“VOLAPÜK” (the Language of the World) was invented by Mr. J. M. Schleyer of Litzelstetten; in Baden, Germany, and published in the year 1880. Since that time it has made rapid progress, and has already gained a firm footing in Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Hungary, Italy, France, Sweden and especially in Austria and in Syria and Arabia, having been introduced also into Russia (south), America, Asia, and the north of Africa.

It does not aim at setting aside the many languages at present in use, but only at providing a common means of intercourse between all nations.

It is quite unnecessary to explain to an enterprising nation like the British, what the advantages of a common language are.

Many attempts have previously been made to compose such a language, but this, “Volapük,” surpasses them all for brevity and clearness, and has been approved by high authorities of different countries.

“Volapük” has also the indispensable advantage of being very easily and quickly learnt.

CHAPTER I.

ALPHABETS (LAFABS).

§ 1.—World-alphabet (Volalafab).

For the universal language (Volapükiko).

(1.) a, e, i, o, u; ä, ö, ü; = 8 vowels.

(2.) c, j, s, x, z;
b, d, f, g, ';
h, k, l, m, n,
p, r, t, v, y; } = 20 consonants.

In all 28 letters.

§ 2.—Pronunciation of the 28 letters for the language of the world.

(1.) All the vowels are pronounced long, full, and clearly, thus:—

a, like the English a in father.

e, " " " a " sale.

i, " " " e " me.

o, " " " o " no

u, " " " o " to.

ä, " " " a " any.

ö, " " German ö " schöne.

ë, " " French eu " peu.

ü, " " " u " une.

ü, " " German ü " über.

(2.) The pronunciation of the consonants in Volapük will require a little care and practice at first, although they are very easy and clear.

c, like the English j in John,

j, " " sh " shore, s, " " s " storm

s, " " z " zero; when in the same syllable it stands before a vowel.

x ,	like the English	x	in	box
z ,	"	"	ts	" rats.
z ,	"	German	z	" all cases.
b ,	"	English	b	" bleu.
d ,	"	"	d	" dust.
f ,	"	"	f	" fast.
g ,	"	"	g	" good.
h ,	"	"	h	" here.
h ,	"	German	ch	" machen.
h ,	"	broad Scotch	gh	in night.
k ,	"	English	k	in key.
l ,	"	"	l	" long.
m ,	"	"	m	" morning.
n ,	"	"	n	" never.
p ,	"	"	p	" purse.
r ,	"	"	r	" rare.
t ,	"	"	t	" tune.
v ,	"	"	w	" wish.
y ,	"	"	y	" yonder.

§ 3.—Writing of the letters.

(1.) The letters shown in § 1 are written like the English letters.

(2.) The capital letters are just the same as the English letters, as:

A, E, I, O, U.
 C, J, S, X, Z.
 B, D, F, G.
 H, K, L, M, N.
 P, R, T, V, Y.

(3.) The capital letters for ä, ö, ü, are written thus—Ä, Ö, Ü.

(4.) The capital letter for (‘) only gets a little heavier (‘).

(5.) Besides these 28 letters, Volapük has 10 other accents, only used, however, in translation, to interpret sounds and accents peculiar with some people or language; they are:

\hat{a} ,	say	ao,	for the English	a	in	all.
$\overset{i}{h}$,	"	ta,	"	"	th	" the.
$\overset{e}{l}$,	"	la,	"	French	ll	" fille.
rr ,	"	ra,	"	double	r	" ferry.
\hat{m} ,	"	ma,	"	French	m	" nom.
\hat{n} ,	"	na,	"	"	n	" mon.

ŋ ,	say	na,	for the	English	ng	in	song.
f ,	„	sa,	„	sharp	sound	before	vowels.
j ,	„	zya,	„	French	j	in	je.
c ,	„	tzya,	„	English	ch	„	child.

CHAPTER II.

RULES CONCERNING THE LETTERS. (NOMS TONABAS.)

§ 4.—In Volapük every letter must be pronounced, none is mute.

Ex. :—	el ,	pronounced	as	hail,	means	hair.
	yel ,	„	„	yale,	„	year.
	cil ,	„	„	jeel,	„	child.
	plied ,	„	„	plee-aid,	„	praise.
	bloda^cet ,	„	„	blo-da-hate,	„	hate between brothers.

§ 5.—In Volapük every sound is written by only one letter, and every letter has only one sound.

§ 6.—Each letter is pronounced in every case in exactly the same way. In Volapük the vowels are always long (quite different from the English vowels. Ex.—See a in father, call, shall, pale, mare, &c.)

§ 7.—In every word the stress, the accent, must be put on the last syllable.

(Only in poetry this rule allows some freedom.)

§ 8.—The softened vowels are ä, ö, ü—of which the ä equals the French ê, while the ö and ü are the very same as the German ö and ü.

§ 9.—Volapük has no q and no w; qu is written kv pronounced like qu in the English words—quite, question; w is written v, and pronounced like w in the English word—wisdom.

§ 10.—Volapük avoids all sounds particular to one nation or country, therefor it has not the English th nor the French m and n as used at the end of words, spoken through the nose; but in Volapük all letters must be pronounced clearly.

§ 11.—The u always sounds as the English u in full, but never as in purity, music.

§ 12.—The letter j, without a point, sounds like zy, and not like dzy.

§ 13.—The x always sounds like kş.

§ 14.—The z always sounds like ts.

§ 15.—The f is used instead of v and ph.

§ 16.—The g is like a soft k, as in good, gold, God.

§ 17.—The letter ' ' ' (mark from the Greek) is always pronounced as h, in half, her.

§ 18.—The letter h in Volapük sounds like the ch in the German language.

§ 19.—Y, used for j, is always a sounding consonant, never a vowel.

§ 20.—Volapük has no diphthongs as oa in broad, ou in found; neither has it triphthongs as eau in beauty; but every letter has its own sound, therefor geil (height) is pronounced gay-eel.

§ 21.—The unnatural sound of ng, as in long, song, does not exist in Volapük; when required, it may be represented by the mark η (from the Greek).

§ 22.—To represent in Volapük the letters ch, as sounding in the words—Charles, child, one writes a c with a mark at the top: c'.

§ 23.—The names of the 28 letters are as follows—ordered as in § 1:—

(1.) a (as a in father), e (as the English a), i (as the English e), o; u (as u in cruel), ä (as e in mess), ö (as eu in the French adieu); ü (as the French u in une).

(2.) ja, sha, za, ksa, tša;
ba, da, fa, ga, ha;
ga (like the German ch), ka, la, ma, na;
pa, ra, ta, wa, ya; in which the a is pronounced as the English letter a.

CHAPTER III.

LANGUAGES (Püks).

§ 24.—Advantages of our universal language (Bizugs Volapüka obsik).

(1) Everybody knows that all living and ancient languages show quantity of faults and difficulties which it is useless to point out in this Grammar.

(2.) The advantages of Volapük are many, because it avoids, or at least tries to avoid, all such puzzling rules.

(3.) Volapük is brief, and saves words to such an extent that its usefulness will soon be seen - in telegraphing, for instance.

(4.) Although very brief, Volapük is clear, plain, and distinct in its expressions, and as each expression has only one meaning, no mistakes can be made.

(5.) Volapük is easily learnt, which certainly is one of its best qualities. In fact, any person who knows his own language well, may learn, in one week, all the rules of the new language, as there are no exceptions or irregularities whatever.

CHAPTER IV.

WORLD GRAMMAR (VOLAGLAMAT).

§ 25.—The English language is the basis, or rather the guide, for Volapük, because it is the most wide spread language at the present day, notwithstanding the confusion of its spelling. Englishmen and people knowing the English language, will soon perceive their advantage at the learning of Volapük, above people that can not speak English.

§ 26.—Like the Latin and the Russian languages, Volapük has no Articles; those found in its dictionary are used for literal translation only; thus the word fat means father, and the father as well as a father.

§ 27.—If it is required to distinguish the sexes, the Noun itself shows the masculine, while the feminine is formed by placing the particle ji- (which has the same meaning and also the same pronunciation as the English "she") or the particle of- directly before the Noun, only kept distinct from it by a hyphen (-). The neuter gender is formed by affixing the particle os to the noun, without any mark.

§ 28.—The plural of the neuter gender may be formed by writing ôss, or oz. Ex.—

this is good,	atôs binôs gudik;
thesé (things) are good,	atôss binôss (binoms) gudik;
	or, atoz b.noz gudik.

§ 29.—In Volapük vowels or consonants are not doubled, nor is it allowed to put many of them together Yet in the possessive singular and plural the second syllable is freely added to the word. Ex.—

vilalib, freedom of will;

vödabuk, dictionary, book of the words, vocabulary.

§ 30.—For the sake of children and old people, also for some Asiatic nations, Volapük often avoids the letters r, rr, ʔ, h, c, ch, ng, th, jtj, &c.

§ 31.—Compound words (vöds pekosiadöl).

(1.) All compound words in Volapük take the a of the possessive singular; for example—householder, domakipel; dress-maker, klotamekel, and not klotasmekel.

(2.) The possessive plural as, the adverbial o, or the mark for the accusative z, and other such like, may be used, more clearly to denote the meaning of the word; or also to avoid ambiguity.

(3.) In any case it may be better not to use compounds but rather to write:

Mekel klotas; meaning: maker of dresses or klotasmekel; meaning: of dresses the maker.

§ 32.—The five hissing letters (c, j, s, x z.) do not end words that can be conjugated, nor do they take the plural s, which would give an unnatural sound.

§ 33.—In Volapük nouns, as primitive words, are made monosyllabical if possible.

§ 34.—Volapük has only one diminutive, that is, the additional il.

Ex.—dom, house; domil, little, or small house.

§ 53.—(1.) All adjectives, numeral words, and pronouns, are usually placed directly after their nouns; and in that case they are not inflected to indicate number or gender, (same as in English Grammar).

(2.) When used before, or without a noun, however, and also in poetry, and in such cases where clearness requires it, they must be changed, and take gender and number.

§ 36.—The adverbs are the same as adjectives, and are placed after the verbs.

Should it be necessary to distinguish them from each other, the adjective, used as an adverb, takes an o, that is iko, to the primitive word.

Ex. :—Noun.	Adjective.	Adverb.
gud.	gudik.	gudiko.
good(ness).	good.	well.

(In poetry this o may be added to all adverbs, even when not actually required by this rule).

§ 37.—(1.) The digits, numeral words from 1 to 9 inclusive, never take the plural s.

(2.) The words—"the ones", "the twos", &c.; are expressed as: the numbers one, the numbers two, &c.; or as balel, telel, &c.

§ 38.—All tenfolds take the plural s.

§ 39.—All prepositions stand invariably before their noun.

§ 40.—The verb in Volapük, for all forms of conjugation, has always the same affixes for each of the different persons in singular and plural.

§ 41.—In Volapük all tenses (and persons) have their moods, particles, imperatives, and subjunctives.

§ 42.—Volapük uses only one negative, while two negatives make a positive.

§ 43.—Conjunctions, used to join clauses, shall never be omitted.

§ 44.—Capital letters are used only at the beginning of "God", of the names applied to the Deity, and also of individual persons, places, &c.

§ 45.—Volapük gives all freedom in syntax, but the usual arrangement of the parts in a sentence is thus:—

Noun, pronoun, number, adjective; predicate (verb), adverb or preposition, with noun; extensions (4th, 2nd, 3rd case); principal clause, subordinate clauses.

§ 46.—The dictionary shows that the greater part of words for Volapük are derived from the English, transforming those ending in s, z, or other hissing sounds; and also much conformity with the German, French, Spanish, and Latin languages may be observed.

§ 47.—Polysyllabic primitives, beginning with pä, pe, pi po, or pu, shall be used as little as possible, because they appear so much alike the future tense of verbs, that mistakes might be made. Rather use pö, pü, plä, pla, pli; or ba, bä. be.

§ 48.—Base rules (Lenoms, stabanoms).

I. Suffixa (affixed syllables).

(1.) a, e, and i stand with nouns.

(2.) u and ü " " adjectives.

(3.) o and ö " " pronouns, verbs, adverbs, and interjections.

II. Præfixa (pæfixed syllables) for verbs.

- (1.) a, ai, and pa, pai—in the present tense.
 (2.) ä, e, i, and pä, pe, pi—in the perfect tense.
 (3.) o, u, and po, pu—in the future tense.

§ 49.—Principal rules (Glenoms). [Suffixa and Præfixa.]
 Affixes and Prefixes. Formation of the plural (Fomam plunuma).

(1.) The mark for the plural is the letter S. The plural of all words is formed by adding S to the singular.

Ex.—{ bluk, brook; bel, mountain.
 { bluks, brooks; bels, mountains.
 { blod, brother; dom, house.
 { blods, brothers; doms, houses.

Form the plural of—dog (dog); dlim (dream); dun (deed); fel (field); zib (food).

(2.) This rule, having no exceptions, shows a very great advantage compared with the irregularities of the English language; as, for example, in—man, men; box, boxes.

 child, children; sky, skies.
 knife, knives; foot, feet.
 staff, staves; potato, potatoes.
 tooth, teeth; mouse, mice.
 ox, oxen; goose, geese.

§ 50.—Formation of feminine nouns. (Fomam vödäs jilik.)

To show a noun as feminine, the syllable ji- is prefixed to, but kept separate from, the primitive word.

Ex.—pul, the boy; ji-pul, the girl.
 son, the son; ji-son, the daughter.
 gok, the cock; ji-gok, the hen.
 dog, the dog; ji-dog, the bitch.
 blod, the brother; ji-blod, the sister.
 jeval, the horse; ji-jeval, the mare.
 fit, the milter; ji-fit, the spawner.
 kösen, the nephew; ji-kösen, the niece.
 stäg, the hart; ji-stäg, the roe.
 dünan, the man-servant; ji-dünan, the maid-servant.
 golad, the buck; ji-golad, the doe.

§ 51.—To show a word as neuter, the syllable os is affixed to it, and not kept distinct.

§ 52.—(1.) The possessive singular always ends in a.

Ex.—God, God; Goda, Gods.

(2.) The objective singular always ends in e.

Ex.—flen, the friend; flene, to the friend.

(3.) The accusative (4th case) singular always ends in i.

Ex.—blod, the brother; blod*i*, the brother.

Note.—The English language has only three cases: the nominative, the possessive, and the objective. Volapük, however, has five cases to show a difference in sentences, like—to the brother, and the brother, therefor it writes—

3rd case to the brother—blode.

4th „ the brother—blodi.

(4.) The vocative or 5th case is denoted by an o placed before the noun like an interjection.

Ex.—men, man: O men! O man!

O mens! O men!

man, man: O man! O man!

O mans! O men!

Note.—Mark the difference in Volapük between—man, mans, and men, mens.

man, mans—means: man, men.

men, mens—means: human being, human beings.

Ex.—Good mothers make intelligent men of their sons.

Mots gudik mekofs manis lisanik sonis ofsik.

Women, boys, men, and girls are human beings.

Voms, puls, mans, e ji-puls binoms mens.

(5.) The possessive plural always ends in as.

(a denotes the case, s the number.)

Ex.—pen, pen (nib); pen*as*, of the pens (nibs).

(6.) The objective plural always ends in es.

(e denotes the case, s the number.)

Ex.—dom, the house; dom*es*, to the houses.

(7.) The accusative (4th case) plural always ends in is.

(i denotes the case, s the number.)

Ex.—glät, the glass; glät*is*, the glasses.

§ 53.—(1.) In Volapük diminutives are formed by affixing il to the primitive word.

Ex.—dom, house; dom*il* small house.

(2.) Adjectives are formed by adding ik to the primitive word.

Ex.—good, goodness; gud*ik*, good.

(3.) The comparative degree is formed by adding ikum to the primitive word, or um to the adjective.

Ex.—gud*ik*, good; gud*ikum*, better.

(4.) The superlative degree is formed by adding ikün to the primitive word, or ün to the adjective.

Ex.—gud*ik*, good; gud*ikün*, best.

(5.) The numeral words when digits (from 1-9) end in l.

Ex.—bal, one; tel, two; kil, three.

(6.) The numeral words when tenfolds end in ls.

Ex.—bals, ten; tels, twenty; kils, thirty.

(7.) The numeral words of order end in id when adjectives.

Ex.—kilid, the third.

(8.) The numeral words of order when used as adverbs end in ido.

Ex.—kilido, thirdly, in the third place.

folido, in the fourth place, &c.

(9.) The numeral words denoting repetition all end in na.

Ex.—balna, once; telna, twice.

kilsna, thirty times; folna, four times.

(10.) The numeral words denoting distribution take the letter a before them which is kept quite distinct.

Ex.—a lul, every (each) five.

a mäl, „ „ six.

(11.) The numeral words denoting a manifold, get the letters ik.

Ex.—folik, fourfold; velik, sevenfold.

(12.) The numeral words when nouns all end in el.

Ex.—jölél, the eight; züel, the nine.

(13.) In Volapük, verbs are derived from the numeral words by adding ön to the numeral. This shows the verb in the infinitive mood.

Ex.—tel, two; telön, to double.

vel, seven; velön, to multiply by seven.

(14.) The affixes for the verbs, are:—

SINGULAR.

1st person, ob .	Ex.—binob, I am.
2nd „ ol .	„ dunol, thou doest.
3rd „ om (masculine).	„ löfom, he loves.
„ „ of (feminine).	„ kanof, she can.
„ „ os (neuter).	„ dälos, it may.
„ „ on (indefinite).	„ vilon, one will [self.
„ „ ok (reflective).	„ letonok, one lets one's.
2nd „ ons (polite).	„ golons, you go.

(15.) PLURAL.

1st person, obs .	Ex.—nolobs, we know.
2nd „ ols .	„ pükols, you speak.
3rd „ oms (masculine).	„ penoms, they write.
„ „ ofs (feminine).	„ givofs, they (females) give.

3rd person oks (reflective). Ex.—klotomoks, also.

klotomsok, they dress themselves.

Signs for the tenses of the active verbs, to be prefixed to the verb in its conjugative form.

(16.) In the imperfect or past tense, ä.

Ex.—äfinol, thou finishedst.

(17.) In the perfect tense, e.

Ex.—egetom, he has got (received).

(18.) In the pluperfect tense, i.

Ex.—iplanof, she had planted.

(19.) In the future tense, o.

Ex.—odlinobs, we shall or will drink.

(20.) In the future perfect tense, u.

Ex.—ukipoms, we shall or will have kept.

Signs for the tenses of the passive verbs, to be prefixed to the verb in its conjugative form.

(21.) In the present tense, pa.

Ex.—palöfols, thou art loved.

(22.) In the imperfect or past tense, pä.

Ex.—päselon, one was sold.

(23.) In the perfect tense, pe.

Ex.—peliladoms, they have been read.

(24.) In the pluperfect tense, pi.

Ex.—pilogom, he had been seen.

(25.) In the future tense, po.

Ex.—ponulobs, we shall or will be renewed.

(26.) In the future perfect tense, pu.

Ex.—pustopon, one shall or will have been stopped.

(27.) The sign for the subjunctive mood is the affixed syllable, la, kept distinct from the verb.

Ex.—pelob-la, that I may pay.

(28.) The affix for the imperative mood is the syllable öd.

Ex.—domolsöd, stay in (also ös! or öz!)

(29.) The affix for a noun, to make it a verb in the infinitive mood, is the syllable ön.

Ex.:—lif, life; löf, love.

lifön, to live; löfön, to love.

(30.) The participle is always formed by the affix öl.

Ex.—fulöl, filling; liföl, living.

(31.) The affix for the interrogative form is the syllable li?

Ex.—fitoms-li? are they fishing? or, do they fish?

(32.) The affixed sign by which the name of a noun reproduces that of a quality, a symptom of the mind, is the syllable äl.

Ex.—kap, head; kapäl, sense, genius; lad, heart; ladäl, kindness, heartiness.

§ 54.—Proper names. (Nems lönik.)

If it be required to make the plural of proper names that end in a hissing sound, as c, j, s, x, z; such may be done by doubling the last letter, and pronouncing the word sharply.

Ex.—Mice, Darius, Blejj.

§ 55.—Yet we may state that in Volapük the rule for the plural of nouns is, without exceptions, by saying—

(1.) In Volapük the plural always ends in a hissing sound.

(2.) If the singular of proper names ends already in (c, j, s, x, z), (wich is very seldom the case in Volopük), the last letter is doubled, and the word expressed short and sharply.

(3.) If the singular does not end in c, j, s, x, or z, an s is added for the plural; and this settles the rule for the plural altogether.

§ 56.—Names of individual persons. (Pösodanems.)

(1.) In Volapük the second name of persons is put before their Christian names.

Ex.—Not Joseph Bach, but Bach Joseph — Bah Yosef.

(2.) Volapük writes a name just as it sounds, exactly as it is read.

Ex — Consn, Cems (Johnson, James).

THE CASES OF DECLINATION (Deklinafels).

Singular (Banum).

§ 57.—Formation of the possessive case. Singular (whose) (Fomam, kimafala, banuma).

The possessive singular always ends in a.

Ex.—God, God; Goda, God's, of God.

sil, heaven; sila, heaven's.

pen, the pen; pena, of the pen.

glät, the glass, gläta, of the glass.

fien, the friend; fiena, of the friend.

Make the possessive singular of—fil, fire; fin, end; fit, fish; flol, flower.

§ 58.—In Volapük the possessive of names like Mary's, Ann's, &c., is formed by making them adjectives, as Marianik, Anaik, &c; but one may also say—de Maria; of Mary.

de Ana; of Ann, &c.

§ 59.—(1.) Compound expressions, like “a glass of water,” may be given in three different ways, as—with the possessive (2nd case), glät vata;

„ nominative (1st „), glät vat;

with de— “of”, glät de vat.

While one may also say—

glät fulik de vat, glass full of water.

(2.) On the contrary, one writes for a beer-glass:

hilaglät, or glät al bill, or glät plo bil;

a wine-glass—

vinaglät, or glät al vin, or glät plo vin.

§ 60.—Formation of the objective case singular (whom); (Fomam kimefala banuma).

The objective singular always ends in é.

Ex.—din, the thing; diné, to the thing.

kap, the head; kapé, to the head.

dut, diligence, duté, to diligence.

cil, a child; cilé, to a child.

lep, the monkey; lepé, to the monkey.

Make the objective singular of—flum, river; flut, flute; fon, fountain;

fot, wood; fut, foot; gad, garden.

§ 61.—In Volapük the objective case is never explained by a word, as to in English. The objective case must always be formed by affixing the letter é, which may never be omitted.

Ex.—I wish you vipob onsé.

§ 62.—Formation of the accusative (4th case), singular (whom). (Fomam kimifala banuma).

The accusative, or 4th case singular, always end in i.

Ex.— 1st case. 4th case.

penéd, the letter; penedi, the letter.

kanel, the artist; kaneli, the artist.

bakel, a baker; bakeli, a baker bäk, the back; bäki, the back.

Make the fourth case singular of—gäl, gladness; gan, goose; gased, newspaper.

glaf, sword; glid, salutation.

PLURAL (Plunum).

§ 63.—Formation of the possessive case plural (Fomam kimafala plunuma).

The possessive plural always ends in as.

Ex.—balib, the beard; balibas, of the beards.

ban, bath; banas, of the baths.

bät, enticing; bätas, of enticing.

Make the possessive plural of—bad, evil; bel, mountain; gun, coat; jepel, shepherd;

juk, shoe; jul, school; lad, heart.

§ 64.—Formation of the objective case, plural (Fomam kimefala plunuma).

The objective plural always ends in es.

Ex.—ben, grace; benés, to graces.

bid, the kind; bidés, to the kinds.

bim, a tree; bimes, to trees

bod, the loaf; bodes, to the loafs.

Make the objective plural of—

blig, duty; lak, lake; lam, arm; lan, the soul;

lin, a ring; liég, richness.

§ 65.—Formation of the accusative or 4th case plural. (Fomam kimifala plunuma).

The accusative or 4th case plural always ends in is.

Ex.—bluf, the trial; blufis, the trials.

boed, a plank; boedis, planks.

buk, book; bukis, books.

bün, pear; bünis, pears.

but, boot; butis, boots.

Make the 4th case plural of—lit, light; löd, dwelling; log, eye; lol, rose; lon, law.

§ 66.—Formation of the vocative or 5th case, singular and plural. (Fomam kimofala banuma e plunuma).

The vocative, or 5th case, for both singular and plural is simply a nominative with o placed before it, and kept separate.

Ex.—cen, change; O cen globöl, O fascinating change.

Make the vocatives of—cal, vocation; lom, home; lot, guest; fuf, grape, lut, air; mag, statue; mag, image.

§ 67.—When a note of exclamation (!) is written after the noun in Volapük, the O of the vocative may be omitted.

Ex.—O deception! cit!

But in conversation the o shall always be expressed.

§ 68.—Graduation of signification. (Xänumam suema). Volapük shows at least eleven different ways, by which gradually to increase the meaning of a word.

Ex.—town, city; zif.

(1.) miserable little town; luzifil.

- (2.) very small town; smazifil.
 (3.) small town; zifil.
 (4.) miserable town; luzif.
 (5.) small city; smazif.
 (6.) town; zif.
 (7.) miserable big town; lulezif.
 (8.) big town; lezif.
 (9.) miserable important town; luglezif.
 (10.) important town; glezif.
 (11.) important big town; glelezif (leglezif).

§ 69.—Affixes for diminutives. (Finam smalama.)

In Volapük the diminutives of words are formed by adding the syllable il to them (in English, adjectives are generally used for that purpose).

- Ex.—bod, loaf; bodil small loaf.
cog, joke; cogil, little joke
cem, room; cemil, small room (chamber).
kanit, verse; kanitil, little verse.
kat, cat; katil, wee cat, kitten.

Make the diminutives of—

- med*, means; mot, mother; mud, mouth; mun, moon; naf, ship.

§ 70.—In Volapük the inferior meaning (less or worse quality) of a word is shown by prefixing lu (being the reverse of le) to it

- Ex.—pak, spreading; lupak, pollution.
sanel, doctor; lusanel, quack.
vat, water; luvat, piss.
bük, print; lubük, waste paper.

§ 71.—Formation of adjectives. (Fomam ladyekas.) Adjectives always end in ik.

- Ex.—klif, rock; klifik, rocky.
kop, body; kopik, bodily.
san, bliss; sanik, blissful.
ston, stone; stonik, stony.
klot, dress; klotik, dressing.
nat, nature; natik, natural.

Make the adjectives of—

- nab*, narrowness; nem, name.
nepen, enemy; net, nation.

§ 72.—Different affixes of adjectives—ik, lik, nik, sik.

- Ex.—boad, wood; boadik, wooden.
boadlik, woody.

boadnik, wooded.
 yel, year; yelik, one year old.
 yelsik, yearly, annual.

§ 73.—Formation of the comparative degree of comparison. (Fomam lüena telid xänuma.)

The comparative always ends in ikum (ik for the adjective, um for the comparative).

Ex.—koten, contentment; kotenikum, more content.
 kud, care, kudikum, more careful.
 dan, thank; danikum, more thankful.
 deb, guilt; debikum, guiltier.

Make adjectives in the comparative degree of—köl, colour; nid, brilliancy; nim, beast; nil, proximity; nom, rule; nolüd, north.

§ 74.—Formation of the superlative degree of comparison. (Fomam lüena kilid xänuma.)

The superlative always ends in ikün (ik for the adjective, ün for the superlative).

Ex.—def, defect; defikün, most defective.
 dek, ornament; dedikün, most ornamental.
 dib, depth; dibikün, deepest.
 div, value; divikün, most valuable.

Make adjectives in the superlative degree of—dol, grief; not, knowledge; num, number; nul, newness; palet, party; pök, fault.

§ 75. The above syllables um and ün may be affixed to all participles as well; but, of course, without ik.

Ex.—spalöl, excusably.
 spalöllum, more excusably.
 spalölün, most excusably.

§ 76.—Comparative and superlative degrees of nouns. (Plulüen e plülüen subsatas)

Volapük has also the comparative and superlative degree of nouns; but then care should be taken that no mistakes can be made with other similar words.

§ 77.—Volapük makes adjectives of all nouns by the affix ik (lik, nik, sik).

Ex.—cil=child; cilik=childish.
 ji-son=daughter, ji-sonik=(as a daughter).
 son=son; sonik=as a son

§ 78.—The adjectives are usually placed directly after the noun to which they refer; and then they are not inflected to ndicate gender, number, or case, unless such be advisable for harmony, clearness in poetry, &c.

They correspond in gender, number, and case with their noun, when placed before it, or farther back from it.

Ex.—(1.) Placed directly after the noun, unchanged—ji-gokes visedik, to the sensible hens.

(gok, cock; ji-gok, hen; ji-goke, to the hen; jigokes, to the hens; vised, sense: visedik, sensible [adjective]).

(2.) Placed farther back from the noun; changed for gender, number, and case like the noun.

ji-gokes fol olas visedikes, to your four sensible hens.

(If visedik had not been inflected, the meaning of the sentence would be—to the four hens of your sensible personalities).

(3.) Placed before the noun, inflected—visedikes ji-gokes, to the sensible hens; which shows the same as under (1).

§ 79.—If a noun has two or more adjectives, the most particular one of these is placed before the noun, and inflected to correspond.

Ex.—gletiks doms nulik, the big new houses.

NB.— This arrangement is especially made to avoid accumulation of words ending in ik.

NUMERALS (Numavöds).

Numerals of Quantity (Stabanums).

§ 80.—Digits (Balelas nums).

The numbers from 1 till 9 end in l, as:

1, bal.	4, fol.	7, vel.
2, tel.	5, lul.	8, jöl.
3, kil.	6, mäl.	9, zül.

§ 81.—Changes.

one (feminine) = ji-bal; of-bal (bal-ji, bal-of).

one (neuter) = os-bal, bal-os (with a dash (—)); (because balos means it unites).

the ones (...the others) = (balims...votims).

of the one = bala.

of the one (feminine) = ji-bala.

to the one (feminine) = ji-bale.

the one (4th case feminine) = ji-bali).

§ 82.—Tenfolds (Balselas nums). All tenfolds end in ls, as 10, bals.	40, fols.	70, vels.

20, tels.	50, luls.	80, jöls.
30, kils.	60, mäls.	90, züls.

Hundred is called tum.

thousand	„	mil.
million	„	balion.
billion	„	telion.
trillion	„	kilion.
four million	„	folion.
five	„	lulion.

thousand million is called baliad, &c.

Then also balsion (decilion), telsion, zülsion, &c.

The binary numbers are formed thus:

eleven,	balsebal (10 and 1).
twelve,	balsetel (10 and 2).
thirteen,	balsekil (10 and 3), &c.

47536 is, in Volapük, folsevelmil lultum kilsemäl (40 and 7 thousand 5 hundred thirty and 6).

How would you say in Volapük?:

4 children;	8 dogs;	10 guests.
30 grapes;	50 ships;	100 means.
20 statues;	60 fishes;	1000 things.
90 letters;	1 million towns.

§ 83.—Comparison of tenfolds.

In Volapük tenfolds are compared thus:

Possessive (2nd Case).

of the twentyfold—telsa.

of the twentyfolds—telsas (and not telas, the l and s in tenfolds always stand together).

Objective (3rd Case).

to the thirtyfold—kilse.

to the thirtyfolds—kilses.

4th Case (Accusative).

the fortyfold—folsi.

the ninetyfolds—zülsis.

§ 84.—Ordinal numerals (Leodanums).

All the ordinal numerals end in id.

Ex.—balid—the first.

telsebalid—the twenty first.

tumid—the hundredth.

milid—the thousandth.

balionid—the millionth.

§ 85.—Adverbs of order (Nums ladvelibik).

All adverbs of order end in ido.

Ex.—telido. in the second place.

folido .. fourth

velido .. seventh balsido .. tenth ..

kiltumido in the three hundredth place.

How would you say in Volapük?

in the first place.

.. fifteenth place.

.. twentyninth place.

§ 86.—Adverbs of number (Nums denuama).

(1.) The adverbs of number end in na (equal to the English "times").

Ex.—kilna. three times; lulna, five times.

jölina, eight times; telsna, twenty times.

N.B.—In such words, as telsna, kilna, Volapük introduces an e, and writes telsena, kilna etc. so as to separate the consonants.

(2.) In Volapük adverbs of number are made adjectives by affixing lik to them.

Ex.—balnalik, folnalik, zūnalik, kilnalik, (kilsenalik), tumnalik, &c.

§ 87.—Distributive adjectives (Nums dilama).

(1.) Distributive adjectives are formed by placing the letter a (each) separately before the numeral.

Ex.—a tel, each two; a tels, each twenty; a tum, each hundred; a folid, each fourth (or: folid alik).

(2.) Each second, each third, &c., or, always the second, third, &c., are called in Volapük; a telid, a kilid.

Ex.—each tenth soldier got killed solat a balsid päfunom.

§ 88.—Manifold Numerals. (Nums mödükama).

Also the adjectives formed of numerals by the affix fold, end in ik in Volapük.

Ex.—Velik, sevenfold: folsik, fortyfold; tumik, hundredfold; milik, thousandfold.

The affix nik forms adjectives like telnik, two kinds; malnik, six kinds.

§ 89.—Numerals used as nouns. (Nums subsatik).

(1.) When numerals are used as nouns they always take the affix el in Volapük.

Ex.—Kilel, three (quantity of three); balsel, ten (quantity of ten)

(2.) The numerals indicating a fraction end in dil.

Ex.—Foldil, quarter, a fourth part, $\frac{1}{4}$.

Telsedil, twentieth part, $\frac{1}{20}$.

§ 90.—Numerals used as verbs. (Velibs numik).

(1.) The verbs formed of numerals (like all other verbs in Volapük) end in the affixed syllable ön.

Ex.—Balön, to unite (bring to one).

Telön, to double (to multiply by two).

Kilön, to triple (to multiply by three).

Tumön, to multiply by hundred.

Milön, to multiply by thousand, &c.

(2.) The English verb, "to simplify", is called in Volapük, balükön; not balikön, for then balikos would have a double meaning—i. e., "the simplicity", and also, "it simplifies".

§ 91.—Different expressions derived from numerals (Difiks numa sepets).

Trinity, kilbalod; triangle, kilagul; three-twin child, kiläb; unanimity, balif; unanimous, halifk; single, baladik; some, ans, singularity, balad (balöf); solitary, soalik; first time, balidna; quart (music), foluf; two by two, in couples, a telik (a tel, telelik); quadrant, vadat (folafan); quantity, limödöf; quota, limödikos; small twelfth part, balsetedilil; discord, telif; two-headed, telakapik; five hundred, lultum; five times hundred thousand, lultum mil; seven kinds, velnik; seventy hundred, velstum (velmil); in the seventeenth place, velsido.

§ 92.—STATEMENTS OF TIME. (Lenuns tima).

In Volapük time is stated by using the words glok (clock) or düp (hour).

Ex.—Seven o'clock.

Vel su (len), glok; or, düp velid (vel).

Half-past seven, düp velid e lasik.

A quarter to eight ($7\frac{3}{4}$ hours), düp vel e foldils kil.

In Volapük one follows this order in stating time—

Hour, half hour, or quarter, then minutes and seconds.

A quarter to eight may be said also this way—Düp velid e minuts folselul.

The same arrangement does for the year.

Ex.—1885 = 1 thousand 8 hundred 80 and 5.

Balmil jöltum jölselul.

§ 93.—Date (dät).

Also at stating dates the order of § 92 is followed, thus—

(1) The year (yel); (2) the month (mul); (3) the day (del); (4) the hour (düp), therefor—

Glasgow, the 2nd December, 1884, 9 o'clock in the evening (9 P.M.)

Glasgó, balmil jöltum jölsefol.

Glasgow, 1 thousand 8 hundred 80 and 4.

Dekul tel(id) düp zül vendela

December second, hour nine of the evening.

§ 116. —Third Person Plural (reflective), . . . selves.

(Pösod kilid plunuma (getefamik) oks).

The 3rd person plural reflective (. . . selves) of all verbs ends in ok, with the plural s, that is oks; which syllable is preceded by any of the affixes (ob, ol, om, of, os, on, and the polite ons) given in § 111. These affixes only require the plural s when oks is separated from the verb.

Ex.—we accommodate ourselves, yumoboks.
 you mistake (yourselves), pölolsok.
 they (those men) enjoy themselves, gälomoks.

Ex.—you put yourselves into a passion (to two or more persons) — zilonsoks.

Examples in which oks is separated from the verb—they (those men) belie one another—nevelatoms okis (objective case: oke, okes); they (those women) anger one another—zunofs okes (ok, . . . oks, only stands in the 1st case).

Make similar forms of—a pull—zug; batch—bak; bliss, salvation—beat.

§ 117.—(1.) Volapük admits sok instead of oks, thus—obsok olsok, omsok, ofsok.

(2.) Oks directly affixed to the verb, and oks (in the objective case) separated from the verb, give a different meaning to the sentence, as—löfomoks (or löfomsok) means—they love themselves; but löfoms okis means—they love one another.

B. TEMPORAL. Tenses of the verb (timafoms).

§ 118.—Aoristus activi (paitüp foma dunöna).

(1.) The mark for the aoristus activi in all verbs is the particle ai prefixed directly to the verb.

Ex.—aiblu fom, he tries always, usually.

ainosoms, they destroy constantly.

ainonol, thou deniest steadfastly.

ainumof, she counts uninterruptedly.

ainunob, I inform incessantly.

(2.) This particle ai is read a-i, as Volapük uses no diphthongs.

N.B.—Volapük has an aoristus in the present, past, and future tenses.

Ex.—(a) Mödikos aijenos ta valadi menas.

Much happens against the expectation of men.

(b) Nifatimsnog valiks eihlinoms kalodi.

Yet all winters have brought cold.

(c) Aliki kligi menaflen nobik oilabom,

every war the noble philanthropist

al heplonön,

will have to repent.

II. PASSIVUM OF THE VERBS. (Sufafom velibas).

§ 124.—Praesens passivi (is). [Patüp sufafoma (pa)].

The mark for passive form of the verbs is always the letter p. The mark for the present tense is the particle pa, prefixed to the verb.

Ex.—pamuton, one is compelled; pakösömos, it is used;
pakösomoms, they are consumed; pafunom, he is killed;
pademanol, thou art wanted.

Translate also—

it is planned (plan, disin).

§ 125.—Aoristus passivi. [Paitüp sufafoma (pai)].

(1.) The mark for the aoristus passivi in the present tense of all verbs is the prefixed syllable pai (pa-i).

Ex.—paisagos, it is usually said.
pajutos, shooting is always done.
paicüton, one is usually deceived.
paimilagom, he is constantly admired.
paimufof, she is constantly kept moving.

Translate also—

pöi...öl, for the gerundivum.

§ 126.—Imperfectum passivi (was.) [Pätup sufafoma(pä)].

The mark for the past tense of all passive verbs is the prefixed particle pä.

Ex.—pädivom, he was respected.

pädlenos one was crying.

pädledons, you were dreaded.

*pädlefol*s, you were hit.

päklotofs, they (those women) were dressed.

Translate also—

§ 127.—Perfectum passivi (has been). [Petüp sufafoma(pe)].

The mark for the perfect tense of all passive verbs is the prefixed particle pe.

Ex.—pefälos, it has been felled.

pefelos, it has been ploughed.

pefeiton, one has been fought.

pefimol, thou hast been confirmed.

Make similar forms of—

food, fid; interest, fien; fire, fil.

philosophy, filösop; fineness, fein.

§ 128.—Plusquamperfectum passivi (had been). [Pitüp sufafoma (ni)].

The mark for the pluperfect tense of all passive verbs is the prefixed particle pi.

Ex.—piſitos, had been fished piſlagöms, they had been claimed.
piſtapons, you (polite) had been struck.

Make similar forms of—

fly, flit; fruit, fluk; flute, flut.
 forgiveness, pardon, fögiv; form, fom.

§ 129.—Futurum passivi (shall or will be). [Potüp sufafoma (po)].

The mark for the future tense of all passive verbs is the prefixed particle po.

Ex.—poſönos, it shall or will be burnt.
poſopom, he shall or will be bantered.
poſufof, she shall or will be shunned.
poſuſon, one shall or will be killed.

§ 130.—Futurum exactum passivi (shall or will have been). [Putüp sufafofa (pu)].

The mark for the future perfect tense of all passive verbs is the prefixed particle pu

Ex.—puſönoſ, she shall or will have been favoured.
puſönoſ, one shall or will have been gone.
puſöloſoſ, one shall or will have been breakfasting.
puſöboſ, one shall or will have been rowing.

Make similar forms of—

shadow, jad; creation, jaf; sharpness, jap;

§ 131.—Prefixes of the Verbs (Bisilabs veliba).

(1.) Active form (Dunafom): aoristus ai; past ä; perfect e; pluperfect i; future o; future perfect u.

(2.) Passive form (Sufafom): aoristus pai; present tense pa; past tense pä; perfect tense pe; pluperfect tense pi; future po; future perfect pu; Gerendivum pö.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD (Mögabid).

§ 132.—The mark for the Subjunctive Mood is always the syllable la, which is affixed to the verb, and kept distinct from it by a dash (—). This syllable never gets the accent.

Translate also :

that you might show (show, jon).
 that she might lock (lock, jöt).
 if it might happen (happiness, läb).
 you might have halved (half, laf).

§ 133.—The Interrogative Form (Säkabid).

In cases where no interrogative pronoun or an interrogative adverb is used, the interrogative form is made by affixing the syllable li to the verb, or to any other appropriate word, keeping it distinct by a dash (—).

Ex.—ladof-li, does she press to her heart?
 laboton-li, does one lodge?
 ilodos-li, was it loaded?

§ 134—Interrogative Form with Subjunctive Mood (Säka-bid ko mögabid).

When -li and -la fall together, as for instance in the interrogative form of the subjunctive mood, then -li is placed before -la (thus, -li, -la?), but also -li and -la may be separated and added to different words.

Ex.—no elanons-li-la, } if you had not been animated.
 or, no-li elanons-la, }

Translate also:

do I encourage? (courage, lanim).
 did they rob? (robbery, lapin).
 if you had answered? (answer, gepük).

THE INTERROGATIVE PARTICLE LI?

§ 135.—(1.) The interrogative particle -li is not always affixed to the verb, but it may be added to other appropriate words, either to give them more stress, or to avoid accumulation of consonants in the verb.

(2.) Li may also be used just alone when it puts more stress on the question itself.

§ 136.—(1.) Li may be left out when interrogatives like kim, kiplad, kibid, ibö, &c, are used.

(2.) If used in such cases, however, then it shows that an immediate prompt answer is wanted.

§ 137.—If (if).

(1.) If in Volapük is the same as the English if.

Ex.—if November comes, we get snow.
 if ukömom novul, ogetobs nifi.
 if you come, I'll give thee my book.

Ex.—if kömol, legivob buki oba.

N.B.—Volapük does not admit then, while such is often used in English, as for example—if you come, then I'll give you my book.

(2.) Also in conditional sentences the use of if is the same in both languages.

Ex.—if you tell us the truth, and (if) (you) blame our faults, you will be our true friend.

if sagonš obes velati, ed (if) blamons pökis (döfis) obas, obinons fien velatik obsa.

N.B.—Here the polite form singular is used in both languages.

§ 138.—Imperative Mood. (Büdabid)

The Imperative Mood for all tenses, and all persons and forms, is expressed by affixing the particle öd to the inflected verb.

Ex.—legivolöd, present! (thou).

legälobsöd, we must give delight.

lemolsöd, buy!

elenadomöd, he must have learnt

Translate also—

I must be freed (liberty, lib)! don't long (longing, levip); you must have heard! (to hear, lilön).

§ 139.—The stronger Imperative Mood. (Lebüdabid)

Tho make the command stronger, Volapük uses öz instead of the öd in § 138.

Ex.—gololöz! you must go! get you gone!

epenlösöz ya! you must have written already!

§ 140.—Volapük has also imperatives (büdabids) like—

(1.) Substantial—

samöd! for example!

löföd! love govern!

püdöd! peace!

(2.) Infinitive—seilönöd! to be quiet!

letönöd mekön! to get made!

(3.) Participial—mogolölö, go away! (to one person).

egolölsöd bived! gone ahead (to more than one person).

(4.) Adverbial and interjectional—

spido! in a hurry!

spidö! quick!

flitö! immediately!

sagö! say it! speak!

SALUTATION (Glidam).

§ 141.—Volapük says—

glidob oli, for; I greet you.

peglidolöd,

paglidolöd, } for; you must be greeted and also, binolöd paglidöl (fa ob).

§ 142.—Must.

When "must" means "one says that," Volapük uses in that case "sagon, das," and not the imperative of the verb sötön.

Ex.—your friend must have come, (because one says so) sagön, das fien olik ekömom—la (and also pasagos or sagosok)

§ 143.—The optative (vipabid).

The mark for the optative is same as for the imperative, the affixed particle ös.

Ex.—lifomös! he may live!

saunofös! she may recover!

esavolös! that thou mayest be saved!

räponös! may one file!

§ 144.—The infinitive (subsatabid).

The verb in the infinitive mood is always known by the particle ön affixed to the primitive word.

N.B.—This ön may be added to the verb in its conjugated forms as well.

Ex.—kud, care.

kudön, to care.

kudof, she cares.

kudofön, her caring.

§ 145.—The supine (diseinabid).

(1.) Al, with the infinitive mood of the verb, means to, as in ready to go, for going.

Ex.—al mekön, to make (for making); al gives more strength to the infinitive mood.

(2.) Al stands for to, also in the meaning of "than that," as, binom tu nobik al tifön (al binön, vedön tifel), he is too noble than that he would steal; or in better English, he is too noble to steal.

PARTICIPLE (Ladyekabid).

§-146.—The mark for all participles, active and passive, without one exception, is the particle ol affixed to the primitive word.

Ex.—lögöl, mourning.
elutöl, having aired.

§ 147.—The participles may be used with -li and -la in the interrogative form and the subjunctive mood.

Ex.—etidöföls-li? likely women who (that) have teached.
otemoföls-la, ladies who (that) will likely buy.
elogoföls-li-la? females, that perhaps might have seen?

§ 148.—Participles of the intransitive verbs. (Ladyekabids velibas nelovegolik).

(1.) The past participles of the intransitive verbs usually have the active and not the passive form. Therefore is—gone, not pegölöl, but egölöl.
died, not pedeölöl, but edeölöl.
come, not pekömöl, but ekömöl.

(2.) If used in the passive form, they would mean one who is made to go, made to die, made to come.

(3.) Other participles—ägolöl, one that went.

aigölöl, one that goes constantly.
ideölöl, one that had died.
ükömöl, one that will have come.
oigölölos, something that will always go.
of-ükömöl, one (feminine) that will have come continually.

In the same way are inflected the participles of the passive form for all tenses and persons.

SPECIAL RULES OF PARTICIPLES. (Patiks noms ladyekabidas).

§ 149.—Volapük does not allow the participle instead of the infinitive mood, which is often done in the English language, as—without knowing it, must be (without to know it), in Volapük, nen nolön osi.

§ 150.—Instead of saying I write, we usually say I am writing, admitting the auxiliary verb "to be." In Volapük this may be done also.

Ex.—penob, or binob penöl.

§ 151.—Participles as nouns.

The wounded of the battle is: pevunels puga, but not pevunöls.

§ 152.—In English we say very often "you write better than he does," using the verb "to do." Volapük never allows the use of such expletives, but says plainly,— penons gudikum, ka om.

 you write better, than he.

§ 153.—Auxiliary verbs (yufavelibs).

(1.) "To have" as auxiliary verb, is represented by the prefixed particle e.

Ex.—I have loved, elöfob.

(2.) "To be" as auxiliary verb, is represented by the prefixed particles pe, pi.

Ex.—I have been loved, pelöfob.

I had been loved, pilöfob.

While in the passive forms "to be" may be represented by the prefixed pa, pä, pe, pi, po, pu.

Ex.—I am loved, binob pelöföf.

I was loved, äbinob pälöföf.

I have been loved, ebinob pelöföf.

I had been loved, ibinob pilöföf (pelöföf).

N.B.—When used as principal verbs, however, to have means labön, and to be means binön.

Ex.—I have friends—labob flenis; thou art a hero—binol jamep.

(3.) Dare, denoting courage, presumption, means kinön.

(4.) Can denoting power, ability, means kanön.

can „ knowledge, means noön.

can „ liberty, freedom, means dälön.

can „ fault, guilt, means binön kod.

(5.) let=not prevent, means letön.

=cause, „ mekön.

=dismiss, „ dimitön.

=leave, omit, „ nedunön.

=allow, „ dalön.

=leave to, give, sell.

loveleton, givön, selön.

But when let stands for enticing (as for example in, let us hurry up), it is translated by the affixed particle öd.

Ex.—spidobsöd.

(6.) May has also different meanings, as:

will, wish, like.

mägön, vilön, vipön, löfön.

may=being possible, means binön mögik.

=to be allowed „ dälön.

=want, need, „ nedön.

=have reason, „ labön kodi.

But when may absolutely denotes a wish, it must be represented by the affixed particle ös.

Ex.—may he keep well —blibomös saunik!

Might is represented by the syllable -li, the mark for the subjunctive mood.

But when might means: ought to, as in: he might (ought to) pay now, Volapük says: pelomöx nu, always using the affix öx.

- (7.) Must=bound to, means mütön.
 =obligation, „ sötön;
 =or imperative mood,... öd.
 =necessity, means zesüdön.

- (8.) Shall=denoting future, is expressed by the prefixes o and u in the active form.
 =must, means sötön.

=imperative mood... öd, and for the stronger imperative (lebüdabid, see § 139)... öz.

Ex.—thou shalt give—givolöz!

=to avail, help—pöfödön, yufön.

=supposed, allowed, that... is said by, ludas.

=ne says, one pretends, one will, &c., sagon, sagosok, pa-sagos.

- ¹ (9.) Would, in conditional sentences, is expressed by the imperfect and the pluperfect tenses of the subjunctive mood (-la). To express it in the present, the perfect, and the future tenses (as, for example, I would be one that loves, that has loved, shall love, shall have loved, is loved), such is done by adding öv (v of vilön) to the person of the verb.

Ex.—If one heard me (listened to me), I would be one that made the whole of mankind happy; if obi lilonöv, binoböv beläböl menadi lölik (7 Volapüka for 15 or 16 English words).

This öv may be added to the imperfect and the pluperfect tenses (without -la).

- (10.) Other verbs that may be used as auxiliary verbs are translated thus:

need, by nedön, zesüdön, or the affix ök

use, by ledunön, or the aoristic prefix ai, appear, by jinön.
