CONTROVERSY BITTER OVER ROYAL FUNERAL

Vienna Papers Assert Reception of Bodies at Pochlarn Was Scandalous

VIOLENT THUNDERSTORM SPOILT THE CEREMONY

Firemen Drank Beer and Ate Sausages; Others Smoked Near Coffins

SCENE WAS SIMILAR TO THAT OF COUNTY FAIR

Vienna, July 6.—Now that the bodies of the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, repose beneath the castle chapel at Artstetten, a bitter controversy is raging over the manner in which the funeral was conducted. Moderate opinion inclines to the belief that the court officials made the ceremonial too painfully correct, while the friends of the duchess are indignant at the emphasis laid on her inferior birth.

According to reports published in the leading Vienna papers, the reception of the bodies at Pochlarn, across the Danube, was attended by scandalous proceedings. A violent thunderstorm upset all the prearranged ceremony, and the coffins were hurriedly carried to the waiting room of the station, where they were placed on the stone paved floor, where they remained for two hours or more.

Meanwhile the volunteer firemen, who were supposed to be assisting the local gendarmes in controlling the arrangements, were drinking beer and eating sausages, while many persons strolled about smoking cigars in close proximity to the coffins.

The torrential rain drove everybody into the waiting room, and, says one account, all the ordinary rules of behavior seemed to have been forgotten, and the scene might be described as resembling the turmoil and noise of a country fair.

The coffins were brought to Pochlarn in two freight cars, coupled together. The interior was draped with black cloth. The personal suite of the archduke and the duchess, exhausted by the fatigue of the three previous days, refused to leave the sleeping cars, and the clergy in attendance to bless the bodies were kept awaiting their appearance. It is charged that for the intervention of the emperor, the body of the duchess would not have been permitted in the Hofburg chapel, but would have been conveyed alone from Vienna station to Artstetten.

TIMBER SCALER BERRY HOLDS KEY TO RIDDLE

Unless He Returns to New Brunswick Deportation Will Be Asked of United States.

Frederick, N. B., July 6.—When the royal commission resumes its sessions at St. John on Wednesday, July 15, it is hoped to produce William H. Berry, chief timber scaler of the province, Counsel for the accused of the premier, declare they have done everything possible to bring back Mr. Berry by peaceful methods. A subpoena was served on him several weeks ago, and since then F. B. Carroll, M. P., and personal friends have tried their powers of persuasion over the long distance telephone.

Mr. Berry obtained more than $60,000 from the lumbermen in common with one other witness, E. R. Teed. He knows where that money went after it was raised ostensibly for a campaign fund at a time when there was no campaign in sight.

Mr. Dugal, who launched the charges against Premier Fleming, declares, through counsel, now that if Mr. Berry does not come back voluntarily his deportation will be secured. Complaint will be made to the United States immigration authorities, and on the strength of this his return may be expected.

LIPTON'S CAN NO LONGER SUPPLY BRITISH ARMY

London, July 6.—Baron Lucas, a representative of the government, formally announced in the House of Lords today that Liptons, Ltd., had been removed from the list of contractors for the British army. This step was taken as a consequence of the recent scandal in connection with the army canteen contracts, for which several army officers and civilian employees of Liptons, Ltd., were convicted on charges of receiving and giving bribes.

BISHOP OF LONDON PROTESTS FORCIBLE FEEDING OF WOMEN

London, July 6.—Mrs. Dacre Fox, the suffragette leader, after interrupting the service at Westminster Abbey yesterday with a protest against forcible feeding, was rearrested under the cat and mouse act.

The Bishop of London, who recently visited Holloway jail to investigate the conditions of the imprisoned suffragettes, writes a long letter to the Times, explaining his attitude on the suffragette question. He says that he is strongly opposed to militancy, but is anxious that the weapons of the government should not be tainted; that he strongly opposes forcible feeding and believes it should cease. He contends that all analogies drawn from the forcible feeding of insane prisoners are false when applied to resisting and struggling women, and that the process is incompatible with Christian civilization.

In conclusion the bishop says: "Our sympathy should go out to the great law-abiding army of women who, for years have endeavored to obtain the vote by constitutional means."

CARSON HOPES TO TAKE PEACE TOKEN BACK TO IRELAND

London, July 6.—Speaking at Herne Hill Saturday Sir Edward Carson declared his determination to go on to the finish in the Ulster matter. The people, he said, did not sufficiently realize that the Home Rule bill has been passed and that it could become law on presentation to the king. He presumed the ministers, as straightforward honest men, would tell the king the position, and that if he signed the bill there would be serious commotions in the north of Ireland, and if he did not sign it there would be civil commotions in the south and west.

"Ulstermen," said Sir Edward, "have been making ready for two years, and they are now ready. They want no makeshift government, they want no six-year limit, no county limit. The sands are running out and I am being pressed forward, and I am prepared to go forward. I go to Ulster next week, and I hope still to take a token of peace. If not we must only rely on ourselves, and we will only not shrink from it."

Belfast, Ireland, July 5.—A regiment of volunteers marched through the streets of Belfast yesterday carrying rifles for the first time.

TO STEAM GANGWAY FREE FROM HINDUS

Novel Plan Proposed to Place Solid Five Back on Komagata Maru

APPEAL TO NEXT COURT DEPENDS ON FINANCES

Appearance of Boy Scouts Causes Disturbance Among Dusky Immigrants

DEMONSTRATION MADE AT WHARF BY UNEMPLOYED

Vancouver, July 6.—Whether the Hindus will appeal the decision of Victoria will probably depend upon the amount of money they have to spend on the litigation. Mr. Bird stated today that he was not prepared to say whether the case would be carried higher or not.

The Japanese consul went aboard the Komagata Maru this morning by means of a rope ladder, and Captain Yamamoto, who had obtained his services, followed. The consul has given the Hindus on the ship an ultimatum that they must permit the five marooned ones back on the ship again this afternoon, otherwise stringent measures will be taken.

It is proposed to have a vessel draw up to the Komagata Maru and play a steam jet on the Hindus aboard her if they resist the efforts to have the gang plank lowered and the solid five put back on board.

The situation was discussed this morning by the immigration officials, C. Gardiner-Johnson, representing the Japanese owners of the boat, and the Japanese consul, Y. A. Hori, who was aboard the steamer. When Mr. Hori went up the rope ladder he had the cap of Captain Yamamoto on his head, apparently in an endeavor either to disguise himself from the Hindus unbothered by the immigration officials, or to himself from interested white men watching proceedings from the waterfront.

There was a great noise on the Komagata Maru. The Hindus beat the deck and rails with their clubs, beat their breasts as well, and in short worked themselves into a frenzy. The youthful boy scouts on board the Charlotte en route to Victoria were responsible for it. The Hindus apparently thought that the unformed scouts on the Princess Charlotte were approaching them with the grim purpose of capturing the Maru and taking charge of its passengers. Desperate resistance was resolved on, to judge from all the tom-tom noise that came from the dusky-laden Japanese boat.

That there might have been bloodshed on the waterfront had the Hindus tried to land to-day was shown when the immigration launch bearing the five Hindus marooned the other day from the Maru approached the wharf. Two or three hundred white unemployed men on the shore made a demonstration as the boat came up, being under the impression that the Komagata Maru was landing her passengers.

GRANBY EMPLOYEES ARE CRUSHED BY ROCK SLIDE

Three Men Dead; Scores of Men Working to Recover Bodies of Their Comrades.

Phoenix, B. C., July 6.—Crushed beneath one thousand tons of rock, J. F. McDougall, William Tatham and Frank Riordan were killed at the Granby mines here yesterday morning. Scores of men, with a steam shovel, are endeavoring to find the bodies. The victims were on an electric ore train when the rock fell.

McDougall has been with the Granby company for nearly twelve years. Tatham has been a resident of the camp since it started and leaves a wife and family.

Riordan also has been with the company for a long time. He was the motorman on the ill-fated train at the time of the accident.

J. WALLACE NESBITT, NOTED LAWYER, DEAD

Hamilton, Ont., July 6.—J. Wallace Nesbitt died early this morning after a long illness. He was a brother of Wallace Nesbitt, K. C., of Toronto, and E. W. Nesbitt, M. P. for Woodstock. He was one of the most distinguished barristers in Canada and in his early days a noted criminal lawyer.

Appeal Court Decides Against Claim of Komagata Maru Hindus Immigration Officials Upheld

CHIEF JUSTICE MACDONALD OF B. C. APPEAL COURT WHERE CASE WAS HEARD

REV. DR. SYMONDS ASKS JUSTICE AND LOVE FOR HINDUS

Announces His Conviction That They Should Be Allowed to Emigrate to Canada.

Montreal, July 6.—A plea on moral grounds for the admission of Hindus to Canada was made by Rev. Dr. Symonds in his sermon at Christ Church cathedral last night.

"Our treatment of the Hindus," he said, "seems to me to fall short of the principles of our nation. The men who seek entrance are of a higher type than many who are allowed to come into the country. There is a real need for some outlet for their teeming population. These are reasons for their being allowed into Canada. They are of a different color, but in spite of their color, they belong to the same great Aryan stock from which we have sprung. Their literature is one of the greatest in the world. They are a temperate nation. These things, it seems to me, are a sufficient offset to the mere cry of color."

The preacher touched on the question as to where the line should be drawn in preventing immigration from the Far East, saying that eastern nations such as the Japanese and the Chinese could not possibly be termed uncivilized. There is no fairness, he added, in holding the position that this country must remain entirely for the Anglo-Saxons, who had come to Canada against the will of its former inhabitants, and the British nation had set up its flag in India against the will of that people. The problem, he continued, should be dealt with on Christian principles of justice and love.

"When we forced ourselves on India and China for the sake of gain," Dr. Symonds concluded, "I do not think we can fairly close our doors against them. If we do we are surely violating the first principles of fair play."

METHOD FOR SELECTION OF SCHOLARS CHANGED

Rhodes Trustees Announce Sixteen States of American Union to Be Omitted Yearly.

London, July 6.—With the object of giving to Oxford University a new contingent of American students every year, the Rhodes trustees to-day announced a change in the method of selecting scholars. Instead of as hitherto choosing from the forty-eight states in two consecutive years and skipping the third year, the scholars will be chosen yearly in future from two-thirds of the states.

The sixteen states to be omitted at the 1916 examinations are Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming. From these states scholars will be selected in 1917, when another sixteen states will be omitted.

REFORM HOUSE OF LORDS

London, June 6.—Premier Asquith stated in the House of Commons to-day that the proposals for the reforming of the House of Lords would be presented to the Commons before the end of the session.

Orders-in-Council Under Which Department Authorities Acted Are Declared Valid—Canada as Nation Makes the Law and Courts Are Authorized to See Its Provisions Carried Out

The appeal of the Hindu passenger on the Komagata Maru, Munshi Singh, to the British Columbia Court of Appeal has failed, and the three hundred and fifty-two immigrants on board the ship will have to return with their leader, Gurdit Singh, to the place from which they came.

The orders-in-council under which the immigration board of inquiry in the cases of the Komagata's passengers have been acting are declared by the court to be valid in every particular.

Except in the cases of persons who are Canadian citizens or have a Canadian domicile there is no power in any court to review or quash any order made by a board of inquiry, as set out in section 23 of the Immigration Act.

Canada Holds Powers of a Nation

On all these points the five members of the court, Chief Justice Macdonald, Hon. Justices Irving, Martin, Gallihier and McPhillips were unanimous.

Mr. Justice McPhillips, in closing his written judgment, said he was of opinion that the court could make the pronouncement that Canada is a nation, complete in herself, with power to pass any law which the Imperial parliament may pass and implement such statutes, and that parliament having acted in a national crisis, all that remained for the court to do, is to see that the law is carried out.

There was a crowded attendance in the dingy court of appeal chamber this forenoon to hear the judgment, which their lordships had announced at the close of hearing arguments last week would be given to-day. Among these were the law students who were to be called a little later, and four Hindus. One of the latter, in European attire, sat by himself at one side of the room and three turbaned Sikhs sat together at the other side.

Chief Justice Macdonald was brief in his statement of the decision of the court, which was, he said, that the appeal should be dismissed. The case came before the court, he went on, as an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Murphy, who refused the issue of a writ of habeas corpus asked for at the instance of Munshi Singh. The chief justice gave his reason for so holding at length in his written judgment. The result was, in his opinion, that the British North America Act vested in the parliament of Canada sovereign power over immigration into the Dominion, that that power extended to the exclusion of those born in the United Kingdom as well as any others, that each of the orders-in-council relied on by the immigration authorities in this matter was authorized by the Immigration Act, and that each of them was valid, that the board of inquiry acted within its jurisdiction and that its decision was not open to review except by the minister of the interior.

Mr. Justice Irving touched on the sections of the B. N. A. Act relating to immigration, giving to the federal authority absolute power in matters of naturalization and aliens. In respect to matters so delegated to the Dominion it followed that this supererogated the imperial authority, and under authority so conferred the Dominion had the right to exclude aliens. It seemed to him plain beyond question that Canada has power to make laws for the exclusion and expulsion, also of British subjects, whether these came from Calcutta or London, and that the same steps could be taken in respect to any European race should parliament deem proper. His lordship next cited the classes of people who might be excluded or deported and the reasons for which they might be so excluded or deported. Under the authority of the act three orders-in-council had been passed dealing with this matter, one (23) prohibiting the entry of any immigrants who had come otherwise than by a continuous journey from the country of origin, the second (24) prohibiting the entry of Asiatic races unless they had in their own right a certain amount of money, and a third (27) prohibiting the entry into this province of artisans or skilled or unskilled laborers between March 31 and September 30 of the present year, irrespective of race or any other consideration.

For non-compliance with each of these orders-in-council, his lordship continued, one Munshi Singh, a Punjabi, was refused permission to land and ordered deported. Presumably he was held in custody somewhere pending deportation, but it was not represented to the court that he was under restraint. The cases governing the matter laid down that where a writ of habeas corpus was applied for there must be an affidavit that the person in whose behalf it was asked was under restraint. This omission showed that the true point for the consideration of the court was not appreciated. That point was whether he was illegally restrained; it was not whether he ought to be admitted. That was not a court of appeal from the board of inquiry but on the point of whether or not he was illegally restrained.

The three orders-in-council were not prohibitions, as had been claimed by counsel for the Hindus, but showed how an immigrant might come in—by direct route, by having enough money or by being exempt from the special prohibition in the case of B. C. and laborers. They were truly regulations and because they might be prohibitive as to the landing of people under certain conditions did not lose their standing as regulations. Even if the orders-in-council were positive prohibitions he believed they would be sanctioned by statute. The arguments made as to the first two orders he considered had no weight. On the third it was argued by Mr. Cassidy that there was no evidence that Munshi Singh was an unskilled laborer, and it was complained that his evidence had been rejected.

"Courts," remarked his lordship, "frequently refuse the evidence of men as trustworthy, where the onus is on them. The point is not what Munshi Singh was in India, but what he would be here, and I think the board was right in coming to the conclusion that he will be an unskilled laborer in this country."

On the arguments as to constitutionality made by counsel for the appellant, his lordship said that where the power to prevent and prohibit or expel was given to a legislative body that carried with it all powers necessary to exercise that right. Where the Dominion entered the field it did so fully and to the exclusion of the provinces. Section 23 of the Immigration act dealt with two classes of people, those who were Canadian citizens or had a Canadian domicile and any rejected immigrant. With respect to the first class the rights of the civil courts to intervene had not been taken away; as a class they had the right to have their case heard by way of certiorari. As to the second class these rights he should not say had been taken away; they never existed. The right of certiorari existed where there was want of jurisdiction or fraud. The courts could inquire as to the facts and decide; as to the merits the tribunal appointed for the purpose was the sole judge. Once it was established that a man was a rejected immigrant or passenger and had not Canadian citizenship or a Canadian domicile then the civil courts had no jurisdiction to investigate the correctness of that decision. Therefore the present appeal should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice Gallihier announced their concurrence with their brother judges, for the reasons which were set forth in their written judgments. Both remarked that all the orders-in-council were valid and the decision of Mr. Justice Murphy upheld. The court was correct.

Mr. Justice McPhillips, concurring for reasons which were contained in his manuscript and had not yet been typewritten, added:

"I have looked upon this question as one momentous in character and which is exercising a great deal of public attention. Shortly, my view is that the courts are absolutely inhibited from interfering with the proceedings under the Immigration act; that the meaning of the statute is so plain and the words are so apt that no other conclusion can be come to. However,

CHINA EXPORT FIELD FOR CANADIAN GOODS

Trade Commissioner Reports on Orientals' Desire for Certain Articles

Ottawa, July 6.—That the Chinese are now clamoring for the luxuries of civilization, and that they will provide a wide market with their millions of population for Canadian goods of a varied range is the statement contained in the report of Trade Commissioner Ross, of Yokohama, published in the week's trade and commerce report. Mr. Ross states that the orientals are expressing the desire for articles which they see other, use and that once the fashion is set a large demand will set in for special kinds of goods and articles.

Among the Canadian products for which he states a ready market can be found in China, are lumber, fish, flour, condensed milk, apples, heating stoves, railway construction materials, ale and beer, shovels, picks, cheese and other products.

It is said that such goods as are sent for sale in the Chinese markets should be marked with a distinctive trademark which would strike the Oriental mind, and which should be continued unchanged after the fashion of its use had once been set.

WOMEN'S OPINIONS ON MILITANCY CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Fawcett and Lady Balfour Write to London Times on Equal Suffrage

London, July 6.—In contrast to the manner in which the women's militant campaign for enfranchisement is dealt with by the government, the press, and the people generally, Mrs. Fawcett, writing to the Times on behalf of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, points to problems within the empire bearing analogy to the women's demand for enfranchisement, which have been solved, or at least considered, in a liberal manner, by a Liberal government.

She puts the women's revolutionary campaign on the same level of importance as those movements in India and Egypt which have called for statesmanlike handling by Lord Morley and Lord Kitchener. Having focused the women's movement as a problem of empire, Mrs. Fawcett declares the conviction of the National Union that mere severity of punishment will never solve the problem of militancy.

She quotes Bacon's maxim to the effect that the surest way of preventing seditions is to take away the matter of them. In Egypt and in India the campaign of militancy which the government had to face was a far more terrible one than that of the Women's Social and Political Union. In both cases the infliction of punishment for the commission of crime was accompanied by measures which dealt with the cause which had provoked them. Why not, demands Mrs. Fawcett, try the same treatment for the militant problem of the present moment?

Another letter written by Lady Frances Balfour, also to the Times, considers the solution of the militant problem from the point of view of social expediency. "And what of the militant suffragists," she asks. "To read the list of their misdemeanors without context or history is to read of the doings of Bedlam, but if history is to be written from the columns of the Times, there should follow an article tracing the story of the suffrage movement, peaceful and law abiding, for the last 50 years, and in greater detail for the last 10 years.

"Has the government, in particular, and the people of this country as a whole, not manufactured this body of political degenerates? It has sown a crop of disappointed hopes, of broken promises, of persistent blindness and neglect, the claims set forth by the unenfranchised half of the democracy. It has refused to listen to the temperate advocate in parliament, to the representations of the majority of the educated in the country.

"They have sown, and they reap the knowledge that in the very life of the people there is a discontent which is causing a madness and crime, at variance with everything which should be upheld in a state which calls itself Christian."

For a remedy to this situation Lady Frances Balfour turns to the passage of the reform bill in 1832. Let the same consideration be bestowed on the 'signs of the times,' she says, as was given to the problems of the democracy before the reform bill of 1832, and this sore and scandal in our midst will be removed.

The enforcement of the Cat and Mouse act, the raiding of the offices of the militant organization, and the contemplated action against subscribers to the Suffragette, the militant organ, constitute, so far, the governmental measures for coping with a situation which grows in intensity and seriousness.

JOSEPH MARTIN IS TO SAIL NEXT SATURDAY

Member for East St. Pancras Will Live Permanently in British Columbia.

London, Eng., July 6.—Joseph Martin stated yesterday that he will sail on the Aquitania Saturday to reside permanently in Canada. He will remain a member of the Commons for East St. Pancras, however, until the next general election.

A certain amount of friction has existed for some time between Mr. Martin and his political chiefs and a section of his supporters in the constituency, over the independent attitude he adopted over certain questions, notably when he voted against the government on the Marconi question. In this connection he offered to resign his seat and fight on his own account, but received an intimation from the chief government whip that in such a case another official Liberal candidate would be brought forward against him.

KING GEORGE MAY GIVE MRS. CHAMBERLAIN TITLE

London, July 6.—It is reported that King George is likely posthumously to honor the late Joseph Chamberlain, who died on Thursday night, by conferring a title on his widow. Mr. Chamberlain always refused to accept a title.

The dean of Westminster has offered to the family interment in Westminster Abbey for the dead statesman, but his relatives have decided to abide by his wishes and have him buried at Birmingham.

Relief at Once Cure Certain

Conclusive Evidence That Dr. Chase's Ointment Cures Itching Piles.

Mr. John G. McDonald, Pictou, N. S., writes: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles, and found that the first application gave relief. After using a few boxes of the ointment I was completely cured, and can recommend it highly to all sufferers from this disease. You have my permission to use this letter for the benefit of others."

Mr. James M. Douglass, Superior Junction, Ont., writes: "For about six years I suffered from piles, and often could not work for two or three days at a time, so great was the suffering from pain and itching. Doctors treated me in vain, and I tried many treatments before I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me, and for several months I have had no return of this annoying ailment."

There can be no doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment obtainable for every form of piles. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Bristol, Eng., July 6.—Frederick E. Smith, M.P., one of the Ulster leaders, speaking at an anti-Home Rule meeting, said that the House of Lords would so amend the amending bill as to make the exclusion of Ulster terminable only when Ulster said "We want to come in."

THINK TENEMENT BOMB WAS FOR ROCKEFELLER

Explosion in New York Occurred in Room Where Bombs Were Made

New York, July 6.—In the ruins of the tenement wrecked on Saturday by the explosion of a bomb, which it is believed was intended for use against John D. Rockefeller or his son, the authorities found evidence to-day that Arthur Caron, who was killed, with three others, had used his apartment as a centre for the distribution of inflammatory literature, and that it was filled with death-dealing explosives.

A small printing press, revolutionary pamphlets and circulars, an electric dynamo, two electric batteries, cart-ridges and bits of steel were among the articles found, which tend, in the opinion of the police, to show an anarchistic plot. That the bomb was intended to be used against the Rockefeller family in Tarrytown is the theory upon which the authorities are working.

Two of those killed in the wrecked apartment were prominent agitators, who were to be placed on trial at Tarrytown to-morrow on charges of disorderly conduct in connection with the demonstration inaugurated against John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as a protest against his attitude in the Colorado mine strike.

The body of the fourth victim of the explosion was found yesterday. It was that of Charles Berg, known in I. W. W. circles as the big Swede, an associate of Caron. The other victims were Charles Hanson and Mary Claves. The woman lived in an apartment next to the one occupied by Caron and his associates.

The assertion was made by I. W. W. leaders that Caron was not a member of the organization, having recently been refused admission. Why Caron was denied a place among the Workers was not made clear.

A gruesome but suggestive piece of evidence uncovered was a severed hand which clutched two small pieces of wire ready for connection. The authorities believe that the owner of this hand was in the act of making an electric connection for one of the bombs and a battery when the explosion slew him.

Alexander Berkman, anarchist and associate with Emma Goldman in the publication of Mother Earth, an anarchistic paper, who was on the stand for a long time yesterday, said that none of the dead men were members of the I. W. W. and that the agitation they had conducted was on behalf of the striking miners in Colorado.

A party of sympathizers, including Berkman, will go to Tarrytown to-day, he said, to attend the trials. No unusual precautions to guard the Tarrytown courtroom have been taken.

John D. Rockefeller went to church yesterday morning at Pocantico Hills. He motored to church but insisted upon walking back to his estate, accompanied only by his superintendent. There were no I. W. W. agitators about the place.

ROBERT M. BOYD DIED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Canadian and Railway Man Well Known in Northwest Began With C. P. R.

Seattle, July 6.—Robert M. Boyd, 45 years old, general agent of the freight department of the Milwaukee route, a resident of Seattle since 1888, died at his apartments in this city at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With him when he passed away were his two sisters, Miss Eleanor Boyd and Mrs. G. R. Webster, of Toronto, Canada, and George P. Cave, the latter general agent of the Rock Island lines and Mr. Boyd's roommate for 30 years.

Just before he died Mr. Boyd held out his hand to his old friend and whispered his last words: "Goodbye George."

Besides his sisters, he is survived by a brother, John Wesley Boyd, of San Francisco, and a nephew, C. G. Webster, of New Denver, B. C.

R. M. Boyd was born in Brockville, Ont. He entered the railroad service on the C. P. R. when 14 years old. He came to Seattle in 1888 and took a minor position in the local freight office of the Northern Pacific.

THOUSANDS AT FUNERAL OF JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN

Great Crowds Line Route—Service is Private at Late Statesman's Desire.

Birmingham, Eng., July 6.—The body of Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain was buried to-day in Hockley cemetery in the constituency he long represented in the House of Commons. A memorial service was attended by the lord mayor of Birmingham, the members of the city council and other civic dignitaries.

Apart from the civic element, the mourners at both the church and the cemetery consisted solely of members of the Chamberlain family, as the late statesman had expressed the desire that the funeral should be free from everything of a public nature.

Nothing, however, could prevent a great crowd of the citizens of Birmingham from lining the route along which the funeral passed from the residence at Highbury to the church and from there to the cemetery.

London, July 6.—Simultaneously with the burial in Birmingham, memorial services for the late Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain were held in St. Margaret's church, Westminster. Premier Asquith, the members of his cabinet, many of the late Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues in the House of Commons, and members of the House of Lords and of the foreign diplomatic corps attended.

LOSSES ARE ESTIMATED IN CHAPLIN COMPANIES

London, July 6.—H. S. Hoover, the new chairman in the place of A. M. Grenfell, of the Camp Bird and Santa Gertrudis companies, has issued a lengthy circular dealing with the position of the two companies as affected by the recent failures of the Chaplin Milne Grenfell company and the Canadian agencies. In the case of Camp Bird, Mr. Hoover is of the opinion that the total loss will not exceed $10,000, but the Santa Gertrudis loss may reach $27,000.

UNITED KINGDOM TRAVEL INWARD AND OUTWARD

London, July 6.—Emigration and immigration figures for the United Kingdom last year are published. According to to-day's return outward passengers totalled 1,800,000, over 150,000 less than the previous year, while inward passengers totalled 1,600,000, nearly 200,000 more than the previous year.

Drumming up Business

WHEN the hot weather comes, wise business men will add to their selling efforts rather than reduce them.

They will do extraordinary things to stimulate trade, and will make their offerings exceptionally attractive as to both kind and price.

The merchants of this community whose business will keep up this summer will solicit business by the most expeditious and least expensive of all known methods—newspaper advertising. Advertising is a drum, an instrument of attention and incitement; a resonant thing that calls to action.

Buyers wait on the call of advertising to spend their money. They look for the summons to them in the columns of their newspapers. The newspaper is the instructor and director of the public. For a merchant to shut his eyes to this fact is costly blindness.

Tell the public of this community about your offerings and service for the summer months. Tempt them in various ways. They have as much money to spend in summer as at other times, and are willing to spend, but they must be shown what to spend on and for.

The supreme medium of appeal is the daily newspaper.

You can obtain helpful advice on advertising free of cost and without obligation by consulting the Business Department of the Times.

HUERTA AND ZAPATA MAY FORM ALLIANCE

Yesterday Was Election Day in the Federal Area of Mexican Republic

Mexico City, July 6.—The elections for president, vice-president, deputies and senators were held yesterday in that portion of the republic controlled by the Huerta government. Indifference was manifested everywhere.

President Huerta, it is reported, received a virtually unanimous vote of confidence. The returns indicate the re-election of all the present members of the chamber of deputies and the senate.

Vera Cruz, Mex., July 6.—It is rumored here that an alliance between Provisional President Huerta and Emiliano Zapata, the revolutionary leader, is to be formed soon. Both here and in the capital the conviction exists that a crisis is imminent, but only vague explanations are offered for the fear that the next few days will see a development.

Mexicans prominent in the political, commercial and social life of the capital are joining in increasing strength the army of fugitives. Several foreigners other than British have taken the advice of Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, to get out of what he regards as dangerous territory.

Two special trains, with the blinds of the sleeping cars drawn, left the capital for Puerto Mexico Friday night and Saturday morning, respectively, according to persons who arrived here from Mexico City to-day. Among the passengers are said to have been General Joaquin Maas, Jr., and his family, and Querido Moheño, former minister of commerce.

It is reported that Jorge Huerta, son of the president, and one of Huerta's daughters, also were on one of the trains. It is understood that the president's wife remained in the capital. Mexicans from the capital report that they heard that she would not abandon her husband.

That General Huerta proposes to repeat the virtually compulsory choice of himself and General Blanquet for the presidency and vice-presidency, respectively, as he did last year, is the story brought here to-day by a judge from Jalapa. He said he had received instructions to prepare the ballots in the usual manner, but to see that all votes cast were for Huerta and Blanquet.

One of the theories suggested for any alliance Huerta may be able to make with Zapata is that with the support of this chieftain he may be able to hold off for many months the constitutionalists from the north.

CAPTURED MEN ADMIT THEY HELD UP TRAIN

Two Are in Custody and Much Loot is Found Where Robbery Occurred

Pendleton, Ore., July 6.—With the capture of two suspects at Higgar, Ore., and their confessions yesterday as to complicity in the holdup of the Oregon-Washington R. R. & N. company's train No. 5 last Thursday at Meacham, Ore., and the recovery of most of the loot, the hunt for the highway men suddenly but successfully has ended. The arrested men are Albert Meadows, of Louisville, Ky., and Clarence Stoner, of Lincoln county, Wyoming. Stoner says he is a cousin of Hugh Whitney, at one time thought to be the dead bandit.

The arrested men say the dead bandit is Charles Manning, of Wyoming, and that Manning carried a watch given him by Whitney several years ago, and on which Whitney's name was inscribed. The booty recovered consists of diamond rings, other jewelry, money, cheques and express orders taken in the robbery. All had been cached in the timber near the scene of the robbery. Meadows said he held the bag for the passengers' money and valuables.

F. W. Stoffes has arrived here from Cokeville, Wyo., and identified the dead bandit as his brother-in-law, Charles Manning. The holdup took place last Thursday morning between 11 and 12 o'clock on a lonely pass of the O.-W. R. R. & N. right-of-way in the Blue mountains country near Meacham, Ore. George McDuffey, a deputy sheriff of Heppner, Ore., who was a passenger in the day coach, killed Manning and received a flesh wound from which he is recovering.

ALASKA NORTHERN IS TO BE OPENED TO MILE 71

Line for Use of Engineers Engaged Locating Route for New Alaska Railroad.

Seward, Alaska, July 6.—Col. Swantz announced last night that the line of the Alaska Northern railroad will be opened as far as Mile 71 this summer for the use of the government engineers who are working between Seward and Ship Creek, surveying for a suitable route for the Alaska railroad authorized by act of congress. One of the government crews is now working at Mile 45, but will move out along the line as soon as the railroad has been repaired enough to transport supplies to the front. The telephone is being overhauled and will be in operation as far as Kern Creek, or Mile 71, next week.

General Manager Herbert Tostler, of the Alaska Northern railroad, and Major John E. Ballantine will leave Seward soon for the terminus of the line, going overland to Portage Bay to make an examination of that place during the summer.

THE APPEAL DISMISSED.

In rendering its judgment on the East Indian application to-day the Court of Appeal unanimously found that not only were the orders-in-council upon the authority of which the applicant Munshi Singh was ordered for deportation valid in every particular, but that under Section 23 of the Immigration Act no court had any power to review or quash a decision of a properly constituted board of inquiry except under the conditions specified in the section.

The decision of the court relative to the jurisdiction of the courts sustains the contention expressed by the Times at the time the government authorized its counsel to agree to the presentation of a stated case. Section 23 reads as follows:

"No court, and no judge or officer thereof, shall have jurisdiction to review, quash, reverse, restrain or otherwise interfere with any proceeding, decision or order of the Minister or of any board of inquiry, or officer in charge, had, made or given under the authority and in accordance with the provisions of this act relating to the detention or deportation of any rejected immigrant, passenger or any other person, upon any ground whatsoever, unless such person is a Canadian citizen or has Canadian domicile."

It is the opinion of Sir Robert Jordan's Minister of Justice that this section is constitutional and that therefore the courts have no jurisdiction to review or quash the finding of the immigration board of inquiry.

Why, then, did the government authorize its officers to agree to the commencement of legal proceedings unless it was for the purpose of dodging responsibility for the enforcement of the act? What is the immigration act for if not to be carried out?

A PROVINCIAL ELECTION?

A dispatch from Ottawa on Saturday stated that an election in this province in August was being talked about. We do not think it improbable that there will be an appeal to the electorate some time this year. Everything will depend upon the nature of the report brought back by the Attorney-General and the Minister of Lands. If they think the machine is in fair running order and the outlook impresses them as favorable, it is not unlikely that there will be a campaign in the fall. If, on the other hand, they find the gear stripped and dissatisfaction rife throughout the country, they will advise a postponement of the contest until after another session in order to give them an opportunity to overcome any handicap which may exist by stacking the cards.

It is now definitely certain that the Attorney-General is slated for succession to Sir Richard as first minister. We think it may be taken for granted that the Premier intends to relinquish office whether he obtains the Canadian High Commissionership in London or not. He sees clouds looming up on the horizon, he knows the debacle cannot be delayed very long, and he does not care to be buried in the debris. The Attorney-General, however, is willing to run the risk of inundation. Once elected, he calculates upon security of tenure for five years, the legislature considerably having lengthened the span of the next house by a year, and in five years one can do a great deal and a great many.

But if the Attorney-General is ready to take chances with his political future we question if the electorate are willing to take chances with the Attorney-General or anybody else in charge of that barnacled ship across James Bay. They have had enough and cannot contemplate without a shudder the prospect of a continuation of the existing regime for five years—five more years in which the province would be wrecked almost beyond redemption by the machine and those who have been fattening off its activities. Probably as much damage to our prospects would be done in that period as the McBride administration has done in the last decade. Our agricultural industry is now hanging by a thread. That thread would be severed altogether with the Hon. W. J. as Premier, for was it not he who laid down the dictum that "the speculator must have his chance"?

We assume that the government at Ottawa would like to see an election in British Columbia as soon as possible. It is anxious to learn for its own comfort and convenience if the water is warm or cold. If the people of this province consult their best interests they will reject both administrations. The policies of both have accelerated hard times. In neither case are the affairs of the country being administered for the benefit of the people at large. One seems to regard itself as a brokerage establishment for speculators, the other is the obedient instrument of the trusts, and both are rubber stamps manipulated by Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann.

INDISCREET MINISTERS.

President Wilson's request for the resignation of the United States minister to Greece and Montenegro was not surprising in view of that officer's indiscreet statements criticizing the conduct of affairs in Albania. Mr. Williams apparently did not appreciate the responsibility devolving upon him as the diplomatic representative of his government. He probably thought it quite within the rules to do some newspaper man a favor.

Uncle Sam's diplomatic service abroad, in a general sense, is still in a primitive state. While it is true that American ambassadors to the great powers often have been men of ability and tact and in not a few instances have acquitted themselves with distinction, they are not the product of a training school of diplomacy such as that from which Great Britain recruits her ministers to foreign nations. They are, for the most part, political appointees who learn the duties of their offices from the permanent under secretaries maintained at the various legations. These important posts, so intimately associated with the foreign policy of the country, should be removed from the arena of party politics. The United States is big and powerful enough to have a diplomatic service filled with capable men indifferent to all else but the interests of their country from which her ambassadorial representatives could be selected. Politicians who at home devote much of their activities to getting their names into the newspaper headlines are not likely to abandon the habit when they are appointed to representative positions abroad. In Secretary Bryan's opinion the chief qualification of a successful foreign minister seems to be that he should have rendered effective service to the Democratic cause in his own state.

ELECTIONS IN MEXICO.

Although the elections for president, vice-president, deputies and senators, which were held in Mexico yesterday, may result in the return of Huerta, Blanquet and their followers, the fact will not arrest the developments now in progress in the revolution-torn republic. Huertan majorities simply mean that the few who are permitted to vote mark their ballots under instruction and compulsion for the existing regime. Much greater significance may be attached to the warnings to British subjects to leave the Mexican capital which have been issued by Sir Lionel Carden, His Majesty's minister to the republic, and the preparations under way for the protection of the foreign legations. These imply that an uprising in Mexico City against Huerta is imminent and a nominal victory for the dictator at the polls may be the signal for its commencement.

The reconciliation between Carranza and Villa has deprived Huerta of the prospect of gaining advantage from a split in the ranks of the enemy. Carranza evidently feared that the nearer Villa drew to the capital the more attenuated became his own authority over the constitutional forces. The general's signal victory at Zacatecas, the most conclusive of the whole struggle, determined Carranza to bring the situation to a climax, so he shut off Villa's supplies from the north until an understanding was arrived at. This has now been effected. Carranza is confirmed as head of the constitutional movement and Villa is commander-in-chief of the military forces of the northern revolution. The latter will not be hampered in his operations against the federals and no doubt will continue his progress southward with characteristic energy.

But what will happen when Mexico City falls into the hands of the constitutionalists? As chief of a successful revolution Carranza naturally will expect to become the nation's head, and Villa, to whom very largely he owes his success, probably will demand for his reward the post of war minister, which would make him the dominating element in the government. The world could not overlook Carranza's claims and Carranza could not ignore those of Villa. Both must ride in the same boat, no matter how black Villa's record may be. In any event it is no worse than that of Diaz.

What Mexico needs, and has needed for years, is a policy of development in the interests of the Mexican people, instead of one based upon the selfish interests of a business partnership between the government and foreign investors. A busy people have no time for revolutions. Napoleon, who knew something of popular upheavals, showed his appreciation of this fact by breaking up the large estates and encouraging the people to go on the land. Outside investors, no doubt, would be scandalized at the suggestion that their special privileges should be abolished in the interests of the untutored and half-civilized people of the country, but until this is done the condition of Mexico never will be improved and revolutions will continue to be the popular form of relaxation.

THE MENACE.

An American philosopher writes to the New York Sun: "Yes, sir; we're too durned civilized. They ain't nothin' left to breed the old type. What we need is some iron in our civilization." Signs are multiplying that soon we shall have plenty of iron in our civilization in British Columbia. It is coming from the Far East, and our government has not the backbone—the iron in its system—to stop it. One thing is sure: If British Columbia cannot be safeguarded against immigration from Asiatic countries, the white man's burden soon will become so heavy that we shall have practically no immigration from white men's countries. Then the old type will pass, giving place to one still older but new to the conditions which our civilization demands. This is a matter of vital concern to the people of British Columbia alone. Eastern Canada is indifferent about it. The Dominion government regards the matter as a bore, as a tempest in a teapot. The statesmen of Great Britain are interested in it only so far as there is a possibility of its affecting relations with India, and naturally India with her teeming millions of people and immense trade is of more consequence than a distant section of the Empire containing less than half a million people. When the future of a province such as British Columbia is menaced, the time has gone by for academic discussions of abstract principles. We have had plenty of promises and professions from those in authority and responsible, but that is all. There has been no action consistent with the gravity of the case.

As soon as the Colonel got back from hunting big game and big rivers he took up his Big Stick and went after bigger game at home. He set out to "get" President Wilson. And the curious thing is that all the Big Trusts lined up behind him. Another remarkable fact is that when he was in power he was the avowed enemy of the trusts, so the conclusion is inevitable that all his former antagonism to them merely was feigned. Which accounts for the circumstance that during the Colonel's tenure of office the Big Interests flourished exceedingly. The Big Stick with which he pounded them was stuffed. Is the Colonel, like our own Colonel, one of the greatest fakers of our times?

The Hamburg-American line has contributed another Leviathan to the Atlantic transportation service. The Bismarck, launched at Hamburg by the maker ten days ago, is larger even than the Vaterland. She is of 60,000 tons, 855 feet in length and 100 feet in beam. During the launching the Kaiser averted what superstitious ones believed was an omen of evil. The Countess von Bismarck did not succeed in breaking the bottle of champagne over the vessel's prow, with the result that it remained dangling on its ribbon. The Kaiser, however, leaped forward, seized the bottle and smashed it against the hull, thus saving the day, and in the opinion of some, no doubt, the ship also.

Lacrosse is dead, practically, in British Columbia, and the team which for years was supreme has hung up its sticks. The game is moribund in the east also, the young men of the country showing a preference for baseball. There is a reason for this, and it is not hard to find, as all who remember lacrosse as it was and see what it is now is, know. But we suspect that Sir John Willison will write to the London Times lamenting this condition of affairs as further evidence of the decadence of Imperialism and growth of "Americanization" of our institutions.

The Toronto Star on the day of the Ontario elections announced that two thousand two hundred women, members of the W. C. T. U., were praying for the defeat of the Whitney government. And the Whitney government was confirmed in power by a big majority. As not a single opposition candidate was elected in Toronto, it is easy to figure out what the men were doing while the women were presenting their invocations.

"TAKING IT LIKE A MAN."

To the Editor, London News. Sir, do you seriously expect your readers to believe the report in your issue of Thursday to the effect that Alderman Pinkham, at the Willenden police court, refused to grant a summons to a school-boy who had refused to hold out his hand in order that a schoolmaster might strike it with a cane, on the ground that "if the boy had taken his punishment like a man he would not have been caned on the back?" The boy did exactly what a man would have done. No magistrate could possibly have been so foolish as to make such a comment on a case of the whole point of which was that a boy claimed an adult's right of freedom from assault and demanded the legal remedy of an adult. What Alderman Pinkham must have said was "if the applicant had taken his punishment like a child he would not, etc." Really your reporter ought to be more careful.—G. Bernard Shaw, London, May 28

PARSON ON MILITARY TRAINING.

London Citizen. Speaking yesterday afternoon at Bow church, Chapside, on "War and Social Service," Rev. Dr. Lawrence said that by a large number of people some of them very excellent people, training for war and the constant development of the military spirit was regarded as the one supreme and all embracing social service. Apparently, then all would be well with England when her male children without exception had made themselves expert in the most approved method of slaughtering their fellows, and when their female children had learned how best to tend their wounds and send them back most quickly into the fighting line. While it was true that military training might in some cases improve people, it was also true that the good it achieved might be obtained more effectively by other means. The notion that military service was the only alternative to luxury and self-indulgence was very prevalent, although it was demonstrably false.

THE BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY.

H. N. Brailsford in "The War of Steel and Gold." A trading community, like early Victorian England, which can still profitably employ the services of its ships and ships becomes indifferent to the acquisition of territory, and even tends to regard the colonies previously acquired as a useless encumbrance. That was the normal state of mind, and even the Liberal classes during the middle years of last century. They dealt in goods, and in order to sell goods abroad it was not necessary either to colonize or to conquer. To this phase belong the typical foreign policy of Liberalism, with its watchwords of peace, non-intervention and free trade. The third phase, the modern phase, begins when capital has accumulated in large fortunes, when the rate of interest at home begins to fall, and the discovery is made that investment abroad in unsettled countries with populations more rapidly increasing than our own offer swifter and bigger returns. It is the epoch of concession hunting, of coolie labor, of chartered companies, of railway construction, of loans to semi-civilized powers, of the "opening up" of "dying empires." At this phase the export of capital has become to the ruling class more important and more attractive than the export of goods. The Manchester school disappears, and even the Liberals accept imperialism. The new imperialism lends money at interest.

SUSPICION MUTUAL.

Harper's. A carpenter sent to make some repairs in a private house entered the apartment of the lady of the house with his apprentice and began to work. "Mary," the lady said to her maid, "see that my jewel-case is locked up at once." The carpenter understood. He removed his watch and chain from his vest in a significant manner and handed them to his apprentice. "John," said he, "take these right back to the shop. It seems that this house isn't safe."

PROTECTION AND CORRUPTION.

Grain Growers' Guide. Probably in no other country in the empire have the interests of the democracy been so studiously neglected by their chosen representatives in Parliament, and a supreme proof of that neglect is the miserable, sordid story of political chicanery and intrigue which envelops the history of the Canadian tariff since Confederation. To-day it is safe to assert that a very large proportion of the politicians of both sides of the House at Ottawa are vitally interested in stifling all attempts to raise the economic issue.

WAGE SLAVERY.

Private property in land differs from slavery only in its form... and it has the same purpose and effect, that of compelling some men to work for others.—Henry George, Oct. 12, 1892.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, July 6, 1889.

The annual report of the British Columbia Board of Trade, presented to the members, regrets the lack of sufficient unskilled labor at a moderate cost, the unduly severe customs tariff, and the absence of a neighboring market for products, as detrimental to commercial development.

Work has commenced for the erection of a fine brick building on Johnson street for Mr. William Grimm. The building will have three stories and a basement, and the cost will be $12,000.

Got 'Liquor.—Steve, an old Indian, was fined $25 in the police court this morning with the option of one month in jail for being found unlawfully in possession of an intoxicant. Asked as to where he got the spirit from, he pointed his index finger to a bespectacled Chinaman in the box beside him.

Thistles Grew.—For allowing thistles to grow on his property in Fairfield, a fine of $5 was registered against W. H. Dougan by Magistrate Jay this morning.

Fifth Troop Outing.—Fifth troop, boy scouts, had an outing at Willow beach on Saturday afternoon, under Scoutmaster W. H. Johns, and visited the residences of W. C. Cunningham and Henry Gilbert. Mr. Cunningham gave the boys instruction in pitching and striking tents. On the troop's excursion to Mayne island on Dominion day it was inspected by Rev. and Mrs. Paddon, who expressed their sense of its efficiency. Several new scouts were sworn in and a number of badges presented to scouts who had won them. Scout S. Blyth won a medal in the obstacle race at the sports.

Hurt in Runaway.—When his horse ran away on Superior street Friday after taking fright at something, Wilfrid Nicholas, the driver, was thrown from his seat heavily and alighted on his back in the middle of the roadway. It was thought by those who saw him fall and ran to his assistance that he was killed, but before they got over to him he was up again, dazed and shaken but without any bones broken. After securing his horse, which had been stopped a short distance further on, he went off to secure aid to bring in the wagon, which had lost a wheel and one of the shafts.

He left his wife and child on December 17 last and was last heard from in the Rainier hotel, Vancouver, on Christmas day and the day after. His wife is very anxious to hear from or of him, and to go to him if he is not returning here. When in Victoria he was working for an insurance company, but had been drinking heavily for some days before he left. He is described as five feet five or six in height, with fair hair and blue eyes, of medium build, and with a mark across the bridge of his nose where an old cut had been stitched. When he went away he wore a dark brown suit and a mackintosh and a hard hat.

WITH THE MOVIES.

At the Romano.—The management of the Romano theatre has secured for to-day to-morrow several first class photoplays among which might be mentioned, "The Silent Witness," a drama of great heart interest, featuring that star of all photoplays actors, J. Warren Kerrigan. "A Singular Cynic," featuring the ever popular Florence Lawrence. "The Mag-neto" is a screamingly funny comedy by the Joker Co., while the "Universal Animated Weekly" tells the world's happenings in motion pictures.

Gaelic Met.—At the meeting of the Victoria Gaelic Society last Friday evening in the A. O. F. hall, Rev. Dr. Maclean gave an address in Gaelic which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. Rev. Dr. McKay was also among the speakers, and a very amusing debate on "Married Life v. Single Life" was held. Mr. McDonald, who upheld the former, winning the decision. An ice-cream social for members and friends will be held at the next meeting, August 7.

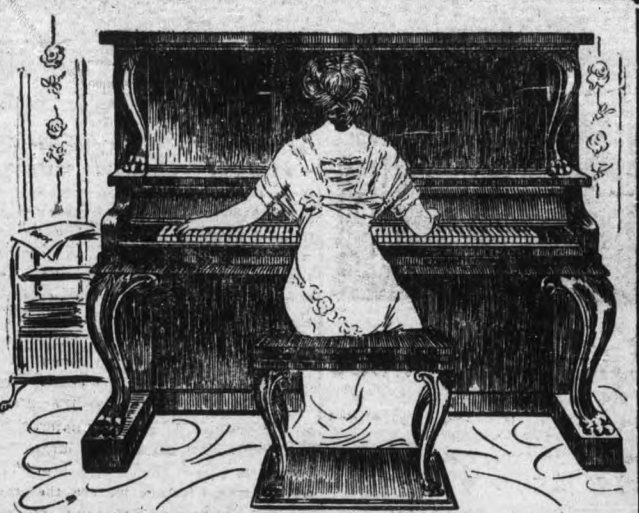

Relative Inquired For.—Mrs. R. Munholland, 108 Cedar street, Stockton, Cal., has written to the police here to ask for their aid in the search for her brother, Wilford M. Clark, or his wife, Mrs. Nancy Clark, whose maiden name was Thomas. She suggests that there is a sister of her brother's wife here, who is either a Thomas or a Taylor, and who might be able to give her the information if she had her address to write to.

Children Cared For.—At a meeting of the committee of the day nursery held on Saturday afternoon the Rev. E. G. Miller presided, and reports for the past month were submitted, showing that 144 children had been cared for at the nursery during June. Among some of the necessities which were mentioned as required were a load of mill wood, and kindergarten chairs and cots for the children. Gratitude was expressed to Byron Shade for a consignment of toys sent, and during the meeting plans for raising $250 to further the work were discussed.

Playgrounds Festival.—A large number of people watched with the greatest interest the festival held by the Beacon Hill playground children last Saturday afternoon, a very interesting programme of games and dances being carried through under the direction of the playground supervisors, Miss Jarvis and R. E. Crompton. One of the features of the girls' performance was the Swedish dance given by eighteen girls, and the boys' calisthenic display was also very spectacular.

Progress on Breakwater.—It is stated by J. S. MacLachlan, resident engineer on the harbor works, that the work has so far progressed that some of the breakwater will be showing above the water at low tide before the month is out. During June there were two thousand tons of granite blocks laid for the facing of the big wall, in spite of the trouble experienced by the divers in leveling off the foundation owing to the inclined character of the bottom of the sea at that point in the harbor. There has been laid up to-date about 2,700 tons of granite, it being brought down from Hardy island. The dumping of rubble has gone on to within twenty feet of the water line out to the last section of the wall. As soon as the wall gets above the water work will commence on the laying of the concrete superstructure.

Many Entries at Show.—The flower show held last week by the Lake Hill Women's institute proved a most successful event, a long list of entries being sent, and the competition for the prizes in the various classes being well contested. Reeve McGregor, of Saanich, opened the proceedings, and Mrs. Porter acted as chairman, others present on the platform being Councilor Borden and Mr. Cotterill, both of whom also spoke. The department of agriculture prizes were awarded as follows: For decorated dinner table, 1. Mrs. Winkle; 2. Mrs. Fooks; 3. Mrs. Woods. In the evening the tables were cleared away, and an admirable musical entertainment was given by Mr. and Mrs. White, and Mr. Griffin. A very pleasing feature of the entertainment was a musical drill by a number of small girls from the Lake Hill school, who all wore white dresses. The proceedings concluded with an impromptu dance, Mr. White providing excellent music, and delicious refreshments being served during the evening.

COUNCIL BUSINESS

Meeting of Aldermen This Evening Expected to Be a Short One; the Questions.

A considerable amount of business has to be discussed at the meeting of the city council this evening, but the meeting is expected to be a short one. For reasons already explained, the early closing by-law may be again postponed.

The jail question is expected to come up again, if the report received this afternoon by the special committee of the council and the police commissioners is satisfactory and an assurance is given that the building of which designs have been prepared can be built for the amount of the debentures available.

The special committee appointed to deal with the problem of securing easements for the lateral connections of the B. C. Telephone company's services will report on the two recent conferences and ask for a direction from the city council on the matter.

Among subjects before the finance committee at the session this afternoon was the proposed grant of a site for the municipal art gallery. A brief discussion last week appeared to indicate that the aldermen were not anxious to proceed with the scheme, although the ladies, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Nathaniel Shaw, and Mrs. Mary Ritter Hamilton, who are supporting the movement, undertake to erect the building by subscription and turn it over to the city for maintenance.

While the city council has been promised that the Johnson Street bridge by-law will be introduced at an early date as possible, it is doubtful, in view of the legal situation, that the by-law can be brought down before next Monday.

VICTORIANS OFF ON HOLIDAYS TO NORTH

Many Making Round Trip on Prince Rupert; Alice Arriving Here To-morrow

Among the passengers who sailed this morning on the G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. D. McKenzie, for the north were a number of Victorians who are on their holidays and who will make the round trip. The Rupert goes to Prince Rupert, Granby Bay and Stewart, the three principal towns along the northern coast of British Columbia. Prince Rupert is attracting considerable interest and attention at the present time owing to the fact that it is the terminus of the newest of transcontinental railways, but the town at the head of Granby Bay is growing rapidly and coming in for its share of publicity. Granby Bay is the scene of great mining activity, a plant worth several million dollars being in operation there. Stewart, although quiet at the present time, is a picturesque place, and before it is reached a trip of nearly 100 miles along the Alaska coast is made.

The trip is annually attracting more people, and it looks as though the G. T. P. boats will have a good season this year. Among those who left this morning for the round-trip were the following: A. J. Hooper, E. C. Rossiter, V. Wood, Mrs. J. H. Gordon, Miss Margaret Gordon, E. B. Caroly, Robt. Kerr, Harold Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Mulvey and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McDiarmid. Robert Allison, Miss Marie Clarke and George Dickson are going as far as Prince Rupert.

The Prince Rupert was delayed this morning about 20 minutes in leaving owing to the large quantity of freight which she loaded. She took on over 100 tons here.

Alice is to arrive to-morrow.

Completing her maiden Alaska cruise the C. P. R. steamer Princess Alice, Capt. J. McLeod, will arrive in port to-morrow. She reached Vancouver on this morning. The Princess Alice is to make four trips to the north-land, and judging by the success of the first she should carry capacity loads on the remaining three voyages. Many residents of southern British Columbia and the prairies are going on these cruises, which are excellent for few trips in point of scenic and historical interest, in any part of the world.

SEATTLE MARU WILL DOCK HERE ON TIME

Osaka Liner Arrives From Orient on Thursday; Asia Will Not Be Delayed

About 550 miles out to sea the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Seattle Maru, Capt. Saito, inbound from Hongkong and Yokohama, was spoken by wireless last night at 8 o'clock, and if she maintains her average sea speed she should reach William Head before daylight on Thursday morning and be berthed at the outer docks at 7.30 o'clock. The Seattle is bringing a very light passenger and cargo list to Victoria, according to cables received from the Far East, but she is nearly a full ship for Tacoma and Seattle.

It was expected that the Blue Funnel steamship Titan, Capt. Read, would have reported by wireless this morning, but she remained silent far out on the Pacific. She is due to arrive on Wednesday, four days behind her schedule owing to delays in the Far East. The Titan is coming from Liverpool and is carrying a full cargo of general merchandise. She has about 600 tons to put off at Victoria and about 100 Orientals will disembark at the outer docks. All the Chinese are returning men.

Panama Sails To-morrow.

To-morrow afternoon the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner, Panama Maru, Capt. Kanoo, sails for the Far East with a full cargo of general merchandise and a light passenger list. The steamship will call here about 4.30 o'clock, and clear an hour later.

Although the C. P. R. liner Empress of Asia, Capt. S. Robinson, was four days late arriving from the Orient, she will depart from here on time on Thursday. She is now loading her outward cargo. The Canadian-Australian liner Makura sails for Australia on Wednesday evening and the Blue Funnel steamship Eleanore is putting to sea at noon on Wednesday.

NANAIMO FLYER HAS LOGGED 1,038 RUNS

Princess Patricia Has Steamed 60,000 Miles in Two Years; Splendid Average

During the two years the fast C. P. R. turbine steamer Princess Patricia has been operating in the British Columbia coast trade she has steamed 60,000 miles, exclusive of the excursions she has made. This great distance has been logged on two trips each day in the summer between Vancouver and Nanaimo and one trip each day during the winter months. There is no other vessel on the coast which could perform the work which the Patricia does.

Chief Engineer Anderson, who came out from the Clyde on the vessel and is still standing by her, informed the Times on Saturday that up to Friday last the Patricia had completed 1,038 trips between the Terminal City and Coal cities. The chief has kept particular tab on the performance of the Patricia and has worked out the average speed which she has made. During the summer when she has to make two trips each way between the ports the flyer has averaged a speed of 19.1 knots for two summers, and for the two winters she has been averaging she has made a speed of 17.3 knots.

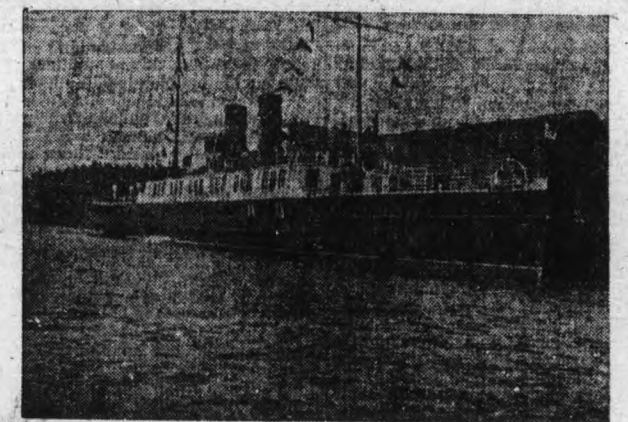

Fine Improvement.

The Patricia is a remarkable improvement over the connection which was provided before her arrival on this coast. The old steamer Joan and later the Charmer made one trip a day, summer and winter, leaving Nanaimo early in the morning and getting back at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They used to take a good three hours to steam across the gulf, whereas now the Patricia goes from dock to dock in two hours.

Although the men on the larger flyers think they can outsteam the Princess Patricia, they never measure up with her. Chief Engineer Anderson says that there is nothing on the coast that can touch her in regard to speed, and he thinks he can "show up" either the Charlotte or the Victoria.

"Why, they are not in our class," he states with emphasis on the "class."

HAS MADE OVER THOUSAND TRIPS IN TWO YEARS

S. S. PRINCESS PATRICIA.

BELLINGHAM CRUISE THOROUGHLY ENJOYED

Patricia Took 947 Excursionists; Trip Delightful and All Enjoyed It

Thoroughly happy, although a little tired from the effects of the fresh sea air and their rambles about Bellingham, 947 Victorians returned to this city on Saturday night at 11.30 o'clock on board the crack C. P. R. steamer Princess Patricia, and the termination of one of the finest and most enjoyable excursions ever run from this port was witnessed. Members of the Ladies' Guild, of the Seamen's Institute, under whose auspices the excursion was run, were entirely satisfied with the results and the big, happy crowd which participated in the trip voted it the most successful and pleasant they had ever been on.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Patricia, in command of the genial skipper, Capt. Ritchie, sailed out of the harbor. Her spacious decks resembled to a marked degree a man-of-war; checkerboard, the ladies in their pretty summer gowns of white and the men in contrasting dark clothes gave the trim steamer a pretty appearance as she steamed away from the dock.

A Royal Reception.

The Patricia carried as her pilot Capt. Marven, of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, who is familiar with the waters between here and Bellingham. On the way over the sun poured his warm rays upon the ship, and everyone was in the best of spirits. The Patricia steamed at a little better than 18 knots an hour, and at this rapid speed the scenery was constantly changing. Through the many small channels the scenery is very beautiful, and the excursionists were delighted with it. Bellingham was reached at a few minutes after 5 o'clock, and between 2,500 and 3,000 persons lined the docks to welcome the Patricia.

As the Patricia neared the docks all the automobiles tooted their horns, all the steamers and gasoline boats in the port sounded their whistles, and the great crowds cheered. It was a warm welcome. For three hours the Victorians were ashore taking in the sights and Bellingham residents were invited to inspect the Princess Patricia. The Bellingham people were busy celebrating their national holiday and the excursionists lost no time in falling in the preceding. It was a merry three hours the crowd spent in Bellingham.

But all good things come to a close, and at 8 o'clock the sharp whistle of the Patricia sounded. As the flyer was being turned about the whole party gathered on the port side of the steamer and three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for the people of Bellingham. Just as Capt. Ritchie signalled to the engine-room for half speed ahead the great assemblage on the dock returned the cheers given by the excursionists, and the farewell was ended.

The homeward run was made in about three hours, and when darkness fell the passengers were treated to brilliant fireworks displays as the Patricia sped passed the many little towns which lay along her course. The excursionists were landed here at 11.30 o'clock, and the last cars were held so that the people could get home.

Guild is Satisfied.

Mrs. Capt. Troup, of the Ladies' Guild of the Seamen's Institute, said on the homeward run that the ladies were fully satisfied with the outing. It had far surpassed their greatest expectations. They could not have done better as the capacity of the Princess Patricia was sold out.

"I think that everyone has had a good time, and we are well pleased with the excursion," remarked Mrs. Troup.

A great measure of the success of the excursion was due to the indefatigable efforts of Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B. C. coast service. He saw to it that everything possible was done to make the trip the best it could be.

Among the ladies who devoted a great deal of time to the arrangements were: Mrs. Capt. Troup, Mrs. Lincoln Smith, Mrs. Capt. Norrington, Mrs. Hiscocks, Mrs. F. Lewin and Mrs. Thomson.

Rowland's orchestra furnished music in the saloon.

NOKOMIS' SURVIVORS RESCUED BY CRUISER

Provisions on Island Ran Short and Two Volunteers Went for Assistance

On board P.S.S. California, La Paz, Mex., July 6.—(By wireless to San Diego, Cal.)—The cruiser Cleveland returned to Acapulco on Friday from Clipperton Island, which she left June 25, having on board Captain Jensen, his wife, two children, the first and second officers, the cook and six seamen of the American schooner Nokomis, of San Francisco, wrecked on a treacherous coral reef February 28.

From the first the position of the Nokomis was hopeless and she was abandoned the following day. The castaways were cared for by the inhabitants of the island, who number only thirty, until a threatened shortage in the necessities of life, made a trip to the mainland imperative.

Two volunteers undertook the voyage of 570 miles to Acapulco and accomplished it safely. Owing to the disorganization of all commerce wrought by civil war, no assistance from the Mexicans could be had and it was necessary to dispatch a man-of-war. The Cleveland was assigned to the rescue by Rear-Admiral Howard and carried supplies for the islanders, as well as brought back the castaways.

All are now on board the Pacific Mail liner City of Sydney bound for San Francisco.

ROADSTEAD OF NOME IS STILL PACKED WITH ICE

Seattle, July 6.—When the steam schooner St. Helens, which arrived Saturday from Nome, left the Behring Sea mining camp June 22 on the homeward voyage, chunk ice filled the roadstead for a distance of two miles from the shore, and beyond the chunk ice a solid pack of great area formed a barrier to the regular route of departure. The St. Helens' master, Capt. I. O. Odland, overcame the difficulty of getting out by shaping a zigzag course through the drifting chunk ice to Golovin and from there crossing Norton Sound to the Yukon flats. In this way he turned the flank of the frozen barrier and gained the open sea.

The St. Helens left Nome at 2.30 o'clock in the morning and was twelve hours in getting around the ice pack, losing six hours' steaming time because of the zigzag course she had to follow. The chunk ice came from the Yukon and Kuskokwim rivers, while the huge pack represented one of the phenomena of the north. In the fall the pack moves down from the Arctic through Behring Strait, shouldering against the Siberian coast and extending practically to the Alaska coast. At the beginning of summer, it works its way back into the Arctic, shouldering along the Alaska side. In effect the pack loops the loop in Behring Sea in the course of its visit south of the strait.

LAST OF OLD WOODEN WHALERS IS WRECKED

Gayhead, of San Francisco, Piles Up in Alaska; Was Famous Craft

San Francisco, July 6.—The whaler Gayhead has gone the way of its quarry. The old barque with the snub top gallant masts and the Bermuda spanker is piled up on the rocks of West Head in Castle Bay, Alaska, and $20,000 worth of sperm oil is spread along a mile of foam. The captain and crew of thirty were saved. L. E. James, managing owner, of San Francisco, was notified of the vessel's wreck through the wireless station at Chignik.

It was a famous old ship, the Gayhead. A relic of the whaling days when Honolulu Harbor could hardly hold the wooden hulls that scraped against each other in fitting-out time, when the lazarette was stocked with kolekole and the price of sperm oil gave every hardy man of the crew a share that made two years' whaling almost worth while.

Last of Old Whalers.

Since the steamships with their latest slinging and cutting devices came into fashion, the wooden-sided windjammers have dropped out and the Gayhead was one of, indeed probably the last of them.

The Gayhead's skipper, Capt. George W. Porter, as well known as his ship in this port, has whaled the Pacific for full thirty years and has always held a name which gathered to his ship the best and smartest of the whalers.

The barque left this port last October. Lloyds valued the whaler at $15,000 and the loss of cargo is estimated at $20,000, as the Gayhead had just gone north from a successful sperm season to hunt right whales for bone.

FULTON IS REPAIRING

Seattle, July 6.—While it is less than two weeks since the freighter Fulton, of the Border Line Transportation company, left the yards of the Seattle Construction & Drydock company after receiving repairs and new auxiliary machinery at an estimated cost of $4,000, she is again in the hands of shipbuilders. A gang of carpenters and other workmen are aboard working while the Fulton operates on her regular run.

The short lay-up of five or six days at the shipyard piled up business all the way from Seattle to Powell River, B. C., and it is the weight of the traffic which compels her constant operation and created the necessity of the present work. The Fulton is of the steam schooner type with a well deck for lumber. She was brought to Seattle for the local trade with British Columbia after a long career as a lumber carrier on the southern coast.

To increase her dry storage capacity this well deck is being built up and hoisted over. It will increase by approximately 100 tons her capacity for general merchandise of a character which demands protection from the weather.

MANY VISITED ANGELES

Many Victorians crossed the strait to Port Angeles, Wash., on Saturday on the steamer Sol Duc. These excursions have been run annually for the past quarter of a century and are always well patronized. It is said that fully 1,600 people went from here to the town across the strait and enjoyed themselves to a large measure.

TUFT COMES FROM CHINA TO SOUND IN 50 DAYS

Port Townsend, July 6.—Completing the voyage from Hongkong in fifty days, the barquentine James Tuft arrived on Saturday and will proceed to Whistler for caulking and slight repairs. After completing this work she will tow to the Columbia River and probably load a return cargo of lumber for Hongkong.

The Chilean barque Curzon, with lumber for the West Coast, expects to go to sea to-night.

The barquentine Irmgard is ready for sea.

The barquentine Koko Head, recently in from Manila, is awaiting orders.

BARQUE'S CREW RESCUED.

San Francisco, July 6.—Officers of the British steamer Hawkhead, which has arrived here, tell of the rescue by the Hawkhead of Captain Hansen and sixteen men of the wrecked Norwegian barque Ingeborg, which was found sinking, bow down, 900 miles off Montevideo, in the South Atlantic, May 25. The barque had encountered a hurricane and all of her boats had been smashed. The wreck was fired by the Hawkhead to prevent it from becoming a menace to navigation. The Ingeborg's crew was landed at Buenos Ayres.

Bringing a cargo of island products, the Matson freighter Hyades arrived Saturday, nine days from Hilo.

DROWNING ACCIDENT FEARED.

Brandon, Man., July 6.—J. J. Millidge and J. Hines, both of Brandon, while visiting at Delta, went out in a rowboat on Lake Winnipeg and lost their oars during a storm. They were last seen at about noon drifting helplessly.

SPORTING NEWS

BAYLEY EXPECTED TO BEAT CHAMPION

Victoria Youth Will Be Heavily Supported; Chip Beats Billy Murray

That Joe Bayley has a grand chance to win the lightweight championship of the Dominion in his bout with Johnny O'Leary on Saturday next at Brighouse arena, was the statement of a Vancouver newspaper man on Saturday. He witnessed the Valse-O'Leary fight and he thought neither of the boys could stand up against Bayley, the way the latter is performing now.

Bayley left for Vancouver last night. While O'Leary will enter the ring a favorite, the local boy will be heavily backed by the Island sportsmen. Bayley will leave for San Francisco the end of next week to get into shape for his bout with Frankie Burns at Oakland on July 22.

Saturday's Bouts.
Fort Smith, Ark.—Carl Morris knocked out Al Kublak, sixth round.
Los Angeles—Joe Rivers knocked out Marty McCue, second round.

New Orleans—Joe Mandet and Johnny Dundee, ten-round draw.
San Diego—Leach Cross beat Red Watson, decision.

Ganton, Ohio—Jack Britton defeated Johnny Griffin, twelve rounds.
San Francisco, July 6.—George Chip, of Newcastle, Pa., aspirant to the middleweight championship, knocked out "Fighting" Billy Murray, of Petaluma, Cal., in the fifteenth round of their twenty-round fight. The finish was not unexpected. Only Murray's indomitable courage and remarkable vitality enabled him to withstand the powerful punches of the Pennsylvania.

Yost Schmeer and Dave Wheeler, two of Portland's leading amateur light-weight fighters, have turned professional. Schmeer lost a four-round decision to Scotty McKay at a local tourney here last year.

CAPTURES BIG RACE.

Sioux City, July 6.—Reichenbacher in a Duesenberg won the 300-mile $25,000 automobile classic here.

BRAMPTON TWELVE UNABLE TO STAY
CHALLENGERS BEATEN IN FINAL GAME

V. A. C. Players Manage to Keep Mann Cup on the Coast; Lally Explains Reasons for Objections to Kendall; Local Gossip

"It was a great disappointment for us to lose the second game after making such a splendid showing in the first, but we are thoroughly satisfied with our treatment on the coast," was the manner in which Coach Jack Car-michael, of the Brampton Lacrosse club, summed up the recent Mann cup series. "We thought that our speed would enable us to pull through a win in the series, but we were mistaken. The only thing left for us to do is to go right after the C.L.A. honors once more and, profiting by our experience in this series, endeavor to capture the cup in a second trip to the coast."

The Brampton club is considered on the coast the finest amateur aggregation ever sent out from the east. The phenomenal work of Davis in the Vancouver nets alone saved the cup for the coast clubs, for the challengers had everything their own way at the start and better than an even share of the play until Davis broke their hearts with his wonderful showing.

The visitors refused the offer of the Victoria Lacrosse club to play an exhibition game in the capital, and they will take their time returning home. Several of the team have decided to hang up their sticks after this trip, but Coach Carmichael will endeavor to keep the twelve intact for another trip after the cup.

Five thousand lacrosse enthusiasts witnessed the defeat of the Brampton cup challengers at Vancouver, this gathering being the largest that has witnessed an amateur game on the coast for years. It was the greatest crowd that ever attended an athletic contest at Athletic park. The challengers started out like winners, scoring the first goal, but they failed to reach the net after that until the final quarter. V.A.C. fielded a greatly strengthened team, J. Painter and Gilmour having been brought down from

Kamloops to assist in the defence of the trophy. The former's grand fielding was a big factor in the win. The game was very clean, the summary being:

First quarter—1, Stevens, Brampton, 6:16; 2, Gilmour, V.A.C., 2:19; 3, Feedham, V.A.C., 2:20; 4, J. Painter, V.A.C., 2:08.

Second quarter—No score.
Third quarter—5, Feedham, V.A.C., 5:42; 6, Gilmour, V.A.C., 14:57.

Fourth quarter—7, Stevens, Brampton, 2:49; 8, Painter, V.A.C., 8:55.

The teams lined up:

Officials—Referee, Lester Patrick, Victoria; judge of play, Joe Gorman, Victoria.

Total penalty time—V.A.C., 35 min.; Brampton, 15 min.

Skinner Poulin was among the Victorians who called upon the Brampton club to renew acquaintance. Manager Poulin states that he will use Dutch Cleeg on the defence in the match with the V.A.C. twelve at the Royal Athletic park on Saturday. He hopes to make a win over the Terminal club which defended the Mann cup against the doughty Brampton twelve. Poulin is confident that his new players will more than make good, and he will pick his team after Thursday's practice.

Entries for the Senior City league will close at to-night's meeting of the Victoria Lacrosse association. The schedule will be drawn up if sufficient teams have sent in their entries by to-night's meeting.

Toronto, July 6.—The Tecumsehs beat Quebec here Saturday by a score of 8 to 4. There was only a fair crowd in attendance. The game was fast and clean.

Montreal, July 6.—The Nationals defeated Toronto here Saturday by a score of 18 to 6. The game was witnessed by over four thousand people.

Corvallis, July 6.—Joe Lally says the reason the trustees objected to the playing of Kendall for Vancouver in the Mann cup game was that according to Kendall's own statement he had received his traveling expenses to go from Kelowna to High River, Alberta, to play lacrosse. His expenses were paid while there, and Lally holds that this brands him as an out-and-out professional.

VICTORIA CLUB TO DEFEND POLO TITLE

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Victoria Polo Club will be able to practise at the Pemberton meadow on St. Charles street. The club was finding the lack of suitable ground a serious handicap in its preparation for the coming tournament at which it will defend the British Columbia championship. A meeting of the club will be held the end of the week to discuss the possibility of Victoria having a representation at the Kamloops and Vancouver tourneys.

ODDS SHIFTING ON LIGHTWEIGHT BOUT

London, July 6.—With Willie Ritchie, world's champion, and Freddie Welsh, champion of England, challenger, down to hard work for their twenty-round battle, scheduled for July 7, everything points toward this being the biggest fight ever scheduled in England.
Welsh, the hope of the Britishers, is a great favorite with the English bettors, some offering odds on him to beat the champion. However, Ritchie has shown well in his workouts, and it is expected that before the battle he will be the favorite. Ritchie, who is training in a northern suburb, is confident of brushing the last serious contender from his path to-morrow. "I expect to win by a knockout," he is quoted as saying.
His opponent said yesterday: "I have waited a long time for a chance at Ritchie, and now that I have it, I will not let the title get away."

OUTLAWS DEFAULTED
AMATEUR BALL NOTES

The Commercial league game of July 2, which was postponed and was to be played yesterday, was defaulted, as only four Outlaw players made an appearance. The result means that three teams are neck-and-neck in the race for the Commercial league honors, Bapcos, Printers and Outlaws each dropping one game. The present standing of the league is as follows:

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Bapcos	5	5	1	.833
Printers	3	2	1	.750
Outlaws	3	2	1	.750
Bissell's	4	1	3	.556
B. C. E. Ry.	4	1	3	.556
Red Sox	4	1	3	.556

The next league game is scheduled for this evening at 6.30 at the Royal Athletic park between the Outlaws and Bissell's. Wednesday evening the B. C. E. Ry. and Red Sox will play. On Friday evening the Printers and Bapcos will clash.
The Shortt, Hill & Duncan team won a closely contested game from the Civic Service club 11 to 8.

CANADIAN CHAMPION.

Ottawa, July 6.—Geo. S. Lyon, of Toronto, won the amateur Canadian golf championship by defeating Eric Evans, of Boston, eight up and seven to play in the final 36-hole match.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Western Lacrosse Still Rules Supreme.
Before the greatest athletic crowd of the year, the V. A. C. demonstrated on Saturday at Vancouver that the eastern lacrosse teams are still a shade below the coast clubs when it comes to deciding world's championships. The challengers did not show the speed that was expected of them and they failed to maintain the terrific pace that the V. A. C. team set from the start. Brampton, however, has every reason to be proud of the team sent after the silverware. The men were only beaten by three goals on the series and established a precedent in winning one of the games. V. A. C. upheld its reputation as a lacrosse organization that can produce players in abundance, and it is a great credit to the club that it should be able to field an entirely new team inside of six months able to defend the trophy, though the former cup-winning aggregation had turned professional.
Victoria Will Climb if Pitchers Stand Strain.
Manager Bert Delmas started off in brilliant style on the Bees' road trip by taking two games from the Tigers in Tacoma. That the team is a greatly improved aggregation may be judged from the fact that the Bengals scored but two runs in Saturday's double-header. The hitters are clouting the ball now, and if the Victoria club is to make a bid for a first division berth, it is up to the pitchers to live up to their part of the agreement. The team is scoring more runs than any other club in the league. The men are fielding in grand style and running the bases well, so that it only remains for the twirlers to deliver. Owner Kingham wants one more winning right-hander and he will stand pat on his club for the balance of the season.

P. A. strikes 13 every time you fire up!

Prince Albert smashes the big joy gong whether you jam it into a jimmy pipe or roll it into an acehigh makin' cigarette, the like of which you never got next to before.

Pretty quick you forget about the chaff-brands and fire-brands! For P. A. is all there—signed, sealed, delivered!

Men everywhere smoke P. A. because it's a revelation—can't bite the tongue! The bite's cut out by a patented process. Hence, no tobacco can be like the inter-national joy smoke

Listen: You can never tell from where you're sitting how your picture's going to look. Nor can you tell how bulky P. A. is until you fire up! It's a case of "show me." We've made a "show down" for millions of men everywhere.

In five years Prince Albert, from a little stranger in a big land, has become the largest selling pipe and cigarette tobacco in the United States.

Got the nerve to put up the price for a tidy red tin to find out something for what ails your smokappetite?

Prince Albert is imported into Canada by wholesale dealers and is on sale, in one-eighth-pound tidy red tins, by all of the leading retail dealers.

VICE-REGAL VISIT

T. R. H. the Governor-General, Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia Here Next Month.

Indications are that the visit of H. R. H. the governor-general to the coast next month will be for a longer time than was at first expected. According to the plans of which an intimation has been received from Ottawa he will be here for the week from August 20 to 27.

His royal highness will be accompanied by T. R. H. the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia. Government house has been placed at the disposal of the royal party, while their suite will be accommodated at the Empress hotel, where twenty rooms have been reserved for their use.

While in the province his royal highness will officiate at the formal opening of the Connaught Library block of the parliament buildings additions, the cornerstone of which he laid two years ago when last here. On the mainland he will lay the foundation stone of the first of the buildings of the University of British Columbia, the science building.

It is not known yet what the plans of his royal highness are as to the driving of the golden spike to mark the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific transcontinental line somewhere in the vicinity of Fort George, the junction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Pacific Great Eastern. This event has been fixed for August 15 and he has been invited to attend. In any case it is likely that he will go as far north as Prince Rupert and make a trip over portion of the G. T. P.

Rev. H. G. Waketfield, rector of St. Paul's church, Virginia city, Montana, is visiting here for a few days before crossing over to Vancouver. Registered with him at the Dominion hotel are Mrs. Waketfield and his daughter, Alice, together with Miss Alice Wiles.

HOURS OF CLERKS.

To the Editor: Now that the half-holiday movement is apparently laid aside, I have been led to wonder and ask if the public truly understood the clerk's position, whether his lot has even been compared with the ordinary mechanic's and difference noted. Now let it be understood that he works equally as hard in proportion to the mechanic, seeing he is only hardened to the measure his work calls for and possibly he suffers more, as he fails to enjoy the fresh air, usually the privilege of many workers; in addition he is constantly in contact with the close air, which in most cases is detrimental to health. Besides this, work in store is more or less a strain on one's nerves, seeing that he meets with all temperaments of human nature, in addition to pleasing his employer, who no doubt sets the value on his clerk.

It is only reasonable to suppose, like all others at the end of the week, he is tired, but he is the exception who is asked to put in an extra day (that is counting from twelve o'clock mid-day, when the mechanic is finished) on top of his work out, tired feeling. Further, there comes along a public holiday. For this he is asked to put in an extra night to obtain it. It would be impossible for him to feel as fresh as the man who leaves off at five for the coming day's outing. Again, suppose, like all large industries, night work was counted like their's, double time, it would practically be seven days a week, or seven and a half days a week, compared with the mechanic who finishes at twelve o'clock on Saturday, besides working an extra hour every other day; this works hardship on any man, more so if he be married.

This cannot go on forever in the modern times in which we live. The agitation now taking place in European countries is going to bring about a new order of things, and a five days week work and an eight-hour day is not far distant. The excuses the merchant puts up will be ignored. The clerks are just as human as their employers. Business will remain here and could easily be done in less time than what is asked for; surely some mercy can be shown to those who slave in the store. The brotherhood of man must no longer be ignored and must stand in preference to the almighty dollar. So far most all the clerks' efforts have been slighted and it is time to call a halt. For there should be no coaxing to bring about better conditions. Let the merchant who can get in his office, sit down and go out at his own pleasure, consider those who, being less fortunate, must keep on their feet all day and to a certain extent afraid to be caught in store work becomes very tiresome and some are ready to drop at the close of day. Several hard days' and evenings' work were put in to prepare the offerings to the public. And such a day. You talk about work. A few days like it would disable many, and I doubt whether many were even thanked, much less being given a half-holiday to rest up. Oh, yes! A clerk's job is all clover. Let the critic try it. Now, Mr. Editor, we are a defenseless bunch, not asking sympathy but deserving it; if we cannot persuade you to help us out by endorsing Saturday half-holiday, for pity's sake (only) speak a word for the closing at the close of the stores on a Saturday like the ordinary day. The fact is, the services of clerks are not justly appreciated. Present conditions have made employers independent and the clerks in a measure are under an obligation, but it is not always going to be so. Good all round clerks are not the easiest found, and such will remember the employer who fought unfavorably against them. We are all of the one human family, and the good we can do for each other will count throughout eternity and the greater reward for the most good done. I wish I were better qualified to express myself, but these are the sentiments no doubt of many of the clerks. I might say in conclusion, it is a well known fact that the clerks of Victoria have a distinct reputation of being deeply interested in the welfare of their employers and it should mean no great effort on their part to make some concession to their employees.

I might say this letter applies to lady clerks also. A CLERK.

SOLD BEER AFTER HOURS

Proprietor of Pandora Hotel Fined $50 for Infraction of Statute on Night of July 1.

For selling intoxicant after 11 o'clock on the night of July 1, Albert Quaglinott was this morning fined $50 in the police court by Magistrate Jay. J. A. Alkman appeared for Mr. Quaglinott and in the course of his cross-examination of License Inspector Scott drew from that official admission that money had been paid by him to one of the witnesses for the prosecution with which to go into the Pandora hotel and attempt to purchase liquor.

The three men served were John E. Howell, John C. Switzer and Thomas White. All stated that they went into the Pandora hotel shortly before eleven on the night of July 1, took one of the boxes in the cafe and there secured beer. The waiter had told them that if they would buy a sandwich they could get drinks after 11 o'clock. Switzer admitted paying for the drinks and sandwiches. He amused the court by stating that he paid five cents a glass for the beer before eleven and ten cents after eleven had struck.

Council for the defence submitted that there was no offence under the act, since they got the sandwiches as a meal and provision was made in the act for allowing intoxicants to be served in a restaurant with a bona fide meal. Magistrate Jay, however, found that beer had been supplied after eleven o'clock and that the sale of the sandwiches was merely an excuse for evading the act. He compared it with the case of a Johnson street licensee, who once sold a beefsteak which did duty all day while beer was being sold. For the first offence a fine of $50 was imposed.

HUMAN PROCESSION

Home secretary sounds like a nice, soft, domestic sort of job. By association of ideas, one's mental picture of a home secretary is of an easy-going, plump, pater-familias person. As a matter of fact, the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, home secretary in the British cabinet, holds what is perhaps the most difficult job in the world. The Rt. Hon. Reginald will pass his fifty-first birthday to-day, but he wears the worn and haggard look of one twice his years. And small wonder, for his principal duty is to attempt to placate the suffragettes. Compared with such a job as that, a lion-tamer has a soft snap, and doubtless if any trainer of ferocious wild beasts wants to trade jobs with the Rt. Hon. Reginald, he will find that gentleman not only willing but eager to make the change. Probably the home secretary often longs for a return of those peaceful quiet days when he was first lord of the admiralty.

And so it goes. Life for the Rt. Hon. Reginald is just one thing, and sometimes two, after another. When the premier recently received a delegation of suffragettes, he assured them—what?—that he would bring their requests to the attention of the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna! There must lurk in Mr. McKenna's mind a suspicion that his official title should be, not home secretary, but the goat.

mob him the minute he sticks his nose out of doors, the home secretary probably wishes he had gone in for boxing instead of rowing.

Good Sleep Good Health

Exhausted Nerves Were Fully Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. When the nerve force expended in the day's work and in the act of living is not replenished by restful sleep at night you have cause to be alarmed, as physical bankruptcy stares you in the face. This letter directs you to the most satisfactory cure for sleeplessness. Mr. Dennis Mackin, Maxton, Sask., writes: "I have just finished using the sixth box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I must say that when I commenced using it my nerves were so bad that I could scarcely get any sleep. I would lie in bed nearly all night without sleep, and anyone who has this trouble knows the misery of sleepless nights. The Nerve Food helped me from the start, and has built up my nervous system wonderfully. I now enjoy good, sound sleep, and instead of feeling tired in the morning I am strong and healthy, and well fitted for my daily work." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

One of the most melancholy processions that ever entered Halifax harbor was that of July 6, 1898, when the British iron sailing ship Cromartyshire, of Glasgow, limped into port in tow of the Grecian. Two days before, at a point about sixty miles off Sable island, the Glasgow vessel had collided with the French liner La Bourgoigne, and had inflicted a death wound which caused the passenger ship to sink within a short time. Of those on board, 534 went down with the ship. Those saved numbered 186, including one saloon passenger, ten second-cabin and fifty-one third-class passengers, and 104 members of the crew. Only one woman, Miss A. La Corse, of Plainfield, N. J., was among the saved. The Cromartyshire, sorely wounded but still able to float, was lost in the fog, and it was not until after La Bourgoigne had taken her final plunge that the blanket of mist lifted sufficiently to enable the Scotch vessel to go to the assistance of those who were struggling in the water. The small boats of the Cromartyshire were sent to the scene of the disaster, and the crew worked heroically and saved all who had managed to keep above water. In the afternoon the steamer Grecian was sighted and in a short time the Cromartyshire, with those who had been saved on board, was in tow. When the tragic procession reached Halifax on the morning of the sixth the world received its first news of the terrible sea disaster. Upon their arrival in Halifax some of the passengers who had been saved told stories of terrible panic and cruelty on the part of the crew, but it is now known that these were largely exaggerated. With a few exceptions, Captain Deloncle's men behaved well, and the captain, a true hero, remained on the bridge and went down with the ship.

FIRST THINGS

The first bishop of Scotland was St. Palladius, whose festival is celebrated to-day. The Apostle of the Scots was a Roman, and he was a deacon in the Church of Rome. He was sent to Scotia by Pope Celestine in 431, a little before St. Patrick's arrival in Ireland. According to Irish legends, St. Palladius preached in Ireland a few years before Patrick began his immortal career in the Emerald Isle. Palladius was not as successful as his great contemporary, and was banished from Ireland by the King of Leinster. He then proceeded to North Britain and opened a mission. He was bishop of the whole nation of the Scots, but his work was largely in that part of the country occupied by people who had passed from Ireland into Caledonia in the third century, and who had changed the name of ancient Caledonia to Scotia. Palladius manifested great zeal in preaching the gospel and converted a multitude. Christianity had been introduced into Scotland about the year 200, but Palladius was the first bishop in that country, and religious historians usually refer to him as the first apostle of the Scots. The saint died at Fordun, near Aberdeen, about the year 450.

THIRD TROOP IN CAMP.

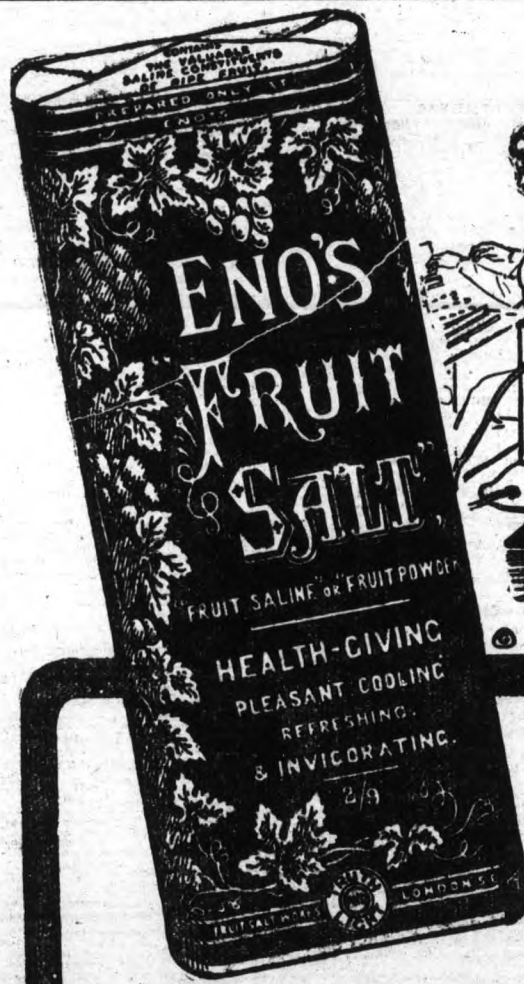

Scouts Have Gone Out for Fortnight in Country; Camp Site is Well Chosen.

The lads of Third Troop, Boy Scouts, went out to their summer camp at Picnic Point, near Craigflower bridge, Saturday afternoon. They will remain in camp until July 18.

Having gathered at their headquarters, Bishopsclose, the troop, marched off at half-past one o'clock for their camp-ground, the baggage being partly handled on their own trek-wagon and partly taken out by wagon. They were under the command of the scoutmaster, Lieut. H. R. Selie, and the assistant scoutmasters, J. C. Anthony and G. W. Brown, and the patrol leaders.

The ground chosen is the same as occupied last year, and is admirably adapted for the purpose, being close to the water, convenient to the city, to which some of the boys have to come in to work during the day, with an abundant supply of pure drinking water and well drained. The boys will be under continual surveillance by scoutmasters or older lads all the time, so that they cannot get into any danger.

Sunday will be visiting time, as will also the hours between four and six o'clock in the afternoons of week-days.

RESERVE DECISION ON CITY'S APPEALS

Saanich Court of Revision Requested to Exempt Waterworks and Parks

The Saanich court of revision this morning reserved its decision on the appeals of the city of Victoria against the assessment of the Elk Lake watershed and the Mt. Douglas and Gorge parks "as wrongfully on the roll."

The B. C. Telephone company secured a reduction to the extent of having the right-of-way assessment struck out, but the court refused to modify the assessor's valuation of its plant in the municipality.

Very general objection was taken by the private owners' either personally or by legal representative, to the great increase in the assessment of various properties at a time when the depression in land values has made the sale of property difficult. A number of real estate men from the city particularly objected to their assessments. Most of the cases heard this morning, however, failed to alter the assessments.

The Royal Oak schoolroom was crowded when the proceedings commenced. With Reeve McGregor were Councilors Borden, Grant, Tanner and Adams as the court. Assisting them were H. B. Robertson, solicitor of the municipality, and J. S. Floyd, the auditor. Among those present was ex-Reeve Nicholson and ex-Councilor Quick. Councilor Chandler also arrived later.

For private owners there was a very large number of lawyers present, most protesting against over assessment of properties.

More than ordinary interest attached to a statement by Oscar C. Baas for Dr. Tolmie, owner of the celebrated Braefoot Farm, one of the most famous holdings round Victoria, and a show place for visitors, that the assessment

RESERVE DECISION

In one year from 1913 had risen $47,000. His sentiment was that such charges would put farmers out of business. In fact, he had ten clients preparing to leave for California. No man could hope to farm round Victoria under those conditions. (Cheers from those present supported these statements.)

The court reserved its decision on this matter. City Waterworks. City Solicitor Robertson appeared for the city of Victoria, and argued that the waterworks had been "wrongly inserted on the assessment roll." The argument was based on the ground that section 35 of the Corporation of Victoria Waterworks Act, 1873, exempted all lands and plant of the corporation from taxation.

The revee stated that it was not the intention of the municipal council to tax the waterworks, but merely to assess it with other property.

The assessor rose to object that the city of Victoria leased some property to J. Bull, and also held ten acres at Glanford avenue, which could not be regarded as belonging to the waterworks, and which he considered should be treated separately.

City Comptroller Baymur, as former water commissioner, gave formal evidence as to the actual Elk lake watershed, particularly in connection with the two properties mentioned by the assessor. Mr. Sewell, Mr. Bull had paid a small rental for the privilege of cutting the hay, and had the responsibility of maintaining fences and the general conduct of the lands. The acreage at Glanford avenue has been acquired to avoid compensation claims for damage from escape of water from the pipe line from Elk lake some years ago. The court reserved its decision.

City Parks. When the parks' case was called Mr. Robertson stated that the Mt. Douglas park was a crown grant, and that the Gorge park was held by conveyance after purchase. He pointed to the advantages enjoyed by the residents of Saanich, which were even greater than those enjoyed by the citizens of Victoria. If the parks belonged to the municipality of Saanich, then they would undoubtedly be exempt from taxation. If the parks were to go on the roll at all, they might be assessed at a nominal value.

Councilor Adams said the argument of the assessor was very fair. Either the assessor should be adopted, or else the council should submit a by-law shortly with the other measures exempting all parks within municipal limits.

Eventually the court of revision announced it would reserve its decision on the point.

Telephone Property. On the B. C. Telephone company's protest against an assessment of its pole line right-of-way, and the value of plant in the municipality, for the company it was submitted that the right-of-way was not owned by the company, whose poles and wires were on public street and thoroughfares. Next the company's representative contended that the valuation at $17,200 was excessive, a figure of $10,000 being considered equitable by the company. Last, by poles, the assessor should submit a valuation of the value of the company's plant.

The court agreed to strike out the proposed assessment of the poles, rails, and other improvements on the B. C. Electric railway's private right-of-way, and also the assessment of the right-of-way through municipal streets, but deferred its decision on the assessment of $18,000 on poles, etc., which A. King, solicitor for the B. C. Electric railway, submitted were improvements, and therefore not chargeable.

Whenever the people in the east thought of the people in the west they thought of progress, said J. W. Gibson, directors of elementary agricultural education, who is taking charge of the course in rural science. Mr. Gibson admitted that he had reasoned with himself that a class of twenty or thirty in rural science would be quite successful at the summer course, but the enrollment of members of this subject had been so large that the number was now somewhat embarrassing.

An honored guest in the person of Professor Findlay, of Manchester university, was introduced, and gave a short outline of the nature of his observations in the course of a three months' tour in Canada and the United States during which he had visited many summer schools. In England he had for many years been preaching the idea of summer schools, and on coming to America had been very much astonished to find the scheme so thoroughly well established.

The fault of the people of the old country was self-conceit and satisfaction. The pioneer countries here might have a measure of the same complaint, but they were at least willing to learn. They should keep their minds and hearts open for new truths. Revelations did not stop with Jesus Christ and the New Testament, and there was much room for observation and discovery. There was special need on the part of the teacher in his own studies to compare the knowledge to be gained by him with its relation to the child's experience, as in the pursuit of any of the courses they should think of the relation to the growth and nature of the child's mind. In the United States he had found some out-spoken opposition to the study of humanities, history, languages, etc. The newer studies, agriculture, etc., were being advanced. It was the work of the teacher to reconcile the new and old, and children of the coming generations must be given reasons for piety, reverence and so forth which could no longer be imposed on them without meaning. The tendency of the younger generation was not to listen to the voice of the past, but this was the teacher's work to correct to bring about a reconciliation between the old and the new.

Inspector Paul, amid applause, welcomed the teachers to Victoria and expressed the pleasure of the school board in being able to place the new High school at their disposal. He hoped they would all reap a generous harvest of benefits from the congress. Mr. Deane acknowledged the debt owing to the Victoria school board in giving the use of the High school, and added that next year they hoped to prepare to enter on the month's training outlined for them by the department.

Assistant Superintendent of Education G. H. Deane presided as chairman, and with him on the platform were Sir Richard McBride, Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education; Dr. Alexander Robinson, superintendent of education; E. B. Paul, M. A., inspector of city schools; Professor Findlay, of Manchester university; and J. W. Gibson, A. S. director of elementary agricultural education.

The chairman explained the purpose of the courses to the big gathering of 500 which was present, and expressed, on behalf of the department of education, gratitude for the interest shown by the teachers, which, he said, would not be duplicated at any similar summer course throughout the whole Dominion.

TEACHERS ASSEMBLE FOR SUMMER COURSES

Sir Richard McBride, Hon. Dr. Young, Dr. A. Robinson and Others Address Gathering

The plan of the British Columbia department of education in inaugurating summer courses of instruction for teachers has met with excellent support from this class of instructors from all over the province, and this morning the big auditorium at the new High school was crowded with men and women who had come prepared to enter on the month's training outlined for them by the department.

Assistant Superintendent of Education G. H. Deane presided as chairman, and with him on the platform were Sir Richard McBride, Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education; Dr. Alexander Robinson, superintendent of education; E. B. Paul, M. A., inspector of city schools; Professor Findlay, of Manchester university; and J. W. Gibson, A. S. director of elementary agricultural education.

The chairman explained the purpose of the courses to the big gathering of 500 which was present, and expressed, on behalf of the department of education, gratitude for the interest shown by the teachers, which, he said, would not be duplicated at any similar summer course throughout the whole Dominion.

Dr. Young, who spoke very earnestly on the significance of the movement, also expressed the gratitude of the department for the interest taken by the teachers. During the past few years the province had embarked on some big educational work—the building of the school, the founding of a university, etc. But while preparing the ground for the scholars it had tried not to neglect the teachers, and the establishment of the summer school was in their behalf. The government had not undertaken the scheme for the purpose of giving the teacher a holiday, however, and he hoped they would make the most possible use of their time and benefit by the advantages offered. Those who did so would be the more likely in the future to progress to higher positions.

He also emphasized the value to the pupil of personality in the teacher. Moral character in the child and personal character in the teacher were almost synonymous terms. The teacher stood for the school for neatness, orderliness and discipline; he supervised the children's tasks, and just in so far as he was a teacher he was a leader. He should be a man of high character and high ideals, and he should be a man of high character and high ideals, and he should be a man of high character and high ideals.

Both Messrs. Chalonner and Mitchell retired from the business two years ago. Up to that time they had been associated in a partnership in one enterprise for over twenty-seven years, a circumstance unique in the annals of the jewelry business in Canada.

W. L. Chalonner Died Yesterday; Was Prominently Identified Here Commercially

William L. Chalonner, one of the most widely known business men of the city, passed away yesterday at his residence, Oak Bay avenue. He had been ailing intermittently for a considerable period, never having been able to shake off the effects of the serious illness which seized him five years ago. His vitality and determined spirit, however, had carried him through many set-backs and it was profoundly hoped by his numerous friends that he would emerge victorious from the struggle which became acute when he took to his bed three weeks ago.

The late Mr. Chalonner was born in Strathroy, Ontario, forty-nine years ago. He was educated in the graded and high schools of that place, after which he moved to London, Ont., for a course of training in the jewelry business. Upon his return to Strathroy he and A. H. Mitchell founded the firm of Chalonner & Mitchell, which continued there for five years, after which the two partners moved to Victoria and started the jewelry business on Government street, which under their capable management became one of the best known establishments of its kind in the west.

Both Messrs. Chalonner and Mitchell retired from the business two years ago. Up to that time they had been associated in a partnership in one enterprise for over twenty-seven years, a circumstance unique in the annals of the jewelry business in Canada.

Among them is the Mooney Biscuit & Candy company, which has factories in Stratford, Ont., Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver, of which both Mr. Chalonner, as well as his partners, were directors.

Although one of the busiest of men, brimful of energy and unceasingly industrious, Mr. Chalonner yet found time for other distractions. He, of course, took a deep interest in the commercial life of the community, and was a prominent member of the board of trade, where his sound judgment and financial acumen were held in high respect. His chief relaxations from the arduous duties of business were hunting and motor-ing, and it would be impossible to find a more genial and considerate companion than he. His death will be deeply mourned not only by those prominent in the business life of the city, but by the much wider circle of those throughout the province who had been brought within the range of his genial straightforward personality.

Mr. Chalonner is survived by a widow and two children. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence, 1663 Oak Bay avenue.

Miss Mary Shearer, Scottish Dancer, Wins Victory Over Best Dancer of the Republic.

Miss Mary Shearer, champion Scottish dancer of British Columbia, took part in the Scottish sports at Wildwood park, Seattle, on Saturday, and defeated the champion of the United States, Miss Effie Kyle, both in the Highland Fling and the sword dance. She thus adds to her many triumphs, this being rightly looked upon by herself and her friends as the greatest victory she has achieved.

On Wednesday at the St. Andrew's and Caledonia sports here, little Miss Shearer won all before her. At Seattle where the sports were under the auspices of the Caledonia society and Cian McKenzie, she had besides Miss Kyle several other girls to contend with.

Miss Shearer is not thirteen yet, but already has a great array of medals and prizes. At Seattle she won two very handsome gold medals in the two events in which she appeared.

ENTRANCE EASIER NOW FOR MOTORISTS

Conference Held on Matter To-day; Debarcation of Through Passengers

Visiting motorists from the United States will find it much more easy in the future to enter Victoria with their cars than it has been in the past. This happy result is the outcome of a meeting this morning between G. H. Barnard, M. P., and a deputation of the Victoria and Island Development Association, and a later conference with J. C. Newbury, collector of customs at this port. Matters affecting the port of Victoria were discussed, the principal being that of the admission of visiting automobiles from the United States and the privilege of through passengers on transpacific boats landing here for a short period when routed to other points.

The questions regarding the motor cars from the United States was one which was drawn to the attention of the Development Association and the Victoria Automobile Association by Samuel Hill, president of the Pacific Highway Association, who visited Victoria last week.

In the past it has been necessary for a motorist arriving from the other side to leave his car, family, baggage and whoever and whatever he brought with him on the wharf while he journeyed up to the customs house to obtain a permit to bring his machine into the province as a tourist for seven days. One object of the deputation this morning was to seek help to get this procedure removed. Hence the deputation, consisting of the mayor, Alderman Todd, H. G. Wilson and F. A. Pauline, together with G. H. Barnard, M. P., visited J. C. Newbury, collector of customs, and after a business-like interview with that official, a promise was obtained that from now on the regulation would be interpreted as liberally as possible, which means that henceforward power will be given to an officer on the dock to issue the card of permit to visiting motorists. Other matters in this connection Mr. Barnard promised to take up at Ottawa.

It is expected that the new conditions will attract many motor visitors to Victoria in the future. Another question which had the attention of the deputation this morning was that concerning the position of passengers on liners calling at this port from overseas, the object being to give them every opportunity to see the city during the stay of the ship in this port. The regulations during the past two or three weeks have been less strict than formerly, but the Victoria and Island Development Association and other public bodies are anxious that they will be such as to allow all certain sea passengers calling here a deep time on shore in Victoria. The deputation obtained from Mr. Barnard a promise to the effect that he would move in the matter closer with the local officials or with Ottawa with the best possible delay.

should I be wrong in that I am thoroughly satisfied that no law or rule of evidence has been infringed upon in regard to the board of inquiry's conduct and decision, that there was ample reason for the decision it arrived at and that there has been no denial of justice. ADMITTED TO THE BAR

Several New Members of Profession Are Sworn in Before Mr. Justice Gregory To-day.

The benchers of the Law Society of British Columbia held the regular July meeting this morning, the chief item of business being the passing on the reports of the examiners and to pass on the applications to be called to the bar or admitted to practice as solicitors in the province.

Subsequently an unusually large number of new lawyers were presented to Mr. Justice Gregory by W. C. Moresby, on behalf of the benchers, and were sworn in, afterwards signing the roll and being addressed by his lordship.

For call—David McKenzie, Roy Gage Phipps, James Bruce Boyd, Frank Gaspard Tupper, Paul McDowell Kerr, Henry Selwyn Edson, Albert James Knowling, James Eldon Lane, Cyril Gainborough Beeston, Ernest Whitman Bigelow, Herbert Stephen Pringle, Robert Francis Powell Harold Arthur Beckwith.

Alexander Robertson McLeod, R. G. Phipps, J. B. Boyd, F. G. Tupper, P. McD. Kerr, H. S. Banwell, J. E. Lane, Spencer Taverner Hankey, A. J. Klowling, C. G. Beeston, E. W. Bizelew, H. S. Pringle, George Bruce Duncan, James Gordon Stanier, R. B. Powell, H. A. Beckwith, Henry Martyn Jenkins.

Mr. Justice Gregory made a short and kindly speech to the new members of the bar, and for himself expressed his desire to know every member by sight and name, asking them to make themselves known to him when they met him outside. As he remarked, it is impossible to remember all the members of the profession, it is growing so with the growth of the province.

His lordship recalled the saying of a distinguished divine, to the effect that he would prefer to be tried for his life by a jury of lawyers than by one of clergymen. He dwelt on the honorable nature of the profession they had entered, its responsibilities and duties, and reminded them of the high traditions of the British bar, which he urged them to uphold and maintain as sacred.

With the formal inquiry as to whether any of them had any matter to bring before the court, a judicial witticism which is always meant to put the new lawyers at their ease, his lordship adjourned court with the hope that their next appearance would be equally successful and more profitable.

MARCHED INTO CAMP

Nearly One Thousand Boys Now Under Canvas on Macaulay Plains; Teachers Arrive for Training.

The cadets' camp at Macaulay point was this morning a turmoil of hurry and bustle for the Victoria and Cowichan cadets arrived for their week's training while this afternoon Lieutenant Mulcahy met the Vancouver boat and guided a large contingent from Vancouver into their summer quarters. This afternoon nearly one thousand of Canada's young hopefuls were nominally under canvas on the historic plains, unstrapping their baggage, inspecting their quarters, and watching with wonder and delight the preparations in that most important of camp institutions—the cook-house. The camp will break up again on Saturday next, and until that time it will be as last year in charge of Lt.-Col. R. G. E. Leckie, of the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver; D. A. A. G. and Q.-M.-G. Captain Harvey, of the 8th Fusiliers, Lieutenant Mulcahy, R. C. G. A. will again act as chief staff officer, together with other instructors drawn from the permanent force. The Vancouver cadets brought with them a band of some forty strong, who will contribute to the harmony at the camp, and probably concerts will be given in the open air for the benefit of parents and visitors as in past years.

In addition to the boys some fifty school teachers of the province arrived at Macaulay Plains to-day to undergo their six weeks' training for the purpose of securing certificates which will qualify them to act as instructors of cadet corps.

MARKET WAS STRONG IN APPEARANCE TO-DAY

London Free Buyer of Amalgamated Copper and Southern Pacific Up

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.) New York, July 6.—Despite a narrow trading area, the market had a strong appearance.

Amalgamated Copper was freely bought by London and American smelters, and Southern Pacific were tendered good support.

Restraint was induced by a further postponement of the time-worn rate decision. On the other hand there was sentimental betterment on the tenor of recent Washington advices, particularly as pertaining to presidential utterances.

The government report on the grain condition is due on Wednesday next, and should the gigantic crop promise hold out, some incentive should be provided financial constructive efforts.

BLACK RUST REPORTS GAVE BUYING IMPETUS

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.) Chicago, July 6.—It was evident from action in the wheat market to-day that rust reports were given more credence.

Trend of prices at the start towards a lower level and it was around the 78 mark for the two earlier options when Snow was sending in black rust advices from South Dakota.

The effect of this was to induce considerable short covering on the part of local interests, which gave an upturn in the market of over a cent.

Wednesday's government figures of the crop condition is eagerly awaited and in the meantime operations are being held in check pending the release of same.

SEALING COMMISSION

Court is Hearing Individual Claims of Men Who Were in the Industry in Nineties.

The sealing commission this morning resumed the hearing of individual claims of men who were engaged in the industry in the years when the modus vivendi shut them off from fishing in Behring sea and thus reduced the catch and the amount which they would have earned.

There are several of these yet to be heard. To-day A. J. Patton was in charge of a number, putting in the evidence they have to give as to the catch made by the schooners on which they sailed in the nineties.

Hallard Warner started sealing in 1894 on the Director, sailing from Halifax and coming round the Horn. In the seasons of 1895 and 1896 he was a boat-steerer on lay and wages, having about 100 skins to his boat the first season and 345 the next. In other boats he sealed for four seasons later, and since then has been an employee at the gasworks. He does not claim for any loss of occupation, but only for the loss of an income while sealing as a result of the restrictions.

Mr. Warner stated to Mr. Curran that he had never had any difficulty in obtaining employment when he was not sealing.

William McArthur, born in Edinburgh sixty-six years ago, considered that that made him a pretty good, sure-enough British citizen. He sealed along the coast and in Behring sea for some seasons after 1896, as a boat-steerer, and gave details of the catch of his boat.

Board of Trade.—A meeting of the board of trade council will be held to-morrow morning in the Bastion street rooms, when several matters, of more than usual interest will be inquired into.

STRONG BIDDING AND SALES IN ATHABASCA

Athabasca took precedence this morning. As for some sessions past, bidding came from all quarters and offerings were of a slim character. Sales were at $1.50.

Oil issues generally took on a soft appearance. This was the outcome of Calgary advices not betokening any new factor in the situation there, in the way of another strike.

Granby was unchanged from Saturday, but this stock advanced two and a half points later in the day on strong buying, and an improved metal condition as compared with recent lethargy.

DENIES CONVENTION IS A FORLORN HOPE

Miners' Representative Speaks on Objects of B. C. Federation of Labor's Meeting

In order to arouse interest in the special convention of the B. C. Federation of Labor, which opens its sessions at the Labor Temple, Vancouver, next Monday, a labor meeting was held at the Variety theatre last evening. Although there was a small attendance when the chairman, B. Simons, a vice-president of the Federation, opened the proceedings, quite a large number arrived as the evening advanced.

The principal speaker was D. Irvine, financial agent of the United Mine Workers of America, Vancouver Island district, who dealt at some length with the causes of the recent strike, the circumstances which led up to the imprisonment of a number of men and the prospects for the future. He denied that the coming convention was a forlorn hope of the miners. The agreement which they were recently asked to endorse at the solicitation of the government was practically an unconditional surrender to the operators. The view the miners took of it was that such surrender would be the outcome of its terms, and so they had given a majority of over 1100 against it in spite of the fact that some of them had held out for 22 months and others for 14 months, and in spite of the fear that the international organization might not indefinitely continue strike pay. Yet with all these drawbacks the miners would not accept a settlement of the character proposed by the government. There were 1500 Asiatics now employed in and about the mines on the island, and particularly at Cumberland, where the number of Orientals had increased threefold since the strike began.

Mr. Irvine, in speaking of the presence of the militia in the coal zone, criticized the action of Col. Hall in having the Athletic hall at Nanaimo surrounded by troops. The method in which it had been done had been a direct incentive to a massacre of the men. People said such things as had occurred in West Virginia and Colorado could not happen in Canada, yet an incident like that, and similar occurrences he had seen at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, made him doubt the claim.

The miners would not go into the convention with a cut-and-dried scheme but hoped some settlement would be forthcoming from the gathering of organized labor in the province. It might, perhaps, be the most important gathering of labor ever held in British Columbia.

A. S. Wells, secretary of the Federation, also spoke briefly.

COWICHAN FISHERIES

Special Commission Makes Recommendations Which Are Expected to Settle Indian Grievances.

What is expected to prove a satisfactory settlement of the dispute between the Cowichan Indians and the sporting fishermen of that vicinity is being suggested to the joint royal commission on Indian affairs by the special commission which heard both sides of the case during sittings here and in Duncan recently.

The Indians complain against being compelled to remove their weirs from the river, while the whites complain that the placing of weirs in the stream would prevent the fish from ascending it, unless the weirs were in use.

It is proposed by the special com-
