REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS:

In the last Annual Report it was stated that the sum given and bequeathed to the Museum during the five years, 1907-1911, was $1,995,582.16. The total during the year just passed was $2,148,173.12, a sum $152,590.96 larger than the aggregate of the five preceding years.

The largest gift in 1912 was that of Mr. Francis Bartlett, a building in the heart of Chicago, which is carried on the Treasurer's books at $1,350,000. The conditions of Mr. Bartlett's gift are set forth in the following letter, which was submitted to the Trustees at a special meeting on April 9, 1912:

"BOSTON, MASS., APRIL 6, 1912.

"GARDINER M. LANE, ESQ.,

"President Museum of Fine Arts,

"Boston, Mass.

"Dear Mr. Lane: I send you enclosed a deed conveying to the Museum of Fine Arts the fee of certain real estate at the corner of State and Dearborn Streets, Chicago, which has recently been leased for one hundred and ninety-eight years at an annual net ground rental of $50,000 for the first five years, $55,000 for the next twenty years, and $60,000 for the remaining one hundred and seventy-three years. I desire to give the Trustees of the Museum discretion to retain or sell this real estate, to reinvest the proceeds, and to merge them either wholly or in part with the general funds of the Museum.

“It is my wish that the income from this property, of which the first quarterly payment to the Museum will be on July 2d next, shall be used for the three years, 1912, 1913, and 1914, to purchase works of art selected, approved, and recommended by the Curators of the respective departments, or other experts employed by the Museum, which will add distinction to the collections of classical antiquities and paintings. The income in any one of these years may be used either wholly for one or the other of these two purposes or may be apportioned between them in such amounts as may seem best to the Committee on the Museum.

“After the expiration of these three years it is my hope that the income may be used in the same way; but realizing that gifts and the growth of the Museum may make some other disposition more desirable, I desire that it be then used for these two departments only so far and so long as the Trustees may consider wise. I prefer that the Trustees be then free to use the income in any way whatsoever, and even to spend the principal for the purposes of the Museum, if they deem best.

“I make this gift in recognition of the obligation which rests upon the citizens of Boston to furnish the means with which to enrich the collections of the Museum, and in the hope that others may be encouraged to give. It is my firm belief that the collections, which already contain so many objects of the first importance, will grow with increasing rapidity, and that the Museum, which now furnishes a high type of enjoyment, will, as the years pass, become of ever greater importance to the community, both by making the collections more definitely valuable for education and by increasing the happiness derived from seeing with understanding beautiful and interesting works of art. This will be accomplished more quickly if the city assumes, as I think it should, a portion of the burden of caring for and effectively exhibiting these collections which have been given by public-spirited and generous citizens for the benefit and enjoyment of the whole people.

“Yours faithfully,

“(Signed) FRANCIS BARTLETT.”

The following minute was adopted by the Trustees in accepting Mr. Bartlett's gift:

"The Trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts gratefully accept this magnificent gift. Mr. Bartlett's long and active service as a Trustee of the Museum, his unwavering devotion to its highest interests, and his repeated acts of open-handed generosity, which have for years placed him in the front rank of its benefactors, entitle him to the gratitude, not only of the Trustees, but above all, of the community. In making this gift, he has set a distinguished and lasting example of good citizenship and of generosity to the people."

It was further voted:

"That Mr. Bartlett's name be permanently attached to the gift and that a special committee of the Trustees, consisting of the President, Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow, and Mr. John C. Gray, be appointed to convey to him these resolutions."

Mrs. Robert Dawson Evans, who gave $500,000 in 1911 to pay for the Evans Memorial Building now under construction, has increased her generous gift to $825,000 in order that the memorial may be handsomer and more complete in its appointments and enlarged by an additional building, 53 feet wide and 109 feet long. The whole building, which is given in memory of Mr. Evans, a former Trustee of the Museum and a lover of the fine arts, more especially of pictures, will be in the shape of a T fronting on the Fenway. The stem of the T will contain a much-needed lecture hall, well lighted and ventilated, and having a sloping floor, permitting a free view of the stage from every seat. Above this, on the main exhibition floor, will be a gallery 33 feet wide, 99½ feet long, and proportionately high, finished in stone and devoted to the exhibition of tapestries. Through this gallery all visitors to the Museum will pass when going from the Picture Galleries to the Rotunda at the head of the main staircase in the present building.

A special fund of $77,000, — of which $66,000 has already been paid in, — has been given to the Museum, largely by friends in New York, to provide for the salary of a Curator of Prints, who shall also give a course of instruction in Harvard University. The Museum has agreed to set aside from its unrestricted funds sufficient to make this fund $100,000.

An unrestricted legacy of $100,000 has been received from the Estate of Mr. Nathaniel Thayer, and a preliminary payment of $25,000 has been received on account of a legacy of $50,000 from the Estate of Mrs. James M. Barnard, "the income to be applied to promoting the use of the collections of the Museum for purposes of education, particularly among school pupils and college students." As the Museum is one of the two residuary legatees of Mrs. Barnard's Estate, the Barnard Fund will eventually be over $50,000.

To enumerate all the other gifts and legacies is out of place here. They are given in detail on pages 41-45 of this report. It must suffice to say that, in addition to the gifts already mentioned, generous friends have made it possible to continue the work in Egypt; to purchase objects of Chinese and Japanese art; to increase the collections of the Department of Western Art; to purchase paintings; and to provide for many other requirements of the Museum.

ADMISSIONS AND ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

The number of subscribers has increased annually during the last six years, though the increase has not been so large as could be wished. In 1911 there were 1,547; in 1912, 1,710.

The sum total of annual subscriptions has also increased, except in 1912, when it was $40,047 as compared with $44,513 in the preceding year. The decrease is explained by the fact that one subscription of $5,000 in 1911 was not repeated in 1912, the subscriber having contributed in other and much larger ways to the Museum.

The total admissions for the year were 220,043, a slight decrease from 1911, when they were 224,067. This decrease was entirely in paid admissions. The free admissions were 194,682 as compared with 194,175 in the year preceding. That the use of the Museum for study is increasing is shown in the Report of the Director.

CURRENT INCOME AND EXPENSES

The expenses of the Museum exceeded the income in 1912 by $33,244.44. This deficit was decreased to $23,566.42 by the application of special contributions to certain specified expenses.

The excess of expenses over income does not differ substantially from that in 1911. Every effort has been made to keep expenses as low as possible. Indeed, if the Museum is to take proper care of its collections, to exhibit them effectively, and to continue its present active work for the community they cannot be decreased. The heating and care of the new building when completed will further increase expenses by a substantial sum — probably at least $15,000. The Museum must therefore continue to face a deficit as large as, or larger than, that of last year, which can only be paid out of principal, unless the annual subscriptions are very largely increased or aid is received from the city.

The usual comparative statement of income and expenses follows:

	1912	1911	Increase or Decrease
Unrestricted Income from
Trust Investments	$63,338.38	$52,502.56	I. $10,835.82

CITY AID

The Mayor again petitioned the Legislature last year for legislation authorizing the City of Boston to appropriate not exceeding $50,000 in any single year for the maintenance of the Museum. At the hearing given by the Joint Committee of the Senate and House to which this bill was referred, there was a large attendance of citizens who favored the passage of the bill. But one voice was raised in opposition. Nevertheless the bill was for the second time adversely reported to the Senate and House.

SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM

The report of the Committee on the School of the Museum will be found on page 123.

TRUSTEES

The Museum has lost by death during the past year two Trustees, Professor Abbott Lawrence Rotch, appointed by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1894, and Dr. Arthur Tracy Cabot, appointed by Harvard College in 1898 and a member of the Committee on the Museum since 1902.

The Trustees have placed upon their records minutes of their loss through the deaths of Professor Rotch and Dr. Cabot. These minutes will be found on pages 20 and 21 of this report.

The Committee on the Museum will long miss Dr. Cabot, their associate of many years, who brought to these meetings clear and sane judgment and a high appreciation of the aims and duties of the Museum.

Mr. Robert Swain Peabody has been appointed a Trustee by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to succeed Professor Rotch, and Mr. Robert Bacon by Harvard College to succeed Dr. Cabot. Dr. Franklin Benjamin Dyer, Superintendent of Public Schools, has succeeded Mr. Stratton Duluth Brooks as one of the ex-officio Trustees of the Museum.

COMMITTEE ON THE MUSEUM

The By-Laws have been amended so that the Treasurer is now, with the Director and the President, an ex-officio member of the Committee on the Museum.

STAFF

Mr. Gilman, the Secretary of the Trustees, was granted leave of absence from January 1 to October 1, 1912.

The report of the Director gives a full account of all changes in the Staff.

Mr. FitzRoy Carrington, formerly a member of the firm of Messrs. Frederick Keppel & Co., New York, has been appointed Curator of Prints by the Museum and an instructor by Harvard University. His critical knowledge of prints and his enthusiastic love of them eminently fit him for these positions.

Mr. Huger Elliott, formerly an instructor at Harvard University and more recently Director of the Rhode Island School of Design, has been put in charge of the educational work of the Museum.

THE NEW BUILDING

The contract for the Evans Memorial Building was awarded to the J. W. Bishop Co., and signed April 9, 1912. Subsequently, when Mrs. Evans's additional gift made possible the enlargement of this Memorial by building the connection with the present Museum, arrangements were made with the J. W. Bishop Co. for its construction. Approximately forty per cent. of the entire work has been completed. The new Memorial Building will be finished April 1, 1914, if the architects' expectations are fulfilled.

The years 1911 and 1912 will always be memorable in the annals of the Museum for splendid gifts.

GARDINER MARTIN LANE,

President.

ABBOTT LAWRENCE ROTCH

Trustee of the Museum, 1895-1912

Born January 6, 1861; died April 7, 1912

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Museum on April 9, 1912, the following minute was adopted :

“Abbott Lawrence Rotch, a pioneer in meteorological science, died in Boston on April 7, 1912. His career is an example and an incentive. Placed by fortune in a position where he might have been an idler, he, from his youth up, devoted his tireless energy, his remarkable abilities, his time and his money to the acquirement of knowledge and to its practical application and diffusion. He was rewarded by a world-wide recognition of his eminence in the profession.

“The Trustees of the Art Museum, sharing in the feeling of the loss that his death has been to science, desire also to record their great regret at parting from a valued associate ; in their councils his diligence, his sound sense, his modesty and courtesy have never failed.”

ARTHUR TRACY CABOT

Trustee of the Museum, 1898-1912

Born January 5, 1852; died November 4, 1912

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Museum on January 16, 1913, the following minute was adopted:—

“Arthur Tracy Cabot was appointed by the Corporation of Harvard College a member of this Board January 4, 1898; and by continuous reappointment held this position until his death, November 4, 1912. He was a member of the Committee on the Museum during the last ten years of this period; and was chairman of the Visiting Committee to the Department of Paintings from the establishment of the Committee in 1906.

“He was a man of high and unselfish ideals, and devoted his life to their realization.

“He was never content with anything short of what he believed to be the best.

“He had a high conception of the possibilities of the Museum, which he labored constantly to develop.

“He was especially interested in pictures, and had a broad acquaintance with them.

“His sympathetic wisdom, encouragement, and help will be greatly missed by all his colleagues on the Board.”

We, the undersigned, certify that we have employed Messrs. Boyden & Steacie, Certified Public Accountants, to audit the accounts of the Treasurer of the Museum and also of the Trustees of the Rotch Travelling Scholarship for the year 1912, and that the accompanying letters and statements form their report.

We also certify that we have seen evidence of all the property called for thereby.

GEORGE R. WHITE, ESQ., }
A. SHUMAN, ESQ., } Auditing Committee.

Dear Sirs: In accordance with your instructions we have made an examination of the books, accounts, vouchers, etc., of the Treasurer of the Museum of Fine Arts from January 1 to December 31, 1912, for the purpose of verifying the cash transactions of the period and reporting upon the financial condition of the Museum at the latter date.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY:—

(1) That all funds shown to have been received have been accounted for, and that we have found vouchers or other satisfactory evidence of payment for all disbursements.

(2) That the balance of cash on December 31, 1912, as shown by the books, amounting to $96,854.65, was on hand as of that date.

(3) That the Balance Sheet submitted herewith is in accordance with the audited accounts.

Yours respectfully,

BOYDEN & STEACIE,

Certified Public Accountants.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS :

I have the honor to submit to you my sixth annual report as Director, together with the reports from those in immediate charge of the different departments.

The most notable event of the year is Mr. Bartlett's generous gift of a fund, the income of which is available for purchases in the Department of Paintings and the Department of Classical Art. The first purchase from the fund has secured some Greek vases and terra-cottas of the first quality ; these did not reach the Museum in time to be included in the present report. Other important additions to the collections received during the year are noted in the Department reports which follow. Generous gifts to a special fund for purchase enabled Mr. Okakura to take advantage of unusual opportunities in Japan and China. Among the new examples of Japanese sculpture the wooden Kwannon of the eighth century is the finest piece of Oriental sculpture yet acquired by the Museum ; the new Chinese bronzes are notable additions to an already excellent collection, and the early Chinese paintings are unsurpassed in quality. From the excavations in Egypt have come important sculpture and paintings of the Early and the Middle Empire, and numerous small objects of great interest. M. Guiffrey has visited Europe twice and has travelled widely in the effort to find desirable European paintings for the Museum. As noted in the report of the Department, the nine oil paintings acquired are each fine examples of painters or schools of painting not before properly represented, while the water-colors by Sargent and Boit have proved an unfailing delight to all visitors to the building. The collections of Western Art also have been enriched by important loans and gifts.

THE STAFF

Several important changes in the Staff of the Museum have been made during the year. In March Mr. Lacey D. Caskey was advanced to the position of Curator in the Department of Classical Art; Mr. Caskey received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Yale in June. Mr. Richter, who has conducted the work of the Print Department for the past twelve years, has asked for more freedom to devote himself to the study of prints, and in accordance with this request he has been appointed Associate Curator of the Department. Through the munificence of friends of this Department in New York and Boston the Museum has received a fund, the income of which makes it possible to secure as Curator of the Department Mr. FitzRoy Carrington. Mr. Carrington has been a partner of Messrs. Frederick Keppel & Co. of New York for the last fifteen years, and he is widely known as an authority on prints. In addition to his work as Curator Mr. Carrington will continue to edit the Print Collectors Quarterly, which hereafter will be published by the Museum, and will give lectures in the Fine Arts Department of Harvard College. Dr. Clarence S. Fisher has been placed in charge of the Egyptian Collection and will represent Dr. Reisner in the Museum during the first six months of 1913. In the death of Garrick M. Borden, Assistant in the Department of Western Art, the Museum met with a serious loss. Mr. Borden was a scholar of rare ability in his chosen field of Persian and Mohammedan Art, a relatively new field, in which it will be difficult to find a student of equal promise to succeed him. Mr. Sidney N. Deane has resigned his position as Secretary to the Director to accept a professorship of Greek in Smith College. Mr. Langdon Warner has also resigned his position as Assistant Curator in the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art, and Mr. John E. Lodge has been appointed Assistant Curator of this Department. Mr. Huger Elliott, Director of the Department of Design in the Museum School, has been appointed Supervisor of Educational Work in the Museum. Mr. Elliott was graduated in architecture at the Columbia University, and then spent two years as a student at the École des Beaux Arts, Paris; he has been Instructor at Harvard and at the University of Pennsylvania, and later Director of the Rhode Island School of Design.

The work of the Staff has largely been devoted to arrangements for special exhibitions and to the registration and care of objects. The work of registration is nearly completed, except in the Japanese Department, where much remains to be done on the large gifts received last year. Meanwhile several catalogues are well on towards completion, — a catalogue of Chinese and Japanese Lacquer, a catalogue of European and American paintings, and a handbook of Chinese and Japanese paintings. Other catalogues are in process of preparation, which it is hoped that the Museum will be able to publish.

PUBLICATIONS

While the Handbook of the Museum and the Leaflet Guide have served a useful purpose for visitors, together with labels and gallery books in some galleries, and the Bulletin has called the attention of the public to important new acquisitions, the Museum has hardly begun the publication of catalogues of its collections. In other words, we have in a measure met the needs of the ordinary visitor, but we have done almost nothing to make known to students in Boston and outside of Boston the possessions of the Museum.

The fulfilment of this task seems an obvious duty, for it would bring the importance of the collections to the attention of those fitted to appreciate them, and thus in the same measure contribute to the high standing of the Museum. Moreover, the Museum has, at considerable expense, brought together a staff of experts with the ability to prepare scientific catalogues of high excellence. I desire to recommend that catalogues be prepared and published, in addition to those already mentioned, of our Greek sculpture, bronzes, vases, and coins; of our Egyptian sculpture, stone bowls, etc.; of our textiles; and of our Chinese and Japanese sculpture, bronzes, and other objects. Further, I suggest that for our European prints and engravings a series of monographs be prepared, dealing with particular engravers or schools of engraving.

EXHIBITIONS

During the past year the following special exhibitions have been held:

February 11-18. Summer Work by Students of the Museum School.

February 12-March 11. The Native Arts of our Foreign Population.

February 15-September 25. Meryon Etchings.

March 8-March 31. Paintings and Sculpture by members of the Société de Peintres et de Sculpteurs, Paris.

March 18-April 16. Central American Art, objects lent by the Peabody Museum.

April 15-May 3. Paintings recently acquired.

May 4-16. Paintings by Walter Shirlaw.

May 18-June 5. Paintings and Water-colors by Alice Marian Curtis.

May 29-November 6. Colonial Furniture.

June 11-October 2. Paintings by Walter Deane.

- June 15-June 24. Mural Decorations for Children's Room, Forsythe Dental School.
- September 30- Early German and Italian Wood-cuts.
- November 8-December 5. Paintings by John Lavery.
- December 13- Recent Accessions of Chinese and Japanese Art.

Of these, the most important was the exhibition of works by members of the Société de Peintres et de Sculpteurs of Paris, which attracted numerous visitors to the Museum. Perhaps the most interesting, however, was the exhibition of the Native Arts of our Foreign Population. Various persons engaged in settlement work in Boston having called our attention to the valuable objects of household art in the homes of foreigners who had settled in this city, a committee, with Miss Esther G. Barrows of the South End House as Chairman, was formed to assist the Museum Staff in collecting and selecting objects for the proposed exhibition at the Museum. It proved possible to secure an exhibition of high artistic merit. In connection with the exhibition, lectures and entertainments were provided for the different nationalities among the lenders, and on Washington's Birthday an international reception was held in the Museum with music furnished by various groups of foreigners. As a result possessors of artistic objects were taught to prize them, regular visitors to the Museum learned of new possibilities for developing local interest in art, and hundreds of people were brought to the Museum for the first time. In a new direction the Museum proved itself a factor in the life of the whole city.

ON THE USE OF THE MUSEUM BY THE PUBLIC

The number of visitors to the Museum has decreased from 224,067 in 1911 to 220,043 in 1912, while the number of serious students is larger than ever before, as shown by the attendance on lectures and the demand for gallery instruction.

During the summer the continued generosity of a friend of the Museum made it possible to arrange again for visits by parties of children from the settlement houses and the city playgrounds. As before, no effort was made to instruct the children in art; they listened to stories suggested by lantern slides from objects in the Museum; they were shown the two or three paintings or works of art to which their attention had been called by means of the stories, and were given a reproduction of one of the paintings to take home. The 2,651 children who made up these parties at least learned where the Museum is, and it is hoped that they carried away the impression that it is a pleasant place to visit, whether or not they remember what they saw. With certain parties of children more definite study of works of art was attempted; ten or twelve of the more gifted children were selected from several hundred and now are receiving instruction in art on Saturdays under Miss Deborah Kallen.

In December the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs again held a meeting at the Museum to discuss the work on art undertaken by these Clubs. An increasing number of Clubs is making use of the Museum in their work, and several Clubs have affiliated themselves with the Museum as annual subscribers. For the second time it was gratifying to receive requests from two groups of twenty ladies each for a series of talks by the Curators. Such requests should become more frequent from groups of annual subscribers and others who appreciate the opportunities offered by the Museum.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

The number of tickets issued for educational purposes, as shown in the tables appended to this report, is larger than last year. During the year the number of lectures, conferences, etc. (exclusive of Sunday Conferences), was 410 as compared with 338 in 1911, and the total attendance was 13,252 as compared with 10,745 in 1911. In the spring a University Extension Course on Greek Mythology, with special reference to allusions in English literature, was given by the Director, and in the autumn an Extension Course on Egyptian Art and Civilization was given by Mr. Oric Bates. Miss Keyes again gave a course for teachers on the Observation of Paintings, and in addition she has given several private courses. Under the auspices of Simmons College, Dr. Greene has given a course of lectures on the History of Art, in addition to two private courses. Other courses of lectures have been given in the Museum under the auspices of the Museum School and by private arrangement. In the Department of Classical Art advanced students from Harvard College and from Wellesley College have made special study of the collections under the directions of the Curator.

It is the purpose of the Museum in its educational work to use every means of approach that may lead to a better understanding and appreciation of its possessions. But while the story-telling for children, lectures on the History of Art and on Art Criticism, as well as lectures on the Relation of Art to Civilization, form such means of approach to the study of art, it is the peculiar function of the Museum to provide for the intelligent discussion and criticism of those works of art exhibited in its galleries.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR FAIRBANKS,

Director.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE MUSEUM

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the following report on the matters committed to my charge :

The year 1912 has been for me chiefly a sabbatical, the leave of absence kindly granted by the Trustees at the end of 1911 extending from January 1 to October 1, 1912. I desire to record my thanks for this period of rest and recreation and for the opportunity to re-visit a number of the principal museums in Europe. In a memorandum submitted independently of this report I have discussed various topics of museum administration suggested by these visits.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE MUSEUM

Since my last Annual Report, the Museum has issued two small catalogues : A Memorial Exhibition of the Works of Frederic Porter Vinton (31 pages, 8 illustrations), with an introduction by Professor Arlo Bates ; and an Exhibition of the Société de Peintres et de Sculpteurs (92 pages, 55 illustrations), based on the Catalogue of the exhibition at the Albright Art Gallery, Buffalo.

The Bulletin has appeared as usual, under your supervision ; four editions of the Leaflet Guide have been printed ; the ninth edition of the Handbook of the Museum is in preparation.

In pursuance of the appointment of Mr. FitzRoy Carrington as Curator of the Print Department, the Print Collectors Quarterly under his editorship will in future be published by the Museum.

A handbook of the Chinese and Japanese paintings in the Museum Collection and a catalogue of its lacquers are in preparation, and it is hoped to issue them during the coming year.

GALLERY INSTRUCTION

The Docent appointments of the Museum and its gallery Conferences were continued as usual in my absence under your supervision. Mr. Rowe, who for two years after the establishment of the service in 1907 was one of two assistants assigned to the new duty, has also been absent since the first few weeks of the year, — at first as aid to Dr. Reisner in Egypt, and later in his new position as Director of the Rhode Island School of Design. Docent appointments with schools had largely been met by and through Mr. Rowe, and to his absence is mainly due a marked decrease in the total number of those receiving this instruction in the galleries on week days. Last year 17 docents met 4,046 persons. This year 23 docents met 2,334 persons. The Gallery Conferences were twelve in number, by officers of the Museum and two invited speakers. On Sundays 24 docents addressed audiences ranging from 30 to 150 on 52 occasions. The detailed statistics are given below. It is to be noted that in the case of gallery instruction numbers are an especially uncertain index of influence. To follow the exposition of a work of art, one must be near enough and have enough freedom of movement to see it perfectly. Beyond narrow limits, additions to the group of those addressed increase the figures of the work without increasing its fruits.

A plan proposed by myself to the Committee on the Museum and referred by them to the Trustees for sanction will terminate my direct charge of Docent service, in its two forms of occasional appointments and stated Conferences, at the end of this year. As the Museum undertook the service at my instance, I offer a statement of its underlying principles in an appendix to this report.

REGISTRY OF LOCAL ART

At the request of the Art Commission, Mr. Carter, Librarian of the Museum, acting for the Registry, made during the year a list of the paintings belonging to the City. The list forms an appendix to the Annual Report of the Commission for 1911 and continues the inventory begun with City monuments in 1910. For the Report for 1912 the Registry is to prepare a list of busts and bas-reliefs belonging to the City. The Registry has also been requested by the Art Commission of the State to make similar records of works of art subject to their authority, and the work has been begun. The Boston Society of Architects have appointed a committee, consisting of Mr. J. E. Chandler and Mr. Harold Warren to coöperate with the Registry in recording noteworthy buildings and parts of buildings and examples of landscape art in and about Boston. The Museum has arranged through the Registry to exhibit during the spring in the Forecourt of the Museum the bronze statue of Roger Conant, the first Governor of Cape Ann Colony, to be erected by the Conant Family Association next summer at Salem.

BENJAMIN IVES GILMAN,

Secretary of the Museum.

DOCENT SERVICE: ITS SPHERE, CHARACTER AND NEED

The place in a museum of the instruction here carried on as Docent service, its differences of purpose and method from the instruction in art before customary under museum auspices, and the existing demand for it may be stated as follows :

I. According to the initial and subsequent announcements in the Bulletin of the Museum, Docent service means instruction upon the collections, or instruction whose aim is to help the spectator of a work of art grasp the intention of the artist in it. As thus defined, Docent service is the educational work peculiar to a museum. Other forms of instruction in art belong as well, or exclusively, to other institutions. For the verbal exposition of exhibits is implied in the notion of exhibition, which has always been held to include two duties: the installation of objects and the information of visitors about them by labels and catalogues. Docent service adds the spoken word to the printed aid, and thus completes the process of showing objects effectively to which a museum is dedicated. Again, the exposition of the objects composing a permanent exhibition can best be carried on under its authority. Those who have selected, installed, and cared for a work of art, are specially prepared to aid others in grasping its artistic content.

Education in art may take two other forms—technical instruction, and instruction in the history and theory of art. Neither is a part of the peculiar duty of museums. This is plain in the case of technical instruction, for which our own Museum has developed a separate organization. Nor is a professional knowledge of either the history or the theory of art a necessary preparation for that interpretation of the artistic content of a work which is a museum's duty as part of its exhibition. The historian or theorist of art must give a degree of attention to works of art elsewhere that is not necessary for a museum curator, who in his turn is held to many duties that have no bearing on the history or theory of art. Instruction in either is a supplement to the functions of a museum offered in competition with institutions of learning, and in certain respects at a disadvantage as compared with them.

II. Instruction upon the collections, or Docent service, the distinctive educational work of a museum, differs from instruction in the history and theory of art in three ways :

1. A docent does not seek to trace causes nor to expound laws, but to foster the intelligent enjoyment of individual objects. His effort is to help the visitor see certain pictures, statues, and like things in the spirit in which they were made. His function is not to inform others how or why art came to be, but to acquaint them with a few examples of what it is.

This radical difference of purpose between Docent service and customary lecturing on art involves two differences of method.

2. The teaching of the growth and the principles of art can to good effect be made a profession, but the personal exposition of art cannot. There is nothing more exhausting to body and mind than genuine admiration. Unless endowed with wholly extraordinary gifts, if we seek to prolong or repeat it indefinitely, we fall either into hollow sentimentality or dry-as-dust pedantry. Docent service is an effort to kindle admiration, and practically no one can with profit devote more than a small fraction of his time to it. Docent work cannot be assigned to any one as his office, but only as an occasional function.

3. Being an effort to awaken interest, Docent service must start from a mutual interest. A docent will be successful, not when he shows the visitor exhibits thought noteworthy by others, but when, having found out the visitor's interests (these are presupposed in the case of a stated talk), he endeavors to communicate to him his own interest in exhibits that correspond thereto. These the visitor will be in a position to grasp appreciatively, but not the others. Docent service is not guidance, but companionship.

III. The need in museums of instruction equivalent to Docent service is at present widely felt. Sir Walter Armstrong, the Director of the National Gallery of Ireland, has just argued that a series of pictures historically arranged

"would not teach its appropriate lesson. It would show, perhaps, how Giotto grew into Masaccio, and Masaccio into Signorelli, and Signorelli into Michelangelo, and how Michelangelo sank into Giorgio Vasari; but that is not the lesson we want from pictures, least of all is it the lesson wanted in this country. What we require first of all is to understand pictures as pictures, to be able to see the painter's intention in his work, to feel his emotions, and enjoy with him his success in giving them such coherent expression that the result is an æsthetic unity."

(The Dublin Conference, 1912, reported in the Museum's Journal, November, 1912.)

Museums first undertook their proper educational work in response to this need when in 1907 our Museum instituted Docent service. Its novelty as a form of instruction under their auspices results from the three principles just named; its concrete instead of abstract purpose, and its necessarily unprofessional and friendly method.

BENJAMIN IVES GILMAN.

PRINT DEPARTMENT

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir, — I have the honor to submit to you the twenty-sixth annual report of the Print Department.

The appointment of Mr. FitzRoy Carrington as Curator opens to the department a future bright with promise of wider usefulness and rapid development. In view of this imminent change, permit me quite briefly to review developments since my connection with the Print Department. I entered the service of the Museum December 15, 1899; six weeks later Mr. S. R. Koehler, the Curator, sailed for Europe in quest of health. He returned early in August, and suddenly passed away September 15, 1900. A paragraph in his last annual report (for 1899), describes conditions practically as he left them :

“Little progress has been made with the arrangement, registering and cataloguing of the Harvey D. Parker and Koehler collections. Up to date, only 3,999 prints were entered on the register of the Parker collection, and only 326 prints on that of the Koehler collection. The German prints have been arranged chronologically, and the Location catalogue, completed. The rest of the prints in the general collection and the Parker collection have only been arranged roughly, while the prints of the Koehler collection are still in the alphabetical order in which they were received. Nearly all the [important] engravings of the Parker collection have, however, been mounted. . . . ”

During the year 1900, in addition to the quantities of undigested material just mentioned, there came to the department a total of 9,025 prints (7,733 in the Babcock bequest). Not until 1904 were these arrears and new accessions mounted, registered and distributed. In the meantime the Parker, Koehler, Babcock and minor collections had been merged into one general collection. In 1906, experience having shown the need of further simplification, the entire collection was finally rearranged.

An excellent but very elaborate catalogue system had originally been planned, though barely begun. After a year's trial this was abandoned as quite impossible with the insufficient force in the department, and a modified system, reduced to its simplest possible form, was adopted instead. Along these new lines work has since been carried on, with many interruptions, but with satisfactory results. Years of work still remain to be done on the catalogue.

Meanwhile the small number of visitors — 140 and 156 in 1900 and 1901 respectively — while favoring our exertions to bring the collection into useful shape, showed all too plainly that this department was practically unknown to the public at large. How was a wider interest to be awakened? Exhibitions were made as varied and interesting as possible, and were fully noted by the press, yet even the Loan Exhibition arranged after Whistler's death, popular though it was, failed to bring visitors to the basement rooms of the Print Department. The laborious but very successful Loan Exhibition of early engraving in America (1904-5) had some effect, likewise the Loan Exhibition from Europe of contemporary prints (1906).

A room having been set apart for lectures, this means was also tried in the hope of a wider interest in prints. A series of six lectures, quite general in scope, was given in 1907. This was followed by lectures and conferences on kindred topics, which have grown to be a part of the yearly program. The number of visitors, annually, had grown meanwhile to the vicinity of 500. Then came the removal to the new building, in 1909. The change from the former cramped quarters to well-lighted, spacious rooms, with exhibition rooms and study adjoining, produced a marked difference in the attendance; visitors numbered 1,023 in 1910, 1,355 in 1911, 1,230 in 1912.

Early in 1911 a series of six lectures on Albrecht Dürer and his time was delivered, with an average attendance of 125. This figure, together with the large increase in the number of visitors, speaks for the existence of a real interest in prints.

Important exhibitions have succeeded each other in the new building; loan exhibitions of Whistler etchings, Turner mezzotints, Meryon's plates, and French engraved portraits, have alternated with Rembrandt, Dürer and mezzotint exhibitions selected from the Museum collection. The present display of early German and Italian woodcuts has aroused quite an unexpected amount of interest.

From the first the lack of an adequate force in the department had been one great obstacle to rapid progress in all the activities of the department. This was removed — at least temporarily — by the financial support received from the Visiting Committee. Thanks to their help, the services of an assistant were secured January 1, 1911, and a second assistant has been temporarily secured for work on the catalogue. Another handicap has been the absence of a fund for new accessions. In the absence of any regular income or yearly appropriation, the duplicate prints in the collection offered the only financial possibility. Progress in cataloguing steadily added to the number of eliminated duplicates. Finally, in 1909 and 1910, these duplicates were sold at auction in Boston. Important accessions were secured with proceeds of these sales and credited to the original donors.

A generous bequest to the Print Department was received in 1910, from the estate of Stephen Bullard. This has materially improved conditions and permits of important acquisitions from time to time. The value of this bequest cannot be overestimated, since it is only with the help of endowment funds or a regular annual appropriation that a satisfactory development of the collection can be brought about. The absence of interest in prints, and the scarcity of funds, which so hampered Mr. Koehler in building up the Print Department, are now on the wane. Kind friends of the Department are giving their interest and support to its success. As the work broadens its needs expand, and especially does the need of experts become more pressing; it is therefore a matter for sincere congratulations that the Department is shortly to have the benefit of Mr. Carrington's experience, energy and resourcefulness.

ACCESSIONS

Accessions by gift received during the year number 261. Among them are a number of Jacque etchings, portraits by Morin and Nanteuil, a good deal of material illustrative of Cruikshank's skill, prints by and after Walter Shirlaw, etchings by Miss Kimball, G. T. Plowman, E. L. Warner, numerous book plates by C. W. Sherborn, and by W. F. Hopson. A full mention of the gifts to the Department will be found in the list of donations, under the name of each donor.

Part of the balance from the sale of duplicate prints was used for the following acquisitions, all credited to the Harvey D. Parker collection :

Artist	Title
Martin Schongauer	St. Anthony tormented. B. 47.
Albrecht Dürer	St. Jerome; woodcut, frontispiece to Epistles of S. Jerome, Basle: 1497.
Anonymous (incomplete vol.)	Hypnerotomachia Poliphili, Venice: 1499 (woodcuts).
Anonymous (incomplete vol.)	Sonetti . . . e trionfi, Petrarca, Venice: 1497 (woodcuts).
Anonymous (incomplete vol.)	Biblia latina, Venice: 1498 (woodcuts).

Artist	Title
Anonymous (incomplete vol.)	Divina Commedia, Dante, Venice: 1491 (woodcuts).
Joseph Pennell	Shenandoah (crayon lithograph).
E. M. Geyger	Affendisputation (etching, etc.).
Max Klinger	Philosoph (Vom Tode, II. Theil).
Käthe Kollwitz	La Carmagnole (etching).
Adolph Menzel	Versuche mit Pinsel u. Schabeisen, No. 3 (lithogr.).
Adolph Menzel	Versuche mit Pinsel u. Schabeisen, No. 5 (lithogr.).
Jozef Israels	Children on the beach (etching).
Jozef Israels	Woman and child (etching).
Jozef Israels	The Smoker (etching).

A small balance of the duplicate print fund remains unexpended. Nine prints were selected from the new publications of the Medici Society; no other reproductions of drawings or paintings were purchased during the year.

EXHIBITIONS

The exhibition of French Portrait engraving, which had been opened late in 1911, was replaced in February by a display of Meryon etchings and prints of kindred subjects by earlier artists. A number of beautiful impressions were loaned for this occasion by Boston collectors. New accessions by gift, and especially by purchase, during the past two years constituted the material for the summer exhibition. This in turn made way, September 30, for the present selection—entirely from Museum resources—of German and Italian woodcuts and chiaroscuros of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

TALKS

Owing to the slow recovery of your Curator from an illness, no course of lectures could be contemplated during the year. Six talks on prints were given to classes and clubs in the early spring, besides four which were assigned to Mr. Stiles.

THE COLLECTION

The catalogue has seen good progress this year, thanks to the assistant secured with the help of the Visiting Committee. All the American prints are fully catalogued, with the exception of the engravers' catalogue. Work is well under way for similar completion of the German prints, while those of England, France and the Netherlands have been partly catalogued in previous years, but could not be touched in their present arrangement. For the sake of better protection heavy mats have been laid over certain important prints. This safeguard will be farther extended. Practically all the prints in the entire collection are mounted; many are matted. The arrangement of the collection works well in practice, and the Location catalogue is always kept up to date, so that wherever the catalogue is completed, no difficulty is found in quickly answering inquiries concerning the possessions of the Museum. An inventory of prints was begun in the fall; this includes numbering and listing the prints in the collection according to their location. The inventory, as at present planned, is about one-half done.

A large case was built for Mr. Bullard, to hold the extensive material for the study of J. M. W. Turner which he has kindly lent to the Museum. In the latter part of the year, the collection of drawings, which had long been stored in the print rooms, was given in charge—jointly—of the Curator of paintings and of prints. The task of arranging, mounting and matting the drawings is receiving attention.

The number of visitors who sought enjoyment or information in the Department during the year is 1,230. The usual call for illustrative material for lectures and classes in various parts of the building has been met again this year.

DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the twenty-seventh annual report of the Department of Classical Art.

The most important event of the year has been the purchase of sixty objects of classical art from a portion of the income of the fund established last year by Mr. Francis Bartlett. These objects have reached Boston too late to be included among the accessions of the year; a description of them must therefore be reserved for the next report. It may be stated now, however, that they are all of high quality and worthy to be ranked with the splendid collection acquired in 1903, which the Museum also owes to the generosity of Mr. Bartlett.

During the year six coins have been purchased from the James Fund, and 264 objects have been received as gifts. Most of these are primarily of archæological interest and suitable for exhibition on the ground floor. Nineteen vases of iridescent glass, given in the name of the late Miss M. Elizabeth Carter, form a welcome addition to the collection of ancient glass shown in the Classical Corridor. A small Cypriote head in limestone, of good archaic style, is a gift in the name of the late Rev. Edward H. Hall. The gifts of Mr. Joseph C. Clarke include an interesting Corinthian kylix. Forty-eight miscellaneous objects (chiefly terra-cotta statuettes) from the recent excavations at Cyrene, have been deposited in the Museum by the Archæological Institute of America.

The series of Syracusan coins, shown for two years in the Fifth Century Room (Bulletin No. 47), has been withdrawn and an exhibition of Greek electrum coins has been installed in its place (Bulletin No. 59). Otherwise only slight changes have been made in the arrangement of the collections. A much larger proportion of the Greek coins in the keeping of the Department should be shown to the public, but this cannot be done until suitable cases are provided.

The demand for guidance through the galleries, the calls on the officers for information and advice, the attendance at the Thursday conferences and other lectures are evidence of a continued interest in the classical collections on the part of the general public. The Department has been able also to assist in various ways a large number of more serious students and of scholars engaged in special investigations. In the Spring, Professor George H. Chase, of Harvard University, held a number of meetings of one of his advanced classes in the Curator's office for the study of some of the vases in the collection. An article on one of these vases by a member of the class is soon to be published. A graduate student at Wellesley College has investigated some of our marbles under the direction of the Curator. It should be our aim to encourage and facilitate such use of the collections in every possible way. Numerous written requests for information concerning objects, as well as for photographs and casts, have been received from scholars in America and abroad. Such requests, which are becoming increasingly frequent, emphasize the present lack of publications of our collections. The preparation of a popular guide to the Classical Department, of scientific catalogues, especially of the vases, marbles, bronzes, and terra-cottas, and of a series of large reproductions of the most important objects, would not only be of great benefit to students of classical art in Boston and elsewhere, but it would help spread the fame of the Museum. Among the activities of the Department in the immediate future it should be held second in importance only to the effort to acquire new works of preëminent merit when opportunities occur.

L. D. CASKEY,
Curator.

DEPARTMENT OF CHINESE AND JAPANESE ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,— I have the honor of submitting for the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art the following report :

In January Mr. Curtis returned from his leave of absence, and in November Mr. Okakura arrived to resume direction of the Department. In September and October Mr. Warner was away on leave of absence, and in November his resignation from the Museum was accepted.

The work of the year can best be summarized under the various sections into which, a year and a half ago, the Department was organized. In Mr. Warner's section the sculpture storage has been built, and the sculpture, netsuke, and masks placed in it. The masks have also been registered, descriptions written for 550 prints, and the number of prints on exhibition nearly doubled. In Mr. Lodge's section the main work has been to complete the registration and the catalogue of the paintings in the Weld and the Bigelow Collections, and to fulfil the plans for the safe and accessible keeping of all the paintings in the care of the Department. In addition the registration and orderly storage of the glass and the jade have been accomplished. Twenty-five hundred drawings and sketches have been selected for mounting, and the current loans and accessions (189 objects) registered. In Mr. Kershaw's section the Japanese and Chinese books have been arranged and partly catalogued ; the Departmental Catalogue arranged and inventoried ; the Weld bequest of swords, sword furniture, lacquer, etc., finally accounted for ; the lacquer in the Bigelow gift registered and stored ; the manuscript of a catalogue of lacquer edited and practically completed ; and the current loans and accessions (288 objects) registered. Members of the Department also met frequent docent appointments and gave six conferences, Mr. Curtis giving one, Mr. Warner three, and Mr. Kershaw two. In the installation of exhibitions, which Mr. Lodge has had in charge, the Department has carried out, as far as circumstances would allow, the plans outlined by Mr. Okakura. In the galleries changes have been made regularly, and in the Forecourt Room two special exhibitions have been held, one in May of screens of the Kano school, and one in December of the year's acquisitions. Even with this systematic and special enlargement of our facilities, however, the Department feels that the year has emphasized the need of a much larger exhibition space. The number of paintings exhibited in the past year, regularly and in the special exhibitions, is 230 from a collection of 5000.

Visitors to the Department during the year have been numerous. A much larger number than ever before (nearly three times as many as in 1911) brought in objects for identification or appreciation. As usual, the majority of the visitors came to copy or to examine prints, and were more readily served than heretofore by means of the enlarged exhibition of prints and the provision for copying in the Ukiyoe Room. The new painting storage, with its space and facilities for safeguarding and showing kakemono and screens, proved its usefulness to a number of special students.

In October and November Mr. Laurence Binyon gave a series of lectures at the Museum, which were of great value to the work of the Department. His general subject was the Western approach to the art of the Far East, and his success in stimulating the interest of his audiences has gone far in developing local appreciation of our precious collections of Chinese and Japanese paintings.

LOANS

Within the year the Department has received many and generous loans of objects for exhibition. A full list will be found among the loans to the Museum in 1912; but especially are we indebted for the ancient jades lent by Mr. Frank Gair Macomber and Dr. Denman W. Ross; for the screens of the Tosa school lent by Mrs. Bayard Thayer; for the bronze lent by Mr. Ernest B. Dane; for the Japanese porcelain lent by Mr. Thomas Allen; for the copper vessels from Tibet lent by Mrs. J. R. Carter; for the Gandharan stone sculpture lent by Mr. Apthorpe Fuller; for the porcelain lent by Mr. John G. Coolidge; for the Korean and the Chinese pottery lent by Mrs. Samuel Cabot and Mr. Russell Tyson; and to Mr. Desmond FitzGerald for the numerous additions to his rich collection.

PURCHASES AND GIFTS

Through the generosity of friends of the Museum, the acquisitions by purchase within the year have been numerous and important. They include collections of Chinese jade and of bronze, in which are pieces dating from pre-Han times; figures of men and animals of glazed pottery from the T'ang Dynasty; additions to the collection of mirrors; Japanese sculpture of the eighth century; and, of especial importance, Chinese paintings of the Sung and Yuan Dynasties. Among the gifts of the year are a figure of Taishakuten, Japanese, of the ninth century, from Mr. Francis G. Curtis, and two Chinese reliefs, beautifully carved in stone, and dating from the T'ang Dynasty, from Dr. Denman W. Ross and Mr. Gardiner M. Lane.

For the Department,
FRANCIS STEWART KERSHAW,

Keeper of the Chinese and Japanese Collections.

JAPANESE POTTERY

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir:—The original objects which were figured by Ninagawa in his great work on Japanese pottery, and which had been on exhibition in Wall-case E in the Japanese Pottery Gallery since the beginning of the year, were removed in September and assigned to their respective places in the main collection. Before this was done, however, a photograph ($9 \times 5\frac{1}{2}$) was made of the collection, and so perfect is the definition that the individual labels may be read with a glass. Copies of this photograph are for sale at the office.

A brief article relating to Ninagawa and his work on Japanese pottery will appear in the February number of the Bulletin.

The Errata, Addenda et Corrigenda of the Catalogue of Japanese Pottery, which had been in preparation for several years, was published early in the year and mailed free to all those possessing the Catalogue. It formed a quarto pamphlet of ten pages and was printed on thin paper with an inscription on the title-page as follows: "Owners of the Catalogue are asked to lay these sheets in the back of the volume." There are yet a number of subscribers who have not been reached by the circular letter which was sent out announcing the publication of the Errata, etc., and it is hoped that any one owning the Catalogue who has not received a copy of the corrections will apply to the Secretary of the Museum.

The Catalogue was published in 1901. The edition numbered 500 copies and the price per copy was twenty dollars. The Catalogue was never advertised, was never in the trade, so to speak, no agent was employed, and yet over four-fifths of these have been sold. An edition de luxe in two volumes was also published, consisting of fifty copies, for which $50 was asked — and of these thirty-four have been sold.

Despite the fund of $5,000 derived from the sale of the duplicate collection, the interest of which is to be devoted to the purchase of objects or signed pieces new to the collection, thus far no object has been offered which we did not possess.

A number of objects have been submitted for identification and it is hoped that those who possess pieces of doubtful attribution will bring them to the Museum for comparison and study.

A lecture on Japanese Pottery was given to the teachers connected with the North Bennett Street School. A number of classes have been conducted through the Pottery Gallery, and in the early fall Lasell Seminary sent a large number of its pupils to the gallery and the collection was briefly explained to them.

EDWARD S. MORSE.

DEPARTMENT OF EGYPTIAN ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:—

Sir:—I have the honor to submit the following report on the Department of Egyptian Art:—

During the greater part of the year all those directly connected with the Department have been in the field, so that practically all departmental work has been suspended at the Museum. In January the Curator, Dr. G. A. Reisner, returned to Egypt to resume charge of the excavations. In the following month Mr. Kowe followed to assist him in this work for a few months. Shortly after Mr. Rowe's return in July, he resigned his position as Assistant in the Department in order to accept the post of Director of the Rhode Island School of Design. Mr. Fisher arrived from Egypt at the end of December to take up the work as Assistant Curator of the Department for the following year.

ACQUISITIONS

As in previous years, the Harvard University—Boston Museum of Fine Arts Expedition has continued to be the chief source of new material for the Department. From its excavations in the cemetery at Gizeh came a number of statues, reliefs and other examples of the finest work of the IV. Dynasty. From a short supplementary campaign at Mesheikh came several unique stelæ of the VI. to X. Dynasties, a period hitherto very inadequately represented in our collection. Most of these objects have been already received and unpacked, but owing to lack of space have not been placed on exhibition in the galleries.

During the year the Department received an important gift of miscellaneous objects, chiefly belonging to the Ptolemaic period, from the Estate of Professor Henry Williamson Haynes, through Miss Sarah H. Blanchard.

Miss Mary C. Wheelwright has loaned a fine example of a funerary boat, and Mr. Richard Norton several smaller objects.

CLARENCE S. FISHER,
Assistant Curator.

DEPARTMENT OF PAINTINGS

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:—

Sir:—I have the honor to present the following report on the Collection of Paintings:—

The acquisitions during the year 1912 have filled numerous gaps in the Museum collections. At the sale of the Weber Collection in Berlin, the Museum came in possession of a large Triptych from the hand of a Colognese master, known as the Master of St. Severin, representing on the centre panel the Crucifixion, together with the figures of the donors, and on the wings, within, the baptism of Christ and the martyrdom of John the Baptist, without, the Virgin with saints and relatives of the donors. This work, which is well preserved in its original condition, is the first example which our Museum has obtained of the Colognese School of the early sixteenth century. The discussion devoted to it in the Museum Bulletin* precludes the necessity of studying its points of interest in detail here. At the same sale the Museum succeeded in securing a work from the hands of the Dutch painter, Josse van Cleve the Elder, long known as the Master of the Death, of Mary of the Museums of Munich and Cologne, and counted as a Colognese. Christ is represented on the Cross, the Virgin and St. John standing on either side, and the picturesque troop of soldiers and executioners retreating in the background. The landscape is diversified and wild, as it often appears in the work of this master, who was under the influence of Joachin Patinier, Quentin Matsys, and Jean Gossaert. Still, the figures with their dark tints and red hair, and the folds and coloration of the draperies are very typical of him, as is also the extreme minuteness of the technique. We have very little knowledge of this painter, a native either of Cleves or Antwerp. Most of his life appears to have been passed in the latter town, where he was enrolled in the guild of St. Luke in 1511, and where he died in 1525. It is probable that he knew Jan, the son of Quentin Matsys, who was born at Antwerp in 1509, and one of whose principal works the Museum has lately acquired, — a Judith, signed and dated 1543. This picture is at present the earliest known work by this painter. The influence of his father is still very plain in it, as is the influence of the Italian masters, and above all, of the Milanese. This picture will represent the Flemish School of the sixteenth century and will serve as a link between the masters of the fifteenth century — among others, Rogier van der Weyden, of whose work the Museum possesses a capital example — and the masters of the early seventeenth century, like Rubens.

But one Italian painting has been acquired by the Museum in 1912. It is a Florentine cassone, bearing the mark of Filippino Lippi and representing various episodes in the story of Psyche. It should be remembered that hitherto the Museum has contained no pictures from the Italian Renaissance except religious subjects and one or two portraits. It was desirable to show by an example with what grace these artists could portray successive subjects of the same story happily grouped within one frame; with what charm they could picture fables of mythology or memorable deeds of ancient history. This representation of the legend of Psyche seems to have had some celebrity. We know at least one replica with variations in the landscape. It is preserved in the gallery of Mr. Brinsely Morley at London, and assigned to Jacopo del Sellaio, habitually the imitator of Lippi, Botticelli, Ghirlandajo, and several of their illustrious contemporaries.

The portrait of the Marchesa Gaudagni and of her son by Justus Sustermans had been in the Museum for a long time as a loan. At present it belongs to the Museum, the acquisition having been made under the most favorable conditions, thanks to the generous contribution of Mr. William Maurice Bullivant. Of his most illustrious contemporary, Claude Gellée, called Le Lorrain, the father not only of French landscape, but, as one may say, of all modern landscape, the Museum acquired in 1912 an important work. Examples of the classical masters, of pictures mythologic or historic in subject, are still rare in America, where collectors have mainly sought after works by the realistic masters, the Spaniards, the Dutchmen, and the modern French. This is a fact which the stranger visiting the museums and the private collections of America observes at once. Hence, the picture by Claude Lorrain representing Parnassus fills at our Museum a double lack. Apollo is seated on Mount Helicon, which is crowned by a circular temple and shaded by old trees. The Muses surround him, while the fountain of Hippocrene, sprung from the hoof-stroke of Pegasus, whom one perceives on the right, falls and spreads out in the foreground, its surface animated by swans. On the left extends the Ionian Sea dotted by the white sails of barks and galleys. Although this picture was executed in 1689, the year preceding the death of the master, then aged more than eighty years, one can admire the delicacy with which he has represented the light foliage of the trees detaching itself against a clear but luminous heaven, the gentle harmony of the composition, and its happy rhythm of lines. Through his effort, then a novel one, to put atmosphere, light and air into his landscapes, Claude Lorrain can be considered as one of the creators of landscape art, and the most audacious impressionists claim him as their master. This picture was executed at Rome for the Constable Colonna. Smith catalogues it under No. 195, and it bears the same number in the Liber Veritatis (Book of Truth) of Claude Lorrain. It has been engraved by Dubourg, and has belonged to several great English collections.

One cannot say the same of the portrait of John Eld, Esq., by Thomas Gainsborough, which was sold on the 10th of May, 1912, by the Staffordshire General Infirmary, which this philanthropist had contributed to found and to administer, and for which this portrait was painted about 1772. It had been preserved there admirably, and in this hidden retreat it had escaped the inquiries of the latest historians of the English master. It was only toward 1910 that it was brought to light in the Burlington House Exhibition. It was shown also at the International Exhibition at Rome in 1911. In London it was sold to Mr. Knoedler, from whom the Museum bought it shortly afterward. The Museum already possessed a landscape by Gainsborough, but it was desirable that this master should be represented as a portrait painter and that the Museum could show one of the great full-length portraits upon a landscape background, of which the English School has produced such remarkable examples. This need was met by the acquisition of the portrait of John Eld.

A water-color by D. G. Rossetti, entitled "Before the Battle," which was included in the collection of John Norton, was also acquired in 1912. It is very characteristic of the delicate and learned manner of the pre-Raphaelite master, and it will take its place very happily by the side of the water-color of Burne-Jones, "Le Chant d'Amour," bequeathed in 1905 by Mrs. Martin Brimmer, which, with some sketches of this last painter, represents in this Museum the pre-Raphaelite movement.

The American School was not neglected in 1912. Of John S. Copley, the Museum has acquired "A Triumph of Galatea," a picture exceptional, not only among the works of this master, here somewhat influenced by the Italian or French Schools, but in the whole American school, which has only rarely treated mythologic subjects. Its historical interest for the American school of painting gave the reason for its acquisition. The Museum has been happily able to secure also twenty-two water-colors and drawings by John LaFarge, studies for mural paintings, for windows, etc., that reveal the minute and wonderfully conscientious labor with which this great artist composed his large decorative works as well as his easel pictures. These studies had remained in his studio up to the time when the Museum purchased them. The series of forty-five water-colors by John S. Sargent, acquired in 1912 from the Hayden Fund, show the painter in the most attractive, the most varied, the happiest and at the same time the most just light. This admirable artist has a prodigious capacity to bend his technique to all needs, to express in his landscapes in turn the sun or the storm, the sombre depths of wood or the laughing plash of water, to model very delicately the face of a young woman, or to represent chaotic piles of marble blocks at Carrara. Every one of these pictures shows a new aspect of his talent. The execution is very quiet and very broad and very sure of itself. They are truly works of a master who has taken pleasure in painting and in expressing by the brush in the enthusiasm of his travels in Italy, in Greece and elsewhere, all the picturesqueness and beauty which presented itself to his sight. A long friendship and an admiration which dates from its first moment — an artistic comradeship even — binds the name of John S. Sargent to that of Mr. Edward D. Boit, of whom the Museum possessed already two water-colors executed at Paris. This year we have been able to acquire a remarkable series of thirty-eight water-colors executed in Italy, in England, in France and America. Some are of older date and others quite recent. They show admirably the development of the talent of Mr. Boit, which manifests itself in all its force in certain of his water-colors representing views of New York. They were exhibited at New York with those of Mr. Sargent and obtained a great and legitimate success. It should be added that Mr. Boit showed the greatest willingness and generosity in consenting that the choice of his work should be as varied and as representative as possible. Finally, the Museum bought in 1912 a picture by Mr. Louis Kronberg entitled "The Lady of Clan Care," showing all the original personality and happy qualities of the artist. Mr. Gorham Hubbard has given the Museum an interesting picture by Mr. William P. Churchill, entitled "Leisure."

The Museum has benefited by a great number of loans. To mention only the principal ones, our Italian collection was for the moment enriched by a Madonna by Lippo Memmi, lent by Mr. Richard Norton; by a Holy Family by Andrea da Solario, and a fine portrait of a Woman by Moroni, lent by Mrs. J. M. Longyear. Among the Flemish pictures we have shown the double portrait by Rubens that Mrs. Evans has been so kind as to lend several times to the Museum, and to which she has added this year two fine portraits by Miereveldt. To our collection of English pictures there has been added a charming portrait of a woman, by Francis Cotes, lent by Dr. Cabot, whose interest in the Museum was manifest up to his last hour. Every year he lent some of his best pictures, and to the portrait by Francis Cotes he had added in 1912 two landscapes by Claude Monet, an "Evening at Venice," by Fritz Thaulow, and the "Swan Flight," by F. W. Benson. The English School is temporarily augmented also by two landscapes by Constable, one representing Weymouth Bay, a picture of excellent quality, lent by Mrs. William C. Loring; the other, Hampstead Heath, lent by the Trustees of the White Fund of Lawrence; finally by the portrait of Miss Sara Norton, and two fine drawings by Burne-Jones, lent by the Misses Norton. The loans of French pictures have been more considerable still. Among them should be noted the anonymous loan of forty French drawings of the sixteenth and of the beginning of the seventeenth century, exemplifying the art of portraiture which was flourishing in France at that epoch, but of which the Museum does not yet possess any specimen. With the exception of a Portrait of a Marshal of France by Nattier, lent by Mrs. Lathrop Brown, all the other pictures are from the nineteenth century. Among the principal ones we should mention the important works by Diaz, Millet, Dupré, Daubigny, the "Wounded Eurydice," by Corot, lent by Mrs. Lathrop Brown, paintings by G. Michel, Gérôme, Boudin, Thaulow, Pissarro, Claude Monet, lent by the Trustees of the White Fund of Lawrence, and a Sisley and a Renoir lent by an anonymous amateur.

Numerous portraits by Gilbert Stuart, John S. Copley, and Blackburn have been lent by Mr. Ingersoll Amory, Mrs. William R. Cabot, Richard H. Dana, Judge Robert Grant, Miss I. E. Gray, Miss Una Gray, Mrs. George Hollingsworth, Mrs. Leavitt Hunt, Mr. Thomas Amory Lee, Hon. Josiah Quincy, Mrs. Charles F. Russell, W. B. T. Smith, and the Misses Storer. Mrs. Lathrop Brown has lent an excellent landscape by Inness; Mrs. Daniel Merriman, "The Girl Reading," by Tarbell; Mrs. Laurence Minot, "The Light from a Window," by F. W. Benson. The importance of the American collection has for the time been increased also by the loan of "El Jaleo," by John S. Sargent, from Mr. T. Jefferson Coolidge, and by the same painter, the portrait of Judge Loring, from Mrs. William C. Loring, and of the daughters of Edward D. Boit, from Mr. Edward D. Boit. This great master, of whom America is justly proud, can thus, with the series of water-colors acquired by this Museum, be enjoyed here in the most complete way.

A number of exhibitions of pictures have been organized in 1912. There have been shown 86 pictures, water-colors, pastels and drawings by Walter Shirlaw ; 28 pictures and 8 water-colors by Miss Alice Marian Curtis, 37 pictures by the English master, John Lavery, and 128 pictures and 28 sculptures from the Société de Peintres et de Sculpteurs, of which Auguste Rodin is President, and where were shown works by Besnard, Cottet, Carrière, J. W. Alexander, Walter Gay, Lucien Simon, René Ménard, La Touche, Jacques Blanche, Henri Martin, etc. It would be very desirable to organize every year at least one exhibition devoted to foreign artists.

DIVISION OF WESTERN ART TEXTILES

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir, — I have the honor to submit the following report on the Collections of Textiles for the past year :

The accessions, which numbered 122, were all gifts. Of especial importance among them was a piece of Sicilian brocade of the thirteenth century, presented by Mr. Wright Fabyan and Mr. Francis L. Higginson. The piece was probably the work of an Arab in Sicily, and is very oriental in its design of parrots and grotesque animals affronted, and separated by palmettes. Through the bequest of Miss Georgiana G. Eaton many Italian, Flemish, and French laces and embroideries were added to the collection. A large number of them were bobbin laces, though a few were point. A fine piece of French point lace, Point d'Argentan, was given by Mrs. Bayard Thayer. Mr. John Ware Willard's generous gift of his collection of American Indian blankets adds some beautiful examples of American tapestry weaving.

Among the important loans to the collection were four Brussels tapestries lent by Dr. William Hewson Baltzell, and two lent by Dr. Henry F. Sears. The sixteen rugs and pieces of rugs lent by Dr. George A. Kennedy and Mrs. Mary Price Kennedy should receive special mention, as they are, as a rule, of the type of Asia Minor rugs, which are illustrated in paintings by old Italian and Flemish masters. The German museums and collectors have given much study to these early Asia Minor rugs, but they have not received the attention that they deserve from the collectors in this country.

The accessions have been catalogued, and work has been done on mounting them, as well as remounting part of the collection. Much time has been given to recataloguing the collection, and if as much time can be given to this work in the coming year as in the past, the new card catalogue will be finished.

The Assistant in Charge has acted as docent to fourteen clubs, classes, and individuals, and has given one talk on the care of textiles to a class from Wellesley College.

Duplicate textiles have been lent to five elementary schools, to one art school, one museum, and two societies of arts and crafts.

The visitors to the Textile Study Room have numbered 1,271, the largest number in one month being 223. As in the last two years, these visitors have, as a rule, come for serious study, being teachers, students, designers, and craft workers.

The exhibition of laces in the Museum's collection, which opened in December, 1911, was continued into January, 1912, and the Assistant in Charge of the Textiles coöperated with the Assistant in Charge of Western Art and the Social Workers of Boston, in the arrangement of the Exhibition of the Native Arts of our Foreign Population, which was held in the Forecourt Room of the Museum from February 17 through March 10.

SARAH G. FLINT,
Assistant in Charge.

DIVISION OF WESTERN ART OTHER COLLECTIONS

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir, — I have the honor to present the fourth annual report on the Collections of Western Art, other than Paintings, Prints, and Textiles.

The accessions received during the past year number 212, all of which were gifts. The Western Art Visiting Committee has presented an enamelled Saracenic glass globe, five pieces of furniture, and four pieces of Gothic sculpture. The past pupils of the School of the Museum, through Mrs. S.^o J. Mixter and Joseph Lindon Smith, gave a French Gothic stone statuette of the Madonna and Child, and George R. White and Mrs. George R. Agassiz, a French Gothic Pietà in stone.

Dr. Denman W. Ross has added 16 objects to the collection of Mohammedan Art. Eight pieces of early American silver have been received from the New South Church Society, Boston; two from the First Baptist Church, Salem; a chalice from the Suffolk Chapel, Boston; a beaker from the Congregational Church, Greenland, N. H.; and 30 spoons and forks from Horace E. Ware. The marble replica of the sarcophagus of Elizabeth Boott Duveneck, which has been exhibited since 1895, was made a gift by Frank B. Duveneck. The bronze bust of Dalou, by Auguste Rodin, shown in the exhibition of French pictures, was presented by contribution. Miss Ellen F. Moseley gave eight pieces of French furniture. Eight rubbings from brasses in St. Helen's Church, London, were given by George A. P. H. Duncan. Miscellaneous objects numbering 42 came from the Estate of Prof. Henry Williamson Haynes, through Miss Sarah H. Blanchard. Messrs. Chandler & Co., through Charles F. Bacon, gave 30 pieces of Persian and Turkish pottery, glass and metal. A complete list of donations will be found at the end of the report.

Loans for the year were 418, in addition to the objects in the Central American and Native Arts Exhibitions. This included a large number of pieces of domestic silver sent to be exhibited through the summer, recent purchases by Frank G. Macomber in Europe, and 32 ivories lent by Dr. William H. Baltzell.

At the suggestion and with the coöperation of a committee of social service workers in Boston, an Exhibition of the Native Arts of our Foreign Population was held from February 16 to March 10. Objects were brought to ten of the settlement houses in different parts of Boston, and a committee from the Museum selected what was suitable for exhibition. Many nationalities were represented, including Russians, Germans, Italians, Greeks, Turks, Syrians, Irish, English, Scottish, etc., and it was hoped that the lenders to the exhibition might afterwards continue to be among the Museum's regular visitors. An international reception was held on Washington's Birthday, at which a number of foreign societies appeared in native costume, and national anthems were sung. On Saturday afternoons Greek, Syrian, and other dances were given in the lecture hall; and on Sunday afternoons Mr. Locke, of the Civic Service House, arranged for lectures on various foreign countries.

From March 22 to May 16 a collection of sculpture, pottery, goldwork and jade from Central America, belonging to the Peabody Museum of Harvard University, was exhibited in the Forecourt Room, and Dr. Tozzer gave a lecture, with slides, on the sites where the objects had been found.

Examples of colonial furniture and glass from the collection of Mr. Francis H. Bigelow, sufficient to fill the Forecourt Room, were shown from the end of May to November 1. It was the first exhibition of furniture to be held in the Museum, and much interest was expressed by visitors, as well as the hope that it might soon be possible to have a permanent exhibit of the same kind.

The sudden death of Mr. Garrick M. Borden, on May 24, was a great loss to the Department of Western Art, where he had been working since the first of the year on the Catalogue of Mohammedan Art. The several hundred slides used in his lectures are now being identified and listed for the use of other teachers.

During the summer, the Italian medals in the Storer Collection of Coins were registered, and the coins deposited by the Boston Athenæum were identified and arranged. The Shurtleff Collection is yet to be put in envelopes, after which the final registration of the various collections can be begun.

The first week in June the Assistant in Charge attended the meeting of the American Museums' Association in New York, and also visited collections in New Haven, Hartford, and Springfield. During the year 48 collections in Boston have been inspected; 318 people have visited the Department; 443 students have worked from the collections in the galleries; and 15 classes, numbering 172 persons, have been taken through various parts of the Museum.

Total number registered in the Library	14,439		8,170	36,790

In addition to the separately registered photographs reported above, the Library received from Miss M. E. Dowse an album containing 900 "carte visite" photographs, of which 300 were very interesting portraits from life. Mr. H. H. Powers gave 250 University Prints of French and Spanish painting. These and other University Prints previously given have been arranged in folders, and prove very useful as illustrated catalogues.

Among the more important purchases are:—

- Morrison, Arthur. Painters of Japan. Lond. 1911.
- Collection Barracco. Mün. 1892.
- Gnecchi, Francesco. I medaglioni romani. Mil. 1912

Ausstellung von meisterwerken muhammedanischen kunst in München, 1910. Mün. 1912.

Overloop, E. van. Dentelles anciennes. Brussels, 1912.

1,616 Photographs of Italian architecture.

390 Photographs of American architecture.

With the anonymous gift of $451.00 reported in 1910, a complete set of Monumenti antichi has finally been secured. In addition to the regular appropriations for purchases, the Library was granted from the income of the Cummings Fund, $1,010.00 for photographs and $500.00 for books; $35.00 was given for books in memory of Mr. Garrick Borden.

The Library Visiting Committee, with the active coöperation of the President of the Trustees, has succeeded in its effort to raise a Library Fund of $10,000.00, of which the income is to be used for the purchase of expensive books.

ATTENDANCE

The attendance in the Reading-Room was 5,000; from June 1 to October 1, the attendance was 505, so that during the months of the "season" the average attendance has been 625. The photograph collection has been used by 290 pupils of art schools, and 1,268 students. Permission to borrow photographs to use outside the Museum has been granted to 88 persons, and the privilege has been used 221 times. 4,421 photographs have been loaned for use outside the Museum, and 5,218 for use in illustrating 168 lectures in the Museum.

WORK ON THE COLLECTION

Ten thousand and eighty-three volumes and 244 articles in periodicals have been catalogued; 2,206 cards have been added to the catalogue of books; 2395 photographs have been registered; 2,136 have been classified and catalogued.

The annual inventory of books, taken in December, showed that no losses had occurred during the year. The Library has furnished bibliographical material on American art to clubs in Baltimore, and in Sioux City, Iowa; on Egyptian art, to a gentleman in El Paso, Texas; on Dutch painting, to a lady in Tyler, Texas; on textiles, to the Director of the Albright Art Gallery, Buffalo; on wax sculpture, to a gentleman in Annapolis Royal, Canada; and on individual paintings, to people in La Porte, Ind., Baltimore, Columbia, S. C., etc.

Early in the year the Librarian, under the direction of the Museum's Registry of Local Art, prepared for the City Art Commission a "List of oil paintings and water-colors owned by the City of Boston, or hung in buildings belonging to the City of Boston." During August and September he was Acting Director.

Miss Davenport resigned her position as Assistant in the Photograph Collection, March 5; during the next few months, Miss Foster assisted in the work on the collection; and on September 3d, Miss Gladys Wells became the regular assistant to Miss Turner.

MORRIS CARTER.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM

TO THE TRUSTEES :

Three reasons contributed to make the thirty-sixth year of the School of the Museum, which closed in June, 1912, the most prosperous one of its existence: namely, its distinguished staff of teachers; its regular increase in number of pupils; and a balance of $2,113.15 in the treasury, after paying out $24,383.84 in expenses, while $4,646 was paid back into the School fund, which amounts to $90,393.00.

The School contained in all departments 289 against 276 pupils for the previous year. These 289 were distributed as follows:—

In Mr. Tarbell's Advanced Painting,	8
In Mr. Tarbell's Intermediate Class in Painting,	21
In Mr. Benson's Beginners' Classes in Painting,	37
In Mr. Hale's Life Class, men,	15
In Mr. Hale's Life Class, women,	38
In Mr. Pratt's Class in Modelling,	11
In Mr. Paxton's class in the Antique,	32
In Mr. McLellan's Class in the Antique,	36

In the Department of Decorative Design there were 92 pupils (against 88 of last year), with 19 Seniors, 17 Juniors, 24 Sophomores, 31 Freshmen and 1 Special Student.

In this Department Mr. Walker gave 30 lectures upon the Ornamental and Industrial Arts.

Thirteen lectures were given by Miss Lee upon the History of Art; and Miss Mary C. Sears continued her class in bookbinding three times a week.

Mr. Dunham and Mr. Hunt gave their classes in furniture design and in metal work respectively; and the preparatory class in Decorative Design was conducted by Miss Child.

The supplementary instruction in drawing from casts and objects in the Museum was carried on by Miss Whitney, and the preparatory class in wood-carving by Miss Hazelton.

Besides the regular students, 21 not attached to the School attended school lectures and classes; 17 of these followed Mr. Walker's course.

The afternoon Life Class for men, which was formed by the pupils in 1910, was continued, and a similar class for women, during the second term.

It will be remembered that the Council of the School decided to award the Paige Scholarship every other year, in order to raise the $800 a year—which had become insufficient to support the travelling students—to $1,200 a year for the two years. Therefore there was no Paige prize scholar sent abroad last year, but the prize will be again awarded next spring. Miss Emily B. Waite, who held the last scholarship, returned home last July, and her work of the two years spent in Europe was exhibited in the Renaissance Court of the Museum from January 1-12.

Mr. Carl J. Nordell exhibited the work done during his incumbency of the scholarship, by courtesy of the Art Club, in its gallery in October last.

Mr. Howard E. Smith, the only winner of the prize still abroad, has recently been travelling in Italy and in Spain.

Mr. F. P. Fairbanks, also one of the Paige Scholarship winners, who won the Prix de Rome of the American Academy at Rome, has returned home after his three years of residence there.

During the year honors and prizes have been bestowed upon the teachers and scholars of our School as follows:—

Forty-two graduates of the School were represented at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, in February last.

In November the Potter Palmer gold medal and $1,000, at the Chicago Art Institute Exhibition, were awarded to Mr. Frank W. Benson for a portrait of the artist's daughter, which was subsequently purchased by the Corcoran Art Gallery.

Mr. Carl J. Nordell won the fourth Clark prize of $500 and the Corcoran honorable mention in December for his "Femme Nue."

Mr. Philip Little, at the same time and place, won honorable mention for his landscape painting.

The Thirty-Sixth Annual Exhibition of the pupils of the School was held in the Museum from May 21-28. While the talent which happens to be on hand in the student body naturally varies from year to year, the solid quality of work shown in the annual exhibitions testifies to the unusual quality of the teaching, which is constant. It is doubtful if the painting and drawing from life shown in this exhibition could be surpassed in any school; and the Department of Decorative Design showed the best work of the kind yet done in the School, and illustrated the quality of Mr. C. Howard Walker's personal teaching. This is noteworthy, because the results of Schools of Decorative Design, as a rule, have been disappointing.

The Students' Exhibition of Summer Work was held in the Trustees' Room from February 11-18.

The Stuart Club continued its usefulness in providing home, board, instruction, and exhibitions for its 58 members. The growth of the club required the addition to its building of a new wing, which has recently been finished.

The Coöperative Society of the Stuart Club has been successful in putting a number of graduates in touch with manufacturers; in getting them positions as designers and teachers; and in bringing other graduates into practical and serious lines of work.

Mr. Thomas Allen, who has served for twenty-eight years upon the Council of the School, and for nine years as Chairman, has, during this last period, performed the arduous and somewhat thankless task of adjusting the relations between the Council, the Managing Committee, and the students; and he deserves the gratitude and thanks of the School of the Museum for this excellent work, from which he will now be relieved, because Mr. Huger Elliott, recently of the Rhode Island School of Design, has lately been appointed in an administrative capacity to the Department of Design, which includes a certain amount of teaching, besides educational work for the Museum itself.

This announcement, and a fuller statement of the details of it, belong strictly to the report of the coming year.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS:

Probably very few people appreciate the activities of the Museum, the extent of its work in education and in adding to its collections, and the influence exerted through the Museum School on the artistic development of the country.

The Museum is engaged, under Doctor Reisner, in excavations in Egypt, from which it has received objects of great beauty and distinction. It has in its employ in China, Japan, and India, experts through whom purchases have been made which strengthen materially the Chinese Collection. The Curator of Paintings has attended important sales at home and abroad whenever necessary in the interest of the Museum, and has purchased twenty-one paintings and over a hundred water-colors and drawings in the last three years. The Curator of the Print Department has made arrangements of such a nature that he is informed whenever prints desirable for the Museum are offered for sale. The Curator of the Department of Classical Art travelled in Europe in 1913 in order to buy objects there. The assistants in charge of the Department of Western Art are now on their way abroad for purposes of study. In these various ways the Departments keep in close touch with such opportunities as occur for adding to the collections. The Museum could, of course, increase its collections more rapidly if it had larger funds, but despite its small income it has acquired many important objects of art year by year, as will be seen by reference to the reports that follow. The policy of the Trustees is to purchase objects only of the first rank.

The Museum must not only add to its collections, but care for them. This involves much labor. Every object has to be studied, catalogued, placed on exhibition or in the reserve series, and protected from injury and deterioration. The report of the Director shows the progress in cataloguing made during the past year.

To exhibit the collections effectively is essential, but it is almost equally important to interpret them and through them to lead people to appreciate and love the fine arts. More than sixty docents, lecturers, and others assist in this task, in addition to members of the Staff. Indeed, if the instructors and assistants in the School are included, as well as all others working for the Museum in this country, in Egypt, and elsewhere, the total number employed is reported to me to be 298 men and women.

ADMISSIONS AND ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

The admissions in 1913 and in 1912 were as follows:

	Paid	Free	Total
1913	25,125	194,625	219,750
1912	25,361	194,682	220,043

The number of annual subscribers in 1913 was 1,725 as compared with 1,710 in the preceding year. The total annual subscriptions were $37,487, a sum $2,560 smaller than in the preceding year.

CURRENT INCOME AND EXPENSES

The following is a comparative statement of the income and expenses for the years 1913 and 1912:

	1913	1912	Increase or Decrease
Unrestricted Income from
Trust Investments	$69,129.61	$63,338.38	I. $5,791.23
Annual Subscriptions	37,487.00	40,047.00	D. 2,560.00
Admissions to Museum	6,202.00	6,308.50	D. 106.50
Miscellaneous	492.61	574.05	D. 81.44
Publications, Post Cards, and Photographs	7,758.83	6,988.16	I. 770.67
Total Income	$121,070.05	$117,256.09	I. $3,813.96
Expenses	161,061.52	150,500.53	I. 10,560.99
Deficit	$39,991.47	$33,244.44	I. $6,747.03
Less Special Gifts to be Applied to Expenses	15,850.00	9,678.02	I. 6,171.98
Net Deficit	$24,141.47	$23,566.42	I. $575.05

When the Robert Dawson Evans Galleries for Paintings are opened it is estimated that the running expenses will be increased about $16,000. Unless annual subscriptions are much larger than in preceding years the running expenses of the Museum will therefore exceed the receipts by about $56,000, which will be reduced to about $40,000, if the special gifts to be applied to expenses are as large as they were last year.

GIFTS

On page 35 will be found the usual statement of legacies, gifts, and annual subscriptions received within the year 1913. These amounted to $455,231.53. Most notable among them is a special reserve fund of $175,000 from Mrs. Robert Dawson Evans, bringing her gifts to the Museum in memory of her husband to the splendid sum of $1,000,000.

SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM

The report of the Committee on the Museum School will be found on page 125. A table in the report shows that of the 267 pupils now in the School 185 come from Massachusetts and 82 from 29 other States and countries. The fact that during the last six years 27 per cent. of the School's pupils came from 35 States other than Massachusetts and from 11 foreign countries shows the wide influence it exerts. At present the School is larger than ever before. Its pupils are enthusiastic and are doing excellent work.

TRUSTEES

Mr. Alexander Cochrane and Mr. Augustus Hemenway were elected January 16, 1913, to fill the vacancies on the Board of Trustees caused by the deaths of Mr. Samuel D. Warren and Mr. Nathaniel Thayer.

On October 16 the Trustees adopted the following minute on the death of Mr. Francis Bartlett:

“By the death of Francis Bartlett on September 23 the Museum has lost its largest benefactor and one of its wisest. He served as Trustee for twenty-three years; he was put on important committees ; in 1900 he gave $100,000 for the purchase of objects of art ; in 1912 he gave property valued at $1,350,000. The terms of this last gift were extraordinarily liberal and far-seeing. He personally preferred two directions of expenditure, namely, the purchase of works of art which would add distinction to the collections of classical antiquities and of paintings ; but he left the Trustees free after the lapse of three years to spend the income and even the principal of his great endowment as they should think best.

The death of Mr. Francis Bullard on February 6 deprived the Museum of one of its most generous supporters. As Chairman of the Committee on the Department of Prints, he did more than any other person "to raise this Department of the Museum to a high place among the great collections of the country. To crown this service Mr. Bullard left to the Museum his own priceless Turner mezzotints and engravings, together with most important examples of the work of other masters."

ROBERT DAWSON EVANS GALLERIES FOR PAINTINGS

Work on the new building has progressed satisfactorily during the past year, and, unless some unforeseen accident prevents, it will be opened in the first week of next November. The main building, containing the picture galleries, is 90 per cent. completed, and the building connecting these galleries with the rotunda of the present Museum about 80 per cent. A plan of the main floor follows this report.

The superiority of the new galleries to those now in use cannot be over-estimated. The lighting will be far superior; the decoration and finish will be handsomer; and brocades, velours, and similar stuffs will be used to cover the walls on which the pictures are to be hung. The lecture hall in the old building was uncomfortable and difficult to speak in; the new hall, seating 450, will have the best theatre seats and excellent acoustic properties. The tapestry gallery above will add greatly to the impressiveness and beauty of the Museum. It is difficult to express the gratitude of the Trustees to Mrs. Evans for her munificent gifts.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON, MASS.

BOSTON, January 21, 1914.

Dear Sirs: We, the undersigned, certify that we have employed Messrs. Boyden & Steacie, Certified Public Accountants, to audit the accounts of the Treasurer of the Museum and also of the Trustees of the Rotch Travelling Scholarship for the year 1913, and that the accompanying letters and statements form their reports.

We also certify that we have seen evidence of all the property called for thereby.

AUGUSTUS HEMENWAY.

ALEXANDER COCHRANE.

BOSTON, February 3, 1913.

AUGUSTUS HEMENWAY, ESQ., }
ALEXANDER COCHRANE, ESQ., } Auditing Committee.

Dear Sirs: In accordance with your instructions we have made an examination of the books, accounts, vouchers, etc., of the Treasurer of the Museum of Fine Arts from January 1 to December 31, 1913, for the purpose of verifying the cash transactions of the period and reporting upon the financial condition of the Museum at the latter date.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY:—

(1) That all funds shown to have been received have been accounted for, and that we have found vouchers or other satisfactory evidence of payment for all disbursements.

(2) That the balance of cash on December 31, 1913, as shown by the books, amounting to $208,108.08, was on hand as of that date.

(3) That the Balance Sheet submitted herewith is in accordance with the audited accounts.

Yours respectfully,
 BOYDEN & STEACIE,
Certified Public Accountants.

MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON, MASS.

Dear Sirs:

In accordance with your instructions we have made an examination of the accounts of the Trustees of the Rotch Travelling Scholarship for the year ending December 31, 1913, for the purpose of verifying the cash transactions of the period and of reporting upon the financial condition of the Trust on December 31, 1913, and the results of its operations for the year ending at that date.

We submit herewith three Exhibits and three Schedules, as listed on page 2.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY:—

1. That all cash shown to have been received has been accounted for, and that we have seen satisfactory vouchers for all disbursements.

2. That the balance of cash on December 31, 1913, as shown by the books, amounting to $17.55, was on hand as of that date.

3. That the figures herein submitted agree with the Cash Account as kept by the Trustees.

Yours respectfully,
 BOYDEN & STEACIE,
Certified Public Accountants.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS:

I have the honor to submit to you my seventh annual report as Director, together with the reports of those in immediate charge of the different departments.

In many directions the acquisitions of the Museum during the past year have been of great importance. In the Print Department the legacy of the Francis Bullard collection has made our series of Turner mezzotints the finest in existence, besides enriching the collection in other directions. The David Keppel Memorial collection has been established by the son of the late Mr. Keppel, and it is planned to add year by year to the important gifts already made. Other gifts and the largely increased number of visitors furnish evidence of the activity of the new head of the Department. In the Classical Department a purchase made from the Francis Bartlett fund in 1912, which arrived at the beginning of the current year, has added greatly to the importance of our collection of Greek vases and terra cottas; and further purchases are mentioned in the report of the curator of this Department. The most important single acquisition of the year in the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art is the early Chinese stone figure given by Dr. Ross in memory of Mr. Okakura. The purchase of the Macomber collection of Chinese pottery has brought into our possession perhaps the finest existing series of this charming ware. As the year ends, some splendid Chinese paintings and bronzes purchased through Mr. Okakura have arrived, but too late to be considered in this report. Among the very large number of objects received from Dr. Reisner's excavations in Egypt I can mention but two : the mastaba chamber brought to Boston by the generosity of a friend of the Museum, and a wooden portrait statue of exquisite workmanship. Through M. Guiffrey several paintings have been purchased, one of which, Turner's large painting of The Falls of the Rhine at Schaffhausen, is the most important purchase for many years.

THE STAFF

The death of Mr. Okakura in September was an incalculable loss to the Museum. His breadth of view, embracing both East and West, his inspired and inspiring appreciation of art, his devotion to the Museum, not to mention his keen and thorough scholarship, made him invaluable to our work. Even through the excellent organization which he built up it will be all but impossible to carry forward this Department as it has been carried forward under Mr. Okakura.

In January Mr. Morris Carter, who served for some years as Registrar and Secretary to the Director, and who came to the Museum as its Librarian in 1904, was appointed Assistant Director. Mr. Carter's proved ability in organization and executive work and his thorough acquaintance with all the activities of the Museum will undoubtedly lead to a more efficient and successful administration. He was relieved of his duties as Librarian, and in August Mr. Foster Stearns was appointed to this position. Mr. Stearns was graduated at Amherst College in 1903, received the degree of A. M. from Harvard University in 1906, and was a student at the Library School of the New York Public Library in 1912-13. Because of his interest in Museum work he refused more lucrative positions to take charge of our library. New assistants have also been appointed in several departments. Dr. Reisner has been in Egypt all the year, and Dr. Fisher was with him for about four months; Dr. Caskey was studying in Europe for nearly eight months, Mr. Richter for four months, M. Guiffrey for four months, and Mr. Carter for three months.

The attention of the staff has largely been given to plans for installation in the new galleries and in the galleries to be vacated for other uses by the removal of objects to the new wing. The accurate registration of objects belonging to the Museum, which was begun in 1905, was for the most part completed in the ensuing four years. The collection of textiles, on which much work needed to be done, is now entirely registered with the exception of about seventy-five examples. Ancient and modern coins have not yet been completely recorded, but during the past year they have been put in order so as to be accessible to students, and the finer series of nearly two thousand Greek coins has been photographed and registered. Inasmuch as earlier loans to the Museum had never been properly recorded, the gift of the large Weld and Bigelow Collections threw a great amount of work on the Chinese and Japanese Department. The paintings, numbering 4,509, the glass and jade, most of the sword guards, and many minor objects in both collections, as well as the entire Weld collection, have now been registered; considerable work has been done in mounting prints, and drawings, but much remains to be done before the Bigelow collection is properly cared for and recorded. In the Print Department about one hundred and fifty prints have been properly mounted with mats, and the working card catalogue, begun in the summer, now includes about 9,030 prints. Here again much remains to be done before even the more important half of the collection is in proper order for study.

EXHIBITIONS

During the past year the following special exhibitions have been held at the Museum :

SPECIAL EXHIBITIONS

- January 27. Early German and Italian Woodcuts.
 January 1-15. Paintings by Miss Emily Burling Waite.
 January 20-February 16. Paintings and Drawings by Albert Besnard.
 February 1-April 21. American Woodcuts, to which later were added Etchings by Canaletto and Lalanne.
 February 3-March 24. European Pottery and Porcelain.
 February 8-16. Summer Work of Pupils of the Museum School.
 February 24-March 9. Japanese Screens.
 March 11-24. Paintings and Water-colors by Charles Walter Stetson.
 March 26-April 21. Contemporary Scandinavian Art.
 March 26-April 21. Etchings by Zorn.
 April 3-24. Miscellaneous Objects from Society of Arts and Crafts.
 April 24-May 15. Selection of Prints from the Bullard Bequest.
 May 1-3. Etchings by Piranesi of Ancient Roman Edifices.
 May 1-15. Objects from the Philippine Islands.
 May 20-June 25. Prints interesting to Children.
 May 21-November 9. Children's Exhibit of Chinese and Japanese Objects.
 June 30- Collection of Paintings, Water-colors, and Drawings from the William Hayes Fogg Museum.
 July 7-September 8. Engravings by Early German Masters.
 September 17-November 29. Engravings by Early Italian Masters.
 November 1- Recent Accessions of Dr. Denman W. Ross.
 November 9-16. Work of Miss Kallen's Young Pupils.
 November 24-December 14. Paintings by Howard Everett Smith.
 December 22- Christmas Exhibition of Paintings, Engravings, and Sculpture.

Two of these deserve special notice. The exhibition of the work of Albert Besnard, which was organized by M. Guiffrey and brought to this country by the Museum, included the first large series of his drawings and paintings which has been shown outside of France. The versatile imagination of this charming painter, his brilliant use of color, and the interesting subjects presented, made a deep impression in Boston and in other cities where the paintings were shown later. Again in the autumn the Renaissance Court was used to exhibit the rich and varied collection made by Dr. Denman W. Ross during his recent travels in Japan, China, and India. Even the casual visitor could but see that this collection was a labor of love, illustrating in a great variety of objects the fine personal taste of the collector. That many of these things will remain in the Museum, particularly the delightful series of Persian and Indian miniatures, is a source of great satisfaction.

ON THE USE OF THE MUSEUM

The number of visitors to the Museum in 1913 was 219,750 as compared with 220,043 in 1912. A list of the number of admission tickets issued for educational purposes is appended to this report, from which it appears that there is a notable increase in the demand for tickets to be used by pupils in the schools. During the year 597 lectures and class exercises (exclusive of the Sunday Docent Services) have been held in the Museum, with a total attendance of 13,590 as compared with 13,252 in 1912. As in former years the Museum has arranged a course for teachers on the Observation of Paintings, under Miss Keyes; lectures for pupils of the Museum School and of Simmons College have been given in the Museum, and the class rooms have been used by accredited private courses for instruction connected with works of art exhibited in the Museum. Beginning in January, Mr. Huger Elliott gave a course of ten lectures on "Everyday Art," intended primarily for school teachers; the applications for admission exceeded the capacity of the lecture hall, so that Mr. Elliott is to lecture again on this subject during the present winter.

During the summer a friend again generously made it possible to bring to the Museum parties of children from the playgrounds and the settlement houses. Each day in July and August one or two parties of children were brought to the Museum in a special car, entertained with stories about two or three works of art which were shown by lantern slides, and then were taken to see the paintings themselves to which their attention had been called by the stories and the lantern slides. In all the parties included 3,741 children as against 2,651 in 1912. Thanks to Miss Hopkins and Mrs. Cronan, a real interest in a few objects in the Museum was created in children from all parts of the city.

Miss Kallen's work with children from the settlement houses has been carried on during the year with such success that she was able to put up a most interesting exhibition of the children's work in November. Later this exhibition was shown in New York, where it attracted much favorable attention. The aim of this work is to cultivate the children's imagination and train their sense for good design by combined practical work in design and study of objects in the Museum.

The effort to interest teachers and children of the public schools in objects of art has been more than usually successful. The Superintendent of Schools has appointed Mrs. Ellor C. Ripley, one of the assistant superintendents, to coöperate with the Museum, and under Mr. Elliott, Mrs. Laura W. L. Scales has been active in meeting parties from the schools. Although many of the teachers now bring their own classes to the Museum without asking for assistance from our Staff, the number of docent appointments with parties from the schools has increased from 79 in 1912 to 145 in 1913, and the number of pupils from 1,598 in 1912 to 2,682 in 1913. Plans are under way to establish this connection with the schools on a more permanent and effective basis.

During the year the usefulness of the Museum to the public has been greatly increased by the installation of electric light in the exhibition gallery. Formerly it was often necessary to close the Museum at four o'clock on a Sunday afternoon in winter and to send away as many as two thousand visitors. Through the generosity of one of the Trustees the galleries can now be lighted artificially, and on Saturdays and Sundays the building is kept open till six o'clock. This is but one more step in the effort to make the Museum as useful as possible to the community.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR FAIRBANKS,

Director.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE MUSEUM

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the following report for the past year on branches of work committed to my charge :

PUBLICATIONS

The Bulletin of the Museum has appeared at the usual dates, and in November an extra number was issued containing an account of recent work by the Harvard University-Museum of Fine Arts Egyptian Expedition.

A tenth edition of the Handbook of the Museum has been called for and will be on sale during January.

The Leaflet Guide has appeared in three editions, in February, July, and October.

Requests continue to be received for our lending copies of the volumes called "Communications," published ten years ago and long out of print, containing studies by committees and officers of the Museum for the present building. The applicants have included, among institutions abroad, the British Museum, the National Gallery of British Art, and the National Gallery, in London, the Royal Institution of Cornwall at Truro, the Public Gallery and Museum, Belfast, Ireland, the Musée du Cinquantenaire, Brussels, the Museo del Prado, Madrid ; among institutions in our own country, the Worcester Museum, the Syracuse Museum, the Museum of the University of Philadelphia, the Department of Art at Montclair, N. J., Oberlin College, Cornell University, the California Academy of Sciences, the Oakland Public Museum, the St. Paul Museum ; and architects in Boston, Buffalo, Toledo, Glasgow, Scotland, and Johannesburg in the Transvaal. The Victoria and Albert Museum has recently asked for any further volumes which may be issued in the series.

GALLERY BOOKS

At the request of the late Okakura-Kakuzo, Curator of the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art, and with your approval, I have undertaken, with the aid of the Department, to prepare lists of the exhibits in its galleries, with notes designed not to give instruction about objects shown, but to dispose to their enjoyment. The gallery book so conceived forms a type of museum literature hitherto untried. It does not aim to add to the scientific apparatus of the museum gallery, represented in the catalogue and its diminutive, the label, but to create an artistic apparatus not before represented there. Pleasure, not knowledge, is its object. It seeks to serve art immediately and not indirectly through the medium of science. The plan is to keep these books as lending copies in the galleries of the Department. They are to be manifolded and placed in holders in the doorways, with signs offering their free use to visitors. It will be proposed to revise them to meet changes in the exhibits. The work began in the autumn, and books have thus far been written for two of the galleries.

REGISTRY OF LOCAL ART

In continuation of the lists of works of art belonging to the City prepared at the request of the Municipal Art Commission for its Reports of 1911 and 1912, the Registry during the past year furnished a list of busts and bas-reliefs for the Report of 1913. A list of monuments registered since the appearance of the previous lists was appended. While the inventory as a whole contains not a few notable works, a review of it shows that a beginning only has yet been made at utilizing public buildings and places in Boston for imaginative purposes. The Ferguson Fund for the decoration of public places in Chicago with sculpture and the Samuel Fund for a similar purpose in Philadelphia have set an example which it is to be hoped may be widely followed.

The bronze statue of Roger Conant by Henry H. Kitson was shown in the forecourt of the Museum during the first half of the year. The statue was installed January 31 and removed June 10, to be taken to its permanent position at Salem.

During the year the records of the Registry have been systematized. They now consist of a typewritten index in triplicate under owner, artist, and subject, a file of documents and illustrations referred to from the cards, and a library of books relating directly or indirectly to the public art of the City and neighborhood. This material, still scanty, will grow as new public monuments are erected or new information obtained about those existing.

The Bunker Hill Monument Association, through Francis H. Brown, M. D., Secretary, has presented to the Registry the following volumes containing accounts of the Beacon of 1635, the Monument of 1790 and its reproduction in the present Monument on the State House grounds :

“Sentry or Beacon Hill,” by William W. Wheildon, illustrated with maps and heliotype prints, privately printed for the Association, 1877. Octavo, 116 pages.

“Proceedings of the Association for 1899,” illustrated and containing an account of the present Monument and its transfer to the State. Octavo, 46 pages.

The Registry acknowledges with gratitude this addition to its library.

BENJAMIN IVES GILMAN,
Secretary of the Museum.

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF EDUCATIONAL WORK

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor of presenting the following report concerning the educational activities of the past year.

These may be grouped under six heads. 1. Conferences. 2. Docent Service, on week days, and on Sundays. 3. Lectures to which the public is invited. 4. Lectures for special groups. 5. Regular classes held in the Museum. 6. Lectures given outside the Museum by members of the Staff. Detailed lists are given at the end of this report.

1. Conferences. These are given by members of the Staff or by invited speakers. Fourteen were given during the year, all by members of the Staff. The average attendance was 35.

2. Docent Service. It is believed that gallery instruction was first formally undertaken by any Museum when, in 1907, Mr. Benjamin Ives Gilman, as Temporary Director, inaugurated it in this Museum. That it filled a very real need is proved by the ever-increasing numbers of those who apply for such service. Mr. Gilman's criterion that "Docent Service is not guidance, but companionship" has been faithfully upheld.

On week days during the year there were 172 meetings : 25 Docents (and 9 special Docents for the Philippine Exhibition) met 3,368 persons. In 1912, 2,334 persons were met.

On each Sunday from October to June two announced speakers meet visitors in the galleries or in the lecture hall. As a rule these speakers are not members of the Staff, but are persons who give their services, and the obligation under which they have placed the Museum is gratefully acknowledged. Sixty-eight such talks were given, 30 Docents addressing audiences ranging from 15 to 200 persons.

3. Lectures. Ten special lectures were given under the auspices of the Museum. Eight lecturers spoke, and to these also the thanks of the Museum are due.

4. Lectures for Special Groups. There have been two groups of such lectures: the first arranged with the coöperation of the Civic Service House—five lectures under the general title of “Makers of History”; the second arranged with the coöperation of Mr. William W. Locke for the Evening Schools of Boston, the subject of the five lectures being “The Treasures of the Museum.”

5. Classes held in the Museum. The class rooms and certain galleries of the Museum are used by many classes throughout the year, the policy of the Museum permitting free use of its collections by accredited teachers. The Museum School lectures and some of its classes are held in the Museum, while many other schools and teachers avail themselves of this privilege. There were 392 sessions of such classes, the average attendance being 21 persons.

Under this heading may properly be added the summer story-telling for children from the playgrounds and settlements. Sixty-two groups of children were brought to the Museum on 47 days and were told stories by Mrs. Cronan and Miss Hopkins. The average attendance was 79.

6. Lectures given outside the Museum by members of the Staff. These fall into two groups: those concerning the collections of the Museum and those on general topics. Of the first ten were given by three lecturers; of the second ten were given by five lecturers.

I cannot close my report without giving due credit to my assistant, Mrs. Robert L. Scales, for her effective coöperation in all branches of our educational work.

Respectfully submitted,

HUGER ELLIOTT,
Supervisor of Educational Work.

PRINT DEPARTMENT

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the twenty-seventh annual report of the Print Department.

The decease, last February, of Francis Bullard, Chairman of the Visiting Committee, has been an irreparable loss to this Department. While it has brought to the Museum a magnificent bequest, the support and advice of so true a friend and sponsor as Francis Bullard can ill be spared.

ACCESSIONS

Accessions by gift, bequest or transfer during the year number 2,912. Foremost among them in numbers and importance is the Bullard Bequest, of which special mention is made later in this report. In an effort to remedy the weakness of the collection in modern prints two New York friends have made generous donations. That of Paul J. Sachs, 216 prints, adds many valuable items to the collection of American wood-engravings. It likewise includes lithographs by Raffet, Prout, and Albert Sterner, together with prints of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. The other large donation, 374 prints, has come from David Keppel as a memorial to his father, Frederick Keppel. This memorial gift is particularly rich in the work of French and English artists of recent date, such as Whistler, 10 prints, Haden, 8, Millet, 18, Buhot, 26, Daubigny, Gaillard, Lalanne, Huet, Corot, and Charles Keene. It also comprises such important pieces as the "Lion de l'Atlas," by Delacroix, and the Bergerie Béarnaise, by Charles Jacque, and Meryon's large etching, "San Francisco." An important accession also from this source is two sets of Dürer's "Triumphal Arch of the Emperor Maximilian." This will permit of one set being mounted map-like, and the other set being kept in sheets for reference and study.

Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow has changed to a gift his loan of the complete set of 300 mezzotints by Earlom, after Claude Lorrain, known as the "Liber Veritatis," also that of ten volumes of photo-mechanical reproductions after early prints. Mr. Horatio G. Curtis has presented to the Department 29 prints, among them Helleu's dry-point portrait of Whistler, a proof of the Janinet color-print of Franklin, and prints by Marcantonio, Nanteuil, Morin, Berghem, Gaillard, Daumier, and others. The gift of a fine impression of Lafayette, a color-print by Debucourt, from Mr. Alexander Cochrane, adds an important item to the collection.

With a portion of the income of the Stephen Bullard Fund there has been purchased a portrait of Justus Sustermans, an original etching by Van Dyck, in the first state of the plate.

The following prints have been acquired with the balance remaining from the Duplicate Print Fund. All of them are credited to the Harvey D. Parker Collection.

OLD MASTERS

Altdorfer, Albrecht	Madonna in Landscape (B. 17).
Duvet, Jean	Martyrdom of St. John.
Duvet, Jean	Allegorical Subject with Many Animals.
Gourmont, Jean	Marriage of St. Catherine.
Hackaert, Jan	Six Landscapes.
Isselburg, Peter	Target Practice.
Lautensack, H. S.	Landscape.
Lutma, Jan	Ornamental Design (Mallet Work).
Marcantonio Raimondi	Death of Dido.
Marcantonio Raimondi	Pyramus and Thisbe.
Neyts, Gillis	The Cavalier.
Roghman, Roeland	Twenty-one Landscapes.
van de Velde, E.	Four Landscapes (Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 8).
van de Velde, J.	Four Landscapes.
Weiditz, Hans	Before the Deluge.

MODERN PRINTS

Anonymous, Italy (1854)	Head of a Sleeping Youth.
Gaillard, Ferdinand	Mgr. Pie (three trial proofs showing progressive stages of the plate).
Haden, Seymour	Harlech Castle.
Haden, Seymour	Kilgaren! Castle.
Haden, Seymour	House of the Smith.
Haden, Seymour	Kenarth, S. Wales.
Hanfstaengl, F.	Portrait of Alois Senefelder.
Menzel, Adolf	Lady's Reading by an Open Fire.
Menzel, ¹ Adolf	On the Stairs.
Meryon, Charles	La Morgue.
Raffet, Auguste	Le Réveil.
Zorn, Anders	A Letter.

From the beginning the most serious handicap to the growth of the collection has been the lack of any fund, regular income or yearly appropriation, for the purchase of prints. The sum realized from the sale of duplicates in 1909 and 1910 having been expended, no fund was available except the Stephen Bullard Bequest (a portion of the income of which can be used from time to time for the purchase of a fine print to serve as a memorial). Mr. W. M. Bullivant, a member of the Visiting Committee, realizing this urgent need, has generously given $500 in the hope that a similar or larger sum will be added to it for the purchase of prints by modern masters. It is greatly to be desired that his example should be followed by other friends of the Print Department. For lack of such a fund in past years it has not been possible to purchase, at a time when they could be had at moderate cost, any examples by such etchers as Whistler (none of his etchings, dry-points or lithographs from 1880 until the present time), D. Y. Cameron or Muirhead Bone (both of whom are absolutely unrepresented in the collection), or Zorn, of whose work one print only has been purchased. Prints by these masters now bring ten or twenty times, frequently fifty times, their original prices.

With part of this modern print fund ten etchings and lithographs have been purchased. A list of these will be found on page 129 of the Annual Report.

Mr. Alexander Cochrane, a trustee of the Museum, gave $250 for the purchase of works of reference, books containing prints, and fac-similes. This has been expended for the purchase of forty-one books, together with a complete set of the publications of the Dürer Society (ten portfolios of reproductions and one volume of text).

Through the generosity of Mr. Grenville Lindall Winthrop the Department has been furnished with priced catalogues of important auction sales of prints in Europe and in America, and will receive throughout the coming year similar priced catalogues. Their value to the Department can hardly be over-estimated.

Eight prints were selected from the new publications of the Medici Society. To the collection of reproductions of drawings there have been added Part I of the publications of the Prestel Society, and Parts I, II, and III of the publications of the Société de Reproduction des Dessins de Maîtres.

STAFF

Mr. Carrington assumed the duties of Curator on March 1, and on March 10 Miss Chamberlin was added to the Staff, devoting the greater portion of her time to work connected with The Print-Collector's Quarterly.

On April 19 Mr. Richter left for Europe, returning on August 5.

On June 16 work upon the Engraver's Catalogue of prints in the Museum Collection was commenced, and Mrs. Kennedy was added to the Staff.

On July 1 Miss Barkhouse commenced work on this Catalogue, being transferred later to the Fogg Art Museum.

On September 5 Mr. Stiles left the Department, and on October 7 Mr. Paff was engaged to fill his place.

On December 22 Miss Barkhouse was transferred from the Fogg Art Museum to the Museum of Fine Arts to take up temporarily the work on the Quarterly, Miss Chamberlin having been granted leave of absence, without salary, for the months of January and February.

THE COLLECTION

Engravers' Catalogue of Prints in the Museum Collection

On July 1 work was commenced on the working Catalogue of Engravings in the Museum collection, in connection with a similar Catalogue of Prints in the Fogg Art Museum. This Catalogue will be of great service to the student. Each card gives the name of the engraver, the title of the print, its designer, its number in one or more standard books of reference, its registry number, process, and size. A duplicate set of cards is furnished to the Fogg Art Museum, the Fogg Art Museum in its turn furnishing the Museum of Fine Arts with duplicate cards of all prints in that collection, so that the student, by referring to the card catalogue in either museum, can at once determine what masters are represented and by what prints in both institutions.

Forty-one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine cards, including duplicates, have been written up to January 1, 1914; 9,030 prints in the Museum of Fine Arts have been catalogued, and 13,783 in the Fogg Art Museum; 1,117 Guide Cards have been made.

At the Museum of Fine Arts all of the 14 x 18 prints by the following engravers have been catalogued: Rembrandt, Ostade, Lucas van Leyden, Van Dyck, Marcantonio, Whistler, Haden, Faithorne, all the Dutch landscape etchers of the seventeenth century (14 x 18) and all the French and German engravers of the fifteenth to nineteenth centuries (14 x 18) except the "Reserve," together with all the English engravers of the sixteenth to nineteenth centuries (14 x 18), except Turner and the "Reserve."

Location Catalogue

The Location Catalogue is up-to-date, so that whenever a print is asked for there is no difficulty in quickly ascertaining its whereabouts.

No further work has been done on the Inventory, since the rematting of a number of important prints in the Collection has necessitated their rearrangement.

ATTENDANCE

The number of visitors during the year has been 3,189, as against 1,230 for 1912, and 1,355 for 1911.

EQUIPMENT

The large case which had been built for Mr. Bullard, to hold his collection of engravings after Turner, which he kindly lent to the Museum, has been reconstructed and enlarged so as to contain the entire Bullard Bequest of engravings by and after Turner, including the "Liber Studiorum." A table has also been built so as to afford the student every facility for the study of prints in the Bullard Collection. Prints of unusually large size will be kept on sliding shelves at either end of the table, so that they may be conveniently and safely handled.

A steel cabinet, with steel curtains, holding 360 print boxes (14x18), has been made and will greatly facilitate the rearrangement of the Collection.

EXHIBITIONS

October 2, 1912—January 26, 1913. Early German and Italian Woodcuts.

February 1—April 21. American Woodcuts, to which later were added etchings by Canaletto and Lalanne, illustrating articles upon these artists published in the February number of The Print-Collector's Quarterly.

On March 26th, simultaneously with the opening of the Scandinavian Exhibition, a loan collection of Zorn's etchings was shown in the first and part of the second Print Rooms, with highly gratifying attendance.

April 24—May 15. A selection of prints from the Bullard Bequest: Turner, "Liber Studiorum"; Lucas, Mezzotints after Constable; Dürer and Holbein, woodcuts, and Mantegna's engraving, The Battle of the Sea-Gods.

May 1—May 3. Etchings by Piranesi (1720—1778) of Ancient Roman Edifices.

May 20—June 25. An Exhibition of Prints Interesting to Children. (Selected by a committee of ten children, Miss Katherine Lane being Chairman.)

July 7—September 8. A Loan Collection of Engravings by Early German Masters (227 pieces lent by Mr. Felix M. Warburg) and of the work of the "Little Masters" (228 pieces lent by Mr. Paul J. Sachs). In connection with this exhibition there were hung in the corridor 30 reproductions of drawings by early German Masters.

September 17—November 29. Engravings by early Italian Masters (Circa 1465—1550). Of the engravings exhibited, 130 were from the Museum collection, 22 from the Fogg Art Museum, and 13 lent by the Estate of the late Francis Bullard. In connection with this exhibition there were hung in the corridor 35 reproductions of drawings by early Italian Masters.

December 4—January 15. Recent Accessions. Part I of a series of three Exhibitions.

December 22–January 5. Christmas Exhibition. About 60 engravings and woodcuts by and after the great German and Italian Masters. Two paintings and 5 della Robbia terra cottas were also shown.

LOAN EXHIBITION

A collection of nearly 200 prints interesting to children was lent to the Rhode Island School of Design in October and November, and a number of requests have been received for loan collections for the coming year. The usual call for illustrative material for lectures and classes in various parts of the building has been met.

TALKS AND CONFERENCES

Eleven talks and conferences have been given in the Print Room: one by Mr. Richter, five by Mr. Stiles, and five by the Curator.

A course of lectures on the History and Principles of Engraving was given by the Curator during the first half year at Harvard, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings. Engravings, etchings, and fac-similes, in the Department of Prints at the Museum, were used to illustrate these lectures, and the students visited the Museum twice each week.

THE PRINT-COLLECTOR'S QUARTERLY

The Print-Collector's Quarterly, which had been published for two years by Messrs. Frederick Keppel & Co. of New York, was presented by that firm to the Museum and accepted by the Trustees. Mr. Carrington still remains its Editor. The February, April, October and December issues have appeared, and the complete volume for the year 1913 contains 456+xii pages and 214 illustrations. The circulation of the Quarterly, now over three thousand, is steadily growing both in Europe and in America.

THE FRANCIS BULLARD BEQUEST

The bequest of Francis Bullard numbers 1815 prints. The "Battle of the Sea-Gods" by Mantegna (B 18) — one of the finest impressions known of this engraving — is given in memory of his brother, Stephen Bullard.

The bequest comprises :

Eleven proofs of Holbein's "Dance of Death."

Thirty-four woodcuts by Albrecht Dürer, the majority of them proof impressions of the finest quality.

Sixty mezzotints by David Lucas after Constable, chiefly proofs of the series of "English Landscapes."

Five hundred and thirty-five prints of the "Liber Studiorum" by J. M. W. Turner.

The set of the "Liber Studiorum" is the finest and most comprehensive ever brought together, consisting, as it does, of 107 preliminary etchings, among them states hitherto unknown, 224 proofs, of which 41 are touched and annotated by Turner. Among these are a number of unique impressions. Moreover, there are 98 first states and almost as many later states; in all 535 prints. The wealth of this collection will appear from the fact that the "Liber Studiorum" was to have comprised 100 plates, but was abandoned when 71 had been published, the balance being left in all stages of incompleteness; some were never carried further than the drawing.

A small, unpublished series of pure mezzotints by Turner himself, known as the "Little Liber," or "Sequel to the Liber," beautiful and exceedingly rare, are represented by 25 proofs, successive in many instances, and photographs of two unique prints not in the collection.

The remainder of the bequest, comprising 1,150 prints, covers Turner's illustrative activities from the Copperplate Magazine of 1794 to the plates by Lupton, Sir Frank Short, and others done long after his death.

A catalogue of the "Liber" collection is in course of preparation.

FITZROY CARRINGTON,
Curator.

REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the twenty-eighth annual report of the Department of Classical Art.

The acquisitions of the year are 454 in number, of which 138 were obtained by purchase, 316 as gifts. They are described in detail in the list appended to this report. Foremost in importance is a collection of 60 objects purchased from the income of the Francis Bartlett Fund. It consists of 21 vases, 17 terra-cottas, 15 engraved gems, 1 marble head, 2 bronzes, and 6 miscellaneous objects. The gems are all of good workmanship and remarkable for the interest and variety of the subjects represented. The terra-cottas are mostly heads from large statuettes of the fifth century,—unusually fine examples of a class hitherto not well represented in our collection. The vases are all of such high merit that it is difficult to single out any for special mention; the most important is the large skyphos, with representations of the seduction and return of Helen, signed by Hieron and Makron; the two white lekythoi not only outrank all those previously in the Museum, but are among the very finest known. This collection has been exhibited temporarily in the gallery of the Classical Court. Most of the vases have now been placed in the Fifth Century Room, and the remaining objects are being permanently installed as far as circumstances permit.

Two further purchases have been made from the Bartlett Fund during the year. The first is a colossal head in red porphyry, presumably from a statue typifying one of the barbarian races conquered by Rome, interesting as an example of the colossal decorative sculpture of the later imperial age and because of the rarity of works in this material. The second is a series of objects found in an Etruscan tomb of the third century B. C., consisting of a limestone sarcophagus, gold jewelry and a number of silver vases, mirrors, strigils, etc.

Dr. W. S. Bigelow has given 29 vases which have been in the collection since 1877 as a loan. Ninety-two miscellaneous objects have been received as a gift from Mr. E. P. Warren. Mr. H. H. Fay has given 67 Roman coins, and 156 Roman coins have been deposited by the Athenæum.

During the summer Mrs. E. D. Brandegee lent four marble heads which were shown in the Classical Corridor and described in the Bulletin (No. 65). The Department has also gladly availed itself of the opportunity of exhibiting three marbles from the Fogg Museum,—the statues of Meleager and Narcissus and a female head,—during repairs to the latter building. Seventeen fragments of terra-cotta reliefs and 13 pieces of Etruscan gold jewelry have been received as a loan from Mr. Richard Norton.

The Curator was absent from the Museum from February to October for purposes of study in the museums of Europe. During a part of this period Mr. C. A. R. Sanborn, formerly Secretary of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, acted as Assistant in the Department, giving his time especially to the photographing and registering of the collection of Greek coins and to the guidance of visitors and classes. During the year the collection of bronzes has been thoroughly examined, and a number of pieces which showed traces of disease have been cleaned.

Professor George H. Chase of Harvard University has begun the preparation of a catalogue of the Museum's important collection of Arretine vases and moulds. Since Professor Chase is already the author of a standard work on this subject — “The Catalogue of the Loeb Collection” — it is a matter of congratulation that he has been willing to undertake the publication of the collection in the Museum. The work on the catalogue of sculpture, which has been intrusted to the Curator, has progressed, and it is his hope that the manuscript will be completed before the end of the coming year.

L. D. CASKEY,
Curator.

SCULPTURE

13.230. SMALL MARBLE BUST OF A ROMAN, portraying a man of middle age. The face is long and narrow, with prominent cheekbones and aquiline nose. The hair is treated as a mass, with rows of wavy locks incised upon it. The head is finely poised, looking somewhat to its right. The end of the nose is broken off. Careful work of the beginning of the imperial period. Height, 0.155 m.

Francis Bartlett Fund.

13.2722. FRONT OF A COLOSSAL HEAD, in red porphyry, split off vertically just back of the ears. The type is that of a barbarian with large irregular locks over the forehead, mustache, whiskers on the cheeks, and a tuft of hair on the chin. The lips are parted. The top of the head is covered by a peaked cap. The surface is highly polished and in perfect preservation, except for minor injuries to some of the locks over the forehead. Height, 0.53 m.

Francis Bartlett Fund.

BRONZE

13.207. ETRUSCAN MIRROR, with engraved design. Within a border of leaves, Apollo, or Orpheus, seated to right on a rock, playing the lyre. In the field, a deer, a panther, and two ravens listening to the music. On the ground, a cista containing two alabastra. In the field, behind the figure, a laurel wreath. Palmettes at the beginning of the handle, on both faces. Diameter, 0.146 m. Froehner, Collection Tyskiewicz, Pl. IV.

Francis Bartlett Fund.

13.208. CORINTHIAN CAPITAL. Two rows of acanthus leaves, from which spring four tendrils ending in spirals supporting an abacus with strongly concave sides. Between each pair of tendrils a larger acanthus leaf, above which is a flower. The ends of the spirals broken off. Height, 0.105 m.; diameter at bottom, 0.034 m.; width at top, 0.106 m.

Francis Bartlett Fund.

13.173. IONIC CAPITAL of simple design, without egg and dart moulding at the bottom. On each face between the volutes, a rosette. Width, 0.096 m.

13.182. SNAKE, extended, with head raised ready to strike. From Athens. Length, 0.14 m.

13.141. BEZEL RING. Stamped in relief on the bezel, a woman seated on a stool to right in an attitude of grief, her head resting on her left hand. In the field, a snake. Fifth century B. C.

13.139. SMALL FIGURE OF A HORSEMAN, of rude workmanship. Geometric period; from Italy. Length, 0.04 m.

13.129. PECTORAL, with five pendants in the form of human figures. From Italy. Similar to Notizie degli Scavi, 1878, Pl. VI, I.

13.126. FIBULA. Four large spirals forming a square; over this a large four-pointed star, on the centre of which is a bird. Width, 0.12 m.

13.127. FIBULA of similar design. Width, 0.035 m.

13.128. FIBULA formed of a straight and a curved piece of bronze, joined by a pivot, beyond which the ends project in the form of pincers. Length, 0.135 m.

13.112. SEILENOS with horse's hoofs, ithyphallic, dancing to left, blowing a horn held in raised right hand. One hoof missing. Etruscan. Height, 0.13 m.

13.111. SMALL HANDLE in the form of a hermaphrodite holding fruits in a fold of his garment. Cf. Reinach, Rep. II, 177. Height, 0.068 m.

13.121. DOG COLLAR with hook-and-eye fastening and a ring for attaching a chain. Diameter, 0.115 m.

13.160-168. NINE SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS.

VASES

13.64-92. Twenty-nine vases given by Dr. W. S. Bigelow. These are described by Robinson, Catalogue of Greek, Etruscan, and Roman Vases, under the following numbers: 39, 53, 54, 73, 79, 256, 279, 296, 309, 314, 325, 327, 350, 353, 355, 356, 357, 358, 390, 391, 393, 394, 397, 401, 425, 487, 488, 522, 530.

13.186-206. Twenty-one vases and fragments purchased from the Francis Bartlett Fund:

13.205. IONIC B. F. DEINOS. The main design is a frieze composed of twelve figures as follows: a man and a woman, standing on either side of a large basin set on a stand, are pounding its contents with pestles. From the right (behind the man) advances a procession of nine men, the first holding an oinochoe and a wicker basket, the second a large bowl and an oinochoe, the third playing the double flute, the remaining six performing a grotesque dance. Behind the woman, a man, to right, playing the double flute. Between him and the last dancer, a deinos set on a tripod of metal bars. The outlines and details incised; red used for the hair and some details. Ivy wreath on rim, herring-bone pattern on shoulder, chain of lotus flowers and buds below the figures; below this, rays. Height, 0.22 m. Cf. Karo, J. H. S. XIX, 1899, p. 144, No. 6.

13.193. ATTIC R. F. PLATE. Within a thin red circle, a Seilenos, ithyphallic, crouching to right, holding rhyton in right hand, flute case in left. Ἡστυαίος καλός. Style of Epiktetos. Diameter, 0.187 m.

13.190. ATTIC R. F. KYLIX, fragmentary. Interior: within a thin red circle, a bearded warrior in cuirass and Corinthian helmet, leading a woman wearing Ionic chiton, himation, and veil, to left. He grasps her left wrist, turns his head towards her, and brandishes a sword in right hand. Ἐλλπ[υκ]ος καλός. Exterior plain. Severe style. Diameter of circle, 0.125 m.

13.203. ATTIC R. F. KYLIX, without stem. Exterior: on each side, a horseman brandishing a lance. Free style. Beneath and beside each handle, a palmette branching out into tendrils, ending in buds. Interior: plain, except for a stamped rosette. Diameter, 0.206 m.

13.186. ATTIC R. F. SKYPHOS. (A) Helen seduced by Paris. (B) Helen's return to Menelaos. Scratched on one handle, the signature of Hieron as potter: Ἱέρων ἐποίησεν. Painted under the opposite handle, the signature of Makron as painter: Μάκρον: ἔγραψε. Height, 0.215 m.; diameter, 0.278 m.

Furtwängler-Reichhold, Griechische Vasenmalerei, II, Pl. 85.

13.200. ATTIC R. F. HYDRIA. On shoulder, three youths baiting a bull. In panel on front, a carpenter drilling a hole in the lid of a large chest. To right, Danæ holding Perseus. To left, a bald, bearded man (Akrisios), leaning on a staff. Behind the chest, a woman (Eurydike). Severe style. Height, 0.417 m.; including handle, 0.458 m.

13.188. NOLAN AMPHORA. (A) Hephæstos polishing the shield of Achilles in the presence of Thetis. In the field, a pair of greaves, Corinthian helmet, tongs, hammer, and saw. (B) Nike walking to right with her head turned back, carrying oinochoe and patera. Palmettes under the handles. Severe style. Height, 0.342 m. V. Duhn, Röm. Mitt. II, 1887, p. 242, Fig. 15. Beazley, J. H. S. XXXIII, 1913, p. 109, No. 12, Pl. XI.

13.195. ATTIC R. F. LEKYTHOS. Sacrificial procession moving to right. Two cows, with purple and white fillets hanging from their horns, led by two youths. Before them, a woman carrying a ceremonial basket on her head. Before her, an Ionic column, adorned with a fillet. Palmette design under handle. Palmettes around the shoulder, black on red. On lip, Γάλας ἐπολεσεν. Severe style. Height, 0.31 m.

13.194. ATTIC R. F. LEKYTHOS. A youth, nude save for himation hanging over left shoulder, squatting to right with weight on right foot, left advanced, playing the lyre. In field, Καλός. Severe style. Height, 0.277 m.

13.189. ATTIC R. F. LEKYTHOS. A woman, in Ionic chiton and himation, seated in a chair to right, drawing a long strip of wool out of a basket on the ground before her. Hanging in field, a sakkos and a mirror. Mæanders below the shoulder and below the figure. On the shoulder, a palmette pattern, R. F. In field, Ηε παλς. Severe style. Height, 0.332 m.

13.198. ATTIC R. F. LEKYTHOS. A young hunter standing in front view, right leg in profile to left, face in profile to right, wearing chiton, chlamys, broad-brimmed petasos, boots, and sword in scabbard, holding spear in right hand, club and spear in left. Before him, a dog to right. A mæander under the figure. Severe style. Height, 0.392 m. Beazley, J. H. S. XXXII, 1912, p. 362, No. 34, attributes the drawing to the master of the Actæon Krater, 10.185 (Ann. Rep., 1910, p. 61).

13.202. ATTIC R. F. LEKYTHOS. The death of Orpheus. A Thracian woman in short, sleeveless chiton and endromides, tattooed on the arms, advances to right, holding sword in her right hand. With her left she grasps the right forearm of Orpheus, who is sinking to the ground, holding lyre in raised right hand. He is nude save for himation falling over left shoulder and right thigh. Blood streams from a wound in his right side. Mæander below the shoulder and below the figures. On the shoulder, a palmette pattern, R. F. Between the figures, 'Αλκίμαχος καλὸς Ἐπιχάρος. Late severe style. Height, 0.408 m.

13.187. ATTIC WHITE LEKYTHOS. A woman seated to right in a chair (painted brown), holding an object, now invisible, in both hands. She wears a sleeved chiton and a pink himation. Before her stands a girl holding out both hands. She wears a diaphanous sleeveless chiton, with overfold and kolpos. Hanging in field to left, a mirror and an oinochoe; to right, a sakkos. Between the figures, 'Αξιοπεί[θη]ς καλὸς Ἀλκιμάχ[ο]. On the shoulder, an egg pattern and palmettes; below it, a mæander; a plain line under the figures. Height, 0.347 m. Fairbanks, Athenian White Lekythoi C. V., No. 32, p. 215.

13.201. ATTIC WHITE LEKYTHOS. To right, a woman standing in front view, her head in profile to left, wearing yellow, sleeved chiton and red himation. At left, a girl standing in profile to right, holding a box. She wears a diaphanous sleeveless chiton, with overfold and kolpos. In field to left, a sakkos and an oinochoe. Between the figures, 'Αξιοπείθης καλὸς Ἀλκιμάχο. Details as in the preceding vase; the drawings by the same hand. Height, 0.384 m. Unbroken.

FOUR ATTIC R. F. OINOCHOES, with circular mouth and high handles, each decorated with two figures in the late severe style. Below the figures, a mæander encircling the vase; above them, a tongue pattern.

13.192. To right, a youth, nude, with himation hanging from outstretched left arm, moving to right, his body in front view, his head turned to left, holding out a skyphos to a bearded man, nude, with himation and staff over left shoulder, bending forward and holding out right hand. X καλό[s]. Height, without handle, 0.20 m.; with handle, 0.245 m.

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the fourteenth annual report on the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art.

The full extent of the loss which this Department has suffered through the death of its distinguished Curator, Mr. Okakura, cannot as yet be wholly realized. In view, however, of what has already been done, I hope and believe that many of the Department's Far-Eastern activities, thus tragically checked, may soon be resumed.

The work of the Department, made known to you in detail by means of my quarterly reports, may be summarized as follows :

CARE AND EXHIBITION OF OBJECTS

The steady occupation of the Staff, has been, of course, the continued cataloguing of the Bigelow and Weld Collections, and has, during the year, provided the Department with detailed records of over six thousand objects. I am glad to report that the registration of the Weld bequest, excepting a dozen suits of armor, is finished, and that progress with the Bigelow gift has been so rapid as to encourage me in the belief that another year's work will bring the registration of the whole collection, excepting prints, to the verge of completion. The task of mounting, arranging, and cataloguing the many thousands of prints has, however, been at last systematically undertaken, with satisfactory results so far. In addition to this work on the objects we already possessed, an unusually large number of current acquisitions and loans has been received and catalogued ;

21 Docent services and conferences have been given ; about three hundred special visitors, exclusive of students in the galleries, have been received, and 15 collections outside the Museum have been examined.

The manuscript of the Lacquer Catalogue has been entirely rewritten and greatly enlarged. As now completed it comprises a thorough historical and technical introduction, a descriptive list of about six hundred selected pieces, and a biographical section which contains all the available information concerning over four hundred and fifty lacquer artists. I had hoped that the printing of this book might be begun last September, but as the casting of the Chinese types for the biographical section was being done in Japan under Mr. Okakura's supervision, and was, consequently, delayed by his lamented death, I am now unable to fix even an approximate date for the appearance of the volume.

The Committee on the Museum having thought it wise, for reasons of economy, to reduce the frequency of changes in our regular exhibitions, I am able to report only 176 paintings newly shown during 1913, as against 230 shown during 1912, although in other respects the activity of our exhibitions has been normal. During the two weeks from February 24 to March 9 an important Special Exhibition of 24 Japanese screens, selected from the Museum's collection, was held in the Renaissance Court, with a total attendance of 3,010 ; and from May 21 to November 9 a Special Exhibition of miscellaneous objects, chosen for the amusement of children, was held in the Forecourt Gallery, with a total attendance of 31,875. A comparison of these figures with those compiled for Special Exhibitions held by other Departments, shows the attendance at our Special Exhibitions to be well above the average. In so far, therefore, as this result indicates a lively popular interest in Chinese and Japanese Art, it is, I think, highly gratifying.

PURCHASES, GIFTS, AND LOANS

The Museum is to be congratulated on the acquisition of the collection of Chinese pottery purchased in May. In the extent to which it covers the history of pottery-making in China, and in the excellence of its specimens from the various known kilns, it is remarkable. It illustrates the kinds of figurines and vessels which the Chinese buried with their dead, as well as the kinds which they used in their households; it exemplifies many of the types of pottery which they, as collectors, held most dear; and it does all this by means of specimens which, thanks to the taste and discrimination which gathered them, are of fine quality. In extent and comprehensiveness it has no rival in any public museum. The following summary will serve to indicate the scope of this collection. Siamese, 1; Korean, 20; Japanese, 10; Chinese: Han, 8; T'ang, 7; Sung, 48; Yuan, 40; Ming, 72; Ching, 72; and Unclassified, 10; making a total of 288 pieces.

The well-known Chikami Collection of sword guards which Mr. Okakura bought for the Museum within the year, constitutes an important accession to the sword furniture in the care of the Department. It adds valuable and early specimens to the important groups already represented in our collection, fills several gaps in our list of schools, or groups of tsuba, and supplies examples of the work of some famous tsuba makers. With the exception of the early Kaneiye and Myōchin, the guards of primary importance are for the most part without signatures; in other words, they were evidently collected by Mr. Chikami for their very superior quality as sword guards. Some idea of the character and extent of this collection may be gathered from the following list. Akao school, 11; Akasaka, 15; Awa, 25; Canton, 46; Chōshu, 77; Gokinai, 24; Gotō, 24; Higo, 26; Hirata, 1; Hōan, 7; Ishiguro, 1; Itō, 79; Jakushi, 6; Kaga, 7;

Kamakura tsuba, 5; Kameyama school, 3; Kaneiye, 10; Kikuoka, 2; Kinai, 46; Kyōto tsuba, 29; Mito school, 7; Mukade tsuba, 7; Myōchin school, 92; Nara, 68; Odawara, 5; Ōtsuke, 4; Satsuma, 12; Seijō, 18; Shōami, 94; Sōten, 15; Sunagawa, 7; Tempo, 2; Tetsugendō, 29; Tōryusai, 12; Umetada, 68; Yamagawa, 4; Yokoya, 11; Yoshirō, 23; unclassified, 97; making a total of 1,019.

Complete lists of gifts and loans to this Department will be found under the headings of Donations and Loans to the Museum, but I take this opportunity of specifying the paintings and lacquers given by Dr. Bigelow, the impressive Chinese fifth century stone statue of Kwan-yin given by Dr. Ross in memory of Mr. Okakura, and the Japanese swords given by Mrs. Charles Goddard Weld, as important additions to our collections. Among many loans received, the Chinese engraved stone slab of the Han Dynasty, lent by Dr. Ross, and the splendid Chinese sculptured memorial stela of the Wei Dynasty (sixth century) lent by Mr. Hervey E. Wetzel, are of supreme interest.

I venture to express here the Department's deep sense of gratitude for its share in the generosity of friends of the Museum.

JOHN ELLERTON LODGE,

Assistant Curator.

DEPARTMENT OF EGYPTIAN ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the following report on the Department of Egyptian Art:

Our expedition in the field has just completed one of the most successful years in its history. As in previous years, the chief energies of the expedition have been expended upon our main site, the Royal Cemetery at Giza. Here the boundary of our original concession has been carried as far towards the east as it seemed desirable to go at present. This area was filled with important mastabas, many of them having the offering chambers well preserved, with richly decorated walls in relief and color. These belonged mainly to the V. and VI. Dynasties. The most important was a VI. Dynasty group of mastabas belonging to the royal architect and master-builder, Senezem-ib, and his family. Two of the burial chambers of this complex were quite intact, never having been discovered by native plunderers. (Cf. Museum of Fine Arts Bulletin, November, 1913.) Towards the close of the season work was concentrated on the western end of our concession just north of the Second Pyramid, representing the original Chephren Cemetery. Here a number of mastabas were cleared. These structures, with their subsequent reconstructions and extensions, taken in connection with the mastabas already uncovered towards the north and northwest, have supplied the data from which Dr. Reisner has been able to establish the exact chronological sequence in the development of the mastaba during the IV., V., and VI. Dynasties.

Several gangs of men were placed on the site of the old quarry lying southeast of the Mykerinos pyramid temple, and beneath a vast accumulation of drift sand several interesting rock tombs were discovered. In one of them was found a small seated portrait statue which will form one of the masterpieces of our collection.

Early in the year Dr. Reisner secured from the Soudan Government concessions for the sites of Kerma and Sesi, in the neighborhood of the Third Cataract. On February 3 he left Giza for a brief preliminary survey of the former site. In the few weeks at his disposal not only was the immense historical importance of the new site proved, but a wealth of rare Museum material was obtained. The period covered was mainly the Middle Empire, including the hitherto uncertain Hyksos occupation.

On January 1 Mr. West was sent from Giza to conduct excavations at Naga-el-Hai and later went to Girga to finish up what remained of the cemeteries on our old concessions of Mesa'eed and Sheikh Farrag. This work was completed by April 14.

The fall season opened with the continuation of work on the new concession in the Giza Cemetery. On November 28 the excavations at Kerma were reopened by Mr. West, who a month later was relieved by Dr. Reisner. The thorough excavation of this site will be the principal work of the year. Some preliminary work will also be done at Sesi. The uncovering of the Giza Cemetery will continue throughout the season under the supervision of Mr. Howe.

As a result of this year's excavations our Museum collection has been enriched in many directions. Through the kindness of a friend one of the most beautiful and perfect of the Giza tombs has been removed entire to Boston and will be erected in our galleries as soon as the completion of the new wing gives us the requisite space. DEPARTMENT OF PAINTINGS

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir, — I have the honor to present the following report on the collection of paintings :

The acquisitions of 1913, although less numerous than the previous year, brought to the Museum a few works of great importance. The Bulletin of the Museum (Vol. XI., No. 67, December, 1913) noted the purchase of a Madonna attributed to Bramantino, mentioning its rarity and interest, and it has been a pleasure to see that this picture has been appreciated as it deserves by the cultivated public of Boston. "The Falls of the Rhine at Schaffhausen," by Turner, was the subject of detailed comment in the same number of the Bulletin.* This large and magnificent picture must be regarded as one of the most powerful works of Turner's early years, when he first began to give the measure of his powers. The acquisition was all the more desirable because the Museum already possessed a widely known work of the master's maturity, and, thanks to the generosity of the late Francis Bullard, an unrivalled collection of his engravings. Turner therefore occupies in the Boston Museum the important position which befits the most poetic genius who ever devoted himself to landscape. The Museum purchased in Paris at the H. Rouart sale a painting by P. P. Prudhon, entitled "L'Abondance," in which two half-length figures of young women are depicted. Prudhon represented the transition in the French School between the art of the eighteenth century, whose smiling grace he has preserved, and the classical reaction of the beginning of the nineteenth century to which David gave a stiff and severe aspect. The unfinished state of the picture gives the students of the School an opportunity to study the technique of the master, and has allowed the coloring to retain its first freshness, a circumstance perhaps unique in the work of Prudhon. The American collection received in 1913 a portrait of "Eva Haviland," by W. Dannat. It was most desirable that this artist, who is represented in the Musée du Luxembourg and in the Metropolitan Museum, should also be represented in the Boston Museum. He is much appreciated in Paris, where he held, in the spring of 1913, at the Galerie Georges Petit, an exhibition of his recent work. The picture, dated 1886, is delicately and subtly executed, and may be considered one of the artist's best works. Reference is made elsewhere to the purchase for the Museum of an important window by the painter John La Farge, which was formerly in the studio of the English painter, Alma Tadema. The generosity of Boston collectors has continued during the year 1913; it has been shown not only by contributions to a fund for purchases, but also by numerous bequests of pictures and drawings. Two of the Trustees, who while they lived gave liberally of their time and money for the development of the Museum, did not forget it in the disposal of their property by will. Mr. Francis Bartlett gave the Museum the first choice after his immediate heirs of a picture among the important works which he had collected, and a landscape by Corot, signed and dated 1870, was selected. Its pleasing lines and soft light unite to make it an exceptional work, very characteristic of the master's full maturity. The name of Dr. Arthur T. Cabot will be recorded in future at the Museum on the following works: "Snow on the Cape," by Macknight; "Portrait," by L. C. Perry; "Landscape," by J. Appleton Brown; "Head," by Benson, and "Flight of Ducks," by the same artist. The bequest of Mrs. Edward Wheelwright comprised several very interesting pictures : three landscapes, by Ciceri ; two Still Lifes, by Claesz ; four landscapes, by W. A. Gay ; four pictures, by William Morris Hunt ; "Kitchen Interior," by Matthys Maris ; "Girl Tending Sheep," by J. F. Millet, etc. Numerous gifts have enriched the American and Modern European galleries. Miss Anna S. Bascom and Miss Annie B. Phillips gave the portraits of Edward and Anna Stow by Gilbert Stuart ; and General John P. Hawkins, in the name of his wife, Jane Bethune Craig Hawkins, the portrait of Mary Bethune Hunt by the same artist. Mr. Edwin Wyeth offered a drawing made by Winslow Homer at the age of thirteen, which is a curious proof of the precocity of this great American artist, and Mr. J. C. S. Taber a sketch-book containing twenty-four sketches by John La Farge. Mr. Alexander Cochrane presented "Les Blanchisseuses," by Frederic Porter Vinton, and landscapes by J. Appleton Brown, G. Foxcroft Cole, and George Morland ; a Marine, by Ernest Longfellow, and "San Pietro in Castello," by C. F. Cranch. Mrs. Robert D. Evans, whose generosity to the Museum and especially to the Department of Paintings has been so magnificently manifested, has given "Sunset on Granite Crags near Bishop Creek," by Zarh H. Pritchard. We must mention, besides, the gift of Mrs. Edward L. Davis, "On Shipboard," by Henry Bacon ; the bequest of Miss Emilie Decombes of three of her works ; that of Mrs. Virginia H. Salisbury of her portrait by Selinger and a miniature of Mary Ann Bedford. Mrs. David P. Kimball has given a water-color of Versailles, by Miss Florence Robinson ; and, finally, the heirs of Mr. George A. Kettell have given "Hillside," by J. J. Enneking ; the "Clouds," by C. H. Davis ; "Sheep," by J. A. S. Monks, and a Still Life, by an artist of the Flemish School. Besides the foreign pictures already mentioned, a portrait of a man of the School of Justus Sustermans has been given to the Museum by Mr. Samuel Barnard in the name of Mrs. Lydia A. Barnard, and two French drawings, portraits of the sixteenth century, by Messrs. Alexander Cochrane, Gardiner M. Lane, and Robert J. Edwards.

* The important and judicious bequest of Miss Alice Marian Curtis made this exceptional acquisition possible.

The loans in 1913 have been no less numerous than in the previous years, and among them the loans of foreign pictures have been particularly noteworthy. As the result of important alterations at the Fogg Museum, Mr. Edward W. Forbes deposited for several months all the pictures of that Museum, of which he is Director and which he has developed with so much activity and generosity. Most of these are works previous to and of the sixteenth century, and in relation to the pictures belonging to our Museum are of great interest. Mrs. Robert D. Evans lent again the double portrait by Rubens, and the portrait of the Meyer family by B. de Bruyn. Numerous other friends of the Museum lent pictures of importance, which are included in the list at the end of the report.

Special exhibitions have been held of the work of two American artists: Mr. Charles Walter Stetson's paintings were shown from the 11th to the 23d of March, and those of Miss Emily Burling Waite from the 1st to the 15th of January. Of the foreign schools there were two large exhibitions, one of paintings by Albert Besnard, from the 20th of January to the 16th of February, and one of Scandinavian art, from the 24th of March to the 21st of April. They excited a lively interest. The first furnished a review of the career of an artist who has now arrived at his apogee. Works were shown which were previous to or contemporary with his stay in Italy, where he held the Prix de Rome in 1874, as well as paintings dating from his visit to England in 1879. His important decorations in the École de Pharmacie, in the Hotel de Ville, in the Mairies of Paris, in the Sorbonne, in the Hospital at Berck, and in the Comédie Française were represented by sketches, studies, and cartoons. He could be studied in his various manners, as portrait painter, landscape painter, and orientalist (in the drawings and paintings executed in Algeria), as a painter of the nude, of imaginary or rural scenes; and finally a series of paintings, water-colors, and notebook sketches recalled his recent trip to India, and the abundant harvest which it produced. Besnard was, in addition, represented as an engraver by about fifty pieces. After the exhibition of the collection at this Museum, which had assumed the responsibility of gathering it and bringing it to America, it was shown in the cities of Buffalo, Chicago, and Cincinnati.

The exhibition of Scandinavian art represented broadly the new tendencies of the present day. It aroused a lively and legitimate curiosity. The best means of instructing a cultivated public as well as a hard-working young artist is to show them how nature is understood and interpreted by other artists in other countries. It is to be desired that such exhibitions should be repeated as often as possible in future. Special space has been reserved for them in the new galleries, where they will contribute materially to the artistic progress of Boston.

JEAN GUIFFREY.

DIVISION OF WESTERN ART TEXTILES

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the following report on the Collection of Textiles for the past year :

The accessions numbered 32; 31 were gifts, 1 was a purchase.

Among the important loans to the Collection were four tapestries lent by Mr. George von L. Meyer, three lent by Mr. Eben D. Jordan. Dr. George A. Kennedy and Mrs. Mary Price Kennedy have lent a large Spanish carpet, eight smaller carpets, and several good-sized pieces of carpet. Mrs. Edmund M. Wheelwright lent two pieces of Venetian point lace ; one, a shawl, is especially beautiful. Mrs. Edward D. Brandegee lent a wedding veil of Brussels appliqué. Mr. George O. Kittredge lent several Indian and Chinese embroideries and Dr. Denman W. Ross many textiles purchased by him in Europe, Asia, and Africa ; among them a very rare piece of silk of about the twelfth century from Rhages in Persia, and several fine specimens of silks and tapestry from the Coptic graves in Europe.

The work of the Department during the year has consisted of cataloguing and mounting the accessions and loans, and practically finishing the recataloguing of the Collection.

The Assistant in Charge has acted as Docent to thirteen classes from high and normal schools, colleges, and societies, has given one talk on the care of textiles to a class from Wellesley College, and four lectures, one to the Hingham Society of Arts and Crafts, one to the General Israel Putnam Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Danvers, one to the textile class of the Dorchester Evening High School, and one to the students of the Museum School. She has also given five conferences, two on tapestries, one on rugs, and two on lace.

Duplicate textiles have been lent to four schools, one Museum, and one Society of Arts and Crafts.

The visitors to the Textile Study Room numbered 1,430, the largest number in one month being 267. As in the last three years, these visitors have, as a rule, come for serious study, being teachers, students, designers, and craft workers.

The Assistant in Charge of Textiles helped the Society of Arts and Crafts in the arrangement of its exhibition, and coöperated with the Assistant in Charge of Western Art in the arrangement of the Philippine Loan Exhibition and Dr. Denman W. Ross's Loan Exhibition.

SARAH G. FLINT,
Assistant in Charge of Textiles.

DIVISION OF WESTERN ART OTHER COLLECTIONS

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the following report for the past year :

The number of accessions has been 813, of which 13 were purchases; and 627 loans have been received. The more important gifts were: a collection of 612 miscellaneous coins and medals from Henry H. Fay, containing a number of Byzantine gold coins and early nineteenth century French medals; 14 pieces of early American silver from the Brattle Street Church; a repoussé silver box, made by John Coney, from Mrs. J. R. Churchill; a marble relief of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe by Dallin, from the New England Women's Club; "The Appeal to the Great Spirit," a bronze equestrian statue by Dallin, from Peter C. Brooks and others; 59 Malay kreeses from Mrs. Charles G. Weld; a silver punch bowl by Holmes, and paten by Hurd, American, eighteenth century, from Mrs. Ambrose Dawes; two silver teapots by Hurd, and a mug by Thomas Edwards, given in the name of Miss Georgiana G. Eaton; 26 pieces of miscellaneous silver given in the name of Hannah Dawes; a French Gothic tomb relief from the Western Art Visiting Committee; a silver coffee-pot, London, 1751, once owned by Peter Faneuil, and a folding mahogany table given in the name of Mrs. Jane Bethune Craig Hawkins.

The loans have included about one hundred and fifty pieces of pottery and porcelain for the special exhibition of European ceramics; a large number of objects for the exhibition of Dr. Ross's recent acquisitions; 37 pieces of European silver lent by the Hon. A. T. Clearwater of Kingston, N. Y.; and a silver mace, English, 1727, once a part of the corporation silver of the town of Boston, England, lent by Mrs. Washington B. Thomas.

From February 3 to March 24 an exhibition of eighteenth century European pottery and porcelain was held in the Forecourt Room, and on February 20 a conference on the subject was given by the Assistant in Charge.

The same room was used by the Society of Arts and Crafts from April 2-25; and an exhibition of Philippine objects lent by Mrs. William H. Forbes and Miss Anna D. Slocum followed, from April 30 to May 16.

The Chinese, Japanese, and Indian objects, collected by Dr. Denman W. Ross during his recent trip around the world, were exhibited in the Renaissance Court from November 5.

Besides the arrangement of these special exhibitions and the extra amount of registration they entailed, the work in the Department has included the arrangement and classification of over five hundred slides and many notes of Mr. Borden's course of lectures on Mohammedan Art, the registration of the coins and medals given by Henry H. Fay, and the sorting and placing in separate trays in a new cabinet of the various collections of coins and medals owned by the Museum, which total about eight thousand.

A talk was given by the Assistant at Hingham, on June 11, at a meeting of the Old Colony Chapter D. A. R., on silver and jewelry collected for the purpose by the members of the society.

During the year 853 students have worked from the collections in the galleries and study room; 441 people have consulted the Department; 19 classes, numbering 105 people, have been addressed on special subjects; and 43 outside visits have been made.

FLORENCE V. PAULL,
Assistant in Charge.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the following report on the Library:

Previously reported	14,439		8,170	36,790
Total in Library	14,929		8,803	38,473

Among the important gifts of the year have been:

From Mrs. W. P. P. Longfellow, a number of volumes, chiefly of plates, from the library of the late Mr. Longfellow.

From Alexander Cochrane, Esq., a special sum for the purchase of books needed by the Print Department.

Among the purchases may be noted a number of important volumes of plates on architectural subjects, especially Garner and Stratton, Domestic architecture of England during the Tudor period; Gotch, Early Renaissance architecture in England; and Belcher and Macartney, Later Renaissance architecture in England.

The attendance in the Reading Room has been about four thousand. The Photograph Collection has been used by 348 pupils of art schools and by 1,485 other students.

Four thousand and twelve photographs have been loaned outside of the building on 141 occasions; 5,777 have been used at 184 lectures in the Museum.

Owing to Mr. Carter's appointment as Assistant Director, little work was done on the collection during the first part of the year, and the present Librarian has been chiefly occupied, since his appointment in August, in getting acquainted with the work and making up arrears in cataloguing. The first task has been rendered easier by Miss Fenderson's intimate knowledge of the resources of the Library, while the routine work is now practically up-to-date.

Besides the usual day-by-day reference work, various reference and bibliographical questions are received from time to time by mail from all parts of the country; and in several cases information which has been sought elsewhere in vain has been provided. Although the Public Library is in some respects better equipped, it is evident that those of the public who know of this Library's existence at all consider it the authoritative centre of information on art matters. This is notably indicated by the fact that since the inception, about two years ago, of the Boston Co-operative Information Bureau, the Librarian of the Museum has been ex-officio a member of the Board of Directors. Such an expectation seems reasonable and proper, and while the first work of the Library is as a tool to the Staff of the Museum, it should make a special effort, by preserving the raw materials of future art history and by developing its catalogue and indexes, to make itself known as a clearing-house for information in its field.

A closer coöperation with the instructors in the School of the Museum is resulting in a decrease in the number of pupils who go to the Public Library for material which they might find here. In this connection an interesting development has recently been started, in the establishment, under the direction of Miss Turner, of a collection of pictures clipped from magazines; these are mounted and filed by subject in a vertical file, for consultation by the students of design and others. This is soon to be installed in the Library Corridor next the Photograph Room, and should prove a very practical addition to the resources of the Library.

To the Photograph Collection the notable additions have been: 800 architectural subjects— English cathedrals and manors, and American colonial houses; 300 photographs of Greek sculpture; a collection of Egyptian and Assyrian sculptures in the Louvre; and a set of photographs of drawings by Ingres for the use of the pupils of the Museum School. A classification of the minor arts was made by Miss Turner during the summer, thus completing the classification of the entire Collection. The illustrated catalogue of Greek sculpture made last year from the University Prints has proved of so much assistance to visitors that a similar catalogue has been made by Miss Wells to cover Italian painting. The bibliographical references in these catalogues and in the main collection form an important feature of the work and are constantly proving their usefulness.

The classification of Miss Tolman's historical collection of photographs has been continued during the year in catalogues which show the development of special schools and the attributed works of individual artists. Such a catalogue can never reach completion because of the continual changes of attributions made by the critics; but this collection is now sufficiently developed to be of use to the students of the history of painting, and the attendants are glad to have it consulted.

Miss Biewald resigned her position as Assistant in the Library to be married in July, after ten years' service; her place has been filled, August 25 to October 25, by Miss Ethel M. Norris, and since November 15 by Miss Elinor Whitney, a graduate of the Library School of Simmons College. The salary of another assistant to take charge of the clipping collections having been provided by the School, Miss M. Ellen Morton began this work December 1.

Respectfully submitted,

FOSTER STEARNS,

Librarian.

TO THE TRUSTEES :

In June, 1913, the School of the Museum completed its thirty-seventh year. The number of students was two hundred and sixty-seven as against two hundred and eighty-nine in the previous year. They were distributed as follows, one pupil taking instruction in two classes :

Advanced Painting	7
Intermediate Painting	24
Beginner's Painting	31
Modelling	14
Drawing from Life	46
Drawing from the Antique	60
Master Class	2
Department of Design	84

Sixty students took the course in artistic anatomy, and thirty-five the course in perspective. An afternoon life class for men was kept up for half the year ; an afternoon costume class was held for several weeks, and in the afternoon a modelling class of twelve pupils worked regularly. For pupils in the Design Department Mr. Walker gave a course of thirty lectures on The History of Ornament, and Mr. Elliott a course of fifteen lectures on The Evolution of Painting, and a course of thirty lectures on Elements of Architecture for Interior Decorators. Classes in metal work under Mr. Hunt, and in bookbinding under Miss Sears were continued. For students of Interior Decorating a series of talks was given by Miss Celeste Weed Allbright.

The resignations of Mr. Tarbell and Mr. Benson as instructors in the school were accepted in December, to take effect in June. Mr. Frederick A. Bosley, Paige Scholar, 1906-1908, was appointed as Mr. Tarbell's successor, and at the latter's request began work at once. Mr. Benson accepted an appointment for three years as visiting instructor, and Mr. William James, also a former pupil of the school, was appointed to teach the Beginner's Painting Class. In April Mr. Paxton's resignation was accepted, to take effect in June, and the class drawing from the antique was placed in the charge of Mr. Leslie P. Thompson and Mr. Paxton's former assistant, Mr. Ralph McClellan. The work of the new instructors during the fall of 1913 has been eminently successful.

In the Department of Design Mr. Walker's resignation was accepted in April, to take effect in June, and Mr. Henry Hunt Clark was appointed as his successor. Mr. Clark was a pupil of the Museum School under Mrs. Stone, and for the past eleven years has attracted much favorable attention by his work as instructor in design in the Rhode Island School of Design. With the coming of Mr. Elliott in September, 1912, the work of the department was entirely reorganized. During the first two years the students are thoroughly trained in the theory of design and color, and spend much time in drawing from the cast and later from life. During the last two years they have general work in applied design and gradually specialize in some one line, such as interior decoration, or bookbinding, or jewelry making.

In the summer Mr. Howard E. Smith, Paige Scholar for 1911-1913, returned from Europe and an exhibition of his work was held in the Museum in November and December. The Paige Scholarship for 1913-1915 was awarded to Mr. Albro T. Hibbard, who sailed for Europe in December.

Among the more conspicuous prizes recently won by graduates of the School are the following :

In March, 1913, Miss Margaret F. Richardson was awarded the Isaac N. Maynard Prize by the National Academy of Design for her portrait of Asa H. Paige. In a commercial prize competition, where 2,794 paintings were submitted, the first prize of $1,500 was awarded to Mr. I. B. Hazelton, the third prize of $350 to Miss Olive Rush, and one of the ten fourth prizes to Mr. William H. Foster. In a second commercial prize competition the first prize of $2,000 was awarded to Miss May Aiken, Paige Scholar in 1908-1910.

The Thirty-seventh Annual Exhibition of work by pupils of the school was held in the Museum School building May 20-24. The high standard of previous years was well maintained. In the exhibit of the Department of Design the results of the new organization of the course were clearly shown in the progressive character of the problems and the rapid development of trained initiative in the pupils' work.

The Annual Report for the year ending May 31, 1913, was published in August and may be obtained on application to the Secretary of the Council, Mr. Huger Elliott.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS:

The Museum has suffered this year a very great loss. Gardiner Martin Lane died on October 3, 1914. He was elected a Trustee of the Museum in January, 1906, and President in January, 1907, continuing in that office until his death.

Mr. Lane combined, in a singular degree, the man of culture and the man of business, dealing with large affairs in a large way. In addition to abilities of a high order, great force of character, and wide and intelligent interest in art, he brought to the Museum an eager and buoyant vitality of temperament that made service to the Museum rather a happiness than a duty. These qualifications, with his personal modesty and his loyalty and generosity of character, made him an eagerly accepted leader in the wise development of the Museum. This he was not only to the Trustees, but also to the community, for the generosity towards the Museum that showed itself in so many ways during his presidency might well have sought other channels of expression had it not been for the entire confidence that donors had in the wisdom and character of Gardiner Martin Lane.

THE SERVICE OF THE MUSEUM

The Museum was incorporated in 1870 to erect a building for the preservation and exhibition of works of art, to make, maintain, and exhibit collections of such works, and to afford instruction in the Fine Arts. How has it carried out the purposes of its incorporation?

To-day the Museum owns the land and the building that it occupies on Huntington Avenue. It owns and presently will occupy the building given by Mrs. Robert D. Evans in memory of her husband, a building which will add over forty per cent. to the area of the Museum.

The Museum owns collections of works of art of the first importance. Of these the collection of Chinese and Japanese Art is the most notable, being second only to the combined imperial collections in Japan. Yet the splendor of this collection should not blind us to the recognition that the collections of Egyptian Art, of Classical Art, of Paintings, and of Prints, are of national and in some degree of international importance.

The Museum, however, does not render complete service through the erection of its building and the exhibition of its collections. To do that it must give instruction in the Fine Arts. This it does in various ways with ever-increasing success.

In the "Gallery Instruction," consisting of free informal talks upon the objects of art contained in the galleries, given by those who know to those who wish to hear, the Museum reaches the public in a peculiarly intimate and direct way; while in the publication of the Handbook, the Bulletin, the Leaflet Guide, and the Gallery-Book the Museum stimulates interest through the printed word. In these and other ways the Museum interprets its own collections to the public in order to give that greater happiness in the vision of works of art that can only come through understanding.

But in its educational work the Museum does not limit itself to the interpretation of its own collections. In many ways it gives instruction in the Fine Arts generally. In the School of the Museum it has established on its own grounds a school of instruction in art of the highest order. In its Library it gives the opportunity of study not only to curators and students, but also to the public generally. In lectures within the building and beyond it, and in its various publications, — notably in the Print Collector's Quarterly — it affords widespread instruction.

It is in these ways that the Museum has carried out the objects of its incorporation. In doing this it received as a gift from the State the plot of land, of comparatively little value at the time, on which it erected its former building; and of course it has been exempt throughout from taxation. During this whole period it has received no other aid from State or city. Apart from the value of this plot of land, sold in 1902, the value of its present building and grounds, of its endowment and of its collections of works of art, is entirely due to the generosity of private citizens. Surely the generosity that has carried the Museum from its beginnings in 1870 to its position of public service to-day is a brilliant instance of great civic spirit.

ADMISSIONS

The following is a comparative statement of admissions for the years 1912, 1913, and 1914:

	Paid	Free	Total
1912	25,361	194,682	220,043
1913	25,125	194,625	219,750
1914	19,659	185,450	205,109

The decrease in admissions is presumably due partly to the financial depression and partly to the temporary discontinuance, through motives of economy, of large special exhibitions.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

The following is a comparative statement of the number of annual subscribers and the amount of annual subscriptions for the years 1912, 1913, and 1914:

	Number of Annual Subscribers	Amount of Annual Subscriptions
1912	1,710	$40,047.00
1913	1,725	37,487.00
1914	1,710	38,584.00

CURRENT INCOME AND EXPENSES

The following is a comparative statement of income and expenses for the years 1913 and 1914:

	1913	1914	Increase or Decrease
Unrestricted Income from
Trust Investments	$69,129.61	$66,113.45	D. $3,016.16
Annual Subscriptions	37,487.00	38,584.00	I. 1,097.00
Admissions to Museum	6,202.00	4,908.50	D. 1,293.50
Miscellaneous	492.61	321.59	D. 171.02
Publications, Post Cards, and Photographs	7,758.83*		D. 7,758.83
Total Income	$121,070.05	$109,927.54	D. $11,142.51
Expenses	161,061.52	144,614.33	D. 16,447.19
Deficit	$39,991.47	$34,686.79	D. 5,304.68
Less Special Gifts to be Applied to Expenses	15,850.00	21,565.78	I. 5,715.78
Net Deficit	$24,141.47	$13,121.01	D. $11,020.46

* The absence of this item in 1914 is due to a change in the method of accounting, as shown in the Treasurer's Report.

The deficit for 1914, before deduction of special gifts, amounts to $34,686.79. Assuming that the income of the Museum from annual subscriptions and from uninvested funds applicable to running expenses is the same in 1915 that it was in 1914, the deficit will presumably be about $20,000 larger through the additional running expenses of the new building.

These deficits are made up year after year out of the principal of unrestricted funds. The policy of this course is certainly to be regretted and evidently cannot go on indefinitely. The Museum can, of course, reduce its running expenses largely by closing a substantial part of its building and by giving up a substantial part of its force. Yet the Trustees have thought it wiser in the past, and I hope that they will think it wiser in the immediate future, to give an ever-increasing service to the public in the belief that if they do this they will ultimately receive through gifts and bequests the full financial support that the Museum needs. The Trustees have reason to take this course with more confidence when they see the number of bequests that the Museum receives, perhaps especially from people who have shown during their lives little sign of friendship or interest.

GIFTS AND BEQUESTS

A list of all moneys actually received during 1914 through legacies, gifts, and annual subscriptions may be found in the report of the Treasurer on pages 23 to 46. The legacies amount to $163,966.66; the gifts of money, chiefly for works of art, to $90,645.92 ; and the annual subscriptions, for payment in part of running expenses, to $38,584.00,—a total of $293,196.58.

ACQUISITIONS

A list of all works of art acquired during 1914 through legacies, gifts, and purchases may be found in the accompanying reports of the Director and of those in immediate charge of the Departments. In these reports discriminating and interesting descriptions are given of many notable objects acquired during the year, among others the objects obtained from Egypt through the generosity of a few friends of the Museum, the beautiful painting by Fra Angelico given by Mrs. Fitz, and the Goloubew collection of Persian and Indian miniatures bought in part with the income of the Bartlett Fund and in part with contributions of friends, and which, with the loan of the collection of Dr. Ross, strengthens our high position in the art of Asia.

ROBERT DAWSON EVANS MEMORIAL GALLERIES FOR PAINTINGS

This building, the splendid gift of Mrs. Robert Dawson Evans as a memorial to her husband, our late valued Trustee, is practically complete and ready for occupancy. The opening will take the form of a reception given on the evening of Wednesday, February third, to the annual subscribers and other friends of the Museum.

The building was described and pictured in the Bulletin of June, 1912, and will be again in a special Bulletin to be issued at the time of the opening.

WILLIAM MORRIS HUNT MEMORIAL GALLERY

This gallery was opened on March 15, 1914. It was put in complete order through the generosity of Mrs. Horatio N. Slater, a daughter of Mr. Hunt. It contains many paintings by Mr. Hunt contributed by Mrs. Slater, with others owned by the Museum or loaned by friends. It is a fitting tribute to one who was a painter of distinction and who at the same time developed in Boston, perhaps more than any one else of his generation, a widespread interest in art.

TRUSTEES

Mr. Gardiner M. Lane died October 3, 1914. At a meeting of the Trustees held on October 15, 1914, a minute, prepared by President Eliot, was adopted. This minute will be found on page 21. At a meeting of the Trustees, held on October 30, 1914, Mr. Morris Gray was elected President. There was no other change in the membership of the Board.

Mr. William Endicott died November 7, 1914. He was named a Trustee of the Museum in its Act of Incorporation in 1870, and was its President from 1896-1901. He resigned from the Board in 1907, yet he continued his interest in the Museum until his death and manifested it in his will by a very generous bequest. During his long membership on this Board he showed that wisdom, force of character, and generosity of nature that made him the distinguished citizen that he was.

THE VISITING COMMITTEES

The Museum established the Visiting Committees in 1906 in order to obtain the assistance of friends who had an intimate knowledge of its Departments and a strong interest in them. In establishing these Committees the Museum did an exceedingly wise thing; for they have developed their Departments not only through their generosity, but also through their wisdom and sympathy. For instance, certain members of the Visiting Committee on Egyptian Art, with one or two outside friends, raised recently $22,000 for carrying on the work in Egypt during 1915. This was not only a generous thing to do, it was a wise thing to do, for in any outcome of the war the opportunity to add to our collection of Egyptian Art is likely to be much less favorable.

STAFF

The Museum is to be greatly congratulated on the fine spirit and effective service of the Staff, a spirit and a service of the utmost importance.

In their recent publications, named on page 151, Dr. Fairbanks, Mr. Gilman, Mr. Caskey, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Richter, and other members of the Staff have reflected honor not only on themselves, but on the Museum.

NEEDS

APART FROM ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

1. The Museum needs an "Administration Fund" of at least $1,000,000 in order that it may be in a position where, with the income of that fund, with the income of the present unrestricted funds and with the usual annual subscriptions, it can pay all running expenses, including those of the Evans Memorial Building.

2. While the Museum has increased its collections notably in the last few years, it has been able to do this only through the great generosity of private individuals. In order to add to the collections independently the Museum needs much larger funds than it has now. Presumably it could use these very effectively during the next one or two years; for the opportunity to purchase works of art at relatively low prices must follow the decreased demand and the increased offerings occasioned by the war and by the serious financial situation in this country and abroad.

3. While the Museum fortunately does not need large additional funds in order to maintain and to increase its educational service generally, it could use such funds to very great advantage in certain departments of that service; for instance, a fund of $100,000 for the further development of a great special library of art to be used in connection with the collections as a great treasure-house of learning, not only by curators and students, but also by the public.

While I think it suitable to express in this way certain of the needs and opportunities of the Museum, I think it entirely unsuitable to appeal to friends of the Museum at this time for these large contributions of money. The great shrinkage of income and principal due to financial conditions and the very grave needs of humanity, not only on this side of the water but on the other, bid us stand aside.

Yet even in the present stress there must be people in the community who are so much interested in the Museum that, despite their generosity to these deeper needs, they may still be able, still be willing to give to the Museum. If such there be I am certain that I speak for the Trustees when I say that the Museum will feel only a deeper gratitude for gifts at this time.

MORRIS GRAY.

GARDINER MARTIN LANE

Born April 30, 1859; died October 3, 1914
President of the Museum from 1907 to 1914

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Museum, held on October 15, the following minute was adopted:

“The Trustees deeply lament the death of their President, Gardiner Martin Lane.

“On his election as a Trustee in January, 1906, Mr. Lane was made a member of the Building Committee; and since his election as President, in January, 1907, he has been Chairman of all the important committees of the Board, and active on every committee. He thus became leader and guide in all the work of the Trustees.

“By inheritance and education he was a student with a tendency to letters, and particularly to the classics; but on his graduation from Harvard College he went into business, in which calling he won prompt and continuous success. This success, finding expression through his natural gifts, his acquired tastes, and his sincere goodwill, enabled him to be of great service to Harvard University, the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, the Archæological Institute of America, and this Museum.

“He had a strong sympathy with scholars, artists, and collectors whose means were narrow in proportion to their capacities and visions, and with all persons whose occupations called for refinement, sensibility, and fidelity, but whose earnings were small. He enjoyed and heartily embraced opportunities to come to the aid of such persons, and was never weary of such well-doing.

“Family affection, constancy in friendship, modesty and reticence about his own doings, and public spirit on behalf of education and charity characterized his life.

“His interest in the Museum was comprehensive, being confined to no special departments, but extending to all its collections and to the resources of the whole institution.

“He was quick to discern opportunities for advancing the interests of the Museum and to secure the means of seizing them.

“As President he displayed unfailing good feeling, tact, and wisdom ; and his administration, though only seven and a half years in length, will be conspicuous in the history of the institution for liberal policies, great gifts, and a remarkable growth in public influence.”

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

BOSTON, January 25, 1915.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON, MASS.

Dear Sirs: We, the undersigned, certify that we have employed Messrs. Boyden & Steacie, Certified Public Accountants, to audit the accounts of the Treasurer of the Museum and also of the Trustees of the Rotch Traveling Scholarship for the year 1914, and that the accompanying letters and statements form their report. We also certify that we have seen evidence of all the property called for thereby.

Yours respectfully,

ALEXANDER COCHRANE.
AUGUSTUS HEMENWAY.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS :

I have the honor to submit to you my eighth Annual Report as Director, together with reports from those in immediate charge of the different Departments.

In the Staff, as for all others interested in the Museum, the significant event of the year is the loss sustained in the death of Mr. Lane. All the officers of the Museum recognized his wise and courageous leadership, and will miss him as a personal friend whose sympathy with their ideals and their work gave practical help in every Department.

Further, I may fittingly record here the unanimous satisfaction of the Staff in the choice of Mr. Lane's successor, whom they had already known and honored as a trustee actively interested in all the work of the Museum.

The past year has seen the completion of the new section of the building, containing the galleries for paintings and prints, a tapestry gallery and a lecture hall, which has been built by Mrs. Robert Dawson Evans in memory of her late husband. A description of the building is given in a special Bulletin to be issued when the building is opened. It is sufficient to say now that it embodies the result of years of study on the part of architect, building committee, and Staff, and that perhaps no museum building is more perfectly adapted to its purpose than this splendid memorial given by Mrs. Evans.

During the year a large part of the work of the Staff has been given to problems connected with this building, and with the consequent rearrangement of the galleries in the part of the building which was opened in 1909. The print collection was moved in August into its quarters under the new galleries for paintings, and the Bremgarten and Lawrence rooms have been moved to the positions assigned them. By shifting the Administration offices to the former panel picture room and adjacent rooms, and moving the textile workrooms to the space formerly occupied by the Print Department, it has been possible to give the Japanese Department all the rooms on the lower floor around the Japanese Court. In addition to the entire southwest wing which thus has come to this department, four of the present picture galleries have been assigned to it, with the result that the exhibition of Chinese and Japanese art will start with the Rotunda and will cover twice as much space as before. On the east of the Rotunda the long picture gallery will be used for Persian, Indian, and Mohammedan art, and the two smaller galleries for additions to the Egyptian Collection. Thus Mrs. Evans' gift not only provides admirable galleries for paintings, prints, and tapestries, but it also permits departments that have become crowded to receive the additional space needed for exhibition purposes.

In March the new Hunt gallery was opened. A room on the third floor of the Museum was rendered accessible by putting in a passenger elevator; an entrance corridor was decorated with carved woodwork and old Spanish leather; and the room itself was rebuilt to serve as an exhibition gallery for paintings by William Morris Hunt. He, far more than any other one person, inspired that interest in art and love for art which eventually led to the founding of this Museum; so that if a room here is set apart for the work of any one artist, he is the natural and fitting choice. Some of the paintings which are hung in this room are the property of the Museum, but the majority are deposited by Mr. Hunt's heirs. For the gift of money to make these changes, including the elevator, and even more for the interest which was shown in planning for the room and supervising all the details of its preparation and installation, the gratitude of the Museum is due to Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater.

ACQUISITIONS

Among the additions to the Museum collections which are recorded in the reports from curators herewith submitted, attention may be called to four. The Goloubew Collection of Persian and Indian miniature paintings was purchased in June from the income of the Francis Bartlett Fund supplemented by generous gifts for this special purpose (see page 43). These paintings, which were made to illustrate manuscript books, are a characteristic form of art in the Near East, the most interesting form during the period corresponding to the Renaissance in Europe. The Goloubew Collection was made with extreme fastidiousness by the gifted connoisseur whose name it bears, and during the two years while it was exhibited in the Louvre it attracted wide and favorable attention. With the examples which Dr. Ross proposes to give the Museum it will have the same preëminent position here that it possesses in the art of the Far East. From the Francis Bartlett Fund the Museum has also purchased a marble statuette of Heracles. The special interest of this statuette is that it bears evidence of being a very accurate copy of a small Greek bronze from about the middle of the fifth century B. C. It gives an excellent idea of the style of Myron, the great Athenian sculptor of this period, and the bronze may well have been his work. In view of the extreme rarity of statues representing the highest level of Greek art, the Museum is fortunate to secure even a first-rate Roman copy of so important a statue. It is hard to speak in measured terms of the continued gifts of Mrs. W. Scott Fitz. The small painting by Fra Angelico, which she gave in April, has all the beauty and perfection which one expects in the best work of this master. It well deserves the pilgrimages of those who come to see it alone among the possessions of the Museum. And later in the year the Museum received from the same giver a unique object, a gold and ivory statuette of the Cretan snake goddess from about 1600 B. C. Charming in itself, this little statuette has a peculiar interest as one of the very finest examples of the first great art to develop on Greek soil, more than a thousand years before the age of Pericles.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS

In the Department reports herewith submitted some points deserve special mention.

The Print Department in its new quarters presents a totally different aspect, in that prints are hung on the walls of rooms of a size suited to them, instead of being "exhibited" in Museum cases. During the summer Mr. Carrington spent three months in study abroad, mainly in England. From the income of the Stephen Bullard Fund he was fortunately able to secure a set of the Piranesi "Prisons" in the very rare first state and a Florentine engraving of about 1470, entitled "The Triumph of Love," one of the "Triumphs of Petrarch." Two Millet etchings, which make the series owned by the Museum complete, an unusual group of seventeenth-century French landscape etchings, and many examples of contemporary work have also been purchased. In addition to the labor of moving, properly mounting many prints, and rapidly advancing the catalogue, this Department has done more than any other in the way of education. Each year Mr. Carrington's lectures at Harvard give his students an intimate acquaintance with this branch of art ; The Print Collector's Quarterly, with an unusually high level of articles, presents the subject to a large number of readers in this country and in Europe ; and by informal talks to groups of visitors an interest in this branch of art has been aroused in Boston. The peculiar opportunity of this Department lies in the fact that fine prints and engravings are not necessarily expensive, so that any visitor who gains some acquaintance with them may secure for his own walls original works of art with real merit.

The Curator of the Egyptian Department, Dr. Reisner, has been actively engaged in excavations in Egypt during the year. After spending the spring and summer in work at the Museum Dr. Fisher resigned in September to take a position with the University of Pennsylvania Museum. At the present time Mr. Story is assisting Dr. Reisner in Egypt, and Mr. Dows Dunham, who assisted Dr. Reisner in Egypt last year, has charge of the Department here. Two galleries, newly assigned to the Department, contain mainly objects from the Museum's excavations, and a large room on the lower floor has been opened, in which only such objects are shown. The wooden figure of Mehy and a seated limestone figure in the second room, a limestone head in the adjoining room, and the life-size granite figure of the Lady Sennuwi are examples of the very high quality of the finds of our expedition in 1913 and 1914.

In the reports of the other departments I desire to call attention to the appointment of Mr. Hervey Wetzel, a student of Persian and Indian art, as Associate in the Department of Western Art ; and to the loss of the valued services of Mr. J. Arthur MacLean in the Department of Chinese and Japanese Art, and Mr. McCabe, the former Assistant Superintendent of the Building, who have taken responsible positions in the Cleveland Museum of Art.

EDUCATION

In the report of the Supervisor of Educational Work (page 132) may be found an account of the courses of lectures and the classes for study during the year. In addition to the University Extension courses and other courses similar to those in previous years, an interesting experiment was tried by Mr. Elliott in two evening courses for salesmen and buyers on the Practical Application of Artistic Principles. These courses were given in the Museum for employees of several of the large stores in the city, and objects brought from these stores were discussed in comparison with objects in the Museum. The total number of lectures and class exercises during the year, Sundays excepted, was 484, and the total attendance, not including classes in drawing, was 12,428.

Thanks to the generosity of a friend of the Museum, parties of children were again brought to the Museum daily through the summer from the school playgrounds and the settlement houses, and were entertained by stories connected with objects of art in the Museum. Miss Hopkins and Mrs. Cronan found these groups very responsive, and the small reproductions which the children carried away served to remind them of the objects they had seen here. During the summer the number of groups thus brought to the Museum was 81 and the total number of children 4,854. On eight Saturdays, beginning in January, Mrs. Scales told stories of the Greek gods and heroes to children from schools in the vicinity. The total attendance was 864. Miss Kallen has continued her work with children at several settlement houses, bringing her classes to the Museum on Saturdays and daily in the summer. Her success in cultivating a sense for design and a love for beauty has been strikingly evident in the work of her classes.

Through Mr. Carrington a collection of prints interesting to children was gathered and suitably framed for exhibition in the settlement houses. It has been lent to one house after another for short periods, and has served an excellent purpose in cultivating an interest in good pictures and in the Museum among the children who saw them.

Parties from the schools to the number of 148, including in all 2,513 students, asked for and received the service of a Docent in the Museum. It has been found that many teachers no longer ask for a Docent when they bring their classes, as they are already familiar with the collections, so that these figures are far from showing the extent to which the Museum is used by school classes. Small reproductions of paintings and textiles in the Museum have for some years been used in art instruction in the grade schools of the city. Several other sheets of reproductions from vases, manuscripts, etc., in the Museum have recently been ordered by the city for the grade schools, and the same plan for study of objects in the Museum is being introduced into the high schools.

Fourteen Thursday conferences, talks by an expert on some group of objects in the Museum, have been given. One series of these conferences, given by Dr. Anesaki, will shortly be published. The Sunday Docent service is still one of the most valuable educational activities of the Museum, and the speakers deserve the gratitude of all who are interested in our work. That these informal lectures meet a real demand is shown by the fact that invariably the audience includes as many people as can hear the speaker. To furnish an occasion for wandering visitors to stop and look carefully at one of the objects in the Museum is in itself worth while; and when the listener is really interested in the significance of painting, or statue, or work of handicraft, he goes away with a deeper sense of what the Museum may mean to him. In all 76 Sunday lectures have been attended by 4,735 persons.

The last ten years have seen a rapid development of art museums in this country. New museums and art galleries have been founded in large numbers, monumental buildings have been erected to house their collections, and much thought and effort have been devoted to making the long-established institutions more effective in their work. As in the case of libraries, the opportunity for public service is being more clearly recognized; and as a result bulletins, popular catalogues, and handbooks have been issued, gallery guidance has been instituted, and coöperation with the schools has been established. In these directions the Museum in Boston has been a pioneer. The fact remains that as yet the art museum is a reality for only an extremely small section of the American community. Oftentimes it seems to have least meaning for those who might gain the most from it—for the painter, the interior decorator, the designer and craft-worker, the shopkeeper whose wares do so much to govern popular taste. The art museum cannot be made an effective reality by popular campaign methods. To create a sense of need for art, to reveal to people powers of appreciation and enjoyment they do not know they possess, is a spiritual task as noble as oftentimes it is difficult. By lectures, by docent guidance in the Museum, more particularly by its work with school teachers and students, this Museum seeks to help all those who come within its reach. In this work it seeks the coöperation of every lover of art in the community.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR FAIRBANKS.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE MUSEUM

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the following report for the past year on branches of work committed to my charge.

PUBLICATIONS

The Thirty-eighth Annual Report for 1913 was issued on March 21.

The Bulletin and The Print Collector's Quarterly have appeared as usual during the year. The Bulletin completed its twelfth and the Quarterly its fourth volume. Supplements acknowledging annual subscriptions as received were issued with the Bulletins of April, June, August, and December. Beginning with Volume V, Number 1, for February, 1915, the price of the Quarterly will be $2 per year instead of $1.

The tenth edition of the Handbook was issued in January, and the eleventh edition is in preparation. With the increase in the size of the building, the complete plans in the front and back covers of the book could not be retained, and guide plans on the covers, with Department plans at the beginning of each section, have been substituted. Necessary changes corresponding to the growth of the collections have increased the size of the book to nearly 450 pages, with nearly 350 illustrations. The price of the book in cloth has been raised from sixty to seventy-five cents, paper copies remaining at fifty cents.

Although but a portion of the collection of casts described in the Catalogue of Greek and Roman Sculpture can be shown in the present building, the Catalogue is still in demand as an introduction to monuments of the plastic art of Greece and Rome, and a new edition was issued September 30.

GALLERY BOOKS

The preparation of gallery books announced last year has been continued. These are typewritten lists of the entire contents of the gallery to which they refer, with introductions and with explanatory notes often in much detail. The exhibits are numbered when necessary to facilitate reference. The lists are bound in loose-leaf folders, and placed in duplicate as lending copies at the doorways of the galleries for the use of any visitor. They differ from guide-books by naming every object shown, and from catalogues by omitting items of information unnecessary in the presence of the object. Their essential purpose, as was stated last year, is to contribute to the enjoyment of art, not to knowledge about it. They have been begun for the Department which most needs interpretation to our public, — that of Chinese and Japanese Art. The Department officers contribute the basis of the lists, and approve their final form. The preparation of gallery books is in one respect more exacting than cataloguing. To the labor of writing an account of each object based on the data of experts, on a detailed examination, and on the study of related literature, they add a labor of continual revision corresponding to every change of exhibition. Work upon them is never done. Their usefulness to the interested visitor will not be commensurate with the labor they involve until they can be installed in enough galleries to become a familiar aid. The book for Gallery IX, a volume of eighty-one pages, was placed in the gallery on April 3; that for Gallery VII, of nine pages, on April 16, and that for Gallery VI, of thirty-two pages, on July 8.

Work upon them has been suspended during the changes of installation now in progress in the Chinese and Japanese Department. All the books show signs of considerable use. One has disappeared since they were put up, and has been replaced by another copy.

With the object of further aiding interested persons in the study of the Chinese and Japanese Collection under the guidance of the officers, loose-leaf books of three other kinds have been compiled for the Department, and will be kept up to date. These are a Bulletin Book, now in its second volume, containing all the articles relating to the Department which have appeared in the Bulletin, a Handbook file containing all the pages that have been contributed by the Department to the Handbook in any of its editions, and a Monograph Book containing articles bearing on the collections which have been published elsewhere by the officers or others. These books have been placed in the Department office.

REGISTRY OF LOCAL ART

A fourth list of works of art belonging to the City, comprising descriptions and verbatim copies of memorial tablets and inscriptions on City property, was prepared during the year for the Municipal Art Commission, and will be published in its forthcoming report. The list covers forty-four pages and contains illustrations of several tablets. It is planned to complete the registry of works of art at present belonging to the City by a miscellaneous list to appear with the next report of the Commission. Should the artistic adornment of public places continue, as it is to be hoped it will, many additions to this inventory will be necessary every year.

The thanks of the Museum are due to Harvard College and the Boston Athenæum for the gift to the Registry of complete lists of works of art now in possession of these institutions, and to Miss E. M. Burrill, author of the Manual of the State House, for a list of monuments and memorials authorized by the Legislature of Massachusetts since 1865. The Library of the Registry has received through Miss Burrill a copy of the volume by Alfred S. Roe, entitled "Massachusetts Memorials, 1910."

The Art Commission of the State has voted authorizing the Registry to examine State-owned works of art for the purpose of including them in the card index at the Museum. The work will be undertaken in due course.

A circular of information as to the purposes and plans of the Registry, prepared for distribution to organizations and individuals interested in civic improvement, was printed in the December Bulletin.

In May the Secretary attended the Milwaukee Meeting of the American Association of Museums as President for the year, and the Chicago Meeting of the Federation of Arts as delegate from this Museum.

BENJAMIN IVES GILMAN,
Secretary of the Museum.

A course of lectures on the History and Principles of Engraving was given by the Curator during the first half-year at Harvard on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. The students visited the Museum twice each week for further study of the engravings, etchings and facsimiles in the Department of Prints.

EQUIPMENT.

Twelve oak cases, to hold 14 x 18 prints, have been remodelled, and the necessary boxes (216) provided. Two oak bookcases have been built; 4 oak cases, to hold 30 x 40 prints, have been built; 6 sections of painted wooden shelves (without doors), holding a total of 144 (old) 14 x 18 boxes, have been built. Frames made: 200 14 x 18; 75 22 x 28; 50 16 x 21½; 20 17½ x 24. Fourteen frames (28 x 34) have been made for the Piranesi "Prisons."

STAFF.

On March 2 Miss Chamberlin returned to the Department, and on June 1 retired.

On March 23 Miss Murphy was added to the staff.

On April 1 Miss Barkhouse left the Department.

On April 25 the Curator left for study in Europe, returning on August 4.

On May 30 Mr. Richter broke his leg and was unable to take up his duties at the Department until August 10.

GENERAL.

On January 2 the collection of prints belonging to the Fogg Art Museum, which had been stored in this department, was returned.

On January 6 a meeting of the Visiting Committee, Mr. George Peabody Gardner, Chairman, was held in the Study Room of the Print Department.

On March 12 Mr. Elliott gave a talk to his class, numbering thirty-nine, on "Early Illustrated Books and Maps."

On March 24 there was a private view of the Turner "Liber Studiorum" from the Francis Bullard Bequest. Invitations were sent out by the Visiting Committee; forty-one persons were present, including Mr. Gardiner M. Lane.

Arrangements were made with Houghton Mifflin Company to act as publishing agents of The Print Collector's Quarterly for the Museum of Fine Arts. The February, April, October and December issues of The Print Collector's Quarterly have been published. Material for the February and April, 1915, issues (text and illustration) is well in hand, and several articles have been commissioned for the October issue.

The Print Collector's Booklets (first series, six booklets) have been published for the Museum by Houghton Mifflin Company.

On October 23 Mr. Richter's book, "Prints: their Technique and History," was published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

On December 14 a meeting of the Visiting Committee — Mr. George Peabody Gardner, Chairman — was called in the Study Room of the Print Department. A report was presented on work done, and plans for future development and estimates for 1915 were submitted.

The entire collection has been transferred to the new department in the Evans Memorial Building and rearranged so as to make it more easily accessible and of greater use to visitors. On September 16 this work was completed, and from that time onward the entire collection has been available to the special student. All reproductions of early German and Italian engravings have been grouped under the names of their respective artists, mounted, provided with reference numbers, and classified. Whenever practicable the reproductions of drawings made by the engraver as studies for his print have been put with the reproduction of the engraving so as to facilitate study.

Mr. Richter continues to contribute articles to the "Künstlerlexikon" (Frankfurt), the American graphic arts section of which is in his charge.

The Curator presented a paper on "The Development of a Print Department" at the meeting of the American Association of Museums in Milwaukee on May 21.

FITZROY CARRINGTON,

Curator of Prints.

REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL ART

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you the twenty-ninth annual report of the Department of Classical Art.

ACQUISITIONS

The event of the year is the gift from Mrs. W. Scott Fitz of an ivory and gold statuette of the Minoan Snake Goddess. This is a veritable masterpiece, worthy to be ranked with the finest treasures of prehistoric Cretan art in the museums of Candia and Athens. It should do much to arouse an interest in Boston in this wonderful prehistoric civilization which, after having lain submerged, like the lost Atlantis, for three thousand years, has been brought to light again by the archæological discoveries of the past fifteen years.

The Museum has also been fortunate this year in acquiring, as a purchase from the Francis Bartlett Fund, a well-known marble statuette of Herakles of all but perfect preservation and exquisite workmanship. It is a Roman copy, dated in the second century A. D., reproducing with unusual fidelity a Greek bronze of the second quarter of the fifth century which has been ascribed to Myron.

The complete list of acquisitions for the year follows :

14.863. STATUETTE OF THE MINOAN SNAKE GODDESS in ivory decorated with gold. Height, 0.161 m.

The figure stands in a frontal pose with the arms advanced and each hand grasping a gold snake which coils itself about the forearm. She wears an elaborate tiara and the characteristic Minoan dress consisting of a tight-fitting, short-sleeved jacket cut so low in front as to expose the breasts, a full skirt with five pleated flounces, and a small apron. The girdle, a concave hoop of gold, the gold bands which decorated the hems of the sleeves and of the five flounces of the skirt, and a strip of gold from the front of the bodice are preserved, and there is evidence that there was originally more of this gold decoration. The statuette has been repaired and put together at the Museum with as little restoration as possible. The right arm with the portion of the snake coiled around it is modern, and some fragments missing from the bottom of the skirt have been supplied in wax.

The only works in the round which can be compared with the statuette are the famous ivory figurines of acrobats from Knossos. It is probably to be dated in the first late Minoan period, or about the sixteenth century B. C. Cf. Museum of Fine Arts Bulletin, No. 73.

GIFT OF MRS. W. SCOTT FITZ.

14.526. HEAD OF A YOUTH in Pentelic marble. Height, 0.097 m. Broken from a statuette; the surface cleaned with acid. The type of the face and the sketchy working of the hair suggest that this is a fragment of an Attic votive statuette executed at the end of the fifth century B. C. PURCHASED BY CONTRIBUTION.

14.733. STATUETTE OF HERAKLES, in marble. Height, 0.57 m. Cf. Brunn-Bruckmann, Denkmäler Griechischer Skulptur, pl. 569, 570. Museum of Fine Arts Bulletin, No. 72.

PURCHASED FROM THE FRANCIS BARTLETT FUND.

14.731. OVAL SARDONYX INTAGLIO, set in a modern gold ring. Length, 0.015 m. A woman standing to right, holding out her hand to a child seated on the ground with its hand to its head. Italiote.

GIFT OF EDWARD P. WARREN.

14.3. GOLD EARRING, in the form of a hoop wound with wire and ending in a bull's head with long horns bent back upon the neck. Diameter, 0.016 m. Greek.

GIFT OF MISS SUSAN M. L. WALES.

14.429-490. TERRA-COTTAS AND VASES FROM CYRENE. Fifty-seven votive statuettes similar to those received in 1912; four small, undecorated vases; one Roman lamp.

DEPOSITED BY THE ARCHÆOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA.

ATTIC BLACK-FIGURED KYLIX.

ATTIC RED-FIGURED GUTTUS. On the top, a dog chasing a hare.
GIFT OF EDWARD R. WARREN.

14.732. TERRA-COTTA HEAD OF HERAKLES. Height, 0.078 m. Missing, the back of the head; remains of gilding on the face. Smyrnaic. This is a replica of the head of the marble statuette of Herakles described above.

Cf. Museum of Fine Arts Bulletin, No. 72.

GIFT OF EDWARD P. WARREN.

14.734-768. COLLECTION OF EARLY GREEK POTTERY AND TERRA-COTTAS, including: (a) one bowl and twelve fragments of pre-Mycenæan ware from Phylakopi, Melos; (b) one goblet and nine fragments, chiefly from large bowls, of prehistoric Thessalian ware; (c) three vases, three terra-cotta idols, and three figurines of horses, of the Mycenæan period; (d) three vases of the Dipylon style.

GIFT OF THE NATIONAL MUSEUM, ATHENS.

GOLD COINS OF CYRENE

14.89. Drachma. Müller, Numismatique de l'ancienne Afrique, I, p. 50, No. 204.

14.90. Drachma. Müller, p. 50, No. 202.

14.222. Stater. Müller, p. 49, No. 189.

14.221. Stater. Magas under Ptolemy I, B. M. Cat., p. 11, No. 10, 11.

PURCHASED FROM THE JAMES FUND.

Small bowl of iridescent glass, Græco-Roman.

GIFT OF WILLIAM A. TAPLEY THROUGH MISS NELLIE CARTER.

REPRODUCTIONS

SIXTEEN PLASTER CASTS OF MINOAN ANTIQUITIES.

GIFT OF PROFESSOR GEORG KARO.

DRAWINGS OF VASES FOUND AT MOCHLOS, CRETE.

GIFT OF RICHARD B. SEAGER.

LOANS

To Dr. Denman W. Ross the Department is indebted for the loan of a limestone statue of a bearded man, a Greek original of the sixth century B. C., and an interesting variant, both as regards the type of the head and the attitude, from the prevailing "Apollo" figures. Two colossal amphoræ, illustrating a rare class of Theran geometric pottery, were exhibited during the winter as a loan from Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr. The complete list follows :

ARCHAIC GREEK STATUE OF A MAN, in limestone, somewhat under life size. Height, as preserved, 0.75 m. Missing, the right arm from the elbow, the left hand, the legs from the middle of the thighs; the nose is injured. The nude figure stands in the attitude of the early "Apollos," except that the right arm was bent more than the left and the hand advanced slightly, probably holding some attribute. The rendering of the head is superior to that of the body; the former shows a good deal of animation and individuality, while the modeling of the latter is clumsy, revealing little study of anatomical structure. The treatment of the hair and beard is very similar to that on the Rampin head in the Louvre, save that a simple fillet takes the place of the wreath of oak leaves. Otherwise there is little to connect the work with the early Attic school, the slanting, almond-shaped eyes suggesting a strong Ionic influence. The very archaic type of the face, the large size and high position of the ears, and the modeling of the body suggest a date hardly later than the middle of the sixth century B. C. The statue is to be published in the Monuments Piot.

LENT BY DR. DENMAN W. ROSS.

OVAL SARD INTAGLIO, set in a heavy gold ring (original). Length, 0.023 m. A woman, nude save for a himation wrapped around her legs, standing with spear and shield. In the field behind her the signature, ΓΕΩΝ ΕΠΟΕΙ. From the Erotes tomb at Eretria. About 300 B. C. LENT BY EDWARD P. WARREN.

14.14, 15.14. TWO COLOSSAL AMPHORÆ, with decorations in the Theran geometric style. Seventh century B. C. Height of A, 0.83 m.; of B, 0.785 m. Published: American Journal of Archaeology, XVIII., 1914, p. 297, Pl. V., VI., Figs. 1, 2.

LENT BY MRS. T. JEFFERSON COOLIDGE, JR.

DEPARTMENT WORK

The catalogue of the collection of Arretine pottery, undertaken by Professor George H. Chase, is approaching completion, and a contribution from Mr. James Loeb insures its prompt and adequate publication. The work on the catalogue of sculpture, which has been assigned to the Curator, is also well advanced. Descriptions have been written by the Curator of two of our Greek marbles—the Mounted Amazon and the Leda—for Brunn-Bruckmann's Denkmäler Griechischer Skulptur, and others are to follow in the same series. An article entitled "Two Geometric Amphoræ from Thera" has been published in the American Journal of Archaeology. During the summer Mr. J. D. Beazley, Fellow of Christ Church, Oxford, who is one of the foremost authorities on Attic vase painting, spent some weeks at the Museum studying our collection. The results of his researches in this and other Museums in America are to be published in the American Journal of Archaeology. By establishing the attributions of a large number of our vases whose painters had remained unidentified, he has shown that the collection of red-figured pottery of the best period is of even greater importance than had been realized. The work of Mr. Beazley will be extremely valuable as material for the catalogue of the Greek vases which it is hoped eventually to publish.

THE MISSES WINSLOW.

Two pieces of Chinese pottery; forgery of T'ang pottery.

MESSRS. YAMANAKA & CO.

The Museum has been particularly fortunate this year in its acquisition of the Chinese paintings and bronzes purchased in China. Among the paintings are many splendid examples of the Sung landscape school, some of them by such masters as Fan K'uan, Ma Yüan, and Hsia Kuei, as well as an important scroll by Chên Jung, perhaps the most famous dragon painter of Sung times. The Ming period is notably represented by three exquisite specimens of the work of Ch'iu Ying, and there are also fine examples by some of the better known artists of the early Ch'ing Dynasty. The bronzes, five in number, are all of high quality and include a covered wine jar of the Chou Dynasty and a tripod vessel of the Ch'in Dynasty, both of which are objects of unusual merit and interest. I wish to take this opportunity of specifying the three rare and interesting Chinese stone reliefs of the Han Dynasty given by Dr. Ross, Mr. Lane, Mr. Cochrane, and Mr. White, as important additions to our collections.

I venture to express here the Department's deep sense of gratitude for its share in the generosity of friends of the Museum.

LOANS

The loans during the year have been as follows :

Two Chinese pottery bowls.

MRS. GEORGE R. AGASSIZ.

Twenty pieces of Chinese glass.

HERVEY E. WETZEL.

DEPARTMENT WORK

Changes in the regular exhibitions have, during the year, involved paintings, sculpture, bronzes, jades, prints, illustrated books and stencils, and there have been held also three Special Exhibitions : one of prints, paintings, and the minor arts of the Ukiyo-é School ; one of Chinese and Korean pottery, and one of Japanese dolls and toys. Much time, too, has been devoted to the planning and preparation of the additional exhibition galleries allotted to the Department, and in pursuance of this task the Staff transferred their headquarters from the main exhibition floor to more adequate quarters on the ground floor.

The Staff has been largely occupied with the continued cataloguing of the Bigelow Collection, with back registration and with the registration of current accessions, thus providing the Department with detailed records of about four thousand objects. I am glad to report that, apart from the prints, all the more important objects and groups of objects comprised in the Bigelow gift are now fully recorded. The prints have been examined, classified, and made accessible, and about two thousand of them have been properly mounted and matted for exhibition purposes. In addition to this work on our collections, twenty-one docent services have been given; thirty-nine outside collections have been visited; three hundred and fifty-four special visitors to the Department have been received; three articles for the Bulletin have been prepared, and the manuscript of Professor Anesaki's important book on Buddhist Art has been revised, provided with over fifty illustrations, and turned over to the publisher, by whom it will soon be issued as a publication of the Museum. Good work has been done also on the Lacquer Catalogue, which will, I hope, be completed and published during the coming year. Detailed information in regard to the paintings, lacquers, potteries, porcelains, netsuke, prints, etc., exhibited in Galleries 6, 7, 8, and 9, has been furnished for use in the Gallery Books issued by the Secretary of the Museum, and I wish to take this opportunity of expressing the Department's appreciation of the Secretary's success in this undertaking. Gallery Books similar to those he has already produced would be most welcome in every gallery of this Department.

JOHN ELLERTON LODGE,

Assistant Curator in Charge.

DEPARTMENT OF EGYPTIAN ART

TO THE DIRECTOR :

I have the honor to submit to you the twelfth annual report of the Department of Egyptian Art.

ACQUISITIONS

The acquisitions of the Egyptian Department during the year were few, but of the greatest importance. From the excavations at Giza we received three limestone heads of the IV. Dynasty, representing a princess and two princes of the Cheops Family. Only thirteen heads of this type have been found in Egypt, of which four are now in this Museum. From Kerma we received the beautiful granite statue of an Egyptian Lady named Sennuwy and several other pieces of sculpture, all of the Middle Empire, a period heretofore not represented in the collection by anything of importance. The complete list follows :

GIFTS

Three ibis mummies, from Abydos.

EGYPT EXPLORATION FUND, THROUGH THOMAS WHITTEMORE.

Portrait head of a Prince, IV. Dynasty, limestone ; portrait head of a Prince of the Cheops family, limestone ; portrait head of a Negress (princess), limestone ; statue of Lady Sennuwy, granite ; statue of Sehetep-it-wall, Governor of the South ; statue of Scribe Yeutef ; statue of a man, feet missing ; fragment of a statue ; fragments of two statuettes.

EGYPTIAN EXPEDITION, 1913-1914.

Two Egyptian wooden combs.

DR. DENMAN W. ROSS.

DEPARTMENT WORK

About the first of August two new exhibition rooms, formerly occupied by the Department of Paintings, were opened to the public. The first room contains objects dating from the earliest Predynastic period to the end of the III. Dynasty. The second room contains objects of the Old Empire, dating from the IV. to the VI. Dynasty inclusive. In this room is the wooden figure of Senedemib-Mehy, which has been favorably compared with the statue of Sheikh-el-Beled, the finest piece of wood-carving from ancient Egypt yet found. One large case contains objects from the Tomb of Im-They, excavated last year. Various changes in installation have been made in the other galleries of the Department. Against one wall of the Mastaba Gallery has been set up the sculptured wall of the outer offering chamber of Meryt-Aket-Nesut, superintendent of the royal gardens, and his seated statue has been placed in a case in the same room. The statue of the Lady Sennuwy, the limestone head of a prince, and the two limestone groups of Pen Merew have also been placed in the Mastaba Gallery. In the New Empire room an entire case has been filled with objects of the Hyksos period which were found at Kerma and received at the Museum in December, 1913. In a small case on the inner wall of the loggia jewelry and necklaces of the Middle and New Empires have been placed. A new Exhibition Store Room was opened to the public October 17 on the ground floor.

Three limestone stelæ and the Obelisk of Nekhebew, the surface of which was rapidly disintegrating (due to the action of salt), have been treated by Mr. Thompson.

An exhibition of recent accessions in the Forecourt Room, which was opened to the public October 20, contains two of the limestone heads from Giza, a granite statuette from Kerma, and a limestone stela.

Mr. Clarence S. Fisher resigned his position as Assistant Curator of the Department early in August, and left at once to take up his duties as Curator of the Egyptian Department of the University of Pennsylvania Museum in Philadelphia.

On November 24, Mr. Dows Dunham arrived at the Museum from Egypt, where he had been assisting Dr. Reisner since March, and on December 3 he became Associate in the Department.

Respectfully submitted for the Department,

H. L. STORY,

Registrar.

DEPARTMENT OF PAINTINGS

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM.

I have the honor to submit to you the ninth annual report of the Department of Paintings:

ACQUISITIONS

One very important gift has been received — a little panel by Fra Angelico, presented by Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, to whom the Department has been so frequently indebted in the past. This panel, representing the Madonna and Child, with donor, saints, and angels, was published in the Museum Bulletin for June, 1914, Vol. XII., No. 70.

The complete list follows:

DEPARTMENT WORK

The year 1914 has been one of preparation. Owing to the disturbed conditions occasioned by the war, and also to the resignation of M. Guiffrey, no paintings were purchased, and only four special exhibitions were held. These were:—

Paintings by Instructors in the Museum School, January 17–February 16.

Paintings by Walter Gay, February 26–March 22.

Paintings by Mrs. Marcia Oakes Woodbury, March 26–April 19.

Pictures acquired by gift and purchase while M. Guiffrey was Curator, March 18–April 18.

The last exhibition was gradually modified to include a selection from the paintings which had been shown in the galleries now given to the Department of Egyptian Art. The hanging of the new galleries is now well under way.

JOHN BRIGGS POTTER,

Keeper of Paintings.

DEPARTMENT WORK

The work of cataloguing and mounting the accessions and loans has gone on as usual, the textile work-room and office have been moved from the west end of the building to the rooms in the east end of the building formerly occupied by the Print Department. These rooms, which have been rearranged to accommodate the Department of Western Art and the Textile Collection, are larger than the former ones and make it possible for many people to work at the same time. In addition to the new tapestry gallery which connects the old building with the Robert Dawson Evans Galleries for Paintings, the present gallery for modern paintings and the water-color corridor will, upon the removal of the pictures, be given to the Departments of Western Art and Textiles. With this fact in sight, the textiles that were in the Nearer Orient Room have been withdrawn, and the European textiles have been rearranged with other objects of European art in the former Nearer Orient, Tapestry sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth century rooms.

The Assistant in Charge of Textiles coöperated with the Assistant in Charge of Western Art in arranging the special exhibition of objects lent to the Museum by Mr. Hervey E. Wetzel. Nineteen hundred sixty-six people have visited the Textile Study Room either to study from the collection or in search of information about their own possessions.

Eleven docent appointments have been met and one lecture given.

Duplicate textiles have been lent to three Museums, one Art School, and one High School.

The generosity of Mrs. J. Templeman Coolidge made it possible for the Assistant in Charge of the Collection to take a study trip in Europe. Leave of absence was granted from January 8 to May 25, and Miss Orië W. Sherer was engaged as a substitute.

SARAH G. FLINT,
Assistant in Charge of Textiles.

DEPARTMENT OF WESTERN ART

(EXCEPT TEXTILES)

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM:

Sir, — I have the honor to submit the following report for the past year :

ACQUISITIONS

Acquisitions to the number of 692 have been received in the Department and catalogued. Of these, 196 were purchases and 496 were gifts.

The purchase of the Goloubew Collection of Persian and Indian paintings is the most important acquisition. It contains 171 examples which illustrate the development of the art of painting in the Nearer East from the twelfth to the eighteenth century. The collection is well known to collectors and connoisseurs. Many of the paintings have been reproduced and exhibited, and all were shown for two years at the Musée des Arts Décoratifs of the Louvre. The Goloubew Collection added to the Ross Collection places the Museum in the first rank as regards this branch of Mohammedan art. A more detailed account with illustrations will be found in the Bulletin for February (No. 74), but no written descriptions can give an adequate idea of the beauty and charm of the originals. Among other purchases for the Department several were made in Europe from the Samuel P. Avery Fund by Mr. J. Templeman Coolidge.

DEPARTMENT WORK

Through the generosity of Mrs. J. T. Coolidge the Assistant in Charge was able to spend the first five months of the year in Europe, where a special study was made of Arab art in Egypt and Spain and in the great collections of Paris and London. During this time, from January 23 to June 9, the Ross Collection of Persian and Indian paintings, book bindings and writings, together with others owned by the Museum, were shown in the Forecourt Room. The attendance was 8,460.

The removal of the office to larger quarters in the old Print Rooms was begun on August 16. A large Study Room, where many objects are exhibited and where students can work, was opened on Sunday, November 8, with a talk on the contents of the room by the Assistant in Charge. One hundred and sixty-five persons have worked there since the opening. In connection with the office a new vault for silverware has been constructed.

From the middle of November until December 13 the regular exhibition rooms were rearranged preparatory to installing the Nearer Orient Collection in the long Picture Gallery and Water-color Corridor. The Visiting Committee to the Department met on December 8 to inspect the galleries before the public was admitted.

Mr. Hervey E. Wetzel was appointed Associate to the Department on October 15, and since then has given four afternoons each week to the study of the collections, commencing with the Persian paintings.

In July the Assistant in Charge was made one of a committee of three, which meets once in two weeks, to arrange the windows of the Sales Room of the Society of Arts and Crafts.

Three docent appointments and one Sunday talk have been given. Eighteen persons have been guided over the building. Six hundred and eighty-two students worked from the objects in the Galleries, twenty-five outside calls were made, and two hundred and twenty-nine visitors were received in the office.

FLORENCE VIRGINIA PAULL,

Assistant in Charge.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM :

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the following report on the Library for the past year :

ACCESSIONS

	Books		Pam- phlets	Photo- graphs
	Vols.	Titles
Donations	214	158	817	822
Purchases	257	195	11	1,069
Added by binding	69	52
Gross additions	540	405	828	1,891
Discarded, bound, etc.			1,005	15
Net additions	540	405	-177	1,876
Previously reported	14,929		8,803	38,473
Total in Library	15,469		8,626	40,349

Among the important gifts of the year have been :

From His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, a set of the Catholic Encyclopedia, in sixteen volumes, full morocco binding.

From Dr. W. Sturgis Bigelow, a number of volumes on Japanese art.

From Alexander Cochrane, Esq., various books on prints.

From Dr. Walter G. Chase, Wilkins' Magna Græca.

From Miss L. Anna Dudley, Ruskin's works in twenty-six volumes.

From Miss Ellen F. Moseley, The Old Silver of American Churches, by A. E. Jones.

From J. G. Johnson, of Philadelphia, the catalogue of his collection of paintings, in three volumes.

Photographs have been given by Mrs. Andrew C. Wheelwright, Miss H. S. Tolman, Dr. Denman W. Ross, Richard Norton, and Professor S. St. C. Wade; and magazines for the clipping collection by Mrs. C. W. Lane, Mrs. Samuel Carr, Miss Anna D. Slocum, A. W. Longfellow, Esq., and others.

Among the purchases may be noted: Martin, Persian miniatures; Paris, Musée des arts décoratifs, Miniatures persanes; Catalogue of the Botkine collection of classical and Russian antiquities, St. Petersburg; Riezler, Weissgrundige Attische Lekythen; and a complete set of the Oriental periodical, Toung Pao, in twenty-three volumes.

The attendance in the Reading Room has been 4,400; in the Photograph Room, 662 pupils and 1,516 other students. Photographs to the number of 3,971 have been lent for use outside the building on 240 occasions; 6,677 have been used at 158 lectures in the Museum.

During the year the space devoted to the Department has been increased by walling off the corridor leading to the Way Collection and opening a door into the Photograph Room, thus providing for the expansion of the Photograph Collection for the immediate future. In the Library stack some needed space has been gained by a revision of the pamphlet collection and the discarding of over 700.

A list of one hundred books on Decorative Art in the Museum Library was published in the March number of the Decorative Furnisher, and a statement of the Library's resources in the spring number of the Massachusetts Library Club Bulletin. Four talks have been given to the museum training class of Wellesley College and the library class of Simmons College—two by the Librarian, and one each by Miss Turner and Miss Wells.

The Library has for some time subscribed to the cards published by the American Library Association indexing periodicals; in this way cards have been placed in the catalogue for ten of our sets. These are so constantly useful that during the past year cards have been written for three periodicals which are not on the American Library Association list — the Studio, Burlington, and Emporium magazines. Two thousand thirty-four cards have been thus added, and it is proposed to carry this on, as other work permits, until all our periodical material is thus rendered accessible. The subject-headings of the catalogue have also been revised and numerous cross-references added for the convenience of readers.

During the summer one hundred small color-prints were purchased in Europe by Miss Turner, who carefully compared the color in each case with that of the original painting; the aim being to choose, so far as they were obtainable, prints representing the characteristic coloring of the different schools of painting. The experiment is being made of mounting these on one card with a photograph of the same picture, in the hope of making the suggestion more vivid to the student.

Through the generosity of the Woman's Educational Association large photographs of objects in this Museum, and twelve Japanese paintings reproduced by the Shimbi Shoin, Tokyo, have been added to the collection for the use of teachers. These may be borrowed for a longer period than the photographs in the main collection. The photographs of renaissance sculpture have been classified during the year.

The file of pictures from magazines has grown rapidly and is much used. Some recent material — such as color reproductions of the work of Bakst, Parrish, Pyle, etc. — is accessible to students only here.

DOCENT SERVICE

On week days during the year there were 223 meetings; 25 Docents (and three Assistants from Wellesley College and a special Docent for the Children's Japanese Exhibition) met 3,385 persons, of whom 514 came for the Japanese Exhibition. In 1913 3,368 persons were met.

On each Sunday from October to June two announced speakers meet visitors in the galleries or in the lecture hall. As a rule these speakers are not members of the Staff, but persons who give their services, and the obligation under which they have placed the Museum is gratefully acknowledged. Sixty-seven such talks were given, 30 Docents addressing audiences ranging from 25 to 125 persons. The total attendance was 3,090.

The Japanese Exhibition for Children was arranged by the Sub-Committee of the Committee on Education of the Woman's Educational Association. Miss Clara Blattner was secured by the Committee to act as Docent, and on Saturdays and Sundays she was assisted by volunteer Docents: Mrs. Arthur W. Hart, Miss Gertrude Peabody, Miss Margaret Perry, and Miss Anna D. Slocum. To these ladies the thanks of the Museum are due.

On March 21, Dr. E. S. Palmer lectured before a specially invited audience on Europe of the Sixteenth Century and the Renaissance in Art.

CLASSES HELD IN THE MUSEUM

The class rooms and certain galleries of the Museum are used by many classes throughout the year, the policy of the Museum permitting free use of its collections by accredited teachers. The Museum School lectures and some of its classes are held in the Museum, while many other schools and teachers avail themselves of this privilege. There were 460 sessions of such classes, the average attendance being 25.

A new phase of Museum work was inaugurated in January when a series of twenty evening lectures was given by Mr. Elliott for the salesmen from the stores of Boston. These talks were on the Practical Application of Artistic Principles. The average attendance was 25.

Another new activity was the giving of eight talks by Mrs. Scales, Assistant to the Supervisor of Educational Work. These were on the "Heroes of Greece," a series of stories told on Saturday afternoons and attended by children attracted to the Museum by a poster distributed in the schools. The average attendance was 108.

Under this heading may properly be added the summer story-telling for children from the playgrounds and settlements. Eighty-one groups of children were brought to the Museum and were told stories by Mrs. Cronan and Miss Hopkins. The average attendance was 60; the total, 4,854.

Through the Committee on Education of the Woman's Education Association a course of lectures on the Observation of Pictures by Miss Keyes was arranged for a class of Simmons College students; volunteer docents were secured to help with the children's story hour, and a fund was given for photographs for use in the schools.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM

TO THE TRUSTEES :

Your Committee herewith presents its annual report, together with the report to the Council of the School, for the year 1913-1914.

At a meeting of the Council on October 21, Mrs. Calvin Gates (Marie Danforth) Page was elected a member of the Council.

The reorganization of the faculty, as set forth in the report to the Council, has led to excellent results, particularly in the Department for Design. During the year 1913-1914, and during the fall of 1914, the spirit of industry in the pupils has been marked, and the high standard of work has been more than maintained.

On account of the war Mr. Earl E. Sanborn was unable to avail himself of the opportunities offered by the Paige Scholarship, and Mr. Aldro T. Hibbard, the 1913 appointee, after being twice arrested as a spy, took the advice of the American Consul at Venice and returned in December. It is expected that Mr. Sanborn will be reappointed when conditions are more favorable.

Both last year and this year the number of pupils has been slightly less than for several years before. As a result the income of the School has been somewhat diminished, while its expenses have increased at one or two points. For the year 1914 the Council of the School felt it necessary to ask for somewhat more than the entire annual income of the Billings Fund, and was unable to comply with the vote of the Trustees that $1,000 be added each year to the sinking fund established to restore the principal of the Billings Fund to its full amount. During the present year special economy is being practised; and if, as may reasonably be expected, the present fourth-year class of four pupils in Design is replaced by a class of normal size, the extra demand on the income of the Billings Fund need not continue. That it was possible to reorganize the teaching force of both departments in the School without real loss, either in the number of pupils or in the confidence of the constituency of the School, is striking evidence of the hold it has gained on the community it serves.

ARTHUR FAIRBANKS, Director,
For the Committee of the Trustees

SECRETARY'S REPORT

(SEPTEMBER, 1913—JUNE, 1914)

TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL OF THE SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS.

Sir,—I have the honor of presenting the following report for the School year 1913-1914:

The resignation of Miss Elizabeth Lombard from the Council of the School was accepted with regret. Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer was elected a member of the Council.

Mr. John Singer Sargent accepted the position of adviser to the holders of the Paige Traveling Scholarship, assisting them in London as Mr. Walter Gay does in Paris.

There were 232 students in the School, 98 of whom were newcomers. The Departments of Drawing and Painting and Modeling had 172 pupils; the Department of Design, 60.

Mr. Earl E. Sanborn was awarded the Paige Traveling Scholarship, and Mr. George C. Sturtevant the Cummings Traveling Scholarship. A scholarship of a year's apprenticeship with Mr. Gebelin, silversmith, offered by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, was won by Miss Sybil Foster. Other scholarships were as follows: Helen Hamblen, held by Miss Bessie Paeff; Ellen K. Gardner, held by Miss Adeleine Wolever and Miss Edith L. Widing; Hartford, held by Miss Margaret I. Merriam. Miss Marion L. Pooke occupied the Master's Class studio.

Prizes offered by Dr. Bigelow for paintings inspired by the Persian miniatures in the Ross Collection were won by Earl E. Sanborn, Elizabeth B. Lee, Una Gray, George C. Sturtevant, Marion L. Pooke and Eliza S. Bott. The Julia A. Shaw Memorial Prize offered by the National Academy of Design, New York, was won by Miss Beatrice Whitney, and the picture was bought by Mr. William M. Chase. In two of the largest commercial competitions held this year, both first prizes—one of $2,000, and one of $1,500—were won by past pupils of the School. At the request of the Art Students' League, sixty-two examples of the work of the School were sent to New York for a two weeks' exhibition.

Through the efforts of Mr. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., the painting of a large mural decoration for the study room of the Boston Latin School was entrusted to the pupils of the Interior Decoration section of the Department of Design. Six students, under the guidance of Mr. Elliott, carried to successful completion a decorative landscape, "The Land Where Latin Was Spoken," which has been placed upon the walls of the School.

The lecture courses given by Mr. Hale, Mr. Clark, and Mr. Elliott for the pupils of the School have been attended by many persons not registered as regular students of the School. Mr. Clark's course in composition has been unusually well attended by students of both Departments.

A new phase of school work is to be begun in the fall of 1914. Special afternoon classes for students picked from the high schools will be held, the instructors being Mr. Clark, Mr. McLellan, and Mr. Elliott. Should this develop as is expected, it will add much to the School's usefulness as an important factor in the teaching of art in Boston.

Respectfully submitted,

HUGER ELLIOTT,

Secretary of the Council.
