Angel banks,
where sweet dew is sprinkled

Violets
which yet join
not seem to fine,
Crown
the pale year
weak and new.

The shadow of that Sleepy woodland
Was reflected
Upon the water,
The water's pale
Heart beat within their boughs— the eyes
Of boughs with all its planks

As in its sleep
some odorous match While set its leaves with mighty dews are wet, Breathes in prophetic dreams
of day's uprise

O
Violets

And all the place is peopled with sweet ones
which float like nest-leaves
With music & flowers.
And fall upon
the orchis
like faint sleep
And from the moss
Violets and forget-me-nots
And start
their arrows down
through the brain Till you might faint with that delicious pain

AND FADING VIOLETS.
WHITE AND PIED, AND BLUE.
