OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The Montreal Gazette, which would declare that the earth is as flat as a pancake if such a declaration were necessary in its opinion to the maintenance of existing institutions, thinks old age pensions would be an anachronism in Canada.

AN EXPLODED PROPHECY.

Sir Richard McBride Before Canadian Club, Feb. 8, 1912. Sir Richard McBride at Duncombe, March 12, 1914. Two years ago we had about seventy miles of railway on the island, but from information now in my possession I venture to predict that there will be 300 miles of railway on the island in three years.

dition that before another three years have run their course the mileage in operation on Vancouver Island will exceed 700 miles.

DENIES THE ALLEGATION.

The morning paper indignantly denies that it has just made the discovery that Imperial legislation will be necessary in order that British Columbia may receive additional senatorial representation, and goes on to quote what it did say to show that it always has been strictly up to date on constitutional matters.

A HYDRA-HEADED MONSTER.

Sooner or later Canada must come to grips with one of the most formidable combines ever organized on a continent which seems to be dedicated to banded capitalism. This is the tripartite combination of railroads and lake and ocean steamship interests banded together in the agreeable common purpose of milking the Canadian shipper and ultimately the consumer at every opportunity.

ONE ON THE EDITOR.

The man who undertakes to do anything unconventional in Toronto is sure to get into trouble. An unsophisticated editor from Halleybury, Ont., wanted to find out for the benefit of his paper how immigrants from Britain were treated by a certain league whose objects ostensibly were to make smooth the path of the strangers in a strange land.

built up on wind. There is no difficulty in dealing with the railroads so long as the government does not delay or embarrass the Railway Commission, which it seems bent upon doing in regard to the western rate inquiry, and there is no reason why it cannot take power to regulate the tariff of the lake and steamship companies.

MORE "UNDERTAKINGS."

Sir Richard delivered what he hopes will be his final speech to the electors of the Cowichan district last evening. Mr. Hayward, the member for the district, was present at the function which was the occasion for Sir Richard's latest pledges.

SECRET OF TORY LIFE

Aunt Huldah claimed that she was well past the century mark, though the date of her birth was shrouded in mystery. Whether she was an old as she claimed or not, there could be no doubt that she had lived to a good old age, and one day a bright young newspaperman conceived the idea of interviewing her on the subject of long life.

WASHED NUT COAL $5.50 Per Ton

This is the fuel that you will eventually use in preference to either Cord or Mill Wood, for the simple reason that it makes a cleaner, quicker and brighter fire.

employees if he would succeed in his object. Carranza's commission of inquiry is reported to have discovered the man who killed Benton. He is Major Rudolfo Pizarro, who is now due for a mysterious disappearance.

Let Frenchmen and Germans eat horseflesh if they will and circumstances compel them to do so. They may have an appetite for that kind of food, cultivated in their many wars when the two countries were laid waste and stern necessity repealed natural laws.

Lord Willoughby de Broke, who is famous in a way as a continuous victim of Punch's wit, has introduced a bill in the House of Lords for the creation of a territorial army for the "clawes." When the measure reaches the House of Commons some scoffing member probably will move that the first two letters of the final word be stricken out.

From the Ridgeway Dominion. Here's a new one: The bakers of Amherstburg have adopted a profitable plan that has a small scale rival of that of the Ford Motor Co. Three days in the week they place a 2-cent piece in each batch of bread, and the other three days they place a 3-cent piece.

A JUVENILE REBELLION. From M. A. P. A funny story is being told of the son of a leading society lady. The boy is ten years old, but his mother persists in dressing him in velvet suits and making him wear a regular Peter Pan mop of hair.

10,000 WENT OUT, 30,000 RETURNED. From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. Practical patriotism is a great thing, and no mistake. When an organization of Pennans wanted to come over here from the United States and take possession of Canada ten thousand men went to the front to repel the invaders.

CANADA'S RAILWAY MILEAGE. From the Hamilton Spectator. Canada equaled the United States last year in the mileage of new railway construction, though our population is only about that of the state of New York.

COAST LEAGUE BACKSTOP WILL COMPLETE VICTORIA'S BALL CLUB

Delmas Enthusiastic Over the Prospects This Season; Speed Main Consideration; Dale Arrives in City

"I now have strings out for a first-class backstop, while the Oakland club has promised me a left hitting outfielder. When I receive the contracts of these men I will be content to sit back and let the other clubs tear into the fray, knowing that I have as good a ball club as ever stepped upon a Northwestern league diamond." In the above words Bert Delmas, manager of the Victoria baseball club, expressed his views on the coming season. Delmas is perfectly satisfied with the local squad, with the exception of the catching department. His only other worry is a lead-off man. The Victoria pilot looks in the best of shape and says that he is in for a big year. Delmas is lighter than last season, and the bees ought to get a running start on the other clubs in the Northwestern league. Speed and more speed is the slogan that Delmas is working on in lining up the Victoria team for this summer. Every man that he signed in California had to show his sprinting certificates or he was turned down. The Victoria leader knows that slow footwork on the basepaths cost Victoria 21 games that were dropped by the one-run margin last year. He will insist on the hunt being perfected, while inside baseball will be his chief run-getting principle. He will have a fast and sure fielding club, while in Zimmerman, Brotten, Mahoney and himself, he has four regulars who will bang the ball pretty close to .300 for the entire season. Ryan, the recruit first-sacker, is touted a sure .300 hitter, while Fahey, the new third baseman, is also a hard willow welder. Scanlon and Gorman are another brace of infielders who have speed and hitting ability. The Victoria chief is pleased with the pitching staff that he is assured of. Babe Driscoll, Ashley Pope and Al Molr are the pick of the lot, and all three are youngsters who should go up this season. Bert Fitchner is expected to become a regular, with Orval Harrah and Bob Steels as likely contenders for a regular turn on the slab. Delmas in addition has a raft of others who will be tried out. Dale, a recruit catcher, who shapes up like another Jimmy Archer, arrived yesterday, but the balance of the squad will report on Monday.

Portland, Ore., March 13.—Word was received from manager Walter McCredie, of the Portland team of the Coast league, which is now in training at Santa Maria, Cal., that he has signed Roy Brashear, last year's captain of the Venice team. Brashear probably will be used as a pinch hitter and utility infielder.

H. L. ("Chief") Batisse, graduate of Gladuette Indian school at Washington, D. C., and track star of the Cleveland, O., Athletic club, has signed a two-year contract with the Victoria Northwesters, and will renounce his amateur standing.

The announcement that William Bradlow, former Cleveland third sacker, would head the Brooklyn Federal league club, ends all chances of the new organization acquiring the services of Fielder Jones.

VANCOUVER RUGBY CHAMPIONS HERE

Welsh Teams to Provide Sporting Feature at Oak Bay; Local Line-up

While the Barnard cup rugby games have been called off for this season, rugby fans of the capital are in for a rare treat at the Oak Bay grounds to-morrow afternoon, when the Victoria Welsh team clashes with the champion Welsh fifteen of Vancouver. The visitors carried off the mainland honors in splendid style, and they scored an easy victory over the local Welsh team when the latter visited the mainland about a month ago. The Victoria Welsh team will be strengthened by the addition of Frank Sweeney, Cyril Sedger and Milligan to the forward line, and they expect to win. Griffiths, a new three-quarter, will make his appearance on the Welsh scoring division, in company with Hill, the well-known point-getter. Griffiths has been playing junior for the better part of the season, but he is shaping up nicely, and the Welsh management look for this youngster to be a star next season. He is a splendid runner and can swerve with the best of them. The game will start at 2.45 p. m., and the local team will line-up as follows: Full back, Tommy Dunn; three-quarters, T. Reese, Griffith, Fred Hill, Sid Thomas and Rogers; halves, L. Dinepoker and Sid Hendra; forwards, H. Boyde (Capt.), Griffiths, A. Adams, J. Baxter, A. Bannister, Frank Sweeney, C. Sedger and A. Milligan; reserves, forwards, Sam Reese, Benson and Evans; backs, Moody and Bob Stevens; referee, Dai Davies. The representative Victoria intermediates to meet a similarly selected team in Vancouver on Saturday was chosen yesterday as follows: Full-back, Frampton; three-quarters, Cutler, Heyland, Woodward, Casey; half-backs, McBride and Kilpatrick; forwards, Campbell, Copas, Travis, McBride, Chambers, Carroll, Robinson and McIlvride. Phoenix Beer, $1.50 per doz. qts.

SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE DAY

The world's series starts to-morrow night. Foulis, Kerr and Dunderdale should prove an effective attack. Manager Delmas is pleased with the baseball outlook for the coming season.

Jack Youson will have McArthur between the poles for to-morrow's game.

Y.M.C.A. now leads in the Senior City Basketball league, but the Bays and Wests are close up.

This fellow Pope is said to have enough speed to carry him through the majors.

Equitault looks to be the pick of the City League billiard teams.

Fug Bennett will hardly report to the Vancouver club this year because of his reduced salary.

Victoria's defense will give that Toronto team a lot of trouble in the coming world's series.

Bob Brown would like to grab Charlie Brooks from the Bees, but he has nothing to offer in trade.

To-morrow night's meeting of the lacrosse magnates means a great deal for the pro game on the coast.

The Wards have five of their stars picked for the inter-city game with Vancouver a week from to-morrow.

Joe Bayley will find it pretty tough going in California, where the fight promoters always pick the hard ones for the newcomers.

Dunderdale should prove a great goal-getter in the six-man game with that shot of his.

ELKS' TOURNEY.

In the opening matches of the Elks' billiard tournament last night, J. P. Lins (rec. 65) defeated J. Kirkham (rec. 45), 250 points to 207, and P. Duffy (scratch) defeated A. Proctor (scratch) 250 to 189.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Coast Champions Meet Toronto. That the Victoria team will emerge victorious from the world's series is the general opinion of the coast hockey followers. The general all-round ability of the Victoria team is perhaps the greatest reason, but there are other points that give the Senators the edge. First of all, the Victoria team will enter these games fresh from a fortnight's rest, while the Queen City puckeasers had a bunch of hard games in the past week. Toronto failed to get a goal against Canadians and according to Victoria players now in the east, they depend entirely too much upon their individual brilliancy to get the goals. Lester Patrick will send Kerr, Dunderdale and Foulis into the six-man game, and this trio looks strong enough to outscore anything that the Toronto management can put on the ice. Whether or not the youthful Toronto players will stand the graft in a hard series has not yet been made known. Jack Marshall's players have been lucky in a lot of games this season, but they will go up against the real thing when they meet the Victoria septets. Lacrosse Outlook Becoming Brighter. Something definite on the plans of the B. C. L. A. for 1914 will be available after to-morrow night's meeting of the Coast League, booked for Victoria. The Westminister delegates will be here in full force and it is expected that the teams will have everything lined up to start the lacrosse season about the middle of May. Vancouver is ready and willing to place a team in the field under the management of the Vancouver Athletic club, while the Westminister team is willing to give Victoria a couple of players in order to get a strong team in the capital. Co-operative lacrosse should prove a winner in Victoria under capable management and the Victoria club appears to have secured a splendid board of officers behind the local team. Another month will have cleared the situation considerably and Victoria enthusiasts may look for a big year.

METROPOLITANS WIN BASKETBALL TITLE

Will Now Play Vancouver Champions for Provincial Honors; Fast Game

Metropolitans are the champions of the city Sunday School Basketball league. By taking the measure of the Baptists at the Y. M. C. A. last night, 19 to 15, the Mets captured the Knott shield and earned the right to compete with the winners of the Vancouver Sunday School league for the championship of British Columbia. There was a huge crowd out to witness last night's game, the Y gymnasium being packed to the doors. Both teams took the floor extremely confident of victory, and the supporters of each cheered heartily and boomed lustily by any decision which went against their boys. A tough, hard and fast game was expected, and the spectators got all they were looking for. The checking was very hard, the guards sitting tight on the forwards, and every basket made was the result of a tricky play. The Metropolitans broke into the scoring sheet on a free shot, and were never headed during the game, although the Baptists pulled up even several times. At half time the Mets had a two-point advantage, and upon the resumption of play they went further into the lead, only to have the Baptists make a spurt later, and come up on an even footing. The Mets had to make a change in their line-up in this period owing to injuries to Robinson. Cheeseman filled in at guard. The slight rest pulled the Mets together, and they went off on the final stretch in grand style, and the final whistle sounded with them on the long end. The players on both teams played hard and fast, and the victory of the Mets was clean-cut. Knott and Aird, forwards for the Mets, piled up most points for the winners, while the "demolition water-front expert" was there with a few lifeboats which came in handy during the game. Harris, Robinson and Cheeseman played hard at guards. For the Baptists Middleton and Reg Beckwith worked like hounds to win, and they were well supported by McIntyre, L. Beckwith and L. Warnicker, but they were not quite strong enough to come out on the right side. The teams lined up as follows: Metropolitans.—Forwards, A. Aird and W. Knott; centre, A. Willis (captain); guards, N. Harris, G. Robinson and S. Cheeseman. Baptists.—Forwards, A. Middleton and L. Warnicker; centre, R. Beckwith (captain); guards, E. McIntyre and L. Beckwith. Spare, Sadler. Ed. Steele gave satisfaction as referee.

RIFLE CLUBS IN EXCITING CONTEST

An interesting match was shot last night on the 90th Highlanders' range, between ten men of the Highlanders and ten men of the City Club. The final count resulted in a tie, each club having a total of 894 points. The individual scores: Citizens: A. E. Ashe 100, M. Lohrman 100, R. B. Greig 100, P. A. MacDonald 100, C. F. Hutchinson 100, E. H. Beasley 99, H. Burton 99, W. J. Tanner 99, G. Grassby 99, C. A. Bloomfield 98. Total 999. Highlanders: Lieut. Richardson 100, Sergt. Cooney 100, Pte. Wilson 100, Pte. Hughes 100, Pte. Wolf 100, Lieut. Wallace 100, Lieut. Wallis 99, Col. Sergt. Smith 99, Pte. L. Tapley 99, Lieut. Monteith 98. Total 998.

FACTS DISCLOSE BIAS IN RAILWAY REPORT

Standard of construction, and have ignored entirely the arguments advanced against such change of plan. Proceeding on this basis and ignoring the opinions given by the Grand Trunk Pacific engineers and by the chief engineers of the National Transcontinental commission and of the railway department, they have coolly added up every item that could possibly be counted in making up a total of $40,000,000 that might have been saved had a road of a lower standard of construction been built.

Finally it may be noted that the partisan misrepresentations contained in the report of Messrs. Gutzlaff and Lynch-Staunton, and still more highly colored by the Conservative press throughout Canada, have been industriously circulated both in Canada and in Great Britain and in consequence the credit, not only of Canada as a whole but of the Grand Trunk company has been seriously damaged amongst British investors. As an instance of the stories that are being sent out along this line it may be noted that the London Times in a recent issue contained what purported to be an authoritative article declaring that the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to Prince Albert was $150,000 per mile, exclusive of sleepers and rails and that the cost of the National Transcontinental railway made it practically certain that the road could not be operated at a profit and pay interest charges on the cost of construction. As a matter of fact, the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to Moncton is only about $70,000 per mile, including rails and sleepers, or less than half the figure mentioned in the London Times and reproduced in several British papers. The total cost of the whole Transcontinental line from Moncton to Prince Rupert works out to about $80,000 per mile, with terminals and everything complete. This cost compares favorably with what the Canadian Pacific main line has cost and the standard of construction of the new road is considerably higher.

The whole report with its gross inaccuracies and its far-reaching influence is nothing less than a national crime, committed with the joint objects of making political capital for one party and serving the private interests of rival railway corporations.

USE IS LIMITED.

Owners of Automobile Demonstration Licenses Must Not Use Them for Other Purposes Than Demonstrating.

A case which contains a warning to all motor car dealers who use demonstration cars came before Magistrate Jay this morning, when R. A. Playfair, manager of the Heg Motor company, was arraigned on a charge of using such a vehicle for other than demonstration purposes—in this case to go shopping. The magistrate remarked that this was the first instance he had ever had before him of a prosecution under that section of the act. Mr. Playfair was eventually dismissed with a warning.

The institution of the prosecution shows that the provincial police are determined to prevent all holders of demonstration licenses using them for purposes other than actual specific demonstration. The holder of such license is not allowed by the statute to use the car for hire, or even to take a friend for a ride in his auto, unless he is an intending purchaser. The act is very clear on the point, and in future the police intend to enforce it to the utmost.

Provincial Constable Armstrong was the only witness for the prosecution in this morning's charge, and he described seeing defendant leave Broad street with a lady in his car, and then visit various stores where they did some shopping; the car was then driven home.

Mr. Playfair's defence was that he actually went down town to pick up a man whom he thought might be a possible buyer. He said the company often drove the car around town in order to let people see the vehicle and so judge of its running merits. It was a case of demonstrating to the public at large instead of specific individuals. He was under the impression that such action was not in contravention of the statute.

He was cautioned not to go beyond the act, and the charge was dismissed.

BAGDAD ROAD WON'T HAVE GULF OUTLET

Germany Loses Fight With Great Britain on Railway Plan

London, March 13.—The Bagdad railway is not to extend to the Persian Gulf.

This famous German project, which the Kaiser himself advocated and encouraged and in which the whole German people were deeply interested, is to stop at Basrah, defeated of its desired eastern terminus by sixty miles. This, in substance, is the chief point in the understanding that has been reached by the British foreign office and the Turkish government, represented by Hakkî Pasha, who has been for several months in London completing the terms of the Anglo-Turkish agreement.

This eastern terminus has been wavering in the Euphrates and Tigris valleys ever since the original survey was made. It was set down once in the mud at the mouth of the Tigris. Then it was moved to likely places to the south and finally fixed, according to plans of the projectors, at Koweit. But Great Britain objected to all of these. She did not wish Germany to have control of a port so near India. Again, English capital was invested in the steamship line which operates on the Tigris, and railroad competition might seriously affect it. So the line below Bagdad was held up for years.

By the terms of the present agreement the railroad is to stop at Basrah, in the valley of the Tigris, and navigation of that river is not to be impaired. The road from Bagdad to the terminus is to be built jointly by Turkey, Great Britain, Germany, Russia and France. Great Britain is to have two seats on the directorate as a guarantee against any differential rates, and she is to have the right to build a railroad through south Persia.

In Historic Scenes. No railroad enterprise has ever possessed such fascination as the Bagdad line or so completely held the attention of the world. It was to open up to modern civilization the great Euphrates valley, the scene of Biblical history and ancient civilization; it was to pass by the sites of old Nineveh and Babylon and through the land of the earliest conquests of Mohammedanism. It was to restore this now desolate and neglected region to the wonderful fertility it once enjoyed and to furnish Europe a new and almost inexhaustible granary.

Its political significance was still greater. It was to furnish to Germany entrance to the middle east and a means of checking the increasing power of Russia and Great Britain in that part of the world. There were to be two controlling ports in Asiatic Turkey, one at Haidar Pasha opposite Constantinople, the other at Alexandria on the Mediterranean coast of Asia Minor.

Austria-Hungary was to build the Novi Bazar railway, gain control of Salonica and then by a short sea voyage across from Salonica to Alexandria Vienna and Budapest would have a direct route to the Persian Gulf. From Berlin there would be another equally direct route to the same point by way of Constantinople—even a bridge across the Golden Horn was one of the projectors' dreams—and then across the Bosphorus through Anatolia and down the Euphrates valley. One of the dreams of the military enthusiasts was to rush troops from the capitals of the two great nations of the Triple Alliance in German cars over this road to the east, thus avoiding the passage of the Suez canal.

The entire distance of the line from the Bosphorus to the Persian Gulf is 1,700 miles. But of this, part is the already constructed Anatolian railway. The road proper begins at Konia, the terminus of the Anatolian section, and is to be built in a southeasterly direction, passing through Aleppo, the metropolis of Syria; Mosul, on the site of ancient Nineveh, and Bagdad, the city of the caliphs, a distance of 1,250 miles.

Political Outlook Changed. Recent events in Europe have lessened apparently the political significance of the project. Germany is not so closely allied with the Ottoman Empire as in Abdul Hamid's time. Austria is not so ambitious to build the Novi Bazar railway now that the Greeks are at Salonica. To neither of these great nations does the passage of the Balkans look so easy as before the dismemberment of Turkey in Europe. It is the commercial possibilities of the road that now offer the strongest appeal.

The building of the road is reported to be progressing favorably and there appears to be good foundation for the hope that the line will be in operation by 1917. The 500 miles of road from Konia to Bagdad are being constructed by a German company, the general manager of which is Melasner Pasha, who has a record of twenty years of railroad building in the Ottoman Empire. Work has been held up at the Taurus mountains owing to the heavy bridge building and tunneling necessary. Along the rest of the line there are no great engineering problems, but the cost of transporting building material and ballast into lower Mesopotamia makes construction expensive. A recent traveller who went by caravan over nearly the entire route, says that he saw active construction or final surveys in progress at every point.

The road is expected to develop latent resources of the country and stimulate business to such an extent that capital will flow in and industries thrive. The gigantic irrigation plans that Sir William Willcocks has been at work upon for years it is expected will make the valley of the Euphrates one of the greatest wheat producing lands in the world.

To Open Up Rich Country. The line will cut through districts where cotton has flourished but where cultivation has been neglected owing to lack of a market. Petroleum and bituminous coal are said to be plentiful in many sections through which the line passes or which can be easily reached from it by short side lines. Near Masul and near the Persian frontier there are known to exist immense fields of petroleum, which have been carefully guarded against the inroads of foreign speculators. There are rich mineral deposits to the north, which are also well protected against speculators and will be tapped by feeders from the main line. The import trade of the interior has been of small importance on account of the difficulty of access to it and the high price that must be asked for even the simplest articles on account of cost of carriage from either Mediterranean or Black Sea ports.

With a cheaper freight it is thought that there will soon be established a good trade for many simple articles of commerce. Tourists, it is believed, will also flock to this so long hidden land when the way of getting into it has been made less difficult and arduous.

Great Britain has already completed the survey of the railroad in south Persia and will begin building in a short time. The line will run from Mohammerah on the Persian Gulf to Khorremabad, 100 miles north, near the border of Asiatic Turkey. It will tap a great caravan route over which the trade of west Persia has passed to Bagdad.

Another section of the Anglo-Turkish agreement that was most acceptable to the British was that relating to Koweit. It not only denies the right of the Bagdad Railway company to have a terminus there but at the same time it recognises Great Britain's right to insist that this small bit of Turkish territory remain an autonomous government, a provision that is of the utmost importance to the security of her Indian empire.

Another victory in diplomacy for Great Britain in this part of the world is the treaty just made with France whereby a ban is to be put upon gun-running in the Persian Gulf. Under a former treaty which Muscat had with the French it was an easy matter to introduce firearms and ammunition into Muscat and thence across the Gulf and into the land along the Indian frontier.

This form of illicit traffic was fascinating to the people of the Beluchistan and Persian coast, and almost every week the British warship which patrolled these waters was forced to chase dhows laden with weapons. The smugglers were strong enough a few months ago to cut to pieces a party of

King and Queen on their forthcoming visit to Paris, recalls the oft stated fact that Sir Edward has never set foot on foreign soil. It has been said that he visited Madrid in 1908 and Berlin last year. It is announced now that neither of these visits was made. A few years ago Sir Edward said in a speech:

"For twenty-eight years my life has been a continual struggle to live at home."

It is generally reported that Sir Edward speaks no German and very bad French. Mr. Venizelos, the Greek premier, said some time ago that he had the greatest difficulty in understanding Sir Edward Grey's French.
