INTRODUCTION.

THE manuscript calendared in the following pages is preserved in the Public Record Office in Chancery Lane, where it is officially catalogued as a Cartulary of Worcester Priory. This description is obviously an inaccurate one. It is almost a register, similar to and in parts coinciding with the Registrum Sede Vacante, edited for the Worcester Historical Society by Mr. Willis Bund; but Sede Vacante matter does not form the more important part of its contents, nor the most numerous. When first noticed it seemed possible that the manuscript was the missing second register of the Priory referred to by Nash, vol. ii. app. xciv., but the present volume does not commence with any charter of King Edgar, nor is there "an inspeximus of the first book of the Priory" (whatever Nash may have meant by that), nor can this series of letters be very well called "acts"; on the other hand the date in the main agrees. It is better, perhaps, to call it a letter-book of certain Priors of Worcester covering the period of the first three quarters of the 14th century; but it is more than this, for Sede Vacante documents, certificates, manumissions and so forth occur. So that those who printed on the modern binding the words LIBER ECCLES. WIGORN. were perhaps wise in their generation<sup>1</sup>. Its place in the series of National records is shewn by the paper label—

Augmentation Office,
Miscellaneous Books,
No. 63.

The style in which the volume is written suggests that it was meant for a Register of the Priors' correspondence most worthy of preservation either from its intrinsic interest or from the point of view of precedent.

The contents are principally the work of two scribes, one of whom copied the first 18 folios in a cursive irregular hand; the second, who is responsible for folios 19 to 46*b*, used a neater, though difficult, script, with upright letters; from folio 47 to the end of the book the letters seem to have been entered as they came to hand.

The period covered by the letters, &c., is in part that in which the following Priors directed the affairs of the Monastery.

The documents, copies of which are contained in the MS., fall under three headings:—

- I. The welfare and internal economy of the Priory of Worcester.
- II. Affairs of the Benedictine Order in the Province of Canterbury.
- III. Affairs of the Diocese of Worcester in the vacancy of the See.

I. AFFAIRS OF THE PRIORY.

THE constant movement of monks from one monastery to another both within the kingdom and abroad, for purposes of study or otherwise, is borne witness to by the series of letters of introduction and commendation from the various ecclesiastical dignitaries concerned. A Worcester monk is lent to the University of Paris and returns with a singularly illustrious record, "shewing like a brilliant star without a blemish." The same monk, John of St. Germans, while teaching in the Abbey of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, was ordered to return to Worcester carrying with him a report of the clearness of his teaching and the uprightness of his life.

Other monks are sent in various directions upon matters of importance, at one time to represent the Prior and Convent by proxy, either in Rome, in London, or before the Archbishop of Canterbury, as the case may be. One sent on special advice of Archbishop Raynald to London seems to have conducted his mission so successfully that great praise is given him in the delicate matter of reducing the exactions of the Crown.

The Prior is perpetually importuned to grant benefices or pensions to various applicants who are commended to him by high dignitaries. For this cause letters are inserted from Arnald, cardinal-deacon of St. Mary in Porticu, which is strengthened by a further letter of Adam de Orleton, who at that time was Canon of Hereford, Papal Chaplain, and Auditor of Causes at Avignon. Both ecclesiastics unite in commending J. de la Mare, a clerk desirous of becoming a regular in the Worcester Monastery. Others write in favour of their own special protégé for whom they desire some description of benefice or corody or employment under the monastic rule. Sometimes, and more generally, it is for clerics such requests are preferred, but at times laymen are named.

One fact seems to stand prominently enough to the front, namely, that the position of a regular monk in such a monastery as that of Worcester was an exceedingly coveted one, and that the candidate required to be very powerfully supported before he had much chance of filling any vacancy when it occurred, the Monastery choosing to elect men likely to add to its prestige for their piety, learning, and promise.

Some of the correspondence relates to the assessment of the monastic income by the government of the day. The drain of the exchequer during the long war with France told heavily upon the monasteries as upon lay proprietors; indeed Worcester seems to have found it at times extremely difficult to meet the taxation. The Crown borrowed of Italian merchants and others to a large extent, notably from the Peruzzi of Florence, giving in security for the loan the staple of wool, which was strenuously levied. This led to an interesting series of letters, in one of which the unfortunate Duke of Clarence is begged to intercede with the King in order to afford the monks some relief. In the same connection the Bishop of the neighbouring friendly See of Hereford also intervenes, and at the prayer of the Prior Wulstan de Bransford writes in the convent's interest to a certain R. de A., who as king's clerk may have had influence with the King. Nor is it only the temporal powers that are invoked, since the Prior also desires from his Bishop special prayers and suffrages on the Priory's behalf in their sore strait.

In some small details the House of Worcester was required to bring itself into line with the usage of other Cathedrals. This, really a matter touching the Benedictine Order, was effected naturally enough by the Abbot of Westminster, as President of the Chapter General in the Province of Canterbury, pointing out the irregularity complained of in a courteous letter to the Prior. No theological lecturer had been appointed at Worcester, and the appointment, when made, was not by election; whereas the rule for Cathedral Churches was that such a lecturer should always be elected on the occurrence of a vacancy. Hence the intervention: whether the Prior of Worcester obeyed the abbot or not, does not appear; presumably he did, and inserted this letter in his letter-book to account for his action.

Less courteous, though clothed in the language of becoming humility, is the letter of the Minister of the Friars Minors to Prior Aubyn (f. 22). The Franciscans were at the height of their popularity, and it was already a common practice for persons in extremis to assume the Franciscan habit, to secure for themselves the benefit of dying in the Order and of burial with the Friars. In 1290, which seems to be the date of the letter, the Chapter were still inclined to resist what they doubtless considered an encroachment on their rights; and the Sacrist had actually seized and buried in the Cathedral yard the body of a Worcester citizen who, whether he died with the cord of St. Francis or not, had certainly willed his body to be interred in the Minorite cemetery. So the Provincial Minister, William de Geynsburh, who was himself shortly to become Bishop of Worcester, writes to the Prior on the subject. Authority was all on his side; the Friars' privileges were undoubted; "it is for your own advantage," he writes, "that I advise you to yield. If you do not, I have only to send a couple of Friars to Rome;—you may have heard what our influence is with those Morning Stars": so he describes the Roman Curia. The Friars had their way in the end, but not until the Bishop had intervened on their behalf.

II. AFFAIRS OF THE BENEDICTINE ORDER.

Some little matter of an interesting nature is brought to light in the letters, and one point has already been alluded to: but the condition not of the usages of the cathedral church but of the students of the Benedictine Order studying at Oxford forms the bulk of the correspondence between the Presidents of the Chapter General and the Prior. The University of Oxford at its induction was a guild, a guild of study, following the common lines of a medieval craft guild. The community of masters and scholars were bound together, as masters and apprentices of a craft were, for the purposes of study, and the masters were chosen from those who had already passed through the preliminary stages. Students came in part from the cathedral schools, but were in truth a somewhat motley throng of all ages, and included in their number parish priests who had received episcopal license to leave their cure for the purpose, as well as monks and others, Canon law and Theology forming their chief subjects. Students had much freedom, and passed from one University to another, and from Universities to the greater Monasteries in a manner which seems strange to modern ideas. Control was of the slightest, and the division of students into rival bands of Northern and Southern, together with the rivalry and jealousy of various monastic orders, and of adherence to diverse systems of Philosophy led to endless broils. These disturbances greatly exercised the minds of the Chapter General of the Benedictine Order and led to much correspondence

When it chanced that Oxford was for the moment without a Master of their Order, the Chancellor of the University wrote pointing out what reforms were then in contemplation, and the question of money for the students and their masters was always in the agenda; the President of the Chapter General appealing frequently for funds. The House of Merton seems to have had specially intimate dealings with Worcester, one of the earliest legible letters in the volume being from that House to the Prior, praying for the same method of preferment within the Diocese of Worcester as elsewhere. To this House Archbishop Raynald gave the advowson of Wolford shortly after his translation in 1313, and for this gift the masters and scholars sought confirmation from the Prior in the vacancy of the See.

III. AFFAIRS OF THE DIOCESE.

The ancient privileges by which the Prior acted in many respects in place of the Bishops during a vacancy of the See, and the more complex situation which arose when the See of Canterbury was also vacant at the same time, had been admirably arranged and settled by Archbishop Boniface, and from that date onwards a number of original documents and an invaluable Register remain, but in the present volume a duplicate of much that the Register contains is presented to us, and some few things which are not in the Register.

There is nothing of Ordination, or Confirmation, or Consecration of churches, save only a single letter of the Bishop of Llandaff, stating that he is willing to perform such rites as the Prior needs, but is not quite satisfied that the Prior's authority is good; he therefore asks for further proof, since he has heard the Prior's right questioned.

The method of suppressing scandal and scandalmongers was probably at that time as effectual as could be wished, since after enquiry in the Consistory Court, which passed under the Prior's control with the vacancy, the mandate of the greater excommunication was published in every church of the Rural Deanery in which the offenders lived; while in the case of moral offences strenuous penance was enjoined before absolution was pronounced. There was at least one instance of difficulty with the consistory Court Seal and Archives. For we learn that the Prior repeatedly requested Master Benedict de Pastone, rector of Blockley, who had acted as official for Bishop Walter Raynald, to give up the keys, archive-chest and seal of his office. When pressed on the point he replied that he knew nothing about the change of custody, and a monition had to be issued before he actually gave up the seal, &c., into the hands of the monk appointed by the Prior. The greater part of the Sede Vacante matter found in the present volume has been thoroughly dealt with by Mr. Willis Bund in his several introductions to the published parts of the Sede Vacante Register, and there is no need to traverse the same ground. A letter, almost the last in this collection (ff. 65*b*—67*b*; pp. 55—59), is interesting as a specimen of a document of which there is no example in the Sede Vacante Register. It is an appeal from some person, presumably writing on behalf of the Chapter, to the Archbishop, exhorting him to confirm the election which the Chapter had made, of their Prior, Wolstan de Bransford, to the vacant see. Twice before had the Prior been elected, and twice before had his election been confirmed; but on those occasions the Pope had ‘provided’ a bishop of his own choice. This time the election was allowed, as it is probable the writer of the letter knew well would be the case. But he does not stint his arguments on that account. The Bible, the Canon Law, the Digest, and Aristotle, are all drawn upon to prove to the Archbishop that he ought to confirm the election. It may be supposed that this display of erudition was considered fitting to the occasion.

It only remains to point out the method with which this difficult manuscript has been dealt with. In the first place the Editor spent three weeks in London making transcripts and abstracts of the whole volume. These have been carefully collated with the original manuscript by Miss Ethel Stokes, of the firm of Stokes and Cox, Record Agents, of 75 Chancery Lane, who has spent very considerable time and labour upon it. It has then had the revising hand of the General Editor, so that it is perhaps not unreasonable to suppose that, considering its difficulties, it is fairly accurate.

Note by the General Editor.

MR. BLOOM has expressed the hope that the successive revisions by Miss Stokes and myself have ensured accuracy. But it ought to be understood that the original text, being evidently the work of a scribe who took no pains to understand the letters which he was copying, is full of mistakes. Where these errors are obvious we have emended them; but in many cases the general sense is so obscured as to make any attempt at emendation futile.

Letter entitled in the margin, Littera Amicabilis bene dictata.

1b. Salutem etc. . . . . quia angustie mihi sunt undique et de consilio domini matris presumo consolationem. Ecce iam per dies multos continuata est calamitas nostra, et licet inter pericula et collisiones maris et fluctuum ad portum tamen aliquem tandem devenimus. Letter from the Warden of the House of scholars of Merton asking the Prior to give audience to Master R. de C. and Master J. de N., fellows of their house, whom they are sending as messengers to ask that the same methods may be allowed with regard to livings in the gift of their house, in the diocese of Worcester, as in other dioceses.

Letter of the Prior of Worcester to Sir R. de H., rector of C. W. <sup>1</sup>, pointing out that the pension due to the Cellarer's office is in arrears to the inconvenience of the Priory. He desires it may be paid before the Nativity of our Lord, and the Rectory buildings, which he hears are in a ruinous state, are to be repaired immediately.

A further letter, expressing surprise that the pension still remains unpaid and the buildings unrepaired, commanding the recipient to write back when and what he proposes to do.

7. Letter of T. to the Bishop desiring a meeting on Thursday in the chapel of H.

The learned doctor, Master J. de St. G.<sup>10</sup>, who for a long while has adorned the college, shewing like a brilliant star without a blemish, is preparing to return to Worcester by the Prior's command. 51. Solet ut scitis post noctium tenebras rutilans aurora consurgere, post tempestatum horrores placida satis provenire tempora, post infirmitatis molestias sanitas redire securior, et post tribulationum angustias accidere gaudium cum quiete. Sane, amice carissime, nuper non sine gravi cordis nostri dolore scripsimus vobis dura que ut verisimiliter credimus non sine vestri anxietate spiritus recepistis, sed iam deo referimus gratias quo propiciante tristitia nostra versa est in gaudium, et ut vobis iocundiora scribamus. Multiplex est nobis materia ministrata ecclesie, cui iam versa est in luctum cithara. J. de H. compulsus est per amicos nostros et dominos ab ecclesia vestra de Trilleye invitus recedere unde spectamus quod vos eam de cetero poteritis pacifice possidere. Quomodo autem hoc actum est, longum est nimis enarrare discurrendo per singula, et ideo de multis scribimus vobis pauca; unde sciatis quod non ad instantiam A. de B., qui vobis magis abfuit quam profuit, ut vestri sciunt vobis referre, sed ad instantiam nostram, dumtaxat domini Comites Lancastrie et Huntingdon<sup>1</sup>, multique alii milites, clerici, simul laici, istud negotium sunt cum maxima diligentia tanquam fuisset eorum negotium proprium prosecuti in tantum uterque quod iam communis est sermo quod nullius tempore qui nunc vivit visum fuit tantum ac tale negotium tam viriliter prosecutum. Credebatur namque apud omnes esse pro certo impossibile enervare iudicium datum pro domino nostro rege et certissime hoc fecit ita difficile quod vix domini supradicti hoc, potuerunt explere. Deo igitur gratias referatis, qui sic sapientiam vincere fecit maliciam veritatemque reprimere falsitatem ac cum sit istud negotium sic ad nostram instantiam consummatum, cogitetis iam vos de negotio de W. pro quo licet ut nobis aliquando scripsistis indignationes sustinueritis aliquorum studiatis eas equanimite tollerare.

Norunt enim vestri quanta opprobria indignaciones et dampna pro vobis sustinuerimus et sustineamus eciam in presenti nec in hiis flectimur quin quod incepimus prosequamur. Jam utique pondus belli versum est in nos, factique sunt inimici in capite omnes ipsius Thome amici; excogitant vias et modos nobis nocendi, exacuunt contra nos tanquam gladium linguas suas, parant nobis insidias in occulto, sed nos pacienter sustinemus universa ut demus vobis exemplum ut consimiliter faciatis. Valet.

Domine et frater carissime, vobis quantum scimus et possumus de multiplici solacio per vos Londonie nobis facto. Sciatisque quod licet cum difficultate magna fecimus petitionem vestrum pro clerico vestro puero et iuvene iuxta vestras litteras expediri. Nolumus enim tam grato fratri in suis petitionibus quatenus est nobis possibile aliquialiter displicere. Sciatis autem quod nisi fuisset ad instanciam vestram non fuisset inter nos puer tam iuvenis sic admissus, licet Episcopus noster et alii maiores de partibus nostris scripsissent pro eo. Sciatis insuper quod summe desideramus vobiscum habere colloquium propter multa inde si placet rescribatis nobis an velitis ad nos accedere Wygornienses vestros fratres visitare vel quod nos ad vos alicubi ubi assignare volueritis veniamus. In domino valeatis.

Salutem. Quam nobis rumores quos nobis scripsistis animo libenti recepimus, parati plures recipere cum scribetis. Rogamusque quod per proximos intervenientes quoslibet velitis scribere quid est actum. Miramur autem quod non scripsistis nobis pro expensis vobis mittendis. Supponimus enim quod expense quas vobis tradidimus defecerint a diu, unde plures vobis misissemus per presencium portitorem si novissemus eundem. Quapropter scribatis nobis quanto indigeritis et mitemus id vobis per unum de nostris. Scribatis eciam nobis per proximum intervenientem quantum solvere debeamus domino J. de B. illi solvenda citra terminum quem prefixistis eidem. Scribatis insuper nobis an expediat excitare dominos L. et alios per alias litteras eis mittendas, ac certificetis nos quomodo est de statu vestro et cuiuslibet vestrum, nam de hoc summe optamus prosperos audire rumores. Speramus eciam quod multi clamabunt vobiscum contra illos de Maddel'. Ad quod faciendum excitetis omnes amicos vestros et nostros ut clamor populi excutet aures eius ut agnoscat quod vox populi sit vox dei. Valetis.

54. Quicquid amicitie sciverit et honoris. Litteras vestras revolvimus diligenti scrutinio et quia earum prospecto tenore quedam in eis contenta videbantur nobis repugnancia hiis que A. de B. frequenter nobis retulit viva voce, ac eciam hiis que nos illi diximus quando ipsa nostra negocia de quibus nobis scripsistis penes vos commendavimus prosequendum, misimus pro A. de B. et ostendimus litteras vestras ei qui ut verum fateamur de multis in eisdem contentis, sicut et nos, obstupuit vehementer, unde cum non possimus ad singula in eis contenta sufficienter calamo respondere nisi prolixam nimis paginam faceremus, mitemus ad vos in brevi A. de B. aut J. de L. qui ut speramus, iuxta conducta inter vos ac eciam condicenda finem faciet in negotio memorato. Verumtamen, domine, multum miramur quod Bulla nullam facit penitus mentionem de capellis ecclesie ipsi annexis videlicet de capellis J. de F. etc., nam in supplicatione nostra quam domino A. tradidimus expressam de hiis fecimus mentionem unde et vellemus si fieri possit quod saltem de capella de J. et de capellano de A. fiat mentio in bulla ipsa, licet debeat alias ingrossari. In prosperitate continua diu valeat status vester.

his house, which the said abbot had entrusted to him; and of begging favours from the Pope under circumstances which he has misrepresented. The writer has received the reproaches of a certain prelate, who (on his recommendation) received him into his house, when he was in a state of poverty.

Audivimus frater quod neglecto abbatis tui vel verius domus tue negocio principali, quod tuus abbas de tua fidelitate confidens tibi commiserat prosequendum, tua propria seu privata negocia ipsius interveniente pecunia procurasti, summoque pontifici pro tibi gratiis faciendis supplicationes varias porrexisti; de quo, si ita fuerit ut refertur, vehementer miramur, et ultra quam penna sciamus rescribere conturbamur. Miramur siquidem quod vir quem tam gratum reputavimus et fidelem tam infideliter et tam ingrante se gessit, unde non sine causa turbamur verisimiliter presumentes quod ob tuam culpam nobis improperebit tuus prelatus, qui ad nostram instanciam ex habitu seculari et condicione satis exili ad sue domus habitationem et habitum te admisit, et cum indigens esses nec haberes aliunde succursum tibi necessaria pro tuo ministravit ingressu; et nedum hoc fecit, sed cum esses de suo et sua gratia sic indutus, post professionem tuam ad se familiarius ceteris te attraxit, specialius aliis te instruxit, aliisque dignioribus sorte vel sine sorte postpositis ad scholas te misit; et postea cum esses in religione provectore [sic] te Cellerarium domus sue prefecit, que omnia nostri contemplacione fecisse se dicit; nec quin hec omnia occasione nostri partim perfecit possumus vel audemus aliqualiter abnegare. Turbamur igitur nescientes quid grato homini respondebimus pro ingrato, quid benefico pro iniquo, aut quid confidenti etiam pro infido. Miramur etiam qua fronte in eum decetero presumes conspiceri si prefata eius beneficia cum tuis factis aut potius malefactis revolvas. Verbum siquidem sapientis est. Non moliaris amico tuo malum cum ipse in te habeat fiduciam; tu autem verbo sapientis contempto prelato tuo, qui in te prout in multiplicibus factis te experientia docuit, quam in ceteris sue domus, fiduciam habuit amplioem, malum pro bono recompensare iam studes. Audivimus etiam quod optinuisti de domini nostri pape [sic] fieri capellanum quodque diligenter procuras ut dominus papa tibi in domo tua provideat de uno grandi corrodio pro te ac tua familia, ubique concordat [?] ut irrequesito consensu tui prelati aud alterius cuiuscumque possis in studio generali persistere quousque statum attigeris doctoratus. Proh pudor! quomodo poterant hec in cor tuum ascendere? quomodo poterat talia machinari? Cur tanto onere velles domum tuam iam opprimi, qui eam hucusque aut in nullo aut in modico relevasti? Cur etiam tantum affectas cum onere domus tue ad gratiam erigi doctoratus? An non attendis quod si theologie doctor esse disideres non es in philosophicis eruditus? si autem iuris canonici doctor esse volueris deficit ius civile. Sicque si recte consideres invenies te inhabilem ad utrumque, nec decetero te habilitari posse te credas, cum sis iam etate provectus et communi cursu nature fies progressu temporis ineptior de inepto. Utinam hec diligenter adverteres adiciens ad prefata quod si inexpedito principali negotio pro quo eras ad curiam destinatus, talia expedieris pro teipso, qui olim apud fratres tuos et alios exstiteras bone fame, eris decetero reputatus infamis, et qui fidelis dicebaris et fidus reputaberis, perfidus et proditor et seductor. Tuncque erit gracia tua parum grata cum in infamiam converteris tuam famam, fidem tuam in perfidiam nosceris convertisse. Concludimus ergo frater specialiter te rogantes tibi que specialiter consulentes quatinus, si huiusmodi supplicationes domino pape porrexeris, eas prosequi mox desistas, ac circa expeditionem nogocii tibi commissi totis viribus elaboras, nec mireris quod te sic arguimus in scribendo vel quod tibi sic scribimus sub numero singulari. Cum [enim] te amemus te castigare volentes arguimus instar Dei, qui quem amat corripit et castigat, et hoc utique sub numero facimus singulari, quia non est in Domino nostro . . . . ut quem hominem de ingratitude corripit, illi reverenciam faciat aliqualem. Si falsa fuerint que de te audivimus valeat vita tua; si autem fuerint ipsa vera nisi resipiscas Avinionensis ipsa pestilencia te consumat. Scriptum etc.

recordetur. Utinam annuat mihi Deus ut saltem semel antequam moriar vestram beatitudinem valeam intueri quam utique visitassem ad . . . ut mare transissem regalis auctoritas permisisset, si ea in maris transitu prohibente perficere non potui quod volebam, sicut venerabilis pater dominus abbas de K. presentium portitor satis novit, et cui utinam in supplicationibus quas vestre porriget sanctitati eadem vestra sanctitas se exhibeat gratiosam. Scio procul dubio, beatissime pater, quod si dominatio vestra plenam haberet de ipsius probitate notitiam, inveniret vestram beatitudinem sibi plurimum gratiosam; sicut etenim didici ab hiis qui vitam ejus noverunt et mores, vitam virtuosam duxit a puero et post religionis ingressum pallio egiptiaco derelicto, priverigia et que mundi erant abiciens cepit mox maturitate senescere et futuram nature ca . . . maturiori morum senio pervenire, sicque suis exigentibus meritis factus monasterii sui Abbas, cum essent pro pauperitate ipsius monasterii fratres ipsius pro magna parte dispersi, eos revocavit quamcivis potuit ad ovile . . . et eis et ceteris ductor et doctor, vite speculum, morum s . . . et sanctitatis exemplum. Monasterium etiam supradictum, quod ante ipsius perfectionem tam in facultatibus quam edificiis erat pro majori parte collapsum per suam in magna parte reparavit industriam, sed deficientibus sibi sumptibus sine vestre sanctitatis suffragio, reparare non potest ad plenum. Dignetur igitur, benignissime pater et domine, vestra sanctitas ac benignitas singularis eum specialiter commendatum habere supplicationesque quas eidem sanctitati vestre pro dicto monasterio faciet favorabiliter expedire. Ad universalis ecclesie regimen et munimen sanctitudinem vestram conservet altissimus temporibus duraturis.

63<sup>b</sup>. Reverendissime pater et domine. Pro vestris immensis beneficiis mihi et parvule domui vestre Wynch[combe] sepius exhibitis et impensis, vobis non sufficio gratas reddere vices pro quibus retribuatur altissimus omnium retributor. Ceterum etiam de vestre solite bonitatis affluentia spem gerens indubitata paternitatem vestram reverendam humiliter deprecor et exoro, quatinus pro mea confratrumque meorum majori quiete velitis si libeat unam dimissionem nobis de tempore quo ecclesie Wygorniensis preuistis concedere de ecclesiis portionibus et pensionibus quas nos et predecessores nostri in diocesi Wygorniensis percipere consuevimus ab antiquo et habere, cujus formam per consilium nostrum sub vestra correctione conceptam vobis transmitto presencium per latorem, cui fidem si libeat in dicendo in hac parte credulam adhibentes vestre dominacionis beneplacita super hiis remittere velitis per eundem; quo ad subsidium domino Cardinali Cantuariensi nuper concessum diligenciam meam nunc instante die solucionis ipsius per me et benivolos meos per quos idem negocium credo posse prosperare iuxta vires apponam, de qua dominacioni vestre reverende Deo volente constabit satis in futurum. Ad regimen ecclesie vestre ac gregis dominici vobis commissi paternitatem vestram diu conservare dignetur incolumem Jesus Christus. Scriptum, etc.

Domine et amice carissime. Tractavimus iterum cum fratribus nostris super hiis que nobis ex parte domini nostri Regis per ipsius litteras intimastis, quia propter varias oppressiones et diversa infortunia quibus ecclesia nostra succumbit a prestatione lanarum et earum mutuo multipliciter se excusant et precipue quia sicut ore tenus vobis diximus propter huiusmodi oppressiones et infortunia a diu vendidimus lanas nostras; unde tractabimus adhuc iterum et iterum cum eisdem, et in casu quo non possumus precepta domini nostri Regis prout sue littere continent adimplere, erimus Londonie in termino quem nobis dixistis nisi gravis infirmitas aut urgens necessitas nos impediatur quominus illuc personaliter accedere valeamus, in quibus quidem casibus mitemus ad vos in dicto termino domus nostre cellerarium cum sufficienti mandato ad respondendum et comparendum pro nobis ac ad cetera omnia faciendum que nos facere possemus si ibidem in propria essemus persona, quem si placet cum ad vos venerit velitis amore nostri dei insinuare quid in hoc casu decreveritis consultius faciendum. Semper feliciter valeatis.

Power of attorney by N. le Swon [?] and G. his wife, to their proxy, J. de la More, of the diocese of Exeter, to act in their name at the Court of Canterbury. Given under the seal of the Dean of Winchecumbe.

64 and 64*b*. A duplicate of the letter of John de Evesham, entered on fol. 57 above.

Salutem cum continue et sincere dilectionis optentu. Scire velitis amice carissime dominum J. de B. exhibitorem presentium in nostra comitiva a tempore vestri de nobis transitus continue moratum fuisse, illo tempore dumtaxat excepto quo postquam Frater N. de T. re . . . aluit ad partes Glastonienses in vestris negotiis sicut nobis asseruit iter egit. Et quoniam amice litteras quasdam dominis abbatibus Evesham et de H. ac etiam alibi non multum distantius eidem tradidimus deferendas, de mora illius amore nostri vestra dilectio non miretur, quem libenter vellemus de vestra benevolentia in vigilia Sancti Mathei circa horam diei nonam nobiscum esse [etc.].

65*b*. Confirma sententiam et scribe decretum, Dan. vj. capitulo Reverende pater et domine, iuxta sententiam canonis ca. viij. q. i. Apostolica, presulatus officium non sanguini debetur sed meritis, idque non successio sanguinis sed electio da . . . communis per electiones, namque sicut testatur decretum querendus est presul qui communi utilitati digne deserviat, qui populi utilitatem non propria lucra querat, qui Christo voluerit semen suscitare non sibi divitias congregare. Talium autem raritatem prospiciens Jeremias xlix capitulo querit Quis erit electus et quem preponam? set Actuum ix respondetur Vas electionis mihi est iste. Iste inquam Wlstanus quem alias Wygorniense capitulum ad officium presulatus elegit velut inter eos magis idoneum, et metropolitanus qui tunc fuerat confirmavit ut dignum. Iste etiam quem idem capitulum ex communi et concordii sententia elegit nunc iterum et huc misit iterum confirmandum, ut ergo, pater et domine reverende, quod factum sic unanimiter sicque concorditer extitit stabile sit et firmum, ipsius nostri capituli confirma sententiam et confirmationis vestre scribe decretum. Confirma sententiam et scribe decretum, sub quibus verbis sic breviter ad propositum introductis, ecce quod fecimus, roborari iam petimus. Confirma sententiam et ecce roborationis modum quem appetimus, ut sufficiat. Scribe decretum; confirma ergo sententiam et scribe decretum, reverende pater et domine, sicut tradunt canones. Confirmatur parvulus baptizatus ut gratiam plenariam et robur recipiat; confirmatur ad dignitatem electus ut quod operatur vim habeat; confirmatur etiam interdum sententia ut solidius ipsa subsistat, sicque prestat confirmatio robur et gratiam parvulis, roborat confirmatio ea que post hanc facta fuerint ab electis et robur etiam interdum iudicum dat sententiis. Confert utique robur et gratiam parvulis dicente decreto de consecratione dist: quinta, Spiritus sanctus, quod in baptismo regeneramur ad vitam, confirmatione augmentum suscipimus gratie et roboramur ad pugnam. Roborat etiam ea que post hanc facta fuerint ab electis, cum enim non valeat si quid electus administraverit ante eam, sicut patet ex titulo de electione in capitulo Nosti et per alia multa capitula. Valet enim quod fuerit post hanc actum ut patet e titulo in capitula transmissa. Dat etiam confirmatio interdum robur sententiis sicut enim dicit decretum dist: lxiiij in capitulo Extra conscientiam, tunc integrum est iudicium cum fuerit plurimorum sententiis confirmatum. Magnam itaque, pater et domine reverende, vim habet confirmatio que, cum electis administrandi in spiritualibus primo tribuat potestatem, tanto est magis acceleranda quanto ex eius dilatione maiora poterunt imminere pericula. Ubi enim maiora poterunt imminere pericula ibi citius est adhibenda cautela sicut videtur in illo capitulo Sexti de electione Ubi periculum libro quinto<sup>1</sup>. Moveant ergo vos, pater et domine reverende, ad confirmationem presentis negotii pericula vacantis ecclesie et nedum hec set valor electe persone et observantia forme debite. Hec sunt enim que reddunt electionem merito confirmandam; primo inquam ad confirmandum hanc electionem movere vos debent pericula vacantis ecclesie quantis enim anxietur pressuris quantis molestetur hostilitatis insidiis; quoniam etiam que sustentationi pauperum applicari deberent direptioni patent in multis, qualiterque predicta destruuntur; quoniam etiam ipsius ecclesie libertates conculcatori subiacent; qualiterque oves proprium ignorantes pastorem silvescunt et errare per devia non formidant dum sic est ecclesia destituta pastoris nescio ad plenum iam dicere cum non sit facile hec prout sunt manifestare sermone. Sentit hec utique detrimenta vacans Wygorniensis ecclesia que hec tollerat et gemunt filii pre dolore qui matrem sic cruciat. Utinam ergo, benignissime pater, ad hec intuenda oculus se vester aperiat, utinam hec vestra sollicitudo consideret, leditur enim universalis ecclesia dum sic patietur membrum eius, quemadmodum enim in unius membri lesione cuncta corporis membra quodam passionis participio molestantur; sic tota Christi ecclesia sentit dispendium si quid membrum eius patiatur discrimen. Una est enim ubique terrarum ecclesia licet quadam immensitate videatur diffudi, quam cantu sexto sponsus ex parte Christi designat cum dicit. Una est columba mea perfecta mea. Hanc eciam ecclesie unitatem docet Apostolus Hebraicis sexto<sup>1</sup>, et sacramentum unitatis ostendit cum dicit unum corpus et unus spiritus, una eciam spes vocacionis nostre, unus dominus, una fides, unum baptisma, una fides, unus Deus. Hanc autem unitatem sicut dicit decretum 24 q. 1, capitulo Loquitur Dominus, tenere firmiter et vindicare debetis maxime vos episcopi qui in Dei presidetis ecclesia ut episcopatum quoque ipsum unum atque indivisum probetis. Nemo (66b) nequiter fraternitatem fallat, nemo fidei veritatem perfida prevaricatione corrumpat. Episcopatus, inquit, unus est, cuius singularis pars tenetur insolidum; et ecclesia una est que in multitudine latius incremento fecunditatis extenditur, unde profecto nequaquam, ut tenetur, Christi ecclesiam diligit, qui, dum ipsa in membris patitur, quatinus in illo est ipsius dispendiis non resis[ti]t, nec episcopatus ut debet tuetur officium; qui cum possit non repellit alterius periculum velut suum. In figura utique huius Christus Petro, qui in se omnium tipum gessit, qui vices Christi in ecclesia quo ad subditos eius gerunt, non unam singularem sed totam et universalem ecclesiam tradidit gubernandam: per hoc rectores ecclesiarum quoscumque volens instruere ut unusquisque eorum totam et universalem ecclesiam teneatur defendere et omnium membrorum ipsius periculis obviare, unde, sicut dicit Ciprianus in quadam epistola et ponitur in canone verbi sancti, ut tota Christi ecclesia foret una ab unitate; sumpsit exordium dum Christus edificavit ecclesiam super unum, soli enim Petro dixit Tu es Petrus et super hanc petram edificabo ecclesiam, providens autem ecclesiam in membris persecutionem passuram ne illius unitas scinderetur ad regimen eius multos voluit confirmare unde et Petrum et in persona ipsius te pater et domine reverende, ac alios, quibus hoc competit, hortatur ad regimen ecclesie alios confirmare. Luce enim xxij scribitur Ecce Satanas expetivit vos ut cribraret sicut triticum et tu aliquando conversus confirma fratres tuos. Et ad Titum, 3, ait Apostolus Volo te de his confirmare ut [qui credunt] curent et ipsi operibus bonis preesse. Juxta ergo id quod sic hortatur sacra scriptura fratres tuos pater reverende confirma et precipue hunc nostrum electum ad cuius confirmationem nedum movere vos debent pericula vacantis ecclesie, sed etiam ut premititur valor electe persone, quod est secundum, de quo brevius.

Reverende pater, illis, sicut dicit Thomas de Capua[?] <sup>1</sup> in quadam epistola, committendum est regimen sponse Christi qui sunt morum honestate decori, qui in operando sunt etiam strenui [sic] qui subditos exemplis bonis informent et que legi coniugali debentur exsolvant, qui etiam i . . . a . . . . a discipline solvant debitas penas culpae, subditosque nec nimio rigore coerceant nec nimia levitate relaxent; sed quis in hiis omnibus sicut iste? Satis utique preclaros alumpnos et filios peperit ecclesia Wygorniensis, sed hunc quidem multis peperit clariorem quem natura ditavit uberius, quem ceteris specialius ditavit virtutibus. Huius enim tota conversatio scola extitit honestatis morum edificatio et s . . . uttura salutis a . . . . is adolescentie motibus sicut notum est hiis qui noverunt . . . . . instar patris nostri sanctissimi Wlstani cepit morum maturitate se . . . sdem et in seipso carnis motus (67) illicitos cohibere. Elegit abiectus esse in domo Dei magis quam habitare in tabernaculis peccatorum, relinquere palmas Egipti et regulari ritu vestis militare iustitie. Hincque vocatus est a Domino tanquam Aaron ad dandam salutis scientiam plebi eius, reddere populum acceptabilem domino, sectatorem bonorum operum, et parare Domino plebem perfectam. Elegit eum Dominus sibi in sacerdotem ut esset in populo eius ductor et doctor, vite speculum, morum seminarium et sanctitatis exemplum, qui velud fidelis servus et prudens quem nedum contemplativum esse quesivit sed activum, sicut Pater Gregorius dist: in capitulo decrevit, Marie officium explevit et Marthe contemplans devotius cum Maria et fratrum utilitatibus ministrans cum Martha. Hunc itaque quia fidelis extitit super pauca iam elegit dominus ad maiora, ut sic velut lignum quod transplantatur fructum plus afferat, et ut lucerna super candelabrum posita gloriosius cunctis irradiet. Hanc electionem, pater, confirmare te convenit, hortante hoc scriptura sacra Deuteron. xvij, que dicit quod Constitues quem Dominus Deus elegerit. Cum etiam [dicit] decretum . lxj . distinctione Miramur, quod merito beatorum patrum venerabiles sanctiones, cum de prelatorum electionibus loquerentur, eos ad administrationes sacras censuerunt idoneos, quorum from the line above, after "secundum," where it would be quite in place ("the second heading").

etas a puerilibus exordiis usque ad perfectiores annos per discipline stipendia cucurisset, nec possit, ut dicit idem decretum, de ipsius idoneitate dubitari cui pro laboribus multis, pro moribus castis, pro actionibus strenuis celsioris loci debetur premium. Movere ergo vos debet, reverende pater, ad confirmandam hanc electionem tante persone congruitas quam idoneam suadet ea quam prius habuit dignitas quam ita idoneam probat utcumque quod alias electa fuerat et confirmata, unde decet quod nunc faciliter munus confirmationis optin[endum?] prius, sicut decet et res de facili redit ad suam naturam sicut . . ens ff. de pactis, l. si unus . . pactus ne peteret quod in specie dotis<sup>1</sup>. Tertio autem, pater et domine reverende, sicut premissum est movere vos debet ad confirmationem huius electionis nedum periculum vacantis ecclesie ac valor electe persone set observantia forme debite. Forma enim, sicut dicit philosophus, rem perficit, que si desit res deficit, sicut habetis xxxij qu . . quod vero non formatur. (67b). Volentes ergo quod facturi eramus esse profectum, nec ex defectu forme deficere . . . . . ecclesia Wygorniensis per mortem domini Thome de Hemenhale<sup>2</sup> dudum pastoris eiusdem, quem cum placita esset deo anima illius properavit illum de medio iniquitatis educere, illumque aliquibus diebus in infirmitate deductis de hoc seculo nequam quod forte eo dignum non erat eripuit; ipsius corpore cum solempnitate debita tumulato huius substituendi pastoris processum ad tempus quorundam fratrum differret absentia, eo tamen eos reducende cui facile est disiuncta coniugere et inter se distantia insimul adunare; prefixo die novum eligendi pontificem, maneque ipsius diei missarum solempniis in honorem Sancti Spiritus celebratis, hincque congregato capitulo ac preposito verbo Dei qua via in electionis negotio vellemus procedere, singuli requisiti unanimiter descendimus per viam procedere compromissi, assistente itaque benigno sapientie spiritu qui devote sic se invocantibus semper adest electi sunt compromissarii summe concorditer, qui data eis et acceptata potestate, [cum] solis occasum eiusdem diei horam statuissent futuram de seipsis vel aliis de gremio et non aliunde pastorem seu pontificem providendi, secedentes in partem post aliquantulum de future . . . . . substitutione tractatum hunc virum a virtute dictum unanimiter duxerunt eligendum, quemque unus eorum de aliorum mandato vice eorum et sua et omnium de capitulo infra terminum temporis sic statuti post elegit coram omnibus. Hunc ergo canonice sic electum cum laudis cantico deo optulimus in altari, factaque super hoc publicatione communi ipsius ad electionem de se factam, . . situs est . . . . . legitime et in fine hoc non modicum reniteretur optentus. Huius ergo reverende pater tam canonice electionis
