STEVENS IGNORANT OF FACTS, MANSON REPLIES CALMLY

Attorney-General Asks Him to Apologize for Latest, Hasty "Charge"

Dawson Calls Vancouver Member's Attack "Brainstorm"

Attorney-General Manson today gave out a statement accusing the Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P. of Vancouver of "launching a charge without a true knowledge of the facts" in reply to the attack made yesterday on him by Mr. Stevens in connection with the settlement of the $7,000 claim of Col. Griffen against the government arising out of work done on the South Okanagan irrigation project.

"The matter first came to my attention," said Mr. Manson, "early in June, when Col. Griffen and his solicitor, J. A. Campbell, interviewed me in my office. I knew absolutely nothing in regard to the case at that time, and I treated it purely as a matter of routine. It was intimated that a flat was desired to sue the government, and that if a settlement could not be effected an application for a fiat was the next logical step.

"I called in the Deputy Attorney-General and discussed with him the principle that should prevail in issuing flats in such cases, and he agreed with me that in every case where an applicant had a prima facie case a fiat should issue in the absence of a settlement.

"A few days later the petition for a fiat came to me through the Deputy Minister of Lands, to whom it had been forwarded by the Deputy Provincial Secretary, and on the same day I wrote to my colleague, the Minister of Lands, telling him that I had the petition, and suggesting to him that he should have the Comptroller of Water Rights at once lay the facts before the Deputy Attorney-General, so that the Executive Council might have the advantage of that official's opinion when the matter came before the Council, and I suggested further that there should be no delay.

Partially Well Prepared.

"I heard absolutely not one more word with regard to the matter until a wife was received at Nelson which was there, September 29, telling me that the payment of the cheque to Col. Griffen had been held up by the Comptroller-General pending the formal approval of the settlement by the department. On my return to Victoria I at once went into the matter with the Deputy Attorney-General, with the result that the necessary approval was given and the settlement was made.

"I know nothing of Col. Griffen's conversations with my colleague, Mr. Pattullo, in connection with the case, however, that Mr. Pattullo was well able to take care of himself with regard to any insinuations that may be made by Mr. Stevens or anyone else.

"May I add that had a previous application for a fiat by any other firm of solicitors, Liberal or Conservative, reached my office as at Nelson which was there, September 29, telling me that the payment of the cheque to Col. Griffen had been held up by the Comptroller-General pending the formal approval of the settlement by the department. On my return to Victoria I at once went into the matter with the Deputy Attorney-General, with the result that the necessary approval was given and the settlement was made.

MAY SIGN PACT IN SWITZERLAND

Paris, Oct. 14.—It now seems probable that the Near Eastern Peace Conference will be held in Switzerland, in either Geneva or Lausanne, about November 15. The Turks, of course, desire to have the Conference held in Turkey, while the Italians wish to hold it in Italy, but Great Britain has refused to approve the selection of any place in Turkey, while Greece objects to either Turkey or Italy.

French are indifferent as to the location of the Conference, so that the choice of a city satisfactory both as regards housing accommodations and political conditions is to be narrowed down to Switzerland.

VANCOUVER CLOSES ALL BEER CLUBS IN POLICE DRIVE

Liquor Clean-up Follows Prodding from Attorney-General

Armed Patrol Flying Squad After Bootleggers and Criminals

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Every beer club in Vancouver closed following police action.

"My inspectors report that you cannot get a glass of beer in any club to-day to save your neck," said Chief of Police Anderson and a tour of the beer clubs which have been running practically wide open beats this out.

The action is part of the clean-up of the city which is to go ahead until, as Chief Anderson says, "the city is rid of undesirable."

The closing down of the beer clubs is said to have followed letters between civic officials and the Attorney-General's department, and in case of necessity the provincial police services are said to have been called upon. Chief Anderson declared that his own men are sufficient to handle the situation.

The drive started on Thursday. That the police mean business was realized by the club proprietors, and orders already placed with vendors were cancelled, and the drive is to be continued until the clubs are entirely out of action.

Seattle Chasing Criminals Out.

A campaign against the "dope" traffic recently inaugurated in Seattle by the Elks and the American Legion is said to be bringing a number of criminally inclined men, but under the new regulations every incoming boat and train is to be met, and the police have orders to arrest and detain every one who will be of any suspicious character.

Pointing out that an armed patrol is needed to go to the effort to assist in the enforcement of the order, Chief of Police James Anderson has instructed the members of the police force to make an effort to rid the city of undesirable, in accordance with the expressed intention of Mayor C. E. Tisdall, as announced a few days ago.

The chief of police's order to his men is as follows:

"In view of the recent tragic murder of our brother officer, R. G. MacBeath, I need not emphasize the absolute necessity of ridding the city of all undesirable. Make every effort to secure evidence that will secure the conviction or deportation of these men and their paramours. Arrest all vagrants of every description, pool-room loafers, drug fiends, bootleggers and so on. An armed night patrol will be maintained, and every member of the detective department will be available to the uniform ranks, and extra time spent in the enforcement of this order will be allowed at some future date.

"By order, James Anderson, chief constable."

SOUTHAMPTON TO GET HUGE FLOATING DOCK

London, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The London and Southwestern Railway has placed an order with the Armstrong & Whitely Construction Co. to supply at Southampton for a floating dock 360 feet long with a lifting capacity of 50,000 tons and capable of accommodating the largest vessels.

ARMED FORCES CLASH IN FIUME

London, Oct. 14.—Fighting has broken out between the d'Anciano legionaries and the Zanella forces in Fiume since a Roman message to the Central News today. An Ancona message states that Italian destroyers have been dispatched to prevent the departure of Fascist forces from Zara and Fiume.

MOSLEM FEELING ON ARMISTICE

Excellent Effect in India, Persia and Afghanistan

Greek Acceptance Transmitted to Signatory Powers

London, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—It is understood that telegrams received in official quarters in London indicate that an excellent effect has been produced on Moslem feeling among the Mohammedans in India, Persia and Afghanistan as a result of the Near East agreement.

BRITISH PREMIER DEFENDS POLICY IN THE NEAR EAST

Lloyd George, In Dramatic Speech at Manchester, Gives No Hint of Plans in Ruffled Political Field; Would Welcome Change, But Desires to Serve Country.

Manchester, Eng., Oct. 14.—Prime Minister Lloyd George's speech to the Liberals of the Manchester Reform Club this afternoon, expected to be a historic utterance, was a disappointment, because the Premier gave no intimation regarding his plans or his programme. In that respect his oration was similar to that of Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain at Birmingham yesterday.

Of his address of one hour and twenty minutes, Mr. Lloyd George devoted nearly an hour to a defence of his Near Eastern policy and to ridicule of his critics. In a brilliant narration, recalling his service to the nation, he said: "I cast myself on the people because I have never betrayed them."

In beginning his speech at the luncheon and thus raising the curtain on a new act in the political drama which may mark a climax in the career of the striking central figure, Mr. Lloyd George referred to the Near Eastern crisis, declaring the people of this country must not believe that their Government had endeavored to rush Great Britain into war.

"We have not been war mongering, but peacemakers," he said.

"The Premier arose amid a tense silence of expectancy on the part of his hearers, who were looking to him to begin the light for his political life. A great array of journalists eagerly seized upon his words and rushed them off to the four corners of the globe. Continuing his defence of the Government's policy regarding the Near East, Mr. Lloyd George said the negotiations had been conducted in a manner unprecedented in this country. The Government, he declared, had been assailed with misrepresentation such as no other Government had ever been subjected to. "The country would resent this," he declared, "saying that there were 'queer people let loose' in the press in these days."

"My task has been made much easier," declared the Premier, "by the speech which Mr. Chamberlain, with clarity and lucidity, point and force, delivered yesterday."

ACTION TAKEN WAS THREEFOLD

"Our object in the action we took was threefold: the freedom of the Straits, the prevention of war spreading into Europe, and the prevention of the repetition in Constantinople and Thessalonica of the unutterable horrors of Asia Minor.

"The war of 1914 practically began in the Balkans. We had to act promptly, resolutely and firmly. Since 1914 the Turks, according to official testimony, have slaughtered in cold blood 1,600,000 Armenians and 500,000 Greeks without any provocation at all.

"I am sorry to see that the Liberals have been pleading that it was none of our business to intervene between the Turks and the Greeks. That was not the old Liberal doctrine. I maintain that the policy we adopted regarding Turkey was in accordance with the highest interests of the world, and that we have reason to be proud it succeeded."

At one point the Premier declared "I am told we have departed from the methods of the old diplomacy. That is very sad. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world had ever seen. The armistice of October 1918 was not a triumph for the victors. It was a disaster for the vanquished. No one knows better than Lord Grey that in international affairs there are no victors. It is best, therefore, to be charitable to others. It is a use throwing stones at people who are doing their best to work through difficulties."

"I did not improvise the policy. I inherited it. The agreements were entered into before I ever became Prime Minister. I am told to bear it like a Christian, but with regard to it like a Christian, but there are too many people about the world who think it is the business of Christians to be (Continued on page 4.)

Transport Thomas Ordered to Los Angeles

Passengers Reported to Be in Excellent Spirits

Washington, Oct. 14.—The army transport Thomas was ordered today by Secretary Weeks to proceed to Los Angeles instead of San Francisco to land the passengers rescued from the burned liner City of Honolulu. The transport later will go to San Francisco.

In Good Spirits.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Word from the big transport to the Associated Press by the wireless service of the Federal Telegraph Company was to the effect that the passengers were in good spirits and that they evidently showed no fear when the fire crept around them on the great liner and forced them to be thrust in the sea in small boats to await what proved to be a kindly fate. The tons of water which poured into the Honolulu's blazing compartments caused her to list heavily to port, according to word from the "Thomas," swinging the drunken sea sickness about her to port and starboard and greatly increasing the rescue hazard. Later the great vessel righted herself so that the boats could be lowered with greater facility.

Still Burning.

Word from the West Farallon last night was that the Honolulu was still burning. Day reports told of the caving in of her superstructure, the great work of water starting first with the collapsing of one of her stacks and an aftermath being the flames.

The ocean swells sent up clouds of steam as they lapped against her blistering hot sides, but she continued to ride the sea easily, and showed no indications that she merely wait until salvage vessels arrived. On account of the Honolulu having been changed by the fire from a beautiful, swift liner to that mangled hulk known as a "menace to navigation," she must be closely watched.

Defective Wiring.

"The probable cause of the fire was given as defective wiring in the second hold according to a report received from the "Thomas. The usual investigation by the United States steamboat inspection service is expected to go into this fully."

ASIATIC QUESTION HEARD IN WINNIPEG

Major M. J. Crehan Addresses Prairie Veterans

Sane Immigration Policy Strongly Urged

Winnipeg, Oct. 14 (Canadian Press)—Addressing the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans here last night, Dominion President Major M. J. Crehan, of Vancouver, declared the white residents of British Columbia were seeking exclusion of all Asiatics from that Province. Referring to the "peaceful" invasion of British Columbia, Major Crehan said they were thrusting white persons from fishing and lumbering industries and from market gardening.

Veterans' Problems

Speaking of veterans' problems, he said that when soldier organizations amalgamated, it was not their duty to do so for the purpose of forcing the last dollar from the Government. The people, including the soldiers, were the Government, and the proper attitude was to strive to make Canada a better and more prosperous country. This could not be done by promoting any policy of selfishness. He declared soldiers should be satisfied with the rest of the population and the same policy of immigration and that only the best class of settlers should be brought in. Canada wanted no idler within her borders.

Drug Habit

The evils of the drug habit were being realized in British Columbia, and the people of the Province are determined to stamp it out. The habit had assumed a very serious aspect in Vancouver. It was spreading from coast to coast, and it was a question for the whole country carefully to consider.

Major Crehan, who is accompanied by T. Jones, of Victoria, left for Montreal to-day.

BEGIN IS FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

Verdict Characterized as Incomprehensible by Chief Justice

Nelson, B.C., Oct. 14.—Returning a verdict which Chief Justice Hunter characterized as incomprehensible, the Assize Court yesterday acquitted Nelson Beguin, charged with the shooting of Henry Denorez, freed the accused early to-day. The Chief Justice charged strongly against Beguin, who had set up a plea of self-defence. He had accused Denorez, who was his brother-in-law, of violating his home.

The Beguin case concluded probably the longest sitting of the Assize Court in Nelson's history. One murder charge, one attempted murder, one incest and a statutory charge were heard.

SHOPMEN WAIVE RIGHT TO STRIKE

Sixteen U. S. Railroads Complete Agreements

Companies Pled Not to Litigate

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Sixteen railroads have completed agreements with new organizations of their shopmen by which in effect the men waive the right to strike and the companies pledged themselves not to litigate, both parties agreeing to acquiesce in the decisions of the railroad labor board.

Notice of completion of the agreements has been filed with the labor board.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 14.—Railroad labor must surrender the right to strike if the railway situation is to be stabilized and "the rights of the people to uninterrupted transportation service" permanently secured, Elisha J. Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Lines declared in an address last night at the annual banquet of the American Mining Congress.

"I am not prepared to say at the present time," Mr. Lee said, "that we should go to the length of absolutely forbidding railroad strikes by 'specific statutes.' Nor would I attempt otherwise to lay down any particular method by which acceptance of this basically correct principle may be brought about."

"I am sure only of one thing and that is that it must be accomplished in some way if the railroad labor situation is to be stabilized."

MESSAGE FROM MISSING VESSEL

Mystery of S.S. Simcoe; Fisherman Picks up Message

Pictou, N.S., Oct. 14.—"Help, sinking of S.S. Simcoe off Magdalen, all hands on board, good-bye. (Signed) C. H. McInnes, Seattle."

The above message was picked up between Pictou Island in Northumberland Strait by a fisherman and apparently one more glimpse of the "veils of mystery" which shrouded the loss, with about forty men, of the Canadian Government steamship Simcoe on the night of December 8, 1917. Simcoe was on a lighthouse supply and buoy trip from Sydney to the Magdalen Islands and other points.

FRANCE PLANS TO MAINTAIN BIG ARMY

Paris, Oct. 14.—An army of 600,000 soldiers, including six divisions of troops, will be retrained under arms in France, in order to have the necessary effective for national defence, Andre Maginot, Minister of War, informed the army commission of the Senate.

CONFERENCE STARTED BY BURHAM MESSAGE ON TOBACCO QUESTION

Peterboro, Ont., Oct. 14.—This morning J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., announced that he had sent the following telegram to the Methodist Conference session in Toronto: "Now that you have condemned the use of tobacco, what shall we do with the Almighty God who gave it to the world?"

CANADIAN RAILWAY BOARD TO STAND UNTIL CHIEF RETURNS

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Further appointment, if any, to the Management Board of the Canadian National Railway will, in all probability, not be made until the return of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Board, from England. It was intimated here to-night, it is expected Sir Henry will be back in Canada within three weeks.

FIRE INVESTIGATION.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—The Ontario Cabinet Council has ordered a thorough investigation into the fire in Northern Ontario last week.

BREED TO CLAIM CARMACK ESTATE

Woman Claims to Be Daughter of Klondike Discoverer

Seattle, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Graphic Grace Safzig, an attractive half-breed Indian woman who lives in Berkeley, Cal., arrived here yesterday to fight in court for the $500,000 estate left by George Washington Carmack, discoverer of the Klondike, who she alleges was her father. The estate was claimed by the widow, Mrs. Marguerite Carmack, when Carmack died in Vancouver, B.C., last Spring.

Mrs. Safzig is asking removal as administratrix of Mrs. Carmack, whom Carmack married in Olympia, Wash., twenty years after, it is alleged, he had parted from the Indian woman who was Mrs. Safzig's mother. The estate includes apartment houses here and mining property in California. Trial is to open Monday morning.

Evidence of Alaska sourdoughs who knew her mother, Kate Mason Carmack, Mrs. Safzig's aunt, Skookum Jim and Takish Charlie, and herself when she was a girl, is to be offered to break down the widow's claim. One exhibit is to be picture of Carmack, Kate Mason Carmack, the two uncles and Mrs. Safzig—then a baby barely able to form a memory of the scene—seated on boxes of gold dust when the discoverer returned to Seattle from the Klondike.

EUROPEAN NATIONALITIES INTER-ALLIED VETERANS CONVENTION OPENS AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 14.—Delegates of several European nations and the United States opened the convention of the Inter-allied Veterans' Federation here to-day.

Presiding over the group which included representatives of countries from the Balkans to America who have come in quest of the American Legion and to participate in the Legion's National Convention next week, following adjournment of their own convention, was Charles Bertrand of France. M. Bertrand is head of the ex-Servicemen's party in the French legislative body and a wearer of the American Distinguished Service Cross and the French Legion of Honor. He is president of the Inter-allied Veterans' Federation.

Major J. B. Cohen, head of the British delegation to the convention, who lost both legs in the fighting around Ypres in 1917, is the only member of the British House of Commons who is allowed to address that body without rising. His war injuries are responsible for the "privilege."

CANADIAN ADVERTISERS.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Easterners comprising the whole slate of officers elected by the Association of Canadian Advertisers in convention here yesterday, H. S. Vancoczek, of Montreal, being elected president.

LEGISLATION TO REMOVE EMBARGO

Conference Held to Discuss Drafting of Cattle Measure

London, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A conference to discuss the legislation necessary in both Great Britain and Canada to remove the embargo against Canadian store cattle, was held in the Colonial Office yesterday. Those present included the Colonial Secretary, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill; Sir Griffith-Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and two members of the Canadian Cabinet, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

CANADA'S PART IN EMPIRE EXHIBITION

Expected to Be Finally Determined by Parliament

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The extent to which Canada will participate in the British Empire Exhibition, to be held in London in 1924, will probably be finally determined by Parliament, it was understood in high official circles here last night. The matter was before the Cabinet Council yesterday. It is understood that Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, who is expected to return from Europe soon, will make a special report on the project, and in view of the large expenditure involved the administration of Canada's share would be placed under his jurisdiction. Final decision as to whether or not Canada would participate was not reached.

ATTLE KING ARRIVES HERE

Sir Sidney Kidman Passes Through on Makura

Australia is doing comparatively little exporting at present and conditions generally might be considerably better, according to Sir Sidney Kidman, operator of a chain of the biggest stations in Australia and known as the "Cattle King" of Victoria. Sir Sidney arrived in Victoria this morning on the R. M. S. Makura, from the Antipodes. He is accompanied by Lady Kidman, his wife, William Kidman, his daughter, Mrs. A. Ayers, and other relatives. The party is bound for Boston and will return to the Antipodes on the Makura's return voyage on November 25. Fat morning sheep sell at 25 shillings and cattle at about £12 in Australia, Sir Sidney states.

Sir Sidney Kidman's residence is situated near Adelaide. It is three years since he passed through Victoria previously.

Professor Park, accompanied by his wife, proceeded to Vancouver. Mr. Park is professor of mining at the Otago University, Dunedin, New Zealand. He holds the position of senior dean of the college, and is at present on a pleasure trip.

The Public Utilities Committee, which is expected to have no objections to the commencement of such negotiations.

The decision of the Public Utilities Committee to try to get lower light power rates here follows a tentative investigations during the last few months. The committee, it is understood, believes that Victoria is entitled to power and light rates reduced in view of the rates prevailing in other cities.

S. A. POMEROY WILL BE CANDIDATE IN JANUARY

First to announce his candidature in the forthcoming Esquimalt election, Councillor S. A. Pomeroy stated to The Times to-day he had determined to run for the Reeve ship. This action, he said, was in response to numerous requests on the part of his friends and residents of the town-ship. Councillor Pomeroy is now completing his fourth term on the Council.

Interviewed to-day, Reeve Lockley expressed surprise at the rumor of elections so early, and beyond stating he had not made up his mind, would not be committed to a stand on the question. The Reeve is completing his third term.

Contests for the Council, Police Commission and School Board are expected. There is one vacancy already on the last named body.

BIG STEEL RAIL ORDER.

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 14.—An order for 25,000 tons of 100 pound steel rails for delivery next Spring has been placed by the Grand Trunk Railway, it is announced at British Empire Steel headquarters here. The order assures an uninterrupted winter's work for the three thousand men.

CITY SEEKS CUT IN LIGHT RATES

Public Utilities Committee to Open Negotiations With Power Company

Negotiations for the lowering of light and power rates here will be opened by the city with the B. C. Electric Railway Company immediately, if the City Council adopts plans drawn up by the Civic Public Utilities Committee.

The Public Utilities Committee, which has been organized to open negotiations with the Electric Railway Company, it is felt that the Council will have no objections to the commencement of such negotiations.

The decision of the Public Utilities Committee to try to get lower light power rates here follows a tentative investigations during the last few months. FORD MOTOR COMPANY DECLARES DIVIDEND OF 15 PER CENT CASH

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 14.—The Ford Motor Company of Canada, yesterday declared a 15 per cent cash dividend October 29 to shareholders of record October 14. This disbursement will amount to $1,050,000 on the $7,000,000 stock outstanding and at the rate of 30 per cent per annum, the same as paid in 1921.

BY-ELECTION IN SCOTTISH RIDING

London, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The appointment of Right Hon. Robert Munro, K.C., M.P., Secretary for Scotland, as Lord Justice Clerk, was officially announced yesterday and will involve a by-election in the constituency of Roxburgh and Selkirk. Some re-arrangement of the Cabinet also will be necessary, but to what extent can not be stated.

Munro's successor as Secretary for Scotland has not yet been chosen, but it is improbable that he will be found among the members of the present Cabinet.

AUSTRALIA FACING GENERAL ELECTIONS

Premier Hughes Entering Contest With Weakened Party

London, Oct. 4.—(By Mail)—The following review of the Australian political situation has been specially prepared by the London Bureau of the Canadian Press in connection with the Australian General Elections to be held on December 9 next:

Several factors promise to lend to the forthcoming general elections in the Commonwealth of Australia an unusual degree of interest. One is the newly risen enmity between the Prime Minister (Mr. Hon. W. M. Hughes) and the leaders of the country (or Farmers) party, which has hitherto proved a more or less docile supporter of the Nationalist Ministry; another is the growing sentiment in the Liberal wing of the Nationalist party in favor of a reversion to pure Liberalism; and a third is the operation of a redistribution measure which may have an important bearing on the composition of the new Parliament.

State of Parties. In the present Parliament the state of parties, excluding the Nationalist Speaker (Sir Elliot Johnston), is: Nationalists, 37; Country party, 13; Labor, 24. It will be seen, therefore, that even including the Speaker, Mr. Hughes has only a clear majority of one over the other two parties. In reality, however, his position has been much more secure than the figures would suggest.

There is not a shadow of community of interest between the low tariff Country party and the high protectionist Labor party, between the representative of the rural producer and the spokesman of the Trades Hall, with its dream of a rural workers' trade union and the introduction of an eight-hour day and a fixed minimum wage for farm-laborers; and Mr. Hughes, master tactician as he is, has adroitly contrived to accentuate the breach between the representatives of the rural producer and those who have invariably been found on opposite sides of the Chair in times of crisis.

Outlook Changing. But the outlook is changing. The present session, the last of the present Parliament, has been marked Country party had decided to offer opposition to Mr. Hughes in the Bendigo constituency. In Victoria, though in 1919 it did not nominate a candidate. Now Bendigo, as an outcome of redistribution, has received a considerable accession of country party voting strength. Mr. Hughes took in the situation at a glance. He is a lower ebb; it is a combination of a desert Bendigo for North Sydney, one of the safest Nationalist seats in the Commonwealth. Someone who can be spared, presumably, to carry the Nationalist standard at Bendigo. History is thus repeating itself. In 1917, after the split in the ranks of Labor over conscription, Mr. Hughes deserted the West Sydney division for Bendigo and his unfortunate successor in the Nationalist interest was sacrificed by a two to one majority. West Sydney was and is still full of smart laborers who would have none of conscription and Mr. Hughes well knew it.

Seven Years in Office. Truth to tell, Mr. Hughes, having held office as Prime Minister for a longer term than any other man in the country, is not himself in troubled water. It is not his old Labor enemies who will be his most formidable opponents in the coming fight, for Labor was rarely at all a combination of city and rural business interests, the latter represented by the Liberal wing of the Nationalists, who fused with the Nationalist Laborists in 1917 to form the new party that has held the reins of Government ever since. Among the Liberals in Parliament and among the "grubby" organizations which support them outside there is a growing sentiment in favor of a breakaway from the Nationalist cause, a reversion to Liberalism and a consequent renunciation of those Labor principles which were embodied in the Nationalist platform as part of a scheme of compromise at the time of the fusion. Mr. Watt has been declared to favor such a policy and should the election give an indeterminate state of parties, a fusion between the Liberals and the Country party and the emergence of Mr. Watt as the establishe Labor followers are not beyond the realms of probability.

Mr. Hughes has been unfortunate enough to displease many sections of the Commonwealth electorate. Victoria is angry with him because of his evident determination to honor a compact made at the time of Federation and transfer the seat of Government to Canberra, the chosen Federal capital, which Victoria, at present housing the Federal administration at Melbourne, professes to regard as the most desirable site. The jam manufacturers of Victoria and Tasmania resent his proposal to renew the high price sugar agreement with the sugar growers of Queensland and the interests of Western Australia rail against what they regard as the oppressive conditions of the Federal compact as they operate against that distant State, and a section of the Commonwealth Government candidates pledged to secession; and the Liberals of South Australia, supported by the State Premier (Sir Henry Henry) and the quality is questionable at that. Of old a good pair of walking shoes could be bought for 25 lire, now from 140 to 250 lire are asked.

Added to these menaces to Mr. Hughes' continuance in power is influential opposition to the Prime Minister's insistence upon the maintenance of the Commonwealth Government Line of steamships to which is attributed the "Conference" lines' studious neglect of Australian requirements in the department of sea transport which resulted about two years ago from the defective administration of the War Service Homes scheme for ex-service men, the result of an ill-judged choice of responsible officers. To crown all, there is a stubborn dispute between the Commonwealth and certain of the States over the projected unification of railway gauges. A uniform gauge of 4 feet 8 1/2 inches, already adopted by the Commonwealth, has been decided upon after a long and bitter struggle by Victoria and South Australia, both with railways of a 5 feet 3 inches gauge, show no disposition to acquiesce, if there is any foundation for a rumor now prevalent that Mr. Hughes has decided on the linking up of the great East-West line, owned by the Commonwealth, with the New South Wales 4 feet 8 1/2 inches system, leaving Victoria and South Australia out of the reckoning, this proposal will not enhance Mr. Hughes' popularity in these two States.

Country Party. The Country party, whose rise as a real factor in Federal politics in December, 1919, will make a determined bid for additional gains in Queensland, where it was successful in electing a seat from Labor at a recent by-election and where its organization has been steadily gaining ground against the Nationalist organization. Its proper seat is in several rural constituencies at present held by Labor members in New South Wales who have also to be reckoned with.

Labor Divided. Labor, whose stronghold is New South Wales, is sharply divided in that State as a result of a quarrel in the ranks which followed the recent defeat of the late Labor Minister in a by-election and where its organization has been steadily gaining ground against the Nationalist organization. Its proper seat is in several rural constituencies at present held by Labor members in New South Wales who have also to be reckoned with.

Delorme Does Not Desire To Leave Asylum. Quebec, Oct. 14.—It was learned from the officials of the St. Michael Asylum Thursday that Rev. Adelard Delorme, who is confined in the institution following an investigation as to his mental fitness to stand trial on the charge of murdering his half-brother, Raoul, is not at all anxious to leave the asylum. He is anxious, however, to retain control of his financial affairs, which he would lose if the interdiction proceedings instituted by the Delorme family counsel are successful.

PRETTY HAT IN ITALY NOW COSTS 400 LIRE

Rome, Oct. 14.—Italian women are complaining that, while prices for food and clothing are steadily if slowly decreasing in other countries, in Italy they are still going up till it is a wonder where the money comes from for all the charming frocks and hats one sees.

In the good old days a pretty hat could be bought in any of the large towns of Italy for from 25 to 75 lire; now anything from 120 to 400 lire is cheap. Woolen stuffs that used to cost 6 lire a yard, now cannot be bought for less than from 40 to 60 lire a yard, and the quality is questionable at that. Of old a good pair of walking shoes could be bought for 25 lire, now from 140 to 250 lire are asked.

A good suit of clothes for a man could be bought before the war for from 75 to 100 lire; a pair of good shoes for from 25 to 30 lire; a hat for 3 lire; and a shirt for from 6 to 10 lire. To-day the buyer would need from 400 to 750 lire for the suit; 100 to 200 lire for the shoes; 45 to 150 lire for the hat; and from 35 to 60 lire for the shirt. These prices are bringing forth much protest.

Articles of common food also have increased in price four, five, or even six times what they were before the war. Olive oil, which used to cost under one lire a quart, cannot now be obtained for less than 10 lire; wine, which cost 40 centimes a quart, is now 4.20 lire; eggs which cost from one to two soldi each, now cost from 60 to 70 centimes; milk has advanced from 40 centimes to 1.50 lire a quart, and butter, once 1.50 a pound, has risen to 10 lire.

CHURCH UNION IS OPPOSED

Toronto, Oct. 14.—At a meeting of the Presbyterian Association in St. Andrew's Church here, convened to oppose church union, a resolution was passed unanimously by a standing vote, pledging those present to maintain and defend the Presbyterian Church in Canada. This was followed by the singing of a Psalm with deep emotion.

It was resolved to appoint a committee to protect the property rights of the minority, should the proposed union be effected, and this committee was empowered to employ legal counsel.

NATIONAL INSURANCE PAYMENTS IN BRITAIN

London, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A Treasury return of expenditure in England and Wales for the principal forms of public and social service for the year ended March 31, 1921, shows a total of £265,000,000, against £255,000,000 in 1920. The figures include £127,000,000 for national insurance, unemployment insurance and war pensions, which did not appear in 1921.

What Will the U.S. Do In the Near East?

What the United States will do is a question which looms large on three continents. In Asia Minor there is joy that America will give food and shelter; in Europe there is hope that America will join the Conference which will finally settle the status of Thrace and the Straits; in the United States the correspondents say that the Government is impressed by the great surge of anti-Turkish feeling among its citizens.

A "hands-off" policy has been officially announced with a statement of the Administration's approval of the Allied desire to keep the Straits free and the little peoples protected. Does this go far enough to suit the American people?

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, October 14th, gives expression to public opinion of every shade in answer to that question, and shows what the Government might do, and perhaps what it will do. The article is illustrated with several half-tones and cartoons.

PACIFIC MILK 43% CREAM Impressed Her Mrs. Hemming says that for some reason she was prejudiced against Pacific Milk. She had never tried it but had always favored another brand. A neighbor, whose cooking she admired, induced her to try Pacific for a blance mange and it turned out so much better than with the other milk, tasting as though it had been made with fresh cream. Then she became what she calls a "convert," and now buys a case a month. She says she now uses Pacific Milk for cakes, salad dressing, in fact for everything she cooks.

WASTEFUL PEOPLE.

Canadians have been and are being told that Canada is a land of vast and unlimited resources. Almost every public speaker and practically every immigration appeal dwells upon their magni- tude and their potential wealth.

On the other hand are the people of this country thinking about their duty to the coming generation? Are they recognizing an appropriate obligation to posterity? Conservation facts indicate, on the contrary, that the country has become intoxicated with a brand of optimism which takes no account of the morrow.

Our resources are not unlimited; they are not inexhaustible. The truth of the assertion will soon become painfully plain unless the people take greater care of the marvellous heritage which a bounteous Nature has bestowed upon them.

One does not need to go far away to learn the lesson of greed and carelessness. More than two million cases of salmon from the Fraser River were being packed less than ten years ago, and if the suggestion had been made in 1913 that the sockeye run to this great waterway would be practically a matter of history in 1922, it would have been thought fit for the comic section of any newspaper.

MOTOR CAMP.

It can be said without hesitation that the modern city which caters to the motor tourist by providing adequate and pleasant camping facilities is going to get the business in the future. Last year's experience at Curtis Point indicates the popularity which Victoria has earned for itself in this particular respect.

In considering any plan for future development the people of this city should remember that automobile ferry connections with the mainland on both sides of the international boundary are about to be duplicated at least. That is to say, the Sidney-Anacortes project could add such a substantial quota to the continually increasing normal traffic by way of the regular gulf journey, it must follow that when the service shall be expanded in accordance with plans already announced it will be necessary to provide additional camp accommodation here.

For these obvious reasons, and because there are other signs of practical activity and intent to develop Victoria into a still more popular holiday resort, plans should be laid in good time. These conveniences mean much to the holidaying tourist from afar. The little things count as much as the bigger things. There are a hundred and one ways in which the business could be increased. First and foremost, however, is the necessity to prove that the visiting motorist is welcome by giving him the comforts for which he does not look in vain elsewhere.

DR. TOMALIN.

Because he was possessed of outstanding ability in many branches of his profession, and because a somewhat brusque exterior never concealed his intensely sympathetic understanding of human kind, the passing of Dr. W. J. C. Tomalin is a severe loss to the community in which he lived and the people among whom he worked.

THE PENSIONS BOARD.

Although some of the charges brought against the Pensions Board by the Great War Veterans' Association may have been of a frivolous nature, the evidence which has been submitted to the Royal Commission so far seems to indicate that there has been too much of an inclination on the part of the Board to ignore important considerations in an apparently thoughtless desire to curtail its disbursements.

It will be admitted that the administration of this Department of the public service is not a simple matter. Its decisions provoke a much larger number of undesired complaints than compliments. At the same time the Pensions Board ought to know that the people of this country will not be a party to any policy that is unfair and ungrateful in a general sense and uneconomic in particular.

There is no suggestion that he should be petted. Excessive sentimentality would naturally dictate a policy that would be poor business for the beneficiary and costly for the State. But the Pensions Board should remember that the disabled man of any classification has the right to be placed in an economic position that shall not be inferior to that occupied by him before he volunteered for active service and exposed himself as a target on the battlefield.

NOTHING ALARMING.

Very few people in the Old Country will take Mr. Austin Chamberlain too literally in his references to the Labor Party at Birmingham yesterday. Labor itself will recognize in his peculiar warnings more of a bid for the support of that Coalition wing which is just about ready to bolt from the leadership of Mr. Lloyd George than a serious suggestion that a Labor Government would turn the country inside out and plant the red flag over Buckingham Palace.

The British electorate takes its politics seriously. It does not lose its head when a responsible Cabinet Minister delivers a speech which political busy-bodies proclaim to be the clarion call to any particular line of action. The man in the street is not worried about 'the Bolshevik bogey and the Labor candidate at the general election will conduct his campaign on the understanding that he must convince the voter that the policies which his Party in power would adopt would be better for him than those of a Coalition or a Liberal or a Tory Government.

We doubt very much if Great Britain is yet ready to be governed by advanced elements even if they include men like J. H. Thomas and Mr. Henderson, both of whom have been 'on the inside' and have rendered yeoman service to the country in abnormal and normal times. Great Britain does not hurry in such fundamental questions. But when the time comes to turn over the reins of power to Labor, Labor will know that it may retain its hold only so long as it shall do what the majority commands and authorizes.

FRANCE'S ARMY.

Although both nations seem to have patched up their differences in the Near East, Great Britain and France have found new ground of difference in the latest suggestion in respect of German reparations. Through Sir John Bradbury the British Government has advocated the granting of a five-year cash moratorium to the debtor nation and the issuance of bonds in lieu of cash payments. France still considers that Germany should meet her obligations in cash on the day they fall due.

It may be assumed that the two will agree on a compromise dictated by reason. But it is a singular fact that within twenty-four hours of the session of the Reparations Commission at which the Bradbury policy was formally advocated, and equally formally rejected by M. Barthou, we are told in a dispatch from Paris that France must keep 660,000 soldiers under arms for purposes of national defence.

Why she requires such a huge and costly army will puzzle most people. As a prop for her argument in forcing Germany to pay, irrespective of possible economic consequences, it is immediately obvious. It should, and no doubt will, strengthen the hand of Sir John Bradbury during the progress of the inevitable discussion.

NOTE AND COMMENT

General Harrington seems to have understood the Turk a great deal better than the politician. His own description of the final interview with Ismet Pasha will go down as an epic in post-war diplomacy.

Something which had been expected though sensational from Manchester to-day will be disappointed. The British Prime Minister has not told us anything new and one can hardly see how his speech is going to placate those who are obviously after his political scalp.

While one can imagine the British taxpayer shuddering at the thought of the cost, the average individual will understand John Bull's capacity for organization when he reads that in a very brief period one hundred warships and more than forty thousand troops, to say nothing of aircraft and heavy artillery, were assembled in the Near East for any eventuality.

CHINESE SCHOOL QUESTION.

To the Editor:—It may be old-fashioned and out-of-date to consider God's directions on any matter, yet I would call attention to Leviticus 19, 35, 36. "If a stranger sojourn with thee in your land, ye shall not vex him. The stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself." Also Malachi 3, 5. "I will come near to judgment, and be a swift witness against those that turn aside the stranger from his right." In Matthew 25 our Lord identifies Himself with the stranger. MOSES. Victoria, B. C., Oct. 14.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE

To the Editor:—Would you kindly permit me a little space to comment on the school questionnaire that has been circulated through the schools. I presume that the many views expressed as to the benefits to be derived from such an experiment, but while I myself would not have drafted the questions as sent to the body at the same time I am of the opinion that it merits the attention of all Victorians who are concerned with education. It is true that the general public is not fully qualified to decide on the methods of education, but nevertheless almost every thinking man and woman has some opinion as regards the education of their children and also as to the cost of the education and they are not often given such a fine opportunity to express themselves.

I, for one, intend to answer this questionnaire to the best of my ability, especially those questions which concern me as a parent, and I hope that the efforts of the gentlemen who prepared these questions and who are paying the expenses of a secretary to circulate them will meet with a large response from all classes of citizens. EDW. C. MATHEWS

SPLENDID USE FOR LIQUOR PROFITS

To the Editor:—Through the columns of your valuable paper would like to say a few words regarding liquor profits. I think a splendid way to use the profits from the liquor would be for the Government to take over complete control of all schools and use the liquor profits to supply all text books free, also pencils and every other article that a parent has to buy.

As I have said before, the geniuses are to be found among the laboring classes. Now, I am sure in the larger cities it is impossible for the poorer class children to enter High School, as it would be impossible to furnish the books, especially if they have to pay a tuition fee every quarter, as they do here.

The liquor profits could be put to no better use than for absolutely free schooling, giving greater parts of British Columbia a chance to develop their talents, and get a real show in the world God gave to them, with the rich man's child. ADELAIDE B. MARSHALL. Ladysmith, B.C.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATIONS

To the Editor:—As a number of our Victoria organizations are possibly discussing the best means of recognizing Armistice Day in a suitable manner, I am sending you a copy of a plan before them the suggestions made by five of the Ex-Servicemen's organizations in the city. The only Service organization not represented on this committee being the C.W.V.A. local, who declined to send representatives.

When this committee met it was the unanimous feeling that of all days, Armistice Day was one on which all citizens should get together, and in the evening a grand Armistice dance at the Army, in co-operation with the Fifth Regiment committee.

We have written the following bodies, asking for their support in carrying out the arrangements: Provincial Government, Victoria City Council, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt Municipal Councils, Independent Order of Daughters of Empire, Victoria School Board, Gen. J. M. Ross, Dept. M. & D., Chamber of Commerce, Registry, Kiwanis, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., Men's Canadian Club, Women's Canadian Club, Boys' Naval Brigade, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, etc.

A detailed programme of the arrangements for November 11 will be published at a later date, and meantime we solicit the wholehearted support of the people of Victoria and District in our efforts to complete the necessary arrangements to make the celebrations on November 11 a success. ROBT. MACNICOL, Hon Sec. Armistice Day Committee. 1406 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., October 13, 1922.

REPLY TO FREE TRADER

To the Editor:—I fear Free Trader has interpolated a good deal on what I have written, and more particularly where I have touched on trade. I would here mention that I have particularly avoided the enormous field of discussion and have confined myself to the practical application of trade, and it is from practice we learn, and not theory. He says I have jumped about in my examples but for the most part I have given examples from places where I have seen trade at work; have heard it discussed on the spot by local administrators, and of the conclusions I have drawn the outstanding one is that Free Trade in practice is a catch-word, like self-determination and many others coined since the Armistice. Yes! Free Trade is a catchword in practice, like any others of these, because like all glass-case theories, it will work under a glass case, but, exposed to the air, soon gets poisoned by the grasping methods of capitalists, whose formula is to get rich and get rich quick; "Posterity has done nothing for us, what reason is there that I should do anything for posterity?" no, the capitalists and those who handle trade will not "play the game," and consequently Free Trade must be protected by patent laws, hall marks, trade marks, and what not, otherwise we should not have "Made in Germany," etc., etc., which all only go to show that Free Trade is so no longer. Yet this is what Free Trader holds up in his wonderful example of a theoretical ideal under which England flourished for well over half a century. If he had called it bolstered up "Free Trade" I can agree with him.

In a world of protective tariffs such as the British Empire is in contact with her best policy is being that which can quite easily develop into Free Trade within the Empire or Commonwealth of Nations, now so-called; such an arrangement would be best held together in peace time in their mutual interests the several Dominions of the Mother Country whose ties have been so firmly cemented in all times of stress as they are.

Within the Empire we have got all the raw material we can want, and at present we are not over-industrial-

We have only one class of customers—those we are anxious to please. The difference in the amount purchased in no way affects the service rendered.

A little further on the Premier said: "If there is to be a change, there is no man who would welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell and a very hard one. I love freedom. There are a lot of things I want to say." This statement by the Premier was after he had turned to Home politics, a subject on which the whole Empire was awaiting his pronouncement. He asserted there were "no hard" ultra-Conservative views on both sides. "There are some who would like to make me a die-hard and soon." After expressing his love of freedom and saying no one would welcome a change more than he, the Premier added: "Three years ago I was anxious to go out and begged Mr. Bonar Law to take the office. He declined. I never sought the position. I never wished to retain it, but city to return him. In the opinion of a great many he has not been a success. In fact to use his own phrase, "He has outlived his usefulness." He has antagonized his council for one thing, and other than that, instead of lowering the taxation he has increased it. While everyone knows that a city cannot be run without money, yet to tax the residents so high, that they either have to lose their property or get out, is not by any means the way to make the city progress. Almost everything that can be taxed has been, and before long even the buttons on our clothes will be in the same category and we shall have to do the Doukhorbor act.

During his late absence from the city, the Mayor's chair has been acceptably filled by Alderman Harvey, and in the opinion of a great many, he is the most fit and most proper person to represent the interests of the city. Take his record. He has had an extensive business experience and a successful one, in the Old Country; he has had five or six years' experience on our City Council, and has not made any bad breaks; he has been a persistent advocate for an amusement centre and for clean sports; chairman of the Industrial Committee of 1921, which committee successfully negotiated the establishment in Victoria of the Shell Gasoline Company; the Sidney Rubber Roofing Company's plant; the Beach Ekings Jam Factory, and is still in negotiation for the establishment of a woolen mill. A good record.

He has a broad and open mind; has no personal ends to serve, and has had considerable experience already as acting mayor. As he only in for one year for alderman and must appeal to the citizens in this year, the best thing the people of Victoria can do is to request him to stand for the office of Mayor for 1923. GERALD CROSS. Oct. 14, 1922.

RECOVERY WILL BE SLOW AND TEDIOUS

"The world has not yet recovered from the war," continued the Premier. "That recovery will be slow and tedious. My course is a clear one. I will support any Government that devotes itself to measures which will not inflict permanent injury upon the country, whether those measures are reactionary or revolutionary." Mr. Lloyd George declared the situation was too grave for any man to indulge in party or personal manoeuvres. He meant to abide by his office, he said. "The Premier had prefaced this by declaring: 'The future is perplexing one. I shall claim no personal or party gain.' "I place the national security and prosperity in front of the interests of anybody, and I mean to abide by my position," said the Premier in concluding. "If I am driven into the wilderness, I shall recall with pride that I have been able, with the assistance of loyal colleagues, in the

MANY THINGS TO BE WATCHED

"I shall watch many things," he said. "I shall watch to see how we are to forgive Germany her reparations and yet make France love us more than ever. I shall watch how we are to pay the United States all we owe her, and forgive every country all they owe us. "It will be an interesting experiment," said the Premier, "to see the work of others, that is one of the joys I have in store." "I have many friends among the Conservatives and Liberals, and I cast myself on the people whose cause I have never betrayed during the thirty-two years of public life."

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden one sure way to reduce your weight surely and quickly is the harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy. Being the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. "He Serves in 50,000 B.C. Homes"

EVERY Mother has felt at some time or other, that "dragged-out, dead-tired" feeling, which is the result of too much work and not enough "play." Is it ever worth while? Does it pay to overload Mother with household tasks? Can Dad and the Children afford to jeopardize Mother's health with unnecessary drudgery? The experience of over 50,000 British Columbia women will supply the answer. They have long ago decided that the fine white crumb and the golden brown crust of SHELLY'S 4X BREAD eliminates the necessity of home-baking. Phone 444 or at your grocer's.

H. G. WELLS FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY The Romance of Mother Earth TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT—30 Men of Many Shades and Tints

But among the numerous obstacles and interruptions to intermixture of the races of men there have been certain main barriers, such as the Atlantic Ocean, the highlands, once higher, and the now vanished seas of Central Asia and the like, which have cut off great groups of varieties over long periods of time.

already differentiated into a number of varieties, but he has never differentiated into different species. A "species," we must remember, in biological language is distinguished from a "variety" by the fact that varieties can interbreed, while species either do not do so or produce offspring which, like mules, are sterile. All mankind can interbreed freely.

years that the varieties of men came to be regarded in this light, as a tangle of differentiations recently arrested or still in progress. Before that time students of mankind, influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the story of Noah and the Ark and his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japhet, were inclined to classify men into three or four great races, and

Mongolian types

Australoid types

Caucasian types

Differences of Color and Hair

In north and western Europe a great number of peoples have fair hair, blue eyes and ruddy complexions; and about the Mediterranean there is a prevalence of white-skinned peoples with dark eyes and black hair.

In southern India we find brownish and darker peoples with straight black hair, and these as we pass eastward give place to more distinctly yellow peoples, in scattered islands and in Papua and New Guinea we find another series of black and brownish peoples of a more lowly type with frizzy hair.

But it must be borne in mind that these are very loose-fitting generalizations. Some of the areas and isolated pockets of mankind in the Asiatic area may have been under conditions more like those in the European area; some of the African areas are of a more Asiatic and less distinctive African type.

We find a wavy-haired fairish hairy-skinned race, the Ainu, in Japan. They are more like the Europeans in their facial type than the surrounding yellow Japanese. They may be a drifted patch of the whites or they may be a quite distinct people. We find primitive black people in the Andaman Islands far away from Australia and far away from Africa. There is a streak of very negroid blood, traced in south Persia and some parts of India: These are the "Asiatic" negroes.

Like Conditions, Like People There is little or no proof that all black people, the Australians—the Asiatic negroes, and the negroes—derive from one origin, but only that they have lived for vast periods under similar conditions.

We must not assume that human beings in the eastern Asiatic area were all differentiating in one direction and all the human beings in Africa in another. There were great currents of tendency, it is true, but there were also backwaters, eddies, admixtures, readmixtures, and leakages from one main area to the other. A colored map of the world to show the races would not present just four great areas of color; it would have four or five, and these would be dabbed over with a multitude of tints and intermediate shades, simple here, mixed and overlapping there.

In the early Neolithic Period, in Europe—it may be 10,000 or 12,000 years ago or so—man was differentiating all over the world, and he had ly, can learn to understand the same speech, can adapt itself to co-operation.

And in the present age, man is probably no longer undergoing differentiation at all. Readmixture is now a far stronger force than differentiation. Men mingle more and more. Mankind from the view of a biologist is an animal species in a state of arrested differentiation and possible readmixture. It is only in the last fifty or sixty they were disposed to regard these races as having always been separate things, descended from originally separate ancestors. They ignored the great possibilities of blended races and of special local isolations and variations.

Blended Races. The classification has varied considerably, but there has been rather too much readiness to assume that mankind must be completely divided into three or four main groups. Ethnologists (students of race) have fallen into grievous disputes about a multitude of minor peoples, as to whether they were of this or that primary race or "mixed" or "strayed" early forms, or what not. But all races are more or less mixed. There are, no doubt, four main groups, but each is a miscellany, and there are little groups that will not go into any of the four main divisions.

Subjected to these reservations, when it is clearly understood that when we speak of these main divisions we mean not simple and pure races, but groups of races, then they have a certain convenience in discussion. We divide Europe and Mediterranean area and western Asia there are, and have been for many thousand years, white people, usually called the Caucasians, subdivided into two or three subdivisions; the northern blonds or Nordic race, an alleged intermediate race about which many authorities are doubtful, the so-called Alpine race, and the southern dark whites, the Mediterranean or Iberian race; over eastern Asia and America a second group of races, the Mongolians, generally with yellow skins, straight black hair and sturdy bodies; over Africa the Negroes, and in the region of Australia and New Guinea the black, primitive Australoids.

These are convenient terms, provided the student bears in mind that they are not exactly defined terms. They represent only the common characteristics of certain main groups of races; they leave out of account little peoples who belong properly to none of these divisions, and they disregard the perpetual mixing where the main groups overlap.

LABOR SECRETARY CRITICIZES C. N. R. Objects Wage Reduction and Abolition of Eight-hour Day on This Island

A boycott of all Canadian National Railway lines in Canada as a protest against the abolition of the eight-hour day and the lowering of wages to $3 a day on Vancouver Island branches of the national railroads is threatened by E. S. Woodward, the secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council in a statement issued today.

The statement calls the attention of the Federal Government and the Liberal Party to the "violation" here of the "wage scale as laid down by the Dominion Fair Wage Office," which is $4 for an eight-hour day, and urges the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to organize a labor-boycott of the Canadian National lines.

The statement is as follows: "I am forwarding to the management of the Canadian National Railways a vigorous protest against the wages and conditions obtaining on railway maintenance and construction work in this vicinity. An advertisement appearing in the local papers calls for twenty men to engage in track work, and the contractor offered is $3 for a ten-hour day. Board is deducted at the rate of $6.50 per week. Those workers who have been engaged in this manner are nationalized in a panacea for the ills of the working class will receive a rude shock when they make the discovery that nationalization means the loss of the universal eight-hour day—which received official recognition in the labor clauses of the Peace Treaty—and that, consequently, it means the violation of the wage scale as laid down by the Dominion Fair Wage Office, which is $4 for an eight-hour day.

"The attention of Premier Mackenzie King is being called to the matter in order that the attitude of the Liberal party to the question may be definitely determined. Each of the new directors will also be communicated with. In the meantime a boycott of the national lines by the white workers of the country would seem to be a reasonable retaliatory measure, and immediate steps will be taken to ask the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to organize such a movement."

HARVEST FESTIVAL Special Services Tomorrow at Church of Our Lord. The Harvest Festival will be celebrated tomorrow at morning and evening services at the Church of Our Lord, Humboldt street, the Rev. A. de B. Owen preaching at both services. The church will be prettily decorated for the occasion and appropriate music will be sung.

KUMTUKS DANCE AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR Members of the Kumtuks Club proved themselves ideal hostesses at their second annual dance held in the Alexandra ballroom last evening, when nearly one hundred and fifty guests danced under the most delightful conditions to the strains of Heaton's five-piece orchestra.

The attractiveness of the decorations of the ballroom recently carried out by the management was enhanced by an abundance of lovely Autumn flowers, the kindly gift of Mrs. E. P. Butcher, and graceful mural pillars of ivy. The new gallery with its attractive stairways from the ballroom was prettily decorated with ivy and streamers in the Kumtuks colors of blue, green and gold, while the word "Kumtuks" in bold lettering over the main mirror was an effective note. The decorative scheme was in the hands of Miss Killo and her committee. Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Cree and Mrs. Sweeney of the entertainment committee, assisted materially with the success of the affair.

The guests were received on arrival by Miss Bowron, the president, and members of the club, Miss Macrae and Miss Maren presiding at the seat of customs. A delicious sit-down supper was served in the basement cafe under the direction of Mr. Newton, bowls of marigolds lending a pretty touch of color to the tables.

Business Meeting. On Monday evening the Club will hold its monthly business meeting at the Alexandra Club, Pemberton

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours, is never cross—but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. The tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthy sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and are given to the newborn babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. (Adv.)

LOCAL DENTIST IS AMONG OFFICERS OF ROYAL ARCANUM

Everett, Wash., Oct. 14.—C. B. Carmichael, of Seattle, was elected Grand Regent of the Royal Arcanum by a Pacific Northwest convention here yesterday before it adjourned. Other officers chosen were E. J. Brandt, Seattle, Grand Secretary; G. O. Snyder, Tacoma, Grand Treasurer; Geo. Dupea, Tacoma, Grand Chaplain; Paul B. Fyner, Seattle, Grand Orator; G. W. MONSTER GRAIN SHIPMENTS PASS THROUGH MONTREAL

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Over 116,000,000 bushels of grain have been handled by the port of Montreal to date this season, and with the month of October not yet half over, it is expected by local grain and shipping men that last year's record of 138,453,980 bushels will be far surpassed before the close of navigation. A total of ninety ocean and coasting steamers were berthed in the harbor Thursday, a figure that creates a new record.

MENDELSONH WINS EASILY

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14.—Johnny Mendelsohn, Milwaukee lightweight, easily outboxed George Eagle, formerly of California, now of New York, here last night. Critics differed on the outcome of the feather-weight contest between Joey Sanger, Milwaukee, and Eddie Anderson, Moline, Ills. Both contests went ten rounds.

CONTROVERSY RAGES ON POLITICAL ISSUES

New Charge Concerning Government Contract by Stevens

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—With charges and counter-charges being flung about, the controversy between Attorney-General Manson and Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, continues, says The Vancouver Daily Province. At Esquimalt Thursday night Hon. Mr. Manson made further denials of Mr. Stevens' charges, and later in the evening he amplified these by the rejoinder to a statement issued by the former Federal Minister.

Yesterday morning, the newspaper says, Hon. Mr. Stevens brought new material into the controversy, when he made serious charges against the Provincial Government in connection with the settlement of a dispute between the Department of Lands and a contractor on the Southern Okanagan irrigation project.

Mr. Stevens' statement was as follows: "On the completion of his work a contractor named Griffin had a claim against the Government for $7,000. This claim was disputed. The contractor's solicitors were a well-known Conservative firm in Vancouver, and they applied for a fiat to sue the Government. Although the Government was no official refusal, they were unable to obtain the fiat.

"Mr. Griffin went to see a Minister of the Crown in regard to the matter, and was informed he would get along more rapidly if he changed his solicitors. On a second interview with the Minister, the latter advised Mr. Griffin, not on his own responsibility, but on that of the Attorney-General, that he should retain J. A. Campbell, president of the Vancouver City Liberal Association, to act for him in the matter."

"Mr. Griffin accepted this advice, and within a day or two Mr. Campbell had obtained for him a settlement of the full amount of his claim, without reference to any court. For this Mr. Campbell received a handsome fee.

"My point in this, and in the other cases I have cited, is that a citizen cannot get justice at the hands of the Attorney-General's department except through extreme partisan sources. In this particular case I would like the Attorney-General to explain why he was justified in referring a reference to the Court of this supposedly disputed account, when, on the application of the president of the Liberal Association, he paid it in full without apparently any further investigation."

FRANCE AND ITALY ARE HOLDING UP NAVAL POWER PACT

Great Britain, United States and Japan Await Action

Washington, Oct. 13.—In view of published suggestions that the five-power naval limitation treaty negotiated during the Washington conference might be made effective immediately as between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, the three powers which have ratified, it was pointed out here today that the pact itself specifically states that it is to become effective when all five powers have duly exchanged ratifications. There is no reason to believe that the American government would favor, or sees any necessity for negotiating a preliminary three-power agreement making the terms of the pact effective prior to ratification by France and Italy, even though such a step would be possible through a three-power protocol.

When France plans to complete ratification of the five power pact it is not known, but inasmuch as it was clearly indicated by the French delegates here during the conference that France had no intention of need for building naval armament up to the tonnage limits permitted for her in the past, there is a strong feeling that French ratification is to be expected in due course and that nothing could be gained by a preliminary three-power understanding.

Since France benefits in naval strength very materially by the terms of the five-power pact there are indications that the United States government, as sponsor for the agreement, is content to await the French ratification at whatever time the necessities of the French government will permit the action to be taken.

Apparently the Washington government is not disposed to press for action on completion of the five-power pact, even though it faces some embarrassment in the preparation of its naval budget for the coming financial year without having definite knowledge as to what should be provided for the navy. So far as Italian action toward ratification of the five-power pact is concerned, it is understood to be contingent upon the action of France.

SHIPS' COMPLEMENT AND CAPACITY CARGO ON PRESIDENT MADISON

In all 275 passengers will be carried to the Orient by the President Madison, which left here late this afternoon. The days of big steerage travel are getting back to normal again, and little effect has been made in her passenger list by the new dry law which states that no American boat may carry liquor. Approximately 100 Chinese boarded the boat at Victoria. In addition to the large passenger list she is carrying a capacity cargo.

Around the World Trip Announced

F. Lefaux, who represents the Cunard, Anchor and Anchor-Donaldson steamship lines in Vancouver and who is paying Victoria one of his periodical visits, stated to The Times today that he had received many testimonials from passengers who had crossed the Atlantic from Liverpool to Montreal on the maiden voyage of the SS. Ausonia.

They paid tribute to the excellent service given them, especially the third class passengers, who appreciated very much the comforts and service afforded them aboard this boat on her first trip. They were also particularly pleased with the accommodation on this fine new oil burner.

Now that the atmosphere in the Dardanelles has cleared, the Cunard and Anchor Lines are anticipating receiving a large passenger list for their Mediterranean and around-the-world cruises. Particulars regarding these cruises may be obtained, it was stated, on application to one of the Cunard and Anchor Line agents.

AMALGAMATION OF DEFENCE SERVICES PROCEEDING FAST

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Plans for the amalgamation of the departments of militia, naval affairs and air forces into the department of national defence, as provided in the legislation passed by parliament last session, are understood to be progressing rapidly and it is expected that the proclamation creating the amalgamation of a department of national defence will be issued within a month. When it becomes effective, it will bring about numerous changes in the three branches of the defence service as they now stand.

Enrollment in the Canadian air force, it is understood, is to be placed on a permanent footing instead of as at present, the air force becoming a definite wing of the defence services and civil flying being conducted by the Canadian air force, instead of being a separate branch of aviation activity as it has been under the air board. To that end, officers of the force in various parts of the Dominion, are being sounded out to learn whether or not they would enroll permanently in the air force as part of the defence service. Officers, it is understood, who are presently enrolled as members of the Canadian air force under the new department, will carry out whatever civil flying may be necessary for the different government departments, as part of their training.

BUSINESS MEN INSPECT NEW SOOKE LINE SERVICE

The new gasoline coach, which will inaugurate a Victoria-Sooke service on Monday, made its first official run over the Canadian National line from the city westward some twenty-six miles to Milne's Landing, with a party of Victoria citizens yesterday afternoon.

The regular passenger service to Sooke will be commenced Monday. The coach will leave Victoria at eight in the morning and again at four in the afternoon. On this schedule it will reach Milne's Landing at twenty minutes past nine in the morning and twenty minutes past five in the afternoon. It will reach Victoria again at eleven in the morning and seven in the evening. This is the schedule adopted by the Canadian National Railway but it may be altered slightly later when the requirements of the country along the line are better known. The object of the management is to provide the most convenient service possible. The coach will be under the management of Conductor Walter Regan.

The party of businessmen and Chamber of Commerce officers who made yesterday's trip over the Canadian National line to Sooke were delighted with the new coach, which is of a model widely used on branch railway lines on this continent now. The party was personally conducted by C. F. Earle, District Passenger Agent; H. A. Stuart, District Freight Agent, and H. L. Johnston, Acting District Engineer. The coach proved a comfortable conveyance and covered the twenty-six miles to Milne's Landing in about an hour. The coach stopped for twenty minutes at Milne's Landing so that the party could inspect it more thoroughly.

Fine Scenic Route.

The new service will not only be of great value in the development and settlement of the Sooke district but it will cover a beautiful scenic route. The line passes through a country with a wide variety of scenery. In some places it travels through thick woods and in others well kept farms lie on either side of the track. The line passes along the edge of some charming lakes and then skirts Sooke Harbor in a beautiful circle.

In anticipation of the opening of service on the Canadian National line as far as Sooke settlers already have made considerable strides in many places. New clearings and gardens are seen all along the line, new gardens have been planted and large quantities of cordwood have been cut for shipment into Victoria.

ion Tuesday, and passed through the Canal. She is expected to be delayed at San Francisco for three days as a result of the fire. She will reach here about the first week in November.

SALVAGE OF TANKER PROCEEDS SLOWLY

Salvage of Lyman Stewart Depends Upon Weather Conditions

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Salvage work on the stranded oil tanker Lyman Stewart, which went ashore last Saturday at Point Lobos following a collision with the freighter Walter A. Luchenbach, is progressing slowly. The saving of the stranded vessel depends upon weather conditions during the next few days, salvage men said. If the weather continues favorable and there is no heavy seas, it is expected the ship will be pulled off the beach within the next few days.

The Pacific Mail steamer President Cleveland has been placed on drydock to undergo an overhauling. A complete survey will be made of the vessel to ascertain if any damage was sustained when the ship grounded at the mouth of the Yangtze River on her last trip to the Orient. It is believed the vessel will be off the drydock in time to load freight and sail for the Orient October 18.

FEAR TROUBLE FROM I.W.W. ELEMENT

Portland, Ore., Oct. 14.—The second strike of longshoremen here this year was launched last night along the waterfront. The move was characterized by the employers as organized under the guidance of the Marine Transport Workers' Industrial Union No. 518, I.W.W., and supported by a group of the members of Union 35-E, International Longshoremen's Association. Reports to the waterfront employers were that there had been a hurriedly called meeting of the International Longshoremen's Association in the afternoon, and a decision to support the strike was reached.

Police were sent to Terminal No. 1 and Terminal No. 4, reports that the former being that union men feared trouble from the I.W.W. element, but that no actual clashes had taken place.

MAKURA DOCKS WITH GOOD LIST

Brings 118 Passengers and 1,808 Tons of Cargo

The Makura, Captain R. Crawford, which berthed this morning here, brought 118 passengers and 1,808 tons of cargo. The vessel had an uneventful trip, and enjoyed the finest kind of weather throughout. The Makura left Sydney for Victoria on September 26.

When the liner arrived at quarantine a case of measles was discovered, as a result of which the mother and child were detained at William Head and after due precautions were taken the liner proceeded to the Outer Docks.

The big vessel had no freight for Victoria, but delivered over two hundred sacks of mail here. The passengers disembarking here were as follows:

First saloon: Mrs. A. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Richardson, Mr. G. Walker, Miss G. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pratt, Mrs. E. Whitmore. Second saloon: Mrs. E. Byrnald, Mrs. G. Barber, Master K. Barber, Mr. H. Troyer, Miss E. Teesdale. Third class: Mr. and Mrs. L. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Richardson.

The liner sailed for Vancouver at 10:30 o'clock.

THE ROUTE OF THE "CONTINENTAL LIMITED"

In Western Canada its route is known as the "Jasper Park-Mount Robson" route, and while the line passes through some of the finest mountain scenery in the world it has the distinction of having the lowest altitude of any transcontinental railway crossing the Rockies the highest point reached in crossing the "Great Divide" being 5712 feet. Eastbound across the prairies through Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg, the line traverses some of the finest farm lands of the west, thence east from Winnipeg over the beautiful lake country of northern Ontario and the famous Cobalt mining district, reaching all southern and western points from Ontario through North Bay, thence on to Ottawa, the capital city, and Montreal, the eastern metropolis of Canada.

The equipment of the "Continental Limited" is of the latest all-steel construction and carries cars for all classes of traffic, including colonist, tourist and standard sleeping cars, with model dining and observation cars, as well as the regulation coaches for day passengers.

This train leaves for the east at 7:45 p.m. daily from the Canadian National Depot, Vancouver.

SETTLERS AND DOMESTICS ARRIVE

SS. Montcalm from Liverpool Brings Many Passengers

Quebec, Oct. 14.—The Canadian Pacific 16,400-ton steamship Montcalm, in command of Capt. R. Rennie, O.B.E., from Liverpool with 1,012 passengers, 484 cabin and 528 third class, arrived and docked at Quebec at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The majority of passengers in both classes were returned Canadians. Among the new settlers in the third class were sixteen children for the St. Joseph's Catholic Home at Ottawa, Ont., and thirty domestic servants who came out under the auspices of the Salvation Army, destined for Winnipeg.

Among the cabin passengers were Lady MacMaster, widow of the late Sir Donald MacMaster; Major Hepburn, who accompanied the remains of the late A. W. Hepburn, who died in England, and are brought to Canada for burial; Capt. M. W. Flunkett, of Toronto, promoter of the "Dumbell" theatrical company; Chief Justice Mathers, of Winnipeg, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Mathers, returning from a three months' holiday tour of Europe.

H. G. WELLS' FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY The Romance of Mother Earth TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT—30 Men of Many Shades and Tints

But among the numerous obstacles and interruptions to intermixture of the races of men there have been certain main barriers, such as the Atlantic Ocean, the highlands, once higher, and the now vanished seas of Central Asia and the like, which have cut off great groups of varieties over long periods of time. These separated groups of varieties developed very early certain broad resemblances and differences.

Most of the varieties of men in eastern Asia and America, but not all, have now this in common, that they have yellowish buff skins, straight black hair, and often high cheek-bones. Most of the native peoples of Africa south of the Sahara, but not all, have black, or blackish skins, flat noses, thick lips and frizzy hair.

Differences of Color and Hair

In north and western Europe a great number of peoples have fair hair, blue eyes and ruddy complexion; and about the Mediterranean there is a prevalence of white-skinned peoples with dark eyes and black hair. The black hair of many of these dark whites is straight, but never so strong and waveless as the hair of the yellow peoples. It is straighter in the east than in the west.

In southern India we find brownish and darker peoples with straight black hair, and these as we pass eastward give place to more distinctly yellow peoples. In scattered islands and in Papua and New Guinea we find another series of black and brownish peoples of a more lowly type with frizzy hair.

But it must be borne in mind that these are very loose-fitting generalizations. Some of the areas and isolated pockets of mankind in the Asiatic area may have been under conditions more like those in the European area; some of the African areas are of more Asiatic and less distinctive African type.

We find a wavy-haired fairish hairy-skinned race, the Ainu, in Japan. They are more like the Europeans in their facial type than the surrounding yellow Japanese. They may be a drifted patch of the whites or they may be a quite distinct people. We find primitive black people in the Andaman Islands far away from Africa. There is a streak of very negroid blood traced in south Persia and some parts of India. These are the "Asiatic" negroids.

Like Conditions, Like People

There is little or no proof that all black people—the Australoids, the Asiatic negroids, and the negroes, derive from one origin, but only that they have lived for vast periods under similar conditions.

We must not assume that human beings in the eastern Asiatic area were all differentiating in one direction and all the human beings in Africa, in another. There were great currents of tendency, it is true, but there were also backwaters, eddies, admixtures, readmixtures, and leakages from one main area to the other.

A colored map of the world to show the races would not present just four great areas of color; it would have to be dabbed over with a multitude of tints and intermediate shades, simple here, mixed and overlapping there.

In the early Neolithic Period in Europe it may be 10,000 or 12,000 years ago or so—man was differentiating all over the world, and he had already differentiated into a number of varieties, but he has never differentiated into different species.

A "species," we must remember, in biological language is distinguished from a "variety" by the fact that varieties can interbreed, while species either do not do so, or produce offspring which, like mules, are sterile. All mankind can interbreed freely.

years that the varieties of men came to be regarded in this light, as a tangle of differentiations recently arrested or still in progress. Before that time students of mankind, influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the story of Noah and the Ark and his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japhet, were inclined to classify men into three or four great races, and

Australoid types

Caucasian types

ly, can learn to understand the same speech, can adapt itself to co-operation. And in the present age, man is probably no longer undergoing differentiation at all. Readmixture is now a far stronger force than differentiation. Men mingle more and more. Mankind from the view of a biologist is an animal species in a state of arrested differentiation and possible readmixture. It is only in the last fifty or sixty they were disposed to regard these races as having always been separate things, descended from originally separate ancestors. They ignored the great possibilities of blended races and of special local isolations and variations.

Blended Races

The classification has varied considerably, but there has been rather too much readiness to assume that mankind must be completely divided into three or four main groups. Ethnologists (students of race) have fallen into grievous disputes about a multitude of minor peoples, as to whether they were of this or that primary race, "pure" or "strayed" early forms, or what not. But all races are more or less mixed. There are, no doubt, four main groups, but each is a miscellany, and there are little groups that will not go into any of the four main divisions.

Subject to these reservations, when it is clearly understood that when we speak of these main divisions we mean not simple and pure races, but groups of races, then they have a certain convenience in discussion.

Of the European and Mediterranean area and western Asia there are, and have been for many thousand years, white people, usually called the Caucasians, subdivided into two or three subdivisions, the northern blonds or Nordic race, an alleged intermediate race about which many authorities are doubtful, the so-called Alpine race, and the southern dark whites, the Mediterranean or Iberian race; over eastern Asia and America a second group of races prevails, the Mongolians, generally with yellow skins, straight black hair and sturdy bodies; over Africa, the Negroes and in the region of Australia and New Guinea the black, primitive Australoids.

These are convenient terms, provided the student bears in mind that they are not exactly defined terms. They represent only the common characteristics of certain main groups of races; they leave out a number of little peoples who belong properly to none of these divisions, and they disregard the perpetual mixing where the main groups overlap.

LABOR SECRETARY CRITICIZES C. N. D.

Objects Wage Reduction and Abolition of Eight-hour Day on This Island

A boycott of all Canadian National Railway lines in Canada as a protest against the abolition of the eight-hour day and the lowering of wages to $3 a day on Vancouver Island branches of the national railroads is threatened by E. S. Woodward, the secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council in a statement issued today.

The statement calls the attention of the Federal Government and the Liberal Party to the "violation" here of the "wage scale" laid down by the Dominion Fair Wage Officer, which is $4 for an eight-hour day, and urges the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to organize a labor boycott of the Canadian National lines.

The statement is as follows: "I am forwarding to the management of the Canadian National Railway a vigorous protest against the wages and conditions obtaining on railway maintenance and construction work in this vicinity. An advertisement in the 'wage scale' laid down by the Dominion Fair Wage Officer, which is $4 for an eight-hour day, and urges the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to organize a labor boycott of the Canadian National lines.

The attention of Premier Mackenzie King is being called to the matter in order that the attitude of the Liberal party to the question may be definitely determined. Each of the new directors will also be communicated with. In the meantime a boycott of the national lines by the white workers of the country would seem to be a reasonable retaliatory measure, and immediate steps will be taken to ask the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to organize such a movement."

HARVEST FESTIVAL

The Harvest Festival will be celebrated to-morrow at the Church of Our Lord, Humboldt Street, the pastor, the Rev. A. de B. Owen preaching at both services. The church will be prettily decorated for the occasion and appropriate music will be sung.

KUMTUKS DANCE AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Members of the Kumtuks Club proved themselves ideal hostesses at their second annual dance held in the Alexandra ballroom last evening, when nearly one hundred and fifty guests danced under the most delightful conditions to the strains of Heaton's five-piece orchestra.

The attractiveness of the decorations of the ballroom recently carried out by the management was enhanced by an abundance of lovely Autumn flowers, the kindly gift of Mrs. R. P. Butchart, and graceful mural pillars of ivy. The new gallery with its attractive stairways from the ballroom was prettily decorated with ivy and streamers in the Kumtuks colors of blue, green and gold, while the word "Kumtuks" in bold lettering over the main mirror was an effective note. The decorative scheme was in the hands of Miss Kitto and her committee. Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Cree and Mrs. Sweeney of the entertainment committee, assisted materially with the success of the affair.

The guests were received on arrival by Miss Bowron, the president and members of the club, Miss Macrae and Miss McLaren presiding at the seat of customs. A delicious sit-down supper was served in the basement cafe under the direction of Mr. Newton, bowls of marigolds lending a pretty touch of color to the table.

On Monday evening the Club will hold its monthly business meeting at the Alexandra Club, Pemberton

CONTROVERSY RAGES ON POLITICAL ISSUES

New Charge Concerning Government Contract by Stevens

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—With charges and counter-charges being flung about, the controversy between Attorney-General Manson and Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, continues, says The Vancouver Daily Province.

At Esquimalt Thursday night Hon. Mr. Manson made further denials of Mr. Stevens' charges, and later in the evening he amplified those by the rejoinder to a statement issued by the former Federal Minister.

Yesterday morning, the newspaper says, Hon. Mr. Stevens brought new material into the controversy, when he made serious charges against the Provincial Government in connection with the settlement of a dispute between the Department of Lands and a contractor on the Southern Okanagan irrigation project.

Mr. Stevens' statement was as follows: "On the completion of his work a contractor named Griffin had a claim against the Government for $7,000. This claim was disputed. The contractor's solicitors were a well-known Conservative firm in Vancouver, and they applied for a fiat to sue the Government. Although there was no official refusal of their request to obtain the fiat.

"Mr. Griffin went to see a Minister of the Crown in regard to the matter, and was informed he would get along more rapidly if he changed his solicitors. On a second interview with the Minister, the latter advised Mr. Griffin, not on his own responsibility, but on that of the Attorney-General, that he should retain J. A. Campbell, president of the Vancouver City Liberal Association, to act for him in the matter.

"Mr. Griffin accepted this advice, and within a day or two Mr. Campbell had obtained for him a settlement of the full amount of his claim, without reference to any court. For this Mr. Campbell received a handsome fee.

"My point in this, and in the other cases I have cited, is that a citizen cannot get justice at the hands of the Attorney-General's department except through extreme partisan sources. In this particular case, I would like the Attorney-General to explain why he was justified in referring a reference to the Court of this supposedly disputed account, when on the application of the president of the Liberal Association, he paid it in full without apparently any further investigation."

Give Address.—To enable the public to secure a better service, persons sending letters or parcels are requested to place the sender's name and address on the outside of the article to be forwarded. This will eliminate delays in case the letter or parcel cannot be delivered.

Files Damage Action.—A suit for $20,000 damages as the result of an accident when he was thrown from his bicycle and carried for some distance along the road by a street car was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of Frederick Elford Norris, of this city. The action is brought against the B. C. Electric Railway Company, who in the endorsement of the writ are charged with negligence. H. G. Lawson acts for the plaintiff, a lad who had an arm amputated after the accident on Port Street, near Belmont Avenue, in June of this year.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Tubercular Veterans' Association.—A general meeting will be held on Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the G.W. V.A. club rooms.

Soloist's Badge Found.—Active service badge No. 2429, found by a citizen recently, is now in the hands of the city police awaiting its owner, who may secure same on proof of identity.

B. C. Goat Breeders.—The regular monthly meeting of the local members of the B. C. Goat Breeders' Association will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday next, October 16, at 8 p. m.

False Alarm Rung.—A false alarm at the inconvenient hour of 2:42 a.m. disturbed the headquarters station of the local fire department this morning. The alarm occasioned a needless run to Superior and Menzies Streets.

Bitten by Dog.—Bitten by a dog on the thigh, James Darcy appealed to the city police to-day for action in respect to the dog. The police will notify the owner. The incident occurred at 4:30 p.m. yesterday when the complainant was walking on Regent Street.

Maltese Leave.—A call to the city police yesterday from the immigration authorities to find a Maltese sailor who went ashore from the Italian steamship Brenia, lying at berth in the Upper Harbor, led to that man being picked up a few hours later and returned to his ship.

Play Dangerous Prank.—That certain children were in the habit of placing blocks of wood on the B. C. Electric tracks near Caledonia Avenue was reported to the police yesterday. The matter is being investigated. The practice might cause the derailment of a car, it was pointed out.

Children's Day To-morrow.—The third Sunday in October is observed as "Children's Day" throughout the Anglican Church in Canada. Observance of the day will be made in Anglican churches and Sunday Schools to-morrow. Parents are especially invited to accompany their children to one or more of the public services announced in the various parish churches.

Events to Come.—The Autumn Carnival in aid of the funds of the association will be staged by the Great War Veterans' Association at the Royal Victoria Theatre on the evening of November 9-11, with a matinee performance on Armistice Day. It is announced, instead of in the old Drill Hall. Rehearsals for the affair will continue in the Empress Hotel ballroom under P. L. Linwood.

Parent-Teachers Meet.—A meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Margaret Jenkins School was held last night with Major Clarke in the chair. The election of officers resulted in the following appointments: President, Mr. Carey; first vice-president, Mr. Gee; second vice-president, Mrs. F. W. Baylis; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. Gatenby; and committee, including Messrs. Haverfield and Smith, with Messrs. Hurn, Donnell, Denny and Clarke. It was decided to hold a sale of work next month. Some 80 members attended.

Urges Repeal of Tax.—Following a meeting of the Board of the B. C. Association of Canada held in Vancouver recently, it was decided to urge the repeal of the personal property tax at the next session of the House at Ottawa. L. E. Richards, baker, and P. B. Scurrah, ladies' wear, both of this city, were appointed chairmen of those respective committees. In urging the repeal of the personal property tax, stated W. Ing, the secretary, the R. M. A. will lay before the House substantive proposals for the collection of an equivalent revenue.

Whist Drive.—The Rex Theatre, enjoyable whist drive recently when the Scottish Daughters' League of Esquimalt entertained a large gathering of their friends there. Mrs. McIntosh and Mrs. Wallace were joint conveners for the card games, the prizewinners for which were: Ladies, first, Mrs. Tom Scott; second, Mrs.

HUNTERS OUT AFTER RING-NECKS TO-DAY

Many Sportsmen in Quest of Pheasants; Quail and Duck in Season Also

Birds Are Reported to Be Plentiful; Many Deer Are Now Coming In

Hunters faced the dawn of to-day with renewed interest in the shooting season, for to-day pheasant, valley quail, European partridge and duck come within the legal purview of the sportsman in the general opening as set by the Game Board.

Heretofore hunters have been having but poor luck with a blue grouse season that did not open until most of the birds were well away to the tree tops, and with deer that lay quiescent in the dry cracks of the woods. The opening to-day, however, throws fresh energy into the chase and sportsmen were not slow to seize the opportunity of the first real day's hunting this year.

For the convenience of those who will seek the woods in this connection the following summary of dates is given:

Pheasant, bag limit six daily, open now, to close November 30.

Ducks, twenty daily, open now, to close January 20.

Valley quail, twenty daily, open now, to close December 31.

European partridge, six daily, open now, to close December 31.

Mountain quail are closed this season and may not be shot.

Birds Plentiful

Reports from a large number of sources say that the birds are plentiful this year after a bumper breeding season and favorable weather. The blue grouse season was disappointing, not from the lack of birds so much as from the lateness of the opening date.

Deer are plentiful and beginning to move around in the bush. Already some fine bucks have come down the line, the congestion occurring over the week-end, as a rule.

A Serious Accident

A serious hunting accident is reported to the Provincial police here to-day, taking place within three miles of Duncan, B.C., on Sunday morning last, when Frederick Bonnell was accidentally shot by his companion in the woods, Frank Churchill, both of Duncan.

A bullet of the 30-30 rifle of Churchill entered his companion's right leg and inflicted a wound that is occasioning some alarm. Bonnell was removed to hospital, where his condition at the first of the week was reported to be grave. The leg was operated upon, and the after effects of the shot were somewhat feared. It is now hoped, however, that the wound accidentally inflicted will not prove as serious as it once seemed.

Hunters need not be reminded that it is an offence to have a loaded weapon in a vehicle, motor or otherwise, and the shooting of game from the public highway is prohibited alike by the laws of the country and the dictates of sanity. So far, the Victoria deer season has been a most successful one.

PLENTY OF ACTION IN VANCOUVER RING

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 14.—Vic Foley, of Vancouver, and Mike Ballerino, of Tacoma, junior lightweights, fought a clever slashing ten-round draw here last night. Ballerino had the better of the first five rounds, Foley appearing content to stay away from the former's vicious right swings. In the last five rounds Foley gave Ballerino a very pretty boxing lesson and more than evened up the bout.

A Clever Exhibition.

Henry Insel, of Seattle, was given the decision over Pym Duncan, of Vancouver, after the four cleverest rounds of the evening. Duncan piled up quite a lead in the first two rounds, but was unable to evade Insel after that. They arebantamweights.

Buddy Rysky, of Tacoma, had all the better of a four-round go with Joe Nestman, of Vancouver. They are lightweights.

Jack Stanton and Jack McDonald, a couple of local heavyweights, mugged one another around the ring for four rounds; at the end of which Stanton was given the decision.

LASKAR WINS CHESS TITLE OF THE STATES

New York, Oct. 14.—Edward Lasker, of Chicago, Western chess champion, won the ninth American chess tournament last night by defeating in the final round J. Bernstein, New York state champion, in 25 moves and 4, lost 1.

THE MAN-BEHIND

Flasby Forward To Perform This Year

Frank Frederickson Will Play Centre Ice For Victoria For Third Season; Lester Patrick Received "Freddie's" Signed Contract Much to His Relief and to Fans' Satisfaction; Coming Out Early to Get In Shape For His Best Season

Frank Frederickson is coming back to Victoria to play hockey. He'll wear the blue and gold uniform of the Aristocrat this winter, which will make his third season in Coast hockey.

With his signing "Freddie" comes the high with a little advance hope to the effect that he believes that this will be the greatest season of his young life and that he hopes to be able to show his real dash. He adds that he has a hunch that Victoria will cop the Coast championship, then come through and trim the National Hockey League whirlwinds and polish off a record season by subduing the prairie champions and annexing the hockey world's "serious" Freddie puts the finishing touch to his fond hopes with the following words:

"Boy, wouldn't that be some season."

Lester is Relieved.

When Lester Patrick, manager of the Aristocrats, received Frank's signed contract he felt considerably relieved. If "Freddie" had not decided to come back the local moral would have had a hard job finding a man to fill the shoes of his flashy centre-ice man.

When the season closed last Spring there was some doubt as to whether or not "Freddie" would come back to the Coast. He was anxious to follow a business career and did not know whether or not it would be convenient for him to get away from the Coast. He is not the first athlete to find it impossible to place his business ambitions above his desire to play hockey.

MISS WETHERED PLAYS FINE GOLF IN TOURNEY

Huntsville, England, Oct. 14.—Miss Joyce Wethered, who won the British ladies' golf championship yesterday, played fine golf throughout the tournament, beating her opponents by substantial margins until Thursday, when she had a narrow escape, Miss Molly Gourlay taking her to the nineteenth hole in the semi-finals before Miss Wethered was able to win. The champion took this match after Miss Gourlay's ball had tipped the cup and rolled away, winding up the closest match ever seen in the championships.

SIKI FAILED TO PULL DOWN PRE-FIGHT PRICE

New York, Oct. 14.—Sid Marks, of Canada, and Charley White, of Chicago, lightweights, have been signed for a twelve-round bout here on October 20, it was announced to-day.

MAJOR LEAGUE BALL TEAM STARTS JAUNT TO ORIENT TO-DAY

New York, Oct. 14.—The baseball pilgrimage to Japan which several major league stars will undertake to unwind a few kinks in the game for the adaptable Nipponese, was warned up for the Wolverine Express, leaving for Chicago at 5 p.m. to-day.

QUEEN'S UNDER FIRE

There has been considerable criticism of Queen's this year for what is termed their disregard for the conventions in calling to their standard players of the calibre of Thomas and Batters. Batters, it is said, had secured employment in Ottawa and had cast his lot with the Senators before Queen's dangled an attractive offer before his eyes. Thomas, too, it is said, changed plans that he had definitely stated to be permanent, after negotiations with members of the Queen's sport executive. There is just the possibility that an inter-collegiate football war will result.

WALTER AND JOE WIN

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.—Walter Hagen, British golf champion, and Joe Kirkwood, Australian titleholder, yesterday defeated Jim Barnes, former holder of the British crown, and John Parrott, the New York star, in the 36-hole benefit match on the links of the Marion County club.

HE'S COMING BACK

MISKE GETS SHADY WIN OVER GIBBONS

Heavyweight Bout Fished Suddenly When Tommy Delivered Foul Blow

Gibbons Had Miske Looking Like Novice-All Way, But Slipped in Tenth

New York, Oct. 14.—Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, lost on a foul to Billy Miske, his fellow townsman, in the tenth round of their scheduled 15-round bout last night.

Gibbons had been leading until the fight was stopped, when Miske claimed he had been struck low and could not continue.

Gibbons was far in the lead on points and had Miske appearing unaccountably when the bout ended, as the tenth round started both men advanced to the center of the ring and fell into a close exchange, both playing for the stomach. Gibbons played for the stomach, Gibbons leveraged with his right and as he brought it down Miske stepped forward and the blow struck Bill in the groin. He dropped helpless to the floor and Gibbons stepped away.

For a few seconds both the audience and referee, Kid McParland, seemed amazed. Miske sat on the floor, his face white with evident agony, but it was some time before McParland stepped over and grabbing Miske by the shoulders, lifted him to his corner.

MISKE OUTLASHED.

In the preceding nine rounds of fighting Gibbons emulated the noted shift work of his brother, Mike, called the "St. Paul Phantom." He feinted in and out with amazing dexterity, plunging back now and then to drive a left jab to the head or to hook both fists into Miske's body. Gibbons landed ten blows to Miske's one, yet the latter was not greatly weakened.

The craftiness of Gibbons made Miske appear all the slower. Even when Tom did not duck away, Bill was short with his lunges and inaccurate at closer range. At times the crowd giggled at Miske's inability to place his fists on Gibbons's body.

Both Men Wild.

Round 1—They met in the center of the ring and fell into a sharp exchange. Miske landed first, a short right to the head. They kept at close range. Miske missed a wide swing and Gibbons sent a right hook to the ribs. They kept exchanging evenly at long range. Both were wild.

Round 2—They clinched. Gibbons placed his left to Miske's head and Bill missed a return. Miske caught Gibbons with a left hook to the jaw. Both sent left jabs to the head. The men were lively but doing little damage.

Round 3—Gibbons jabbed a hard left to the jaw. Miske rushed him to his corner and grabbing him tossed him along the ropes. Gibbons was bleeding from a cut on the head. Miske sent a smashing right to the face, then missed a right hook. Gibbons feinted and caught Miske with a hard right to the jaw.

Round 4—Gibbons landed several hard blows to the head, but Miske missed his life repeated his attack, hooked several times with his left to the head and again made Billy miss. Gibbons jabbed some more and then had the better of the fighting.

Miske's Eye Colors.

Round 5—They were cautious and danced around. Gibbons sent a short uppercut to the jaw, then missed a left cross. Miske's left eye began to color and swell and Gibbons pounded it twice with hard rights. Tom missed an uppercut.

Round 6—They exchanged body blows, then Gibbons started his shifting tactics and when Miske stepped into the feints Tom stung hard left jabs. Miske began to miss often. Gibbons kept shooting his left to the head.

Round 7—Gibbons's footwork had

IS SURE OF HIS JOB

CHARLEY HOLLOCHER

When He Played His Natural Game He Made Good

By Billy Evans.

If there could be such a thing as a duplicate of Honus Wagner, then Charley Hollocher of the Chicago Cubs fills the bill.

At least, such is the opinion of veteran players and critics who saw the "Flying Dutchman" gobble in grounders at shortstop and who have followed Hollocher as Cubs' shortstopper.

Hollocher, like Wagner, seems to be in perpetual motion. Instead of digging the spikes deep into the dirt, he swerves and sways as the pitcher is delivering the ball, and allows himself to get a running start on all balls hit in his direction.

The difference between Hollocher and Wagner is found only in physical figures.

Wagner a Giant.

Honus was a ponderous athlete; broad shoulders, a chest the size of a heavyweight wrestler, and a pair of hands that would have fitted more comfortably in a ham skin than a pair of gloves.

Hollocher reaches but five feet eight inches and weighs in the neighborhood of 150—but he's all muscles and steel.

Hollocher has improved probably more than any player in the National League this season, and those on the inside say that Bill Killefer, manager of the Cubs, is responsible for the change in his shortstopper.

Hollocher is of the temperamental type that doesn't thrive on nagging. That was his men under a certain Cub regime. Another Cub leader tried to change his batting style and also offered many suggestions as to his fielding. Hollocher tried to follow the management of the Cubs. Under Killefer he has played remarkably well. Killefer has handled him very differently from any other Cub manager. Didn't Like Nagging.

PAUL STRAND SETS NEW HITTING MARK

Salt Lake Player Made His 283rd Hit This Season; Seals Win Their Game

Seattle, Oct. 14.—Paul Strand, centerfielder, for the Bees, this afternoon broke the record in organized baseball for number of hits in one season.

While the Indians were defeating his team four to one, he made two nines, bringing his total for the season to 283. The record was previously held by Kirke, of the Louisville American Association team, made in 1920.

Captain Nearly Does It.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Captain Jim Scott practically pitched the Seals into the pennant yesterday afternoon when he allowed only four hits, shutting out Oakland, 2 to 0. The defeat of Vernon at the hands of Los Angeles means that if San Francisco wins one more game or Vernon loses one the Seals will become the champions. It was expected that yesterday's victory would finally decide the pennant race, but the decision of the San Francisco team to play Tuesday's postponed contest today means that the latter still has four games to play. The Seals are three and one-half games in the lead and should they lose all four and Vernon win its remaining three the teams would be tied.

Little Pete Kilduff won yesterday's contest when he stole home with the first run in the fourth inning. The Oaks threatened in the ninth when Marriott, pinch hitter, led off with a two-bagger. A moment later there was a roar from the stands when Scott picked him off second.

Lost On Wild Throws.

Los Angeles, Oct. 14.—Two throwing past first base by "Wild Bill" James yesterday cost Vernon the game. Los Angeles defeating the Tigers, 2 to 1. James was taken out in the seventh after his second overthrow. He had allowed but two hits up to that time. Carroll made first on an infield scratch in the sixth when James made the first hit toss, and came around to the plate on sacrifices by McCabe and Deal. In the seventh Lindimore walked and went to second when James misjudged a throw in an attempt to get him napping. McCabe sacrificed and Lindimore came home on Twombly's punt.

Vernon scored his only run in the first when Chadbourne tripled and scored on High's sacrifice drive.

'VARSITY ATHLETES GATHER AT THE 'PEG

Star Track Men from Prairie Provinces Gather for Annual Sports

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Saskatchewan and Alberta representatives for the inter-varsity track and field meet which will be held here this afternoon arrived yesterday feeling in the pink of condition and ready to compete against Manitoba varsity for the inter-provincial university track honors. At present Manitoba holds the championship. Rain last night made the outlook very unfavorable for a fast track.

Twenty athletes from both provinces made the trip, along with their managers and trainers. Saskatchewan will be represented by 12 athletes, while Alberta will depend on eight athletes to win premier honors for them. Prof. Dines, of the University faculty; W. Broadfoot and Wm. Macleod, will represent Saskatchewan at the annual meeting of Western University athletes here to-day.

This is the first inter-varsity track meet ever held in Winnipeg and interest over the outcome is at the highest peak.

Manitoba has another strong team lined up to defend the Cairns trophy, including Clive Neilson, last year's champion, and Johnny Assinane, another favorite for this year's title. Besides these are Creighton, Haywood and Eaton, in the weight; Purtee, in the jumps; Campbell and Murray in the half and mile, and McGill in the quarter, half and three miles.

CUBS EVEN SERIES WITH THE WHITE SOX

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The Chicago Nationals batted Ted Blankenship off the mound yesterday and took the edge in the city series, three games to two, by defeating the American Leaguers 7 to 2. Blankenship allowed only two scratch hits until the Cubs launched their heavy attack against him in the sixth. Aldridge was backed up by sterling support in the pinches.

PRINCESS MARY KEEPS EYE ON KITCHEN; KING SELLS ROYAL STATE COACHES

His Majesty Continues Work of Cutting Down Expenses Because Bills Got Beyond Regal Purse; His Daughter Allows Fixed Sum For Running Her Home and Checks Up Accounts At Weekly Domestic Council In Her Boudoir.

London, Oct. 14.—Princess Mary, according to the court gossip, is ably carrying out the royal tradition of food housekeeping started by Queen Victoria and preserved by Queen Mary, although it was badly broken by Queen Alexandra. The Princess, it is said, is following the general principles of housekeeping she learned under her mother's tuition.

She allows a certain sum to her housekeeper for the running expenses of Chesterfield House. Once a week she holds a domestic council in her boudoir, checking up the housekeeper's books to see if any items can be cut down or cut out.

One of Queen Mary's favorite maxims in running royal establishments is "It is unwise to be parsimonious; it is foolish to be extravagant." And the Princess adheres to this sentiment.

For instance, she is very particular that lights should not be burned in rooms not being used. In many big London mansions the main living rooms are lit from dusk to bedtime, whether occupied or not. Consequently, Princess Mary's lighting bills are said to be 15 per cent. less than those of other great social establishments.

She is fortunate in having a first class housekeeper, who was the assistant at Buckingham Palace and with the Queen's permission went with the Princesses Mary and Louise. The Princess frequently visits her kitchens. She then follows the Queen's practice, her mother having often said to her:

"When you have a household of your own you must not neglect the kitchen. A well conducted kitchen is the basis of good housekeeping." King George continues reducing the royal household expenses, partly as an example to the British people, no doubt, but mainly because the cost of living has mounted higher than the limit of the Sovereign's purse. His latest economy has caused as much astonishment as did his decision not to commission his famous "Royal yacht" in 1919.

Now he has dispensed with the splendid horses which drew the state coach on ceremonial occasions and has gone to the vegetable kingdom for the services of high salaried and other persons employed in the royal stables.

Queen Alexandra, accompanied by Princess Victoria traveled up from Sandringham to Marlborough House to attend the wedding of Prince Paul Chavchavadze and Princess Nina, daughter of the Grand Duchess George of Russia. The wedding was attended by the largest gathering of foreign royalty that has been seen in London for many years, including Queen Olga of Greece with Princess Christina and Princess Andrew and her daughters, the Grand Duchess Xenia, Mrs. William Leeds (Princess Xenia) the bride's sister, and five other Russian Princes. The Dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven, the present Marchioness, and Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten were also present.

Old Lady of Threadneedle Street to Dwell in Modernized Home

BANK OF ENGLAND IN PRESENT AND NEW GUISE

London, Oct. 14.—The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street is getting new frocks. She is going to bloom out in colors brilliant and gay. She is going to appear among her aged and shabby companions with the raiment and mien of matronly beauty which all had thought she would never regain.

The old Bank of England, the old lady who has watched over the golden gains of prosperous British merchants and the gradually dwindling wealth of the landed gentry, is going to be dressed up like some great American beauty. Her lovely old Grecian face alone is not going to be altered one iota. Those smooth and settled lines and that bland, dignified expression are going to smile down upon Threadneedle Street. But she is going to become big and stately.

For a number of years previous to the war it was obvious to all who realized the importance of the functions which the bank had to perform that her equipment was antiquated. The work has had to be farmed out to Croftley and Co. as far back as September, 1917. It was decided by the London County Council that the old bank should be enlarged, but that the dignity and beauty of the old lady should be retained by every means possible. Mr. Herbert Baker and Mr. E. W. Croup, two of the foremost architectural architects in the world, were given the delicate job and shortly will start upon it.

To retain the architectural style of the present building in his enlargement, Mr. Baker has taken the plans of Sir John Soane, who brought the old lady to her present state of plain, patrician comeliness.

These huge blank walls which form the quiet countenance of the bank intend to continue all around the building, and Mr. Baker is going to develop the idea of obtaining section, safety and that solitude which enables the many cares of the old figure to be carried on with ease and efficiency by lighting from the top, which was also Sir John Soane's idea.

However, the rotunda must go. It was the outstanding feature of the bank years ago. It was the rotunda that merchants and gentry from all over the kingdom used to flock to for the issuing of dividend warrants. From all corners of the United Kingdom, from the broad acres of Yorkshire, hundreds, and as time went on thousands, traveled to the old rotunda to get their money. Some on foot, some on horseback and others, choice morsels for the highwaymen, ambling along in their heavy, reeling old coaches.

Majestic beauty is going to be added to the present charms of the bank by building up from every magnificent stone work in the centre of the present structure.

The inside of the bank is likewise

FOREIGNERS GAIN IN TRADE CONTROL OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Figures Show England Losing Grip of Overseas Markets Burden of Unemployment Still Serious and Costly

London, Oct. 14.—Foreign countries are gradually taking a bigger and bigger share in the growing prosperity of the Empire, while England is gradually losing her grip upon these markets.

In the case of Canada, for example, the United Kingdom share of 21.6 per cent. in 1914 dropped to 15.6 per cent. in 1921. England's share in Australia's trade in 1913 was 51.6 per cent. in 1921 it was only 40 per cent. New Zealand showed a decline from 32.9 per cent. to 49.5 per cent. Nineteen years ago Joseph Chamberlain predicted that if Empire trade did not increase "there will not be sufficient employment for our population, and very likely we shall have to meet a crisis even greater than that which our ancestors had to contend with in 1841."

In spite of the somewhat vague hopes of a trade improvement in the near future, Britain's most serious internal trouble is still the burden of unemployment under which British industry has been struggling since the early months of 1921, when the percentage of unemployment in the insured industries rose from 5 to 21 per cent. The enormous drain this is upon the resources of the country may be gauged from the fact that in the first six months of the present year the payment of unemployed benefit alone amounted to $135,000,000.

The Bank of England guard is not exactly the descendant of those volunteers who sprang up from everywhere to defend the old bank, although that is one of the purposes it serves, but it is the survival of the fittest. The Bank of England is now a guard of the old bank, the officers of the guard have the right to enter the old bank and to search it for any hidden hoards of gold or silver. The officers of the guard have the right to enter the old bank and to search it for any hidden hoards of gold or silver.

THIS MAN WANTS JOB WITH THRILL

London, Oct. 14.—Wilfred Whittington of Little Coates, Grimsby, is ambitious. He has made an offer to the Admiralty to be fired from the torpedo tube of a submarine. Failing their acceptance he will jump from Grimsby Tower 300 feet above water level, plunge on a bicycle from the sherelegs, 150 feet high, or go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

So far his feats, he thinks, have been of a purely humdrum character. He has saved about twenty persons from drowning, has offered his blood for transfusion, and has conducted missionary services.

WOMAN DOMINANCE UNDERMINING VITAL FORCES OF WORLD

Males Called on by "Mere Man" to Assert Themselves United States Quoted as Horrible Example Under Petticoats

London, Oct. 14.—"Feminine dominance, like creeping paralysis, is rapidly undermining the vital forces of the world," declares a writer in "The Pall Mall Gazette" who signs himself "A Mere Man." In a long article which gives evidence of deep study of the feminine movement and an extensive knowledge of history and travel he warns the men of all lands to rise up and assert themselves.

The writer points to America as giving a horrible example of a woman's sinister subtleties, and declares "Mere man in America, as far as he counts in domestic and national affairs, is running neck and neck with the buffalo in the race for extinction."

Here are some of his illuminating observations: "International policies are now perceptibly becoming tainted with the characteristic weaknesses symptomatic of people over-swayed by feminine influence."

"In our own country now a woman's vote really is two votes, her own and the vote of her husband. A high time that British men awake from their lethargy and endeavor to stem the tide of feminine dominance."

"Let it be remembered that many of the most appalling disasters in history are traceable to the destructive influences of women over weak rulers. Recent disclosures of the pitiful relations of the Czar to the Czarina of Russia supply a classical example, while among the masses of the Russian people it is clear at the period of catatonia that the nation's will is dominantly feminine to a phenomenal degree resembling conditions in America to-day."

"Women rise to power only when men have sunk. It is vital for a man to offer greater resistance to the subtler processes of his wife's mental suasion in order to evade the subjugation to which he is exposed. A woman herself does not comprehend why she plays the role of predator to the man. She should strive to realize that the more she succeeds the more she fails, for by rendering the will of a man void and ineffective she nullifies his individuality and invalidates his very existence. It is immoral to attach blame to a woman because she is not a responsible agent."

"The crash of thrones cannot rightly be attributed to the promptings of women who have rattled men's judgments, but to the failure of men to apprehend the problems of nature with which their minds have been designed to grapple. Comprehension of the pitfalls of women's subtle art is second only to the man. She necessarily plays to his vanity, which is immeasurable, and studies her art from the tenderest years to old age."

"It is necessary only to keep our eyes steadily fixed on the final fatal results attending the operation of the surreptitious forces of the nations against the citadel of masculine intelligence in all the nations of the earth."

LONDON'S CRIME CENTRE SHIFTS TO GAY WEST END

Daring Criminals Have Left Limehouse and Docks Bill Sikes Now Wears Dinner Coat and Nancy a Dancin' Frock

London, Oct. 14.—"Limehouse," Whitechapel, "the Mint" and the docks are no longer London's crime centre. The Bill Sikes of to-day wears a dinner coat every night and Nancy's successor dons a smart dancin' frock—with frequent changes. They frequent Piccadilly circus and the quiet streets off it and the neighborhood of its companion in song, Leicester Square.

So, at all events, says John Cairns, many years a magistrate in the Thames police court, who has written a book telling of all the big and little crimes which he has reviewed for many years past.

"Cocaine, not liquor, he concludes, appears to be the modern stimulant to crime. Instead of pubs and clubs, the stars of Chinese dens, criminals gather in what are known as 'salting parlors' in the West End. These quiet houses are in districts, and only known habitués are admitted. Under the law as it stands the police are almost powerless for it has been proved again and again that which such places are raided the cocaine is of such little bulk that it can be disposed of down water pipes before the police get in. Furthermore the law would construct swabbing nostrils of a suspect for traces of the drug a case of common assault for which the police might be held liable if they made a mistake. Hence the police are asking Parliament to extend their power in this respect."

Judge Cairns does not believe that drug taking is widespread. "The drug supply does not enter England through the port of London," he said. "It comes to the provincial ports, Liverpool, Swansea and Cardiff, and thence the only market for the stuff in Great Britain is the crime centre in the West End."

Even there the drug is used almost exclusively in high life circles, which have been productive of three or four of London's most repulsive post-war murders. They are the foreboding gathering places of many burglars and pickpockets. The police are relentlessly pursuing cocaine dealers, and one Chinese restaurant and one night club recently were forced more and more dangerous to deal in drugs in the streets of the West End, the police having acquired an uncanny knowledge of the London constables.

Judge Cairns says there is little news about the London docks. The sinister dens described by Thomas Burke in "Limehouse Nights" have almost disappeared, along with their typical Chinese proprietor and the little white girl slaves. Judge Cairns says this is due largely to the keen sense of smell for opium smoke that is possessed by five or six of the East London constables.

He says that cocaine is not reaching the higher circles of society, but is confined practically to the night

PRIZE MANLY TURNS INTO BILLY GOAT

Hull, Eng., Oct. 14.—Dr. F. A. E. Crew, whose references last year to the existence of crowing hens attracted so much attention, had a crowded audience at his lecture before the British Association on intersexuality in domestic animals. He devoted himself chiefly to the goat tribe.

A case was known to him, he said, in which a goat which won prizes when an immature female came later to assume male characteristics, and in its behavior was a male. More than thirty cases similar to this had been brought to his notice.

"I believe," he said, "an animal possessing the functions of the female can undergo such a complete transformation as to function as a male." Instances of this abnormality dated back to 1897, when goats of a foreign nature were imported into this country, and ever since then this tendency to produce abnormality had been on the increase.

He suggested that experiments would show that it was possible to produce a male goat from a female, and that it was possible to produce a female goat from a male.

Julian S. Huxley, speaking of the analysis of the sex factors of growth, said experiments had been made which had a bearing on the determination of sex, but it was impossible to say whether any prophecy on the question of whether science would be able in future to control sex.

FRENCH MAKE PLANES INVISIBLE

London, Oct. 14.—The French military authorities are keeping strictly secret the results of the experiments which they have conducted which were carried out this week over the aviation centre of Le Bourget, near Paris, and are reported in The Times. It has, however, leaked out that the tests were so successful that every effort will be made to produce a practical success.

Any certain method of rendering airplanes invisible in warfare would be a tremendous advantage to the flying service possessing it. One can readily imagine the havoc which German airplanes would have wrought into this country, and ever since they have been able to evade without difficulty the anti-aircraft defenses which so often caused them to turn back.

It is hoped that the French will be able to produce a practical success.

PEARL NECKLACE BEARS PRINCE'S PLANS TO MARRY

London, Oct. 14.—Society here of every degree, always on the lookout for the slightest sign indicating that the Prince of Wales is contemplating marriage has discovered what it deems evidence of his matrimonial intention. His alleged clue is a report that recently he began collecting pearls for a wonderful necklace, presumably for his future bride.

It is recalled that Viscount Lascelles did the same thing before his engagement to Princess Mary. There is some belief that the Prince may have picked up a number of pearls during his East Indian tour to form a basis for a necklace. But he had a much more difficult task than had Lascelles, who is vastly richer than the Prince. Besides, the Viscount had remarkable family jewels, from which he selected pearls to form at least a part of a new necklace.

In England's present democratic days, when royalty is having to economize like every one else, Wales could find pearl collecting the most expensive hobby he has so far taken up.

SMOKERS STRIKE TOBACCO TOO HIGH

London, Oct. 14.—One hundred tobacco users in Crediton, in the county of Devon, have gone on strike and have sworn temporarily to refrain from smoking as a protest against the high prices of tobacco.

They hope that their strike will be widely followed in the British Isles, thus helping to bring down prices. There is a strong feeling against what is regarded as the exploitation of the working classes by the trusts.

SIX BROTHERS IN SAME PULPIT

London, Oct. 14.—The unique spectacle of six brothers occupying the same pulpit has been witnessed at the United Methodist Chapel, Wellington, Durham. One brother, R. B. Collins is sailing for Canada and the other five accompanied him in the pulpit at the farewell service. All are local preachers and one, in addition, is a choirmaster.

The senior Matt Collins was born at Oakenham, Yorkshire. He was

WOMAN STARVES SELF TO DEATH

London, Oct. 14.—At an inquest at Hampton, a single woman, of independent means, it was said that for thirty years she had not been known to have eaten a hearty meal, or a small pudding, or some fish, and all efforts to persuade her to eat more had failed.

Dr. Bernard Spilbury said that there was a complete absence of fat, and that some of the woman's muscles could be seen through the skin. He considered death was due to disease of the heart muscle following lack of nutrition, and the deputy coroner, recorded a verdict to that effect.

WOMAN OUTWITS MAYOR, DODGES JURY

London, Oct. 14.—An application was made by a grand jury woman at the Old Bailey to be excused from service.

The reason for her application she said: "I believe only in the law of kindness and forgiveness."

The Lord Mayor said that your only excuse "Things are conducted in a different way. I don't say that everyone can be forgiven."

The woman: "I should say 'Not guilty to everyone.'"

"I am sorry to hear a lady give such an excuse as that," said the Lord Mayor. "However, you may go."

WHISKY PRIZE WON BY PARSON

London, Oct. 14.—At Weybridge a number of prizes were attached to the holding of certain programmes. Amusement has been caused by the fact that the Rev. Spencer Buller, the rector, who was president of the regatta, held a copy numbered 242, and this entitled him to six bottles of whisky.

The trustees who promised the whisky as a prize carry on business directly opposite the rectory, so they have had no great difficulty in effecting the delivery.

Buller now states that he, in turn, will present the value of the whisky to the local cottage hospital.

CIGARETTES KILL 15-YEAR-OLD BOY

London, Oct. 14.—A Sunderland boy, only fifteen years old, was stated at the inquest to have died from acute gastritis set up by excessive cigarette smoking. His mother said that he had been smoking cigarettes in secret, very heavily.

QUEEN ELIZABETH AND KING GEORGE OF GREECE

Athena, Oct. 14.—Persistent through claims to the throne. But two months later, there was another appeal in Greece and George and Constantine were asked to return to their country.

While George was in Roumania a royal match was arranged between him and Princess Elizabeth. They were married at Bucharest on February 27, 1921. The bride was 27; the bridegroom 31.

But hard luck still pursued the prince. A few days later he was laid up with the mumps, which he caught from his bride.

It was nothing serious, however. As a matter of fact, it seemed to change his luck.

When his father got into trouble and was forced to abdicate, George received the call. The prince took only four hours altogether, as compared with forty-eight hours by the method of sulphur fumigation.

GAS CLEANS SHIP OF ALL VERMIN

London, Oct. 14.—A process of fumigation by means of hydrocyanic gas was carried out at Tilbury Dry Dock on board the steamship Cumberland, of the United States Shipping Board. The object was to make a clean sweep of all vermin on the ship.

A chemist and his staff filled a number of containers with ingredients designed to yield hydrocyanic gas, which is lighter than air, but extremely poisonous. The men wearing masks placed the canisters in various parts of the ship and withdrew some distance, holding wires attached to the lids of the canisters.

The crew were meanwhile assembled on the dockside. When the ship was cleared of men the wires were pulled and the hydrocyanic gas appeared like little opal clouds. The ship was left undisturbed for two hours, and then the chemical staff, wearing masks, went on board with canisters and rats to find whether any gas was still present.

Ultimately the ship was found to be clear of rats, mosquitoes, and other vermin. Tapestries and fittings were all inspected. The process took only four hours altogether, as compared with forty-eight hours by the method of sulphur fumigation.

70,000 LETTERS BRNG ONLY $750

London, Oct. 14.—Owing to the financial position, the governors of the Royal Sussex County Hospital, Brighton, decided to close four wards containing 135 out of a total of 225 beds and to reduce the other activities of the hospital. W. Whillock, chairman of the finance committee, said they had appealed for $50,000 to cover their deficiency by means of 70,000 personal letters, but had obtained only $750, including one gift of $500.

TWO EDINBURGH WOMEN TO RUN

Edinburgh, Oct. 14.—Edinburgh will have at least two women candidates for the House of Commons at the general election. Besides the Duchess of Atholl, the prospective Unionist candidate for Northern Edinburgh, Mrs. Iveson More Nisbett has been adopted as an Independent candidate in the Western Division of the city.

Mrs. More Nisbett is a first-class speaker and during the war did good work as Inspector of Women Police.

LONDON CAFE ROYAL SOON TO DISAPPEAR

London, Oct. 14.—The Cafe Royal, which has catered to those who know fine cooking and loved good wines for more than sixty years and has been the resort of prominent men in the life of England and the Continent, will soon pass into history.

The old establishment, where one can still find the finest games of dominoes and the finest wine in London, was condemned pending reconstruction with their premises under the plan for rebuilding Regent Street.

Daniel Nicholas de Nicol made the Cafe Royal famous with his excellent cuisine and remarkably cellar, but most of all for fostering the atmosphere of art which characterizes the place to-day. For half a century it has been known as the headquarters for the more prominent Frenchmen in London, and the followers of Windsor.

LANCASHIRE LASSES SEE LONDON SIGHTS

London, Oct. 14.—Following the example of the sixty-seven co-eds of Wooster College, Ohio, more than two hundred Lancashire girls came to London the other day to look the town over and, probably, compare it with Manchester, where they all work many being cotton operatives.

Sir Montague Barlow of the Labor Ministry met them at the railway station and accompanied them on a drive around the city and out to Windsor.

RED MOUNTAIN

When this property was acquired in 1915 by Mr. George Wingfield and his associates in the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, it had been opened only to a depth of 200 feet, it had no established earning record and ore reserves were confined to blocks above the 200-foot level.

During the administration of Mr. Wingfield, from 1916 to 1918, the vein was proven to a depth of 500 feet and for a length of 950 feet, more than trebling the visible ore.

It would appear reasonable that if Boundary Red Mountain, in the prospect stage, was good enough to enlist the interest of this multi-millionaire mine operator, that it is deserving of your present consideration under vastly more favorable conditions.

BERRY GROWERS TALK CO-OPERATION

Richmond Producers Are Addressed by Market Experts

Importance of organization as a means of protection to the berry growers of B. C., the benefits to be received through co-operation with the provincial associations, and the paramount importance of the long period contract in pooling production were keynotes in a discussion of the Richmond berry industry of the Lower Mainland at a meeting of farmers in the Brighouse town hall.

H. M. Eddy, president of the B. C. Berry Growers' Association; C. E. Barnes, organizer for the Okanagan United Growers; A. F. Landry, president of the B. C. Fruit and Mercantile Exchange; and J. A. Grant, market commissioner, were the speakers.

Mr. Eddy related the experiences of various organizations in competing with foreign producers where their own production was not protected by contract, and spoke of the desirability of co-operation in a plan which, he said, would permit growers to ship their products at intervals, ensuring protection and equal receipts to all producers.

That the berry men should join and encourage a provincial-wide organization which would place the growers in a position to demand a fair market price, and not be forced to accept any terms the merchants wish to offer, was the contention of Mr. Barnes. He was supported by Mr. Landry, who stated that independent shippers were the cause of the difficulties of the masses of farmers in a position to demand a fair market price.

PAPER MARK FLOOD PLANNED BY BERLIN

7,000,000,000 a Day to Be Output Starting Next Week

Government Plants Unequal to Task so Private Printers Are Impressed

Berlin, Oct. 14.—Beginning October 15, Germany will issue 7,000,000,000 paper marks a day, increasing the amount of currency in circulation by about 200,000,000,000 a month.

The Reichsbank presses are unequal to the task and private printers in Berlin and Leipzig are under contract to produce notes. All the presses are facing to put out notes of from 100 to 5,000 marks denomination. Fifty thousand mark notes will soon be issued in quantities to carry the country through the next four weeks.

The shortage of paper money is still so great, however, that many of the government's financial difficulties are being met by the issue of paper marks.

HOW SIKI DEFEATED GEORGES

Carp Quitting the Ar ena—Beaten

Lands Knockdown

$500,000 Each

Miss Muriel Springs, who has just returned from Europe, is said to have placed a valuation of $500,000 each on her legs in taking out insurance. Lucky she isn't centode.

Showing the peculiar crouch used by the Senegalese battler which baffled Georges Carpentier. Picture shows a tense moment in the early rounds of the fight between Carpentier and Siki.

Carpentier, his face beaten to a pulp and almost disfigured, as he started out of the ring following his crushing defeat at the hands of Siki.

Picture shows the knockdown of Georges Carpentier at the hands of the Senegalese, Battling Siki, in the sixth round of their fight at Paris. Claims were made after the fight that Carpentier kicked Siki when he was knocked down and the picture would seem to fully bear out the claim.

These are the first pictures received from France of the Georges Carpentier-Battling Siki fight. Georges' defeat by Dempsey may be likened to his Moscow (a la Napoleon). It was serious but not final. His defeat by Siki probably will prove to have been his Waterloo.

From the medicine he had to take at Waterloo Napoleon never recovered. It's doubtful if Georges ever will recover, fistically speaking.

Smyrna Refugees in Flight From Burning City

This photograph shows one of the saddest scenes of the Smyrna sacking and massacre, the throngs of refugees who flocked to the wharves and docks in the hope that they could get aboard the neutral warships in the harbor and thus be free from Turkish wrath. This scene was repeated at every dock and pier in Smyrna.

Pilgrims Again Storm Lourdes Seeking Miracles

This remarkable picture of the annual pilgrimage to the shrine at Lourdes, France, just over, has just reached America. In the foreground are seen the sick, halt and blind in wheel chairs and other conveyances. The famous Virgin of Lourdes is seen in a crypt in the rocks. In background are scores of crutches thrown away by pilgrims said to have been cured by prayer to the Virgin.

Nature's City; Where Mankind Is Seen But Unseeing

PEOPLED by a community of Nature's creatures that are every whit as busy as the citizens of our busy city streets, the woods have a life of their own that is well worth more than passing reflection. Perhaps no forest is more thickly "peopled" with denizens of the animal and feathered kingdom than the typical forests in the Canadian West. Vancouver Island, in particular, contains many stretches of verdant growth where the footsteps of mankind are seldom seen and the "citizens" of Nature's own city live out their lives in seclusion from prying human eyes.

What city can produce a building half as magnificent or sumptuously furnished as the home of the red squirrel in the bole of his great pine tree? What architect could construct an avenue that is half so full of splendor as the "main street" of the Island woods; where the branches of cedar, spruce and pine mingle in friendly companionship, bending in orderly array from the stately heights of their parents' stems? What magic carpet of the Orient would compare with the velvet floor of living moss that graces the feet of the chickadees as they hop about their morning meal?

In a setting such as this, with the richest and unspooled blessings of Nature, it is that our "citizens" of the forest live their lives according to the plan of the one great Architect who made a world with room for all. Many can walk in the woods and return without seeing a tenth of all the teeming life with which it pulses. It needs the trained observation of those who have made a study of the forest to pick out and distinguish from very minutest traces the doing of that fairyland.

Walking through the woods along a beaten path that has been trod by mortal many a time and oft will peep from light the secluded lives of its many creatures. It is by sitting quiet and observant in the heart of the trees that this life peeps out shyly at first and later with increasing confidence until the human watcher is thrilled with the vastness of that little known community.

The chickadees may be the first to greet the stranger; queer, lively little birds half the size of the domestic canary which tumble down the under side of a branch to peep upside down at the intruder. "Chickadee" they shout, introducing themselves. Maybe the red squirrel will be the next to greet the visitor. A saucy creature this, with a power of scolding tucked into his small red tongue. "Err-r-r" he will say. "What right have you to walk in my garden?" If in a good humor he may fetch a pine cone and strip it before your eyes, his beady little eyes darting ever a keen glance to see that we mean no harm. This tid-bit over, he will race saucily up the slender stem to the end of a branch and play hide-and-seek with us around the great bole.

Never far from the events of the day, the blue jay is sure to make our acquaintance. A harsh, raucous fellow this, with a loud-mouthed cry of derision at the sight of a drummer and his gun. Scorch, he is—"I will tell them all you are coming, is the burden of his theme as he hops along, always one tree ahead, to warn the denizens of this wooded city of the approach of a marauder.

Maybe he is the village constable—certainly he makes it his business to spy upon our doings and shout out at the end of a branch his voice. He is a blue uniform of the police, too, but perhaps we are mistaken, and he is only a jester. Half serious, half mocking, he detracts attention from more interesting life in the trees. "Rat-a-tat-tat," a little to our left a drum raps out a military tattoo. Who can that be, we think, only to find a small drummer in a speckled uniform of a sapshead, or small brand of woodpecker. If we keep quiet he will continue his tattoo until presently he fits along the glade to repeat the performance. He brings to mind the small boy who drums on every corner and moves off to attract more admiring attention as he makes his rounds.

High up in the tip-top of a dead tree we hear the deep-throated cackle of the large woodpecker. When he taps it is like listening to the rattle of a machine gun—a deep-throated cannonade that commands attention. He is a sociable fellow, never long happy without his word from his fellows. One answers the other through the glades until the whole wood seems alive with the cackle. In flight he swoops along with a twitching of the wings that half deceives the onlooker. Through the light and shade of the forest he flies so that the eye is lost in a maze by his many-colored progress, and where he has gone remains a mystery.

If we keep quiet still it may be we will see a young doe come gracefully up the trail worn by the feet of her fellows over the hillside. She has been down to the lake to drink and is now on her way back into the valley behind the hill to graze on the long sweet grass or rest at will. Not a sound accompanies the fall of her dainty feet and she picks her way among the loose boulders that obstruct the hillside trail.

Watching the doe our eye detects a nervousness in her gait, half faltering, half inclined to break into a headlong flight. Something has disturbed her sense of security. Maybe it is that tough twitching ever so slightly overhanging the trail. Alarmed at something our eye cannot see, the doe bounds in great flying leaps up the trail and away. One second to take a panther drops from his ambush on the overhanging bough to the ground. Snarling in disappointment he bounds after the doe. They pass and all is silent.

Recovering but slowly from its sudden fright the wood again creeps back to life. First the chickadee emerges, then the red squirrel, and presently all is again at peace. If we move our observation point a little we may see a large blundering brown bear at work on his midday meal. For such a large fellow he is curiously content with small provender. His great hairy paw scratches the bark off a fallen log while a long and active tongue garners innumerable insects into a jaw that might well take a chicken at one gulp, if so minded. Presently he too shambles off with a weird, lurching gait that is amusing to watch. He makes no pretences at hiding, but crashing along through the brush he pursues his way unhindered.

Strutting up and down on a log, with tail ruffled up like a super-proud peacock, we see a grouse. He too, is a drummer—only a more imposing creature than the others. He is out to make an impression on the fair ones. He would have the ladies think him a tremendous fellow, a swashbuckler who was afraid of nothing. He stayed there drumming just one second too long, for something happened while he was at the height of his parade of pride. Something small, hairy and cat-faced showed

GRUNDY

By W. G. Chatswood, in "The Sailor"

HE came to us one night of storm in the pocket of my father's greatcoat. Dad had found him at a deserted road-makers' camp, and couldn't leave the little thing to starve. "Here you are, kids; here's a playmate," and he held in his big hand a morsel, so ragged, so cold, so pathetic that we took him to our hearts right then. Such an ugly little pup he grew, yet we loved him like a brother. He was a vagabond and a born thief, and gave the family some awful moments, as, for instance, when he brought a lady visitor's hair-pad between his teeth to the breakfast table and laid it in her lap; also when he tore the clergyman's hat to ribbons. He had the family on the next selection "set," I think, for it was always "their" farmyard he raided when we were short of meat. He had virtues, however, and would always bring back a straying cow. He was also a terror when native dogs came round, and was a match for any of them. No barnyard fowl dare enter the garden to hunt juicy worms and scratch up the flower seeds.

One season, when Grundy was grown up, it rained and rained as it knows how to only on the North Coast; rained till the water was like a sponge and the trees positively sobbed; rained till the dealer got bogged at the slip-rails, and you had to put him up for a week and make damper overtime. My mother, having a clutch of the finest little chicks you ever saw, decided to make them more comfortable, and to that end deposited a bucketful of ash on the floor of the hutch-house. Oh dear! Next morning the chicks' little feet were all withered away (the lime in the ash on the damp floor, we supposed). We thought of destroying them, but they were so lovely that mother said, "It would be a sin"; so they grew into fine birds but only had stumps. Now, Grundy would escort these birds into the garden in the most gentlemanly way, and lie with his head on his forepaws watching while they destroyed their prey. Whether he was sorry for their maimed condition and granted them this favor, or whether he knew they couldn't scratch, we often wondered.

It was our custom on mail days to harness up and drive three miles or so to the halfway house where mails were left. On these occasions the baby, a boy of three, was always left. One day a newly-broken pony was in. I had just finished harnessing, and turned a moment, when off at full speed he went. I gripped my "heart" for a moment, but the pony near the gate was the little brother, waiting for his ride. I made a frantic rush and caught the back of the sulky, trying to clamber up over the seat and get the reins; but, though I struggled and called to the pony to stop, it was in vain, and at every fresh effort I was jerked almost off my feet. Alas, he could see the child in the middle of the track. In desperation I called "Grundy! Grundy!" I don't know where he came from, but heard a bark, and the good dog was at the pony's throat. Again and again he sprang and barked, until the pony slackened somewhat. Grundy knew his time, and with a furious rush he hurled himself at the pony's head. The latter turned and swerved off the track into the paddock beyond. Another minute and the baby would have been trampled underfoot—and Grundy knew it. He nosed round the boy, and when he saw him safe in my arms set off and brought the pony back across the paddock. Alas, the little boy is lying in France, and Grundy has gone where all the good doggies go.

Make Your Gifts For Christmas

IT IS getting close to that time of the year when Tommy will develop a trait for unifying devotion to parental commands which is anticipatory of the great joy to come. "Santa Claus will hear I have been a good boy," he will say hopefully. Things that Tommy would not dream of doing until urged most strongly, by word and deed will now get themselves done as if by magic. Indeed to any one who knows Tommy, it will appear as if a great mistake has been made and that wings should have developed where he now has arms alone.

"What am I going to get from Santa Claus?" is the question that early leads little fingers to thumb the folds of a calendar. Pencil in hand, little heads will plan the number of weeks that remain before Christmas day. With some many weeks ahead the reckoning is uneventful, but when the time has shortened "to a matter of days all is in a fever of excitement. It is here the Golden Rule steps in, saying, "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

Little people have small pockets and still more slender purses as a rule. Why not commence now and plan what you will give for Christmas presents to those you love—and then make those presents with your own hands? A present that has been made by you with the toil of your fingers and the care of your mind is of far more worth to the recipient—for it represents thought. The very practice of giving presents at Christmas is meant to convey the fact that we are thinking of others. Santa Claus himself, when he pops down the chimney on to the hearth with a sack bulging with good things for good people, is thinking of others.

None are so placed that they cannot make something, be it needlework, embroidery, pyrography, or the many art of carpentry and actual construction of the many useful additions to lighten people's work.

Time will not stay for anyone, and in a few brief weeks now Christmas will be round again. Plan your Christmas offerings now, and you will find that the deed when planned will be as good as half executed.

Sauce for the Goose

AN irascible old doctor stood one afternoon last winter on a windy corner of a downtown street, swinging his arms to keep warm, and showing even to passing strangers that he was in a furious temper. Friends passed, greeted him unheeded, and left him glowering there. At last an intimate friend happened to pass that way, noted him and the mood he was in and stopped. "Hello, Henry," he said, "what is the trouble?"

The doctor whirled about and pointed glaring furiously at the while, "Do you see that woman down there on that corner, the woman with that red gewgaw on her hat, do you see her?" he thundered. The friend looked and started. "Yes," he said, "of course I see her; that's your wife." "Exactly," agreed the doctor fiercely, "that's my wife; that woman requested me to meet her here, on this very corner at twelve o'clock so we could lunch together and discuss a problem I was to look into meanwhile. I was here at twelve sharp. She was down there at twelve sharp. She has been there ever since. Of all the stubborn creatures ever created that woman—" words and voice faltered him and he recommenced his pacing up and down. The friend started quietly across the street to tell his wife where she could find her husband.

OLD THORNY WITCH—Part IV.

AT last Thorny Witch spoke, "To win the Princess will be an easy matter once Prince is out of your way," she said. "For she will think your brother a thief and you a hero to have saved even a part of your Father's gold. Her love for him will soon end and such a handsome Prince as you will find no trouble in winning her heart and hand and wealth as well."

The vanity of Prince Carlo, combined with his greed and envy, made him blind to things he should have been wise enough to consider, and one was that the old Witch had given no assurance that Princess Della would become his wife. And so he let the Witch depart with the gold, for a streak of light was showing in the sky and told him there was no time to be lost in beginning the wicked plan which Thorny Witch had so carefully pictured to him.

With the two little pellets in one of his pockets, Prince Carlo, leaving the door to the treasure house wide open, hurried to his brother's apartments and woke him. "Come quickly," he whispered, "some one is in the treasure house and is stealing the gold stored there."

Prince Rollo jumped out of bed and in his night clothes followed his brother, and no sooner were they inside the door leading to the chests of gold than Prince Carlo fell upon his brother's side and held him until he had swallowed the pellet and held him until he had swallowed.

Down dropped Prince Rollo as a person dead at the feet of his wicked brother, who began to cry for help and disarranging his clothes as if he had been in a desperate struggle.

His cries quickly brought the King's household, including the King himself and the Princess Della. For her wedding-day was nearing and as the King was very old and could not take a long journey the wedding was to take place at the home of the Prince.

Beside his brother on the floor they found Prince Carlo holding his hands to his head, as if he were suffering from pain. But Princess Della did not notice him. On her knees beside her lover she fell and lifted his head in her arms crying, "who has done this wicked deed?"

Prince Carlo pretended to stagger to his feet and throw himself into his Father's arms. "I did it to save your gold, Father," he said, "but I did not mean to harm him. As you can see he already had carried off a part of your wealth—where I do not know—when I discovered his treachery."

"It is false," cried Princess Della, springing to her feet. "Rollo did not steal the gold. I will never believe it and there was no one but Prince Carlo to tell the story of how he was surprised from him while he was carrying off some of the gold; and to prove this there were many pieces scattered about the floor." Some of the servants lifted Prince Rollo tenderly from the floor and bore him into the castle. Everyone loved him and there was not an eye dry but those of Prince Carlo. As soon as he could do so unnoticed, he slipped away to his brother's room and took the diamond star which he had so long wanted and pinned it on his waistcoat where it could not be seen. One ambition had been gratified, now to win the Princess. This he found no easy task, for when they came to lady Prince Rollo, Princess Della would not have it so. "He is not dead," she declared, "he shall not be put in the ground."

How to Make a Real Football Game

"THE BIGGEST HIT"

"This football game," says Mr. Solar, "made the biggest hit of any toy made in my manual training classes last term. Even the older high school boys would come in and try their luck at making the man kick the ball over the goal."

Use soft wood for the entire job. Lay out half-inch squares on a piece of wood 3/4 in. thick and outline the body, arms, and legs of the man, as shown above. Cut these carefully. If more than one toy is to be made, patterns for these parts should be made from thin cardboard. The base pieces and goal posts may be made as shown in the drawing, care being taken to fit all parts together neatly and firmly, so that there will be no wobbling.

In assembling and placing the man, brad his two arms and his left leg to his body. This left leg is then fitted into the baseboard with a good snug fit. The right leg is fastened in place with a small screw to allow free movement, as it is the leg that kicks.

Adjust the support for the football so that the foot of the right leg, when it swings forward, will come in contact with the football in such a manner as to drive it forward to the best advantage. The football may be made of either soft wood or cork. The power of the kick comes from a rubber band fastened as shown above.

With this toy a regular game may be played. Complete rules for playing the game and for putting together the toy are given in the diagram.

"I tell you, Parson," said the nervous man who was about to be married, "I wish you'd cut out that part about obeying me. Just skip it, I understand."

"But it is the form, my dear sir, and I get you, Parson; but if you leave that in some day she'll say all the rest of it was kiddin'!"

POETRY—AND PROSE

"Ah, I love all that is fair and sweet it art and nature," sighed the speed, young thing striving to impress his aesthetic admirer. "I revel in the green fields and the simple wayside flowers. I feast on the beauties of earth and sky! They are more to me than food, more—"

At that moment came the strident voice of her mother, who, was in the kitchen and did not know that there was a company.

"Maude," shrieked the old lady, "whatever made you go and eat that great dish of cold potatoes which were left at dinner? I told you we would want them warmed up for supper. Really, your appetite is getting big enough to ruin your poor father!"

NICE TO READ ABOUT

The professor was putting the finishing touches to his new concrete pathway. Tommy, aged six, had been watching the proceedings with great interest, and at length, deeming the time right for trial, started to cross before the mixture had time to dry.

When the professor displayed his annoyance, a passer-by observed:

"Why, professor, I thought you liked children."

"I like them all right in the abstract," the professor replied, "but not in the concrete."

SELF CONCEIT

"I may not be smart and I may not be new; I know I'm inclined to be loud; But still I am sure you will give me my due—I'm useful; of that I am proud; Though folks may abuse me—whatever they say, I get through a great deal of work in a day."

"I stitch baby's frock and I run up the seams of Molly's new gowns for the balls; I tuck and I gather—ah, nobody dreams Just what to my willing hand falls; And nobody likes to put ME on the shelf." Says the sewing machine as she hums to herself.

Wireless Has Many Valuable Adaptions

WITH the attention being given to wireless communication nowadays centering as far as the general public are concerned upon the radio-broadcasting, it is interesting to note what uses wireless is being put in other serviceable fields. Viewing incidents reported from various corners of the world within the past week it is learned:

1. Over a hundred bed-ridden war veterans in a Seattle hospital listened to the scores and description of the baseball match between the New York Giants and the Yankees. They "watched" the game as it was reported play by play.
 2. Six Thomas Lipton spoke over a long distance wireless telephones from the new world to the old, and found conversation as easy as if he were using a hotel house service installation.
 3. A British battleship without a soul on board was steered by wireless while aircraft dropped dummy bombs on her from every angle. Hundreds of tons of bombs were dropped on the warship which was speeded along an erratic zig-zag course by wireless from the land some miles away.
 4. Commercial aircraft flying over London, in the cross channel passenger service picked their way through a fog that held up steamships, to their home aerodrome by the use of directional wireless.
- The above are but a few of the uses to which wireless was put with success in the current week. Broadcasting, now attracting so much attention on this continent includes a bill of quotations for business men, baseball reports for sporting listeners, to bed-time stories for children.

ENGLAND'S LONELY PEER GIVING ESTATES AWAY

Lord Rosebery Seeks Deeper Seclusion for the Twilight of His Life.

It is not every earl who parts with his estates before his death. But Lord Rosebery has been gradually doing this, withdrawing more and more into the seclusion he has always perhaps abnormally desired.

Many years ago he gave his Norfolk estates to his son, the Hon. Neil Primrose, who fell in the war. And now he has installed his eldest son, Lord Dalmeny, on his principal estate, Mentmore, near Leighton Buzzard.

The reason for Lord Rosebery's action, he says, is that he desires to pass the twilight of his life, which follows so distinguished a public career, in complete seclusion.

He is seventy-five. In his youth he declared that he would marry a millionaire, win the Derby, and become prime minister. And all three ambitions he achieved.

His marriage to Hannah, daughter of the immensely wealthy Baron Meyer de Rothschild, was a love match.

He won the Derby not once, but three times—in 1894 with Ladas, in 1895 with Sir Visto, and in 1905 with the famous racehorse Cicero.

As for his premiership, he achieved this at the early age of forty-six, in 1894, when, after a period as foreign secretary, he succeeded Mr. Gladstone as leader of the Liberal party.

"The Peter Pan of Politics"

THIS is Lord Rosebery, as portrayed by the famous English cartoonist, "Mat." By his gift of the largest of his estates to his eldest son, Lord Dalmeny, shown in the inset, he has once more appeared in the public eye.

responsible for many of the good stories connected with Lord Rosebery's name. Once, when he was staying at the Hotel Bristol, Paris, he was besieged by newspaper correspondents anxious for an interview. He successfully evaded them, but on taking a walk through the Rue de la Paix he was recognized by a French journalist, who politely asked him several questions about British politics. Lord Rosebery listened for a few moments, and then remarked: "I am afraid, monsieur, that you must have mistaken me for someone else, possibly for Lord Rosebery," he added, "whose photograph I am told I very much resemble."

Yet combined with his aloofness is supreme tact. Many years ago, when he was giving a dinner to some of his tenants, an old man who sat next to him helped himself to a huge piece of ice cream. When he regained his breath he exclaimed: "Why, this pudding's froze!"

With admirable tact, Lord Rosebery tasted a little from his own plate, and then, his face a wonderful study in genuine astonishment, remarked, "Great Scot! So it is!"

"A lonely man," says A. G. Gardiner, "full of strange exits and entrances, incoherent, inexplicable, flashing out in passionate, melodramatic utterances, disappearing into some remote fastness of his solitary self."

THE CONCLUSIVE ANSWER OF CAPT. "BOBBIE" BROWN

How He Pressed the Button and How He Didn't With the Same Results.

DURING that weary period of waiting in Germany and Belgium, which the Canadian troops sometimes called "demobilization" prior to "demobilization," Captain "Bobby" Brown, of Galt, was paymaster of the 1st and 3rd Battalions. Some folks had been "out since the first" of the armistice. Captain Brown had been out since the first of the war, and was still good-natured—for a paymaster. But the European type of telephone, with its combination of buttons to press, he found very trying.

Seated in 1st Battalion orderly room, up in Germany, at New Year's, 1919, Captain Brown sought to communicate with Brigade H. Q. In the room was Capt. A. W. O. Stewart of Ottawa, assistant adjutant, known to history as the officer who said his heart went "potato-potato" in the front line, instead of pip-pip.

"I can't hear on this thing," complained the paymaster, fumbling with the telephone head-piece.

"Press the button, Bobbie," advised the assistant adjutant, who was supposed to know all about such things.

"I am," persisted the paymaster.

"Then don't," said the A. A.

"I'm not," was the prompt reply.

And that reminded Capt. Stewart of the equally conclusive answer given by a sentry one night in the line. The adjutant was filling in his report to brigade, and desired to report the direction and velocity of the prevailing breeze.

"How's the wind, sentry?" he called to the faithful soldier on duty outside.

"Jake," said the dreamy one, and resumed his meditations.

BEEES IN HIS NAME

A recent meeting of the Brantford Rotary Club a very interesting address was made on the subject of Bees. At the conclusion W. Hastings Webber, more familiarly known as Huskie, associate editor of the Canadian Gopher, was called on by President "Bill" Preston to move a vote of thanks. Mr. Webber expressed the usual pleasure, but wondered why he had been picked out particularly in this connection until he suddenly recalled the fact that he, too, was connected quite closely with the bee industry. He proceeded to explain there was a "b" in his surname, "stings" in his middle name, his wife sometimes referred to him as "honey," he usually carried a comb when traveling, and finally he once had the hives—which was about all his audience would stand! In fact, the rest of his remarks were lost in the confusion that followed.

Hon. W. C. Kennedy Tried A Good Fish Story Once

The Minister of Railways, However, Is Well-Known for His Skill in Tempting the Wily Trout.

HON. W. C. KENNEDY, minister of railways, is an enthusiastic follower of the trout fishing sport, and is well known in Northern Michigan for his skill in "tempting" the wily trout. The following incident which occurred during his outing last June explains the emphasis on the word tempting.

Mr. Kennedy and party had departed from their private car, stationed at Lovells, Mich., on the north branch of the Au Sable, early in the morning to spend the day in the stream. Fully equipped with rod, reel, landing net, and the most alluring flies, picked out by "dad" the village old timer, he had every hope of taking the limit from the sparkling waters that day, weather conditions being ideal. The party separated, some fishing up stream, and others down, agreeing to meet at the car in the evening and compare the contents of their creels.

Hon. W. C. Kennedy.

Evening came and Mr. Kennedy was the last to show up. The rest of the party were seated in the car waiting for supper to be served, when he entered and called the steward in a loud tone, "Warwick, take these twelve trout and cook them up for breakfast." The others looked up in surprise, none of them having equalled this catch, but said nothing. No more was thought of the matter until one of the members happened to enter the kitchen, and out of curiosity opened Mr. Kennedy's creel to inspect the big catch. Therein, reposing on some moist grass, he was surprised to see only two small trout just over the eight-inch limit. Each evening after that Mr. Kennedy was required to display his catch.

MONUMENT AND MILESTONE

SIR HARRY LAUDER has been telling the story of a comical blunder which an eminent citizen of Glasgow was eager to perpetrate upon the city's statue of Nelson.

Nothing florid in the way of an inscription was wanted, but something the merit of which would consist in its brevity and sincerity.

"Glasgow to Nelson," was the advice given by a certain well-known sculptor when approached by the city fathers.

"Aye, a very good suggestion," said one of the citizens. "And, as the town of Nelson is close at hand, might we no just say: 'Glasgow to Nelson, six miles,' so that it might serve for a monument and milestone too?"

The "Bear Cat" of the Wets

THE "drys" have their "Pussyfoot" Johnston, and the "wets" have their Glenister "Bear Cat," who appears here in a characteristic action trim. J. W. Glenister, prophet of the anti-prohibitionists, who has just returned from a crusade in Europe, comforts his followers with the confident prediction that Europe—and Great Britain—will never go dry.

Tobacco Plantation in His Own Backyard.

QUEER personalities are discovered from time to time in that part of New York city known as Greenwich village, where the artists and "near" artists are supposed to congregate to shake their long hair and their flowing silk bowties. Greenwich village's most remarkable and versatile man is the man of the picture, who is not only poet, painter and sculptor, but master of 18 trades. He is David S. Jones, the "Wizard," as he is called, an elderly man of 77 years of age, who lives by preference quite alone. Being an expert tailor, he cuts, fits and sews his own clothes. He grows his own tobacco and potatoes in his own backyard. He makes his own soap. Every tool he uses was made by himself.

The studio of the Greenwich village wizard is a wonderful maze of strange things he has made. There are cherubs, allegorical groups, bas-reliefs, and several busts of himself. Every night at 10 o'clock he promptly retires, and, rising always at 4 a.m., he sits by his studio window composing a new verse or two for his great collection of poetry while the rest of the village still sleeps.

Through a Furious Onset of Compliments Papa Joffre Dined On and Held His Lines

The Hero of the Marne, Having Bargained Not to Speak a Word at a Victoria Luncheon, Was Not to Be Enticed by a Ruse.

THERE are times when a total ignorance of the English language must be rather convenient—a fact which Marshal Joffre probably discovered during his visit to Canada this spring.

Just after he landed in Victoria, following a voyage from the Orient, the great French warrior agreed to attend a luncheon not included in his program, on condition that he did not have to speak even a few words in French. The luncheon, as is the habit of public luncheons, started late and the marshal was frankly hungry. He himself had welcomed dozens of prominent people, and he probably expected the marshal to do just that.

But the marshal did nothing of the sort. Not that he intended any discourtesy, for he carries with him always an old world air of fatherly kindness which makes it difficult to realize that he won the battle of the Marne. Apparently he didn't understand. He addressed himself to the roast beef.

"We have as our guest to-day a man upon whose shoulders the very fate of civilization ate what was laid before him with evident satisfaction. He was still enjoying himself when Premier John Oliver rose to extend the official welcome of British Columbia to the distinguished visitor. If Marshal Joffre had been a Canadian politician instead of a French soldier the premier's first remark would have been his "cue" to swallow a drop or two of coffee, pat his most-esteemed with his napkin and sit back gracefully with a modest smile of appreciation. The premier rested but a few years ago," the premier announced. "A man who... The marshal munched a piece of fresh bread... saved the world in 1914... The marshal sipped his coffee... and so," the premier concluded ten minutes later. "I have the utmost pleasure in welcoming to B.C. and to Canada the papa of the French armies." The marshal swallowed a potato.

ROSS PAID FOR LILIES TO SAILORS' FRIENDS

When the Grilse Was at Anchor in Bermuda.

WHEN Commander J. K. L. Ross was in command of H.M.C.S. Grilse, during the war, he was probably the most popular commander in the Canadian Navy. His many kind actions endeared him to the sailors. An instance of his kindness happened when the "Grilse" was at anchor in Hamilton Harbor, Bermuda.

It was the lily season in the islands, and the fields were full of beautiful, blooming lilies. Everybody admired the flowers, and the sailors on shore leave off the "Grilse," unaccustomed to such a sight in the winter time, were especially loud in their praises of nature's handiwork.

Commander Ross, may, or may not, have heard his sailors extolling the beauties of the lilies; but his subsequent action raised his popularity with the men to the highest notch. He issued an order

THE EPIDEMIC TEN MINUTES

IN all universities there is a ten-minute respite known as an "academic ten minutes," which means that all lectures and classes commence ten minutes after the hour appointed for the meeting, thus enabling professors and students attending classes in the various buildings to assemble in good time in order to avoid the interruptions of late-comers.

Mr. W. J. Dunlop, director of university extension at the University of Toronto, relates that last winter an extension course of two weeks' duration was given on subjects of interest to farmers. Several of the agrarian aspirants of knowledge, being dilatory in entering the classroom, Mr. Dunlop was compelled to admonish them in a firm, fatherly manner.

"This," said one of the students drily, "must be the epidemic ten minutes of which you spoke, sir."

Thought Mrs. Pankhurst A Spiritist or Spook

Exhibition Visitor Had Never Heard of Famous English Woman Who Has Become a Canadian.

DURING the recent exhibition in Toronto an excitable, nervous type of man appeared one evening outside the public health tent at the rear of the government building. The tent was in darkness and no sound came from within except the burr of the moving picture machine, as a health film was being shown to interest the people who were waiting to hear Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst speak on "social hygiene."

Mrs. Pankhurst.

A lady approached the tent and was about to enter when the nervous man spoke to her. "Pardon me," said he, "what is going on in here? Is it a spiritualistic meeting?"

"No," said the lady, "it is just a picture being shown till Mrs. Pankhurst arrives."

"Till Mrs. Pankhurst arrives?" inquired the man.

"Mrs. Pankhurst," said the lady, "Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. She is going to talk on social hygiene."

"Oh, is that so," said the man. "I've never heard of her. I'm from out of town."

"NEVER MIND, SAMBO"

FATHER BERNARD VAUGHAN, whose health has been giving cause for anxiety, is a noted raconteur. One of his best stories is about a negro who wanted to enter a swell church in New York.

The clergyman said, "We don't have any colored gentlemen in this church."

"But the Lord told me to come here," replied the negro.

"Well," said the clergyman, "you had better go and ask for more guidance."

After some days the negro returned, saying, "The Lord still says dis is my church."

"I am sorry," answered the parson, "but we can't take you in."

The negro returned a third time, saying, "I told the Lord what you said. He say, 'Never mind, Sambo, I myself have been trying to get into that church for years, but have never succeeded.'"

"Well," said Marjorie, wonderingly, "wasn't that arranged quick?"—Boston Transcript.

JUST BEING A NOBODY IS A DELIGHT FOR BYNG

Strictly Incognito at First, He Discusses the Crops With an Old Farmer.

BY his unassuming and friendly manner, devoid of all "side," Lord Byng captured the hearts of everybody he met during his recent tour of the west.

There was one meeting in particular, quite a masquerade affair at first, after the governor-general's own taste.

While his train was on a siding in a little prairie town, he got down to take a stroll. Walking along the trail, he met an old farmer coming to town. The old man, wishing to be friendly and not knowing the governor-general, brought his old horse to a stop for a talk. Lord Byng and he were soon deep into crop conditions, the grasshopper pest and other momentous agricultural problems.

It was just as the old man was about to move on, when the governor-general made his identity known. The poor old fellow was thunderstruck, but Lord Byng of Vimy insisted upon showing him through the train, and, afterwards, had him stay for afternoon tea, at which Lady Byng presided.

It is just such kindness as this with his utter lack of swank which explains why Byng of Vimy is the man for Canadians.

EXPECTED A DONNYBROOK WITHIN THE PEARLY GATES

Father Minehan's Reputation as a Theologian Put to the Test by a Dying Irishman.

THE ever-gentle Father Minehan, whose recent visit to Ireland was such an important event in Roman Catholic circles, has a well-deserved reputation as a theologian; but, according to a story which is attributed to him, he met his match in a dying Irishman of the south to whom he administered the last rites during his stay.

It appears that, in the course of his exhortation, the good father had occasion to mention the Judgment Day. In spite of his condition the dying man showed great interest in this event, and asked that it be explained to him. He was told that it will be the great time of trial when all the people of the world shall appear before the Lord for judgment.

He pondered upon this for a long time and then said, "Faather!"

"Yes, my son?"

"Will all the Sinn Feiners and all the Ulster Protestants be there?"

"Yes, my son."

"An' will de Valera be there, an' Collins, an' Craig, an' Carson?"

"Yes, they'll all be there."

"Holy Mikel! Prolonged pause, and then, "Faather!"

"Yes, my son."

"There'll not be much judgin' the firist day, will there?"

FEATHERED FISH-HOUNDS USED BY JAP FISHERMEN

EACH cormorant has a cord attached from near the base of his wings, the other end held, in common with the leashes of perhaps eleven other birds, by a deft-fingered Japanese in the boat. About the lower portion of the throat of each feathered fisherman is an adjustable metal collar. This is loose enough to permit the passage of very small fish, but not those of a marketable size. Above the collar the larger fish pile up, expanding the elastic gullet, until four to eight have accumulated. Then the bird is towed to the boat, placed over a basket, and the fish gently pressed from his throat and mouth. A few less considerate masters unceremoniously turn the bird upside down and shake out the catch. In a fishing expedition lasting three or four hours one bird may catch as many as 450 fish.

The birds are as keen for their work as pointer dogs. They dart about with the greatest enthusiasm, croaking as they dive or when they come momentarily to the surface to swallow their prey. Their active life is about twelve years.

The senior of the flock is known as "Number 1" and has the position of honor near the bow as the boat prepares for action. The other birds are ranged in order of seniority alternately on the sides of the boat. The birds know the order in which they are to be placed in the water and taken out, and if the proper order is departed from they make noisy protest.—Literary Digest.

A Community Cow

BUYING a cow and renting it at $1 a week to families in the congregation is how the Church by the Side of the Road in Greensboro, N.C., is attempting to provide fresh milk for those who are unable to keep cows of their own. It is a new venture in church economics, but is apparently working out satisfactorily for both church and congregation. The income from the one cow is to be applied, we are told, to the purchase of more cows. Eventually, and if the plan is continued, the Church by the Side of the Road will have a community herd.—Literary Digest.

THE PLAYHOUSE

This afternoon's matinee and tonight's performance will be the last of the present engagement of the Playhouse, in which the "Bing Boys" have made such a tremendous hit. The theatre has been filled to capacity all this week, and has been fairly shaken with the laughter provoked by the delightful comedy of Mr. Hincks and Mr. Hetch. This revue is perhaps the most successful of the productions so far at this popular amusement house. Brimful of delightful music and charming dances the play goes on without a hitch, lasting practically the whole evening and keeping the audience in the best of spirits all the time.

Seats have been selling fast for the last performances, to-day, and those wishing to attend should remember that the house sells out very early on Saturday and should book early.

The Royal Victoria Theatre. Raoul A. Walsh is the producer of this Associated First National attraction, which is based on the novel by Peter H. Kyne. The story first appeared in The Saturday Evening Post, and gained instant popularity. Miriam Cooper plays the leading role, that of "Nan of Sawdust File." Many of the scenes were "shot" in the Northwest, where the locale of the story is laid, and during one of them Ralph Graves, the leading man, was called upon to rescue W. J. Ferguson from the midst of a log jam, which was headed straight for a waterfall. Those on shore held their breath in constant fear lest the men should fall between the massive logs and be drowned. So terrific was the suspense during the taking of the scene that when it was over and the two actors reappeared, they were weak from fright. The thrills, faithfully registered by the camera, have created widespread comment among motion picture theatregoers.

Miss Mollie Allen Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema broke out on my forearms and limbs, from ankles to knees. Little white pimples formed which contained a watery fluid, and upon scratching would leave a burning sensation, growing worse all the time. members of the cast, went to Santa Barbara for an exciting day's work on location in connection with the filming of "Manslaughter," which is being presented at the Dominion Theatre.

The incident filmed—one of the most important in the story—was the accident in which a motorcycle officer meets his death because of the careless and reckless driving of the chief feminine character in the story. On these scenes is built most of the subsequent story.

A dislocated shoulder, many bruises and several miles of valuable negatives were the net result. The producer refused to let the customary dummy in this series of scenes. Hence the bruises and injured shoulder.

Leatrice Joy and Jack Mower were the principals engaged in the action. Thomas Meighen, Lois Wilson, Edythe Chapman, Julia Fay, Dorothy Cumming, Cassin Ferguson and the other members of the notable cast enjoyed a one day vacation in the absence of the producer.

COLUMBIA

"Rough Shod," the latest picture produced by Fox with Charles Jones in a dashing western role, is showing at the Columbia Theatre for the last time to-night. The author of the story is Charles Selzer—several of whose stirring tales of ranch life were screened by Fox a couple of years ago. This new photoplay is unusual in that it really has two heroines, and the early action leads to some doubt which of the two charming girls will be found coupled with the iron-nerved Jones in the final climax. The two girls who figure with equal prominence in the story are portrayed by Helen Ferguson and Ruth Renick.

CAPITOL

Here are two tricks for the cameraman to do—X-ray photography and color photography all in the same picture. "Pink Gods," a Penrhyn Stanlaw production showing at the Capitol Theatre for the last time to-night. The story is laid in the diamond fields of South Africa, and the X-ray, or fluoroscope, is used on the Kafir miners to determine when they have swallowed the precious stones, in order to smuggle them past the guards and sell them on the outside. The color photography, from paintings by B. Cory Kilvert, will be seen in the titles.

With these problems confronting him, Mr. Stanlaw needed the best cinematographer he could find. So he chose Paul Perry. The cast of this Paramount feature includes Bebe Daniels, James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Raymond Hatton, Adolphe Menjou and others.

COMING TO COLUMBIA

The announcement by the Columbia Theatre that they have secured a showing of a big special, "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," for Monday, and all week should prove of interest not only to motion picture fans, but to all lovers of the theatre. This famous old play has been a stage favorite for many years, and behind every laugh is said to be second in point of circulation only to the Bible. The screen version was made by L. Case Russell, who has five-hundred produced pictures to his credit, and she has followed the story faithfully, but has taken advantage of the great opportunities offered by the screen, with the result that the film version shows much that the stage production was forced to omit. The picture was directed by Oscar Apfel and produced by Blazed Trail Productions, Inc., in the heart of the Adirondacks. The star is John Lowell, who is supported by Baby Ivy Ward, who plays the part of his daughter, Little Mary Morgan.

THEATRICAL SEASON IN RUSSIA BRINGS OUT FREAK DANCING

Moscow, Oct. 14.—The opening of Russia's theatrical season has brought out examples of freak and impressionistic staging and erotic dancing in several theatres, but nevertheless the classic Russian ballet, the old style opera, and the drama seem more popular than ever.

Both the strikingly new impressionistic presentation and the time-honored ballets, however, drew large crowds, and the opening performances in the theatres featuring these respective styles were sold out long before the curtains.

FICTION READING NOW ON DECLINE

"If Winter Comes" Leads List With "Outline of History" Second

Public Mind Turns Toward Biography and Travel Literature

If the Victoria Public Library's file may be taken as a criterion, the most popular books of Victoria are not of fiction but more of books on other subjects. Hutchinson's "If Winter Comes" is still leading all other books in popularity while the same writer offers a book titled "This Freedom," which is crowding the former book in interest.

Altogether different in style, "Wells Outline of History" comes next. An exceptional run has been made on this book and its popularity, taking the file records of the Library and the instalments in The Evening Times, is amazing. Such a book as this the Library very seldom stocks in, in large numbers. But on this occasion ten copies of "Wells Outline of History" has been put on the shelves and the public is found to be using everyone of them.

"Mirrors of Downing Street," "Glass of Fashion" and "Painted Windows" by the Gentleman with a Mustache fill the top position among the popular books. These books have been amongst the leading works for the last four months.

A group of novels by Frances Hodgson Burnett has also attained a place amongst the leading literature. "Robin" is mentioned especially in this group and is a sequel to "Head of the House Coombs." The latter book "Robin" is more renowned than the earlier novel.

Margaret Agulth is on the decline, while "More That Must Be Told" has still many readers who find it interesting all those lovers of this writer's books. But in comparison with her former works, "The Secret Power" has fallen.

MANY TROUBLES COME THROUGH THE BLOOD

Health Will be Yours.

Nearly all the common diseases are caused by bad blood—weak, watery blood poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism, debility and indigestion, neuralgia, sciatica, and other nerve troubles. It is bad blood that causes disfiguring skin diseases like eczema, and salt rheum, pimples and eruptions. The severity of the trouble indicates how impure the blood is, and it goes always from bad to worse unless steps are promptly taken to enrich and purify the blood.

There is no use trying a different medicine for each trouble, for they all come through the one cause—bad blood. In conditions of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found very beneficial, as they have a direct action on the blood, enriching and purifying it. That is why this medicine is so often successful, after other remedies have failed—they reach the root of the trouble in the blood. Mr. Albert E. Giffin, Mount Pleasant, P. E. I., tells what these pills did for him. He says: "Some months ago I was in a badly run-down condition. My blood was poor, I had no appetite and my work left me completely tired out. I fell off in weight, was altogether a miserable condition. I was taking medicine, but it was not doing me any good. At this stage a friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with beneficial results, advised me to take them, and acting on his advice I did so. The result can be summed up in a few words: I took the pills for a little more than a month, when I can honestly say I never felt better in my life. I can now eat a hearty meal, do my work with comparative ease, and have gained in weight. I advise weak, run-down people to give these pills a fair trial."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $3.00 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. (Advt.)

"ARE YOU LIGHTING ANOTHER CIGAR? YOU DON'T SEEM TO REALIZE HOW MUCH YOU SMOKE - I DON'T KNOW OF ANOTHER MAN THAT SMOKES AS MUCH AS YOU DO!"

CIGAR STUBS ALL OVER THE HOUSE

IT CERTAINLY LOOKS IF WE'RE IN FOR ANOTHER WAR DOESN'T IT?

NASTY SMELLY CIGAR STUBS - WHY DON'T YOU THROW 'EM OUT

HERE! COME BACK WITH THEM

WHAT GOOD ARE THEY?

NEV' YOU MIND I'M NOT FINISHED WITH 'EM YET

THEY'RE ALL OVER THIS HOUSE -- YOU SMOKE CONTINUALLY JOE! WHY DON'T YOU CUT DOWN YOUR SMOKING-!?

NOW DON'T START ON THAT SUBJECT AGAIN

YOU SMELL UP THE WHOLE HOUSE! MY CURTAINS AND EVERYTHING ARE SIMPLY SATURATED WITH SMOKE -- I DEFY ANYBODY TO KEEP THINGS NICE IN THIS HOUSE

THE NEXT DAY

JOE! YOU'RE WHITE AS A GHOST

VI - I'M SICK

THEY'RE JUST WORKING YOU TOO HARD DEAR

I'VE AN AWFUL HEADACHE

HERE DRINK THIS -- YOU'VE GOT A FEVER - SHALL I CALL THE DOCTOR?

NO - I'LL BE ALL RIGHT

THERE! HOW YOU FEEL?

GOSH -- I'M BETTER ALL READY

GUESS I'LL SMOKE A CIGAR

YES DEAR - I'LL GET IT FOR YOU

I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE BETTER

ARE YOU COMFORTABLE JOE DEAR? OH I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE BETTER

Expert Advice on Radio

Radio Technologist and author of "Home Radio." Instalment No. 11. Nature's Aerials. If you go on a vacation this Summer and find yourself without an aerial or loop you need despair, for nature has provided excellent substitutes in the trees.

Thousands and thousands of dollars of hard earned western Canadian money pass the doors of British Columbia every year on its way to California. This year the amount will be larger than ever, because the Prairie-Provinces have just harvested a record crop—unless it is offset by aggressive publicity on behalf of British Columbia. The people from the Prairies are interested in...

It is possible to pick up radio signals from the earth without an aerial of any sort, and the beginner can find out by experimenting and find a great deal of interest, amusement and real value in trying various stunts along these lines. By merely grounding a set and with no aerial of any sort, signals may be picked up for long distances with properly arranged sets, but you must not expect to get signals as loud or as clearly with any of these devices as with a proper aerial. Even the best loop aerial falls far short of overhead out-of-doors antennae in this respect but by using radio and audio frequency amplification, excellent results may be obtained without the bothersome and cumbersome aerial.

SAANICH COUNCIL UPHELD IN COURT

Motor Vehicle License Regulation Held to Be Valid

Charged on remand in the Saanich Police Court yesterday, Thomas Cooper an ex-service driver, was fined $25 for operating his car without a license. The conviction came at the end of an extended hearing of the test case brought by jitney operators against the finding of the Saanich Council in the limitation of licenses. H. B. Robertson, K. C., appeared for the municipality, and F. C. Elliott for the defendant.

In his ruling Magistrate Jay upheld the validity of the Saanich Motor Vehicle Regulation by-law 1922, No. 284, which limits the licenses for the Gorge route to three. The licenses are in the hands of the Gorge Motor

GAS CUT ONE CENT.

New York, Oct. 14.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey yesterday announced a reduction of one cent a gallon in the price of gasoline throughout its territory.

WOMEN FAIL TO REGISTER

Do Not Appreciate Value of Household Franchise

The number of women registering as voters is disappointing. While they have the same civic franchise privileges as men they do not appear disposed to make use of them to the same extent.

"Young women in local stores and offices, when asked whether they have registered will reply, 'Registered? Why not—it costs $2,' explained a member of the Gyo Club yesterday. "So often it isn't because they can't afford the two dollars, which, by the way is a compulsory tax, but that they can't see they are called upon to make the outlay. They haven't stopped to consider the amount of service they secure from the city as compared with the amount they contribute to the city's finances. Neither have they realized that voting is a responsibility of all citizens and not just a few."

Women who are property owners in the city have their names placed on the civic voters' list automatically, while others who are British subjects of the full age are required to register by paying the $2 road tax and registering. Those who registered last year and paid their road tax this year need not re-register, but are required to check up their names and addresses on the list at the City Clerk's office. Women of the age of sixty are exempt from the road tax, only registration being required.

O. B. U. IS DEAD, LABOR HEAD SAYS

Labor Men Urged to Support Existing International Organizations

The One Big Union has been a complete failure and labor men should support the recognized international labor organizations, said Stanley J. Wells, editor of The B.C. Federationist, told a meeting of labor men in the Trades Hall last night.

Mr. Wells admitted that he had once been a keen supporter of the One Big Union and The B.C. Federationist also had approved the movement. Now, however, he realized that the movement had failed. He appealed to radicals who are holding themselves aloof from organized labor to come in and assist in building up the movement under the present international organizations. He urged them to forget some of their theories and academic ideas and recognize the fact that any success is to be obtained in efforts to secure better conditions for the working men and the ultimate control of the industrial machine, the materials at hand must be used.

Mr. Wells emphasized the importance of a labor organ, and urged labor men to support The B.C. Federationist.

Stanley Peete, president of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, who presided, outlined some of the problems confronting labor here.

Take Corns off? That's easy But to take 'em out? Oh! That's different

"Unless you use salitrated water, which does the trick every time, and also cures bunions, aching tenderness, chills, or even rheumatic and gouty pains"—says C. S. TURNER, formerly of the R.A.M.C.

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lye, plasters, etc., doesn't do any good. The root just sprouts right up again, and soon your corn has a brand new top on it, bigger than ever. The top is only dead skin, anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part, or core, that extends down into the toe.

THE END OF THE BUSINESS END OF A CORN. THE END OF THE PAIN BY USING ON THE END OF THE CORE JOINT & TENDER. THE END OF THE SUFFERING. THE END OF THE NERVES.

Don't worry about this top. Get the root out permanently by using a good big handful of the refined Reudel Bath Saltrate (you can get a half-pound or so at slight cost from any chemist) dissolved in a gallon or so of water. The soaking soak your feet in this for fifteen or twenty minutes, then take hold of the corn with your fingers and pull it out. It will come out all, like the hull comes out of a strawberry. Only a little hole or depression will be left in the toe, and that soon closes, so there is nothing left in there to sprout a new corn again. It doesn't hurt, and the surrounding flesh is all soft and soaks the whole of the corn. No burning or soreness, no pain, no danger, no trouble, and no days of waiting to see whether that old corn is going to leave for good or come back to stay with you a while longer. Softens callouses the same way, then scrape off, and I don't dare tell you how quick this medicated water will always drive aches, chafes, blisters, etc., away, and even cure rheumatic or gouty pains. It would sound too good to be true, but thousands of former soldiers can tell what wonderful stuff salitrated water is.

THE END OF THE BUSINESS END OF A CORN. THE END OF THE PAIN BY USING ON THE END OF THE CORE JOINT & TENDER. THE END OF THE SUFFERING. THE END OF THE NERVES.

COURT RULES JAIL TERM OBLIGATORY

Accused Sentenced to Serve Seven Days' Imprisonment; Appeal Announced

Called on remand in the city police court to-day, A. F. Proctor charged with being intoxicated while in charge of a car was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment.

Before sentence was pronounced Henry C. Hall, K. C., counsel for the defence urged that a fine be imposed. The discretion of the court to do this, urged counsel, was obtained from the general penalty section 1035.

Magistrate Jay held that the court had no such discretion as submitted, and a sentence would have to be imposed.

Counsel immediately filed notice of appeal and asked for bail, being referred to the County Court for the settlement of the bail terms.

Yesterday's Evidence.

Resuming yesterday afternoon the accused was under cross-examination of Mr. Harrison for the Crown. In an arrangement drawn up by his solicitor, witness stated, he had paid $1,000 to the brother-in-law of the man who was knocked down on Douglas Street, J. B. Bulnecks, in full settlement of all civil claims and damages. It was then thought that Bulnecks was gravely hurt, and witness took this action to protect himself in the civil courts, he stated.

The settlement was made on Friday, October 6, and got paid until Saturday noon. Meanwhile a summons to appear in the Saanich court was served on the accused, who stated he had been advised to tear it up and forget about it. Witness denied that the withdrawal of the charge in the Saanich court was made a condition of the $1,000 payment.

The summons to appear in the city case was served later, and followed sometime afterwards by a renewal of the summons in the Saanich Court, he stated.

By what process was the charge withdrawn? inquired the court. Witness responded that he had nothing to do with that and that the money was paid solely in respect to the possibility of civil claims.

At this stage Mr. Hall, counsel for the accused, admitted he had received a summons for the accused, under the summary conviction dealing with the Saanich charge.

Says Evidence Vague.

In summing up for the defence Mr. Hall urged that the evidence against the accused did not show him to have been a party to the police evidence was vague, and the only real evidence was that of Dr. Holmes, who said the man was not drunk but in possession of all his normal faculties.

Mr. Harrison said the police evidence showed the accused to be in an unfit state to drive a car. Further the evidence of seeing him did not agree with that of W. W. Baer, his friend, as to the incident on Stone Street. The accused had admitted taking some drinks from a bar, and further one Constable had stated the accused at 3.45 p. m. told him that he would get a drive to take him home.

The case was then adjourned, after the Magistrate had determined a conviction must be recorded.

SHADOWED GIRL HOME GETS HARD LABOR

Three Months for Chinaman Who Followed Young Girl

Following a young lady from the centre of the city, and shadowing her home brought Lim Mow the unwelcome attentions of the law yesterday evening.

Miss Edith Duca, of Quadra Street, reported to the police that a Chinaman had followed her home and there loitered around, even trying the gates to the premises.

The police responded and picked up the accused, who was charged with harassment.

In court to-day it was stated Lim had served jail terms amounting to eight years for burglary and theft. The accused pleaded guilty and asked that he should be fined instead of a jail sentence being imposed, but the court thought three months hard labor would be a fitting sentence.
