Former Federal Judge Raps Plan To Banish Arms In United States

A denounciation of those who would strip the United States of its arms and for all times banish war regardless of the consequence, came from the lips of Benjamin F. Bledsoe, former federal judge, who delivered the main address at Memorial day services at Forest Lawn Memorial Thousands of persons who filled the cemetery grounds heard Judge Bledsoe brand the pacifists.

"Ever in the past America has won her peace by resistance to She has never bought it through compromise. When re-ort to reason and better judgent proves unavailing in the future, and the fundamentals and foundations of our government are threatened by a foe, we will, in reverence to those who have fought and died for these princinles in the past, again win our peace through resistance, never compromising with evil," Judge Bledsoe declared.

"The nation is not worthy to be saved, which, in the hour of its fate, will not gather up the jewels of its manhood and either go down to immeasurable ruin or achieve complete suc-

Judge Bledsoe's stand against "peace at any price" was roundly applauded by hundreds of uniformed men who stood in the audience, many of them with empty sleeves or other physical marks that bore testimony to their willingness to "win the peace of a nation." Other scores who applauded were women, many a loved one who had made the

"Judge Bledsoe is a man who for twenty-five years has courageously adminis-tered justice in Southern California," Tower said. "He is one of our most honored citizens and one to whom we look for guidance and counsel."

Councilman Tower placed a wreath on the symbolic grave in the name of the city during the exercises that followed the speech-making at Forest Lawn. Councilman Tower represented the city in a most creditable manner at the exercises.

OUR MISSIONARIES

While we are counting upon the thousands of visitors who come to Glendale this summer to advertise us in the east and middle west we must not forget the missionaries we are sending out to almost every state in the Union to carry the gospel of Glendale as the wonder city of the west. Our summer vacationists, who make up that big army that goes back to the old home for a visit every year are carrying on a gigantic publicity campaign, proclaiming to folks in the eastern states that it will be well worth while to respond to the urge to visit California. We miss these people from our homes and streets, for their absence means a slowing up of all activities during the summer months. But they are doing a great work for the home community and eventually their visit among their old friends will react beneficially upon us.

Personal contact is the most effective kind of publicity. One enthusiastic Glendalian circulating among friends in the old home state can get more and better results than the Chamber of Commerce could by spending a hundred dollars. It is safe to say that each one of these summer vacationists going about among his relatives and friends will influence more than one family to come to California.

And, with this kind of advertising, there is no adverse reaction. It is possible to read into printed advertising things that are not there, but when we talk, friend to friend, there is not likely to be any misrepresentation, and there is opportunity for the prospect to learn about the things that especially

If we supplement the work of these summer vacationists with letters to our friends and relatives we shall find that this advertising campaign, though unorganized and unofficial, has accomplished great results.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CAMPAIGN

A poster campaign is to be launched July 1 from Washington to boost for law enforcement. Prohibitionists are very much wrought up over the character of the posters to be displayed Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of dry enforcement, refuses to permit any reference to the eighteenth amendment on the posters. The slogans and pictures are to feature law enforcement in general, without reference to any particular law. The complaint is made that Andrews' stand proves that he is a supporter of prohibition

If every law-enforcement officer supports prohibition because it is a law we do not need to care whether or not he believes in prohibition. Of course it is highly desirable to have our officials believe our laws are good laws as well as to have all our citizens believe it, for the observance and enforcement of them would be automatic, in that case, but we believe that Andrews is showing good judgment in regard to the posters . The man who would not be influenced by the words, "In dis regard for law lies the greatest danger to the republic," which it is planned to use on the posters, would not be restrained by the picture of a bootlegger delivering liquor to a customer, with the words, "Demand creates supply." The man who has been patronizing the bootlegger is not anxious that the supply should fail and he will not curtail his orders to bring about such a condition. But if there is any good in him at all, the an unfortunate day, for Uranus and Neptune are both strongly appeal for the preservation of the republic should make him adverse in their rule, which is

INCOME TAX NEWS

The decision of the supreme court that newspapers have a right to publish income tax reports was to be expected. To it is forecast that both men and it is forecast t exclude from the newspapers reports that are open to the public women may be strongly inclined is unjust, even though the law giving the public the right to vagaries and for this reason it pry into private affairs is iniquitous in itself, serving only to satisfy curiosity. And it does not even satisfy curiosity to any extent for the amount of tax activities the first tax and for this reason it is well to safeguard the mind from all unwholesome ideas.

If fraud could be discovered by throwing open these reports to the public there might be some excuse for it, but cases where this could be done would be negligible. CLARK KINHAIRD unintelligi b 1 e abstractions, but simply and sole ly upon the physical circumstances to which they are exposed." Grant Allen, who made the observation some years ago, reasoned that if it is a fact, as we know differs recognizably from the Chinese, and the people of Hamburg differ recognizably from the people of Timbuctoo, then the notorious and conspicuous differences between them are wholly due to the geographical position of the various races.

In other words, if the people who went to Hamburg had gone to Timbuctoo, they woud now be indistinguishable from the semibarbarian negroes who inhabit that African metropolis; and it the people who went to Timbuctoo had gone to Hamburg, they would now be blonde merchants, busy preparing imitation whiskeys and wines for the American bootleg trade.

The differentiating agency must be sought in the great permanent geographical features of land and sea," Allen argued. These have necessarily and inevitably moulded the characters and histories of every nation upon the earth.

'We cannot regard any nation as an active agent in differentiating itself. Only the surrounding circumstances have any effect in such a direction. To suppose otherwise is to suppose that the mind of man is exempt from the universal law of causation,

"There is no caprice, no spontaneous impulse, in human endeavors. Even tastes and inclinations must themselves be the re sult of surrounding causes."

However, this view is open to attack. Naturalists know well how indeterminate the enough harmonies between a fauna and its environment are. Why Not Look at Things As They Are

When a man who has suffered from myopia is fitted with glasses he becomes happier and more useful to himself and to those around him. He sees life through new eyes. What was blurred and indistinct before becomes bright and clear-cut. He reads clearly the message on the sign across the street. He sees the real glory of the distant hill tops, heretofore denied him. Perfect vision transforms him.

If we could all be fitted with glasses to make us see more clearly mentally, we should be of more value to the community. If there were some way to get us to look beyond our noses where our duty to Glendale is concerned we should be happier and the community richer.

When we think of out-of-town shopping expeditions do not matter, our vision is decidedly blurred. We have not seen clearly. We have not been able to read the signs that point to community prosperiay and -because we are a part of the community-to our own prosperity. We have not seen the glory of the mountain tops which is the height toward which we, as a community, aspire, and which we may attain if we all work together.

The development of the community is in the hands of ALL the people. No city can be built up without money. Glendale is not asking your gifts-merely your business. Everyone spends money every day. No matter if what you have to spend is much or little, SPEND IT IN GLENDALE. We need it, not only we who are in business, but all of us. Help Glendale to grow by spending your money here.

High Taxation Blamed for Serious Condition Of Business

DUBLIN, June 1 .- Ireland's trade decline is causing serious concern to merchants and bankers in the Free State.

Last year's trade statistics reveal that imports exceeded exports by nearly $90,000,000; and a conference of leading Free State merchants and bankers has just been held to attempt to remedy this state of affairs, which business men realize will end in the economic decline of the country if allowed to continue. The conference suggested the following remedies

1. Restriction of imports of certain classes of goods which the country itself can produce. 2. Tariffs.

3. Better voluntary support of existing industries.

4. Bonuses on production.

5. More extended technical instruction.

7. Reduced taxation.

Man Who Has Beaten Many Champs To Appear In Vernon Ring

Bud Taylor has beaten more champions and ex-champions, probably, than any other boxer in the country. Here's his tab; Pancho Villa, flyweight champion two newspaper decisions; Frankie American flyweight champion, no decision; Charley Phil Rosenberg, won decision in twelve rounds, New York; Abe Goldstein, won decision in ten rounds, New York.

Rosenberg is the present ban-tam champion. Goldstein is an ex-bantam champion. Chicago fans, who claim Taylor as much as Terre Haute, his real home town, predict that Bud will win the bantam crown before another year ends. That is, if Rosenberg will take the match. Goldstein beat Joe Burman, just after Joe Lynch had dodged a scheduled battle with him.

Taylor and Rosenberg boxed the semi-windup on that card. Bud broke his right hand in the fourth round and had to win with a left from then on, which the judges agreed he did. When Taylor boxes Jimmy McLarnin at Vernon Tuesday night, both his right and left hands will be commissioned to perform-and he

Sultan Of Swat Makes His First Appearance Of Season Today

By DAVIS J. WALSH For International News Service. NEW YORK, June 1,-No. longer an ex-brewer about the waistline nor a piano mover at the shoulders, our Mr. Ruth will resume the business of baseball this afternoon after seven weeks in the hospital and seven days on the beach. He will play right field for the Yanks against the Champion Senators and all New York, perforce, is looking for an exhibition of parlor magic that will transform the Yankees from a rabbit into a rattlesnake.

It probably will not be. Ruth is not the man he will be later in the season. He still is too weak and underweight and cannot take the old toe hold at the plate and get away with it. The doc tors only acceded to Ruth's demands that he be allowed to play in order to rid himself of his querulous pleas for action. His return in fact is two weeks ahead of schedule and whether his premature appearance will cause a reaction later remains to be seen.

The fans will see a younger and leaner looking Ruth than has been their privilege for ten years. His succession to illness, culminating in his collapse at Asheville, N. Altogether, there is considerably more hog money going to the country than in 1924. The advance in hogs and the decline in corn has made the price ratio favorable for the feeder for the first time in two years. Eventually, as this favorable ratio continues, the tendency will be to increase production again, but it probably will be a year and a half or more before market receipts begin to reflect such a tendency, according to the foundation's experts.

TRADERS WARNED OF INDIA'S FIELD

Department of Commerce Advice for Exporters To Far East

WASHINGTON, June 1:-American exporters planning to enter the markets of India are advised by the department of commerce, first, to encage in a comprehensive study of the basic customs of that nation.

Without a complete understanding of customs and religions, American advertising car paigns in India are apt to prove a poor investment, according to Assistant Trade Commissioners Donald Renshaw and C. B. Spofford, Jr. Advertising is no new art in India. From time immemorial, the officials declared, the fakir has indulged in self-mutilation to draw attention; parades of elephants, in gaudy trappings, have advertised the power and wealth of the nobles for countless generations. The calls and cries of the practice of barter and exchange.

Complex Nature

"The complex nature of the population offers difficulties in modern advertising," Renshaw said. "Differences of castes and religious beliefs, of language and custom prevent the issuing of a universal appeal. Religious sensibilities are easily offended, and a growing sense of nationalism meticulously demands respect.

"Cheapness, rather than quality, according to experts, is the main requisite for the few items of foreign manufacture that 90 per cent of the population must buy with their almost negligible individual purchasing power."

The story is a powerful one. Prior to the war Pfeiffer is strong for his Fatherland while Block is ready to renounce all allegiance to the country of his birth. Both are staunch Americans, but when this country enters the war Pfeiffer believes a mistake has been made and he and his friend have bitter arguments on the subject.

Dramatic Climax

When his son, without his knowedge, joins the colors, his cup of bitterness overflows. The climax is a great dramatic triumph which concludes with the father's realization, at last, that he has been mistaken in his opinions and the son's narrow escape from death. The final curtain sees the dawn of peace and love in the hearts of all.

Motorist In Midnight Battle With Bandit

A midnight battle with bare fists with a bandit on Colorado street at the Glendale-EagleRock city limits ended in a victory for C. A. Smith, 430 South Columbus avenue, although the bandit escaped, Smith reported to Glendale police early yesterday morning.

Smith was returning to Glendale over Colorado boulevard from Eagle Rock shortly before 12 o'clock Saturday night when a man, dressed in dark suit and cap, leaped on the running board of his automobile. Without a word, Smith, holding the wheel of the car with one hand, with his other struck the bandit in the face. The attacker struck back, but missed, and with a heavy blow, Smith knocked him off his balance. The bandit fell to the street and then ran into the darkness.

Lieutenant Nunn and Patrolman Larson searched the vicinity, but found no trace of the bandit.
