WIDER MARKETS

The problem of the cost of living is the most important that my Ministers have in mind at the present time, and every effort is being made to improve conditions with respect thereto. It is apparent that even the most rigid economy in public expenditures will not suffice to solve this pressing question and the problem of taxation incidental thereto. The ultimate solution lies in increased production and the development of new and wider markets. It is to be borne continually in mind that the existing burden of taxation is due mainly to uncontrollable expenditures and obligations arising out of the war and to the encumbered position of the National Railways.

AT THE THEATRES
SILENT ACCUSER HAS FAMOUS POLICE DOG FEATURED
It has often been said that there is nothing new under the cinema sun, but in "The Silent Accuser," the Metro-Goldwyn production at the Dominion Theatre to-day, a promise is made that an entirely new situation is presented in the development of the plot.
The novelty is made possible only through the astounding work of Peter the Great, the new police dog star of the picture. The story is frankly a melodrama, with an element of mystery to which the dog alone holds the key.
The picture has been produced on a scale that has come to be expected of all Metro-Goldwyn pictures, with beautiful photography, sets and exterior scenes. At least two-thirds of the action takes place out of doors.
The cast is small, with the leading roles taken by only three people and a dog, Eleanor Boardman, who has made such a great success in the last year through her work in "Wine of Youth," "Sinners in Silk" and "Three Wise Fools," has one of the most interesting roles of her career. In some scenes of the picture she is disguised as a boy. Raymond McKee, remembered for his work in "Down to the Sea in Ships" and "Along Came Ruth," plays opposite Miss Boardman, and Earl Metcalfe plays an interesting character part.
It was the belief of Chester M. Franklin, the director, that with three people and a dog he could make a thoroughly entertaining picture, and, according to all reports, he has succeeded. Mr. Franklin himself, together with Frank O'Connor, his assistant director, wrote the scenario of the picture, which was based on the story by Jack Boyle.

REMARKABLE HORSE SHOWING IN FILM NOW AT COLUMBIA
Fred Thomson, the E.B.O. western star, appearing in "The Silent Stranger," now at the Columbia Theatre, is just proud of his horse "Silver King."
This remarkable animal can count to 100, he answers questions by shaking his head "Yes" or "No," he knows seven colors, having a great dislike for brown, he can pick the American, British, French and Italian flags when told to do so; he can "take" the high- and low hurdles "without a rider," he will kill a snake by tramping on it instead of running away as other horses do; he covers himself with a blanket when he lays down and knows all the other stunts that are required of a circus or vaudeville horse; namely, cake walking, standing on the hind legs, keeping time with music and "playing dead."
Thomson is supported by a distinguished cast of western players in "The Silent Stranger."

NAZIMOVA GIVES STARTLING PICTURE VERSION OF 'SALOME'
Mme. Nazimova, famous Russian screen and stage star, has been a pioneer—and still is, for the impulse of pioneering grows with accomplishment and there is always another frontier whether art or nature) to be crossed.
It was Nazimova who first flashed the brilliance of the Ibsen drama successfully to audiences on this continent, dispelling the traditional "fog" with which the work of the Norwegian playwright had been surrounded by poetic critics.
At a time when William Archer and George Bernard Shaw were surrounding the modernist, Henrik Ibsen, with a "fog" of laudatory words, and William Winter was fulminating against him, Nazimova brought him out and proved to an interested world that there was no vague, befogged theorist working in the form of the drama but a live, alert and tremendously vital playwright working in the medium called Truth.
She pioneered with Ibsen and brought a new and needed influence to the stage.
She has pioneered with the same author in a screen manifestation of "A Doll's House" and it would appear that she will presently make the name "Ibsen" familiar to picture patrons as it is to drama lovers.
Still pioneering, Nazimova appeared in "Salome," now showing at the Playhouse, under the direction of Producers and Distributors Corporation release.

ANDERS RANDOLF HAS DESPICABLE SCREEN RECORD
Anders Randolph, who is the heavy in "By Divine Right," Elliott Dexter's first production for Grand-Asher now at the Coliseum Theatre, has a record for being a very despicable character—the screen. Off he is a charming man and is an artist of remarkable ability in oil or pastel. He recently did a portrait of The Christ, which was said to be one of the most beautiful ever conceived. Mr. Randolph is a Dane and has held the swordsmanship championship for three countries. He plays an unscrupulous politician in this picture. Mildred Harris is leading woman for Mr. Dexter. R. William Neill made the film.

LOVE CHASED TWO FILM LAND STARS ACROSS CONTINENT
Romance trailed them across the continent. Colleen Moore no longer scoffs at destiny, and neither does John McCormick, western representative of First National.
"What is decreed in one's life must be and cannot be changed," says the winsome star of "Flirting With Love," in which she is co-starred with Conway Tearle, and which will play at the Capitol Theatre all this week.
Although she and John McCormick lived in the same city for years, they only met and married in Hollywood a little more than ten months ago, on Colleen's twenty-first birthday.
Neither Colleen Moore nor her husband was born in Atlanta, Ga., but there they lived, oblivious to the proximity of love.
When Colleen Moore is not busy making the kind of pictures that have established her as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, actresses on the motion picture roster of stars, she will tell you that she first saw the light of day in Port Huron, Mich. And she remembers that she was quite a little girl when her parents migrated to the warmer climes of Atlanta.
What followed will some day go to make a great novel. At any rate, in 1917 she went to Chicago to spend her vacation with her uncle, Walter Howey, managing editor of The Chicago Record-Herald. It was there that D. W. Griffith discovered her, and the girl who wanted to be an actress, but never dreamed of fulfilling that ambition, was catapulted to Hollywood from Chicago to appear under the great director.

NEW TALMADGE FILM IS LAID IN FOUR PERIODS
Stephen Gosson, art director, and Gene Hornbostel, Joseph M. Schenck, technical director, have provided sets of unusual beauty for Norma Talmadge's latest First National picture, "Secrets," which plays at the Capitol Theatre next week. The task of designing and dressing the sets was a most difficult one owing to the fact that the story of "Secrets" is laid in four different periods.
The drama opens in London in 1923, shifts to Wyoming and the American West of 1870, then to London of the same year and as it was in 1888, finishing again in 1923.
Hornbostel's difficulty lay in showing the difference in architecture between the years 1870 and 1888 as well as 1923. The dressing of the sets consisted much of delving into old tomes and consultation of prints of bygone days.
Hornbostel also was required to round up 1,000 head of long horn steers. It was somewhat of a task to find the long horns as the bald face steers are now the favorites and not so many long horns are being raised as in the olden days.

One of Hornbostel's laughable difficulties was with the doors in the massive English sets. Although most of these doors were of fairly good material they were found to be entirely too small for the passage of the ladies in the east in their billowing, crystalline gowns. Accordingly the doors were changed to arches so that the actresses might make their exits and entrances with ease.
Percy Hutchison Here For Three-day Run in 'Nightie-night'
Curtain Raiser Precedes Lively Farce at Royal Theatre

To-night at the Royal Theatre Percy Hutchison opens a three-day's engagement with his entire Queen's Theatre Company. He has written a farce on decidedly French lines, which was a pronounced success in London when it was transferred there from its birthplace—New York.
Mr. Hutchison laughed himself tired at the humorous book, and then tried hard to become its English god-father, but he was forestalled by the noted actor-manager to be his proxy. And so it became about that Mr. Hutchison made good with "Nightie Night," the play which he is producing here.
Chatting with Mr. Hutchison with reference to this production, he said, "I consider that farcical acting is the most difficult section of stage art, and that was also the opinion of my uncle, the late Sir Charles Wyndham."
Like other authorities, he holds that farce, to obtain the utmost effects from it, should be played seriously—perhaps the better term is convincingly. The playing of it in a farcical manner is just the wrong way to present it; the attempt should be to make it realistic, and let its latent ludicrousness make its own appeal.
The difficulty in farce, he points out, is the rapidity with which it must be played; everything must be kept moving with hardly a second's pause. And here comes another difficulty, because, as "laughter" is likely to be constant, it will not do to spoil the laughter on the one hand by continuing, or to spoil the lines on the other.
"I believe the public will be really struck with the work of the young actress, Miss Betty Nelson, who is playing the part of Trixie Lorraine, and with that of Miss Nina Oldfield. Of my own part you will be able to judge for yourself later on," says Mr. Hutchison.
"Nightie Night" will be preceded by a one-act play entitled "Elegant Edward," in which Mr. H. Saxton-Snell will be seen in a good character study.

RACHMANINOFF IS AMONG GREATEST MUSICIANS TO-DAY
Sergei Rachmaninoff, one of the greatest of living musicians, will appear at the Royal Victoria on February 23. This will be his first appearance in Victoria.
Of Rachmaninoff, among the foremost musicians of our day, critics and public are nearly all agreed that for tone, nuance, technical perfection, clarity of expression, dignity, simplicity and interest, he occupies a unique position among pianists.
Of his playing one critic writes: "It is little that a reviewer can say of the technical perfection of a master. However, there were a few things that were outstanding in his work. One was his use of the pedal with fine discrimination, not to cover up imperfections, as often is the case, but to obtain a clarity of expression that was truly marvelous."
"Again he is to be commended for his choice of programmes. Seldom does a pianist give one of such interest. There was nothing hackneyed in its properly brief length. Liszt, Grieg, Chopin all told their stories, which were of varied interest. He executed difficult passages with technical ease. Where many less thoroughgoing pianists would have done acrobatics, he went calmly along with a marvelous dignity. Again there was something appealing in his simple directness. From a darkened stage, a trifle bent, he slipped quietly out from behind the curtain and went directly to the piano. It was the simplicity of the truly great who long ago has discarded the heroic."

MAGDALENE AND MILLIONAIRE UNITE IN BUILDING CATHEDRAL OF ST. JOHN

New York, Feb. 3.—From the pines of Magdalen and millionaire, agnostic and devout believer, Jew and Christian are coming the dollars that will build America's most magnificent church.

"A shrine of worship for all people"—that will be the cornerstone for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, destined to rank with Cathedrals of St. Peter, Seville, Notre Dame, Rheims, Canterbury and Westminster Abbey.

High above the roaring scurrying city will stand this sacrament in stone to remind the feverish, milling hordes of the goals higher than their daily ambition.

At a cost of $15,000,000 is to be built this most democratic of cathedrals.

There will be no rentals, no locked doors, no reserved rights of caste or rank, no denominational demands.

"Our democratic age demands a place of worship that will not disregard the teachings of the founder of Christianity," declares Bishop William Thomas Manning, head of the New York Episcopal diocese, who now is leading the financial drive to make possible the combination of the grandeur of the old world and the democracy of the new.

"In that section of the church already built there have been services in Italian and Spanish; occasional services in Armenian, Japanese, Chinese and even Welsh. On Kossovo Day, a Serbian Archimandrite, celebrated the liturgy of the Holy Orthodox Church at the cathedral's high altar, and a choir of Russians

Architect's sketch of $15,000,000 cathedral of St. John the Divine, to be built in New York and (inset) Bishop William Thomas Manning and Jugo-Slavs sang the response—such are the cosmopolitan influences of a city such as New York. When, at the end of ten years, this great shrine is completed the cathedral will be one-tenth of a mile long, the sides will be ribbed with spired buttresses and spire upon spire will rise to a central tower 500 feet above the foundations.

"The spiritual imagination of the people will be aroused," the bishop continues. "In the old days church towers and spires were conspicuously in view. Today they have disappeared. We have hidden them behind our great buildings and apartment houses."

"The cathedral will bring the church once more into view, standing on the heights, where nothing can obscure or hide it, this great building will bring the church back into the place which belongs to it in the sight of the people."

French Gothic architecture will be used in its building. The plan is cruciform and so oriented that the priest standing at the high altar faces the east. From the apex radiate seven chapels, known as the "chapel of the tongues." In area it will be the third largest in the world; St. Peter's at Rome being the largest.

"And it is such a church that we seek," concludes the bishop. "For all peoples, for all people. A shrine for the worship of all mankind."

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, N.Y., Feb. 5 (By R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)—Trading was on a rather large scale and activity was observable in practically all departments of the list.

The outside demand for stocks showed a fair sized increase to-day with the bulk of the buying centering in the oil and rail stocks.

However, it is observed that the buying power seems to be centering itself more in the rails and in oil shares.

After to-day's performance it can no longer be doubted that the general list has gone through practically all the correction it needs.

Brisk demand for various issues, concentrated principally on the oil and rail stocks, has been reported.

Coppers displayed special strength, reflecting the sudden and decided turn in the London market.

B. C. LOG PRODUCTION SCARS TO NEW HIGH; TIMBER REVENUE GROWS

Government revenue from British Columbia forest operations continues to increase. For January, 1925, according to figures given out by Hon. T. D. Pattullo to-day, the revenue amounted to $297,000.

According to the scale returns to Mr. Pattullo's department, the log production in B.C. for the year 1924 was 2,548,700,181 feet, made up of 2,208,817,000 feet of saw log; 22,600,000 feet of poles and piling; 214,628 cords of shingle bolts, stove bolts, pulp wood and other cord-material; and 3,726,619 railway ties.

The Vancouver forest district leads in saw log production, the cut there being 1,709,248,000 feet or 77 per cent of the total.

Trade not large as compared with previous years. The market was two-sided that it had with the trade very cautious on the buying side, and big interests do not believe the break is yet over.

SERIAL STORY THE MARRIAGE SCALES By MILDRED BARBOUR

THE TRUTH AT LAST
The crash of thunder made conversation almost impossible between Doris and Charles.
"Perhaps the subject of Craig Cullam would have been dropped there and there, had not a brilliant flash of lightning, illuminating the dim library, revealed to Charles, Doris's face, white, tense, strained.
He thought she was frightened by the storm and sought to divert her. "Ariad of lightning, Doris? I'll bet Mariana is hiding under a bed upstairs."
Doris shook her head. He could barely see the movement through the premature dusk.
"Shall I turn on the light?"
She stopped him with a gesture which he thought queerly imporing. "Please—no for me. I—the dusk is restful."
"All right," he leaned back in his swivel chair with a comfortable sigh. After a while he remarked idly, just to keep the conversation going and Doris's thoughts off the storm.
"Ever met Craig Cullam, Doris? But of course you did," he answered himself. "You were at Mariana's house party, weren't you?"
"Yes," Doris's voice was very low. "Marvelous fellow!" Charles went on ruminatively. "Incredibly good looking and Jove, what talent! I guess I've never had a finer friend either."
Something gripped Doris's heart. If Charles knew what had taken place behind his back. Ah, the treachery of it!
Well-to-morrow Cullam would sail for London, and be out of the way. Charles's next remark startled her. "You know Mariana was crazy about him, didn't you?"
So, Mariana had confessed? Very evenly and evasively she replied.
"I know that Mr. Cullam was crazy about Mariana."
"Crazy about Mariana? Gad, what an actor that fellow is! So he deceived even you? And you're darn clever, Doris!"
Doris began to tremble unaccountably.
"What do you mean by 'deceived even me'?" she asked sharply.
"Why didn't you know?" Charles was grinning immoderately. "It was all a hoax, a carefully arranged phantasy between Cullam and me. It was Cullam's idea and he did all the work as a matter of fact. The only assistance I gave was to get up the house party and go away so he could have a clear field to play the bouder."
Doris fumbled in suffocating darkness for words which would not betray her.
"Do you mind explaining? It sounds like a good joke and I rather resent not being taken into it."
Charles explained. He thoroughly enjoyed the story and did full justice. For a long time, he had been wanting to talk to someone about it.

BEDTIME STORY Uncle Wiggily's Mouth Organ

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
(By Howard R. Garis)
Once upon a time when Uncle Wiggily was listening to his radio he heard some one broadcasting music on a mouth organ, or harmonica, from station XYZQM.
"That is very sweet and pretty," said Mr. Longears, as he beat time with his cute little tail. "I think I shall get me one."
"One what?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.
"A mouth organ," answered the bunny. "I can easily learn to play it. I'll hop down to the sixteen and seventeen cent store and get one now."
So he did, and when he came home he sat down, twinkled his pink nose and blew into the mouth organ. Uncle Wiggily first tried to play "Home, Sweet Home." But if you were to ask me about it I should have to say it sounded more like "Sour, Sour Home." For, truth to tell, the bunny uncle didn't play very well.
"I would much rather give you

New—A Cross-number Puzzle!

Instead of cross words—cross numbers! Here is something new in the fact that has gripped the nation. Numbers instead of letters, numbers that add to a definite sum, reading either way. You need no dictionaries to look up sticklers, not even an arithmetic. For these numbers are just the first nine digits and each group totals 15.
The puzzle form and numbering of the squares are similar to crossword puzzles. But instead of definitions you get a group of numbers which are to be re-arranged in the squares designated so that they will add up to 15 either horizontally or vertically, when the other groups are properly arranged.
Try it and see how you like it.

High Tariff on Garden Produce Quebec Request
Montreal, Feb. 4.—High tariff duties that would prevent United States garden produce from entering Canadian markets to the detriment of local growers, and an embargo on the export of all raw materials, such as pulp wood, nickel, asbestos and tobacco to force the expansion of manufacturing in Canada were favored in resolutions adopted yesterday afternoon at the convention of the United Farmers of Quebec, held here.
Considerable opposition to the resolutions was manifested in some quarters, but the pro-tariff section forced the motions and carried the day.

OLD-TIMER DIED
Agaasis, B.C., Feb. 5.—Henry McLean, sixty-three, a resident of the district for forty years, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. Death was due to natural causes. He was a brother of Jack McLean, whose feet were so badly frozen some weeks ago that they had to be amputated, and who died two weeks ago.

in the harmonica. Then she went back in the dining-room and made Uncle Wiggily's tea.
Altogether she finished his lunch, and was getting up to go to the kitchen, when, as it happened, the Woolie Wolf saw the open pantry window of the bungalow, and crawled in, thinking to catch Uncle Wiggily.
The Wolf saw the mouth organ on the shelf, and said:
"Ah, I am very fond of music! I'll play a little tune before I nibble that rabbit's ear!"
The Wolf picked up the harmonica and began to blow. But, no sooner had he done so than a lot of sour vinegar ran in his mouth.
"Ah, wretched zinks!" howled the had chap. "Oh, bur-r-r-r-r!" Wiffle and tongue were all puckered up with the sour vinegar and he couldn't open his mouth wide enough to even nibble a clam's ear. And he felt so queer he had to jump out of the window.
Uncle Wiggily heard the noise and ran in the pantry, in time to see the Wolf leaping out. The mouth organ was on the floor, with vinegar spilled about. And when Nurse Jane saw this she knew she had made a mistake.
"I thought I was putting molasses on your mouth organ to make the music sweeter," she sadly said. Uncle Wiggily told her not to mind. So he washed the vinegar off, and soon he learned to play very sweetly indeed, without any molasses. And the automobile doesn't turn upside down and try to run with its wheels in the air. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's old clothes."

Cross-word Puzzle 621
HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS-WORD PUZZLE
Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may occur both horizontally and vertically. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions—find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions. The correct solution of to-day's puzzle will be printed in the next issue of The Times.

This Little Brandon Lassie is Never "Dosed" for Colds

The Browns Now Use the "External" Treatment for Croup and Cold Troubles.

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St., Brandon, Man., is the mother of this fine little girl and one of the many Canadian mothers who now use the vaporizing solvent, Vicks VapoRub, in treating the colds of all the family. After using Vicks for some time Mrs. Brown writes:

"I have eight small children—aged from one to twelve—and can certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter. If the cold is in the child's head I just put a little up each nostril and it gives relief in a short time. If it is in the chest I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I also use Vicks for chilblains and for burns—in fact, I use it too for severe headaches and I find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends, especially those who have children.

Vicks is the external direct treatment for cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor. It is the ideal treatment for children's colds. Just as good, too, for adults. (Advt.)

RETAIN SAME PLAN FOR BUREAU VOTE

Council Approves $20,000 Straight, With $5,000 Conditional

The same plan will be retained for the vote by the city for the Victoria Island Publicity Bureau as in 1924, of $20,000 straight appropriation, plus $5,000 to be given dollar for dollar subscribed. The actual sum voted last year was $23,000, $3,000 being a cut of $2,000 from $5,000 when the special economy committee went over the estimates, after they had passed the customary scrutiny.

INCREASE RECOMMENDED

Alderman Todd, who has always defended a large appropriation for the bureau, referred to his letter during the election that he would support a straight $25,000 grant this year. He stated that many business firms had defended the increased sums, noted in the budget, owing to the fact that July and August had become the chief shopping months of the year, instead of the Christmas season. He argued that the restoration of the figures was in accordance with the original resolution of the committee a year ago, and that only special conditions had eventually cut it down by $2,000.

SUGGESTS FURTHER DATA

That a committee should gather information of the amount expended in industries, and lay it before the council, was the suggestion made by Alderman Marchant.

PAGEANT PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Since the publication in the Times of the suggested pageant in connection with the opening of the Crystal Garden, as explained by Frank Higgins, K.C. to a citizens meeting last week, Mr. Higgins has been in receipt of many congratulations, and suggestions.

He points out, in response to criticism of certain details, that there is a deeper motive behind the episode than perhaps appears on the surface. The fact of an appeal to the American public renders it desirable in so sketchy a plan of Pacific Northwest history to make reference to so important an expedition as that of Lewis and Clark, particularly in view of the fact that Mr. Higgins believes great publicity could be obtained for Victoria by moving the pageant to the various important port towns in this section of the continent, in which case it would have to be something more than a British Columbia theme.

The very large part played among the argonauts of British Columbia by the Americans, particularly adventurers from the Californian gold camps, which thronged the steamers out of the Golden Gate in the Summer of 1858, rendered it desirable that their part in building up the country should be recognized in the Yale mining camp scene. Contemporary history all emphasizes this point, he says.

Mr. Higgins framed the episodes to be elastic in the number of performers, so that, in addition to the use of local material according to the scene of subsequent production for the crowd and similar scenes, it is expected that consideration will be given to the project at an early meeting of the celebration committee which is now organizing.

HOSPITAL GRANTS BEFORE COUNCIL

Decision on Relief Work Deferred Until Government's Answer Received

The arrangements made last year with the Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals for the care of indigent patients have come up for renewal, the estimates committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon approving the placing in the estimates of $24,900 for the Jubilee Hospital and $7,500 for St. Joseph's. The estimates, however, approved the plan of a per capita grant in the case of St. Joseph's of $2.50 per patient, which may occasion the estimate of $7,500 being exceeded. The hospital had asked for $15,000.

The same discussion took place as in the past with regard to concentrating on one hospital, but the medical health officer pointed out that it was impossible to force patients to a particular hospital, particularly as both the Jubilee and St. Joseph's are now legally recognized public hospitals.

RELIEF WORK

Until the Provincial Government has replied to the application of the city in connection with relief work, the appropriation for relief work in the estimates for the year was tabled, at the suggestion of the Mayor.

That amount the alderman did not think adequate. TO HELP CONVENTION. Owing to the large appeals made to the aldermen for the purpose of aiding conventions, it was decided by the committee to increase the vote for such purposes from $2,000 to $5,000.

The coming of the Eagles' convention and of other bodies was pointed to as a reason for the necessity of a more liberal provision.

The increased vote was defended by Alderman Todd as legitimate in view of the increase in trades licenses to help the financing of the Publicity Bureau grant, and similar efforts to bring business to the merchants.

TWO MORE LOCAL CHURCHES ENTER CHURCH UNION FOLD

Expectations which had been formed in union circles that the union majority would carry St. Columba Church, Oak Bay, and Gordon Head Church, proved correct.

D. M. McKee as pastor, the vote stood: For 11, against 6. Five members of the congregation did not vote. As St. Aidan's had already gone for union by a large majority, both churches in that pastoral call are now allied together in their stand on the issue.

The only church outstanding is Erskine, where the result will be known to-night. It is associated with Gorge Church, under Rev. Daniel Walker, where the vote has been non-courting by a large margin.

This brings four churches, for and four against of the nine in this locality, and a popular vote of 957 for, with 678 against. An Erskine is a small church the total will not be largely in variation of the figures named.

At Ladysmith, the last of the upland parsonages to report, the figures were 52 for, and 11 against, according to a telephonic message last evening.
