

TORRENS LAND LAW

JOHN N. METCALF IN THE TIMES EXPLAINS WORKINGS OF THE NEW STATUTE

The purpose of the Torrens land system, as incorporated in the recently amended California statutes, is twofold, viz: Certification of land titles and the simplification of transfers of real estate. Any estate or interest in lands—except an undivided interest or an easement—may be brought under the operation of the act and registered. Consequently its operations have a direct bearing upon real estate matters generally, and it is important that all who own or expect to own property should know something of the system.

Under the Torrens system in probate proceedings the lands of estates (within the state) being probated may be brought under the operation of the act by virtue of the decree in probate, registered. This is also true in an action to quiet or establish title.

It is also permissible for several persons to join in a single application to have the lands of all of them registered; and by virtue of the decree made herein, the holdings of the applicants may be brought under the operation of the act.

To protect against fraud of every kind and character, the applicant must furnish the court a definite description of himself and the character (legal status) in which he makes the application; a definite description of the land and its character, and must state the names and give the addresses of all persons having or claiming to have an interest in the land sought to be registered.

All persons having or claiming to have any interest in the estate or land or lands sought to be registered must be notified of the fact that application for registration of the land has been made before proceedings upon the application for registration can be had. The rights of all persons having or claiming to have any interest or estate in lands are protected against fraudulent registration, fraud in such proceedings being punishable by fine not to exceed $5000, or by imprisonment not to exceed five years, or by both fine and imprisonment.

Registration of the title to the lands, pursuant to the decree of the court, as provided for by the act, after one year from the date of registration, gives to the holder of the certificate of title a title good against the world.

Under the Torrens system the transfer of real estate is simplified. After the initial registration, abstracts of title are discarded and certificates of titles companies made unnecessary. From that time on the state itself affects the transfer of the title whenever it changes hands.

The discarding of abstracts after the initial registration of the land under the Torrens system is held by the friends of the new plan to be one of its chief advantages. Every time real estate is transferred or subjected to mortgage or loan, the certificate of title issued by a title insurance company must be brought down to date at the expense of the land owner. Under the Torrens system certificate of title is always down to date.

Under the Torrens system the transfer of registered lands is affected by presenting to the registrar the deed of conveyance or other instrument from the registered owner and surrendering the owner's duplicate certificate of title. The transfer is made on the record and the title so transferred vests in the transferee, to whom the new duplicate of title is issued. The old one is cancelled.

The registered title under the Torrens system is guaranteed for all time. There is back of it the decree of a competent court of the state.

Under the Torrens system there is provided an insurance fund for the reimbursement of any person injured through the registration of any land or title under the act. This reimbursement is to be equal to the market value of the land so registered and through the registration of which the party has been injured. The one injured has four years within which to bring his action for reimbursement.

Under the Torrens system, by inspection of the certificate of title, the exact status of the holder's title can be ascertained at any moment. The certificate must show who the true owner is and all charges against the land so registered.

Under the Torrens system, when land has once been registered, thereafter title by adverse possession cannot be acquired, no matter what the length of the possession may be. Community property registered under the Torrens system as such cannot be transferred, mortgaged or encumbered or otherwise disposed of by the registered owner thereof with-

A LAST TRIBUTE

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES CONDUCTED BY THE MASONS OVER REMAINS OF R. C. STERNBERG

One of the largest and most impressive funerals ever held in the valley took place at the Masonic temple in Glendale Tuesday afternoon, when the members of that fraternity paid a last tribute and laid to rest a highly respected and dearly loved brother, Richard Clark Sternberg, who passed to the life beyond early Sunday morning.

The body was taken from the Pulliam undertaking parlors to the temple at 12 o'clock noon, where it lay in state until time for the funeral services at half past two. At the appointed hour the Masons, to the number of one hundred and fifty, filed into the lodge room to the strains of the Dead March in Saul played by Mr. William Chappell.

Members of the Glendale Merchants' association, of which Mr. Sternberg was a member, also testified to the respect in which they held him by their presence in large numbers, as an organization.

Brother Ernest John Morgan, worshipful master of Unity lodge, No. 368, of which the deceased was a past master, conducted the impressive services peculiar to that organization, Dr. C. Irving Mills fulfilling the duties of chaplain. During the ceremonies the brothers marched around the casket, each depositing a flower upon the bier.

Brother E. B. Spencer, inspector for the district, was present as a representative of the grand lodge and spoke words of eulogy and condolence to the bereaved. He spoke of his friendship with the deceased and the part the departed brother had taken in the erection of the temple and his loyalty to the order in which he stood so high. Brother Ezra F. Parker, who was associated in business with Mr. Sternberg for years, gave testimony to the high character of the man, saying in all of his experience as a business partner of the deceased he never knew him to do an unworthy act, and held him up as an example for other men to follow.

Brother George U. Moyle also spoke feelingly of the departed. He spoke of his wide acquaintance in the valley and the esteem in which he was everywhere held.

The music was especially beautiful and appropriate and added much to the solemnity of the occasion. Mrs. John Allen Legge sang "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" from the Messiah and Miss Mattie Belle Provolt contributed her voice in "Lead Kindly Light." The choir of St. Mark's Episcopal church, led by Mr. Norman Badger, with Mr. Chappell as organist, gave appropriate selections.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies Brother Clem Moore, marshal, took charge and the brothers formed in line and marched three times around the bier as the organist played Chopin's funeral march. The ceremony was concluded at Grand View cemetery, where the deceased was laid to rest with other members of his family gone before.

Many beautiful floral emblems spoke mutely of sympathy and love that cannot be expressed in words.

PROMINENT VISITOR

Mr. E. R. Root of Medina, Ohio, who is a member of the firm that publishes "Gleanings in Bee Culture," the greatest publication of its kind in the world, is spending the spring and summer in California, being in charge of the National Bee association exhibits at the San Diego and San Francisco expositions.

While in Southern California Mr. Root is being entertained by F. R. Buchanan of 115 Orange Grove avenue and by Mr. F. McNay of Pasadena, both of whom are prominent bee keepers. On Wednesday of this week Mr. Buchanan gave Mr. Root an automobile ride through Griffith park and over the different scenic boulevards in the vicinity of Glendale.

GASOLINE SALES INCREASING

The Boyton Oil company, who operate the new supply station on Broadway at Louise, report that the low price of gasoline, combined with perfect weather of the last few days, has caused gasoline sales to show a wonderful increase over a year ago. Sunday was a record-breaker, as over 250 gallons of gas were sold at the Broadway station alone.

out the written consent of both spouses.

It is interesting to note that numerous states of the Union, many of the countries of Europe and the three largest English-speaking cities of the world—London, New York and Chicago—have adopted the Torrens title system.

NOTED DIVINES COMING

HAVE ARRANGED A COURSE OF SERMONS—LECTURES TO FOLLOW—BROWN & CURRY

Pastors of the ten churches of Tropic, Casa Verdugo and Glendale co-operating in the Brown and Curry tabernacle meetings have arranged for a remarkable series of sermons—lectures soon to be delivered at the high school. A glance at the array of prominent divines engaged for the course is convincing enough and the community should be proud of being in a spiritual condition to command such a galaxy of notable preachers.

April 19, Dr. John Balcom Shaw, Immanuel Presbyterian church, Los Angeles; subject, "Star of the East."

April 26, Dr. Fox, First Congregational church, Pasadena; subject, "What Is Faith?"

May 3, Dr. Francis, First Baptist church, Los Angeles; subject, "The Holy Spirit."

May 10, Dr. Torry, dean of the Bible Institute; subject, "Prayer."

May 17, Dr. Matt Hughes, First M. E. church, Pasadena; subject, "The Church."

Special music will hold an important place and the lectures will be reported in the local press. Further announcements will be made by the publicity committee.

The following report of the tabernacle services of last Sunday will complete the Brown and Curry series.

At the morning service Elder Francis of the Christian church led in prayer, thanking God for the inspired leadership of the evangelists.

Rev. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee, delivered a brief address reviewing the financial situation and highly commending the work of Brown and Curry. An offering was then taken in a quiet and orderly manner for the support of the two gifted servants of God. Mr. Edward Lee of the First National bank is the treasurer of the campaign.

Evangelist Brown delivered a message on the church vs. the lodges and clubs. The aim of the address was not to hurt any organization with high ideals, but rather to exalt the church high over all merely human organizations. The church was spoken of as the oldest, the largest, the strongest and the purest organization on earth. The charge that the church of Jesus Christ lacks brotherhood was refuted. The only organization that helps all classes, no matter what the color, language or belief, is the Christian church. The lodges and clubs help their own.

Neither is the church of the twentieth century sectarian. Denominational loyalty and sectarianism are two different spirits. The charge of sectarianism has better application to secret societies and certain social clubs which practice signs and winks and nods.

The greatest need is the application of the blood of Christ to the heart and only in the church is the fountain for cleansing.

At the men's mass meeting convened at 3 p. m. Rev. Rider of the Tropic Presbyterian church led in prayer, praying that the power of God might rest upon the servants of God.

A splendid male quartet sang very acceptably "The Wayside Cross."

Rev. Brown delivered what was considered by those present one of his most effective sermons on Sunday afternoon. The famous address on "Chickens Come Home to Roost" dealt with desecration of the Lord's day, profanity, stealing and gambling and adultery and intemperance. It was a searching appeal in which God's hate for sin and love for the sinner, the truth of sowing and reaping, the mercy of God in throwing about man his holy law—these and many more vital truths were handled by a master. There were flights of oratory, unconscious perhaps to the speaker and mighty telling to the hearts and consciences of the hearers. Never will the description of the visit to the grave of the gambler be forgotten by those who listened with open mouths.

The response to the appeal of the message to men was the greatest recorded during the campaign, when considered from the standpoint of the number and class that responded. Over two hundred men walked forward and took Brown by the hand as an expression of determination to live an out-and-out Christian life. To see hundreds of able-bodied men bow and kneel in prayer on the sawdust floor was indeed touching to both men and angels.

The final service of the campaign found the tabernacle too small by several hundred for the thousands that crowded the building, many of whom could not even get inside.

Rev. John H. Troy, pastor of the First Baptist church, led in the evening prayer.

IN MEMORIAM

TRUE AND DEVOTED CHRISTIAN WIFE AND MOTHER IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Mrs. John Moyle was held at the family residence at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Her death occurred at 11 o'clock on Monday after an illness of three weeks. It follows closely that of her husband, who died Oct. 27, 1914, and the simple service was as nearly as possible like that used for him.

Mrs. Moyle was the last surviving member of a family of eight children. She was born near Launceston, England, February 16, 1839. When she was six years old the family left England and came to Palmyra, Wis., where they made their permanent home and took an active part in the social life and in the hardships accompanying the development of a new country.

She was married to John Moyle on February 22, 1863, and to them was given almost fifty-two years of loving companionship. Three children survive their parents—Mrs. Jas. Parsons of Elkhorn, Wis., and Geo. U. Moyle and J. Ira Moyle of Glendale and Los Angeles respectively.

In 1891 the father, mother and two sons left Wisconsin and purchased a fruit and walnut ranch at Rivera, Cal., where they resided until 1903, when Mr. and Mrs. Moyle came to Glendale and built their home on Fifth street. During their residence in Glendale they took an active interest in all matters pertaining to the best welfare of the city.

Mrs. Moyle always led an active, helpful, Christian life. In early years when there was sickness or trouble in the neighborhood, she was there giving needed service, and a host of friends will testify to the benefits of her loving, unstinted ministrations. She loved her friends and was loyal to them. From childhood she was a devoted Christian worker. She loved the church and was always found in her place at its services when able to be there. She liked to work in its societies, giving, as she said, first place to them instead of to other social duties. Above all, she was truly devoted to her home and family and was always a true companion and helpmate to her husband and a devoted, loving mother to her children.

RUTHERFORD-TROY DEBATE

The much-talked-of debate between Judge Rutherford of New York and Rev. John H. Troy of our local Baptist church is now officially announced for the nights of April 21, 22, 23 and 24 at Trinity auditorium, Los Angeles.

Mr. Rutherford is the personal representative of the famous Pastor Russell, head of the International Bible Students' association, and is known in America and Europe for his Bible lectures. Recently the New York attorney addressed a packed house at Trinity auditorium, thousands being turned away.

Rev. Troy is well known for his Bible teaching, especially in the East where he debated for three nights with Judge Rutherford in 1910. As the result of the former debate Troy was invited to the leading cities of the East and South to deliver his famous lecture on Russellism.

It is generally understood that Pastor Troy is the one man whose experience eminently fits him for the presentation of the orthodox side of the propositions to be debated and it is not surprising that so many divines of all denominations heartily endorse him for the titanic task, especially the members of his own ministerial association and denomination.

Trinity auditorium has been secured for six hundred dollars and with the additional expense of advertising and services of expert stenographers, who will report verbatim for the press both sides, the expenses will run considerably over one thousand dollars, half of which will be borne by each side respectively.

Many have already expressed willingness to support Brother Troy both financially and with their prayers. Special seats to the number of 175 will be reserved on the platform for the patrons of each side up to fifteen minutes of the opening of the debate each night.

HONOR CONGRESS PRESIDENT

An elaborate luncheon was given at Christopher's in Los Angeles today by members of the Los Angeles federation of Parent-Teacher associations in honor of Mrs. H. N. Rowell, state president of the congress of mothers. The guests were state and district officers and chairmen of all state committees. Mrs. C. E. Hutchison of 200 Orange street was chosen by the Los Angeles district as toastmistress and very graciously did she fill the position.

STABILITY IN BUSINESS

WISE MANAGEMENT IN EVERY DEPARTMENT NECESSARY TO BUSINESS SUCCESS

A large per cent of the men who engage in the mercantile business make a failure of the business in which they engage. It is not always on account of lack of money when they start in business that causes the failure. The failure can justly be attributed to lack of adaptability to handle the business in hand. Diligent attention to business is a very important factor in successfully carrying on a business, but it is not the most essential feature.

It is the opinion of the writer that the most essential feature to be observed to make a business a success lies in a wise management of that business. The merchant who has the ability to order goods wisely as to quantity and quality has the advantage over the merchant who has no knowledge in this line. There are many merchants who are crowded with business six days in the week, but whose ledgers balance on the wrong side Saturday evening. The trade getting ability of these merchants is all right, but they lack in managing ability.

The merchant who succeeds must be able to keep merchandise in stock moving. The consumer does not care to purchase shopworn goods at any price. When a merchant engages in business he must have the ability to determine at what price he must sell his goods to get a sufficient profit with which to pay rent, help, insurance, light, heat and all other expenses. In considering the question of expense for help he must not neglect to count himself as receiving a fair salary.

Too many men engage in business without giving the management department due consideration. They buy and sell without knowing whether they are making or losing, until such a time as unpaid bills accumulate so that they find it impossible to meet their obligations.

All business should be done in a systematic manner and the one who is responsible for carrying on the business should close out his business at any price as soon as he learns that he is doing business at a loss. Or if he does not close out, he should reorganize his methods of procedure so that he will do business at a profit. Good business management is responsible for the successful career of the business man.

THE EIGHTIETH MILESTONE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lucas Smith at 350 North Adams, was the scene of a delightful party Tuesday evening, the occasion being Mr. Smith's eightieth birthday.

Mrs. Smith and daughter invited in a number of intimate friends to appropriately commemorate the occasion. The guests began arriving at 5 o'clock and were received by Mr. and Mrs. Smith, whose kind welcome embraced and surrounded all. The evening being warm, the delicious frape was a much appreciated refreshment.

After all the guests were assembled a very bountiful repast was served on tables spread beneath the branches of the trees. This added an informality and being out of the ordinary was a most pleasing innovation.

Before leaving, Dr. E. H. Willisford was called upon to make a few remarks and responded in his usual happy vein. Major Byers of Des Moines, Iowa, a lifelong friend of the family, read several original poems which delighted his hearers. Mr. Mann, also a long-time friend, gave several very appropriate selections.

Those who were privileged to assist Mr. Smith in thus celebrating his birthday were Major and Mrs. Byers and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mann of Des Moines, Iowa; State Auditor McQuisen and wife, formerly of Des Moines; Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Huttenlocher of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Provolt, Miss Mattie Belle Provolt, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford of Glendale and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. McNutt, and Mrs. McNutt's father, Mr. Supplee, of Glendale.

Mrs. Smith was very ably assisted during the evening by Mrs. Raymond Lowe, Miss Mattie Belle Provolt and her daughter, Miss Van Tyne Smith.

Mr. Smith was also the recipient of a postcard shower from old friends and comrades at his former home in Des Moines.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Glendale-Tropic Poultry and Pet Stock association at the city hall, Tropic, Thursday, March 18, at 8 p. m. sharp. Major Devonshire will speak on "Incubation" and R. V. Moore will have as his subject "Pigeons."

WHY THE DELAY?

MRS. MEEKER BEING PLACED IN A FALSE POSITION BY DILATORY METHODS

Mrs. R. W. Meeker of 300 East Colorado boulevard has been one of the most enthusiastic adherents of the city beautiful idea and has been known as an earnest worker toward the end of making Glendale a Mecca for all who love beauty in nature.

Several months ago Mrs. Meeker was asked to interview the property owners in the vicinity of her home and secure their names to a petition to beautify that part of Colorado boulevard. Trees and shrubs were to be planted under the Vrooman act, the property owners to prepare the parkings and do the planting and care for the plants while the city was to furnish the same. Mrs. Meeker went to work with a will and spent several days in interviewing property owners and converting them to her way of thinking. Several trips were made out of Glendale to interview non-resident property owners. Her efforts were rewarded by securing the names of all property owners on Colorado boulevard between Verdugo road and Adams street. The Catalina cherry, ragged robin rose and dwarf lantana were chosen to beautify this drive and the effect of this combination would be a most charming and beautiful spot and would be seen by many strangers who motor through Glendale, that street being on the foothill boulevard.

Mrs. Meeker completed her work several weeks ago, but she says inquiries at the city hall fail to elicit any information as to when the plants will be forthcoming. The matter seems to have been dropped and Mrs. Meeker feels that she is placed in a false position before those whom she persuaded to sign the petition. The trees and roses should have been in a month ago and the delay is seriously annoying to those who had prepared their parkways for the reception of the plants.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The boys of his high school class gave a birthday surprise on Robert Cowlin of 1459 Ivy street Tuesday evening. The surprise was complete and a delightful evening was passed by the jolly crowd of boys and girls. Decorations, favors, etc., were in St. Patrick style, many tiny green pigs and Shamrock leaves being used. A number of games were played, one of them being a guessing contest in which Eugene Imler won the prize. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour. Among the guests of the evening were: Ernestine Lyon, Celia Lyon, Esther Schrepp, Marjorie Imler, Katherine Phillips, Mona Butler, Florence Heacock, Hazel Flower, Muriel Turner, Evangeline Hunchberger, Helen Swenson, Robert Cowlin, Howard McGillis, Eugene Imler, Olin Wilson, Harry Spinks, William Bode, Clyde Stotts, Chauncey Livingston, Carlton West, Miller Fischel, Tom Phillips, Hill McGillis, Donald Cowlin, Frank Hester and Edwin Heacock.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. H. S. Clewett of 552 Orange Grove avenue entertained with a party in honor of the fourth birthday of her little son Robert on Saturday afternoon. Acacia and peach blossoms were used in decorating, giving a dainty and fairy-like appearance to the rooms, and refreshments of ice cream, cake, candies and peanuts were served to the small guests. Of course, the birthday cake with four candles on it was wonderful to behold and each child helped to blow out the candles. A number of interesting games were played, among them being "musical chairs," and a game of carrying peanuts on a knife blade. Those present were Camille Mollen, Luyck Mollen, Cletus Nutbert, Vernon Loyock, Doris Davis, Herbert Eachus, Jessie Eachus, Lillian Lund, Helen Lund, Arnold Lund, George Bannehan, Francis Wood, Miriam Clewett and the little host, Robert Clewett.

CONGREGATIONAL MEET

At the Congregational church a special service will be held at 7:45 o'clock this evening. The pastor will give a short address. Those having the Brown and Curry song books are asked to bring them.

This meeting promises to be one of much interest. A large attendance is expected. The topic of the evening is "The Place of Prayer in the Life of the Soul."

The Woman's Missionary society of the First Congregational church will meet with Mrs. R. S. Frazier, 1435 West Broadway, Thursday at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dr. Morris Turk of Los Angeles will speak on "Albania." A current missionary event will be given by those attending.

The sin against the Holy Ghost was treated by the evangelist clearly. That every man has a chance to accept Christ was declared and to resist the pleadings of the spirit means to be finally lost, a fact wherein is discovered the meaning of the sin against the Holy Ghost.

The results of the last gospel message were very gratifying, hundreds pressing forward to confess Christ. It is impossible to even faintly describe the closing scene of the great revival. Sunshine and tears in a mysterious atmosphere pervaded the holy tabernacle. The thousands who had been definitely helped Godward by the inspiring preaching and singing of the past four weeks quietly and informally turned the service into a heartfelt farewell meeting and once again the strains of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" melted every heart. There is only one word, and that of only four letters, which fully expressed the genius of the closing scene—love.

"Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is begotten of God, and knoweth God"—I John 4:1.

M. E. MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. H. A. Wilson, 325 South Louise, Tuesday afternoon. The enthusiasm of the Brown and Curry meetings was very evident in this gathering and the work was resumed with a determination to accomplish all that a live society can, along this particular line. The theme of the afternoon was "The Indian of Today." Mrs. C. W. Ingledeue was chairman. Readings were given by Mrs. A. M. Brooks, Mrs. F. A. Wright, Mrs. S. F. Taylor and Mrs. Knox, while piano solos by Miss Pearl Hunsberger and Mrs. Beveridge were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Wilson, assisted by her daughter, Miss Gertrude, served light refreshments. The society will meet next month with Mrs. Potter on Verdugo road for an all day session.

MUSIC SECTION

The music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will hold an open meeting on Friday afternoon at the Masonic temple. The program will begin at 2:30 and is being looked forward to with much pleasure, at which time the music section will introduce Miss Susine Wessels, violinist, recently from London, where she has studied with well known masters. It is hoped that the music lovers of Glendale will respond to this invitation, particularly the members of the club. The following program will be given:

A WOMAN IN POLITICS

Among the aspirants to the Los Angeles city council is Estelle Lawton Lindsey. She has been a Socialist, and has made no secret of it. This party presumed to ask her for a resignation in advance as member of the council, the same to take effect at any time the party might not approve of her course. In other words, she was to accept office, not as a citizen, her conduct untrammelled, and her opinion her own, but as a mere instrument and representative of a political organization. That she would have no legal right to do this appears to be evident, and that anybody who would consent to so pledge in advance, would not deserve election, but ought to be defeated, is so shinningly clear that no room for argument is left. Of course the attitude of the Socialists is their own concern, and if they choose to court disaster, nobody need fret about it. Indeed, it may be, for the public, the best thing that could happen. With Mrs. Lindsey as their candidate the Socialists might have had a chance to win, but if they think any worthy candidate is going into a contest while handicapped by an allegiance that would destroy usefulness and subvert freedom, they have not thought deeply about it. Many Socialist theories are not without support by members of other parties. If the Socialists would be content to profit by the support from the outside, and procure half a loaf, no other way of obtaining bread being in sight, they might get something or get somewhere. But they won't do it, and so their struggle is hopeless, and need not afflict, although possibly interesting. A purely Socialist candidate would have no chance in this county, while one with Socialistic leanings might have an excellent chance. Mrs. Lindsey has no occasion to fret. If the party were to cast her out, the party would lose strength, and she would gain it, particularly as there are many anxious to endorse her, who have held back because of her party classification.—Pasadena News.

A NEW NATIONAL HYMN

My country, 'tis of thee,
Land where things used to be
So cheap, we sing.
Land where folks once could buy
Things that are now so high,
To thee, with many a sigh,
Our memories cling.

Some of the people swear
That what they eat and wear
Takes all their wad.
Others avow that they
Now eat but once a day,
And for that cannot pay,
So help them, God.

Thy people's humble plea
Is that Thou now wilt free
At least one leg.

On flesh of beef and swine,
We do not ask to dine,
But give us, Lord divine,
One good fresh egg.

Our fathers' land, with thee,
Blest home of liberty,
We choose to stop.

We don't exactly like
So soon to henceward hike,
But we must hit the pike
If things don't drop.—Ex.

BLACK LILIES

A black lily seems an anomaly in the botanical world as whiteness and purity are always associated with lilies. Many have never heard of the black calla and few have seen one of these rare flowers, but Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Russell of 323 East Third street have in their garden two superb specimens of this flower. They are larger than the white calla, although the form of the leaves and flowers proclaim them a member of the same family. The spathe measure thirteen inches from base to tip while the long black spadix is eleven inches in length. The flower is of a soft, velvety texture and is very pretty in addition to being a rarity. Any one who wishes is welcome to view these strange specimens of the plant world at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell.

JAMES GIBSON RECOVERING

James Gibson, who accidentally shot himself Sunday afternoon, is being cared for at the Thornycroft hospital. Mrs. Dora Gibson, mother of the young man, says when the accident occurred Sunday afternoon her son was at their home alone at 1453 West First street. He had recently purchased a 38-Colt automatic safety revolver, and at the time of the accident he was in the act of examining the gun, and probably placed too much reliance upon the safety guarantee. The bullet in its course entered the right side of the abdomen, passed downward through the thigh, making its exit half way between the thigh and knee.

Young Gibson tried to get three different doctors by phone, but none were at home, so he called a neighbor, who immediately notified the mother, who was then in another part of the city. A physician was summoned and under his direction the injured boy was removed to the Thornycroft hospital, where he is recovering as rapidly as could be expected considering the nature of the wound.

HONOR IN DISSENTION

When the editor of The News was a mere boy there lived in the neighborhood a negro who considered it a rare honor to have it known that he quarreled with a white man even if he got a severe trouncing in every round. Since the days of that ignorant colored man the writer has observed that there have been many white men who are anxious to pick a fuss with their fellow men merely for the purpose of getting some kind of recognition, even if defeat meets them at every turn of the road. The negro was unable to get the attention of the white man of years ago, and so it is with the white man of today—he wishes cheap recognition, he is left strictly alone by men of good judgment.

MOTOR TO LONG BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Hyatt of 1634 West Broadway motored to Long Beach Saturday morning and attended the services at the S. D. A. church at eleven o'clock, after which they spent the afternoon and evening with friends at the Long Beach sanitarium, returning Sunday morning. They brought back with them an old time friend, Mrs. C. S. Bartshe and her daughters, Mrs. Warren Latham of Spokane and Miss Edith Bartshe.

PRISCILLA CLUB

The Priscilla club met with Miss Coral E. Griffith of 1471 Salem street on Tuesday. Decorations were in green and white in honor of St. Patrick's day and the one o'clock luncheon carried out the same idea. All the regular club members were present, and the afternoon was very pleasantly passed in needlework and chat. The next meeting of the Priscilla club will be with Mrs. R. P. Poss of 1460 Salem street.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Morris and children of Marshalltown, Iowa, who are spending the winter in Pasadena and who are located on Orange Grove avenue, motored to North Glendale Tuesday evening calling upon Mr. and Mrs. George H. Marsh of 1645 Ruth street.

F. A. Ellingwood of 5136 Meridian avenue, Los Angeles, with an assistant, was in North Glendale Tuesday on business. Mr. Ellingwood is an expert piano tuner and has a number of pianos in this community that he keeps in condition.

Miss Florence Brotherton of Los Angeles was the luncheon guest of Mrs. E. A. Josselyn of 1641 Ruth street on Tuesday. Miss Brotherton also called upon Mrs. A. A. Schonfeldt of Maple avenue, while here.

Miss Nellie Murphy of 632 Maultman avenue, Los Angeles, was the guest of Mrs. James Wilson of 1648 Ruth street on Tuesday.

Tuesday afternoon the police department of Glendale was called to North Glendale upon the request of a resident who had a tramp caller, who asked for money and refused the food when it was offered him. The fellow was recognized as one who had been in the neighborhood about three weeks ago. The prompt response of the department is to be commended, as the men sent out arrived at the place in record time.

Mr. B. W. Ary has moved his rabbitry from Dryden street to the Neil property on North Pacific avenue and Ruth street, formerly occupied by W. H. Spinks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilbur of 1095 San Rafael street, are entertaining as their house guest, Mr. Wilbur's sister, Mrs. Belle Pipper of Los Angeles who will remain with them indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilbur of Rancho La Solana San Gabriel, were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Geo. H. Marsh, of 1645 Ruth street, on Tuesday.

A prospector came out of Death valley with several hundred thousands in gold after spending many years in digging. He will not have to learn how to spend it.

BAPTIST PRAYER MEETING

Much interest is being taken by the local Baptists in the first prayer meeting after the successful Brown and Curry revival which closed Sunday evening. The main auditorium will be used so that there will be no inconvenience from crowding and plenty of opportunity for a big line-up of all who have recently expressed the desire to unite with the local Baptist church. The board of deacons will be in session at the close of the prayer meeting for the reception of candidates for baptism. All who expect to unite by regular letter will see that they have their letters with them so as to reduce as far as possible the work of the pastor.

Rev. Troy is planning an extensive campaign for increase of membership to five hundred with further expectation of erecting the largest church auditorium in the San Fernando valley. In view of the great amount of work now pressing regular pastoral calls should not be expected except in cases of sickness or special business, certainly not for the coming weeks while new members are being lined up and converts instructed. No minister enjoys visiting more than Pastor Troy and he would not have his many friends think that he has lost his calling list. "Conversions in the Acts of Apostles" will be the theme this evening at the First Baptist church. Bring notebook and pencil in order to preserve all references. The time is 7:30 promptly. Bring your Brown and Curry song books without fail.

TEMPERATURE COMPARISONS

T. W. Preston of 725 South Adams street, Glendale, is the possessor of a self-regulating thermometer which on Tuesday, March 16, registered 94 degrees above in the shade. There was just one day in the season of 1914 that this thermometer registered so high and that was October 13, when the temperature was 94, the same as Tuesday, the 16th, inst. On March 17 last year Mr. Preston's thermometer registered 90 degrees.

Stop Paying Rent

We will make you a loan to buy a lot and to build your home at 5% simple annual interest.

You have 126 months to repay the loan. Your total payment is $9.61 monthly on a $1000 loan.
 You have the privilege of taking up any number of monthly payments at any time, thereby decreasing your total interest account.
 A $500 lot, and a $1500 house, represents a $2000 loan, on which your monthly payments would be $19.28 principal and interest. If you are paying $10 or more monthly in rent, come in and see us today.
 Our clients represent thousands of satisfied home owners located in Colorado, Washington, Utah, Virginia, Texas and other states, who have taken advantage of 5 per cent money to attain their independence of landlords.
 A word to Mortgage Carriers: We would be glad to figure with you if you are carrying a mortgage at 7 or 8 per cent, and convince you that there is quite a material difference between the interest you are paying and 5 per cent.
 You may be from Missouri, but we can show you.

A LOGICAL OBJECTION
 F. Irving Fletcher, at a dinner of advertising men at the Ritz Carlton in New York, said:
 "There is only one logical objection to advertising, and that is the one offered by Joe Doolittle of the Cinnaminson Scimitar.
 "Joe, why don't you advertise?" asked the editor of the Cinnaminson Scimitar.
 "Because I'm agin' advertisin'," he answered firmly.
 "But why, Joe, are you against it?" said the editor.
 "It don't leave a man no time," said Joe. "I advertised wunst in '90 and the consequence wuz, I didn't have time to go fishin' by crinus, till arter McKinley's second election in 1900."

THE MENACE OF WEALTH

Again the big daily papers of the country, whose owners have interests in Mexico or whose policies can be controlled by the wealthy Mexican speculators, are clamoring for United States intervention. They were quiet for awhile when they thought that they could secure the ends they desired by financing and furnishing arms and ammunition to certain Mexican factions, but now that the government has frustrated this game and gathered several millionaires into its legal nets, they have decided that Mexican warfare is a very bad thing and that the United States should, by all means, put a stop to it.
 What an amazing spectacle of American commercialism and American newspapers is hereby presented to the world! Newspapers ready to sacrifice every public interest for the sake of private gain; ready to finance revolutions and dissensions if by so doing their wealth can be increased; ready, if the financing fails, to call upon the government to send its youth and its cannons to take control of affairs in order that they might realize greater profits from the speculations which they have made. The killing of thousands of Mexicans, of thousands of the youth of their own country, means nothing to them so long as they can profit, and so long as they do not have to sacrifice a son, or themselves shoulder arms. These are the class of citizens who, to a great degree, are responsible for the kind of news that is circulated throughout the nation. These are the people whom the United States allows to use its mails to deceive and agitate the public for personal profits.
 The Mexicans may be ignorant, but we doubt that their ignorance has produced any citizen of so demoralized a character as is the character of many of our country's newspaper publishers. If education makes this kind of citizen, the Mexicans are probably better off without it. The Mexicans may be cruel, but the cruelty of the man who kills his own victim is no greater than the cruelty of those who call upon others to do the killing, who are willing to sacrifice the lives of unlimited thousands, who are willing to sacrifice unlimited wealth of others, in order that their own pile of wealth may be added to.
 There are probably some things which the United States can teach the Mexicans, with profit to the latter. But the way to go about it is not with shot and shell. The Mexicans may not be able to kill off as many people in one minute as can the so-called civilized countries of the world but they can kill off enough, and there is little need of our bringing them the civilization of seige guns, airships, submarines, torpedoes and floating mines.
 If we are really desirous of bringing happiness to our southern neighbors, let us take a different course than they themselves are now taking in an effort to secure their own happiness. For a country claiming civilization to come to one, considered as in the savage state, and seek to convince it, by fighting and killing, that it should not fight or kill, is the most inconsistent on the part of the nation claiming the civilization. Our arms should be put away when dealing with Mexico.—Hollywood Citizen.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR A MAN
 Among the papers of Thomas J. Van Alstyne, an electrical engineer of Cornell, N. Y., was found the following set of specifications, which is also a creed, these being given publicity first by the Cornell Engineer, a trade journal of the eastern city:
 "To respect my country, my profession and myself. To be honest and fair with my fellow men as I expect them to be with me. To be a loyal citizen of the United States. To speak of it with praise and act always as a trustworthy custodian of its good name. To be a man whose name carries prestige with it wherever it goes.
 "To base my expectations of a reward on a solid foundation of service rendered. To be willing to pay the price of success in honest effort. To look upon my work as an opportunity to be seized with joy and to be made the most of, not as a painful drudgery to be reluctantly endured.
 "To remember that success lies within my own self and in my own brain, my own ambition and my own courage and determination. To expect difficulties and force my way through them. To turn hard experience into capital for future struggles.
 "To believe in my profession heart and soul. To carry an air of optimism in the presence of those I meet. To dispel all temper with cheerfulness, kill doubts with strong conviction, and reduce friction with an agreeable personality.
 "To make a study of my business. To know my profession in every detail. To mix my brains with effort and system in my work. To find time to do every needful thing by not letting time find me doing nothing. To hoard days as a miser does dollars. To make every hour bring me dividends in increased knowledge and healthful recreation. To keep my future unencumbered with debts. To save as well as earn.
 "To cut out expensive amusements until I can afford them. To steer clear of dissipation and guard my health of body and peace of mind as a most precious stock in trade.
 "Finally, to take a good grip on the joys of life. To play the game like a man. To fight against nothing as hard as my own weakness and endeavor to give it strength. To be a gentleman and a Christian, so I may be courteous to man, faithful to friends, and true to God."

THE SPLIT INFINITIVE—USE IT

Booth Tarkington was once quoted as saying that he didn't know as much about grammar as a high school student. And if other authors were as honest as Mr. Tarkington is reported to have been, similar confessions would fill the air. That doesn't mean Mr. Tarkington or other authors crack the Precilian's head every paragraph or so. Indeed not. It simply means scholastic formulas are not remembered; that good reading and careful writing have so ingrained correct usage into their diction that unconsciously they observe the proper arrangement of words. Perhaps if called on to parse an intricate sentence or to chase a preposition into the arms of the recognized grammatical rule, many authors known for their purity of style would have to take a seat at the feet of a grammar grade teacher.
 But the bugaboo of the language has been the split infinitive. All the two-by-four purists who swagger about parading a knowledge of grammar may be recognized as a vendetta sworn to vengeance on innocent little adverbs appearing between the "to" and the verb. In other opinion, the height of ridicule is to refer to a writer as one who uses the split infinitive. Even Henry Cabot Lodge, a scholar and a statesman, in an essay defending "Americanism" and justifying the use of many words scorned by British purists, belabors an unknown journalist for using, among other things, the split infinitive.
 Yet the use of the split infinitive is defended by authoritative grammarians and justified by the usage of almost every classical author from Chaucer to Kipling. Gould Brown in his "Grammar of English Grammar" says: "It is true that the adverb is in general more elegantly placed before the preposition than after it, but the later position sometimes contributes perspicuity, which is more essential than elegance." Mason, in his twenty-first edition of "English Grammar" says: "The preposition 'to' is not an essential part of the infinitive mood nor an invariable sign of it."
 Frank H. Vizetelly, managing editor of the "Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary," says in "Essentials of English Speech": "Why characterize the split infinitive as an outrage on the English language? It is nothing of the sort; it is but a natural arrangement of words to forcefully express thought."
 Byron wrote: "To slowly trace the forest's shady scene" and was ridiculed for it. But before him such peers of English literature as Wycliffe, Massinger, Donne, Sir Thomas Brown, De Foë, Shakespeare, Samuel Johnson and Burns had made use of it. Even Macaulay, Addison, Ruskin, Lamb, Herbert Spencer, Coleridge, Matthew Arnold, Robert Browning, James Russell Lowell and Dr. Holmes have all used the split infinitive.
 And still the angry cry of noisy purists is raised against the author who—to more forcibly drive his meaning home—makes use of a grammatical form justified by the best writers of English from the distant past to the immediate future. Indeed, indeed, a little learning is a dangerous thing; and when a mental snob learns one rule of grammar he uses it as a yardstick to measure all values.—Exchange.

RIGIDITY OF THE SCHOOL
 A county superintendent of schools has appealed to the state superintendent to know whether a boy desirous of studying in the high school, but not wishing to study algebra, may be permitted to have his own way about it. He explains that the boy does not expect to remain long, is troubled with weak eyes, and is somewhat behind other pupils of his age, having lived on the desert most of his life.
 The superintendent seems at this writing to be in doubt, and perhaps the laws are confusing, but the right and wrong of the proposition are unclouded. The answer depends upon whether the schools are made for pupils or pupils made for the schools. Of a class entering high school after equal advantages in the grades, some will find the course difficult, while to others it will be easy. This proves that the curriculum should be elective and elastic, that is, framed to fit the individual case. To regard youth as all of a pattern is one of the mistakes of pedagogy.
 This particular boy is nineteen, knows that his period of schooling is to be short, and, if intelligent enough to derive any benefit from his studies, intelligent enough to choose such studies as may suit his purpose. What the technical restrictions to influence the decision may be is not understood by the observer, but if they are such as to prevent the doing of justice towards this boy, they ought to be changed.—Long Beach Telegram.

TROPICO

Griffith park is now the most popular of the many places of interest in this locality. Early this morning Mrs. George Peck chaperoned a party to witness the sunrise from one of the peaks of the park. The early morning picnickers were Miss Amie Miller, Miss Pauline Hamilton and Miss Mary Jane Evans-Hough. Later in the morning this jolly party was augmented by four other picnickers who preferred witnessing the glorious sunrise from their own homes and this party included Miss Dorothy Hobbs, Miss Esther Schremp, Miss Ernestine Lyon and Miss Margaret Boucher.

Mrs. Mary J. Ballom, who has resided at the corner of Brand boulevard and Park avenue the past seven years, several years before there was a Brand boulevard, has moved to the corner of Glendale and Cypress avenues into a pretty new bungalow recently purchased by Mrs. Ballom and her daughter, Mrs. George W. Rehn. Mr. and Mrs. Rehn are engaged at one of Los Angeles' theaters and will reside with Mrs. Ballom.

Mrs. Charles A. Barker, president of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club, has been confined at her home on South Glendale avenue by a severe illness. Her many friends will be pleased to learn, however, that she is very much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Anderssen of Elgin, Ills., who are the house guests of Mrs. Anderssen's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs of North Central avenue, were the guests Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley H. Bullis of Central avenue.

After a residence of a year or more at their West Park avenue residence, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Silvius have returned to Glendale and will occupy their residence on Colorado boulevard.

Many Tropico citizens attended the automobile races at Venice today, going by trolley and motors.

SWEEP OF PROHIBITION WAVE

In all utterances with reference to the number of "dry" states in the American Union, frequent revision is now necessary. We were writing a short time ago, for instance, of ten prohibition states; a little later of fourteen; still later of sixteen; now we find that the number must be put at nineteen. Within a few years, from a fifth, the "dry" states have reached and passed one-fourth and one-third, and now they are on the way to one-half of the forty-eight sovereign commonwealths of the republic. In the order of their admission to the prohibition column these states are: Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Washington, Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa and Utah.
 Other states are on the way; Maine and Kansas had to bear the brunt of the fight in the earlier days. Both states for a long period were held up to derision. All manner of falsehoods were circulated and believed regarding the operation of prohibition within their borders. Their people were grossly slandered. Desperate efforts were made to injure them in reputation and in trade, but they were faithful and steadfast, and both have prospered without the saloon and despite the interests back of the saloon.
 It is not so difficult now as it used to be to convince an individual or a state that sobriety, temperance and moral cleanliness pays. The examples are too numerous. The old slanders hurled against the "dry" state now fall flat. All of the states in the prohibition column are made up in the main of virile, intelligent, industrious, progressive people; they have learned by experience, much of it very costly, that the traffic represented by the saloon is a root of disorder, wrong-doing, misery, bad citizenship; and they will have no more of it on any terms.—Christian Science Monitor.

WISCONSIN'S VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS

The superintendent of schools at Reloit expresses the opinion that more has been accomplished during three years in developing the industrial schools than would have been accomplished in twice the time under the regular school boards.
 The Racine people say that the industrial board, composed as it is of two shopmen and two employers and the superintendent of schools, is "a body that is vitally interested in industry and its greatest resource, the worker." The reaction on the general schools is reported to be a positive benefit.
 According to the Sheboygan superintendent of schools, any predictions that Wisconsin will come to the unit system of control are made by "educational theorists and not the men and women who have been actually on the job from the beginning." In Milwaukee the vocational school people are sure that "the sentiment of the community is favorable to the present organization of the schools."
 Mrs. Bradford, the head of the Kenosha schools, after pointing out that no part of the expense of maintaining the vocational schools has come out of the general school fund, sums up the matter by saying that any little disagreements between the general school board and the vocational school board have been easily smoothed out "when both bodies

SKINNY'S FINISH
 Being a little short of material today, we asked the devil to write us a short article against the use of slang. He did. Here it is:
 If there is anything that gets your Nanny it is the use of slang. Some guys spill so much of that kind of dope that it is hard to get wise to their spiel. Kids should be put next by their parents that slang is on the Fritz, and should ought to be cut out. If I had a kid that couldn't put over straight stuff, I would wallop the lining out of the lobster. Skirts are shines, proper, when it comes to slang. They think that mercy and I should say not are real tough. The Boss is a dish of prunes when it comes to slang. He bawls me out to a fare ye well and I am in Dutch from the time I come on the job till haying time in the evening. This is the first real thing I have ever wrote and if it don't show up in the rag I will know it is a flivver proper.—Skinny.
 There are more reasons for peace than there are excuses for war.
 Some of the old war poems seem better than many of the new ones.
 The concert of the powers has resolved itself into an anvil chorus.
 Some people seem to think chewing the rag furnishes food for thought—but it doesn't.
