AN INTERNATIONAL CREDITS SCHEME

Designed to Help Other Nations Besides Austria

London, July 2.—Sir Drummond Drummond-Fraser, organizer of the International Credits Scheme of the League of Nations, is immensely pleased with the reception it has met in Austria. He says he can see only one serious obstacle to the successful application of the scheme to all the countries now in financial difficulties, and that is a psychological one.

"The trouble," he said, when interviewed here, "is that the countries are so unwilling to admit that they need international financial assistance. They seem to feel towards it much as individuals do toward 'poor law' relief. It hurts their national pride to admit that they are impoverished by the war. Of course," he added, "if we really dared not take the risk of accepting because they did not know what the exchange was going to do next."

"It may sound paradoxical," he continued, "in talking about a country in the position of Austria to say that credit is sometimes not worth having, but that has been exactly the case owing to the fluctuations of the Austrian exchange. To my personal knowledge there were traders in Austria who were offered credit, and simply dared not take the risk of accepting because they did not know what the exchange was going to do next."

PLANES TO FLY TO NORMAN FIELD

Canadian Aviation Is Being Extended Northward
Edmonton, July 2.—Three flying boats of five passenger capacity will inaugurate a passenger aeroplane service from here to the North this month, according to J. C. Gibson, managing director of the Great North Service. Mr. Gibson has returned from the East, where he arranged for the shipment of the machines and interested a group of prominent business men in Toronto, Montreal and New York in the Alberta-Mackenzie flying service and its allied schemes.

PRESS CONGRESS OF THE WORLD IN CITY OF HONOLULU

The executive committee of the Congress has provided for representation of such associations on the basis of one voting delegate for every twenty members in their organizations. The names, addresses and professional connections of delegates are being reported to Dr. Walter Williams, president of the Congress, who is dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Missouri.

PREPARING FOR GOVERNOR'S ARRIVAL

Ottawa Officials Are Making Necessary Arrangements

Ottawa, July 2.—(Canadian Press, Ottawa Bureau)—Once every five years the people of Canada bid an affectionate farewell to a Governor-General, and with a great warm heartedness immediately welcome the incoming representative of the King. In that welcome there is much of form and ceremony, curiosity and red tape, but under it all there lies a desire to assure the new Governor-General that he will be extended the warmest of welcomes.

TO BE SWORN IN

Leaving the boat the Governor-General will be taken to the provincial Legislative chamber, where he will be sworn in, sign the Oath Book and issue his proclamation bidding the Government continue to function, after which he will board a special train for Ottawa to be welcomed again and cheered before proceeding to Government House.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every Summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on.

COST OF LEAGUE IS INVESTIGATED

Geneva, Switzerland, July 1.—Obligatory use of two languages, French and English, in all its translations, and the high cost of living at the headquarters in Geneva are given by the special committee investigating the workings of the League of Nations as an explanation of what has been considered in some quarters as the excessive cost of the organization. The expense for the last year, as already reported, was about $1,150,000.

TO SELL LIGNITE BRIQUETTES SOON

Winnipeg, July 2.—Lignite briquettes from the big plant at Bienfait, Sask., will likely be put on the market during July, according to J. M. Leamy, Manitoba Power Commissioner and a member of the Lignite Utilization Board. Most of the machinery has been installed, but as the lignite briquette process is an entirely new process, everything will be thoroughly tried-out before the product is placed upon the market. A meeting of the board to determine distribution methods and the price of the briquettes will be held shortly. Eleven dollars a ton is the probable price. This is a little higher than was originally estimated, due to the increased cost of machinery, materials and labor. The United States Government is closely watching the experiment at Bienfait, according to recent dispatches. The Department of the Interior contemplated establishing similar plants in the lignite areas of the United States, but has held off to ascertain with what success the Canadian experiment meets. The plant has been erected as a result of the joint efforts of the Dominion, Manitoba and Saskatchewan Governments. The Federal Government has borne half the cost and the Manitoba and Saskatchewan Governments the other half.

DEBTS OF ALLIES WERE DISCUSSED

Other Questions Considered by International Chamber of Commerce

London, July 2.—The group of the International Chamber of Commerce on transportation and communication, of which Walker D. Hines, former director of Railroads in the United States is chairman, completed its work Thursday with the adoption of resolutions to be submitted to the general conference immediately.

These resolutions include approval of the work of the international communications conference in Barcelona, Spain, the scheme for an Anglo-French tunnel and uniform measurement of the net tonnage of ships. Restoration of pre-war postal services remedial passport legislation and improvement in cable facilities are also urged.

The finance group adopted a resolution declaring it undesirable in the interests of international commerce that discriminatory legal restrictions or special taxation should be imposed on the banks in any country, and urging the abolition of laws imposing such restrictive measures.

FRENCH BANK OF CHINA FAILS

Paris, July 2.—The Industrial Bank of China has filed a liquidation petition. The premises in the Rue Saint Lazare are closed and the windows are shuttered.

Although the bank's difficulty had been known since Christmas hope was entertained in the past few weeks that the crash might be averted along the lines proposed by the Bank of Paris and the Netherlands. The news of the failure created a considerable stir.

Press comment emphasizes the regrettable effects of the disaster from the political viewpoint—as injuring French prestige throughout the Far East. Several newspapers allude bitterly to the coincidence of the ruin of the French bank simultaneously with the reopening of the German Asiatic Bank of China. The "Liberator" says: "The event has particular importance considering the Industrial Bank's influence. It means abandonment of the great public works in Peking which would have made the Chinese capital a city of French influence; abandonment of the works of the harbor of Pailow, destined to become a great port of the Yangtze; French influence on the boundaries of the latter, and abandonment of the right to priorities on the revenues of tobacco and alcohol and the stamp and registration taxes—that is to say all the Chinese revenues which would become the keystone of China credit in the future and the collateral for all her industrial loans.

The organization of these revenues would naturally involve vast administrations wherein the language used would be that of the French concession. The English, the Americans and the Germans, who will take up what we let fall and benefit by our failure."

BABY BYRNE. Has Never Caused One Disturbed Night.

27, York Street, Sacriston, Durham.
Dear Sir,
I am sending a photograph of my baby Alice, aged 12 months, who has had Virol since birth. Though very tiny at birth, and artificially fed since two weeks old, she has never required medical advice, nor given me one disturbed night. Her weight is now 22½ lbs., and she has nine teeth, which she has cut without trouble. She is a most lovable and happy baby, and I am very grateful for the great benefit she has derived from Virol.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) (Mrs.) M. BYRNE.
Virol is used in large quantities in more than 2,500 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother, whilst for children it supplies these vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilizing of milk; it is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

WAR ECHO IN FRENCH CHAMBER

Execution of two Lieutenants May Be Discussed

Paris, July 2.—The demand of Deputy Andre Berthoin, of the Seine Department, that he be permitted to interpellate the Cabinet on measures to be taken against General Boyer for having two second lieutenants, Harduin and Millot, summarily shot during the Battle of Verdun has brought out one of the most dramatic incidents of the war. General Boyer is accused of having unduly, without trial, ordered the execution of the two officers, who, Deputy Berthoin asserts, were not guilty.

The circumstances have revealed that the lieutenants, who were commanding sections during a critical period of the Battle of Fleury, brought back their men without orders and were found forty-eight hours later in the citadel of Verdun with some of their men.

A STERLING CITIZEN.

In the death of Mr. George Gillespie Victoria has lost a citizen who was widely known and generally esteemed for his many admirable qualities. A resident here for forty-four years he played an important, if unostentatious, part in the business life of the community through his association with the Bank of British Columbia, afterwards the Canadian Bank of Commerce, of which in 1904 he became manager, and in that capacity was in continuous and intimate contact with the commercial development of the Province until the time of his retirement some twelve years ago.

COLLECTING TAXES

If a Minister of Finance expects to conduct his Department as it should be conducted he cannot afford to stand on too much ceremony when it comes to collecting its accounts. The business enterprise which extends unlimited credit and neglects to call it in either winds up voluntarily or finds itself compelled to do so by the more common procedure. In his statement made public the other day the Hon. John Hart is merely following the course which is dictated by the elementary principles of business.

SICKLY SENTIMENT.

Nobody would argue with any degree of seriousness that the people of Great Britain and Germany should enter into a pact and perpetuate a type of international hatred that would act as a sort of constant reminder of all the horrors which held the world spellbound for more than four years. But that is no reason why Germany's gradual and grudging return to a realization of the enormity of her crime against civilization should be made the occasion of a demonstration of sickly sentimentalism.

lish a whole issue in German will materialize. It is true that aeronautical evolution is marked by international accomplishments; but John Bull seldom advertises the source or method of obtaining the information he may want.

THE LEIPZIG FAROE.

Not a few of the more influential British journals have inquired when the master criminals of Germany will be brought to account. They have alluded to the absurdity of arraigning sergeants and subalterns who were merely tools in the hands of those who possessed and used their authority in a manner never before experienced in the annals of international warfare.

THE GREAT TEST.

While the settlement of the coal strike in Great Britain may not be taken as a guarantee or even a promise that a general wage adjustment will follow as a natural consequence without a very serious dislocation of industry the chief significance of the issue now almost disposed of lies in the fact that the British Government and the people of the country at large resolved to select the most vital industry—the industry upon which Britain has derived her wealth and industrial supremacy—as the vehicle of transition from a wartime status to the normal conditions of peace.

dustry had just recovered from the slump which struck the country soon after the South African campaign and remained with it until about the end of 1905. Operating profits were going up by leaps and bounds and the export trade was providing the upward movement which reached its pinnacle in 1913.

When the miners left the pits on the first day of April British industry faced all the problems which were present fourteen years ago plus an unparalleled condition which the war had produced. Like other callings the business of getting coal had placed the worker in a position of comparative affluence.

Whether it would have been possible for the country to have met joint action by the Triple Alliance with the same success may never be known. It is sufficient and satisfactory—both for the workers involved and the people as a whole—to know that an issue of such vast magnitude, of such tremendous importance to the life of the nation, has been fought out without as much as a crack in the social fabric.

CONFESSING.

When a few more of Germany's public men and diplomats have published their memoirs it is quite likely that national sentiment will begin to accept a more liberal amount of responsibility for the war than ever would have been possible under the old regime or even more willingly than was expected before the Wirth Government bowed to the inevitable recently.

PRINCESS

"The Time, the Place and the Girl" is a big musical comedy offering, full of clever songs, brilliant lines, and it is built on "some" plot; its originality and unexpected twists make it "joy for ever." Miss Page, as the nurse, is doing some of her best work, and sings "It's Awful Lonesome" "night" and several other songs, which are all heartily enjoyed. Miss Berkeley is charming and sings a snappy song with all the snap needed to put it over. Byron Aldern as the Italian organ grinder created some excitement among his old friends in the audience who have not seen him play for several weeks, and his performance was excellent. James Coats was splendid in the dictator, and Lee Jaxon was all that could be desired in Johnny Hicks the gambler. The singing and dancing are particularly good. Next week's play is "A Stubborn Cinderella," another big, beautiful production, to begin next Wednesday night, which will also be prize night.

ROYAL VICTORIA

Norma Talmadge is the scintillating star who will be seen in "The Passion Flower" at the Royal Victoria Theatre for the last time to-day. The management is proud to announce this super-attraction, which is adapted from Jacinto Benavente's play of the same name, because it represents the most artistic and fascinating production that has yet come from the Talmadge studios. Benavente, who wrote the play, won the Noble prize for literature last year. He is the author of eighty plays and is known as a living dramatist of Spain. "The Passion Flower" was a Broadway hit last season with Nance O'Neil playing the role of Raimunda, the mother. In the screen version, Norma Talmadge is the alluring daughter, Acacia, in the dramatic story of Castilian peasant life, in which a vivid plot of love, hate and jealousy unfolds. "The Passion Flower" gives Norma her first opportunity to appear in a Spanish role, in which she is said to be at her emotional best. Harrison Ford and Courtenay Foote appear in the leading male characterizations opposite the star. Others in the cast are Natalie Talmadge, Edalide Jensen, Charles Stevenson, Alice May, Robert Agnew and Robert Payton Gibb. The production was directed by Herbert Brenon, a recognized genius of his profession, who recently returned to America from the Old World. It is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc. "The Passion Flower," in its cinema form, is the last word in splendid motion picture entertainment, and theatre-goers will see the very popular Norma in her most ambitious and interesting vehicle to date.

Two great Christie Comedy "A Homespun Hero" and "Chester Outing" will also be on the picture programme. Miss Eunice Richards, who has a voice that will appeal to Victorians will render two songs after-noon and evening; the whole making a programme that is bound to please.

DOMINION

It is well known that the making of comedies is a serious business, and it has often been said that screen comedians are the most serious persons in the world when the camera is not turning. But Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, despite his long career as a slapstick comedian, is the exception to the rule. Mr. Arbuckle's next picture is an adaptation of James Forbes' play "The Traveling Salesman," and will be shown at the Dominion all week. Joseph Henabery directed. Walter Woods wrote the scenario and Karl Brown was camera man. Betty Ross Clark is leading woman, and others in the cast are Frank Holland, Milton Taylor, Lucille Ward, Jim Blackwell, Richard Wayne, Geo. Pearce, Robert Dudley and Gordon Rogers. Possibly the most humanly interesting phase of "The Bottom of the World," the Sir Ernest Shackleton South Polar expedition motion picture, which will be seen at the Dominion Theatre this week, is that which shows the endurance, Shackleton's ship, caught in the great South ice, and the futile efforts which were made to extricate her.

VARIETY

"A Child For Sale" is intensely interesting from start to finish. The dramatic moments in the picture are at the outset is maintained throughout. Every angle of the social problem, not sex, that the story sets forth, is outlined with unerring precision in the various situations. With the result that, rarely is there to be found a feature picture which un-

SAVED FROM LIFELONG MISERY

And a Dangerous Operation, by Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. M. J. GORSE

3228 Union St., Vancouver, B.C.
 "I suffered with all the symptoms of Female Trouble, with chronic Constipation and constant Headaches. I had pains low down in the back and sides of the body. I tried various remedies without relief, and then put myself under a doctor's care and he advised me to have an operation, I refused."

"Then, I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives'; and from the outset, I felt better, and this medicine has completely relieved me of all my misery and suffering. My weight was only 143 pounds and now it is 168 pounds. I am free of pain and headaches and the terrible Constipation; and what saved me from misery is the splendid fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives.'" feels with such perfect sequence as "A Child For Sale," which appears at the Variety Theatre all this week. There is no doubt as to which feature of the programme at the Variety Theatre this week appealed most to the public, because the outcome of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight occupied most attention this week.

The Variety management are fortunately able to show at the psychological moment a film taken at Jack Dempsey's training quarters, and Dempsey may be seen working in the company of his trainer, Jack Kearns, and his sparring partners.

A noticeable point which the picture emphasizes is that, although he is a heavy built man, Dempsey is extremely quick on his feet. This fleetness and agility he encourages by choosing light-weight partners who compel him to move. The champion shows a continuous ripple of muscle, and we see Dempsey on the screen in all phases of exercise, as an exceedingly hard-working man which challenges the meaning of the obsolete term "fat." His trainer, Jack Kearns allows Dempsey little recreation after an arduous day, and the champion goes to bed early every night. The public of Victoria who have not seen this topical film should lose no time in doing so. During the performances this week Mr. Theatricals' "Carissima" from the "Red Feather." Mr. Kelly possesses a tenor voice which delights his audiences. The pictorial program includes the interesting Ford Educational film on the shark as a commercial factor showing how this predatory fish is caught, skinned, and its various uses are described. "A Child For Sale" is a film of strong dramatic interest, while a regular picture and an excellent programme.

COLUMBIA

Realizing the success of combining vaudeville with the pictures on occasion, the management of the Columbia Theatre set aside the last three evenings of this week for the introduction of four turns supplied by local talent. Victoria is certainly not lacking in this talent, for the artists who appeared last night were better than any that the theatre has possessed more stage presence than previous performers we have seen at the Columbia; this is the progressive improvement we require.

Both of the vocal turns were distinctly good and Messrs Potter and Black are to be congratulated on the possession of exceedingly appealing and powerful voices. George Potter was vociferously encored for his rendering of "Dear Little Boy of Mine," although Mr. Neil Black, prefers to pose as a Scottish comedian, we feel sure that his voice would be admirably suited to ballad songs. As it is he has the essential whimsicality of Neil Kenyon and made the audience call for more. As a club-singer Mr. Matthews stands out notably, his fancy display of intricate exercises being carried out in a finished manner. The Misses Cameron and McIntyre are dainty young dancers of no little accomplishment. Clad in full Highland costume they tripped neatly and untrillingly through the evolutions of their national dance and deserved their encore.

"ALF'S BUTTON"

Is there anybody who never heard of "Charlie's Aunt"? But Charlie's Aunt could only be played at one house during its phenomenal run in London some years ago, but every movie theatre of any consequence in London is showing "Alf's Button," the funniest comedy ever screened. "Charlie's Aunt" was funny enough, but it was gloomy funeral compared to "Alf's Button," which has grossed the biggest business of any film released in England—and it felt just started. Less Henson and Alma Taylor, who play the leading parts, are well-known in England, and their names will be household words here before long. James Carew takes the part of the genie. You see, Alf's lamp was made into a button for a soldier's tunic. You can guess the rest!

Hospital Board Voices Intention to Start on New Building Plans

The subscribers of the Royal Jubilee Hospital met at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday afternoon and heard the presidential and other reports of the activities of the year. Mr. McGregor, in his annual review, laid stress on the circumstances which had led to the determination to proceed with the new building plans, and stated what steps were in hand toward a commencement with construction.

The four representatives of the subscribers re-elected are Charles Williams, Mrs. Rhodes, D. J. Angus and S. J. Drake.

The president's report said: "The Board of Directors beg to submit to the donors, subscribers and the general public their thirty-first annual report of the work of the Hospital."

A tribute was paid to the late president, R. S. Day. Mr. George McGregor was elected to the chair and Mr. Charles Williams to the vice-presidency, and as the death of Mr. Day caused a vacancy in the office of president on the Board the City Council should be congratulated on having found in Mr. R. W. Graham, so able a man to fill his place.

Statistical

The total number of patients admitted to the hospital during the past year was 2,398 and is sixty-four less than last year. The total number of days stay was 40,583 an average of seventeen days stay to each patient. The number of out-patients attending was 510 which does not include patients attending for X-Ray treatment. 2,341 patients were examined for diagnosis or received X-Ray or Radium treatment in the X-Ray department. The number of patients examined during the year in the laboratory was 5,242, about 3,000 of these were in-patients and the remainder were almost entirely patients examined under subsidy received from City and Provincial Governments.

New Hospital

Your directors have recognized for a long time the necessity for increased accommodation which had become so imperative that last March the Board had seriously to consider building an addition to the Strathcona Ward. Sketch plans were drawn by Mr. Watkins and approved by the Board, the cost of the addition would have been approximately $23,000. This would have only provided ten private ward beds and the Board at a subsequent meeting resolved that in view of the cost it was proposed to add and which would give no increased public ward beds, to take immediate steps to try and build part of the proposed new hospital instead. The Strathcona Club, who from their inception had pledged themselves to support the building of a new hospital, were called in consultation and

THIN, WATERY BLOOD MEANS ILL HEALTH

Rich, Red Blood Brings Bright Eyes and Rosy Cheeks.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale. She not only looks easily tired, but often suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite.

In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found to have a beneficial action on the blood. Miss Delma Lafreniere, St. Ambrose, Man., has proved this in her own case, and advises others to use these pills. She says: "I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People like a complete wreck of my former self. My blood was poor and thin, I suffered from faint and dizzy spells, and had backaches and headaches almost every day. I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and by the time I had used three boxes I felt much better and I continued taking the pills until I felt as well as I ever did. For what they did in my case I cannot recommend these pills too highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

care of an average of from forty to forty-five S. C. R. patients daily. We cannot tell how long we may have these patients, but we have written to the Dominion Government several times to obtain this information, but without any result. In the meantime we have provided them with the best accommodation we have and if they are with us when we have the new wing completed they will have much better quarters. A letter was sent to the Premier and the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Dr. Toimie, setting forth a resolution of the Veterans of France, the G. W. V. A., and other organized bodies of Victoria, who had not time to consider this question. The resolution suggested that part of the new building be set aside as a War Memorial for the soldiers, which would also become a permanent hospital for the S. C. R. patients of the Island; also it was requested that the Dominion Government donate to the hospital all the equipment that was in use for the S. C. R. patients at Esquimalt and an assurance that the Island S. C. R. patients would not be transferred to the Mainland; also that the Dominion Government donate to the hospital a certain sum per year towards the cost of building these permanent quarters. An acknowledgment has been received from the Premier and Dr. Toimie, but beyond this nothing further has been heard.

Arrangement For Plans

Several months prior to this, communications had been passing between our late president and Mr. Rixford. The Board, however, felt that something more substantial should be done and at a later meeting telegraphed to Mr. Rixford asking him to consider the plans to the hospital and we are pleased to report that Mr. Rixford agreed. We telegraphed thanking him for his gift which represented a large amount of his time and his professional skill. We have to acknowledge the enthusiasm and perseverance of the Kiwanis Club which to a great extent helped to bring this matter to a satisfactory conclusion. No obstacle now remained to prevent us going ahead with the proposed building, excepting funds, which, as we have already stated, has been promised to the directors of the City Council according to the by-law of 1912. It is proposed by the Board at this time to build the walls of the East wing of the hospital, forming a tunnel between the public and private wards as outlined in the Rixford scheme and to provide for steam pipes, lighting, etc., under the ground floor. The third floor of this wing is now intended to be a new maternity department and will provide both public and private ward accommodation so that the whole wing when finished will comprise, besides the operating suite, accommodation for surgical and maternity departments together with a complement of private rooms on each floor. This will augment the hospital beds sufficient to meet present requirements. It has been decided to develop the pathological and radiological departments in both proposed administration block. The directors report this so that the donors and subscribers as well as the general public may know that definite progress is being made towards the erection of the long deferred new hospital and we trust that at the next annual meeting we may be able to report the completion of the parts outlined.

Standardization

The B. C. Hospital Association made commendable efforts to bring all hospitals in B. C. up to the standard of efficiency required by the American College of Physicians and Surgeons and we are pleased to report that our hospital is able to comply with all these requirements and that the whole wing when finished will be able to also standardize the amount of income derived from various sources to meet the requirements of the hospital and find some solution of our present difficulties. This is one of the greatest problems at the present moment and will meet with serious consideration at the next meeting of the B. C. Hospital Association.

D. S. C. R.

At the beginning of April of this year the S. C. R. authorities, owing to the building of the dry dock at Esquimalt, had to close that institution and asked the hospital to provide accommodation for their patients. This was done by providing quarters for them in the Esquimalt Ward. We are now taking

MISS CHICKLET'S RUBBERS

Miss Chicklet watched the ducks swimming on the pond, near the barn yard, with envy. She wanted to swim, for she knew it must be great fun to go sailing over the water and see the world beyond the barnyard. "Mother," she asked the old White Hen one day, "will you teach me to swim so I can go with the duck over the pond?"

"Cluck, cluck," said old White Hen, which means in fowl language, "hush, hush, don't let any one hear you, and I am sure you do not. Your feet, my dear, are not as clumsy as those. No, you cannot swim, Chicklet. You have no red rubbers and you will get your feet wet."

"Do the ducks wear red rubbers?" inquired Chicklet. "Of course, my dear," replied her mother, "look at their feet and see." Sure enough they did, and Miss Chicklet began at once to wish for a pair, but hunt as she did everywhere, not a red rubber could she find.

Every day she went down to the pond and watched the ducks swimming around. She even put her toes in the water one day, but she had no rubbers and so she did not dare go. "If I only had a pair of rubbers I would not be afraid," thought Miss Chicklet. "Oh, how I wish I had a pair!"

Then one morning her wish was granted, for when she went down by the pond, there on the bank lay a pair of rubbers, little ones, too, but they were not red, they were black.

"I do not see how the color could make a bit of difference," thought

MUKDEN GROWS LIKE MODERN TOWN

Merchant Arrives From Capital of Manchuria

There is a great opportunity for business with Manchuria, according to J. E. Edgar, a British merchant at Mukden. Mr. Edgar arrived here yesterday on the Fushimi Maru, and will proceed to London.

"Mukden," he pointed out, "is not only the old Chinese capital, but the railway and commercial centre of Manchuria. While British and American business houses have a substantial hold upon the trade of this little known country, the Japanese are pushing their way steadily, and have their own residential concession in Mukden. Like most of the cities served by Japanese railways, modern towns have sprung up near the railway depots, having only a limited relation to the ancient towns with which they are associated. This situation has given a great impetus to Mukden, where there are now about four hundred white foreigners, located in the international settlement."

Mr. Edgar states that the soya bean business is rapidly developing in Manchuria, with a large export business to the United States. Most of the cereals of a temperate climate are grown, the wheat being of a particularly valuable character.

He foretells a bright future for the country.

DR. LAMBORN IS MALARIA INQUIRER

Arrived Here on Fushimi Maru From Malay States

On his way to resume research work in Central Africa, Dr. W. A. Lamborn, of the Imperial Bureau of Entomology, in London, England, arrived on the Fushimi Maru yesterday on his way home. Dr. Lamborn has been making an investigation into the malarial carrying mosquitoes in the Malay States.

Dr. Lamborn has an extensive collection of specimens gathered in the Orient.

Studied Disease in Africa
 Previous to his work in Malaya, Dr. Lamborn made some entomological research work in Central Africa, chiefly on the notorious Tsetse fly, the most formidable of the insect scourges of Tropical Africa. This fly's bite causes death to both man and domestic beast. The profound influence which this fly exerted was exemplified in the course of the late campaign in German East Africa where, in the end, then well in sight there was an almost complete breakdown both of the ox-transport and of the mounted troops, the oxen and horses dying from the bite of the insect in such numbers that the roads were literally paved with their bones, and until motor transport was available, operations were a standstill. Fortunately the loss of human life from this cause was then very small.

Don't Affect Wild Animals
 Curiously enough, though domestic animals rapidly succumb to the fly all wild animals are entirely uninfected by it. The "Sleeping Sickness" as the disease caused by Tsetse fly is known, has been under investigation by two Commissions of the Royal Society of England, under the leadership of Lord Dunsley, and as the outcome of his recommendations, all the people living in districts populated by the Tsetse fly were removed. The death rate from "Sleeping Sickness" was greatly reduced, for no cure could be found. Tsetse fly still remains in undisputed possession of hundreds of square miles of Central Africa and it is in the endeavor to find a means of controlling the pest that Dr. Lamborn in Nyasaland, and other entomologists in Rhodesia and in Uganda, were working.

G.W.V.A. MOVES

The G. W. V. A. has removed to new quarters on the ground floor of the Law Chambers, Bastion Street. This move was made necessary owing to the closing of the canteen, from which source a portion of the revenue incidental to the upkeep of the Ritz Hotel was derived.

For sixteen months the Ritz Hotel was operated by the G. W. V. A. as an open house for all ex-service men irrespective of membership. Thousands of men enjoyed its hospitality, but the expense of maintaining the building for general use, free to those who could not or would not contribute towards its upkeep, made it impossible for reserves of funds to be accumulated to meet contingencies.

The constitution of the G. W. V. A. binds its members to conform to law and order, and while the Liquor Control Act forbidding the sale of beer in clubs, is in force the Victoria branch will forego the revenue producing business of dispensing it to its members. The work of the organization will proceed as actively as ever in the new quarters, which are open to members only.

The club rooms are comfortably furnished and consist of writing room, reading room, meeting hall, secretary's office, billiard and pool rooms, committee rooms and dining room. The location is a central one facing the Law Courts, and the Sheriff's office is just overhead.

The usual crowd was gathered at the New York end of the Brooklyn bridge, waiting for trolley cars. An elderly lady, red in the face, flustered and fussy, dug her elbows into convenient seats, and looked at the recipient of a particularly vicious jab. She yelled at him. "Say! He wince'd slightly and moved to one side. She, too, side-stepped and thumped him vigorously on the back. "Say!" she parroted, "does it make any difference which of these cars I take to Greenwood Cemetery?" "Not to me, madam," he answered, slipping through an opening in the crowd.

The death has taken place at Dunfermline, of William Cruickshank a veteran of the Indian Mutiny.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. True!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv't.

The Oriental speaks naturally in metaphor. Even the children continually use figures of speech, which are often poetical and always suggestive. A missionary writes from Singapore: "I wish you could hear some of the expressive phrases of the native boys. A lad the other day was describing to me the absentmindedness of his father. 'Oh, he is content with very little,' he said. 'Such a very little!' Here he pointed to the ground. 'No more than the water in the holes made by a chicken's feet.' He smiled and resumed, 'He eats nothing. A grain or two of rice contents him. You should see him at his meals. He is like a hound munching flies.'"

ONE-STACKER SHIP OF FUTURE

Unard Liner Scythia Leader of New Type of Ocean Carrier

The announcement from Liverpool that the oil-burning "Scythia" of the Cunard Line will soon enter the company's trans-Atlantic service means the entrance of the single-funnel steamer among first class passenger ships.

The 20,000-ton "Scythia" of the Cunard Line, commonly designated as the "ship of the future," is the first steamer of the new class.

Other steamers that won wide fame among travelers in the past were the "Aurania" and "Aquitania."

Emigrants Wanted Four-Stackers. Ships with four funnels appeared in 1907. These were the renowned "Lusitania" and "Mauretania."

Not only did the better class of passengers take to the steamer with the most stacks, but the emigrant wanted to cross in such a ship, too.

LIGHTKEEPER AT PACHENA RENDERED HOMELESS BY FIRE

Lightkeeper G. A. Coudery and his wife were rendered homeless on Thursday afternoon when fire completely destroyed the dwelling attached to the Government lighthouse at Pachena Point.

All the personal effects of the lightkeeper were destroyed in the fire. The lighthouse tender Newington was dispatched by Col. A. W. Wilby, agent of marine, carrying food and supplies for the homeless lightkeeper and his wife, who are temporarily installed in abandoned wireless station at Pachena.

Incidentally the Cunard Line never built any ships on this design. And he had to have big ships, although all practice points to the complete comfort enjoyed on ships of from 12,000 to 20,000 tons.

Construction and fitting out of the "Scythia" in the same class, the former possessing the luxuriously appointed of her big sister, but on a slightly smaller scale.

The single funnel also reduces the super-structure weight, and this adds to the ship's steadiness at sea.

The "Scythia" is the first great liner to possess propelling machinery of the double reduction type.

FUSHIMI MARU HAD HUGE SILK CARGO

Japanese Liner Carried 648 Bales, Valued at Over $5,000,000

With a cargo including 6,480 bales of raw silk, valued at $5,000,000, and 322 passengers, the N. Y. K. liner Fushimi Maru, docked here at 2 o'clock this morning from the Orient, completing her twenty-second voyage from Yokohama.

The shipment of raw silk is one of the largest that has been sent across the Pacific in recent months and special representatives of the Great Northern Railway met the liner here to check over the silk consignment in order to avoid delay on the arrival of the ship at Seattle this evening.

Capt. R. Shimidzu, commander of the Fushimi Maru, reported an excellent trip. Twenty-four first-class passengers and fifty-one steerage came ashore here.

The Russian party included some dancing girls who displayed their prowess in the terpsichorean art for the benefit of the passengers on the voyage.

The liner brought in 170 tons of cargo for Victoria, 750 tons for Vancouver and 2,000 for Seattle.

There is a great increase in ocean-going merchantmen starting from calling at Japan both foreign and Japanese.

The decrease was in spite of the construction of many new ships, and was to be explained by the fact that many vessels had been withdrawn from the commercial service to meet war requirements.

MORE PUBLICITY WANTED IN EAST TO BOOST TRAVEL

Fred O. Finn, of C.M. & St. P., Predicts Increased Travel to Europe via Pacific Route

Greater publicity in the Orient relative to the advantages of the trans-Pacific route via the North American continent to Europe would have a marked bearing on the volume of travel across the Pacific in preference to the Suez route, says Fred O. Finn, local representative of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, who arrived here yesterday by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Fushimi Maru from a tour of the Far East.

Coming This Way. "All the big shipping companies operating between the Orient and Europe via the Suez have full bookings practical up to the beginning of next year," said Mr. Finn, "with the result those now desiring to travel to Europe are forced to turn to the Pacific route. That is why so many people are now coming this way. What is wanted," said Mr. Finn, "is more publicity in the Orient and the trend of travel will then turn to the Pacific."

Left in April. Mr. Finn left Victoria on April 10 last by the liner Wanatchee on a tour of investigation in the interests of his company, and also attached to the Commercial Commission of the Pacific Northwest.

He proceeded to Manila, Hongkong and other ports, and also visited the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, then by rail to Tokyo and Yokohama, where he caught the Fushimi Maru.

Mr. Finn speaks in the highest terms of the generous hospitality of the Japanese.

N. Y. K. Service. He also has a good word to say for the steamship service of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha. "The Nippon Yusen Kaisha," he said, "knows how to operate ships and look after their patrons. The service on the Fushimi Maru was of the very best and could not be excelled by any other line."

After the pre-release showing at the Rivoli Theatre in New York, "The Woman God Changed," a Cosmopolitan Production, was hailed by all the newspapers as one of the best pictures of 1921. The critic of The New York World, who is noted for his sterner criticism of motion pictures, wrote: "We peek into the future of motion picture productions when we chance to behold so gripping and so fascinating a cinema play as that presented at the Rivoli under the title 'The Woman God Changed.' For Cosmopolitan has produced a powerful personal appeal, one which sets us thinking about our own conduct and that of those about us. One, which certainly will awaken many a lazy conscience and remind it of tolerance and sympathy and of consideration to others."

The sum of $10,000 was asked in the main action, which was dismissed. Judgment was reserved on the appeal. C. W. Craig, K.C., appeared for appellant and E. C. Mayers for the respondents. The Court of Appeal will continue on Monday next, when the peremptory list will include the remaining cases Dominion Trust versus Brydges and Grant versus Fraser.

Gordon Head Fete—Good cheer presided at the strawberry festival at Cormorant Point yesterday in spite of weather conditions and the Gordon Head Women's Auxiliary have raised a substantial sum for the church building fund as a result of their splendid efforts. The list of attendants added a pretty note of color with their "strawberry" gowns of red coats, green caps and white aprons and many admiring comments were passed upon their appropriate and pretty costume. The promoters wish to express their grateful appreciation of the splendid patronage and loyalty of the residents of the district and to thank all those who contributed to the success of the undertaking either by gifts or service.

Presbyterian Chinese Mission Sunday School Held Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Presbyterian Chinese Mission Sunday School at the Hudson's Bay Company's grounds near the Gorge yesterday proved the most successful affair of the kind ever held and was certainly the best attended.

A splendid repast was served at mid-day and over ninety participated in the enjoyment of the good things to eat. All sorts of games were played and everybody enjoyed themselves immensely. The tanks of the picnicers were extended to Mrs. Pullen, whose home adjoins the grounds where the picnic was held, for the kindness and help which she extended on the occasion. Others who assisted in making the affair a success were: Messrs. G. Newell and H. Veary, Rev. Leung, Miss Conkhite, Mei Fung and others.

VICTORIA GIRLS WED ON MAINLAND

Miss Erna Cessford Married to Mr. H. A. Pegues at Vancouver

Vancouver, July 2—Very quietly and in the presence of a number of intimate friends, Miss Erna Campbell Cessford, daughter of Mrs. Grace Cessford, of Victoria, was, on Wednesday evening, united in marriage to Mr. H. A. Pegues, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Pegues, Woodlawn Avenue, Chicago.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. (Col.) G. O. Falls, in the drawing room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mallville-Dollar, 3850 Hudson Avenue, beneath an arch of blue and white flowers which stood against a background of palms and ferns. The entire room was also artistically arranged with blue and white flowers.

The bride, who entered the room to the strains of music played by Miss Lillian Campbell, wore a simple gown of white satin embroidered in white and silver with a veil of silk net caught to her head by a spray of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses and pale pink sweet peas, and she was attended by Miss Margaret McDougall, of Victoria, who wore a graceful frock of georgette in honeydew shade with a hat of white organdie and straw, and carried white crinolines.

After the ceremony, Miss Winifred Bell, accompanied by Miss Campbell, sang songs appropriate to the occasion. A reception followed the ceremony, Mrs. A. R. Baker and Mrs. E. Allen presiding over the flower-decked table. Assisting in serving were Miss Beatrice Putnam, Miss Marjorie Macdonald and Miss Lillian Campbell.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Pegues left on Mr. A. M. Dollar's yacht, the Walthay, for home by way of the local waters, during which they will attend the Cowichan regatta, and touch at Seattle and Northern points.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. C. W. Geiger, Miss Beattie Douglas, Miss Winifred Bell and Mrs. and Miss Turkel, Victoria.

UPPINGHAM HOUSE SCHOOL CLOSES

Delightful Entertainment and Tea; Pupils Show Marked Talent

Although nature tried her best to hinder the closing day exercises of the Uppingham House School, the programme was carried out as had been formerly arranged on Thursday.

Miss Bertha Rigby, the head of the school, gave a most interesting little talk on the value of kindergarten and preparatory work. She stressed very much with great skill the much argued point of child training.

Major Edwards made a clever speech on what he thought the children should keep constantly in their minds, both at work and at play. Major Edwards in summing up his speech said: "I take the greatest pleasure at this time to compliment the Misses Rigby for the strides the school has taken. It is certainly marvelous for a primary school to climb the ladder of public opinion as quickly as this one."

Through the untiring efforts of the Misses Rigby and their staff, and the co-operation of both pupils and parents, the Uppingham House School has enjoyed the most fruitful year since its inception.

A delightful programme was given, after which tea was served on the spacious verandah. The programme included: Solo—Mister Moon. Soloists: Daisy Egbert, Dorothy Lunde, Chorus: Frances Bixby, Mabel Goldfinch, May Cartwright, Frances Bell, Eileen Maurice, Lettice Cartwright, Margaret Riach, "Shoes" (brevet) set by Joan Edwards, Mary Senkler, Clare Lunde, Edwina Hearne, Gladys Brown.

Capitals Celebrate Greenshirts Breeze By Victoria Cricketers By Dropping a Pair With Win Over Royals Lost by Twelve Runs Tacoma Snagged Both Ends of Doubleheader Yesterday; Visiting Righthanders Let Victoria Batters Down With Nine Hits in Two Games; Fielding of Local Squad Was Very Bad.

Morning Game—Tacoma, 7; Victoria, 2
Afternoon Game—Tacoma, 3; Victoria, 0.

Victoria's ball-tossers could not get any holiday spirit into their systems yesterday, and Tacoma walked away with both ends of a double-header. A goodly number of folks picked on the ball games as their means of celebrating the lay-off, but during the four hours of ball they hardly got a chance to raise a cheer, with the result that most of them wended their way up the Douglas Street hill with their holiday spirit registering about 2 per cent.

Tacoma sent two pretty nifty right-handers to the mound and they made the Capitals look as weak as nine men who had lived for a century apiece. In the morning game the local sluggers had to be satisfied with six hits, and three of these were gifts in the ninth inning. Better things were hoped for in the second game, but the Victoria hitters got worse, and the Tigers' fielding got better. The visitors gobled up line drives like a kid putting away strawberries.

Beaten by Fast Ball
Victoria only managed to nick Cross for three scratch hits in the afternoon game and only one runner got as far as third base. Cross was never in danger, his fast ball having the local boys beaten any way they looked.

Handley started in the field for Victoria and let Tacoma score two runs by costly errors. Washington, who did the flinging for the Caps, was in good form and his big round-house curve seldom was in danger. Tacoma got seven hits of him, but Handley's errors caused most of the trouble.

In the second inning Kierstead doubled and Handley laid a fast drive at Handley, who did a juggling act that would have given him a place on a vaudeville stage. Kierstead scored on the bases in the third.

The Only Earned Run
Tacoma earned a run in the fourth. Johnston walked and Choriton's double resulted in the only real run of the game.

Handley, however, helped Tacoma along again by booting Mullen's easy roller in the eighth. O'Brien then shoved Mullen along with a sacrifice and the Tacoma manager scored on Jones' single to centre.

The Morning Game
Robke had the Capitals' bats stacked in a pile in the morning game. The former Victoria twirler had the local hired help hitting easy grounders and pop flies in all but three innings. In the second the Caps managed to bunch two bingles, one a triple by Dempsey, and scored a run. In the third Bankhead swung a double to centre, but from then on until the ninth the Capitals didn't so much as scratch a hit. In the last frame Robke shot over some soft ones and Victoria connected for three singles which, with Johnston's error, allowed the locals to gather in their second run.

Errors in play played an important part in the work of the Victoria fielders. Shots pulled a beautiful one in the second, when he let Patton's throw get away from him, and paved the way for the first two Tigers' runs.

Good Ones for Tigers
The lucky old seventh proved a good one for the Tigers. On three hits a hit batter and Wallace's third hit peg to second, the visitors ran over three runs. Wallace had a chance to retire the side with one run in, but he seemed as tired as the rest of the Capitals connected for three.

The Caps did too much wrangling among themselves to win a game. A little harmony is needed.

Nothing in the whole world so funny as ALPS BUTTON.

Vancouver, July 2.—Terminals breezed down in front in yesterday's Minto Cup battle, finishing a goal up on the famous New Westminster Salmonbellies, the final count being 6-5, leaving the teams knotted for the fourth time. The largest crowd of the season watched the battle, which although lacking thrills of preceding contests, proved interesting from start to finish. It was Vancouver's second win on the home grounds by a 6-5 score.

For two periods the champions outplayed their brethren from the Royal City, and entered the last session four goals to the heavy. With some merry skirmishing and fast, snappy passing, which characterizes the work of all New Westminster teams, resulted in the Salmonbellies tossing a scare into the champion's supporters. They climbed to within a goal of the Greenshirts, and with only one minute of time remaining, made a game but futile effort to tie the count. Two rapid-fire goals from Pat Peeny's stick roused the enthusiasm of the New Westminster rooters, and they were preparing to do a serpentine on the field when the game ended.

A Clean Game.
Although the players loosed their gutted sticks around freely, the game proved one of the cleanest of the series. Only seven penalties were meted out, and these were for minor offences, although Tugray and Spring, and Stoddart and Watson threatened to beat Carpenter and Dempsey to their scrap, and were getting their mittens loose when Referee Jon chased them. Play was fairly fast in every period.

COLF for EVERYBODY
W. J. Thompson

This is one of a series of fourteen articles by a well-known Canadian golfer, William J. Thompson, who is the Toronto and District champion in the summer. He is a Canadian amateur champion at Pittsburg. He is a Canadian amateur champion at Pittsburg. He is a Canadian amateur champion at Pittsburg.

IRON SHOTS
I try to play all my shots the same way, and there is no need to have a different method of playing each shot. The fundamental idea is to keep the club on the line of flight in both directions as long as possible. This will be easier of execution in iron work because the clubs are shorter than the woods.

more contained and follow out after the ball fairly low. But the essential point is to hit the ball while it is descending. The club will not touch the ground, and somewhere in front of where the ball rests—hit the ball and take the turf afterward. It will be seen that in order to hit the ball in a descending blow the ball must be addressed a little differently from the ordinary shot—the ball will be a little further back than in the ordinary shot, and the hands will be distinctly in front of the ball. This gives the impression of a "squeeze" shot, and this accounts for the "squeeze" shot. The beauty of this shot is that it is not so averse from side to side as in the case of the ordinary shot, and it is a very simple and simple. It is amazing how quickly the ball stops when touching the ground.

I would recommend everyone to learn this shot. It is not nearly so difficult as books would have one believe. In all iron shots except where the ball is high, the club should be swung in a descending blow, and the club should be swung in a descending blow, and the club should be swung in a descending blow.

There are some people who do not understand the mechanics of the iron shot. They wonder why their ball runs so much. They wonder why their ball runs so much. They wonder why their ball runs so much.

In the ordinary iron shots the club is swung in a descending blow, and the club is swung in a descending blow, and the club is swung in a descending blow.

There is a shot in golf which has been described by a number of writers under different names. It is supposed to be the master shot of the game. Some call it the push shot and some the jerk shot, but as a boy we called it the wind chestnut. There is really no push in it and the "push shot" is rather an unhappy expression for it, as it is likely to convey a wrong impression. It is simply a low shot against the wind and our caddies we played the shot without knowing that it had any name. Necessarily the "mother of invention" could not get results in any other way. There has been written a great deal about this shot, and I think that most students of the game are agreed now how it is done.

The difference between the "wind chestnut" and the ordinary shot is that in the former the ball is struck before the club gets to the lowest point in the arc, or in other words is hit a descending blow. This gives the ball back spin, and this is the only way that back spin can be got. We get an idea of how this is done if we take a billiard ball and hit down on it. This ball is of greater advantage when played into wind, as the down blow keeps the ball low to start, and then as the force of propulsion increases the spin asserts itself, and lifts the ball into the air and gives it a new lease of life. The shot is played firmer than the ordinary shot, there is not the relaxation present in the ordinary shot. The swing is more upright, the muscles are held more taut, and the follow through is not so free, but Inter-City Cricket Match Proved Exceptionally Close and Interesting; Batsmen on Both Sides Were in Splendid Form; Sparks of Victoria Was High Bat With a 64; Rain Interfered With Play.

Vancouver won the first of the inter-city cricket matches yesterday afternoon at the Jubilee Hospital grounds, when the Terminal City eleven defeated Victoria by twelve runs in a closely contested game.

The result was in doubt until the last moment, the clean bowling of Goward, Victoria's captain and last to bat, coming when he had scored only four runs and looked good for a lengthy partnership with L. S. V. York.

English Oarsmen Are Doing Well
Henley, Eng. July 2.—Only one foreign entrant remains to contest further events in the annual regatta in this evening. Challenge Cup event, and the Christiania four-oared crew was defeated by the Lady Margaret crew in the Wyfold Cup race. The finals will be rowed to-day.

Eatonshere's Fine Innings.
The Vancouver team were the first to bat, and making but a poor showing until Eatonshere came to bat, four men being dismissed for but 65 runs.

T. Reed shortly after joined Eatonshere in a strong partnership, which lasted until the lunch hour, when the score stood 146 for five wickets, with Reed well set and credited with 32 and Eatonshere with 24.

After luncheon this wicket maintained its steady pace until the score touched 200, when the batsmen were out leg before for a total of 47. Hudson was dismissed with the first ball off and N. H. Peters took the field.

Reed succumbed to Goward's bowling when he had rolled up 53, the high score for the team, and the rest of the team were dismissed in short order, Peters also falling to Goward's bowling, though he had made the excellent total of 43.

While the Eatonshere-Reed partnership had continued the Victoria bowlers changed around extensively in an effort to find a weak spot in the batting, and considerable dissatisfaction was noticeable because Sparks was not given an opportunity to show his speed delivery. It was with general relief that the spectators greeted the long delayed bowling of Sparks, and equal satisfaction was felt with his departure after he had rolled up 53, the high score for the team, and the rest of the team were dismissed in short order, Peters also falling to Goward's bowling, though he had made the excellent total of 43.

Good in Field
There were few opportunities for sparkling fielding by the Victorians, but what few arose were made the most of, Matson being brilliant in his snappy handling of his chances, while York's catch of Nelson's hard drive, which retired the side, was one of the best exhibits of the kind seen this year.

MAJORITY WINNER OF PRO SOCCER OPENER
Celtics, of Vancouver, Defeated by Miners in Heavy Wind Storm; Score 2-1

Vancouver, July 2.—Nearly 1,500 spectators witnessed the Majors' opener, the Vancouver Celtic's by the odd goal of three in the opening game of the new Pacific Coast Professional Football League series yesterday afternoon at Con Jones park. The victors were a professional football ever played in the West.

The high wind which prevailed all through the match made play very difficult, the side playing against the wind finding it almost impossible to keep the ball away from their own end of the field.

It was with general relief that the spectators greeted the long delayed bowling of Sparks, and equal satisfaction was felt with his departure after he had rolled up 53, the high score for the team, and the rest of the team were dismissed in short order, Peters also falling to Goward's bowling, though he had made the excellent total of 43.

Regatta at Brentwood Yesterday Was Broken Up by Sudden Squall

Cowichan Bay Was Mecca For Yachtsmen Of Pacific Northwest

Magnificent Gathering at Regatta Yesterday; Squally Weather Tries Out Seamanship of Competitors; Special Films of Event Taken.

The opening day of the regatta of the Pacific International Yachting Association, held at Cowichan Bay yesterday under the auspices of the Royal Victoria and Cowichan Bay Yacht Club, proved to be one of the most brilliant yachting spectacles seen in the Pacific Northwest for the last few years.

The international features of the regatta were emphasized by the presence of a large number of pleasure craft from Seattle and Tacoma, which had conveyed their racing members across for the opening day of the event.

Sir Tom, Ted Geary's pride of the Seattle Club yesterday was the cynosure of all eyes as her command took the graceful craft around the course in a trial spin.

The Patricia, owned by Commodore Nicholson, of Vancouver, the contender in the R class sailing in the main event at the Bay to-day was seen riding at anchor and attracted much attention for her graceful lines. She is the first seen in these waters rigged on the Marconi lines, and has some radical features from the time craft. The Spirit, Spirit II, Turanga and many old favorites in the light sloop class were seen in action during the day, but the Patricia hugged her mooring despite keen disappointment on the part of many yachting enthusiasts declined to show what she could do.

A Picturesque Scene The day opened with a stiff breeze from the West, which was moderated later to a wind that was more northerly. Squalls prevailed all day, but on the whole there was plenty of wind and excellent opportunities for seamanship that were fully responded to by the local and visiting fleets. The scene at the Bay was a gaily colored spectacle with the trim racers, light and heavy boats, cat-boats, ten and Victoria type dinghies—teasing their feet before the brisk wind.

The moorings inside the judges' barge were crowded with a variety of craft that were almost without exception strung with bunting and dressed for the occasion. Large cruisers from Seattle and Tacoma, nestled snugly at their temporary moorings, alongside the Vancouver visitors who had travelled all night to be at the Bay for the opening. The Victoria Yacht Club members were only too ready to be the hosts of the occasion, the Cowichan Yacht Club members. Ladies were conspicuous by their presence in large numbers, adding a touch of Old Country charm to the regatta—which this year more than ever began to take on the semblance of the really great international yachting event it has grown to be.

Two Courses Two courses were laid out for the events of yesterday—one the long course comprising the start from the wharf buoy, opposite the judges barge down a one mile reach to a buoy at Genoa Mill buoy, round the buoy at this point of a 1.7 mile stretch to a buoy off Separation Point, with a long beat into the wind of some four miles to the starting point. The shorter course was laid out, being about four miles around, changing at Genoa Mill buoy and heading to a mark half-way down to Separation point, whence home as in the former course. The larger and heavier craft made the full course, while the cat-boats and dinghies made the shorter circuit, which was quite enough for them in the squally weather that from time to time breezed up. The weather on the whole was glorious for the regatta, but a fine start with plenty of kick in the wind that followed them down to the Genoa Bay buoy, rounding the buoy the field lengthened out and the heels of some of the older craft began to slip away from the fleet.

It was a quick and trim run with the wind nearly abeam to the second buoy and a long haul back in several tacks to point and starboard for the closing length of the triangular run. The last leg of the long course is fully four miles, an excellent test of the handling of any yacht in that breeze and sea.

The Spirit, of the Vancouver Yacht Club, led most of way, and came in on a fine finish past the judges' barge at 1:59.33, with Spirit II, also of Vancouver, three minutes behind, at 11:00 flat. Turanga, the former challenger for the Lipton Cup made it third at 11:01.55, to be followed by the Alexandria at 11:07.18, the Ardis at 11:17.95, and the Diana at 11:25.52.

Keen Contest The heavy sloops which made a good start at 10 a. m. standard time proved an interesting race with the decision in some doubt until late on the last leg of the beat back to the home mark. The Gwendolyn and the Onoma were bowsprit to bowsprit until the last tack, when the two came about for the last tack right in front of the judges' barge. The Onoma crossed the line at 11:21.57, and the Gwendolyn at 11:22.00, the judges giving the second craft a right to protest if they so desired, but the latter's owner accepted the result. The Manzanita, a Seattle boat, crossed the line at 11:49.20 after a pretty finish well ahead of the remainder of the starters.

In the third race of the day, that of the cruising yawls and schooners, the two stickers gave enthusiasts something in the nature of a series of thrills with a fine finish that was close in consideration of the long course and the number of entrants. The eight craft entered got away to a fine start at 10:15 a. m., and were favored with a brisk breeze for the major portion of their circuit. The Adelphi, of Vancouver, crossed the line handsomely at 11:28.15, to be followed by the Minerva, of Vancouver, at 11:33.00, the Victoria, of Seattle, at 11:38.06, the Alisa at 11:43.32, the Intrepid at 11:49.56, the Nymph at 11:44.15, the Triumphant at 11:46.59, and the final boat, the M. J. at 11:51.31.

Local Club Event Four craft entered for the dinghy race of the Cowichan Bay club, which though getting away to a poor start made a close finish between the Gooding boat and that of Mr. Avila, the order named. Two craft fouled one another in getting away, and hung locked together for the first 100 yards, so finally getting squared away and off on their course. A protest was lodged with the judges. The finish of the Cowichan club dinghy race was marred by a regrettable incident that was occasioned by a visiting power boat from Tacoma, the "Alice," a speed boat of Tacoma, crossed the judges' barge and around the moorings of the anchored craft, and by megaphone from the barge. The owners of the "Alice," mistaking the warning for a kind of welcome applause continued to pass through the anchored fleet, and did much damage—capsizing all by crossing the bows of the second dinghy to come in, just astern of the winning boat, and upsetting the chances of the second boat from finishing for time.

The wandering "Alice" finally cooled off and was not seen again at least within the racing limits of the triangular course.

Great Finish To Bike Race At Sidney Sports

(By Special Correspondent). Sidney, July 2.—In the most thrilling finish ever seen here Jackie McPhee nosed out Beverly Peden by a couple of feet in the annual bicycle race from Victoria to Sidney yesterday. These two twelve-year-old boys staged a most sensational ride down Beacon Avenue and a final spurt by McPhee gave him the decision.

The race was one of the best ever held. Last year, Tommy Tomlin Peden, figured among the also rans this time. Owing to the handicapping the scratch men did not figure in the first three riders to finish. McPhee and Peden had 30-minute handicaps and those who followed did not see a chance to overtake them.

Thirteen riders started from Peden on the scratch and the Victoria boy, who made such a splendid showing in the Vancouver races recently, won the time prize for the race. He started on the scratch and made the 15 miles in the surprisingly good time of 54 minutes, which is believed to be a new record for the course.

Thirteen riders started from Peden on the scratch and the Victoria boy, who made such a splendid showing in the Vancouver races recently, won the time prize for the race. He started on the scratch and made the 15 miles in the surprisingly good time of 54 minutes, which is believed to be a new record for the course.

James Griffiths (Yacht Suez), of the Seattle Yacht Club, acted as fleet admiral; Capt. W. H. Logan and A. Burdick as honorary judges; E. M. Mills, of the Alexander Marshhall, Vancouver; J. J. O'Reilly, Victoria, as international judges, with B. Temple as starter, and R. M. Stewart as time-keeper. H. T. Barnes and W. E. Adams were on the regatta committee.

W. S. Mitchell and T. H. Kingscott, vice-commodore of the Cowichan Yacht Club, acted as judges for the local events. It was planned to hold a number of smaller races in the Cowichan Bay fourteenth annual regatta, but the brisk and ever freshening wind put a stop to the arrangements. Three or four starters, but proved a very hard tussle for the entrants. Mr. Gilmann of Oak Bay, commencing a mile, made a very good start, but was suddenly taken by a large margin. The disappointing to the committee of the Cowichan and presiding club, as it marred the full events of the day.

The big event of the international regatta will be staged to-day, when Sir Tom, pride of the Seattle Yacht Club, will defend her title against the Patricia, the new wonder of the Vancouver Yacht Club, commodore's boat. The race is attracting wide interest, and will run its first heat at the bay to-day, the second at the Esquimalt course on Monday, and if a third is necessary to race off in American waters or as arranged by mutual consent.

Commodore Arthur Lane, Vice-Commodore T. H. Kingscott, L. W. Huntingdon, W. D. Turner, General Sir Jocelyn Percy, General R. L. Pennington, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer H. W. May, H. J. Ruscombe Cooke, J. S. Robinson, W. S. Mitchell, A. Kennington and C. J. Waddy were on the committee of the Cowichan Bay Yacht Club, who yesterday acted as a splendid start at 1:30 p. m., large coupure of international racing yachtsmen. Much of the credit for the great success of the annual regatta is due to this committee.

To lead a touch of the modern to the aquatic entertainment a seaplane, winging its way from Vancouver to the international regatta at Cowichan Bay, circled the fleet once and landed snugly in Genoa Bay. It was a seaplane from the Vancouver Aircraft Manufacturers, Ltd., and carried a party of Vancouver yachting enthusiasts.

Witnessing the fact that the Island regatta is being yearly looked upon with wider interest, Cowichan A. D. Kean, of Vancouver, himself a yachting man and owner of the sloop Nymph, was present on behalf of the Provincial Government Educational Film Service, and on the judges barge took excellent "close-ups" of some very fine finishes and starts. Mr. Kean took wide interest in and secured a really first class series of exposures of the great Sir Tom, the Lipton cup defender, who breezed past the judges' barge down to the water with her bright green bottom showing as a half moon on the crest of the racing waves.

These pictures are to be developed and become part of the Provincial Government circuit, reaching as far as Egypt, Australia, and all over Canada, the United States and England. The importance which the educational film service attached to the Cowichan Bay regatta was, if anything, in excess of the Island residents, and leads to the belief that the regatta has won more fame abroad than at home. All in all, this year was the acme of what an international race meet should be and was attended with first rate sportsmanship on the part of all. A serious traffic jam occurred on the Island highway at the close of the regatta, and some cars for town were hours in getting a final start on their journey. Several hundred cars watched the regatta from the banks ed about one-quarter of a mile in rear of the winners.

Close Finish. The lacrosse game was a very exciting, and until the last quarter was nearly tied in a draw, were even. Then the Vancouver Nationals got in two soft ones and pulled out winners over the local aggregation by a 5 to 3 score. Allie McGregor refereed the game, and outside of one or two minor fouls kept the game well in hand.

Regatta at Brentwood Yesterday Was Broken Up by Sudden Squall

J. B. A. A. Oarsmen Struggle Through Six of Seventeen Events But Heavy Seas Made It Impossible For Them to Continue; Boys Plan to Hold Another Regatta at Brentwood Next Saturday.

Brentwood, July 2.—A squall which came down Saanich Inlet so stirred up the waters of Brentwood Bay yesterday that J. B. A. A. oarsmen, who struggled courageously through six of the seventeen events of the regatta programme while the choppy waves surged up and tried to swamp the sleek racing boats and their crews, finally were forced to give up.

The full programme of the regatta, with the exception of three minor events which are to stand as raced yesterday, will be rowed next Saturday. This was decided last night by the committee. Three heats of the club fours were fought out yesterday, but they will be rowed over. The prizes will be distributed next Saturday.

During part of the squall, hail and rain in sheets beat down on the crews and the hundreds of spectators on the verandas of the hotel and scattered over the hill leading down to the water, and those who watched the events from their summer homes along the sides of the Bay.

Have to Abandon Races. It had been blowing steadily all morning, but towards the middle of the afternoon just after the regatta had started, the wind increased in intensity and black clouds loomed up overhead. A few minutes later the full fury of the squall broke. The water in the Bay boiled up, and beat against the sculls, as if it were trying to tear them into splinters.

When it was found hopeless to have the crews race except with their boats filled with water and without continuingly facing the danger of being swamped altogether, it was decided to abandon the regatta for the time being.

Sun Comes Out Too Late. An hour later, however, the storm had passed completely, the water on the Bay was smooth, the sun came out and with it the hundreds of persons who had scurried to the hotel and camps for shelter. It was decided, however, that it was then too late to try to complete the programme.

Club Race Results. After both crews had pulled a good race and were practically even until the last 200 yards, the scull pulled by K. McLean, J. Kerr, C. H. Wheatley and E. Monteith forged ahead in a final spurt and won the third heat of the club fours. The second scull was pulled by A. K. Roberts, E. A. Wallace, R. W. Roberts.

The second heat of the club fours was won by J. Donaldson, W. Mellor, E. Lumsden and T. Treloar, who won easily and showed remarkable form over the competing crew, composed of C. Ferris, R. Robbins, V. Bond and K. Greig.

After a rough passage, almost at the height of the storm, with the water giving the crews no chance to show any speed, R. Cummins, K. Terry, V. McKenna and W. Bendroit won the third heat of the club fours against O. Walls, R. Gregory, I. McDermott and F. Frost.

Naval Cadets and Miss Pendray Win. The double dinghy race for boys under fifteen was won by J. Kelley and G. Irbitser, naval cadets, with W. Peden and E. Peden second. The double dinghy race for girls was won by J. L. Johnson and J. A. Wickson. They were awarded the win in the double dinghy with lady Cox race after the first crew had been disqualified for having too fast a boat.

The results of these last three races are to stand.

In the evening oarsmen and their friends were swelled by motor parties from Victoria to upwards of 400, fanned on the verandas and in the main hall of the hotel the four-piece orchestra furnished music. The interior of the hotel was decorated with club colors and insignia.

The order of finishing for the Pacific International Motor Boat Cup, with times of start and arrival, was as follows:

1, Charlotte S., owner, Henry Seaborn, of Seattle, started 6:49 a. m., finished 7:01 p. m.

2, Suez, Commodore Griffiths, of Seattle, started 9:15 a. m., finished 7:57 p. m.

GOLD COULDN'T STOP V. I. A. A.'S GAME ATHLETES. Hold Exciting Canoe Events Despite Yesterday's Storm. Despite a stinging wind and white-capped waves, athletes of the Victoria and Island Athletic Association, assisted by half a dozen game sports from the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, staged an amusing programme of canoe events at the V. I. A. A. Club at Curtis Point yesterday. The weather was too cold for much swimming, though some of the more daring spirits staged a relay race, while Edna Curry and Billy Muir gave a fancy diving exhibition from a ten-foot board.

The canoe events were highly entertaining to the spectators who had gathered for the sale. The feature of the canoe-titling performance was staged by Superintendent Bills Davies and George McRae, who tried the crowd to a Dempsey-Carpenter bout, which had both fighters pretty well laid out at its conclusion. A tug-of-war in canoes, crab and centipede canoe races furnished plenty of amusement.

The results of the various events were as follows: Crab Canoe Race—1, Miss Audrey Griffin; 2, Mrs. Leo Dalziel; 3, W. H. Davies. Mixed Doubles—1, Miss Muriel Daniels and J. Andros; 2, Miss A. GIANT FOREST MONARCHS WERE MOWED DOWN WITH THE BOOM AND ROAR OF BATTLE.

What Paths of Storm Did When They Crossed Cowichan Lake Motor Road.

Cowichan Lake, July 2.—Motorists, who have been pouring into Cowichan Lake since the Summer season commenced and the new Riverside Inn was finished, have been marveling at the results of the storm which swept across Vancouver Island early this year.

Giant fir and cedar, stretching up more than 200 feet in the air and yards in circumference, were mowed down like ripe grain by the fury of the wind. Seventy of these giant trees were thrown across the twenty-mile motor road between Duncan and Cowichan Lake. They had to be sawed through by road gangs before the road could be opened.

Scores of other trees were felled alongside the road, but not across it. Tremendous roots support of the monarchs of the British Columbia forests were ripped up alongside the road all the way into the lake. As the storm came in from the Pacific, its force was concentrated as it swept in between the mountains and was funnelled down through narrow passes. Some of the finest timber areas on the Coast suffered by having pathways cut through them by the storm.

Persons living in the Cowichan Lake district say that it was like a battle of mighty cannon the booming and the roar as the big trees were uprooted or snapped off and then crashed down to earth often bringing other trees with them in their fall. It would have been certain death to have attempted to have travelled along the Cowichan Lake Road when the storm was raging. Loggers in the camps around the Lake had to scurry to the lighter woods for safety.

A definite programme has been adopted by the Government of Venezuela for the installation of twenty-two secondary radio stations.

MOTOR TRAVEL IS OFFICIAL ORGAN

Victoria Automobile Club Adopts Popular Magazine Published Here

Motor Travel, the well-known Vancouver Island motor magazine published at Victoria, and already the official organ of the Good Roads League of British Columbia for Vancouver Island, has been adopted by the Victoria Automobile Club as the official organ of that large and influential organization.

This step was decided upon at a meeting of the directors held Thursday evening. By an arrangement with the editor of Motor Travel two pages of the magazine will be given over to the club for its use in keeping members in touch with the doings of the club. A year's subscription to Motor Travel will be included in each paid-up membership fee. It is calculated that this feature will add very considerably to the interest of the membership in the club.

Secretary Webb was also authorized to go into the matter of publishing a resume of the city traffic regulations, for the benefit of motorists.

The next general meeting of the club will be held Friday, July 15, when the matter of the next club run into the country will be discussed.

About thirty new members were elected to the club.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION AT UNIVERSITIES

Agriculture, being the basic industry of the country, every advance made in the development of agricultural education is of national value. Recently several provincial universities have presented extension courses for the benefit of farmers and others. To this end the educational authorities have co-operated with farmers' organizations highly encouraging results. In the case of Manitoba a course of lectures was given on rural economics and sociology, supplemented by special lectures on a variety of subjects appealing to other sections of the community. In Ontario also, the University of Toronto was induced to give a similar course. A noteworthy feature of the course was the taking of students to the stock-yards, the abattoirs, and other places of a practical illustrative value. It is felt that the alliance thus established between the agricultural industry and those engaged in educational work will tend to a better understanding of economic problems which affect the welfare of town and country alike.

MOTOR TOUR FROM CITY TO CALGARY

Victoria Drive Yourself Auto Livery Inaugurates Novel Service.

One of the most enterprising motor tours ever inaugurated as a commercial enterprise has been instituted by J. C. Macdonald, originator of the Drive Yourself Auto Livery.

The tour by motor is between Victoria and Calgary and the first car will leave the head office of the Victoria Drive Yourself Auto Livery, 721 View Street on Monday.

New, high-powered cars will be used in this service and a Victoria man will fall the credit of establishing one of the most wonderful motor car transportation services in the world.

There is only one regret in the heart of the promoter of this scheme, and that is the inability to make the trip all the way in Canadian territory. Owing to the incomplete links in the inter-provincial highway, which will some day form a section of the completed trans-Canada highway, a section has to be made through the United States.

It will be interesting to note what the first round-trippers have to say about this experiment, which it is generally believed, will prove very successful and will result in a regular and extended service between Victoria and Calgary.

One of the most recent creations in motor propelled vehicles is a tank invented in France, which makes its way over the ground at a fair rate of speed, and then continued down the bank into the water, where it manoeuvres about like a power boat.

MOUNTAIN ROADS OPEN FOR MOTORS

Scenery of Canadian Rockies Makes Strong Appeal For Tourist

Travel by automobile is becoming increasingly popular throughout Canada, and of late considerable attention has been given to the opening up of motor roads through the Rockies, connecting the prairies with the coast cities. One of the best bits of road now in use is that running from Banff to Lake Louise, which was officially opened June 15. This road which runs through some of the most beautiful scenic country on the continent, is about forty miles long. It is newly graded, and of sufficient width for motors to pass each other at any place.

The auto road from Lake Louise to the Moraine lakes opened recently, and there has been considerable traffic over it already this season. The Moraine lakes and the Valley of the Ten Peaks is about nine miles distant from Lake Louise. From the road one sees the "Tower of Babel." A permanent tea house and camp for anglers has been maintained at the lake for visitors, and is already open for the season. This year a time schedule has been made out for motorists travelling to the Moraine lake and Lake Louise, and motorists must leave from either place on scheduled times. Ponies and pedestrians are not governed by this new rule, and can travel when they please.

OPEN NIAGARA GLEN TO MOTOR VISITORS

Added facilities for motorists are being provided by the commissioners of Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park. The chairman, Mr. P. W. Ellis, states that the road from Niagara Falls city to Niagara Glen, a distance of some five miles, will be completed by July 1. This will be a 24-foot road to one of the most secluded and therefore exclusive beauty spots in North America. Niagara Glen has long been famed for its unique features, the rock formations—a record, as it were, of the days when the waters of the mighty cataract coursed between these walls; the number and variety of the botanical specimens, rare flowers and shrubs in bewildering profusion. Situated back from the whirlpool, one imagines himself on the river bed—and river bed it was at a time so far distant that Methuselah might be considered young. But whatever the age and whatever the difficulties, these have been overcome. The road will lead by easy grades to the very bottom of the gien. There is being erected a commodious restaurant with rest rooms. At the top the commission is laying out an athletic field, which will be available for picnics. Those who want sport, and those who prefer rest, quiet, and to be in touch with nature, will find in the gien below a retreat that heretofore has been reserved for the hardy, the daring, the inquisitive and sometimes the learned.

When completed this will make three recreation centres maintained by the commission for free use by the public, namely, Queenston Heights, Niagara Glen and Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park. At Queenston Heights and Niagara Falls Park the accommodation is being enlarged. From May 15 creches will be maintained under the direction of trained nurses, so that mothers with young children will enjoy an outing without the burden of having the care of children all day. For motorists additional parking space is being laid out.

The boulevard from Fort Erie to Niagara-on-the-Lake is to be changed in name. Hereafter it will be known as the Niagara River Drive, a name more suitable and more suggestive of its location and significance than that under which it was formerly known.

The chairman of the commission is devoting much of his time to preparing the park and other spots for those who will visit these places during the coming season. From what- ever viewpoint it is attractive—historical, scenic, or recreative—it is the hope of those who have the work in charge that the utmost use will be made of everything that is provided.

Murphy—"I hear you and the boys struck for shorter hours. Did ye win?" O'Grady—"No. We're not working at all now."

THE AUTOMOBILE

The Phantom Car

It had been a great day for Arthur Meglin when he bought that elderly and inexpensive two-seater. The savings of two years had gone into it. He had been undecided for days, tortured with fear lest somebody else should snatch the bargain, and yet afraid to take it for himself. Then his friend Peters, who really did know, had seen the car and approved. At any rate, Peters had said that though it was a car that he would not care to be seen dead in himself, it was cheap enough and had got plenty of work in it yet. Arthur Meglin recognized this, coming from Peters, was warm commendation. From the day of the purchase life took on a fresh aspect for Meglin. Every week-end was a joyous adventure, as he sped—so far as that car could be said to speed—from London to the coast. The Summer holiday which he was now enjoying had been a matter of prolonged planning, with much consultation of road maps and much deliberation as to the hotels he should patronize. Weather was powerless to mar that enjoyment. He had today driven for six hours in the pouring rain, and now, as he took the road across the common, it rained harder than ever. It was already dusk, and his electric lamps were very feeble. By the time he reached the hotel dinner would be over. What did it matter? There would be a whisky and soda, cold beef and cheese, and above all, there would be the joy of great accomplishment.

The road across the common had a slight downward incline—just the kind of road that Meglin's car preferred. Moreover, it was a safe road, with no walls or hedges to impede the view. Meglin observed to himself that he would be able to see anything that he might meet or, as he added, optimistically, overtake. His kipldy speedometer flattered him into the belief that he was getting 30 miles an hour out of her. The swish of the wet and the whirr of the engine made a drowsy music. A non-sense line from Lewis Carroll sprang into his head, fitted itself to that music, and then repeated itself interminably again and again—

Suddenly Meglin pulled himself together. He convicted himself of having been on the verge of falling asleep. If he had slept, any old accident might have happened. It would never do. True, there was nothing on the road.

A Mighty Car.
Yes, there was, by Jove! A mighty big car with blazing blinding headlights, coming apparently at racing speed towards him, and right in the middle of the narrow road.
Meglin drew his car as far as he could to the near side, slowed down, and sounded his horn nervously.
And suddenly the big car stopped abruptly, and only a few yards away, and still in the middle of the road.
"That scraped a few pounds of rubber off my tires," thought the careful Meglin. "What on earth did he do it for?"
Meglin judged that there would be just enough room for him to crawl past.
But before he had got past he, too, brought his car to a stop.
Once past those blinding headlights he had been able to see the driver of the big car.
The driver was a powerfully built, middle-aged man in evening dress with no overcoat or hat. He sat with his head thrown back, his face dead white, his eyes closed, his mouth open, his arms hanging loosely by his sides.
"He must have fainted," said Meglin to himself. "Smart of him to have stopped his car in time."
But another possibility also occurred to Meglin. The driver of the big car looked very much like a dead man.
Meglin got down from his car to see if he could render any assistance.
Big Car Vanishes.
And as he did so the big car and its driver vanished completely.
He rubbed his eyes. Yes, he was wide awake now, but he must have fallen asleep and dreamed it. There seemed no other explanation possible.

And then by the light of his own lamps he saw immediately in front of him a watchman's box with a coke fire glowing faintly in front of it. Scaffold poles stretched half-way across the road. Lanterns were suspended from them, but the lanterns were all out. Beyond the poles a black pit yawned.
Meglin realized that but for the chance of that dream which had caused him to pull up, he and his car would probably have smashed through those poles and been lying at the bottom of the pit. Mingled with gratitude for his escape, was a feeling of fury with that neglectful watchman. He kicked the man's box and shouted to him.

The watchman emerged, a bent old man, striking matches that spluttered and went out.
"You infernal scoundrel," said Meglin, "why don't you look after your lights properly? Do you want to break the neck of everybody on the road?"
"Whose fault is it?" grumbled the old man. "That's the wind and the rain, that is. If I've lighted them up once to-night I've done it six times. And the moment my back's turned they blow out again."
"You were asleep and you know it. You'll be reported. It's more luck than anything else that I didn't smash myself and my car too!"
"And no great loss to nobody if you had," said the old man, as he lit the last of his lanterns. "You road-hogs—think you can ride rough shod over everybody, you do."
"You want your old head punched man mentioned. Next moment the husband came out of the dining room. He ran up to his dressing room, came down again, and went out. Next minute he was away on the car just as he was—no hat nor overcoat."

Meglin was listening intently now. "He said," said the landlady, paused.
"He'd got one of those big cars, and he liked to make it travel. If you met him on the road of a dark night, his lights would flash you, and that you'd almost fall over yourself. Well, I don't know what happened. The car was found standing still in the middle of the road half-way across the common, and there was he at the wheel, lolling back, stone dead. There was an inquest, of course. The doctors said that it was his heart, and that he might have died at any time. Any excitement might have caused it. The wife said that he turned faint at dinner, and went out to see if the freer would put him right. She gave her evidence quietly and steadily, in told, same as good liar would. They never did explain the loaded revolver that was found on him, though things were suggested."
"And what do you think yourself?"
"Well, what could you think? When he went up to his dressing room, that was to fetch the revolver. He was to kill his wife's lover. Then the excitement brought on the heart attack, and he'd just time to stop the car before he died."
"And the wife?"
"She married again six months later—not the lover, for he was married already, but another man. She doesn't live in these parts now."
Meglin was on the verge of telling what he had seen on the road. But he recognized that he should have told it before he heard the landlady's packing in ordinary trunks, especially after a hard trip. And if there should be any need for refurbishing up, the newest wardrobe trunk is equipped with a pressing board and iron, the latter just needing to be connected with the electric light socket. Some may object that in a wardrobe trunk it is not possible to stow away so many odds and ends as in the good old-fashioned square Saratoga. But the conveniences of the wardrobe trunk, particularly where closet room is at a premium, alone for any possible deficiency. And the toilet requisites cases that are now on the market are such an improvement over the old stowaway method that the modish traveler prefers this arrangement. It must be admitted that wardrobe trunks are not so easily handled as the four-square variety, and if one is planning a visit to a section where porters or their substitutes are scarce, it may take some persuasion to induce the village hackman or express wagon driver to handle the "new fangled" thing.

The motorist is the one who revels in the numerous conveniences and comforts for the traveler. Look at the luncheon kits and the folding tables and the leather cases for goggles and road maps and what not. It is enough to tempt any observer who does not possess an automobile to go out and grab one when he or she strolls through the department stores and the specialty shops which cater to the needs of the motor-owners.
And as for camping conveniences, they are unlimited. From the simplest of Boy Scout or Campfire Girl outing essentials there is every sort of contraption to lure one to the great out-of-doors that every tourist, whether camper or seashore or mountain section, makes it a point to select just what suits individual needs. Accessories, therefore, must be a decided need or they are passed by.

that's what you want," said Meglin, stepping into his car again.
"Ah, and you'd be getting yours punched if I were 20 years younger. Here, take your box of stinks out of my light before I forget myself."
Meglin rounded the obstacle and drove off without any satisfying conviction that he had got the best of it. He was wide awake now, and drove with extreme caution. A few minutes later he reached the village and the old-fashioned hotel where he was to spend the night.
A hot bath and a change seemed indicated before supper. It was while he was in the bath and meditated on what had occurred that he suddenly said aloud, "That was no dream, I swear I was never asleep."
But if it was not a dream, then what was it? That question troubled Meglin a little as he sat down to supper. But the food was excellent, and Meglin was very hungry. Soon material came alone occupied his mind. Later in the evening the question was to return to him with, as it seemed, a possible solution.
In the smoking room after supper he had the society of his landlady, a man of rather austere appearance who drank gin and water.
"Come far to-day?" the landlady asked.
"Nothing much," said Meglin, and over-estimated the distance by 35 miles. His account of his escape on the road across the common was also a little fanciful. He said nothing of the phantom car, but maintained that, fortunately, he was keeping a very sharp look-out. Nor was his description of the way he had reduced the watchman to pulp entirely free from imagination.
"And that's how it is," said Meglin complacently. "When you're driving a car, first you've to do everything right yourself, and then you've got to look out for the blunders of other people. A less careful driver would have had no end of a smash."
"Just a year ago to-night," said the landlady, "a man did die on that very road. He was driving a car, too, same as yourself."
"And how did that happen?"
"Nobody knows."
"Ah, that's what nobody knows exactly. Heart disease was what they said. I saw him that day, and he looked to me in the pink of health. A great powerful gentleman he was. He could have picked up a man of my size, and slung him through the window. He'd got a niceish place near here, and a very pretty wife. I'm naming no names, because she's still alive."
"Why? How did she come into it?"
"There were stories about her. Her husband wasn't the only man who thought her very pretty. The other man lived on the far side of the common, and those two used to meet. I've seen them together myself when I've been driving back of an evening. As for what happened that day, I only know what the butler told me. Seems that she and her husband had an awful row just before dinner. They were dining alone together. There they both sat, white and savage, not speaking, and just pretending to eat. He was drinking whisky and soda that was principally whisky. Then while the butler was out of the room, the row must have broken out again, for he heard both their voices raised, and the name of the other story. So this man, who had died on an errand of vengeance, had come back to earth a year later on an errand of mercy, and all that he had saved his life. What strange things happened! And only those to whom they happen ever believe them.

Rising, he said that the open air had made him drowsy and he thought he would turn in. He added that he would like breakfast at 9. Yes, eggs and bacon would do very nicely.

What To Take Along On Your Vacation Trip

The experienced traveler takes along a minimum of baggage, sorts on a trip so excited that all sorts of weather conditions are likely to be encountered. And then it shows discretion to pack compactly and to omit the non-essentials.
There is a wealth of accessories from which the tourist may select. Take bags, for instance. These come in every size and shape and are fitted in the most convenient way. The requisites of light weight, fashioned from genuine ivory or tortoise shell, or the very satisfactory imitations. It may give a woman who loves silver personal belongings a great deal of pleasure to know that she owns a complete dressing table outfit in this metal, but if she is wise she does not take them along if she is traveling. Shell and ivory are so much better suited to the demands of a vacation trip.
Suit cases are put a little in the background these days by the newer and more commodious hat-box, which not only does duty as the most acceptable of containers for milder's head-gear for all occasions, but provides ample room in many instances for an outfit for week at least. And they are so good looking, these black, shiny, miniature trunks, that they make a special appeal to the up-to-date woman. They are so light in weight, too, despite their spaciousness, that they do not prove much of a burden if one must carry one's luggage to and from a train or boat.
These advantageous hat boxes, however, have not altogether displaced the more familiar suit case, as witness the scores of leather, wicker and canvas cases that weekenders and tourists with more leisure at their command carry with them. The 1921 suit case is an attractive specimen of luggage, and, according to its size, is fitted with ample pockets and even with a tray in some models. The wicker case, leather bound, is ideal for a brief trip, and in addition to the regulation matting tint there are some in russet-tone that, at a distance, resemble leather. Of course, for durability and all-around service nothing excels the all-leather case; but it is apt to prove a weighty proposition when well packed.
When it comes to trunks it is simply a question of the length of one's purse, for there is a trunk to meet every whim of the most exacting traveler. For the generality of women sound to a vacation resort of any pretension—the wardrobe-trunk—the bill. One's frocks, wraps and other belongings come out so fresh and unwrinkled that they are in marked contrast to the results of

CONCRETE ROADS PROVING POPULAR

Permanent Highways Show Good Results in Service and Maintenance

Advocates of hard-surface pavements have been delighted with the result of the concrete road built by the Government along the Island Highway between Craigflower and Parson's Bridges and it is interesting to note that this class of roadway is becoming very popular in the United States, where automobile traffic is exceedingly heavy. It is considered good economy to build this class of road, which gives satisfactory service and reduces cost of maintenance to next to nil.

The following table showing the comparative yardage of concrete pavement awarded during the first five months of 1921 and the same period in 1920 is of interest:

Tenth Annual Report of the Administration of the British Road Improvement Fund

Signed by the Secretary of the Ministry of Transport, the tenth annual report of the administration of the British Road Improvement Fund has just been issued. This report is the first dealing with the Road Improvement Fund since the functions of the Road Board were transferred to the Ministry of Transport. The transfer in question was brought about by an Order in Council dated September 2, 1919, and from that date the Road Board as a separate entity ceased to exist. The present report covers the last period of the work of the Road Board from April 1 to September 30, 1919, and from that date to the end of the financial year, 1920, it relates to the duties of the Roads Department of the Ministry of Transport. The special fund set aside for what became known as the Road and work during 1913-14. Difficulties in obtaining materials were so great that very few highway authorities were able to complete their programmes by March 31 last year, and arrangements were therefore made for the schemes and grants to be carried over to the current financial year. The total grants and indications for roads and bridges up to March 31, 1920, were £10,992,486; while £451,572 were added in respect of the current financial year. A sum of £2,512 in excess of the special fund set aside in December, 1919, has been indicated, this excess being met out of the Road Improvement Fund.

Naval Brigade Highly Honored

THE local division of the Boys' Naval Brigade received word this week that His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, has ordered a cup to be made for presentation to the unit of this city. The cup when presented will form the award for competition among the boys in training and at the same time serve to show in what regard the local division under Lieut. W. M. Hotham, is held by the Governor-General, who inspected the boys on his last visit here, remarking then on their efficient and sailor-like turnout. On that occasion the Brigade lined the way to the statue of Queen Victoria as a guard of honor to His Excellency and drew favorable comments on all sides for their excellent display and steadiness on parade.

This week has been a very busy one for the members of the local division, who under Sub-Lieut. P. W. Tribe, have practiced boat drill on the B. C. Coast Service steamer Princess Beatrice, through the courtesy of Captain Neroutsos and taking soundings with heaving the lead on board the S. S. Algerine, through the kindness of the Pacific Salvage Company. The Brigade also was busy in painting its two boats, the cutter and gig.

It is now learned that again through the kindness of the B. C. Coast Service management, boys from the Naval Brigade will be accepted on the vessels of the company where vacancies occur in the stewards department. Prior to this only one boy was at sea with the B. C. Coast Service vessels and that the case of a bugler who is now on the Princess Alice in the Alaskan route. The training of boys for this new branch of the work has now opened and already several boys are keen to make their start at sea in this manner. With the advent of the warmer weather the Brigade is getting out of doors more and more, and for the moment boat pulling is occupying its full attention. The Sooke and Gordon Head subdivisions are both faring well and also taking advantage of the finer weather for outdoor training.

strong jaws would soon crush the little bones beyond all hope of life. If these little broods grow up to fine strong game birds your daddie and brothers will have fine hunting next Fall and the birds will have an even chance of making their escape.

Of course, where we mention game birds the same may apply to all types of little feathered creatures, so be sure to see that your doggie behaves himself in the woods and does not kill even with or without intent.

Your Camera Use Like Mary's Lamb

These are the holidays, and when you make your plans for that picnic and an outing to the beaches, do not forget your camera, the fun of the outing will be very greatly increased if you take photographs while there that you may keep to recall the merry time in after years. You are now playing with schoolmates and friends who will not be with you all your life, and a photograph of those you esteem is ever a useful guide when going over the good times you have had in holiday making.

While you are in the country or at the seaside try and get a photograph or two which appeals to you as showing a side of nature that you have not noticed before. It might be a small squirrel getting the best of a pine cone; it might be the kingfisher about to plunge into the water after a fish he has been watching; it might be your pet puppy investigating a hollow stump with consuming curiosity; any or all of these make excellent subjects for your camera.

For the best photograph illustrating some form of nature in her animal or feathered kingdom The Times will give a prize of three dollars, and for that taking second place a prize of two dollars, while in addition a special prize is arranged for a unique photograph taken.

The contest is open to all of fifteen years of age or under and closes on July 31. Each contribution should be accompanied by a short story of how the snap was secured. The taking of the picture must be the work of the contributor, but the developing need not be, but if so, that much the better.

Cadets Return From Camp

To-day is the closing date of the Sidney Cadet Camp, and this evening over eight hundred cadets will be wending their way to their homes. Some six hundred came from the mainland—from Vancouver, New Westminster and Chilliwack, and left by special boat from Sidney direct for Vancouver at 3.30 this afternoon. The remainder are cadets from the city and district schools and will return to town this evening on the train.

The annual cadet camp proved one of the best for many years and was carried to a successful conclusion with sports. Large numbers of parents were on hand to witness the field sports. Numbers of boys entering with zest in the various arrangements provided for their enjoyment. The camp was under the direction of Lieut.-Col. C. C. Bennett, D.S.O., who redoubled his success last year.

The boys, one and all, were reluctant to leave for their homes so well had they enjoyed the outing. From a military point of view the cadets went through a strenuous course of field training and showed a marked improvement on the completion of the camp. The boys were under their own officers as far as was found possible and showed to excellent advantage in the various field days arranged and admirably executed.

That camp life agreed with the boys was in evidence everywhere and the appetites worked up by the keen outdoor exercise will be a very healthy tonic for the city bred for the remainder of the Summer holidays. Although less strong in numbers the Island cadets did remarkably well and were commended upon very favorably by their superiors. The mainland cadets were over in force and presented a very fine showing led by their band.

VIEWED WITH DISTRUST

Johnny, out to dinner, had three times refused chicken gravy of which he was very fond. His hostess, who had added macaroni to the gravy finally said, "Why, Johnny, I thought you liked gravy."

"I do sometimes, but mother never puts in the windpipes," was the astonishing reply.—Forecast.

All Should Know How To Swim

This is swimming weather, the sun daily growing warmer to our senses, and heating the water to the point where it daily becomes more enjoyable. Can you swim? If not, now is the time to commence learning. It is a matter of commencing gradually and acquiring by constant practice. Nobody, since the world began, ever learned to swim overnight.

At first there is a natural hesitation to trust out into the depths, away from all solid support, but after a time this is easily overcome and the first short and swift strokes are taken. At this stage we hear Johnny tell Tom that he "did ten strokes yesterday." From here on it is just simply "sticking with it" and practicing every day. Do not try to learn all at once, take your time and "think" as you try.

Slow progress is often very much more real progress. The rapid learner performs wonders the first few days but does not seem to advance much after that. Confidence in your own power is the real secret for human beings, like the majority of nature's animals, were intended to swim, and that well.

All should know how to swim, it might be the means of saving your own, or somebody else's life one day, and for that object surely a little perseverance is well worth while. Swimming is one of the healthiest sports existing, and will be of use throughout life. Do not let this Summer pass without taking the first plunge.

IN SEASON NOW

A splendid example of the glory that can be attained by the dainty colored blooms of the sweet pea.

Overheard in the Street Car

This is truly holiday time, our schools have closed and no more, for two months at any rate, will we be forced to curtail our pleasures by the thought of homework. True, some of us intend to do a little reading this Summer but it will not likely be so strenuous or so concentrated as to mar our pleasure in the many good times of holiday life.

Some of us will spend the holidays at home, others are going to the beaches and yet others are going on long journeys, and that is enjoyment. On the street car the other day the following conversation between two little girls came inadvertently to the ears of your Editor:

The girls were on their way home from school and very evidently were friends and neighbors, fellow-pupils of the same school. The elder of the two little ones opened the subject about holidays stating that she with her relations was going to go away to her Summer home, and went on further to enlarge upon the wonders of this country house "at the beach."

For a long, long time, several blocks in fact, the elder girl rehearsed what a glorious time it was going to be, ending her remarks by asking her companion what she would do in the holidays. The smaller girl replied that her parents had no country house, nor would her daddy be able to get away from town, and that

What Canada Should Mean to Its Own

THE holiday we celebrated yesterday, what was it? July 1 you say. Yes, but what does that date stand for? Confession you answer. Well, your history tells you all that, but how much of it have you yourself realized. July the First was the date upon which the great Dominion in which we live became a united domain of the British Empire under the name of Canada.

We have talked about Canada this and Canada that but with very little understanding of what the word stands for and means to-day. The Canada of the days of the Confederation is not the Canada that we know to-day. Many years have rolled by with the consequent developments, changes and improvements. One of the greatest changes that has affected the land of our Maple Leaf was the great war, and at the close of that war the word Canada was written in very much larger letters than ever before.

The census men do not write us down yet as Canadians, but they are the only exception; all the rest of the world refers to us as Canadians, and within the confines of the Empire it is a distinction that means much to us of the Maple Leaf and Beaver. Right here in your own city and province the full meaning of the word does not readily occur to you but if you travel outside of this country you would soon find that on mentioning the fact you lived in Canada the greatest interest would be taken in the land of your birth or adoption, as the case may be.

In France during the great war and afterwards the word Canada was a password of good will and esteem that constituted a very sincere compliment for our great land. We owe much of that growth of importance to the share our daddies and brothers played in the great war, and it is for us to see that we forget not the source of that added prestige.

Never speak disrespectfully of your country; never even think ill of it, for with all the many little troubles that are yours it is a fine land with the open places of our Creator still unspoiled by the warring menace of the greed of mankind. If you have occasion to speak of your land do so with all respect and with a pride that is your right.

To be a Canadian, at least a Canadian worthy of the name means to be a very valuable member of the British Empire; to be one that would respond to the needs of the great Empire and fight for it if possible, or necessary; to be one whose very land of birth and residence makes courageous and resourceful, and one to whom the great beauty of Nature's truth is given unspoiled by the distortions of older lands.

Canada is too young yet in the scheme of the world nations to have acquired many traditions, and must place her hand back to the past, getting her traditions, in the main, from the British Isles; with that as a heritage that nobody can take from you and the glorious, if brief, history that our land already has won. To be a Canadian means to be one of the finest of the world of mankind. With that to look back on, nothing little or petty should disrupt your life; nothing small or mean should creep into your nature. Truth and industry should be yours for life. It is a heritage that is well worth preserving by every means in your power.

nominal fee asked to defray the expense of the boy under canvas.

Boys of ten and eleven years of age will attend the camp under the leadership of Harold C. Cross, Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Delmar Battrick, Assistant Boys' Work Secretary and J. McEwan, physical instructor. In addition to this some of the older boys will act in the capacity of tent leaders. Ten excellent tents have been provided, the boys will sleep up to six or eight in a tent.

The new Pavilion will be used for all indoor entertainments while plenty of outdoor sports will be available. There is still room for more boys and room for those who have no boys of their own to send to pay the way of the less fortunate in the affairs of this world, making it thus possible for boys to attend, who could not do so on their own meagre savings. All applications in this connection should be made to the Y.M.C.A., to Mr. Cross in person. After the first week in camp the older boys will go to camp in weekly periods, these also being open to any boy of the city and district within the age limit set for each week.

A splendid programme of work and play carefully arranged to give the best and happiest results will be ready for each week's class, while ample opportunity will be afforded to boys to introduce their parents and friends to the delights of camping. Stunt nights and many entertainments are well in hand for the amusement of the boys. The cooking is in excellent hands and on this and other scores the boys this year will be very carefully looked after and made thoroughly contented and comfortable. Last year it was difficult to induce the boys to go home, and all expectations this year point to a similar happy state of affairs.

IN THE SAME FIR

A gentleman and his wife, both very short sighted, went into a southern restaurant and sat down for breakfast.

"Why, John, I have forgotten my glasses, you will have to order," said the good lady to her husband.

The husband fumbled with his pockets but could not find his own anywhere. At last he turned to the colored waiter and said, "Will you please read it for us, waiter, we have both forgotten our glasses."

"Deed, I lak to oblige you, sub, but I ain't got no education neither," was the disconcerting reply.

A NEW STUDY

A member of the new school board was trying to be pleasant to a little pupil.

"What are you studying, my boy?" he queried.

"Arithmetic and geography, sir," replied the boy.

"And what are you learning in arithmetic?" continued the trustee.

"The boy thought for a moment and then replied, 'Goesinta.'"

"Goesinta, whatever is that?"

"Why doesn't you know, two goesinta four four goesinta eight."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Beaver Lake Camp Open to All Boys

Next Monday, July 4, the Y. M. C. A. boys' Division Camp will open at the Beaver Lake site. Already forty-five or fifty boys have entered for the first week of camp which will be confined for this first seven days to boys of the age of ten and eleven years. The camp is open to all boys, whether they be members of the Y.M.C.A. classes or not; who will agree to abide by the rules of the camp authorities and can pay the very

How Aircraft Fly. Animals Love a Human Voice

By this time our little readers should be fairly well acquainted with the pilot's seat of the average aeroplane—you know where to look for the rudder bar—and how it works. You know how a pilot controls his machine in the air with the joy-stick the control lever we told about, recently, regarding the other instruments to be found in the cockpit (or pilot's compartment) of an aeroplane very little need be said.

All aircraft have a compass of some description, usually a fairly large compass, and a very good one, is installed. This compass must be very carefully adjusted to suit its position in the machine and the machine itself, else it will not read true but be like a faulty clock, worse than useless. Pilots very seldom look at their compasses except on long flights and in misty weather and at night.

One of the first instruments a pilot requires is what is commonly called a "rev counter," that is, a counter that will indicate the number of revolutions which his engine is performing. The object of this is to assure the pilot, who has to trust his life to the machine that the engine is doing its duty well and truly. After a very little practice a pilot gets to know the sound of the engine, but for all ordinary machines a "rev counter" is a very necessary instrument.

You all know what a compass looks like, but the rev counter is much like a clock faced instrument which shows on its face how many hundred revolutions per minute the engine is running. Aircraft engines vary, some run at 1,100 revolutions and others up to 1,800. If an engine is much below her normal revs the pilot would not take it off the ground in the same manner that you would not try and drive a motor car with a badly missing engine.

The pilot must also have what is known as a "pitot tube," this is an instrument which by measuring, or weighing if you like, the force of the wind against the progress of the machine tells how fast the machine is moving through the air, in this way a pilot is able to see when he has attained flying speed and may take the machine off the ground. The pitot tube is one of the most important instruments in learning to fly, but after flying has become easy it is rarely looked at except again in fog or night flying where it serves as an indication of the course of the machine, as far as elevation is concerned, whether climbing or diving.

Another instrument that was used much during the war was the altimeter. This is nothing less or more than a barometer, which by measuring the air pressure will tell at what height the machine is flying. These altimeters range in thousands of feet up to anywhere in the neighborhood of ten thousand feet, after which the needle giving the height commences its second round of the clock-faced instrument.

So you see, if a pilot were to take note of all his instruments he would be a busy man, but in practice the senses of sight, hearing and touch do away with the necessity of looking at these instruments, and our pilot flies by his senses, the most sensible way.

Contrary to statements made by many who ought to know better, most animals to be met with in our daily lives are very fond of human companionship and the sound of a human voice. Dogs are, perhaps, the best example of this. Some people have more success in dealing with animals than others, and the secret of their success lies probably in two main facts, they like animals, feeling kindly towards them all, and they never create mistrust.

You will often hear it said, "Oh, don't put your hand near him, he'll bite," and that is about the most foolish remark that anyone could make, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred is both untrue and unjust. Animals as a rule are very tame, if they have been rightly treated. They are not, however, used to very sudden movements.

If you wish to prove this try placing your hand suddenly and unexpectedly on a small kitten, it will at once spring up, arch its back and hiss at you. If now you try drawing its attention to your hand and then lay the hand slowly on its back it will purr and show every sign of gratification and content. The same holds true with horses and dogs, and indeed most of our every day friends of the animal world.

Next time you have a minute to spare stop and talk to the first stray dog you meet on the street. If you are wise to observe these obvious rules, you will soon see that the animal likes you to talk to it, and is only waiting for a little kindness to respond in kind. Then people will say of you, "Oh, he must be a good boy, he can do anything with animals," and that is one of the characteristics of a true gentleman.

Mind Doggie In the Woods

This is now the month of July, a season of the year when usually most of our little feathered friends of the wilds have broods hatched out and flying strongly. This year whether it was the unusual amount of rain or more likely the very cold nights the broods are not nearly so far advanced and some very small and helpless little quail and pheasants have been noticed lately along the roads of the Island.

This is the season when many of our little girl and boy friends will be taking to the woods picking wild flowers and for merry picnics, many of them taking with them their doggies. A well trained hunting doggie will not harm a little game bird not even if it sat under his nose for a week; but there are very few well trained hunting doggies about and all other dogs have not been taught to respect the game bird and its flock of little ones.

So if you have occasion to take your doggie pet along to the woods be careful that he does not run wild and kill any of these little ones. Remember they are defenceless and the doggie will not know any better. He would not mean to kill it most likely, but he would worry it to death with fright, and his great

SPEAKERS AT SUMMER SCHOOL

Five Lecturers, Including Dr. Gowen, Here Next Month

The list of lecturers who will visit Victoria two weeks hence for the Summer School being promoted by the Anglican Church here is now completed. Among those already known to Victorians, the most prominent is Dr. Herbert H. Gowen, professor of Oriental Languages at the University of Washington, Seattle, whose lectures on biblical subjects at previous Summer schools held here attracted universal admiration for the profound scholarship and reverence of the learned professor.

At this year's Summer school, Dr. Gowen will speak each day from 1.30 o'clock from Monday, July 11, to Friday, July 15 inclusive on St. Paul's Full Doctrine of the Christ, as given in the Letter to the Colossians.

At 7.45 o'clock each evening from Tuesday, July 12, to Thursday, July 14, inclusive, lectures on child study and teacher training will be given by Rev. William Simpson, of Calgary. These lectures will be of special value to Sunday school teachers. The Summer school affords the occasion for Mr. Simpson's first visit to Victoria since his appointment as Western Field Secretary to the General Board of Religious Education of the Church of England in Canada.

Morning Lectures.
 The morning programme each day at the Summer School from Tuesday, July 12 to Friday, July 15 inclusive, consists of lectures, addresses, conferences from 9.15 a. m. to 12.30 p. m. At 1.15 a. m. daily, Rev. W. W. Craig, D. D., rector of Christ Church, Vancouver, will conduct a "Devotional Half-Hour." From 10 a. m. to 10.50 a. m. daily, addresses on "Our Church at Work in Canada and Overseas Fields" will be given by Rev. D. M. Rose, B. S. A., missionary at Kangra, India. From 11 to 11.50 a. m. daily, Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, D. D., will deliver a course of lectures on "The Social Task of the Church as seen by the Lambeth Conference," and at noon each day from Tuesday to Friday, Rev. Dr. Gowen will conduct a "Round Table Conference" on "Right and Wrong Method in some aspects of Pastoral Duty."

Registration of boarders and day students is proceeding, and all desiring to attend the lectures are advised to procure tickets at once, as accommodation is strictly limited. Further particulars can be obtained from Anglican parish clergymen or from the secretary, A. R. Merrick, 112 Burdett Avenue, Victoria.

POETS AND CHRIST

As has been the custom in previous years, a special course of sermons for Sunday evenings during the Summer months will be preached in Christ Church Cathedral by the Dean of Columbia, Very Rev. C. S. Quainton. The subject of this Summer course is: "What Certain Modern Poets Have Seen in the Face of Christ." The first sermon in the course will be preached at the half-past seven service to-morrow night in the Cathedral, the subject being, "The Vision and Revelation of Christ's Face." Under the general subject of "What Certain Modern Poets Have Seen in the Face of Christ," subsequent sermons in the course will treat of "What Francis Thompson Saw in the Face of Christ," "What Tennyson Saw," "What Robert Browning Saw," "What Keats Saw," and "What Coleridge Saw." The last sermon in the series will be entitled, "The Universality of Christ."

BAPTIST CAUSE IN VICTORIA FIRST

FOUNDED IN 1876

William Marchant Is Historian of Denomination

An interesting "History of the Baptist Churches in British Columbia" is being prepared under the authority of the B. C. Baptist Convention by a small committee appointed in 1918, consisting of Rev. Robert Lennie, Rev. P. C. Parker, Rev. F. W. Auvache and William Marchant. Rev. G. B. Welch was a member of the committee but later resigned. Rev. Mr. Lennie was elected chairman of the committee and for the first few meetings Rev. P. W. Auvache was secretary. Mr. Wm. Marchant was appointed compiler and historian, the other members of the committee agreeing to assist him in the work.

The first report of this committee was submitted to the recent meeting of the Baptist convention, and Mr. Marchant has read the opening chapters of the history that will eventually be completed. Heretofore, the history of the Baptist churches in British Columbia has been written by Mr. Marchant, who has been a member of the committee since its formation. He has written an introduction to the history, in which he makes the following points:

Message to People
 "The reader will find in the pages which follow not a few honorable names, and the record of noble work which coming generations will regard as not an inconsiderable heritage. There are those whose lives may be regarded as sublime in heroic service and endurance when friends were few and conditions adverse, when roads were almost impassable, congregations were few and far between, remuneration was by no means princely, and other discouragements too numerous to mention. I trust you believe that we have a message to the people that needs to be emphasized. True, the evangelical denunciations of the present day give more prominence to the truths we regard as fundamental than they did a century ago; and yet there are truths and aspects of truth which other bodies fail to recognize, and which we gladly co-operate in general Christian work with all who hold Christ crucified and risen as the only ground for which we recognize others truths as separate existence as a people. To perpetuate these truths is a duty we owe to the people of our day, and the Christian community of our day. It is becoming and necessary."

First Sermon
 Mr. Lennie modestly refers to the fact that he preached the first sermon as a Baptist pastor on the mainland of British Columbia in 1876, at the first Sunday in February. He had a congregation of about thirty-five people, among whom were the five Baptists then in the city. Mr. Lennie still resides in New Westminster and takes an active part in the affairs of the church he loves.

The first part of the historical summary of the church work Mr. Marchant calls "Religious History as Reflected in the Doings of the Baptists of British Columbia." It deals with the first Baptist church in Victoria, and the opposition to "clergy reserves." Quotations are made from Alexander Hegg's History of British Columbia on the question, and the attitude of the Baptist Church is clearly outlined. The later stand by Baptists against church exemption from taxation is also related in this part of the work.

Early History
 Coming to the story of the organization of the first Baptist churches in the Province, the historical record states that it was in May, 1876, that the first Baptist Church of Victoria was organized. Some two years earlier Mr. Alex. Clyde, of Stratford, Ont., had gone to the city. He gathered together the Baptist people from time to time for prayer and exhortation, and at these meetings it was decided to take steps to secure a pastor. A letter appeared in The Canadian Baptist, telling the story of the people in Victoria, and Rev. Wm. Carnes offered to undertake the new work. After some correspondence his offer was accepted and he arrived in May, 1876. Within a few days fifteen charter members at the organization meeting held in May of the same year under the chairmanship of Rev. Mr. Carnes. By January, 1877, a building was erected, and the next month the young congregation was visited by Rev. J. C. Baker, superintendent of American missions for the Northwest, who held evangelistic services. These culminated in the first service where the ordinance of believer's baptism was administered. This took place on February 22, 1877. During this meeting the new church was dedicated to the service of God and humanity.

Of the early pastors the names mentioned are William Carnes, J. H. Teale, Geo. Everton and J. Beaven. In 1885, after a somewhat chequered existence, the church disbanded and there arose a stronger and better organization known as Calvary Baptist Church. Then followed the development of the church in other parts of the city of Victoria and later on the Mainland and in various parts of the province. The history will be continued until a summary of the history of each church in British Columbia will be given. The later chapters of this history will be submitted at future meetings of the Baptist convention.

"Faith of a Modern Catholic."—At St. Andrew's Cathedral on the Sunday evenings during July, the rector, Father A. E. W. Wood, will preach a series of sermons on "The Faith of a Modern Catholic." The service commences at 7.30.

WAS MINISTER IN WELSH COAL SECTION

Miss E. Rosalind Lee, Writer and Speaker, Here Next Sunday

Miss E. Rosalind Lee, widely known writer and public speaker, will be in Victoria shortly and on Sunday morning, July 10, will address the congregation of the First Unitarian Church.

Accompanied by Miss Hilda Hargrove, daughter of the late Rev. Charles Hargrove, Miss Lee is traveling to New Zealand by way of San Francisco. They are now in the United States on their way.

Miss Lee is a minister who has served three years among the people of Wales and her experiences among the miners of Rhondda Valley, South Wales, will probably form part of her remarks. In some of the articles written by Miss Lee descriptive of this picturesque and interesting portion of the great coal mining district, she says that what must have been at one time a most beautiful wooded valley is now bare and gaunt and dotted with slag heaps and quarries.

Miss Lee possesses a very fine descriptive power and discloses the fact that she is a keen observer of human nature. Her story of the people among whom she works is always interesting translated for the benefit of those to whose interests it is to understand and know them. Preparations are being made for a hearty reception to Miss Lee and her companion when they arrive in the city next Saturday.

METHODIST HEAR SCORES MODERNISM

Dr. Chown Contrasts Old-time Religion With Present Day Tendencies

Toronto, April 26.—The Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, in a statement on "Intensive Spiritual Cultivation" prepared for the Christian Guardian, in which he launches out against modernism in the church.

"As a very sympathetic observer of the work of our ministers and of the progress of the church, I am certain that the modernist influences which have invaded the church and which appear to have dampened its evangelistic appeal, and weakened its spiritual power, are the result of a failure to recognize the need of a more intensive spiritual life. The modernist influences which have invaded the church and which appear to have dampened its evangelistic appeal, and weakened its spiritual power, are the result of a failure to recognize the need of a more intensive spiritual life.

Methodism's Early Power
 "The fathers of Methodism attained their great results by linking themselves and their work with the releasing Divine power upon the hearts of the people through abundant and unmeasured prayer. They sought to reconstruct, but much of reconstruction, but much of recreation, and a membership of nearly 200,000. These schools contributed last year $350,000, every dollar of which was given for the mission work of the church.

The total investment of the Seventh Day Adventist church in its various churches, missions, and institutions amounts at the present time to $25,000,000.

TENT CAMPAIGN

The closing week of the tent campaign conducted by Evangelist D. Rand Pierce, of Boston, corner Park and Victoria Streets has been a most successful one, and a blessing. Last evening a special treat was enjoyed by the large congregation when Dr. Burion A. Hall of San Diego, Cal., delivered a wonderful message on "Our Elder Brother, Jesus Christ." The sermon was a masterpiece of eloquence and logic, tracing the "Chain of Galilee" from creation down to His incarnation in the human breast in the form of a present, personal, Christian experience. His graphic description of the crucifixion of Christ will never be forgotten by those who were privileged to hear it.

The campaign will close with the Sunday services. As usual Mrs. Pierce will be the speaker at 10.30 a. m. The Evangelist will deliver the closing messages at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m. All who have received special help in the services are requested to attend the afternoon service, if possible, as the subject will be: "How to keep the Pearl of Great Price." The closing sermon will be preceded by a service of general prayer and testimony led by Mrs. Pierce. The subject of the closing will be "The Last Call." Evangelist Pierce will speak at 8 o'clock this evening.

WESLEY CHURCH HOLDS SUCCESSFUL PICNIC
 The Sunday School of Wesley Church held their annual picnic yesterday, July 1, at Picnic Point on the Gorge. Over two hundred were in attendance, and as far as thorough enjoyment was concerned the affair was a splendid success. The only drawback was the shower that interrupted the races, but failed to dampen the exuberant spirits of the crowd. Boating, bathing, skipping and other sports were freely indulged in; gallons of lemonade and ice cream quickly performed the disappearing act, and quantities of peanuts and candies were consumed. The picnic was supervised by Rev. P. W. Wood, pastor, and assisted by Rev. J. Daniels, and his chief assistant George Guy, and his busy staff of teachers and

WHAT SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS HAVE ACCOMPLISHED

Striking Progress by Body Now Interested at Resthaven

The acquisition by the Seventh Day Adventists, who have a camp at Resthaven, of the great coal mining district, similar to their institutions all over the continent, will give to the following statement of their work.

A Growing Cause
 Seventh Day Adventists are pre-eminently a missionary people, carrying on a world-wide work. Few people have any truer idea of the magnitude of the operations of this numerically small people. The present membership is close to 200,000, and yet this body of people are now only last year over $8,500,000 for the propagation of their teachings in home and foreign fields. Like Martin Luther, the great Protestant Reformation, the Adventists are earnest believers in the educational value of the printed word. At the present time they have forty-five publishing houses scattered throughout the world, printing religious literature in ninety-six different languages and an investment of over $5,500,000. The total sales of all kinds of publications adding together the principles taught by the denomination amounted last year to $5,500,000.

Forty-two Institutions
 The Seventh Day Adventists believe in a broad gospel, covering the whole of the body as well as the soul, and as a result carry on very extensive health propaganda. They conduct at the present time forty-two sanitariums and treatment rooms in various countries, superintended by 150 physicians, and employing 2,000 helpers, while their sanitarium and hospital equipment for medical work totals close to $4,500,000.

In educational lines, the Seventh Day Adventists have made efforts in keeping with the development of their work in other lines previously mentioned. In the different countries in which they operate at the present time, they carry on about 900 schools with 1,200 teachers and an enrollment of 21,000 scholars. For the purposes of higher education, they conduct 45 colleges and academies, served by 890 teachers, with an enrollment of 15,000 students. The total investment in education work is nearly $5,000,000.

Sabbath School Work
 In the Sabbath School work, the Seventh Day Adventists inculcate a strong missionary spirit, which is productive of astonishing results in the upbuilding of their world-wide work. At the present time they have 100 Sabbath Schools, with a membership of nearly 200,000. These schools contributed last year $350,000, every dollar of which was given for the mission work of the church.

THE DISAPPEARING BUFFALO

The total number of pure-blooded bison throughout the world is now only 3,311, of which one-third are to be found in the United States, according to a summary of the Abnashish census of living American bison as of January 23 made public by the American Bison Society. Of this number there are in the United States 2,377 captive and 160 wild bison. In Canada there are 616 captive and 800 wild; in North America, 900 wild, making a total of 2,243. In South America and foreign countries there are 63 bison in captivity, making a total of 3,311. In 1920, 1,700 calves were born.

A husband, who had dined and wineed too well, finds his way home in the small hours of the morning. He reaches the library just as he hears his wife's footsteps at the head of the stairs leading to her bedroom. He hastily reaches for a volume from the bookcase, drops into an armchair, and has the book spread in his lap as his wife enters with a look which you do not see as she says: "You are doing here as this hour?" she asks. "I'm reading dear. This book has been in the library five years; I've made up my mind to read it, and I've read it; to-night I'm going to finish it." The wife, in tones of mingled disgust and authority, replies: "John, close that draughtboard and come to bed."

DEMPSEY HAPPY AS SCHOOL BOY OVER HIS GREAT VICTORY

Jersey City, N.J., July 2.—The champion was as happy as a school boy, and there were no marks on his face or body to show the effect of the Frenchman's punches.

"I won just as I thought I would," the champion said. "It was a good fight and I think the public was satisfied. They say Carpentier staggered me with a right hand punch in the third round. I never even remember being hit hard enough to shake me up."

"Carpentier is a good game fellow, but I think I've got it on him," Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, remarked as he entered his dressing room after the fight.

But a large number of those who witnessed the bout were far from broadway last night. They were the general admission ticket holders, who paid only a modest $5.50 for the privilege of watching from some distance.

Winnipeg, July 1.—(Canadian Press)—The All-Canadian football team selected to play against the touring Scottish professionals in Montreal on July 9 was announced by the officials of the Dominion Football Association to-day as follows:

Unusual interest is being centred in the first of the series, for the Marconi rig has not been seen in action in these waters previously, and this has been the first time that a sloop carrying the Marconi rig has faced a gaff headed mainsail plan on even terms.

Come Here on Monday. In a stiff wind the challenger stands up to a close haul, and does not take the flattening that comes to the ordinary sloop.

CARPENTIER ADMITS DEMPSEY IS GREAT CHAMPION; TO REST

Ringside, Jersey City, July 2.—Georges Carpentier took his defeat gamely, and praised Dempsey as a great champion. In his dressing room, after the fight, Carpentier dictated this statement:

"I made my all to win in the second round, but I hit him hard, but he did not drop him. I tried again in the third, but a right to my neck seemed to daze me. I do not know how he got through my guard in the fourth.

"America should be proud of Dempsey. He is a great champion. Georges returned immediately to Manhattan on the yacht Lone Star. He will rest for three or four days, and probably will receive no visitors until Monday.

Desamps and Wilson both said that Dempsey's weight and power were too much for Carpentier.

BEAVER LAKE CAMP

PROMISES WELL

Large Number of Boys Will Attend Y. M. C. A. Outing

Indications point to a bumper camp for the Y. M. C. A. boys' division this year. The camp at the beautiful Beaver Lake site is to open on Monday next under the direction of Harold C. Cross, Delmer Battrick and James McEwan, all of the Y. M. C. A. staff here. The boys will be divided into tent groups, each tent being in charge of a leader.

The leaders for this year include Fred Chadwick, Gordon Hilltop, Douglas Smith, Stanley Moore and Will Lockwood, all well known in Y. M. C. A. circles. Miss Moutat, who last year won the hearts of the boys with culinary ability, will this year be enrolled for the same necessary function. In addition to the excellent facilities that characterized the success of the boys' camp last year, the new pavilion will add immeasurable comfort and entertainment for the present season. The camp, not confined to boys already belonging to the Y. M. C. A., but open to all boys who can meet the slight expenses involved.

Last year 160 boys participated in the camp, but already to date 160 boys have signed on for periods of one or more weeks. The prospects are that the camp will open with 200 boys enrolled. There will rarely be more than 50 boys in camp at once, a convenient number to provide for in training and games. The boys will be under competent instructors, and put through a course of training in woodcraft and useful camp lore—as well as being accorded every opportunity to play and enjoy themselves. A number of different lines of athletic attainments.

Swimming will be one of the features of the camp with the main water at Beaver Lake and the discussed reservoirs making excellent facilities available. The reservoirs in particular form an ideal site for the juniors.

It is planned that nearly every boy will return to town with a knowledge of swimming. Elaborate precautions are taken, boat guards and pickets being employed to see that no boy comes to harm in his aquatic amusement.

This year the boys will live in large square tents with floor boards and maybe bunks as well, and will use the new pavilion for means and entertainments. Cinema shows, stunts and concerts will take part in the main assembly hall, one feature of which is a grand open fireplace, capable of taking cordwood lengths.

It is open to parents or others to pay the small fee for the boys who wish to attend, and many of the city clubs have set the way in this by paying for large groups of their boys to attend the camp. Several little fellows are still anxious to make the camp if some kind philanthropist can be found to defray their meagre expenses.

Two small children, a four-year-old girl and a three-year-old boy, disgraced themselves during a Sunday morning walk. They sang nursery rhymes and even fragments of a comic song heard on a gramophone, to the horror of respectable churchgoers, and finally quarrelled and had a rough-and-tumble fight, arriving home in a very grubby condition. The nurse duly reported their sins to their mother, who pointed to three good little creatures in spick-and-span garb, and said, "You ought to behave like those dear little children!" "Pooh!" exclaimed her little daughter, tossing her dishevelled red-gold locks, "they ain't children; they're only pets."

An arrangement has been completed for the amalgamation of the Edinburgh and Leith Trades Councils.

COUNCIL HESITATES IN MOVE FOR LOWER WAGES IN SAANICH

Lower Living Costs and Need For Wider Employment Canvassed

After waiting an hour and a half for the arrival of Councillors Brooks and Vantreight, the Saanich Council in works committee Thursday night discussed in their absence the advisability of lowering the municipal wage scale, but took no action after a lengthy debate, deferring the matter until a later meeting.

Reasons for Change
Councillor Simpson opened the debate with the assertion that living costs are now 5 per cent lower than six months ago and clothing then priced at $40.00 is now available for as low as $20.00. He suggested the adoption of a contract or piece work plan for able-bodied men in order to make the municipal funds spread further. He admitted that for elderly men such a plan might not be workable, and a minimum scale for such men should be instituted.

"I am firmly of opinion that if little concessions were made by employers and men there would be no need for a man on this island to be out of work," he said, after citing as an example the general deferring of painting work because of high prices of paint and labor, and a fine whelp lined out in but one-third last year's price, and there are scores of painters out of work but unwilling to work for less than the high union scale.

Another example cited by Councillor Simpson was bread; his claim being that home baking of a sack of flour had saved more than the price of another sack, his own household, as compared with the cost of bakery bread.

"We may have to advance the fares to men to go elsewhere," was his summary of impending conditions unless more work was provided in the district by general co-operation, though I fear such outside work will only be at a lower rate of pay," he said.

Councillor Kingwell opined that the whole matter was too large for the municipality to handle, while Councillor Ormond wanted to know "where is the hold-up?" declaring beef to be selling at 5c to 10c per pound in Vancouver, though nothing like that is to be found here, and also that Vancouver bakers sell three 15-ounce loaves for 25c.

Against Chinese
Councillor Ormond also wanted to know why so many Chinese berry pickers are employed in Gordon Head, declaring that white men are seeking work such a practice should cease.

Reeve Watson declared berries picked for the prairie market required expert handling. "Speaking as one disinterested, I must say the Gordon Head growers have for years been very patient with white girls. I hate to admit it, but the Chinamen are peculiarly adapted to this work."

Councillor Kingwell agreed. "There is a whole lot to that," he said. Councillor Vantreight then arriving, Reeve Watson explained, "We are discussing the wage question." Councillor Vantreight at once remarked "Eating is coming down, wages must come down."

Councillor McWilliam protested. "We have not discussed wages. I don't think it is best mentioned," when Reeve Watson reiterated that wage matters were the intent of the discussion anyway.

Councillor Vantreight remarked, "This year there are all kinds of white men looking for work in the fields, a thing I have never known before in a long association with the berry business."

Legislators Versus Laborers
Councillor Kingwell advanced as the view of the working men the illogicality of reducing workers' wages when legislators find a raise necessary for themselves.

Discussing the suggested Prospect Lake Road wood-cutting scheme, it was noted that to haul the wood in wintertime would ruin the roadway, necessitating financing by the municipality and holding the product until Spring.

Councillor Vantreight wanted to know if it was compulsory on municipalities to supply work, and was informed by Councillor Kingwell that the cars of the poor rested on the municipality.

Reeve Watson remarked "It sometimes comes hard, but it is better business to supply work at a net loss as compared with shouldering the entire upkeep of the indigent as we should have to do."

Councillor Kingwell suggested the question should be on the agenda of the Union of B. C. Municipalities when it holds its convention this Fall at Port Alberni. Councillor Horner thought Saanich would be ill-advised to take the lead in cutting wages "for this reason—we were the last to establish the $4.00 wage."

FIND DRAINAGE PLAN WILL BE EXPENSIVE

Control of Colquitz Flood Water Costly Matter, Says Engineer

The Saanich Council was greatly surprised Thursday night when informed by the Provincial Public Works Department that the cost of protecting the Marigold and Panama Park districts from winter flooding would be at least $35,000 and might go as high as $150,000. These computations were arrived at by Engineer J. W. Knewstubb, of the Water Rights Branch, after a careful survey of the Colquitz watershed. It was stated that the annual minimum flood water capacity would be fifty cubic feet per second per square mile, this drainage provision requiring $45,000.

The average flood water experienced was much larger and would need the expenditure of $50,000, while exceptional floodings noted at intervals of from five to ten years would need provision for 150 cubic feet per second per square mile, at a cost of $130,000. Councillor Ormond remarked, "It will be cheaper to remove Garden City than to remove the water," and Reeve Watson then noted that part of the drainage area was in Provincial jurisdiction, and suggested the Government be asked its views on contributing towards the cost. This course will be adopted on the motion of Councillor Horner who declared the Province should be interested "as they put Panama Park on the market over our heads."

PIMPLES ON FACE CUTICURA HEALS

Caused Disfigurement, Itchy and Burning. Had Restless Nights.

"My face came out in little pimples that were sore, and I scratched them constantly, and then they turned into scales, causing much disfigurement. The skin was so itchy that I irritated it by scratching. The burning was fierce, and I had many restless nights."

"This trouble lasted about a year before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using three cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) W. Byrns, St. Basile, Que., Nov. 29, 1918.
