SINGLE COMMISSIONER TO REPLACE LIQUOR BOARD

Baldwin to Be Asked Next Week to Form a Cabinet

MACDONALD MINISTRY IS TO LAY DOWN REINS OF POWER IN OLD COUNTRY NEXT WEEK

Will Resign Before Assembling of New Parliament; Decides to Investigate Fully the Whole Zinovieff Letter Incident; Newspapers Tell Baldwin Length of His Term Depends Largely on His Choice of Ministers

London, Oct. 31.—The standing of the parties in the new House of Commons at 4 p.m. to-day was: Conservatives, including Constitutionalists, 401; Laborites, 149; Liberals, 40; Independents, 4; Co-operatives, 5; Communists, 1. This leaves fifteen seats for the Universities and Scotland to be reported, the total membership of the House being 615.

The Labor Cabinet, headed by Premier MacDonald, after a two-hour session this morning is understood to have decided to remain in office a few days and then resign before the assembling of the new Parliament.

An official communique was issued announcing the Cabinet had appointed a committee to examine the question of the authenticity of the Zinovieff letter.

It is believed one of the chief reasons for the decision to hold in abeyance the resignation of the Cabinet is the desire to carry out Mr. MacDonald's promise to investigate the incident of the alleged Russian letter and the subsequent British and Russian exchange of protests.

The King will return to London from Sandringham next Monday to be on hand should the necessity arise for his receiving Mr. MacDonald.

BALDWIN RESTS Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Premier, who is expected to be asked by the King to form a Conservative Government to succeed that of Premier MacDonald, left today for a short holiday in the country, in preparation for the strenuous duties which await him.

Among those mentioned as probable members of the Baldwin Government are: Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Robert Horne and possible Winston Churchill, in addition to Mr. Baldwin's lieutenants of the last Conservative administration.

Mr. MacDonald will spend the week-end, his last for a long time—perhaps for ever—in the Prime Minister's official rustic retreat at Chequers.

STORM SWEEPS OVER ISLAND

Trees Hold up Trains and Telegraph Service

Clearing of Track of Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway

A terrific storm swept over the central portion of the Island during Wednesday evening and Thursday morning, leveling trees and bringing telegraph poles down.

Telegraphic service is still interrupted north of Bowser. The path of the storm appears to have swept across Horn Lake in the direction of Mount Arrowsmith, for trees fell across the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway branch between Parkville and Port Alberni. The train westbound yesterday was forced to a halt at Cameron Lake, and automobiles were requisitioned to transfer Alberni passengers by road to their destination.

A wrecking gang is at work to-day, and it is expected to have the line open for the passenger train to-morrow. As interruption of wires west of Parkville continues, the railway officials have not yet been posted of the conditions to-day, or the number of trees blown down.

It was one of the worst inland storms reported on Vancouver Island for a considerable time, and the full measure of damage is not yet known.

NEW NEGOTIATIONS AMONG CHINESE CHIEFS

Shanghai, Oct. 31.—The North China Daily News prints a dispatch from Tientsin saying General Wu Pei-fu has instructed his representatives to open negotiations with Feng Cu-Hsiang, the Christian general, and General Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, on the basis that Chang shall return to Manchuria and acknowledge the full authority of the central Government and that all parties shall agree to resume the status quo.

BOARD TO ADMINISTER NEW EIGHT-HOUR LAW IS NAMED

J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor; T. F. Patterson, of Vancouver, and E. V. Foster, of Smithers, will form the Board of Adjustment under the new Eight-hour Day Law, Hon. A. M. Manson, Minister of Labor, announced to-day. Mr. McNiven will be chairman of the board, with Mr. Patterson representing the employers of the Province and Mr. Foster the workers. Mr. Patterson is a Vancouver business man and Mr. Foster for years has been a prominent member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Board of Adjustment will be organized on Monday in order that it may commence immediately to make a survey of industrial conditions in this Province. Its powers under the Eight-hour Day Law are very broad.

Among those who are regarded as almost certain to be included in the new Conservative Cabinet in Great Britain is Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Director From Hollywood Will Reach Victoria Shortly

Dr. John T. Thompson, motion picture director of Hollywood, will arrive in Victoria in a week or two to discuss the establishment of a motion picture industry in Victoria, members of the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce were notified by the president, C. P. Hill, this afternoon. A telegram from Dr. Thompson read as follows:

"Replying to your letter I want grounds free in suitable place to be selected on my arrival there in a week or so. Will bring film and all other necessary information as outlined by you."

Dr. Thompson's proposal was before the group. A site of about five acres is desired. By private subscription Victoria would be called upon to contribute $10,000 to $40,000 stock. Dr. Thompson and his associates take films in which industrial plants form the background of the stories and have contracts on a royalty basis to show the films in numerous theatres throughout the United States.

"Messrs. P. R. Brown, 'Barney' Olson, Hoorman, Leeming and Reeve Mason, Radek is quoted as declaring that the list is as follows:

PROPOSED INDUSTRIES A list of possible industries suggested for Victoria by Rotarians through the list circulated at their luncheon was presented. The list is as follows: Slate quarries, 1, turpentine extraction plant, 1, ladies' dresses and woolen clothes, 5, textile and spinning (concluded on page 2)

BUILDING DAMAGED BY VERY HIGH TIDE

Astoria, Ore., Oct. 31.—An unusually high tide here last night washed over the sea wall at Eleventh street and undermined one corner of the new Sanborn Building. A crew worked all night filling in with sandbags and it was believed this morning the building was safe. The tide was lower to-day and further trouble was not expected.

LABOR CANDIDATE WON BY THREE VOTES

London, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press cable)—So close was the vote on Wednesday between T. W. Stamford, Labor member for West Leeds in the last Parliament, and Captain A. F. Grenton, Conservative, in the three-cornered contest in that division that there were four recounts of the ballots before the question was definitely settled. Stamford won by three votes, 13,957 against 13,954.

SMELTER WILL REOPEN SOON

New Company Will Resume Work at Ladysmith as Customs Smelter

Ladysmith, Oct. 31.—Ladysmith smelter will reopen, according to the welcome news given the newly formed Ladysmith Board of Trade last evening. The operators will be the Vancouver Smelters Limited, which recently acquired the interests of the Ladysmith Smelting Corporation. The latter corporation acquired the property in 1920, and spent a great deal of money on improvement.

Address explaining the plans of the company were made by Capt. Anderson and Mr. Hurley of Vancouver. It was stated that the company would apply for power from the B. C. Electric Railway. It was also explained that the smelter would treat customs ore.

After learning that the order which formerly came from the works would be controlled, the meeting passed a resolution supporting the new enterprise.

ARBITRATION PACT IS RATIFIED BY CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

Brussels, Oct. 31.—The first official ratification of the League of Nations protocol on arbitration and security has been made by Czechoslovakia, Paul Hymans, president of the Council of the League, announced to the council to-day.

Brussels, Oct. 31.—The conflict between Turkey and Greece over the exchange of populations was settled to-day by the Council of the League of Nations by the adoption of a report drawn up by Viscount Ishii of Japan.

The Ishii report asks the mixed commission which controls the exchange of populations between the two nations to meet immediately and to settle all of the outstanding questions arising from their recent arrest of Greeks in Constantinople.

MEETINGS ARE CANCELLED BY PREMIER KING

Winnipeg Dispatch Says He Will Return to Ottawa From Regina

Important Business Awaits His Attention; British Election Makes Change

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—Premier King is to return to Ottawa direct following his meeting in Regina to-morrow, and will not stop in Winnipeg, according to information received here to-day. Important matters requiring his immediate attention in Ottawa, particularly since the British election, will result in a new Government taking office in Great Britain, are given as the reasons for the Premier's early return.

GRAHAM NOT INFORMED Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Members of the Government here are not aware of any change in the plans of Premier King for his return direct to Ottawa after his Regina meeting. Hon. G. P. Graham, Acting Premier, said this morning he had not been advised that Mr. King would return earlier than expected. The Premier's programme called for his arrival in Ottawa on Saturday, November 8, a week from to-morrow. His schedule included meetings in Cochrane, Timmins and North Bay, after the Regina meeting.

VERDICT IN DELORME CASE NOT GUILTY

Jury in Montreal To-day Freed Him of Charge of Murdering Half-brother

Address of Prosecuting Counsel to Jury Lasted Over Two Hours

Montreal, Oct. 31.—Rev. Adelard Delorme was found not guilty this afternoon of the murder of his half-brother Raoul.

Crown Prosecutor R. L. Calder, in his address to the jury, said: "If you can not agree in this case, you will come to a decision not in accordance with the proof."

He hoped the jury would not be misled by the eloquence of pleading and powerful speech of Mr. Germain, the defence lawyer.

He urged that circumstantial evidence was the strongest proof possible. "If justice depended solely upon eyewitnesses, we might as well throw out the sheet in Canadian law dealing with murder," he declared.

SPoke for TWO HOURS Mr. Calder's address lasted a little more than two hours, finishing a few minutes after noon. In conclusion, he told the jurors he knew they were "prejudiced against the Crown," and charged them with the responsibility of reaching a verdict "according to the evidence."

Delorme himself was visibly agitated during the Crown prosecutor's address, particularly at passages definitely indicating him as the perpetrator of the crime for which he is being tried.

CALDER'S SUMMARY Briefly Mr. Calder's summary of the case was as follows: "The accused was in deficit in the benefits of the will and from the already undervalued."

HUGH DAVIDSON NEW HEAD OF LIQUOR BUSINESS; OLD BOARD ASKED TO RESIGN

Government Plans Sweeping Re-organization of Liquor Administration; Members of Liquor Control Board Have Not Yet Filed Resignations Requested by Attorney-General

Hugh Davidson, prominent Vancouver business man, was appointed sole Liquor Commissioner for British Columbia to-day, replacing the Liquor Control Board, whose resignations have been asked by Attorney-General Manson.

Mr. Davidson will assume management of the Government's liquor business immediately. His salary will be $12,000 a year.

Announcement of Mr. Davidson's appointment was made by Mr. Manson this morning after he had conferred with the new head of the liquor business and the retiring Liquor Board, A. M. Johnson, K.C., Col. W. N. Winsby and J. H. Falconer.

Appointment of Mr. Davidson in place of the present board of three commissioners follows the Government's intimation some time ago that it contemplated a complete reorganization of the liquor administration.

The Liquor Control Board, whose resignations have been requested by the Attorney-General, has been in office since April 13, 1921. The present liquor law went into effect in June of that year under the direction of the board, which directed the opening of liquor stores all over the Province.

NEW COMMISSIONER Mr. Davidson, the new Liquor Commissioner, at present is chairman of the board of directors and general manager of the Gregory Tire and Rubber Company Limited of Vancouver. He is also a director of the International Coal and Coke Company Limited of Coleman, Alberta; a director of the H. A. Bond Company Limited of Vancouver, British Columbia; and a director of the Anglo-American Corporation Limited, and a director of Weller's Limited.

Before going to the Gregory Tire Company he was Western representative of Cassidy's Limited. From 1906 to 1914 he was director and general manager of the Hastings Shingle Manufacturing Company Limited, and for fifteen years was cannery manager under R. P. Kitchell Limited.

Mr. Davidson was born in Perth County, Ontario, and educated in the public and high schools of Stratford.

Interviewed by a representative of The Times to-day, members of the Liquor Control Board stated that they had not yet handed their resignations to Mr. Manson.

C. S. TOMPKINS IS CHIEF INSPECTOR CANADA'S BANKS

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Announcement was made this afternoon of the appointment of C. S. Tompkins, of the inspecting staff of the Royal Bank of Canada, as Chief Government Inspector of Banks. The position was created by legislation adopted last session.

Mr. Davidson was born in Perth County, Ontario, and educated in the public and high schools of Stratford.

Interviewed by a representative of The Times to-day, members of the Liquor Control Board stated that they had not yet handed their resignations to Mr. Manson.

I.O.D.E. of Ontario Raising Funds For National Memorial

London, Ont., Oct. 31.—Within the next six months the Ontario Provincial Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire will endeavor to raise $65,000, the remainder of the Provincial Chapter's $201,000 contribution to the nation's educational war memorial. The provincial convention closed here yesterday.

CONSULATES OF MEXICO IN OLD COUNTRY CLOSED

Only Diplomatic Tie of Two Governments Severed by the Republic

Several Small Trading Companies Put Out of Business By Change

London, Oct. 31.—The only diplomatic tie which bound the British and Mexican Governments was severed to-day with the closing of all the Mexican consulates in Great Britain. This action was the result of Mexico's decision that her representatives could not carry out their duties with self-respect after the breakdown of the attempt to re-establish official relations between the two countries.

The offices of the Consul-General in London and the consulates in Liverpool and Glasgow were locked up at the close of business to-day, and notices posted on the doors stating that no official transactions will be conducted until further notice, and that the Mexican Government will not accept any documents legalized by the consuls of friendly nations.

SMALL COMPANIES BUFFER This decision to refuse to accept public documents attested by other consuls virtually cuts off commerce between Great Britain and Mexico, which although of comparatively little importance formed the active business of several small trading companies.

Timber Mill and Box Factory Were Burned; Heavy Loss

Puyallup, Wash., Oct. 31.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the timber mill and box factory of the Soudown Lumber Company at Puyallup last night, with an estimated loss of between $250,000 and $300,000.

Grand Forks, B.C., Oct. 31.—The body of Peter Veregin, late Doukhobor leader, is lying in state to-day in the Veregin home in Brilliant. Round about the dwelling are throngs of Doukhobors, both members of the colony and the independent from throughout the district.

All day long a procession of mourners passed through the front room, viewing for the last time the body of their late leader.

According to Doukhobor custom, three days must elapse between a death and a funeral, as three days elapsed between the Crucifixion and the Resurrection.

A GREAT FUNERAL Arrangements are being made for a monster funeral open to the public on Sunday next, probably in the afternoon. Besides the 700 community members and independents, who went by special train from Grand Forks yesterday, hundreds of community officials and others are expected from prairie points.

Peter Veregin leaves five brothers and one sister, all living at Brilliant. (Concluded on page 2)

Moscow, Oct. 31.—The Soviet Government has been obliged to abandon its plan for the exportation of wheat. Leo B. Kamineff announced at a plenary sitting of the central committee of the Community Party. This, he said, was due to the failure of the Government organizations to realize their original plan of acquiring 400,000,000 pods (7,222,600 tons) of grain to cover the state needs.

The importation of foreign goods would be limited to articles of absolute necessity.

FIRE PREVENTION
IN INDUSTRY BIG
NEED, SAYS EXPERT

Fire Marshal Notes Total Disregard of Fire Prevention Measures in B.C.

Many Fires Due to Carelessness; Industry Loses Heavily

"If enormous fire losses are to be reduced, the problem of industrial fires must be given serious consideration," says J. A. Thomas, provincial fire marshal.

"Investigations show that in nearly every instance," Mr. Thomas adds, "the rapid destruction of industrial plants was due to insufficient fire protection and almost total disregard of the most elementary principles of fire-prevention engineering."

Of the 1,549 fires reported in the Province during the year 1923 were of incendiary origin and resulted in five convictions for arson.

Mr. Thomas's figures show that sparks from chimneys caused 233 fires; carelessness by smokers, 132; defective chimneys, 92; short circuits, 45; carelessness with matches, 36; mice and matches, 4; children playing with matches, 27; and exposure, 105.

Two Years of Agony
Weak Stomach Made Life a Burden for Victoria Lady, But Dreo is Rapidly Helping to Restore Her to Health

"For over two years I had suffered terribly from stomach trouble and constipation," says Mrs. A. F. McNeil of Point Blaine, Victoria.

"I would get severe spells of heartburn and my liver was sluggish, too, so that I had frequent dizzy spells and spots floated before my eyes. My appetite was very poor and I had to constantly take laxatives. I tried many medicines, but kept getting worse and worse and when I first read about Dreo I had very little faith in it, thinking it would be like all the rest."

"Anyway, I decided to give it a trial and you would hardly believe it, but two bottles of this wonderful medicine have done marvels for me. I cannot remember when I felt so good as now. I haven't been bothered with gas since the first bottle and can eat and enjoy most anything and my bowels and I no longer have dizzy spells or spots before my eyes."

Master your digestive system before it masters you. Take Dreo and let its pure, natural herb juices tone and regulate the vital digestive organs and induce their healthy activity. Dreo contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

VERDICT IN DELORME CASE NOT GUILTY

On the afternoon of January 6, 1922, the two brothers were alone in the Delorme house on St. Hubert Street.

The accused had had the idea of producing a suicide which would have fitted in well with the victim's character and family history, but the results achieved in reality precluded this.

FIGHT DESCRIBED
The accused, said Mr. Calder, approached his brother and shot him. The bullet broke his jaw and knocked out a tooth.

JUDGE'S CHARGE
Mr. Justice Tressler, in his charge to the jurors, said they must not take into consideration the fact that the accused was a priest, but weigh all the evidence impartially and fairly and render a verdict in accordance with it, leaving aside all outside considerations.

TO FOLLOW LABOR'S COURSE
The London Daily Chronicle, Liberal, deplores the Liberal losses, urges the Liberals to emulate the methods of Labor, which have brought home to the masses as a creed, a hope, a faith.

GAINS AND LOSSES
The returns to the Conservatives show a net gain of 153; the Liberals had a net loss of 111, and the Laborites 41.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS
London, Oct. 31.—The British press attributes the overwhelming Conservative victory to John Bull's instinctive dread of Bolshevism in any form.

NEWSPAPERS COMMENTS
All of the London afternoon newspapers, with the exception of The Star, Liberal, which frankly deprecates the Conservative victory because of its effect on the Liberal Party, today acclaim the defeat of the MacDonald Government, but warn the Conservatives that Labor is still alive.

VOICE OF QUIET PEOPLE
The Evening News declares the election result was the voice of the "quiet people," who voted for the old order until which British accomplished greatness, but the newspaper points out that while the old foundations remain unshaken, there is much building to be done, and the task is never finished.

RECALLS ATTACKS
The Star attributes Mr. MacDonald's defeat to blunders in policy and "abusive attacks on the Liberals for whose votes he had asked."

FOOD MADE HIM MISERABLE

Victoria Man Could Not Enjoy His Meals and Was Weak and Run-down for Lack of Nourishment. Tells How Dreo Put Him On His Feet.

"For several months my system was in a badly run down condition," says Mr. W. Nicolet, of 911 Bannard Street, Victoria, B.C.

"One day I saw in the papers what Dreo was doing for others and got a bottle right away. I have now taken two bottles all told and feel like a different man. That tired feeling has gone entirely and I am no longer troubled with indigestion. I gladly recommend Dreo to anyone suffering as I did."

Those are the people, right here in our midst, who tell openly, for the benefit of others, how Dreo relieved them and brought back health and comfort. Out of the many testimonials a few are published here. Read them, then go to your drug-gist and begin on Dreo to-day.

"BODY SNATCHING" METHODS FLAYED. Tourist Trade Group Criticizes Lusty Lunged Taxi Spielers. "Body snatching" methods were scored by H. B. Olson, taxi cab proprietor in a short talk to the Tourist Trade Group luncheon today. While he was back today, he said, he was greeted at the National Convention of Taxi Cab men as the man who came from "the city where they holler at you with megaphones." "I felt like crawling under the table," said Mr. Olson. "There is no need for this shouting and hollering as tourists arrive off the boat. These body snatching methods create a bad impression. No other cities do it." Alderman Harvey, Frank Waring and E. Webb endorsed Mr. Olson's remarks and during the discussion it was pointed out that there were city regulations against the shouting. It was decided to urge the council to have the regulations enforced.

Buoyant Tone On London Stock Exchange To-day. London, Oct. 31.—Buoyancy spread throughout the Stock Exchange this morning as the activity continued to-day, when an accumulation of orders posted overnight in the provinces and outlying districts and those telegraphed from the Continent came in for execution. They embraced practically all kinds of securities, but chiefly standard investments such as the war loans conversion loan and overseas bonds and home and Argentine rails and industrials. The rises this morning included fractions on the war loans and other Government bonds from half to one per cent on home rails and from sixpence to a shilling on British industrials. EVIDENCE BODIES WERE EVIDENCE IN GRIND BATTLE

Blood Traces on Beryl G Show Bodies Dragged to Gunwale. Provincial Police Have Four of Five of Raiding Party Uncovered. That Captain Gillis and his nineteen-year-old son were shot to death by hit-men and their bodies pushed over the side of the bullet-riddled gas boat Beryl G, is indicated in a check of that vessel by the provincial police. Traces of a desperate battle on board a blood-stained cabin to the gunwale of the Beryl G were thrown overboard when the vessel was boarded by a party of five raiders from an American speed boat. It is believed, was traced to Seattle, where she was registered under the name of a man that did not give his name, was days before the abandoned Beryl G, with her gruesome story was recovered. Then began the long search for the murderers of the Inspector Cruickshank of the Vancouver detachment of the Provincial Police, who had frequent opportunity to see the weight of the attack made on their trade by run pirates. "It is now believed that five men were on board the speed boat that riddled the Canadian launch. Four of these men are believed to be hiding out in the coves near Everett, but no trace can be found of the fifth man. The gang on the Beryl G consisted of five police, numbered over ten men, some of whom have since ended up in State penitentiary across the line. Circumstantial proof of the actions of the hit-jackers and their subsequent disposal of the bodies, which is being in the hands of the police, who seek only the physical capture of the men to tie the double crime home to its perpetrators. In his search, Inspector Cruickshank is understood, has met with peculiar features. He has been accorded every cooperation by State officers in Washington, but something in the nature of a blank wall faces him outside of that state. He has been unable to find in Seattle to have rendered material assistance in the search for the hit-men. It is claimed, in all this the Provincial Police have been steady in the case, and are now hopeful of bringing the offenders to book, unless, as the physical capture of the men to tie the double crime home to its perpetrators.

SCOUTS MAKE GOOD PROGRESS YEAR

Need For Additional Leaders to Instruct is Stressed. Lieut.-Governor Assures Executive of Every Support. Reports showing the steady growth of the Boy Scout movement in Victoria were presented last night at the annual general meeting of the Victoria and District Scout Association. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Walter J. Nichol, was re-elected patronus and encouraged the progress made in Victoria by the movement. His Honor assured the officers of the association that he held a high interest in the doing of the scouts, and stated that no effort on his part would be left undone that could insure the success of the movement, which was one to receive the support of all in the development of a nation's manhood. The officers of the association were re-elected for a further term without change, save the addition of G. A. Henderson to the executive. President Walter Scott, formerly assistant county commissioner of Glasgow, was re-elected for the year, and the satisfactory state of finances. He stressed the need of more scout leaders, and stated that in the work, stating that losses in the personnel of leaders during the year had not been made up by the incoming of new leaders to take their place. SUMMARY OF WORK. Provincial President H. Ross Sutherland, acting provincial commissioner, gave an interesting summary of the work in the Province and told of the great success made in the Gillwell courses of special training during the year. Assistant District Commissioner G. H. Scarrett stressed the need of additional interest on the part of young men who would be fitted to take the part of leaders in the scout movement. Further progress or numerical growth could not be attained until such time as capable leaders could be secured to fill up the ranks. The local association, he continued, could look back with pride on a year of steady growth in which the financial affairs of the movement had been put on a more satisfactory plane than ever before in the history of scouting in the district. While numerically the strength was the same, the ten troops and eleven packs of the Victoria district had made rapid strides in active scouting since the beginning of the year. The chief scout, in all 400 boys are enrolled in the movement in Victoria and district, it was stated, and this number is expected to increase. Mayor Hayward, who presided at the annual meeting, expressed the thanks of the association to all those who had helped during the year, and made particular reference to the cooperation of the press. The annual reports show that excellent progress had been made during the year in actual scouting and in the financial management of the movement. The success of the Summer camps received special mention, as did the good record made by local scouts at the Gillwell training course. The cycle tour of the island, and interchange visits with Up-island troops received special commendation, and was stated to be the beginning of a stronger spirit of cooperation throughout. Warm thanks were expressed to the officers and members of the local association and executive, in furthering the plans of the movement in every way. The annual meeting was held at the Empress Hotel, and was well-attended. J. H. Hill and E. Blount Williams were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively, with warm thanks for their energetic services in the year past.

AT CUMBERLAND

Cumberland's representatives at the convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, to be held next Wednesday at Duncan, were appointed last night at a meeting of the Cumberland Board of Trade. They will be G. W. Clinton, Mayor C. J. Farnham, M. Scanlan, A. McKinnon, T. Carey, E. W. Bickle, D. R. McDonald and R. C. Lang. George I. Warren, managing secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, addressed the meeting as the representative of Dr. D. E. Kerr of Duncan, president of the associated boards, and told of the renewed activity planned at the present time by that body. The gathering pledged cordial support to the efforts of the organization to have the island work as one community for the development of its rich resources. Theed Pearce, president of the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade, and Messrs. W. Duncan and J. Kirkton, also of Courtenay, addressed the meeting, informing the Cumberland business men that Courtenay behind the Associated Boards and would have a representative delegate at the Duncan convention.

CHIEF FRY IS BEST MAN FOR BASHFUL GROOM

Dan Cupid Brings Romance to Police Station. Chief Fry acted as best man yesterday afternoon in what is believed to have been the only wedding ever solemnized in the office of the Chief of Police. Further, Chief Fry arranged the ceremony, secured the ring, the car, and even the bashful bridegroom. The chief was elected to the roll of Dan Cupid when the bride, a girl of sixteen years and her father called on him in a state of agitation. The bridegroom had disappeared. Everything else was in order, even to the person who was to perform the ceremony. The ring was missing and the chief telephoned for a tray of rings from a local jeweler and settled that question. It was three minutes before the chief, with the aid of the telephone, found the bashful groom. It was sixty seconds more before the groom reached the office where waited the other principals. The wedding was forgotten the date of the ceremony and had gone to work instead. Few people are married in overalls, but this groom did not wait to change his clothes and he entered into history one of the most unique marriages in the history of the city.

FINDING OF CRAFT SUGGESTS TRAGEDY. Fishing Boat, Bottom up, Seen Floating in Gulf Waters. Vancouver, Oct. 31.—What appears to be a tragedy, as the result of the bad weather on the gulf was reported by the custom guard at Nanaimo by fishermen. They stated that Wednesday night they passed a gas launch, bottom up, on a line between Sechart and Nanaimo, and Point Atkinson and Yellow Rock. The vessel was between thirty and forty feet long and had new copper paint on the bottom. No name was visible. No further word has been received here as to the identity of the boat.

MAN IN VANCOUVER WAS DROWNED TO-DAY. Vancouver, Oct. 31.—Within an hour of the time he was reported missing from his work on a scow in False Creek, the body of one, formerly South Vancouver police officer, was recovered shortly after noon today. The man, who was named man living with his wife, son and daughter in South Vancouver, had started work at a boat building plant on False Creek Wednesday and this morning was sent out with another workman to make repairs on a scow. He was left alone there for a while, and on the return of his partner on the job his hat and gloves were noted nearby, but he had disappeared. The police were notified and the search immediately started.

BRING FIRECRACKERS. Included in cargoes to be brought here in the Admiral Oriental Line steamships President Grant and Madison, and the return voyage of the President McKinley are to be large shipments of firecrackers designed for the trade during the coming period when the thousands of Canada and the United States hold their New Year's celebration late in January, officials of the company announced today.

SEE TRIANGULAR CONTEST SHORTLY. An announcement with regard to the prospective mayoralty candidature of J. Carl Pendray will be made early next week. Mr. Pendray says the statements made at the Rotary Club yesterday was entirely spontaneous, and his announced position is unchanged. Among members of the Council should Mr. Pendray be a candidate, competition for the chief office in the city is narrowing down to two men, Mr. Pendray and Mr. Sargent. It is expected that Alderman Harvey will oppose him for the mayoralty. Alderman Sargent's entrance into the field becomes more assured daily, though the alderman has made no positive announcement. He outlines today another argument for industrial progress in pointing out how Winnipeg, handicapped by severe weather conditions, had changed from a grain exporting into an industrial city, in spite of handicaps in winter which Victoria did not have. With the Orient on the side, and the whole of Canada on the other, he could see no reason why industrially Victoria could not go ahead. In industry he has the remedy to check the exodus of young citizens of both sexes to the United States.

WORKMEN ABOARD TAJANA MAY ABOARD SIX HUNDRED CONTRACTING FIRM STATES

Two Gangs of From 150 to 200 Men Each Will Start Work Early Next Week, But Another Shift for Night Work May Be Added Before Completion of Contract, Officials Announce This Morning

The Victoria Machinery Dept officials stated this morning that the first gangs which would be put to work on the steamship Tajana, owned by the Pacific Salvage Company and which goes into drydock at Esquimalt early next week, would number approximately 600 to 600 men. The V.M.D., which secured the heavy contract for the repairing of the Tajana, a vessel wrecked on the West Coast some time ago, and surrendered by her previous owners to the Pacific Salvage Company of this city, expects to have the steamship into drydock on Monday or Tuesday, but as there has been some delay in the repair of the Canadian Freighter, at present in drydock, the Tajana may not be able to get into the marine hospital before Wednesday of next week. Every effort is being made to begin work as soon as possible on the Tajana. The tall shaft of the Canadian Freighter was damaged and it was found necessary to bring another one from Vancouver to be fitted in immediately. Consequently the Victoria Machinery Dept worked day and night to have this piece of material ready for placing in the ship and work upon this portion of the vessel is in progress at the present time. The tall shaft goes into place to-day the company announced this morning.

READY BY WEDNESDAY "We will try to have the Freighter finished by to-morrow," officials of the V.M.D. stated to The Times this morning, "but after she has gone the drydock will have to be prepared for the Tajana, and it will take some time to do this. The shaft will begin on Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest," it was said. W. J. Brinkman will be the engineer in charge of the huge repair job on the Tajana. He will have two gangs working. These workmen will put in sixteen hours a day at the plant, working in two shifts. There will be 200 men each. Before the work is finished, however, another gang may be placed at the drydock, and night work will ensue. This will swell the total of workers and possibly as many as 600 men may be called upon to give service.

WORK ALREADY BEGUN The Tajana is already assuming the appearance of a seaworthy craft. She is not the same ship that was towed to the old wharf at the site of the Chemical Works so many months ago. Her engine rooms have been repaired and ready for work from the Pacific Salvage Company here, and her fixtures have been inspected and replaced wherever possible. But the main portion of the work will be done at Esquimalt, after the water is pumped from the drydock there and the Tajana is high and dry and ready for work on the steel plates of her hull.

MARY NEEDS MACHINERY The Victoria Machinery Dept also announced that the steamer Princess Mary, of the Canadian-Pacific Coast Steamship service, will be repaired in marine ways at their plant in this afternoon. She will have work done on her tail shaft, and will be cleaned and painted and given inspection in other departments as well, it was stated this morning.

WHALEERS WAITING The Brown and the Green, two vessels of the fleet of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation of this city, are lying at the V.M.D. wharves and will be given attention as soon as possible. As these ships are to be laid up for the winter, there is no particular hurry to get them repaired upon them. They will be inspected as to the condition of their propellers, tail shafts and plates in their hulls.

EXPLODES BUBBLE OF CHEAP VISITOR AT TOURIST CAMP "The idea that the auto tourist is a man who hasn't much money and wishes to travel on the cheap is, in my opinion, pretty well exploded," said Frank Waring, chairman of the camp trustees, in presenting his report on the Summer visitors to the camp to the Tourist Trade Group. "They are people who like this way of traveling around to see the country. They like the free-and-easy dress of khaki with the shirt thrown open at the throat, the comradeship of the campfire and the alluring informality, the open-air life and the charm of the open road. There were over 200 Buicks, 152 Studebakers, and thirty-one Cadillacs at the camp. You can't tell me cheap travelers use those kind of cars."

It was generally conceded that the time and effort of the auto camp trustees had been rewarded with wonderful results. Mr. Waring claimed. During the Summer there were 7,452 visitors, staying on an average of two to three days. There were 1,345 cars, an increase of fifty per cent.

Coolidge Now 10 to 1 Election Favorite

New York, Oct. 31.—Odds on the election next Tuesday were quoted in Wall Street to-day as ten to one in favor of President Coolidge. This is an advance during the week from six to one. A small boy came to school one day with dirty hands. "Tommy," the teacher said to him, "if you wouldn't come to school with your dirty hands, what would you say if I came to school with dust and ink all over my fingers?" "I wouldn't say anything," answered the child promptly. "I'd be too polite."

SAGINAW A VICTIM OF COAST STORMS

Portland, Or., Oct. 31.—The steam schooner Saginaw is in distress off the Oregon coast, according to reports received by shipping men here to-day.

Has Large General Cargo For This and Mainland Ports

The Phioetes of the Blue Funnel Line, will arrive at the quarantine station at William Head on Monday morning at 1 o'clock, according to the latest wireless advice received from the vessel, by local agents here. A. E. Shanks of Rithet Consolidated Limited, stated that the vessel had a large cargo and many passengers from Oriental ports, and that she would probably be in dock by 7 o'clock Monday morning.

The big Blue Funnel boat carries general freight loaded in China, Japan and other parts of various countries of the East. The cargo of longshoremen have been ordered to attend to her unloading here, and the vessel then proceeds to Mainland ports to finish her discharging of cargo.

The Phioetes has a large cargo of general freight for Victoria and the Mainland, including silk. She also carries tea, hemp and various other produce from Oriental shippers.

MALTA MARU DOGGED BY WIND

New Loading Lumber at Mainland Points; Timber Carriers Coming Here

The Malta Maru, which was damaged by storm when she steamed from Port Alberni to Victoria towards the latter part of last week, ran into another stiff blow when she left here Tuesday for the New Westminster mills to load more lumber. The vessel was in inside water all the way to the mainland port, however, and the sea did not trouble her. But strong winds made the driving rain difficult to navigate through, and at times, when the vessel was steaming slowly through some difficult patch of water. The vessel completes the cargo taken on in this port at mainland points and then sails for Australia.

The Canadian Winner will come here to load 750,000 feet of lumber for the Orient, and arrives here Saturday to complete a capacity cargo. She has been loading at Fraser River mills for the last few days.

Early next month the Canadian Prospector will come here to load lumber for Montreal. She will also load dressed lumber here, it is understood.

Sea Cadets Were Entertained at Officers' Dinner

A very entertaining evening was given at the Chamber of Commerce last evening when the boys of the Victoria Sea Cadet Corps of the Navy League gathered together to receive the thanks of their officers for their work in the past and to discuss the future. A splendid supper was provided by the gaterers of the Chamber of Commerce and the excellence of the cuisine was demonstrated by the rapidly with which the food was cleared. Capt. R. I. Van der Byl, Lieut. P. W. Tribe, commanding officer, A. Rumsby, band instructor, W. Maynard and F. Kenney, were present.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Bringing 14,400 bags of coffee, the freighter Hollywood, operated by Swayne and Hoyt, arrived here yesterday from Java and Balikpapan. The vessel brought a heavy general cargo including sugar, rice, rubber and other merchandise.

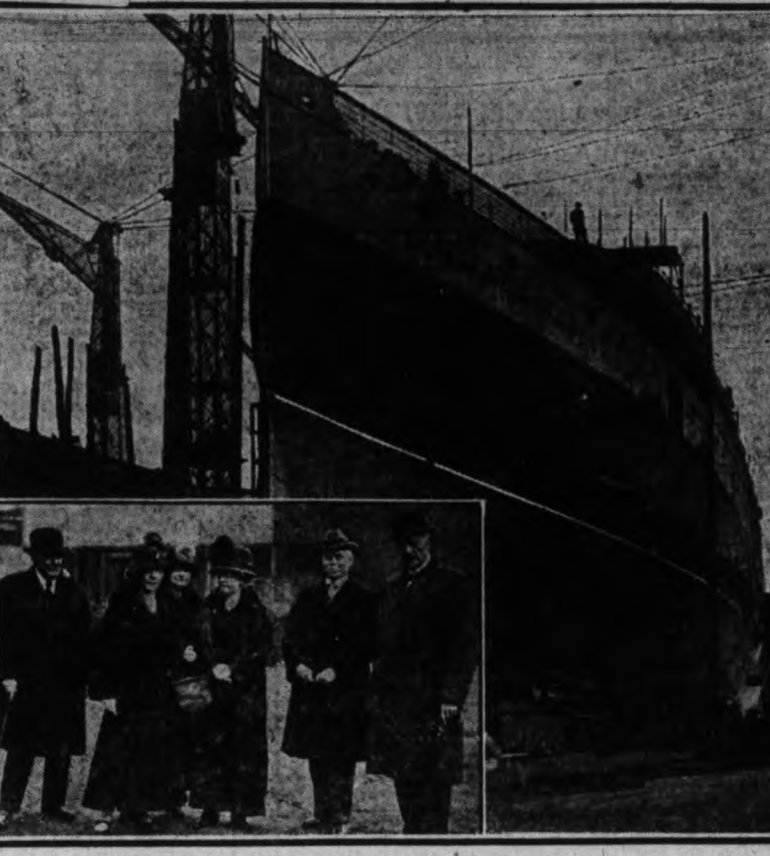

The steamship Venezuela of the Pacific Mail Company reached this port yesterday from New York with a fair passenger list, and general cargo. Capt. G. W. Gilbert, master of the craft, was presented with a loving cup by members of the San Francisco Laundry Owners' Association for courtesy extended them on a voyage last September to Atlantic City.

Heavy weather off the California coast has delayed two off-shore vessels, the Pacific Mail liner President Pierce and the Tahiti of the Union Steamship Company, which were due yesterday. The vessels will arrive several hours late, according to word reaching here.

New Oil Burners For Pacific Coast.

It is a long way from Alaska to the Clyde, but the recent launching of the Canadian Pacific Coastal S.S. "Princess Kathleen" from the Clydebank yards of John Brown and Company illustrates how the increasing business, traffic and industry of the one has affected the industry of the other. The launching of another vessel, the Princess Marguerite, will further illustrate this, shortly. During the past few years the thousand mile trip to the "Land of the Midnight Sun" and return to Vancouver has attracted thousands of tourists from all parts of the world. Many of these, appreciating the industrial and commercial possibilities of this country of vast natural resources, as much as the scenic splendours, have established themselves there and have drawn others to them, each of whom plays a part in the further development of the land. The same thing applies to the Yukon, so that, especially in the Summer, and in the Fall when the big game and fish are fair sport, there is a constant coming and going on the Princess steamers that ply the "Inland Passage".

Next Year there will, it is expected, be a demand for a still more frequent service. In response the Canadian Pacific will recruit from its "Triangular" service, and the new steamers will take up the service thus relieved between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle. This route is also becoming increasingly popular, the present call being for vessels which are able to transport the automobiles of those hundreds of tourists who are finding the glories of Vancouver Island well worth while.

The new vessels, twin screw and oil-burning, will be, when completed, the largest and fastest ships operating between the three ports, being capable of sustaining a speed of 22 1/2 knots. Altogether there are five decks, four of which are given over to the use of the passengers, while a large space on the main deck has been provided for the transport of motor cars and other freight. Accommodation is arranged for 325 first-class night passengers in two and three berth cabins, and for over one thousand day passengers. A special feature of the accommodation is the provision of 17 large rooms on the promenade and upper decks, having private bathrooms attached and 22 two-berth cabins, on the boat deck, having private shower baths. The accommodation throughout has been arranged with the greatest care for the safety and comfort of the passengers, and is of a uniform standard throughout, while the accommodation for the officers and crew is substantially better than is required by regulations. Both vessels will be placed in service early in 1925.

THREE VESSELS TO CARRY WINTER RUN

H. F. Alexander, of Admiral Line, Will be Taken From Service Temporarily The Ruth, the Emma, and the Dorothy Alexander, three of the four ships which have been handling the California passenger and freight service for the Admiral Line from North Pacific ports, will continue through the winter months to ply coastal waters, but the H. F. Alexander will be taken from the run, it was announced this morning by W. N. Allan of the Admiral Line offices here. The Dorothy Alexander will be included in the winter schedule. Three, then, out of the four regular ships will handle the winter trade. The company expects considerable Christmas business to and from California, but that will be the only break until the Spring. The general winter passenger trade is slack to California, but the H. F. Alexander was damaged by the storm off the coast some weeks ago. The Emma Alexander brought a good passenger list to this port from the South last night and about forty disembarked here.

Major Langley responding, said it was a very great pleasure for the old boys and the young boys to get together. He appreciated the very kind words of Petty Officer Moraes, and the Navy League, in the following words: "Here's to the Navy League and I hope it will survive any financial debasement it gets into."

The feature of the evening was the toasts proposed by the boys. Chief Petty Officer Roy Moraes toasted to the Navy League, in the following words: "Here's to the Navy League and I hope it will survive any financial debasement it gets into."

The Ladies, proposed by Band Boy Parrot and responded to by W. Miller Higgs.

The speech of the evening was given by William Maynard on "Pep, 100 Per Cent. Plus," which was listened to with interest by the boys. A rousing vote of thanks was accorded him at the conclusion, following which the boys proceeded to the Dominion Theatre as the guests of the management to see that wonderful sea story "Captain Blood."

STORM DAMAGES COAST SHIPPING

Several Steamships Feel the Strength of Gale Along Coast

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Heavy rain and wind storms sweeping in from the North Pacific Ocean for the past three days, inflicted considerable damage to the motorship Shark, a 64-ton craft on the rocks near Crescent City on the Northern California coast close to the Oregon boundary, according to reports reaching here.

The Federal Telegraph Company was advised by the westerly steamer about the safety of the captain and crew of eight men aboard the Shark.

RUM-RUNNER LOST The steamship Mayfair, Wilmington and Katherine were buffeted for twenty-four hours outside Eureka, some 225 miles north of San Francisco, before they could cross Humboldt Bay.

Point Lobos reported that the French schooner Trinitad, sixty miles northwest of Cape Blanco, which was hoveled to with a broken rudder.

San Pedro, Cal., Oct. 31.—A thirty-five-mile gale swept the harbor district Wednesday, endangering shipping and delaying steamers heading for this port. A large of the Union Dredging Company's hopper boat L-74 was sunk in the bay, and two of the crew narrowly escaping death when they were picked out of the water by rescuers.

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 31.—The ten-foot tide, pounded into the river Wednesday by the barometric dropping, some 200 feet of the piling bulkhead which is being constructed as a retaining wall for the city's one million cubic yards Taylor Avenue reclamation project. Several hundred feet more of the bulkhead was weakened.

The wind had swung to the southeast to-day, with the barometer dropping sharply, forecasting a further storm. Shipping was able to move to-day, the destroyer John Francis Doolittle and the Japanese steamer Bankoku Maru and the Charles H. Cramp putting to sea.

SHOULD BE VERY CAREFUL OF CARBON-MONOXIDE

National Health Council Issues Warning to Motorists

"Fall is the season of poison gas," states the National Health Council in a warning to motorists.

"During the warm weather there is not much danger as in the Fall and Winter. The carbon-monoxide gas, which comes from a motor in its exhaust, is especially dangerous in concentrated form. When garage doors are open, the injurious gas escapes into the open air and is dissipated. But when the weather gets cold, the car owners are likely to shut the doors of their garages and the gas is concentrated so that it becomes deadly.

"The number of cases during the past year, when car owners started their motors for repair work, and were found dead in their garages, points out this danger. It is this that the council wishes to warn against and thus prevent a recurrence of these unfortunate deaths.

"Never let your motor run unnecessarily in garage or shop. When it is necessary to test the engine or move the car under its own power, see that the doors are open and ventilation free.

"The exhaust gases are heavy and rise from the floor very slowly. It is dangerous to work under a car with the motor running unless ventilation is excellent.

"Immediately seek the open air and breathe deeply at the first signs of drowsiness or faintness.

"If a person is overcome, take him immediately into the open air and place him in a prostrate position. Unloosen tight garments and perform artificial respiration. Fan the face vigorously. Never let a crowd gather closely about a patient."

Progressive Conservatives.—At the social held in the Sons of Canada Hall last evening under the auspices of the Women's Progressive Conservative Club, Harry Savage, the president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, briefly addressed the gathering and presented the prizes to the following winners at 500: First table, Miss Mosely, Miss Hawkins, Mr. Williams and Mr. Peat; second, Mrs. Wolfe, Mrs. Francis, Miss Long and Mr. Audy; third, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Bates, Mr. Lawrison and Mr. Randall; ten-bid, Mrs. Dumberton and Mr. Peters. A large number remained for the dance. At a special meeting preceding the social, Mrs. P. Sinnott and Mrs. W. Randall were the delegates elected to represent the club on the central executive.

AT THE THEATRES

WESLEY BARRY FINDS TRUTH TELLING HARD

The new film which opened yesterday at the Columbia Theatre for a week's showing, is "George Washington Jr.," starring Wesley Barry. This sparkling, rapidly moving comedy, adapted from the famous George M. Cohan stage play, gives us a new insight into the seemingly endless versatility of this clever young actor.

In this picture, undoubtedly the very best he has yet done, Wesley plays the same role that George M. Cohan popularized in his own production, and it is with that same determined animation and dash that made Mr. Cohan so popular, that Wesley characterizes George Washington Jr.

The supporting cast, including Gertrude Olmstead, Leon Barry,

Charles Conklin, Otis Harlan, William Courtwright and Edward Phillips, is very good. Direction is by Mal St. Clair and the scenario by Rex Taylor.

HEAVEN AND BACK IN ONE LIFETIME BUT IT WAS ACTING

Some years ago, Carrie Clark Ward and Frankie Ryder were playing in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and Carrie, as little Eva, was sailing right up to heaven many times a week. Not long ago the girls met at the Fox West Coast Studios, for the first time since their "Uncle Tom's" days. Both were to appear in "Dante's Inferno."

"Dante's Inferno," which is now playing at the Coliseum Theatre, has stirred up more comment and discussion than any picture made in years.

ACTORS LOOK BACK ON OTHER DAYS IN SCREEN EVOLUTION

During the "shooting" of the First National production, "Single Wives," now playing at the Capitol Theatre, the cast had a regular chat, the topic being:

"Ah, those were the days!"

Corinne Griffith recalled the days when she danced at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, Texas. Milton Sills recalled the classroom of a college and saw himself as a professor of psychology.

Kathryn Williams submitted the days of "The Adventures of Katurlyn," the most popular serial of its day, as her contribution to the talk. Lou Tellegen told of the days when he was leading man for "Eleanora Duse."

Henry B. Walthall smiled as he said simply, "The Little Colonel of The Bill of a Nation," while beautiful Phyllis Haver referred her auditors to the traditional Mack Sennett comedies. Phillips Smalley and Lois Weber, celebrated husband and wife of screendom, contributed the memory of a hundred photoplays, and John Patrick sang a song to tell of his days as leading man of George M. Cohan's "Mary."

Then George Archambaud, the director of "Single Wives," interrupted the talk with: "And I remember when every one of you used to do your stuff before the camera." Which not only ended the actors' favorite indoor sport, but sent them before the relentless steel box with the glass eye, which grinds and grinds and grinds.

PRISONER IS MADE GOVERNOR OF ISLAND IN "CAPTAIN BLOOD"

The Dominion Theatre is showing another swashbuckling picturization of piracy and romance with its adaptation of Rafael Sabatini's "Captain Blood." The story is replete with lively incidents developed in spectacular fashion.

Stirring scenes crowd exciting spectacle before the eyes in such rapid fire order that one is swept along with unabated interest.

The story begins with an English physician transported to the Barbadoes for giving medical aid to a rebel. His bearing attracts the notice of Arabella, niece of Col. Bishop, governor of the island, and she prevails upon her uncle to buy him as a slave.

Incensed at the treatment accorded the prisoners on the island, an escape is plotted and successfully carried out when they overpower the crew of a Spanish galleon and take possession of the ship. Capt. Blood leads the pirate crew.

The lawless crew battle their way through numerous exciting incidents and are finally successful in saving the Governor-General of Jamaica. In recognition of his service Capt. Blood is restored to favor and re-places Col. Bishop as governor of the island.

J. Warren Kerrigan, as "Captain Blood," gives a convincing portrayal while Jean Paige lends charming support in the role of Arabella.

THE CAST

- Capt. Blood..... J. Warren Kerrigan

SWORDMANSHIP OF RARE SKILL SEEN IN PLAYHOUSE FILM

Hundreds of embattled troops and horses are engaged in the revolution scenes—that form one of the most striking and colorful high-lights of Walker's stupendous new starring vehicle, "Captain Fly-by-Night," which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

A background of rare scenic beauty lends a note of picturesque to these stirring scenes of warfare before the mission walls. The story is laid in olden California in the era of Spanish domination and the age of fashioning castles and besieging fortifications when romance glowed amid the sun-parched plains and squat adobe dwellings.

A revolution starts the action, seizing the town in swift succession come scenes that send forth a riot of thrills. A duel in the lofty bell tower of a mission, in which Johnnie Walker displays a skill of swordsmanship; the charging cavalry, the puff-puff-of-musket-fire; the clash of hostile forces; the will panic of the natives; the seething away of the battle tide with hundreds of men and horses in the thick of the struggle—all these combine to produce such thrills as are seldom glimpsed upon the screen.

A splendid cast was assembled to

Dear Sirs

Please Guard Your Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I feel sorry to see men grow bald. It is easy to keep and to cultivate hair, and you owe it to yourselves and to us.

For many years I have sought and consulted some of the world's greatest experts on hair. They all agree that hair health comes from a clean and healthy scalp. Comb the hair and oil and dandruff which stiffen the hair roots, tone and stimulate the scalp. Then hair thrives, just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden.

Those experts have always supplied me the best helps known to science. Each new and better help discovered has come to me once. Now I have had all of these combined in a product I call my Hair Youth. I have placed it on drug and toilet counters at every woman's call. But men need it more than women, so this is written to urge men to learn how much it does.

I am no longer young. For 25 years I have been a stage star. But my hair to-day is thicker and finer than 40 years ago. I never had falling hair or dandruff and never a touch of gray. Now I offer you in my Hair Youth every help which brought those results to me. I am well assured that they combine the greatest hair helps in existence.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is sold by The Owl Drug Co., Ltd. Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send you it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 534 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. (Adv.)

WHAT SCIENCE NOW DOES TO GIVE RELIEF IN DROPSY

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

Some forms of kidney disease produce an uncomfortable swelling of the tissues. This may be in the hands or feet, in the cheeks and eyelids, or it may be in the abdomen. In the last form, the condition is called "dropsy."

When the dropsy is very bad it may not be due to uncomplicated kidney disease. It may be caused by a combination of kidney disease and heart trouble.

Sometimes the resistance of the body appears to be lost. The heart loses its firmness and elasticity. As a result, the walls give way and the heart dilates.

If the kidney and heart, or either organ, should fail to work, the flow of urine is decreased. Sometimes this is because the kidney is incapable of eliminating water. In other cases the kidney is capable of functioning, but does not do so on account of the lowered blood pressure. You see, the mere presence of dropsy does not tell the whole story. Your doctor will give the case much study before he definitely decides exactly what is wrong.

If the kidneys cannot be made to carry off the water, with its dissolved poisons, the skin and bowels must take up the work. It is not easy to accustom the system to this unusual method of elimination. Your doctor will carefully direct this procedure.

Certain food substances must be restricted if there is a tendency to dropsy. One of these is common salt. The more restricted its use the better. In such cases bread, vegetables and other foods should be prepared without salt. Sweating is encouraged as a means of carrying away the fluids which the kidneys cannot handle. It is believed that moderate temperatures are best in this purpose. Warm-water baths or hot-air baths will produce good results.

It must not be imagined that severe dropsy can be relieved merely by sweating or purgation. There must be wise medication. There are drugs that are of great value when properly prescribed. This is the duty of your doctor.

In some cases the fluid is drawn off by a simple surgical procedure. This is quickly and easily done without suffering.

Most cases of dropsy, as well as other serious ailments, would be escaped if we could get everybody to submit to periodical physical examinations. It is rare indeed for any trouble to get beyond control if taken in hand early.

When you make friends with your doctor and let him advise you in normal times, as well as in sickness, you will be doing a thing which is sure to prolong your days of health.

Presbyterian Synod Planned in Alberta

Edmonton, Oct. 31.—Sixteen ministers of the Presbyterian Church and a number of laymen, all of whom are opposed to church union, met in the First Presbyterian Church here after the close of the Alberta synod last night and took steps to organize a provisional synod for the Province. Dr. McQueen, who for thirty years has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, was elected moderator, and the Rev. J. D. Roxburgh clerk. The organization of the dissenting synod will be completed only in the event of the Presbyterian Church ceasing to be a corporate body.

The Story of a Flapjack

By ROB ROY

The average chap that comes out here is a tenderfoot for the length of time that his gullibility survives, and the money that he brings with him lasts.

During that period he has extraordinary experiences, as the occasional most truthfully testify. He is not always the victim of a fun-loving chum, however, although the tenderfoot is fair game and always in season.

The following story of an experience I had myself in '86 will prove this and more, that the sensitive newcomer often sees and hears things that do not fall to the lot of others.

Mr. Scott, a very respectable rancher, took me with him in his buckboard that summer to see the hay meadows at Little Totem Lake. It was a long drive over trackless prairie, and we had to camp out for the night. One of his men had been with us for the greater part of the day, Mr. Scott pointing out where the hay was to be stacked and so on. This man rode off to my surprise after we had all had supper together. I was smoking and reclining on my blankets near the fire, and asked Mr. Scott why he had not remained with us for the night. "He was anxious to get home, I suppose," he replied, "his wife and family are living about fourteen miles from here where we keep the machinery." We then talked about the loneliness of the place and the likelihood of one's getting lost. The result was a very fair idea of how to get from one place to another, even at great distances apart, and the following remarkable narrative.

"Yes, it is a little lonesome here, but it is nothing to what Gopher Ridge was when I first struck the country. There was not another white man within two hundred miles of me. I put in the winter shooting, trapping, and putting up ranch buildings. It was such a nice quiet place that I reckoned I'd stay there. When the Spring came I took my peits to Fort Sherbrooke, and laid in stuff to bring back. The railroad was as far as Sherbrooke then, and my word, what a lot of people were coming in on it from the Old Country! There were hundreds of them. I saw a nice family that was staying at Jeffrey's bunk house and I introduced myself to them, being very sorry to see them so cast down. They were so lonesome, I tell you, they didn't know where to go. The old man and his nephew or something, wanted to be farmers, they said. They had four women folk with them, an old one and three girls.

"Nellie was the one I took a fancy to. I tried to cheer them up a bit, and soon had them as willing as could be to come out to Gopher Ridge. We started out the next day with two wagons, the young fellow and I riding and driving some stock in, turn and turn about. We made the trip in about ten days. It was a picnic the whole way. How pleased they were with everything then and how kind and polite they were to me! It was Mr. Scott this, and dear Mr. Scott that, all the time. They were delighted with Gopher Ridge and pleased me by saying they would love to stay there, and they did. I put in nearly all my time that Summer helping them to settle down on a beautiful place a few miles from my own. We put up corrals, barns and fences of all kinds. I could not drag myself away from them. We built a good two-story house, and we whipsawed all the lumber for it ourselves.

"I did not leave them till I found it was no use my staying there any longer. Nellie was not for me. She was already engaged to that young fellow who was a sort of a cousin of hers. I stayed more around my own place after this. Now you know how queer neyoggers feel about getting lost on the prairie. Yes, it is awful, but it soon wears off if you never get too bad a fright. It was about this time that the Whitworth family began to get little scares. They got so many that after a while they'd hardly venture beyond a mile or so of their own house, even in broad daylight. They got so frightened that before the old man had been out of his reckoning for a couple of hours, that nothing would suit them but going back to England.

"I did not know exactly what to do. I was quite willing to help drive over their stock or anything they wished, but I was never quite certain about their real intentions. I tried hard to reassure them, and hoped they'd get over their dread of getting lost on the lonely prairie, after a bit. Late in the Fall, before the snow began to fly, I was considerably startled to get a visit from the whole family—all except the young fellow. They were in the greatest excitement. They had come rushing to me in the wildest terror and grief because that cousin of theirs had gone astray. As nearly as I could gather, he had been lost for two days.

"I went back to their place with them and then went out on the range and hunted on every bluff and in every coulee for the lost man. On the morning of the third day I found him. Luckily it was quite near the ranch, for he was unconscious and I was almost too weak to lift him up in front of me. When I got him home—it would be about noon—they made a bed for him in the big room. Now, this house was a two-story one. It was twenty-two feet wide and about forty in length. All the ground floor was one big room. The second floor was reached through a trap door by a ladder in the corner, to the right of the main door. All the bedrooms were up there. After I had rested a little while myself, I went with the old man to fix the windlass of their well, a little bit away from the house. "After we had been engaged for some time in this work, the old man went up to the house to get some six-inch spikes. He remained there so long that at last I went after him to see what was up. When I got quite close to the house, one of the girls called to me from an upstairs window. 'Don't go into the house, Mr. Scott; Charles has awakened. He has gone mad and we are all up here. Don't go near him, for he has a knife.' I was so near the house that the maniac observed me; and I had just time to slam the door before he reached the doorway. I held it fast against him. It was as Mary said. He had awakened from his stupor raving mad and they had had to run upstairs and close the trap door to get away from him. I replied that it was a common thing for people to awaken like that after having been lost; that he would be alright after a while. I then made up my mind what I would do, as he was trying to break down the door and was carrying on so fearfully. I would run to the corrals and stables and when he followed me, I would try and get him in one of the buildings and bar him in. I told the family so, quietly and quickly, and then made a bolt for it.

"That chap could run, I assure you! I had no chance against him, as I had on riding boots and he was in his stockings. It came to a simple 'dodge' around one of the shanties. There was not the ghost of a chance to get him inside, he was too close to me for anything like that. At last I climbed up to the roof. Just as he had reached the place I had started from. He gave one great spring and stuck his knife deep into my right foot. The blade entered between my ankle and heel and came out at my instep. Like putting a match to gunpowder, at the same instant, as the excruciating pain of the stab thrilled me, I drew my gun and shot him through the head. I got down to the ground as well as I could. I knew the young fellow was past praying for, and that I had better look after myself. I drew off my boot and stuffed all the fresh earth I could about the wound and tied it up.

"The old man came out from the house about this time, and asked me if I had fired that shot. I replied that I had and that I was very hard pressed before I did it. He asked me if Charles was much hurt. I said that he was dead. 'Dead,' he cried, 'dead!' He turned away and ran to the house. The whole family returned with him and between them carried the madman's body back to the house. I was so vexed that I could not even smoke. They would not go into the house, they just wandered about with each other in the little garden they had made in the corner of it. Charlie, O'Charlie, occasionally broke from them, but generally they appeared to be trying to comfort one another, till they broke down themselves.

"They paid no attention to me at all. I was thankful for that, for badly as I felt about the whole thing, I certainly could not leave them. It was a little cold and the moon was shining beautifully, into the house. I was glad to see that, for it looked like a change from the abject misery of their intense grief. I edged closer to the door, and finally made up my mind to go in and light a lamp at any rate. Just as I reached the door, Mary, who had arrived there an instant or so before me, cried, 'Look, look, look at what she is doing! She is cutting off his head!' True enough, there in the moonlight, busily plying both knife and fingers, poor Nellie was engaged in a horrible task. I ran in to stop her and with a cry of rage she rushed at me with uplifted knife. In my efforts to avoid her, the scene looked like a second killing, I suppose.

"The other members of the family, father, mother, and two daughters were standing in the doorway. As Nellie slipped and fell in one of her wild rushes at me, they cried, 'Murderer, fiend,' and bore down upon me as a body. There was no mistaking their intentions or state of mind. The dreadful occurrences of that day had been too much for them. I had five yelling maniacs to deal with. I could not get out by the front door, and the side one I knew was locked. My only chance of escape was to get out by one of the windows before they could get hold of me. I got through, carrying the sash with me, and ran for my life out on the open prairie to the northward. Breathless with excitement and exertion, I paused to rest. I observed that they were following me. One by one they got out of the window, Nellie leading, and carrying the sash head and tattered knife. I retired still further and hid myself till they passed by me and left my way open to escape to my own place. Arriving there, I mounted a horse, and rode to Fort Sherbrooke for help. It was some time before I could persuade the people there of the terrible tragedy I had witnessed, but when we at last returned to Gopher Ridge the evidence of it all—the headless trunk and deserted homestead—convicted them very thoroughly. A hasty search was at once made for the unfortunate family, but no trace of them was ever found." Such was Mr. Scott's story.

Next morning when I awoke, it was broad daylight. Mr. Scott greeted me with the remark that I had slept so badly that he had not disturbed me. I replied that there was no wonder in that; his fearful yarn had about done for me. "What fearful yarn?" he echoed. His cool way of looking at it rather astonished me and I replied simply, "That dreadful affair of the Whitworth family going out of their senses over getting lost on the prairie, and you shooting Charlie Ward, their cousin." "Look here, you tenderfoot," he said, "those flapjacks (pancakes) that you ate for supper have been too much for you." He laughed heartily at this, and added, "The Whitworths are all alive and are doing first rate. Mr. and Mrs. Whitworth have been to England three times during the past seven years." I told him the whole story that evening after we got home and further increased his amusement. As we parted for the night he said, "Well, my lad, I'll never wonder again as long as I live, where those tenderfeet who write up this country get their impressions. It's flapjacks, old chap, just flapjacks.

JURY COMMENTS ARE UNFAIR REFLECTION ON COUNSEL, SAYS COURT

Vancouver, Oct. 31.—Remarking that comments in the report of the grand jury were unfair and reflected on Gordon Wilmer, crown counsel, Mr. Justice Murphy stated in court yesterday that during his 15 years on the bench he had seen no assizes where the public business had been conducted with more ability than at the present sitting. It was not the duty of the Crown prosecutor to do detective work, said the court, regarding the report which had criticized the prosecutor for not calling certain witnesses.

WILL COMMEMORATE THE FIRST OVERLAND JOURNEY ACROSS THIS DOMINION

Rock on Which Sir Alexander Mackenzie Made His Famous Inscription Has Been Located and Will Be Marked by Historic Sites and Monuments Board

By JOHN NELSON

Plymouth Rock, on which the Pilgrim Fathers landed in America, has long been marked in a manner fitting its historical importance. It is a curious fact that Mackenzie's Rock where the great explorer and his party slept on the shores of the Pacific at the end of the first expedition of a white man across this continent, has not hitherto been marked, or even identified. It has at last been discovered. The people of Canada, and especially of British Columbia will be gratified during the past year its location has been established beyond question, and the evidences produced have been so conclusive that they have been accepted by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, which is charged with the duty of preserving the nation's landmarks.

Repeated efforts have been made to "peg" the exact location, and in one or two instances, it is said, some enthusiastic modern explorers have undertaken to mark it. It is due to the energy, technical ability and true historic instinct of Capt. R. P. Bishop of Victoria, backed by the approval and aid of the Surveyor-General of the province, that this neglected duty has at last been performed in such a satisfactory way. Capt. Bishop, who was formerly on H.M.S. Shearwater, has been connected with the survey, and it was at the close of his field work last summer that he devoted a week or more to checking Mackenzie's records and by means of this and careful reconnaissances of the adjacent waters finally located the rock itself.

The difficulty in finding the spot arose from two causes. Sir Alexander Mackenzie was not only an intrepid explorer, but he was a careful recorder as well. But in connection with his overland dash to the Pacific he was under a serious handicap with regard to his instruments, as a result of which his locations were astray by a number of miles. Unfortunately, too, he deferred writing his "Voyage" until eight years after they were made. As a result he identifies the "Cheek of Cascade" as of Vancouver, with the Rock itself. The explorer's own error has misled all investigators up to last year.

When he returned from his voyage of discovery to the mouth of the Mackenzie River in 1781, which disproved the existence of a northwest passage, Sir Alexander, who had then determined to attempt the overland journey to the Pacific, decided to equip himself better than had been the case in the trip just concluded. So he went home to England and studied astronomy, and familiarized himself with the use of the sextant and chronometer and such other instruments as were necessary to accurately determine locations.

But here he labored under the same disabilities as more expert observers, even Vancouver being thirty minutes or twenty-one miles in error in fixing the longitude of Monterey. "Longitude," says Capt. Bishop, "was obtained by comparing local time with Greenwich time. The former was easy to obtain but before the days of telegraph and wireless the determination of Greenwich time was always a difficult problem, unless the error in one's chronometer could be corrected by observations at some place where the longitude had been fixed beforehand.

"Mackenzie obtained his Greenwich time by the eclipse of Jupiter's moons to observe which he had carried his telescope across the continent. As the lunar method used was considered to be a more accurate method than the eclipse of a satellite, even when the latter was observed under the most favorable conditions; and as Mackenzie's determination under difficult circumstances, and by the less accurate method, was incomplete and possibly obtained by a telescope of insufficient power, it may be considered that the error of approximately forty minutes of arc was not excessive."

By carefully checking Mackenzie's observations for latitude with well known points that he visited, Capt. Bishop found that the explorer was usually about a mile in error. From his he assumed that the Rock was about a mile and a half north or south of the location of the latitude given by the explorer.

Basing his deductions accordingly, he worked down from Bella Coola, checking his progress with Mackenzie's record to Edward Point, where an Indian, who had been most treacherous, joined Mackenzie and later forced himself into his canoe and "Pointed out a narrow channel on the opposite shore that led to his village and requested us to steer for it, which I accordingly ordered. . . . At some distance from the land a channel opened to us at south-west by west. And pointing that way he made me understand that Macubah (Vancouver) came there with his large canoe. When we were in mid-channel I perceived some sheds, or the remains of some old buildings on the shore, and as from that fact I thought it probable that some Europeans might have been there, I directed my steersman to make for that spot."

Mackenzie evidently approached Elcho Harbor from the southeast. Opposite Elcho a clear view, at the bearing mentioned by him, may be obtained for many miles down Dean's channel, where Capt. Vancouver came by boat on May 31, 1793 (only a few weeks before) having left his ship in Restoration Bay. In this channel is the "Cheek of Cascade Canal" with which Mackenzie confused his own location.

There are additional reasons which convinced Capt. Bishop that Elcho Harbor was the spot. Thus runs the chronicle: "We landed and found the ruins of a village in a situation calculated for defence. The place itself was overgrown with weeds, and in the centre of the houses there was a temple, of the same form and construction as that which I described at the large village."

"We were soon followed by ten canoes each of which contained from five to six men. They informed us that we were expected at the village where we would see many of them. From their general deportment I was very apprehensive that some hostile design was meditated against us, and at the same time I acknowledged my apprehensions to my people. I accordingly desired them to be very much on their guard, and to be prepared if any violence offered, to defend themselves to the last. We had no sooner landed than we took possession of a rock where there was not space for more than twice our number, and which admitted of our defending ourselves to advantage in case we were attacked. The people in the first three canoes were troublesome, but after doing their best to irritate us, they went away."

With this as a guide search was instituted for an old Indian village for its ranker vegetation. A little to the north Elcho Harbor Capt. Bishop noticed a bright patch of alder against the more sombre green of its surroundings. It proved to be an Indian site covered on the top with black Indian mould and the lower rock terraced for the erection of houses. This the late Dr. Newcombe, the eminent archaeologist, says indicates a defence point, and Dr. Harlan Smith, archaeologist of the Geological survey of Canada, also declares it was a village site.

To the south of this village is an isolated rock which accurately corresponds to Mackenzie's description. The sides are nearly vertical for the greater part, and overhang on the inland side, while in other places they have been built up with stones smooth and almost vertical, and having a good painting surface presents the most suitable place Mackenzie could have found in the vicinity for his famous inscription.

"Alexander Mackenzie, from Canada, by land, the twenty-second day of July, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three."

There is corroborative evidence of a convincing kind. Mackenzie, concluding he was too near the village for safety, moved about three miles for a cove, where he could not be easily seen, and where he could be attacked only in front. It was here that the young chief tried to escape from him over the hill at the back of the camp. There is no other point in the whole vicinity which provides the physical features which the explorer mentions excepting the one mentioned by Mackenzie, and lyng the very distance named by him from the Rock itself. The identity of the Rock having been satisfactorily established the historical authorities of Canada are losing no further time in fixing for all time the precise location. This is the more desirable as it is a fair conjecture that Mackenzie when he traced the famous lines may have felt that he was writing his own epitaph. Nowhere else in his travels did he leave such a record, and had he perished as he half-expected, the hands of the natives, the inscription alone would have remained to authenticate a journey which was attended by so much hardship, which was so momentous for Canada, and which shortened his life.

And so having been denied food by the natives, having been forced to sup scantily: "Our whole daily allowance did not amount to what was sufficient for a single meal. . . . The weather was clear during the day which was succeeded by a fine moonlight night. . . . I directed my people to keep watch by two in turn, and laid myself down in my cloak."

Mackenzie rose in the morning to again face threatening natives and to be entreated by his young Indian, who was so agitated that he foamed at the mouth, to depart as the natives were intent on his death. Says Mackenzie: "Though I was not free from apprehensions it was necessary for me to disguise them, as my people were panic struck and some of them asked if it was my determination to remain there and be sacrificed. My reply was the same as their former importunities had received that I would not stir till I had accomplished my object. At the same time to humor their fears, I consented that they should put everything into the canoe that weight be in a state of preparation to depart."

It was then that the decision was made to move for greater safety to a point three miles away, already referred to. And it was then, too, that this intrepid man, surrounded by hostile savages, and attended by terror stricken followers, left a record, long since obliterated, but which the Canadian authorities propose to make imperishable: "I now mixed up some vermilion in melted grease, and inscribed in large characters on the south-east face of the Rock on which we had slept last night, this brief memorial: 'Alexander Mackenzie from Canada, by land, the twenty-second day of July seventeen hundred and ninety-three.'"

The whole party might perish but the world must never be permitted to mistrust the fact. It is intended to restore the inscription in red cement embedded in the face of the granite. This will be a paltry tribute to one, to whom the nation owes so much. For Mackenzie was no mere wanderer, spurred by love of adventure. There was purpose in his wanderings of a deliberate and inflexible kind and to it he adhered in the face of constant temptation to choose easier paths. The day preceding his departure from the Forks Fort of the Peace for the Pacific, he wrote to his kinsman and confidante, Roderick Mackenzie, telling of his vexation and disturbance of mind; of how the Indians had disappointed him in their hunt for provisions for the journey; of how the Indians disliked the proposed journey, and how some of them had deserted; how they had lured away his guide; and of how those who remained knew no more of the country than he did himself. Distracted, but unable to defer his departure he wrote some farewell letters which he sent, open for correction by his cousin. He had already decided that if he returned in safety, the following Winter would be his last in that country:

"Should I be successful I shall retire with great advantage; if not I cannot be worse off than at present. I begin to think it is the height of folly in a man to reside in a country of this kind, deprived of every comfort that can make life agreeable, especially when he has a competency to enjoy life in a civilized society, which ought to be the case with me."

The hardships of the Bella Coola trip only emphasized that decision. When in October, he again reached the Peace River Fort he wrote in his journal: "Here my voyages of discovery terminate." He was still less than thirty years of age. In less than a decade, this mere boy had taken an expedition from Montreal to Detroit through the wilds of what is now Ontario. He had pushed the trading boundaries of the Northwest company further west than white men had, ever before penetrated; he had traced the Mackenzie to the Arctic and had dispelled for all time the illusion of a north-west passage south of seventy degrees. He had blazed the trail from Montreal to the western sea—the first white man to cross the continent north of Mexico. He had given the future Dominion a province on the Pacific, and had really anticipated the work of the Fathers of Confederation.

Had the representations he later made to the Home government been carried out, there would have been said in the beginning of the nineteenth century a commercial Empire under the British flag, of which the Pacific would have been the highway, Canton and London, the principal marts, and Nootka, the great civil and military base. Washington and much of Oregon would have been embraced in that Empire. In all the journeys he always kept the interests of his country before his eyes. It was the political, as well as the commercial possibilities of a union of the Hudson's Bay Company, the Northwest Company, the East India Company, and the South Sea Company, that he urged upon Lord Hobart, the colonial secretary in 1802. The failure of the government of that day to heed his suggestions gives the greater pathos to the following entry in his journal: "The completion of it (his voyage) extends the boundaries of geographic knowledge and adds new countries to the realm of British commerce. . . . The dangers I have suffered have found their recompense. . . . Nor will the many tedious and weary days of the gloomy and incessant nights which I have passed be passed in vain."

His tireless energy won him, from his voyagers the title of Kitchie Okema, and his achievements a Knighthood from his King. The Canadian nation owes him a more enduring title and place in its gallery of heroes. For he literally shortened his days in his restless pursuit of geographic knowledge which has made possible a nation in the north of the continent resting on three seas. His last recorded letter to his cousin written the year preceding his death, gives a pleasing domestic picture of Lady Mackenzie sitting by me, and the children playing on the floor."

But it contains as well a fateful foreboding of the end: "I have at last been overtaken with the consequences of my sufferings in the Northwest. I think it is of the same nature as Mr. McGillivray's complaint, but it has not yet arrived at a severe crisis. I have, in obedience to orders, become a water drinker and a milk sop; I have not tasted wine, spirituous, or malt liquors, for several months, which I think has been of service to me. The symptoms of the disorder are very disagreeable and most uncomfortable. The exercise of walking, particularly uphill, brings on a headache, stupor, or dead pain, which at once pervades the whole frame, attended with listlessness and apathy which I cannot well describe. The great doctor Hamilton of Edinburgh calls it a shake of the constitution. The following Spring he died. His Rock will serve a double memorial. Not only did it mark the end of Mackenzie's trail to the western sea; there is reason to believe that only a few weeks before, Vancouver had camped on the same spot while on the voyage in which he circumnavigated Vancouver Island, thus linking the labors of these two great explorers, who compassed sea and land in their service to the nation.

That You Ought to Answer

Sometimes there will be a dozen in one issue of this paper.

If you've never formed the habit of answering and investigating want ads—then you have still to form what will prove the most profitable habit of your life.

But for the service of the classified "ads" the stenographer who has brought order and system and efficiency to a business office where they had been wanting, would have been filling a half-as-good position somewhere else.

Wouldn't you conclude—even if this were half-truth instead of being quite true—that this is a good time to start in?

SCENE OF RUBY CORBETT SHOOTING—In the little farmhouse shown above, in the shadow of picturesque and famous Mount McKay, about six miles out of Fort William, one of the strangest tragedies of recent times occurred when Ruby Corbett, beautiful Fort William girl, with a strain of Indian blood in her, was shot dead, while alone in the house with her companion of many excursions, James Salisbury, a Hamilton engineer. After a searching investigation by the Crown, exhaustive evidence was presented to the jury at the inquest into the girl's death, but they were unable to decide whether death was suicidal or accidental. The jury, however, did conclude that the rifle was in the hands of the girl at the time the shot was fired, thus exonerating the man who was with her in the house at the time. The evidence showed that the girl went to the house when Salisbury was upstairs, and in climbing the steps to the second floor was fatally shot. Evidence was given at the inquest to show that less than an hour earlier, on her way to the house, she questioned boys as to the effect of shot if received by the human body, in the exact manner in which she was later fatally wounded. It was also shown that the young man, after associating with the girl, had on one occasion recently sought to avoid her, and on the day in question had asked her to leave him alone. On the right in Provincial Constable Finlay Buchanan, who investigated the shooting for the crown, and in the circle below is a picture of the unfortunate girl.

HALF-HOLIDAY MOVEMENT HERE UNDER DISCUSSION

Plebiscite of Merchants to be taken to Ascertain Desire For Change

After a thorough discussion of the question by a representative meeting of various city institutions, called under Chamber of Commerce auspices yesterday afternoon, it was decided to take a plebiscite, according to trade classifications, of the merchants of Victoria to ascertain whether there was a desire for a change of the weekly half-holiday to Saturday, or to seek new legislation for a revision of the working hours.

Representatives of the retail group of the Chamber, the Retail Merchants' Association, the City Council, the Chamber directors, the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the G.W.V.A., the Retail Clerks' Association, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, Retail Exaltation, the Victoria Bankers' Association and others attended.

ATTITUDE OF CLERKS
Alderman Woodward, who said he appeared on behalf of the Retail Clerks' Association in this matter, explained that it had been impossible to get uniform opinion on the matter, and behind the Local Retail Merchants' Association had received a very chilly reception by the storekeepers themselves when the subject was taken up. If the merchants could show a real body of sentiment in favor of a change then the clerks would be prepared to give consideration to representations made, but his knowledge of the matter led him to remark that about fifty per cent. of the merchants favored Wednesday and fifty per cent. Saturday closing.

On behalf of the barbers, W. Singer stoutly opposed a change, arguing that the majority of citizens wanted the matter to remain as it was, and that the clerks would resist any change.

DEPARTMENT STORES
A. J. Watson, speaking both as manager of the Hudson's Bay Company Store, and a director of the chamber, pointed out that there were 300 retailers in Victoria, and he believed it would be a retrograde movement to make a change.

As manager of a staff of 300 employees he had been circled by them against any alteration in the present weekly closing. As an estimate he calculated the retail merchants were conducting a $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 pay roll.

A resolution, introduced by Howard S. Stevenson for the purpose of testing opinion, proposed that a move be made to have the Act amended so that it might become a system of local option. Mr. Stevenson argued that an adjustment might be reached after a straw ballot of the merchants had been taken.

Fred Landsberg asserted he only consented to take part in the movement when it was understood that the hours of the clerks per week would not be increased beyond those at present prevailing. The resolution was tabled, after Alderman Woodward had consented to a compromise provided the merchants presented a tangible scheme to them.

After the tabling of the motion another was accepted to take a ballot by classifications among the merchants, and this resolution was after some discussion adopted unanimously.

ARGUMENTS GIVEN FOR CHURCH UNION

Dr. W. H. Smith, Principal of Westminster Hall, Speaks at Victoria West

Reasons why he believed the churches of Canada should join the Church Union movement were given by Dr. W. H. Smith, principal of Westminster Hall, Vancouver, to a large attendance at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West, last night. The speaker was introduced by D. Frazer.

He gave an outline of the legislation which will unite the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches on June 15, 1925. The legislation he said had been found to be reasonable and satisfactory in every detail. Under the act the three churches go into the union as units, with all their common property, traditions and heritage. Generous provisions are made for the minorities. If a congregation votes to remain an independent church it may do so.

The United Church preserves the essential principles of the Christian church and the vital principles of Presbyterianism. The speaker showed the United Church had achieved spiritual independence, the right to determine its doctrine and polity. This legal right is clearly stated in the Dominion Act.

The United Church, he claimed, was essentially Presbyterian in polity and government. The main features such as the session, with its ordained elders; the four great courts, session, presbytery, conference and general council; the call of the minister, and the Barrier Act were retained.

The Pan-Presbyterian council has decided to admit the United Church into its membership. The Anti-Unionists have denied the right of the church to act through its courts. They have declared that no majority of the members and no combination of church courts can change the present system. Larger privileges which the United Church brought was advanced as the reason in favor of Church Union. Each local church retained its distinctive privileges and principles, but the United Church greatly strengthened by eliminating duplication of effort and thereby permitting expansion in unoccupied fields.

There were only forty-one sustaining Presbyterian churches in British Columbia, the minister stated, today, and co-operation is established at 145 points. The union movement is at present saving the churches about $80,000 a year and when Union comes about forty men and 470,000 will be available in British Columbia.

COLWOOD MINSTRELS!

BREAK NEW GROUND
New Troupe Pleases Audience at Colwood Hall

Special to The Times
Colwood.—The first minstrel show was given on Wednesday night in the Colwood Hall in aid of the funds of St. John's Church, Colwood. The show, produced and directed by G. A. Turner, consisted of a troupe of picked local men. There was a crowded attendance. The surrounding districts, as well as Victoria, were well represented among the audience.

The first half of the programme was carried out in true minstrel style, with the troupe forming a picturesque crescent, and consisting of solos and choruses with tambourines and bones complete, while "Tambo" and "Bones" kept the audience in continuous paroxysms of laughter with their funny jokes and local "bits," ably counterpointed by the interlocutor, who himself proved an entertainer of no mean order.

The second half was vaudeville, with sketches, monologues, songs and duets—and even a covek fight.
Rev. H. A. Pearson surpassed himself as "Mandy" in a fight with "Rastus" (G. A. Turner), while F. R. Smedley in more serious vein greatly pleased the audience with his excellent rendering of "Old Father Thames" and "Friend Interlocutor," who himself proved an entertainer of no mean order.

The thunderous applause which greeted the efforts of this troupe testified to the appreciation of the large audience, who were one and all loud in their praise of the entertainment as a whole, and particularly of the producer and director, Mr. G. A. Turner.

CALGARY AUDIENCE HEARD PREMIER KING

3,700 Persons in Hall When He and Hon. P. J. A. Cardin Spoke Last Night

Calgary, Oct. 31.—Charges levelled by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the federal Conservative Party, that the St. Antoine and Rimouski by-election campaigns had been conducted on "the basest, vilest, dirtiest racial appeal in history" was denounced as utterly false and untrue by Premier King, when he addressed 3,700 persons here last night. Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, using more forceful language than his chief, labelled Mr. Meighen's statements at a Calgary meeting Tuesday "a lie." Counter-charges of unfair election methods were made against the Conservative leader by the Prime Minister and by his colleagues from Quebec.

DEALT WITH FINANCES

Mr. King, in the first public address which he made in Calgary since he attained the highest office which Canadians can bestow on a public man, departed somewhat from the trend of the speeches which he has been making throughout his successful western tour and broke new ground. He answered a new local criticism by quoting figures to show that the financial condition of Canada was infinitely better to-day than it was when his Liberal administration picked up the reins of power three years ago at the point where Mr. Meighen and his Conservative Government had left them. He proved to his auditors by quoting figures that the national debt, which had been reduced by approximately $25,000,000 since 1921, that expenditure had been very considerably reduced, and that the nation stood in the money markets of the world.

"Protection means taxation all ways, and there is an old saying that the Liberals make the saving and the Tories come along and spend it," the Premier said amid amused and appreciative applause.

Knox Church Bazaar—The ladies of the Knox Presbyterian Church have gathered together an array of attractive wares for their bazaar which is to be held to-morrow at 219 Fort Street. Among the booths will be one for the sale of delicious home-made candy. There will also be home cooking, fancy work and plain sewing and novelties suitable for Christmas gifts.

The members of Mount Newton Social Club met on Tuesday evening at the club rooms, West Saanich Road. The usual five hundred tournament was held, with the following results: Table number eight, consisting of Messrs. E. Hewson, F. Richardson, H. Bond and L. Hagen, took twenty-six flags and captured the first prize. There were four tables tied for second prize, which ultimately went to Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Guy, Arthur Jeanne and R. E. Nimmo with twenty-two flags. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 17.
