|                                                         | [3] Feb. 1653. John Howell begs allowance of his claim to two messuages and lands in Cheam and Ewell, Surrey, which Barth. Fromond, in 1628, demised for 99 years at 6d. rent to Dorothy Fromond, who, 20 Nov. 1628, re-demised them to him for 98 years, at 16l. rent, with proviso of re-entry for non-payment. Dorothy Fromond is dead, and Wm. Fromond, her administrator, assigned all his interest therein to petitioner, yet the premises being sequestered for her recusancy, he cannot enter for non-payment of rent. |            | 229                 |

He was "invested into the rectory" by Ferdinando, Lord Fairfax, in Dec. 1645, and established therein by the Committee for Plundered Ministers in 1647. Wood was sequestered 21 Aug. 1645 by the standing Committee of York as a scandalous and malignant minister, and procured the said order by misinformation. His estate was sequestered in 1645 by the standing Committee of York, on information and the examination of only one witness, and so remained 2 years, to the undoing of his family and 5 younger brothers and sisters, to whom he owes 500l. portions. In 1646, on appeal to the Committee for Sequestrations, he had several orders for the County Commissioners to examine, but they would only examine the witnesses for the State, and so the Barons of Exchequer, though not judging him sequestrable, would not discharge the sequestration.  Appealed then to the Committee for Compounding, who appointed him a hearing, but as he had appealed to the Barons of Exchequer, suspended proceedings, and referred him to them, and now they have no power. Petitioned the late Parliament, but owing to its dissolution, the petition was not read. Begs an order to the Committee for Compounding to determine the cause, and detention of the tithes in the parishioners' hands meantime. With reference thereon to the Committee for Compounding. | 137       | 46                                        |

Complains that his whole estate has lately been taken over his head by —— Swaine, and begs that the lease may not be confirmed. Was sequestered as a delinquent, though 70 years old, concerning a train-band horse forced from him in the beginning of the war by the Earl of Cumberland. Has appealed against sequestration, and his cause is ready for hearing before the Barons of Exchequer. Is likely to be turned out of his mansion-house, his only place of habitation, and has a great charge of children and grandchildren. Will give security for the rents. | 131       | 275               |

|                                                  | MATILDA IRTON, his widow, petitions the County Committee to free her estate, she being left with a charge of small children, and her husband greatly indebted. He had but an estate for life, the remainder in herself. With note by the County Committee certifying her husband's death in November 1650, and referring her to the Committee for Compounding.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 95       | 484        |
|                                                  | 11 Feb 1651. She begs discharge, with arrears of profits from her husband's death, of the rectory of Isell, &c., which,—after a long Chancery suit between her husband and herself, plaintiffs, and Wm. Lawson and Wilfrid, now Sir Wilfrid Lawson, and others, defendants,—was decreed I Charles to plaintiffs for life; the Lawsons were also to pay to their use 1,580l., and lands to be purchased therewith, to be settled upon them for life, and entailed on their son, &c. A messuage in Threlkeld and lands were accordingly purchased of John (now Sir John) Lowther, and so settled, but all the said premises are sequestered for delinquency of her husband, who is dead. | 95       | 482        |

The 342 soldiers petition the Council of State for payment of the 2,500l. unpaid of the 3,000l. ordered them, and of 7,534l. 2s. 8d. due to them in additition to the 3,000l. In pursuance of the Parliament Order of 7 Aug. 1648, they entered the names of divers concealed delinquents, which would have yielded more than 3,000l.; but being in service in Scotland, and the way of discoveries tedions, they have only received 500l., most of which has been spent in prosecution. In Jan. 1652, the Committee for Compounding, on their discovery, adjudged one Richardson a delinquent. His composition would have amounted to 1,400l., but by reason of the Act of Oblivion, they were deprived of that and other discoveries. | 135                                      | 239245       |

He petitions the Committee for relief on Articles of War, for an order to the Committee for Compounding to be admitted to compound on Cxford Articles for an estate of 201. a year in Bryn y Voile, co. Merioneth, in the last Act for Sale, fallen to him by the death of his mother in 1647, and not sequestered till May 1650, the Committee for Compounding new denying him admission thereto.  Was allewed, by certificate of the Lord-General, on the surrender of Oxford, to go beyond seas within six months, in pursuance whereof he obtained the Speaker's pass in Aug. 1646, to embark at Rye or Dover, which he did. Has since lived in France in prosecution of some studies, without connection with any opponent of the Commonwealth. Begs stay of sale. | 135        | 589        |

| c. 117 1167                | 5 March 1651. VINCENT SMITH begs to be continued tenant of a farm, fulling mills, and lands in Kelways, Wilts, from which, after being tenant nearly 20 years to Thomas and Robt. Long, he has been ejected, they being of the King's party, and petitioner having suffered damage to the amount of 1,000%. through their means, for his affection to Parliament. They have not compounded, nor are able to satisfy petitioner for his losses. | 117 | 1166      |

| L.C.C. 158 69             | 4 Feb. 1652. THE PARISHIONERS OF GOODNESTONE petition that their ministers have had for many years 40 marks a year from Goodnestone Rectory,—20 from a fee-farm rent paid by Art. Squibb, and 20, the gift of Sir Edw. Engham and Mr. Vanner, owners of the impropriation,—paid by Wm. Proud, who purchased it of Vanner, and after his death, by Ann, widow of Sarles Proud, son of Wm. Proud, who is guardian to Ann and Dorothy, his daughters and co-heirs; but the estate being sequestered, the minister, John Hunt, has been preaching unpaid for 7 years, and they are like to lose him. Beg continuance of the salary till the sequestration is discharged. | 89       | 137         |

| L c.c. \ 147 405                           | 3 June. Order on his petition (missing) that the County Committee examine and certify whether the late Capt. Thos. Bavand was ever sequestered in his lifetime, and give notice to Anne, his widow and administratrix, and to Joseph Bruen of Chester, named in the petition, to show cause why the 100l. owed on bond by Grafton to Bruen, for which Grafton is now a prisoner, should not be paid to the use of the State, as it seems due to the State by the delinquency of Thos. |                                            | Thomas, petition that their father being a delinquent, died in 1644, and left them without livelihood. Their guardian has lately discovered a saltwork in Nantwich, detained from them by Wm. Grafton, on pretence of purchase from their father. They will have to sue for it, but it is seized as Grafton's land for a debt due to the State. They beg discharge on the Act of Pardon, as the saltworks were never sequestered, and allowance of the profits on security till the case is determined by law.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |             |            |

|                                            | 4 Feb. 1651. The father complains to Col. Fras. West of the false accusations of Thos. Pike and other malignants against him and his sons, though he suffered loss of estate and blood in the King's time, and was often accused of high treason before Sir Rich. Grenville, Sir Fras. Bassett, and other King's commissioners, but was delivered by Lord Fairfax. The rebellion began in the plague time. When that was stayed, he went to Bodmin and St. Ives, and told the justices, but they would not interfere. He joined Waller with his sons, and at the rebellion in Penzance, was seized and confiscated for refusing to pay 3001. Details of hardships and sufferings in Parliament's cause. Col. Have manifested their good affection to Parliament and the present Government eminently, as Col. Bennett, a pions man, fearing God, Col. Desborough and others have certified; yet some, maliciously bent, who were both in the first and second wars, have sworn false things against them, whereby they are now lately sequestered. |                                 | 5 Feb. 1651. The County Committee to certify who formerly repaired the bridge, whether any of the houses named be the mansion-house, and whether petitioner is sequestered for recusancy only.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 10  | 386          |
| L.c.c. 166 27                   | 25 June. He moves that the County Committee may certify the yearly value of his and his mother's estates, \( \frac{3}{4} \) of which are sequestered for their recusancy, and that on return thereof, the Committee for Compounding may grant a lease to their use for seven years to Sir Thomas Barker, of Hardingham, co. Norfolk, and Robert Ward, Lombard Street, merchant.                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 121 | 609          |
|                                 | 9 July. He complains of the great decay of the houses on his estate,through the neglect of tenants, and begs an effectual order forrepairs, and to be admitted tenant for seven years; alsobegs consideration of the return from the County Committeetouching repairs.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 121 | 614          |
|                                 | 9 July. The County Committee having returned a certificate concerning the bridge and mansion-houses, he begs that the same may be received, and speedy course taken for repair, not only of the bridge, but of the houses omitted in the former order.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 121 | 611          |
|                                 | 9 July. The County Committee are required to assign to petitionerhis mansion-house, if he is only a recusant; to take care ofneedful repairs, to view and survey the estate, and return its trueyearly value, and to proceed in letting it according to instruc-tions. As to the bridge, they are to pay ont of the sequestered$\frac{3}{2}$ of his estate $\frac{3}{2}$ of the charges for repairs, and to see that whatmoney should be paid by the country towards maintaining thebridge is carefully collected.                                        | 14  | 197199   |
| L.c.c. 121 622625169 25 | 10 Dec. The County Committee having returned a certificate according to the order of 9 July, Tasburgh begs that it may be read, that his mansion-house may be repaired, and that he may rent the 3 of his estates. Noted, "No order herein till the former proceedings are produced."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 121 | 616621   |
|                                 | 25 Feb. 1652. Petition of 9 July 1651 renewed. [Both petitions are also signed by Lettice Tasburgh.]                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 121 | 613          |
|                                 | 25 Feb. |                                 | 7 April. Petitioner is to have liberty to fell growing timber forrepairs of his mansion-house, and to cut wood for burningbricks, not injuring the tenants.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 16  | 269          |
|                                 | 7 April. He states that the County Commissioners certify that the repairs of his farms will cost 200L, and his mansion-house 300L, which they cannot allow out of the rent; and as by the Committee's license for timber, he "in some sort may be enabled towards the repair of his said mansion-house" to prevent decay, he begs an order of allowance and that his estate may be posted, and he allowed to recommend a tenant for the unlet parts.                                                                                                                                      |     | 623          |
|                                 | 17 Jan. 1654. Suffolk, begs confirmation of her offer of 53l. a year for a messnage and lands in Homersfield and Flixton, within South Elmham Manor, of which she and her husband have for 16 years been tenants to Dame Lettice Tashurgh and Charles her son, but which were sequestered 7 years ago by the late Committee for Advance of Money.  On 14 April 1562, at a Court held at Homersfield for the said manor by Wm. Henby, Steward of the State and Agent for Sequestrations, after proclamation was made by the crier, she delivered in her offer with the rest; but when the Steward had broken open the papers, and declared her offer to be the highest, one Stannard, of St. Nicholas, proffered 54l. a year. Though Stannard was not then allowed by the Steward, he has since given petitioner warning to leave the farm at Michaelmas. Begs to enjoy the farm 12 months without molestation. | 110 1061                                    |

|                        |     | [6] Feb. 1651. SIR ROBERT KING complains that though he has bought and paid for Brewood Manor, co. Stafford, he is not-withstanding deprived of part of the rent by those tenants to whom the State rents it. [Peter] Gifford, of Chillington, the immediate tenant to the Bishop of Coventry, is a Papist in arms. Begs to be righted as to his claim to a brace of bucks and a brace of does yearly, and as to preservation of game; the tenant is bound by his lease to keep the game fair, and petitioner is to allow timber for maintenance of the pale, but there are now no deer at all in the park, which is ploughed up, &c. | 96  | 313   |

|                                      | 12 Feb. 1651. Roger Sudall, of Preston, co. Lancaster, begs 121 discharge of, or inquiry into his claim to houses and lands in Alston, Thornley-cum-Wheatley, &c., demised 22 James by Thos. Duddell, of Alston,—on his marriage with his wife Jane, who brought him cattle and money,—to trustees for himself for life, and ½ to Jane for her life, with reversion of both halves to his heirs by her, or to his heirs, and then to Wm. Duddell of Alston, and the eldest of his issue. Thomas died without issue, and Jane married Thos. Grimshaw, for whose delinquency and recusancy ½ the premises are sequestered. Jane being now dead, and petitioner having married Grace, the only daughter of Wm. Duddell, the premises ought to come to him. |

|                             | 12 Feb. 1651. Wm. Soundy, of Caversham, co. Oxford, begs con-118 569 firmation of a lease by Edward Sheldon and Ralph his son, of lands in Caversham. The County Committee have not only sequestered the rent for Ralph Sheldon's recusancy, but taking no notice of the said lease, have demised the whole estate to a stranger, and endeavour to dispossess petitioner.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                             | 12 Feb. The County Committee to certify 14 2  16 March 1652. The 5 sons and 2 daughters of Ralph Shellow 116 1061 beg allowance of their title to Cauldon Grange and other lands, co. Stafford, sold by their father, who was "much indebted and improvident," to his younger brother, Gilbert Sheldon, D.D.; he declared they should be for the benefit of petitioners, and in 1638 settled them in trust, charging them with portions of 600l. for the daughters, but with power of revocation; and later he settled them on himself and his heirs, in trust for mainte- nance, binding apprentice, or other preferment of the children, and the profits have been employed accordingly. Though information was given that the estate was Dr. Sheldon's, and he a delinquent, yet on examination the County Commissioners took no proceedings; but on some new misinformation, they have lately questioned the same.  16 March. Thomas Aiscough complains that since his father petitioned, and had a report, which was sent to the County Committee for York, to certify the yearly value of the estate, his father's name is in the last Act for Sale, and adjudged forfeit to the State; his own interest in the premises is much concerned thereby, as according to the deed, they would devolve on him in a few months. He begs a revival of the proceedings on the former petition.                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 64        | 481               |

ROBERT, son of ALLAN AISCOUGH, petitions that his grandfather, by will in 1626, left annuities of 201. on his estate in Skewsby to each of the 3 younger sons of his son Allan, but the estate being sequestered for his father's delinquency, the County Committee on general instructions now refuse to pay the annuities without an order, which he requests to avoid ruin; has suffered much by plunder and imprisonment of the enemy.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 64        | 477               |

The County Commissioners send up depositions to prove that the father was on the King's side, and called the Parliament party rogues, and that the son was a notorious enemy to Parliament, rode as a captain of horse for the King on a horse bought by the father, and was in action, and conveyed ammunition to Columb Honse, Cornwall.  Commissioners think some corruption has kept them so long undiscovered, and report John and Hum. Sprague as discoverers. | CHRISTOPHER HERRIS, Much Baddow, Essex.  14 Feb. 1651. Compounds, not being sequestered, for delinquency 222 476 in the late wars.  R. 222 474  R. 222 474  22 July. Fine at \(\frac{1}{2}\), ll 12 270 272  WILLIAM ISAAC, Sen. and Jun., Gittisham, Devon.  14 Feb. 1651. The County Commissioners send up depositions to 152 481 prove that the father was on the King's side, and called the Parliament party rogues, and that the son was a notorious 491, 492 enemy to Parliament, rode as a captain of horse for the King on a horse bought by the father, and was in action, and conveyed ammunition to Columb House, Cornwall. The County Commissioners think some corruption has kept them so long undiscovered, and report John and Hum. Sprague as discoverers. Noted that any further proof against them is to be sent up, and they to be sequestered in 3 months, unless they prosecute their case before the Committee for Compounding. | 14 Feb. 1651. The County Commissioners send up depositions to 152 481 prove that the father was on the King's side, and called the Parliament party rogues, and that the son was a notorious enemy to Parliament, rode as a captain of horse for the King on a horse bought by the father, and was in action, and con- veyed ammunition to Columb House, Cornwall. The County Commissioners think some corruption has kept them so long undiscovered, and report John and Hum. Sprague as dis- coverers. Noted that any further proof against them is to be sent up, and they to be sequestered in 3 months, unless they prosecute their case before the Committee for Compounding. | L. 30 209L.c.c. 161 61& D64      | 3 March. He complains that although he has paid ½ his fine, and secured the estate, it still remains sequestered for the delinquency of his brother Thomas, who was but tenant for life, and is dead. Begs repayment of money received since his suspension.                                                                                                                                                                             | 131       | 217          |

ALEXANDER and GEORGE FIELDING, executors of George Shaw, of Blackburn, co. Lancaster, petition that in 7 Charles, Radcliffe Houghton [son of Sir Rich. Houghton] demised to Thos. Walmsley and Sir Thomas, his son, Stanworth House, co. Lancaster, and lands in Withnell, for 99 years, or the lives of himself and of Richard and Roger, sons of Sir Gilbert Houghton, in trust for himself for life, and then for payment of his debts, but the estate became sequestered for his delinquency. At his death, he owed 1081 and 101 to George Shaw, and in 1648, on a report on Shaw's petition, the Committee for Sequestrations freed the estate, and they received the profits till it was lately re-sequestered. Shaw being now dead, they beg to receive the profits till the debt is paid. | 86        | 195209                                |

|                                     | 18 Feb. 1651. The County Committee send up depositions taken 171 in 1646 and 1651, to prove that he spoke against the rule of Parliament as arbitrary, refused to aid the militia, had the bells rung to raise the town against Parliament, sent out a horse on the Commission of Array, and helped to raise horses and money, giving 400l. himself for the King. His estate, worth 1,000l. a year, is enjoyed by a cousin, who is heir-at-law. Feb.? Frances Lowe, his widow, petitions that her husband's estate was sequestered for delinquency 1½ years after his death, 6 years ago; she appealed, and was discharged by the Barons of Exchequer, the estate belonging to her. |                                     | Begs an order to gentlemen in the county to examine his case. 6 Last November he went with his small vessel for the herring fishing on the coast of Ireland, having only his fishing materials on board, but was driven by storm on the Isle of Man, and thence reached Liverpool. Then, though he has always been faithful, and served in transporting soldiers to Ireland, by information of one Bromfield, a notorious malignant, he was sequestered for betraying Parliament, and his vessel and goods were seized to the State's use, to the utter loss of himself, wife, and 6 children. Begs restoration of his vessel and goods on security pending examination.                                                                                    | 860          |

|                                              | of the manor and rectory of Frisby, by will of his uncle Nicholas Sharpe, who bequeathed to the vicar of Frisby a yearly legacy of 60 quarters of barley, for 20 years, to be paid out of the estate, provided the vicar yearly purchased therefrom an annuity of 30s., or more if possible, of some corporation; in default, the legacy to cease, and descend to the heirs of Henry Plumtree, of Nottingham, and John Chester, of Blaby. Has been several times distrained, and a suit is now depending in the Common Pleas between petitioner and Huntingdon Plum- tree, M.D., heir to Henry Plumtree. John Helland, vicar of Frisby, was heretofore possessed of the legacy, but some misdemeanours being objected against him, he was suspended from his ministry, and the County Commissioners of Lei- cester have laid claim to the legacy and arrears in petitioner's hands as sequestrable, though it cannot escheat to the State by the vicar's delinquency, but to Plumtree. Begs discharge from the sequestration, and all other molestation, till the suit is settled by law. | 116       | 775                |

|                                | 19 Feb. 1651. John Stevens, of Cannock, Wilts, petitions that the estate of John Onyon was sequestered 4 years since for his recusancy, and being valued at 120l. a year, the \(\frac{3}{2}\) would be 80l. Can prove that the estate is worth 240l., and that 160l. was offered the County Commissioners for the \(\frac{3}{2}\), but through some nuderhand dealing of Onyon, it was not accepted. Begs examination of the premises. | 120       | 100                       |

Bought Bickerton manor and rectory of Henry and Charles Yaxley; on Henry's death, it was sequestered for recusancy of Frances, his widow, but though she is dead, the sequestration continues. Charles now claims right to the premises, whereas he has only right to the unpaid purchase-money. Begs hearing and discharge of sequestration. | 71                                       | 333               |

|                                             | 12 May 1652. Anne Lawrence, widow, begs to be continued tenant to $\frac{2}{3}$ of Basbies Farm, co. Wilts, held by her husband, and sequestered for recusancy of the Countess of Rutland, at 60l. rent, having agreed with the Countess for her $\frac{1}{3}$. The County Commissioners let it last March to Fras. Allen, who, with a party of soldiers, drove off her cattle, turned her out of doors, and will not allow her to remain in the $\frac{1}{3}$ part let to her by the Countess. They have let the $\frac{2}{3}$ of the farm at 5l. abatement of rent, though she would have paid the 60l. if they would allow needful repairs, which is contrary to their instructions, and a great wrong to an ancient tenant. | 99  | 641        |

Lincoln, pleads that he was admitted tenant last March to \(^2_3\) of the Countess of Rutland's estate in co. Lincoln at the full improved value; finds 200 cettage tenants, many very poor and back in their rents, the estate lying in 4 hundreds, 40 miles apart, so that the collecting of rents is costly, and stock and corn low in price. Begs review and abatement of rent, and allowance for fee-farm rents, and for barley paid to the poor of Tallington.                                                                                                | 81       | 247          |

Worcester, bought of Mary, Lady Blount, who had an estate for life for her jointure, petitioner having a further estate therein; but soldiers have distrained his tenants on pretence that the mills were seized for her recusancy, because she did not appear before the County Committee, according to an Ordinance of Parliament, whereas she left the country and went into Wales; being 80 years old, she cannot take such a journey to abjure, but she was never convicted of recusancy. Has served Parliament faithfully, and is now in service in Ireland. | 70       | 641              |

| L.C.C. 163 598D. 163 599-601P.E. 111 64 | 10 Jan. 1654. Charles Paris complains that Thos. Cubitt, to whom, on 3 Sept. 1651, the County Committee of Norfolk let 3 of his estate at rent of 1201., ploughs and tills the land, contrary to the laws of husbandry in that country, so that it will be worn out before the expiration of his term; also that he neglects the fences, and damages the property. Begs that as Cubit is a man of property, he may make satisfaction, and if either he has forfeited his lease, or the estate was unduly let, that the lease may be voided, and the estate relet according to instructions. | 111142                               | 608529 |

|                                          | 1653? Rob. Pratt petitions that he became tenant in Nov. 1646, at 80l. rent, to lands in Linton, co. Cambridge, sequestered for recusancy of Charles Paris, which he held till Michaelmas last, when his crop was seized for arrears of rent, without abatement for taxes, repairs, &c. Being agent to the Worcester House Trustees for sale of the late King's lands, he cannot go down again to make up his accounts, having been down twice, but put off by the County Commissioners.  Begs that the accounts may be taken by some one in town, and that 2 of his servants, with an agent of the County Commissioners, may thrash and sell his crop, and keep his goods, they receiving only their wages, till he can make up his accounts and pay all that is due. |     | 261             |

|                | 29 Jan. 1653. Andrew and Mary Young petition. Hen. Lawson long since conveyed Scremerston lordship to Rob. Anderton and Thos. Harbottle, in trust for Ralph, eldest son and heir of Sir Wm. Fenwick, and his issue male, with remainder to the other sons of Sir William, and in default thereof, to his daughters. The male issue being all dead, the estate came to Catherine, Mary, and Dorothy, his daughters; but after the death of his sons, Sir William concealed the estato from his daughters, and allowed it to be sequestered for delinquency with his own estate. |     | 60                   |

|                                                      | 18 March. The County Committee of Notts certify that he has an lestate in Toton worth 400l. a year, in right of Lady Mary, his wife, widow of Sir John Stanhope. John Gell, son and heir of Sir John, has produced a deed of 19 Feb. 1648, whereby Sir John demised the manor of Toton, &c., to trustees, for payment, first of 800l. to John Milward, of Snitterton, co. Derby, with interest, then of all his debts, and then of 1,500l. a-piece to Katherine and Elizabeth, his daughters, and then to such use as he, Sir John Gell, should appoint.                                                                                               | 51              | 239                               |
|                                                      | 24 March. The County Committee of Derby certify that John Gell 1 pretends a deed of 11 Car., whereby the estate was settled in him, reserving to his father a small annuity for life. This deed was produced in the late proceedings upon a process from the Exchequer to the sheriff, to inquire what estate Sir John was seized of. The deed was made upon occasion of some words given out concerning the late King, for which he feared to be questioned, and it has lain dormant ever since. Sir John enjoyed the estate till 7 years ago, when his son married, and the estate was settled in him, reserving 1,100% a year to Sir John for life. | 51              | 235                               |

| D. 67 54195 776,748, 777        | 29 June. He remonstrates against this. In 1637, he took a farm with 600 sheep of Thomas Bennett, of Babraham, at the rent of 400l., on bond in 800l. to deliver it up to his landlord if required. In 1648, for his supposed delinquency, the sheep were driven away, and he constrained to pay 30l., and to enter into a bond for such further sum as they were valued at, though they were not his, but his landlord's who, for 700l. arrears of rent, entered on the estate.  During his composition, he had to give a bond that his estate should not be embezzled. After paying his fine, on his discharge, the County Committee delivered to him the latter bond, saying that they could not find the bond for 463l., but that the latter included it, and that no damage should accrue to petitioner thereby; yet they have now, by order of the Committee for Compounding, seized his estate for his first bond, which he bega may be delivered to him. |           | 763793             |

|                                  | 18 March 1651. Order that his estate, including what he had by his wife Anne, daughter and heir of Paul, 2nd Viscount Bayning, be sequestered at the instance of the Council of State.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 14              | 49         |
|                                  | 27 March. The London County Commissioners required to seize and secure a moiety of the late Lord Bayning's estate in Mark Lane, or elsewhere in the City, for the delinquency of the Earl of Oxford, who married one of his daughters and co-heirs, and to sequester the said moiety, if the Earl show not cause within 6 weeks. With like order to the County Committee for Essex.                                                               | 14              | 6968   |
|                                  | 5 June. On the Earl's motion for a copy of the charge against him, it is ordered to be prepared, and he may have 6 weeks for his defence, and the rents on security.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 14108       | 151395 |
|                                  | 3 Aug. 1652. The charge being for acts since the change of government, the Committee for Compounding consider that the Earl is not within the Act for Pardon.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 30              | 260        |
| c. 33 333108 397             | 28 Oct. 1653. The Earl complains of the stay of his rents in the City, on pretence that he is a delinquent. THOMAS AVENT, Plympton, Devon. 21 March 1651.

Depositions to prove that under Sir Rich. Grenville, he collected moneys for the King by force, sent to prison those who refused to pay the rates, and said the late King suffered unjustly, but a day would come when Prince Charles would requite all.

| c. 111 655                                                  | Feb. 1653? George Prater complains that in 1645 the late King made a garrison of his father's house, he living there because he had no other abode, but not taking up arms. The estate was sequestered for delinquency of his father, who died 2 years ago, and petitioner is returned a Papist in arms, which he never was. Begs examination, and if he be proved no delinquent, leave to compound for \(\frac{1}{5}\) of his estate.                                                                    | 111 | 657        |

| с. 32 169        | 27 Jan. Bruncard begs the benefit of the Act of Oblivion, and full discharge of all delinquency, that he may enjoy the said lease and his estate. On reference of the case of his lease to the Revenue Committee, they referred it to the Clerk of the Pipe and others, to certify as to the lease and arrears. On their certificate, the case was referred to the Attorney General and 3 others, who certify that he is entitled to the lease [but not to the surveyorship of the issues, that being an office, and Bruncard's delinquency unfitting him for office]; the Revenue Committee thereon referred the case to the Committee for Compounding. | 72                                      | 453          |

|                  | 26 March 1651. Thos. Walker, of London, begs discharge of houses on the Bankside, to which John Luntley was tenant in reversion after the late Bishop of Winchester. In 1638, Luntley sold his reversion, and the lease, by several assignments, came to petitioner's hands, yet the County Committee of Surrey, being informed that Luntley was once interested in the premises, sequestered the rents from the tenants, for payment of 1001. as Luntley's fine for delinquency. Luntley was never possessed of the lease, except in reversion.                                                                                                         | 128                                     | 364          |

John Santhey, barrister, of Gray's Inn, guardian to George Selby, his son, petitions that, the infant—being heirat-law to the late Sir George Selby,—Whitehouse and Slatgold mansions, and ether lands, co. Durham, late in jointure to Dame Marg. Selby, came to him. Wm. Selby died 14 years since, Sir George 26 years, and Lady Margaret ½ a year ago. Has brought up the infant a Protestant, and well-affected, but the County Committee have sequestered the estate a quarter of a year since, on pretence that his mother, Eliz. Selby, is educating him a Papist. Begs leave to prove that he is not liable to sequestration, and an order to the County Committee to certify the cause of sequestration, the rents remaining in the tenants' hands meanwhile. |            | 483489        |

|                    | 10 April 1651. Begs discharge of his estate. Was sequestered by the Committee at Robertsbridge, Sussex, for some marine offence, for which he was long a prisoner in the common goal, to the undoing of himself and his motherless children. Was lately released on subscribing the engagement. By reason of extreme poverty, is unable to compound. Has only 3 or 4 small tenements, now uninhabited. With certificates in favour by Thomas Brooks, Wm. Parker, mayor, and Thos. Smith, minister, of Hastings, and 5 jurates. Noted that if he will come in within the time, he may compound if he will. |      | 743744 |

Marr, wife of John Errington, petitions that by her marriage articles in 1630, and an indenture in 1640, her husband made over lands in trust for 80 years to Sir Wm. Lister, MajGen. Lambert, and others, for maintenance of her and her children, for their portions, and for a payment of 80. a year for these uses. Received the annuity during Lister's life, but since his death 2 years ago, it has been sequestered for her husband's delinquency. Begs an order for examination and relief, wanting maintenance for herself and 12 children; on her husband's death, the 801. will go to his eldest son by a former marriage. |          | 993              |

Reference to Reading of their petition (missing) 14 88  GARRISON OF HOLY ISLAND, Co. Durham.  18 April 1651. Petition of 43 officers and soldiers, and 2 of their 239 vidows to the County Committee for Durham, to give way that they may receive their pay of Wm. Brewen, who paid them so well last year, according to the Ordinance of Parliament granted to them.  Wanting their pay for a long time, they applied to Parliament, who appointed that the accounts should be stated in London, and passed an Ordinance for payment of the money out of the estate of Sir Thos. Haggerston, till 1,450l. was fully paid; but for four years they only received 140l. of Mr. Barges, the times being troublesome. In 1649 they were well paid by Brewen, and received nearly 300l., which was a good supply to them in their great need, but last Martinmas the County Committee stopped payment of any more money, which will be their utter ruin.  18 April. | GARRISON OF HOLY ISLAND, Co. Durham.  18 April 1651. Petition of 43 officers and soldiers, and 2 of their 239 vidows, to the County Committee for Durham, to give way that they may receive their pay of Wm. Brewen, who paid them so well last year, according to the Ordinance of Parliament granted to them.  Wanting their pay for a long time, they applied to Parliament, who appointed that the accounts should be stated in London, and passed an Ordinance for payment of the money ont of the estate of Sir Thoa. Haggerston, till 1,4301. was fully paid; but for four years they only received 1401. of Mr. Burges, the times being troublesome. In 1649 they were well paid by Brewen, and received nearly 3001., which was a good supply to them in their great need, but last Martinmas the County Committee stopped payment of any more money, which will be their utter ruin.  18 April. Derby, begs allowance of his title to the lot and cope of the Dovegang, part of the lead mines of Wirksworth. King James, by patent under the Duchy [of Lancaster] Seal, granted to Robert Parker at 721. rent the lead mines in Wirksworth, with the lot and cope therein, for 31 years, from Lady-day 1623, which lease was assigned 27 Nov., 13 Car., to Thomas Cooke, of Gray's Inn, who in 13 Car. granted the lot and cope, † and barmaster's place of the Dovegang, parcel of the premises, for all his said term to Sir Cornelius Vermuyden, at the rent of 2001. a year. Sir Cornelius assigned his interest to petitioner, but divers suits having arisen between him and Cooke, it was agreed that Cooke should receive half of the lot and all the cope, in lieu of the said rent for the lot and cope of the Dovegang, sequestered for Cooke's delinquency. | 126       | 533541 |

He is to have possession of the lead mines, lot and cope, and barmaster's place of the Dovegang, on security in 5,000l. to be responsible for what part shall be adjudged to belong to the Commonwealth; and he is to produce all his acquittances for rent paid. The 200l. a year which he was to pay to Cooke is to be paid to the Commonwealth from the time of Cooke's sequestration, and from the time of his grant whilst the Dovegang mine was wrought, nuless he can shew that he paid the same before. He is to have liberty to examine witnesses to prove how long it was wrought, and what money was paid for it. By the custom of lead nines, any miner may have a meere [or measure] of unclaimed ground, 29 yards long, to work for his own profit, paying the 13th dish † and cope, which is 6d. for every 9 dishes, to the lords of the soke, and now to the State. They state that they have taken their meeres in Dovegang plot, now Sir Robt. Heath and Sir Cornelius Vermuyden's, but before paid lot and cope to Thos. Cooke, now sequestered. Being disturbed by Heath and Vermuyden, and John Malanus, they beg that Fras. † The lot, or 13th dish, in the Derbyshire lead mines belonged to the King; the cope was a tribute paid to the lord of the manor, for smelting lead at his mill.

Vol. No. 23 April 1651. THOMAS COOKE—cont. G or p. 19 Aug. 1651. Further time of 8 days granted to Vermuyden to 14 260 examine witnesses. 25 Sept. Contradictory evidence as to the time of working being given,—two witnesses awearing that the Dovegang was 32 not wrought at all from 1638 to 1642, nor from 1645 to 1651, but that what ore was raised was out of the cross rakes, by rakes and steltches near the mine,—the County Committee are to examine whether the sole of the mine was wrought between the years aforesaid, and what profits were made of the lot and cope since 1658; if it he not proved that the sole was wrought between the said years, Vermuyden is not to be troubled about the arrears. Half the lot for the summer being certified to be worth 500l., it is ordered, with Vermuyden's consent, that he enjoy the office of barmaster and the half lot, the other half lot being paid to the County Committee, who are to certify its yearly letting value; and if they have received the whole lot since the beginning of the late working, they are to deliver the moiety to Vermuyden. 53 21 Oct. On motion of the County Committee, and by consent of 15 Vermuyden, the Committee for Compounding order that the profits of the barmaster's office, half of the lot and all the cope within the Dovegang, and the plot of the Dovegang, be received for the benefit of the State; the County Committee to appoint the barmaster and steward, and to repay Vermuyden a moiety of the moneys received for the lot, being 1301.; Vermuyden to have the other moiety of the lot. 22 July 1652. Edward Heath, son and heir of Sir Robert 92 518 Heath, deceased, begs restoration of George Hopkinson and Ralph Poyser to their respective place of steward and deputybarmaster of the Dovegang mine. His father-being seized in fee of the said mine, according to the order of the Barmote Court and the law and custom of the mines,-took Sir Cornelius Vermuyden as partner, on agreement that he should have 3 for his charge and skill in soughing and draining. His father's estate and partnership was confirmed by decree of the Duchy Court, on a suit commenced against him and Vermuyden by the Earl of Dover. Two years since, the mine being dry, and promising much profit, Sir Cornelius, when in treaty with petitioner about huying his father's third, swept the whole profits into his purse, and both at the Committee for Removing Obstructions in sale of the late Viscola Land Obstructions in sale of the late King's lands, and in the Duchy Court, cast blemishes on petitioner's title, and labours to destroy it, engrossing the whole mine to himself. As petitioner was intending a speedy trial at the Barmote Court, for regaining his third, he found George Hopkinson, late steward, and Ralph Poyser, late deputy-barmaster, men of known honesty, turned out by the County Committee upon the sequestration of Thos. Cooke, who, as barmaster, had the nomination of the steward and deputy-harmaster, which petitioner con-ceives is done by the contrivance of Sir Cornelius. If they cannot be restored, petitioner begs the Committee for Compounding to nominate some other person to be steward. 22 July. County Committee to certify 24 Sept. The County Committee certify that he and his wife and children lived in Dudley Castle till its surrender; that then they sequestered his estate, on which he sent them a Parliament Order (given) for his discharge, on the ground that at the surrender of the castle, Sir Wm. Brereton agreed that he should be free from sequestration. The late County Committee deny this, and say that Brereton procured that order 2 years later, on contracting for the marriage of his danghter [and heir, Frances] with Lord Ward's son [and heir, Edward Ward].        |            | 447391         |

Sir Humble Ward complains that,—though on a petition presented to Parliament according to the terms of surrender of Dudley Castle, it was ordered, 22 March 1648, that he should be cleared of all sequestration for delinquency, and that he has paid what was imposed upon him at Haberdashers' Hall, and has committed no delinquency since,—warrants are sent to his tenants not to pay him their rents, as though the Parliament Order were insufficient for his discharge. Begs that the seizure be taken off, and directions given to free him from molestation. |            | 389                |

Edward, Lord Dudley, by deeds, 13 and 20 James, demised Swinford Manor to trustees for his daughter Margaret, for 4 and 6 years after his death; he died in Midsummer 1643; Margaret, heing then married to Sir Miles Hobart, he entered on the land, became a delinquent in 1647, and the profits were sequestered for the rest of the 10 years. The petitioners are entitled to the premises by virtue of a deed enrolled in Chancery in 1638, and the leases expired at Midsummer. They beg that the County Committee may certify their case, and counsel report it. Granted.                                                                                         |      | 347365345178 |

| L.c.c. 72 137-140D. 72 137        | 29 April 1651. Leonard Wesham, and 2 others, trustees of CICELY BUTLER, infant, beg leave to prove their title to, and discharge of lands in Myerscough, which Edw. Parkinson settled on them, 7 Charles, on payment of 2001., and on the marriage of Wm. Butler, his grandson, with Alice, sister of Hugh Barton. The premises being transferred to Wm. Butler for life, he became a delinquent, and was slain at the battle of Newhury, leaving only a daughter, Cicely. On his death the premises should have reverted to petitioners for her use, and for raising the 2001.                                                                                                                                                                                        | 72                    | 31135               |

|                                           | 2 Sept. 1652. Enw. Butler begs discharge of sequestration of a house and lands in Myerscough, conveyed by Edw. Parkinson in 1631 to trustees for his own use for 4 years, then ½ for his life to Wm. Butler and Alice his wife, the rest to himself, and to his wife Jane for jointure; and after the decease of Parkinson and Butler ½ to Alice for life, and the remainder to Wm. Butler's heirs male, and to petitioner, and Edmund and Cuthbert his brothers, for want of heirs of Edw. Parkinson; any daughter of Alice's to have 2001. therefrom. Edward and Jane Parkinson died in 1634, and Butler in 1643, leaving an only daughter (Cicely); and thus the premises are fallen to petitioner, but are kept under sequestration for delinquency of Wm. The County Commissioners send up depositions to prove that he acted for the late King, was taken prisoner in 1643 in an encounter, carried to Col. Rosseter, at the headquarters at Glanford Brigg, and retained there some days. With other depositions on Righton's behalf, and certificate of Col. Edw. Rosseter, 19 Dec. 1650, that upon examination, he could not find that Righton was then, or ever had been, in arms against Parliament, and had therefore released him, restored his horse and money, and granted him a ticket for safe passage to his own house.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 239        | 84-86         |

* Omitted from the claimants on the estate, p. 2300, supra. There were two John Sherbornes, one co. Stafford, one co. Lancaster, but it has not been found possible to keep them clear, as the latter made over his estate to the former; they were of "near kindred." [See Report, G 237, No. 153.]

NEWMAN, of the Middle Temple, begs an order for the recovery of 141. 12s. 7d.,—being 12 years' arrears for increased rent from the Earl of Annandale, life-tenant of Worplesdon Manor, co. Surrey, but sequestered for his delinquency—or for leave to enter on the premises as forfeited. The rent was due by patent 4 October, 6 Car., to Sir Charles Harbord, who made a grant thereof to petitioner 1 Aug. 1638.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 107        | 369        |

|                                                 | March? 1652. The EARL OF ANNANDALE petitions the Committee of Parliament for managing affairs in Scotland. He and his late father [John Murray, 1st Earl of Annandale], enjoyed lands in England and Ireland till the late troubles, when, resolving to shun occasions of offence, he lived in a retired way in his own country, but being absent from England, became a prey to informers, and his rents have been seized. Was never in arms, and showed his affection by concurring in the intended union of the nations in one Commonwealth. Begs them to certify his deportment to the Committee for Sequestrations for Cumberland, and to the Lord President of Connanght. |            | 183        |
|                                                 | 9 April, Dalkeith. The Scotch Commissioners, viz., Oliver St. John, Rich. Deane, Rob. Tichborne, and R. Salway, to the County Committee for Cumberland. We do not see anything to bring the Earl under confiscation, he having consented to the tender of union between the Parliaments of England and Scotland. We request relief for him.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 150        | 179        |
|                                                 | 30 April. The Cumberlaud Committee to the Committee for Compounding:—We enclose this petition and letter. Our ground for eccuring the Earl's estates was an Order of Parliament of Aug. 1650, adjudging all the Scottish nation resident there as enemies to the Commonwealth.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 150        | 185        |

| 1 May 1651.                                      | Earl of Annandale, &c.—cont.  11 May 1653. Petition of the Earl for release from sequestration of his manors of Worplesdon and Merestwood, Surrey, and Plumpton, Cumberland. Those in Surrey have long been sequestered, on no other ground than that he absented himself when the honest party took up arms for Parliament, though he could not be reasonably challenged thereon, having no place of abode in the county. Had retired to his native country of Scotland, leaving the care of his affairs to the Earl of Dirleton, whose omissions of duty ought not to be imputed to petitioner.  Appealed in 1652 to the Committee of Parliament of England for managing the affairs of Scotland, who were satisfied that he had never been in arms during the troubles of that nation but had shown his affection for peace by his cheerful subscribing the tender of union. On this, the Committee recommended the discharge of his Cumberland estates. Thinks he should be protected, being willing to promote to his utmost the peace of the two nations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Vol. G 63 | No.or p.587 |

|                         | 3 June. Dame Elizabeth Gerard, now Wenman's wife, and Elizabeth Gerard, her daughter, with Charles Viscount Cullen, Patrick Fitz-Morris Lord Kerry, William Lord Brereton, and Richard Newdigate, their trustees, petition that Dutton Lord Gerard settled lands, co. Lancaster in trust for Lady Gerard and her children, all which in April and May 1643, were by consent of her present husband, before marriage, resettled on trustees for them. By order of the Council of State 15 March last, Wenman's estate was seized, and the County Committee have also seized these lands, and the goods and heir-looms at Ashton Hall, settled by Thomas, Lord Gerard on his heirs for ever. Beg examination of the title, and restoration of the lands and woods to the trustees. | 89       | 435          |
|                         | 3 June. Referred to the County Committee and Brereton -                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 14       | 148          |
|                         | 14 Aug. 1651. Wenman and Lady Gerard both petition for possession of a tenement of which Dorothy Tomlinson, widow, and Thos. Blaze, her son-in-law, were tenants to them, but which became sequestered for the recusancy of Tomlinson, or the delinquency of Blaze, whose estates are determined by the death of the life in being at the time of sequestration, so that the possession belongs to petitioners.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 128      | 261          |

Lincoln, petition that in right of Dame Jane, they are seized for her life of Willoughton Manor, by indenture of 4 Charles; that Hen. Wilse, late vicar of the parish, is sequestered for malignancy, and the County Committee have levied from petitioners 66l. 13s. 4d., pretending it is chargeable on Dame Jane, because Sir William, by an Exchequer decree of 1633, had granted 20l. a year for his life to Wilse; but Jane's estate was settled on her on her marriage by [Nicholas], Viscount Castleton, Sir William's father. Beg not to be further pressed by virtue of the said decree, and to have the money already levied restored. | 65        | 178               |

|                                                    | 1 Oct. Their plea renewed. The estate was settled on trustees for Sir William during his life, and then on Lady Jane as jointure, and her issue male; the suit of Wilse was only against Sir William, who died in 1648, when the lady entered on her jointure, refusing to pay the annuity, but compounding for the arrears due in her husband's lifetime. In 1646, Wilse was ejected by the Committee for Plundered Ministers and so continues, yet the County Committee distrain the estate for the annuity, and have received more than 100l. thereof. Beg discharge of the estate, or receipt of the profits on security pending a hearing, and reference of their title to counsel; also returns of the moneys received.                       | 65        | 150191        |

Worcester], begs discharge of a tenement with lands in Lowston and Rowington, which, by surrender of 8 March 1641, John Bird conveyed to the Lady of the Manor, by John Hunt and Wm. Shakespeire, two customary tenants, for himself and George Skinner, of Shelfield. They are executors of John Bird, and hold the lands in trust for payment of Bird's debts and logacies, and redeemable on payment of 600l., which has not been paid; but now the estate, though only in trust, is sequestered for Barnes' recusancy. | 66170         | 856529                   |

The uncle petitions that \(\frac{2}{3}\) of his small estate, valued at 20l. a year, was sequestered for his recusancy, but he was admitted tenant, till he perceived that some of the County Committee intended to make him a delinquent, whereon he appealed to the Committee for Sequestrations, and on attestation that he never bore arms, enjoyed again part of his estate.  Now he finds that the County Committee think him sequestrable for going to Hereford when a King's garrison, though it was only on business with his father-in-law, and to take physic for his health, and there is no charge of delinquency against him. Begs to have his mansion-house and \(\frac{1}{3}\) of his estate, and for his kinsman, Wm. Floyer, to be tenant to the other \(\frac{3}{3}\). | 86        | 520          |

|                                             | 4 April 1654. The Committee for Compounding sees no cause to disallow the lease, but will consider Floyer's request to have his fine lessened, as he has compounded for the estate at 401. 6s. 6d., and it is only let at 38l.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 27         | 21                |
| L.C.C. 163 4243                         | 18 July. On Floyer's request, an order (missing) of 20 June, forthe County Committee to send up the counterpart of the leaseto Maderne, reinforced.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 2 7 | 93                |
| р. 86 513                                   | 3 Oct. Floyer again begs avoidance of the lease. The order to allow it was on a mistaken statement that the rent was 38L, whereas it is only 25L. Believes that the lease which names 30L rent has been altered, as there are several erasures and interlineations in it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 86         | 512               |

The Warden and Fellows petition, stating that they leased ½ of Stillington and Seaton Carew manors for 21 years, with clause of re-entry on non-payment of rent, to Rich. Hartborne, who died in 1644, much in arrears of rent. That his widow neither paying rent nor arrears, they forfeited the lease, and granted a new one to Thos. Barnes, who has assigned his interest therein to Geo. Meynell. That on Dorothy's recusancy, ¾ of the sequestered estate were granted to Emanuel Southgate, who suffers the mansion-house to go to ruin, and cuts down the woods. They beg discharge of sequestration, as her interest has long since expired. |            | 289               |

Dr. Holmes appeals to the Committee for Compounding, as his landlords, to maintain his doorway passage into the house against — Walton, who blocks it up with reams of paper and books, so that he is prevented getting tenants.                                                                                                                                                                         | 89        | 1021               |
|                                | 13 April. The passage not to be blocked, or Walton to appear and show cause why it is so.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 16        | 295                |
|                                | 4 May. Holmes complains that his former grievance not being redressed, Wm. Legate has been emboldened to open a door in the foreyard of the house, pretending that it is his. Begs examination of his and Walton's titles, lest petitioner be disabled from paying his rent.                                                                                                                                       | 89        | 1029               |
|                                | 4 May. Roe replies to the order for delivery of the bonds, that when the said order was served upon him he, being very weak and sick, sent a messenger to the County Committee with his reasons for non-compliance, and his desires to have a hearing before the Committee for Compounding. Has two bills for sums due from Moyle, not originally lent to him, which he compounded for 2 years before Moyle made his pretended discovery of them. Prays benefit of the Act of Pardon, and a day for hearing, giving Moyle, who is in Cornwall, time to appear.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 114       | 367        |
| NOTE 96 662c. 207 633                     | 5 April. Kellond petitions the Protector. Moyle being indebted to him by bond in 500l. in 1646, on pretence of petitioner's being a delinquent, made show of paying in the said sum to the Committee of Cornwall, himself being chairman, and obtained an acquittance from the treasuror, as if he had really paid it in, but without summoning petitioner, or hearing so much as a charge of delinquency against him. Two years after, being threatened with a charge of delinquency, and fearing the malice of his covetous adversary, petitioner, though innocent, compounded with the Committee for Compounding, and paid his fine, and had a saving for his debt to Moyle, who, by misinformation, procured an order of the House in 1651, that petitioner should deliver up his bond, so as to defeat him of his just right, and the State of the fine.  Addressed the late Parliament through Ald. Ireton, but nothing could be done by reason of its dissolution. Begs an order to the Committee for Compounding to examine whether there was any information of delinquency upon oath against him before the County Committee of Cornwall. Asks the time when Moyle pretended to pay his debt to the treasurer, whether any money was paid, and how much; if they find no charge nor money paid, he prays the benefit of his saving, and acceptance of his fine for the said debt.
