Autumnal Time.

BY ISAAC McLELLAN.

Now in celestial robes are drest,
The fair Autumnal skies;
Magnificent in royal pomp,
Rich with resplendent dyes;
When all the blended glories,
That flush the arch'd rainbow,
Along the sunset heavens
In rare effulgence glow,
Each form and hue of beauty,
And each enchanting grace,
On cloud, on stream, on forest,
And mountain top I trace;
In woods, the regal maples
Wear each a diadem;
The oaks are strung with jewels,
Each color'd leaf a gem.

With wreaths and chaplets garlanded,
The bending woodlands stand;
All radiant as the garlands,
In the enchanted land;
Waving all its flaunting banners,
Fair the landscape beams,
Fair as that celestial country,
In the fairy land of dreams.
Dropping fruits from laden orchards
Stain with ripen'd wealth the ground;
All the woods around are vocal
With the children's joyous sound;
Reapers in the harvest fields
Bind the rustling sheaves of grain;
And the golden Indian corn,
Heaps the loaded wain.
Now the cider-press its nectar
Poureth in a constant tide,
Now the purple grapes are gather'd
By the rushing river's tide;
From the dusty threshing floor
Sounds loud the busy flail,
And the moonlight nights are joyous
With the dance and tale.

O, merry Autumn! with thy days
So gloriously bright!
Thy rosy dawns, thy dewy eves,
Thy harvest moons at night;
Methinks in all the varied year,
There's no such happy time,
As when the gay autumnal days
Are in their maturest prime.

A Stage Driver's Adventure.

Fourteen years ago, I drove from Danbury to Littleton, Massachusetts a distance of forty-two miles, and as I had to await the arrival of two or three coaches, I did not start until after dinner, so I very often had a good distance to drive after dark. It was in the dead of winter, and the season had been a tough one. A great deal of snow had fallen, and the drifts were plenty and deep. The mail that I carried was not due at Littleton by the contract until one o'clock in the morning; but that winter the postmaster was very often obliged to sit up a little later than that for me.

One day in January, when I drove up for my mail at Danbury, the postmaster called me into his office.

"Pete," said he, with an important, serious look, "there are some pretty heavy money packages in that bag," and he pointed to the mail bag as he spoke. He said the money was from Boston for some land agents up near the Canada line.— Then he asked me if I had got any passengers through to Littleton. I told him I did not know. "But suppose I have not?" said I.

"Why," said he, "the agent of the lower route came in to-day, and he says that there have been two suspicious characters on the stage that came up last night, and he suspects that they have an eye on the mail, so that it will stand you in hand to be a little careful."

He said the agent had described one of them as a short, thick-set fellow, about forty years of age, with long hair, and a thick, heavy clump of beard under the chin, but none on the side of his face.— He didn't know anything about the other. I told the old fellow I guessed there was not much danger.

"Oh no, not if you have got passengers though; but I only told you of this so that you might look out for the mail, and look out for it when you change horses."

I answered that I should do so, and then took the bag under my arm, and left the office. I stowed my mail under my seat a little more careful than usual, placing it so that I could get my feet against it; but beyond this I did not feel any concern. It was past one when I started, and I had four passengers, two of whom only rode to my first stopping place. I reached Gowan's Mills at dark, where we stopped for supper, and where my other two passengers concluded to stop for the night.

About six o'clock in the evening I left Gowan's Mills alone, having two horses and a pung.

I had seventeen miles to go—and a hard seventeen miles it was too. The night was quite clear, but the sharp wind was cold, while the drifts were deep and closely packed. It was slow, tedious work, and my horses soon became weary and restive. At the distance of six miles I came on to a settlement, called Bull's Corner, where I took fresh horses. I had been two hours going that distance. Just as I was going to start, a man came up and asked me if I was going through to Littleton. I told him I should go through if the thing could possibly be done. He said he was very anxious to go, and as he had no baggage, I told him to jump on, and make himself as comfortable as possible. I was taking up my lines when the hostler came out and asked me if I knew one of horses had cut himself badly. I jumped out and went with him, and found that one of the animals had got a deep cork cut on the off fore foot. I gave such directions as I thought necessary and was about to turn away when the hostler remarked that he thought I came alone. I told him I did.

"Then where did you get that passenger?" said he.

"He's just got in," I answered.
"Got in from where?"
"I don't know."

"Well, now," said the hostler, "that's kind of curious. There ain't no such man been at the house, and I know there ain't been none at any of the neighbors."
"Let's have a look at his face," said I.
"We can get that much at any rate. Do you go back with me, and when I get into the pung, just hold the lantern so the light will shine in his face."

He did as I wished, and as I stepped into the pung I got a fair view of such portions of his face as were not muffled up. I saw a short, thick frame, full, hard features; and I could also see that there was a heavy beard under his chin. I thought of the man whom the Postmaster had described to me; but I didn't think seriously upon it until I had started. Perhaps I had gone half a mile, when I noticed that the mail bag wasn't in its place under my feet.

"Hello," said I, holding up my horses a little, "where's my mail?"
My passenger sat on the seat behind me, and I turned towards him.

"Here is a bag of some kind, slipped back under my feet," he said, giving it a kick, as though he'd shoved it forward.

Just at this moment my horses lumbered into a deep snow drift, and I was forced to get out and tread down the snow ahead of them, and lead them through.

This took me all of fifteen minutes, and when I got in again I pulled the mail bag forward and got my feet upon it. As I was doing this I saw the man take something from his lap and put it in his breast pocket. At this I thought was a pistol I had caught the gleam of the barrel in the starlight, and when I had time to reflect I knew I could not be mistaken.

About this time I began to think somewhat seriously. From what I had heard and seen, I soon made up my mind that the individual behind me not only meant to rob the mail, but he was prepared to rob me of my life. If I resisted him he would shoot me, and perhaps he meant to perform that delectable operation at any rate. While I was pondering, the horses plunged into another snow drift, and I was again forced to get out and tread down the snow before them. I asked my passenger if he would help me, but he said that he did not feel very well, and would not try; so I worked alone, and was all of a quarter of an hour getting my team through the drifts. When I got into the sleigh again I began to feel for the mail bag with my feet. I found it where I had left it; but when I attempted to withdraw my foot, I discovered that it had become entangled in something— I thought it the buffalo, and tried to kick it clear; but the more I kicked, the more closely it was held. I reached down my hand, and after feeling about a few moments, I found that my foot was in the mail bag. I felt again, and found my hand among the packages of letters and papers. I ran my fingers over the edges of the opening, and became assured that the stout leather had been cut with a knife.

Here was a discovery, and I began to wish I had taken a little more forethought before leaving Danbury, but as I knew that making such wishes was only a waste of time, I quickly began to consider what I had best do under existing circumstances. I wasn't long in making up my mind upon a few essential points. First, the man behind me was a villain; second, he cut open the mail bag and robbed it of some valuable matter (he must have known the money letters by their size and shape); third, he meant to leave the stage on the first opportunity; and fourthly, he was prepared to shoot me if I attempted to arrest or detain him.

I revolved these matters over in my mind, and pretty soon I thought of a course to pursue. I knew if I would get my hands safely upon the rascal, I must take him unawares, and this I could not do while he was behind me; for his eyes were upon me all the time; so I must resort to stratagem. Only a little ahead was a house; an old farmer by the name of Lougee lived there, and directly before which was a large snow bank stretched across the road, through which a track for sleighs had been cleared with shovels.

As we approached the cut, I saw a light in the front room, as I felt confident I should, for the old man generally sat up until after the stage went by. I drove on, and when nearly opposite the dwelling stood up as I had done when approaching the difficult places. I saw the snow bank ahead, and could distinguish the deep cut which had been shoveled through it. I urged my horses to a good speed, and when near the bank forced them into it. One of runners mounted the edge of the bank, afterwards the other ran into the cut, thus throwing the sleigh over about as quick as though lightning had struck it. My passenger had not calculated on any such movement, and wasn't prepared for it; but I had calculated and was prepared. He rolled out into the deep snow, with a heavy buffalo robe about him, while I lighted upon my feet directly on top of him.— I punched his head into the snow, and then sang out for Lougee. I did not have to call a second time, for the farmer had come to the window to see me pass, and as soon as he saw my sleigh overturned, he had lighted his lantern and hurried out.

"What's to pay?" asked the old man, as he came up.
"Lead the horses into the track, and then come here," said I.

As I spoke, I partially loosened my hold upon the villain's throat, and he drew a pistol from his bosom; but I saw it in season, and jammed his head into the snow again, and got the weapon away from him. By this time Lougee had led the horses out and came back, and I explained the matter to him in as few words as possible. We hauled the rascal out into the road, and upon examination, we found about twenty packages of letters which he had stolen from the mail bag, and stowed away in his pocket.

He swore, and threatened, and prayed—but we paid no attention to his blarney. Lougee got some cord, and when we had securely bound the villain, we tumbled him into the pung. I asked the old man if he would accompany me to Littleton, and he said "of course." So he got his overcoat and muffler, and ere long we started on.

I reached the end of my route with my mail all safe, though not as snug as it might have been, and my mail bag the worse for the game that had been played upon it. However, the mail robber was secure, and within a week he was identified by some officers from Concord, as an old offender, and I am rather inclined to think that he is in the State prison at the present moment. At any rate, he was there the last I heard of him.

That's the only time that I ever had any mail trouble, and I think under all circumstances I came out of it pretty decently.

A BACHELOR IN A BAD WAY.—The following appears as an advertisement in the New York Herald:

"A bachelor Doctor and Apothecary, just arrived in New York from California, wishes to return, with a faithful wife, to the most beautiful part of that country, where, owing to the want of such a one, he was robbed, whilst visiting a patient, of a pretty nice fortune, accumulated in a brief space of time through his knowledge of all languages spoken by the mixed nations there. Must not be too young, yet kind and of a pleasing appearance, he being thirty-two, and having, as far as he is told, these attributes himself.— No money wanted, but just enough to help cover the heavy traveling expenses, his funds for building up again being now very small; although, by the help of Providence and his own self, he means to be rich enough again in three years' time. State confidently where an interview may be had by addressing Erastus, Herald office, New York. If ever there was an honest advertisement, this is one."

THE MAGIC WELL OF BARENTON.—The peasants still bring there sickly children to be cured, and say that the well is especially powerful in cases of fever. You say, "Ris, ris! Fontaine de Barenton," dropping a pin the while into the spring, whereupon it breaks into ripples and bubbles; if it laughs, you are to be fortunate; if it remains mute, you will be unlucky. Tradition and poesy both say the water fizzes round a sword point, but we had nothing but pins to try it with and to these it responded gaily. When the country was in great want of rain, a procession was formed to the fountain, and the priest dipped the foot of the cross out of the church into the water, after which rain was sure to fall abundantly. This ceremony has been successful very lately. The peasants believe the priest can punish them by sprinkling water from the spring on the large stone, the perron of Merin above the well, which brings rain throughout the whole parish for many days.—[Wanderings in Brittany.]

The young lady who caught a gentleman's eye is requested to return it.

THE CALIFORNIA LAND SALES.—One of the chief glories of the United States is in her public land system, through the operation of which any industrious and deserving member of society, and even the refugee fresh from the monopolized acres of Europe, may become with inconsiderable expense the proprietor of a farm or a homestead, and ultimately, by the natural rise of property in a new country, a man of wealth, and perhaps a representative of the people. It may be safely assumed that a majority of our public men and not a few of our statesmen, have sprung from the pioneer settlers of our public lands, and in later times, especially, have themselves been foremost in promoting the settlement of the borders. Nothing is calculated so rapidly to develop man's innate resources of mind and character as to render him independent, and nothing will so soon render him independent as to make him proprietor of the soil from which he derives his subsistence. All the older States have based a great part of their prosperity upon our Land System; the new States are absolutely the fruits of its creation, and the Pacific Coast is yet to reap its share of the benefits. In June next, according to Presidential proclamation, and unless Mr. Yancey should prevent, some three and three-quarter millions of public lands will be sold in this State. These lands cover some of the best agricultural districts of California, much of them lying in the valleys of San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers and their tributaries, having ample supply of water and being well timbered, with a soil capable of producing almost every variety of crops. We hope the business may be so managed as to shut out the speculators and throw these lands into the hands of those who will improve them.—Evening Mirror.

A FRIEND in Louisiana, of the legal persuasion, writes to an exchange in this wise:

I feel myself indebted to the paper in a much larger sum than I am able to pay; but I will try to meet the interest. A man who had never seen the inside of a court house until he was introduced as a witness in a case pending in one of our District Courts sitting last Fall in the northern part of the State, being sworn, took a position with his back to the Jury, and began telling his story to the Judge. Judge R—n, in his bland and courteous manner, said:

"Address yourself to the Jury, sir."
The man made a short pause; but not comprehending what was said to him, continued his narrative. His Honor was then more explicit, and said to him:

"Speak to the Jury, sir—the men sitting behind you on the benches."
The witness then turned around and making an awkward bow, said, with great gravity of manner:

"Good morning, gentlemen!"

GRAPHIC.—The other day a boy came tearing round a corner, with his rags fluttering in the wind; his face smeared with molasses, and a shingle flourishing in his hand, while he was shouting to another boy, about the size of a pepper box, who stood nearly a quarter of a mile down the street.—"Oh! Bill, Bill, Bill, —get as many boys as you can, and as many shingles as ever you can, for there's a big hogbit of lasses busted on the pavement—busted all to smash!"

CHANGE OF LAW AS TO WILLS.—The Legislature of New York passed a law that no person having a husband, wife, child, or parent, shall, by will, give more than half of his property to any "benevolent, charitable, literary, scientific, religious, or missionary society, association, or corporation, in trust, or otherwise. Any gift of more than one-half is void as to the excess above one-half.—[New York Paper.]

An old doctor said that people who were prompt in their payments always recovered in their sickness, as they were good customers, and physicians could not afford to lose them.

"MR. CONDUCTOR," asked a railroad passenger, "are we running on time to-day?" "No, sir, we are running for cash."

DOUGLAS JORROLD calls woman's arms, "the serpents that wind about a man's neck, killing his best resolutions."

Quip says there is many a woman strong enough to hold a fractious horse, who cannot hold her tongue.

Why is a horse the most miserable of animals? Because his thoughts are always on the "rack."

MANY a man keeps on drinking till he hasn't a coat to his back nor yet to his stomach.

"SONNY, dear, you have a very dirty face." "Can't help it marm, dad's black republican."

DELINQUENT TAX LIST.—With this number we issue a supplement containing the delinquent tax payers of this County.

WE understand that General Winn, of Sutter County, is a Candidate for Sergeant at Arms for the next Assembly.

BRICK BUILDINGS.—During the last four months seven large brick buildings have been erected in this place.

NEXT week we shall lay before our readers the full report of the County Treasurer to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, for the last year.—Mr. Brooks, the County Treasurer will please except our thanks for the report.

WE would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in to-day's paper of George G. Briggs' Grand Vocal and Dramatic Entertainment, to come off at the Marysville Theater, on Saturday, January 5th, 1861. Tickets only $2 00, with the chance of drawing a prize valued at $210,000. Tickets can be obtained by applying to Thomas & Brownell, who are the Agents for Knight's Landing.

REAL HAVANA CIGARS.—We are under many obligations to Messrs Greenhood & Co., corner of J and Second sts., Sacramento, for a box of fine Havana Cigars (la Villa de Gijon). They are a fine quality and any of our friends who are judges can call and partake of the luxury so long as they last, and judge for themselves. The bearer will also except our thanks.

GRAND JURY.—The Court of Sessions will meet December 3d to elect Associate Justices, and on the 4th the Grand Jury will be empanelled. The following named gentlemen were drawn as Grand Jurors: J. V. Hoag, Harry Murphy, Jesse Clark, Jacob Criss, C. Nelson, James M. Kennedy, David Clanton, Frank S. Freeman, W. J. Campbell, Russ Day, James T. Lillard, Ambrose Burton, John G. Bower, C. W. Lewis, T. J. Dexter, and Jesse Dodge.

YOLO RACES.—During the past week's racing at the fine track of Messrs. Morrison & Combs there were no races worth reporting, either for "time" or the character of the racing stock present. Langford, the only remarkably fine horse on the ground, was so entirely disabled from appearing for any purse, by either bad taining or worse "luck." It is the opinion of good judges that this fleetest four-miler in the State is so permanently injured that his owner will perhaps withdraw him from the turf.

LAND CASES.—In the U. S. District Court, on Saturday, the mandate of the U. S. Supreme Court was ordered to be filled in the case of the claim of Robert F. Stockton to Potrero de Santa Clara. The mandate orders the appeal to be dismissed in favor of the claimant.

In the claim of Charles M. Weber to Campo de los Franceses, a motion to set aside the survey last made was argued and submitted.

In the claim of C. J. Brennan and others to Llano Seco, an order was entered allowing certain original deeds to be withdrawn for the purpose of having them recorded.

THE SUTTER LAND CLAIM.—The claim of John A. Sutter to New Helvetia, was called up in the U. S. District Court, on Monday last, and an order entered allowing all parties interested until the 15th of December to close the proofs. After that day any party may move the Court to fix a day for the hearing of the cause.

MINT STATISTICS.—The weekly report of the Mint gives the amount of gold deposited during the last week as $180,000. The amount of coinage was $140,000 in double eagles and $8,000 in half dollars.

DAMAGES OF AN UPSET.—O. P. Stidger, who was hurt dreadfully by the overturning of a coach, sued the California Stage Company for damages, and recovered $16,000 by award of arbitrators.

Admiral Norton, of the Mexican Navy, (the young American who distinguished himself in Mazatlan and vicinity about a year ago,) arrived from San Blas on Wednesday last, in San Francisco.

Major Scott, United States Army, died at the Oriental Hotel, San Francisco, on Thursday last.

Arrival of the Pony Express!

Dates to November 10th.

The Elections.

ST. LOUIS, November 9th.—There is not much additional election news. Maryland has gone for Breckinridge by a small plurality. Virginia is still in doubt. Nothing further from Georgia. Bell has probably carried Tennessee, though it is still considered doubtful. Kentucky certain for Bell. The Montgomery Mail, of to-day, claims Alabama for Breckinridge by ten thousand.

From Louisiana there are few returns. Bell is a little ahead, though the State is supposed to have gone for Breckinridge. There is nothing from Texas or Florida. In Arkansas Breckinridge is ahead, and has undoubtedly carried the State. South Carolina has elected Breckinridge electors.

North Carolina has gone for Breckinridge. The fusion majority in New Jersey is not known.

Missouri is so close between Bell and Douglas that it is impossible to tell who has the State. The chances appear favorable to Bell.

The Republicans gain one Congressman in Wisconsin, and one in Michigan. Pennington is certainly defeated in New Jersey, and Fisher is elected in Delaware.

The Illinois delegation is unchanged. The Republicans have eleven majority on joint ballot in the Illinois Legislature.

The Governor of Pennsylvania has issued a proclamation declaring Lehman elected to Congress from the First District. Byerly, who perpetrated the fraud in that district, has been sentenced to two years and a half imprisonment and $300 fine.

Later from St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, November 10th—12 P. M.—The pluralities of Breckinridge are, in Maryland, 300; Louisiana, 3,000; Georgia and Mississippi, large; in Virginia, small.

Bell has carried Tennessee by 2,000 majority, and is ahead in Missouri. Lincoln's majority in Illinois is 15,000.

TWO DAYS STILL LATER.

Resignation of U. S. Senators!

ST. LOUIS (via Fort Kearny), Nov. 12—9 A. M.—In the South Carolina Legislature, on the 10th November, the Speaker announced the resignation of Mr. Chesnut, United States Senator. A member offered a resolution that the resignation be accepted as an act of loyalty to the State. The Committee on Federal Relations reported an amendment to Senate bill calling for a Convention, and fixing operations in December instead of January. It was discussed, and passed unanimously. The Senate concurred unanimously in the amendment.

A member offered a resolution that the Governor be empowered to raise ten thousand volunteers, which will be considered to-day.

Toombs, of Georgia, had resigned, and in the Legislature, on the 9th, a motion to proceed to the election of United States Senator was laid on the table for the present.

A bill was introduced taxing the manufactured articles of Massachusetts, etc; also, preventing the citizens of the offending States suing in the Courts of Georgia. Adjourned till to-day.

On Saturday, a meeting was held at Augusta, at which the Mayor presided. Resolutions protesting against the expulsion of citizens without trial, and in favor of law and order were adopted. At night a rampant secession meeting was held, and violent speeches made. A delegation of minute men were appointed to attend the Montgomery Convention at Milledgeville on Saturday. Military companies, fully equipped, tendered their services to the Governor.

A dispatch says that the citizens of Mobile are opposed to secession, but nine-tenths of the people of the country are for disunion. A plan for secession will be organized this week. The Governor, Judiciary, both Senators and all the Congressmen, but one, are for disunion. An immediate Convention has been determined upon. Minute men are now organizing and moving for an extra session of the Legislature.

An attempt at Philadelphia to form the Republican Clubs into a posse to support Lincoln in the Presidential chair has been defeated. Resolutions expressing good will to all sections were adopted. One Ward Club tenders its services for the inauguration, and opposes any interference of Southern Minute men.

An immense run has been made on the Charleston banks, and a specie bill has been passed by the Legislature to protect them.

PRESENTATION.—Jerry Gray, one of the proprietors of the Sacramento Union, was presented with a handsome gold-headed cane by the printers of Sacramento, on the 17th inst.

A LONG RIDE BY RAIL.—There is now a continuous chain of railroad from Bangor to New Orleans, composed of eighteen independent roads, costing in the aggregate for 2,244 miles of road $50,354,084, or nearly one-tenth of the whole railway system in the United States.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22, 1860.

Since my last the city has been remarkably quiet. The Presidential election being over and the result ascertained, it would seem as if all classes were making up by industry what they had lost by electioneering. As our Legislature is soon to meet, there are plenty of applicants for all the offices already, and probably many more will come forward and offer to render the State some service.

But it seems to me that those who ask for positions from the Assembly are asking what their friends have not the ability to give. When the election returns commenced coming in, it was claimed that the Douglas Democrats had elected majorities of the Senate and Assembly; but it has since appeared that while the Douglas Democrats have not a majority of the Assembly of the 78 elected there are 37 Douglas Democrats, 21 Breckinridge, and 20 Republicans, and one Assemblyman to hear from, which will probably be for Breckinridge. This will not give a Douglas majority; besides, I think it is altogether probable that three Republicans will contest the seats of the three Douglas Assemblymen from Placer county, and with considerable show of justice.

It seems that in one precinct in Placer county, Horse Shoe Bar, twelve more votes were returned than there were voters on the poll-list. The rejection of the vote of this precinct would have elected three Republican Assemblymen, a Senator, and their county officers. It is possible that the courts would decide that the Supervisors of that county acted legally in counting the vote as returned, but the courts can have nothing to say about the election of Assemblymen, as that body is the sole judge in the matter.

If, then, these seats are contested, it seems to me safe to say that the Breckinridge Democrats will vote to cut down the Douglas strength in that body, and of course the Republicans will do the same, and if that is done, which I think it will be, the next Assembly will stand—34 Douglas, 22 Breckinridge, and 23 Republicans, which will leave the Douglas Democrats powerless in that body.

A Douglas Democrat is returned elected in San Bernardino, whose seat, it is stated, will be contested on the grounds that frauds were perpetrated at the election. And I think it very doubtful about the Douglasites being able to organize the Assembly with the aid of these votes, and if they lose four members afterwards, they will hardly be able to elect whomsoever they please to the United States Senate.

The Union and Bee are both after County Supervisor Henley with a sharp stick, for the action of the latter in an official capacity in relation to the Agricultural Pavilion. He is accused of trying to line his pockets to the tune of about six thousand dollars at the expense of the county.

Richard R. Magill, a clerk in the Controller's office, was thrown from a carriage in this city on Tuesday evening, and so severely injured the back of his skull that derangement ensued, and while in this condition, Magill shot and killed himself.

George Simmons, charged with having, by the aid of one Crozier, murdered the two men whose bodies were found in the slough near Benson's Ferry a few months since was brought to this city on Tuesday in the custody of Sheriff Bullock, of Placer County. Simmons had been arrested in Placer County for highway robbery, and by turning State's evidence, got clear of that charge. He is now in the county jail.

Professor Whitney, appointed by the last Legislature to make a geological survey of the State, arrived on the last steamer and reached this city on Tuesday last, and will immediately enter upon his explorations, commencing, it is said, in San Bernardino County. California presents the grandest field for the geologist of any State in the Union, and she has done well to obtain the services of so distinguished a scholar in that department as Professor Whitney.

This morning the outgoing Pony took one hundred and thirty-five letters from San Francisco and thirty-three from this city.

Speaking of the Pony, reminds me of an effort being started in Nevada by the agent, which was to visit all the prominent citizens and solicit them to send one letter a month, in order to keep the Pony going through the winter. If every considerable town in the State were canvassed in this manner, sufficient aid might be secured to make the Pony a paying institution.

Business seems to thrive here just now. The levee is crowded with goods, while J street is alive with teams. It is evident that the interior counties are laying in their supplies of goods for the winter.

The most prominent candidate for United States Senator seems to be Edmund Randolph, of San Francisco.

Yours, P.

School Census.

We are indebted to Mr. Henry Gaddis, Superintendent of Public Schools, for the following:

The census returns of District No 1 (Yolo City), made by Mr. W. J. Johnson to the Superintendent of Public Schools, show that there are in that district 136 children between the ages of 4 and 18 years; boys 73, girls 62; under 4 years 57; between 18 and 21 years, 4; born in California, 90; deaf and dumb, 3.

Mr. M. A. Woods, Census Marshal of District No. 4 (Cottonwood), reports that the district contains 161 children between 4 and 18 years; boys 86, girls 65; under 4 years, 87; between 18 and 21 years, 4; born in California, 102; deaf and dumb, 1.

District No. 12 (Grand Island) reports 35 children between the ages of 4 and 18 years; boys 19, girls 16; under 4 years, 16; between 18 and 21 years, 2; born in California, 15.

The entire number of children in the County, between the ages of 4 and 18 years, (the basis upon which the Public School Funds are apportioned) is as follows:

District No. 1, 136; District No. 2, 110; District No. 3, 116; District No. 4, 151; District No. 5, 66; District No. 6, 33; District No. 7, 67; District No. 8, 30; District No. 9, 69; District No. 10, 83; District No. 11, 49; District No. 12, 35; District No. 13, 76; District No. 14, 37. Total, $1,058.

The returns exhibit an aggregate increase of 122 school children over the census of last year. The number of children in the County, under 4 years of age, is 518; between 18 and 21 years, 50; deaf and dumb, 4; born in California, 738; total number under 21 years, 1,626. The above enumeration does not include Fremont township, in which no Public School organization has hitherto been recognized.

FATAL AFFRAY AT VISALIA.

The following telegram was received by L. C. Baker, of the Mercantile Agency in San Francisco:

VISALIA, Nov. 19—2 P. M.

Shannon, editor of the Visalia (Tulare Co.) Delta, attacked William Gouverneur Morris, (well known in San Francisco,) beat him over the head, and left him on the floor senseless. Morris recovered and followed Shannon to the street, where four shots were exchanged. Morris shot Shannon through the body, who died in twenty minutes. Morris was acquitted by the Justice of the Peace before whom he was taken.

THE AMOUNT OF LAND.—The amount of land the United States Government has for sale is almost incalculable. All the people of fourteen States and five Territories derive their title to their land from the Federal Government, and the records and files evincing the inception of their rights are preserved in the General Land Office at Washington. The public domain now covers a surface, exclusive of water, of 1,450,000,000 acres. The Government has sold about 120,000,000 acres of land during the last quarter of a century for less than $150,000,000.

DEATHS.

At Knight's Landing, November 21, after an illness of 16 days of putrid sore throat, William Davis, only child of John W. and Mary L. Tuttle, aged 10 months and 17 days. [Boston papers please copy.]

THE Knight's Landing News.
POETRY.

Saturday Night.
This week is past, its latest ray
Is vanished with the closing day;
And 'tis as far beyond our grasp,
As now departed hour of clasp,
As to recall the moments bright
When first creation sprung to light.
The week has past! If it has brought
Some beams of sweet and soothing thought,
If it has left some memory dear
Of heavenly raptures tasted here,
It has not winged its flight in vain,
Although it ne'er return again.

Parental Advice.
They tell a very good story at the expense of a rich merchant of Marseilles and a very clever young man, a clerk of his, who had secretly fallen in love with the old man's daughter, but without any chance of winning her, as he thought.—The old gentleman noticed that he was growing thin and pale, and began to question as to the reason.
"It is some love affair, I fancy."
"I give you my word, sir."
"Tut, tut," said the old man. "I have an eye in my head—I can see through a mill-stone as far as any other man. Besides, your blushes betray you, my boy. Well, well, boys will be boys."
"What, sir!" gasped the agitated clerk; "do you know—"
"Do I know? why it's the old story. She is the fairest of the fair, etc., and you are afraid to ask her hand in marriage."
"I dare not, sir."
"Yes, I understand; rich father—proud as Lucifer, and all that sort of thing. But you're wide awake—eh?—You know what to do. Perhaps I'll help you for I can't afford to lose your services—and you're pining to a shadow. It'll take money; but as far as a couple of thousand goes, my boy, I'm your man! And he slapped the young fellow on the back in a very encouraging manner. "I tell you," he added, "I was as poor as a church mouse myself when I began life."
"I thank you, sir, but your kindness is thrown away. She I love is far above me."
"I dare say; but in my time young fellows were not cast down for a trifle.—In my day, when there was a crusty old fellow in the way, we summoned him to surrender. If he was obstinate, we ran away with the girl—a coach-and-four, and no stopping place short of Hymen."
For many days the same conversation was renewed under different forms. The young man could not make up his mind to speak out, for his employer was a terrible old fellow, proud as Lucifer, and thought his daughter a match for an Emperor. To declare himself would be to be kicked out of doors incontinently.—But the advice to carry off the young lady, persisted in day by day, began to produce an effect on the young quill driver's mind.
"Sir," said he to his patron, "I can't hold out any longer; I've a great mind to follow your advice."
"Bravo! spoken like a lad of spirit. I'll get another clerk to do your work, and you may make your honey-moon as long as you like. My dear fellow, I'm rejoiced to see you acting like a man.—You marry the girl and her old booby of a father will come round fast enough, I'll warrant you. I wish you all the happiness in the world. But, by the way, how are you off for money? An elopement is an expensive affair."
"I have saved up a little something, sir."
"Pooh, pooh! what are your savings? A mere pinch on a journey. Here, my boy—here's a thousand crowns; you are heartily welcome to them. Have you engaged a carriage?"
"I thought of taking the railroad."
"Pshaw! you'll spoil everything.—How absurd it would be to use a public conveyance with a thousand eyes on you. You shall have my carryall."
"A thousand thanks sir."
So the clerk took his master's carriage, money and daughter. When the old man found out who was the bride, of course he stormed and raved and used bad language, as old gentlemen are apt to do in a passion; but as it was all his own doings, he finally "came round," and his son-in-law is now a partner in the house.

DRY NUTS.—Why is a gun like a jack mule?
Because it goes off after you have loaded it.
When is a pugilist's eye like a cider keg?
When it is bunged up.
When does a bell know everything?
When it is tolled.
Why are our fingers particularly reliable in case of breakage?
Because they are always on hand with nails.
When is a wine bibber like a newly arrived vessel?
When he goes into port.
What town should tobacco chewers live in?
Spithead.
Why can no quadruped enter a city garden?
Because there can never be more than three feet in a yard.

GREELY, of the New York Tribune, says that California alone could supply the people of England with all the grain they might require in the event of a failure of their crops.
