KING'S CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY HIS MAJESTY OUT OF IMMEDIATE DANGER The Doctors Were Consulted for an Hour Before Issuing the Bulletin This Morning.

(Associated Press.) London, June 28, 9.45 a.m.—The Duke of Connaught drove to Buckingham Palace at half-past nine this morning and after a short visit repeated the gratifying report: "The King has had natural sleep. He is comfortable and his condition is satisfactory."

The Morning Bulletin. London, June 28, 10.52 a.m.—At 10.45 o'clock this morning the following official bulletin was issued from Buckingham Palace on the condition of King Edward:

"The King had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider His Majesty to be now out of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory. The operation would, however, still need constant attention, and such concern as attaches to His Majesty's condition is connected with the wound. Under the most favorable conditions His Majesty's recovery must, of necessity, be protracted."

"The 2 p.m. bulletin will be discontinued. (Signed) Lister, Treves, Barlow, Smith and Laking." "The King is now out of immediate danger." This announcement spread quickly throughout the metropolis, and it caused general rejoicing. The verdict upon which the nation had so anxiously waited caused a longer consultation than usual. Lord Lister, Sir Frederick Treves and the other doctors discussed the patient's condition for nearly an hour before they committed themselves to the important announcement. It was read at Buckingham Palace by only a small crowd, the public being practically assured by yesterday evening's reports that everything was going well. Yet, to use the words of the Westminster Gazette, the bulletin was "full of intense relief."

The underlying suspicion that the doctors might fear more than they wrote, the sensational rumors of His Majesty's death, which continued so late as yesterday, and the lack of definite official news, all combined to create a feeling of intense nervousness. Such hopeful statements as the Associated Press had been able to make were not available to the British public, who, however, were spared the sensational reports, now so palpably absurd, which were cabled to America.

By June 30th, the doctors are expected to announce that all danger of any complications has passed. The King was very cheerful this morning, after four or five hours' sleep, and his temperature was normal. On Saturday His Majesty will probably be transferred from his bed to a couch, where he will be able to recline. He is already able to raise himself slightly by the aid of a pulley. When he first made an attempt to do so the Queen adjusted the pillows so as to form a back rest, and with a sigh of intense relief the King exclaimed: "Ah, that is better."

Rejoicing in London. London, June 28.—A week which has witnessed emotions of such conflicting and intense character, as to be without parallel in the nation's history, is ending as it began—in rejoicing. Englishmen themselves can scarcely realize that in the brief space of five days the country has gone through the most acute stages of jubilation, fear, doubt and hope. Now, with to-day's bulletin, they are all talking of the festivities, many of which will take place as planned. The Crystal Palace on July 2nd will be the scene of the brilliant hospital ball, in which so many artisans are taking part. On July 4th the Indian office will be transformed with Oriental decorations, plants and flowers, for the Asiatic reception, when the Prince of Wales is expected to welcome the visitors, and London's poor are eagerly looking forward to their first coronation dinner.

Among the disappointed stand owners and other sections of the public, there is a strong desire to have a war parade, with Lord Kitchener as the central figure. Such an arrangement would doubtless attract many thousands to London. The Metropolis and the country are quite ready to go wild over Kitchener, but he is likely to endeavor to dodge any public shows.

Falling Kitchener, the stand proprietors have to rely upon the King's first public reappearance, which is likely to be a drive through the streets to a National Thanksgiving service. That, however, must be some time hence, as a man in his sixty-first year, in spite of his wonderfully quick recovery from the immediate results of the operation, will probably have to submit to a rather lengthy convalescence.

The King was specially gratified by a dispatch, among numerous telegrams, from a large meeting of Transvaalers, assembled at Balmoral, Transvaal, embodying a prayer that the Almighty might restore to health and grant him and the Queen health, wealth and a long time to live.

Removed to Couch. London, June 28, 4.50 p.m.—The King was removed from his bed to a couch this afternoon, earlier than expected, and was placed in a sitting position. He was feeling decidedly better.

Progress Maintained. London, June 28.—At 2.30 p.m. it was officially stated at Buckingham Palace that the King's progress was fully maintained, and that he had seen several members of the Royal family during the day.

Evening Bulletin. London, June 28.—The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace at 6 p.m.: "The King passed a very comfortable day and his progress continues to be quite satisfactory. (Signed) 'Treves, Laking.'"

THEY DECLINE TO BE INTERVIEWED NOT PREPARED TO DISCUSS CONFERENCE Canadian Ministers Say They Are Not Ready to Speak of the Probable Results.

(Associated Press.) New York, June 28.—While King Edward's health remains the paramount subject of conversation, the imperial conference is looming up as a remnant of the coronation fetes, cables the London correspondent of the Tribune. The colonial statesmen are discussing among themselves the work of the conference, and are not disposed to commit themselves to any premature statements of policy. Neither Premier Laurier nor Mr. Paterson nor Mr. Ross, nor any other influential Canadian minister, will allow himself to be drawn into an interview.

They frankly assert that they are looking over the ground and are unprepared to discuss the probable results of the conference. An impression prevails that the colonial statesmen will avoid putting themselves in an attitude of coming before the United Kingdom and asking for concessions at the expense of the British taxpayers. They, it is argued, will consider it unworthy the dignity of self-governing Commonwealths to appeal for the tariff preference when the British government, in order to comply with their demands, will be compelled to raise the cost of living in the United Kingdom. What is more likely is a general agreement among the Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and South African statesmen attending the conference to confine their tariff discussion to existing fiscal arrangements with a view to a relaxation of the present system. As long as Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is chancellor of the exchequer, an imperial solvency is believed to be impracticable, and there is no evidence that any influential representative of Canada or Australia favors it.

ALLIANCE RENEWED. Treaty Signed by Representatives of Germany, Austria and Italy.

(Associated Press.) Berlin, June 28.—The treaty providing for the prolongation of the alliance between Germany, Austria, Hungary and Italy (the Triple Alliance) was signed in Berlin this morning by the Imperial chancellor, Count von Buelow, the Austrian ambassador, L. von Szogyenyi-Varich, and the Italian ambassador, Count Lanza Di Buseca. The alliance was renewed in its original form.

CELEBRATION AT SEA. Festivities Were Held on Grand Lincor, Passengers Not Knowing of the King's Illness.

(Associated Press.) New York, June 28.—The Grand line steamer Lincor, which arrived early to-day from Liverpool and Queenstown, held festivities on June 26th to celebrate the coronation of King Edward VII., not knowing of his illness. The steamer was decorated with flags, and a great number of people were invited to the ship, popular attractions were played, a salute of 21 guns was fired, and crew and passengers joined in singing "God Save the King." Games, races and athletic competitions were held. The next day, June 27th, at 9 a. m. the Lincor got into New York, and the ship, popular attractions were played, a salute of 21 guns was fired, and crew and passengers joined in singing "God Save the King." Games, races and athletic competitions were held. The next day, June 27th, at 9 a. m. the Lincor got into New York, and the ship, popular attractions were played, a salute of 21 guns was fired, and crew and passengers joined in singing "God Save the King." THE STRIKE IN COAL CREEK MINE STATEMENT BY TWO OFFICIALS OF UNION Secretary Claims the Manager's Order Means Men Would Have to Work Longer Than Formerly.

(Special to the Times.) Fernie, June 28.—The miners working for the Crown's New-Pass Coal Company at the colliery at Coal Creek here are all out on strike. The new mine manager, Mr. Larkin, on taking charge made a change that the miners put in eight hours' work at the coal face, and that they remain in the mine eight and a half hours, being off half an hour for their lunch. The miners' union, which is a strong order, unanimously resolved to go out.

Secretary McKenzie of the Miners' Union, on being interviewed as to their grievances, stated that it meant that the men had to work half an hour longer than formerly, that the custom at the collieries at the coast and Nova Scotia, was eight hours from bank to bank, or from the time they entered the mine until they came out. This has been the custom here, and the men are satisfied to work still accordingly. Mr. McKenzie stated that the men have been in the habit of getting to work as soon as they get their working clothes on, received their lamps, etc., and that they paid little or no attention to the company's whistle, but got to work. Mr. McKenzie thought there would be about one hundred men working for a regular daily shift, which the men would be well satisfied to see.

James Duguid, the president of the union, stated that the miners have always had a difficulty in getting enough cars to take out their coal and in getting timber to keep their rooms in shape. He said that the men lost considerable time through this, and that many men consequently were not earning near what they could if the management had provided all the cars and timber asked for. The men do not wish half an hour for lunch but only a few minutes, preferring to get outside for their meal.

THE SHIPPING COMBINE. Meeting Held in London When Economic Administration of Various Companies Was Discussed.

(Associated Press.) New York, June 28.—With the departure of Messrs. Clement A. Grispen, P. D. Woodson and William L. Elkins, from London, the co-presidents of the Herald, to join their respective yachts at Southampton, it became known that these three gentlemen had attended a very important meeting of moving spirits in the trans-Atlantic shipping syndicate. This meeting also was attended by J. Pierpont Morgan, Bruce Ismay and Bernard Baker, of the Atlantic Transport line. It is understood the subject of an economic administration of the different companies in the combination was discussed. It practically was decided that the different offices should be to a certain degree consolidated in the future, offering a great saving in the way of office rent, clerks, etc. Another meeting will be held in New York at which time other things, including that of agencies, will be abolished.

(Associated Press.) Edmonton, B.N.W.T., June 28.—The Wetaskiwin Times of June 26th says: "Nils Johnson, charged with the murder of Peter J. Johnson, confessed to the killing shortly after his arrival, and gave the story of the crime as follows: 'On November 9th last Peter and he were on their way home from Bittern Lake to Hay Lake, when they quarrelled about their work. Peter rushed Nils by the throat and hurled him back, choking him. He grabbed for an axe and hit Peter on the back of the head. Peter then got a loaded rifle, which was in the sleigh. Nils grabbed the muzzle of the rifle with one hand and pushed it against Peter's head just as it went off. Peter fell over the side of the sleigh box and was pulled into the mud hole. Nils, who drove on for a mile or so, then returned to the trail and drove in amongst some brush, where he left the body in a mud hole.'"

"About a month ago he moved the body about three miles from there and put it into the sleigh among some brush within a hundred yards of another trail, where it was found by the police. The bullet wound in the head of the murdered man was a little to the right of the nose and below the right eye."

SWINDLERS BUSY. American Shoppers Fleeced London of Five Thousand Dollars.

(Associated Press.) New York, June 28.—Twenty of the cleverest and most dangerous swindlers from America and the continent have been in London for the purpose of fleecing fashionable coronation visitors, cables the London correspondent of the Herald. Recently a group of five American sharpers entered a well known west end restaurant, and one of them renewed acquaintance with a gentleman whom he thought he had met years ago. Later, they entered a card game in their apartment in which the victim lost $5,000. His supposed friend also lost heavily, but paid in cheques, while the victim contributed cash. He notified the police, but the gang had fled. The police learned the entire party had separated into parties, one of which proceeded to Paris, where a wealthy visitor was banished to the extent of $35,000.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE. Insurance Agent Tried to Kill a Barber, and Falling Took His Own Life.

(Associated Press.) Chicago, June 28.—Armed with two revolvers, Charles W. Gelan, an insurance and real estate dealer, made two ineffectual attempts to kill Albert McMullen, a barber, last night, but he locked himself in his office and used a revolver on himself. He fell dead as the police battered their way through the barred entrance and reached his side. A quarrel about a woman was responsible for the tragedy, it is said.

CASE ADJOURNED UNTIL THURSDAY COL. HAYES'S COUNSEL REQUIRES MORE TIME After Long Argument Accused's Bail is Increased—Capt. Irving Accused of Vindictiveness.

The hearing of the charge against Col. Granville H. Hayes, of the Nahmit (or Hayes) mine, near Alberton, of having obtained the sum of $1,000 from Capt. John Irving on false pretences on or about August 1st, 1900, was continued in the police court yesterday afternoon. As stated before in the Times this is one of three charges laid against the accused arising out of an action entered in the civil courts by Capt. Irving for the recovery of $28,000, principal and interest paid for 10,000 shares bought by plaintiff at the instance of Col. Hayes two years ago.

In the evidence given yesterday morning by Capt. Irving, which was published in yesterday's Times, it was stated that the complainant paid the sum of $1,000 to Col. Hayes to secure the extension of 30 days of an option which accused claimed to hold on 10,000 shares in the Nahmit Mining Company, which the two parties entered into an agreement to buy jointly for $20,000. Capt. Irving alleges that no option existed, and that the shares in question were the property of Col. Hayes and another party at the time, and that the whole transaction was fraudulent. Capt. Irving also stated that the purchase was made, the money being raised on a joint promissory note, the whole principal of which he had to pay himself, accused only paying $1,200 towards interest accruing. He held in addition to the 10,000 shares, 5,000 shares belonging to accused and his note for $12,500, but he claimed that the shares were unsalable.

W. J. Taylor, with H. B. Robertson, appeared for the complainant, and F. Peters, K. C., with C. A. Bury, for the accused. In the afternoon complaint was recalled by Mr. Taylor for the purpose of adding to the evidence given in the morning, and a long and somewhat heated argument ensued between counsel as to the admissibility of further evidence from Capt. Irving at this stage. Mr. Hall, P. M., finally holding that the evidence should not be taken.

On the court resuming this morning, Mr. Peters applied for an adjournment. He said that a matter in connection with the case had just come to his knowledge which would require some consideration before he decided whether he would bring any evidence in rebuttal of Capt. Irving's statements. Mr. Taylor offered no objection to the adjournment, but asked that the bail should be increased. He claimed that every element of the offence alleged was present in the evidence for the prosecution, and if the bail was not increased a miscarriage of justice might result. Mr. Peters opposed an increase of the amount of bail. He opined that the case for the prosecution was by no means so clear as Mr. Taylor said. A prima facie case might have been made out. The bail was quite sufficient to fulfil the object of bail—to keep the accused from going away.

Mr. Hall, P. M.—Mr. Taylor says that it would pay the accused to put up the bail and then go away. As the case stands it is fairly strong. Mr. Peters—Well, a prima facie case of a very weak nature. Mr. Hall—I do not know that it is very weak. Mr. Peters—I simply submit that you have ample bail. There is no reason why, when good bail is forthcoming, a person should have to go to goal when nothing has been proved. My client could have gone away before. We know exactly the nature of the evidence that would be adduced against him, and before the prosecution were made we knew that they were forthcoming. Mr. Taylor—We have made out our case, and now Mr. Peters is asking for an indulgence of the court to put off the case so that he can consider whether he will dare to put in any evidence for his client or not. Mr. Peters—That is not the proposition I made. I said that a circumstance had just come to my knowledge which required consideration. I say that the amount of bail that was sufficient yesterday is sufficient to-day. Nothing has occurred to alter the reasonableness of the amount fixed. The other side are trying to make this prosecution as harsh as they can. Capt. Irving's evidence shows that he stated that he would put Hayes in goal if he could, and this application for an increase in the bail is for that reason. But I have no doubt Mr. Hayes's friends will put up any amount of bail. Mr. Taylor—It is the duty of every citizen to see that a crime is punished and that the offender should not escape. Mr. Hall—I have nothing to do with the object of Capt. Irving's suit. I have only to deal with the case as it appears before me. I have decided to raise the bail to two sureties of $2,000 each. The new bail was then taken, and the case adjourned until Thursday morning next.

SUMMER COLDS Produce Chronic Catarrh

Mrs. Henriette C. Olberg, Superintendent Flax and Hemp Exhibition at the Omaha Exhibition, writes from Albert Lea, Minn., as follows: "This spring I contracted an aggravating cold, having been exposed to the damp weather. Catarrh of my throat and head followed, which persisted in remaining, notwithstanding I applied the usual remedies."

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL

The Necessary Revenue Will Be Raised by Taxing All Dealers in Alcohol.

A special meeting of the council was held in the committee room at the city hall yesterday afternoon to consider the by-law to amend the Revenue By-Law, 1900, which was recently introduced and read the first time on the motion of Ald. Cameron.

Major Hayward presided, and Aids. Kinsman, Grahame, Williams, McCandless, Vincent, Worthington, Cameron and Barnard were present.

The by-law was read a second time on the motion of Ald. Grahame, and then considered in committee.

The first section repealed the vehicle tax. Ald. Cameron explained that this taxation on vehicles had proved to be unworkable. It had been imposed by the council in place of the proposed tax on bicycles, and the section imposing the tax gave no discretionary powers, so that the tax had to be collected upon every vehicle of any kind, whether it was used or not. If an expressman had one horse and three wagons, he would be liable for the tax on each of the three wagons.

The Mayor stated that the revenue so far collected during the past year on this tax amounted to $800. According to the section the tax could only be levied on vehicles actually in use. He was in favor of keeping the tax in operation. He pointed out that more than $800 was expended annually in street cleaning.

On the motion of Ald. Vincent section 1, abolishing the vehicle tax, and sections 3 and 4 which dealt with the same matter, were struck out.

Section 2, a saving clause only, was passed.

Ald. Worthington moved an amendment to increase the annual license fee for saloons in the city to $1,000, payable half yearly. The motion was lost.

Several aldermen discussed the question of raising the liquor license fee, and after considerable discussion the license fee was eventually raised from $200 to $300 per annum, payable half yearly.

Ald. Worthington moved to increase the bottle license from $150 to $500 per year, which was defeated. Ald. Barnard suggested that the license should be increased 50 per cent—the same rate as the other licenses. Ald. Grahame moved to increase the fee to $300 per annum, payable half yearly. He considered the bottle trade should be taxed as heavily as the saloon trade. The $300 rate was carried.

The license fee for wholesale dealers was raised from $50 for each six months to $75.

Ald. Worthington moved to raise the hotel license fee to $500 per annum, which was defeated, and Ald. Grahame's motion to increase it to $300, as in the case of the saloon licenses, was agreed to.

The half-yearly fee for restaurant licenses was raised from $25 to $50.

A number of "riders" to amend the by-law so as to make it conform with the act passed last session in the legislature were then read and agreed to in turn, and the by-law was reported complete with amendments and read the third time.

The meeting then adjourned.

STEAMER TACOMA FROM THE ORIENT

CHINA LINER CAME IN EARLY THIS MORNING

Spokane Will Call With Big Number of Excursionists—Willapa on the West Coast Route.

"Left Hongkong on May 31st, calling at Amoy, Shanghai, Moji, Kobe and Yokohama. Sailed from the latter port on June 13th, crossing the Meridian on the 20th, and arriving at Victoria this morning, after experiencing fine weather the whole trip."

Such is the report of the passage of the steamer Tacoma, kindly supplied the Times by A. W. Harley, of this city, purser on the ship. The Tacoma brought about 500 tons of freight for this city, and of the 70 Chinese on board, 50 landed here. Among the few saloon passengers are E. Buchanan, of Shanghai, who is on a pleasure trip to California

Acapulco a few days ago, and at Port Townsend will receive orders to load at one of the Sound mills.

Steamer City of Puebla arrived from San Francisco early this morning after a short passage. She brought about thirty passengers for Victoria and a good freight.

The barque Wynford, from Shanghai, is due. She left the Oriental port 35 or 36 days ago. She is coming to the Royal Roads for orders.

A loaded barque—passed Carmanah, inward bound, at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

Steamer Anur is due from Skagway tomorrow.

CUMBERLAND NOTES.

(Special Correspondence of the Times.)

What was to have been a coronation celebration on Thursday was changed to a reception of visitors, nearly four hundred of whom came up on the steamer City of Nainome to visit the City of the Mountains. They were entertained by sports of various kinds, but the interest centred in the football matches, Laid-smith having to defeat two Cumberland teams to carry off her well-deserved prize.

Many of those who have visited the town before expressed surprise at the general appearance of the place. The maple trees on the streets and avenues, and surrounding the school grounds, beginning to show up, adding much to the general effect of the many fine lawns and

MORE GLIMPSES INTO ANCIENT CHRONICLES

Snap Shots From the Victoria Press of 1859—The Attorney-General Before Magistrate.

Here are some more glimpses into local ancient history, gleaned from the Victoria press of 1859 by Miss Agnes Deans Cameron:

"Opposition.—A Methodist meeting in one end of the police building; established church in the other and next Sunday. Choose, ye sinners!"

"Why has a portion of Beacon Hill park been sold, and lately ploughed?"

"The H. B. Co. sold last week all the trees on our streets to a party for fire-wood."

"Real estate is commanding a high price. A lot 600 ft. front, on Fort, at the corner of Douglas, sold last week for $675, which a short time ago would not have realized $400."

"A private letter received by the last mail from Canada states that the Hon. J. A. Macdonald, a prominent member of the Canadian cabinet, expects to be appointed Governor of British Columbia."

"It costs as much per ton to ferry goods from Esquimaux to Victoria, four miles by road, as it does to carry goods by sea all the way from San Francisco here."

"We were shown yesterday the scalp of Col. Elzey, who was murdered on Whidbey Island by Kake Indians in August, 1857. The scalp is entire, with all the hair and ears. The beautiful fine silken brown hair is as natural as when struck down by the tomahawk of the savage. The Kake tribe live 750 miles north of Victoria."

"The attorney-general, Mr. G. H. Cary, was yesterday fined $10 for riding on horseback on the footpath on the south side of Fort street. The fine was imposed."

and Chin Kee, a Seattle merchant, who is returning from Hongkong with his wife and child. The Tacoma passed no vessels off the Cape.

STAY HERE TOO BRIEF.

Two hundred excursionists who are going north on the steamer Spokane tonight will be in the city this afternoon. Those who are not already in the city will arrive on the steamer at 3 o'clock, and will remain over until nine, the hour of the vessel's departure for Alaska. As stated in last evening's Times, the steamer will have all the passengers she has accommodation for, and if they entertain any regret on leaving here it will be because of the short stay of the steamer in port. The passengers on the first trip of the steamer considered that they had not been given a long enough visit in Victoria. On arrival at Seattle Charles S. Allen, of San Francisco, said: "I made the trip on the Spokane, and while I had heard much of the wonderful scenery during my work as a newspaper man on the Coast, I was simply astonished at what I saw. On the boat were a lot of those hard-headed, hard-fisted New Englanders, who do a travel often, but who see a grand deal when they do it out, and they were simply in a wonderful mood. The only complaint made was that the boat did not stop longer at Victoria. James and Sitka, and I understand that defect will be remedied on the next trip."

MARINE NOTES.

Steamer Umatilla will have all the passengers she can accommodate leaving for San Francisco this evening. Those who have been locally booked for the voyage include the following: A. W. Welding, S. A. Courtney, Miss A. Gregg, Mrs. A. Gregg, W. B. Wilson, Miss Annie Lithrow, Mrs. James Gilman, Edley Erb and wife, Miss E. D. Killar, J. T. Cross and wife, L. Squire and Miss Lena Squire.

The French barque Margaret Merand, which arrived at London on April 10th, reported speaking the Victoria owned schooner Beatrice L. Cochrain off Cape Horn in latitude 46.37 south and longitude 64, 18 west. Captain R. Halcum is in command of the schooner, and he wished to be reported. The Cochrain fitted out for the sailing voyage at Halifax.

Steamer Willapa will be the next steamer leaving for the West Coast. She will sail on the 1st of the month, while the Queen City will leave on the 7th. The extra boat on the run is occasioned, it is understood, by the ore shipments, which will be made from some of the coast mines next month.

R. H. S. Aronoff did not get away for Australia until 11 o'clock this morning, having been detained at Vancouver until later on. She loaded a number of freight consignments at the outer wharf in addition to receiving several local passengers.

The Lorne returned light from the Cape last night, and left this morning for Port Townsend with the ship Cambria in tow. The Cambria arrived from garden which surround most of the dwellings. New sidewalks are being added from time to time, and the sewers are in good condition, leaving nothing to be desired except better communication with the outside world. This will only come with the long-looked-for railway. May it be built soon.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

The case against Martin Monahan, of Langley, who was arrested a week ago Wednesday for a serious assault on Arthur Goldsmith, the previous afternoon, was called before Magistrate Capt. Fitzpatrick, on Wednesday. When he was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction on the formal charge of shooting with intent to murder.

FEED THEM One Way to Make Lawyers.

You can dig up the lawyers and put them on their feet if you feed them right, but they are like other people, they don't thrive on poorly selected food.

A lawyer from Seneca Falls, New York says: "When I went into a law office I was in fine health having had much outdoor exercise, but at the end of the second month's study and work I was disheartened to find myself in poor health and failing every day."

After reading a short time I would become so nervous that I would be compelled to stop nor could I remember, to any extent, what I read.

The study of law, which at first was a great pleasure, became a burden, and a first-class physician told me that I never would be able to serve a full term in a law office, and advised me to give it up if I wanted to enjoy life. When upon the point of doing so I was talking one day with one of the firm who advised me to make a change in food and recommended very highly your Grape-Nuts, saying I could get a package at any grocery and make the test.

The advice impressed me so strongly that I at once purchased and began using Grape-Nuts. I found that after using this food I was not troubled with the lingering pain in my stomach that had been with me for some time; instead I was perfectly comfortable, and I had not eaten the food for more than four or five days when I began to notice a change. My head became clear again and I began to enjoy my studies as well as I did on the start, and could accomplish more in one week from that time on than I had in a whole month prior to that time.

My blood, which had naturally become bad, presently improved, my digestion also was better. The blotches on my face began to disappear and I felt better in every way.

I owe much to Grape-Nuts. Would rather you did not use my name, but if it will do you any good, use it. Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look for free recipe book in each package of Grape-Nuts.

dicted on the young man under the English statute as a lesson in colonial exercises."

"The lower and topmast yards, the topmasts and two of the lower masts of the Great Eastern were shipped by Capt. Edward Stamp, of Victoria."

"We have been presented with an apple by Mr. A. M. Poe, measuring in circumference 13 1/2 inches, and in length 15 inches. Next!"

"The H. B. Co. have recently sold their garden, 200x200 feet, corner of Fort and Government streets, opposite the Fort gate, for $12,000."

"The Chapman family are fitting up a two-story hall, Government street, in first-rate style for a theatre, and will open it on Saturday with the 'Lady of Lyons.' The building will be divided into three apartments—the parquette with side door for the ladies, the pit entered from the street, and the gallery for the Indians."

"The 125th anniversary of the birthday of Gen. Geo. Washington was celebrated yesterday by the American residents of Victoria. About 500 people congregated on Beacon Hill and a salute of 15 guns was fired from its summit in honor of the day."

SOUTH SAANICH SCHOOL. Forty-One Pupils Were Present at the Closing Examination.

At South Saanich school-examination there were 41 children present, there being 50 on the roll. The children displayed great alacrity in answering the questions. The manner in which some of them added mentally from figures given at one time was surprisingly quick and accurate. Since Christmas the department of education have introduced nature studies. The great progress the fifth grade have made in so short a time is proof that this should have been done years ago.

At noon refreshments were provided for visitors and pupils who fully appreciated a plentiful supply of ice cream, strawberries and other delicacies. The examination was then continued, and songs and recitations were given by the children, after which Mr. Shelton spoke of the desirability of having graded schools for rural districts, premier schools, and convalescent provided for children at a distance. Greater efficiency, he held, would result without extra expense. A vote of thanks was then carried for the perseverance, patience and industry Mr. Shelton had shown in the high state of efficiency to which he had brought the school. Three cheers were also given for Mr. Shelton. Prizes were awarded and refreshments again provided for children and visitors in the evening. News of the King's illness cast a shadow over the day's proceedings, and the National Anthem was sung with much feeling.

The following were awarded prizes:

Department. Eva Mand Harrison, regularity and punctuality, Carrie Bissett, greatest improvement in writing, Edith Harrison, arithmetic in junior grade, Ida Bally, in intermediate grade, Annie Bate, in primary grade, Katie Richardson, neatest writing in junior grade, Jessie McKenzie, in intermediate grade, Harry McElugh, in primary grade.

The rolls of honor are awaiting distribution till the result of the High school examination is made known.

Food Distresses Them, Therefore They Do Not Eat—The Body Craves Nuts! Digestion Yet the Stomach Refuses to Digest.

What is a Dyspeptic to do, when everything he eats gives him pain and distress? Many answer this question by advising the unfortunate to abstain from food. But he is ravenously hungry. His body craves the food necessary to sustain the strength for his daily labor, and not to mean a constantly diminishing strength.

Physical weakness invites disease, and hampers and hinders in the race of life. It is not necessary to live on a starvation diet in order to get rid of Stomach trouble.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make it possible for the Dyspeptic to eat heartily, without any painful after-effects. A Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a specific for diseases of the Stomach only.

They give instant relief, and if a full treatment is taken according to directions, they completely and permanently cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Bloating, Headache or other Stomach trouble.

You may feast without fear, if you are careful to take one or two of these dainty Digestive Tablets immediately after each meal.

You may not want to think for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, every particle of it, without any assistance from the Stomach, and this complete digestion means an entire absence of all unpleasant symptoms.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have changed many a miserable sufferer to a healthy, happy man, or woman, capable of enjoying all the good things of life.

They are sold wherever medicine is sold, and thousands of living men and women today testify that they have cured their Stomach trouble, after everything else has failed.

A remedy which has an unbroken record of victory over all diseases of the Stomach is surely worth the thoughtful consideration, and a fair trial by any one afflicted.

Baby's Own Tablets

Come as a message of hope to all worried mothers. It is the best medicine in the world for stomach, bowel and teething troubles, which make little ones weak, sickly and peevish. It will make your baby well and keep it well, and there is nothing in it that can harm the smallest, weakest infant. Read the guarantee.

Mrs. James Fraser, Ridgeway, Ont., says: "When I first began using Baby's Own Tablets my baby was so fretful and cross that I scarcely knew what to do with her. She was teething and was quite sick. She vomited a good deal, had frequent attacks of colic and was quite constipated. She was very nervous and got but little sleep and when she did sleep she would sometimes wake with a start and scream. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and since using them her stomach is sweet, she does not vomit and her bowels are regular. She sleeps well, has a good color, and is now a fat, healthy looking, good natured baby. I would not be without the Tablets since I know their value, and I can highly recommend them."

These are strong hopeful words from a mother who has proved the value of Baby's Own Tablets, to all mothers. If your baby is ailing the Tablets will give prompt relief and make a perfect cure. Crush them to a powder and you can give them to the tiniest baby with advantage. Sold by all druggists or sent post paid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont. or Schenectady, N. Y.

A Guarantee. I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets, which I personally purchased at Montreal. My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain no opium or arsenic, that they can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infants, that they are a safe and efficient medicine, and that they are indicated to relieve and cure.

Food Distresses Them, Therefore They Do Not Eat—The Body Craves Nuts! Digestion Yet the Stomach Refuses to Digest.

What is a Dyspeptic to do, when everything he eats gives him pain and distress? Many answer this question by advising the unfortunate to abstain from food. But he is ravenously hungry. His body craves the food necessary to sustain the strength for his daily labor, and not to mean a constantly diminishing strength.

Physical weakness invites disease, and hampers and hinders in the race of life. It is not necessary to live on a starvation diet in order to get rid of Stomach trouble.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make it possible for the Dyspeptic to eat heartily, without any painful after-effects. A Dodd's

THE COAST-KOOTENAY ROAD.

No doubt the great majority of the readers of the Times are of the opinion that they have within the last six months had enough of politics to last them through the entire year. We cordially share their opinion. Nothing but a stern sense of duty to the province, therefore, coupled with a feeling that a government which has humbugged the people all through its blighting career will attempt to continue its humbugging to the end, could induce us to again enter a domain which we should have preferred to have avoided for a few months at least. Our excuse for this intrusion is one of extreme urgency.

It is well known that the Dominion government has for some time looked upon the construction of a direct railway line from the Coast to Kootenay as necessary in the interests of the interior and also of the cities, municipalities and settlements along the coast. The federal government is a business one in the strictest sense of the term, although it has never laid claim to any special credit on that account. If perhaps thinks that as a matter of course all administrations in this country should proceed with a single eye to the greatest good of the greatest number of our people. To please the merchants, the farmers, the manufacturers and the dealers of the coast in a position to hold commercial intercourse with the consumers and the men who do business in the interior on a profitable basis should be looked upon as an eminently sound business proposition. It is so regarded by the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It may be so regarded by the Dunsmuir government, but we can only judge of their belief by their acts, and these have not been such as to indicate a burning desire to take any action which will result in the construction of this much-needed work. The road might have been under way now if the local ministers had been in earnest. They profess to be as eager as any of us to bring about the much-to-be-desired consummation. If such be their personal inclination, then there is a power stronger than they which has them well under control.

There is little doubt that the policy of bluff which has been a characteristic of the unique administration will be continued until the electors have had an opportunity of expressing their opinion of it at the polls unless some of the Ministers who hope to remain in public life after their present term expires become alarmed and insist that the wishes of the people shall be acceded to. It is not at all improbable that a contract will be entered into with some straw company for the construction of the Coast-Kootenay road under the terms of the bill which recently became an act. In this connection there is one thing to remember. No road will be built without a Dominion subsidy. No company which is not a strong, bona fide one, able to complete the line and operate it after it is completed, has anything to expect from Ottawa. The federal Ministers are not in the habit, as we have more than once pointed out, of attaching subsidies to charters in order that such privileges, rights and endowments may be hawked around by speculators and sold to the highest bidder. On the other hand, any company with which a contract may be entered into, and which means business, may go ahead with the work under a full assurance that reasonable assistance will be granted it by the Dominion. The knowledge that the government which is expected to contribute the largest amount towards securing the construction of this road will insist upon its right of approval of the company to which a contract may be given should have a wholesome effect upon the combination which has been manipulating the business of this province for the last couple of years.

The Dunsmuir government is now approaching its great final test. If it sticks to its guns and those who unobserved have been serving those guns, then the eyes of such as have wilfully shut out the light should be opened with a snap. There is a possibility, however, that Mr. Dunsmuir and his colleagues will observe the folly of longer continuing to obstruct the progress of the province. By their works during the next few months we shall know whether it is possible to force the government to do right. If the Ministers are wise the Coast-Kootenay road will be under way this year. If they are as perverse as of yore—as we have little doubt they are—a "contract" will be entered into with a great flourish which will maintain the present conditions as long as they are in power.

THE NOXIOUS WEED.

The London Lancet, contrary to the conservative spirit which usually characterizes all old British institutions, has set itself to the task of disturbing settled opinion upon some important matters. It will be remembered that some months ago, says a dispatch to the New York Times, that venerable representative of the medical profession took much pains to prove that the stories about narcotics in cigarette tobacco and poisons in cigarette paper were quite without foundation, and now it argues elaborately that the despised "cotton nails" are safer than pipes. "The cigarette," it says, "is practically in direct contact with the air from the lighted end to the mouthpiece. Thus the smoke is invariably pulled while the products of combustion are complete. The pipe, on the other hand, is more like a retort in which destructive distillation and the formation of acid oils are set up." The Lancet admits, however, one strong objection to the cigarette—the fact that combustion is close to the nose and mouth. "Thus air containing smoke from the lighted end, which is infinitely more pungent than the smoke drawn through the cigarette, is constantly inhaled. Much of the mischief from cigarette smoking arises from this fact. If smoke from the burning tip of the cigarette is purposely inhaled for a time, a sense of stupor sets in, while smoke drawn through the cigarette may be breathed the same way with comparative impunity. The same result is obtained with a cigar, but in a more emphatic manner. The use of the holder is, therefore, calculated to obviate this source of mischief." It is doubtful if disquisitions like this one really influence anybody to a change of habits. Tobacco is not a thing to argue about—the arguments for and against its use in any form being equally numerous and all unanswerable. In such cases taste and convenience govern.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

Whether for good or for evil time alone can decide, but the conservative forces in state, in church, and in all the social systems of the world are gradually being forced forward. The old is slowly giving place to the new, while with wistful glances behind the men and women who have forebodings silently bid farewell to the institutions and customs which are disappearing in the mists of the past. At the recent installation of the pastor of a Universalist church in one of the New England cities a Methodist delivered the prayer, a Congregationalist preached the sermon, the "right hand of fellowship" was extended by a Baptist with well-chosen and appropriate remarks, short addresses were delivered by another Congregationalist and by a Unitarian, and a graceful letter of welcome and congratulation was read from the rector of an Episcopal church. No especial significance is attached to the fact that the Catholic church was not represented, and that no rabbi took part in the exercises; but perhaps some may be discovered in the fact that no Presbyterian considered it in keeping with his clerical duty to attend and say pleasant things. At the funeral of Anna Cummings, one of the best-known of the newspaper men of the United States, a member of Congress, and a most estimable man, the prayers of a Catholic priest and a Presbyterian minister ascended together, while all other denomina-

CAUSE OF FEVERS.

To the Editor:—For months passengers inward bound on the Victoria & Sidney railroad have been compelled to get off the train in or near a pool of stink water that should be taken care of. The railway company in buying the truck into the market yard cut off the drain from the next house to the office of the sanitary inspector. The entire drainage from this house runs over the sink in the hot sand and into the market yard, and soon will become a source of danger. The corporation is certainly culpable in allowing a drain to be cut off in this way. For four weeks an old hat has stood in the mud, and the sanitary officer should be instructed to turn the water off and see if any person has been misled under the hat. Tourists not caring to face this way out, but go through by Broad street, meet a still more unsightly and dangerous spectacle in the ravine between Broad street and Prior's hardware store. This is a veritable hotbed for flies and disease. There is a clause in the Municipal Act whereby the council can by resolution declare this to be a nuisance and compel the owners in Europe to abate it; but in any event these and numerous such places should be attended to. Better to spend less in celebration and decorations and more in protecting the health and lives of our children.

Ottawa Journal.

The greatest British triumph of the war which has ended in South Africa is the record of her treatment of the foe. Let every Briton around the seven seas look back with pride on the forbearance, the humanity, the generosity which has marked the course of the Imperial government and army in the long and trying struggle which has happily ended. From top to bottom is that true. A humane conception in London, a humane practice in the area of the strife, marked every phase of the struggle.

HOW SHORT THE SPACE.

Frank H. Sweet in The Ram's Horn.
How short the space! How much to do!
How few and brief the days of men!
So much to learn of false and true—
And only three-score years and ten!

So little time to do things well,
So much—so very much to know!
And while we labor in our cell
The years do not forget to go.

So many things that we might learn,
If only time would stay its tide,
And once again our youth return
To keep the shadow from our side.

But ah! what cannot be cannot,
We'll do the little that we may,
And in some time-ignoring spot
Perhaps find what we lose to-day.

MUTUAL RESPECT.

Detroit News.

In their splendid courage, their unshakable determination and their marvelous powers of resistance, the Boers have justified the inconceivable audacity with which they choose to array themselves against the might of Britain. As the London Times writes, "they are not defeated, but not disgraced. But it is to be remembered that courage on the one side has been matched by valor on the other, and that obstinacy in the burghers has been pitted against dogged determination in the British. An unexampled resistance has finally given way before an unexampled persistence wedded to enormously superior resources in men and money. Despite the hatreds engendered by war and intensified by its necessity, horrors and injustices, it may be well believed that Boer and Briton hold each other in higher esteem to-day than they did in October, 1899, when the Transvaal commandos first crossed into Natal, and there is something enduring in the mutual respect which worthy foes inspire. Indeed, this reflection is, perhaps, the most hopeful one which the present situation permits, and promises most for the speedy and permanent creation of good relations between conqueror and conquered in the stricken territory.

HOW OUR NEIGHBORS FEEL.

Buffalo Times.

So it is with feelings not unmixed with shame that the American people hear the news to-day—not of shame for themselves, for the hearts and sympathies of the American people have been with the Boers ever since they bravely defied the tyrant power against which we ourselves once were pitted—not for themselves, but for the administration, which has throughout refused to give notice to the national sentiment. Perhaps this has been because that administration is trying to find excuses for its own action in the east, where it is carrying on a war of conquest accompanied by barbarities scarce paralleled in the history of nations—a war as inexcusable and as indefensible as that waged by the British against the African republics.

The ceremony was conducted quietly, only the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties being present.

Two years ago the Dominion parliament passed an act requiring all life insurance companies to adopt a higher standard of reserve and gave them until the year 1910 to accumulate a 4 per cent. reserve fund on all business. Five years previous to the passing of this act the Mutual Life of Canada had already voluntarily adopted this higher standard of reserve—being thus 15 years in advance of the Dominion government requirements. The amount paid to policyholders in dividends in the year 1901 by the Mutual Life of Canada exceeded by many thousands that of any other Canadian company. A policy in this company is a good investment. Rates and figures can be obtained from R. L. Drury, Provincial Manager, 34 Broad street.

LOCAL ATTRACTIONS FOR DOMINION DAY

Sunday School Picnics at Many Suburban Points—Excursions to Vancouver and Ladysmith.

Dominion Day will be celebrated by Victorians in a quiet but thoroughly enjoyable manner. Those who do not take advantage of the excursion rates and attend the celebrations at the Terminal City or Ladysmith, will have the opportunity to spend a pleasant day with one of the Sunday school picnics, or to see what promises to be the best baseball game played here this season between the local and Everett teams.
The picnics arranged by the greater number of local Sunday schools of the city at different suburban resorts have become more popular, and indications are that on Tuesday they will be very largely patronized, not only by those connected with the schools but by outsiders. To the children, the 1st of July, with the probable exception of Christmas, is the most looked forward to holiday on the calendar. The ride to the picnic grounds, the sports throughout the day, besides other side attractions, have to the children untold charms, and Dominion Day could not be more appropriately celebrated here than is the custom.

The principal picnics will be those held by the Presbyterians and Methodists, the one at Goldstream and the other at Baza Bay Park. Trains will leave the E. & N. depot for the first mentioned point at 8.30 and 10.30 a. m., while the regular train will leave at 9 o'clock as usual, and a special train will also leave at 1.30 p. m. for the purpose of carrying the excursionists wishing to attend the celebration at Ladysmith. Special trains will leave the V. & S. depot for capture seekers to Sidney at 8 a. m., 10.30 a. m., and 1.30 p. m. Returning trains will leave Sidney at 5.30 and 7.30 p. m.

The Methodist picnics will include the Sunday schools of the Centennial and Metropolitan Methodist churches, the members of the Strawberry Vale Sunday school and possibly the members of the Victoria West Sunday school. The Methodists will be accompanied by the Calvary Baptist Sunday school, which holds its annual picnic at Sidney. The Presbyterian excursion will comprise the Sunday schools of the St. Andrew's and the First Presbyterian churches, and probably some of the smaller schools.

All arrangements for the successful carrying out of the Methodist picnic have been made. A band will be in attendance, and meals and refreshments will be supplied on the grounds at small charge. The programme of sports includes tennis, baseball, etc., all of which promise to be interesting. The day is having charge of the affair follows: H. J. Knott, president, Noah Shakespear, treasurer; E. Whittington, secretary; E. A. Lewis, marshal; W. E. Staneland, chairman sports and prize committee.

As usual the Presbyterians have made elaborate preparations for their annual picnic. Those who go to Goldstream are guaranteed a good time. Sports for the children will be provided and refreshments in abundance will be on hand. A pleasant day is assured all who attend. The annual picnic of the Emmanuel Baptist church will be held at the Victoria Golf Club links, permission having been granted by the club through the secretary, W. E. Oliver. Special cars will leave the Ridge at 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning for the grounds. A programme of sports for the children has been arranged and games of all kinds, including ping pong, tennis, croquet, baseball, etc., will be provided. Children attending will be provided with their meals. Returning, special cars will leave at 8 and 9 o'clock.

The Calvary Baptist church, as mentioned, will hold their picnic at Sidney taking the same train as the Methodists. The grounds there are splendidly adapted to the holding of picnics and a pleasant day is assured those who attend. As usual sports and other attractions have been arranged for the children.
The Knox Presbyterian church, Spring Ridge, announce their intention of holding their annual picnic at Oak Bay, where grounds suitable for that purpose have been secured. That a pleasant day will be spent by the excursionists there can be little doubt, should the weather be favorable. Sports, games, etc., will take place.
The pupils, teachers and friends of the Sunday school of St. Columba will go first to Oak Bay. Boats will be taken from there to Cadboro Bay, where the picnic grounds are located. A good time is anticipated by all who attend this excursion, as the pleasure seekers will have the advantage of a lovely boat ride besides the usual sports and other attractions.

One of the messengers of the B. C. D. T., a boy of about 12 years of age, lost a five dollar bill on Yates street this morning, which was given him to telegraph to some point outside the city. As the boy will naturally like to stand the loss himself, the finder will be doing a real kindness by returning the lost money through the Times.

The immensity of showrooms and variety of goods displayed at Weller's is a surprise to many of our Eastern visitors. All say that they seldom see better stocks in very large cities. This is a good advertisement for Victoria.
A fish can be seen in water, but not out of it. In 1871 Germany had only eight cities with over 100,000 inhabitants. Now there are 52.

WARRANT OFFICERS' CLUB.

Pretty Building Formally Opened by Commander-in-Chief and Naval Officers.
Rear-Admiral A. K. Bickford, C. M. G., had recently a pleasant little duty to perform at Esquimalt. Signalling for the warrant officers of the fleet to meet him at the naval recreation ground, and accompanied by his flag lieutenant, Gerald V. C. Knox, he was gratified a long-looked-for opportunity of opening a very pretty little building as a warrant officers' club, of which he expressed his pleasure to become a member. He remarked that the erection of such a convenient place was largely due to the untiring efforts of the resident warrant officers, Mr. Case, chief boatswain, and Mr. Earl, chief carpenter, whom he considered deserving of the thanks of their brother officers, because, having their homes there, the premises would not be such a boon to them as to their less fortunate brethren afloat. Yet they had been most assiduous in their efforts to raise the structure and bring it to its present stage. He had been personally deeply interested in the movement since its first meeting, he wished it every success, and quite approved of the ceremony that had been drawn up for the government and management of the club. A hearty vote of thanks, tendered by Mr. Case, the senior warrant officer, completed the ceremony. A correspondent, after thus describing the event, adds that doubtless many who have served on this station will be glad to know that a warrant officers' club is at last established, with every prospect of success.

MARINE DROWNED

While bathing in the Arm Yesterday Afternoon—Probably Seized With Cramps.
George H. Webb, a marine of H. M. S. Esmeralda, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in the Arm. He and Arthur E. Todd, who belonged to the same ship, went up for a swim, and decided to plunge in from the rocks near the city limits. From the story given by Todd it appears that Webb jumped in while the former was undressing. When he was ready to follow Webb at first could not be seen. A few seconds later Todd perceived him struggling in the water and went to his assistance. Webb, it is said, grasped him so tightly that both were in danger of drowning, and Todd was barely able to save his own life, being nearly strangled by his struggling companion. The police were notified, and Constables Clayards and Carlou went to the scene to look for the body. After searching for three hours they found it in the water just above Hon. Jas. Dunsmuir's boat house. It is supposed that Webb was taken with cramps. He was 21 years of age and a native of Chatham, Eng.

Auto-Expanding

The foot spreads when borne upon! It contracts again when lifted!
A new shoe, which fits the foot neatly when off the ground, must therefore pinch it when stood upon, till it is stretched to the maximum width of foot. A shoe which has thus been stretched, till comfortable across the ball when stood upon, must be too loose when the foot is lifted.
The RESILIA is the only shoe which expands at the ball when the foot does, and contracts again when lifted. It becomes a size larger inside when the foot sinks down into the resilient centresole, the rebounding of which takes up the leather slack again when foot is lifted. It is thus as easy as an old shoe the first moment it is worn, requires no "breaking in," and retains its shape because the leather is never overstretched.

BASEBALL. ANOTHER FOR VICTORIA. A score of three to one in favor of the home team tells the story of the game between the California Alumni and the Victoria teams at the Oak Bay grounds yesterday afternoon.

It takes an error or two at critical moments to stir the blood. There were a number of changes on the Victoria nine. Their big catcher was in the box, and Smith held him down behind the bat.

TODAY'S GAME. The last of the series of matches between California visitors and Victoria will be played at Oak Bay this afternoon commencing at the usual time, 3 o'clock.

by Ribbet. Smith had batted out a liner to third which Freeman fumbled, and throwing to first sent the ball far over Goslin's head.

The detailed score of the match is as follows: Alumnal. Pitcher, s. a. b. r. h. p. o. a. e. Moran, c. f. 4 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0

SHEARWATER'S RIG HAS BEEN CHANGED
ALTERED TO INCREASE HER SEAWORTHINESS

"A Sorrowing Relative" Writes to the Pall Mall Gazette Concerning the Condor's Loss.

H. M. S. Shearwater, a sister ship to the lost Condor, has had some interesting alterations made to her rigging in pursuance of admiralty orders that would appear to have been made in consequence of the disaster to the latter. The Shearwater was an exact model of the ship that went down, and it would appear that the alterations which have been made on her were carried out with the object of increasing her stability by lessening her top hamper. The vessel was formerly a large rigged ship, and she has been converted into a square rig towards the top.

JOYFUL MATERNITY.

Hopeful Words to Childless Women. Two Grateful Women Tell How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How shall a mother who is weak and sick with some female trouble bear healthy children?
How anxious women ought to be to give their children the blessing of a good constitution!
Many women long for a child to bless their home, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs, they are barren.
Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the parts, curing all displacements and inflammation.
Actual sterility in women is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all expectant or would-be mothers.

$5000 REWARD
Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., $5000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the following testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writers' special permission.—LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Lynn, Mass.

The Story of Mrs. De Bett and Her Baby Girl.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I took your medicine I suffered for years. Life to me was a torture. I often wished I were dead. I had no children, and the doctor said I never could have. Menstruation was very painful, also, suffered with severe pains in left ovary, had pains in my back and heart, terrible headaches, and weakness of the kidneys. I tried everything, had womb dilated twice but that did no good. I got discouraged and concluded to let the doctors go and try your medicine. After writing to you explaining my case, I followed your advice carefully and with the result that I never felt so well in all my life. I am indeed a new woman and have a loving little baby girl which is the happiness of my home. I feel that I owe my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine, and feel very proud to recommend it to others. I hope that many others will follow my example and that homes may be brightened as mine has."—Mrs. LUCY DE BETT, 80 1/2 S. Halstead St., Chicago, Ill. (March 1, 1901.)
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I must write and tell you what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. Before taking your medicine I was unable to carry a babe to maturity, having lost two—one at six months and one at seven. The doctor said next time I would die, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I did not die, but am the proud mother of a six months old girl baby. She weighs nineteen pounds and has never seen a sick day in her life. She is the delight of our home."—Mrs. A. D. JARRET, Belmont, Ohio.

Get Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.
It is free as the air. She has been the means of making many a miserably life turn into one of joy—no other living person has had such wide experience with woman's ills. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

a statement abandoning all hope of the ship being then afloat, and promising that a full inquiry will be held with the object of ascertaining whether the ship was by her build, rig, and equipment, including the officers and men, in all respects fitted for the service on which she was employed.
"It is to be presumed that this full inquiry has been held, but the public have not been informed of the result of their deliberations. Applications to be represented by the families of the deceased officers at the inquiry were refused by the admiralty, with the gratuitous statement that the professional efficiency of the officers would not be called in question.
"The admiralty fail to realize evidently that the 'full inquiry' promised should be a trial of themselves and not of the officers they sent to sea in this ship. An inquiry of this sort, with closed doors, the composition of the court being kept secret, the evidence adduced and the finding of the court unpublished, is little short of a scandal. Had there been a single survivor of the catastrophe, no matter how humble his rank, he would have been tried by court-martial under the admiralty regulations, surely. It would only be an act of justice to allow the representatives of the brave men who lost their lives in the execution of their duty to have cross-examined the admiralty witnesses on the construction of the ship.
"Mr. William Allan puts down the disaster to the 'business' of the ship—your correspondent 'Humanity' in today's issue attributes it to the use of the Belleville boilers combined with low freeboard and high bulwarks.
"A theory has been put forward which certainly, with the evidence of the Cobra disaster so recently investigated, does not seem at all improbable. It is a known fact that in the Condor, the first of her class, a great deal was sacrificed for the sake of lightness. Now, aluminum is a very treacherous metal, and easily acted upon by salt water. In a heavy sea, with the ends of the ship supported on two waves, and the dead weight of the engines and boilers in the middle of the ship, and 100 or perhaps 200 tons of water in her waist, it is not possible to conceive that a broken back and subsequent buckling was the cause of the disaster?
"In the case of the Cobra, the ship was not built by the admiralty or after their designs, but a public inquiry was immediately held after the disaster. Why cannot a similar course be pursued in the case of a larger ship built in a Royal dockyard from admiralty designs? Is the mystery of the Condor's loss to be allowed to be hushed up and the memory of the 116 brave men to be forgotten?

TOO MUCH FIREWATER.
Quartette of Indians Lined Up in the Police Court This Morning.
When the police court opened its proceedings this morning four husky braves gazed from the prisoners' dock of which they were the only occupants. Two of them were charged with drunkenness and the other two with being in possession of intoxicants. The latter were the more unfortunate of the four, because the fell arm of the law was laid on them before they had incorporated the fluid as part of their physical mechanism, and as the result of their tardiness their fines were a great deal heavier. The first two, besides attaining their object—the consumption of the firewater—got off considerably lighter, for in the eyes of the law possession of intoxicants is a far more serious offence than drunkenness. All four pleaded guilty, Indians rarely fight a case. They differ from the Chinese in this respect: The Chinaman's first impulse, when charged, is usually to deny all knowledge of the matter and to maintain a demeanor of blank ignorance.
The first called was named David. He was charged with drunkenness and meekly admitted his guilt. He was fined $5 and $1 cost or ten days' imprisonment. Ernest followed with a similar fine. Dan was charged with being in possession of intoxicants. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and $1 cost, or one month's imprisonment with hard labor. Jimmy received a similar penalty. He was the most disconsolate-looking brave of the four. A man fastidious enough to wear a boutonniere such as he would naturally feel his position keenly if landed in the prisoners' dock in the court room. He said the liquor was supplied by a Chinaman. If that Celestial is caught his fate will be much worse than Jimmy's. All four are from the West Coast. A warrant did not appear and a warrant was issued for his arrest.
BREAK CAMP TO-MORROW.
Fifth Regiment Will Conclude Training at Macanlay Point—Band Concert.
The 15th Regiment will break up camp to-morrow evening. There will be a service in the morning at 10.45 o'clock after which there will be a muster parade, and all members must attend. They must be in camp by 8 p.m.
To-morrow afternoon a concert will be given by the Fifth Regiment band.
Last night the officers of the Fifth Regiment entertained the officers from Work Point, music being supplied by the band. The officers of the Garrison will return the compliment to-night.
Companies Nos. 1 and 2 are holding gun practice at Shovel Point on Trial Island are being fired at.
Companies 3, 4, 5 and 6 held gun practice in the fort this morning, their work with the 6-inch pieces at moving targets being very creditable.

FLOWER SERVICE.
Interesting Event to Take Place at Jubilee Hospital To-morrow Afternoon.
The programme of the flower service to be held at the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital, under the auspices of the Daughters of Piety, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, will be as follows:
Opening Hymn
3. "Benedictus"
Prayer
First Lesson
Second Lesson
Solo
Mrs. Gideon Hicks.
Address
Concluding Hymn
O, brother man! Fold to thy heart thy brother,
Where pity dwells, the peace of God is there.
To worship rightly is to love each other;
Each smile a hymn—each kindly deed a prayer.
For he whom Jesus loved, hath truly spoken,
The holier worship which he deigns to bless,
Restores the lost, and binds the spirit broken,
And feeds the widow and the fatherless.
Follow, with reverent steps, the Great Example
Of Him Whose daily task was doing good;
So shall the wide earth sense our Father's temple,
Each loving life a psalm of gratitude.
Benediction
God Save the King.
During the presentation of flowers "Onward, Christian Soldiers" will be sung. The musical part of the service will be under the direction of Professor Longfield, Mr. Gideon Hicks and a voluntary choir.

WHITE TAFFETA AND TINY FRILLS OF YELLOW LACE.

BEAUTY OF THE LINGERIE HAT.

AND A FEW TIMELY WORDS ON THE WASHABLE SUMMER GLOVE.

Matching the lingerie, blouses and frocks which made their debut last season, we now have the lingerie hat. This new mode probably gets its name from the dainty way in which the very finest of batiste embroidery and laces are draped and shirred upon medium-sized plateaux.

The lingerie hat is decidedly dainty and smart, and from all appearance it is just the thing to go with sheer muslin and dainty dresses. It is not confined to any one shape, nor is its style of trimming restricted. Usually, however, the flat, slightly-curving brim displays an underfacing of finely shirred or tucked batiste, and the equally flat crown is draped with wide embroidery, which is worked on the sheerest kind of creamy yellow batiste.

The embroidered edge is arranged so that it falls over the brim, and at the back, where loops of soft liberty ribbon serve as a pretty bit of contrast, there is a pendant drapery of batiste and lace. Oddly enough, these distinctly summery hats are seldom trimmed with flowers. The idea seems to be to keep them altogether tubular in effect, and not even fancy jeweled pins are considered appropriate.

It is really astonishing, though, what lovely designs, widely different, too, in general impression, can be secured by this dainty use of embroidery and ribbon.

If one chooses a summer frock of rich, creamy muslin or batiste, showing a design of either lace or embroidery incrustion, it is quite possible to have the hat and parasol matched exactly. Of course, the same color introduced in the collar or gilet of the gown should be repeated in the hat facing and lining of the parasol, while the muslin coverings for both should present a graceful arrangement of the trimming design.

Lace doesn't seem so characteristic of lingerie hats, as does the newer and broidery, for lace is used upon all kinds of smart chapeaux. Embroidery, on the contrary, belongs distinctly to lingerie models, and as it comes in sheer, delicate varieties, it is considered quite as dainty and lovely as lace.

So many washable novelties are being introduced now that we find it difficult to keep pace with them all. One of the most satisfactory features in this line consists of washable gloves—not the suede, to which we have grown accustomed, but a medium weight glace kid. They are fine and soft and hardly distinguishable from ordinary gloves, yet they may be washed time after time without in the least spoiling their appearance.

Glace, of course, are much smarter than suede, and the former require cleansing less often than do the softer variety. They are more expensive in the beginning, yet they wear longer, than the suede, and are altogether far more satisfactory.

When purchasing these new washable gloves it is well to remember that they must be sufficiently large, for if they are the least bit tight they will be very apt

Sunshades and parasols are such dainty feminine accessories that no woman can resist their fascinations. For the carriage, of course, they are indispensable, and for the street during warm days they are absolutely necessary, while at garden parties and all manner of lawn gatherings their pretty silks and laces lend just the picturesque note to harmonize with airy summer frocks.

Paintiness, as usual, is the characteristic charm of the sunshade, and this season we notice fewer ruffles and frills adorning their curved tops. Instead there appears to be a fancy for rather flat effects, though these are by no means plain.

Poncee and self-toned linen batiste are extremely well liked for street use, and a pure white or Patrick green lining gives a little variety to the otherwise monotonous shade of the fabric. Medallions of course lace and embroidery trim such parasols very prettily, and tacked squares of linen are sometimes laid point to point on the flat sections. One decidedly smart sunshade, made of deep-tinted linen batiste, had a lining of bright green and all about the edge a two-inch border of open batiste embroidery, which was very effective, both when the parasol was open and when carried closed up.

At the handle was tied a bow of broad green velvet ribbon, and a smaller one at the point caught a frill of the lace. Another handsome feature about this parasol was the set of ball tips, made of mother of pearl.

Sets consisting of the new collar or fichu bon, hat and parasol are quite a fad with the smart woman just at present, and at a French shop on Fifth avenue they make a specialty of all manner of these pretty gown accessories.

There is the coronation set, for instance—everything at this particular season has to be named in honor of the great event on the other side. This set is of violet, having a charming violet chiffon collar, with long stole ends, the entire mass of fluffiness being daintily style, both layers being finely plaited together. As this motif covered the entire upper part, one can easily imagine what a fluffy, dainty creation it represented. Wide bouffants are far less modish than they once were, and though occasionally much ruffled effects are seen, they seem quite out of the shade by simpler and better arrangements.

Bands of lace and oddly shaped appliques are used with striking effect. An example is another parasol of linen batiste, this one, however, being made over a foundation of bright green. On the triangular sections between the ribs were laid handsome medallions of embroidery in linen color. Underneath these the silk was cut away so that irregular patches of the silk, softened by the thin open embroidery showed through with good effect.

To return to the pompadour, here is a charming treatment, which is out of the ordinary. The parasol is of pink mousseline de sole, laid in with deep plaits to within six inches of the edge. From that point there appears a broad border of pink flowered white mousseline, which is exquisitely embroidered with silk, not solidly, but here and there, so that the pattern seems to be emphasized.

The finest kind of a pink ruching runs around both edges of the flowered band and is bunched about the handle and ivory pointed tip.

Tucks are extremely popular, especially for the trimmer service parasols, and taffeta ones in solid colors express one of the smartest styles of the season. There are blues, reds, tans and greens, all appearing in bright shades, too. The tucks are at least an inch deep, and, while frequently they are hemstitched, oftener they are quite plain, the folds reaching from centre to edge.

There are blues, reds, tans and greens, all appearing in bright shades, too. The tucks are at least an inch deep, and, while frequently they are hemstitched, oftener they are quite plain, the folds reaching from centre to edge.

To carry with a pretty-voile or linen dress—frankly nothing could be more suitable or effective than one of these. Very often the shade of the parasol contrasts very decidedly with that of the gown, yet repeats the dashing color used upon the hat. Particularly with regard to the new bright green and red is this true. Sometimes, too, the sunshade matches must strike the same note as some other feature of the toilet, otherwise it seems to be out of keeping.

Pearls are having their vogue in the parasol world, as well as elsewhere, and the other day in this same French shop was seen a charming little affair all of pure white. The hat was a large graceful shape, trimmed across the front with a magnificent white plume, and at the back it was caught with a pearl cabochon. The neckpiece presented one of the newest shapes and was a very flat effect, having tiny plisse ruffles, separated by frills of Valenciennes.

No chiffon or lace, however, adorned the parasol, for it was rather plain, a simple, deep, hemstitched border serving as a finish.

Instead of the triangular sections being drawn up smoothly to the apex they were filled in with tiny tucks on plaits, which were much longer in the centre of each section than toward the seams. A swath of white liberty satin ribbon was knotted at the tip, and this festooned with several strings of pearls, was caught again on one side toward the border. More ribbon and pearls trimmed the handle.

Decidedly this was to go with a dressy costume, and when worn with a pale crepe or thin summer frock and a broad picture hat the effect would be decidedly chic.

Pure white, trimmed with fine yellow lace, is another fad in the parasol line, and the effect of this style could not possibly be better illustrated than by a dainty little article which from the upper side appeared startlingly plain. As a matter of fact only two tiny frills of yellow Valenciennes appeared as a border. But the inner side! Here were countless wavy ruffles and frills, for the entire parasol, from apex to pearl tips, was laid in overlapping ruffles of yellow lace.

The softness of flat and texture served as a pretty and becoming background to the face, shielded by the parasol. On this account, this effect against the face, it is essential that linings should be taken into consideration quite as much as the outer covering. By all means select a tint that is becoming, for in the glare of the sun there are no soft shadows to aid in making colors seen becoming.

Black velvet is always smart and pretty, and this season it is used upon fashionable parasols in a surburst effect. Strips of it are laid flat, radiating from the centre of the parasol and finishing in irregular lengths to better carry out the idea.

The plainer the handle the smarter is it considered, and by no means should it be of natural wood. The rather heavy French style is well liked, and this occasionally comes in dull black, whatever the shade of the silk. Much prettier, though, are the very light sticks, with straight handles or ones which curve ever so little.

The incessant traffic across London bridge reduces to powder about twenty-five yards of granite every year.

PONGEE TO MATCH THE COAT.

HERE IS THE PROVINCE OF THE FAN.

He was a soldierly-looking man with a gray imperial and nearly white hair, and he looked proudly after the tall girl with the clear gray eyes as she quitted the supperroom. He drew an honest puff on his cigar, allowing the ash to accumulate, and turned to the young man at his side.

"Yes," he said, "she is a fine girl, a fine girl, indeed, and I don't say this because she happens to be my daughter; I believe I am too much of a soldier to be silly sentimental, even on the subject of my own family. But this girl is a good one, my boy. She's an all-round good girl. She can dance all night and be fresh in the morning. I appreciate good dancing, although I do not do much of it myself now. It was a part of my education at the Point, just as drill and tactics and putting my shoes beside my bed at night were parts. Then, she can row a boat and bowl, and embroider a centrepiece for a table with any girl of my or her acquaintance. She is an all-round good girl."

The tall young man murmured something about the all-round good girl being an entertaining conversationalist. The soldierly-looking man chuckled until it sounded like the spirit of good humor finding expression. He puffed till the ash on the cigar was dangerously near the falling point, then said: "My boy, if you swear never to tell her I'll let you into the secret of her success."

The tall young man duly swore.

"She told me this herself," said the fond father, apologetically, "and I suppose I may tell it again, though you mustn't let her know I've been peaching."

When she came out of school, a year ago, to enter New York society, she was an all-round good girl, as she is to-day. For example, she was in danger of being embarrassed in conversation. At the end of her first reception she confessed to her mother that she was frightfully self-conscious, and, furthermore, at a loss to know what to talk about. That worried her most—the lack of topics.

"But she overcame this defect almost immediately. I was delighted to listen to such remarks as 'What a brilliant conversationalist—your daughter is!' and 'How well-informed your daughter is upon current topics, Colonel,' and the like. One day I got her in a corner and made her 'fess up. 'How do you do it?' I demanded. Then she told me it was the fan."

"The fan?" repeated the young man in wonder.

"The fan," said the older man. This was the way she did it: She carried a very handsome fan of red vellum. Before going to a reception, a tea or a ball, this young hopeful would read up on the news of the day. She would take on the book of the week, digest it and make mental notes. She would read the art news, she would read the theatrical news. She would read the foreign news. She has a good memory, and the help given by a single line, written on the fan, was sufficient to set her going at an entertaining gait.

"When she had exhausted one topic, she would, apparently idly, flick the fan till she came to another suggestion. In this way she was able to attain such a reputation for conversation."

to split and tear after the first washing.

Suede like gloves, though not new, are very nice for summer wear, yet they lack the elegance of the kid.

Lukewarm water, into which castile soap has been rubbed to make good suds, is the best for washing these gloves, and unless they are dried upon the hands, they should be carefully pulled out and left in fresh air until thoroughly dry.

ELABORATE FUNERAL OF A ST. BERNARD

One of the strangest funerals on record was held in Brussels the other day. The deceased was a magnificent St. Bernard dog, whose owner was inconsolable at his death and tried to assuage his grief by having him buried in pompous style.

The coffin was one of the costliest that could be procured, and it was attended to the graveyard by 200 employees of the dog's sorrowful master. A formal invitation, which was equivalent to a command, had been sent to each of them to be present at the sad ceremony, and they were further notified that those who cared to do so could take a look at the dog in his coffin before the procession started for the burial place.

Not a single employee was absent when the time came for taking this last mournful look at the deceased, and one by one they filed slowly past the coffin, though the glass lid of which the noble head could be distinctly seen as it rested on a white pillow.

The procession to the grave, which had been dug in a corner of a large garden, was led by the dog's master, who was so much affected that he wept bitterly. Presumably the 200 employees were in better humor, for they had been told that they might spend the remainder of the day as they pleased.

showered with flowers from which the color gets its name.

The hat to accompany this neckpiece is a confection of beautiful flowers, green leaves and broad velvet ribbons, which are fastened in a knot at the back of the flat hat and then permitted to droop almost to the shoulders.

Pretty as it is with its wealth of flowers, it cannot compare with the exquisite parasol of pure white taffeta, sprinkled lavishly with violets and tied with wide violet velvet ribbons, both at the handle, which is of light natural wood, and at the tip, where the shorter loops hold a small bunch of flowers.

Dolly Varden effects are very popular, and pompadour roses in delicate pink are likewise a successful style.

One of the prettiest parasols seen so far was one of pure white silk mounted upon a silk covered frame, having a natural wood handle. For a depth of at least six inches the silk was cut away, and a flat border of pompadour flowered mousseline de sole was inserted. The upper edge of this had a finish which consisted of a tiny ruche—or mousseline, while from the lower side fell a full ruffle of the flowered fabric. It looked so airy and cool that one couldn't help thinking of garden parties and ice-cream.

More elaborate and handsome was another parasol, made of cream renaissance upon a white mousseline foundation. The lace formed deep points at the edge, and between them were dozens of the narrowest side plaited frills made of doubled white tulle. These were put on to overlap, so that each one measured scarcely more than a half inch.

This style of trimming, by the way, is daily growing more popular, and one parasol seen was a mass of such frills. There seemed to be hundreds of them, and they were put upon a lining of very thin white silk. The most delicate pinkish tint was given by having the frills made of white-tulle laid over pale pink

IN THE GREENROOM.

J. H. Stoddard's charming recollections of his long life on the stage and off appear in the Century. He recalls a multitude of experiences, and many—and some that are merely queer and comical.

On January 23rd, 1878, "A Celebration" was brought out. I played Sergeant O'Rourke. I have reason to remember this character. In the prologue I had a scene with Mrs. Booth, who played the wife of Jean Renaud, the hero, in the course of which she was supposed to give me, as the sergeant, a cup of wine, which I had to swallow. It so happened that the property man had been using kerosene on the stage during the day, and had left the bottle containing that liquid upon the dresser, where Mrs. Booth was in the habit of finding the drink for the sergeant. During the business she poured a full cup from this bottle, handed it to me, and I swallowed the contents at a gulp. "O, Lord!" I said, as I received the poison. "What have I done?" said Mrs. Booth under her breath. I could only gasp out, "Kerosene!" and made a hasty exit. For almost a week everyone avoided me, owing to the presence of the noxious fluid. I drank such a quantity that the odor and taste remained with me until I thought I should never be rid of it. Otherwise it did me no injury, and my physician even said that it did me good.

Chicago's theatrical season was the best in its history, the largest business being done by Richard Mansfield, Mrs. Campbell, "Ben Hur," "Florodora" and George Ade's "The Sultan of Sulu." Philadelphia's business has not been so good for ten years. Richard Mansfield opened the new Garrick theatre there and played three weeks to $35,000. Mrs. Campbell played two weeks to $25,000. In Boston, Irving, Sothorn, Mrs. Campbell and Mansfield scored heavily and Weber & Fields, the fobbers brothers, "King Dodo," "The Liberty Bells" and Frank Daniels in "Miss Simplicity" were immense successes. Every theatre in Baltimore made money, and some broke the record, "Ben Hur," "Florodora" and Weber & Fields getting the largest receipts. The season in San Francisco is said to have been the best ever known. Business was good in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle, the receipts in the last named city going far ahead of anything in the history of the place.

Of Rejane as Zaza an English critic writes: "The play is perhaps more frankly coarse in its realism than the English versions, but it has the merit of being free of the sentimental touches that have recently been introduced, with the mistaken idea of humanizing a character that becomes incongruous when it appeals to the sympathies of the gallery. Mme. Rejane's Zaza is thoroughly consistent and convincing. It scores point making of mere melodrama, and is by no means so elaborate as regards 'business' in the big scene of the fourth act as have been some of its imitations. For that reason the parting of Zaza and her lover has little or no suggestion of a touch of force. It is a piece of really fine acting which ought to bring the play to a close, for the fifth act is something of an anti-climax. The reception accorded to the actress last night was enthusiastic to a degree, the curtain being raised again and again at the end of the fourth act. Mme. Rejane's support was excellent. Mr. Dubose as Bernard Dufresne, M. Barou (sic) as Cardinal, and Mme. Grassot as the bibulous duenna, being specially worthy of mention. An exceptionally clever performance was the Toto of a very small little lady, Mile. Bandry, who took a curtain call with all the self-possession of a prima donna."

"Tom" (Seabrooke, growing reminiscent, told this incident a few nights ago, harking back to the time when he was starring.

It was near the end of the season, and his company were playing one-night stands in New England.

He happened to stay at a small and somewhat primitive New England hotel, the proprietor of which was a Yankee of the most confirmed type. Seabrooke was lounging in the sitting room during the afternoon (and, looking about, he noticed a framed motto on the wall, which read: "Ici on Parle Français."

Turning to the proprietor the comedian remarked: "So! You speak French?"

"No, Sir," No. Seabrooke replied the hotel proprietor, emphatically, "United States language be good enough for me."

"Well, what are you doing with that sign up there?" queried Seabrooke.

"Why, I bought that from a book agent who came through here a short spell ago. He told me it was French for 'God Bless Our Home.'"

Notes.

Bronson Howard, who was so seriously ill with neuritis, is about to return from Nice to America.

E. S. Willard has engaged Maude Fealy, who is now in San Francisco, for his American tour next season.

Charles Frohman has engaged Hilda Spong to appear with Virginia Harned in the American production of "Iris."

Sir Lewis Morris, the noted English poet, has just arranged to write a new poetic drama for Oglia Netheresele.

Sardon has written a new drama called "Dante," which he intends for Irving. The Italian rights have been given to Novell.

Bianche Walsh closed her season in Ottawa. Miss Walsh's business has been very large ever since she put on "Madeleine."

London Truth speaks of Caruso, the Italian tenor, who has made such an impression in London, as follows: "A deeper and more beautiful tenor voice, of the insidious Italian type, has not been heard in London since the days of Puccini. It has none of the harshness or nasal quality which so many modern Italian or French singers affect, and, while it is almost as powerful as that of Tanigamo himself, it is of that round, velvety quality which marks the true tenor."

Sarah Bernhardt, according to E. A. Dithmar in the New York Times, was welcomed by an enthusiastic and splendid audience when she began her engagement in the Garrick theatre, London, in Marion Crawford's "Francesca de Rimini," a medieval domestic tragedy in which the famous tale is deprived of much of the romantic glamor and poetical charm given it in the literature of three centuries. Francesca, after a brief prologue, not devoid of a touch of horror, is seen as a mature wife and mother, while her lover, Paolo, instead of being a gallant youth, is a big limbed soldier, a false kinsman and a bad husband. The elder Malatesta is gnome like in person, a brute in passion and a demon in anger. But the play is undeniably adroit and powerful in dealing with base motives, while Mme. Bernhardt's acting is as rich in variety and as thrilling in effect as ever.

The Jefferson De Angelis Opera Company will play "The Emerald Isle," the big London success. Among the principals engaged to support De Angelis are Edmund Stables, Stewart Hyatt and Arthur Barry, two well known London singers, and Miss Kate Condon.

The present plans for the autumn season in London call for two new plays from Jones, a new Pinter piece, a new comedy by Captain Marshall, one by H. V. Esmond, Justin McCarthy's "If I Were King," a new play by John Davidson, Tree's production of "Richard III." and Nance O'Neill in repertory at the Lyceum.

George Hawtrey has leased the Comedy theatre in London, and will open it shortly with a new three act comedy called "Lord of His House."

Mildred Holland has sailed for Bologna to meet Theodore Kramer, author of "The Triumph of an Empress," in which she is to appear next season.

Peter J. Kennedy has secured from Charles Frohman the road rights to "Captain Jack," in which Ethel Barrymore starred the past season.

Eugene Canfield has been engaged for another season with David Warfield in "The Auctioneer." Canfield's wife will also have a part in the play.

F. Oppen, the cartoonist, will personally design and supervise his comic creation, "Peck and His Mother-in-Law," to be presented in the coming season.

Eddie Foy has signed a contract with Klaw & Erlanger and will appear in the leading part in "Mr. Bluebird" at the New Amsterdam theatre next autumn.

Edna Foy has signed a contract with Klaw & Erlanger and will appear in the leading part in "Mr. Bluebird" at the New Amsterdam theatre next autumn.

Edna May will be represented by counsel at the divorce trial of Countess de la Warre in London, as she claims to be unjustly named as correspondent in the case.

Bjornson Bjornstjerne, the Norwegian poet, dramatist and writer, has completed a new modern drama for Sarah Bernhardt, who will appear at Christiania in "Hamlet."

It is expected that George Lederer's latest musical comedy, "The Wild Rose," will continue its New York run until September. Business has increased each succeeding week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall have just produced a new play in London called "Conscience," taken from the German of "Felix Philipp," in which they appear as brother and sister.

Edwin Arden and Katherine Grey are to have the chief parts in "Ninety and Nine," Ramsay Morris's new play, which is to open at the New York Academy of Music in October next.

The Rice Amusement Company has bought the rights to an extravaganza, "King Hichell, or the Girl from Mars," by Charles G. Horwitz and Frederick Bowers. It will be produced in Boston in November next.

Since Sarah Bernhardt arrived in London it has been decided that she is to produce "Romeo and Juliet" in the United States during her tour, which begins next October. Maude Adams will take the part of Juliet.

Louis Mann gave it out in New York that he and his wife, Clara Lipman, will again play together next season, but as yet have not selected the play. Mr. Mann received big offers from New York managers for house companies.

OUR BUCKWHEAT CAKES.

Our home is very small and plain. We have no steam or gas. We have no nickel-plated range. On which to cook, alas! Our food is plain as plain can be. We have no stomachaches. Unless, perhaps, it's when we eat a meal of buckwheat cakes.

When winter spreads across the hills. With everything froze tight; Then mother gets her buckwheat out And stirs it up at night.

She has it steamed behind the stove Till early morning breaks. And then she greases up the pan To fry her buckwheat cakes.

Well, talk about a banquet fair. With all its filigree; It can't compare with mother's cakes For dad or John or me.

We eat and eat while mother frisks. A score or more it takes. To half way ease our appetites. Of mother's buckwheat cakes.

I like to see her standing there. Like one born to command. The old black spider smoking hot. With knife and fork in hand. What care we if our youthful flesh In coarse goosepimple breaks. We're healthy, happy and content. On mother's buckwheat cakes.

COMBINATION PUZZLE.

Here is a puzzle that may seem very hard at first, but is really quite easy, as you will see, if you look sharply at the picture. Still, as the very easiest things are sometimes the most difficult, we think this puzzle will be a very interesting one indeed. Just try it, and when you are puzzling your brains the hardest remember that the solution is under your eyes all the time.

To open this lock three magic words must be formed from the letters which surround it. The method of selecting the letters is clearly indicated in the picture.

The Norman term "maire," afterwards Anglicized into "mayor," was introduced in the reign of Henry II, and it was King John who first granted the citizens of London the right of electing a mayor annually. The prefix of "lord" and the style of "right honorable" were granted by Edward III, in 1354.

The French post office estimates that no fewer than 33,000 letters were stolen last year from pillar boxes. Experiments are being made by fitting some of the boxes with steel teeth, which prevent the extraction of letters, in the hope of guarding against these thefts in the future.

DELICACY OF SMELL.

Very careful experiments have lately been made to test the delicacy of the sense of smell in human beings. A series of solutions of five different substances was prepared, each series being so arranged that every solution was of half the strength of the preceding one. These series were extended by successive dilutions till it was impossible to detect the odors. The order of the bottles containing these solutions was completely disarranged, and the test consisted in the attempt to classify them by the sense of smell alone. An equal number of male and female observers were selected from the best apothecaries' shops, and each was required to arrange the bottles. The males were able to detect the smell of the nitrate of amyl in the solution of one part to 753,000 of water, and the females were able to detect it in the solution of one part to 311,000 of water. The oil of wintergreen was detected in about the same proportion and to the same extent of dilution. There was, therefore, a very great preponderance in favor of the males as to the sensitiveness and discrimination of the sense of smell. This is certainly an astounding fact.—Gentlemen's Magazine.

A KISS AND A SNAP

In 1837 Mr. Thomas Savariand brought an action against Miss Caroline Newton, who had bitten a piece out of his nose for his having tried to kiss her by way of a joke. The defendant was acquitted, and the Judge laid down that "when a man kisses a woman against her will she is fully entitled to bite his nose, if she so pleases."—From "The Kiss and its History."

THE ADVENTURES OF STRONGARM.

Once upon a time there lived a very brave knight named Strongarm. He was the best wrestler in the whole country, for nobody could throw him.

the winged and creeping things brought him news from the outside world. Perhaps he might know.

HE TOSSED THE ELF ON HIGH.

Up in the hills he saw a shepherd tending his flocks. "I greet thee, good shepherd," he said.

curiosity bring you only regret, would you still continue your quest? Reflect ere it be too late.

PLUNG THE GIANT ON THE GROUND.

a pretty little boat came gliding over the water. There were men to sail it, and Strongarm had only to step in.

Then Strongarm stepped on shore, and catching the little elf he held him high above his head for one full minute; then giving him a toss, he caught him like a rubber ball.

One day he was not careful and the boy threw him. He was on his feet in a second. "Tis a small thing," he laughed, but when he sailed away he determined to come back and teach the saucy young fellow a lesson.

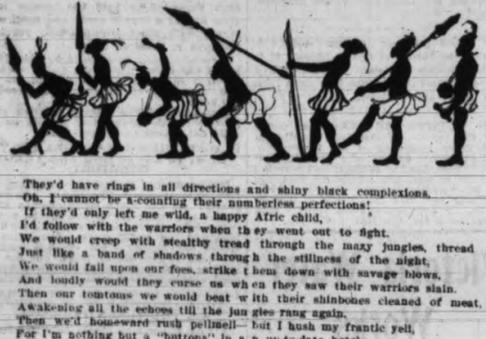

The boy had grown immensely, and as soon as Strongarm felt the grasp of his hands and saw the firm set of his feet upon the turf he knew that to-day's contest would be different from any they had yet had.

"The young cub wants to play the man," he thought, "and, in truth, he is strong enough for it. By my faith there is danger in him."

And as though in answer to his wish, the latest idea is to substitute an engagement bangle for the betrothal ring. These engagement bracelets are deep yellow golden circlets, perfectly plain, and vary in size from the mere narrow bangle to the heavy broad band of gold.

THE BUTTONS COMPLAINT.

If they'd only left me wild, a happy Afric child, A-roaming through the jungles with my father and his band, He'd be chief of the Timbuctoo and o'w Ashantee, too!

They'd have rings in all directions and shiny black complexions. Oh, I cannot be counting their numberless perfection! If they'd only left me wild, a happy Afric child, I'd follow with the warriors when they went out to fight.

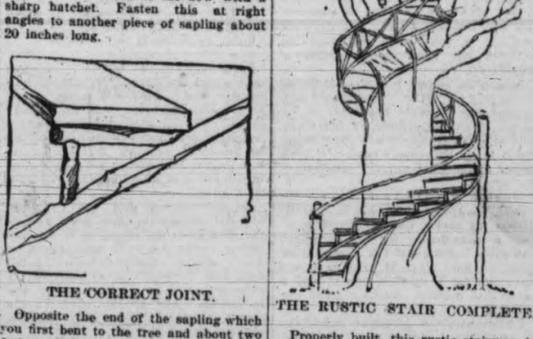

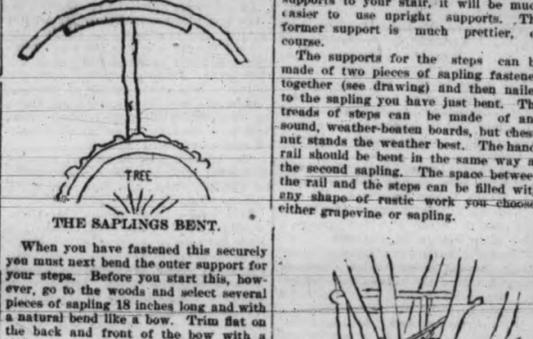

John Ribaut set to sea in February, 1562. He sailed from Havre, in France, and he had under his command two of the round-popped tub-bottomed ships of those days.

great many parts, each containing a syllable. Mix these parts all together and you are ready to begin the game. Let each player draw from the pile on the "soup plate" three of the papers, and when all have drawn they set to work trying to form words.

HOW TO BUILD A RUSTIC STAIR.

The tree around which you intend to build your stair should be at least two feet in diameter. The larger the tree the easier it is to wrap the saplings into place.

When you have fastened this securely you must next bend the outer support for your steps. Before you start this, however, go to the woods and select several pieces of sapling 18 inches long and with a natural bend like a bow.

Place half a teaspoonful of water in a saucer and put the saucer in a sunny window or in a warm room with closed windows and doors. In an hour or two the water will disappear.

Look at a common Fahrenheit thermometer and the word "freezing" can be seen opposite the figure 32 of the scale. In fine thermometers we see opposite the figure 212 the words "water boils."

OLD FRENCH FLORIDA.

A HISTORY STORY.

John Ribaut set to sea in February, 1562. He sailed from Havre, in France, and he had under his command two of the round-popped tub-bottomed ships of those days.

Within two months of their starting they sighted land, and shortly after came to the mouth of a great river. The river we call the land in the name of their king and set up a stone engraved with the arms of France.

When the British Association meets at Belfast, Ireland, the delegates will be allowed to travel free of charge over the local street railway system.

SYLLABLE SOUP - A RECESS GAME.

This game, like some others that we have given you, is intended not only to amuse you at recess, but to help you in your study of the English language.

Each player is called on in turn, and if he has failed to form a word with either two or all three of his syllables he must return two of them to the pile, keeping one, and wait until his turn comes again, when he draws two more from the pile and tries again to form a word.

BETROTHAL BANGLES.

The latest idea is to substitute an engagement bangle for the betrothal ring. These engagement bracelets are deep yellow golden circlets, perfectly plain, and vary in size from the mere narrow bangle to the heavy broad band of gold.

THE CORRECT JOINT.

Opposite the end of the sapling which you first bent to the tree and about two feet away from it drive a stout post. This fasten the second sapling with a strong rope. You are now ready to bend it, and you had better get your chum to help you, as it requires considerable strength.

Take the tumbler out of the saucer, pour out the water and fill the tumbler with broken ice. Then sprinkle a tablespoonful of salt on the ice. We have seen the cook do this in making ice-cream, and we know that salt causes ice to melt, and in melting it steals the heat out of the cream and it freezes.

Look at a common Fahrenheit thermometer and the word "freezing" can be seen opposite the figure 32 of the scale. In fine thermometers we see opposite the figure 212 the words "water boils."

THE RUSTIC STAIR COMPLETE.

Properly built, this rustic stairway is very pretty and graceful, and if your summer house, which it is presumed, you will build in the tree, at the head of the stairs, is as artistic, you and your friends will enjoy your handiwork more than you have any idea.

Look at a common Fahrenheit thermometer and the word "freezing" can be seen opposite the figure 32 of the scale. In fine thermometers we see opposite the figure 212 the words "water boils."
