. John Osborne, of Ballintaylor, in the county of Waterford, Bart. and had issue John, who also entered into holy orders, and, in 1716, married Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Edmund Donnellan, of Cloghan, in the county of Roscommon, Esq. and had issue Arthur, the present Lord

Arthur, now Lord Harberton, was elected one of the knights of the shire for the county of Kildare, at the general election in 1761, and was continued in that honourable trust to the dissolution of the Parliament in July 1783, soon after which his Majesty was pleased to advance him to the Peerage.

Thallack, formerly Bishop of Orcades; and steward to Margaret, Princess of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, wife to James III. King of Scotland; which manuscript is in his Lordship's possession. The first mentioned is Harold Hairfauger, who, in 846, subdued his neighbouring Princes, and, in 858, was crowned the first sovereign Prince over all their kingdoms, which before that æra was divided into many states. He married Offa, the third daughter of Gouldbrand, by a daughter of Sigefrid, King of Sogen in Norway. ## PENNINGTON, LORD MUNCASTER.

THE Right Honourable JOHN PENNINGTON, Lord MUNCASTER, was, September 20, 1783, created Baron MUNCASTER, in the county of Cumberland, with remainder to his brother Lowther Pennington.

This family originally was a Lancashire family, settled upon an estate and manor, named after themselves, and which is to this day in the possession of the present Lord; whereon are the remains of the old mansion of the family, and which went to decay, from the family removing from this county into that of Cumberland, about 40 years before the Conquest. They derive their pedigree from Gammel de Pennington, who was a very considerable person before and at the Conquest, as appears by several ancient rolls, rolls, registers, and records; from whom the present Lord is derived in a lineal descent of numerous ancestors of note. And to instance some of them, in the 20th Edward I. lived Sir William de Pennington, Knight, to whom that King granted a free chace in both the counties of Lancashire and Cumberland, a favour of great mark and distinction in those times. He was succeeded by Sir John de Pennington, Knight, in the 17 Edward II. Sir Allan de Pennington, Knight, lived 4th Henry IV. and married D. Preston, by whom he had issue, Sir John (the second) de Pennington, Knight, who succeeded his father in the 4th Henry VI. to which unfortunate prince this Sir John was much attached, and gave him a secret reception at Mealcaster, or Mulcaster, now Muncaster, for some time, when in his flight from his enemies. In return, that King gave him a curiously-wrought glass cup, with this blessing to the family, that they should ever prosper, and never want a male heir, so long as they should preserve it unbroke, which the superstition of those times imagined to carry good Fortune, and called it, The luck of Muncaster, and the family have the glass still, as a testimony of that prince's good-will to them. This Sir John de Pennington is likewise reported in a book, intituled, Historia Anglo Scotica, printed 1703, to have been a skilful warrior, as may be seen p. 227. Oct. Edit. in the reigns of Henry VI. of England and James II. of Scotland; and that he commanded the left wing of the English army, in one of our expeditions into Scotland, when the Earl of Northumberland led the main body.

The next Knight of this house was Sir John (the third) de Pennington, grandson of the last Sir John, who is also mentioned in the aforesaid book, p. 265. in the reigns of Henry VII. of England and James IV. of Scotland, to have gone with the Bishop of Durham and the Earl of Surry to the relief of Norham Castle, which they accomplished, and afterwards invaded Scotland with success. The same Sir John had likewise a command, about sixteen years after, at the battle of Flodden Field, in the 4 Henry VIII. where James IV. was killed, and the flower of the nobility and gentry of Scotland either slain or taken prisoners; and Sir John and his followers brought some booty back with them. The next knight was Sir William de Pennington in 38 Henry VIII.

The next was Sir John Pennington, Admiral to King Charles I. of whose integrity the King was so confident, that on his judgment he principally relied, in all his maritime ritime actions, and whose memory is celebrated by the historians of those unhappy times; and in a particular manner by Sir Walter Raleigh, in a letter of his to King James. M. le Neve in his MSS. mentions this as a very ancient family, and after citing several records to prove their antiquity, goes on to Joseph Pennington, of Pennington in Lancashire, and Muncaſter in Cumberland, Eſq. who died about 1640, leaving iſſue by Iſabel, daughter of Alvery Copley, of Botley, in York, Eſq. widow of Sir Robert Savile, of Howley, in Yorkſhire, Knight, a ſon William, and a daughter Bridget, married to Sir William Huddleſtone, of Millum, in Cumberland, Knight. William Pennington, Eſq. ſon and heir, died Auguſt 1652. He married Catharine, daughter of Richard Sherbone, of Stonyhurſt, in Lancashire, Eſq. by whom he had four ſons and five daughters; Joſeph, of whom hereafter.—Alan Pennington, M. D. living at Cheſter, in 1665, who married Bridget, daughter of John Aleworth, in Somerſetſhire, and had a ſon William, four years old, 1663.—Richard Pennington, of Salford, in Lanſhire, Eſq. Barrifter at Law, and of Grays-Inn, who married Ann, daughter of Robert Blundell, of Ince Blundell, in Lancashire, Eſq.—And William. Of the daughters; Iſabel was unmarried, 1695.—Catherine, married Sir Jeffrey Shakerley, of Shakerley, in Lancashire, Knight, Governour of Cheſter.—Elizabeth was wife of Sir Roger Braidſhaigh, of Haigh, in Lancashire, Bart.—Bridget married Thomas Heber, of Stainton, in Yorkſhire, Eſq.

Joſeph Pennington, Eſq, eldeſt ſon and heir, died about 1659, leaving iſſue by Margaret, daughter of John Fleetwood, Eſq. of Penwortham, in Lancashire.

Sir William Pennington, ſon and heir of the above Joſeph, was the firſt Baronet of this family, ſo created, 29 Car. II. He married Iſabel, eldeſt daughter of John Stapleton, Eſq. (who was eldeſt ſon of Sir Philip Stapleton, Knight, of the Wighil family) by whom he acquired a conſiderable eſtate in Yorkſhire; and had two ſons, Sir Joſeph his ſucceſſor; and Philip, who died in 1731, S. P. and two daughters; Elizabeth, who married, firſt, to John Archer, of Oxenholm, near Kendal, in Weſtmoreland, Eſq. and ſecondly to Thomas Strickland, of Sizergh, in the ſame county, Eſq. and Margaret. Sir William died at Muncaſter, in Cumberland, July 1, 1730, and was ſucceeded in dignity and eſtate by his eldeſt ſon,

Sir Joſeph Pennington, Baronet, who was one of the knights of the ſhire for the county Cumberland, and married Margaret, fourth daughter of John, late Lord Viscount Lonsdale; by whom he had four sons and one daughter; William, who died April 8, 1734.—Sir John Pennington, his successor, Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, for the County of Westmorland.—Lowther, who died at Cambridge, 1733.—Sir Joseph, the present Baronet.—Catharine, the only daughter, married Governor Lowther, father of the present Sir James Lowther, Bart. and of Margaret Countess of Darlington, and Catharine, Duchesse of Bolton.
