

W. W. Linn 2.

I am sure, my dear Caroline, that you will appreciate the truth of my friendship when I tell you that I have risen at five o'clock after being up till midnight for the purpose of finishing my letter to you. I have had no time during the Convention which I would devote to that purpose & yet I do not wish this ^{apt} package to go to you without some acknowledgment of my existence & remembrance. As to the Great public events of the Convention - how the Church proper question was discussed pretty much all the time - how funds were raised to help the Western Convention to be extended under the direction of the Prop. Board - how Foster blared away at the ^{Ex. Com. the} Am. Soc. - and joined into Collins through their sides - how the question of the proper criminality of an Abolitionist, to bring or voting for another to take office under the Constitution of the U. S. - how St. Stephen, the conservative in regard to tyndon, undertook to discuss the question & how his angel would look most comportedly like a red lion when he talked only upon the church religion - how the Chair called him to order & at last told him to take his seat - how he wouldn't do us such thing - how the Chair with an air of dignity mingled with majesty left the Chair and took his seat in front of the Chair till he had done how Wendell offered a resolution approving the conduct of the Chair censuring Foster which the Convention refused to take up - how the Chair thereupon received the Chair - how the question was reconsidered - how the King of Day stirred by his friend - how they battled the watch for half an hour - how the resolution in the form that the Chair is sustained was passed by a unanimous vote save Don. Puffer - how the Chair was recalled to the Chair by the same vote amidst triumph & applause - how the Sain't withdrew from the Convention jostled out as Emma supposed to find somebody to put him into Leverett St. Jail - how the R. H. batteries were thus taught that they could not ride rough shod over All New Eng^d and all the other matters of public history - are they not written in the Chronicle of Summer H? And the private Memories a sermon from C. historic - of the tender scenes which melted our hearts and the comic ones that rejoiced the cockles of the soul - will not that youthful League Emma or that nascent Lady Mary ~~be~~ ^{Lucia} - form them all into your sympathetic bosom? It was a splendid meeting throughout. The Tabernacle was filled about the whole time - and Faneuil Hall crowded at night.

The Wed^d night meeting was a magnificent one - The Tuesday night one rather a failure - James & Hubert were not there - Pease & Munroe stalked W. A. White & I threw ourselves into the pulpit with Curtain drawn - my single idea being to keep Mellen from the platform in what I conceived.
However, you will have all these matters described by the Autographs of Summer H. For that it that impudent wretch Clara Wright moving to add Latter to the Yale Com. saying that he understood that his name had been left off! ~~Forgetting~~ John Day was in town during the whole of the Convention - having come on to attend the meeting of the Brit. Soc. - never came near us - ~~ditto~~ Zappan ditto - that I take it is very thunder.

What think you of the letter from N. Y. ? Maria recd. one yesterday from D. G. W. I suppose will be read to you - intimating plainly enough that he means to hold on. The pitiful aspect of the matter is his talking about the Committee there, when we all knew that he is the Com. - that had it not been for some active measures, it would probably never have been called together. When the official decision comes on, intention is to resign my place on the Board - because otherwise I should be put in a false position towards the Soc. who intended me to do its business as one of its Committee & because I will not be responsible for what they do or neglect to do at N. Y. I must hasten to a conclusion as ~~that~~ it is now breakfast time and I must return to my cottage as ever usual - -ately after it. Only think of the death & burial of New Orf. Blessed be the name of the Lord! Amen.

I shall try to come to New Bedford on the 28th.
Shall hope to hear from you soon. Give my love to Deborah. Be good girls, get as much money as you can the careful not to fall in love with any body worth all that a hundred thousand dollars. This is all at present from your loving friend.
