

Deabam May 18. 1840

Dear Friends:

Anne & Caroline were here on Sat. & to hear from me the particulars of the Annual Meeting at N. Y. I told me that there was an opportunity to you this week. I accordingly await myself of it, having wiped me & two through ignorance. I regretted wiping the opportunity about carried out to you the tidings of the translation of little Lestrange that it might have borne with them the assurance (through I trust unnecessary) of my sympathy with you in this new event of your lives.
 The first death must be as marked, <sup>through</sup> & no more solemn, an event in our domestic history as the first birth. As we can understand the feelings of the newly visited by the Angel of Life but we who has received his blessing - so no we can apprehend the emotions of those whose thresholds the Angel of Death has overpassed, but he who felt the rustling of his wings in his own domestic chambers. This experience I have not as yet had; but how soon may I have it!

All I can say is I sympathize with you in your earliest household bereavement - and could the greatest master of consolation say more with all the comforts of years old than which the schools can afford? I was much shocked, on going to your father's on an accidental visit to town, to inquire for tidings of you, to be told that the dear child was dead. I was kindly permitted to attend the funeral in the afternoon. Your noble absence was sad; but I rejoiced in the feelings <sup>that</sup> ~~of~~ <sup>of</sup> the omnipresence in which all spiritual ~~natures~~ <sup>natures</sup> exist, <sup>presently</sup> ~~opposed~~ ~~separated~~ ~~natures~~ exist, <sup>presently</sup> any real separation whether in or out of the body.
Can we be said to be parted when we are <sup>always</sup> united to the spirits that we love, ~~and~~ <sup>and</sup> continents, or oceans or the shadow of death inter-venes between us, ~~what~~ ~~is~~ ~~not~~ ~~together~~ by the invisible but <sup>all</sup> encompassing chain of Deity?
Perhaps I felt none the less in this our firm in consequence of the recent birth of a little daughter the first that has gladdened our home. All the accompanying circumstances were of the most propitious & auspicious character; & we are as happy as we dare to be.

You, of course, receive minute accounts of the A. S. history from your sisters. A good many strange things have happened since your departure.
What a strange cautious was that of Chace! Did it not take you by surprise? His mind must have been in a wretched state, I think, from some cause or other, & this was a manifestation of the distant portion.
His letter resigning his place on the Am. Board was certainly a weak production, if it might not be characterized by a stronger epithet. To charge sectarianism & love of power on the poor Am. A. S.
Soc. of 1841 did look like adding insult to injury.
Lucinda Helmuth said to me that we have more more trials than Paul had - he had "trials among false brethren" - while we also have trials among true brethren". Chace has the elements of a fine character - but they are mixed with much alloy - & I fear that the Devil has been busy stirring & quaking the good inhabitants. I fear there is something of vanity, wounded pride, desire of greater prominence than he has had &c that has urged him on to this step. I am confirmed in these suspicions by a story which Garrison told me of the way in which the matter was communicated to Johnson. Johnson was at N. Y. during the Standard & Chase came on. He was full of mysterious imputations & gave J. to understand that something very terrible was impending. After exciting Oliver's curiosity by his mystical demeanor for a good while, he gave him his communication, intimating that there was something that would astonish him.

When Johnson had read it, he looked at C.'s face with his smiling goodnatured <sup>expression</sup> ~~expression~~ Cubit you have at this moment before your mind's eye) & said "Well, Chase, I think we can stand that!" The poor fellow sneezed, expected to produce a much stronger impression than he did.
Chase was very particular about reading the proofs.
Johnson overheard him soliloquizing as he read something to this effect. "That's heretical!" "I'm a Fact!" "Cease Poor Chase!"

Caroline has told you, no doubt, of the news I gave her of the Norfolk Co. Abolition Soc. meeting here of the success of Luther Lee at the Fairmount for its serenity to the clergy, of the attack upon it by Follen (not Cyrus) & the refusal of the Soc. to endorse & recommend it. I hardly was an unfortunate one. Without positive work done, he does the mischief of an abolitionist. But they will get across the Prop<sup>ty</sup> Board. We are looking for lobby to <sup>set</sup> this & all other matters right. I trust the news will reach you by this opportunity of his return in the steamer which is momentarily expected. He seems to have been doing a good work in setting them by the ears in Sup.

 He wrote me that he was about attacking the papers of the Unitarians - may they stand & deliver like true men.
 Great fears are entertained of the Cop of the Steamer Pratt from N. Y. for Liv<sup>er</sup> - sailed Mar. 11th and heard from. If no news is brought by the next Nantux S. Packet fears will become despair. Poor Paddy Power was the only person on board whom I had ever seen - & I paid a dollar a right to see him.

injustice & that he will not face the uncertainty of anything.

This Spring is pronounced by "the oldest inhabitant" to be the most backward within the memory of man.
It is now the 19th May & the elm trees are as bare of leaves as in winter - the apple trees just putting out their leaves & a few miserable cherry blossoms struggle for the sun. What a contrast to the balmy air and vernal skies about 20 years ago. I trust their selectest influences are showered upon both of you.
I suppose you are now beginning to think of returning your faces homewards. A month or six weeks, I trust will restore you to us renewed in health & strength. I rejoiced at an intimation I had the other day that Rivadale has not actually departed out of your plans. It is now for sale & I trust by the time you return the proprietor will be willing to receive what it is worth (I do not know what he asks for it, but suppose like most men wise in his generation he holds it at a great above the market). I truly think that you could not find a more desirable residence - perfect seclusion, yet within an hour of town for 2500 - an excellent neighbourhood - Pibleys people; T. Parker, G. Shaw, P. Russell, not to mention the apocryphal of Dedham & that though not least your humble servant.
It is too good to happen - that is all - but still I hope. I dwell on the subject much peruse back in a perpetual state of enthusiasm on the subject - which will brook no delay or disappointment Only think of the span you will have "to wobble round" in compared with No. 11. What starts. Imagine the gliding waters, the shimmering leaves, the waving boughs, the balmy air. Then the cows - the milk! the cream!! the butter!!! Then Cobsins, stalwart steed, shall expand his cank sides & grow & burp em! Then the hens - the egg, the chickens! Then the <sup>little ones</sup> ~~robust~~ under the greenwood tree - the walks in the solemn shade - the romantic ride! Then the quiet, the repose, the peace! Then the child-dren's emancipation restoration to their natural rights, "I could fight with them on this theme until my eyes could no longer see" - but I forbear - leaving it to your imagination to fill up the detail of the future George & his wife departed on the 1st of April the undivided society experiment having lasted long than anyone had foreboded. They became quite fov--vites here - were certainly the two very best good-natured people living. We think they may eventually back yet to Deabam. They were in hope that Shendell & his wife would return & buy the place with them - so that they might ~~all~~ live together - but Mr. P.'s health put an end to the plan. It seems he had a right to be off in pursuing a obscured strenuous while alternative he chose. Think seriously of the Riverdale scheme - I do not believe anything selfishness aside, that you could be more desirably retorted considering all circumstances. Then 5-118/40 think that it will drag out a miserable existence for three months. I think during Tovey's reign it was the vilest thing of the kind I ever read. Swift could not have devised a more excellent burlesque on the political party organs. To see this little chat with his ruffed regiment of two or three hundred firms himself <sup>soaking</sup> all the air <sup>of the place</sup> on Nat. Intell. was almost too much. For example - "The town clerk of Sacton was elected by the Liberty party by a maj. of 38. Thus it goes down into the heart &c." "That Proctor was by Berkeley at the last election is now ready." "W. Lewis remains at the head of the Union, where we hope he will remain till the first Anti Slavery President needs his services in the Cabinet!" "There are but specimens. But I apprehend the ridicule was too glaring even for third partyism to submit to - so he had to give place to S. J. Smith, whom poor Cummins said at the Porfolk Co. Meeting they had believed to be an Abolitionist! but now he has given place to Alden their financial agent!"

The Annual Meeting at N. Y. went off to admi-ration. I attended the whole of it from Tuesday night to Friday aft<sup>n</sup>. The attendance was very good - greater than in 1838 the only one I ever attended (excepting last year which was no circumstance) when the old Exec. Com. was in the full blaze of glory. There were not many other from Mass<sup>t</sup> chiefly from N. Y. I seem to think The Anniversary was very excellent. <sup>James</sup>

Ed off by reading one of the Phalms - then he, Alvan Stewart, Rogers & Barleiff made Speeches in their best style. Alvan by way of showing his neutrality spoke also at the Foreign Soc. in evf.
But you must remember that he was not asked to speak at our meeting. All the services were voluntary & spontaneous. At the business meeting we enjoyed the fruits of the victory of last year & I gave Collins full credit for having achieved it. All was harmonious though not without differences of opinion & discussion. J. C. Fuller was full of objections - but was reasonable withal & not ex-traneous - & left a favourable impression on the minds of the friends. She made mine D.P. for N.Y. in J. Smith's place. Linley Coates, our Pres., who left the year's meeting to come to ours, is the right man for our head - a good presiding officer & a thorough, old-fashioned Abolitionist. How lucky that we did not choose J. Smith last year. I never felt more encouraged for the prosperity of our cause than I did at leaving that meeting.
What a contrast to the year '38 - when we were in the full tide of hollow prosperity! Then we had a triple aristocracy of Anti-Slavery nobles to say nothing of the hosts of clergy. At the last meeting there were Smith, Goodell, the Tappans, Leavitt, Weld, B. Jew. Phelps, Fincher, Kinney, Stanton, Gay - to say nothing of the subtle array of postboys & agents?

All gone - & yet we never missed them! Charles Summers & Noah Mack, a N. H. Free Will Baptist minister, were the only representatives of our clerical guides, that I remember - oh yes, there was John Allen besides.
Still the numerical attendance was greater or few as my memory serves me - the ranks & file were there the officers only had deserted. But new steers ones had taken their place. Over three hundred dollars were contributed in cash & pledges for 7 or 800 were made by the meeting - besides pledges by Abby Kelly, O. Johnson & J. C. Jackson to raise $1000 each - but w<sup>h</sup>. I hope other means will be found to raise. One of the best men disappeared, we had was as to whether we should advance over the 20th to allow those who chose to go to Lewis Vappant expedition of the Amistad Captives at 50's <sup>a night</sup> ~~stocks~~.
I opposed the adv<sup>se</sup> as did Rogers & others, Garrison, Fuller &c advocated it - & after being once carried against the adv<sup>se</sup> - was afterwards carried in favor.
I did not, however, - I believe Garrison did not.
The men in some discomfort for a while at the non-arrival of M<sup>rs</sup> Child who was to take the standard.
She appeared, however, the bad day having been retained by sundry accident by flood & field.
She is in good spirits & seems resolved to hold up the flag to the breeze. I think she will not fail to her duty to New York - which was the point where I feared she would be wanting. But she has a whole honor of Lewis Tappan did please some what well stand her in <sup>front</sup> ~~stead~~. James S. Johnson is a jewel of the first water & his wife is like unto him. ~~At~~ with them - I have not seen two more lovable & more truly estimable people for a long time. Isaac & T. Hopper is "the Prince of good fellows & wall of ould men" - a perfect picture of an old Quaker gentleman - the very best preserved man I ever saw - in his seventieth ~~fourth~~ year with scarce a wrinkle or a grey hair - free & active as a man of thirty five.

I was pleased with Sarah Pugh & Mr. Neal of Phil<sup>a</sup> - who came in with some vague ideas of depolizing the Am.
Loc. ~~Stopping~~ Standard &c but who went back straightened up - pledged to raise money & leaving contributions behind them. The ~~Anti~~ Penn. Soc. the week before our meeting drew the lines by a vote of confidence in Am. Soc. & by appointing delegates for a vote of two to me. Returning through the found<sup>er</sup> ~~road~~ <sup>way</sup> a Temperance meeting in the cabin at which we all spoke. Garrison made a very good speech.

Mr. Richards continued mischief-making you have accounts from your sisterhood. This is a pretty fellow - & the trouble is ~~to~~ to know how to expose him without opening the Liberator to his interminable expontions. That he should have led astray the Rhemouth party is too bad - but a way will yet open. The choice of Adams as a member of the Board Why think what an A. J. from Dedham would become show it would radiate its abolitionism throughout the County, the State, the country, & the world! What a place to put "The Book" in shape. But I forbear. I am going in some day soon to hear your last letter read & thus get some autograph of your work - it will be a most saleable one in this Country & America.

But it is time that this protracted scrawl should draw to an end. It is no small proof of my friendship that I am willing to read it. But I know that a letter is a letter, especially in a far country. I mention every particular in this letter is told two or three times at least by your various correspondents.
Mais, à l'importe, my foot will name the left-foot I have written as I would wish to be written to if I ~~could~~ were in the cities of the sea. As I said before Caroline, Anne & Gleivie came over on Sat. 7 to see me, being unable to survive longer their ignorance of the N. Y. matter. Can-ceive my delight in having the first intelligence to communicate. They all seemed in good case and good meeting. Rogers remains to attend it. Having no more to say, I will now let go your button & release you. Farewell! God bless you both! Come back soon swell. Thy affectionate friend
