Condition of Mental Confusion Produced by Wealth Possession

To be so rich as to not know what to do with your money must be a remarkable condition of mental confusion, according to James W. Foley to-night in "The Listening Post." And he asks the conclusion of his philosophical article which is your standard of value and who do you worship?

Henry James in his comment on the day's news says that hope is strong that permanent good may come of the Genoa conference. "At any rate," says Mr. James, "the nations representers there must become aware of the wishes and purposes of the others. This in itself is a move toward re-adjustment."

Dr. Frank Crane says that not only school children but the average citizen needs a simple explanation of what is meant by the budget and then he proceeds to give it in a nutshell.

Other interesting features to be found this evening on the editorial page are under the signature of Della Stewart and John Pilgrim, the latter making the assertion, "what a dodgasted old fool a man can make of himself." He then shows how in one minute a person can throw away a friendship that has outlasted years.

AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION IS FORMED

Fifteen Dealers Representing $500,000 Investments Unite

FAVOR A BIG SHOW

Select Board of Directors to Report on By Laws and Executives

Representing investments of more than $500,000, the Glendale Automobile Dealers' Association organized at noon today and swung in solidly behind a big representative automobile show for Glendale in the near future.

A board of directors was organized for the formation of by-laws, the drafting of a plan for the big automobile show will come later.

The organization was affected upon broad, general lines of service to the automobile public and to the automobile trade in Glendale and its affluents.

It succeeded in developing a harmonious spirit, where the previous attempt to organize had failed. It avoided the close trade practice regulations previously insisted upon and established general relations leaving each dealer an individual factor in the trade of Glendale.

The board of directors which will act as a steering committee during organization consists of Steve Packer of the Packer Auto company; George Clayton, the Dodge dealer; William Tanner of Tanner & Hall, Buick dealers; Max Green of Green & MacClellan, Oakland dealers; George Smith, "Wilys-Knight" Overland dealer; James French of Bartlett & French, Hup mobile dealers; Harry E. White of Harry E. White, Inc., Reo dealer.

The keynote of the meeting yesterday was given by Past Secretary Martin of the Pasadena Motor Car Dealers Association and Pasadena manager of the Auto Club of Southern California. He was a guest at the luncheon of the dealers today and spoke by invitation of the perils and pitfalls of a dealer's organization, accentuating the

PRESBYTERY ACTION

Denounce Further Showing of Fat Comedian's Dramatic Work

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The presbytery of the San Francisco district and the women's vigilant committee, composed of representatives of San Francisco's women's clubs, were on record today as opposed to further showing of Fatty Arbuckle films.

The presbytery made public resolutions declaring that regardless of the jury's verdict, Arbuckle was responsible for the "orgy" which preceded Miss Rappe's death. The action of the jury in issuing a statement tending to exonerate Arbuckle was condemned.

The women's committee, which had representatives in attendance at all of Arbuckle's trials, took a much similar position.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Movies of Roscoe Arbuckle, lately acquitted of complicity in the death of pretty Virginia Rappe during a party in his apartment at San Francisco, are being banned from the screen until his case is thoroughly investigated, theatre managers all over the country were notified today by Will H. Hays, head of the motion picture producers and distributors of America.

Hays' order, issued over his signature, affects contracts valued at $500,000 existing between the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and hundreds of theatre managers.

Banishment of the pictures of the comedian followed announcement of the producing company that they would soon release one of Arbuckle's films to "feel" public sentiment.

KINEMA WILL FEATURE AIR MUSIC TODAY

Best Concert Begins After 7:30, When Times Closes

DELIVERY IMPROVES

Many Residents of Orange Street Hear Concert at Their Homes

The second day of the operation of the radio receiving station at the Press building demonstrated that the best music and entertainment of the evening program is that sent out by the Kinema station. This music comes onto the air after 7:30. Up to that time the program sent out by the Times station is an interesting series of musical numbers, news from all over the world, and speeches.

The station is in service up to 10 o'clock, until the last musical number is finished and the navy radio service takes the air.

The tones last night were much clearer than during the first evening. The station has been adjusted and the residents living on Orange street were able to enjoy the concert quite as much as those on Brand boulevard.

The program today will be given at the same hours, and continue on through the Kinema program later in the evening.

The colorful dramatic soprano voice of Ethel Jenks last night was broadcast to the Southwest.

Moving the microphone transmitter farther and nearer her mouth as she modulated her notes in "Giannina Mia," from "The Firefly," she entertained folk in gatherings near the magnovox and sent her voice to remote mountain cabins. A second and third number from "The Firefly" was sung by Miss Jenks accompanied by Margaret Wilson.

The evening program was last night varied by the song of Vivian Ingraham, who thrilled her great audience with two popular numbers, "Don't Leave Me, Dear Old Mammy," and "Tuck Me to Sleep in My Old Kentucky Home."

A brief news report, covering the world, was read to the audience. The radio telephone wave lengths, traveling at a speed of 186,000 miles per second, carried to those listening in bulletins that had been sent from Europe by wireless to Chicago across the Atlantic and relayed to The Times office by telegraph—all in 30 minutes—a speed in the dissemination of news heretofore only known to factitious literature and visionary prediction.

"KHJ"—The Times station designation—last night was utilized by William May Garland of the California Association of Real Estate Boards to invite realty boards to participate in the "End of the Trail" caravan to the national convention of realtors, to be held in San Francisco May 29 to June 2.

PALMER BLOCK TO BE PAVED, IT IS AGREED

Lindsay Co. Finally Secures Sufficient Signatures to Petition

A representative of the M. E. Lindsay Real Estate company of Palmer and Adams street, reports after much effort the block on Palmer between Adams and Tyler is to be paved, practically all the owners of abutting property having signed the petition. This will be a great and much-needed improvement which will benefit all surrounding territory. Through the agency of the Lindsay company, 200 feet on East Palmer have recently been sold to a man who is to begin improvements at once.

Three blocks on Adams, beginning at Palmer and running south to Princeton, are being graded preparatory to paving, and four other blocks are being laid. There is great real estate activity in the section and many new homes are going up, one especially fine one being built on Tyler and Green streets by Mr. Olson of the Glendale avenue branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank.

SACRAMENTO HAS DOUBLE RULERS

City Commissioners and Council Both Run the State Capital

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—While most cities find one municipal government sufficient Sacramento today was struggling under the burden of two.

In the day time the "city commissioners" meet in the city council chambers and pass such laws as they see fit.

By night the "city council" takes possession of the chambers and the reins of government.

The present situation is the result of the passing of a new charter last year, providing for a council of nine and a city manager. After the charter was passed the old city commissioners formally turned over the government to the new board.

Then the old officials found an alleged flaw in the new charter and started suit to have it set aside. The "law" involves omission of several paragraphs of the new charter from the copy approved by the legislature.

The case has gone to the supreme court for settlement but in the meantime the old officers are preparing to come back into power.

They have called an election for May 6 to fill a vacancy on their board of "commissioners." There are no candidates by that doesn't matter.

"Ins" say they can't use the election booths, the city clerk has refused to file the election proclamation and says there will be no ballot.

All told the "ins" have all the best of it at present for they have collected the city taxes and are paying salaries. Hence their orders are being obeyed.

But the "outs" win in the supreme court.

All ordinances passed by the present city council would be invalid.

The tax levy will be invalid and the city will have no funds.

Two and a quarter million dollars worth of bonds voted under the new government will be worthless.

City councilmen may be liable to the taxpayers for money collected and spent during the year.

So Sacramento doesn't really enjoy having two governments.

CHILI-PERU PEACE MEET

Former Willing to Make Sacrifices Says Her Delegate

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 19.—Chile is prepared to make every sacrifice within the limits of right and justice in order to obtain a successful result in the Tacna Arica conference, President Alessandri of Chile declared in an interview with W. W. Hawkins, president of the United Press, at the presidential palace on Tuesday.

President Alessandri said: "I am very grateful to President Harding for his invitation to hold the conference in the United States. I look upon the United States as an idealistic nation, not as a materialistic nation seeking money for itself, but as a nation using its material resources to build institutions for the service of humanity."

Chile is an American is always seeking material wealth, he constantly has in mind its possible employment for the benefit of mankind. I believe President Harding is the incarnation of this idealistic American spirit. I have the most profound and sincere admiration for him."

FORTY-EIGHT CARS LEAVE ON TRADE JUNKET

Two Hundred Delegates of Glendale Take Highway of San Fernando

With forty-eight cars in line and a party of 200 well-dressed men and women, the flower of the chamber of commerce, the Shrine club and all the other civic organizations of the city, including members of the city government, Glendale's motorcade made its get-away to the foothill and San Fernando to the valley towns at 8:45 sharp this morning, with a blare of trumpets and flying banners.

At Tujunga, which was the first stop, the smiling populace was gathered to greet and welcome them. John Steven McGroarty, author of the mission play, had been mentioned as spokesman, but his great speech was deferred until San Fernando should be reached.

City Manager W. H. Reeves made the speech on behalf of Glendale. He said in part: "Friends, we arranged our course to greet you. We are here because we like you and because we wanted to come here first of all. We hope you feel as friendly toward us as we do toward you," continuing his speech along that line.

In responding, John S. Mott, vice president of the Tujunga chamber of commerce, said, "On behalf of the chamber of commerce and the people of Tujunga, I bid you welcome as neighbors and friends."

Wilmot Patcher, who was the first mayor of Glendale and who is now a prominent resident of Tujunga, was introduced by Mayor Spencer Robinson and said it was his hope that the civic organizations of Glendale and Tujunga would work together to make them all one big town.

After the speeches a general get-together meeting was held and music furnished by the Shrine orchestra, the guests and hosts danced together on the dance platform in the public park.

John McGroarty joined the party upon leaving Tujunga. At Roscoe traffic was held up for 20 minutes to allow the motorcade to pass.

When San Fernando was reached a parade of the town was made before any speeches were delivered or dinner served.

ESCAPED CONVICT HIDES IN JAIL

Man Hunt Starts in Folsom Prison After Man Escapes

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., April 19.—I. M. Stalker, 22, Fresno kidnap, is still hiding within the prison walls, Warden J. J. Smith announced today.

All other prisoners were kept locked while the search was being made. Stalker is either hiding in a crevice in the rock quarry or in a hole in the ground, said Warden Smith.

"He has certainly covered himself up, but he hasn't been able to get outside the gates," Smith declared. "We kept an all night guard on every stretch of the prison walls."

Stalker was working in the rock quarry of the prison yesterday afternoon. When the 5 o'clock whistle blew and the men fled into the prisoners' mess hall it was discovered that one was missing. The prisoners are counted by three men on entering the mess hall.

Search was made for the missing man but he was not found. The identity of the missing convict was not known until after the men had been locked in their cells. A check was then made and Stalker was found missing.

Stalker could not have made his way across the American river, Warden Smith said. The river, he declared, is too swift for even an experienced swimmer.

Stalker was sentenced to Folsom prison for the kidnaping of William P. Rowell, 14-year-old nephew of Chester Rowell, in Fresno December 10, 1920. The boy was held prisoner for two days before his kidnap was apprehended.

INTERMEDIATE HOLDS FESTIVAL

Mysterious "Sweet Time" Revealed as Candy Booth of Mothers

The "mystery sweet time" mentioned yesterday in connection with the bazaar to be held at the Intermediate school is no longer a mystery. It is to be a home-made candy booth, the candy to be made by the mothers.

They are planning a bright and snappy program for Friday evening and Miss Payne's room is planning for a clever comedy, "Cinderella" will be given by Miss Sharp's room and the costumes and settings will be quite elaborate.

There will also be a booth in which they will sell aprons, caps, bags and towels.

The annexation was made Tuesday night at 418 Kenneth road, W. H. Armstrong, A. F. Graves and W. R. Cozart, who were at work upon a house there, were the losers. Detectives Stein and Kincaid are working on the case.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—San Francisco Rotary club members today admitted they had a feeling that things weren't so bad 50 years ago.

"Fifty years ago," he said, "the men were the flappers. They used to wear high-heeled boots, fancy clothes and greased their hair. And in those days here in San Francisco one could buy a meal with three meat courses for a quarter and a fine bottle of claret for a dime. More folks went to church then than they do now. FRANCE TO STRIKE AT RUSSIA PACT

To Call Special Meeting of Reparation Committee in Attack

PARIS, April 19.—France planned today to strike at the Russo-German treaty through every possible medium.

Not content with urging concerted action at Genoa, the government requested a special meeting of the reparations committee to pronounce the commercial pact of Rapallo null and void.

Allied governments will be separately appealed to if the Genoa conference fails to annul the treaty. The reparations commission was appealed to because France claims the Russo-German agreement violates reparations clauses of existing treaties.

French officialdom today let it be known it considers that regardless of what happens at Genoa, the conference will be a failure as far as practical results are concerned.

Russians Ask Vote
GENOA, April 19.—The Russian delegation to the Genoa conference announced today it will ask that the Russo-German treaty be discussed at a plenary session and put to a vote.

This was the answer of the soviet to the allied protest against the commercial agreement privately signed at Rapallo on Easter Sunday by German and Russian foreign ministers.

An allied note of protest, penned by Lloyd George, was addressed to Germany and the German delegation was expected to reply today. Although the allies, acting in concert with the "little entente" have informed Germany she can have no further part in Genoa negotiations concerning Russia, it was considered doubtful that Wirth and Rathenau would take this rebuke to heart and go home. Germany, it was pointed out, has completed, by means of the treaty, any agreements she cared to make with Russia.

The Genoa conference is in a state of turmoil through the outspoken passing of the lie in bitter exchanges between Lloyd George and Rathenau, German foreign minister.

PORTUGUESE AIR MEN REACH MID ATLANTIC

On the Rocks of St. Paul Aeroplane Goes Wrong

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, April 19.—Owing to an accident to their plane, Portuguese aviators must abandon or indefinitely delay their trans-Atlantic flight, according to a wireless message received here today.

The flyers had reached St. Paul's Rocks in mid-Atlantic after completing a 900-mile trip, the longest and most perilous of their voyage from Portugal to Brazil. They were reported in wireless messages to be making preparations to start on the next leg—to the island of Fernando Noronha. Then came the message: "Plane useless. Aviators hope save motor."

MRS. GOTCASH MUST LICENSE PUPPY

PORTLAND, April 19.—Mrs. Woppington Gotcash must get a license for her blooded "Peko" or the Oregon Humane society will have his scalp, according to the ultimatum of Mrs. F. W. Swanton, manager of the society.

"It's not only pitiful but unfair that poor men and boys must go to extremes to find money where-with to purchase license tags for their loved mongrel curs while rich apartment house dwellers who seldom allow their 'little darlings' to stray far from their silken cushions get by without buying licenses for their valuable dogs," heatedly declares Mrs. Swanton.

The humane society has instituted and is now vigorously pushing a campaign to ferret out no license tags at their furry throats, and who loiter in the lap of luxury without contributing their share to the state at large.

Mrs. Swanton bases her campaign not only on the spirit of unfairness between the Colonel's lady and her anttagged pup, and Judy O'Grady who barely managed to save Jimmy's yellow dog from the pound, but also upon the fact that the coffers of the state lose by the lap-dog owners eluding the payment of a just tax. "A dog is a dog, be his strain pure or kaleidoscopic," Mrs. Swanton claims.

The fact that the "real dog" and the be-man pup roams the street and the apartment house pooch does not is no argument upon which to base claim for or against license, according to Mrs. Swanton. Any canine who breathes Oregon air must have a tag over his Adam's apple—if he has such throat equipment, or breathe chloroform.

WYOMING OIL ROW STARTED BY FALL

Conservation Fight for Naval Reserve Fuel Is Staged

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Another great "conservation" fight which may rival the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy of the Taft administration, looms as the result of the action of Secretary Fall and Secretary Denby in opening up naval reserves in Wyoming and California to private interests.

Fall admittedly has won his first real victory in his plan to open vast national resources to private development through the signing of contracts with the Mammoth Oil company of Delaware, a Sinclair concern, for taking oil from the Tea Pot Dome, Wyoming, naval reserve, and with the Pan-American Petroleum company for the California reserves.

But in congress and among the conservationist forces a storm is brewing. The senate has passed a resolution of Senator Kendrick, Wyoming, asking complete information regarding the contracts. When this is given the storm is expected to break. It will also involve the policy of Fall for the development of Alaska and the proposed transfer of the forestry bureau from the agricultural to the interior department.

The oil controversy, involving a huge amount of the product which admittedly will play a most vital part in the national defense, because of the large number of oil-burning battleships, centers around whether oil under the ground can be conserved, or whether a governmental property can be tapped by private wells just outside the government land.

Believing oil could thus be conserved, the Taft and Wilson administrations closed most of the oil reserves. The Fall-Denby action indicates the present administration favors opening them, making contracts such as the ones just signed under which the government will get as high as 50 per cent of the oil taken out and then store it at strategic points for use of the fleet in an emergency.

But the conservationist forces claim the oil should be left in the ground or taken out by the government so that it would get all of the oil.

The present plan of the navy is to build huge tanks for storing the oil. Three of these, for instance, probably will be along the Pacific coast. Another large one will be near Norfolk, Va.

EUROPEAN CHAMPS LOSE TITLES EASILY

Kilbane Is Dazed by the Coming and Going of Big Ones

NEW YORK, April 20.—While Europe is joining the anvil chorus in razzing Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, some funny stunts are being pulled among the continental featherweights that even the resourceful Irishman hardly would attempt.

The European championship, according to London papers, changed hands recently without a blow being struck and then changed back again after a few verbal hooks and crosses.

Eugene Criqui, the French champion, challenged Arthur Wyns, the Belgian and European champion, six months ago. Criqui set the date and made all the arrangements without hearing a word from Wyns.

The appointed hour to weigh in for the fight came and Criqui went through the ceremony. Wyns was not there. The scheduled hour for the fight arrived and Wyns did not show up. Thereupon, Criqui claimed the title by default and the French Boxing Federation supported the claim.

Any champion, according to the rules of the International Boxing Federation, must accept a challenge from a bonafide challenger within six months after the title is issued. Criqui had the rules behind him, but he acted hastily in claiming the title before his case was heard by the International Federation.

British fight circles laughed at the procedure and the Belgians wanted to call out the king's royal troops to avenge the wrong. Wyns and his manager, however, said they had not thought that Criqui was serious in wanting a fight, but if he really was bent on battle they would accommodate him.

Criqui, seeing that he had made an unpopular step, told the French Federation that he had not intended to claim the title that the rules gave him and that his friends had become over zealous, or something like that.

The fight probably will be held between June 20 and July 14. If Wyns should not come through now, he probably will be ruled out from under his crown.

They are talking of putting the winner in the ring with Kilbane while the Irishman is in Europe, but it is not likely that the champion will fight over there. Johnny is kind of particular about his referee and they have rules over there different from the ones that Johnny likes to dictate. If all the crown jewels of Europe could be piled in one heap, there might be sufficient inducement for Kilbane to do a little work or take a real chance.

BRIDGE CLUB TO STUDY FRENCH

Members of one of the afternoon bridge clubs of the city have decided to vary amusement with study and have organized a French class which meets weekly at the homes of members and which has secured the services of Mile. Dieudonne of this city as teacher. It will meet this week at the home of Mrs. L. V. Sherman on Lexington drive.

SQUARE TOES KICK OVER ORIENTALS

PORTLAND, April 19.—The square-toed boot of Occidental law has kicked over the Oriental playhouse of Portland's Chinatown, the dragon and the eagle are hobnobbing in the alleys of Second and Fourth streets, and fan-tan games are few and far between where slant-eyed Celestials puff their contemplative pipes.

One of the biggest raids in the history of the local Oriental colony resulted in the destruction of nearly 50 alleged gambling places where Chinese congregate, barred doors have been chopped from their hinges, and the entire heterogeneous mass of paragonia dear to the hearts of the disciples of the great god Chance have been burned in the city's dump.

Peace reigns in Chinatown, and the Chinese Peace society and prominent tong members have agreed in conference with District Attorney Myers that henceforth they will use every means known to peace-loving Chinese to prevent further tong killings on Portland streets.

The deaths of two Chinese in a spectacular shooting scrape in the vicinity of the police headquarters April 4 participated this dramatic action. A great squad of police, both uniformed and plain clothesmen, took Chinatown like Grant took Richmond, and the romance of Chinatown got another slap on the wrist. The white man's law henceforth will prevail in the "Far Eastern" section of the city.

The only mysteries remaining in Chinatown are now the ways and hows and whences of Chinese cookery.

MRS. YOUNG ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. E. L. Young of 325 West Milford street entertained members of the Milford Street Card club Tuesday afternoon at her home. Bridal wreath and red Cherokee roses, combined with greenery, were used in decorating. After a pleasant afternoon of five hundred delicious refreshments were served.

CELEBRATE MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans of North Orange street were host and hostess Tuesday night to a group of friends whom they invited to join with them in celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

The ladies in the group of 12 are all members of a bridge club to which the hostess belongs, but dancing and cards constituted the program of the evening, a delicious supper being served at midnight at which covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCourt, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, Dr. Emil Tholen and Miss Lucile Tholen, and the host and hostess.

The house was lavishly decorated with the beautiful flowers with which the hostess had been showered, and the centerpiece of her supper table was a blue French basket filled with yellow and pink tulips, pink roses and blue Spanish iris. The dinner favors were kewpits dressed in spring colors to represent a wedding party. Music for the dancing was furnished by Mr. Shuck of the Barnes-Shuck Music company.

HAROLD CHARLTONS GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Charlton of 326 Salem street entertained Tuesday evening with a farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smart, who will soon leave for Kansas City, Mo. The evening was devoted to playing cards, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smart, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brainard and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tedford.

Truths in Epigram

All that we see or seem is but a dream within a dream.—Poe (1809-1849).
Let the great world spin forever down the ringing grooves of change.—Tennyson (1809-1892).

IN FAVOR OF PEACE

In discussion of peace as an academic question, not in all Christendom could a voice be raised against it. The settled nations of the earth desire peace.

This country did not go to war because it wanted war. It went in behalf of peace. It went that the peoples of the continents might be secure in the right to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Even at that time there was a clamor against Americans taking any part. They were counseled to submit to Prussian control. Hearst and men of his type made no secret of their pro-Germanism.

Two bootlegging gangs got into a fight in New York. They did not shoot very well, probably owing to addiction to their own wares, but they managed to kill at least one participant.

Americans wanted peace. They wanted it so much as to be willing to fight for it. Having fought for it, they have it.

ONE TRIUMPH YET TO COME

An important exposition is to be held at Covina April 29. There will be displayed devices for prevention of damage by frost. Men who have given deep thought to the subject will propound theories and suggestions.

Nevertheless, for human ingenuity to devise some way of protecting limited areas from the effects of untoward climatic conditions may be within possibility of achievement.

There seem at times to be ethical difficulties in the way of taking the Golden Rule literally. For example there is the case of a woman who lost $16,000 worth of jewels by theft.

FORGIVING THE EVIL-DOER

In this instance the circumstances are made more aggravating because the crime was committed by a number of individuals, several of whom had on previous occasions been arrested for breaking the law by stealing.

Tendency to forgive, when this involves waiving the due process of justice, possibly may be an impulse in the direction of error. Surely the duped philanthropist ought, at least, to think the matter over.

CURBING A SENATOR

A woman in New York has asked the attorney general to prosecute Senator France of Maryland. She cites his alleged offense, and the statute under which such an offender becomes amenable to the law.

The woman avers that Senator France has been in communication with the representatives of other governments concerning the activities of this government in relation to those others, specifically that of soviet Russia.

would also indicate a lack of patriotism on his part. The latter failing has for a long time been apparent.

After France had resumed his place in the senate he allied himself with the coteries that opposed the four-power pact. In every vote taken that gave him a chance to register his opinion, he was anti-American.

Governor Small of Illinois seems to have lost at the polls, his friends having been pretty generally snowed under. It is difficult for a governor to be defendant in a criminal trial, maintain an intimate association with a man of the type of Mayor Thompson of Chicago, and at the same time hold fast the full confidence of his constituents.

Men who ride the country robed and hooded in the name of reform must excuse a generally credulous public from accepting them at their own valuation.

Many a woman prides herself on her ability to understand things without giving them a thought.

THE BUDGET

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Not only school children but the average citizen needs a good deal of primary and simple explanation of what is meant by the budget.

In a nutshell, the budget, when it refers to the nation, is a careful estimate of how much money the country needs to spend during the year.

Every private individual who has any business sense tries to find out what his income is going to be for the coming year and then aims to cut his coat according to his cloth.

Often at the end of the fiscal year it was found out that there were not enough funds to pay the bills, and congress drifted into the habit of passing what were known as deficiency bills, or, in other words, voting money that yet remained to be collected.

Where does the government get its money? We usually say that the money comes from the taxpayer. It does so indirectly.

The federal government gets its money from internal revenues, such as taxes on tobacco and luxuries, from corporation, inheritance and income taxes, and from the sales of public lands, and so on.

It gets a great deal of its income also from customs, which is a tax levied on goods imported from foreign countries into the United States.

But obviously if the situation not merely in Florida but elsewhere is to be changed it must be done in one of two ways—either by changing the popular point of view toward this law or enforcing the law in spite of the popular point of view.

But otherwise if the situation not merely in Florida but elsewhere is to be changed it must be done in one of two ways—either by changing the popular point of view toward this law or enforcing the law in spite of the popular point of view.

The establishment of the budget at least guarantees that the whole matter shall begin with clearness.

THE LISTENING POST

Sometimes you hear of a man who is very rich. So rich that "he does not know what to do with his money."

So much money that to dispose of the income means laborious effort at expenditure.

With superficial persons the condition of wealth so great that it is difficult to dispose of income, is a desirable condition.

But, of course, there is only a certain number of purchasable things you can use.

Yet he left the world an imperishable legacy. Something that thieves have not been able to steal or moths corrupt.

And when you are disposed to envy some one who has so much money he does not know what to do with it, remember the man who had none at all.

Whose estate was disposed of when his garments were diced for.

But in the matter of possessions and material wealth, it is especially noteworthy at this season that the greatest benefactor of the world had no money at all.

No estate. He lived largely by the friendliness and upon the offerings of his friends.

But when he died, lots were cast for his garments. He did not even make a will.

There was no house, no land, no sheep, no horned animal, no jewel, no robe or skin or blanket that he needed to dispose of.

He was quite destitute. His garments were about all he had.

Perhaps a staff that he walked with. A few pieces of silver would have bought all he possessed.

Yet he left the world an imperishable legacy. Something that thieves have not been able to steal or moths corrupt.

And when you are disposed to envy some one who has so much money he does not know what to do with it, remember the man who had none at all.

Whose estate was disposed of when his garments were diced for.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

She walks in beauty, like the night Of cloudless climes and starry skies;

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow So soft, so calm, yet eloquent, The smiles that win, the tints that glow,

One shade the more, one ray the less, Had half impaired the nameless grace Which waves in every raven tress

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow So soft, so calm, yet eloquent, The smiles that win, the tints that glow,

But tell of days in goodness spent, A mind at peace with all below, A heart whose love is innocent.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

There's one infallible way of finding out what's nearest a person's heart. It's what he spends his extra money for.

"I'm so fond of books, but I never feel that I can spend the money for them!" "Yes (pathetically), music is really a passion with me, but I have to deny myself for the sake of my family."

"I'll see about the rooms," said Hank.

"I'm so fond of books, but I never feel that I can spend the money for them!" "Yes (pathetically), music is really a passion with me, but I have to deny myself for the sake of my family."

It's terrible hard to be strictly honest, isn't it? grim reality instead of a farce. If the President is to take the matter in hand, there is only one course for him.

"I'm so fond of books, but I never feel that I can spend the money for them!" "Yes (pathetically), music is really a passion with me, but I have to deny myself for the sake of my family."

"I'll see about the rooms," said Hank.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

By HENRY JAMES

Remarks made by the President one evening last week before a Washington Bible class are interpreted to mean that he contemplates steps to combat the national disregard of the prohibition law.

There can be no dispute of the soundness of this statement which was frequently made before the enactment of prohibition as a reason against such enactment, and as frequently made since enactment as a reason for better enforcement.

But obviously if the situation not merely in Florida but elsewhere is to be changed it must be done in one of two ways—either by changing the popular point of view toward this law or enforcing the law in spite of the popular point of view.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Hope is strong that permanent good may come of the Genoa conference. At any rate the nations represented there must become aware of the wishes and purposes of the others.

Lloyd George is the dominant figure of the gathering. He seems to be the only man there of sufficient caliber to put Russia into its place, brushing aside the sophistries of the soviet delegates; and yet admitting fully such merits as may be in their claims.

The people of this country may be interested to know that in speaking of their part in the war he said: "If America had not helped us I think perhaps we might have been defeated."

Easter Sunday was celebrated throughout this region in appropriate and impressive fashion.

It is sad to reflect that at the same time, reckless drivers along the highways were engaged in killing themselves or others, so that the mortality record for the short span of hours was unusually appalling.

Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government, declared in a recent address that De Valera was inciting Ireland to anarchy, and wrecking the chances of the free state.

It is possible that this statement had some part in inciting shots from ambush at Collins as he went home after talking.

The fact develops that much of the news concerning organization of ku klux klans has no basis. Yellow writers have not only given details, but have presented purported photographs showing night-shirted goblins administering solemn oaths to scores of kneeling candidates.

When night-riders get active, it is probable that they are a lot of cowards afraid to administer mob law in a more open way, rather than a body with constitution and by-laws.

When a burglar was convicted he shouted that when free again he would "get the cops." Perhaps this will create sympathy, as there are persons never yet convicted of anything, who show a disposition to "get the cops."

This outbreak of the prisoner was before he was to appear for sentence. A thoughtful judge, not inimical to cops, would be likely to name the limit.

It is an unfortunate circumstance, but familiar to newspaper reporters of long experience, that the professional protector of morals is likely to get off the path himself.

That is to say, he plays with pitch and he becomes deflected. Many a reformer starting out with enthusiasm, and perhaps with high purpose, has found before the end that he has ceased to reform others, and has become himself hopelessly in need of reformation.

The people of this country denigrate the tendency towards violence in Ireland, but they are helpless in relation to it.

When representatives of the warring factions begin shooting each other on the streets of an American city, something ought to be done about it. The innocent bystander is to be considered.

There still are to be noticed certain tremors resulting from the big upheaval that struck the government bureau of engraving.

Republicans assert that the changes were for the good of the service and democrats that it was a grab at the spoils.

Doubtless one or the other contention is correct.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

What a dodgasted old fool a man can make of himself! In one minute's temper he can throw away a friendship that has outlasted years. That is, he can unless the other fellow is a far better sort of a scout than the temperish person.

"We'll go out to Spring Lake," we had been promising each other for months, "and make arrangements for the spring fishing."

We didn't have to take that ride out to Spring Lake, of course. The United States mail still touches at that unimportant point. But we wanted to go and we wanted to listen to Old Man Stryng, who runs the lake, and who is a sort of a cornfed philosopher.

"I'll see about the rooms," said Hank.

"I'm so fond of books, but I never feel that I can spend the money for them!" "Yes (pathetically), music is really a passion with me, but I have to deny myself for the sake of my family."

"I'll see about the rooms," said Hank.

School Survey Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Submits Report to Directors

Recommends Organization Support Bond Issue for High School, That Its Drinking Fountains Be Repaired and General Repairs Be Made

GRAMMER SCHOOLS ARE FOUND WANTING

Acacia Needs Fire Extinguishers, Colorado Leaks, Broadway Needs Wing, Doran Congested, and Other Defects Are Pointed Out

Urging the Chamber of Commerce to get behind the high school bond issue, the school survey committee of the organization reported today to the board of directors its findings of conditions and betterments needed in all of the schools of the city. With the report was submitted a statement by Principal White on the size of grounds.

Crowded conditions were found general. Fire extinguishers are needed in many. Unsanitary conditions were shown. Repairs and extensions were recommended.

The report, in brief, was a keen analysis of all that is required to put the schools in good condition, and was the work of several months of inspection and checking up. A committee consisting of Richardson D. White, Newton and Huntley was appointed to study the report and report to the directors at the next meeting.

The report in full follows:

High School
This committee has made a thorough inspection of the present high school plant, and has found practically every classroom over-crowded and very unsatisfactory, and certain unsanitary conditions existing as the result of such congestion. The attendance will undoubtedly continue to increase rather than decrease, and in order to relieve the conditions, additional facilities must be provided at an early date as possible.

Statement from George U. Moyse, principal:
The capacity of a high school plant may be gauged by the size of its auditorium. It is only by being able to bring the student body together in one group that the solidarity of school life and activities may be effected.

The seating capacity of the present auditorium is slightly below 500. The present enrollment for the year is 1380. It takes three times as long as it should to present any matter of program to the students. Even then there is the distinct loss of having to present this matter to several groups instead of to one entire massed group.

If we gauge the capacity of the plant by the ability to give each student a work room in the shape of a class room or laboratory where she may set out the necessary equipment for her work, the plant is wholly inadequate. The number of teachers is way above the number of rooms available for use, and two or more teachers must work in the same room.

If we gauge the capacity of the plant by its ability to furnish the individual students accommodations and opportunities for taking the work individually, the plan is far below requirements. This year we have been unable to furnish many students with the opportunity to take laboratory or shop subjects because the rooms fitted for this work were not available for the formation of student classes to meet all the demands. This means that these young people are not able to secure the education they should have to fit their own personal needs.

The capacity of the plant is reached in several departments. There is only the slight margin in all the other departments wherein some more classes may be crowded into the rooms during the day. There are no additional rooms to be thrown into use next September.

The total enrollment this year is about 40 per cent greater than it was last year. The promise for next year is that the increase will be about the same.

The only relief in sight is in the new buildings proposed for the new site. The earliest date upon which construction of these buildings may be started is late in the fall of 1922. It will take a year or more for their erection.

Here is the situation:
Present enrollment for 1921-1922 increased 40 per cent.
Near capacity of plant reached. No additional facilities for future enrollment.

Probable enrollment for Sept., 1922, Feb., 1923, and Sept., 1923, will be increased at a rate about equal to that of this year. The enrollment for these three dates must be cared for outside of the new site.

The first and only thing to be done: Vote for the bonds for the construction of the buildings. Date of election, May 2, 1922.

R. D. White, superintendent city schools, submitted the following estimates of the number of pupils to be sent from the Glendale elementary schools to the ninth grade of the high school:

September, 1922 250
February, 1923 140
September, 1923 300
February, 1924 200
September, 1924 375

We recommend that the Chamber of Commerce and its active support to the passage of the bonds, May 2, 1922.

Recommendations for temporary relief:
Repair drinking fountains.
Provide more adequate janitor service.

If possible, provide some relief for crowded dressing rooms in girls' gymnasium.
Buildings in poor condition; general repairs should be made.

Acacia Street School
Enrollment, 106.
Only one fire extinguisher. Third grade has 52 pupils.
New building without any protection from sun on south side windows.
Recommendations:
Provide necessary protection from sun on south side. Additional fire extinguishers needed.

Colorado Street School—Built 1908
7 rooms including kindergarten.
Enrollment 310, daily average 275.
Roof leaks and school in need of recoloring.
Class windows should be placed in kindergarten room, instead of the way now in use.

Broadway School—Built 1920
Nine rooms up to 4th grade.
Enrollment 398, daily average 350.
All rooms badly overcrowded except A-1.
Second grade has 53 pupils; third, 57; fourth, 55; fifth, 52; and sixth, 46, latter room having but 41 seats; kindergarten, 33; school generally in good condition.
Four acres.
Recommendations—Compensation should be suggested as a model for other plans; add wing on northwest side to accommodate increase of attendance from East Glendale.

Intermediate School
Built Sept., 1912
Fifteen rooms including fourteen class rooms and auditorium.
Enrollment 589, daily average 570; 397 boys, 287 girls.
Four A-7 class rooms over-crowded, receiving from 14 to 48 pupils.
Library being used as class room.

FLAMES DESTROY FORTUNE YEARLY

Forest Fires Must Be Stopped If Wealth Be Saved

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—That in California a fortune is absolutely burned up and destroyed every year is the startling fact conveyed in Governor Wm. D. Stephens' proclamation declaring Forest Protection and Fire Prevention Week, April 16 to 22.

In his proclamation Governor Stephens quotes the figures compiled by the U. S. forest service and the California state board of forestry which show that forest, brush, grass and grain fires destroyed approximately one million dollars worth of property in California during the past summer.

"The significance of what forest fires mean to the people is hardly yet appreciated," state forestry officials. "If lumber was a product dug from the soil, nothing could be done to stop its exhaustion, but since trees grow like other vegetable matter there is a solution for the problem despite the fact that forests in the United States are being destroyed four times as fast as nature is producing them."

The lumber industry is dependent on a continuous production of forest trees. Nature replaces the trees removed from a forest by natural reproduction—from seeds or sprouts—providing forest fires do not destroy the young growth. That is just the trouble—forest fires get the young growth.

"California is yet young as a timber producer," declares State Forester M. B. Pratt. "It still has a wealth of forests but it should profit by mistakes made in other states where 300,000,000 acres of logged-off lands have been ravaged by fire thus effectively preventing reproduction. In California protection must be given the young growth after logging that may have forest for our posterity to enjoy and prosper from. This can best be accomplished by careful observance of the fire protection laws of the federal and state forest departments."

necessity of a general form of association for united action and the benefits to be derived by the formation of such a body.

Mr. Martin was introduced by George T. Smith, Willys-Knight Overland dealer, who presided as temporary chairman. W. W. Riley of the Glendale Hudson Motor Car company acting as secretary.

Among other things, the board recognizes the fact that at present certain cars are not properly supplied with drinking fountains and it is the intention of the board to provide an additional water supply for fire protection at the Cerritos Avenue school as soon as the city of Glendale lays the new main in the street.

THE DAYS OF '49 MUSEUM IS UNDER WAY

To House Thousands of Relics of the Old Days of California

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—Construction of the Museum which is to house hundreds of priceless relics during the "Days of '49" celebration in Sacramento May 23-28 was under way today in the "Mining Town."

The building will be a replica of the first bank in Coloma, where gold was first discovered. The exterior will be constructed of cobblestones cemented together with clay to resemble the rough appearance of the original structure which still stands in Coloma. The interior walls will make the building absolutely fireproof, and a score of watchmen will be employed to insure the safety of the relics and equipment stored within.

The Pioneer Society of Sacramento has already contributed many valuable relics to the collection, including the blue silk banner presented by General John A. Sutter to the "Sutter Rifles" in 1852, gold rockers, muskets used in the squatter riots, and many of James Marshall's personal belongings—his cape, rifle and machete. A valuable portrait of the discoverer of gold is also included.

The collection was increased by a personal visit to Amador, El Dorado and Calaveras Counties, Carson City, Nev., Grass Valley, Dutch Flat and other old mining sections by the heads of the celebration. The assemblage of relics, when complete, will be the most remarkable of the kind ever collected.

SEARCH FOR OLD CAYUSE IS ON

Veterans of Cow Camps Are Applying for Soft Berth

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—It California horses want to take the limelight, they will have to beat the reputations of two cow-ponies, one from Colorado, and one from Wyoming, described by Charlie Camp, veteran cowpuncher of Wyoming, now a resident of Long Beach. Camp has written the Davis Farm, which is endeavoring to find the oldest horse in California, with free board and lodging for the rest of its life as the prize. Here is what Camp writes:

"Should you not find a horse in California to suit your purposes, I know of an old bay gelding at Greeley, Colo., that was 37 years old on January 1. He is still a lively old fellow. His front teeth are badly elongated, and his grinders badly worn out, although he can still manage some of the finer cuttings of alfalfa. His eyes are bright and he will kick and play still. I was a Wyoming cowpuncher from 1879 to the end of the open range, and this horse, "Solomon," is the oldest one that I've known for a certainty.

"I own a Wyoming cow-horse that is called "Muggins" that was "top cow-horse" on the Swan outfit fit up northwest of Cheyenne. Muggins began running the cows up there 28 years ago, and he is now 31 years old, without a blemish, and looks like a twenty-year-old. His teeth are fine, and he is the best cow-horse that ever graced the Wyoming prairies. When Sam Moore resigned as foreman of the Swan outfit, he just put his saddle on Muggins and told Al Bowie he was going to take him with him, as he was to good a cow-horse to be disgraced by being "half ridden by any of these Montgomery-Ward cowpunchers that are too young to ride a real horse."

ASBESTIC STUCCO IS NOVELTY HERE

An entirely new covering for the home known as Asbestic Stucco is just being introduced in Glendale by the Charles E. Clifford Co., Inc., of 3808 South Park avenue, Los Angeles. The material, it is declared, has been created after a thorough investigation of different materials now on the market that are in any way similar to it, and the claim for this material is made that it is the only material on the market that is crack-proof, fire-proof, weather-proof and damp-proof.

Asbestos stucco can be placed on buildings at a great saving over any stucco or plaster now in use. It causes neither expansion nor contraction by its application, thereby allowing the balance of the building to be finished without delay.

This company expects to have a branch office in Glendale within 10 days, to be located in the Central building. This material is being used on the following Glendale homes at this time: A bungalow court at the corner of Acacia and Boynton for R. F. Taylor; a duplex at the corner of California and Louise for E. S. Hoover. It is a residence at the corner of California and Geneva for Mr. Montgomery and a residence at 371 West Millford for Wernetter & Sawyer.

The big thing about the caravan is that it is not a Los Angeles movement merely, but an event of national importance. It is too big for Glendale. Through the invitation the hospitable heart of the Golden State speaks and proudly asks these leading business men of the country to learn of its attractions and its greatness as chairman yesterday. Letters were sent out yesterday by the caravan committee, to the 700 members of the Los Angeles Realty Board asking them to lend their automobiles for the San Francisco tour. It is estimated by the committee that it will take about 400 cars to accommodate the delegates, their wives and families.

At a meeting of the general committee held yesterday at the Los Angeles Realty Board, the personnel of the various committees was finally decided upon and chairmen chosen. President Frank Ryan, of the Realty board, is acting with the general committee as chairman, which Col. Garland is chairman, and Herman Janss, vice-chairman. The sub-committees and their chairmen are as follows:

LUCY PAGE GASTON SLEUTHS FLAPPER CHICAGO, April 19.—Lucy Page Gaston, bitter enemy of Lady Nicotine and scorn of all who commune with the enticing goddess, will launch a nationwide campaign here next Sunday to stem the tide of smoking among women.

A million dollars, Miss Gaston announced, has been placed at the fight for what she termed "the greatest moral reformation this country has ever seen."

Nationally known financiers have been aligned in support of the ascetic woman reformer, she told the United Press, and the fight against the use of cigarettes—especially by girls—will be continued four years.

Miss Gaston, whose anti-cigarette activities have attracted nationwide attention, will hold forth in Washington, from where she will direct the campaign.

"Our fight," she said, "will be carried into the smokiest places. We plan to concentrate especially upon the flapper. Cigarette smoking among flappers, which has increased to astounding dimensions, is cause for genuine alarm as it strikes directly at the fountain of life."

"Home brew and cigars," she continued, "are twin evils, neither of which is likely to be exterminated while the other remains with us."

"Carrie Nation," tactics, she said, "will be employed by the crusaders when necessary. Cabarets will be visited by the campaigners in an effort to deliver their message 'where it is most needed.'

In tribute to the prowess of Pope Pius XI as a mountaineer, one of the Alpine passes in northern Italy was named for him some years ago.

BIRD ROCK HAS CHURCH FOLKS OF BIG SUNRISE SERVICE

By 3:00 o'clock Easter morning the roar of a constant procession of automobiles was heard by those who were awake, passing through Eagle Rock on the Foothill boulevard, filled with people desirous of gaining vantage points at the sunrise service on the bird rock at the eastern end of the valley. A flood of moonlight cast a romantic glow over the picturesque country roundabout, but the temperature was not what is expected in this part of the world the middle of April. With the mercury at 40 degrees and a strong wind blowing, all who participated in the service needed their warm wraps in their exposed position.

Earlier than ever before, at 5:21, Easter being much later than usual this year, the vast throng of people standing closely on the heights heard the clear tones of the bugle call, with the antiphonal from an opposite hilltop. It was the moment of sunrise, but not until considerably later, when Dr. Maxwell Rider was giving a magnificent rendering of Henry Van Dyke's great poem, "God of the Open Air," did the warming rays reach the rock and the slopes below it. Their approach, behind a verdant intervening hill, was heralded by a deepening glow of color in the background of the sky, until first the tip of the great electrically lighted cross was touched, and gradually as the noble, worshipful words of the reader rang out, the golden light extended downward until the entire symbol was bathed in its effusion, while the standing worshippers below were still in shadow. To the writer this spectacle was the most touching and inspiring feature of the service, one not arranged by the human mind, but like a benediction from the God to whom the verses of the poet were dedicated. There were no hitches in the program, no disappointments, no accidents. The grounds and the parking of the innumerable automobiles were policed by the city of Eagle Rock so able that there was no confusion. The attendance was in the neighborhood of 15,000.

EASTERN STARS ENJOY SOCIAL HOUR

After the regular meeting of Eagle Rock chapter No. 313, Order of the Eastern Star, last week, there was a social hour with a very enjoyable program. Mrs. Vardaman Bailey, who has just completed a course of instruction with the popular pianologist of Los Angeles, Frieda Peycke, and who is also a favorite accompanist in Eagle Rock, entertained with two pianologues that were great successes. Miss Leora Johnson of the Thursday Morning Music club also gave a pianologue, "Out Where the West Begins," and three little pupils of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing in Glendale charmed everyone.

METHODISTS OF 'SKY HIGH' WITH EAGLE ROCK INCREASE TOM MIX AT THE GLENDALE

The Methodist church society is fast outgrowing its small church and needs a larger auditorium, although it has a roomy annex for social and classroom purposes. Twenty new members were taken in Sunday. The baptism of children was deferred until Children's Sunday. The choir of twenty voices, under the leadership of L. E. Hammond, gave several anthems and two solos were sung by George Thompson.

LOVE OF MOTHER REVEALED IN FLOWERS

The Easter decorations in the Presbyterian church were beyond description in their beauty and were the work of Miss Minnie Treadwell in memory of her mother. Back of the chancel and the choir was a representation of Calvary, in greens, and upon it an illuminated cross. Easter lilies, callas, bridal wreath and other flowers in baskets, pots, sprays and bouquets, were arranged with an artistic hand. An elaborate program of music was rendered by the large choir at both the morning and vesper service. About twenty persons were received into the church and eight little children were baptized.

EAGLE ROCK BOYS RECEIVE BADGES

The boys belonging to Eagle Rock Boy Scout Troop No. 1 are the proud holders of certificates of membership received from the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, and are wearing the Tenderfoot badge, which denotes the first rank in the organization. Scout Executive H. F. Benner presented the certificates on behalf of the Verdugo Hills district council, and R. L. McNitt, chairman of the troop committee, handed each boy his badge while addressing them in a manner calculated to inspire their highest endeavor. Following are the names of the 16 boys composing the troop: Albert Braasch, Verne Bradford, Jack Blumer, Donald Chivers, Charles Connaugh, Maitland Dirks, Norman Finley, John Lee, Jack Logan, Frederick Miller, Roy Newman, Joe Pope, Richard Randall, Cyril Reynolds, Theodore Schrotzberger, Everett Williams. There is a waiting list of more than twenty boys. This troop is sponsored by the Eagle Rock Central school and is directed by F. O. Reutsch, scoutmaster, and his assistants, Fred Schnoor and Ray Sanders.

EAGLE ROCK BAZAAR

Next Saturday, April 22, the ladies of the Episcopal church will hold an Easter bazaar in Symphony hall, on the corner of Colorado boulevard and North Castle avenue. Fancy work and home-cooked food will be for sale.

17 NEW MEMBERS ENTER EAGLE ROCK CHURCH

Seventeen new members were received into the congregational church at the Easter service Sunday morning. The beautiful cantata, "The Risen King," by Schuecker, was admirably rendered by an enlarged choir of five voices, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Elderkin. A special collection for benevolences was taken, and followed by a brief but inspiring sermon on "The Resurrection Life" by the pastor, Rev. B. Morgan Isaacs. "Christ," he said, "stands higher in the world now than ever before. He has lifted empires off their feet. His resurrection is not of so much importance as the effect of his teachings in the history of the past twenty centuries. Christ is alive forevermore."

Political vindication frequently means that the people have been fooled again.

HOW TO HANDLE CHERRIES.
Cherry production is increasing very rapidly in California, and the possibility of disposing of the crop by means of Eastern shipment is one which growers will do well to consider. A circular by Willis P. Duruz, assistant in pomology at the University of California farm at Davis, gives directions to insure conditions for shipment. Detailed information is furnished on the equipment necessary, how to handle the picking crew, how to arrange and operate the packing house and how to load for shipment. The costs of materials and operation is also shown. A copy of this new publication, No. 232, may be secured by addressing the director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of California, Berkeley, Calif.

MARKETING OF FARM PRODUCTS

The best methods of distributing merchandise to consumers are to be discussed by Professor Burgess of Pomona college at the University of California, Southern Branch, summer session in July. Typical marketing systems for large and small scale business will be considered. The important question of marketing farm produce through cooperative marketing organizations and the problem of the middleman are to be topics for discussion.
Professor Burgess will also direct a course entitled "History and Principles of Money and Banking," in which he will describe the federal reserve system, federal land banks and foreign banking systems. In order to make possible the attendance of business men, the summer session department has scheduled the marketing course for noon every day excepting Saturday and Sunday. The banking course is to be given at 11:00 o'clock in the morning.

AUSTRALIAN LIKES PICTURE SO TAKES IT ALONG

Believing It Is Cheap Advertisement He Steals $1000 Portrait

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—It wasn't a cheap advertising portrait. So Frederick Shipman, managing director of the International Tours, Ltd., of Australia, is going to bundle it up and send it back by first boat as soon as he lands.

"It" is a portrait of Edith Mason, grand opera star with the Chicago Grand Opera company. Incidentally, there is a wild-eyed Italian artist looking for Shipman with vengeance in his eye.

Shipman was recently here to book Posa Plaisi and Giacomo Rimini for an Australian tour. When he left the Hotel St. Francis his admiration for what he thought was a cheap but well done poster of Miss Mason led him to direct a bellboy to wrap it up and take it to the boat.

After he had checked out the loss was discovered after a frantic search by the hotel management, for the portrait is worth $1000 and was done by the celebrated Italian artist, Matteo Sandona. The bellboy finally gave the clue, and a wireless was sent to Shipman on board a Pacific liner. He promised its speedy return, and gave his explanation. But he is going to keep a weather eye out for an Italian artist with murder in his eye at having his portrait mistaken for a "cheap poster."

Another Son of Kaiser Is Tiller of Soil

Prince Eitel Frederick

Verily, "uneasy lies the head that wears the crown." From princedom in the former Kaiser's household Prince Eitel Frederick, son of the German war lord, has become a "humble tiller of the soil." This exclusive photograph of Eitel Frederick shows him working in his garden at Jungenheim Villa, Potsdam. He has not sufficient funds to hire help.

BLETCHER AUTO ELECTRIC CO. OPENS HERE

Young Concern With Lots of Service in System Arrives

The Bletcher Auto Electric Company, 125 North Maryland avenue, is the youngest concern for motorists to make its appearance in Glendale. This firm opened its doors to the public this morning and is here to give the motorists of this locality the very best service possible along its line. Everything in the way of battery and ignition service will be done by this company. Erle W. Bletcher, proprietor of this establishment, has been in the battery and ignition game for the past four years and knows how this character of work should be done.

"We are glad to be counted among the business men of Glendale," said Mr. Bletcher this morning. "A great flood of good words concerning Glendale and her people have come to us during the past few months and we are glad to be located here and to help supply the auto electric needs of the people of this city. We have been in the business for years and know how this work should be accomplished. We will do all kinds of ignition and electrical work on the auto and will give as quick service as possible without the sacrifice of our first-class work."

WASHINGTON STATE CALLS. President Martin Korstad of the Washington state society will welcome all from that state at the social reunion Thursday evening, the 20th, in the Angelus hotel hall at Spring and Fourth streets, Los Angeles. Following the program, there will be dancing.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

TAD COON'S DREAM.

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"I wonder who's next?" That's what Dr. Muskrat said to himself as he saw the Gray Ganders going winging north beneath the stars. "I just feel it in my bones something more is going to happen." Things always do in the spring, when the stormy winds and the flying flocks come thick and fast, bringing their troubles with them. And many a one stopped for advice at his Pond. But he knew this happening was going to be a most unusual one.

So Dr. Muskrat Related Every Word About the Enormous Bug-Thing Which Had Been Chasing Them.

It wasn't Tad Coon, though he hadn't seen Tad for ever so long and now Tad shinned down from the hole in his hickory tree. "A-ugh," yawned he, still fighting the sleep in his eyes. "Is that you doctor? Where's the sun? I thought I felt him. Br-r-r, but this wind is cool!"

"The sun 'n' been gone so long it's almost time he was coming back again," smiled the paddle-paw. "It must have taken you quite a while to get out of bed if he's the one who woke you."

"Well, why wouldn't it?" Tad was a bit bristly. "Look how long I've been asleep. All winter—that is, if this is really spring. I did hear the frogs chirp, didn't I? Or was I only dreaming? If I was I'll hustle back to bed."

"You needn't," the doctor reassured him. "It's tadpole time all right enough. And the croakers are fat and fine."

"I s'pose they're all back under the water by this time," Tad went on in his complaining voice. "And it's far too cold to paddle round after them. I say, where are all the woodfolk? Didn't hear some carryings-on? Or—or did I? I can't tell whether things happened just now, or way back last fall, or whether I only dreamed them, too. I've had the queerest notions about a Headless Hunter—only, of course, there couldn't be any such thing. But—"

During this sale every hat in the establishment will be disposed of at cost, which will mean a great saving to the ladies of Glendale.

Lulu C. Sword, who was formerly with the Ladies' Toggery Shop, where she made a large number of friends, will assist in the operation of this establishment. For the convenience of those who cannot find time to call throughout the day this shop will be open Saturday evening.

COLUMBUS SCHOOL DEFEATS CERRITOS. The senior indoor baseball teams of Cerritos and Columbus fifth and sixth grade pupils played a close game in the schedule for the western district Monday night on Cerritos campus, and Columbus won in a score of 15 to 16. The two teams are now tied for first place. Cerritos and Columbus junior teams will play next Monday on Columbus field. Columbus is now in first place, but if Cerritos wins the coming game those two teams will be tied. Other schools in the western division are Pacific avenue and Central avenue. Revised Schedule to Af-ford Burbank an Ad-ditional Train

The Pacific Electric will operate additional service between Los Angeles and Glendale, during the morning and evening rush hours, commencing Thursday, April 20, according to the revised time table which has just been issued. Additional train to Burbank during the evening rush hours is also to be operated, leaving Los Angeles at 5:38 p. m. This action is taken by the company at the request of the board of public utilities, Los Angeles, in their decision on application of the Glendale board of trustees for authority to operate a bus line into Los Angeles, according to G. A. Smith, passenger traffic manager, who announces the changes.

"A great many titles if they are sounded ring false," said Cortlandt Bleeker at a Newport tea. Since the world war especially there have been a lot of queer titles floating about. Some of them are as suspicious as the Rev. Washington White's. His title was 'D'—the 'Rev. Washington White, D.' A stranger asked him to explain it and he said: 'De Holy Saints University of Vicksburg, sah, will sell me a D.D. title fo' forty dollars. WILSON-BELL CO. OPENS SECOND STORE

Hardware Co. from San Fernando Road Opens at 227 North Brand

The second Glendale store of the Wilson-Bell Hardware company was opened Tuesday morning at 227 North Brand boulevard. So rapidly has the business of this company grown at its first store at 1738 South San Fernando road that it was deemed advisable to open the second establishment, this giving this firm a store in each of the two leading business districts of Glendale.

J. M. Wilson and S. F. Bell are members of this firm. Mr. Wilson has been in Glendale for the past year and resides at 622 North Jackson street, which place he purchased shortly after coming here. Mr. Bell arrived here recently from Raymond, Wash., and resides at 609 North Brand boulevard. Associated with Messrs. Wilson and Bell are Jesse Flower, who has been in the hardware business in Glendale for a number of years, and J. E. McKnight, who moved here recently from Ketchikan, Alaska, who is cashier of the company.

This firm is conducting both at the old and the new establishment a general hardware business. The new store has 4000 square feet of floor space and is one of the most modern establishments of its kind in this valley. The fixtures in the store have a silver-gray finish, and the lighting is indirect throughout. Everything in the hardware and house furnishing line will be carried. There is a full line of Glacier refrigerators of various sizes. The quality gas range, of all styles, with the patented Quality oven heat control. The Bradley-Wise Paint company's "high-grade" paints will be kept in stock in large assortment, as will everything in the well-known brands of mechanic's tools.

Then there are complete lines of Wear-Ever aluminum, granite ware, cutlery and similar lines. This firm is also making a specialty of builders' supplies; a complete line of which is being kept constantly on hand.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE ARTIST
He knows the art of earning bread
By honest effort every day.
And many a friendly word is said
By him as he goes on his way.
He lives a life that's clean and good,
He bears his duties well in mind,
He knows the art of gratitude
And being helpful, glad and kind.

He knows the art of making home
The happier for his presence there.
And on some holiday to roam
With God and wind and open air.
He knows the art of being strong
When there is any task to do,
To meet misfortune with a song,
And fight his every battle through.

He knows the art of keeping friends
By being fair and true and sweet;
His share of fortune oft he lends
The Lord; nor does he fear to meet
Misfortune with a brave, stout heart,
And when the gloomy days appear
He smiles, for he has learned the art
Of hopefulness and manly cheer.

He knows the art of making life
A little sweeter by his deeds
Of soft words in the time of strife
And finding good in many creeds.
He knows the art of sowing flowers
With lavish hand along his way,
Of living, loving through the hours,
The simple life of every day.

RUSTIC SETTING OF WOODLANDS IS ALLURING

Verdugo District Paces
Glendale in Rapidity of Growth and Building

There is a section in Glendale that for rustic beauty, gorgeous setting, wonderful possibilities, and unsurpassed home-making qualities cannot be surpassed in the entire world. Get that? The entire world. True, this is taking in considerable territory, but this statement can be supported by actual facts and conditions.

And while on the subject of Verdugo Woodlands, it may be said that the owners claim that it is the fastest growing suburban section in Southern California, over a million dollars worth of homesites having already been sold. Right now this historic Verdugo Woodlands section is studded with beautiful homes—homes that are far above the average in architectural design, value, setting, and in fact, every feature that goes to make the ideal home. These homes are planned by architects who know, and are located at just the right points to make each individual home a jewel and the entire Verdugo Woodlands the most artistic residential section in the world.

The F. P. Newport company, owners of this property, says: "Are you tired of fogs, dampness, smoke, noise, dust and all of the other undesirable elements of the low-flat sections of the city? You find the very opposite at Verdugo Woodlands. It is a high, healthy altitude with pure, clean, ozone-filled air, inspiring natural scenery, the charm and beauty of the foothills, mountains, canyons, running brooks, grand old trees, etc. So wonderful is it that it is the favorite sketching place for noted California artists and landscape painters who strive to produce the wonderful coloring of this picturesque and historic spot, which was formerly the home of the old Verdugo pioneers."

"If you love natural scenery—the exhilarating tang of the foothill air—the ever-changing vistas with no two days alike—the lights and shadows of the canyons—the soft, pink and purple of the mountain crests at sunset—clear starlit nights—invigorating, balmy days—if you like all these you are sure to fall in love at first sight with the wonderful Verdugo Woodlands."

There is no section in Southern California where such homesites as are being offered in Verdugo Woodlands can be purchased for a less than five figure price. And there is little doubt that these prices are only temporary. Five, six, seven years from now these lots will doubtless be sold for from two, three and possibly four times the figures they are bringing at this time. In addition to the million dollars worth of property sales that have been made in Verdugo Woodlands, about a half million dollars worth of public and private improvements have been put in during the past few months. Few sections are growing as rapidly as is this section.

SUNSHINE LURES TUESDAY CLUB MEMBERS

Auditorium Is Not More
Than Two-thirds Full
When Program Begins

Tuesday was an alluring day which encouraged truancy, and some of the members of the Tuesday Afternoon club forgot their club duties, the auditorium in Masonic Temple being not more than two-thirds full for the program given by the literary section of the club, of which Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth is curator.

It opened with songs beautifully interpreted by Miss Helen Sayre, with Mrs. L. N. Hagood as accompanist. The numbers were "When Into Thine Eyes I Gaze, Dear Heart," by Ward Stevens; "Van-zas," Solovieff; and "Mummy's Baby."

Little Margaret Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chase, gave some charming child recitations and a song.

The address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Harley Preston, the theme assigned him being "Americanization." He told of his enlistment in the army during the world war and his experiences in France, his impressions of the French people and their customs.

The thread of his discourse was frequently interrupted to tell some anecdotes intended to illustrate the point he wished to bring out either about himself or the thing about which he was talking.

"Army life," he said, "will either make or break a man. It makes a man hard-boiled—obedient to power. When a man returns to civilian life, he feels the need of a commanding officer, even if the commander be only his wife."

"The army is a great leveller. My first job was scrubbing out the office of a young adjutant about half as tall as I am. Home means a great deal more to the Frenchman than it does to the average American. They build stone or cement houses and live in them for generations, the old people living with the young people. Home means grand-parents and great grand-parents. They lack comfort and luxury and their living is meager. They have fine herds of cattle and fine horses, and their homes are not so scattered about as here, living in villages and bringing their animals into barns which are often right beside their living rooms."

"The peasant shoemaker has to be a carpenter as well, for the shoes are of wood. Papers are not necessary, because the town crier goes about telling the news.

"Good French cooking is excellent. Very little water is served, and that for the purpose of diluting the wine. They wouldn't understand the American soldier's call for water without wine. I am glad America has set the pace for the world on the liquor question, and I hope when the time comes in the fall you will vote for the enforcement of the 18th amendment. I also trust if you wish to help the ex-service men that you will vote in favor of the $10,000,000 bond issue to provide them with homes and otherwise help them."

In closing he said: "May we think and may we work and may we pray that America may be kept pure and the home of the free and the land of the brave."

Mrs. Nanno Woods, who has introduced and announced the series of parties and dancing lessons she is giving in her home Thursday evenings at a small charge for the purpose of helping new comers in the city, young and old, to get acquainted.

At the business session which preceded the program, Mrs. A. M. Williams announced the disbandment of the society circus, because the cost of staging it would be so heavy.

Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, president, announced that she had pledged the club to contribute to the endowment fund of the district, and that the money would have to be raised in some way without taking it from the regular club fund; that on behalf of the club she had placed the name of Mrs. Cora Taylor, the first president of the Tuesday Afternoon club and a beloved principal in the Columbus avenue school, on the founders' roll. As a means of raising this money arrangements have been made to secure the presentation in Glendale of the motion picture, "The Waken of the Wonderful Historical Pageant," staged in the Yosemite Valley when the state federation met there last year, and Manager Howe has generously donated the use of the Glendale theater some afternoon, the date not having yet been selected.

The meeting of the state convention in Los Angeles from the 31st to the 6th of May was announced by Mrs. John Robert White, read amendments to the constitution which would be presented for vote at the meeting two weeks hence. The first amendment affects article III, section 4, relating to vice-presidents. Another change involved article VII, section 3, relating to membership fees, and would substitute $10 for the present $5 initiation fee, to be effective June 1. An elaboration of the duties of the parliamentarian and her part in the proceedings of the board as set forth in article XII is proposed. Another amendment changes the meeting time from every Tuesday to every other Tuesday.

Announcement was made by the president that May 16th would be reciprocity day for the club, and every member would be expected to go her part in welcoming and entertaining visitors.

WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS
The Loyal Women's Bible Class of the Christian church is holding its regular business and social meeting Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. George P. Bohannon, 130 South Jackson street.

Senator Oddie of Nevada hails from Reno, where the divorce mills work night and day, and he has been the subject of quite a bit of mild joshing from his colleagues on this account. The senator was in a group listening to some of these wise observations on his home city, and when he had an opportunity to get into the conversation he remarked: "Well, Reno is the only city in the world where the people go down to the trains to see the tied come in." For a second or two nobody got just what he meant; but about the minute it was beginning to percolate into the minds of his hearers he added with a smile: "And they go down to the trains to see the united go out."
