PREFACE

This is one of a series of seven volumes presenting final results of the 1948 Census of Business for Wholesale, Retail, and Service Trades. Statistics for Wholesale Trade are contained in two volumes—Volume IV, General Statistics and Commodity Line Sales Statistics; and this volume. The Census, which was conducted by personal canvass of business establishments, was taken in accordance with the provisions of the act of June 19, 1948 (62 Stat. 478; 13 U. S. C. 121-123). This act provides for a Census of Business to cover the year 1948 and every fifth year thereafter. Previous business censuses covered the years 1929, 1933, 1935, and 1939.

Important to the conduct of the 1948 Census of Business was the assistance of many private and public organizations in the planning phase of the census and the excellent cooperation of some 3,000,000 business establishments in supplying the information required, as well as the work of the several thousand census employees who participated in the field enumeration, editing, tabulation, and other census operations.

The advice of trade associations, individual businessmen, research and marketing organizations, and Government agencies was invaluable in determining the feasibility of collecting various types of data and the methods for minimizing the burden of reporting, as well as in determining the types of information which would be of greatest value. Because of budgetary and other limitations, it was not possible to collect all of the data recommended by these groups. Timely publicity given to the business census by business organizations, trade papers, local newspapers, and radio stations aided greatly in informing businessmen of the nature and objectives of the census and facilitated the collection of census reports.

The primary responsibility for the 1948 Census of Business was centered in the Business Division of the Census Bureau. Other divisions of the Bureau, particularly the Field Division and the Machine Tabulation Division, also had important functions in the census.

The business census was taken under the supervision of William C. Truppner, Chief of the Business Division. Major contributions to the planning of the 1948 Census of Business were made by William A. Ruff, Assistant Chief, who retired January 1, 1948, and Earl D. Krickbaum, Chief of the Procedures and Processing Section until November 1, 1948.

The following personnel in the Business Division had important responsibilities in the census:

Harvey Kailin was Assistant Chief, Program Branch. Louis Greenberg was responsible for review of all text material and table forms, and assisted on publication problems.

Max A. Bershad was Chief of the Statistical Methods Section. Henry Wulff, in charge of Quality Control, worked on field enumerating techniques, and office editing and tabulating procedures. Aaron Sabghir, in charge of Sampling Techniques, worked on the postenumeration survey and measures of census coverage and accuracy.

John Albright was Chief of the Wholesale Trade Section and William P. McNerny was Assistant Chief. George L. Whalley, Max E. VanHorn, Frank R. Alvis, and Bruce B. Spratling, participated in the planning and developing of report forms, publication plans, and manuals; the writing of texts; and the handling of technical problems arising during the processing of reports and tabulations.

M. D. Bingham was Chief of the Procedures and Processing Section, and Sol Dolleck was Assistant Chief; Richard S. McCurdy, succeeded by R. M. Micolý in July 1949, and assisted by Jervis Braunstein, was in charge of the Directory Subsection, responsible for receiving report forms and the handling of special problems connected with multiunit firms. Leroy H. Groeper was Chief of the Wholesale Trade Processing Subsection, and was in charge of editing, coding, and tabulating Wholesale Trade reports. J. Stanley Werking participated in the design of forms and all problems of printing and preparation of material for publication.

In the Field Division, Jack B. Robertson, assisted by Arthur Cook, directed the field work for the census of business. Lancelot W. Armstrong, Machine Tabulation Division, assisted by Hugh Jones, was responsible for machine tabulation techniques and procedures; and Franklin L. Thatcher and Robert H. Brooks, Administrative Services Division, were responsible for the printing and publishing of the Census of Business.

INTRODUCTION

Scope of the census, and area covered.—The 1948 Census of Business covers Retail, Wholesale, and Service Trades. Retail and Wholesale Trades in the Business Census correspond with minor exceptions to these trade divisions as described in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, issued May 1949, under the sponsorship of the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President. For a discussion of the census scope of Service Trade, see Introduction to volume VI: Service Trade—General Statistics. All previous Business Censuses covered Retail and Wholesale Trades; Service Trades were first enumerated in the 1933 Census.

The 1948 Census of Business includes business establishments located in Continental United States and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii. Data for Puerto Rico, obtained in a Census of Business for 1949, are published separately. The 1939 Business Census covered the same areas as the 1948 Census, and, in addition, Puerto Rico. All earlier Business Censuses were conducted only in Continental United States.

Period covered by the census.—The 1948 Census of Business is basically a report of business activity in the calendar year 1948. However, the relatively small proportion of establishments that maintained their records on a fiscal year basis and were unable to report on a calendar year basis, were permitted to use a fiscal year ending between September 30, 1948, and March 31, 1949. In a very few cases, reports were accepted for fiscal years not falling within this range. Regardless of the fiscal year used, all establishments were required to report employment and pay roll (except annual pay roll) for the pay periods specified on the report forms.

Method of canvass.—The 1948 Census of Business was conducted primarily by means of field enumeration, although advance inquiries were made by mail to clarify the reporting problems of large multiunit organizations. For purposes of enumeration, 308 Census field offices were established with jurisdiction over the some 37,000 enumeration districts into which the Nation had been divided. Trained enumerators were assigned areas consisting of one or more enumeration districts. A more complete description of enumeration procedures, including controls on and measures of the coverage of business establishments, are contained in the 1948 Census of Business Volume I, Retail Trade; Volume IV, Wholesale Trade; and Volume VI, Service Trade.

Scope of Wholesale Trade.—The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, Volume II, Nonmanufacturing Industries, defines Wholesale Trade as including "establishments or places of business primarily engaged in selling merchandise to retailers; to industrial, commercial, institutional, or professional users; or to other wholesalers; or acting as agents in buying merchandise for, or selling merchandise to, such persons or companies." The 1948 Census of Business was conducted in accordance with this definition.

Comparison of 1948 and 1939 Wholesale Trade scope.—With minor exceptions, the scope of Wholesale Trade in the 1948 census is the same as for 1939. Changes from 1939 were made with respect to coffee roasting and leaf tobacco stemming and redrying establishments, which were excluded from the 1948 Census of Business, but covered in the 1947 Census of Manufactures. Motion picture film distributors were included with Wholesale Trade in 1939 but not in 1948. Data for this industry were collected and published in a special bulletin entitled "Motion Picture Film Distributors." Administrative offices and auxiliary units of wholesale establishments were omitted in 1939, but included in 1948. Some adjustments in 1939 data were made in the case of individual companies which were classified differently in 1948 from 1939. Adjustments and scope changes are reflected in those tables which contain comparative statistics.

Type-of-operation classification.—Wholesale Trade, as defined above, is much broader than the conventional concept of "wholesaler" selling primarily to retailers, as it also includes foreign trade merchants, industrial distributors, manufacturer-owned wholesale outlets, agents, brokers, and assemblers of farm products. As the scope is so broad, the primary approach in classifying wholesale establishments is on the basis of type of operation of the establishment. In the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, wholesale establishments are divided into two major groups, one of which is further subdivided into four groups:

- 50 Merchant wholesalers.
- 51 Wholesale Trade, other than merchant wholesalers.
 - 511 Sales branches and sales offices of manufacturing and mining companies.
 - 512 Petroleum bulk stations.
 - 513 Agents and brokers.
 - 514 Assemblers, mainly of farm products.

These major groups are recognized in presenting Census of Business findings, but, in some tables, are broken into more detailed types with the result that data are shown for as many as 36 separate types of operation. Descriptions of these 36 types are shown in appendix A, and comparative Census classifications used in the 1948, 1939, and 1929 Censuses for the major groups are given in appendix C of this volume. A comparison of classifications used in the 1948 Census and in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual is presented in appendix D.

Establishment basis of the census.—Census of Business figures represent a summary of reports for individual "establishments" rather than for the combined activities of "companies." A separate report was obtained for each location at which business was conducted, including each location of multiunit organizations. For such organizations, a separate report also was obtained for each central warehouse, administrative and district office, and each other location (other than a manufacturing plant) which serviced, or was auxiliary to, establishments of the organization reported to the Business Census. Each report was tabulated in accordance with the physical location of the establishment.

Kind-of-business classification.—In addition to "location" and "type of operation" classification, each establishment was assigned a kind-of-business classification. A total of 145 kind-of-business classifications are recognized in presenting census results for Wholesale Trade. The 145 detailed classifications are grouped into 53 classifications which, in turn, are further arranged according to 17 major groups. A complete listing of kinds of business together with their descriptions is given in appendix B of this volume, accompanied by a comparison of census classifications used in the 1948, 1939, and 1929 Business Censuses. In contrast to 145 Census classifications, SIC groups wholesale establishments under 57 kinds of business. A comparison of Census and SIC classifications including an outline of the differences in these two classification systems is given in appendix D.

Report forms.—Five report forms were used in canvassing wholesale establishments in the 1948 Census of Business. Form BC-30 was used for reporting operations of merchant wholesalers and manufacturers' sales branches and offices primarily engaged in selling consumer goods such as foods, clothing, jewelry, etc.; Form BC-31 was used for enumerating merchant wholesalers and manufacturers' sales offices engaged in selling industrial, commercial, or professional goods such as electrical goods, machinery, beauty supplies, etc.; Form BC-32 was a specialized questionnaire used for reporting operations of petroleum bulk stations and distributing terminals; Form BC-33 was designed for enumerating agents and brokers; and Form BC-34 was used for reporting activities of assemblers and marketers of farm products. The five forms were identical with respect to the basic information presented in this volume on number of establishments, sales, personnel, pay roll, and inventories. However, they differed materially in the amount and kind of detail called for on sales by commodity line, expenses, cash and credit business, trucks, etc. Information on these subjects, for Wholesale Trade, is presented in volume IV.

In addition, a Form BC-10 was required for each administrative office, warehouse, or other auxiliary unit, primarily engaged in performing functions for the wholesale establishments within their own organization. Information collected on Form BC-10 is also included in data presented in this volume. Reproductions of Forms BC-30, BC-31, BC-32, BC-33, BC-34, and BC-10 are shown in appendix F.

Statistics for Wholesale Trade.—The patterns for presentation of data by type of operation and kind of business in the tables in this Volume are determined, basically, by the number of establishments in the areas to which the data shown relate. Because of the relationship between the number of establishments and the number of different classifications for which data can be presented without violating Census laws designed to prevent disclosure of confidential information, the detail shown will vary from area to area.

Information for 36 types of operation and 145 kinds of business are shown in table 1E. This is the maximum detail shown in this volume. For States and standard metropolitan areas (tables 101 and 102), data are shown for a maximum of 13 types of operation and 53 kinds of business. For counties with 50 or more wholesale establishments (table 104), data are shown for a maximum of 17 kinds of business. Table 103 summarizes wholesale trade information for all counties and, within counties, for cities with 5,000 or more inhabitants. In this table, establishment and sales information is presented for "Wholesale merchants," and "Other operating types."

For presentation of wholesale data, a "collapsible" stub was employed where the small number of establishments in an area or kind of business resulted in inability to present statistics without disclosure. In such cases, all kinds of business for which data could not be separately shown were lumped together in an "n. e. c." (not elsewhere classified) group. Thus, in a number of areas, data are presented for such classifications as "Merchant wholesalers, n. e. c.," or "Manufacturers' sales branches, n. e. c.," etc. Data in different tables for "n.e.c." groups are usually not comparable since they can consist of a varying number of kinds of business.

Wherever information for an area might result in disclosure of figures for an individual establishment, all data, except "Number of establishments," were suppressed. To prevent derivation of the suppressed figures by subtraction, it always was necessary that data for another kind of business also be withheld.

Standard metropolitan areas.—In addition to States, counties, and cities, Census of Business statistics are presented for standard metropolitan areas. These are areas which have been defined and established cooperatively by a number of interested Federal agencies under the direction of the Bureau of the Budget for purposes of compilation and presentation of a wide variety of statistical data on a uniform area basis.

The general concept adopted in defining a standard metropolitan area was one of an integrated economic unit with a large volume of daily travel and communication between a central city and the outlying parts of the area. This resulted in an area considerably more restricted, especially for the larger cities, than the "market" or "trading" area. Each area (except in New England) consists of one or more entire counties. In New England, metropolitan areas have been defined on a town rather than on a county basis. A complete statement of the principles adopted as a guide in applying this general concept to the definition of individual areas will be found in a document issued by the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President, dated July 28, 1950, entitled "Standard Metropolitan Area Definitions."

The 147 standard metropolitan areas for which 1948 Census of Business data are included in the Area Statistics Volumes are those defined by the Bureau of the Budget as of June 5, 1950, on the basis of 1950 population statistics available at that time. Subsequent to the preparation of Census of Business tabulations, the list of metropolitan areas was increased to 168 areas. The list of 147 standard metropolitan areas included in the Census of Business and the description of the territory which they cover will be found on page 0.31. These areas are also shown on the map on page xiv.

Cities of 5,000 inhabitants or more.—The list of cities included in table 103, "Counties and cities with 5,000 inhabitants or more," was based on unofficial population figures and will differ slightly from the list as determined by the final 1950 Census of Population, which was not available in time for use for 1948 Census of Business purposes. Some cities which had 5,000 inhabitants or more were not included in the above tables, while a few which had less than 5,000 inhabitants have been included. A review of official preliminary 1950 population figures, available at the time of publication of this volume, permitted preparation of a list of those cities of 5,000 inhabitants or more which were not included in the tables. Appendix E lists these cities.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

Establishments.—Establishments consist of all wholesale places of business as well as administrative offices, central warehouses, and other units of multiunit organizations which service, or are auxiliary to, the wholesale establishments of the organization. The count represents the number of establishments in business at the end of 1948.

Administrative offices and auxiliary units.—These include locations of a multiunit organization which service, or are auxiliary to, the wholesale establishments within the organization. They are not primarily engaged in selling merchandise. Included are such locations as district offices, purchasing offices, central warehouses, garages, etc., primarily engaged in performing administrative or other auxiliary functions. Chain-store warehouses and central warehouses which service the retail establishments of their own organization are classified in Retail Trade.

Wholesale establishments.—These are separate places of business primarily engaged in selling, or acting as an agent in selling merchandise to (or buying for) business concerns, regardless of whether the latter purchased for resale or for business use. The place of business may be a warehouse from which sales are made at wholesale, a sales or brokerage office, or part of an office that may be shared with others. Each establishment of organizations operating at more than one place of business is counted separately.

Although the 1948 Census of Business enumerated all wholesale establishments regardless of size, tabulations exclude data for those that operated during the entire year 1948 but had sales of less than $5,000. In 1939 the corresponding figure for exclusion from the tabulations was $1,000.

Sales.—Sales include receipts from merchandise sold during 1948 together with any receipts from repairs or other services to customers, after deducting returns and allowances and trade discounts. Sales of merchandise for others on a commission basis are included as well as sales for the account of the reporting establishment. Local and State sales taxes or Federal excise taxes collected by the wholesale establishment directly from customers and paid directly to local, State, or Federal taxing agencies are included. Gasoline, liquor, tobacco, and other excise taxes paid by the manufacturer or supplier and passed along to the wholesale establishment are also included in the sales figures.

Sales figures therefore represent total sales and receipts of all establishments primarily engaged in wholesale trade. They do not include sales by manufacturing plants, general administrative offices of manufacturers, retailers, and other businesses whose primary activity is other than wholesale trade.

Some establishments included in Wholesale Trade (such as buying brokers, purchasing agents, syndicate buyers, country grain elevators, and cream stations) are engaged chiefly in buying from the trade or public for clients or for parent organizations, selling being incidental or nonexistent. These establishments reported purchases in lieu of sales. Sales as shown for agents and brokers represent the selling value of the goods in the transactions negotiated.

Operating expenses.—Total operating expenses, sometimes referred to as "overhead," includes all expenses incurred during the census year by the reporting establishment. It includes pay roll as well as other overhead expenses, but not the cost of merchandise sold, nor does it include withdrawals by owners of unincorporated businesses. It covers such items as administrative, selling, warehousing, delivery, occupancy, and miscellaneous expenses.

For agents, brokers, and commission petroleum bulk stations the entries under the heading "Operating expenses" in tables 1C and 1E for 1948 represent the amount of brokerage or commissions received rather than overhead expenses incurred.

Pay roll.—Pay roll includes all compensations (salaries, wages, commissions, and bonuses) paid during the specified period to all employees. For corporations, it includes amounts paid to officers and executives; it does not include compensation for proprietors or firm members of unincorporated businesses. Pay roll is reported before deductions for social security, income tax withholding, insurance, dues, etc.

Pay roll—entire year.—All amounts paid during the census year to employees are included in this item.

Pay roll—specified workweeks.—All amounts paid to employees on pay rolls for the workweek ending nearest March 15, July 15, and November 15 are included in these items. Provision was made for reporting pay roll adjusted to the workweek where the pay period was on other than a workweek basis, and also for reporting on a workweek basis commission and bonus payments. However, for a number of establishments annual pay roll figures included amounts not allocated to weekly pay rolls.

Active proprietors of unincorporated businesses.—Active proprietors include owners or partners of unincorporated businesses who devoted the major portion of their time to the operation of the business during November 1948.

Paid employees.—Paid employees consist of the number of employees including salaried officers and executives of corporations who were on the pay roll for the specified workweeks.

Stocks on hand.—Stocks are defined as the inventory, at cost value, of merchandise on hand for sale as of the end of 1948. Goods owned and out-on-consignment are included but not the value of merchandise of others held for sale on consignment.

LIST OF CORRECTIONS

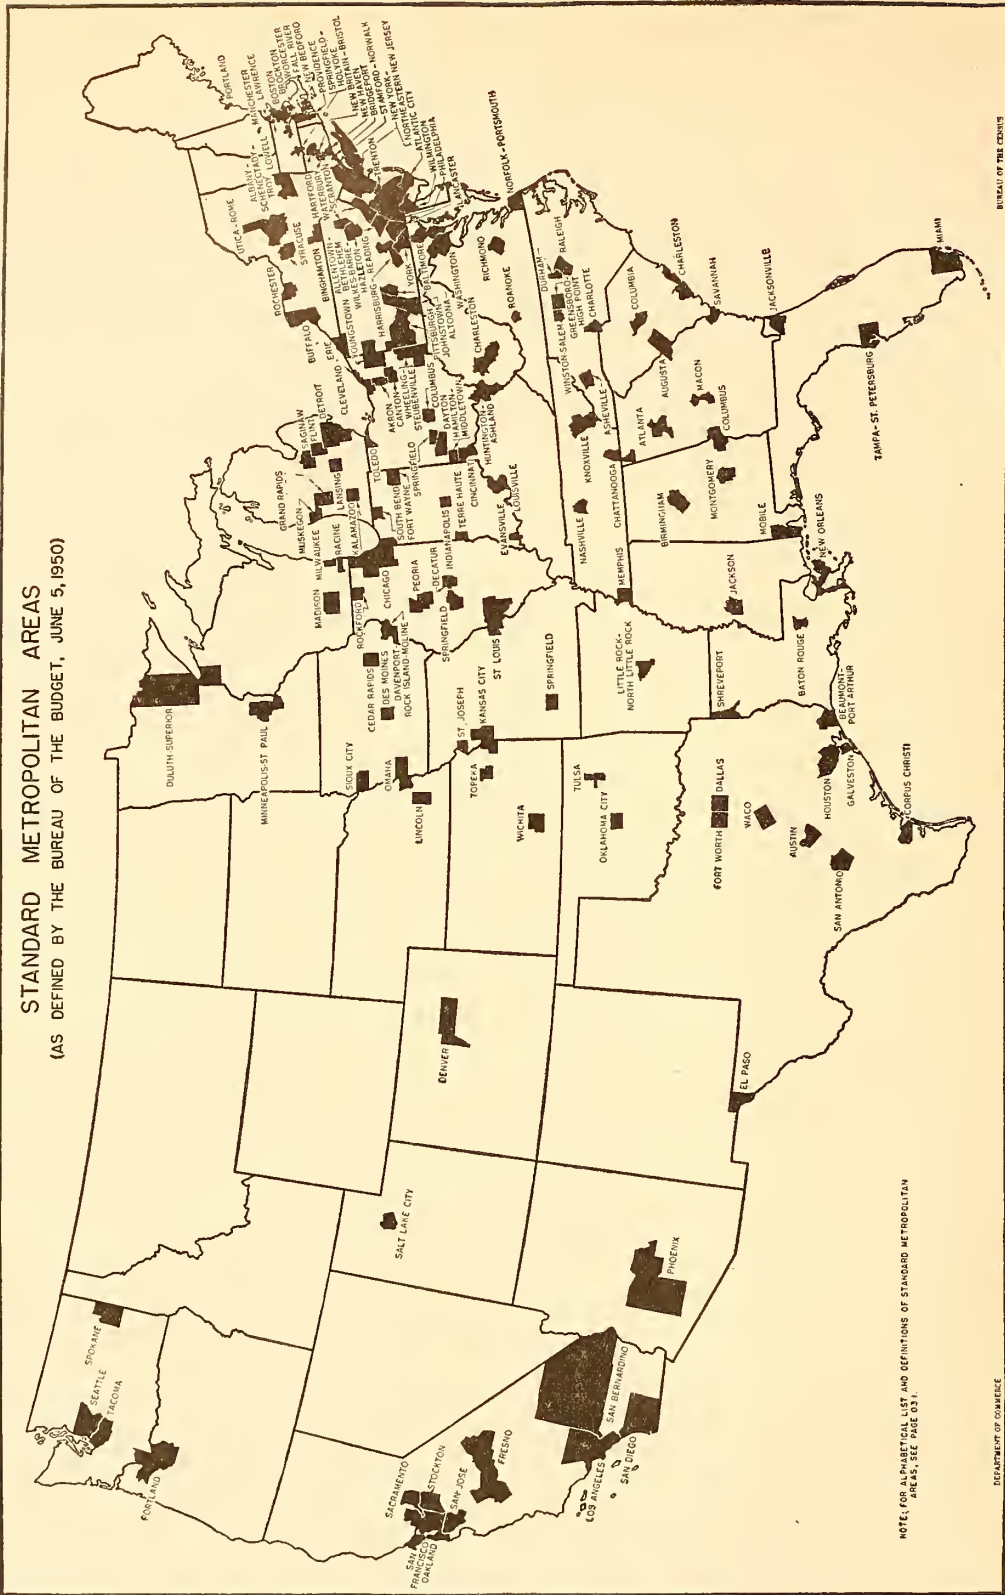

This volume has been prepared primarily by assembling and binding the statistical portions of previously issued Area Bulletins for the United States, States, the District of Columbia, and Territories. This publication plan was adopted to conserve public funds and expedite the issuance of the volume. The corrections appearing below represent changes which would ordinarily have been made if the volume had been prepared by reprinting the contents of all bulletins. It was found desirable to reprint completely the following Bulletins for volume publication: Arizona, California, Tennessee, Alaska, and Hawaii. In these cases, some figures will differ from those shown in the Bulletins as originally issued. Differences of 1 in totals for the same item appearing in different tables have not been listed where they are caused by rounding.

TYPE-OF-OPERATION DESCRIPTIONS

Each wholesale establishment is classified, for Census purposes, on two bases, first, by type of operation--as merchant wholesaler, manufacturers' sales branch or office, petroleum bulk station, agent or broker, assembler--on the basis of the character of the business or the nature of functions performed; and second, by kind of business or trade--as drugs, dry goods, hardware, groceries, construction materials, etc., primarily on the basis of commodity lines sold. Establishments whose operations overlap types of operation or kinds of business are classified according to their major activity during the census year and all of the business is included in the one classification.

Wholesale establishments are divided into five major type-of-operation classifications, each of which is further subdivided with the result that data are presented for a total of 36 different types of operation.

Type-of-operation groups and their subdivisions are outlined below:

- I. Merchant wholesalers
 - Service wholesalers (domestic market)
 - Wholesale merchants, jobbers
 - Converters (textile)
 - Industrial distributors
 - Service wholesalers (foreign trade merchants)
 - Exporters

Types of Operation Described

I. Merchant wholesalers

This major group, which in the 1939 Business Census was known as "Service and limited-function wholesalers," consists of establishments usually known as wholesalers, distributors, jobbers, supply houses, etc. They are primarily engaged in buying, taking title to, and where customary, physically storing and handling goods, and selling the goods at wholesale principally to retailers, to industrial and commercial users, and to other wholesalers. Establishments in this group may perform operations on the goods incidental to the wholesale trading and delivery, such as installing machinery, equipment, and fixtures. Separately incorporated sales subsidiaries of manufacturing and mining companies, buying and selling merchandise on their own account, are included in this major group.

Service wholesalers (domestic market):

Wholesale merchants, jobbers.--Merchant wholesalers primarily engaged in buying and selling in the domestic market, who perform all of the principal wholesale functions. They sell goods principally to retailers or to industrial, commercial, or professional users; buy and sell merchandise on their own account; carry stocks; assemble in large lots and redistribute in smaller quantities usually through salesmen; extend credit to customers; make deliveries; and render advice to the trade.

Converters (textile).--Included here are those special types of merchants in the textile trade that purchase textiles in the gray from mills or manufacturers, have them dyed and finished, usually on a contract or commission basis, and sell to the cutting-up trade, garment makers, wholesalers, or large-scale retailers. Plants engaged in finishing, dyeing, printing, etc., are included in the Census of Manufactures.

Industrial distributors.--Included here are establishments dealing in a fairly complete line of materials, equipment, and supplies for mines, factories, oil wells, public utilities, or similar industries, and selling primarily to industrial users. Establishments primarily engaged in selling machinery are included under "Wholesale merchants."

Service wholesalers (foreign trade merchants):

Exporters.--Merchant wholesalers that are primarily engaged in selling in the foreign rather than the domestic market.

Importers.--Merchant wholesalers whose chief distinction lies in the source of their purchases which is primarily foreign.

Limited function wholesalers:

Cash-carry wholesalers.--Establishments that generally carry only a limited line of products, mostly staples and fast moving items, and usually do not extend credit to their customers nor make deliveries. Retailer-cooperative warehouses and voluntary group grocery wholesalers selling on a cash-and-carry basis are included in their respective classifications and not here. Cash-and-carry depots owned by service wholesalers and operated as separate establishments are included here.

Drop or direct-mill shippers.--Merchants primarily engaged in filling orders by having shipment made directly from the manufacturer or other source of supply to the drop-shippers' customer. As drop shippers they do not perform warehouse, storage, or delivery functions.

Wagon, truck distributors.--Merchant wholesalers that are distinguished by the following characteristics: (1) They combine the functions of salesmen with those of deliverymen. Usually no separate sales force is employed, the work of selling and delivering being carried out by salesmen-drivers. (2) They normally carry a limited assortment of merchandise consisting of nationally advertised fast moving items of a perishable or semiperishable nature. (3) Their practice is to sell for cash and in the original package.

It should be noted that only those wagon distributors with recognizable places of business, or who have paid employees, are included in the census.

Retailer-cooperative warehouses.--Establishments owned and operated cooperatively by groups of independent retailers buying collectively. The establishment functions as a separate wholesale house selling chiefly to members. Informal buying groups or clubs without warehousing facilities and having no paid employees were not enumerated in the census. Cooperative buying organizations with established places of business and purchasing for others on a commission basis are classified as "Cooperative buying agencies" and are included under "Agents and brokers."

II. Manufacturers' sales branches, offices

Establishments maintained apart from manufacturing plants by manufacturing and mining companies primarily for selling or marketing their products at wholesale. Branch stores selling to household consumers or individual users are classified in Retail Trade. Sales branches or offices located at manufacturing plants or at general administrative offices of manufacturers are excluded unless operated as separate and distinct businesses. Separately incorporated subsidiaries of manufacturing and mining companies identified with parent company and selling its products only are included, whereas these establishments are classified as "Merchant wholesalers" in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual.

Manufacturers' sales branches (with stocks).--Are distinguished from sales offices by the fact that the former maintain facilities for the physical storage, handling, and delivering of at least a portion of the merchandise sold. Sales branches frequently install machinery, equipment, and apparatus sold by them and sometimes are engaged in leasing or renting machinery or equipment on a royalty basis.

Manufacturers' sales offices (without stocks).--Are distinguished from manufacturers' sales branches by the fact that sales offices do not maintain facilities for the physical storage, handling, and delivery of merchandise.

III. Petroleum bulk stations, terminals

Distinguished primarily by their physical properties for transferring, storing, and distributing gasoline, fuel oil, and other bulk petroleum products at wholesale. Distributors selling packaged, rather than bulk, petroleum goods and those without stationary storage facilities who sell in bulk from tank trucks are classified as merchant wholesalers, not as bulk stations.

In addition to types of operation mentioned below, petroleum bulk stations and terminals are also classified (in tables 14C and 14F) on the basis of ownership as "Refiner-marketer" and "Other."

Bulk stations.--Maintain storage facilities on railroad or other transportation lines and sell, usually from trucks, to gasoline service stations and other retailers; to commercial and industrial users; and, in agricultural areas, to farmers. As a rule they do not have drive-in facilities for the accommodation of automobiles. Stations set up in a manner to service automobiles are classified in Retail Trade. Stations conducting both wholesale and retail businesses are classified according to their major activity during the Census year.

Bulk stations are classified on the basis of type or character of operation as follows:

Independent bulk stations.--Owned and operated independent of any other bulk station. This classification includes any single-unit bulk stations operated under the same ownership with filling stations but not under the same ownership with other bulk stations.

Commission stations.--Owned by multiunit concerns (concerns operating more than one bulk station) but whose operators have a proprietary interest in the business. Operators of these stations are as a rule paid commissions which include unspecified amounts to cover overhead, delivery costs, and pay roll. Personnel are considered as employees of the operator, rather than of the owner of the bulk plant.

Salary stations.--Owned and operated by multiunit concerns, concerns operating more than one bulk plant. Personnel of salary stations are generally considered as employees of companies owning the plants.

Cooperative bulk stations.--Owned and operated by cooperative associations. Many sell primarily to farmers via tank trucks.

Distributing terminals.--Places of business located at water, pipe line, or other transportation terminal points with special equipment for the transfer of petroleum products from one type of transportation to another. Although many terminals are similar in their operation to bulk plants, they are generally distinguished by their location, their larger operations, the character of their facilities, and in the class of customers served. Terminals are largely engaged in selling to bulk stations and industrial accounts, although some sales are made to retailers. Bulk stations on the other hand are primarily engaged in selling to retailers and commercial accounts.

Only those terminals are included in Wholesale Trade that make a practice of selling petroleum products to other concerns. Facilities used solely in making intra-company transfers are not considered as separate establishments for the purpose of the Census of Business.

IV. Agents and brokers

Establishments, the operators of which are in business for themselves, negotiating for others sales or purchases of merchandise in domestic or foreign trade, but who do not, as a rule, take title to the merchandise. They may represent a single client or a group of clients, either buyers or sellers but not both in the same transaction, and compensation is usually in the form of commissions or brokerage. Sales as shown for agents and brokers represent the sales (or purchase) value of the goods in the transactions negotiated and include some approximation as many of them do not maintain records of the dollar sales. In such cases carefully prepared estimates are included.

In the agents and brokers field it is often difficult to distinguish the various detailed types of operation. This is particularly true of brokers, commission merchants, manufacturers' agents, and selling agents.

Auction companies.--Concerns that sell by the auction method at wholesale. Sales are conducted under definite rules and are usually made to the highest or best bidder. These establishments provide places for public inspection and sale of merchandise consigned to them. Auction selling is most common in the marketing of leaf tobacco, livestock, fruits and vegetables, and other farm products. Auctioneers and so-called "community sales" are not included in Wholesale Trade.

Brokers (merchandise).--Negotiate transactions between buyers and sellers without having direct physical control of the goods and without taking title or assuming the risk of price fluctuations. They act as agents for their principals, who usually are producers or manufacturers. Although some brokers represent wholesalers or retailers, this latter is usually as a purchasing function. Their powers as to prices and terms of sale are usually limited by their principals.

Brokers often are not bound to any set of clients. Their relations with any one client may not be continuous. In addition to negotiating purchases or sales, their chief function consists of advising their clients as to market conditions. Normally, brokers do not handle the invoices.

In some trades it is difficult to distinguish brokers from selling agents and manufacturers' agents, the terms frequently being used to describe similar methods of operation. This is particularly true in the food industry where brokers almost exclusively represent producers (sellers). Brokers primarily engaged in representing buyers are distinguished in Census statistics from those representing sellers.

Commission merchants.--Handle commodities or merchandise consigned to them for sale on a commission basis. As commission merchants they do not take title to the goods they sell for their clients. They have considerable latitude in regard to price and terms of sale. When the goods require it, they maintain places of business suitable for the handling, conditioning, warehousing, and selling of merchandise. Only commission merchants selling principally on a consignment basis are included here, whereas those dealing principally on their own account but doing some consignment business are classified as merchant wholesalers.

This classification also includes factors who specialize in the raw cotton trade. Factors are located, as a rule, in central markets and receive the cotton on consignment from the producing areas. Their functions consist of advancing funds to shippers, who may be growers; warehousing and storing the goods; grading; and selling.

Export agents.--Includes commission houses, and agents and brokers who specialize in the purchase of goods for, or sale of goods to, foreign buyers.

Import agents.--Includes commission merchants, manufacturers' agents, and selling agents who represent foreign sellers in the domestic market. In addition to negotiating sales, they usually attend to customs formalities.

Manufacturers' agents.--Customarily sell part of the output of certain manufacturers, usually two or more whose goods are noncompeting, on an extended contractual basis. They usually are limited with respect to sales territory, prices, and terms of sale. Their principal duty is selling, although some of them warehouse goods for their principals.

A segregation is made, for Census purposes, between those manufacturers' agents who own stocks and those who do not.

Selling agents.--Are independent operators whose principal function is to sell the entire output of a given line of goods for one or more manufacturers with whom they maintain continuous contractual relationships. Selling agents differ from manufacturers' agents in the following respects: (1) They normally sell all of the output of one or more products of the clients they serve; (2) they are less limited in sales territory; (3) they have considerable latitude with regard to prices, terms of sale, etc., whereas the authority of the manufacturers' agent is limited; and, (4) they frequently finance their clients and offer assistance in connection with the advertising and other sales-promotion activities.

Purchasing agents, resident buyers.--Purchasing agents, sometimes referred to as syndicate buyers, are independent operators buying merchandise for their clients. They are to be distinguished from manufacturers' purchasing agents who are not in business for themselves but work for a single employer. Frequently they combine orders from a number of relatively small manufacturers, wholesalers or retailers, and buy on a larger scale than would be possible for the individual concerns whom they represent.

Resident buyers are purchasing agents operating primarily in the dry goods trade. They are located in central markets and are in close contact with manufacturers in these markets and with wholesalers and retailers at outlying points. Normally they represent the interests of buyers although they may also occasionally represent sellers. Purchasing agents and resident buyers maintain more continuous relationship with clients than is the case with buying brokers.

Cooperative buying agencies.--Buying agencies maintained cooperatively by a group of purchasers with common interests.

Cooperative sales agencies.--Include both the sales agencies and the central marketing associations set up by cooperatives to facilitate the sale of the products of the members.

V. Assemblers (mainly farm products)

Consists of establishments primarily engaged in purchasing and assembling farm products and sea foods in local growers' markets, at local producing points, or in the cities of producing regions. They assemble farm products, produced on a relatively small scale, in lots for shipment to other wholesale buyers. In addition to buying and wholesale distribution of farm products, they frequently grade, pack, and store the commodities handled.

Assemblers (dealing on own account).--Are distinguished by the fact that they are independent buyers who deal on their own account. Some maintain offices at a central point and have a group, line, or chain of buying stations.

Quantities of agricultural commodities may be purchased locally by retail, service, or other business or industrial establishments and sold or used for productive purposes. Such establishments are not included here since classification for Census purposes is based on primary activities during the Census year.

Commission buyers.--Assemblers that are distinguished by the fact that they are engaged as agents in the buying of agricultural products, rather than dealing on their own account.

Cooperative marketing associations.--Are cooperative associations formed largely by farmers primarily for the purpose of disposing of their products. They frequently also buy for their members various supplies such as feed, seed, fertilizer, and fuel.

The term "cooperative marketing association" includes local cooperatives--both those disposing of their products direct and those marketing through a central association or agency. Cooperative cream stations and cooperative elevators are covered under their respective designations and not here. Farmers' cooperatives engaged primarily in buying supplies for members are included in Retail Trade.

Cream stations.--Include buying stations, located in milk producing regions, that buy fluid cream from farmers. They may be maintained by creamery companies, by cooperative associations, or by independent firms. Cream stations operated in conjunction with, and secondary to, other businesses such as retail stores, service establishments, elevators, etc., are not included here.

Country grain elevators.--Include independent, line, and cooperative concerns which purchase and handle grain and have properties commonly referred to as "elevators." Business concerns in producing areas, buying and selling grain, who do not have "elevators" are included under "assemblers (dealing on own account)" or "commission buyers," depending on how they operate. Terminal elevators in central markets engaged primarily in selling grain are considered, for Census purposes, as merchant wholesalers.

Independent elevators.--Are, for Census purposes, limited to a single elevator under one ownership.

Line elevators.--Are two or more elevators (other than cooperatives) under one ownership. Two or more elevators operated by a cooperative association are included under cooperative elevators. Many line elevators are owned by milling concerns which buy grain for their own use; or by merchandising concerns which purchase the grain through the elevators but which sell only from central points. For elevators performing the buying but not the selling function, "sales," as reported to the Census, represent the value of the grain purchased.

Cooperative elevators.--Are owned and operated cooperatively by farmers. No distinction is made between single and multiple elevators operated by cooperative associations.

Packers and shippers.--Production-point assemblers, packing, shipping and selling fruits, vegetables, or sea foods. Operators who do some growing but who perform primarily a commercial business for other producers are included. Excluded from the Census of Business are packing houses operated as integral parts of farms, and contract packers performing no selling functions. Commercial and cooperative houses packing and shipping sea foods are included here, but those maintained by fishermen for packing and marketing their own catch are excluded.

APPENDIX B

KIND-OF-BUSINESS DESCRIPTIONS

Each wholesale establishment was assigned a kind-of-business classification. In general, the kind-of-business classification assigned was based on the analysis which each establishment reported of its total sales classified into individual commodity lines. As lines handled by a single wholesale establishment frequently are quite broad and may overlap classifications--e.g., tobacco and confectionery, groceries and wines and liquors, hardware and automotive supplies--kind-of-business classification is determined by the predominant activity as shown by the commodity line sales analysis, and all of the business of the establishment is included in the one classification. For some kinds of business, such as mill supply, industrial supply, heating and plumbing, and school supply businesses, usual trade designations, rather than predominant merchandise lines, determine classification.

The kind-of-business classification of each warehouse, administrative office, and auxiliary unit is based on the classification of the wholesale establishments in the parent organization which it services or to which it is auxiliary.

Wholesale establishments are classified into 145 kinds of business. These 145 detailed classifications are grouped into 53 trade classifications which are further arranged according to 17 major groups.
