WHO'S WHO IN MUSIC AND DRAMA is a compendium of professional biography and a compilation of authentic reference to Music and Drama, and its allied interests.

Reliability has been the chief aim, and to this end no means have been spared to present only facts, accurately stated. All incoming information has been thoroughly investigated, and where mistakes have been discovered, all efforts have been made to correct, and thus bring the work to the highest standard of efficiency. If, however, errors should be detected, criticism is invited in order that corrections may be made.

Each biography has been submitted to its subject for confirmation, and where changes have been indicated, they have been carefully verified, and the biography corrected accordingly.

In many instances, however, little or no aid has been given by the subject, and as no reliable reference then existed, the task of compilation was necessarily made slow, and, perhaps, fallible.

The reluctance on the part of some subjects to co-operate in the compilation of this work is not surprising, as many previous publications of this nature have been unreliable and valueless for correct reference, having been influenced by considerations which do not enter the purpose of this book.

More than three years of arduous labor have been required in producing the present edition, and it is offered with the knowledge that every care has been taken to make it as trustworthy and complete as possible.

Future editions will be published annually, and no effort will be spared to reflect the performances of all members of the profession accurately and in detail.

This work should prove invaluable as a record of progress in Music and Drama, and, as with all similar books of reference conceived in the proper spirit and executed with painstaking effort and intelligence, should gain value with age.

The art and profession of Music and Drama contribute important chapters to the news of the day. Within its ranks are many of the most noted names of contemporary history. Its devotees are numbered by the million, and any serious and intelligent effort made to perpetuate the history and progress of these arts, and record the achievements of their sponsors, should receive cordial support.

The editors and publisher earnestly hope that the launching of this edition will be accepted as evidence of their sincerity of purpose, and that they may be assured of that support which has hitherto been withheld.

The names of many representative leaders of the art and profession have unfortunately been omitted, due to the fact that the editors' request for information on specially prepared blanks has been neglected. Such omissions are due entirely to the disregard of those whose aid was requested.

Efforts will be made, during the coming year, to obtain biographies of all notable representatives not at present included.

The acceptance of an invitation to supply information for the furtherance of this work carries with it no stated or implied obligation of any financial nature. A record of reliable reference, to fill a "long felt want," is the only excuse for its issue.

With the keenest realization of its possible fallibility, this book is offered, and an invitation extended for all interested to assist by criticism or suggestion, in making this THE official record of the Musical and Dramatic world.

ABARBANELL, Lina—Actress and Prima Donna.

Born Berlin, Feb. 3, 1880. Her father was cond. of concerts and orchs. and under his tutelage she developed her voice very early, singing in public when but seven years of age. Made first appearance as an actress when sixteen years of age at the New, Berlin, playing many parts, including Hedwig Ekdal in Ibsen's The Wild Duck. When eighteen she sang in opera in Koenigsberg, Prussia. Her experience thus gained secured for her an engagement at the Royal Berlin O. H., where she sang "Fledermaus" over one hundred times. In Vienna she sang Bruder Straubinger and Wiener Frauen, which had been written for her by Eislner and Lehar. It was while singing at the Ueberbrettel, Berlin, that Heinrich Conried, then dir. of the Metropolitan Opera co. and the Irving Place, New York, heard and engaged her. Her American appearance was made at this playhouse in Fruehlingsluft, of which The Spring Chicken, in English, was an adaptation. Her success was immediate in New York, and she sang all the principal roles at this playhouse, in the meantime perfecting herself in the English language. She sang successfully Gretel in Haensel und Gretel at the Metropolitan O. H., New York. She was engaged by Henry W. Savage to sing the prima donna role of Ilsa in The Student King, Garden, New York, Dec. 25, 1906, and subsequently in the Western co. of The Merry Widow. In the latter co. she also sang in New York, Boston and through the East. She originated the title role in Madame Sherry, 1909, and sang it for a year in Chicago, afterwards at New Amsterdam, New York, Aug. 30, 1910, appearing in this role on tour 1910-11; as Princess Polovia in Miss Princess, Lyric, Allentown, (Pa.,) Nov. 1, 1912, later Park, New York, Dec. 23, 1912. Permanent address, 88 Central Park, West, New York.

ABELES, Edward (Edward S. Abeles)—Actor.

Born St. Louis, Mo.; ed. at schools of native city. Studied law, admitted to the bar and after short practice became interested in journalism. First theatrical appearance of consequence in the role of Lathrop Page in Al- abama, Palmer's, New York, Nov. 2, 1891. At this house also appeared in juvenile roles in Margaret Fleming, Jim the Penman, A Broken Seal, Col. Carter of Cartersville, A Modern St. Anthony and Lady Windermere's Fan, 1892-93; as Charley Wykeham in Charley's Aunt, Empire, New York, 1894, and leading juvenile role in My Friend From India, Bijou, New York, 1896, and leading juvenile role in The Telephone Girl, Casino, New York, 1897; leading juvenile role in The Pink Domino, Herald Square, New York, and Capt. Swift same playhouse, 1898; also appeared in In Gay Paree, Casino, New York, 1899; as Fontaine in The Sprightly Romance of Marsac, Republic, New York, Dec. 13, 1900; with Clara Bloodgood in The Girl With the Green Eyes, as Rake in Under Two Flags, Garden, New York, and in Hidenseek, Globe, London, 1901; as Edwards with William Collier in The Diplomat, Madison Square, New York, 1902, and as M. Glavis, with Mary Manning in the all-star cast The Lady of Lyons, Garrick, New York, May 21, 1902; appeared in Are You a Mason? as William Drinkwater in My Wife's Husbands, Madison Square, New York, as Edward Pinckney in Whitewashing Julia, and as Mr. Sweet in Glad of It, Savoy, New York, 1903; as Simpson with William Collier in The Dictator, Criterion, New York, Apr. 4, 1904, and in same role at Comedy, London, May 5, 1905. During season 1905 also appeared as Henry Stroker with Robert Lorraine in Man and Superman, Hudson, New York, and on tour with Francis Wilson in Cousin Billy and Little Father of the Wilderness; as Monty Brewster in Brewster's Millions, New Amsterdam, New York, Dec. 30, 1906, subsequently on tour in same role 1907-09; as Lord Jack Wyn-gate in The Goddess of Liberty, Weber's, New York, Dec. 22, 1909; as Robert Street in The Aviator on tour 1910. Appeared successfully in vaudeville seasons 1910-12, presenting sketches, Self Defense, He Tried to Be Nice, and Waiting at the Church, 1912; as Travers Gladwin in Officer 666, Gaiety, New York, Oct. 21, 1912. Married Lottie Mortimer, well-known prof. who later retired. Permanent address, The Lambs, New York.

ABINGDON, William L. (William Lepper)—Actor.

Born Towchester, Northamptonshire, Eng., 1861, ed. at private schools and began business as a clerk in a bank. Resigned when 19 years old and joined a theatrical stock co. to play utility parts, making first appearance in Belfast, Ireland, 1881. For two years he "roughed it" in the English provinces and then attracted the notice of Wilson Barrett, with whom he played juvenile parts in Lights o' London, Romany Rye, The Silver King, etc. In 1887 he made his first appearance in London at the Princess, remaining two years. In Dec. 1889, he began a long engagement at the Adelphi, London, creating leading heavy roles in The Silver Falls, London Day by Day, The English Rose, The Lost Paradise, The Fatal Card, The Girl I Left Behind Me, Flying Colors, and Captain Kettle. Leaving there he went to the Shaftesbury, London, for the leading part in Handfast, and after this appeared as Laurant in first performance of Theresa Raquin, and as Halma Ekdal in The Wild Duck. After this played leading roles in numerous farcial comedies at the Vaudeville, London. In 1898 joined John Hare at the Garrick, London, in The Old Jew, and in a revival of Caste. After playing at His Majesty's with Olga Nethersole in 1900, starred at the Olympic as Apollyon in Pilgrim's Progress, and as Lord Nelson in a drama by Robert Buchanan. Was seen as Jim the Penman in a revival of that play, and in The Idler, 1902. Created role Lord Jeffries in Sweet Nell of Old Drury, and was Prof. Moriarty during the long run of Sherlock Holmes at Lyceum, London. Made his first appearance in America in 1903, with Amelia Bingham in The Frisky Mrs. Johnson, The Climbers, and A Modern Magdalen. Returning to London 1905, was in support of Mrs. Brown Potter at Savoy, afterwards as a leading mem. of Beerbohm Tree's co. at His Majesty's. In 1906 was again in New York, playing in Gallops, at the Garrick. In the fall of 1906 played Mark Tremblett with W. H. Crane in The Price of Money, Garrick, New York. With Mrs. Leslie Carter in Cleo, 1907; with Amelia Bingham in A Modern Magdalen, 1909; also appeared in the Savage prod. of The Devil, later in The Sins of Society, and in the all-star cast of Jim the Penman, in Chicago. Floriot in Madame X., on tour, 1910-11; as Stephen Ballantyne in The Witness for the Defense, Empire, New York, Dec. 4, 1911; in vaudeville, presenting dram. sketch, Honor Is Satisfied, 1912-13. Married Bijou Fernandez, daughter of Mrs. E. L. Fernandez, a New York theatrical agent, May, 1906. Clubs: Lambs, Players (New York). Permanent address: 215 West 51st St., New York.

ABORN, Milton—Impresario.

Born Marysville, Cal., May 18, 1864. At age of twenty-one became theatrical mgr. and one year thereafter an actor. Appeared for two seasons in comic opera prods. and later assumed position of stage dir. and leading comedian with B. F. Keith's co., Boston, where he remained until 1885. This co. had the distinction of dedicating five of the Keith theatres, viz.: the old Gaiety in Providence, Bijou in Boston, Bijou in Philadelphia, Union Square in New York, and the present Keith's in Boston. After his engagement with this co., he took out his own opera co. touring for several seasons, frequently appearing in the cast himself. In 1899, he abandoned the vocation of actor and has since devoted himself exclusively to business and stage dir. In 1902, he joined his interests with those of his brother, Sargent Aborn, forming The Aborn Opera co., which has for the past ten years presented opera in English, as well as notable revivals of mus. comedies. This co. confines its presentations entirely to the popular price field. During the regular theatrical seasons they maintain two or three cos., and during the late winter and early spring of each season they increase their cos. for the presentation of grand opera in English to eight or ten. Among notable prods. during 1909-11 were the elaborate revivals of The Bohemian Girl, Madame Butterfly, and the first prod. of Thais in the English language. Permanent address: 1505 Broadway, New York.

ABORN, Sargent—Impresario.

Born Boston, Mass., July 3, 1866. He began his career in commerce, but followed his brother Milton Aborn into theatricals. Entered this business at the age of seventeen. He established his own co. at Elitch's Gardens, Denver, at the age of twenty-one. From 1893-1901 he was in the employ of Jacob Litt, and managed the first prod. of In Old Kentucky. In the latter year he joined A. J. Spencer under the firm name, Spencer & Aborn, prod. dram. offerings. This firm existed for seven years. In 1902 he formed a co-partnership with his brother Milton Aborn, under the firm name, Milton & Sargent Aborn, since when they have made notable prods. of grand opera in English at popular prices. During season 1910-11 an elaborate revival of The Bohemian Girl was made and also one of Madame Butterfly. At the Boston O. H., Boston, they prod. Thais for the first time in English, and during the early spring of 1911 dir. the tours of eight or ten cos. prod. ABBOTT, Bessie (Mrs. T. Walso Story)—Prima Donna.

Born Riverside, N. Y., 1878, and is descendant of the famous Pickens family of South Carolina, whose mems. distinguished themselves in the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. Her father's death left the family in such straitened circumstances that she and her sister were forced to turn to account the talent which they had displayed at charity benefits and the drawing-room entertainments of their friends. Going to New York, she was placed in the chorus of The Foresters co., at Daly's. The sisters attracted the attention of Edward E. Rice, who engaged them for a singing specialty in his prod. of 1492 at the Garden, New York, 1894. In 1895 they appeared in The Little Christopher, at same playhouse. Bessie Abott, however, aspired to grand opera, and in May, 1897, went to Paris to study, making her debut on the operatic stage as Juliet, in Romeo and Juliet, Dec., 1901. For several seasons she was prima donna at the Grand Opera, Paris. In the winter of 1906 she returned to the U. S., and first appeared with New York Symphony Orch. at Carnegie Hall, New York. After a successful concert tour of U. S., joined Metropolitan Opera co., remaining several seasons as prima donna soprano. At close of season returned to Europe, singing in Lisbon, Monte Carlo, St. Petersburg and other European musical centers. Was engaged by Liebler & Co., New York, to create title role of Ysobel, in opera by Mascagni, which was scheduled for prod. at New, New York, under dir. of the composer, fall of 1910, but disagreements having arisen between composer and prod., the Bessie Abott Opera co., which had been formed, was disbanded, and she toured through South and West in concert, until she assumed prima donna role of Maid Marian in Robin Hood, Knickerbocker, New York, Aug. 12, 1912. Married T. Walso Story, Sept. 26, 1912.. Permanent address: Care Liebler & Co., Century Theatre, New York.

ADE, George—Dramatist and Author.

Born Feb. 9, 1866, at Kentland, Ind.; ed. pub. schools in Indiana, grad. Purdue Univ., Lafayette, 1887, degree B. S. His first business experience was that of reporter and spec. writer, being engaged from 1890 to 1900 by Daily News and Record, Chicago. His first book pub. was Artie, a collection of vernacular sketches, 1896. From that year to 1898 he was engaged as dram. ed. Chicago Record. His first play was a mus. comedy, The Sultan of Sulu, mus. by Albert G. Wathall. The first prod. of this comedy was Mar. 11, 1902, at the Studebaker, Chicago, afterward at Wallack's, New York. Peggy from Paris, also a mus. comedy, was likewise prod. at Studebaker, Chicago, June 24, 1903. The mus. was written by William Lorraine. After an extended engagement in Chicago and Boston it came to New York, where it ran three months. The County Chairman, a political comedy in four acts, was first prod. at South Bend, Ind., Sept. 1903, and after a season in Chicago was brought to Wallack's, New York, and remained from Nov. 1903 to Oct. 1904. The Sho-Gun, a comic opera with mus. by Gustav Luders, followed, its first prod. being in Apr. 1904. One of his most successful comedies was The College Widow, prod. in Washington, Sept. 1904, subsequently having an extended run at Garden, New York. The Bad Samaritan, written for the late Richard Golden, was first prod. at Washington, afterwards Garden, New York, where it failed. Just Out of College, a three-act farce, prod. Oct. 1, 1905, at New Haven, and is still being played. Marse Covington, one-act sketch, first presented at the Lambs Club in 1906, was subsequently adapted as a vehicle for E. J. Connelly, in vaudeville. The success of this tabloid play led to the prod. by May Irwin of another one-act play, Mrs. Peckham's Carouse. This was prod. early in 1907, followed by Artie, the play founded on the sketches contained in his first book. The Old Town, done by Montgomery & Stone, and Father and the Boys and U. S. ALLEN, Charles Leslie—Actor.

Born Boston, Mass., in 1830. As a mem. of the Aurora Dram. Club, of Boston, played many important parts, and as an amateur spoke the last words on the stage of Old Drury, as the Federal St., Boston, was last called. They were at the end of A Nabob for an Hour, in which he enacted Sam Hobbs, May 10, 1852. At the age of twenty-one adopted the stage as a prof., making his first appearance at Troy, N. Y., in 1852, as a servant in Simpson & Co. His progress was rapid, and he was soon put into second comedy and second old men parts. His character delineations attracted attention of Edmon S. Conner, who engaged him for the Green St., Albany, 1853. Here he first enacted Bailie Nicol Jarvie in Rob Roy. After playing roles in Pet of the Petticoats with Maggie Mitchell, and The Octoroon, with Miss Kimberly, he went to the Boston, Boston, where he remained many years as the principal old man and character actor in the stock co., supporting Booth, Forrest, Jefferson and the stars of the 70's and 80's. He was the original Derrick there in Rip Van Winkle and was the creator of the Judge, in Kit the Arkansas Traveller. He was in the co. of the National, Washington, 1864-66, being the original Burleigh in Elizabeth, Money Penny in The Long Strike, and Old Eccles in Caste. Here he also played Polonius to the Hamlet of Edwin Forrest and Kent in King Lear. His first pronounced success in New York was as Old Rogers, in Esmeralda, at the Madison Square, when his daughter, Viola Allen, made her initial performance in the title role. He was for four seasons in the support of John Drew, and has also played Sir Toby Belch with Modjeska and Miss Marlowe. Of late years he has been prominent in his daughter's co. ALLEN, Viola (Mrs. Peter Duryea)—Actress.

Born in Alabama, her father being C. Leslie Allen, a distinguished character actor. When an infant she was taken to Boston where her father remained a prominent mem. of the famous Boston Theatre co. for several years. At ten years of age, she was sent to boarding school at Wykeham Hall Toronto, Can., and three years later attended a private school in New York, when Mr. Allen joined the Madison Square Theatre co. under Daniel Frohman, and removed his family to the city. The following year, while still a school girl, her debut occurred quite unexpectedly in the play in which her father was then acting, and she appeared in the ingenue part of Esmeralda during the temporary absence from the cast through illness of the actress playing the role, and acquitted herself so creditably that she was offered an engagement for the following season in the co. The next year an opportunity to appear as the youthful Virginia to the Virginius of John McCullough, and to understudy other classical and Shakespearian roles, was accepted by her with enthusiasm. This engagement proved a short one, as the failing health of the tragedian compelled his retirement from the stage before the end of the season. Then came her appearance in the role of Mildred in Browning's Blot on the 'Scutcheon prod. by Lawrence Barrett in New York, and soon after, she played leading roles with the Italian actor, Tomasso Salvini, (also his son Alexander) including Desdemona, Parthenia, Juliet, Cordelia, etc. She was next engaged as leading lady of the Boston Museum, Boston, where she created and played a wide range of characters in modern and standard plays, and old comedies, following which, she became a mem. of the Jefferson-Florence combination, playing Lydia Languish in The Rivals, and Cicely Homespun in The Heir at Law. She was next engaged by Charles Frohman to originate the role of the American Princess in Aristocracy, and in 1893 and the four following seasons, was the leading lady of the Empire, New York, playing in Liberty Hall, Sowing the Wind, The Masqueraders, Under the Red Robe, The Conquerors, and in many other popular plays. In 1898, she entered into a five-year contract to become a star under the management of Liebler & Co., and was immediately successful, first, as Glory Quayle in The Christian, next in The Palace of the King, and then The Eternal City. Under the management of her brother, C. W. Allen, she enjoyed four years in Shakespearian prods., appearing as Viola in Twelfth Night, Hermione and Perdita in A Winter's Tale, and Imogene in Cymbeline, besides giving spec. performance in the characters of Rosalind, Portia, and Juliet, and one intermediate season in The Toast of the Town. Returning again to her former mgrs. in 1907 she appeared in title role in Irene Wycherley, Astor, New York, Jan. 20, 1908; as Sister Giovanna in The White Sister, on tour, and Daly's, New York, Sept. 27, 1909; continuing, until 1911; as Dorothea in The Lady of Coventry, Daly's, New York, Nov. 21, 1911; in The Herfords, on tour, 1912; title role in The Daughter of Heaven, Century, New York, Oct. 12, 1912, and on tour 1912-13. Married Peter Duryea, 1906. Permanent address: Century Theatre, New York.

ANDERSON, Mary (Mme. Antonio F. de Navarro)—Actress.

Born in Sacramento, Cal., July 28, 1859. The following spring her parents moved to Louisville, Ky., and her father joined the Confederate Army. He died at Mobile, Ala., in 1863, at the age of twenty-nine, when his daughter was only four years old. When she was eight years old her mother married Dr. Hamilton Griffin, of Louisville, who had been a Confederate Army surgeon. She was ed. at the Ursuline Convent and the Acad. of the Presentation, Louisville. Her stepfather, who was a Shakespearian student, fostered her natural histrionic ambition, and at the age of ten she began to read Shakespeare. She was taken to see Edwin Booth act, and she then announced her determination to become an actress. Her first pub. appearance was as Juliet, at the Louisville, Louisville, Ky., Nov. 1875. She was then but sixteen years old, but her performance attracted much attention. She appeared for a week at same playhouse, supported by Macauley's Stock co., playing Evadne, Juliet and in The Hunchback; engagements with stock cos. in St. Louis and other cities followed. She appeared in San Francisco and made a tour of the South under the management of John T. Ford, of Baltimore. In the fall of 1876 she first appeared at the head of her own co. She made her debut in New York, Nov. 12, 1877, at the Fifth Ave., as Parthenia, Juliet, Evadne, Meg. Merrilies and Bianca. The following year she played another season at the Fifth Ave., after which she made her first trip to Europe, her chief desire being to visit Stratford-on-Avon and Verona. She played Galatea, one of her favorite parts, for the first time in Troy, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1881, and the next year was at Booth's, New York. In 1883 she went abroad, and on Sept. 18, made her first stage appearance in England at the Lyceum, London, as Parthenia. She played a continuous season of ten months, presenting Galatea, Hermione and Perdita and Clarice in Comedy and Tragedy, especially written for her by Sir Wm. S. Gilbert. She did not again play in her native country until 1888, when she prod. in Nov. A Winter's Tale, at Palmer's, New York. She previously played it 164 consecutive nights at the Lyceum, London. BARNABEE, Henry Clay—Comedian.

Born Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 14, 1833. The only study in which he took a creditable standing was singing, which his schoolmaster taught remarkably well. He entered business life as a drygoods clerk. On removing to Boston to engage there in commercial pursuits, he became a mem. of the Unity Church quartet, with which he continued for twenty-three years, and gave further expression to his gifts in concert singing, and in connection with the Mercantile Library Assn., an organization in which several noted actors and public readers received their early stage training. Being placed on its amusement com. he was frequently called on to recite before the Assn., and his success, first in serious parts and afterwards as a comedian, became so patent and so many demands were made on him throughout Eastern states, that he devoted considerable time to concert and monologue entertainments, although still retaining his commercial connections. During the Civil War a serious illness incapacitated him from continuing his business pursuits, and he was urged by friends to enter the lyceum field and extend the reputation he had already acquired. By this advice, in 1865, he made his prof. debut as an entertainer and traveled through the U. S. and Canada, where his "Patchwork, or an Evening with Barnabee," a monologue written for him, met with great applause. Gradually the actor and the public at large became aware of the great dram. powers which he possessed, and in 1866 he made his first appearance in legitimate drama at a Boston Museum, Boston, benefit performance playing Toby Winkle in All That Glitters is Not Gold, and in Box and

Cox, and singing the famous song Simon the Cellarer. He subsequently appeared at the Globe and the Boston, Boston, and at different times played such familiar parts as Aminidab Slek in The Serious Family, and Henry Dove in Married Life, and sang in the operettas The Two Cadis and Sir Marmaduke. In 1870 he organized a concert co. of his own and appeared in the principal cities and towns of New England and in the middle and western states with great success. The Boston Ideal Opera co. was organized, 1879, and with them he performed the roles of Sir Joseph Porter in Pinafore; Pasha in Fatin-itza; John Wellington Wells in The Sorcerer; Lambertuccio in Boccaccio; Florestan in The Bohemian Girl; Baillie in Chimes of Normandy; the Duke in Olivette; Abbe Bridaine in The Musketeers; Lord Allcash in Fra Diavolo; Bunthorne in Patience; Major-General in The Pirates of Penzance; Bolero in Giraffe-Girafa; King Bobeche in Blue-Beard; Don Japhet in Giralda; Prince Lorenzo in The Mascot; Marquis in Fanchonette; Marquis in Victor the Blue-Stocking; Dulcamara in The Elixir of Love; Bruno in The Daughter of the Regiment. This co. being dissolved in 1888, was succeeded by a new organization, The Bostonians, of which he became one of the mgrs. The characters he has made famous in the new co. are Marcassou in The Poachers; Lurcher in Dorothy; Don in Don Pasquale; Don Quixote in Don Quixote; Chrysos in Pygmalion and Galatea; the Sheriff of Nottingham in Robin Hood; the Governor in The Knickerbockers; the Professor in Ogalallas; Elder in The Maid of Plymouth; La Fontaine in Prince Ananias; Ezra Stebbins in In Mexico; Duke in The Serenade; Rip in Rip Van Winkle. Several of these characters, notably the Sheriff in Robin Hood, are his own creations. As a platform entertainer, singer and comedian, he has pursued a career reflecting credit upon the mus. and operatic annals of this country. He was one of the original mems. of the Apollo Club of Boston, and has been identified with many of the social and mus. organizations of that city, as also with the Ancient and Hon. Artillery co. In 1859 he married Clara, daughter of Maj. Daniel George, of Warner, N. H., and she was his constant companion in his journeyings throughout this country and Europe. For several years past he has appeared in pub. on spec. occasions only. After the dissolution of The Bostonians he appeared successfully in vaudeville. Permanent address: The Lambs, New York.

BERNHARDT, Sarah—Actress.

Born in Paris, Oct. 22, 1844. Her father, who had been a merchant in Amsterdam, died soon after her birth. Her mother, Julie Bernhardt, a Jewess born in Berlin, but of Dutch extraction, placed her when eight years old in Mme. Fressard's school at Auteuil, and two years later (1855), in the Grandchamps Convent at Versailles. Here she became an ardent Catholic and at one time determined to become a nun. In 1857 she distinguished herself in a Biblical play enacted at the convent for the entertainment of a visiting Archbishop of Paris, and two years later, when fourteen, was so moved by a performance of Britannicus and Amphitryon (at the Theatre Francais), that her family decided to make her an actress. After a curiously inadequate preparation, she competed, at sixteen years of age, for admission to the National Conservatoire (1860). At the pub. trials she recited a simple fable by La Fontaine, The Two Pigeons, in a manner that astonished the jury, who had at first been inclined to scoff at her selection. Provost and Sampson now became her teachers—the latter who drilled the great Rachel—and in 1861 she won the second prize in tragedy, and in 1882 the second prize in comedy. Edmond Thierry then summoned her to the Comedie Francaise, and she made her debut there in a minor part in Iphigenie, 1862. Then followed years of hard work in an effort to win independence. In 1866 she played at the Gymnase, not scorning small parts, and it was there that Doucet discovered her. He recommended her to MM. Chilly and Duquesnel of the Odeon, but Chilly refused her because she was too thin. Duquesnel, however, had faith and paid her first year's salary out of his pocket. Here her career began with her debut as Armande in Les Femmes Savantes (1867). In 1869 she achieved her first notable success in Francois Coppee's Le Passant. Among other parts, she played Cordelia in King Lear, and the Queen in Ruy Blas. In 1872 she made a triumphal re-entry to the Comedie Francaise, in Mlle. de Belle Isle, and in Phedre, as Berthe in La Fille de Roland, and Posthumia in Rome Vaincue. In 1875 she was made a "societaire," a sharing life mem. in the Comedie Francaise, one of the unique honors of the French stage. In 1875-80, at the Theatre Francaise, she took her place with Adrienne Lecouvreur and Rachel in the traditions of the French stage. The greatest of her successes were: Andromaque and Hernani, 1877; Le Sphinx, 1878; Ruy Blas, 1879. On June 4, 1879, she made her first appearance in London with other mems. of the Theatre Francaise, and achieved a success in Racine's Phedre, at the Gaiety, and as Mrs. Clarkson in L'Etrangere. On her return to Paris she was assigned the uncongenial part of Clorinda in L'Aventuriere, which led to a quarrel with Perrin, dir. of the House of Moliere, and her resignation from the Comedie Francaise followed on April 17, 1880. A lawsuit followed which resulted in her having to pay the Comedie Francaise 100,000 francs. In May, 1880, she returned to London for a personal engagement and gave with great success Frou Frou and Adrienne Lecouvreur, and on Oct. 15, 1880, she sailed for America, and made her debut in New York at Booth's, Nov. 8, 1880, under the management of Henry E. Abbey. She opened her engagement with Adrienne Lecouvreur and gave altogether twenty-seven performances in New York. Then followed a tour of seven months, during which she gave a total of 156 performances in fifty different cities before she returned in Mar. 1881. The number of performances given of each play was as follows: La Dame aux Camelias, 65; Frou Frou, 41; Adrienne Lecouvreur, 17; Hernani, 14; Le Sphinx, 7; Phedre, 6; La Princesse George, 3, and L'Etrangere, 3. A tour of Russia and Denmark followed, in which she appeared chiefly as La Dame aux Camelias. Upon her return to Paris she est. herself at the Vaudeville and achieved fresh triumphs in Fedora (1882), and in the following year she became proprietress of the Porte-Saint-Martin (1883). Here she prod. the following plays: Nana Sahib and La Dame aux Camelias, 1883, and Theodora, 1884. A second tour in America with Theodora and a limited rep. followed, 1886-87, and she then presented on her return to Paris, La Tosca, 1887, and L'Aveu, an original drama by herself, 1888. Her third tour in America, again under the auspices of Mr. Abbey, was made 1888-90. She presented Jeanne d'Arc and Cleopatre, written by Sardou in collaboration with Emile Moreau, 1890. Her fourth tour in North and South America and European countries was made 1891-33. She now undertook the management of the Theatre de la Renaissance, and presented Les Rois, 1893; Izeyl, Gismonda, La Femme de Claude, 1894; La Princess Lointaine, Magda, 1895. Her fifth tour in America was made 1896, and Lorenziaccio, adapted by Armand Artois from the original by Alfred de Musset, was done on her return, Oct. 1896. In December of same year a grand festival in her honor was given, at which she was crowned queen of drama in the presence of 500 actors, artists, literateurs and politicians, poems being read by Francois Coppee, Edmond Rostand, Andre Theuriet and Catulle Mendes, and a determined effort made to get for her the Legion of Honor. She presented La Samaritaine, 1897. The Theatre de la Renaissance was too small for her rep., and she negotiated for the Theatre Municipal des Nations, on the Place du Chatelet, which received the name of Theatre Sarah Bernhardt at a spec. session of the Municipal Council of Paris in 1899. In 1899 her impersonations of Hamlet caused the famous duel in which Catulle Mendes, the poet-playwright, was one of the belligerents, and in 1900, another masculine impersonation followed in L'Aiglon, Rostand's dramatization of the Napoleonic legend. She made a sixth tour of the U. S., 1901-02, supported by Constant Coquelin, presenting Hamlet, L'Aiglon, Cyrano de Bergerac, La Tosca and other plays. She came under the management of Maurice Grau and opened at the Garden, New York, Nov. 26, 1901, for an engagement of five weeks. She then visited all the principal cities of the U. S., giving a total of 180 performances. A brilliant succession of achievements followed at her Paris playhouse, opening with Francesca da Rimini (by Marion Crawford), Sapho, The- roigne de Mericourt and Pelleas and Melisande, 1902; Werthe, Bohemos, Circe, Andromaque, Jeanne Wedekind and La Sorciere, 1903; La Festin de la Mort and Varennes, 1904; Angelo, 1905. Her seventh visit to the U. S. was made during a tour of both North and South America, in 1905-06. She came under the management of the Shuberts, and W. F. Connor, and enjoyed in the U. S. a triumphant thirty weeks tour in halls, armories, skating rinks, tabernacles and tents as well as theatres. The "theatrical war" was then at its height, and her playing in opposition to the so-called "trust" proved an epoch in the annals of dram. history. Throughout Texas a Barnum & Bailey tent was needed, as she could find no theatres. In Chicago the same tent was used for a monster benefit given for the San Francisco earthquake sufferers. Altogether there were 225 performances given, including one of the first performances ever given in the Greek, at Berkeley, Cal. In New York she gave no less than eleven different plays during her two weeks engagement at the Lyric. Her powers of endurance at the age of sixty-three excited the admiration of the Americans, and at Harvard Univ. she was made hon. mem. of the Cercle Francais, and at Yale, Bowdoin and Johns Hopkins similar honors were conferred upon her. She continued her prods. in Paris on her return with Le Passe and La Vierge d'Avila (Saint Therese), 1906; Les Bouffons, Adrienne Lecouvreur, from her pen, Le Vert Galant, La Belle au Bois Dormant, 1907; La Courtisane de Corinthe, 1908; La Nuit de Mai, Le Proces de Jeanne d'Arc, 1909; La Beffa, Le Bois Sacre, Monna Vanna and Gringoire, 1910. On Oct. 22, 1910, she sailed for the U. S. with a co. of forty-six people and a rep. of twenty-two plays to make a "farewell tour" under the management of W. F. Connor. In the course of thirty-five weeks she gave no less than 285 performances, of which ninety were one-night stands. And she was able to give three plays for the first time: Madame X, by Alexander Bisson, at the Studebaker, Chicago, Nov. 11, 1910; Judas, by John de Kay, the American author, at the Globe, New York, Dec. 29, 1910, and Maeterlinck's Sister Beatrice, at the Columbia, San Francisco, May 7, 1911. Among the other plays seen for the first time in America were Le Proces de Jeanne d'Arc and La Samaritaine, Edmond Rostand's Biblical play, which roused great discussion and opposition because of its portrayal of the Christ. In New York she gave thirty-seven performances during her four weeks' engagement, six during the following week on the road to Boston, twenty during the two weeks there, eleven in one week in Montreal, and without a break ten more in Philadelphia. In San Francisco she gave ten performances in one week. Reappeared in U. S. in vaudeville, presenting tabloid versions of her famous plays, beginning Majestic, Chicago, Dec. 2, 1912. But great as has been her accomplishment as an actress, she has found time to win distinction as writer, painter and sculptress. In 1878, she received hon. mention at the Paris Salon for a group in plaster, entitled After the Storm. Among other works have been her busts of Victorien Sardou, Marshal Canrobert and Emile de Girardin. In 1878 she wrote a book entitled Dans les Nuages (In the Clouds), describing her balloon ascension with George Clairin, the painter. She also pub. her memoirs. In 1888 she prod. at the Odeon her own play, L'Aveu (The Avowal). The plays in which she has appeared since her debut include: Iphigenie, Comedie Francaise, 1862; Les Femmes Savantes, Odeon, 1867; Le Passant, Odeon, 1869; King

Lear and Ruy Blas, Odeon, 1869-71; Mlle. de Belle Isle, Comedie Francaise, 1872; and at same playhouse, Phedre, 1874; Le Fille de Roland, Rome, Vaincue, 1874-76; Andromaque and Hermani, 1877; Le Sphinx, 1878; and L'Aventuriere, 1879; L'Etrangere, Gayety, London, 1879; Frou Frou, Adrienne Lecouvreur, same playhouse 1880; Fedora, Vaudeville, 1882; Nana Sahib, La Dame aux Camelias Porte-Saint-Martin, 1883; Theodora, 1884; L'Aveu, 1888; Jeanne D'Arc and Cleopatre, 1890; all at same playhouse; Les Rois, La Renaissance, 1893; and at same playhouse Izeyl, Gismonda and La Femme de Claude, 1894; La Princess Lointaine and Magda, 1895; Lorenziaccio, 1896; and La Samaritaine, 1897; Hamlet, Theatre Sarah Bernhardt, 1899; same playhouse, L'Aigion, 1900; Francessoa da Rimini, Sapho, Theroigne de Mericourt, Pelleas and Melisande, 1902; Werthe, Bohemos, Circe, Jeanne Wedekind, La Sorciere, 1903; La Festin de la Mort and Varennes, 1904; Angelo, 1905; Le Passe and La Vierge d'Avila, 1906; Les Bouffons (by Bernhardt), Levert Galant, La Belle au Bois Dormant, 1907; and La Courtisane de Corinthe, 1908; La Nuit de Mai, Comedie Francaise, 1909; Le Proces de Jeanne d'Arc, La Beffa, Le Bois Sacre, Les Romanesques, Monna Vanna and Gringoire, all at Theatre Sarah Bernhardt, 1909; Madame X, Studebaker, Chicago, Nov. 11, 1910; Judas, Globe, New York, Dec. 29, 1910; Sister Beatrice, Columbia, San Francisco, May 7, 1911. BEVERIDGE, Kuhne — Actress and Sculptress.

Born in Executive Mansion, Springfield, Ill., where her grandfather, the late John L. Beveridge, was serving term as Governor. Her mother was Baroness Ella von Wrede, a talented dramatist and musician, who collaborated with her daughter in several works, notably The Veiled Venus, a life-size nude statue that received hon. mention in Paris, 1900, and is now in Leeds Museum, England. Her sister is Ray Beveridge, a well known actress, recently retired. Kuhne Beveridge was taken to Dresden when five years of age by her mother, where she was placed under the tutelage of Rapold and Wolvermann, two celebrated violinists. Here she studied until her thirteenth year, when she heard Sarasate play a concerta, and being awed by his wonderful gift, abandoned her mus. studies. She was then taken to San Francisco, where her talent for sculpture was noted, and her teacher in the Cogswell High School advised placing the pupil with Rupert Schmidt, at that time the most prominent sculptor in that city. She rapidly improved in that art and the first two years she did busts that won critical commendation of "Uncle" George Bromley, the "father" of the Bohemian Club, William Greer Harrison, Gertrude Atherton and many stage celebrities, including Sarah Bernhardt, Joseph Jefferson, E. S. Willard and Henry Miller. It was Bernhardt who suggested a stage career, and volunteered to take her to Paris for preparation. Her mother opposed this, but finally consented, and when she was fifteen she appeared in All the Comforts of Home. For some time she appeared with the Alcazar Stock co., San Francisco, later with Oliver Doud Byron and Charles Warner. While there she met Richard Mansfield, and she appeared in his support at Daly's, New York, in The Scarlet Letter. While there she executed a bust of Adlai E. Stevenson, an old friend of the family, and the candidate for Vice-Pres. of the U. S. This attracted such deep attention that it was arranged for Grover Cleveland, then a candidate for Pres. of the U. S., to sit for her. Her fame spread so rapidly that Mr. Mansfield suggested that she abandon either her sculpture or the stage, and she chose to continue her work as a sculptor, entering the studio of William Rudolph O'Donovan for further study. Among the commissions executed at this time was a bronze bust of Mayor Grant of New York, from the City Hall employees; a bust of De Witt Clinton, for the New York building at the World's Fair; a statue of James J. Corbett, who had just won the pugilistic championship, and 1,000 miniature busts of John Drew, the actor. She returned to the stage the following season with Rose Coghlan in Peg Woffington, at the Fifth Ave., New York, and essayed ingenue roles with Rose and Charles Coghlan in Diplomacy, Lady Barter and Money. She was married to Charles Coghlan, Oct. 25, 1894, in Indianapolis. Shortly thereafter it was arranged that she should appear as joint star with Mr. Coghlan in Disengaged, but illness of her husband necessitated the abandonment of the project. Marital differences arose, she secured a divorce from him June 10, 1895, and since then has devoted herself exclusively to sculpture, studying in Paris with Rodin and executing notable commissions in Europe and America. Permanent address: Max Joseph Strasse 1, Munich, Bavaria.

BEVERIDGE, Ray (Mrs. Madison Seliger)—Actress.

Born Evanston, Ill., Feb. 1, 1887. Sister of Kuhne Beveridge, formerly well known on American stage. Ed. Dresden and Paris. Her first appearance on the prof. stage was as Lady Granby with Mrs. Patrick Campbell in Warp and Wool, London, 1904. After a course in acting with Jules Leitner, of the Comedie Francaise, Paris, she joined Gabrielle Rejane when that comedienne visited U. S., 1904. She appeared in this co. in French rep., season 1904-05, opening at Lyric, New York, and continuing on tour. She then appeared in German under management of Heinrich Conried, at the Irving Place, New York, and made her debut in English-speaking role in U. S., with Amelia Bingham, in Mlle. Marni, Wallack's, New York, 1905. Subsequently she appeared as Ann McDougal with Louis Mann in Julie Bon Bon, 1908, and followed this by a summer season in stock under T. Daniel Frawley, Minneapolis. BISPHAM, David Scull—Grand Opera Baritone.

Born Philadelphia, Jan. 5, 1857. His parents were of Quaker stock. Mr. Bispsham's father was a well-known lawyer and mus. lover who played the flute, and his son very naturally inherited his taste for mus., one of the pleasures of his early boyhood days being to accompany his father's flute on the guitar. On leaving Haverford Coll., from which he was grad. in 1876 with the degree of A. B., and where he had been the leader of the Glee Club, he entered business as a wool merchant. He still studied mus., however, and as a mem. of the Orpheus Club, and the Oratorio Soc. became well known in the amateur mus. life of his native city. He was also the solo basso and leader of the choir of St. Mark's Church. April 28, 1885, he married Miss Caroline Russell, the daughter of Gen. Charles Russell, and went abroad. He had long cherished an ambition to become a prof. singer, and when he reached Italy he at once began to fit himself for such a career. He studied under Vannuccini in Florence, and the elder Lamperti in Milan, meanwhile singing at concerts in Florence, Bologna and elsewhere. In 1889 he went to London, where for two years he continued concert singing and appeared in amateur operatic performances. He made his stage debut on Nov. 3, 1891, at the Royal English Opera, appearing as the Duc de Longueville in Messenger's Basoche. At the end of his engagement he was at once taken into the Covent Garden co. by the famous impresario, Sir Augustus Harris, under whom in the summer of 1892 he first appeared as Kurwenal in Tristan and Isolde. He sang at Covent Garden for the next ten years, appearing in some twenty-five roles in French, German and Italian opera. In 1897 he was engaged by Maurice Grau to sing in New York with the Metropolitan Opera co., which included the De Reszkes, Plancon, Melba, Eames and Schumann-Heink. Mr. Bispsham has won his greatest laurels in his native land in Wagnerian roles, his Kurwenal, Telramund and Beckmesser especially calling forth the admiration of the pub. and the critics. Of late years he has lived principally abroad and devoted himself to concerts and song recitals throughout America and England, where, on Dec. 12, 1906, he prod. most successfully in London the romantic opera, The Vicar of Wakefield. His concerts are among the most popular and successful given in the U. S. During 1910 he created principal baritone role in American grand opera, Paoletta, Cincinnati M. H., Cincinnati. Revived own adaptation of Hugo Mueller's Adelaide, New BLASS, Robert—Singer.

Born New York, Oct. 27, 1867; ed. pub. schools, New York. His father was a musician in New York and a skillful performer on several mus. instruments. He early took to the violin, and was soon a proficient performer. At the age of twenty years he went abroad to continue his study of the violin under Hans Sitt at the Con. of Mus., Leipzig, Germany. During his studies here it was discovered that he had a voice of unusual strength and resonance, and accordingly he put aside the violin for vocal instruction. After a year's work in the con. with Prof. Ewald, he became a pupil of Julius Stockhausen of Frankfort-on-Main. His voice rapidly developed at this period, and on June 21, 1895, he made his debut at the Court, Weimar, singing King Heinrich in Lohengrin. His success was instantaneous, resulting in a round of engagements at the principal German Court theatres. While singing at Covent Garden, London, in 1900 he attracted the attention of Maurice Grau, who at once engaged him for the Metropolitan O. H., New York. Here he first appeared in 1900 as Landgraf Herrmann in Tanhauser and he has continued in America each season to the present time. When Wagner's Parsifal was first sung in America, in 1904, he created the role of Gurnemanz, a part he had previously sung at the performance at Bayreuth, 1901. His rep. includes the roles in forty-five grand operas of the German, French and Italian schools. During his engagement with the Metropolitan Opera co. he made a series of operatic tours throughout the U. S. His versatility is further illustrated by his ability as a pen artist, and he has a natural aptitude for sketching portraits.

Born Noonan, Ga., Dec. 2, 1885, and ed. at the schools of Memphis, Tenn. Made her first appearance at Chicago, 1897, when she played Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin with a stock co., but her inclination led her to undertake mus. comedy, and she ventured, with successful results into vaudeville, doing a mus. comedy act. She continued playing vaudeville for six or seven years until she forsook this for mus. comedy. While playing in Buffalo she ventured into the domain of a "fortune teller" and was informed that she was shortly to appear as the star in a successful mus. comedy. Without knowing whence this offer was to come, she came to New York and was engaged to play the principal role in Wine, Woman and Song, one of the successful mus. plays of that season. It ran for two years at the Circle, New York, before going on tour where it continued for two seasons more. After this she retired from the cast and returned to vaudeville again, assuming her role in Wine, Woman and Song, however, on New Year's Day of 1910, and made a successful tour to the Pacific Coast. Returned to vaudeville 1910-11 later starring in mus. play, A Real Girl, 1911, after which, with tabloid version, appeared in vaudeville, assisted by Lew Hearn, 1912-13.

BRUNEAU, Alfred—Composer.

Born Paris, Mar. 2, 1857; began mus. career with the study of the violoncello, and carried off the first prize at the Con. He subsequently studied composition with Massenet and played in Padeloups' orch. In 1884 he began composing, prod. instrumental mus. at first, but after 1887 devoted himself entirely to dram. mus. and brought forward several operas with remarkable success. He was an intimate friend and a zealous champion of Zola in the Dreyfus affair, which led to the banishment of his crowning operatic success, Messidor, from the French stage. Zola, it is said, provided him with librettos sufficient to last him for a lifetime. He has already written mus. for four of them, viz., Reve, Soirees de Madam, L'Atviz., Le Reve, Soirees de Messidor. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor in 1895. He has written six operas, three symphonic poems, one cantata, one overture, one requiem, much church mus. and a large number of songs and works for the piano. His Chansons à Danser, based upon the old French dance forms, are specially famous for their skill and dram. power. His opera L'Attakue du Moulin was performed for the first time in U. S. at Metropolitan O. H., New York, Feb. 5, 1910. His latest known works here are the entr'acte symphonique from Messidor and the symphonic poem La Belle au Bois Dormant. Principal works: Choral symphony, Leda; symphonic poem, La Belle au Bois Dormant; symphonic poem, Penthesilea; Chansons à Danser; Le Reve; Soirees de Madam; L'Attaque du Moulin; Messidor; Requiem.

BURNAND, F. C. (Sir Francis Cowley Burnand)—Editor, Author and Dramatist.

Born London, Nov. 26, 1836; ed. at Eton and Trinity Coll., Cambridge. Has written about 150 dram. pieces, i. e., dramas, comedies, libretti, farces, sketches, etc. His first play was a farce, written at the age of fifteen, while he was yet at Eton, and presented at Cookesley's house, afterwards at Theatre Royal, Worthing. He founded the Amateur Dram. Club—the "A. D. C."—at Cambridge, when he was an undergrad. at Trinity. Of this club the late King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales and a student at Trinity, became Hon. Pres. From his pen came the burlesque of Ixion, and then, also at the Royalty, under the management of Miss M. Oliver, the burlesque of Black Eyed Susan, which ran for over 800 nights in London, and had a lengthy career in the provinces and U. S. Another of his remarkable successes was the comedy, The Colonel, written in 1881, which ran for nearly two years in London, and had a prolonged existence in the provinces. In conjunction with Montague Williams he wrote B. B., for Robson, who subsequently appeared in his burlesques at the Olympic, London. With the late Sir Arthur Sullivan as composer, he wrote two comic operas, The Chieftain, and the Contrabandista. Also with Sir Arthur Sullivan he adapted as an operetta the farce of Box and Cox, re-entitled Cox and Box, the lasting popularity of which has been almost unexampled. With Sir William Gilbert he was one of the contributors to The Forty Thieves, at the Gayety, London. The libretto of La Cigale was his. Also he adapted several pieces from the German for Augustin Daly's theatres, New York and London. He was on the staff of Punch from 1860, and became ed. in 1880. This position he held for over twenty-five years. In Punch appeared his Happy Thoughts, and when pub. subsequently went through some twenty-five editions. Also his burlesque novels, Strapnum, and his burlesque account of The Ride to Khiva achieved exceptional success and passed through several editions. He has contributed to various papers and mags. Club: Garrick, (London). Permanent address: Ramsgate, England.

CARTER, Mrs. Leslie (Mrs. William Louis Payne)—Actress.

Born Louisville, Ky. She appeared in minor parts until Nov. 10, 1890, when she made her first appearance in New York at the Broadway in the principal role in The Ugly Duckling, under the management of David Belasco, under whose tutelage she had studied for several years. This play was not a success and was shortly withdrawn to be followed, in 1891, by a mus. play, Miss Helyett, in which she won approval. She appeared in this play for two years, continuing her studies and showing marked improvement. She retired in 1893 and continued her studies until 1895 when, under the management of Mr. Belasco, she appeared as the star in The Heart of Maryland, written especially for her by Mr. Belasco. She appeared in this for three seasons in this country. On Apr. 9, 1893, Mr. Belasco took the play and Mrs. Carter to the Adelphi, London, where its American success was repeated. She appeared 145 times in the principal role. After closing this engagement she returned to U. S. to create the title part in Zaza, one of her greatest roles, first presented in Washington, Dec. 26, 1893, later Garrick, New York, Jan. 9, 1899. As in her previous success, she took her co. to London, Apr. 1900, and appeared at the Garrick, repeating her first success. Madame DuBarry followed, being presented first at the New National, Washington, Jan. 12, 1901, following at the Criterion, New York, Dec. 25, 1901. After a season with this play, and one alternating between Zaza and DuBarry, she appeared at the Belasco, New York, in Adrea, which she played until the spring of 1906, at which time she severed her relations with Mr. Belasco, under whose management she had appeared for sixteen years. In 1907 she appeared under the management of Charles B. Dillingham in a rep. of her successful plays. In 1908-09 she became her own mgr., appearing in Kassa, by John Luther Long. Her first engagement under the dir. of John Cort, was in Two Women, Lyric, New York, Nov. 29, 1910, and later, on tour 1910-12; appeared in rep. Zaza, Camille, Magda and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, on tour, 1912-13. She was married to Leslie Carter May 26, 1880, and subsequently to W. L. Payne, July 13, 1905. Permanent address: Care John Cort, 1482 Broadway, New York.

CHARPENTIER, Gustave—Composer.

Born at Dieuze, Alsace-Lorraine, June 25, 1860. He began his career in commercial business, but soon abandoned it and entered upon the study of mus., first in the Lille and afterwards in the Paris Con., where he studied composition with Massenet. He was so successful that he won the Prix de Rome. While in that city he wrote his first works, among them a suite, Impressions d'Italie. Upon his return to Paris he devoted his attention to opera, without great success, however, until his Louise appeared. Little has come from his pen since that time. His works include a scena lyrique, two suites, one symphonic poem, a symphony drama, one serenade, and four operas. In U. S. concert rooms his best known work is the suite Impressions d'Italie. Upon the operatic stage he is known only by his opera Louise, which was prod. with Mary Garden in title role, at Manhattan O. H., New York, 1909, with great success.

CHEATHAM, Kitty—Actress and Entertainer.

Born in Nashville, Tenn., being the daughter of Col. Richard Cheatham, three times Mayor of Nashville. She is also the granddaughter of Gen. Richard Cheatham, a celebrated military officer. After several minor engagements joined Augustin Daly's co. and played prominent parts in the revivals and new prods. for which this celebrated mgr. was noted. Among these were Bizarre in The Inconstant, Titana in A Midsummer Night's Dream, Jacquetta in Love's Labor Lost. She was the original Winnie in The Last Word. She was for many years one of the most distinguished mems. of the Daly co., which, at this time, was perhaps the most noted stock co. in America. After this engagement, and one under management Charles Frohman, she retired from the stage, but of late years has returned in a unique position. As a singer of children's songs she is perhaps most famous at present, her annual entertainments at the Lyceum, New York, and in London and Paris are among the most notable events of the season. She has won renown abroad for her delightful singing of the negro melodies and the songs of childhood. These she has sung in French, German, Spanish and English in the foreign capitals, having been accorded spec. audiences by the Royal families. Miss Cheatham has been so busily engaged in filling her European engagements that she has found it difficult to remain in America for but a brief period. COBURN, Charles Douville—Actor and Manager.

Born Macon, Ga., June 19, 1877, removing at an early age to Savannah, Ga., where he received his ed. in the pub. schools. At the age of fourteen he obtained a position at the Savannah, at that time the oldest playhouse in the U. S. as program boy, being promoted shortly afterwards to ticket seller, then treas., and finally mgr., where he remained until he went to Chicago, where he appeared in a stock co. He remained for one summer and there met David Higgins, who engaged him as stage mgr. and actor. Later was engaged with Arthur C. Aiston as leading juvenile. This led to his engagement as leading man with the stock cos. at Roanoke and Newport News, Va. Starred in The Christian, 1903, and during the summer of that year organized the Coburn Shakespearian Players, giving open air performances of the principal plays of the Bard of Avon. His first season, during the summer of 1903, was successful and he followed his idea of artistic outdoor performances the following summer, playing, in the meantime, the principal role in Texas, on tour, 1904. "The Coburn Players" was formed the following year, and since then he has devoted his entire attention to this co., in which he has been assisted by Ivah Wills, his wife. Their joint efforts have resulted in one of the most artistic series of al fresco prods. that have been seen. In the rep. of the co. he plays Orlando, Romeo, Benedict, as well as Chaucer in The Canterbury Pilgrims, which is one of his most notable achievements, and Orestes in Electra. With his co. he had the distinction of presenting, at Gloucester, Percy Mackaye's play, The Canterbury Pilgrims, as a pageant in honor of President Taft, Aug. 4, 1909, and gave the only performance at night on the White House lawn, 1910. Presented Electra at Hudson, New York 1911. Clubs: Players, Green Room, Stowaways (New York). Permanent address: 1402 Broadway, New York.

CONVERSE, Frederick Shepherd—Composer.

Born Newton, Mass., Jan. 5, 1871; ed. pub. schools of his native town and at Harvard Univ. His early mus. training consisted of study of piano under local teachers, until at Harvard he came under the influence of Prof. John K. Paine. Devoting himself to study of mus. theory, he was grad. in 1893 with the highest honors in mus., his sonata for violin and piano being performed at the time of grad. Though intended for a commercial career by his father, his mus. inclination was so strong that after six months in business he resumed his studies, first with Carl Baermann in piano and George W. Chadwick in composition, and then at the Royal Acad. of Mus. in Munich. After two years of study there, chiefly under Joseph Rheinberger, he was grad. with honors in 1898. At this time he had already composed, besides smaller works, the sonata above mentioned, a string quartet, op. 39, a concert overture, Youth, op. 6, and a symphony in D-minor, which had its first performance in Munich, July 18, 1898. Returning to Boston, he engaged in composition and teaching privately until in 1899, he became teacher of harmony at the N. E. Con. of Mus. In 1902, he was appointed instructor in mus. at Harvard Univ., attaining the rank of asst. prof. in 1905. This position he resigned Sept. 1, 1907, in order to devote himself entirely to composition. Leaving the field of composition in conventional form, he appeared as a composer of symbolic mus. poems. His Festival of Pan, op. 9, was first performed by the Boston Symphony Orch., 1899, and by the Queen's Hall Orch. in London, England, 1905. This work, as well as that which followed, Endymion's Narrative, op. 10, deals with certain aspects of Keat's Endymion. Other works of similar character followed. Among them are two poems, Night and Day, suggested by verses of Walt Whitman, op. 10, Keat's La Belle Dame Sans Merci, ballad for baritone and orch., op. 12, Euphrosyne, concert overture for orch., op. 15, and The Mystic Trumpeter, orch. fantasy, op. 19, after Walt Whitman. His rendering of dram. material in his symphonic poems led him to essay the operatic form, and the result was The Pipe of Desire, a romantic opera in one act, op. 232, first prod. in Boston, 1906, and at Metropolitan O. H., New York, 1909, being the first opera by an Am. composer to be presented by the Metropolitan Opera co. Also composed a violin concerto, op. 13; a second string quartet in A-minor, op. 18; overture, entractes and incidental mus. to Percy Mackaye's play, Jeanne d'Arc, op. 25; and Job, a dram. poem for solo voices, chorus and orch. besides many smaller compositions, including piano pieces, songs and choral works. He is a trustee of the N. E. Con. of Mus., and a mem. of the Nat. Soc. of Arts and Letters. Clubs: Tavern, Union, St. Botolph, Tennis and Racquet (Boston); Harvard (New York); Norfolk Country Club (Dedham, Mass.). He was active in organizing the Boston Opera co. in 1907-08, and is vice-pres. of the co. Married at Brookline, Mass., June 6, 1894, to Emma Tudor. Permanent address: Westwood, Mass.

COURTENAY, Vera—Prima Donna.

Born in Missouri. While a student at Baird Coll., Clinton, Mo., the mgrs. of the inst. recognized her unusual vocal ability and arranged that she should be sent to Paris to cultivate her gift. Her first instructor in Paris was Mme. Marchesi, after which other masters were engaged in the development of her voice. She also met many of the most noted French composers under whom she coached. Gounod, Saint-Saens, Massenet and Sardou—the latter the librettist of La Tosca—were some of the famous masters to become interested in her, and it was Massenet who became so deeply interested in her progress that he personally coached her in Manon, in which opera she made her debut at the Opera Comique, Paris. This was her first appearance on any stage, and she won immediate success. She remained at the Opera Comique for six years, being re-engaged on three different occasions, all the leading soprano roles being allotted to her. Sang in concert in all of the important cities of Europe, as well as in opera with the leading French cos. on tour through South America, Algiers, Belgium, Germany, Roumania and Switzerland. Sang frequently at the Elysee Palace, the home of the Pres. of France, and at official receptions at the foreign embassies. Her official performances embraced the principal cities of France and in recognition of her endeavors was decorated an Officer of the Academy, a distinction enjoyed by few artists. Her European success was repeated when she became a mem. of the Metropolitan Opera co., with which co. she sang in opera and concert. During summer 1911 sang in London. Her rep. consists of upwards of thirty prominent roles. Permanent address: Hotel Somerset, New York.

COX, Ray—Vaudeville Entertainer.

Born Baton Rouge, La., and received her ed. at South Div. High School, Chicago, and later Vassar Coll. While living in Chicago, to which her parents had removed, her talent in entertaining prompted her friends to encourage her stage aspirations. Among those who did much to encourage her was the late Mabel Hite, herself a popular and successful vaudeville headliner. Together they prepared an act of "coon" songs and character stories, with which she made her debut at Peoria, Ill., 1903. She was successful, and after improving her act, secured other engagements, eventually going to New York, where she opened at Tony Pastor's, Oct. 25, 1903, doing songs, stories and impersonations. Her success here was even greater than in the West, and within a short time she was much in demand at vaudeville houses and drawing rooms. Has been "headline" attraction since 1906. Her act consists of character stories, songs and dances, all of the material being original with herself, much of which she writes, both mus., lyrics and stories. Her most celebrated character is the up-to-date girl at a baseball game, and a burlesque description of an automobile trip, which she has been obliged to repeat for several years past. Appeared as extra attraction opening Winter Garden, New York, 1911; as Mrs. Daly Bunn in The Never Homes, Broadway, New York, Oct. 5, 1911. Returning to vaudeville with The Aeroplane Girl, appeared on tour and London, summer 1912. Appeared as Mrs. Topping in The Charity Girl, Globe, New York, Oct. 2, 1912, returning thereafter as vaudeville artist. Permanent address: Hotel Frederick, New York.

DALY, Arnold (Peter Christopher Arnold Daly)—Actor.

Born Brooklyn, Oct. 4, 1875; ed.

Acad. of Sacred Heart and St. Patrick's, Brooklyn. His first theatrical experience was as call boy at the old Lyceum, New York. He appeared first on the stage in the role of a butler with Fanny Rice, playing minor parts without winning distinction until his impersonation of Chambers with Frank Mayo in Pudd'nhead Wilson. He appeared in various roles, achieving success in Because She Loved Him So, The Bird in the Cage, Barbara Frietchie, Self and Lady, Are you a Mason? When We Were Twenty-one, Hearts Aflame, Cynthia, The Girl from Dixie, and Secret Service. During recent years has been identified with the prod. of plays by George Bernard Shaw, notably Candida, first prod. Princess, New York, Dec. 9, 1903. The success which he achieved in this character resulted in the formation of a co-partnership with Winchell Smith. Together they prod. this play at the Berkeley Lyceum, New York, where it ran for 150 nights, following it with other plays by this author, including The Man of Destiny, and How He Lied to Her Husband, the latter a travesty of Candida, written expressly for Mr. Daly. Other plays that followed were, You Never Can Tell, John Bull's Other Island, Arms and the Man, and Mrs. Warren's Profession. The last named play was prohibited by the police authorities of New Haven, where it was first prod. and subsequently at Garrick, New York, where it was booked to open. Mr. Daly and the leading woman were arrested and he made no further effort to produce the play. He founded the Theatre of Ideas at Berkeley Lyceum, New York, 1907, and here appeared as George Washington in Washington's First Defeat, Oct. 22, 1907, as Arthur Blair Waldingham in The Van Dyck, Nov. 5, as George Rouve in After the Opera, Nov. 5, as Richard Murray in The Shirkers, Nov. 5, and as Dick Anderson in The Flag Station, Nov. 26. He also revived How He Lied to Her Husband and Candida. He appeared as "Tony" Allen in The Boys of No. B. Lyceum, New York, Apr. 8, 1907, and as Owen Conway in The Regeneration, Wallack's, New York, Sept. 1, 1908, and as Major Patrick Desmond in His Wife's Family, Oct. 6, 1908. He also appeared on tour in The Strong People, 1908. After a tour in vaudeville he appeared in principal role Know Thyself, on tour, 1910, and in principal role Homeward Bound, first prod. Cleveland, Sept. 21, 1910, and subsequently on tour; later appeared as Michel Aubier, with Mme. Simone in The Return From Jerusalem, Hudson, New York, Jan. 10, 1912; as Steve in The Wedding Journey, Shubert, Boston, Sept. 9, 1912 and in same role and same play, renamed, Steve and presented Harris, New York, Sept. 28, 1912; presented dram. sketch, A Comedy for Wives, in vaudeville, Victoria, New York, Oct. 14, 1912, later appearing with Mme. Simone in rep. on tour, 1912. He appeared in London in principal role Arms and the Man under personal supervision of the author, 1911, and played a brief vaudeville engagement in London, Oct. 1911. Married Mary Blythe, of Los Angeles, Cal., July 1, 1901. Clubs: Lambs, Players (New York). Permanent address: 16 East 60th St., New York.

DANDY, "Jess" (Jesse A. Danzig)—Comedian.

Born Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 9, 1871; ed. pub. schools of New York and the Coll. of the City of New York. Engaged in theatricals when twenty-six years of age, making his first appearance July 10, 1898, at the American Roof Garden, New York, as a vaudeville artist, and within eight weeks after his first appearance was the headline attraction on the bill at Keith's Union Square, New York, having won a signal success as a delineator of the Hebrew character presented without gross exaggeration, which had, up to this time, marked such characterizations, making frequent changes. He created his first role in Around New York in Eighty Minutes, 1900. He returned to vaudeville and continued without interruption until 1903, when he was engaged to appear in The Prince of Pilsen, which he did over four years, and until he was forced to retire on account of throat trouble. After many operations his voice was restored, and he joined the co. presenting Marcelle and subsequently Dick Whittington. When The Prince of Pilsen was revived, 1910, he was engaged for his original part of the Cincinnati brewer, in which he appeared 1910-11; created role Herman Dinglebender in The Never Homes, Broadway, New York, Oct. 5, 1911. As a singing comedian he ranks among the most successful on the stage. Permanent address: 1696 Monroe Ave., New York.

D'ARCY, Belle—Actress.

Born New York and ed. Louisville, Ky. Her first prof. experience was obtained as mem. of Augustin Daly's co., London, 1895, her first part being a fairy in A Midsummer Night's Dream. DAVIES, Phoebe (Mrs. Joseph R. Grismer)—Actress.

Born San Francisco, Cal., her father being Capt. David Davies of the U. S. S. Madrona, of the Pacific squadron. Made her first appearance on the stage as mem. of Baldwin Stock co., San Francisco, in Bleak House, 1882; afterwards created title role in Chispa, winning such success that a prominent mgr. offered to star her. She declined at that time for the reason of her youth, and remained two seasons as leading woman with the Baldwin Stock co., having married, in 1883, Joseph R. Grismer, the leading man of the co. Thereafter she became the principal feature of the co. which he formed and cond. for several years, winning a high place in San Francisco as the Grismer-Davies co. with Miss Davies as the leading woman. She appeared in New York in The New South, 1893, which she followed by other plays until she created the leading role in 'Way Down East, which she played season after season until she was compelled, because of ill health, to retire. So strong was the demand for her impersonation of Anna Moore that the playgoers refused to accept any other actress in the role until Miss Davies was forced to retire. It is estimated that she played the leading role in 'Way Down East more than 4,000 times. She lives on her farm near Larchmont, N. Y., and spends her summers on "The Manzanita," her steam yacht. de CISNEROS, Eleonora (Countess de Cisneros)—Operatic Mezzo-Soprano.

Born New York, Nov. 1, 1878; ed. in that city, and subsequently in Europe. Was first American singer to debut at the Metropolitan O. H. without a foreign training. She remained but one season at the Metropolitan and went to Italy, 1901. At the commencement of the operatic season of 1902, three months after her arrival in Italy, she was engaged at the Reggio, Turin, to sing Aida, and from that time on she has been one of the most successful singers in Europe. She has had important engagements in sixteen opera houses of Italy, including the seasons of 1905-06 and 1908, at La Scala, of Milan, where she created the first season the Dame de Pique, of Tschaikowsky, and La Figlia di Jorio, of Franchetti. Her second season at La Scala was 1908, when she was engaged to create the part of Clytemnestra, in the first Italian performance of Richard Strauss's Elektra. Another important engagement in Italy was a season at the Royal Opera, San Carlo, of Naples, 1909, where she sang, under the dir. of Cleofonte Campanini, the operas of Prophete, Lohengrin, and Don Carlos, the last being a revival after many years of Verdi's opera. She was selected to sing the role of Eboli, one of the most difficult in the operatic rep. She sang for two winter seasons at the Royal Opera, San Carlos, of Lisbon, appearing there in ten different roles—one of which, Arsace, in Rossini's Semiramide, she sang repeatedly before the Royal Family. For five seasons she sang at Covent Garden, London; in 1905 she sang at the Imperial O. H., Vienna, and in Germany; sang three languages with success in the leading opera houses of Europe; namely, St. Petersburg, London, Vienna, Lisbon, the principal Spanish cities, sixteen opera houses of Italy, Paris, and Antwerp. She has sung in South America, in Buenos Ayres, Rio de Janiero, also in New Mexico City. She returned to New York as leading mezzo-soprano for the Manhattan O. H., 1906-08; she remained in Europe 1908-09 to create title role in Elektra at Milan, at La Scala, and during 1909; besides her engagement with Campinini in Naples, she sang ten spec. performances of Lohengrin at Florence. Has made concert tours in Spain, Germany and Belgium. She is a high dram. mezzo-soprano with a range of voice from low G to C-sharp, which permits her an almost unlimited choice of rep. Her rep. includes Brunnhilde, Ortrud, Santuzza, Gioconda, Laura, La Cieca, Amneris, Venus, Kundry, Dalila, Herodiade, Clytemnestra, Leonora, Nancy, Urbano, Anne Boleyn, Arsace, and many others—in all forty-three operas. She was chosen by Mme. Melba for the opera co. which she took to Australia, 1910-11. She was a mem. Chicago Grand Opera co., 1910-12. Permanent address: 51 Ave. Montaigne, Paris, France.

de CORDOVA, Rudolph—Dramatist and Journalist.

Born Kingston, Jamaica; ed. Collegiate School, Kingston, Univ. Coll. School, Univ. Coll. and Univ. Coll. Hospital, London. Was originally intended for medical prof. A now admittedly mistaken diagnosis of his eyes prevented him reading for the M. D. degree of the Univ. of London under penalty of blindness. He therefore gave up the idea of a medical career and went on the stage, for which he had a predilection. Beginning in an humble manner he eventually acted most of the leading parts in Shakesperian and legitimate drama, as well as many leading parts in modern plays. Has recited from memory W. S. Gilbert's three-act fairy play, Broken Hearts, in London, English provinces, West Indies, New York and Boston; also recited the whole five acts of The Merchant of Venice, in London and elsewhere. Prod. Colombe's Birthday for the Browning Soc., 1885; The Cenci (its only performance), for the Shelley Soc., 1886, and many other plays, of which he is part author. In the intervals of acting with Modjeska, Mary Anderson and Richard Mansfield, began writing for the press and has contributed articles and short stories regularly to the chief English mags., weeklies and dailies, and has also written for American dailies, weeklies and monthlies. In collaboration with Alicia Ramsey, has written the following plays (prod. in London): Monsieur de Paris; As a Man Sows; The Mandarin; Honor; Edmund Kean; The Price of a Hat; The Organ Grinder; The Password; and the following seven prods. for the London Hippodrome: The Bandits; The Redskins; The Golden Princess; The Earthquake; The Typhoon; The Volcano and the Sands o' Dee. Prod. in U. S.: The Shadow Behind the Throne; John Hudson's Wife; The Quicksands; The Password and The Price of a Hat. Permanent address: 2 Pump Court, Middle Temple, London, E. C.

de la MARCA, Raffaello—Basso Cantate and Teacher.

Born Palermo, Sicily, Jan. 17, 1871; ed. in native city. While a youth was left sole support of large family by death of his father and his selection of an operatic career was vigorously opposed by his entire family. Began study of voice culture with Antonio Cantelli, Palermo, 1887. Made his debut at age of nineteen as Escamillo in Carmen, Teatro Victorio Emanuel, Messina, 1890. Next season engaged for the Bellini, Naples, where he sang an extensive rep. of opera, also singing throughout Italy, Russia and Finland until 1901, when he organized his own co. presenting grand opera. At this time he was persuaded by John Dunsmuire, who was then engaged with The Bostonians, to remove to U. S., which he did the following season, since when he has been singing in concert and opera in New York and other cities until he est. his school of voice culture and singing in New York. Has placed over 250 pupils in prominent positions in opera and concert, and is the dir. of one of the most prominent schools in that city. Permanent address: Villa La Marca, Yaphank, L. I.

della ROCCA, Giacinta—Violinist.

Born Dresden, Germany, Sept. 8, 1882; ed. in London and Paris. Received her first mus. instruction from her father, who was cond. of opera at the Dal Verne, Milan. Acting upon advice of Sarasate she was sent to Paris and entered in the Con. to study under Massart, as a private pupil. She remained under his guidance until shortly before his death in 1890. Removing to London she studied under Emile Sauret. Her debut was made at Salle Pleyel, Paris, 1892, followed by tours through Germany with spec. appearances in Berlin. She made a spec. tour through Scandinavia, 1894; London debut at Crystal Palace, with orch. under dir. of Sir Augustus Manns, 1894; also appearances at the prominent concert halls of London as well as at private functions. Having been specially engaged, came to America where her father has become a well-known figure in the mus. world, she made her first appearance at the opening of the Olympia, New York, the building now housing the Criterion and the New York. Her appearance was made in the Sunday concerts and she won immediate success under the dir. of Fritz Scheel, later cond. Philadelphia Symphony Orch. Following this she has successfully appeared in concert throughout U. S., with frequent appearances in New York. In her work in this country she has done much to popularize violin works of American composers, and through her efforts several important works have been placed on programs under leading conds. Permanent address: Care Carl Fischer, 10 Fourth Ave., New York.

della ROCCA, Tolomeo E.—Conductor and Teacher.

Born Florence, Italy, 1850; entered Con. there at age of seven, studying violin with Vannucini and composition with Mabellini. At the age of fifteen went to Calcutta, India, as concertmeister with an Italian opera co., whose cond. died of yellow fever before the season had fairly started. Assumed the vacant post for tour. He then forsook the violin for the baton and became a successful opera cond. in Italy, Spain, Greece and Germany (where he took a course of counterpoint and German classics with Prof. Friederich Kiel, of the Hochschule in Berlin). He lived in Posen, for a number of years, having married a Polish pianiste of note. Those years were devoted especially to choral socs., of which he dir. three, mixed, as well as male voices alone. He prod. Paulus, Elias, Messiah, Leonore, Walpurgisnacht, Erlking's Daughter, Fair Ellen, Velleda, etc. He concluded his work in Germany by cond. the great Provincial Saengerfest, 1889, where he led a chorus of 1,500 voices with an orch. of 120. For that occasion he composed a "Fahnenweihe," which was favorably discussed by the mus. press. His daughter, Giacinta, now a distinguished violiniste was at that time studying in Paris and this induced him to remove to that city. cond. at the principal watering places and teaching. After the death of Massart, by whom Giacinta was being instructed, she studied under Sauret, and subsequently father and daughter toured extensively until 1894, when he settled in London, only to remove to U. S. the following year, where he has remained, achieving distinction as composer, teacher and dir. For several years he has cond. a successful school at Englewood, N. J., and New York. His compositions include orch. works, several large ballets that have enjoyed successful runs in Milan, and songs; many of his compositions have been pub. in U. S., but most of them abroad. Born Boston, Mass., being the daughter of Captain James, U. S. A., retired. She is a mem. Daughters of the Revolution. Her mus. ed. was accomplished entirely in this country, principally under the tutelage of Oscar Saenger at the late Nat. Con. in New York. After completing her mus. ed., she sang frequently in concert and opera, and then went abroad, where she was accorded the highest praise by the mus. critics of Europe. Made debut in Milano in the role of Marguerite in Faust, following by singing in Puritana. She made her first appearance in London at Bechstein Hall, singing selections from her various roles, including Lakme and Mignon. Her reception in concert and opera was most cordial throughout Europe, and when she returned to America, having in the meantime married a celebrated tenor, Signor de Pasquali, she went to Chicago and there, under his management, sang in opera, in English, French, German and Italian. Since 1910 has been one of the principal sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera co. singing at the New, New York, the Acad. of Mus., Brooklyn, and in all the larger cities where the co. appeared. During the season, at the Metropolitan O. H. and elsewhere she sang such roles as Rosina in Il Barbiere di Siviglia; Susanna in Nozze di Figaro; Adina in L'Elisir d'Amore; Mimi in La Boheme; Nedda in Pagliacci; Violetta in La Traviata; Lucia in Lucia di Lammermoor; Norina in Don Pasquale, and the title role in Martha. When Sembrich said farewell to the operatic stage in 1909-10, Mme. de Pasquali was chosen to sing the roles which this distinguished artist had interpreted for a quarter of a century. She was booked in the principal cities of the country for concert tours, 1910-12, immediately preceding and following her engagement at the Metropolitan O. H. She likewise, was booked for a number of recitals in Berlin, London and Paris. Her concert season in America for 1910-12 began Aug. 6, 1910, when she sang at the festival of the International Convention of Organists at Ocean Grove, and this was followed by her engagement to create the title role in Pietro Florida's opera, Paoletta. At the Ohio Valley Exhibition at Cincinnati, an opera was written especially for her. She, as well as her husband, is deeply interested in the movement for opera in the English language. DIPPEL, (Johann) Andreas—Opera Singer and Impresario.

Born Cassel, Germany, Nov. 30, 1866, son of Friedrich and Marie (Espel) Dippel; ed. high school of his native town, where he was grad. 1882. Entering the employ of a banking house at Cassel, same year, he continued in that occupation for five years, acquiring the rudiments of a sound business and financial ed. In the meanwhile he began the study of the voice under Mme. Zottmayr, of the Royal Court, Cassel. Having decided to enter upon a mus. career, he left his home in 1887, going to Berlin, Milan and Vienna, where he continued his studies with such masters as Julius Hey, Alberto Leoni and Johann Röss. This extensive mus. training, added to his proficiency in four different languages, enabled him to sing all the leading tenor parts in Italian, French and German operas with equal success. He secured an engagement at the Stadt. Bremen, and made his debut in Sept. 1887, as the Steerman in The

LILLIAN KELLER MAY MILLOY

OLIVE BRISCOE ETHEL WRIGHT

Flying Dutchman. While his engagement at this time lasted until 1892, he was granted leave of absence during the season of 1890-91 to sing at the Metropolitan O. H., New York. His American debut was made Nov. 26, 1900, in Franchetti's Asrael, under the conductorship of Anton Seidl. Upon the termination of his Bremen engagement he visited U. S. for a concert tour, during which he sang under Anton Seidl, Arthur Nikisch and Theodore Thomas. Returning to Germany he sang at the Stadt, Breslau, during the season of 1892-93, and from 1893 to 1898 he was mem. of the Imperial Court Opera in Vienna. In 1898 he returned to New York, where he resumed his connection with the Metropolitan Opera co., then under the management of Maurice Grau, of which he was a permanent mem. until 1909. As such he has taken part in all the trans-continental tours of the co. During four seasons he has filled engagements at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London, at the Imperial Opera, St. Petersburg, at the Royal Opera, Munich, and at the Bayreuth Festivals. Not the least important feature of his work is his great versatility. His operatic rep. comprises nearly 150 different parts in works of the German school from Mozart to Wagner; the Italian, from Donizetti to Puccini, as well as the works of the great masters of France. In addition to this he has a rep. of over sixty oratorios. Perhaps his most distinctive work has been done as a singer of Wagnerian roles. In Feb. 1908, the board of dir. of the Metropolitan Opera co. appointed him to the post of administrative mgr. of the Metropolitan O. H., New York. About Jan. 1, 1910, the Chicago Grand Opera co. was formed, and he was appointed Gen. Mgr. He thereupon resigned his post with the Metropolitan Opera co. and was appointed honorary associate of this co. The activity of the Chicago Grand Opera co. is divided over a season of ten weeks in Chicago and ten weeks in Philadelphia. Much has been said about his enthusiasm and efforts to prod. English grand opera and his efforts were successful when he prod. Herbert's Natoma in Philadelphia, 1910-11. He was married at Norderney, Germany, Aug. 23, 1890, to Anita Lenau. Permanent address: Chicago Grand Opera co., Chicago, Ill. European address (May to Sept.), Kallententgeber, Vienna, Austria.

DUSE, Eleanora—Actress.

Born Venice, Oct. 3, 1859; her father and grandfather were both actors, and as a child she accompanied her parents on tour throughout Italy, taking part with them in the primitive dramas and farces included in their rep. After leaving this co. she obtained occasional engagements at provincial theatres, and at the age of twenty-four she sprang into fame as a tragic actress of supreme achievement, her fame spreading throughout Europe. Since this time and up to a few years since, she appeared in every classic role of consequence and many of the modern dramas of interest, including Camille, Magda, Fedora, La Tosca, The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and other standard dramas, by Dumas, D'Annunzio, and other modern dramatists. With D'Annunzio she formed a theatrical partnership, which lasted for several seasons. In 1893 she made an extensive tour of the U. S. appearing in the principal cities in important roles of her rep.; she appeared in London, 1893, repeating her successes of other countries, and appeared by command before the late Queen Victoria, at Windsor, 1894. She also appeared in London in 1906 to participate in the Ellen Terry benefit at Drury Lane. She returned to America in 1896 and won renewed success. Her last visit to this country was in 1902, when she presented a group of plays from the pen of D'Annunzio. These plays meeting with failure, she returned to Italy, where she has appeared infrequently since that date and has not since appeared in the U. S. Her achievements take rank with the most distinguished players of the modern stage.

ELLIOTT, Maxine—Actress.

Born Rockland, Me., Feb. 5, 1873. Her early ed. was received at the Notre Dame Acad., Roxbury, Mass., and after grad. went on a long voyage with her father, who was a sea captain, to South America and Spain. Having manifested a pronounced inclination toward a theatrical career she went to New York upon her return to America, and although but 16 years of age, began the study necessary for the adoption of the stage as a prof. Her name of Jessie Dermott was changed to Maxine Elliott at the suggestion of Dion Boucicault, at that time her tutor in the dram. art. Her first appearance was with E. S. Willard, the English actor, on his first visit to U. S. in 1890, under A. M. Palmer's management. During this first season she was given minor roles in The Middleman and John Needham's Double, but during the following year she played the parts of Beatrice Selwyn in A Fool's Paradise and Lady Gilding in The Professor's Love Story. Her talent was soon recognized, and in the spring of 1893 she played the original Violet Woodman in The Prodigal's Daughter. This was followed by a brief engagement in The Voyage of Suzette, after which she was engaged by Rose Coghlan as leading lady and played in her rep. as Dora in Diplomacy, Alice Verney in Forget Me Not, and Grace Harkaway in London Assurance. In 1895 she became a mem. of Augustin Daly's co. Under the tutelage and careful dir. of this master of stagecraft her dram. power and artistic skill were fully developed. While here she played Sylvia in Two Gentlemen of Verona, Germia in A Midsummer Night's Dream, Olivia in Twelfth Night, and was given the same parts when the plays were prod. in London. She severed her connection with the Daly co. in 1897, and was playing a summer season as leading lady of the Frawley Stock co. in San Francisco, when Nat Goodwin, who was also playing in that city, induced her to join his co. She was married to Mr. Goodwin, Feb. 20, 1898, and shortly afterward became a co-star with him in a series of plays prod. by them in both England and America. After touring in Australia she created the part of Alice Adams in the play of Nathan Hale. She also assumed leading roles in An American Citizen, The Cowboy and the Lady, and When We Were Twenty-one, appearing in the latter in London, 1899. In course of time it became increasingly difficult to find plays which gave equal opportunities to both Miss Elliott and Mr. Goodwin, and it was decided that they should star separately. Her first venture as an independent attraction was in Her Own Way, 1903, playing the part in London in 1905. This engagement was followed by Her Great Match, 1905; Under the Greenwood Tree, 1907; Myself—Bettina, 1908. Since 1908 she has been the owner and mgr. of the only theatre in America built and cond. by a woman since the days of Laura Keane—Maxine Elliott's, New York—opened by her in The Chaperon, Dec. 28, 1908. During the season of 1909-10 she appeared in The Inferior Sex. Permanent address: Hartsbourne Manor, Bushey Heath, Hertfordshire, England.

EMERSON, John—Actor, Stage Director and Dramatist.

Born Sandusky, O., May 29, 1874; ed. Heidelberg Univ. and Univ. of Chicago. Son of an Episcopal clergyman and was himself ed. for ministry. He got his first experience in acting while a mem. of a dram. club in the Univ. of Chicago. After finishing his coll. career, spent three years in preparatory study before taking part in a prof. performance. Has studied under the best instructors in America and Europe. His first metropolitan appearance was with Bessie Tyree in Tit for Tat, which was followed by roles in Are You a Mason? and Military Mad, with Leo Ditrichstein. He then became stage mgr. for Mrs. Fiske, remaining with her for two seasons. The following summer he played Gibbs in The Man of the Hour, Savoy, New York. This performance was witnessed by Clyde Fitch and led to Mr. Emerson's association with that distinguished dramatist, which continued until the latter's death. He was also a mem. of Mme. Nazimova's co. for a season, playing Tesman in Hedda Gabler, Krogstadt in A Doll's House and Riccardi in Comtesse Coquette. Since 1908 and until 1911 he was associated with the Shuberts as an actor and stage dir., staging, among other plays, The Whirlwind, for Marietta Olly, The Watcher (in which he also played the principal part), and Clyde Fitch's last play, The City, 1910; appeared as Harry Leland in The Deep Purple, Lyric, New York, Apr. 10, 1911. It was on account of the unusual critical approbation called forth by his staging of these plays that the Shuberts appointed him general stage dir. which position he held until June 1, 1911, when he was appointed by Charles Frohman to succeed William Seymour as general stage dir. of all prods. under dir. of that mgr., making spec. appearance as Winthrop Clavering in The Conspiracy (of which he is co-author), Apollo, Atlantic City, Dec. 19, 1912, later Garrick, New York, Dec. 21, 1912. FELIX, George—Vaudeville Entertainer.

Born Boston, June 20, 1866; ed. at pub. schools of that city. As a youth his diversion and chief occupation was playing baseball, and while thus playing at a picnic he made a hit and run to first base, reaching the base in safety and turning a handspring. This attracted the attention of Charles Camm, of the Boston Museum, Boston, who persuaded the youthful acrobat to engage himself as an actor. He appeared at this house in Aladdin, 1882, and subsequently in Babes in the Woods. With the experience thus gained he decided to act in variety, and for many years has been a well known artist, first in his own act as "The India Rubber Man," and subsequently with Lydia Barry, whom he married. Since 1909 he has appeared with the

FISHER, Sallie—Actress.

Born on a ranch in Wyoming. Her early youth, however, was spent in Salt Lake City, Utah, singing in church, concert and amateur opera. She was anxious for a wider field for her talents, and her thoughts turned toward a stage career. The result was that she made her debut in 1900, singing in the chorus of The Burgomaster, followed by a season in The Chaperons. These two years gave her an excellent preliminary training with the result that she began the season of 1902-03 in the leading ingenue role of Violet Smilax in The Chaperons. A few weeks in this part and she was transferred to the prima donna role of Flora in The Billionaire, supporting Jerome Sykes, playing the greater part of the season at Daly's, New York. She continued in The Billionaire until the death of Mr. Sykes, in Dec. 1903, when she joined the forces of Frank Daniels. She continued as leading woman with Mr. Daniels for two and a half seasons, appearing as Euphemia in The Office Boy, and Aurora and later as Lady Bickenhall in Sergeant Brue, her singing of the song "Dearie" in this latter piece winning approbation. The season of 1906-07 she divided between the Savage prod. of The Man from Now, and with Frank Daniels in The Tattooed Man, and the next year she was Muriel Oliver in A Knight for a Day, Wallack's, New York, Dec. 16, 1907. She next appeared in A Stubborn Cinderella, Broadway, New York, Jan. 25, 1909; as Phylis Crane in The Goddess of Liberty, Chicago, 1909; her next engagement was in the prima donna role of The Girl in the Train, which she played until being featured in The Heart Breakers, opening in Chicago, summer 1911. She next assumed the title role in Modest Suzanne, appearing on tour 1911 and opening at the Liberty, New York, Jan. 1, 1912; then appeared as Mary, with George M. Cohan in revival of 45 Minutes From Broadway, Geo. M. Cohan's, New York, Mar. 14, 1912; as Marie Wilton in The Woman Haters, Court Square, Springfield, Mass., Sept. 13, 1912, later Astor, New York, Oct. 7, 1912; in title role, Eva, Apollo, Atlantic City, Nov. 27, 1912, later New Amsterdam, New York, Dec. 30, 1912. FISKE, Minnie Maddern (Mrs. Harrison Grey Fiske)—Actress.

Born in New Orleans, Dec. 19, 1865. Thomas Davey, her father, was a prominent theatrical mgr. and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Maddern, the daughter of Richard Maddern, an English musician, was herself a successful actress. Under the name of The Maddern Family an organization was formed, and they toured the Southern states, Mrs. Davey later appearing as a star under her husband's management. Mrs. Fiske made her first appearance on the stage when two years old, singing a ballad between the acts of a play. As an actress she made her debut at Little Rock, Ark., at the age of three years, taking the part of the Duke of York in Richard III. Her first New York appearance was with Laura Keane in Hunted Down, being then only five years of age. She later played Prince Arthur in the revival of King John at Booth's, New York, with John McCullough, Junius Brutus Booth and Agnes Booth in the cast. She played many child parts at this time and when twelve years old appeared in Richelieu and The Two Orphans. Her first mature part was as the Widow Melnotte when she was thirteen years of age, and achieved astonishing success. With Barry Sullivan and later with Lucille Weston, she played a number of child's parts, subsequently going with J. K. Emmett as the original Little Fritz, when it was prod. at Wallack's, and Niblo's Gardens, New York. After that she appeared in The Octoroon, Guy Manering, A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing, Ten Nights in a Bar Room and Across the Continent, the latter with Oliver Doud Byron. With E. L. Davenport she played child's parts, among them being in Damon and Pythias and Rip Van Winkle. Also appeared when a child with Mrs. Scott-Siddons and other distinguished actresses of that period. She sang the part of Ralph Rackstraw in Hooley's juvenile prod. of Pinafore. During her early days, although an incessant worker, she spent quite a bit of her time in French convent schools in New Orleans, St. Louis, Montreal and Cincinnati. At the age of sixteen she became a star, appearing successfully in Caprice and in In Spite of All. In 1890 she was married to Harrison Grey Fiske, now a prominent theatrical mgr. and former owner of The New York Dramatic Mirror. After her marriage she retired from the stage for a number of years. Upon her return, she immediately assumed a prominent place among the leading actresses of the American stage. FREMSTAD, Olive—Prima Donna.

Born in Stockholm, Sweden. Her parents both had excellent voices, and the entire atmosphere of her home was mus. When three years of age she was taken to Christiana, Norway, where she spent her early childhood, and at nine years of age she had already appeared in pub. as a pianist. A few years later her family removed to Chicago, and later to Minneapolis, and she taught mus. in that city until 1890; she came to New York to study and was soprano at St. Patrick's Cathedral. The following year she toured in concert throughout the U. S. and in 1893 went to Berlin to finish her studies under Lehman. The latter part of 1894 she was invited to sing at the Gurzenich Concerts, in Cologne, under Dr. Wullner, whereupon the mus. faculty of the city offered her an engagement for the Cologne O. H., where she made her debut as Azucena in Il Trovatore, in Aug. 1895. During the season of 1896 she sang in The Festspiele at Bayreuth, and appeared in various cities, among them Cologne, Antwerp and Amsterdam, until 1899, when she sang Brangaene, at the Royal O. H., in Vienna, when Lehman was Isolde, in Tristan und Isolde. During 1899 she made further studies in Milan, and in 1900 was engaged at the Royal Bavarian O. H., Munich, where she remained until the summer of 1903. During this period she appeared for two seasons at Covent Garden, London, where she first sang the role of Venus in Tannhauser, after which she was engaged by Maurice Grau of the Metropolitan Opera co., New York, for a term of years, and since which time she has regularly appeared at the Metropolitan O. H., New York, each season. She made her debut at the Metropolitan as Sieglinde in Die Walkure, Nov. 1903. Her greatest recent successes with this co. have been as Isolde, Kundry in Parsifal, Venus in Tannhauser, Carmen, Sieglinde and Brunnhilde in Siegfried, Selica in L'Africaine and Santuzza in Cavalleria Rusticana. She created title role Salome, at the Metropolitan O. H., New York, in 1907. Two years afterward she made her debut in Paris as Salome with great success, later singing concert parts of that opera at the command of King Edward VII, in London. In 1903, during her engagement at the Royal Bavarian Opera in Munich, she was decorated by the French Government for the office of "Officier de l'Academie" for singing Veronique in Bruneau's opera of that name, and later received the next higher honor, that of "Officier de l'Instruction Publique" for singing the role of Salome, in Paris. In 1910 she created title role of Armide at the Metropolitan O. H., New York. She has long been one of the most prominent of the Metropolitan's artists. FROHMAN, Charles—Theatrical Manager.

Born Sandusky, O., June 17, 1860. When twelve years of age he came to New York, entering the employ of The New York Daily Graphic, as night clerk in bus. office. At fourteen years of age was employed (with his brother, Daniel Frohman, also a prominent theatrical mgr.), in the adv. dept. of The New York Daily Graphic, acting as ticket seller at night in box office of Hooley's, Brooklyn. Accepted management of Chicago Comedy co. in 1877, prod. many popular plays with John Dillon as the star. In 1879, with J. H. Haverly, organized the celebrated Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels opening at Howard Athenaeum, Boston, subsequently touring U. S. with great success and later in the same season toured the English provinces, after a successful run in London. Returning to U. S. he joined his brother, who was then mgr. the Madison Square, New York. Later he became mgr. for a number of attractions sent out by the Wallack interests, and after the close of this tour he est. himself as a dram. agt. in New York, acting for many distinguished authors, among them being Bronson Howard, who had just prod. without great success, Shenandoah. Mr. Frohman secured extensive rights for the play, persuaded the author to make certain changes and then secured the financial support of Al. Hayman and W. R. Hooley, and as the mgr., took the co. on tour with great financial success. In 1890, he organized a stock co. at Proctor's 23rd St., New York, which was the nucleus of the celebrated Empire Theatre Stock co., which brought out some of the most distinguished players on the American stage. At this time, Mr. Frohman realized the importance of a "community of interest" in theatricals, and enlisting the co-operation of Al. Hayman, Rich & Harris, Nixon & Zimmerman, and other prominent theatrical mgrs., est. an extensive circuit throughout U. S. Within a short time this combination, with Mr. Frohman at the head, controlled many of the principal theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and also a very large majority of the principal attractions. Extending his sphere of influence, he next took control of the Aldwych and Duke of York's, London, and became associated with the management of several other prominent playhouses. His American policy was put into operation in England, and all the successful American plays and many of the American players under his management were seen at his London houses, after which cos. were formed to prod. the plays in the provinces. Mr. Frohman is one of the most extensive theatrical operators in the world. During the season of 1911-12, he was interested in the following enterprises: Prop. and mgr., Empire, Criterion, Garrick and Knickerbocker. New York; Globe, Adelphi and Comedy, London, and joint mgr. Vaudeville, London, and Blackstone. Chicago, also mgr. of tours of John Drew, Maude Adams, Marie Doro, Ethel Barrymore, Billie Burke, William Gillette, Otis Skinner, Madame Nazimova, Francis Wilson, Wm. H. Crane, Richard Carle and Hattie Williams. During his career of twenty-eight years he has made dram. prods. to the number of nearly 500. Permanent address: Empire Theatre, New York, and Globe Theatre, London.

FROHMAN, Daniel—Theatrical Manager.

Born Sandusky, O., 1853. Came to New York at the age of eleven years, entering pub. schools of that city, but at the age of thirteen secured a position in the bus. dept. New York Tribune, where he remained for five years. After this he became cashier and pub. of The Daily Standard. Having thus firmly est. himself in the newspaper business, he took charge of the adv. dept. of The New York Daily Graphic, the first illustrated daily paper in U. S. The confinement being too exacting, he decided to engage in the theatrical business, and secured a position as adv. agt. for a traveling co. This marked his entrance into theatricals, in which he has been for so long a conspicuous figure. His duties as adv. agt. compelled him to travel about the entire country, and thus gain a clear insight into the theatrical field. Returning to New York he was engaged by J. H. Haverly as mgr. of the Fifth Ave., New York, at that time one of the most prominent houses in that city. He also became the mgr. of the Madison Square, New York, during which time Hazel Kirke was first prod. by Steel Mackaye. While thus engaged he organized many cos. to travel, presenting the plays that had proven successes at the Madison Square, New York. During his term as mgr. of this house such distinguished American players as Georgia Cayvan, Annie Russell, Viola Allen, William Gillette and Richard Mansfield began their prof. careers, all under his management. A. M. Palmer was later appointed mgr. of the Madison Square, and Mr. Frohman took the Lyceum, New York, then located on 4th Ave., near 23rd St., and est. his stock co. there. Among those whose fame arose to stellar proportions during his management of this house were E. H. Sothern, Maude Adams, Margaret Anglin, James K. Hackett, William Faversham, Mary Mannerling, May Robson, Cyril Scott, Hilda Spong, Herbert Kelcey, Julie Opp, Bertha Galland and Effie Shannon. They all grad. from the Lyceum Stock co., one of the most celebrated stock cos. that ever existed. Besides being distinguished for its players, it was celebrated for the successful plays first prod. in this country at that house. This included The Wife, Lord Chumley, The Charity Ball, Sweet Lavender, The Prisoner of Zenda and many of the Arthur Wing Pinero and Henry Arthur Jones plays. After the death of Mr. Daly in 1899 he took the management of Daly's, New York, and the stock co. was removed to this house while he was building the new Lyceum, New York, which he now dir. and owns. He was for some time the mgr. of Mme. Modjeska and the American tours of Mr. & Mrs. Kendal. His activities at the present time are restricted to the management of the Lyceum, New York, and an occasional prod. Became managing dir. Famous Players Film co., 1912, presenting famous plays in picture films, among artists thus appearing being Sarah Bernhardt, James K. Hackett, James O'Neill, Mrs. Fiske, Lillian Langtry, Viola Allen, Mrs. Carter, Ethel Barrymore, Henry E. Dixey, William Faversham, Tyrone Power, Fuller Mellish, Frank Keenan and Weber & Fields. He is the eldest of the Frohman brothers, of which Charles is a mem. Permanent address: Lyceum Theatre, New York.

GERVILLE-REACHE, Mme. Jeanne (Mme. George Gibier Rambaud) Prima Donna Contralto.

Born Basque Province, France. Received her ed. chiefly from her father, who took with him his family to the several far-away parts of the world where his Governmental duties called him. In the intermissions from the Governor's Office to the Foreign Office in Paris, she studied in a boarding-school. At the age of fifteen she prepared for and passed successfully the high school examination, and one year later, secured a higher diploma. Endowed with an unusually fine voice she began to take singing lessons when she was fifteen. A pupil of Rosine Laborde, she was heard once at a small gathering of the famous teacher's youngest class by Emma Calve, who proclaimed that the operatic stage was the chosen spot in the world for the child. In less than two years she had become the idol of the large circle of the family's friends and acquaintances, and it was her delight, as well as theirs, to sing at their frequent gatherings. Having learned opera parts as well as songs and melodies, she went one day to Gri-vot's school of preparation for the stage. She took one lesson that day. The professor complimented her highly for her aptitude and asked her to come the next morning at the regular class hour. She came and watched with interest the work of the young aspirants. Presently M. Carre, of the Opera Comique, arrived. He offered her a position in his co. and she went to the playhouse the same afternoon and sang ten selections from different operas before M. Carre and a committee. Her father, who was in the south of France, was telegraphed for and came, but insisted she should not go on the stage. The Opera Dir. sent her to Mme. Pauline Viardot-Garcia to study the mus. classics. The lessons were in the form of artistic causeries in which Mme. Viardot explained the reason for every phrasing, and gesture, in the impersonation of the different roles. M. Gerville-Reache finally gave his consent to his daughter's desire, and she was immediately engaged by M. Carre and proceeded forthwith with rehearsals of Orpheus. She had no coaching in stage business or deportment, but he insisted that she should follow her own intuition. The whole diplomatic corps were at the rehearsal to listen to her, and the young artist was overwhelmed with applause. The press conspicuously announced the event and the critics were unanimous in their praise of her. She repeated the role twenty-five consecutive times that season at the Opera Comique, Paris. The following season was spent at the Theatre de la Monnaie, in Brussels, where she appeared in Orpheus, Dalila, Le Prophete, and other roles. After another engagement at the Opera Comique, Paris, she devoted one year to study. She had then as professor M. Jean Criticos, and with him she acquired the method and the finish which won her afterwards great success at Covent Garden, London, where an extra performance of Orpheus was given at the King's request. In the summer of 1907 Oscar Hammerstein heard her in a charity concert, in Paris, and engaged her for the Manhattan O. H., New York, where she made her debut in La Gioconda, 1907. Afterwards as Carmen, Dalila, La Navarraise, Azucena, Amneris, the Queen in Pelleas and Melisande, the mother in La Princesse d'Auberg, Herodiade, and Clytemnestra. Her success is well known. She is equally happy in concert work. Her concert rep. includes many of the old French songs, German lieder, and Italian and English romanzas and melodies. After concluding concert season 1910-11, joined Boston Grand Opera co., as leading contralto, 1911-12, appearing thereafter on tour in concerts. Permanent address: 361 West 23rd St., New York.

GIBBONS, Edythe — Vaudeville Entertainer.

Born Twickenham, Middlesex, England; ed. at Folkstone, Kent, England. Her ancestry embraces the names of many notable theatrical personages, her grandparents, William Sidney and wife, operating their own theatres and cos. Mrs. Sidney was a distinguished actress and Mr. Sidney was prod. at the Adelphi, London, and dir. the principal prods. of that period. Fred Sidney, author of The Brixton Burglary, is related to the subject, while her mother is Clara Sidney, a well known actress. When a child Edythe Gibbons came to U. S., making her first appearance on the stage in The Two Orphans, with Kate Claxton. This was followed by an engagement with Charles W. Couldock in Hazel Kirke, 1899. She was the page, with Richard Mansfield when he prod. Cyrano de Bergerac, 1899; then followed a season in The World Against Her, 1900, afterwards in The Girl from Paris, 1900; The Telephone Girl, 1901; with the Rogers Brothers and a season in opera at Providence, 1902; with Carleton Opera co. and Harry Davis Opera co. (the latter at Pittsburg), 1904. This brought her prof. stage work to a conclusion. She then devoted her entire time to parlor entertaining, which has won for her an enviable distinction. Her work embraces singing, dancing and in monologue. Her success in club work has won her the sobriquet "The Queen of Clubs."

GILBERTE, Hallet—Composer and Singer.

Born Winthrop, Me., Mar. 14, 1875. From age of five to twelve appeared in pub. as boy soprano, first with his mother's concert co. and after her death with various cos. GILLETTE, William—Actor and Dramatist.

Born Hartford, Conn., July 24, 1853; grad. from Hartford High School, after which he studied at the Univ. City of New York and Boston Univ. About 1873, after having his ambition to become a player frowned upon by his parents, he forsook his home and studies and made his way to St. Louis, where he obtained a position as utility man with the stock co. of Ben de Bar, opening in New Orleans. His financial success in his first venture was questionable, and his ambition received a setback, when he found that there was no salary coming for the services he had rendered. This prompted him to return to his home, where he remained inactive until the interest of Mark Twain, who was a neighbor, was enlisted, and a place was secured for him in the stock co. at the Globe, Boston. On Sept. 15, 1875, he made his first prof. appearance as Grizman in Faint Heart Ne'er Won Fair Lady. One of his first notable engagements was with John T. Raymond, at that time in the height of his fame, presenting The Gilded Age. He also appeared in minor parts in Macbeth, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, The Hunchback, and a number of modern plays. Following his engagement in Boston, he joined the McCauley Stock co. in Cincinnati and Louisville. At this time he wrote a tabloid play which was elaborated and finally had it prod. at Madison Square, New York, June 1, 1881, under the title of The Professor, Mr. Gillette playing the title role. This play ran for nearly a year in New York, which was considered a long run at that time. His next literary effort was in collaboration with Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett on Esmeralda, which followed at the same house. He next appeared as Douglas Winthrop in The Young Mrs. Winthrop, on tour, 1883, after which as Rev. Job McCash in The Private Secretary, a play over which two continents were aroused. This play was prod. Comedy, New York, Sept. 29, 1884, having been adapted by subject from the German. A. M. Palmer, a noted mgr. of that period, made a prod. of a play under same title, adapted by Charles Hawtrey, at Madison Square, New York, same evening, which resulted in legal complications which were not settled for several months, eventually being compromised, and the subject thereafter appeared extensively on tour in this play. He next appeared as Thomas Henry Bean in Held By the Enemy, Criterion, Brooklyn, Feb. 22, 1886, and during same season at Madison Square, New York. It was also prod. Princess, London, Apr. 9, 1887, but subject did not appear. Next appeared as Augustus Billings in Too Much Johnson, Standard, New York, Nov. 26, 1894; as Lewis Dumont in Secret Service, Garrick, New York, Oct. 5, 1896, and later, in same role, made his first appearance in London at Adelphi, May 15, 1897, reviving Too Much Johnson at same playhouse, Apr. 18, 1898, after which returned to U. S., and made reappearance in title role Sherlock Holmes, Garrick, New York, Nov. 6, 1899, presenting this play Lyceum, London, Sept. 9, 1901; as Mr. Crichton in The Admirable Crichton, Lyceum, New York, Nov. 17, 1903; appeared for one performance in playlet, The Painful Predicament of Sherlock Holmes, Metropolitan O. H., New York, Mar. 23, 1905; as Dr. Carrington in Clarice, Duke of York's, London, Sept. 13, 1905, and at same playhouse, The Painful Predicament of Sherlock Holmes, Oct. 3, 1905, after which returned to U. S., and appeared as Dr. Carrington in Clarice, Garrick, New York, Oct. 16, 1906; as Maurice Brachard in Samson, Criterion, New York, Oct. 19, 1908. He was next seen in a revival of his important successes, notably, Too Much Johnson, Sherlock Holmes, Secret Service and The Private Secretary, Empire and Criterion, New York, 1911-12. Author: (Plays) The Professor, 1881; Esmeralda, (co-author) 1881; The Private Secretary, (adapted) 1884; Held By the Enemy, 1886; She (adapted) 1887; A Legal Wreck, 1888; All the Comforts of Home, (adapted) 1890; Mr. Wilkinson's Widows, 1891; Settled Out of Court, (adapted) 1892; Ninety Days, 1893; Too Much Johnson, 1894; Secret Service, 1896; Because She Loved Him So, (adapted) 1899; Sherlock Holmes (co-author) 1899; The Painful Predicament of Sherlock Holmes, Clarice, 1905; The Red Owl, (playlet) 1907; That Little Affair at Boyd's, Samson (adapted) 1908; The Robber, Among Thieves, 1909; Electricity, 1910. GRUPPE, Paulo—'Cellist.

Born Katwyk-a-Zee, Holland, Sept. 1, 1891; ed. at The Hague, Berlin and Paris. At the age of seven he manifested such an interest in mus. that his father, Charles P. Gruppe, a famous Dutch painter, bought him a violin. A year later a 'cello was placed in his hands, and from that day the lad's attention was centered upon this instrument. He entered The Hague Con. when but nine years old and immediately took up his work under Charles van Isterdael. So rapid was his progress and so pronounced his talent that he soon distanced his classmates and became the "star pupil" of the con. Thence he journeyed to Paris, where he became the pupil of Joseph Salmon, and at his suggestion entered as a contestant for a mus. scholarship at the Paris Con., wresting the prize from twenty-eight disputants. Under Pablo Casals, he labored for several years, until his proficiency was finally announced. Hahn, the noted impresario, cond. his initial tour and debut before the mus. public of Europe. The success achieved in Europe prompted an offer to come to America and the young man made his first appearance in U. S., 1909. The critics were loud in their praise, and he was re-engaged for an extensive concert tour for 1910-12. Appeared successfully in concert at principal halls in London during Coronation period, 1911. New York debut at Carnegie Hall, Jan. 12, 1912. The instrument upon which he plays is an Andreas Guarnerius, and over 200 years old. Permanent address: Care Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, 27 West 42d St., New York.

GUILBERT, Yvette—Vaudeville Singer.

Born Paris. She was ed. in a convent until her father lost his fortune, when, at the age of fifteen, she went to work to help support her family. She assisted her mother in an embroidery shop which the latter opened in Paris, but the two women were unsuccessful. Then she became a dress-maker, but her health suffered, and she sought a place in the Paris theatres. She failed, and then tried reporting.

She forsook the pen to try for the stage again. This time she went to a cafe concert hall, and was successful. Her chansons soon became the talk of Paris, and have since been one of the marked features of the amusement world. She is now as well known to American vaudeville patrons as she is in Paris and London. The season of 1906-07 she made a tour of U. S. in conjunction with Albert Chevalier, the English comedian and singer of coster songs. In 1909-10 she returned to America and made a brief visit, singing in drawing rooms principally.

GUNN, Archie—Artist and Designer.

Born Taunton, England, Oct. 11, 1863; ed. Tottenham Coll., Staffordshire, England. His father, Archibald Gunn, was his first art instructor, after which he continued under Calderon in London, concluding his studies in Paris. At age of 20 years painted a miniature portrait of Lord Beaconsfield for the late Queen Victoria, and won distinction for such work. Afterwards designed posters for D'Oyley Carte at the Savoy, London, Arthur Roberts, A. H. Chamberlyn, George Edwardes and other well known London theatrical prods. For many of these he designed costumes for mus. comedies, pantomimes and light opera. Removed to America under contract with late Joseph Pulitzer, prop. New York World, joining art dept. staff of that paper, 1890; from 1891 to 1894 was mem. art staff Truth, then the leading satirical journal of illustration in the U. S.; after failure of that paper became active as designer of theatrical costumes, among them Du Barry, The Prince of Pilsen, The Defender, The Chaperone, Woodland, Pretty Peggy, The Isle of Spice, The Gingerbread Man, New York Hippodrome and other plays and places where costumes were an important feature. Designed for David Belasco, Henry W. Savage, Wm. A. Brady, A. H. Chamberlyn and other important prod. mgrs. The "Archie Gunn Girl" of the chorus type, is well known and used on many posters, calendars and other attractive matter. His nudes have also attracted much attention, as also his decorative designs and subject pictures and pastels. Permanent address: 27 East 124th St., New York.

GUROWITSCH, Sara—'Cellist.

Born New York, Feb. 17, 1892; ed. in native city and later in Germany. Received instruction on 'cello at age of seven, and at age of nine began concert work. First instruction received from Hans Kronold; afterwards Leo Schultz and Robert Hausmann, the latter at the Royal High School of Mus., Berlin. At the end of her first year here, 1906, she won a Mendelssohn-Eartholdy prize in open competition, the judges being Joseph Joachim and Max Bruch. At conclusion of her studies she made a concert tour of the leading European cities, playing the d'Albert concerto in Berlin with the composer. Made debut in U. S. as solo-

HANSON, Harry L. (Harry L. Parker)—Minstrel and Vaudeville Entertainer.

Born Providence, R. I., July 11, 1856; ed. pub. schools of that city and at commercial coll. in Boston. While he manifested the usual interest of a child in theatricals, he carried his to the point of giving juvenile performances with success. After several years he met John Mills, and with him formed a clown act. After Mills' death he formed a partnership with W. A. Melville and managed the Old Dominion, Montreal, later joining a Humpty Dumpty co. He had many partners during his early period, and finally formed a partnership with John F. Fields, under the name of Fields & Hanson. While playing in Chicago he was waylaid by highwaymen, robbed, placed in a helpless position and put in a tub containing nitric acid. For a time his life was despaired of, but he finally recovered, bearing to the present time evidence of his experience. During his incapacity "Pop" Carr assumed his place with Mr. Fields. After his partial recovery he performed singly for a while, then returned with his late partner under the old title, which still continues. Since that time they have appeared in every important vaudeville theatre in U. S., always as headline attractions. They are among the oldest "teams" on the vaudeville stage. They have, on several occasions, retired from the stage, but always have been induced to return. They are now quite as active as they were twenty-five years ago. Mr. Hanson was married when forty-eight years of age to Bessie Hastings, of Meridan, Conn., a non-professional. Permanent address: New York Clipper, New York.

HARRIS, Sam H.—Manager.

Born New York, Feb. 3, 1872. At the age of eleven he became self-supporting and for a number of years was engaged in various mercantile pursuits. Began managerial career at seventeen, when he sent out several shows to play holiday dates. He then managed numerous enterprises and celebrities in the world of sport. To feature a famous athlete he bought a half interest in The Gay Morning Glories, a burlesque organization. His experience on this tour led him to invest heavily in melodramatic prods. and the firm of Sullivan, Harris & Woods was the outcome. Among the melodramas prod. were The Road to Ruin, The Bowery After Dark, For Her Children's Sake, The King of Detectives, Wedded and Parted, The Evil Men Do and The Fatal Wedding. The firm also prod. Jim Bludsoe. He met George M. Cohan, and as the young dramatist-composer was eager to prod. his own plays, they entered into partnership as Cohan & Harris. They began as prods. with Little Johnny Jones, and followed it with Forty-five Minutes from Broadway, The Talk of New York, Fifty Miles from Boston, George Washington Jr., The Honey-mooners, The American Idea, The Yankee Prince, and other mus. plays by Mr. Cohan. With success came the desire to enter the dram. field and they prod. The House Next Door, with J. E. Dodson, and the Fortune Hunter, with John Barrymore, 1908-09. They prod. three dramas, The Penalty, The Girl in Waiting and The Aviator, 1910-11. Popularity, which did not score as a drama was made over into a mus. play which won success as The Man Who Owns Broadway. Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, dramatized by George M. Cohan, The Only Son, with Wallace Eddinger, The Red Widow, with Raymond Hitchcock, Officer 666, The Little Millionaire, with George M. Cohan, Hawthorne of the U. S. A., with Douglas Fairbanks, and Stop Thief followed. Among the stars associated with this firm are J. E. Dodson, Raymond Hitchcock, Douglas Fairbanks, and Wallace Eddinger. As theatre mgrs. they control the Gaiety, Grand O. H., and Geo. M. Cohan, New York, Grand O. H., Chicago, and the principal playhouses in Youngstown and Akron, O. In addition to these interests they have heavy investments in prods. under other managements. He is the executive head of the firm. Permanent address: Geo. M. Cohan Theatre, New York.

HODGE, William (Thomas)—Actor.

Born Albion, Orleans Co., N. Y., Nov. 1, 1874; ed. pub. schools of Albion and Rochester, until 1891, when the desire for a theatrical career became so strong that he ran away from home to go on the stage. He had learned something of stage life from his older brother Joseph Hodge, who was a theatrical mgr. and who made him prop. man of the co. His desire to become an actor was still strong and when this co. disbanded he joined two of the mems. in organizing what was known as the Elite Theatre co., which played in many of the smaller towns in New York state. He filled the part of prop. man and adv. agt., at the same time playing a variety of roles as the comedian of the troupe. His next venture was in partnership with Thomas Cooney as joint mgr. of the New York Comedy co. His first performance was Kathleen Mavourneen, given by the three profs. and some amateurs he picked up, and the profits amounted to thirty-eight dollars. With this amount of capital to start on, his co. toured the Catskill Mountains during the following summer. After that he was a mem. of the Marks Bros. co., of Canada; the Meyer Collins co., in New York state, and the Heart of Chicago co., which was performing in Canada. At the close of his connection with that co. he organized the Will Hodge co. and toured the smaller towns of New York state. The next season was spent in the South, after which he went to Chicago and appeared in vaudeville, in partnership with a Mr. & Mrs. Hanley. He went to New York in 1900, and was engaged by Mr. Erlanger to appear in the part of the Brazilian "heavy" with the Rogers Brothers in their first starring tour, in the mus. comedy The Reign of Error. This New York engagement marks the beginning of his success. Being advised to see James A. Herne about another engagement, he found him rehearsing at the Grand Central Palace, New York, and before the interview was over was engaged to create the role of Freeman Whitmarsh in Sag Harbor. He continued in Sag Harbor until the death of Mr. Herne, 1901. Following season he was engaged by Charles Frohman for role of Stephen Tully in Sky Farm, Garrick, New York, Mar. 17, 1902. In 1903 he prod. a play from his own pen, Eighteen Miles from Home, which was not a success. Subsequently appeared in Peggy from Paris, on tour; as Mr. Stubbins in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, Savoy, New York, Sept. 3, 1904, and on tour, 1905-06; as Seth Hubbs in Dream City, Weber's, New York, Dec. 24, 1906, remaining at this playhouse until he was engaged for the leading part of Daniel Voorhees Pike in The Man from Home which ran in Chicago for an entire season, later Astor, New York, Aug. 17, 1908, and on tour until 1913; as Jim Whitman in The Road to Happiness, Plainfield, *Plainfield, N. LENA, Lily (Mrs. Alice Lily Newhouse)—Comedienne.

Born Bow Bells, London, E. C., July 17, 1879; ed. in London; began stage career at the age of 15 as a vaudeville performer in a "sister act." Gaining little encouragement in this she undertook to create an interest as a single performer, which met with success. Was engaged to appear as Aladdin in Aladdin's Lamp, 1897, which she did for four seasons, 1900; after that appeared in Boy Blue, 1901; Red Riding Hood, 1902; Forty Thieves, 1903; came to U. S. in 1905 as an aspirant for vaudeville honors but was unsuccessful; returned again in 1907 and was engaged by Percy G. Williams for his vaudeville circuit, on which she made a success and has since been recognized as a leading vaudeville performer, appearing in all the prominent vaudeville houses in U. S. Permanent address: 7 Moorcroft Road, Streatham, London, S. W.

LEONTINE, Countess—Vocalist.

Born Paris, France, Sept. 20, 1881; ed. Berlin, Germany, where she was a pupil of the court singer, Liban, at Royal O. H. She also received instruction for two years under Rosenberg, court singer at Baden-Baden. While in Paris appeared in Madame Angot, 1905, and later sang in opera in Berlin and London. Came to U. S. and made prof. debut as vocalist, National, San Francisco, 1907, appearing season 1908-09 in vaudeville. During this period also appeared in concert and recitals, and as soloist with Feinrich's Band, Deal Beach, N. J. Appeared in vaudeville over Western circuit, 1910-11, presenting a rep. of standard ballads, arias, etc. Permanent address: 48 Edgecombe Ave., New York.

LESLIE, Elsie (Mrs. W. J. Winter)—Actress.

Born Orange, N. J., Aug. 14, 1880; ed. at the Misses Ely's School, New York, and by private tutors in New York and Paris. Attracted attention of Joseph Jefferson by imitations of performers in Patience. He advised her parents to place her on the stage, and his advice was followed. Made her first appearance Sept. 9, 1885, when five years old, at Columbus, O., as Little Meenie, with Joseph Jefferson in Rip Van Winkle. Played that part season of 1885-86; played Little Heindrick in the same piece, 1886-87; fall of 1887 was engaged by Daniel Frohman to act Editha, in Augustus Thomas' first play, Editha's Burglar, first prod. Sept. 20, 1887, at the old Lyceum, New York, Edward H.

MABEL McCANE

Sothorn acting the Burglar. William Gillette afterward acted on tour with her in the same play, season 1887. Created role Little Lord Fauntleroy, Boston Museum, Boston, Sept. 11, 1888, Viola Allen appearing as Dearest. On Dec. 3, 1888, made her first appearance in New York as Fauntleroy, at the Broadway, Kathryn Kidder appearing as Dearest and J. H. Gilmore as the Earl. Contrary to general belief she never acted Fauntleroy except in Boston and New York. Her name, pictures and performance, however, were used and copied throughout the country. In Boston she acted without relief; in New York she was relieved on Wednesday afternoons and Saturday nights by "Tommy" Russell. In 1889 she suggested to Mark Twain that a dramatization of his story of The Prince and the Pauper be made, in which she could "double" both characters. This was done by Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson, and she made her first appearance in the dual characters at Philadelphia, Dec. 10, 1889, under the management of Daniel Frohman. The use of her name by imitators became so general that Mr. Frohman was obliged to prevent the abuse by law suits. She acted in The Prince and the Pauper under his management until the end of 1889-90, when the play and prod. were bought for her out of her earnings; she continued to act in that piece, appearing throughout the country until the end of the season of 1890-91, when she left the stage to complete her ed. On Oct. 11, 1898, she returned to the stage at the Fifth Ave., New York, as Lydia Languish in Joseph Jefferson's star revival of The Rivals, in which Otis Skinner and Wilton Lackaye also appeared. In 1899 she acted Pet in The Cricket on the Hearth, and remained with Mr. Jefferson until the end of 1900-01. On Aug. 27, 1901, married (William) Jefferson Winter, son of William Winter, the critic. On Aug. 31, 1901, appeared at the Boston, Boston, as co-star with the late Edward J. Morgan, acting Glory Quayle in The Christian, which she subsequently acted throughout the country. On May 11, 1903, at Peekskill, N. Y., made her first appearance as Katherine in The Taming of the Shrew, Jefferson Winter acting Petruchio. Appeared in that part at Manhattan, New York, May 12, 1903, and subsequently on tour of New York and New England States. Appeared as Nell Longacre in The Man on the Case, Madison Square, New York, Sept. 10, 1907. Subsequently, during the same season, under same management, acted in The Man on the Box. Appeared as Rose Lane, with H. B. Warner in Alias Jimmy Valentine, Wallack's, New York, Apr. 11, 1910; as Lady Clarissa Pevensey, with George Arliss in Disraeli, Wallack's, New York, Sept. 18, 1911, and on tour, 1912-13. Permanent address: New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y.

LEWYN, Helena—Pianist.

Born Houston, Tex., Dec. 16, 1889; ed. at native city and later in Chicago and Berlin. Inherited her marked mus. talents from her maternal grandfather, who was a noted musician in Germany. At age of four years she showed a decided taste for mus. Her serious mus. ed. began at the age of ten, and at thirteen she attracted attention when she made her first pub. appearance. At fourteen she played before Walter Damrosch, who urged her parents to give her every opportunity for broader study. She was then placed under Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, with whom she studied for two years. During the following four years abroad she studied under Godowski and Conrad Ansoerge, as well as composition under Stillman Kelley. Before her nineteenth year she made her prof. debut with the Berlin Philharmonic Orch. in Berlin, and scored distinct successes at her many appearances in Berlin and other cities of Europe. Upon the occasion of her appearance in Baden-Baden with the Symphony Orch. of that city several members of the Badish Court were present, among them the Princess Amalia zu Furstenberg, (a composer of note), whose favorite she quickly became. Her London debut was a brilliant achievement. She was especially engaged to come from Europe to play with the New York Symphony Orch. under Walter Damrosch in the spring of 1910, making her first American concert tour, 1910-12. She has won distinction as an interpreter of Chopin. Address: Houston, Texas.

LHEVINNE, Joseph—Pianist.

Born in Russia, 1874. His remarkable mus. talent was observed when he was but five years of age, and his parents placed him with the Swedish master, N. Crysander, who was at the time teaching in Moscow. He made a pub. appearance at age of eight, then entered Imperial Con. of Moscow under Wassilly Safonoff, who manifested a deep interest in his progress. When fifteen years of age he played the Fifth Konzert (Es-dur) by Beethoven, cond. by Anton Rubinstein, at a pub. concert in Moscow. He received the virtuoso diploma with gold medal from Royal Con. at Moscow, 1881, and was selected from among thirty-two competitors to receive the Rubinstein prize in Berlin, 1895. Completing his mus. ed. he toured extensively in concert, visiting all principal countries. He became instructor of Klavierclass in school of Imperial Mus. Soc. in Tiflis, 1900, and, after two years, entered Royal Con. at Moscow, 1902, remaining until 1906, when the con. was obliged to close on account of the turbulence of Russian politics. After this he toured extensively, giving concerts with great success. His wife, a talented pianiste, a grad. of same con., has frequently been heard in concert with him in the U. S. and in Russia, France, England and Germany, the latter country now being his residence. When not on tour he conducts a famous school in Berlin. His first appearance in U. S. was with Russian Symphony Orch., Carnegie Hall, New York, Jan. 27, 1906, since when he has played with the most important orchs., and before the most famous clubs in every important city in U. S. and Mexico. He made tours of U. S., 1906-07, 1908-09 and 1912-13. Permanent address: Wannsee, near Berlin, Germany.

MACKAY, Frank Findley—Actor and Director.

Born York (Toronto), Ont., July 20, 1832. After attending the pub. schools and the Normal Coll. of New Britain, Conn., engaged in teaching elocution in Baltimore, Md. In 1854 he transferred his field of operations to Omaha, Neb., and gave readings in that city, and Council Bluffs, Ia. His next residence was at Madison, Wis., where he taught in the pub. schools for three years. Then, one of his pupils having bought an interest in a theatrical co., he was induced to join, and after a season with W. H. Crisp, at Memphis, Tenn., became connected with the co. of Benedict De Bar, a well-known theatrical mgr. of the West, and played in St. Louis, New Orleans and Pittsburg, remaining in the last-named city until the fall of 1863, and then went to Louisville, Ky. In the summer of 1865 Mrs. John Drew offered him an engagement at her Arch St. playhouse, Philadelphia, and he remained there until 1869. In 1872, after returning from a season at the Globe, Boston, joined the original Union Square Theatre co., then under the management of Shook & Palmer, and in 1874 was the original (in America), of Pierre the Cripple in The Two Orphans. In 1876 he undertook the management of the Chestnut St., Philadelphia, as mem. of the firm of Gemmel, Scott & Mackay, and in this period staged twenty-one plays entirely new to America, and many old ones, the former including Our Boarding House, in which Robson & Crane made their reputations as stars. Retiring from the management in 1879, he appeared six months at the Baldwin, San Francisco; was associated for two years with De Wolf Hopper in the Criterion Comedy co., and then became dram. dir. for the theatrical syndicate of Brooks & Dickson, when he brought from London, in the Ranks. Later he took the part of the Italian Count in Mr. Barnes of New York, and played with Wm. H. Crane in The Fool and His Money. His last active stage work was the opening of the first theatre in New Rochelle, N. Y. In 1898, he founded the Nat. Con. of Dram. Art in New York and has been its dir. ever since. He has been a mem. of the Actors' Order of Friendship since 1865; was one of the founders of the Actors' Soc. of America in 1889, and its pres. during 1889-92; organized the Actors' Church Alliance, 1898 (was first vice-pres. during 1898-1902); is a mem. of New York State Assn. of Elocutionists and the Actors' Fund (dir. 1888, and chairman of the executive com. 1910-11, third vice-pres. since 1888). He is also one of the organizers of the Nat. Assn. of Elocutionists, and was the first pres. during 1892-96. His versatility of expression has enabled him to impersonate every variety of character from Richard III. to Dogberry; to play in every Dickens' story staged; to originate many new characters, and to perform in as many as thirteen pieces in a week. He also enjoys the distinction of having occupied every position in the prof. author, actor and mgr. Married Elizabeth Sneathen, Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 18, 1863. Clubs: Green Room, Players (New York). MacMILLEN, Francis—Violinist.

Born Marietta, O., Oct. 14, 1885; ed. in Berlin, Brussels and other mus. centers of Europe. After winning the first prize with the greatest distinction and Van Hal cash prize at the Brussels Royal Con. (being the first American to win such distinction), made his debut at Brussels, Mar. 30, 1903, at the Salle Erard, which was in itself a remarkable success. It won him entres to distinguished homes in Paris and London, his debut in the latter city being made at the "old" St. James Hall, Nov. 6, 1903, with the accompaniment of the Queen's Hall Orch. cond. by Henry J. Wood. After a success in London, made a short concert tour of the English provinces, followed by an extended tour of these provinces and on the continent. He returned to America, after an absence of thirteen years, to make his first appearance and tour in 1906-07. He was accorded distinguished consideration on this trip, his welcome at Marietta, O., his home, being unique. The day was, in effect, declared a holiday. The schools were closed that the pupils might see and hear their famous townsman. Before the entire population of the city and the surrounding towns, he played "Home, Sweet Home," from the steps of the county court house, after which enthusiastic townsmen removed the horses from his carriage and attaching a rope, drew him triumphantly through the streets. His second season in America was 1908-09, under the management of Haensel & Jones, who also managed his tour of 1910-11. This tour was a most notable one. He played 158 engagements, including all principal cities east of Denver. After closing his season, he returned to Europe. Here he played in Berlin, Vienna, Rome, and London, and in fact, nearly all of the great cities and centers. During this season he had the distinction of playing with the Halle Orch. of Manchester, Eng., Dr. Hans Richter, cond.; Queen's Hall Orch., Henry J. Wood, cond.; London Symphony Orch., Dr. Frederic Cowan, cond.; New London Symphony Orch., Landon Ronald, cond.; The Brighton, Birmingham and Harrogate (England) Symphony Orchs.; The Berlin Philharmonic Orch., Dr. Kunwald, cond.; Brussels Philharmonic Orch., Dr. Lauweryns, cond.; Philharmonic Orch., Brunn, Austria; the Tonkünstler Orch. of Vienna, Oscar Nedbal, cond.; the St. Cecelia Orch., of Rome, and the Scala Orch., of Milan, Dr. Mengelberg, cond. In addition he appeared by command before the principal royal houses of Europe. His last appearance in London for that season was June 22, 1910, at Queen's Hall. His third American tour began Oct. 14-15, 1910, at Boston, as soloist at the Symphony Concerts of the Boston Symphony Orch. On this occasion he played the violin concerto in A Minor, composed by his personal friend, Dr. Carl Goldmark. During that season he appeared in nearly every important city in U. S. His first New York appearance was at Carnegie Hall, Nov. 6, 1910. Permanent address: Care T. She then went under dir. of A. M. Palmer, at whose theatre she appeared as Juliet in Romeo and Juliet, Julia in The Hunchback, Kate Hardcastle in She Stoops to Conquer, Prince of Wales in King Henry IV., and Rosalind in As You Like It, all during 1896. Her next appearance was as Mary in Bonnie Prince Charlie, Palmer's, New York, Feb. 15, 1897, and in title role Romola and title role Chatterton, the latter at Broadway, New York, Mar. 26, 1897. In all-star revival of The Rivals she appeared as Lydia Languish, American, New York, May 7, 1897, and on tour. A brief engagement in Colombe's Birthday brought her to the title role of Countess Valeska, done at the Knickerbocker, New York, Jan. 10, 1898, and in title role Colinette, at same playhouse, Apr. 3, 1899; in title role Barbara Frietchie, first prod. Criterion, New York, Oct. 23, 1899, winning notable success. She repeated this success as Mary Tudor in When Knighthood Was in Flower, Criterion, New York, Jan. 14, 1901. Appeared in title role Queen Fiametta, Boston, Mass., Oct. 5, 1902, and as Charlotte Durand in The Cavalier, Criterion, New York, Dec. 8, 1902. Her later engagements have embraced the roles of Lady Barchester in Fools of Nature, Hyperion, New Haven, Sept. 21, 1903, and Parthenia in Ingomar, Empire, New York, May 16, 1904, after which she appeared extensively on tour as co-star with E. H. Sothern, her first joint appearance being as Juliet, at the Illinois, Chicago, Sept. 19, 1904, later touring as Beatrice in Much Ado About Nothing, and as Ophelia in Hamlet, all of which were repeated at the Knickerbocker, New York, during latter part of season. Appeared as Katherine, with Mr. Sothern in The Taming of the Shrew, Knickerbocker, New York, Oct. 16, 1905; at same playhouse, as Portia in The Merchant of Venice, Oct. 30, 1905, as Viola in Twelfth Night, Nov. 6, 1905; as Salome in John the Baptist, Lyric, New York, Jan. 21, 1907; as Jeanne in Jeanne d'Arc, Rautendelein in The Sunken Bell, Juliet in Romeo and Juliet, Portia in The Merchant of Venice, and Viola in Twelfth Night, all at same playhouse, concluding her engagement in New York Mar. 16, 1907. Repeated her rep. as co-star with Mr. Sothern at the Waldorf, London, opening Apr. 22, 1907, in The Sunken Bell. At the conclusion of this engagement appeared at same playhouse as Mary Tudor in When Knighthood Was in Flower, May 13, 1907. Returning to U. S., appeared with Mr. Sothern in revival of her notable roles at Acad. of Mus., after which appeared on tour with own co. in Gloria, which was succeeded by The Goddess of Reason, in which she played the role of Yvette, opening Daly's, New York, Feb. 15, 1909. The following season she appeared again as co-star with Mr. Sothern since when they have toured repeatedly in extensive Shakespearian rep. With Mr. Sothern inaugurated the first season at New, New York, with Antony and Cleopatra. Married (1) Robert Taber, actor, Philadelphia, May 28, 1894; (2) E. H. Sothern, actor, New York, 1911. Philbin. Address: 139 West 87th St., New York.

MASCAGNI, Pietro—Composer.

Born Leghorn, Italy, Dec. 7, 1863. His first lessons in mus. were obtained at the Inst. Luigi Cherubini in Leghorn. His father, a baker, had planned to bring the son up in the same trade, but the mus. ability of the younger prompted a relative to assist in his mus. ed. with reward of a C minor symphony and a Kyrie in celebration of Cherubini's birthday, written by the lad when he was but sixteen years of age. At the age of eighteen he composed In Filanda, receiving hon. mention in a prize competition for cantatas in connection with the International Exhibition at Milan; an Ode to Joy, 1881, prompted Count de Larderel to offer to defray his expenses for a course in the Con. of Milan, which was accepted. He remained, however, but a short time, leaving to join a traveling orch., spending several seasons in touring the country, eventually settling at Carignola as a teacher. At the Costanza, Rome, his greatest success, Cavalleria Rusticana, was prod. May 17, 1890, having previously won the prize offered by Sonzogno, the pub., the year previous. This opera was performed all over the world, and became one of the greatest successes of the period. He was made Knight of the Crown of Italy at Leghorn when he subsequently visited his native village. Following this he wrote other operas, notably L'Amico Fritz, 1891; I Rantzau, 1893; Guglielmo Ratcliff, 1895; Silvano, Zanetto, Iris, 1898 (prod. New York, Oct. 16, 1902, under dir. of the composer); Le Maschere, and Yachel, 1910. He wrote a Hymn in Honor of Admiral Dewey, U. S. N., 1899, and composed the incidental mus. to The Eternal City, prod. in U. S., which he visited and where he made a long concert tour, 1903. Returning to Italy he organized an orch. and resumed work as teacher and composer, receiving the additional honor of Commander of the Crown of Italy. Prior to his first visit to U. S. was dir. Pesaro Con., but lost the post owing to his protracted absence in U. S. Permanent address: Care Edouardo Lonzagno, Milan, Italy.

MASON, Dan (Daniel Grassman)—Comedian.

Born Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 9, 1855; ed. pub. schools. At age of fourteen years his father died and he secured a position in a drug store. While thus engaged he made an appearance at Wild's O. H., doing a German dancing and singing act. His family objecting to the use of the family name on the stage, the mgr. suggested the name of Mason, which was adopted. In the fall of 1872 he became a regular mem. of E. S. Washburn's Last Sensation co., a traveling vaudeville co. Here he remained one season, traveling in wagons from town to town, after which he began to play such houses as were then presenting variety, for three seasons. He appeared first in New York at Tony Pastor's, then on lower Broadway, in 1878. Farces and afterpieces were becoming popular at that time and he turned his attention to such features. He became a mem. of the Theatre Comique, Providence, R. I., and remained there three years, putting on sketches and acting. Many of the farces were written by him. Leaving there he joined M. B. Leavitt and Tony Pastor, playing the closing farce. He prod. Peck's Bad Boy, 1884, and played the Groceryman. He formed a co-partnership with John T. Kelly the following year and prod. The Tigers, playing one of the star parts himself. Eddie Foy played his first part outside of minstrelsy at this time with this co. Joined Edward E. Rice's Evangeline co. in New York, Jan. 1886, and in May of the following year played a brief engagement in Chicago. He was with Evangeline when it closed in 1887. Engagements followed with Rich & Harris until 1890, when he was selected as the principal comedian by F. F. Proctor for Over the Garden Wall, then appeared as star for two seasons in his own comedy, A Clean Sweep. Engagements followed with The Hustler, 1893; with Daniel Sully in A Social Lion and A Bachelor's Wives (the latter written by himself), 1894-95; The Man From Mexico, 1897; Why Smith Left Home, 1899; Naughty Anthony, 1900; Rudolph and Adolph, 1901-03; Gay New York, 1905-06; It Happened in Nordland, 1907. Next appeared as Hans Wagner, the brewer, in The Prince of Pilsen, and in the William Collier revivals of The Man From Mexico and other farces, Garrick, New York. Supported Gertrude Quinlan in Miss Patsy, 1910. Has written several plays that have been presented with himself as well as other well known actors in principal roles. Permanent address: 2005 Pacific Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

MERO, Yolanda (Mrs. Herman Irlon)—Pianiste.

Born Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 30, 1887; ed. under Frau Prof. Augusta Rennebaum, herself a Liszt pupil. She displayed musical talent as an infant, and at age of five began her piano-forte instruction under her father's tutelage; at six years of age was admitted to Budapest Con., regardless of the fact that she had not qualified to the minimum age required. It was here that her association with Frau Rennebaum began to develop her artistry, and within a few years she was appearing as a prof. artist and winning praise from the critics by her mus. interpretations. Following her grad. from the con. at the age of fourteen, she departed with scholarship and diploma honors for her first concert tour abroad, which ended with a spring concert with the Dresden Philharmonic. This success was repeated at Berlin, Leipsic and finally at London, in 1898. Her first American tour was of such success that she was invited to return, which she did seasons 1910-13. First appearance in America was made Carnegie Hall, Nov. 3, 1909. Permanent address: 306 West 99th St., New York.

MITCHELL, Maggie (Mrs. Charles Abbott)—Actress.

Born New York, 1832. In the school with the little girl was a mate who was being coached in some tragic characters by Wyzeman Marshall, and she became interested to such a degree that she undertook to imitate all that she saw and heard. When her mother realized the situation she undertook to make the best of it, and through the assistance of an old English actor, she secured a small part, that of Julia in The Soldier's Daughter, and under his tutelage she was prepared and made her debut at Burton's, on Chambers St., New York, June 2, 1851. It has been erroneously believed that she made her appearance much earlier than this, but the mistake arose, no doubt, by confounding her with other actresses upon the stage at that time bearing the same or a similar name, or else with older members of her own family—half-sisters. Following her engagement at the close of the season of 1851 above recorded, she secured a permanent engagement at the Bowery, New York, for the season of 1851-52, and here she played many boys' parts, dancing with Gertrude Dawes between the acts. She later appeared in The Lost Child, and while thus playing received her first recall before the curtain, an event marked with interest in her history. She won a distinct success as Oliver Twist, and she departed to play in Baltimore and elsewhere. James H. Robinson opened a playhouse on the Bowery and she became a mem. of his co. in 1853. As the play was not a financial success here, the co. was removed to Boston, where, Sept. 5, 1853, she made her first appearance in that city. At this time she became a great favorite, and was known throughout the theatrical world. She played a brief engagement in Cleveland, and then entered upon her first starring engagement, appearing under the management of James Foster, her first engagement being at Pittsburg. She continued for several years to star, appearing in various cities in a wide rep., including A Middy Ashore, A Rough Diamond, The Loan of a Lover, The Pet of the Petticoats, To Parents and Guardians, The Wild Irish Girl, Katy O'Sheal, The Four Sisters, An Object of Interest, A Husband at Sight, The Daughter of the Regiment, Satan in Paris and a special farce written for her and called Our Maggie. The play, however, with which her name became inseparably linked was Fanchon the Cricket, which was presented by her at the St. Charles, New Orleans, under the management of Ben de Bar, in 1861. It was dram. from the story, La Petite Fadette, by George Sand. The play was an instantaneous success, due principally to her acting and interpolations. She went to Montgomery, Ala., but the beginning of the Civil War prompted her to abandon her Southern trip, and she went direct to Boston, where she opened at the Boston Museum, June 3, 1861, and three weeks thereafter Fanchon was again presented, this time with what might be termed an "all star" cast, embracing the names of W. H. Whalley, William Warren, John Wilson, Mrs. Vincent, Maggie Mitchell and her sister, Mary, later Mrs. Albaugh. Its success continued at the Howard Athanaeum and the Boston, Boston. Mrs. Mitchell engaged the New Olympic, formerly Laura Keene's, and here it ran for six weeks with James W. Collier, A. H. Davenport and J. H. Stoddard in the cast. She played many characters, before and after her success as Fanchon, but none of them equalled in popularity this play. She won success with Mignon, The Pearl of Savoy, Little Barefoot, and Jane Eyre, the latter one of her most successful plays. Hon. John D. Long of Boston, wrote Marie for her; Henry W. Longfellow, witnessing her performance of Jane Eyre, advised her to take it to England, as did many of her English friends, all of which suggestions she declined. Among other notable achievements recorded in her career were Parthenia in Ingomar and Pauline in The Lady of Lyons. She retired from the stage, 1892, and was married to Charles Abbott, formerly her leading man. By a former marriage she has a son and a daughter. Permanent address: Elberon, N. J.

N

NAZIMOVA, Alla (Mrs. Charles Bryant)—Actress.

Born Talta, Crimea, Russia, May 22, 1879. She was taken to Geneva as a child, where she learned to speak the French and German languages fluently. She also showed a remarkable aptitude for mus. and became a violinist of distinction. At the age of 12 years she returned to Russia, where she made her first appearance as a violinist. It was necessary for her to study her own language, as her absence from her country had caused her to fall behind in this study, and she was entered in the St. Petersburg Con. in Odessa, where, in addition to her mus. studies, she became an apt pupil in languages. She chose a dram. course, and after grad. won the gold medal. During her school days she was a supernumerary at the Artistic, under dir. of Stanislloffsky, one of the greatest stage directors in Russia. Immediately after her grad. she became leading woman and prod. at Kostroma, a small town in Russia, with which co. she portrayed about 200 parts during her first season. The season of 1901 she appeared in stock co. in Kerson, also in Russia, and was next in a stock co. at Vilna in Poland. In the latter city she appeared as L'Aiglou, and returned thence to St. Petersburg, in which city she appeared in all prominent roles, including Zaza, Camille, Magda, Hedda Gabler, Trilby and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray. She attempted to make a prod. of The Chosen People, a Russian revolutionary play which had been prohibited by the Russian censors. With Paul Orlenoff she made a prod. of this play in Berlin, which was later repeated at the Avenue, London, Jan. 21, 1905. In this play she made her first appearance in the U. S., playing the role of Lia, with Mr. Orlenoff, Criterion, New York, Sept. 1, 1905. During this engagement she appeared in the Russian language in the prominent plays of her rep. At suggestion of Henry Miller she began a study of the English language, making her first appearance as Hedda Gabler under dir. of Henry Miller, Princess, New York, Nov. 13, 1906. From 1906 to 1908 she appeared exclusively in New York at the Princess and Bijou, presenting, in addition to Hedda Gabler, A Doll's House, Comtesse Coquette, The Master Builder, The Comet and The Passion Flower. She opened Nazimova's 39th St., New York, as Mrs. Rita Allmers in Little Eyolf, Apr. 18, 1910, since when she has appeared in The Other Mary and as Marquise Ferdnande de Monclar in The Marionettes, Lyceum, New York, Dec. 5, 1911; as Mrs. Chepstow in Bella Donna, Trent, Trenton, Nov. 8, 1912, later Empire, New York, Nov.

11, 1912, and on tour, 1913. Married Charles Bryant, actor, at New York, Dec. 5, 1912. Permanent address: Empire Theatre, New York.

O'NEILL, James—Actor.

Born Co. Kilkenny, Ireland, Oct. 14, 1847. He was brought to America when very young, and during the Civil War sold uniforms in his brother-in-law's store in Norfolk. His desire to become an actor was fired by the war-time performances he witnessed at the local playhouse. In those days the great dram. stars traveled alone and played with stock cos. in the principal cities. It was with one of these cos. that he first appeared as an actor. This was at the National, Cincinnati, 1863. He later appeared at Ford's, Baltimore, and at the age of twenty-three years was leading man at McViker's, Chicago. He was leading man at Academy, Cleveland, under the management of John Ellser, supporting Edwin Forrest, Edwin Adams, Frank Mayo and Mrs. D. P. Bowers, 1871-72. In Chicago he supported Edwin Forrest, Edwin Booth, Charlotte Cushman, Adelaide Neilson, Barry Sullivan, and other distinguished players. Following his engagement at McVicker's he appeared as leading man at Hooley's, Chicago, thence to the Baldwin, San Francisco, season 1874-75. While at this playhouse he participated in one of the turbulent sensations of the stage. The Passion play was prod. here, and he was cast and persuaded to play the role of Christ. The country was aroused and he was imprisoned, shortly to be released, after having been fined. At this time he was engaged by Henry E. Abbey, of New York, to act the same role, but pub. protest prevented, and instead he appeared at the Union Square, New York, sharing leading roles with Charles Thorne. At this time he appeared with Kate Claxton in The Two Orphans, Clara Morris in Miss Muffin, and the principal role in The Danischeffs. His next engagement was under the management of A. M. Palmer, playing the principal role in A Celebrated Case, for two years afterwards appearing in a round of classical roles, including Richard, Hamlet, Othello, Romeo, Shylock and Virginius. He has been more closely identified with Monte Cristo than any other role in his rep. He first presented this play Nov. 12, 1883, under the management of John Stetson, at Booth's, New York, and has appeared almost continuously in this role since. His later efforts have included D'Artagnan in The Musketeers, in The Manxman, Brigadier Gerard, and Virginius; appeared as Monsignore Saracinesca, with Viola Allen in The White Sister, Daly's, New York, Sept. 27, 1909, and on tour 1909-11; as Jacob and Pharaoh in Joseph and His Brethren, Century, New York, Jan. 11, 1913. Permanent address: New London, Conn.

PERLET, Herman—Conductor, Composer and Pianist.

Born Erie, Pa., 1864. His father was an officer in the Union Army during the Civil War. At the close of hostilities he was taken to Washington, D. C. His first lessons on the piano were from an inconsequential teacher, it being his father's intention to have him study mus. merely as an accomplishment, as he had decided that the boy should follow the prof. of medicine. His advancement in mus. was rapid, and he became the prize pupil of Conrad Kremb. At the age of eight he made his first appearance in concert; at ten he began to compose; at twelve he occupied the position of organist in Holy Cross Church; at sixteen he was engaged as solo pianist of a small concert co., and from there began his pub. career, appearing with Marie Litta, Campanini, Remy, Camilla, Urso, Brignoli and other prominent artists. Meeting Arthur Sullivan, he was induced to enter operatic field as cond. He began as asst. cond. of one of the D'Oyley Carte comedies, and was soon placed in charge of a co. Afterwards he filled important positions with Duff, McCaull, Marcus Mayer, Max Strakosch, Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, The American Opera co. during Mrs. Thurber's regime, F. Ziegfeld, Jr., the Shuberts and ended his theatrical career in 1908 under the management of Henry W. Savage, with the prod. of Tom Jones. He married the prima donna, Belle Thorne, of San Francisco, in 1896 and settled in that city. In the west he has done much concert and oratorio conducting. PHILIPP, Adolf—Dramatist, Composer, Actor and Manager.

Born Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 29, 1867; ed. in native city. First appearance as an actor was made at the age of fourteen with a traveling co. in Germany, after having become a runaway from his home. Besides playing small parts, he was required to sell tickets. During this period he was engaged by Dir. Bertoland, of the Royal Graz, as a tenor singer. Before he was seventeen years of age he wrote his first comic opera, which was heard by Dir. Jauner of the Theatre an der Wien, and he was engaged for the Vienna playhouse. He left there to appear in Hamburg, 1888, where he was engaged by Gustav Amberg, then mgr. of the Irving Place, New York. At that playhouse he sang many roles, including Turiddu in Cavalleria Rusticana, being the first to sing that role in the U. S. He remained here until he est. his own co. at the Germania, New York, 1893. The first play here prod. was Poor Girls, Sept. 14, 1893, subsequently prod. by Charles Frohman. He was persuaded to give rep. plays at his playhouse, which he did, but without financial success. When the receipts fell as low as $26 for such plays as Schiller's Robbers and Goethe's Faust, he changed the policy of his playhouse, and himself wrote the initial piece, The Corner Grocer of Avenue A, in which he played the leading rôle 564 consecutive nights. He wrote and played many other successful German plays, notably The New York Brewer, which ran 600 nights; The Pawnbroker of the East Side, 160 nights; The Secrets of New York, 175 nights; The Landlady, 224 nights; New York in Wort und Bild, 450 nights; New York by Night, 350 nights, and others of a like character, being local in theme and interspersed with mus. His playhouse, located on the site of the present Wanamaker store, was razed in 1902, and he returned to Germany to appear under the management of his brother in Berlin. He formed a co. of 100 and prod. in German, Across the Pond, which had a run of 1,365 nights. He returned to New York, 1906, and opened a small playhouse on 86th St., which he called Wintergarten, reviving his old successes. He prod. the farce, Alma, Wo Wohnt Du? 1909, and its success was undiminished 1910-11, it having, in the meantime, been translated and prod. under the title, Alma, Where Do You Live? with Charles A. Bigelow and Kitty Gordon in the cast. He organized the Adolf Philipp co. with his brother Paul Philipp, 1909, and prod. English and German plays, on tour, 1910-11. Abandoned 86th St. playhouse, 1912, opening at his own playhouse, the Adolph Philipp, 57th St., New York, as Harry Schlesinger in Auction Pinochle, Dec. 12, 1912; as Gustav Criquet I in The Midnight Girl, Sept. 1, 1913. Prepared English version in collaboration with Edward A. Paulton, of Adele, 1913. Business address: 214 West 42nd St., New York; residence, 16 Vernon Ave., Arverne, Long Island, N. Y.

PILAR-MORIN, Madame—Actress and Pantomimist.

Born in Spain; ed. in France, where her mother, after the death of her father, removed. After leaving the convent, in which she was ed., she began to study for the stage, electing to take her course at the Funambules, the con. of the "silent drama," known to Americans as "pantomime." She showed remarkable aptitude in this style of acting, and was chosen from among the entire class of 150 to play an important role in a French play, which she did with such success that within two weeks she was playing the leading role. She followed this engagement by playing in Brussels and throughout Belgium, returning to France where she was seen by Augustin Daly in her greatest success, L'Enfant Prodigue. She was commissioned to engage a French co. and come to New York, where this play was prod. at Daly's achieving a remarkable, artistic success. It is worthy of note that sixteen years after the first prod. of this play in New York it was revived at the Liberty, Sept. 9, 1910, with even greater success, the subject receiving twenty-eight curtain calls. This followed a successful presentation at Bar Harbor, and was followed during 1910-12 by an extended tour. After her first successful appearance in New York she returned to Paris to create the principal role in Une Fête a Seville, but receiving a cable from Henry E. Abbey she returned to New York and appeared under his management in a series of English speaking comedies, among them being Ma Cousine, That Man, That Overcoat, Mlle. Fifi, The Paris Model, The Clemenceau Case, Carmen, The French Maid, Little Christopher, Cora, and Mme. Butterfly. Besides these spoken plays, she appeared in about twelve "silent plays," all under the management of Abbey & Grau, A. M. Palmer, R. Aronson, David Belasco, Harrison Grey Fiske, and later under own dir. In England she played Leah Kleschna under the management of Charles Frohman. She also appeared in O'Mato San, a Japanese dream play, in London, and among others The Moonspell, My Twin Wife, and The Actress. She returned to America to accept vaudeville engagement, where she appeared for a long period, abandoning her tour to accept an engagement under the management of Mr. Fiske. She has also appeared at many social functions. She is the leading exponent of "silent acting" in this country and Europe. Permanent address: 63 West 106th St., New York.

PRIMROSE, George H.—Minstrel.

Born London, Can., Nov. 12, 1852. First appeared with McFarland's Minstrels, Detroit, Mich., as an "infant" clog dancer, 1867; subsequently joined the New Orleans Minstrels as singer and dancer. Met and formed partnership with Bobby McGown, 1871, and shortly afterwards joined O'Brien's Circus, performing a "double clog" dance in the "concert part." At the close of the circus season they dissolved and the subject joined Skiff & Gaylord's Minstrels, where he met William H. West, with whom he formed a co-partnership that existed for nearly thirty years. As Primrose & West they joined O'Brien's Circus, 1873, the following year playing their first minstrel engagement together with Simmons & Slocum, Philadelphia. They made their initial appearance with Haverly's Minstrels, Nov. 20, 1874, remaining with this co. until June 14, 1877. Within two months thereafter Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's Minstrels were formed, and this organization appeared throughout U. S. until 1882. The next venture was with George Thatcher, when the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels were organized, this co. becoming the most celebrated of its day. It remained in operation from 1882 to 1889; during summer of latter year the Primrose & West Minstrels were re-organized and continued until Apr. 30, 1896, when the co. was divided, Mr. Primrose piloting one co. and Mr. West the other, the partnership continuing in their business relations. The Primrose & Dockstader Minstrels operated, Lew Dockstader joining the co., 1898-1903. Since the dissolution of this firm in 1903, Mr. Primrose has headed his own co., except for such periods as he appeared as a vaudeville headliner. During seasons of 1910-11 and 1912-13 appeared in vaudeville with own co. in songs and dances; and in Temple of Mirth and manuel Reicher, a noted German actor and prod., and her mother, Lena Harf, noted as leading actress Lessing, Berlin.

Her brother, Frank Reicher, is also well known on American stage. Prof. debut made in The Housewife, Hamburg, Germany, where her father was prod., and here she appeared during his term of management. She was a pub. reader when she was sixteen years of age, and for four years appeared throughout Germany on the platform. She appeared under the dir. of her father, essaying leading roles in plays by Shakespeare, Hauptmann, Ibsen, Lessing, and Strindborg. She made her debut, after retirement of two seasons for study, as Nora in A Doll's House, Berlin, 1900, thereafter appearing at Leipsic. She appeared in title role Hoffmannstahl's version of Elektra at Aix-la-Chapelle, and thereafter added notably to her rep. Judith, Frou-Frou, The Fires of St. John, and Salome. She was engaged as leading woman Municipal, Frankfort, 1907, and obtaining leave of absence to visit U. S., where her brother was appearing, was engaged upon her arrival for the stock co. at Irving Place, New York, where she won distinction as leading woman, later in same capacity at New German, later renamed Plaza, New York. At these playhouses she appeared in title role Iphigenia, Adelheid in Goetz von Berlichingen, Gretchen in Faust, Klaerchen in Egmont, Portia in The Merchant of Venice, Viola in Twelfth Night, Desdemona in Othello, *Nora in Elga, title role in Salome, title role in Elektra, Marikka in Johannisfeuer, Johanna in Glueck im Winkel, title role in Monna Vanna and title role in Sister Beatrice. Her German achievements won wide renown, and brought her to the attention of the English mgrs. Within six months she was prepared for her debut as an English-speaking artiste, making her debut under management of the late Henry B. Harris as Anna Rikanskaya in On the Eve, Hudson, New York, Oct. 4, 1909, later appearing as Paula Marsh

in The Next of Kin, Hudson, New York, Dec. 27, 1909. Her next English speaking engagement was in association with The Drama Players of Chicago, with which she made her debut as Ellida Wangel in The Lady From the Sea, Lyric, New York, Nov. 6, 1911, and as Helen Thornhill in The Thunderbolt, Lyric, New York, Nov. 24, 1911.
Concluding the New York engagement the co. opened in Chicago for an extensive engagement. At Lyric in this city, under dir. Chicago Theatre Soc.,

RUSH, Edward F.—Theatrical Manager.

Born Vienna, Austria, Jan. 15, 1864; ed. at private schools in Vienna. Removed to U. S., 1879, when he began his theatrical career, conceiving the idea of presenting the humorous side of the Hebrew character; for ten years he presented this act and finally determined to branch out as a mgr. He developed, at this time, the one and two-color printing idea which has since become universal. He became interested in the burlesque field and originated the changing of costumes for each number on the program. His first managerial experience resulted in the formation of several cos. playing simultaneously throughout U. S., and in 1886 had ten separate enterprises. At this time he formed a co-partnership with L. Lawrence Weber, which remained in force, 1900-10, when they became prominent as mgrs. of burlesque attractions. Through his efforts the principal Eastern mgrs. were brought into what developed as the Columbia Amusement Co., or the "Eastern Wheel." He is deeply interested in this enterprise, as well as touring companies playing the "Eastern Wheel" playhouses. Permanent address: 145 West 45th St., New York.

RUSSELL, Henry—Opera Director.

Born London, Eng. His father was an eminent song writer, among whose works are the popular Cheer, Boys, Cheer; Woodman, Spare That Tree; A Life on the Ocean Wave, as well as nine hundred other popular songs. His mother was Spanish and his grandfather a distinguished painter. When but ten years old, Mr. Russell showed sufficient talent to justify his parents in having him study painting. As he grew older, however, his tendencies leaned toward the study of sciences and at the age of sixteen he decided to make the medical prof. his life's work. A severe illness resulted in a permanent injury to his eyes, and it was this that proved a turning point in his career and prompted him to study singing. He became a student at the Royal Coll. of Mus. in Eng., where his knowledge of physiology and anatomy of the throat proved of great assistance to him. In an incredibly short space of time he evolved a completely new method of teaching, and at the age of nineteen had a small following of pupils. A year or two later he was recognized as one of the greatest authorities on the subject of the voice. Mme. Melba was one of the many great artists who sent pupils to him in the beginning of his career, and Mme. Nordica used to pass hours in his studio. Such well known singers as Ben Davis, Kennelly Runford, Marie Tempest and Florence St. John were among his early pupils. Well known actors and actresses came to his studio for assistance and finally he was invited to become a prof. in Rome, where he met Eleonora Duse, whose voice at the time had failed her and by its resuscitation he attained international fame. Alice Nielson, Mary

Garden and other singers benefited by his assistance as a teacher. In 1903 overtures were made to him to dir. a season of opera at Covent Garden, London, which he accepted, and secured Caruso for a season which opened with Puccini's Manon Lescaut. He selected Campanini, who was then unknown in America, as his cond., and discovered such singers as Sammarco, Anselmi, Bonci, Delucia, Boninsegna, Amato, etc. After two successful seasons in London, he decided to visit the U. S. with his co., and the Boston O. H. is a living testimony of the results of his work here. After a brilliant and successful season in the new home for opera he was unanimously elected advisory asso. to the Metropolitan O. H., 1910-11. He is the brother of Landon Ronald, the well known cond. of the London Symphony Concerts, and pres. of the London Royal Coll. of Mus. Permanent address: Boston Opera House, Boston, Mass.

RUSSELL, Lillian (Mrs. Alexander P. Moore)—Actress and Prima Donna.

Born Clinton, Ia., Dec. 4, 1861; ed. Convent Sacred Heart, Chicago. Mus. studies under dir. Mme. Scheremburg, Chicago, where she was a church singer, later continued in New York under Damrosch. Her first appearance was in an amateur performance of Time Tries All, Chickering Hall, Chicago, Dec. 25, 1877. During the period of her studies in New York she sang for Tony Patsor, then a prominent vaudeville mgr., who engaged her as a ballad singer, bestowing upon her the name of "Lillian Russell," her family name being Leonard. After a short time here she became mem. of the chorus of H. M. S. Pinafore, retiring after a few months to marry Harry Braham, mus. dir. of the co. After this she did not appear professionally for some time, returning, however, to appear as Mabel in a burlesque of The Pirates of Penzance, under title The Pie Rats of Pen Yann, Tony Pastor's, New York, Feb. 7, 1881. A brief engagement followed as Djenna in The Great Mogul, Bijou, New York, Oct. 21, 1881, followed by role of Bathilda in Olivette with McCaull Opera co., with which she also sang title role in Patience, and in The Sorcerer, on tour, 1881-82. She then sang Phoebe in condensed version of Billee Taylor, Pastor's, New York, Mar. 19, 1883, which led to her engagement in London, where she appeared as Virginia in Virginia and Paul, Gaiety, London, July 16, 1883, which was followed by her appearance as Polly Pluckrose in Polly, Novelty, London, Oct. 4, 1884, and as Pocahontas in operetta by that name, Empire, London, Dec. 24, 1884. She then appeared in The Snake Charmer, on her return to U. S., and made a short tour in concert. She then became mem. Casino Theatre co., making debut as Polly Pluckrose in Polly, Apr. 27, 1885, after which she appeared in The Sorcerer, and The Princess of Trebizonde. Having been divorced from Harry Braham, she was wedded to Edward Solomon, mus. dir. Casino orch. She next appeared as Pepita in operetta by same name, Union Square, New York, Mar. 16, 1886, later singing Virginia in The Maid and The Moonshiner, Standard, New York, Aug. 16, 1886, and at same playhouse title role in Dorothy, Nov. 5, 1887. After singing Inez and later Anita in The Queen's Mate, Broadway, New York, May 2, 1888, she returned to the Casino, where she sang Princess Etelka in Nadji, Jan. 21, 1889, which was followed by these well-remembered roles: Florella in The Brigands, title role in The Grand Duchess, Harriet in Poor Jonathan, Pythia in Apollo, Teresa in The Mountebanks, and dual role in Girofle-Girofla. She then sang Marion in La Cigale, Garden, New York, Oct. 26, 1891, returning to Casino to sing Rosa in The Princess Nicotine, Nov. 20, 1893. Having been granted a divorce from Edward Solomon, she contracted her third matrimonial alliance, Jan. 22, 1894, when she married John Chatterton, professionally known as Signor Perugini, a tenor with whom she sang. She then returned to London, where she sang Betta in The Queen of Brilliants, Lyceum, Sept. 8, 1894, which role she later sang at Abbey's, New York, Nov. 7, 1894. At that playhouse she sang many important roles, notably in La Perichole, Vera in La Tzigane, title role in The Goddess of Truth, and The Duke in The Little Duke. She returned to Casino where she sang Gabrielle in An American Beauty, Dec. 28, 1896, and the following year, at same playhouse, sang Lucille with Jefferson De Angelis and Della Fox in The Wedding Day, which was followed by title role in Erminie, Helene in La Belle Helene and other roles in important prods. She then joined the travesty co. of Weber & Fields, at the playhouse bearing their name, where she made her debut in the burlesque Fiddle-dee-dee, Sept. 21, 1899, remaining at that playhouse five years and appearing in all the mus. pot-pourris and travesties prod., which included Whoop-de-doo, Twirley-Whirley, The Big Little Princess, etc. Concluding this engagement she appeared in title role Lady Teazle, Casino, New York, Dec. 24, 1904, and the following season made her vaudeville debut. After this she essayed dram. roles, and her first role in a play which gave her opportunities for dram. acting, without vocal accompaniment, was as Barbara in Barbara's Millions, Savoy, New York, Oct. 8, 1906. She next essayed the role of Mrs. Elizabeth Killgrew in The Butterfly, prod. Atlantic City, Dec. 21, 1906, but which did not reach New York. This was followed by Mrs. Henrietta Barrington in Wildfire, Liberty, New York, Sept. 7, 1908; as Mrs. Laura Curtis in The Widow's Might, Liberty, New York, Sept. 13, 1909, and in In Search of a Sinner, on tour, 1911. She appeared in vaudeville, 1911-12. She was a mem. spec. co. engaged for the Weber & Fields Jubilee, Broadway, New York, Feb. 8, 1912, and on tour, 1912; lectured on How to Live A Hundred Years, Fulton, New York, Mar. 3, 1913, and on tour, 1913. After receiving divorce from John Chatterton, married Alexander P. Moore, Pittsburgh, Pa., June 12, 1912. Permanent address: Pittsburgh, Pa.

RYAN, Cecil—Actor and Vocalist.

Born Christchurch, N. Z., Apr. 29, 1886; ed. Canterbury Coll., Christchurch. During his youth he manifested mus. ability to a marked degree, and he first began instrumental mus. studies, his determination being to become concert pianist. He soon transferred his effort to vocal study, his strong baritone voice giving evidence of power and charm. After appearing successfully in concert and oratorio, began study of operatic roles, making operatic debut as Don Jose in Maritana, Opera House, Auckland, N. SAENGER, Oscar—Teacher of Singing.

Born Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1868. He inherited his mus. talent from both parents, his father being stage mgr. in one of the principal German theatres. As a youth he had a good contralto voice, and when seven years old had begun singing in concerts, where his remarkable low tones were much admired. About this time he began the study of the violin, but his parents destined him for a business career, and it was not until after leaving coll that he decided to adopt mus. as a prof. At the age of eighteen he entered the Nat. Con. of Mus. in New York, but before this, during his coll. days, had acquired considerable stage experience, having joined a prominent dram. organization in Brooklyn, where he played a number of roles in comedy and tragedy. All this was of great benefit to him when he began his serious vocal studies. At the Nat. Con. of Mus. he was a pupil of Jacques Bouhy, the French opera singer, who came to this country to assume the post of dir. in the newly founded con. At the same time the youth was studying singing with Bouhy he was working at dram. art with Frederick Robinson, the English actor, and gesture and stage deportment with M. Bibeyranm, who had been famous as a dancer and pantomimist, and theory and harmony with Bruno Oscar Klein, the composer and organist. Before he completed his studies at the con. he appeared at a number of concerts, including the Popular Symphony Concerts, under Frank Van der Stucken, the Oratorio Soc., then under Walter Damrosch, with Anton Seidl and a number of leading organizations. In 1891 he became the baritone of the Heinrich American Grand Opera co., with which organization he sang many of the leading operatic roles. In 1892 he was engaged as soloist to accompany the Arion Soc. of New York on their tour of the principal cities of Austria and Germany. Upon his return from the tour with the Arion Soc. he was in demand for concerts, but decided to make teaching his chosen work. He remained at the Nat. Con. of Mus. as a teacher for eight years, but his private classes demanding all his time, he was obliged to resign. As a teacher he has won distinction by the great number of prominent artists whom he has brought forward as operatic and concert singers, among them being Josephine Jacoby, contralto; Joseph Baernstein-Regneas and Leon Rains, successful opera singers in Germany; Bernice de Pasquali, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera co.; Allan Hinckley, basso, and Marie Rappold, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera co.; Rudolph Berger and Orville Harrold, tenors; Henri Scott, basso; Kathleen Howard, contralto; Carolyn Ortman, soprano; Irving Myers, baritone, and many other notables of the mus. world. Studio: 51 East 64th St., New York.

SAVAGE, Henry W.—Producing Manager.

Born Boston, Mass.; ed. in native city. Before becoming conspicuous as a prod. mgr. was a real estate operator in Boston, where he was associated with Madison Corey, who has since been closely identified with all of his prods. As a real estate operator he built, as an investment, the Castle Square, Boston. The first prod. made at this house was a failure, and difficulty being experienced in securing satisfactory attractions, the mgr. defaulted in his lease and the playhouse was turned over to an impresario, who cond. an opera co. and presented classical mus. at popular prices. This enterprise, like that which preceded it, was a failure, and to protect the property Mr. Savage became interested and assumed the management of the playhouse himself. His first venture was the presentation of grand opera in English at popular prices, with occasional presentations of light opera classics. To this end he engaged a competent co. of singers and a chorus of unusual ability, assuming personal control of the venture. He shortly thereafter won success and in a few seasons the Castle Square Opera co. made successful tours to the principal cities of the East. His first venture in New York was with the English Grand Opera co. permanently located at the American, 1900. He presented standard operas with a cast including such names as William Pruette, Joseph F. Sheehan, Yvonne de Treville, Frank Moulan, Gertrude Quinlan, Maude Lillian Berri, Homer Lind, Marie Mattfeld, Harry Luckstone, E. P. Temple, Louis Casavant, Viola Gillette, Adelaide Norwood, Kate Condon, Maud Lambert, Belle D'Arcy, Hallan Mostyn and others prominent in light and grand opera. On Oct. 1, 1900, in conjunction with Maurice Grau, at that time impresario at the Metropolitan O. H., New York, he began another season of grand opera, with occasional light revivals. Among other mems. of this season were Clarence Whitehill, Zelig de Lusan, Eleonore Broadfoot, Grace Van Studdiford, Henry E. Dixie, Digby Bell, Lucille Saunders, Lillian Swain, Fanchon Thompson, Phoebe Strakosch and Selma Kronold. This co. sang a full season at the Metropolitan O. H. and formally est. Mr. Savage as an impresario. For several seasons thereafter this co. appeared on tour. His next notable prod. was the opera, Madame Butterfly, which was presented for the first time in New York and the first time in English in America at Garden, Nov. 12, 1906. He also made a notable prod. of Parsifal, being the first prod. of Wagner's opera in English. His next venture was the Studebaker, Chicago. He then presented Tarantella, which was shortly followed by King Dodo, The Sultan of Sulu, The Prince of Pilsen, The Yankee Consul, Peggy from Paris, The Yankee Tourist, The College Widow, The County Chairman, The Merry Widow, The Love Cure, Madame X, Everywoman, Excuse Me, The Million, Top O' The Mornin' and a brilliant prod. of the Puccini opera, The Girl of the Golden West, which was presented in English, on tour, 1911-12. His list of prods. is notable for the high quality of plays and players, the catalogue embracing drama, comedy, mus. comedy and opera. Permanent address 108 West 45th St., New York.

SCHUMANN-HEINK, Ernestine (Mrs. William Rapp)—Actress and Singer.

Born in Lieben, near Prague, Austria, June 15, 1861; ed. Ursuline Convent, Prague. Her mother was an Italian, and possessed a rich contralto voice. Up to her ninth year she spoke Italian only, and under her mother's tuition sang by ear all the Italian operas and melodies of the period. In her eleventh year she was admitted as a spec. pupil to the Ursuline Convent at Prague, and it was while there that her voice first received recognition, by being brought into active use to carry the solos of the church choir, yet no attempt at a mus. ed. was made. Two years later her father was transferred to Graz, where Marietta von Leclair recognized the girl's talent and undertook to give her lessons without compensation. Her first pub. appearance was at the age of fifteen at a mus. festival given in Graz by the Academische Gesangverein, when she sang the contralto solo in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Shortly after she applied for a position at the Dresden Royal O. H., where candidates were competing for the position of contralto.

She sang O Mon Fils from Le Prophete, and Brindisi from Lucretia Borgia, and upon the conclusion of the latter song was immediately awarded the contract. Her first appearance in grand opera was as Azucena in Il Trovatore, Oct. 15, 1878. During her stay in Dresden she was also appointed Royal church singer in the cathedral. Up to this time all her singing had been by ear and she had absolutely no instruction in mus. technique. She now began a rigid course of instruction under Herr Krebs and Prof. Dr. Franz Wullner. In 1882 she became the wife of Ernst Heink, of Dresden, but because she had failed to obtain the consent of the "intendant" of the opera house her contract was cancelled and all her efforts to obtain a new position were unavailing. In 1883 she obtained an engagement in Hamburg. During this engagement a singer sought to embarrass the management by refusing on the morning of the performance to take the part of Carmen. The management sent for Frau Heink and inquired if she would assume the role for the night. She undertook the task without rehearsal, without study. She sang the entire role by ear and scored the greatest triumph of her career. Twice again for the same reason was she called upon to sing a new role at a moment's notice, namely, Fides in Le Prophete and Ortrud in Lohengrin, being so successful that at the end of the season she was recognized as the leading contralto of Hamburg. The contralto and the mezzo-soprano roles were all assigned to her and she was heard throughout Germany in concerts, oratorios and festivals. In the summer of 1887 she first appeared at Kroll's, Berlin in Il Trovatore. Upon receiving a divorce from Herr Heink, she was married to Herr Paul Schumann, an actor and theatrical mgr. of Hamburg, who died in 1904. In 1898 she entered upon a ten years' contract with the Berlin Royal Opera, with a four years' leave of absence to accept a contract with Maurice Grau, of the Metropolitan Opera co., New York, and her first appearance in America was at Chicago, Nov. 7, 1898, in the role of Ortrud. During this engagement she est. herself as one of the foremost grand opera artists of the day, and so great was her success in America that upon the expiration of her leave of absence from Berlin she paid 10,000 marks for a further leave of two years, and finally, in 1903, paid 25,000 marks for a cancellation of her contract. During the season of 1903-04 she made a concert tour throughout the U. S., covering a distance of 40,000 miles. Following her first appearance at Bayreuth in 1896, she took part in every Wagner Festival from that time, with the exception of the one held in 1904, and she sang every season at Covent Garden, London, from 1891 to 1900, both in opera and song recitals. Her most famous roles are said to be Fides in Le Prophete, Ortrud in Lohengrin, Erda in Sieg- fried, Fricka in Die Walkure, and Orpheus in Gluck's opera of that name, besides 150 other roles. In 1904 she appeared in an American comic opera, Love's Lottery. Having decided to make her permanent home in the U. S., she took out naturalization papers in Cincinnati, O., Feb., 1905. In May of that year she was married to William Rapp, Jr., a lawyer of Chicago. Abandoning the comic opera field in Nov. 1905, in very poor health and with her voice reported to be completely gone, she rested thoroughly, then took steamer for Germany, where her unexpected appearance drew a deluge of offers for engagements. She accepted a number of concert engagements and operatic performances with exceptional triumphs and financial returns. Returning to America, she was soon started on an unprecedented tour of one hundred and twenty-nine concert and operatic performances. This is an accomplishment perhaps never achieved before by an artist, to desert grand opera for the lighter form and to return directly to grand opera again. The following season was another strenuous one of one hundred and thirteen concerts, and then came a year in Europe, where she sang in England, France, Germany, Belgium and Austria, and created one of the principal roles in Strauss' new opera, Electra, after which she returned to America. The season 1909-10 was spent in the most successful tour of her career. Of late years she has devoted herself almost exclusively to concert appearances, in which she has been most successful. Permanent address: Singac, N. J.

THURSBY, Emma Cecelia—Prima Donna Soprano.

Born Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1857; ed. Moravian Sem., Bethlehem, Pa. She received instruction in singing first from Julius Meyer and Achille Errani, who did most toward developing her gift, and Lamperti and San Giovanni at Milan, 1873, and finally completed her studies in America under Mme. Rudersdorff and Maurice Strakosch. She was principal soprano at Henry Ward Beecher's Church, Brooklyn, at Dr. Chapin's Church, New York, and at the Broadway Tabernacle. It was here that she was first heard by the famous impresario, Maurice Strakosch, with whom she signed a contract for seven years for concerts in Europe and America, her inherited religious scruples impelling her to decline an operatic engagement. In 1876, with Gilmore's Band she made her first concert tour of all the large cities in the U. S. from New York to San Francisco. In 1877 she made the same tour with Theodore Thomas and his orch. She made her debut in England in 1878, singing at the Philharmonic in London, and was immediately re-engaged for a subsequent concert in the same season. She remained in England until 1879, singing at all of the Festivals and prominent orchestral concerts in London and the provinces. She made her debut in Paris at the classical concerts of Colonne and Padeloup, where she had many offers from the Grand Opera of Paris, which she declined. After a tour in the French provinces in 1880-81, she made an extended concert tour through Germany, Austria, Bohemia, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, etc., and returned to U. S. in 1882. She made various tours of this country and Canada thereafter, followed by more extended tours throughout Europe. Her voice is a soprano of remarkable compass, extending with ease to F above the staff. Later she abandoned her pub. career and now devotes her time to teaching in New York. She made a tour of China and Japan in 1903, and since has done very little singing in pub. except for charitable affairs. Mem. Japan Soc. Clubs: Barnard, MacDowell (New York). Permanent address: 34 Gramercy Park, New York.

TIBALDI, Arturo (Arthur Patrick Alfred Larking)—Violinist.

Born Florence, Italy, Apr. 10, 1881; ed. at Halleyburg, Eng. At an early age began to show his taste for mus., which, however, was not encouraged by his parents. At the age of seven was sent to pub. school, where he remained until he was fifteen, when his parents were finally persuaded to send him to Florence, where he studied under Faini and after seven years took the highest honors at the Acad. of Mus., Florence. Studied also under August Wilhemj in London, and Sevcik, in Prague. His London debut was made at St. James' Hall, June 1904, on which occasion Madame Emma Eames made her last pub. appearance in England. Later he toured on the continent. In Athens he received a command to play at the Palace before the King of Greece and the Royal Family, and afterwards was presented with a souvenir of the occasion. While in Constantinople he was invited to play in the harem of H. M. The Khedivah of Egypt, and was obliged to stand behind a screen, it being strictly forbidden to see the ladies of the Court. For this performance he received an emerald and diamond ring with a gracious message from His Majesty. He also possesses a signed etching presented to him by his late Majesty King Carlos of Portugal, and he has also had the honor of playing before Queen Alexandra, H. M. The Queen of Spain, and many other crowned heads. He came to U. S. and after private appearances and others with Madame Nordica and Madame Eames, made his debut in New York, Mar. 14, 1910, since when he has appeared throughout U. S. in concert and recitals. WAKEFIELD, Willa Holt—Entertainer.

Born Cuthbert, Ga. As a child she was surrounded with the culture and charm of the life of the old south, the mode of life with its leisure, refinement and creative imagination that developed artistic temperament, highly essential in the artist and actress. While being trained by carefully selected masters, a perhaps more important factor of her ed. was a daily lesson in reading, from the works of the English poets, by her mother, from whom she inherited the remarkable mus. speaking voice for which she is distinguished. As a child and young woman she sang or recited with little effort and as naturally as others talked. After a brief married life, finding herself engulfed in financial reverses, she was forced to seek a self-supporting position, and in 1903 came to New York. She had decided to give in New York the style of entertainment which had proven popular in her own town and vicinity. Her first appearance came about at a benefit performance advertised to be given at the Berkeley, under the patronage of well known society women of New York. She volunteered her pianologue act, embracing songs of the south and old plantation life, and her offer was accepted. She created deep interest and her act was an instant success, the principal members of New York society who attended attesting their approbation by loud applause. This performance brought a request to her to repeat her success at a Vassar Coll. entertainment, given at the Hudson, New York. At this time her success was repeated and a rep. of Keith & Proctor, who was present, offered her a contract for forty weeks, which she immediately accepted, signing a contract with a rival circuit for a very much larger salary when her first contract was terminated. She is pre-eminent in her peculiar and artistic style of work, and is recognized as one of the leading entertainers of society functions as well as vaudeville audiences in this country. She has been designated "Entertainer to New York's 400." Her entertainment is unlike anything else that is seen or heard on the vaudeville stage, being the original pianologue act, embracing songs spoken to mus. accompaniment. She is now ranking among the most successful entertainers in America. She made extensive vaudeville tours throughout U. S., 1911-13. Club: Pleiades (New York). Permanent address: 1505 Broadway, New York.

WEBER, Joseph—Actor and Manager.

Born New York, Aug. 11, 1867; ed. pub. schools native city. Began career as an entertainer in an amateur way when eight years old, singing on the street with another youth. With Lew Fields formed the variety team of Weber & Fields, doing a dancing and singing act, making their first appearance at a Bowery mus. hall, 1877; after many years of work in the variety halls and with burlesque cos., they purchased the Broadway Music Hall, changed the name to Weber & Fields', and opened it with a co. comprising many of the most noted players then before the pub., including David Warfield, Lillian Russell, William Collier, DeWolf Hopper, Sam Bernard, Fritz Williams, Charles J. Ross, Mabel Fenton, Fay Templeton, Peter F. Dailey, Marie Dressler and Vesta Tilley. It became one of the popular resorts in the city, the feature of the performance being a burlesque, or travesty, of the then popular plays presented elsewhere in the city. The first such prod. was The Geezer, and among the travesties there seen were Fiddle-Dee-Dee, Twirley Whirley, Pousse Cafe, Whoop-de-doo, Hoity Toity, Hurly Burly, Helter Skelter, Whirl-i-gig, and Higgledy Piggledy. John Stromberg wrote much of the mus., while Edgar Smith wrote many of the librettos. During this period Mr. Weber, as well as his partner, appeared in many of the prods. He appeared as Grabfelder in The Squaw Man's Girl of the Golden West and others. After twenty-six years of active partnership they dissolved, Mr. Weber retaining the mus. hall under his own name, which he has cond. since 1906 as a playhouse. Has also made several notable prods., including The Climax, and Alma, Where Do You live? In 1912 the co-partnership between Mr. Weber and Mr. Fields was revived, and a "Weber & Fields Jubilee" season inaugurated at Broadway, New York, summer 1912, which was concluded by an extensive tour of U. S. with a notable co., after which dedicated own playhouse, Weber & Fields' M. H., New York, appearing as Michael Schmalz in Roly Poly, and Inspector Bunk in Without the Law, Nov. 21, 1912. Permanent address: 380 Riverside Drive, New York.

WEBSTER-POWELL, Alma Hall—Singer.

Born Chicago, Ill., Nov. 20, 1874; ed. by private tutors, at the Girls' High School, Chicago, and Barnard Coll., New York. Grad. from Columbia Univ. (degree B. M.) 1910. Removing to Brooklyn, N. Y., she joined the choir of a leading church as contralto, and the possibilities of her voice were recognized by A. Judson Powell, the organist, who devoted himself to its development. After beginning vocal studies in New York, her voice, while retaining its contralto quality, soon developed into a high soprano. In 1894 she went to Europe to continue her studies, giving special attention to the art of phrasing and dram. expression. Her operatic debut was made as the Queen of the Night in The Magic Flute, Frankfurt-on-Main, May 16, 1895. She remained abroad two years, and in 1897 was engaged for the Damrosch-Ellis Opera co., her American debut being made that year at Philadelphia, in the same role. A year later she became a mem. of the Savage Opera co., singing title role in Martha. An enforced rest from singing on account of a nervous breakdown was utilized to study law at the New York Univ., where she was grad. with the degree of LL.B. in 1900. After her grad. she re-entered the operatic field, singing at the Stadt, Breslau, Germany, in The Huguenots, Martha, The Barber of Seville, Lakme, Faust, Don Giovanni, La Traviata, and Lucia di Lammermoor, and repeating her former successes at the Royal O. H. in Berlin. She sang at the Royal opera houses of Munich, Dresden, Prague and Vienna. In Prague she created the role of Renata in Pirani's opera, Das Hexenlied, filling the part without previous rehearsal, Apr. 6, 1902. After a three years' tour with her former teacher, Eugenio Pirani, singing in concert and in opera, throughout Russia, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary and England, returned to U. S. in 1905. In that year she sang at the Metropolitan O. H., New York. She then toured the U. S. and Canada in concert. In 1906, in conjunction with her husband, she opened the Powell Mus. Inst., Brooklyn, N. Y., comprising departments for voice culture, piano playing, harmony, composition and languages. Author: Advanced School of Vocal Art, 1901; Black Blood (a libretto for a grand opera composed by Sig. Pirani). Married A. Judson Powell, musician, Brooklyn, N. Y., Apr. 16, 1891. WHITAKER, Willette (Mrs. F. Wilbur Hill)—Musician and Singer.

Born St. Louis, Mo.; ed. pub. schools of native city, also by private tutors. Removed to Boston with her mother, where she studied the harp under the tutelage of Heinrich Schneckner, of the Boston Symphony Orch. She made remarkable progress, but the death of her grandfather made it necessary for her to devote her talent to a practical purpose, and she secured a position as harpist in the orch. at the Broadway, New York, with Whitney Opera co. during run of Brian Boru, subsequently touring with this co. She had, in the meantime, devoted considerable time to cultivating her voice, which gave promise of developing into a contralto of rare quality. She met F. Wilbur Hill, a talented musician, whom she subsequently married, and with whom she entered vaudeville. They made their first appearance at Keith's, Philadelphia, and since that time, assisted by Mr. Hill, she has appeared almost continuously for ten years in the most prominent vaudeville houses in the world. Their tours have embraced Australia, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. They made ten trans-Atlantic trips, and have engagements now booked for several years. They cancelled the season 1910-11 abroad to appear in America, after which returned to Europe, 1911-13. Her act consists of an artistic and individual rendering of Southern character songs, with and without the accompaniment of harp. Her harp was especially made for her by Erard, London, and is one of the handsomest in use, being entirely of hand construction. Permanent address: Old Mill House, Harrington Park, N. J.

WILDER, Marshall Pinckney—Entertainer.

Born Geneva, N. Y., Sept. 19, 1859. When one year old was removed to New York City. Owing to physical disability his ed. was limited, the whole of his school life being covered by three or four years, consisting of short terms in the pub. schools of Rochester, Hartford and New York. The gift of elocution was entirely natural. His first bus. enterprise was peddling articles useful to housewives. His first position was at Oakland Beach, where he was in charge of the store room and bowling alleys, after which he entered Bradstreet's Agency as file boy. As at school, more time was spent amusing the other clerks than attending to business. While there he first used his abilities to entertain as a business commodity, charging fifty cents a night. Finally the entertainments became so frequent, the price rising as the demand grew, that he found it expedient to devote all his time to entertaining. In 1883 he went to London, where he won popularity, being taken up by the Prince of Wales, later the late King Edward VII., and the nobility and aristocracy of that country. Most of his success has been due to his business ability and shrewd judgment of character. He has always cond. his own affairs, never having employed a mgr. He revisited London every summer, and entered vaudeville in 1899, where he has since appeared as headline attraction. He has done considerable journalistic work, having been associated with prominent newspapers, and is the author of three books: People I've Smiled With, The Sunny Side of the Street, and Smiling 'Round the World. Married Sophia Cornell Hanks, 1903, and with her made a trip around the world, 1904. Permanent address: Atlantic City, N. J.

WILLARD, E. S.—Actor.

For twelve years thereafter appeared extensively on tour through provinces, playing principally at Belfast, Scarborough, Plymouth, Dublin, Glasgow and Liverpool. During this period appeared with E. A. Sothorn, on tour, as Brown in David Garrick, and as Sir Edward Trenchard in Our American Cousin. He also made infrequent appearances in London during this period, his first engagement being as Alfred Highflyer in A Roland for an Oliver, Covent Garden, Dec. 26, 1875, playing Antonio in The Merchant of Venice the following season at same playhouse. He appeared in a series of mats. at Alexandra Palace, appearing as Charles Courtly in London Assurance, Leucippe in Pygmalion and Galatea, Rolando in The Honeymoon, and Kyrle Daly in The Colleen Bawn. After again appearing on tour, re-appeared in London as George de Lesparre in Led Astray, Imperial, Mar. 14, 1881, and at same playhouse as Sir Harcourt Courtly in London Assurance and Peter Hayes in Arkwright's Wife. After a series of mats. at Alexandra Palace, where he had previously played, appeared as Clifford Armytage in The Lights o' London, Princess, London, Sept. 10, 1881. In this prod. he was associated with Wilson Barrett, with whom he remained until 1886, and at same playhouse appeared as Phillip Royston in Romany Rye, June 10, 1882, as Jack Hearne in the same play, Aug. 12, 1882, as Captain Skinner in The Silver King, Nov. 16, 1882, as The Holy Clement in Claudian, Dec. 6, 1883, as Claudius in Hamlet, Oct. 16, 1884, as Sextus Tarquin in Junius, Feb. 26, 1885, as Mark Lezzard in Hoodman Blind, Aug. 18, 1885, as Captain Ezra Promise in The Lord Harry, Feb. 18, 1886, and as Glaucias in Clito, May 1, 1886. Having been unusually successful in spec. mats., appeared in a series of such performances during engagement at the Imperial. After separating from Wilson Barrett, appeared as James Ralston in Jim the Penman, Haymarket, London, Sept. 25, 1886; as Captain Hawksley in Still Waters Run Deep (spec. mat.), Criterion, London, Jan. 13, 1887; as Geoffrey Delamayn in Man and Wife, Haymarket, London, Mar. 29, 1887; as Coranto in The Amber Heart, Lyceum, London, June 7, 1887; as Baron de Montrichard in The Ladies' Battle, Opera Comique, London, July 19, 1887; as Gonzales, with Mrs. Brown Potter in Loyal Love, Gaiety, London, Aug. 13, 1887; as Dick Dugdale in The Pointsman, Olympic, London, Aug. 29, 1887, and at same playhouse as *Col. WOOD, Zilpha Barnes—Vocal Teacher, Musician and Conductor.

Born Killbuck, O., Dec. 5, 1871. Both her mother and grandfather were musicians of unusual ability. She received her first lessons in mus. from her mother, and at age of ten won success by playing two of her own compositions in pub. When eleven years old she became organist of the church of which her father was choir dir. After studying piano, voice, organ and theory under A. M. Foerster, and other musicians of Pittsburgh, she was grad. with the degree of Bachelor of Mus. at the Pittsburgh Coll. of Mus., 1886. She also carried off the first prize in dram. work the same year. Having decided to follow a prof. career, she entered the Coll. of Mus., Cincinnati, O., in 1889, to prepare for a concert career on the piano, but she overtaxed her strength and sustained an injury to the muscles of the wrist. This affliction prompted her to transfer her energies to a thorough study of the voice. After this misfortune, she was engaged as teacher in Cincinnati Coll. of Mus., 1893. After one year she left the Coll. starting her own private school of mus. In 1904 the Zilpha Barnes Wood School was transferred to New York. Under her dir. her pupils have presented such operas as Rigoletto, Faust, Il Trovatore, Martha, Carmen, The Bohemian Girl, etc., with full orch. which she always conds. She is the composer of numerous songs which possess a high order of merit. She teaches in German and Italian as well as in English. Married J. J. Wood, 1886, and has one son. WUELLNER, Ludwig—Musician and Vocalist.

Born Munster, Westphalia, Germany, Aug. 19, 1858. His father was prominent as musician, composer, cond. and teacher. His early ed. was obtained at the Gymnasium, Munich and subsequently at the Univs. of Munich, Berlin and Strassburg. Specializing in Germanics, he obtained the degree of Ph.D. at Strassburg, 1881, immediately becoming instructor of German at Univ. of Munster. At that time he gave careful attention to the study of vocal art, taking a course at the Con. of Cologne, later becoming a teacher of singing at the Con. and acted at the same time as choir master of a prominent church of that city. Two years later he accepted a post at the court theatre at Meiningen, where he remained until 1895, his resignation being notable as the occasion of the Duke of Meiningen conferring upon him the title of "ducal court actor," which remains with him during life. He continued his studies under Georg Armin at Leipzig and Berlin, specializing upon the psychological contents of the great German lyrics. Previous to entering upon the career of a concert artist he achieved success as a reader, notably of Byron's Manfred, with mus. setting by Schumann, and Wildenbruch's Hexenlied, with mus. accompaniment of Max Schilling. His first appearance as a song interpreter was at Berlin, 1896, which engagement was followed by successful appearances in London, Paris, St. Petersburg, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Amsterdam and other European capitals, his first appearance in U. S. being marked by an extensive tour, 1908. This was subsequently repeated, leading to a notable vaudeville engagement over the Orpheum Circuit, 1910-11. His rep. embraces more than 700 numbers, all of which are rendered without printed mus. or text.

ZECKWER, Marie—Soprano.

Born Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 2, 1886, being the daughter of Richard Zeckwer, dir. of the Philadelphia Mus. Acad. and distinguished musician. She was ed. at the Acad. of Notre Dame, Philadelphia, and at her father's Con., instructed in piano, violin, harmony and counterpoint. She also grad. in vocal mus. at Zeckwer's Mus. Acad. She then went abroad and studied under Matilde Marchesi and Frank King Clark, and rep. with Walter Staarum, former Chef de Chant des Concerts, Lamoureux. Her rep. embraces the principal roles in German, French and Italian operas, including the great oratorios as well as the lighter forms of song cycles. Her debut was made in Paris, and her American debut at Mendelssohn Hall, New York. Since then she has appeared with many notable orchs., clubs and socs., included among which are the Philadelphia Orch., the Theodore Thomas Orch., Philadelphia Operatic Soc. and the Orpheus Club, as well as mus. socs. in all parts of the country. Permanent address: 106 North 34th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

ZEISLER, Fannie Bloomfield—Pianist.

Born Bielitz, Austrian Silesia; removed to U. S. with her parents at age of two years, making her residence in Chicago. Her mus. ed. was received under Bernard Ziehn, Chicago, later Carl Wolfsohn, who prepared her for her higher courses in Europe. It was through the efforts of Mme. Eissipoff, the pianist who toured the U. S. in 1877, that the subject completed her mus. studies in Europe. Her first teacher was the famous Leschetizky, 1878, and for five years she studied under that master, playing several times in Vienna before she returned to

U. S. Her first American appearance was in 1883, when she made an extensive tour, and in 1893 was recognized as a leading concert pianist, appearing as soloist with New York Philharmonic and Symphony Socs., and the Symphony Socs. of Boston, Chicago and other important cities. Her more notable engagements included appearances at the Worcester Festival and engagements in Berlin, Vienna, Leipsic, Dresden and throughout Europe. She made an extensive tour of Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen, Cologne, Frankfurt, Munich, Dresden, Leipsic, Magdeburg, Hanover, Copenhagen, Geneva and other European cities, 1894-95, returning to U. S. latter season and appearing in concerts on trans-Atlantic tour embracing all important cities in U. S. She toured extensively in Europe, principally in England, 1898, at which time she was invited to appear as soloist at the annual Lower Rhine Mus. Festival, Cologne, May 29-31, 1898, playing before the most critical and representative mus. audience of Europe. She made another tour of Europe, 1902-03, which included England, Germany, Austria and France. During her appearance in Paris as soloist with Lamoureux, in spite of a most hostile demonstration, by her remarkable performance of a concerto by Saint-Saens she turned the opposition to a furor of applause and earned distinction throughout the mus. world. Among other distinctions which have been accorded to her is hon. membership in the following clubs: Chicago Woman's, Book and Play, Amateur, North Side Art and Woman's Aid of the same city; also in Peoria Woman's, Burlington Mus., Sacramento Saturday and the Philomel Piano, of Warren, Pa. Many important mus. socs. in U. S. have been named after her. Married Sigmund Zeisler, 1885. Permanent address: 5749 Woodlawn Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ZENCH, William E.—Organist.

Born Chicago, Ill., Aug. 3, 1878; ed. Paris. Studied piano under Gustav Gundlach; organ under Dr. Lutkin, Chicago, and Alex. Guilmant, Paris. Has toured successfully as organist in concerts throughout U. S., and at present organist Second Church of Christ, Scientist, Chicago. Club: Cliff Dwellers (Chicago). Permanent address: 6006 Kenmore Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ZIEGFELD, Dr. Florenz—President Musical College.

Born Jever, Oldenburg, Germany; grad. Leipsic Con.; studied mus. under Moscheles, Wenzel, Plaidy, Papperitz, Richter, David, etc.; settled in U. S., 1863; engaged mus. talent Boston Peace Jubilee; chairman Board of Judges mus. exhibit World's Columbian Exposition, 1893. Pres. Chicago Mus. Coll. since 1867; officer Legion d'Honneur, France, 1903. Address: 1448 West Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

UNIVERSITY MUSICAL ENCYCLOPEDIA

IN TEN HANDSOME VOLUMES
With 100 Full-Page Illustrations

Chief Editor: PROF. LOUIS C. ELSON

Head of the Theory Department of the New England Conservatory of Music Boston Mass., Music Critic of the Boston Daily Advertiser, and Author of "Curiosities of Music," "History of American Music," "Elson's Music Dictionary," etc., etc.

THE FIRST STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA OF MUSIC AND MUSICIANS TO BE PRODUCED AND PUBLISHED IN THE UNITED STATES

INTENDED for all who care anything about music: all teachers —all students—all performers, whether amateur or professional—all general readers. For private and public instructors, members of musical organizations, concert and opera goers, vocal artists, pianists, organists, composers, vocal and instrumental students, music critics and writers, etc., etc.

FULL INFORMATION FREE

IT is impossible for us in this limited space even to suggest the character and scope of the UNIVERSITY MUSICAL ENCYCLOPEDIA. To all who will send us their name and complete address and mention this publication, we shall be glad to furnish full details in a direct personal letter. This letter will quote prices and terms. We shall also take pleasure in mailing to them under separate cover a copy of "MUSICLOV-ER'S HANDBOOK" (entirely independent of the ENCYCLOPEDIA), which gives in 194 pages a comprehensive Dictionary of Musical Terms, with pronunciation of foreign words. If you have friends whom you think would be interested, send us their names also.

AN INDEX TO THE DRAMA

THE DRAMATIC INDEX is filling a long felt need. It is an index to all material (articles, pictures, reviews, criticisms) on the theatre and its players, appearing during 1910 in the periodical press of England and America. It is a complete index to the articles and portraits in some 150 periodicals, both the popular and general monthlies, and weeklies, and those devoted especially to the stage. Sample pages on request. Indispensable for managers and press agents. A valuable addition to the library of any actor, dramatist, or other person interested in the stage.

260 pp. 8vo, dark red buckram, $3.50 net. (Will be delivered free to any part of the U. S. or Europe on receipt of price.)

Previous volumes, bound uniform, may also still be had. Price, $3.50.
