Earwig's Copyvio Detector Settings

This tool attempts to detect copyright violations in articles. In search mode, it will check for similar content elsewhere on the web using Google, external links present in the text of the page, or Turnitin (via EranBot), depending on which options are selected. In comparison mode, the tool will compare the article to a specific webpage without making additional searches, like the Duplication Detector.

Running a full check can take up to a minute if other websites are slow or if the tool is under heavy use. Please be patient. If you get a timeout, wait a moment and refresh the page.

Be aware that other websites can copy from Wikipedia, so check the results carefully, especially for older or well-developed articles. Specific websites can be skipped by adding them to the excluded URL list.

Zebra

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

For other uses, see Zebra (disambiguation).

Zebras (US: /ˈziːbrəz/, UK: /ˈzɛbrəz, ˈziː-/)[1] (subgenus Hippotigris) are African equines with distinctive black-and-white striped coats. There are three living species: the Grévy's zebra (Equus grevyi), plains zebra (E. quagga), and the mountain zebra (E. zebra). Zebras share the genus Equus with horses and asses, the three groups being the only living members of the family Equidae. Zebra stripes come in different patterns, unique to each individual. Several theories have been proposed for the function of these stripes, with most evidence supporting them as a deterrent for biting flies. Zebras inhabit eastern and southern Africa and can be found in a variety of habitats such as savannahs, us areas.

Honorable mentions

Numbers can’t tell the whole story.

- All respondents agree that Deputy is helpful to the copyright cleanup space
- Multiple respondents wish to see image copyright handling within Deputy
- Many editors appreciated the UI/UX design
- Deputy is sometimes buggy
- All respondents were English Wikipedia users; no respondents indicated a wish to have Deputy in other languages

So, what's next on the menu?

- Integrating Earwig's Copyvio Tool
- Developing a way to make CCI requests easier for newcomers
- … and more bugfixes and features!

but also…

- A bot to automate the 'Copyright problems' noticeboard
- A way to scan old pages for offline copyvios
