THE UNION-IT MUST BE PRESERVED." WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 18, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR: J. B. DAWSON. JOHN H. HOLLAND.

FOR CONGRESS: 24 district-JAMES M. BRADFORD.

An Act of the Legislature, approved 14th March 1890. "ART. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Mayor and Recorder shall be chosen from among the citizens who are heads of families, and resident within the city at the time of their election, and possess the other qualifications required by the existing laws."

Fellow citizens, if the law requires this as: condition in completing the eligibility of a candidute for the place of Mayor, judge if respect for public manuers and morals, does not more imperiously exact that it should be found in a sultable penson to fill the place of recorder, at the approaching election. Mr. White, one of the candidates before the people for Glove nor, has shewn respect enough to public opinion-to vaçate his sent in Congress; Mr. Denis Prieur, however, retains the office of Maver, and shows every disposition of being a candidate for re-election. Comment is notices! Citizens of New Orleans, do you believe for a moment that Mr. White, similarly situated as Mr. Prieur, would decline re-election to his present post if he thought he could keep between the colonization and the abolition societies. Both are alike decestable to the southern people, for having aground, avitated a subject over which they should have no control What a happy circumstance would it be if they could destroy each other like the Kilkeny cats!

The Yeseo is of $70 tons burthen; her cabin is upon the deck, and is furnished with neatness and taste. It is divided into twenty separate spartments or rooms, each containing two births. The ornaments are simple, and consist only of a beautiful polish of blue and white upon plain chiscled wood. No polished mahogany, no rich columns, no surrors on every side, is to be seen; but simplicity prevails throughout-a simplicity more beautiful than all the gurgeous trappings of art.

The after cabin, devoted to ladies, has a beautiful mahogany hair-butterned sofa, and is appropriately finished off, reinfort being studied throughout more than spiendor. private stairway leads from hence to the upper deck. On the whole, we may observe that those noble vessels present a desideratum long ardently anticipated; they are like omfortable houses where one can be perfectly at his case as much so as if he were on land.

Descriptions generally are defective, and we the fore ray to all those who have yet omitted to visit the Mississimple and Yaree to go and examine for themselves, feeling confident of our inability to do full justice

A known and a fool.—Two or three weeks ago a man upplied at a boarding house for lodgings, stating that he was a planter from the south. He had noticed a young lady at the window, and it was not long before he made her acquainted with the fact, that though possessed of great wealth he was destitute of a partner, and that in truth it was the glimpse he saught of her person which induced him to take lodgings there. He said a slight acquaintance had confirmed his favorable prepassessions, and although he was somewhat advanced, yet, if she would consult to be the would do what he could to compensate for that, by settling ugon her the sum of fifteen thousand dollars at once, and making her as happy as his own efforts and ample possessions would enable him to do. This is no portunity too good to be lost. The courtship commenced on Friday, and the woulding took place on Tuesday. The bridegroom was but indifferently attired, as he had with him only a few atticles in his bandhox and the tailor disappointed him upon his hasty order for a wedding suit. DIED-On the meraing of the 11th inst. Mrs. Confile de Feriel, emisort of John L. Lewis, Esq. In the death of this most a simable lady, a loss has been sustained which may, in truth, be termed imperally. In the hoom of hide, and in the possession of every quality that could win affection, she has been suddenly shidched from a large circle of attached and admiring friends, and from the bosom of a home to whose happiness she ag materially contidued, and whose endearmonts for many virtues so emenently anhanced and strengthened. And never was there a puter spirit rendoned back to fillim that gave." Tender, affectionate and kind, it was impossible to know, and just esteem and love her. Although highly gifted, and with every especity to please and sline, she soldon ventured into the 'pay world,' or sought the influence of its glittering alurements. Here own peculiar sphere was kome. There were cestered all the fondest feelings of her heart, and within as parrow ci cle her ambition was content to dwell in peace. Indeed to her husband and family she devoted all the operators of the heart and understanding—and in the nurture and colors. her heart and understanding—and in the nurture and cdu-ention of her children she ever evinced that prild and solicitude, which proved, clearer than lenguage, that they constituted her brighest jewels.
