GAINESVILLE, GEORGIA.

"The Queen City of the Mountains."

The altitude of the city is 1,253 feet; population, about 10,000, including suburbs.

As a BUSINESS POINT Gainesville is pronounced one of the most solid, safe and progressive cities of its size in the South.

Gainesville affords cheap power, intelligent labor, raw material of various kinds and transportation facilities which make it a logical point for MANUFACTURING INTERESTS.

The combination of mountain and valley scenery, pure water, invigorating air and an ideal year-round climate, brings Gainesville into prominence as a CITY OF HEALTH.

Gainesville believes in EDUCATION and the promotion of morals and has a system of public schools looked upon as a model. For higher education, Brenau College Conservatory for young ladies and Riverside Military Academy for boys offer the best of opportunities. The city owns the water-works system and is encircled with a sewerage system. The principal streets are curbed and sidewalks tiled. The business district is paved.

In public buildings this city rivals many of the larger cities of the South. The hotel accommodations are good and the lower plants on the Chattahoochee and Chestatee rivers furnish light and power in abundance, all these giving Gainesville every MODERN CONVENIENCE.

GRADY H. GASTON.

FOREWORD.

I desire through this edition to chronicle in enduring form the progressiveness of the men who are now creating and up-building this magnificent monument to their own industry and sagacity.

We have in this, the city of Gainesville, cameo engraved by large industries, palatial homes, modern schools, and well paved streets—one of the grandest testimonials to the integrity, unselfishness and thrift of a people who woke up one morning about forty-seven years ago and stripped of everything save an undaunted and unconquerable spirit and their honor.

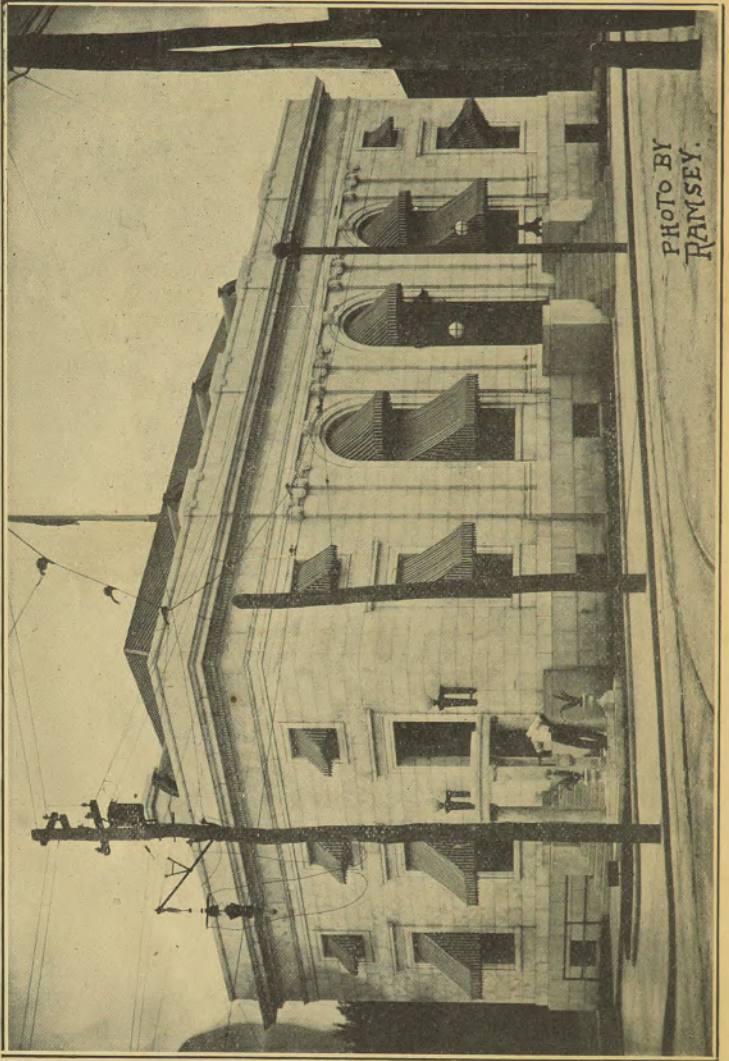

This book is preserved as no other work of reference is; it is a history of the growth of Gainesville, put into concrete form and will endure as long as the city itself; therefore, there is no more fitting place to publish the works of the men who make Gainesville than in it, and I hope to see future editions more fully representative of the many men who have and are sending Gainesville to a foremost seat among the most enlightened and progressive cities in the Southland.

POPULATION.

There are 3023 names in this book. Of the 3023 names, 1245 of them carry the wife's name, thereby making 4268 names actually in the book. There are 1865 school children and 875 under school age, giving Gainesville a complete population of 7007 people.

Sincerely,

GRADY HILL GASTON.

Grace and Beauty

characterize the poses I give to all my sitters.

The posing is really most important.

The Faithful Likeness

is another feature of all my pictures, they are really life-like productions.

If you are thinking of having a photograph taken individually or as one of a group, come and let me show you the artistic excellence of my work.

My picture framing and Kodak finishing and supply departments are running on ball bearing, rubber tired wheels.

Copying and enlarging given special attention.

Respectfully,

N. C. WHITE

The Photographer.

Brenau College Conservatory

Gainesville, :: Georgia

The College offers courses leading to the A.B., B.L., B.S., and L.I. degrees; it has a corps of excellent teachers, and its equipment enables it to do the best work in all its departments.

The Conservatory offers unusual advantages to young women seeking the best advantages in music; there are 50 pianos and 2 pipe organs in the building; the faculty is composed of artists from the best American and European conservatories. Full course in Normal Music work, embracing courses in Musical History, Analysis, Composition, Musical Pedagogy, etc. Brenau also has the most beautiful concert ball in the South.

The School of Oratory is doing work equal to that of Northern institutions, and the work done here is accepted at Emerson College, Boston, without examination.

Splendid course in all departments of art; Domestic Science is taught practically.

Home Building and Home Furnishing Hardware

There are styles and finishes in builders' hardware which give distinct tone and quality to a house.

We invite you to inspect our line.

FLY SCREENS

The house fly is a danger signal—and a menace to health. Everybody is shutting him out—you will have to in self defense.

THEY MAKE THE PORCH
COOL AND INVITING.

Vudor reinforced Hammocks are the Very Best made.

Don't take a substitute. Insist on having Vudor.
