The Last Expedient.

BY A BASHFUL YOUNG MAN.

How lonely it was in my little sevenby-nine room, hemmed in, as it were, by the roar and tumult of the hotel in the gray gloom of the October evening.

All alone in the world! and there was Jones in the next room, cooing to his fat baby; and I knew just as well as if the partition had been glass, instead of lath and mortar, just how Mrs. Jones was leaning over the wretch's shoulder, her plump cheek close to his.

I caught myself wondering, in a sort of ecstatic state, how it would seem if I were a married man, and there was a little work basket on my table and a pair of small slippers alongside my boots, and if Isabel Snow's fair curls were glistening in the light of the gasburner! I couldn't stand it another minute. Up I jumped, determined to go to Isabel's then and there, and ask her if she wouldn't take the most miserable and lonely of scamps for a husband.

The cheerful parlors were in cosy glow of gas light and fire light; old Mr. Snow was dozing, as usual, with a red silk handkerchief over his bald head, and Mrs. Snow, with two other dragon in spectacles and false fronts, was deeply in the contents of a mammoth 'Dorca basket,' each female apparently trying to out talk the rest. Bless them! I was tankful to 'Dorcas baskets' for once in my life! Isabel sat by a shaded light in a back parlor, stiching away at a green worsted parrot in a wilderness of canvass, upon a little sofa that just held two. I took the other seat, and we discoursed in mysterious whisperings about the weather. At length the conversation grew to a close, and we were silent.

"Miss Isabel," I begun, nervously fingering her ivory bodkin and resolving to put an end to the suspense.

Isabel lifted the long fringes of her eyelashes; the soft beam of her blue eye made a poltroon of me at once.

"Don't it take you a long time to finish these elaborate pieces of worsted work ?" I uttered.

She nade some laughing reply. What it was I don't remember, for I was mentally cudgeling myself as a cowardly, sneaking villain, and goading myself on to a second charge. "Miss Isabel, I have been wishing to tell you this long time, but I could never screw up my courage, that-

Why didn't I go on-what demon po-sessed me to stop and fidget there, and finish the auspicious beginning with-"that I've decided to get a new Panama hat this Summer, just like that you tho't | which you had found just in time to save so pretty! Miserable poltroon that I was. I had not even resolution to resume the conversation, until Isabel herself commenced talking about her lack of occupation.

"Dear little fellow ! where is he ?" she | asked.

'Don't say little, Miss Isabel; he is pretty will grown for his age !" I remarked, enjoying the scene intensely. "Don't keep me in suspense,' she said, 'I want to throw my arms round him and kiss him.'

"Indeed, Miss Isabel,' I modestly answered, 'I don't think you could do a better thing-don't let me stand in the way !'

"But where is he?" "Here!"

"I don't understand you, Mr. Anderson."

"Miss Isabel, I am the person that wants to be adopted ! Will you take me, not as an orphan, but as a husband ?"

There! it was out, and I was not a bit the worse for it. On the contrary, I had boldly put my arm round her waist and drawn her so close to me, that her only way of avoiding my eager gaze into her eyes was to hide them on my snoulder. "Isabel-my only love-you will not break my heart?

"Then promise you will be mine !" Isabel promised. She has since told me that it was because she was surprised to see the facility with which a hitherto 'bashful man' pleaded his cause, that she did't know what else to do!

Be that as it may, the kettle is singing on the fire this bright evening, the parrot hangs in a gold frame over my writing table, and my lovely wife sits just opposite with a black-eyed boy on her lap, scarce three months old, who entirely precludes the necessity of adopting any one into the family.

I don't envy Jones now-his baby 1sn't half as pretty as mine. And as for his wife, she's nowhere by the side of Isabel.

THE VALUE OF A SCRAP BOOK .- Every one who takes a newspaper which he in the least degree appreciates, will often regret to see a number thrown aside for waste paper which contains some interesting and important articles. A good way for preserving these is the use of a scrap-book. One who has never been accustomed thus to preserve short articles can hardly estimate the pleasure it affords to sit down and turn over the familiar pages. Here a choice piece of poetry meets the eye, which you remember you were so glad to see in the paper, but which would long since have been destroyed had it not been for your scrapbook. There is a witty anecdote it does you good to laugh over yet, though for the twentieth time. Next is a valuable recipe you had almost forgotten, and you much perplexity. There is a sweet little story, the memory of which has cheered and encouraged you many a time, when almost ready to despair under the pressure of life's cares and trials Indeed you can hardly take up a single paper without re perusing. Just glance over the sheet before you, and see how many valuable items it contains that would be of service to you a hundred times in life A choice thought is far more precious than a bit of glittering gold. That perishes, but thought is immortal. Hoard with care those precious gems and see at the close of the year what a rich treasure you have accumulated. THE DEATH OF FRIENDS .- There is something very sad in the death of frier ds. We seem to provide for our own mortality, and to make up our minds to die. We are warned by sickness, by restless days, and sleepless nights, and a hundred dull infirmities; but when our friends pass away we lament them as though we had considered them immortal. It is wisewe suppose it is wise we should attach ourselves to things that are transient; else we should say that 'tis a perilous trust when a man ties his hopes to so frail an object as woman. They are gentle, so affectionate, so true in sorrow, so untiring; but the leaf withers not sooner, the tropic lights fade not more abruptly into darkness. They die and are taken from us, and we weep; and our friends tell us that it is not wise to grieve, for that all which is mortal perisheth. They do not know that we grieve the more be cause we grieve in vain! If our grief could bring back the dead, it would be stormy and loud--we should disturb the sunny quiet of day-we should startle the dull night from her repose. But our hearts would not grieve as they grieve now, when hope is dead within us.

Against Traitors and Alien Enemies.

The following is an act passed by the last Legislature of California, which explains itself. :

An Act to exclude traitors and alien en emies from Courts of justice in civil Cases.

Section 1. Whenever any civil suit shall be pending in any court of record in this State, the defendant, or one of several defendants, or his attorney, may, | at any time after the commencement of the action or the filing of the complaint therein, serve upon the plaintiff, if a natural person, or his attorney, a w.itten notice, objecting to the further prosecution of said suit, on the ground of the disloyalty of the plaintiff; and thereupon all proceedings in said suit shall be stayed until said plaintiff shall take and subscribe, before some officer authorized to administer oaths, and shall file in said cause an affidavit in the following form, to wit:

"I, (here insert the name of the p'aintiff,) do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Cali fornia; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the Government of the United States, any ordinance, resolution or law of any State or Territory, or of any Convention or Legislature thereof, to the contrary notwithstanding; that I have not, since the (here insert the date of the passage of this Act) knowingly aided, encouraged, countenanced or assisted, ncr will I hereafter, in any manner, aid, en courage, countenance or assist, the socalled Confederate States, or any of them, in their rebellion against the lawful Government of the United States; and this I do without any qualification or mental reservation whatsoever. So help me God." And if the said plaintiff shall fail to take and file said oath within ten days after the giving of such notice, if a resident of the county, or within forty days, if a resident of the State and not of the county, or if not a resident of the State, then within such further reasonable time as the Court or a Judge thereof may determine, said case shall thereupon be ab solutely dismissed, and no other suit shall ever be maintrined by the said plaintiff, his grantees or assigns, for the same cause of action; provided that the time may, for cause shown, be enlarged by the Court or a Judge thereof, and that the Court may relieve, against the forfeiture or default arising from accident, surprise, or excusable neglect; and provided that where the plaintiff sues as a trustee, or to the use of another, the oath may be was attached. He presented it at the taken by the person for whose benefit the drug store of a gentleman, who, though action is prosecuted; and further provided that when the plaintiff is a foreigner by birth, who has never been naturalized, nor declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, he may take and file the following oath: "I, (inserting his name) do solemnly swear that I will not, at any time, or in any manner, aid, encourage, countenance or assist the so called Confederate States, or any of them, in their rebellion against the Government of the United States, and that I will not, while a resident of the United States, knowingly commit or encourage any act tending to subvert the Constitution or Government thereof. So help me God." Sec. 2. If a counter claim shall be set up, or new matter be affirmatively pleaded by the defendant in any suit, the plaintiff may, at any time after the filing of the answer, give or cause to be given to the defendant, if a catural person, or his attorney, a similar notice to the one provided for in the preceeding section, objecting on like ground to the introduc tion of such counterclaim or affirmative matter, and thereupon, if the defendant tears your eyes out, feel your way to the shall fail to make and file a like oath, within the respective times within the said section above limited, such counter claim or new matter shall be disregarded by the Court, and the cause shall proceed as if the same had not been pleaded, and no suit shall ever be maintained by the said defendant, his grantees or assigns, for the same cause or matter. Sec 3. No attorney at law shall be permitted to practice in any court in this State until he shall have taken and filed in the office of the County Clerk of the county in which the attorney shall reside an oath prescribed in this Act; and for every violation of the provisions of this section the attorney so offending shall be considered guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined in the sum of $1.000.

A STRANGE FAMILY TALE .- An Eoglish paper narrates the following extraordinary story :

"It is said that James, the first Earl of Lonsdale, who from his arbitrary willand ungovernable temper, was nicknamed 'Old Thunder,' had a violent quarrel with his cousin and heir male, Sir William Lowther, Twillington, to whom he had bequeathed enormous estates and in whose favor he had obtained a remainder of the barony and viscountry. He drove in a fury to his lawyers, demanded his will from them, that he might destroy it, and set off in a paroxysm of anger for Lowther Castle. What with giving vent to his rage, which with him amounted almost to madness, and when with a fit of the gout, which attacked him on the journey, when he arrived at the castle he was almost senseless. He died the next day. No will was found; such was his fury with his cousin that his lawyers made no doubt but that he kept his word and destroyed it. Sir William Lowther succeeded quietly to the sitles and certain entailed estates; but the heiress by far the greater portion of the deceased lord's wealth was his sister, the Countess of Darlington. Lord Darlington was sent for and entered into possession. How ong he remained so we have forgotten, but we think it was about three mouths. At the end of that time various odds and ends on the premises were doomed to destruction; among other objects, the old traveling chari t was considered not worth retaining. It had been hastily unpacked in the confusion of the earl's arrival in a dying state; it had been hastily wheeled into one of the coach houses, and there remained unthought of ever since. It would have been undignified to sell it, and so it was ordered to be burnt. It was brought out, and the work of destruction commenced; but on being broken up for the purpose it was found there was a false bottom, and in it lay unconcealed, the will! The final to the story is equal-ly wonderful The very night of this discovery, that part of the coach house where the traveling corriage had stood caught fire, and was burnt to the ground with every thing they contained. Twelve hours longer concealment, and half Cumberland and Westmoreland would be belonging to the Vanes instead of the Low-

"I do get so ennui,' sighed she, 'just for some object to absorb my attention, besides Dorcas baskets and embroidery !

Why didn't I ask if a husband would not do and propose myself for the vacant post? Because I was a blockhead-isn't that reason enough?

"I am thinking seriously,' said Isabel, after she had put in three sparkling black beads for the parrot's eye, 'of adopting some sweet little child to love and take care of. Do you suppose you could inquire round at the instutions and find one for me-a little boy.

"Perhaps so; at all events I'll try," quoth I, a sudden inspiration breaking through the thick fog that surrounded my brain 'Suppose I look around and see to-morrow evening ?"

"O, I should be so delighted !' When I took leave, she laid her little hand in mine; it was soft and warm like a lily petal steeped in sunshine. Any man with a particle of pluck about him, would have given it a squeeze.

The next evening, after two long hours at my dressing glass, I went deliberately to Snow's hospitable domicile, determined not exactly to do or die, but to woo or die I was desperate, and a desperate man is equal to most any emergency. The room in which I was shown was empty, but Isabel's work basket lay on the table, and close beside was a China vase, with a spray of scarlet Autumn leaves and a bunch of wild blue asters, placed in water. Had some miscrent of a lover placed them there? The bare possibility set my heart to throbbing, and inspired me with a desire to thresh somebody.

A light footfall on the carpet-Isabel was beside me.

"Well, Mr. Anderson, have you bro't the dear little fellow I am to adopt ?"

"Yes, Miss Isabel." "Of course it is a boy ?"

"Well, it is a boy,' I equivocated, 'but

"O, charming,' interrupted Isabel clapping her hands.

"Is he bright and intelligent ?" "Tolerable so; but terribly bashful !" "Oh. I shall soon cure him of that." "I have no doubt you will Miss Isabel."

"How dreadful that cigar smells !" exclaimed Cushing to a companion; "why, its an awful smelling thing !"

"Oh, no; its not the cigar that smells," was the reply.

"Why, its your nose that smells, of

"Hello, Frank," said he, "when did you get to be a doctor?" "I'm not a doctor."

"Why, what's this M. D. to your name for. then ?'

Frank saw that he was caught; but, determining to make the best of it, put on a very innocent look, and meekly answered :

"Oh, that's for Mighty Dry ?" Of course he got the whisky.

IT is stated that $40,000 in gold was sent from the Secret Service Fund of the War Department at Washington to Gov. Morton of Indiana, to enable him to carry on the State Government, for which the State Legislature failed to appropriate funds, owing to factious feuds amongst the members.

THE OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, MAY 23RD, 1863.

APOLOGY .- The readers of the NEWS will please accept, as a sufficient apology for the absence of editorial, the fact that the editor is away from his post of duty. When he went away, it was his intention to have returned on last Wednesday, but his business has detained him beyond that time, therefore this otherwise unnecessary н. apology.

WE have received the first number of the Ione Chronicle, published at Ione City, Amodor county, by R. M. Folger & Co. It makes a very neat appearance, and we wish it success. In politics it is Republican, and for the "Administration -right or wrong."

WE understand that there will be a Democratic meeting at the store of Mr. Rothes', on the plains, for the purpose of organizing a Democratic Club, on 30th May.

UNION MASS MEETING .- We see that bills are posted for a Union Mass Meeting, at the town of Woodland, on to-day, Saturday. 23d.

ONE firm in Troy, New York, has issu. ed fifty thousand brass penny tokens, and it is said that the demand for local circulation is immense.

THE proposition for the city and county of San Francisco to aid the Facific Railroad to the amount of $600,000, and the Western Pacific to the amount of $400,000, has been carried by about 1,-000 majority. There is great rejoicing over this railroad victory.

THE N. Y. Express says that after the conscription we shall see women here, as on the continent of Europe, ploughing, hoeing, digging, fishing, woodchopping, mining, &c.

WE learn that Col. George S. Evans, of the Second Cavalry, C. V., now in command of his regiment at Salt Lake, has resigned his commission, and that his resignation has been accepted by the Governor.

THE Cleveland Plrindealer says Geo. F. Train gave 170 lectures, since September last, for which bis emoluments aggregate more than the President of the United States.

A MAN named Amos Overladder, was killed just as he was entering Hell Gate, Idaho T. He threatened the lives of shot five balls through his body.

THE KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS wants the Marysville papers to give it some information concerning the prospects of the speedy construction of the San Francisco and Marysville Rail Road. We would inform the NEWS that we were led to believe that n.gotions had been completed for the furtherance of this enter. prise, some time since, but have recently learned that parties disagreed in the details of the proposed arrangement, and the matter was dropped. We also learn that parties have gone to London, with a view of effecting a negotiation. Further than this we know nothing appertaining to the prospects of the construction of the road. Express..

We are somewhat surprised at the above answer to our question of last week, as we were also "led to believe that negotiations had been completed for the furtherance of this enterprise;" but we accept the answer, though at the same time we are sorry to see so important an enterprise postponed. There is still another string to be pulled : "Parties have gone to London, with a view of effecting a negotiation." What the probable result will be, we cannot say; but if we are to take the past as an indication of the future, it will be an easy matter to guess; but while we are fearful of a speedy resume of the work, we have no fear that it will be left in its present state for any considerable period of time. The advantages and necessity of the enterprise needs not to be repeated, for they are well known to every one, and we hope soon to see more earnestness in this matter.

THE Washington correspondent of the Bulletin writes as follows:

Ex-Senator Latham sails for Europe per steamship Great Eastern on the 9th f next month for the purpose of giving Mrs. Latham an opportunity to test the opinions of friends and medical advisers, who believe that a brief residence in Europe will entirely restore her health, which has been exceedingly delicate during several years past. The duration of their stay abroad will depend altogether upon the extent to which these reasorble anticipations are realized.

Senator McDougall has gone to Illinois and at last advices had concluded not to return to California this summer, as he thought there were "great public interests" on this side of the continent that probably would need attention during the summer. The Senator has broken sensibly during the last year, and his physican advises him that unless he effects a radical change in his mode of life, he cannot expect to live out his present term of of Brig. Gen. J. W. Denver has resigned his commission in the Army, in order to look after his private affairs, which have become somewhat involved. The War Deportment certifies that during his connection with the army he has preformed faithful and gallant service.

CAMP .- The Camp of Instruction, ordered established at Oakland on the 21st two men at the Gate, when one of them instant, under the new Military Law of position of the blockading fleet. It is a erable flutter among military circles at the State, will be an extensive affair, if any considerable portion of the entire number of commissioned and noncommissioned officers of the State Militia are present, in obedience to the summons of the Governor. There are about seventy. five organized companies in the State, and the whole number liable to the duty would therefore be from seven to eight hundred, of which it is thought one-half will be present. The camp will be under the command of Major General Allen, and will be visited in the course of the ten days, during which it is required by law to be maintained, by the Governor and RECEIVED .- Col. J. D. Stevenson has staff. Adjutant General Kibbe will rerecived the appointment of Commissioner view the force in camp on the 22d, and again on the 29th inst. The necessary camp equippage, transportation and stores (not including spirituous or vinour liquors) will be furnished by the State at the expense of the Special Military Fund, which is to be raised hereafter by the levy of a two dollar poll tax on all male residents of California, Indians and volunteers in the service of the United States .- S. F. Call.

KILLING OF COL. KIMBALL .- A correspondent of a Now York paper, writing says: from Suffolk 12th inst. says:

At 3 o'clock this morning Gen. Corcoran was proceeding to the front of division, by order of Gen. Peck, when he was halted a short distance from town by some one then to him unknown. The person who halted him said he could not pass, and demanded to know who he was. The General replied by saying that he was "Gen. Corcoran, proceeding to the front by order of Gen. Peck." The officer said he could not pass without the countersign. Gen. Corcoran said he should, when the other insisted that he should not, at the same time making a movement to draw his sword. Gen. C. quickly demanded to know who he was, his regiment, rank, etc., when the latter replied. Gen C., under the impression that Col. Kimball was drawing a pistol, instantly drew his own and shot him in the neck, and he died in a few minutes afterwards. Just then Quartermaster Cock rushed out and cried, "who fired that piece?" "Is that you" said the General. On receiving an affirmative answer, the General told the Quartermaster to look after the injured party that he was responsible for the occurrence. and passed on. The mortal wound was then found to have been given to Lieutenant Col. Kimball, of the 9th New York, who was in command of the Hawkins Zouaves. The Zouaves had just arrived as reinforcements.

The deceased was originally a printer, and was for many years editor of the Dem-ocratic paper at Woodstock, Vermont. During the Mexican war he was Captain of the 9th U.S. Infantry, one of the ten regiments, and distinguished himself during the battle between Vera Cruz and the city of Mexico. He has also seen hard and creditable service during the present war. He was strictly within the line of his duty when demanding the counter sign of Gen. Corcoran, and refusing to let him pass without it.

BLOCKADING .- A correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, on board one of the blockading vessels off Charleston, writes service :

Keeping a blockade may seem to the unenitiated a very easy task, but when I saw the rebel batteries lining the shore, English steamer. running sixteen miles assisted by signal lights on the rebel watching her chance, run in under the rebel guns, and then pass up to Wilming-

These blockade runners always ton. time themselves so that they will reach a blockaded port about 3 o'clock in the morning. Our vessels can, of course, show no lights, as that would indicate ties in this Department. their whereabouts to the 'runners ;' while, on the other hand, the signal fires on the rebel shore plainly show to the 'runners' not only their proper course and the le-mile on the water.

INDIAN WAR .- The Humboldt Times

From the best information we can gather, concerning the movements of the Indians, we are led to believe that they are fully posted as to the organization of the Mountaineers, and know well what work they have ahead of them. Neither do they seem to be dilatory in their preparations. They have not been neglectful in supplying their Commissary Department, as everything goes to show that they have been laying in bountiful supplies. They do not presume to catch a bullock here and there, as formerly, for their subsistence, but they now have good sized pack trains-horses and mules-which are used in transporting their supplies from one post to another. Last week a detachment of Diggers camped at Albee's place, built three temporary houses, drove a lot of Miner's beef cattle into the corral and slaughtered three of them, dried the meat and then moved on up Redwood with a train of ten or twelve animals, carrying their meat with them.

Information of a reliable character has also reached Trinidad, that a large body of Indians have fortified themselves on Redwood, obove the bald Hills, and are prepared for an attack from the whites. They are said to be a few miles below Albee's place, and are well fixed. They have a substantial log house, with port holes, and so arranged that they can make their escape, though it should be surrounded.

RED LEGS .- We take the following from the correspondence of the Express. By it we may see what is done with the "contraband" that escapes from Missouri into Kansas:

The absolute extirpatation of the "di-vine institution," is threatened in the Western portion of the State. Under the encouragement and armed aid which the slaves receive from the border coun ties of Kansas they are swarming across the line in droves, taking whatever moveable property, such as horses, wagons, cattle, furniture, belonging to their masters, that they can seize, and making their way without molestation. Last thus of the difficulties of the blockading Friday night 50 ran away in a gang, from Lafayette county, taking with them 6 wagons, 18 horses and a valuable carriage. It is said that during the last three weeks not less than 300 slaves have mounting rifled guns, which throw four escaped from Lafayette county, and have miles and a half, thereby causing our all gone into Kansas. When this is completed and all the defenses which are contemplated, Helena is impregnable against any forces which the rebels are able to bring against it. DECISION .- Judge Treat, of the U. S. Circuit Court, at St. Louis, has decided that under the acts of Congress, and the President's proclamation pursuant thereto, all commercial intercourse with the insurrectionary States, or beyond the military lines of the United States forces, is prohibited without a license therefor from the President, through the Secretary of the Treasury, and that no military commander has any lawful authority to grant a license to any one to pass beyond his lines for commercial enterprises. A load of cotton and a steamer, together valued at $113,000, were condemned and confiscated by this ruling. Permission had been given for the steamer to go beyond the Federal lines for cotton by the military authorities at Helena.

SPECIAL NOTICES

SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE should never be disregarded. They are unerring indications that the vital functions of nature have been interrupted in their healthful action, and that serious evils must inevitably follow, unless the system be again set right by the timely use of proper remedies.

Bear in mind that nature is ever endeavoring to expel disease when it invades the animil economy, and only needs the assistance of some genial restorative - thorough, yet mild in its action-that will give tone to the system, and ACT UPON THE BLOOD-which is the principal of life.

Guusott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. As a purifier of the blood, a renovator of the system, and a supporter and preserver of the powers of life, it has no equal. Take it on the first indication that disease is upon you, and you will avert perhaps weeks and months of sickness and suffering.

APPOINTED .- Maj. Lawrence Kip, formerly of San Francisco, has been appoint. ed Acting Assistant Inspector General of the Department of the East by General Wool.

for New York State, vice Herrick.

MEXICO .- The Golden Age which arrived yesterday, brought advices from the city of Mexico to the 2d of May, and from Puebla to the 30th of April. The siege and bombardment of the latter place continued, says the Bulletin, and no further progress seems to have been made by the French since our last news from that quarter. On April 25th a serious engagement took place, when the French are said to have been repulsed, with the loss of 400 killed and 1,200 wounded.

CAPTURED .- It is reported that Calhoun Benham, formerly of California, and Major Prentace, son of the editor of the Louisville Journal, have been captured by the federals. They were to be exchanged.

HANDBILLS were posted up in San Francisco, during the recent election, stating that Governor Stanford had made arrangments to import 3,000 negroes to work on the Pacific Railroad.

AFTER HIM .- The rebels made a raid recently in Missouri in hopes of capturing Gen. McNeil, who ordered the shooting of several confederate prisoners. The officer did not happen to be at his headquarters at the time

THE Appeal has the following dispatch dated Weaverville, May 17th :

Information has just reached here that the Indians, numbering 1,000, are in the vicinity of Cox's Bar. They burnt the ranch and other points, making sad havoe with all the houses and the other valuable property in those places. Several families are reported killed. Supervisor Mc-Campbell, of this county, who resides at Cox's Bar, was obliged to fly from his house to save his life. All his property is reported destroyed. We think it will be necessary for the military companies in this place, under Capt. Nebbett's command, to do something towards putting down this outrage.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL .- Judge Isabel, of the Iowa City District, in the case of the contested election of County Clerk in Iowa county, between Springer, Repub-lican, elected by the soldiers' vote, and thus makes a forcible point: "Now the Morrison, Democrat, has declared the soldiers' vote unconstitutional.

St. Louis Republican says:

Gen. Rosecranse' policy is the sure and true one, in a war like this. He might rush ahead faster, and drive over the country here, and be driven back there. But he prefers to go when he gets ready, and then he goes to stay. His men appreciate this, and so do his opponents and the rebellious people hereabout. With such a base of supplies, well protected, as here and at Nashville, his divisions will make raids over this country, for a hundred miles, without fear of reverse, even if not thought best to make a general advance. One of the great merits of our General is his sureness. That he has never been compelled to fall back in his campaigns may be partly the result of circumstances, but mainly is owing, I think, to his caution.

HUMBOLDT, N. T.-The Register of the 2d inst. says:

NEW YORK, May 18 .- The Tribune's special dispatch says: The Provost Marshals have been directed to draft forthwith, but it is supposed to be doubtful whether any can be made before the middle of July. Volunteering may be called for in the meantime.

NEW YORK May, 18th-Gold quiet at $49\frac{3}{4}(a)49\frac{7}{8}$.

NEW YORK, May 19 .- The army correspondence of the Herald, under date of May 17th, states that the rebel pickets have an impression that they had received bad news from some point.

MAY 19 .- The Horald's Washington dispatch says: The rebels delivered to Colonel Ludlow about seventy three hundred prisoners, who have arrived at Camp Parole, at Annapolis. The rebels do not include in the release commissioned officers except as we have rebel officers to exchange for them.

Secretury Stanton has not made any authoritative declaration of suspending the $300 provisions of the Conscription Act.

WASHINGTON, May 19.

The official report of Colonel Davis, commanding a part of General Stoneman's expedition through Virginia, says: Our total loss in the expedition was two commanding officers and thirty three enlisted men. We brought with us one hundred mules and seventy five horses captured from the enemy. We captured in the course of our march a much larger number which we could not bring. The amount of property destroyed is estimated at over a million of dollars.

CHICAGO, May 19.

A Washington special dispatch says: Senator Wilson, who is now here, and who drew up the Conscription Bill, is understood to differ entirely from the decision of the War Department, ignoring the three hundred dollar exemption clause. The section relating to it is nearly a ver batim copy from the French law, which is executed as the present law was intended to be by its framer.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 19 -Two small boats-the Emily and the Arrowengaged in carrying mails, etc., from Norfolk through the Dismal Swamp canal to North Carolina, were captured yesterday near Currituck bridge, forty miles from Norfolk.

The Richmond Sentinel of the 15th has the following:

JACKSON (Miss.) May 12th .- The enemy yesterday advanced, with a column of 12,000 men, upon Raymond (Miss.), fifteen miles south west of Jackson, where General Gregg had forty-one hundred infantry and a few cavalry, but no artillery. The skirmishing began at nine in the morning, the enemy being continully reinforced until one P. M., when he opened the battte heavily with musketry. Gregg fought for two hours with musketry alone, when learning that the enemy had been heavily reinforced, and that the
