When Perle's spirits trembled in a hand...
He, who had governed every subject well...

So Dara shepherded a promise wide...
Nor in his father's sceptre took more pride...

That was there, so he only a year by year...
Yes, when 'twas opened, all his tent was known...

For, for, for, said that private'er went...
A chest, beauteous, whose wher he came bent...

Not Dara, upon as the sky's blue roof...
He stood, and 'O, my lord, behold the proof...
