Q4 - Discovery

★ Oliver Keyes and Dan Garry worked aggressively on our Search instrumentation goal to prep for our initial presentation June 15th. We support community engagement and transparency in our product roadmap as a rule so we created a public dashboard to measure our key KPI’s. (User satisfaction, User-perceived load time, No results rate, API usage).

★ As part of our research and analysis effort, Moiz Syed and team crafted user satisfaction surveys on key flows for search. 1200 responses in 7 days. Mobile and Wikipedia.org surveys are in process. Summary results will be presented at Wikimania.

★ Tomasz Finc managed hiring well and led the effort around our core competencies of data analytics, relevancy, back-end support, UX front-end and key leadership roles. He also handled transitioning in from current internal employees for a smooth transition. We also created the channels needed for communicating externally and internally.

★ Stas Malyshev established and rolled out on time our initial beta for Wikidata query service.

★ Yuri Astrakhan and Max Semenik prototyped the Maps Tile Service and presented at the Hackathon in Lyon, Open Maps Conference in NY and in subsequent discussions at WMF events. We also reviewed initial work to get to an initial production service.
