A MOTHER'S GRAVE—Earth has some sacred spots where we feel like loosening the shoes from our feet, and treading with holy reverence; where common words of pleasure are unfitting; places where Friendship's hands have lingered in each other, where vows have been plighted, prayers offered, and tears of parting shed. Oh, how the thoughts hover around such places, and travel back through immeasurable space to visit them! But of all the spots on the green earth, none is so sacred as that where rests, waiting the resurrection, those we once loved and cherished. Hence, in all ages, the better portion of mankind have chosen the loved spots for the burial of their dead, and in those spots they have learned to wander at eventide to mediate and weep. But among all the charnel houses of the dead, if there is one spot more sacred than all the rest, it is a mother's grave. There sleeps the mother of our infancy—she whose heart was a stranger to every other feeling but love, and who could always find excuses for us when we could find none for ourselves. There she sleeps, and we love the very earth for her sake.

KEEPING A SECRET.—The father of Papirius, a Senator of Rome, one day took him to the Senate, when they deliberated on some subjects of importance. On his return his mother asked him what had passed the Senate. The young Papirius was ordered not to speak of it. This answer, as we may readily conceive, only augmented his mother's curiosity. She became more solicitous, and employed every means in her power to obtain the information she wished. Her son, to avoid any further importunities, and to satisfy her anxiety, told her that they had been deliberating, whether it would be better for the republic to suffer the men to have two wives or the women to have two husbands. The Senator's wife, enraged at this pretended deliberation, went immediately, though she had promised secrecy, and communicated her fears to some other Roman ladies. The next morning a large body of indignant wives presented themselves at the door of the Senate, and in a loud voice declared that it would be far better to let the women have two husbands, and were incensed that they should determine a matter of such importance without hearing what they had to say. The Senate, not understanding the women's requests, were thrown into great consternation; when the young Papirius arose, and related in what way he eluded his mother's curiosity. The wives retired; the prudence of the young Papirius was praised; but it was resolved that in future no young man, except Papirius, should be admitted into the Senate.

PICKING UP A PIN.—A young man once went with letters of recommendation to a large banking establishment. He called on the gentleman who was at the head of it, full of hope and confidence that he should obtain employment. The gentleman heard what he had to say, looked over his letters hastily, and handed them back to him saying, "We have nothing for you to do, sir." The young man felt his heart sink within him. He was ready to burst into tears. But there was no help for it, so he made his bow and retired. As he was passing in front of the building, there was a pin lying on the pavement. He stooped down, picked it up, and then stuck it carefully under the bosom of his coat. The gentleman with whom he had just been speaking was at the window, and saw what took place. In an instant the thought occurred to him, that the young man who had such habits of carefulness as to stop in such a moment of disappointment and pick up a pin would make a careful business man. He sent immediately and called him back. He gave him a humble situation in his establishment. From that he rose by degrees, till he became the principal partner in the concern, and eventually a man of immense wealth and the chief banker in Paris. So much for good, careful habits.

PRAYER was not invented, it was born with the first sign, first joy, the first sorrow of the human heart.

ORDER—Never leave things lying about—a shawl here, a pair of slippers there, and a bonnet somewhere else—trusting to a servant to set things to rights. No matter how many servants you have, it is a miserable habit, and if its source is not in the intellectual and moral character, it will inevitably terminate there. If you have used the dipper, towel, tumbler, etc., put them back in their places, and you will know where to find them when you want them again. Or if you set the example of carelessness, do not blame your servants for following it. Children should be taught to put things back in their places as soon as they are old enough to use them; and if each member of the family were to observe this simply rule, the house would never get out of order, and a large amount of vexation and useless labor would be avoided.

A TRADE A FORTUNE.—Not many years ago, a Polish lady of plebeian birth, but not of exceedingly great beauty and highly accomplished, won the affections of a young nobleman, who having her consent, solicited her from her father in marriage, and was refused—to his great astonishment.
"Am I not," asked he, "of sufficient rank to aspire to your daughter's hand?"
"You are undoubtedly of the best blood of Poland," was the father's reply.
"And my fortune and reputation, are they not —,"
"Your estate is magnificent," continued the father, "and your conduct, irreproachable."
"Then—having your daughter's consent—should I expect a refusal?"
"This, sir," said the father, "is my only child, and her happiness is the chief concern of my life. All the possessions of fortune are precarious; what Fortune gives, at her caprice she takes away. I see no security of independence and comfortable living for a wife but one; in a word, I am resolved that no one shall be the husband of my daughter who is not at the same time master of a trade."
The nobleman bowed and retired silently.

A year afterward the father was sitting at his door, when he saw approaching his house wagons laden with baskets, and at the head of the cavalcade a person in the dress of a basket maker. And who do you suppose it was? The former suitor of his daughter—the nobleman turned basket maker. He was now master of a trade and brought the wares made by his hands for inspection and a certificate from his employer in testimony of his skill. The condition being fulfilled, no further obstacle was opposed to the marriage.
But the story is not yet done. The revolution came; fortunes were plundered and lords were scattered as chaff before the four winds of heaven. Kings became beggars—some of them teachers; but the noble Pole supported his wife and her father in the infirmities of old age by basket-making.

ROMANTIC LOVE SCENE.—'Tis past the hour of midnight. The golden god of day, who yesterday drove his emblazoned chariot through the heavens, has ceased shining on the earth, and a black pall reigns over the lowest sections of the city. Nothing is heard save the distant step of the melancholy bill poster, as he pursues his onward way. Suddenly a sound breaks the stillness; it is the voice of Frederick William, calling upon his beloved Florence Auelia.
"Throw open the lattice, love, and look down upon the basement, for I, your own dear Frederick am here."
"What brings thee at this time of night, when all is still and gloomy?"
"I came to offer thee my heart. Upon my soul I love thee—truly—wildly—passionately love thee. Dost thou reciprocate?"
The maiden blushed as she hesitated.
"Ah!" cried he, and the face of our hero lit up with a sardonic smile, "thou lovest another!"
"No, no, no!" cried Florence.
"Then why not rush to this bosom that is bursting to receive thee?"
"Because, Fred," replied the innocent and trembling damsel, "I'm undressed."

A virulent, aggressive fool taints the reason of a household. As in a boat about to be upset, or carriage run away with, not only a foolish pilot or driver, but everybody on board, is forced to assume strange and ridiculous attitudes to balance the vehicle and prevent its upsetting.

NIGHT brings out stars as sorrow shows us truth. We can never see the stars till we can see little naught else—ajd thus it is with truth.

Mr. Webster and his Bills.

Our readers are aware that the late Daniel Webster was not so careful in his pecuniary matters as some men, and this fault at times, taken advantage of. At one time a poor man sawed a pile of wood for him, and having presented his bill, it was promptly paid by Mr. Webster—The laborer took sick during the winter, and a neighbor advised him to call upon Mr. Webster for the payment of his bill.

"But he has paid me," said the man.
"No matter," replied his dishonest adviser, "call again with it. He don't know, and don't mind what he pays. It is a very common thing for him to pay such small bills twice over."

The man got well, and carried in his account a second time. Mr. Webster looked at it, looked at the man, remembered him—but paid the bill without demurring.

The fellow got "short" some three or four months afterwards, and bethought him of the generosity and loose manner of Mr. Webster in his money matters—and a third time he presented his bill for sawing the wood. Mr. Webster took the account, which he immediately recognized, and scanning the woodsawyer's moment, he said:
"How do you keep your books, sir?"
"I keep no books said the man abashed.
"I think you do, sir," continued Mr. Webster, with marked emphasis; "and you excel those who are satisfied with the double entry system. You keep your books on the triple entry plan, I observe."
Tearing up the account, Mr. Webster added:
"Go, sir, and be honest hereafter. I have no objections to paying these little bills twice but I cannot pay them three times. You may retire!"

The man left the room feeling as though he was suffocating for the want of air—He had learned a lesson which lasted through life.

THE GRATEFUL MILLINER.—A gentleman from one of the provinces went to a fashionable establishment in Paris to purchase a bonnet for his wife, which he requested the mistress of the establishment to select for him. The lady selected a very elegant hat, and when the gentleman enquired the price, she answered that it was paid for. The gentleman was much surprised, and desired an explanation: "Sir," said the lady, "ten years ago you bought some apples of a little girl in the streets of Paris. The poor child had not enough to change a gold piece you gave her, and when she mentioned that her mother was very sick at home, you told her to keep the money till she had enough to change it. The little apple merchant now stands before you—I have married a rich man, and must beg of you to accept the hat as a testimony of my gratitude for the gift which saved my poor mother from suffering."

TRUTH AND FALSEHOOD.—How venerable does a lie become by length of years! Truth is never a babe, and never a hag; as at the first, so at the last—full bloom, yet young; her eye lustrous through ages, and her lips ruddy and fresh as the dew of Eden; upon her brow sits an eternity of beauty. Now falsehood is born a puling, roaring thing. Its very infancy is anticipative of old age, and stamped with the grossness of mortality. Day by day it waxes bigger and stronger, has increases of reputation, crowds of clients; until at length its unrighteous hoariness makes it worshipped by multitudes for no reason save this—it has gray hairs. And so the wrinkled wizard keeps his court and works his mischief dealing, paralyzing spells, until truth, at some time, turns her sapphire eyes full upon him, and as a bubble at finger's touch, Falsehood is gone!

A certain nobleman sold a gentleman a horse for a good round sum, which he took upon his lordship's word that he had no fault. About three weeks after he met my lord: "Why, your lordship told me," he said, "that the horse had no fault, and he is blind of an eye." "Well, sir, it is no fault, it is a misfortune," said my lord.

WHEN a person is very ill, he says "God has afflicted me; but if he feels very happy, and very well, how rarely does he say "God has made me happy." How prone we are to think God is at burials, but not at weddings; how prone to think God is in all that is dark sepulchral and gloomy, but not in the midst of all that is bright, giveth great brightness, and all that is joyful adding, to its intensity and its wurity.

"Will you take something?" said a teetotaler to a friend while standing near a tavern. "I don't care if I do," was the reply. "Well," said the teetotaler, "let's take a walk."

THAT alone can be called true refinement which elevates the soul, purifying the manners by improving the intellect.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, JULY 4TH, 1863.

Justices Blanks.

Blank Affidavits, Undertakings, Writ of Attachment and Subpoenas, under the NEW LAW, for Sale at this Office.

On Monday next, the Court of Sessions will meet at Woodland.

BALL.—The ball given by W. G. Seely last night was a fine, as well as a lucrative affair.

THE CELEBRATION AT WOODLAND.—The 87th Anniversary will be celebrated at Woodland this day (Saturday). The exercises will be a prayer by the Rev. B. H. Russell, reading of the Declaration of Independence by Wm. Belsterling, Esq., and the oration by Beriah Brown, Esq., of Sacramento.

I. O. O. F.—At a regular meeting Woodland Lodge, No. 111, I. O. of O. F., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: G. J. Overshiner, N. G.; J. Tilley, V. G.; D. S. Cutter, R. F.; J. I. S. Wycoff, Treasurer; John Batty, P. S.; C. S. Frost, J. L. Downing and John Batty, Trustees.

On Wednesday next the Democratic State Convention is to meet in Sacramento City. From present indications there will be a large attendance, both in delegates elect and spectators. This convention seems to differ in one particular from all preceding State conventions of both parties, and that is, the claims of no particular persons have been prominently set forth for any of the important positions to be filled, hence it is fair to presume that the delegates go unpledged to any particular man or set of men.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors met at Woodland, on the 22nd ult.

Ordered that the District Attorney pay over to J. A. Douglas, ex sheriff, the sum of $303 08 out of any money he may collect from the Delinquent Tax List for the year 1863, appearing that said Douglas had over paid the District Attorney that amount in his settlement heretofore had.

Ordered that David Sham, of Woodland, be appointed Constable for Cache Creek Township, vice Samuel McDonnell resigned.

June 23d—Bids for building Court-House and Jail, were opened and examined.

Ordered that G. W. Bell be appointed a committee of one, to confer with a like committee appointed by the Supervisors of Lake County, to procure the services of the Surveyor General of the State to survey and mark out the boundary line between said Yolo and Lake County.

June 24th—Report of Viewers of the "Road near Merritt's" adopted, and the Road declared a public highway. Accounts this day was audited and allowed amounting to the sum of $757 45.

June 26th—Contract for building the Court House and Jail, was awarded to P. McManus for the amount of his bid $24,150 00, on condition that on or about the 1st day of July, he enter into good and sufficient bonds for the faithful completion of the contract in pursuance of plan now on file. Accounts audited and allowed amounting to the sum of $98 35.

W. H. Thompson, brother-in-law of A. B. Forbes, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, was gored to death by a bull on his ranch in Alameda county, Wednesday last, July 1st.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.—The books have been opened in San Francisco for subscription to the five-twenty bonds.—They bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable half yearly in coin, and the bonds are redeemable in five years or in twenty, at the option of the holder, hence their name—five twenties. Greenbacks, or any certificate of Government indebtedness are taken at par for this loan. At the present prices of greenbacks, says the Call, $3,550 in gold will secure $5,000 of the loan. At six per cent per annum, the interest on the $5,000 will amount to $300 a year; equal to about nine per cent, per annum on the amount of gold actually invested. An investment of $13,400 in gold, in this loan, will secure to the investor an income of $1,200 per annum in gold for twenty years—the aggregate of interest in that time amounting to 24,000, or nearly twice the amount of the principal. Add to this the principal, $20,000 in bonds, and in twenty years the investor will receive for his $13,400 in gold first invested, the sum of $44,000, which is to be paid back to him in gold.

"A Dual Celebration."

Under the above caption the Daily Sacramento Bee, of Wednesday last treats its readers to a grossly perverted statement, by which great injustice is done that portion of the citizens of our neighboring town of Woodland and vicinity, who were instrumental in getting up the Celebration of the Fourth of July.

It is perfectly well known to the citizens of Yolo County that the celebration at which Mr. Brown, of Sacramento, is to deliver the oration, was determined upon as much as six weeks ago, and it was so stated by these gentlemen, and it was so understood throughout the County that it was to be an "old fashioned celebration" free from all political bias, where the people of all political shades could enjoy the day with all its glorious reminiscences in perfect harmony, without a discordant note to mar the pleasures of any, and all willing to unite in such a Celebration were cordially invited to attend, and no other Celebration than the one referred to was talked of or thought of so far as the parties who inaugurated the first knew until very recently.

Here what the Bee says:

Woodland, in the county of Yolo, is an ambitious burg, since it has become the capital of that stock-raising region. It has been noted for its boldness of its disloyalty, but the light of the age and of patriotism begins to penetrate that heretofore benighted region, and one can now declare himself loyal to the Government without being knocked down.—And loyal men there are now permitted to form military companies and to drill in peace. In consequence of this progress in civilization, the loyal people of that vicinity had determined to celebrate in a becoming manner the anniversary day of their nation's birth, and to have a grand barbecue—such as an ox roast with several muttuns by his side—and all the people were invited to freely eat and be merry. Our good natured, ever smiling, happy and intensely loyal fellow-citizen, J. T. Peck, was invited to make the oration, and others of like loyal status were invited to officiate in other capacities. This, it seems, for some cause or other (which to us is at present a mystery) was not satisfactory to all; hence it was determined to get up a second, or opposition celebration, &c."

It will be seen that the Bee denominates this Celebration the "opposition," when the reverse is the fact; the Celebration at which the Rev. Mr. Peck, is the orator of the day is the opposition if there is any opposition about it (and it does look like it) for we believe it is not denied by any one that the other was the first spoken of and determined upon.

For ourselves we cannot see why two distinct Celebrations in the same town was necessary. But if those who choose the Rev. Mr. Peck for their Orator could not subscribe to the arrangements of the first, we suppose they had a perfect right to get up another and conduct it in their own way, and hope they will be allowed to do it in peace and that both may pass off happily for all concerned.

We leave to the citizens of Woodland the duty of attending to the Bee for his flings at their "loyalty, &c." We hope the Editor of the Bee feels better since he got off this little squib concerning our watters in Yolo.

GREENBACKS DECLARED NOT A LEGAL TENDER.—In the case of Lewis H. Meyer vs James J. Roosevelt, the Supreme Court of New York, on the 3rd of June decided that greenbacks are not legal tender. The following are the conclusions:

Congress has no express power to make these notes a legal tender for private debts. The power to coin money, regulate the value of foreign and domestic coin, was confined in terms and intent to coin, to metallic money. If Congress has any power to pass a tender law for private debts, it is obtained from the clause that regulate the value of coin—as an incident of the power to regulate, and is confined to coin, to hard money, or, as a learned judge terms it, "constitutional money." Congress has no right to make anything but money a legal tender for private debts. The law assumes to be based upon that position, and therefore enacts that these treasury notes shall be "lawful money." But they are not lawful money, being mere promises to pay money. Nor is this provision valid as necessary and proper to execute any special power conferred upon Congress.—Not necessary and proper to enable Congress to borrow money on the credit of the United States, as it certainly has no "plain adaptation" or "obvious relation" as a means to that end. It is in no sense a borrowing money, but on its face a mere attempt to issue money.

Dr. Beers, dentist, an old resident of San Francisco, murdered his whole family Wednesday night, July 1st, and then committed suicide. He was deeply involved in mining speculations.

Who Wrote the Letter.

MR. EDITOR:—For several days passed, many persons of this community have been eagerly looking for a very able production that Mr. McCarty had promised to publish in your paper, in answer to a communication, alleging that a certain letter accompanying it, was written by him.

At last the promised production is at hand; and as we anticipated, it is of such a character as to require us to retract: this we are willing to do; not because anything we said is untrue, but because it has brought McCarty more conspicuously before the public, than any act of his could have done, and placed him in a position not befitting the man; and because I am actually ashamed to get into this kind of a controversy with him.

We alleged in our first communication, that Mr. McCarty wrote the letter referred to. He knows he wrote it, and I know he wrote it, and we both know that the entire community believe he wrote it.

But if Mack wants us to prove it, and will pay us for our time and services in advance, we will produce affidavits enough to cover a realm of fools cap, any one of which shall be sufficient proof before a jury, to convict; and the affidavits shall all be made by individuals of any political party that he may designate.

The first paragraph in Mr. McCarty's communication deserving particular attention on is the following:

"Now I assert your correspondent knowingly and willfully stated that which is false."

That is right, Mr. McCarty, deny it! Almost everybody deny what they are ashamed of.

We don't blame you for writing the letter, if you thought that Union men were afraid to have you nominated, and that you could thereby secure the nomination for something. And if the letter took a different turn from what you anticipated, or if you have really become ashamed of it, we don't blame you for denying it. But Oh, let me admonish you, in a true Christian spirit, that the good book teaches that all hairs shall have their part in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone.

The second paragraph in Mr. McCarty's article, requiring attention is as follows:

"And had he known as much as many Democrats, he would not have had  to beat me for District Attorney."

What! a candidate for District Attorney? and for State Senate? and for County Judge? well, Mr. McCarty is as strong a man as there is in the county, and copulent enough to fill the offices with a great deal of ***** (?)

The third paragraph in Mr. McCarty's letter to the News worthy of notice is as follows:

"No sane man can read it and see anything in it that would make in my favor even had I been a candidate, and God knows I would not have the audacity to receive a nomination from them, much less to seek one."

Oh Mr. McCarty, let me entreat of you in as imploring a manner as possible to accept a nomination of the Republican convention. Do, won't you!

In conclusion, let me say to Mr. McCarty that I am willing to dismiss this whole matter in a friendly spirit and upon mutual promises to each other. That is, if he will promise me not to drop any more such letters, I will promise him not to publish them. M. E. ANON.

THE HARVEST IN CONTRA COSTA.—The Contra Costa Gazette of 27th June says:

From the best information we have been able to gather, the grain crop this year will average much less to the acre than was realized at the last harvest, but the large breadth of land sown will probably render the aggregate amount produced about the same. In San Ramon Valley and probably San Pablo, the yield is excellent, some fields in the former locality, we are informed, will turn out 60 bushels per acre. In this vicinity, in Ignacio Valley, and at other points the crops are very light. Barley is doing better than wheat.

THE number of silver and copper mining companies incorporated in the previous month was 224, and the aggregate capital $7,751,100.

No less than 277 gold, silver and copper mining companies have been incorporated in San Francisco alone, with an aggregate capital of $9,866,670.

TO PERSONS WHOSE HEALTH IS BROKEN DOWN—Every disease might unquestionably be prevented if nature were assisted to rally with that most wonderful of all invigorators, DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

When the flame of life wanes and quivers from exhaustion, administer this famous restorative. It will once more become steady and strong. In the debility which follows violent fever; in diarrhoea, dysentery, dyspeptic complaints and cholera; in the weakness consequent upon natural decay, or resulting from free living or over exertion, and also in those painful and too much neglected ailments to which ladies are exclusively subject, the Bitters never fail to give permanent relief.—Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

HOSTETTER, SMITH & DEAN, m2-1m Sole Agents, San Francisco.

DR. GUYSOTT'S EXTRACT OF YELLOW DOCK AND SARSAPARILLA, put up in the largest sized bottles, contains more of the pure Honda or Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is chemically combined with the Extract of Yellow Dock and the Extract of Wild Cherry thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other sarsaparilla before the public.

At the same time it is perfectly free from all mineral poisons, which cannot be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The invalid should beware of poisons! Mercury, Iron, Quinine, Potash, Iodine, Sulphur, Arsenic, and many other mineral and metallic poisons enter into and form the active basis of most of the Sarsaparillas and Panaceas of the day. Guy's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of these substances; as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests. Let all poisonous Sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guy's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless, and purely vegetable. All kind of diseases yield to its gentle influence.

RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, QUINCY, PILLS, NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, NEURALGIA, AND ALL EXTERNAL INJURIES, Yield readily to the wonderful properties of Sweet's Infallible Liniment.

Try it. One trial will convince the most skeptical. It has been proved in a practice of more than 20 years, and never fails. Prepared from the recipe of Dr. Stephen Sweet, the great bone setter, and for sale by all Druggists.

School Circular.

A Circular, addressed to Public School Teachers, has recently been issued by the Hon. John Swett, Sup. of Pub. Instruction, from which we make the following extracts:

Instructions to School Teachers.

The blanks and forms required by law in the discharge of your official duties, have been forwarded to your County Superintendent, and if not already received by you, await your order at his office. The forms and blanks are as follows:

- Revised School Law.
Public School Register.
Public School Teachers report.
School Census Marshals report.
Appointment of School Census Marshal.
Public School Trustees' Report.
School Trustees' Certificate of Election.
Election Posters.
Order Book on County Superintendent.
Petition to the Legislature.

Revised School Laws.

The revised School Law, passed April 6th, 1863, is so plain in its provisions, that a careful study of it, with the running commentary of good common sense, will relieve you from the necessity of any instructions from this office.

If you have failed to receive a copy of the law, apply by letter to this office, or to your county Superintendent. Copies of the School Law and all other educational documents and forms received from this Department, will be passed over to your successors elected in August next.

Public School Registers.

In accordance with a provision of the School law, a Daily Public School Register is furnished by the State to each School District. It is your duty to require this Register to be kept according to law, and returned to you, properly summed up at the end of each term. Exactness in keeping this Register will make the returns to this office reliable, instead of being distant approximations to actual facts.

School Census Marshals.

The Census Marshal must be appointed early in July, and he must make his returns by the first of August. Whenever a male Teacher is employed, it would be well to employ him to take the census as he is supposed to be acquainted with most of the families of his district. In no case should the work be committed to the hands of incompetent persons.

School Trustees Report.

Your own Report consists mainly in transcribing to their respective columns the reports of Teachers and Census Marshals. It is highly important that the financial report be fully and correctly made. The amount raised by "Rate Bills" is particularly desired. The estimated value of School houses, when they have any value at all, should be exactly returned. Many Teachers in the State will not be troubled with figures under this heading.

Trustees Certificate of Election.

In this certificate, read "August," instead of "April," and instead of "one" year, insert "one," "two," or "three" years, as the case may be. The Oath of Office can be administered to the newly elected Trustees by any one of the old Board, and the certificates of election must be forwarded to the County Superintendent by the Clerk of Election.

County Institutes.

Let me ask your aid in behalf of the county Institutes which may be called by your county Superintendent. Give the children a vacation during Institute week, and put your Teachers under pay, and send them to school. It will do them good, and some of them need to be waked up by an Institute, which is only a school for teachers. It will not harm you to be liberal. Your school will be better taught in consequence, and the county Superintendent will work with a better will. The Adjutant General find it necessary to assemble the officers of the military companies of the State in a "Camp of Instructions," for the purpose of drilling them in military tactics. Each county should have its "Camp of Instruction" for the teachers, and you should send a recruit from each district, with six days rations.

The California Teacher

Request every teacher employed by you to subscribe for the California Teacher, a monthly magazine, devoted to the interests of Public Schools, and edited by the teachers of the State. And if you, yourselves, want to know what is going on in the educational world; if you want to know how to select a good teacher from the number who apply to you for employment; if you desire to help along the good time coming, send your dollar along with your teacher's.

Apportionment of State Fund.

The report of the Controller has not yet been received at this office, but the estimated amount to be placed to the credit of the school Fund is $87,000. Of this sum, $17,147 is apportioned on the census of October, 1861, and may be used by trustees to pay the indebtedness to Teachers during the year ending October 31st 1862. The apportionment amounts to twenty five cents per child, and you can estimate the amount due your district by multiplying the number of children reported in the census returns of October, 1861, by 25. Amount that should have been apportioned, December, 1862, $16,643 25. This amounts to 25 cts. per child, in the census of October, 1862, and may be used to pay indebtedness due teachers during the year ending October 31st, 1863. The remainder, $53,000 -- 75cts per child, will be used to pay the salaries of teachers during the present school year. The exact amount due your district will be given in the abstracts sent to your county Superintendent.

General Suggestions.

As school teachers, you are the Executive agents of the Public school of the State, on you must depend in a great measure, their prosperity and usefulness.

It cannot be expected that you will neglect your business, to visit the schools but you may reasonably expect to employ good teachers and pay them well; to purchase maps and charts for school use, with a small percentage of the county school money; to insist on the adoption of good school books, and to inform yourselves thoroughly concerning all your official duties. It may reasonably be expected that if your school house is nearer than half the barns in the district, you will call a district meeting, levy a tax, and build a new one.

In a recent tour through three of the most fertile counties of the State and among the wealthiest, I did not find a single Public school house which ought not to be returned by the county Superintendent opposite to this heading of his report: "Number of school houses which disgrace the State." If you fail to get the vote at the first meeting, try a second, and a third. School houses must be built, and you are the agents of the people, whose duty it is to build them. You can never make public school the best school until you provide neat spacious, and comfortable buildings; and having erected a school house, and furnished it with modern school furniture, the grounds should be ornamented with trees, and all the surroundings made attractive.

Your next duty should be to secure a professionally trained teacher. The best eastern teachers are coming to us on every steamer, and it will be a pleasure to me to direct some of them to your district if you notify me that you are in want of one. The new law requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to visit the different counties in the State, and address the people on the subject of education.

In the performance of this part of my duty, I hope to meet many of you, and talk with you, face to face, of the wants of our public schools. But if I should fail to meet you I trust you will do your duty none the less faithfully and efficiently. JOHN SWETT Sup. of Pub. Instruction.
