|                                           | 23 March 1653. The daughters petition that in 18 James, Sir Wm. Roper, their grandfather, Anthony Roper, his eldest son, and Thomas Roper, their father, his youngest son, of the first part, and Francis and Philip Roper, brothers of the said Sir William, of the second part, and William Cobbes and Thomas Stich, of the third part, settled the lands appertaining to Sir William and his said brothers and sons in Oakley, or Croxall, co. Stafford, on the said Thos. Roper and his heirs male; but if he had more daughters than one, he had power to bequeath the profits for 10 years, to raise 1,200l. for them. By his will, in 1636, he appointed Fred. Bentley and 2 others to receive the profits and raise the 1,200l. for petitioners, and to pay 50l. a year to their eldest brother William for his better maintenance. The father died 5 years since, but the trustees could not receive the profits, the estate being under sequestration. Beg examination of their claim. | 114        | 489                |

Petitions that he holds the Green Dragon, Cheapside, by lease from the Goldsmiths' Company, but it was sequestered for delinquency of [Wm.] Bancks. Proved that Bancks had mortgaged his lease for 500l. to Mich. Gardiner, and the late Camden Honse Committee, 28 Sept. 1646, discharged the sequestration till the 500l. was paid; but the remainder of the lease, being only 8 years at 50l. a year, could not repay the 500l., therefore the lease was surrendered to the Goldsmiths' Company; they granted a new one to John Grosvenor, from whom petitioner bought it 2 years since. Begs leave to prove his claim and enjoy the premises. |

|                                  | 5 Jan. 1654. Order on report that the estate cannot be discharged, as the claim is not allowed by the Committee for Removing Obstructions; but the estate being in the last Act for Sale, the petitioner should have arrears from the time of his father's death till it was vested in the Drury House Trustees.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 19 165    | 153520 |
|                                  | 4 May. Order in the Committee for Removing Obstructions, on a reference to them of his petition (missing) by the Protector, allowing his claim to the estate in question, after the life interest left therein to his grandmother, Jennet Bamber.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 65            | 524        |

|                                  | ALEX. BATES and JOHN MILLS petition the Council of State that after contracting with the County Committee for Kirkby-Thure tithes for 1650, and giving a bond to pay 1271., the parishioners resist the collection, and the County Committee refuse petitioners an order to distrain, yet sue them at law for fulfilment of their bond. Beg that their case may be referred to Col. Briggs and Major Scaife, that in the meantime there may be no prosecution against them, and that they may be empowered to collect arrears from the parishioners.  2 June 1653. On Mills' complaint that the 4 oxen and 2 horses which he distrained for the tithes were rescued by the owners, John Gowling and John Pattison, the order of 21 February renewed, and Gowling and Pattison summoned to show cause of their contempt of order; proceedings against Bates and Mills stayed for 2 months.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                         | of Temple-Sowerby, whose proportion of the rent paid by Bates and Mills was only 25L, complain that the damage done to their cornfields by Gen. Lambert's horse amounted to 250L, on account of which the Commissioners for Propagating the Gospel in the four Northern Counites, ordered, 5 Feb. 1652, that 20L should be abated to petitioners for that year, and that they should pay 10L to the curate and 40s. charges, and the remainder to Bates and Mills, which petitioners did, the difference upon the remainder heing referred by mutual consent to Mr. Dalton, minister, and [Thos.] Langhorne, one of the Commissioners for Cumberland, who ordered Bates to make no further demand on petitioners.  Notwithstanding, Bates and Mills procured an order for them to appear before the Committee for Compounding, but did not serve it on any in particular, so that they thought themselves excused by the arbitration. Failing to appear, they were sequestered, and horses, to the number of 124, and value 350L, belonging to the inhabitants were distrained by Bates, with the help of 12 soldiers from another county. The soldiers sold many of them for 6d, or 12d. each, kept the rest 5 days impounded, and when no chapman could be found to buy them, delivered 60 to petitioners, on their bond for appearance hefore the Committee for Compounding. Petitioners lost two fairs and sustained 200L damages to their horses. Beg relief against Bates and Mills, and permission to sue them at law. |

|                        | 13 June 1653. Petitions the Lord General and Council of State. In his absence from town, a vault being opened in his house in Water Lane, London, treasure worth 70l. was found, which is claimed by the sheriffs of London and other persons. Being ignerant who has just right to it, though advised that he is proprietor thereof, it being found in his own inheritance, he submits it to his Excellency and the Council of State for disposal, and begs that for what part of the same he shall be ordered to pay, he may be fully discharged upon payment. | 25       | 141              |

Hugh Speake and others, his creditors, beg reference of their case to counsel. Dormer, by indenture of 1 Jan. 1649, demised to Clement Throckmorton a messuage called the Wold for 21 years, at 45s., and by another indenture of the same date, the intention of the said demise is set forth to be that Throckmorton shall pay the debts named therein. Throckmorton has received the profits for several years, but now the County Committee of Warwick debar him, on pretence that the present interest of the said estate is in Dormer. They beg that he may still receive the rents. | 118                                      | 10391069                               |

|                | 7 July 1653. Thomas Hunter, of Roscoate Farm, petitions that he was always well-affected, and for opposing the Commissioners of Array was robbed of his personal estate, value 600l., in 1643, by Chris. Harris, lieutenant under the Earl of Derby; sued him in 1646, and last Lancaster assizes, obtained a judgment against him for 153l. 7s. 1d., besides costs; but Harris being sequestered as a Papist and delinquent, and the estate being under sequestration, he cannot take the henefit of his judgment. Begs payment from Harris' lands, being a great sufferer by plunder and imprisonment. | 93          | 775                                       |

| р. 168 551    | The County Committee report, at the special request of Michael, youngest brother of Peter Macclesfield, that he has brought before them an indenture, dated 3 Jan. 1642, between him and Peter Macclesfield, whereby Peter, on his surrender of an annuity of 6l. 13s. 4d., and on his payment of 50l. ready money, granted him an annuity of 10l. on lands in Mear, called the New Leasowes, the Moors, and Childroncrofts, for 40 years if he live so long, with power to distrain for non-payment, and enjoy the land; also that the above indenture has been duly proved before them.  They further certify that $\frac{3}{2}$ of the estate of Peter Macclesfield, out of which the said annuity issues, was sequestered for his recusancy in 1643, and still remains under sequestration, and that Michael Macclesfield is aged, and offers to depose that his annuity is his sole subsistence. | 168  | 549   |

|                | 3 Nov. 1653. Thos. Turner states that in Dec. 1647, Edw. Winter,—to save him harmless from a bond of 60l. to pay 30l. to Adam Jones,—demised to him all his lands in Rockfield and Monmonth for 7 years. Has paid 12l. interest on the debt, and is now sued for 40l. debt, interest, and charges. Finding Winter in possession of the premises, which had been sequestered for his recusancy, supposed he had compounded for them, and therefore entered on them, and carried away \(\frac{1}{2}\) of the corn and hay, on which Jane Winter, Edw. Winter's wife, who had leased the premises from the County Committee, petitioned for and obtained indemnity, and was ordered restitution of the corn, but with provise on petitioner's behalf.  As the interest in \(\frac{1}{2}\) of the estate does not belong to the County Committee, begs allowance of \(\frac{1}{2}\) of the corn and hay, his \(\frac{1}{2}\) of the premises, impartially set out, paying in any surplus or a lease of the \(\frac{2}{3}\) on good security. Jane Winter has obtained the premises as a femme sole, and they are sequestered for her recusancy, whereas the sequestration ought to be for her husband's recusancy. |            | 393         |

|                | 20 Feb. 1655. LLEWELLYN JENKINS, of Rockfield, petitions that having a judgment for a 600l. debt against Edw. Winter, in 1653 he sued an extent, and the sheriff delivered him ½ of Winter's lands at Tal-y-lin, but the lands being sequestered for his recusancy and the ½ assigned, that ½, and as much more as made up ½, was set out to petitioner, and he has enjoyed it since, till lately Winter, to avoid the extent, got a new assignment of this ½, which would be less to the benefit of the State. Will be undone if he loses the extent, that debt being his whole subsistence. Begs to become tenant for the ½, giving 10l. a year more than anyone else, and good security.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |            | 849         |

Horsley, his grandfather, in 9 James, demised sundry crofts, mills, &c., in Cropton to Thos. Gill of Wrelton, for discharge of claims thereon, and in 1646 mortgaged them to him for 2001. On Robert's death, the power of redemption came to petitioner's father, William, as eldest son, and then on his death to petitioner, who was a posthumous child. His mother then married Steph. Whitwell. Gill continued in possession, till lately petitioner's guardian redeemed the lands for a large sum, and then he conveyed them to petitioner, but they are unjustly claimed by Whitwell in right of his wife. Begs allowance of his own claim. | 140 | 31, 69     |

|                                          | 27 Nov. Information by Sam. Garthwaite, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, on behalf of the Countess, that Wm. Smith, of Caistor, co. Lincoln, has never accounted for 1,500l. worth of goods, &c., of Thos. Ascough of Girsly, co. Lincoln, sequestered by him in 1646. That Major Thos. Lister, of Colcby, only paid 1,350l. out of 3,000l. received by him to pay the inhabitants of Kesteven, for quartering soldiers in 1645 and 1646. That Hen. Ford, mayor of Worcester in 1642, has never accounted for plate, value 1,000l., advanced for the service of Parliament.    |                                          | 269                |

|                                  | 19 Feb. 1657. LADY VERE WILKINSON, and LADIES ELIZABETH, ANNE, KATHERINE, and STANLEY CARR, the daughters, petition the Protector on the Countess' death, for continuance of the pension of 5l. a week. Also, as she had a grant of 2,000l. from discoveries, in lieu of a patent for 2,000l. a year payable from the Exchequer which she surrendered, and as the composition of Wm. Moore does not amount to half the 2,000l., they heg money to pay the debts, amounting to 1,300l., and something for their subsistence and future advancement. | 242       | 83                  |

| р. 128 273                       | THOMAS WETHERBY, his son and heir, of Halsenade, co. Lancaster, petitions that in 1616, Peter Wetherby, his grandfather, and George, his father, settled their estate on trustees for themselves for life, and then for the eldest son of George. They are both dead, but George's estate is in the last Act of Sale. Has obtained allowance of his claim from the Committee for Removing Obstructions, and begs confirmation and discharge, with arrears from his father's death.                                                                 | 128       | 275289          |

mittee for Compounding being unable to hear the case at present, they order that he may dispose of the corn, on security in double its value, and he is to bring his case to a hearing in a month.

н. 27 240 306 L.C.C. 141 313

- 6 Feb. 1655. Order allowing Chamber's claim to the corn, which is also to he discharged.
- 27 Feb. Order on report in Selwood's case that the County Committee do not proceed in the sequestration, except as to the 500L, and that they allow him to dispose of the corn on 141 good security; that Brereton's report be sent to the Excise Commissioners, with a letter to say that the Committee for Compounding have no power to continue the sequestration on their order of 13 Oct. 1653, but will discharge the estate, unless they receive sufficient warraut in a month.
- 23 March. The Excise Commissioners enquiring why the sequestration cannot be continued, the Committee for Compounding reply that the Act only authorizes them to sequester till arrears of excise are paid, with damages. That the order of 13 Oct. 1653 is made, not by the Excise Commissioners, according to the Act, but by the Commissioners for inspecting the Treasuries, which has no power to order sequestration. That the Excise officers have not certified the case, and also that the powers of the Committee for Compounding expired 31 Jan. 1654, and by the Ordinance of 10 February, they can only act in cases of sequestration for recusancy or delinquency; unless cause is shown to the contrary, they will release the estate in 14 days.
- D. 141 311 1 June. Letter to like effect, giving 14 days longer time to show 27 412 why the sequestration should be continued.
  - 12 Juno. On Selwood's request, judgment to be given this day 27 416 fortnight.
    3 July. Order for letter to the Commissioners for London. 28 9
  - 3 July. Order for letter to the Commissioners for London, 28 Middlesex, and Herts to discharge the estate, and allow Selwood all arrears still unreceived.

Lessee of the Estate of - SHELDON, Co. Northampton.

13 Oct. 1653. Confirmation to EDWARD and JOHN BAGSHAW of a 25 225 lease for 7 years, at 1161. 13s. 4d., of <sup>2</sup>/<sub>3</sub> of the estate, co. Northampton, sequestered from Sheldon.

14 Oct. 1653. WILLIAM PATRICKSON, Weddicar, Cumberland.

- Col. John Ponsonby, of Hale, petitions for Patrickson that he 112 489 compounded with the Commissioners sitting at Newcastle, and in 1651 paid his fine of 54l. 17s., but they refuse to discharge the sequestration without order, whereby petitioner, who has purchased the estate, is much injured. Begs discharge unless some later delinquency be charged against Patrickson; and if so, a copy of the charge, and leave for him to make his defence. Noted that the County Committee are to give petitioner the heads of the charge against Patrickson, and to allow him to examine witnesses.
- 24 Feb. 1654. Pensonby's petition renewed. Bought the estate in 143 202 1652, but being in the State's service, went to Ireland, and now on his return is molested in his possession by the County Commissioners, on pretence of under-value in the composition. Having forthwith to go on his Highness' service to Ireland, begs to enjoy this small estate on security, pending enquiry, as he did not know, when he bought it, that it was not free from sequestration.

ROBERT JENKINSON, his son and heir, petitions that his father, in 1642, settled houses in Fleet Street on himself, entailing them on petitioner; but the late Connty Committee of London, on bare information that his father was in arms against Parliament, sequestered the houses in 1643, though they lived in Oxfordshire, and their estate there was never sequestered. Thos. Child, who [married Sir Robert's daughter? and] had an 8 years' lease of the house from 1642, held it, by order of the Committee for Compounding, till 1650, since which petitioner has held it, his father being long since dead; but lately the London Committee have questioned his title. Begs an order to the Commissioners of London and Oxon to certify, and reference to counsel. |           | 1935           |    |

Notts, granted by King Charles in 1636 to Sir Wm. Courteen, Ald. Sir Rob. Cambell, Charles Harbord, and 3 other patentees, who by direction of Sir Corn. Vermuyden and John Gibbon, granted them to Edw. Nicholas and Wm. —, as security for 500l due from Gibbon to petitioner; but Gibbon has unduly received part of the rents, and the Committee for Compounding, not knowing of petitioner's claim, have assigned the rest. | 92                                       | 719         |

| R.C.C. 27 7                  | 13 July. Thos. Salvin, infant, by Edw. Colston and Mary Hodgson, his guardians, begs discharge of sequestration, and leave to refer to Chancery his claim to a debt of 500l., on bond of 1,000l., from the mayor, &c., of Newcastle-on-Tyne, settled by his grandmother, Rebecca Salvin, on his father Thomas, on his marriage with Susan Hodgson, reserving to herself a life interest only. Thomas, son of Sir Thos. Horsley, who has married Rebecca Salvin, a granddaughter, holds the bond and claims the debt, and on plea of the recusancy of Reb. Salvin, sen., has obtained an order to seize it, \(\frac{3}{3}\) helonging to the State. | 115        | 703        |
|                              | 13 July. Wm. Collingwood and Gilbert Crouch remonstrate against an order granted to Rebecca Horsley, in the name of Rebecca Salvin, widow, to levy 2,500%. on the estate of Sir H. Anderson, as due by bond and statute to Rebecca Salvin, recusant, and discovered by Mrs. Horsley, Crouch claiming the moneys due from Sir Henry by statute, and Collingwood those due by bond.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 7 6 | 36         |

|     |               |                              | 25 July. Sir H. Anderson petitions the Committee for Compounding. Being prisoner in the Upper Bench, hears that on 5 and 18 July, they ordered his estate to be sequestered for a pretended debt to Rebecca Salvin, and discovered by her. Denies the pretended debt, which was discovered by — Clark, long ago; whereas Mrs. Salvin's order only relates to debts discovered by herself. The sequestration is laid on against all law and practice, execution being issued before any hearing. Begs leave to plead to the cause, examine witnesses, and have a just and legal trial. | 63   | 317   |
|     |               |                              | 25 July. On Anderson's request, the order to levy a debt pretended to be due from him to Mrs. Salvin stayed.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 27   | 94    |
|     |               |                              | 25 July. L. Sayer pleads that he does not owe the debt, forThos. Horsley demanded it from him long ago by assignmentfrom Mrs. Salvin. Could not raise the money, being in theAct of Sale, and had to give new security to avoid imprisonment.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 115  | 137   |
|     |               |                              | 25 July. The debt to be levied, and remain in the County Committee's hands, pending judgment; but if Sayer give security for the amount, he may have stay of levying, and return of what has been levied.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 27   | 101   |

|                                                 | 2 Dec. 1653. Begs not to be disturbed in possession of his estate. Ralph Whitskill, his grandfather, in 1621 conveyed a tenement and lands in Hembrough, co. York, to trustees, to the use of himself for life, with remainder to Ralph his son, petitioner's father, and shortly after died; the father then entered thereon, and on his death, petitioner as eldest son became seized of it; but being very young, one Thomas Robinson got possession thereof, and of the deed of settlement.  At petitioner's coming of age, Robinson delivered up possession of the estate, and promised to deliver up the deed of entail, &c., declaring himself that it was petitioner's right, and that his mother had no right to any part of the estate; has exhibited a bill in Chancery against Robinson for the said writings, and for wastes in the houses, so he now sets on foot another deed of entail, pretended to be made by the grandfather in 1629, settling the lands on himself for life, and then on petitioner's father and mother for their lives, &c. The mother being a recusant, Robinson would thus entitle the Committee to \frac{3}{2}. Begs that Robinson may be compelled to produce the earlier deed. |                         | 198                      |

| L.c.c. \ 131 5011.& p. \ -519c. 33 360     | 14 Dec. 1653. Thos. Williams petitions that in 16 Charles, Phil. 131  Kemp, John Webb, and Ann Fortescne, demised to him for 2001.  and rent of 301., their lease for the life of Anne of the said manor, which he redemised to Anne at 461. rent, and it was sequestered for her recusancy. She having paid her rent, they have forborne to take possession and discharge the sequestration, but as recusants estates are now to be disposed of, and it may be taken as her estate, he begs to prove their title to it, and meanwhile to suffer no loss by the sale or disposal of the estates to Ann or any other.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |   |

Shepheed, 143 of Ipswich, beg discharge of $\frac{3}{3}$ of messuages, lands, &c., in Witnesam and Westerfield, the reversion of which was granted 29 Sept. 1650, for 400l. to Clement Higham by Thos. Sherman, to whom they went from his father, John Sherman, since dead. Thomas Sherman, 6 April 1653, released all his estate in the premises to Clement Higham. John Sherman, by his will, dated 20 Nov. 1651, gave all his lands in Witnesham to be sold by his executors within 1 year of his decease, and the money divided amongst his younger sons. |

Moore, and 2 other trustees for Richard 100 7d and Edward, sons, and Jane, Mary, Margery, Margaret, and Katherine, daughters of John Molineux, beg leave to prove their title to the Old Gore, co. Lancaster, leased to John Molineux in 1639 by Richard, Lord Molineux, for the lives of John, Margaret his wife, and Richard, their son, in reversion after the 10 years of their unexpired lease for John's brothers and sisters, during the life of Eliz. Molineux, widow, and of the said Margaret, for maintenance of John's younger children, and 50l. a year beside to the eldest son. John Molineux died 4 years since, and petitioners have enjoyed the rents since, but they are now questioned for his delinquency. | 33       |

|                           | 22 Dec. 1653. Complains that on information that he, a recusant convict, had an estate in fee in Broad Marston, Somerset, of 25L a year chief-rent, and 2L 10s. a year in possession, he was ordered to appear and shew cause why \( \frac{3}{2} \) thereof should not be paid into the Treasury for the Commonwealth. Appeared and confessed that he had the aforesaid estate, which was bought in the names of John and Robert Hunt. By order of 20 December, they were required to shew cause why \( \frac{3}{2} \) thereof should not be sequestered. Petitioner now begs to compound for the said chief-rents on the Act of 21 Oct. 1653. |           | 504105 |
